

Ordinance Provides $300,000 For New Library

HOLY WEEKENDS

Churches To Hold Easter Services

Mountainside Christians will gather in the three local churches this Easter Sunday to hail the resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Council Holds Off Letting Pool Pacts Until Last Night

Mountainside's Borough Council was scheduled to award the contract on the $300,000 municipal pool last night. The action was on the agenda for Tuesday night but the Council postponed decision after taking time out for a caucus session.

The delay was necessary, Mayor Frederick Wilhelm said, to allow the Council time for further study of the bids and for consultations with the architects, Egger, Young and Holderness.

Seven bids were submitted last Friday night. According to Wilhelm, there was a great differential between the top and the low bids. The five others were about the same, he said. No figures on the amount were available Tuesday night.

William Ditzel, chairman of the Pool Committee, requested the Council Tuesday night to limit membership in the municipal pool to 800 families and 75 singles. Membership at that point had reached 740 families and 60 singles. Although the pool is large enough to accommodate 900 families, the committee thought it wise to restrict membership during the first year when problems of organization are being worked out.

Ditzel's wife, Helen, was appointed by the Council as Deputy Treasurer of the Borough. Mrs. Ditzel has been taking care of a great deal of the paper work connected with the pool project in addition to recording payments of deposits on pool memberships, it was explained.

Her salary, which was not defined, will come out of pool funds. She will work on a part-time basis.

Library Will Close

Mountainside's Free Public Library will be closed all day tomorrow and Saturday. It will reopen at the regular time on Monday.

All organizational and social news items, photographs, and articles other than those of a spot news nature must be in our office by Friday to insure publication in the next issue. Remember to use the columns of your community newspaper to tell your story.

A sunrise service at 6:30 is the first of three Easter services scheduled at the Mountainside Union Chapel, Rt. 22. The other two are slated at 9:30 and 11 a.m.

Catholics will begin the Easter Vigil at 10:45 Saturday night at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Central ave., which will conclude with Mass at midnight. Community Presbyterian Church on Meeting House lane has scheduled two Easter services, one at 9:30 a.m. and one at 11 a.m.

Five other Easter Masses will be offered at Our Lady of Lourdes Church, at 7, 8, 9:15 and 10:30 a.m. and 12 noon.

Community Presbyterian and Our Lady of Lourdes have scheduled special services today. A service of "Tenebrae," which dates back to the third century and which reminds worshippers of the desertion of Christ by his followers, will be held in Community Church. This service will be held by candlelight in the fellowship room. Holy Communion will be celebrated with the Maundy Thursday service.

Holy Thursday observances at Our Lady of Lourdes Church will include three Masses, at 8:30 a.m., 4 p.m., and 6:30 p.m. The evening service will be the Mass of the Lord's Supper and will include a procession.

All three local churches have slated special services on Good Friday.

Mountainside Union Chapel will open its Good Friday service at 8 p.m. The Rev. Donald K. Balfour of the Tabernacle Baptist Church, South River, will speak on "Golgotha." The Rev. William Tarr of the First Baptist Church of Metuchen will preach on "Gabbatha" and the local pastor, Rev. Robert Mignard, will speak on "Gethsemane." Communion will be served and the choir directed by Wallace Colby, will sing.

The cantata, "The Crucifixion" by John Stainer, will be sung Good Friday at 8 p.m. in Community Presbyterian. A Passion Service and Holy Communion will be offered tomorrow at 3 p.m. in Our Lady of Lourdes Church.

The Chancel Choir of Community Presbyterian will sing the "Gloria" by Dvorak on Easter Sunday. The choir will be joined at the Introit by a bass trio.

The Rev. David Krebbel, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Millburn, will preach at the Chapel's sunrise Easter service. Mr. Mignard will preach on "Christ's Glorious Resurrection" at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services. The Chapel Choir will sing at both services.

PRIVATE EASTER PARADE at the Fulshaws: The five daughters of the W. R. Fulshaws of 1049 Elston dr., Mountainside, are pictured in a home preview. The five, wearing outfits made at home by Mrs. Fulshaw and the three older girls, are, in the usual order, Sue, 17, Pat, 15, Laura, 6, Judy, 13 and Connie, 11.

Easter Fashions For 5 Daughters Fulshaws Start Their Shopping In Fabric Shop

By RITA ZEISS

How do you shop for Easter outfits for five daughters?

