THE FARM'S ABUNDANCE: Henry and Emma Weber, veteran Mountainside farmers, arrange the yield of their fields on the utilitarian wheelbarrow on which they display their products for roadside sale. The Weber farm included 110 acres back in the 1920's. Sales to the Union County Park Commission, the local Board of Education, Our Lady of Lourdes Parish and a developer have reduced their holdings to about one-and-one-third acres.

Borough Accepts Snow Work Bids On September 21

Bids for snow removal in the borough of Mountainside will be received at the Sept. 21 meeting of the Borough Council. The bids will be opened and read in public at the meeting scheduled to open at 8 p. m. in the auditorium of Echobrook School, Rt. 22.

Bidders must give figures covering the supplying of four suitable trucks equipped with snow plows, together with other equipment such as bulldozers, graders, loaders, etc., adequate enough to remove the snow and ice from approximately 25 miles of borough roads. The bid must also include the cost of spreading cinders and salt on the roads as needed through May 15, 1966.

Adequate liability, property damage and workman's compensation insurance is also required. Specifications and form of bid and all other details are available at the office of Borough Engineer Robert Koser and the office of the Borough Clerk, both located in Borough Hall on the eastbound lane of Rt. 22, Mountainside, and may be inspected by prospective bidders during office hours.

Farm In Suburbia Thrives

Mountainside Couple Till Their Land

By RITA ZEISS
The Weber farm in Mountainside is still in operation although the big beefsteak tomatoes, the golden yellow corn, the plump squash and the tender stringbeans are still tended—so carefully—as back in the early 1900's when the Webers tilled 110 acres of Mountainside.

Henry Weber, still a powerful looking man at 67, was a boy of 18 when his family moved to the farm on Central ave. in 1907. The only boy among four children, he was his father's right hand man and when his father died six years later he assumed full responsibility for the farm. The Weber family typifies the westward trek of farmers in Union County, a move necessitated by the encroachment of the metropolitan area and the development of "suburbia," a term unknown in those early years.

I WAS BORN in the middle of the pool in Olympic Park, Henry says with a practiced relish that denotes this is a tale he loves to tell. His parents, both of whom emigrated from Germany, had a farm in that area. Their home was located in a portion of the space now occupied by the Olympic pool.

The section, since absorbed by Irvington and Maplewood, was then an independent community known as Hilton and "Hilton strawberries" were justly famed for their flavor and their giant size, Henry remembers.

The next move was to Burnett ave., Union, where the Webers farmed until urbanization caught up with them again.

Henry helped organize the Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department in 1910, served as chief twice and, when he resigned around 1940, he had set a record as the longest active fireman in the borough, a record that still stands.

In 1919, he married Emma Pfeiffer of Westfield. Teenage Emma was a professional nurse with no knowledge of farming but she quickly became adept at the outside chores.

Farming, the Webers agree, is hard work, harder now because the grower must fight bugs "which we never saw years ago."

Cut worms and potato bugs were the main insect plagues years back and Emma remembers mixing a gloopy mixture of bran, Paris green (a poison) and molasses and dropping it by hand in little circles around each of the hundreds of plants. It was a sticky job but it did the trick.

Now they use DDT sprays to fight the ear worms and other "new" bugs, which Henry swears he never saw before. "We could never have farmed all those acres with all these new bugs," he insists.

THE FIRST 10 acres of the Weber farm were sold back in the 1920's by Henry's mother to the Union County Park Commission. The Webers wanted $200 an acre for the land which juttied out from the northwest corner of their land into the reservation.

CLEANING DAY AT LIBRARY

Mountainside residents are reminded that the Free Public Library, located in the basement of Echobrook School, will be closed all day tomorrow. The library is closed one day each year prior to the opening of school to allow the custodians time to give it a thorough cleaning.

Award Doctorate To Richard Dietz

Richard Darby Dietz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dietz of 1009 Sunny View rd., Mountainside, was awarded a doctorate in astronautical physics at commencement exercises held last Saturday at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo.

A 1955 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, Dietz received his bachelor of science degree from California Institute of Technology. A few years back he received a teaching fellowship at the University of Colorado and shortly after was awarded a Fulbright scholarship for study in Milan, Italy. He returned to the Colorado university, again under a teaching fellowship, after his study in Italy was completed. His parents attended the commencement exercises last Saturday.

ECHO PROFILE - Sgt. William Lenehan

Back in 1927 when the Lenehan family moved to Mountainside from Norwich, Conn., the borough was still a very rural community. Police Sergeant William Joseph Lenehan was only three years old then but he remembers the wide green fields, the thick forests that during his boyhood days provided him with good hunting grounds.

He and his schoolmates, including James Herrick, now a detective sergeant on the local police force, roamed through the broad hills, the deep forests, gaining a love for the outdoors that they have never lost.

Lenehan and Herrick save a week of their vacation each year for a hunting trip to Vermont. Their teenage sons have accompanied them for the past few years. Lenehan, a deliberate, soft-spoken man who seems to have been sobered and chastened by his World War II experiences, says he has only two ambitions — to shoot another bear and to get an Alpine deer, a rare white breed that he and Herrick have spotted from a distance on their New England hunting trips.

Several of Lenehan's guns, polished and shining, are displayed over the fireplace in their colonial home on Deer Path. His hunting dog, an enthusiastically friendly beagle who answers to the name of Happy III, has the run of the house. A weary, 12-year-old dachshund is also on the Lenehan's welcoming committee. Although dachshunds are used to hunt in England, Lenehan says, a little regretfully, that he has never tried his in the fields.

Storm Drainage Recommendations May Go To Council In September

Consultants Meet In Final Sessions With Works Body

'Magnitude Of Funds' Makes Extra Caution Imperative: Coughlin

Recommendations for storm drainage work aimed at alleviating the flooding and drainage problems in Mountainside will probably be presented to the Borough Council by the public works committee within a month, according to Councilman George Coughlin.

Coughlin, who heads the public works committee, said earlier this week that a more definite time for that presentation would be decided after a series of finalizing meetings with the Killam Associates; a Millburn consulting engineering firm, hired last February by the Borough Council.

The committee met Tuesday night with the consultants in what Coughlin described "as one of the finalizing meetings." The Councilman said there is "a good chance" that the committee will make their report to the Borough Council in mid-September. However he said no time table, however tentative, could be established at this time for the actual work.

Called 'Slim' The "magnitude of funds" involved in the project makes it imperative upon the Council, Coughlin stressed, "to be very sure of what we are doing."

