Heart Drive hits homes this Sunday

Sunday collection ends month of fund raising

The annual house-to-house canvass for the Union County Heart Association will be held in Mountainside this Sunday from 3:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., the local chairman, Mrs. John Keuler of 161 Locust ave., announced this week. After their rounds, the bell-ringers will drop their collection envelopes at Fire Headquarters, at the intersection of Rt. 22 and Mountain ave. Coffee and cake will be served to them there, Mrs. Keuler stated.

Miss Carol Clark is serving as vice-chairman of the Mountainside drive and Keuler is "Heart Bank" chairman.

Captains supervising the house-to-house campaign are John Kenny Jr., Mrs. J. P. Freedman, Mrs. Brooke Gardner, Mrs. Fred Missenharter, Mrs. A. G. O'Byrn, Mrs. Raymond Leach, Mrs. William Gutman, Miss Deborah Burlew, Mrs. D. F. D. Hoffert and Mrs. Frederick Gross.

The house-to-house campaign will climax a month-long fund raising effort in the borough that has included placing canisters in business places and organizing a squad of "Teen Hearts."

Miss Burlew, who lives at 1299 Rt. 22, is serving again this year, as she did last, as captain of the "Heart Teens." Last Sunday the teenagers distributed balloons in the Echo Plaza Shopping Center to all those who dropped money in their Heart Fund canisters. Last year the "Heart Teens" collected over $90 in a similar campaign.

Working in the teenage group are Sandra Gabriel, Nancy Gabriel, Missy Guidotti, Pamela Seither and Sandra Esterhazy. Also assisting are a group of children including Eva and Edward Keuler, children of the chair.

EDUCATION ON WHEELS --- The relocatable classrooms to be installed on grounds in the rear of Deerfield School were delivered Monday by overland truck after a snow-delayed trip that started Feb. 3 in Indiana. Pictured doing window inspection of one section are, left to right, Richard Belfatto, Allen Ross and Abby Addotta. The two sections shown will be joined to form one room.

Relocatable classrooms at Deerfield after snow-delayed trip from Indiana

The two relocatable classrooms to be used at Deerfield School were delivered to the site Monday after a long delayed trip which started Feb. 3 in Indiana. The 20 by 40 foot rooms, divided into two sections, were shipped by trailer truck from the mid-west. Because of heavy snow and high winds the trucks were barred from the New York Thruway at the Ohio line until the weather cleared up.

One of the rooms, which is to be mounted on foundations, will be used as an instrumental music room. Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, school superintendent, said at the February meeting of the Board of Education that a final decision has not yet been made on whether to use the second room as a math and reading clinic or as a fifth grade classroom.

The two rooms, which are carpeted and partially soundproofed, are leased for one year at a cost of $4,635 each. If the lease is renewed the cost decreases each year; at the end of the fifth year the units can be purchased outright for a total cost of $5,820 for both. Purchase price at this time would exceed $20,000. Funds for the leasing are provided in the school budget.

The school board authorized the leasing of the two classrooms last summer after the school referendum, which would have allowed for the construction of additions to Deerfield and Beechwood Schools, was defeated last May. It was indicated that the units can be relocated at Beechwood School if it seems advisable after the planned addition to Deerfield School is completed. That addition was approved by the voters in a second referendum last October.

Mountainside is one of several communities in north Jersey which will use the prefabricated classrooms. Similar units were delivered to Plainfield last week; and others are already in use in Branchville and other communities.

Senior citizens set evening of games

The newly organized Senior Citizens Club of Mountainside will meet next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Deerfield School. The program for the night will include a games session with bridge, pinochle, checkers, anagrams and other table games.

Serving on the planning committee are Mrs. Blanche Finnan, Mrs. Esther Cohen, Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Perkins, Mrs. Lucille Goense and Mrs. Irene Fisher.

Harry Devlin, vice-president of the Mountainside Library Trustees, spoke on the new library, now under construction at the group's second meeting last week. Preference survey sheets were distributed at that time to help plan the club program in accordance with the membership's wishes.

The club was formed after more than 30 people showed up at a session scheduled to determine if there was a need for such an organization. Membership in the club is open to all interested older citizens.

Tennis court bids open March 7

Bids on two tennis courts, which will be constructed on land adjacent to the municipal swimming pool, will be accepted March 7 at 3 p.m. in Borough Hall. Plans and specifications are being completed by Borough Engineer Robert Koser, who in his report to the Borough Council Tuesday night estimated that the project should cost about $8,000.

In another move toward implementing the project, the Council passed a resolution to lease property from the Board of Education for a portion of the tennis courts. The proposed courts will be located on a portion of the playing field of Echobrook School and on land owned by the Union County Park Commission. The courts will be open to all members of the community, not just to the pool members.

Councilman Donald Robertson, who serves as Recreation Commissioner, said that it hoped that the courts will be completed in time for the opening of the municipal pool at the end of May. The new bathhouse, which will cost around $90,000, is expected to be ready for the pool opening, Robertson indicated.

IN OTHER ACTION, the Council gave final approval to an ordinance creating the position of assistant borough treasurer. Mayor Frederick Wilhelms Jr. explained that the work load carried by the employees in Borough Hall has risen in the past two years and that the new post was created to give Borough Clerk Elmer Hoffarth help with some of the book-keeping and accounting. No appointee was named; the ordinance sets no pay scale for the job.

Final approval was also given to four other ordinances, two vacating public rights to two pieces of land—one a small triangle of land at old Summit rd., adjacent to Mary Allen lane; the other a lot at the western terminus of Beech ave, which was sold by the borough at public auction last fall.

One of the others authorized the leasing of right of way to Elizabethwater Water Co. to enable that company to erect a water tower and observation deck in Watchung Reservation; another prescribed procedure for approval of claims for payment by the borough.

THE COUNCIL APPROVED the appointment of Clarence H. Winans of Outlook dr. to the Planning Board, as a replacement for Rollin F. Schiefelbein, who resigned in January. Winans will finish out Schiefelbein's term which runs to Dec. 31, 1968.

Schiefelbein, who was appointed to the Planning Board in July, 1965, after Walter Rice resigned, and George Geisenhainer of 318 Old Tote rd. were commended by the Council for their service. Geisenhainer, a lay member of the appeals committee for the building department since July, 1965, resigned in January because of a job transfer to Massachusetts. Mayor Wilhelms expressed his condolences.

Father Aumack speaks to Baptist Men's Club

The Rev. Raymond Aumack of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Mountainside, will be the guest speaker at the March 3 meeting of the Men's Club of the First Baptist Church of Westfield. Father Aumack's topic will be "The Ecumenical Movement and How it is Being Promulgated at the Grass Roots Level."

William O. Van Blarcom of Mountainside will preside at the dinner meeting slated to open at 6:30 p.m. in the church at 170 Elm st. Dinner reservations are necessary and may be made by calling the church office. All men of the church are invited to attend.

to the family of Ronald Farrell, one of the organizers of Mountainside's Little League, who died suddenly last Saturday. His death was a "great loss to the community," Wilhelms said.