If you're Mrs. Raymond Fulshaw of Elston dr., Mountainside, you start by toting the five offspring, ranging in age from 17 down to six, to the fabric store and letting them roam around to select their own material from the hundreds of fabrics on the shelves.

This year the oldest, Sue, will be wearing a blue flowered print suit; 15-year-old Pat, a woolen skirt in heather tones with a check jacket; 13-year-old Judy will be nautically natty in a jaunty white duck suit; Connie, 11, will personally spring in a pink skirt and weskit set with a flowered blouse. A lime green and white print dress and coat will undoubtedly make the youngest, Laura, the hit of the local Easter parade.

ALL THE GIRLS selected their own patterns and styles. In addition, the three oldest also made their own outfits with only supervisory assistance from their needle-wise mother.

Mrs. Fulshaw says, with more than a hint of nostalgia, that when the girls were smaller she used to dress them all alike on Easter. She stopped that practice about five years ago when the older girls started developing more individual tastes.

Far from thinking the Easter sewing schedule is a burden, Mrs. Fulshaw confesses that she finds shopping for clothes for children with varying tastes much more wearing. A few years back, her husband insisted that she and the girls buy their spring outfits.

"IT WAS SO wearing — the girls would find something they were sure they liked — then we either couldn't find it in their sizes or it didn't fit right after they tried it on. You're so limited in selections when you buy ready-made clothes."

Sewing isn't only for Easter in the Fulshaw home. Mrs. Fulshaw and her three older daughters make most of the clothes they wear with the exception of winter coats for the girls. All four of them bless the now popular shift styles — they are so easy to run up.

"You can make one in a few hours," they insist.

Mrs. Fulshaw learned to sew when she was a school girl in Roselle. Her teacher was an older sister who attended Traphagen School of Design in New York City. At that point the future mother of five daughters didn't really like sewing — she just adjusted.

EASTER FOR LINDA

Clark Child Will Fly To Warm Springs

Easter will be a happy day for little Linda Clark and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Clark of 154 Walnut ave., Mountainside. Linda, now in a brace, will be sitting up that day as she has for well over a week. And she and her parents will be making plans for a plane trip on April 15 to Warm Springs, Ga., where Linda will receive rehabilitative treatment at the Warm Springs Foundation. The Mountainside Rescue Squad will transport Linda to Newark Airport.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark will both accompany Linda to Georgia. Mr. Clark will return in time for work the following Monday but Linda's mother will stay for a month. Linda's brother, Walton, will stay in Westfield with his paternal grandparents.

The trip to Georgia will be the first plane ride for Linda and she is very excited about it, her mother reports. Linda is making "fine" progress, hospital authorities reported this week. Her family and friends describe that progress as "miraculous."

Linda was taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, on Oct. 30 after she was severely injured in a freak accident in Echobrook Park. At first she was not expected to live. Two vertebrae in her neck had been severed and she was paralyzed. She was not expected to recover from that paralysis.

gained slight movement in her hands and feet. Since then she has been making steady progress. Some days ago she was transferred from her "circular" bed, in which she had to lie prone, to a brace which enabled

No Appeals Filed On Wilson Ruling; Deadline Passed

No appeal has been filed by A. A. Wilson or Mountainside on the split decision handed down Feb. 6 by Judge Milton Feller on the use of Wilson's 12-acre tract which fronts on Rt. 22. Deadline for such appeal was Tuesday.

Borough Attorney Nicholas St. John LaCorte said last Friday that he had filed no appeal for the borough. An employee in the office of Melvin Koestler, attorney for Wilson, stated that no appeal had been filed by that office on Wilson's behalf. Judge Feller's court also reported no record of appeal.

Judge Feller's ruling gave Wilson the right to erect on the front two acres of his land a new building to house a furniture store and real estate and insurance offices. Wilson was denied his appeal for permission to erect a 150-unit garden apartment on the balance of his acreage. Judge Feller stated in his opinion that the rear of Wilson's property goes into a "solid, residential zone" and

Borough Council Sets April 19 For Public Hearing

$55,476 U. S. Grant Sought To Cut Costs Of Local Financing

An ordinance providing a maximum of $300,000 for the construction and furnishing of a new public library was introduced Tuesday night by Mountainside's Borough Council. A public hearing on the measure has been scheduled April 19 at 8 p.m. in Echobrook School.

The ordinance would appropriate $15,000 from capital funds with the balance of $285,000 being financed by a 30-year bond issue. Interest on the bond issue would not exceed six percent.