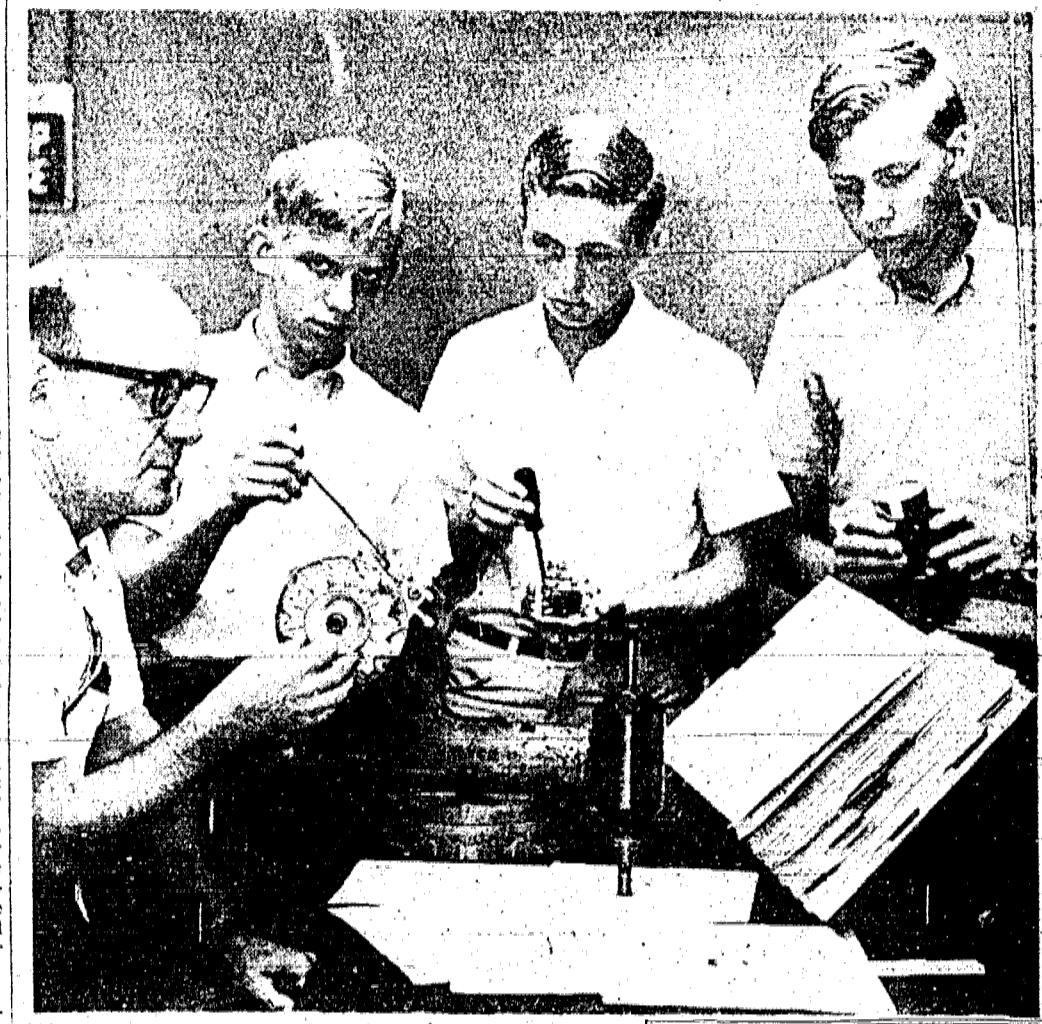

Chances of relief troubled areas this year are very slim. No funds were provided in this year's budget. One of the major decisions the Council must make is on the method of financing the project. An ordinance authorizing such financing must be introduced, given a public hearing and final approval by the Council before any work can start.

The contract between the borough and Killam Associates calls for payment for the consultants on a sliding scale based on the amount of work carried out. The consultants' fee, set in accordance with standards spelled out by the engineering association, according to Coughlin, is 7 per cent on $100,000 of construction work ranging down to 4.58 per cent on $1,000,000. Such fees would be paid in various stages, spelled out in the contract.

Under the contract the consultants will provide preliminary plans for storm drainage work for the entire borough and supervise various phases of whatever portion of the work the Council decides to carry out. The contract allows five years for implementation.

A study carried out last year by Killam Associates was involved mainly with the area east of Summit rd., Coughlin said. At last week's meeting of the Borough Council Mayor Frederick Wilhelmus said that the present study, including preliminary plan work, was authorized in order to secure an overall picture of the drainage problems throughout the borough.

Three residents of the Darby lane-Lindero drive section which is located in the area east of Summit rd., were at that meeting demanding definite action to eliminate the open storm drainage sewers which they said caused flooding of their properties after storms.

Planners, Consultants Meet Tonight On Zoning Ordinances

Lierman To Play With Northland

Mountainside's Planning Board will meet in closed session tonight with Robert Catlin and Associates, planning consultants of Rockaway, to review the rezoning ordinance introduced at the July meeting of the Borough Council.

The ordinance, which would create a new "preferred restricted, commercial" zone, would pave the way for the rezoning of the A. A. Wilson tract on Rt. 22 and another large tract on the north side of Rt. 22 between Central ave. and Summit rd. from their present residential status to the new classification.

The outcome of the meeting will set the time schedule for the final approval of the ordinance by the Borough Council, Robert Garrett, chairman of the Planning Board, said earlier this week. If, as Garrett expects, the consultants and the local planners reach agreement on the specifics (such as the size of buffer zones, the type of buildings to be erected, density of population, etc.), the ordinance could be sent back to the Council in time for action at its Sept. 31 meeting. The Council could also call a special meeting before that time for the specific purpose of approving the ordinance.

May Be Delay However, Garrett indicated that there are still several small areas of difference which may not be resolved at tonight's session. This could conceivably delay action beyond the September meeting.

The rezoning of the Wilson tract and the other tract was recommended by the Planning Board in its master plan. The proposed rezoning drew storms of protest at the two public hearings on the master plan, at its adoption on June 28 and at the introduction of the ordinance in July.

Clyde Van Allen, a member of the Pembroke Civic Association, told the Borough Council at the July meeting that his organization might seek injunctions to stop the rezoning. Harry Swenson, president of the Pembroke Civic Association, said that his group had consulted with a legal advisor on the subject.

In late June, Mayor Frederick Wilhelmus said that the rezoning of the Wilson tract and the other site would be the first portion of the master plan to be implemented. Wilhelmus stated at that time that action on this portion

Mountainside Scouts Learn About Automobile Mechanism

Five Mountainside boys are members of Boy Scout Explorer Post 176, a unit formed exclusively for boys aged 14 to 17 who are interested in automobiles.

The five, Bruce Barklow of Timberline rd., Ricky Dellef of Deer path, Charlie Farrell of Foothill way, Henry Freudenberger of Cherry Hill rd. and Alex McDonald of Longview dr., are attending regular study-work sessions on automobile mechanics held in the General Motors Training Center on Rt. 22, Union.

Talk at these meetings is not about drag racing, souped-up carburetors, take-off speed or any terms typical of the hot-rodder. Discussions center around generators, transmissions, turbo-glides and carburetors, fuel injection and all the many etecras that keep a motor purring steadily and safely.

At their last meeting the boys disassembled and inspected a generator, then assembled it again under the direction of John Christen, training-service manager of Delco Remy and a resident of Mountainside. Before the job-study experiment, Christen showed a film on the function of the components of the electrical system of an automobile, including the DC generator, regulator and battery.

Next Tuesday night, H. J. Patterson, zone manager of Union Motors Service, a subsidiary of General Motors Corp., will conduct a session on the AC generator. Christen, Patterson and John Traviesca, general manager of United Motor Service, another subsidiary of General Motors, led previous meetings of the program which aims at acquiring the Explorers with all phases of the automobile industry.

TEENAGE BOYS INTERESTED IN: joining the Post are invited to contact Leonard B. Farrell or Alexander J. McDonald, both of Mountainside. No previous experience in Boy Scouting is required. Applicants must have a desire to learn more about automobiles and the automobile business and must meet other standards.

of the plan would have to be speedy in view of the court action now pending in Judge Milton Feller's court.

The case, in which Wilson seeks to have set aside the local Board of Adjustment's denial of a variance which would enable him to build a 150-unit garden apartment and retail store on his land, was continued early in July without a date set for re-hearing.

A source close to the court said that it was indicated at the July meeting of borough officials and representatives of Wilson that some settlement was in the offing. Another hearing will be held only on the request of either party in the suit, the court source stated.

Tryouts Wednesday At Livingston High

All aspirants for positions on the football or soccer squads at Governor Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, must show up next Wednesday morning for tryouts on the school's athletic field. This includes all varsity team members, and anyone wishing to try out for a berth on any of the football or soccer teams, according to Russell Hunchar, athletic director at the high school.

All boys trying out for the football, soccer or cross country teams must have their physicals this week, Hunchar said.

Seniors and juniors are scheduled to report for physicals tomorrow at 8:30 a. m. in the boys' gym. Physicals for sophomores and freshmen will be held Saturday at 8:30 a. m., also in the boys' gym.