CAPT. EDWARD MULLIN

Captain, detective appointed, 2 new policemen named

Two members of Mountainside's Police Department were promoted and two men were appointed probationary policemen at Tuesday night's meeting of the Borough Council. Lt. Edward Mullin, a 19-year veteran of the local force, was promoted to captain and Patrolman Jerome Rice, currently president of the Patrolman's Benevolent Association, was appointed to detective's rank.

Alan Kennedy of 220 Bridge path, Mountainside, and Joseph G. Lobl of Cranford were appointed probationary policemen.

Mullin and Rice will start on their new assignments next Monday and Kennedy and Lobl will begin active duty next Tuesday. Kennedy and Lobl will start at an annual salary of $6,372 and, if they complete their probationary period successfully, advance in four years to a maximum of $7,668. No pay scale for the captain or detective posts was set in the police pay ordinance which became effective Jan. 1 of this year. Chief Police Christian Fritz indicated that the salary for these positions will be set after the public hearing on the municipal budget on March 8.

Councilman Charles Irwin, who heads the Police Committee, said the community "has a need" for expanded service in the police department and said Mullin and Rice had been chosen for promotion "in recognition of their dedicated service in past years." Irwin described the two as "dedicated, competent police officers."

In congratulating Mullin and Rice on their promotions, Chief Fritz indicated that Rice will do a "lot of public relations jobs" for the department.

Essex man killed as car hits rear of disabled truck

Ramon Colon Torres of Newark was killed early Tuesday morning when the car he was driving crashed into a disabled trailer parked on the eastbound lane of Rt. 22, Mountainside. Torres, 21, was pronounced dead on the scene by Dr. Stuart Baron, borough physician.

This is the first automobile fatality in the borough in 1967, and the first since Patrolman Charles Kushwara was killed last December when his car hit a tree on Mountain ave.

The driver of the trailer truck, Charles R. Hart of Ruffs Dale, Pa., told police he had lost a right front wheel on the trailer and had pulled to the side of the highway, turning on the flasher signals on the rear of the trailer. He was looking for flares under the seat of the truck cab when the car driven by Torres crashed into the rear of the trailer.

The entire front end of the car, owned by Angel L. Colon of Newark, was demolished and the rear of the trailer was severely damaged. The car and the truck were both removed to E. & H. Sanoco on the highway.

A witness, Earl F. Walters of Lebanon, Pa., who was driving directly behind Torres in the right-hand lane, told police the "car (driven by the deceased) seemed to swerve into the parked truck without applying any brakes."

The accident occurred at 5 a.m. in front of 1181 Rt. 22, a short distance from the intersection of Globe ave.

Viet vet limps off to work Practice leap slows track ace

Tim Harrington, Mountainside's 24-year-old holder of the metropolitan senior pole vault title, limped off to the business world Monday, rested up by two months at home following a year of service in Vietnam.

The limp is not a service-connected injury—long, lean Tim pulled his "hamstring" muscle a week or two ago in a practice session at Princeton. That injury hobbled his hopes of entering indoor meets this winter but it doesn't mean that he's giving up pole vaulting.

"I'll be ready for the outdoor meets in the summer," he said one day last week, gingerly stretching his tightened-up leg.

Despite the injured leg, Tim was looking forward to getting back to work—as an accountant in the Newark office of a public accounting firm. After a year of Vietnam, the return to the daily routine of business looked mighty good to him, he said.

A MULTIPLE FIELD event star as a student at St. Benedict's Preparatory School, Newark, and St. John's University, New York, Tim held the national pole vaulting championship in 1963 and 1964 while at St. John's.

He took the metropolitan senior pole vault title last month in Columbia's Baker Field, New York by clearing 13 feet, two feet below his best as a collegian. He was still six inches ahead of the runner-up, Norman Cyprus, one of his teammates on the New York Athletic Club.

Tim's keeping up a family tradition by setting records, his father, Paul Harrington, was national champion in 1926 and his brother, Jim, in 1954. The high flying Harringtons have a vaulting pit and runway in the backyard of the home. Tim broke another family tradition by attending St. John's University, his father, Jim and his other two brothers, Paul Jr. and John, all are graduates of Notre Dame University.

His vaulting accomplishments almost made Tim miss Christmas at home last December. A specialist fourth class with the Army, he was assigned to Saigon when he went to Vietnam in December, 1965. For the first eight months he had the job of ordering the food for 200,000 fellow Americans. The last four months he was assigned to special service work which included coaching Vietnam pole vaulters for the Asian games held at Bangkok, Thailand, from Dec. 9 to 20.

TIM WAS DUE to leave Vietnam for home on Dec. 19. His prize pupil, a 33-year-old Vietnam soldier whom he calls Mr. Bau, was scheduled to compete on that day, an occurrence which almost delayed Tim's departure for home.

"For a time," he said with something like a shudder, "it looked as though I wouldn't be able to start for home until Dec. 30."

But Mr. Bau, a 10-foot jumper whom Tim had doing 13 feet after three months training, didn't place in the Asian games. So after a quick flight back to Vietnam and a lot of scrambling, "from one muddy end of Saigon to the other" to collect necessary papers, Tim headed for home on Dec. 19. He stopped for a quick visit with his brother Paul, a civilian employee in Travis Air Force Base in California, and reached home well in time for Christmas.

He had lost about 15 pounds in Vietnam, a loss he attributed principally to the extreme heat which he found very debilitating. He had, he says, only the usual dangers of a non-combat man in that beleaguered country—dynamited jeeps, an occasional shooting in the streets.

The lack of personal danger did not leave him unaware of the horrors and the frustrations of the Vietnam conflict.

"Whatever we're doing there, we're certainly not looking to get anything out of the country—it's just mud, mud, mud," he stated.

"I keep thinking," he added, "if all that money our country's poured into Vietnam had been used to set up some kind of model pilot projects, in impoverished parts of the world, to educate the people, to teach them good health habits, build schools, hospitals, training stations—there has to be a better way—" his voice trailed off.

Regional budget passes; Dr. Jones retains seat

The budget for the regional school system was approved 908 to 272 in the six communities which the system serves. Thirty-four Mountainside voters were among those who turned out to the polls Tuesday night to vote on the measure. Three borough residents cast negative ballots.

Dr. C.K. Minor Jones of Far View dr. was re-elected to his seventh term as Mountainside's representative to the regional school board. Thirty-two borough voters gave him their approval; no votes were cast against him.

Little League registers

Registration for Mountainside's Little League will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon in Deerfield School. Boys and girls aged eight through 15 who are interested in playing baseball with the community league may register at that time. A second registration date has been set for March 4; same time, same place.

RECORD OF RECORDS --- Tim Harrington of Sky Top dr., Mountainside, looks over scrapbook which contains clippings of track events in which he broke the pole vaulting records. Harrington, who held the metropolitan championship while in St. John's University, coached Vietnam pole vaulters for the Asian Games held at Bangkok, Thailand, last December.

nan, and Arthur, Cheryl and Terry Burlew. In urging residents to donate generously when the Heart Fund collectors call this Sunday, Mrs. Keuler pointed out that Heart Fund contributions go to fight a vast complex of diseases--heart attack, stroke, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, rheumatic fever and inborn heart defects.