The ordinance also provides that any construction funds received from the federal government will be deducted from the total amount provided. The library has received tentative approval of $35,476 from the State Library Board, administrators of the federal government's 1966 library construction program in New Jersey.

Bond anticipation notes will be issued in the amount of $285,000 prior to the issuance of the bonds. The ordinance limits the interest rates on these notes to a maximum of six percent. However, Borough Attorney Nicholas St. John LaCorte said Tuesday night that the Council is confident it can secure a three percent interest rate on the notes. It is expected that the bond anticipation notes will be continued throughout the construction period.

The ordinance was introduced by Councilman William McCurry, seconded by Councilman Wilfred Brandt and approved unanimously by them and the other two Councilmen present, George Coughlin and Gilbert Bittenger. Councilmen B. Dean Spain and George Stillwell were absent from the special session.

The introduction and final approval of the ordinance providing public funds is one of the steps necessary for the Library Trustees to receive final approval of the federal grant. Deadline for receiving such approval is May 1.

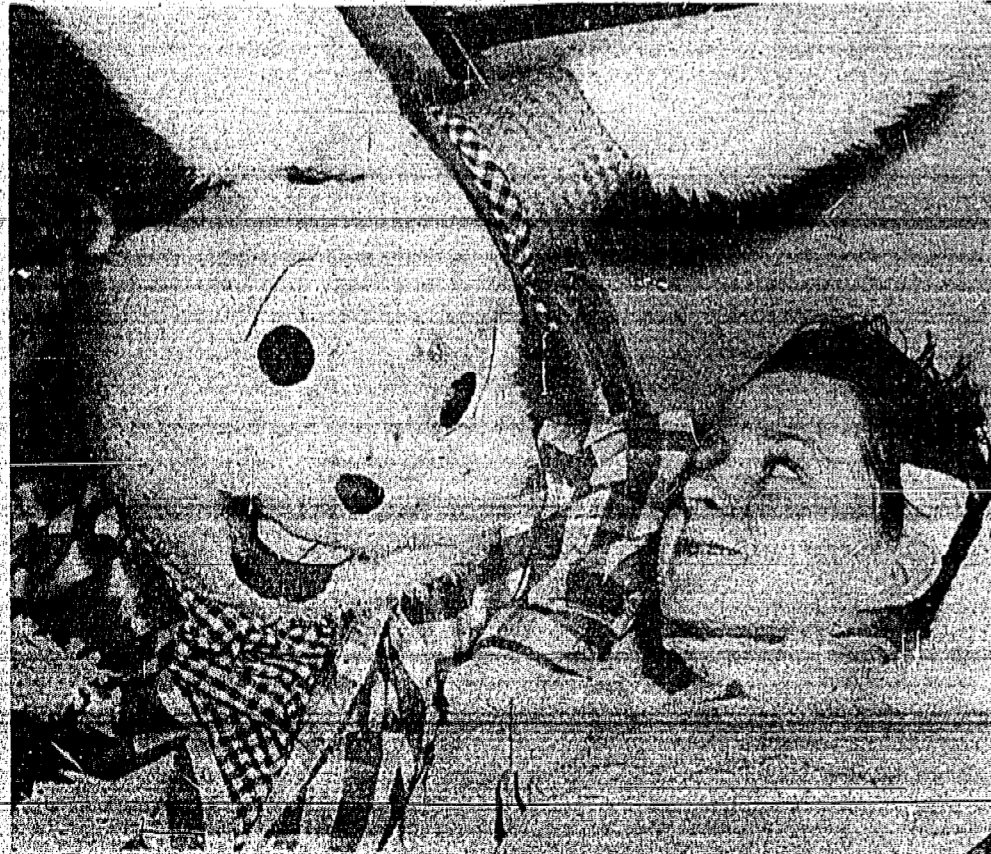

Gene Simpson and Harry Devlin, co-chairmen of the Library's Redevelopment Fund, were two of the four people in the audience at Tuesday night's Council meeting.

Final plans for the library, a one-story self-contained building, have been revised by the architects, Howard McMurray Associates, to comply with the recommendations of the State Library Board. The building will be located north of Rt. 22 on borough-owned land on the northeast corner of Rt. 22 and New Providence rd. An access road will be built to Birch Hill rd. Access will also be provided for walkers and bicycle-riders by an extension of the path that leads to the overpass on Rt. 22.