The varsity football team will play their first game against Jonathan Dayton High School on Sept. 23 at home. The soccer team will meet Summit at home at the opening game on Sept. 17.

Football veterans expected to return are John Carver, who has three years of varsity play behind him, and Bobby Carruthers.

Storm Drainage

ly, Edward Mooney and John D'Auria, demanded an end to "surveys, surveys and more surveys" and said time for solving the problem was running out.

The protesting residents produced copies of letters from borough officials, one dating back to 1961, in which they were promised relief. The 1961 letter, signed by Eugene Rau, then a Councilman, said the borough engineer had prepared plans for the construction of a storm sewer in that area. Rau's letter said the cost had been computed by the engineer at $76,061.00. The Union County Board of Freeholders had indicated its willingness to contribute $15,000 toward the project, the letter said. The Council, Rau's letter stated, had agreed to subsidize 35 percent of the cost from general tax revenues and the balance would be raised by assessing those property owners benefiting from the project. Despite the letter, D'Auria said no action had been taken then or in the intervening years.

The mayor and Coughlin said they were aware of the problem but stated that it would be "honest" to proceed piecemeal with a problem that afflicts the entire borough in some measure.

The mayor said part of the delay in the current study is due to the fact that meetings with representatives of other communities and county officials must all figure in the final deliberations.

"We have water coming on us from other communities. We mean to require, coerce or beg them to share in the costs," he stated.

Don't Leave Summer Pets Behind When You Return From Vacation

PLEASE don't leave behind your summer vacation, asks the New Jersey Branch of the Humane Society of the United States. "Left to fend for themselves," says the Branch, "these hapless animals suffer pitifully — until death by starvation or accident mercifully releases them."

"Please, summer visitors, don't leave them behind. Instead, take them to the nearest shelter where they will be cared for humanely. If you can't locate such a place, do take them back home with you, and then turn them over to your local humane society." The New Jersey Branch, which is located at 1140 E. Jersey St.

in Elizabeth, says that many Jersey Anti-Cruelty Law to summer visitors to resorts adopt stray dogs, cats and other pets. It is a violation of the New to $250 and six months in jail.

Vehicle Accidents At Rail Crossings Killed 19 In 1964

Nineteen lives were lost in motor vehicle accidents at public grade crossings in New Jersey last year, the New Jersey State Safety Council reports. The toll was eight more than recorded in the previous year. In a total of 158 grade crossing accidents, 43 more than in 1963, 81 persons were injured. The injury toll was 11 more than in 1963.

To the end of July this year eight deaths have been recorded, two less than in the corresponding period of last year. Of the fatal accidents this year five occurred during daylight hours and the weather was clear and pavements dry in all eight.

A survey of the accidents last year reveals that 61 per cent of the accidents happened at crossings protected by automatic or manually operated gates, lights, bells, watchmen, or a combination of these methods of protection, and 39 per cent took place at crossings with standard crossing signs.

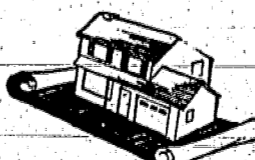

A detailed report of grade crossing accidents, compiled by the State Department of Public Utilities, shows that in 64 of the accidents in which 14 lives were lost and 32 persons injured, the crossings were equipped with flashing light signals or automatic signals. In 19 of the accidents in which four persons were injured flagmen were on duty at the crossings. In seven of the accidents in which five persons were injured the crossings were protected by automatic gates. In seven of the accidents three persons were injured at crossings protected by manually operated gates or other audible or visible signals. Standard cross-bar signs were at crossings where 61 other accidents occurred in which five persons were killed and 37 others were injured.

Records show, the Council points out, that a large majority of grade crossing casualties involve drivers, residing within 2 1/2 miles of the accident, who should be familiar with the area.

Fatal railroad accidents last year also included 12 pedestrians killed, nine less than in 1963, while taking "short cuts" on railroad property.

Tips for TODAY'S HOMEMAKER

From MARY ARMSTRONG, County Home Economist

If you've got a fisherman in the family - or even next door - you'll probably face some fish cleaning chores before the summer is over. These tips on how to clean and dress a fish come from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and Department of Interior. Wash the fish. Then remove the scales by scraping the fish gently from the tail to the head, using the dull edge of the knife.

Cut the fish the entire length of the belly, from vent to head, and remove the entrails. Then remove the backbone over the edge of a cutting board or table.

Remove the large back fin by cutting the flesh along each side and pulling the fin out. Never trim the fins with shears or a knife because the bones at the base of the fin will be left in the fish. Wash the fish thoroughly in cold running water. It is now dressed, ready to cook.

Large dressed fish may be cut crosswise into steaks for freezing. Cut steaks about 3/4 inch thick.

For fillets, cut down the back of the fish from the tail to the head. Then cut down to the backbone just above the collarbone. Turn the knife flat and cut the flesh along the backbone to the tail, allowing the knife to run over the rib bones. Lift off the entire side of the fish in one piece. Turn the fish over and cut fillet from the other side. You also may skin the fillets.

If you're planning to freeze fish steaks and fillets, give them a 30-second dip in a solution made up of two-thirds cup salt to one gallon of water. Then wrap and freeze them.

Stuffed Baked Fish
For a whole stuffed fish, cut down the back as for filleting. Remove the back bone but leave the two sides connected at the two ends of the belly after cleaning. Rub with salt inside and out. Sew together lower edge of opening. Stuff fish with savory cracker filling from opening where backbone was removed. Sew top opening together. Brush with oil or melted butter and place on fish sheet in dripping pan or in oiled oven-proof glass platter. Bake 10-15 minutes in very hot oven, 500 degrees F., then reduce heat as it browns to 425 degrees F., and bake a 3-4 pound fish from 30 to 35 minutes.

Cracker Stuffing
1/2 cup cracker crumbs
1/2 cup stale bread crumbs
1/4 cup melted butter
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
few drops of onion juice
1/2 cup hot water
Mix ingredients lightly with fork and season to taste.

WITH AN INSERTION OF A CROCHETED section near the center and a lovely edging around the bottom you can turn this simple tablecloth into an exceptionally attractive formal one that can be used for either a seated or buffet dinner. LOSS OF TEMPER
Can anyone honestly say, "I never lose my temper?"

We all lose our tempers, but we react in different ways. Some cry with anger even though their tears make them even more furious. Some go white, others get red in the face. Some speak softly and very deliberately, others, bellow. Everyone hears about children's temper tantrums, and some of us know about them. We advise a youngster to control his temper. But when something happens that makes him mad, he wonders just what "control your temper" means. Does it mean he shouldn't let anything make him angry? Or is he to get angry without the show of temper?

The youngster's confusion is perfectly normal and natural. Many other people are as bewildered as he is, because they don't realize that it is impossible to prevent the feeling of anger.

When we say "control your temper," the meaning should be clarified. Even though we can't control our feelings, we can control our actions. We do not have to take action when we feel angry. Emotion gives us energy. But we can choose whether our action is constructive or destructive. It is not necessary to throw dishes on the floor and jump up and down on the broken pieces.

There are constructive ways to work off temper. The extra job is a good way—cleaning the attic, straightening out the office files. Hard physical exercise such as a fast game of tennis or golf are fine for working off temper energy. We need this action, and it is much better for us than bottled up wrath or a destructive display of temper.

AMY ADAMS
c/o THIS NEWSPAPER
For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Amy:
I have been going with this girl for over four years and I want to get married. At one time she wanted to get married, too, but now she doesn't. She wants to go to college and take courses to build a future for herself but still wants to get married and raise a family in a couple of years.

If she's going to get married and raise a family, why go to college at all? I'm mixed up. What should I do?
B.G.A.H.

