Library officials hopeful about building deadline

With construction crews now doing roof steel work on Mountainside's new public library, borough library officials are optimistic about meeting the September target date for completion of the building.

The one-story building, which will triple the shelf capacity of the present Mountainside Public Library in the basement of Echobrook School, is being constructed on Birch Hill rd.

Gifts for the new library are continuing to come in, according to Mrs. Emily Hoffarth, library director. She reported that the most recent is a donation of $436 from the Foot-hill Club. Almost all organizations in Mountainside have either already presented gifts for the new building or are planning to do so, she noted.

The Borough Council has authorized $370,000 for the new building. Federal aid of $57,583 which has been approved for the project will be deducted from the bond issues. The building, designed by McMurray Associates, Elizabeth architects, will house approximately 45,000 books and will be able to accommodate a population of 9,000. Its 10,000 square feet of space will provide separate sections for children and adults, an area for young adults, a meeting room, a lounge with kitchen facilities, workrooms for the staff and storage rooms. The meeting room and kitchen facilities will be available for use by borough organizations.

COMPLETION OF THE structure will mark the first special library building in Mountainside.

The first library in the borough was established in 1934 in a corner of Borough Hall, where it was operated as an independent facility with occasional funds from the borough.

In 1940, the library was moved to Echobrook School, using a former fourth grade classroom. During the fall of that year, it was closed briefly because of a lack of funds. There was another move in September, 1941, when the library was transferred from the former fourth grade classroom to a room in the basement of Echobrook School. This room now serves as the workroom for the library staff.

In 1945, a second room in the school basement was turned over to the library, which still remains there and now has a collection of about 15,000 volumes.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new building were held last Dec. 18. The general contractor for the project is De Venezia Construction Co. of Whippany.

'Ham' Don Bliwise in annual field day of relay radiomen

A 15-year-old Mountainside youth will be one of a group of eight "hams" attempting to contact other amateur radio operators throughout the United States in the Amateur Radio Relay League's annual field day June 24-25. The borough youth is Donald Bliwise of 283 Pembroke rd., a freshman at Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

He will be joined in the project by Steve Katz, Jeff Katz, David May and John Cottage, all of Springfield, Mark Kolber and Don Ginsberg of Hillside and Mitch Bergner of Jersey City.

The eight will set up portable and emergency equipment near the observation tower at the top of the Watchung Mountains in Mountainside.

During the 24-hour field day program starting late in the afternoon of Saturday, June 24, they will attempt to contact as many other amateur radio operators as possible throughout the country. Most operation will be done on VHF (very high frequency) bands.

Young Bliwise, who has been interested in amateur radio operation for nearly three years, has had a "ham" operator's license for a year and a half.

Builder's new job--too far to commute To duplicate Mountainside home in Britain

Five years ago, an English slot machine manufacturer walked into the home of Robert Shomo of 1157 Ridge dr., Mountainside, and asked Shomo to build a duplicate of his house at a site in Kent, England.

At the end of this month, Shomo, a general contractor, will follow through with the request, traveling to England with his family and a helper and his family. The two families will stay in Kent for approximately a year, when they believe the home will be completed.

Shomo's wife, the former Helen Goekemeyer of Westfield, said she has "no idea" why the Englishman, Mick Fischer of Kent, would want to duplicate the Shomo home. "It's a center hallway, four bedroom house in the Colonial style. There's nothing outstanding about the design, and I can think of a number of houses in Mountainside that are more outstanding," Mrs. Shomo said.

According to Mrs. Shomo, Fischer is spend-

Wilson seeks okay for office building

No decision on request for variance

Testimony presented for Adjustment Board

A new round in the battle over the use of the A.A. Wilson site on Rt. 22 in Mountainside opened Monday night when Wilson asked the Board of Adjustment for a variance to construct a two-story office building. No decision was reached on the request.

For other variance requests received at meeting and four held over from May meetings were approved.

The proposal for the Wilson property, center of heated controversy in the past, again drew protests from Mountainside residents attending the meeting this week.

Atty. Nicholas DeMiro of Verona, representing Wilson at the meeting, asked the board to take a 1966 court decision into consideration in studying the new application.

At that time Wilson, an East Orange resident, brought suit against Mountainside after being refused a variance to construct a retail store and a 150-unit garden apartment on the 12-acre tract at 1350 Rt. 22.

Superior Court Judge Milton Feller granted him the right to build a retail store on approximately two and a half acres of the property fronting on the highway, noting that he already held a variance to operate a business there. But the judge upheld the board's refusal to issue a variance for the apartment on the remainder of the property.

Joseph Coviello, attorney for the board, disagreed with DeMiro's claim that the earlier court decision should be taken into consideration.

Stating that this is "a different application," Coviello said the present application "will have to rise or fall" on evidence and testimony presented in this case. He noted that "the majority of members of this board were not members in 1966."

DeMiro, who told the board that he is not asking the members to read the entire transcript of the previous case but simply to "take cognizance" of the court decision, said that the new proposal should be more acceptable to the municipality than the earlier one.