Construction of the proposed building, which will have about 10,000 square feet, will probably start this summer. If the ordinance receives final approval April 19 and if the federal grant is obtained, a summer start date for groundbreaking was described as one of the aims of the governing body by Mayor Fred

HAPPY EASTER for Linda: The Easter Bunny made a special trip last week to Overlook Hospital to visit Linda Clark, 10-year-old Mountainside child who was paralyzed in a freak accident last October. Linda was able to sit up and give a big hur to the Bunny whose visit was sponsored by B. Altman and Co., Short Hills.

ECHO PROFILE --- Mrs. Regina Matysek

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Matysek of 271 Apple tree lane, Mountainside, and their four sons will all attend the 10:30 Mass on Easter Sunday in Sacred Heart Church, Irvington. But Mrs. Matysek will not sit with her husband and youngsters — she will be in the choir loft, her soprano lifted in the triumphant notes of the High Mass.

Mrs. Matysek, the former Regina Kuroski of Irvington, has sung with the choir of the Irvington church since 1947 and has been a soloist there since 1949. She has also been a soloist in the church's annual concerts.

But she doesn't limit herself to church performances. Last weekend she was one of the leading performers in "My Kind of Town," this year's production of the Mountainside Music Association.

And, as if rehearsals for both her performances didn't consume enough of her time, she recently auditioned for a role in the 1966 production of the Opera Guild of Westfield. She has already been notified that she qualified and will soon start rehearsals with the group for the fall production of Verdi's "Aida."

She had the title role in 1963 in Our Lady of Lourdes production of "Little Mary Sunshine" and co-starred the previous year with William Biunno, now a member of the Board of Education, in the parish's presentation of "The Boy Friend."

Her sons, Kenneth, 11, Stephen, 8, Paul, 5, and David, 1½, attended the children's preview of "My Kind of Town" last Thursday night. They all agreed that their mom was "terrific."

Mrs. Matysek's interest in music goes back to childhood days. She studied piano as a child and while in Irvington High School became a member of the Special

NSC Professor Leads Series On Pre-School Education Aims

Mrs. June M. Handler, associate professor in early childhood education at Newark State College, Union, will conduct an informational program on pre-school education April 25 in Beechwood School, Mountainside. Mrs. Handler's presentation will be the first in a four-part series designed to acquaint parents with the goals of education for the pre-schooler. All interested parents are invited to attend. The program will start at 8 p.m.

Registration forms for a workshop on pre-school education to be held on consecutive Monday evenings will be available at the April 25 program. The series will open May 2 in Beechwood

School and run through May 16. Each of the sessions will be broken down into three parts: a speech and language arts workshop conducted by George Peterson, speech therapist for borough schools and Mrs. Susan Collier, librarian at Beechwood; an art workshop directed by George Christy, the borough's elementary art teacher; and music for pre-schoolers, conducted by Aden Lewis, music coordinator for the school system.

In her presentation, Mrs. Handler will analyze pre-school education, attempting to set its goals in perspective in the light of the current flood of printed material on the subject. According to Dr. Levin Hanigan, superintendent of schools, the program series was organized to help parents of pre-school children still through the mass of information and determine the proper goals for their children.

During the language arts sessions, the parents will take part in story hours and library sessions. During the art periods, they will participate in finger-painting, crayoning and the various art forms to which the pre-schooler should be introduced. The musical sessions will be carried out in a similar manner. Since the workshops will be limited to 25, interested parents must register in advance.

A graduate of Pembroke College, Mrs. Handler received her master's degree in education from Bank Street College and is scheduled to receive her doctorate this coming June from Columbia University Teachers College.

She received the Childcraft Fellowship at Teachers College in 1962-63 and a research grant in 1964 from the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith. She has also had articles published in educational journals.

Echobrook Holds Easter Program

An Easter program was presented yesterday afternoon in Echobrook School by the children in Mrs. Marian Melchior's fifth grade.

The program included an Easter skit and a play, "Holiday on Mars," which was written by the students.

All the students in the school attended the performance. Parents and friends of the performing children were also in the audience.

More than 60 new volumes were added to the shelves of Mountainside's Public Library during March.

erick Wilhelms at the 1966 organizational meeting.

Robert Groves, a member of the McMurray architectural team, estimated last week that it would take eight months to complete the structure. Groves' estimate was given at a meeting which Sidney Mele, president of the Library Trustees, called to acquaint representatives of the various civic and fraternal organizations with the plans for construction.