Dear B.G.A.H.:
An education is just as important for a girl to acquire as it is for a boy. I think she made a very wise decision. A good education is helpful to a woman in supplementing her family's income (if the need arise), in raising her children more intelligently, in being a better and more understanding wife and also to be worldly wise. If you love her, give her this opportunity to enrich her life so that she can enrich yours.

Dear Amy:
I would like to know how you feel about necking - with my girl, of course? I've been dating her steadily for about a year. I'm in my thirties and very normal in every way, but she says I'm abnormal. Do you see anything wrong with it?
Just a Guy

Dear Guy:
It may not be fatal but it has put an end to many a bachelor!
Dear Amy:
After having danced a dance, I think it is a nice gesture for a boy to thank the girl for the dance. But how on earth is the girl supposed to express her enjoyment? Should she just smile, say, "Thank you" or "It was fun" or what?
Questioner

Dear Questioner:
"It was fun" sounds like par for the dance course.

Senator Williams Reports

By Sen. Harrison A. Williams

WASHINGTON (Special to News-Jersey Weeklies) — Swindlers have moved in on Medicare. The first reports have come in from the Dallas-San Antonio, Texas, area and from the Buffalo, New York, area. Confidence men are misrepresenting themselves as employees of the Social Security Administration, authorized to sell and receive payment for health insurance in advance, at a discount.

These scavengers in the wake of progress are swindling the elderly by confusing them about the newly enacted federal programs for hospital and nursing care and for medical care for the elderly.

The first line of defense, for the individual, against these swindlers is accurate information on Medicare. And it is apparent that, despite the efforts of the Social Security Administration and others, many Americans are not accurately informed.

Here are some of the questions which have come to my office and to the office of the Subcommittee on Fraud and Misrepresentation Affecting the Elderly, of which I am chairman:

What is Medicare?

It consists of two programs: one covering hospital and nursing home care and the other covering medical care, including doctor bills, home nursing care and certain diagnostic and therapeutic costs. There is no charge for the program of hospital and nursing home care. Coverage under the medical care program will cost $3 per month.

Who is eligible?

Everyone, 65 and over, except for certain employees of the federal government already covered under another plan and most aliens.

How do I sign up for coverage?

If you are receiving Social Security benefits, railroad retirement benefits or a federal Civil Service annuity, information will be mailed to you. If you are receiving public assistance payments, the public assistance agency will help you in signing up.

IF YOU ARE 65 OR OVER AND ARE NOT RECEIVING ANY OF THE ABOVE LISTED BENEFITS, GET IN TOUCH WITH YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY OFFICE BETWEEN SEPTEMBER 1, 1965 AND MARCH 31, 1966.

Can I enroll before September 1, 1965?

No, not under any circumstances.

Are there salesmen for Medicare?

No. If anyone representing himself as a Medicare salesman, or claiming to be authorized by the Social Security to sell any kind of medical plan calls on you, notify the police or the local Social Security office immediately.

Should I drop my present hospitalization plan?

No. Hospitalization and medical care benefits don't begin until July 1, 1966. Nursing home benefits don't begin until January 1, 1967. You have plenty of time to consider carefully what, if any, private coverage you want to keep to supplement the federal program.

How are these two programs financed?

The hospitalization and nursing care program is financed through Social Security, by an addition to the Social Security Tax. This increase is automatic. If you elect to sign up for the medical care program, it will cost an additional $3 a month. This will be deducted from your Social Security or Railroad Retirement monthly benefit check. If you are not receiving either of these benefits, other arrangements will be made through your local Social Security office.

What does the hospitalization and nursing care program provide?

Payment of hospital bills up to 90 days for each spell of illness, except for the first $40. For an additional 30 days, the government will pay all but $10 per day of your hospital bill. This includes drugs.

Payment of 80 per cent of the cost of out-patient hospital diagnostic services, after the first $20 during a 20-day period.

Payment of the cost of 100 days of post-hospital nursing home care. After 20 days, the patient must pay $5 per day for the other 80 days.

Payment of post-hospital home health services, up to 100 visits, including nursing care and occupational and physical therapy.

Payment of up to 100 days in a psychiatric hospital. This is a lifetime limit, in contrast to the limits on hospital and nursing home benefits, which are for each spell of illness. There is no limit on the number of spells of illness for which benefits may be claimed, but confinement to a hospital or nursing home must be separated by 60 days.

What does the medical care program provide?

You pay the first $50 for medical care in each calendar year. After that, the program pays 80 per cent.

Doctors and surgeons fees.

100-home health visits each year, with no prior hospitalization required.

Diagnostic services; X-ray and other radiotherapy; Ambulance services; surgical dressings, casts, splints, and other therapeutic services.

How are benefits paid?

Directly to the doctor or the hospital. You will be billed separately for your share of the cost.

Are there services which are not paid for by either of these plans?

Yes, these include physical examinations, eyeglasses, hearing aids, and certain other services.

Where do I inquire about further information?

From your local Social Security office.

All of said work shall be done under the direction and supervision of the Township Engineer and in accordance with the specifications and plans on file in the office of the Township Clerk and of the Township Engineer.

Section 2. All of the said work or any part thereof may be done on contract or contracts or by purchase of material in construction work furnished by the Township of Union in the County of Union, or labor furnished in any other manner by governmental entity or agency, and all of said work or any part thereof may be done by any other method that is just, fair and appropriate and which is lawful.

Section 3. The sum of $10,000.00 is hereby appropriated to the payment of the cost of the foregoing improvement. The sum so appropriated shall be met from the proceeds of the bonds authorized and the down payment appropriated by this ordinance.

Section 4. It is hereby determined and stated that (1) the making of such improvement (hereinafter referred to as "purpose"), is not a current expense of said Township and (2) it is necessary to finance said purpose by the issuance of obligations of said Township pursuant to the Local Bond Law of the State of New Jersey. Section 5. The Local Bond Law is hereby determined and stated that moneys exceeding $500.00, appropriated for down payment to finance said purpose, for the capital improvement fund in budget heretofore adopted for said Township are now available to finance the cost of said purpose. The sum of $500.00 is hereby appropriated from such moneys to the payment of the cost of said purpose.

Section 6. To finance said purpose, bonds of said Township of an aggregate principal amount not exceeding $9,500.00 are hereby authorized to be issued pursuant to said Local Bond Law. Said bonds shall bear interest at a rate which shall not exceed six per centum per annum, and within the limitations prescribed by said Law. All matters with respect to said notes shall be determined by this ordinance shall be hereafter adopted. In the event that bonds are issued pursuant to this ordinance, the aggregate amount of notes hereby authorized to be issued shall be reduced by an amount equal to the principal amount of any bonds or notes issued in accordance with this ordinance.

Section 7. The amount of outstanding bonds and notes issued pursuant to this ordinance shall at any time exceed the sum first mentioned in this section, the moneys raised by the issuance of said bonds, shall, to not less than the amount of such excess, be applied to the payment of such notes then outstanding.

Section 8. It is hereby determined and stated that the period of usefulness of said purpose, according to its reasonable life, is a period of 10 years computed from the date of said bonds.

Section 9. It is hereby determined and stated that the Substantial Debt Statement required by said Local Bond Law has been duly made and filed in the office of the Township Clerk of said Township, and that such statement so filed shows that the gross debt of said Township, as defined in Section 1A-2.4 of said Local Bond Law, is not increased by this ordinance by $5,500.00 and that the issuance of the bonds and notes authorized by this ordinance will be within all debt limitations prescribed by said Local Bond Law.

Section 10. This ordinance shall take effect twenty days after the first publication thereof after final passage. Passed and approved August 24, 1965.