During the past year these diseases were responsible for 1,992 of the deaths in Union County while they account for approximately 54 percent of all deaths in the nation each year, the chairman emphasized.

The residential canvass will augment the total already collected in the February campaign, which is being conducted to support and expand research, education and community service programs of the Union County Heart Association. It is part of the American Heart Association, the only national voluntary health agency devoted exclusively to combating disease of the heart and blood vessels.

'Vietnam Profile' slated at chapel Sunday night

"Vietnam Profile," an 80-minute colored sound film depicting the work of World Vision in Vietnam will be shown at the Mountainside Union Chapel, Mountainside, on Sunday at 7 p.m. In connection with the film, the Chapel will begin a drive to secure 50,000 dark colored, woolen or cotton blankets which are needed by World Vision for their hospital, widow's home, rehabilitation center, vocational training unit and several orphanages.

was appointed to the department in 1948, was promoted to sergeant ten years later and advanced in 1960 to the rank of lieutenant. Serving with the Army during World War II, Mullin won a purple heart, a bronze medal and four battle stars in the European theater where he fought in the Battle of the Bulge, Ardennes and other major battles. He still serves as a sergeant in the 50th Armored Division of the National Guard. He lives with his wife and two daughters at 317 New Providence rd.

Rice, a graduate of Thomas Jefferson High School, Elizabeth, joined the police force six years ago. He joined the Marine Corps in 1952 and received his sergeant's stripes before his discharge after serving in Korea in 1953 as a radar operator during 900 flight hours.

Twenty-two-year old Kennedy, the son of Colin Kennedy of Mountainside and the late Mrs. Kennedy, is a graduate of Governor Livingston Regional High School. He attended Union Junior College Cranford, and Temple University, Santonio, Tex. He is also a member of the 50th Armored Division of the National Guard.

A graduate of Cranford High School, Lobl, 25, attended Newark State College, Union, and studied at communication school during a two-year stint in the U.S. Navy. A signalman, he was in the Sixth and Second Fleets and saw service in the Mediterranean.

He was a process inspector in quality control for Hyatt Roller Bearing Co., Clark, until resigning to accept the police appointment.

Kennedy and Lobl, both of whom are unmarried, are two of nine men who qualified for appointment in a competitive test administered Jan. 9 in Deerfield School, Mountainside, by police chiefs from various communities in Union County.

Dear Neighbors: Just like in the years past, we again are ready to take care of your shade and ornamental trees. Because this year the destructive scale insects appear to be more plentiful than in the past we urge you to let us spray your oak trees well in advance of first spring leaves. For an early spray during this month, we can then use high viscosity spray oil which is most effective and yet absolutely harmless to humans as well as our birds. The scale insects infect trees which will decay beyond any means of help later on. Don't let this happen to your trees that are the source of enjoyment year after year. They provide you with cooling shade in the summer time, they beautify your home and, yes, then enhance the value of your very home as if they would want to thank you for taking care of them.

We have the most modern equipment, our men are highly trained and skilled for such jobs. Don't delay, call us up and be informed more fully. There is no obligation, of course. SCHMIEDER TREE EXPERT CO. Fanwood 2-9109

SOMERSET TIRE SERVICE'S Weekly Feature By GARY LESSING, Manager

There was an interesting item in last week's newspapers which we'd like to quote in today's column because of the number of questions we had on the subject. The headlines in the newspapers read:

STUDDED TIRES GET THE GREEN LIGHT

TRENTON -- Studded snow tires will not be banned in New Jersey, it was ruled by the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

Studded tires, which contain small protruding pieces of metal for added traction on snow and ice, were first approved by the State Legislature in 1964. They may be used in the State between Nov. 1 and April 15.

Reports that these tires cause abnormal wear on road surfaces, do not warrant any significant regulation permitting their use in New Jersey when weighed against the safety features of the tires, according to a statement by Miss June Strelecki, Director of the Motor Vehicle Department.

SOMERSET TIRE SERVICE, Rt. 22 (at Springfield rd.) UNION, has a full line of these tires and we'd be delighted to show them to you and detail their many features. We're open daily 9-9, Saturdays to 4. Our phone number is MU 8-5620.

Keeping tax refunds busy and growing

When you get your '66 tax return form, take a look at the option that lets you take U.S. Savings Bonds instead of a cash refund. You'll find how to hang on to your tax refund, if you're lucky enough to have one coming.

When you check the Savings Bond line, you automatically assure yourself of two advantages: You provide an easy way of hanging on to your money and a sure way of making it grow one-third bigger at maturity.

Here's how that check-mark goes to work for you: If you're entitled, for example, to a refund of $42, you'll get a $50 face-value Series E Bond (cost $37.50), plus a check for $4.50.

Another good thing about that check-mark-- it also helps to strengthen our country's future security. Uncle Sam puts our Bond dollars to good use in safeguarding our freedom.

Think it over. And, if you haven't started that regular savings program you've been promising yourself, here's a good chance to get at it--with ease, merely by checking the Savings Bond box on your tax return.

Senator CLIFFORD P. CASE Reports

The Senate will soon complete action on the first major bill of the new session--the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1967.

This is the product of a two-year study by the Joint Committee on the Organization of the Congress, on which I was privileged to serve. Our recommendations for strengthening legislative organization and operations add up to the first major overhaul of Congress in 21 years.

As was to be expected, some Senators think the bill goes too far while others feel it does not go far enough. Much of the debate has therefore focused on amendments to strike certain provisions or to add new ones. Most of these amendments have been rejected by the Senate.

One amendment has been accepted on the recommendation of Senator Monroney, who as co-chairman of the Joint Committee bears major responsibility for managing the bill.

Once the Senate passes the bill, it will go to the House, where I hope it will receive prompt consideration. While it falls considerably short of what I believe to be desirable, the bill is a real step forward.

As a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, I am also concerned that we give prompt consideration to appropriations for the various Federal aid-to-education programs, especially those affecting elementary and secondary education.

School boards and administrators have been seriously handicapped in making plans by delayed appropriations. Last year, for example, funds were not cleared until late October, long after most schools had adopted their budgets and were well into their opening terms.

SENATOR HILL is chairman of our subcommittee which handles funds for education, of which I am also a member, and he has assured me of full cooperation in seeking the earliest possible decision.

Both the Senate and House Appropriations Committees, by the way, have decided to establish new subcommittees to pass on funds for the recently established Department of Transportation.

Because of my long-standing concern with mass transit and other transportation issues in New Jersey, I have requested assignment to the new subcommittee.

The work of my other committee--the Senate Foreign Relations Committee--is well under way. As we did last year, the Committee is conducting a series of public hearings on the broader issues of American foreign policy with the focus--inevitably and understandably--on our deep involvement in Southeast Asia.

Our first witnesses were George Kennan of Princeton, an eminent authority on Communism and the Soviet Union, and former Ambassador to Japan Edwin O. Reischauer, who returned to Harvard last year after five years in Tokyo. This week we hear Professor Henry Steele Commager of Columbia and General James Gavin, who retired from the Army after a brilliant military career.