An architect's rendering of the front exterior of the proposed building and a schematic drawing of the floor plan were on display at the meeting. In answer to questions from the group, Mele and Simpson estimated that the construction would cost about $22 a square foot. Simpson said that this was "not elaborate and not cheap economy class" — about the middle of the road.

The proposed building will have accommodations for about 38,000 volumes and seats for 60 readers. It will also contain a meeting room and a lounge with kitchen facilities. The meeting room will be available to organizations in the borough, Mele said last week.

The library trustees, led by Mele, have been pushing for a new building for the past few years. The Redevelopment Committee was formed early in 1965. The present library, which houses about 14,000 volumes, is located in the basement of Echobrook School. The library became a municipal facility in 1961. Before that it was operated by the Friends of the Library for many years.

preciated the end products. (She needed lots of clothes then for dates with Raymond Fulshaw, her childhood sweetheart.)

WHEN THE FULSHAWs were married over 18 years ago, one of the first things they bought was a sewing machine.

"We didn't have much furniture but we had that," June Fulshaw remembers laughingly.

That same sewing machine is still serving all four Fulshaw seamstresses. The family moved to Mountainside 11 years ago — and the machine came with them.

Mrs. Fulshaw's only formal training in sewing was a course on tailoring she took in the Westfield Adult School. Her fresh, vibrant face sparkles when she describes the processes of pressing and pounding wool which she learned in the course.

"If you press wool on a flat surface, especially a fine-grained material, you're apt to get the outline of the seams on the outside of the material. If you press the material on a round surface, you eliminate this problem."

SHE ACQUIRED the round pressing surface by having her husband saw a portion of one side from a rolling pin to give a flat surface for standing the tool on an ironing board.

"You spread the seam on the round top. You put the iron on the wool, you hold it a few inches away and let the steam penetrate the material. Then you 'pound' the steam out."

The "pounding" process means literally what it says. Using a heavy piece of wood, rounded on both ends, she whacks the material on the seams — "to pound out the steam — you get a perfectly tailored finish."

And all the Fulshaw girls, from Sue, who will enter nursing training next fall, to little Laura will have the "perfectly tailored" look on Easter Sunday.

Siren To Announce Start Of Easter Hunt

The Rescue Squad will sound its siren at 9 a.m. Saturday to announce the opening of the annual Easter Egg Hunt sponsored by the Mountainside Kiwanis Club. The chairman, Pete von Ness, predicts that this year's hunt, the fifth one conducted by the local service club, will be the greatest on record. Hundreds of children are expected to turn out on the playing field of Echobrook School for the annual event.

The egg searchers will be divided into two groups. Children six years or younger will hunt on the ball field. The older children will scatter through the woods in search of the chocolate eggs which will be hidden there. The Kiwanis members and other parents will patrol both areas.

Included in the hidden treasures will be special "prize" eggs. The lucky finders will be able to redeem the special booty for prizes. A display of the prizes will be set up near the school.

Serving on the hunt committee with von Ness are Ted Ruberti, chairman of last year's Easter project, Herb Haase and Bryant Hamilton.

If the weather is inclement, the hunt will be moved indoors to Echobrook School's gymnasium.

After the fun is over the committee will deliver Easter eggs and several prizes to the Children's Specialized Hospital on New Providence rd.

Borough Artists Represented In State Art Exhibit

Three Mountainside artists, Joseph Domarek of 1482 Fox trail, Gloria Johnson of 1359 Birch Hill rd., and Grace Reed of 1362 Wood Valley rd., will be among the 96 New Jersey artists whose works will be displayed at the fifth annual statewide exhibition of the Westfield Art Association.

The show opens Sunday in the Campus Center of Union Junior College, Cranford, and runs through April 10. The exhibition will be open to the public daily from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Domarek's entry is an oil, "Ladies of Vietnam." Mrs. Johnson will have two works in the show, an oil painting, "Tourist Aftermath," and a watercolor, "Spectrum." Mrs. Reed's entry, also an oil, is "Kong Shanties."

The 114 paintings in the show were chosen by a jury comprised of Kent Day Coes, an artist who is represented in museums and galleries in this country and in England, Edward Steven Jr., director of the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Arts, and James Carlin, head of the fine arts department in the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Arts.

Stephen Chardos, of 1061 Charles st., Mountainside, has been nominated for the Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

He is a member of the first class at Union Catholic High School which will be graduated on June 18.