Overlook Course Will Help Answer Nurse Shortage

Overlook Hospital will participate in a new state-wide program to solve the nursing shortage by giving a special refresher course for registered nurses this fall.
"Many nurses who have been busy raising their families are interested in returning to nursing. Some of them now have grown children—others may be helping with college expenses or are widowed. They naturally hesitate to return to the times as far as new techniques, new nursing skills and the many new drugs that are used today," explained Mrs. Grace Phelan, R.N., in-service education coordinator at Overlook.
Overlook's refresher course will bring such nurses up to date so that they will feel confident and enthusiastic about returning to active nursing. There will even be some financial assistance available for trainees who qualify.

The course has been planned with enough flexibility to enable the RN refresher course to handle their home responsibilities along with the course. We urge any registered nurse who has been considering returning to nursing to take advantage of this opportunity," said Mrs. Phelan, who can be reached at 273-9100, Extension 209.
The course will start on Oct. 6 and will continue for 10 weeks on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of each week from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

This state-wide program to nursing recruitment is being made possible by a $308,000 federal grant under the Manpower Development and Training Act, of which Overlook will receive a proportionate share along with other participating hospitals. The program was announced jointly last week by Governor Richard J. Hughes and Martin S. Ulan, president of the New Jersey Hospital Association.
There are 4,320 job vacancies for registered nurses in hospitals and related facilities according to New Jersey Hospital Association estimates. With continued population growth still more nurses will be needed, it was reported.

Social Agency Discloses Need For New Visiting Homemakers

SAGE Visiting Homemaker Service is seeking applications from maturing women interested in supplementing their incomes as well as giving service to the community.
Mrs. J. W. Kinley, director of the service, whose office is at 130 Summit ave., Summit, announced this week that she is now taking applications for a training course to be given in October.
"We need applications well in advance," she explained, "so that we can give the prospective homemakers some practice work in order that both the homemaker and this office can judge her aptitude and liking for the work."
Visiting homemakers, she pointed out, "are not domestics nor are they practical nurses, but are women capable of assuming the management of a household, doing light housework, preparing meals and perhaps marketing in a home that is temporarily disrupted by illness."
Last year SAGE visiting homemakers gave 72,000 hours of service with Springfield receiving 9,531 service hours, and Mountainside, 2,114. Many more could have been placed, the director said.
To receive training
Women who wish to become homemakers will be given a course of lectures and demonstrations by the extension division of Rutgers University. The week-long course includes aspects of home management, safety measures, accident prevention in the home, diet planning, understanding children, the elderly and the emotionally ill, and the comfort and improvement of the sick and the disabled.
The course is given without a fee, and certificates are awarded the homemakers who satisfactorily complete the lecture series, Mrs. Kinley said.
She further explained that most homemakers are older women, living on fixed incomes who wish to supplement that income with four to eight hours of employment a day, with some women available for overnight or 21-hour service.
SAGE is Visiting Homemaker Service partly self-supporting but derives a portion of its operating expenses from the United Funds of the communities served. A slightly higher service fee is charged in areas where there is no continuing support from such funds.

Brochure Offers Over 60 Courses For Adult School

A 16-page brochure, listing over 60 varied adult education and vocational courses offered by Union County Regional Adult School, will be mailed to Union County residents within the next few weeks, it was announced by Dr. Monroe L. Spivak, director of adult education for the Union County Regional Adult School.
The brochure, which depicts man's quest for knowledge and enrichment, describes in detail both the academic and vocational courses given at the three adult schools, Governor Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights; Jonathan Dayton, Springfield; and Arthur L. Johnson, Clark.

Candystripers Are Honored At Tea For Summer Services At Overlook

Pretty as peppermints--and twice as refreshing! That's the opinion patients at Overlook Hospital, Summit, have of the pretty Candystripers who have made their hospital stay more cheerful by the many tasks they perform for patients' comfort.

A special Candystriper tea was held at Overlook in their honor last Thursday as a thank-you to 156 teenagers who gave summertime service this season. "The hospital particularly appreciates such help since many adult volunteers are occupied with children-home-from-school-or-are away on vacation," a hospital spokesman said.

The young ladies, clad in their pink and white striped jumpers, perform a multitude of helpful duties-delivering flowers and mail, freshening water carafes, cleaning bed side tables for patient's meals, helping with feeding and entertaining in pediatrics.

Comments from Candystripers about their hospital jobs express the girls' views:

"It's good to feel you're helping other people-especially when they're sick."

"Everyone is so pleased when you bring them flowers and mail. You really feel you're cheering up."

"The children enjoy playing games so much, and hearing stories read."

"Lots of my friends are candystripers and it's fun doing something useful together-who make lots of new friends, too."

A HANDY SHOPPING GUIDE FOR BOTH PARENTS AND STUDENTS

Largest And Best Qualified College Freshmen Are Expected This Fall

Approximately 1,300,000 freshmen—the biggest class, and considered to constitute the generally best qualified in history—will be entering institutions of higher learning this fall, swelling total college and university enrollments to around 5,500,000 for a new record high.

The increase was expected. It grows out of the continual arrival of more post-World War II babies at college age, a trend that will continue for several years. Yet numbers do not tell the whole story.

A greater percentage of high school students, fully indoctrinated with the importance of a higher education to a rewarding position in modern life, with its mounting demands for better educated people, are committed to the quest for knowledge. This too, will increase, as government, business and industry join in materially and spiritually stimulating youth to appreciate and understand the importance of education.

Problems Intensified

The continuing growth of the numbers of aspiring youngsters intensifies their problems of finding a place in institutions of higher learning, despite a virtual explosion, over these past years in facilities to take care of them.

Still more expansion is required. Public institutions—the state universities and land grant colleges—have made tremendous strides in expanding physical facilities and improving educational standards to meet the relentless needs.

Yet even among these institutions, except where laws require admission of any graduate of any accredited high school in the state, the principle of selectivity has had to be invoked to some degree. Requirements for admission have been upgraded.

The significance of these institutions to the overall problem of providing higher education is dramatically documented by last year's enrollment figures—which will go up 10 to 15 percent this year.

They found places for more than 3,200,000 students, as compared with approximately 1,780,000 in private colleges and universities. The figures are from a survey reported by the Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

Ivy League Picture

The eastern prestige schools—the Ivy League and the Seven Sister Colleges for girls—with their rigid admission requirements, have accepted a total of 18,312 out of approximately 62,000 applicants, for admission this fall.

A total of approximately 12,000 places are available. The excess of acceptances will shrink, as usual, since many applied to other schools.

Thus the so-called "prestige" group are able to take care of approximately 1 percent of the total. But there are in excess of 2,000 colleges in the nation, inclusive of a great number of fine smaller schools, all of which are striving valiantly to improve their education standards.

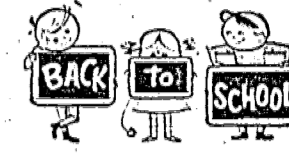

Growth in the number of two year institutions known as community and junior colleges and the truly explosive expansion of state and land grant schools, should make it possible despite the pressures, for every student to move on to higher education.

One thing appears certain. The quality of the college student body is increasing. More exacting admission requirements make this inevitable. Improvements in preparation is making for better candidates.

A restlessness among students of the big colleges, especially where they are demanding more personal attention from teaching staffs harried by shortages and by time required for research projects, is interpreted as indicating the more serious approach the modern college student is taking toward his education.

High School Grads Headed For College: Now Hear This

You're a high school graduate and you're headed for college. If you haven't done it already, you will soon set out on your first trip to look over the college of your choice; and that will be the time when your college will take its first look at you.

Well, before you take this first trip — and certainly far ahead of the day when you land on the campus to start your freshman year — you should be planning that all-important item, your wardrobe. First impressions are very important. Your appearance —the "90 Per Cent You" that is what you wear and how you wear it — is a big part of what faculty and students will go by when sizing you up.

The best time to begin to build a college freshman's wardrobe is a month or two before starting for the campus, as stores then offer the widest choice in back-to-school apparel.