As part of my own study of the complex forces we are dealing with in Asia, I am planning an early study mission to Vietnam, where, among other things, I intend to take a close look at the prospects for "pacification"--that unfortunately named process by which, we are told, security and stability can be restored to the countryside of South Vietnam.

I shall, of course, be making a full report to the people of New Jersey upon my return.

Don't down a book simply because it can fit in someone's back pocket

(This is another in a series of weekly columns on education prepared by members of the staff of Glassboro State College. This one was prepared by Don Bagin, coordinator of college relations.)

A paperback book! This exclamation might have been uttered by an irate parent finding his son buying his reading material at the drugstore instead of at the bookstore a few years ago.

A teacher finding his students engrossed in the offerings of the Mickey Spillane-led authors might have reacted the same way. What a difference a few years make. Paperbacks are rapidly taking their place in the classroom. They are more popular with students than are the traditional, hard-bound books. It seems the hard-bound book carries with it the idea of traditional, formal learning. There's nothing wrong with this type of learning, but to some students it is more difficult to swallow than the palatable paperback.

The popularity of the paperback is increasing. More and more schools are using it in classes, as well as for supplementary reading assignments.

Paperback books often produce dramatic and far-reaching effects in the classroom, according to the New Jersey State Department of Education. The Department conducted a study more than a year ago with the help of 8,400 students and 200 teachers in 50 elementary and secondary schools.

BOTH SLOW LEARNERS and the academically talented liked the paperback books (which is the way many prefer to refer to paperbacks).

Students branded as reluctant readers didn't seem so reluctant, teachers claim. Near-illiterates were reading entire books and enjoying the experience, the study determined. Students generally felt that "paperbacks were easy to read" and that the books brought about a desire to read more.

Students bought more books from the school and from local bookstores and found more time for leisure reading. They also spent more time discussing books and recommending authors to their friends, the report notes.

A real plus factor, as far as the kids are concerned, is the freedom which ownership permits. Since many of the inexpensive books became the students' property, they could mark them and underline sections without worrying about the end-of-the-year "cleanup campaign" on textbooks.

The adoption of paperback books in a school system is not always an easy undertaking. Their adoption causes administrative and teacher adjustments--in budgets and teaching approaches.

Are paperbacks panaceas? Certainly not. They do not make poor teachers excellent teachers. They do not overcome dull teaching. If they simply replace the hard-bound version of a classic, they don't magically perform wonders. When used in conventional "book report" fashion, they don't change students' reading habits or attitudes.

So what good are they? Individualized reading programs are possible with paperbacks. The oft-uttered "meet each child at his level" can be effectively done by assigning different books to different students.

Students are encouraged to build their own library because of the low cost of paperbacks. Relatives, who possibly had placed hard-bound books in the world of pre-television, take advantage of paperbacks, when they are available, it is found.

Teachers too have had to do a lot of catching up reading. Since more titles and authors are available to students, it has become necessary for teachers to read, and in many cases, reread some books.

As even more good books become available in paperback form, the status of the paperback will grow.

Kindly Uncle Sam will be coming out with a completely revised display of armed forces recruiting posters soon. The word from deep in the recesses of the Pentagon is that the signs will show the old gentleman with that paternal look pointing a gnarled finger and saying:

"Join the Army and learn your Social Security number."

Someday, we'll probably never learn who has come up with the idea of the century, something that will undoubtedlyirk us old veterans no end.

No longer will those entering military service be required just to give their name, rank and serial number. Now, it's name, rank--and Social Security number. The old serial number will be scratched from the dog tags forever. An era has passed.

IT'S A FAVORITE game when old vets get together to talk about how they goofed off in the service, to suddenly ask: "What was your serial number?"

The answer usually comes without a second's hesitation. It's something you remember, like the first time you pulled KP. While in service, you felt you were little more than a number. Your name became almost secondary.

Show me a veteran who doesn't remember his service serial number and I'll show you a guy who probably doesn't even know his own birth date.

This new program has all sorts of ramifications. Take future war movies for instance: The American soldier is captured. He's taken into the enemy camp for interrogation. The enemy officer asks:

"WHAT'S THE NAME of our unit and how many are in it, American GI?"

"I'm sorry, but I'm only required to give you my name, rank and Social Security number," mumbles the American GI. It just doesn't ring right.

As long as everybody and their brother is marching down to Washington to protest about something or other, it might not be such a bad idea to organize a veterans march on the Pentagon to protest the death of the serial number. How can we let this tradition die, members of the Society for the Prevention of the Abolishment of the Serial Number and its Women's Auxiliary?

Stand up and be counted. ---ERWIN FALKENHEIM 143-24-5153

PROFILE---Mrs. Herbert Seidel

Work for the ninth annual art show and sale sponsored by the Westfield Chapter of Hadassah was begun about four months ago, according to Mrs. Herbert Seidel of Mountainside, a past president of the chapter who is serving this year as co-chairman of the show.

About 100 members are serving on the committee for the exhibit which will open April 8 in the new auditorium of Temple Emanu-El, Westfield.

"It's a tremendous job," Mrs. Seidel explains, "after all, the show will include 400 framed works, approximately 100 pieces of sculpture, about 1,000 pieces of unframed works,--all under one roof. It's a tremendous job assembling it. We've made countless trips to New York galleries, to galleries in this state. We've talked to so many artists," then suddenly her face breaks into a delighted smile, "but I've enjoyed every minute of it."

WORKS OFFERED for sale in previous Hadassah shows are tastefully arranged throughout the Seidel home. Abstracts, lithographs, woodcuts, graphics which she and her husband purchased over the years are displayed in every room of their home on Longview dr., even the kitchen.

Her treasured acquisitions include a woodcut by Amen, lithographs by Joan Drew, an abstract by Betts and several others. One of her most prized works is a lithograph of a small child, the work of an Israeli artist who was one of the 125,000 children rescued by Hadassah through its "Alyah" program since 1934.

Lacing her long, slender fingers together unconsciously, she points out that this work has tremendous meaning for her beyond its artistic value, which is considerable.

Although she says her own taste "leans toward the abstract," the show's exhibits will include a wide range of many schools from the traditionalists to the way out on art." She is careful to point out that while the show is a fund raising endeavor, that is not its only function.

"We have tried to make it a cultural community event," she says. To that end local artists have been invited to give lectures and demonstrations during the three day show. Some of the artists will also conduct tours of the show, enabling the visitors to discover through his expertise values which would have been unapparent to their less artistically-educated eyes.

THE CRITICAL ACCLAIM won by Hadassah's previous shows attests to the success of the group's aims--"to cater to the serious client while making art available for everyone's budget and to provide in addition an exhibition of exceptional artistic worth."

Slim, blonde, quick-moving, Mrs. Seidel has been an effective force in the community since she and her husband moved here 11 years ago. Her involvement is based on a strongly-held philosophy that every citizen in a democracy has a duty "to participate in all phases of life, in terms of community, people, family, organizations. The volunteer is an essential part of the democratic system--everyone should do his share."