LANDSCAPE ARCHITECTS FEW

New Course Trains Land Planners

If you want to build a home or a shopping center, an airport, country club, highway, military post, or a town, the smart thing to do these days is to include a landscape architect among your consultants.

The catch is that you may have a hard time finding one in New Jersey. There are in this state only about 50 such professionals, some employed by public agencies. California has nearly 1,300.

Rutgers University's College of Agriculture and Environmental Science is taking steps to change this picture with its new course in professional landscape architecture, or land planning, begun last fall.

THE COURSE was developed by Roy H. DeBoer, who has been teaching landscape design for the last 11 years.

When asked the name of the striking plant in his office, he was quick to reply, "I really don't know. That's not in my line."

This is something Hall emphasizes in discussing what a professional landscape architect does and doesn't do. He is not an authority on house plants nor a person called in to plant shrubs around your new split-level.

"That's work for a nurseryman or a landscape contractor. The college has taught these subjects for years, and many graduates are enjoying successful careers in the field."

HALL SAYS creative imagination is a primary requisite for a career in landscape architecture. So is appreciation of nature, a talent for drawing, speech and writing and a desire to improve existing surroundings.

He says young people interested in such a career should prepare with college preparatory courses which emphasize science, art, civics, English, mathematics and studies leading to human understanding.

When students get to the specializing stage in college, would-be landscape architects concentrate on surveying, grading and construction, recreational planning, city planning and zoning, contracts, specifications, cost estimates, sketching, architecture and landscape design.

Hall, who trained in his field in his native state of Massachusetts and in Iowa, hopes it won't be long before New Jersey licenses its landscape architects as Pennsylvania, New York and a number of other states do.

"This is a profession dedicated to improving man's outdoor environment," he points out. "It seems that such a profession should surely be recognized eventually in a state which values its reputation as 'The Garden State.'"

Double 'UNCLE' Program At Ritz

The U. N. C. L. E. Show: "The Spy With My Face" and "To Trap A Spy" is the current attraction at the Ritz Theater in Elizabeth.

Both pictures feature length products from the television show, stars Robert Callum as "Napoleon Solo" and David McCallum as "Mr. T. G. Callaghan." The U. N. C. L. E. stories concern two American secret agents involved in undercover action.

Santa Berger and Leo G. Carroll are featured in "The Spy With My Face."

Liciana Paluzzi is a special guest star of "To Trap A Spy." "The Rare Breed" begins Wednesday, April 13 at the Ritz.

MARLON BRANDO STARS IN 'CHASE' NOW IN CRANFORD

"The Chase" starring Marlon Brando, Jane Fonda, Robert Redford, E. G. Marshall, Angie Dickinson, James Frawley, and James Fox, is the latest film attraction at the Cranford Theater, Cranford. The film, photographed in color and directed by Arthur Penn, concerns a Texas sheriff who protects an escaped prisoner from a desperate community.

The companion feature at the Cranford is "Carry On Cleo," a British spoof in color on the "Carry On" British film comedy series. Sidney James, Kenneth Williams and Amanda Barrie have stellar roles.

Ten Nominations For Bellevue Film

Robert Wise, producer-director of "The Sound of Music," now in its 42nd week at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair, has helped to create motion picture excitement ranging from the crisp documentary-like realism of "Executive Suite" and "I Want To Live!" to the boldly imaginative beauty of "West Side Story," which won 10 Academy awards. Two of the Oscars went to Wise himself for his contributions as producer and co-director of the film. "The Sound of Music," which stars Julie Andrews, Christopher Plummer, Eleanor Parker, Richard Haydn and Peggy Wood, and was derived from the long-running Broadway musical, also has been nominated for 10 Academy awards — among them for "Best Picture" and "Best Actress."

Everything Dreamy In Fellini's 'Juliet'

Whether or not Sigmund Freud would sit up and take notice of the manner in which his dream interpretations and theories are splashed across the screen in such a wild conglomeration of Federico Fellini, a reviewer will never know. Nevertheless, Fellini, the writer and director of "Juliet of the Spirits," current attraction at the Ormont Theater, East Orange, brings forth a strange motion picture fantasy. His real wife, Giulietta Masina, has the title role of a child-like, childless woman who conjures spirits upon which to lean when she discovers that her husband is unfaithful and no longer available to provide her little world with hidden safety and security.