Early shoppers will, of course, find the stores have plenty of light wear, useful if you're heading for a tropic-type campus. For students in sterner climates, however, the emphasis will be on colors and fabrics for the colder months.

To begin with, take stock right now of the wearables you have. Many items will fit perfectly on the campus of your choice. Others, on the other hand, will be out of place if not taboo.

Button-down-collared white oxford shirts go well on all campuses.

The tweed jacket is a must. But flannel trousers and chinos are acceptable only if they are not the skinny-legged, stovepipe variety. If your blazer is styled with a short, cutaway front and has a tight-shouldered "Continental" look, plan on leaving it home.

Start at the earliest to get together a wardrobe of conservative college classics. Guard against all excesses and extremes. As a freshman, do your best to look like a sophomore.

From there on, you should find it a cinch to present an appropriate appearance on all college occasions.

COYLE WILL HEAD DANCE CLASSES AT SCHOOL OF MUSIC

Anthony Marino, director of Anthony's School of Music, 1025 Elizabeth ave., Elizabeth, this week named Wally Coyle to head the dance department at the school.

Coyle, a native of West Orange, will conduct classes on three levels—elementary, intermediate and advanced. Registration for the classes will be held Sept. 7 with free class placement scheduled for Saturday Sept. 11, from 10 to noon. On that day free refreshments will be served, Marino said.

At the Anthony School of Music, Coyle will give special attention to ballroom dancing for both teenagers and adults, Marino said.

A professional entertainer and teacher for 17 years, Coyle has appeared numerous times in top Broadway productions, also in several Warner Bros. motion pictures. Formerly affiliated with the Mt. St. Dominic Academy in Caldwell as an instructor in dance, he is active in Essex County PTA systems and in various religious organizations throughout the state. Coyle's specialty is child prodigy education for "professional children" in modeling, television and motion pictures.

PROPER LIGHTING IS ESSENTIAL FOR HOME STUDYING

Lighting that permits a child to do schoolwork comfortably and without distraction is as essential at home as at school. Proper lighting for the home study area should provide a balanced level of brightness and prevent glare from either the light source or reflection, suggests the American Home Lighting Institute.

Two light sources, or a single long light source across the desk, are most effective.

A pair of wall fixtures or adjustable ceiling fixtures that can be lowered for study and raised for general illumination provide good light.

To get a wide, even spread of light, the fixtures should be positioned with sockets 30 inches apart and shade bottoms 15 inches above the desk.

A fluorescent wall bracket, using a pair of 15 or 20 watt tubes mounted six inches out from the wall and shielded by a faceboard, throws light up on the wall, down on the desk.

PARENTS GET THE ANSWERS in classes like this one, held in Raytown, Mo., as a part of the Adult Education program from instructors who teach "new math" to students.

A HANDY SHOPPING GUIDE FOR BOTH PARENTS AND STUDENTS

Fit And Style Determine Selection Of Child's Shoe

Does the shoe really fit? Parents should make sure. Since shoe styles vary, and the youngster's feet most likely will have grown during summer vacation, his old shoe size is not an adequate guide.

Here are some steps to follow in the selection of correctly fitting shoes:

1. Have the salesman measure each foot while it is bearing the youngster's full weight; fit larger foot.
2. Press toe of the shoe until you feel the tip of the big toe and the second toe — should be one-half to three-quarters of an inch from the toe of the shoe.
3. Check to see that widest part of foot is at widest part of shoe — ball of foot and ball of shoe should meet exactly.
4. It should be possible to grasp a small fold of leather at the side of the vamp. If leather wrinkles, shoe is too wide; if the leather is tight, bulging, shoe is too narrow.

BOYS' BROGUES ARE PERFECT FOR SCHOOL WEARING

Boys going back to school go for the brawny, lightweight leather brogues that look just like Dad's, down to the perforations, long wing tips and pink-ing.

Leather moccasins and saddle oxfords rate with the junior male set, in their classic forms with many new variations: waxed, light-grained and scotch-grained leathers for mocs; dark-on-dark color combinations for the saddle oxford as well as the traditional white-with-brown-or-black.

The chukka or demi-boot in sporty brushed leather with elasticized insets or the neat tie model, is another winner for trim classroom and rugged outdoor wear.

For stepping out, boys choose dress brogues or slip-ons.

Wide Variety Of Administrative Posts Available To Non-Teachers, Specialists

The education field offers a wide variety of "back-up" or administrative posts for those who are not planning to spend their lives in teaching.

There are opportunities at all levels for counselors, librarians, psychologists, social workers, dietitians, speech and sight therapists in the schools.

There are exciting openings for specialists in programmed learning, educational television (there are now more than 100 ETV stations on the air), language laboratories and other new teaching media.

There is the big field of administration for those who aspire to become principal, dean, department head, curriculum director, research or personnel chief, superintendent of schools.

Teaching — and its offshoot careers — has become the nation's number one job. And judging from the testimony of those in teaching today, it is a wonderful one.

Listen to what a teacher said when her son decided to go into teaching: "I am glad my son wants to become a teacher. He is going into the most wonderful profession in the world. It will not make him rich."

"But I feel sure he will be happy, and it is possible that he will drink of the fountain of youth."

"For when you grow old sharing the thoughts and dreams of young people, you assume some of their optimism, their charity, their wonder — at the unseen treasures always waiting to be found."

'Winged Horse' Can Spur Broad Range Of Learning For Primary Students

"Who is Pegasus?"

To the average person, Pegasus is the name of a character in ancient mythology.

To a group of primary students in a Chicago parochial school, however, Pegasus is a current ideal in several lessons relating art, science, mythology and even basic notions of algebra and geometry.

The school, Christ the King, is one of two pilot elementary schools engaged in a curriculum project developed by the Center for Liberal Studies in Education at Saint Xavier College, Chicago.

Teachers utilize such concepts as the Pegasus lessons to show pupils the interrelation of knowledge. Saint Xavier educators believe that this unification of knowledge helps pupils to see the reasons behind their studies.

The lesson might begin with a discussion of the story about the mythical winged horse named Pegasus. From there it's a natural step to the Pegasus rocket, which has wings that spread out as the rocket approaches its target, to help it to land.

Drawing Pegasus on the chalkboard leads the way to a discussion of geometric shapes and of such scientific principles as how rockets travel around the earth.

Concepts of arithmetic and time are developed, as the primary pupils answer questions that might range from "Give us the countdown for Pegasus' blast-off" to "If our rocket travels 500 miles in one minute, how far will it travel in three minutes?"

Call For Trial Basis Only On Student 'Acceleration'

"Acceleration" of students in public schools, which usually means allowing them to skip a grade, should be on a trial basis only with provision for return to the normal class without "loss of face."

This is the recommendation of Daniel Daly, elementary school principal, and Stanley Winters, school psychologist in Ridge-wood, authors of a 10-point plan "to take the guesswork out of accelerating a student."

New Jersey Education Association Review, has been tested over a period of three years by the authors.

Standards for permitting students to skip a grade are set forth as follows: academic, physical, and emotional maturity, chronological age with avoidance of the "too young," teacher placement, parental attitude, effect on other children in the family and school attendance record.

Moccasins, Oxfords ride high with grade schoolers. Girl's moc at left is a scotch-grained penny leather version. Boy's oxford features perforations, touches of antiquing, smooth and grained leathers.

Moccasins In Style For Girls Or Boys

For boys and girls going back to school this fall, there's a wide selection of footwear to satisfy both the youngsters and their parents.

To help in choosing shoes to meet every need of the school day, and dress-up time, too, here are some suggestions, from Leather Industries of America.

Little girls radiate classroom charm in leather bootlets, strap-shoes, ties and slip-ons of all types. Some slip-ons sport sling-backs; others have side cut-outs, appliques or button trim.

The favorite slip-on is still the leather moccasin, now not only in glove and waxed leathers but in grained, brushed, suede and patent leathers as well.