"Betty" Seidel, her associates in the PTA, the Mountainside Music Association and the Hadassah agree, more than does her share. Her sense of commitment makes it difficult for her to confine herself to the duties of a general member; invariably she finds herself heading committees, agreeing to accept offices, volunteering to head some special project. Currently, in addition to her art show chairmanship, she is chairman of the PTA's parent and family life committee, which is currently conducting parent education programs for parents of children in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades; she is also co-chairman of the MMA's dinner-theatre party to be held April 15 with dinner at Ciro's and an evening at the Paper Mill Playhouse.

"IT'S A BUSY LIFE," she agrees but she finds it stimulating and rewarding. She also feels that her children, Jonathan, 11, and Judith, 8, benefit from her activities since her involvement broadens their horizons by sparking interest in art, music and community service.

Jonathan took piano lessons a few years back but dropped them. "He was too young," his mother explains, adding that she will "never again push my children into music or art or any other kind of extra lessons until they ask for it."

She, herself, plays the piano, but "not at all well," she insists, a premise that would be disputed by many of her friends who have heard her accompany her husband, a locally famous singer.

"Herb" Seidel is always one of the big hits in the MMA's variety shows; under the MMA aegis she has "become quite a professional performer," his proud wife claims.

MRS. SEIDEL, the former Betty Day, grew up in Woodhaven and Great Neck, N.Y. Her father, an optometrist, is also a noted authority on the Bible and lectures extensively on Jewish history and the Bible. Her twin brother, (who is still a bachelor) is also an optometrist and has inherited his father's scholarly interests. "My mother worked for all the causes, I guess I take after her," she says amiably.

SHORTLY AFTER graduation from Queens College (which draws rhapsodical hymns of praise from her), Mrs. Seidel met her future husband at a vacation resort. They met in June, 1952, and were married the following year. They settled in Elizabeth, to be near his place of business, Reisen-Seidel Hardware Co. of Union, and Mrs. Seidel accepted a post as a fourth grade teacher in Franklin School, Union. She taught for two years, leaving to await Jonathan's birth.

She sometimes feels that she would like to go back to teaching but confesses that she "just doesn't have the time."

In addition she would not be able to fly off, as she sometimes does, with her husband on a combined business-pleasure trip. They are currently planning a trip to Mexico where they will vacation on a quiet little island, from which Mr. Seidel will take off for an exploratory trip through the Yucatan. There he will visit a remote lumber camp as part of his current study of determining the marketable value of the walnut trees in Mexico and other parts of Central America.

"Oh, I won't go to Yucatan with him," his wife says breathlessly, "it's too remote, too rugged." Her voice trails off and her eyes glint--"well, maybe I might, at that. It does sound interesting."

Those who know her think it's a safe bet she will -- and, who knows, she might come back with some examples of jungle art for Hadassah's show!

COMPUTERS The computer is to the 20th Century what the steam engine was to America's industrial revolution. The steam engine made possible the steam railroad--which, in turn, created demand for great quantities of construction materials and labor; and by providing a better, faster means of transportation, it opened up vast new markets for the products of other industries.

Similarly, computers have created various markets as well as a big one of their own. Digital computers have been generally available for only 15 years--but without computers there might have been no nuclear power plants, no fleets of commercial jets, no communications satellites, no space program. Moreover, computers may have even greater impact on more prosaic aspects of our lives; for example, they have greatly reduced the need for many onerous, exacting clerical efforts.

Computers are a million to a billion times faster than humans in performing computing operations. (As The New York Times put it, a modern computer's speed is such that it can perform more calculations in an hour than a stadium full of scientists could in a lifetime.) And speaking of the computer's contributions to society, one expert went so far as to say the computers had even begun to make government efficient.

Although there is little doubt that computers have had a fantastic impact on our society, it is possible "we ain't seen nothin' yet." For a third of all the computers now in use were installed during 1966--and there are enough computers currently on order to increase the existing population of computers by more than 50 percent.

In my opinion, the computer industry will be the fastest growing major industry for some years to come, and I recommend that every investor whose objective is long-term capital appreciation consider investing in the industry.

Federal Tax Facts

Taxpayers seeking professional help in filing their 1966 Federal income tax returns should select only qualified and reputable advisors.

Joseph M. Shotz, district director of Internal Revenue, advises taxpayers who need professional help to make appointments and arrangements now. As the April filing deadline comes closer, reputable full-time tax practitioners will become increasingly busy.

Even though your records may not yet be complete, the practitioner you select now could be able to start work on your return and allot the time necessary to properly complete it.

Although Internal Revenue does not recommend any particular tax practitioners, Mr. Shotz passed on some suggestions which will help taxpayers to select a responsible individual to prepare their tax returns.

Choose a tax practitioner who has a permanent address so that you know he will be around to answer any questions after your return has been prepared and filed.

Beware of the expert who boasts that he knows all the angles, who guarantees refunds, who waives a percentage of the refund or suggests that your refund check be mailed to his address.

Be sure that the individual who prepares your return signs it and includes his permanent address on the line provided at the bottom of the tax form. You should record his name and address for future reference and keep a copy of the return yourself.

Director Shotz concluded, "No matter who prepares the return, the taxpayer himself is responsible for its accuracy. This means that he will be responsible for full payment of any additional tax, penalty or interest resulting from an incorrectly prepared return. Taxpayers may delegate the work of preparing a return but they cannot delegate their tax responsibilities."

STATE AID HIGH IN NEW BUDGET

State aid appropriations for local government in New Jersey and toward pensions of school teachers, policemen and firemen take the largest share of the near billion dollar State Government budget recommended to the 1967 Legislature by the Governor.

The State aid segment comprises $452.6 million, or 45 percent, of the $998.8 million State budget proposed for the 1967-68 fiscal year, beginning next July 1. Second in amount is the $414.3 million for State Government operations while the $131.9 million for capital expenditures is third in size among the budget recommendations which are now under study by the Joint Legislative Appropriations Committee.

CLOUD OF CHOCOLATE

A DESSERT DELIGHT The perfect ending to a lovely meal is achieved by serving an attractive and imaginative dessert.

For a recipe suggestion that meets these requirements and more, try "Cloud of Chocolate." It is a prize winning recipe from a contest which was conducted by a leading gelatin producer.

Unexpected flavor is the keynote of this dish. It has a continental flare, a delightful texture, and is easy to prepare.

Serving the "Cloud of Chocolate" in a glass bowl will help to display its rich color and texture. Garnishing it with whipped cream and chopped pecans will add a special touch to make this a hit with your family and the most discriminating of guests.

CLOUD OF CHOCOLATE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin 1/4 cup cold water 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted (2 ounces)

1/2 cup confectioners' sugar 1/2 cup milk, heated 3/4 cup granulated sugar 1/4 teaspoon vanilla

2 cups heavy cream, whipped 1/2 cup finely chopped pecans 1/2 cup flaked coconut

Sprinkle gelatine over cold water in cup; allow to soften. Combine chocolate and confectioners' sugar in saucepan. Gradually stir in hot milk. Place over low heat and stir until mixture reaches the boiling point. Do not boil. Remove from heat. Add softened gelatine; stir until dissolved. Stir in granulated sugar, salt, and vanilla. Chill until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from spoon. Beat with rotary beater or electric mixer until light and fluffy. Fold in whipped cream, pecans and coconut. Turn into two-quart bowl. Chill two to three hours. If desired, garnish with whipped cream and chopped pecans.