And Fellini, the artist, becomes wildly boisterous (as a child with a much coveted toy) as he grasps his palette in one hand and his outrageously bright dripping paint brush in the other and slaps the screen with imaginative, exuberant hues in his first Technicolor movie. He, in fact, drains his paint jars dry in his need to psychoanalyze the subject of his film (he did as well in his autobiographical masterpiece, "8 1/2," produced in black and white).

Juliet, the drab, innocent housewife, whose surroundings are of luxuriant nature, is surrounded by voluptuous women, her mother, her sisters and particularly her neighbor — an oversexed courtesan — who hold orgies in her home around the clock, all of whom tend to remind her of what she herself is lacking in life.

"La Strada" shows through her marvelous features, effectively enhanced by the haunting background music played throughout the two-and-a-half hour surrealistic fantasy at the Ormont.

A FEMININE LOOK At the Mediterranean Basin

Commentary on a National Newspaper Association Study Mission.

By TRUDINA HOWARD

Third of a Series PORTUGAL REVISITED

Likeable Lisbon was the first stop for the 1966 Winter Study Mission of the National Newspaper Association. It was the fourth visit there for me, however, and Lisbon this time, did not seem as likeable.

Somewhat the hospitality seemed only sly and studied and not as warm as usual, and the weather did not help matters. While the grass and most of the trees were green and the flowers bloomed in the window pots, and while all that was a refreshing change from January in New York, the weather itself was rainy and chilly.

BE THAT AS IT MAY, one of the first things we did was meet with the Foreign Minister, Franco Nogueira, whose wife is a charming Chinese woman. We had met her on a previous visit at a palace garden luncheon at which 17 courses were served! This time we met with the Minister only and members of his staff, in a palace room in the early evening and had no lunch, but several good speeches and several good wines. (One of the exceptional wines that Portugal has is dry, dry DRY, Port.)

The speeches concerned Africa mainly. Matters of Angola and Mozambique were paramount topics. Why, said the Portuguese, can't there be a rule by white people in Africa as well as black? Why must it all suddenly be black? Portugal claims to be one of the first multi-racial societies and feels unfairly judged in the African scene.

"The United Nations calls for independence of all the countries as if they are the same," the Portuguese said, "and they are not the same." The voices went on to say that Rhodesia is ruled by a minority, but a white one. Ghana is ruled by a minority but it is a black one. "But that makes it alright."

"The important thing," a speaker said, "is that it should be a strong government and a good one." "It is not right to be in favor of de-colonization just for the word."

The USSR is deeply interested in Africa, said another speaker, "is that it should be a strong government and a good one."

Miss Loren Tops Stanley Film Cast

Sophia Loren plays the title role in "Julietta," ancient tale updated and set in Israel during the first days of the country's independence, which is the current attraction at the Stanley Theater, Newark. The action-filled film, which involves illegal immigration in Israel, also stars Peter Finch and Jack Hawkins. Director is Daniel Mann.

The associate bill at the Stanley is "Never Too Late," starring Maureen O'Sullivan (who created her stage role, in the Broadway comedy), and Paul Ford, who also performed in the original. Coimie Stevens, film debut and Lloyd Nolan head the supporting cast.

ART SHOWS 'LIFE' ON CURRENT BILL

"Life At The Top," film sequel to "Room At The Top," which started yesterday at the Art Theater in Irvington Center, is based on John Braine's novel of the same title. It concerns a young man who has reached the "top" of the ladder of success, only to live a life of unhappiness. The picture stars Laurence Harvey and Jean Simmons.

OSCAR 'NOMINEE' STARS AT PALACE

Elizabeth Hartman, the young actress who stars in "A Patch of Blue," continuing at the Palace Cinema, Orange, is under contract to two major studios in Hollywood.

This came about when she was cast in her first film, "The Group," which was screened in New York City with a "group" of young, scarcely-known actresses.

In the Palace film, Miss Hartman is cast as a blind girl and plays opposite Academy-award winning performers, Sidney Pictler and Shelly Winters.

DISNEY'S COMEDY AT TWO THEATERS

Walt Disney's comedy, "That Darn Cat," starring Hayley Mills, opened yesterday at the Millburn Theater, Millburn and at the Hollywood Theater, East Orange. The picture, filmed in color, concerns a bank robbery, which the FBI can't solve; but a cat can.

Dean Jones and Dorothy Provine share featured roles in the film which was directed by Robert Stevenson.