Pliant leather soles add assurance of comfort through flexibility, protection through strength.

Girls like smart strap shoes in smooth, grained or brushed leather. Decorative notes are many — stitching details, strap shaping, combinations of leathers or colors, buckles or buttons. Trim tie-shoes are zippy, in multi-textured leather. Higher cut for foot hugging ease is the dependable leather oxford, which comes applique, cut out or saddled. Saddle oxfords have a new look in contrasting suede or patent leather saddles.

Leather bootlets show a flair for buckles, tassels and color combinations. Shearling linings in bootlets and full boots keep feet cozy-warm.

For parties and dress-up, girls prefer delicate leather slings, shells and pumps with the flirty, feminine look of bows and cut-outs.

Modern Kids Need Old-Fashioned Strolls

Again the call goes out. Get the kids up on their feet!

Youngsters who spend many hours sitting in school buses and family cars, in classrooms and in front of TV sets, need the benefits of plain old-fashioned walking, not only for foot health but for general physical fitness.

Parents should take the lead in encouraging "family walks," podiatrists say.

A HANDY SHOPPING GUIDE FOR BOTH PARENTS AND STUDENTS

Fashion Today Is The Complete Look

Now they're calling it the new "total look," but back-to-school and college girls knew about it all the time. In fact, they inspired it.

proach to fashion sophistication, as the junior high girl joins her high school and college sisters in becoming knowledgeable about wardrobe planning.

beginning is a well-planned selection of sweaters, blouses, jackets, vests, jumpers, skirts. Separates for the new semester rely strongly on casual, classic favorites, but there's plenty of news, too.

In styling, it's ease and femininity that count with the fresh liveliness of skirts—from pleated to dirndl—being welcomed by the busy young Heather Jones and weaves vie with corduroys, plaids and madras for popularity. Coathers, suedes and their look-alikes are going strong. Flannels, tweeds follow the casual line. Fabrics, colors and patterns mix.

Coats and suits cooperate in the total look, too. For instance, cutaway or slim coats or capes of any length top dresses or skirts and blouses. New shapelier suits come with matching blouses or—newest—turtleneck sweaters in contrasting patterns.

For young dash, there are such fashion ideas as the giant-size industrial zipper.

JUNIOR-HIGH girls, like their older sisters, favor heather-toned plaids, here in shift jumper with low-placed pleats, coordinated shirt.

Take the busier pace of high school life, which engenders a growing awareness of the need for fashions to meet many occasions.

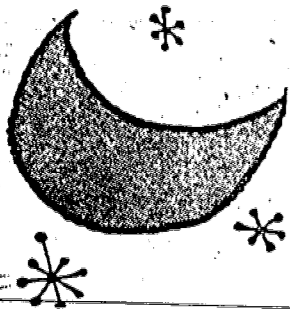

Take the demands class and campus activities make on the wardrobe of the college girl.

Add them up, and it's clear that the neat, complete look, which fashion now dubs "the total look," is a clear case of cause and effect. It just had to be created, especially to answer the diversified fashion needs of the grooming-conscious class and campus set.

Bases of a wardrobe that works well for class, dress-up and leisure are mixable, result, the total look often begins with a well-planned

Why Do People Lose Their Homes? Mortgage Firm Lists Main Reasons

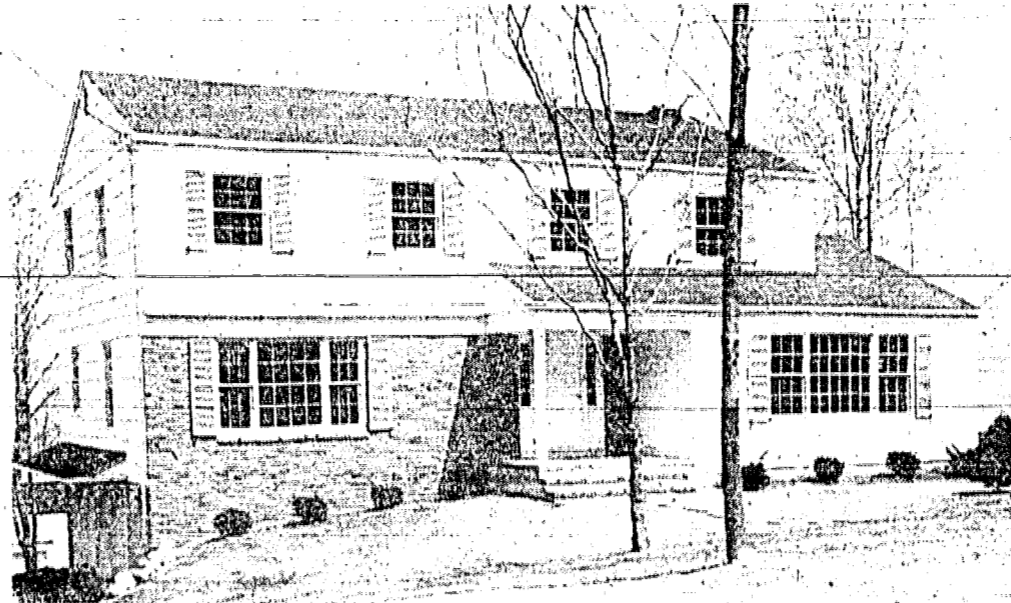

Pointing out that the purchase of a home is the largest investment most families make, Caltion Stallard, president of Jersey Mortgage Co. of Elizabeth, this week urged home buyers to exercise foresight in order to avoid difficulties that might result in loss of their property.

Stallard cited the following as the main reasons for delinquency in mortgage payments and foreclosures on some properties: Lack of control over the family budget; over-extension of credit; failure to reckon miscellaneous extra costs; short-term or seasonal employment; and living beyond the family means in order to keep up with the Joneses.

National Average Stallard pointed out that nationally the foreclosure rate was 33 percent per 1,000 mortgages, and the national delinquency rate three percent.

Hail Legislation Helping Centers For Mental Health

"We are delighted that President Johnson has signed the bill which will provide funds to staff community health centers," Roderic L. O'Connor, president of the New Jersey Association for Mental Health, stated recently.

"The New Jersey Association for Mental Health and its 19 chapters have strongly favored and actively worked for the passage of this legislation since 1963. A group of 20 Mental Health Association leaders visited Washington last March to contact our Senators and Representatives about this bill. It provides $224 million dollars to finance the staffing of community mental health centers throughout the country. The signing of this bill represents the completion of the federal commitment to the community-based mental health center program concept advocated by President Kennedy and Johnson," O'Connor explained.

"The bill also provides $136 million dollars for training teachers of handicapped children, including the emotionally handicapped, and for demonstration and research projects in the field of education of handicapped children. We are extremely pleased with this provision of the bill as well."

The bill signed on Aug. 4 represents an addition to the Community Mental Health Centers Act of 1963, which provided money for the construction of such centers. It appropriates funds to hire staff for the initial operation of Mental Health Centers, and in certain instances, existing facilities which fit into the comprehensive mental health pattern may also qualify for funds under this program.

The Result Of 20 Years' Work: 30,000,000 Cancer Dressings

As the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society observes the 20th year of its existence, the work accomplished by volunteers in its 21 county chapters deserves special recognition. An average of 14,000 volunteers have worked in the Society's service program each year, and over the years they have made some 30,000,000 dressings for cancer patients. The number of workers in the dressings groups grew from approximately 3,000 in 1945-46 to 22,165 in the peak year of 1961-62.

Even before the existence of the New Jersey Division the groundwork for the fight against cancer was being laid by a group of women known as the Field Army. They were under the direction of the late Mrs. Miriam Lee Lippincott of Camden County. When the Division was incorporated on Dec. 26, 1945 the Field Army transferred its efforts to the cancer control programs of the Division.