YIELD: Six to eight servings.

IN ORDER to be effective programs to discourage and prevent smoking should be initiated before youths reach the age of 15 years. Results from a follow-up study of smoking habits among teen-agers by Harvard University indicate that personal attitudes toward smoking tend to be formed before boys and girls reach that age.

ENCOURAGE YOUR CHILDREN to emulate George Washington, but not where dental health is concerned.

Our first president had a long history of troubles with his teeth, and later with his dentures. The American Medical Association reminds parents that dental health habits must be learned in childhood. In fact, youngsters should have their first dental examinations at the age of two and one-half to three years--the time when all their primary teeth have erupted.

A TRANSPLANTED segment of a small intestine survived for more than six months in a laboratory animal--the longest survival time reported--before it was rejected by the animal's immunological system, a Northwestern University surgeon reports. A combination of azathioprine and prednisone, two drugs that suppress the immunological system, were credited with the extension of life by the transplant. The surgeon warns that the rejection problem still presents too many barriers to attempt intestinal transplants in humans.

OLD AGE is relative. Evidence for the existence of a new subnuclear particle, a three pi resonance, indicates it is extremely short-lived.

Exemptions can reduce payments on income tax

(EDITOR'S NOTE: You can and should reduce your tax bill by claiming all your exemptions for yourself, your wife and your children. This is the third of five dispatches on how to make out your federal income tax return so that you pay what you owe—and not a penny more.)

By JOHN PIERSON
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — To avoid paying more taxes than you owe, be sure to claim all your exemptions.

Each exemption is worth $600. You can always claim at least one exemption for yourself. So right off the bat, you've reduced your taxable income by $600. You may be able to claim other exemptions as well. Unless she files a separate return, you can claim your wife as a second exemption. Each dependent child also counts as an exemption. To illustrate, a taxpayer with a wife and two children can take four exemptions — one for himself, one for his wife and one each for his children. That's $2,400 that he won't have to pay taxes on.

Assume he earned $8,000 last year. By claiming his four exemptions, he reduces his taxable income to $5,600.

You can take another exemption if you were blind on the last day of 1966 and another if you were 65 or over. If you were both blind and over 65, you can take three exemptions for yourself — one regular exemption, a second for your blindness and a third for your age. The same rules apply for your wife.

Babies born at any time in 1966 — even the last day of the year — count as exemptions for the whole year. If a dependent died during 1966 — even the first day of the year — you may still claim him as an exemption for the full year.

Who's a dependent? Basically, there are four rules. To qualify as your dependent, a person: —Either must have been a U.S. citizen or, if not a citizen, must have lived in the United States, Canada, Mexico, Panama or the Canal Zone. If you adopted an alien child and he was living with you abroad last year, you may count him as a dependent.

—Must be closely related to you or have been living with you as a member of your household all last year.

—Must have received more than half his support from you.

—Must have earned less than $600 last year. But if your child was under 19 or was still a student, he counts as your dependent, even if he earned $600 or more.

A child who earned $600 or more must file his own tax return. He can claim himself as an exemption on his return at the same time you're claiming him as an exemption on your return. In other words, he's worth a total of $1,200 in exemptions — $600 for himself and $600 for you, as long as you provided more than half his support.

The tax law defines a student as anyone who studies full time at a recognized school for at least five months during the year or who is enrolled full time in an on-the-farm training course.

Even if you were only one of several persons furnishing support for another, you may be able to claim him as an exemption. For example, suppose you and two brothers were supporting your aged father last year, each paying one-third. You may claim him as an exemption if: —Together you and your brothers provided more than half your father's total support.

—Any one of you would have been entitled to claim him as an exemption, if the one alone had furnished over half his support.

—You who are claiming him paid over 10 percent of his bills last year, and: —Your brothers declare in writing that they won't claim your father as an exemption for 1966. Your local Internal Revenue Office has a form on which you can make a "multiple support" declaration. (Next — Income)

April date for area 'Scout-O-Rama'

The 1967 Union Council, Boy Scouts of America, Scout-O-Rama will be held April 21, 22, and 23 in the Elizabeth Armory, it was announced this week by Victor W. Clark, general chairman for the event. The executive vice president of the Clark State Bank, he lives in Scotch Plains.

Clark said the theme for the annual demonstration of scouting skills is "Tying Youth to Manhood." He explained that the theme is represented in a unique design embodying the insignias of the four branches of scouting -- cubs, boy scouts, explorers and sea scouts -- linked by rope symbolizing the role played by scouting in building better men. The general chairman pointed out that more than 11,000 boys and adults leaders in 220 scouting units from Clark, Cranford, Elizabeth, Hillside, Kenilworth, Linden, Rahway, Roselle, Roselle Park, Springfield, Union and Winfield are eligible to participate in the Scout-O-Rama.

In 1965 more than half of the eligible units in the Union Council set up booths and displays throughout the Elizabeth Armory. Clark said. "Only space limitations precluded the participation of other units," he added.

Clark explained that, as in the past, participation in the Scout-O-Rama is limited to those units making the earliest applications for booths. "Since we can accommodate only so many, it is important that each unit make its application at the earliest possible date," he asserted.

CLARK SAID THIS year's edition of the biennial Scout-O-Rama is intended to showcase the activities of the various units in the Union Council. In the past units have demonstrated their mastery of such skills as railroading, cycling, knosty, rope-making, plaster casting, first aid, bottle craft, rocketry, model car racing, firemaning, riflery, wood carving, copper craft, canoe repair and physical fitness.

In addition to preparing a large number of youngsters to demonstrate their skills to parents, relatives, friends and neighbors, the Scout-O-Rama provides participating units with an opportunity to develop poise, business acumen and the chance to gain recognition, prizes and awards, Clark declared.

Clark said ticket sales will begin at a kickoff dinner scheduled for March 14 at Holy Spirit Church, Union. Scouting leaders will receive complete information on ticket sales at the dinner.

Noting that the Scout-O-Rama will be the climax to many months of preparation by scouts and their adult advisors, Clark said the Union Council hoped for a record attendance during the three-day event. "The boys are eager to prove the vitality of the theme 'Tying youth to manhood,'" he concluded. "And they will go all out to provide an interesting, entertaining and enlightening show."

Advanced course in German offered

John Rommel of 824 Madison Ave., Union, board member of the Deutsche Sprachschule, Inc. of Irvington, reported this week that registration for the advanced German course is nearing completion. The course was established by the school board to assist students contemplating taking the college achievement tests for German.

The only requisites are that students be between the ages of 15 and 18 and have at least three years of high school German or its equivalent.

Dr. Robert Cloos, principal of the school, supervises the course and has selected Mrs. Elke Gschossman, instructor of German at Madison High School, to teach the class. The course started Feb. 18 and will be held every other Saturday from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. in conjunction with existing classes at St. Paul the Apostle School, 285 Nesbitt ter., Irvington.

Rommel said that special emphasis is being placed on German grammar and literature. "The entire course is so geared that it will in no way interfere with any regular high school curriculum but rather help bridge the gap between the two levels of learning." Additional information is available from the Deutsche Sprachschule, Inc., 123 Montgomery ave., Irvington.