HOME OF THE WEEK:

Strawberry Hill Shows Nine Models In Rolling Somerset Countryside

Authentic New England roof and cedar shakes highlight the Nantucket two-story Colonial at Strawberry Hill community in Hillsborough Township. The eight-room home is priced at $27,990 and features four bedrooms and two-and-a-half baths. Homes are situated on full acre lots with city sewers.

Strawberry Hill is situated in the unspoiled, rolling countryside near the picturesque Millstone River of Somerset County. The 87-home tract, located on River Road (Route 533) in Hillsborough Township, is being built by Cali Associates of Kenilworth. According to Ed Leshowitz, spokesman for the firm, 52 homes have been sold to date.

"The record sales rate," says Leshowitz, "is due to a combination of things. First, home owners in the area are assured of increasing property values. In fact, there has been a steady increase in these values during the last ten years and our research department finds every reason to believe that the trend will continue through 1990. The cause of the trend is that Hillsborough is one of the fastest growing communities in New Jersey. New industry, new building and new residents in professional and executive positions have accelerated the growth of Hillsborough which, in turn helps the new industries to expand. Another reason for the sales rate is that the tax rate in Hillsborough is among the lowest in Somerset County — one of the most progressive counties in the state."

Strawberry Hill features nine different models from $22,500. The homes vary in style from colonial to contemporary and are placed on full-acre lots.

"There are nine models," continues Leshowitz, "because we want to give a custom feeling to Strawberry Hill and that many styles in an 87-home tract provides such a feeling. It avoids that 'development look' of so many communities — even those much more expensive than Strawberry Hill."

One interesting model is the Nantucket two-story colonial. The exterior of the home features a New England roof and cedar shakes with a boxed out picture window in the living room. The front doorway leads into an entrance foyer. To the right is a 20-foot recreation room with its own closet and lavatory. To the left is a 20-foot living room and 14-foot dining room. The kitchen is centrally located with access to both dining room and recreation room.

The upper level contains four large bedrooms, one of which — the master bedroom — has a private bath, a regulation size closet and a walk-in closet. The home is priced at $27,990.

Strawberry Hill is conveniently located on Route 533, only ten minutes from the Pennsylvania Station in New Brunswick where the commuter can park his car at the station free. Commuting time is 45 minutes to Newark and one hour to midtown New York. Routes 1, 22, 206, 287, 178, and the Garden State Parkway are all minutes away and bring the metropolitan centers even closer to the community. Shopping centers, schools and universities are also close by and immediately adjacent to Strawberry Hill is the proposed 1,600-acre state and county park offering swimming, boating, fishing, horseback riding and other outdoor activities.

The models were designed by architect Steven Potter of Union with interiors decorated by Gold Interior of South Orange. Exclusive sales agent is Dewal Realty, Inc., of Manville.

Better Business Bureau Sets Record

215,000 were requests for information about the reputation of metropolitan firms, 45,000 were complaints registered against companies, and, in the main, adjusted satisfactorily after bureau presentation.

Some of the more dramatic 1965 cases outlined in the BBB's report include the activities of two firms which, "under the pretense of conducting a marketing survey, instead hoodwinked the public into the purchase of unconscionably overpriced home appliances."

Other areas of consumer complaint involved "gross misrepresentations by so-called gift shops in the midtown area, phony perfume represented as well-known brands; 'luxury' offerings of foreign cars to be shipped from overseas involving large sums advanced by the public the autos undelivered."

The business man, too, was an "equally vulnerable target" for the "deceptive techniques of the unscrupulous," the report said. He was solicited for "advertising by phony labor publications feigning endorsement or affiliation with the AFL-CIO; billed by obscure out-of-state telephone directories with bills almost indistinguishable from those of the Yellow Pages; solicited by charities using most of the money for fund raising or fund raising; and bombarded with a wide range of 'prestige' awards intended to impress only the person paying heavily for the 'distinction'."

During the year, the BBB conducted 6,500 shopping and investigations of advertised offers and requested 2,500 revisions in advertising. Arthur Startz, vice-president in charge of the bureau's operations, attributes the increase chiefly to the added complaints and inquiries (14,000) handled by the new Paramus unit. On the other hand, he pointed to the activity of the unscrupulous fringe element of the business community creating distrust far out of proportion to their number.

"The best protection against this segment," Startz concluded, "is a well-informed, consuming public. He urged people to check first with the Better Business Bureau before making a purchase if in doubt about the reliability or reputation of a metropolitan firm."