Cancer dressings units increased from 100 in 1946 to a peak of 1,250 in 1961-62. In 1963-64 the number dropped to 1,002 because better diagnosis and treatment have lessened the demand for cancer dressings and, therefore, the need for so many sewing groups.

Cancer dressings are made from cellulose, which is a soft absorbent material purchased by the Society. Cellulose forms the center of each dressing and is surrounded by clean, white cloth, donated by the public and cut and stitched to the absorbent center by the sewing groups. The greatest number of cancer dressings made was reported in the 1954-1955 fiscal year when the amount reached 2,238,204.

One of the problems facing the various chapters of the American Cancer Society in New Jersey is the lack of public knowledge about the services available to the cancer patient. One does not have to be completely without funds to obtain assistance. Each case is judged on its own merits; medical indigency, rather than income, is the criterion on which granting aid is based. Among services provided by the Society, when chapter funds are available, are visiting nurses (up to $3 per visit) practical nurses, house-keepers, nursing

The Webers built their present one-and-a-third-acre, was sold shortly after to a developer.

The Webers' four children, three daughters and one son, grew up in this warm, busy atmosphere. When the husband of one of their daughters died about seven years ago, she came back to the home haven with her three daughters.

Bert Souder, a well-known artist and a resident of Mountainside, painted the old white house with its wide veranda and snow-capped roof, working some of the time from the kitchen of the Weber's new home. The oil painting now hangs in the Webers' living room.

The arrangement on the sale of the painting was reminiscent of the neighborly barter system of their early days in Mountainside, Emma reports with a hint of nostalgia.

MRS. SOUDER'S DAUGHTER was small at the time so Mrs. Weber, who specialized in infant care, gave baby-sitting services which were credited against the price of the painting.

Mrs. Weber, a small, lean woman with an abundance of energy, grows wistful when she talks of her early years in Mountainside.

There were only 15 or 20 families in the borough at that time, she recalls, and social life centered around the firehouse and, in the 1920's, the newly-formed Parent-Teachers Association.

Everyone was neighbor to the other, each helped the other. Everyone worked hard but there was an abundance of simple family fun.

Henry served for many years as overseer of the poor. His pay was anything left over from the $50 he was given to administer annually. The Weber home served as his unofficial office, runaway boys were housed there, mental patients, rescued from ramshackle shacks in the woods on the hills, were washed and tended there while some decision was made on their long range care. There was a total involvement in community life.

Movie On Atoms Set To Be Shown

"Our Friend the Atom," a color, sound film will be shown to the visitors at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the 'Watching Reservation, Mountainside, on Sunday at 3 p.m.

The film, a Walt Disney production, combines live action and animation to tell the important story of the atom and its future in the service of peace and progress. The viewer will see man's efforts to solve the mysteries of the atom from the first scripts of Democritus to the latest successes of modern scientists, a spokesman said.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public every day, except Friday, from 1 to 5 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Nature Center, tour the live animal area, view the thousands of indoor exhibits and participate in the scheduled programs.

Holiday Deadline

Because of the Labor Day holiday on Monday, Sept. 6, observance of this newspaper's Friday news deadline for the issue of Sept. 9 is particularly important. All organizational, personal and social items should be submitted by Friday, Sept. 3, for publication Sept. 9.

The new farmhouse is just as busy as the old. The granddaughters bring home their baby-sitting charges, the sewing machine whirrs as a collegebound granddaughter creates her own wardrobe, a passerby stops to purchase the corn which Henry picks on order. It is a happy bustle.

The Webers admit they have considered some of the offers to purchase the last of their holdings. But so far they have reached no decision.

"We've been here so long," Mrs. Weber says slowly, "where would we go—farming is Henry's life."

Proof of that (if any is needed) was given back in 1957 when the Webers went to Europe. The main purpose of the trip was to visit their daughter and son-in-law, a member of the U.S. Air Force then stationed at Boblington Air Force Base in England.

Farmer Henry planted a garden in the yard behind their English cottage. And the happiest picture of Henry taken on the European trip shows him in farming togs tending to the garden.

ECHO PROFILE

Marian Kempner of West Orange, took up hunting last year. It was, he admits grinningly, a sort of "If you can't lick 'em, join 'em" motivation.

Lenehan remembers hunting during boyhood in the area where his house now stands.

"These were all woods, the hunting was great. This was a great place to grow up."

It was also, he adds soberly, a great place to come back to after World War II — a place to dream of, a place to treasure, the only place to return to for easement from the wounds of war.

LENEHAN, WHO had served on the varsity football and varsity wrestling teams at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, went into service in 1943. Assigned to the 115th Infantry, 29th Division, he took his basic training at Camp Wheeler, Ga.

He was home only for a few hours the night before his company, the famous Blue and Grey Division, was shipped overseas.

His division was in the first wave to hit Normandy Beach on June 6, 1944. At least three of his friends from Mountainside were among those who landed on the bloody beaches for the invasion that led to ultimate victory for the Allies.

Gilbert Pittenger, now a member of the Borough Council, was seriously injured on the first day, Charles Boynton, an old school friend, was fighting just a few feet from Lenehan and Richard Smith, also an old school friend, was killed in the holocaust that was the Battle of St. Lo.

"I saw him get it," he was only 200 feet from me," Lenehan's big head, whose soft eyes look as though they have seen more hurt than they can bear, shakes sadly back and forth, back and forth.

He met other old friends from his hometown on furloughs in England. Herrick, who was serving with the U. S. Navy, met him in London one night. On another occasion Lenehan flew to England with Paratrooper Charlie Honecker, who was later taken as a prisoner of war by the Germans.

A sergeant when he was discharged at Fort Dix shortly after Japan surrendered in 1945, Lenehan was offered staff sergeant's rank and further advancement if he would stay in service.

But he had his fill of horrors. He wanted to forget about anything connected with war — the disastrous landings at Omaha Beach when only six or seven men out of the 30 on his landing craft survived, the times he saw his comrades mowed down when they went to claim supposedly surrendering members of the enemy forces.

"I just wanted to get home..." he sums it up.

However, his meritorious war record has been duly recognized. He was awarded a bronze arrowhead for the invasion of Normandy, two battle stars, one for the Normandy campaign, the other for the St. Lo campaign, the distinguished unit medal, the European campaign medal, a bronze star for meritorious achievement in ground operations against Germany, the expert infantryman's badge, the good conduct medal, and the Fourragere award given to him by the French government.

HIS PARENTS, who were still living in their old home on Apple Tree Lane, wanted Lenehan to go to college when he returned. His father, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, urged him to take advantage of the GI Bill of Rights to earn his degree.

With a rather sheep-faced grin, Lenehan says: "I wasn't worried about education — all I had on my mind was girls."

His old friend, Gil Pittenger, arranged a blind date for Lenehan with a West Orange girl and after that Lenehan didn't worry about girls — he just worried about one girl, Marian Elizabeth Kempner.

They were married in 1946 and bought their first home, located right next to Lenehan's parents' home on Apple tree lane. They have two children, Walter Joseph, 14, who will enter Governor Livingston Regional High next week, and Kathleen, 13, who will be in the eighth grade at Deerfield.

A chemical operator with DuPont, Lenehan served for three years as a special policeman before accepting an appointment to the Police Department on Jan. 1, 1951. He was made a sergeant in July, 1959. Although he sometimes regrets, in his more introspective moments, not going on to college, he says he finds his work very satisfying.

"I guess it's best this way — I left the education bit to my brother."

His brother, Francis Joseph, now a brother in the Olathe Order, worked for a time as an accountant after graduating from Marietta College, Ohio.

But he and Marian, now a secretary with Zausner Food Corp., Mountainside, have high hopes of seeing both their children go to college.

"And if my son has to go into service some day," Lenehan says with a touch of grimness, "I'm going to make sure he picks the Navy or the Coast Guard — at least with them you have clean sheets and a decent cup of coffee."