Coin Club lists new officers; PAL units report activities

Albert Blazinski was elected president of the Coin Club of the PAL Boys' Club of Union last week at the group's organizational meeting. Other new officers are: Donald Blazinski, vice-president, and Pat D'Addona, secretary.

Quarters were studied and exchanged at last week's meeting. At this week's meeting, the group will discuss 50-cent pieces, and make plans for its forthcoming visit to the Bennett stamp and coin shop in Newark.

The following new members were welcomed to the club: Joseph Oakley, Pat D'Addona, Gary Carnivale and Peter Gawryluk.

Other activities at the PAL Boys Club of Union last week included:

The Drama Club continued work on selecting one-minute plays for presentation this spring. This group meets on Fridays at 7:30 p.m. John Evjen, program director of the Drama Club, invited other youths to join so that the group could begin work on a major production. Girls are eligible for membership, Evjen pointed out.

At the Junior Optimist Club meeting on Friday at 7:30 p.m., James Fenimore was named acting secretary, and John McDonald was named acting secretary. They will serve until a nominating session and elections can be held.

New directories set for delivery

Delivery of the new 1967 telephone directories for Elizabeth and vicinity will start Saturday.

Some 176,000 copies of the directory will be distributed to telephone company customers, 10,000 more copies than last year.

Alphabetical listings in the directory have increased to 127,500, about 3,000 listings more than appeared in the 1966 phone book.

The front cover of the directory features a Colonial kitchen setting and a new Touch-Tone wall telephone. The back cover illustrates the three dimensions of Bell System services: research and development at Bell Telephone Laboratories, manufacture and supply at Western Electric Company, and operations at New Jersey Bell.

Zip code information, together with a postal zip code map for multi-zone post office areas, will be included in the Yellow Pages.

Customers who want copies of directories covering other New Jersey areas may obtain them, without charge, by calling their local telephone company business offices.

FRIDAY DEADLINE

SUNDAY'S SERMON

DOING THE JOB
No matter how small or momentous the task, one feels satisfaction only in the knowledge that the job has been well done.

We cannot all be bankers, statesmen, leaders of industry. We cannot all be chiefs. What is important is that we find ourselves a place in life, that we perform some useful function and service... that the community or the world benefits because we have passed this way.

Whatever you do, do with a purpose. Let yourself be not content to drift aimlessly through a lifetime, exerting no effort, seeking no new goals.

And remember that one job well done clears the way for a new effort, for a new achievement.

You don't have to aim for the moon or shoot for the stars. Find a job that needs doing---and do it. Even if you do not succeed, there will be benefits to yourself and to others because you tried.

Loan association names Thebault

Louis P. Thebault, president of the L. P. Thebault Company of Morris Plains, has been elected a member of the executive committee of the newly merged Crestmont Savings and Loan Association, the only state-chartered savings and loan institution serving three counties, Morris, Essex and Union.

Thebault is a resident of Morris Township.

During the meeting of the executive committee it was revealed that the institution's assets reached a record high of $71,842,000. The $13,633,000 growth represented an increase of 23.5 per cent over the corresponding figure a year ago, the greatest growth in the association's history, in a year notable for a marked slowdown in the accumulation of savings capital.

Two colleges join UJC in exchange evaluation project

One of the pressing problems in higher education today is how to involve faculties to a greater degree in policy-making in American colleges and universities.

The Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, accrediting agency for this region, shares this concern. In an attempt to involve faculty members in the accrediting process, the association has established an experimental faculty-exchange-evaluation involving Union Junior College, Cranford, Mount Vernon Junior College, Washington, D.C., and York Junior College, York, Pa.

Under the experimental plan, the same 12-man team will evaluate in turn the three colleges and all members will participate fully in each evaluation, including that of their own institution. The first visit will begin Sunday at Union Junior College. In 1968, the team will visit Mount Vernon and a year later York.

Although all members of the team will participate fully in each of the three evaluations, there is no further relationship among them. Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, president of Union Junior College, said. Each evaluation is being prepared separately, will be conducted independently, and will be acted upon individually by the Commission on Institutions of Higher Education of the Middle States Association.

The new plan calls for the three colleges in effect to evaluate themselves and each other. Union Junior College, Mount Vernon Junior College, and York Junior College were selected to try out the new approach, because all were coming up for reaccreditation and all had previously "shown evidence of quality and depth."

The evaluation team, headed by Dr. Charles Laffin, president of the Agricultural and Technical Institute of the State University of New York, includes the president of Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N.Y., Dr. Richard H. Heindel, and the dean of Ursinus College, Collegeville, Pa., Dr. William S. Pettit. For the Union Junior College visit, the team will include a representative of the New Jersey State Education Department, Herbert F. Holmes of the Office of Community and Two-Year College Education.

Union Junior College's representatives on the team will be Prof. Saul Orkin of Plainfield, chairman of the Social Sciences Department and a UJC alumnus; Dr. Marcia Meyers of West Orange, biology instructor, and Anatole K. Colbert of Cranford, counseling officer.

Over the past two years, committees of the Union Junior College faculty and staff prepared a 200-page self-evaluation report, which was submitted in January to the Commission of Institutions of Higher Education. This effort began on Dec. 16, 1964, at a faculty meeting when seven special committees were appointed to make the self-evaluation.

Heading these committees were: the Nature and Functions of the Institution, Prof. Herman J. Bielefeld of Summit, chairman of the humanities department; the Results of the Educational Program Is Designed to Produce, Miss Dorothea Wiersma of Morristown, registrar; the Students, Prof. Orkin; the Faculty and Instruction, Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen of Cranford, dean; Curriculum, Prof. Elmer Wolf of Cranford, chairman of the engineering department; Instructional Resources and Facilities, Prof. George P. Marks, III, of Roselle Park, librarian, and Prof. Marion H. Leary of Cranford, nursing coordinator and financial aid officer, and Control, Organization and Administration, Prof. Walter B. Mattimore of Clinton, chairman of the English department.

Skeet Championships to be held this Sunday

The 26th Annual Union County Skeet Championships, sponsored and conducted by the Union County Park Commission, will be held at the County Park Trap and Skeet grounds, off Kenilworth Boulevard, Cranford, on Sunday at 2 p.m.

In 1966, this 50-target event was won by Warren Coggiano of Rahway and Dave Byers of Cranford was the runner-up in this event. The Trap and Skeet grounds are open to the public each Saturday and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m.

Esso summer jobs to go to 4 students from County Tech

Esso Research and Engineering Co. of Linden, will employ four students this summer from the chemical technology program at Union County Technical Institute in Mountainside. The students will undertake their positions in the analytical department, upon successful completion of their first-year program at the Institute.

This formal summer training program for technicians is a pilot program undertaken by Esso Research and Engineering and is an extension of their cooperation with schools which train chemical technicians. It provides the students with an opportunity to relate their first year of school to industrial problems and to preview the significance of their second year of studies. For Esso, the program represents an opportunity to evaluate the training of technicians with a view to future employment.

Coordinating the training of the students at school is Harry Sheather of Elizabeth who has the cooperation and assistance of Paul K. Starnes and Robert A. Hofstader of Esso. Starnes has been active for several years as a member of the chemical advisory committee at Union County Technical Institute, while Hofstader is an extension instructor in mathematics and chemistry at the school.

Both Esso and the Institute are certain that their pilot program will be successful and encourage the participation of other industrial firms in similar programs.

ASTRONAUT WINGS

Air Force Colonel Robert Rushworth, who received astronaut wings after flying the X15 rocket aircraft to an altitude of nearly 55 miles in 1963 entered the Korean War service as a member of the Marine Air National Guard 132d Fighter Interceptor Squadron.

There's a bit of the beast in every bug.

It doesn't take much to unleash the savage fury of a Volkswagen. Take almost any old VW, replace the body, make a few simple adjustments, and you've got a Formula Vee racer.

How can a mild-mannered, practical, everyday Volkswagen convert so easily into something so delightfully impractical?

In the words of the Formula Vee International Manual: "Volkswagen components seem to have been made expressly for use in a racing car."

"The engine, air-cooled and mostly aluminum, is light for its power output and already adapted to the rear-engine concept of modern racing cars."

"Its rugged construction provides a power plant which seems to be practically indestructible, even at racing speeds."

"Operating costs are amazingly low. One set of tires will ordinarily last more than a season and one oil change a year is sufficient."

It seems that the same things that make the VW a sensible car for people who aren't in any particular hurry to get somewhere also make the Formula Vee a sensible car for people who are in a big hurry to get nowhere.

FDU to sponsor institute on Recreation Planning

A Community Recreation Planning Institute will be held at the Fairleigh Dickinson campus of Fairleigh Dickinson University, June 18-19, according to Dr. Samuel Pratt, Assistant to the President at Fairleigh Dickinson University. The recreation institute, made possible by a federal grant, will provide communities in Essex, Union and Hudson counties with the opportunity of having one of their own civic oriented representatives trained in becoming a "community recreation leader, sensitive to the social value, content, and structure of a community recreation program."

Fairleigh Dickinson University's objective is to aid the communities in preparing a recreation program, arising from citizen action and reflecting the needs of all age groups from pre-school to senior citizens. Letters have been sent to community leaders requesting their support in the selection of community representatives who will participate in the recreation program and then return to their communities to plan, stimulate and implement broad and comprehensive recreation programs for all age groups.

The Community Recreation Planning Institute in June will encompass six major areas: Social Significance of Recreation Today, Methods of Assessment of Characteristics of Communities and Their Recreation; Evaluation of Existing Community Recreation Plans and Programs; Methods of Designing and Establishing a Comprehensive Community Recreation Program; Study of a Comprehensive Model Program, and Selected Experience in Components of a Master Plan, Including Arts, Social Interaction and Athletic Activities.

These programs will be supplemented with guest speakers, seminars, lecture demonstrations and panel discussions. The faculty will consist of professors from Fairleigh Dickinson University, along with experts from cooperating groups in each seminar area. Emphasis will be placed on the planning of recreation projects in terms of local community resources. The seminar topics will include the following: Painting and Sculpture in Recreation; Music in Recreation; Dramatics in Recreation; Dance in Recreation; Literature in Recreation; Social Recreation; Athletics in Recreation; Recreational Travel; Museums in Recreation; Audio-Visuals in Recreation; Coordination with Outdoor Education Programs of Public Schools, and Procedures and Guidelines for Selecting Recreation Professionals.

The mayors of the municipalities participating in the recreation program have been invited to attend the final sessions of the institute, so that recreation programs may be initiated at the conference. These action programs will then be introduced to the communities by the community leaders.

Among the communities participating in the recreation will be: Irvington, Newark, Kenilworth, Linden, Mountainside, Roselle, Roselle Park, Springfield and Union.

Among the communities participating in the recreation will be: Irvington, Newark, Kenilworth, Linden, Mountainside, Roselle, Roselle Park, Springfield and Union.

Reduction in rates on telephone calls to total $3 million

A reduction in telephone rates which will save New Jersey Bell customers $4 million annually was announced this week by the State Board of Public Utility Commissioners. William F. Hyland, president of the PUC, said New Jersey Bell Telephone Company agreed to the reduction following a review of the company's earnings initiated by the Commission.

Highlights of the reduction are:

1. Lowering the maximum rate for "after 8" and Sunday intrastate calls from 35 to 25 cents. The charges for all long distance state calls of over 20 miles during these time periods will also be reduced. The reductions will benefit approximately 17,100,000 calls made each year.
2. Expanding from three to four minutes the initial time period for all intrastate station-to-station calls in the 21 through 25-mile range affecting some 11,000,000 calls each year.

3. Reducing charges for almost 500,000 yearly person-to-person intrastate calls of certain distances.
4. Reducing by 50 percent the monthly rate for volume control sets, used by people with impaired hearing. There are about 16,000 of these phones in use in New Jersey at present.

The bulk of the savings for telephone users will come from a $3.3 million annual reduction in charges for "after 8" and Sunday long distance calls within the state. The new rates, which will save customers more than 40 percent on some calls, will apply to practically all customer-dialed station-to-station calls within New Jersey. The reduced rates will be effective March 1.

The increase of from three to four minutes in the basic time period applies to all intrastate station to station calls, day, evening or night, in the 21 to 25-mile range. For example, under this new rate schedule, all calls between Newark and New Brunswick, except person-to-person calls, will have a basic time period of four minutes.

The reduced charges will affect more than 17 million calls made annually during the "after 8" and Sunday calling times.

One more thing, how do I go about asking her? OUR REPLY: What is it that you want to ask her? Does she like you? For a date? To go steady?"

Living cost for couples can be high

Why plan, asks Mabel G. Stolte, County Home Economist. As a young married, you may be more romantic than factual, about the actual cost of running a household. Perhaps your ideas are even a little unrealistic?

This is easy to understand when you may have been living on an income of your own and not have been required to share it. Or, you may have been in school and dependent upon your parents?

Now you find yourself in a new situation -- new responsibilities, new friends and new problems, too! You may know it is smart to live within your income but -- the pressures to borrow are so great. You don't know where to begin.

Start by designing your own spending plan. No plan can be used by two couples. A set percentage of income can not be assigned rigidly for each budget category. The old straight jacket budget used this method and failed every time because it didn't allow for individual differences or allow for flexibility in its use. Today, research has learned that no two spending plans can be alike because no two couples are alike.

A practical spending plan is not a "his" and "her" arrangement even if there is a double income. Remember, marriage is a partnership even in money matters. Before you start thinking in "dollar signs" you should take time out to sit down together and set up some goals -- some ideas of what you want to do now, in six months and perhaps in five or 10 years.

Try to be practical and sensible. Sure you'd love a trip to Europe, a house in the country or a motor boat. But stop daydreaming by yourself and find out what your husband wants and needs. Perhaps more education? The more specific you can be about your goals and what needs to be done to accomplish them, the better.

For additional information, attend the Union County Home Economics course, "Where Does Your Money Go?" at the Clark Public Library, this Tuesday and Feb. 21, or phone EL 3-5000.