He pointed out that the 1966 proposal, which never led to any construction, would have called for a retail store, while the present one calls for an office building.

Architect H. Robley Saunders of Newark, the first of the two witnesses called by DeMiro, said the proposed new building will cost an estimated $600,000 to $700,000. He testified that lighting of the parking area at the rear, which will have space for 167 cars, will be "only for security reasons."

During questioning by the board and the audience, he said the "package" now planned would use 3.7 acres. He testified there are no plans at present for the remainder of the Wilson property.

TESTIMONY ON THE PROPOSED use of the new building was given by Thomas Buhl of Westfield, branch manager for the Honeywell Co. offices now located on Rt. 22 in Union.

Honeywell, the prospective tenant for the building, hopes to move its Union operation to the new structure, he said. He said his company would take the building on a 20-year lease and then deal directly with the municipality on matters involving taxes and maintenance.

Buhl said about 200 employees would work out of the new building. He testified that the majority of these would be out in the field, with only about 60 or 70 in the office during the day. He expects no traffic congestion as a result of the move, he stated.

The Honeywell representative said the building would be used for sales division headquarters and service operations. He said there would be no manufacturing or retail sales at the site.

The half dozen borough residents who made statements at the close of the testimony expressed opposition to the proposal for a variance.

However, the meeting remained orderly and brought a commendation from Board Chairman Thomas Ricciardi, who at the start of the case had warned that he "won't tolerate anyone cutting in on anyone else's testimony."

The only interruptions during the discussion came from members of the audience who asked witnesses to speak louder. With heat in the Borough Hall room becoming oppressive, windows had been opened and the noise from traffic on Rt. 22 at times drowned out the testimony.

SITE CLEARANCE—A two-story frame building on the Rt. 22 property owned by A.A. Wilson has been demolished but the future of the site is still in doubt. On Monday Wilson asked the Mountainside Board of Adjustment for a variance to erect a two-story office building on the property. The case was adjourned for further study by the board. (Echo photo by Bob Baxter)

School principal to leave

Students, friends in farewell

REMEMBRANCE—Sister Gertrude Agnes, principal of Our Lady of Lourdes School, who is being transferred out of Mountainside at the end of this school year, signs autograph books for four of the students. In front row are Mark Flood and Lisa Buin; in back, Richard Romito and Joan Miller.

Students at Our Lady of Lourdes School in Mountainside, their parents, friends, nuns and lay teachers joined last week in giving a series of farewell parties and programs for Sister Gertrude Agnes, principal, who is leaving the school at the end of this term.

Sister Gertrude Agnes, who also teaches sixth, seventh and eighth grade English, has been principal of the school since it opened six years ago. She is being transferred to Queen of Peace Parish in New Providence. A reception and tea were held in her honor Sunday afternoon at the Rt. 22 home of Mrs.

John Bieszczak and Mrs. William Dabrowski. Assisting the hostesses on the committee for the reception were Mrs. Robert Bladis, Mrs. Peter DeLaurentis and Mrs. John Korley, Mrs. John Korley.

Pupils of Our Lady of Lourdes School attended a surprise assembly held Friday in tribute to the principal. During the program, a purse from the students and faculty was presented to her.

Youngsters in the school also presented her with farewell notes which they had written. The letters from the first graders were given to her by Stephen Brady; from the second graders, by Ann Belenets; from the third graders, by Marianne Wishbow; from the fourth graders, Ann Marie Pastore; from the fifth graders, Patricia Ludd; from the sixth graders, Scott Foties; and from the seventh graders, James Sajerborn, and from the eighth graders, Edward Soltysik.

Mothers of the students were invited to attend the Mass which preceded the surprise assembly.

Two other parties also have been held in honor of Sister Gertrude Agnes. One was a catered dinner held Saturday, June 3, at Our Lady of Lourdes Convent, with 20 nuns attending. This was preceded by a Mass in the convent chapel celebrated by the Rev. Laurence Murphy, M.M.

The other program was a luncheon given by the faculty at the home of Mrs. Peter DeLaurentis of 377 Upland rd., sixth grade homeroom teacher, on Monday, June 5.

TO DEMONSTRATE "SILHOUETTES" Mrs. Fred Gross of Mountainside will demonstrate the art of "Silhouettes" at the Clinton Historical Museum in the Old Red Mill at Clinton this weekend. She will present her demonstration from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Drive planned for improving postal service

A campaign to obtain an independent post office for Mountainside, now served by a branch of the Westfield Post Office, is expected to get under way in the borough next fall.

The drive is being sponsored by the Mountainside Woman's Club under the community improvement program of the Sears Roebuck Foundation and General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Borough Council members gave their unofficial blessing to the proposal at a caucus last week and are expected to adopt a resolution commending it at their meeting next Tuesday.

Mountainside Woman's Club members who outlined the plan at the caucus were Mrs. Richard Kapke, Sixth District vice-president of the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Edith Sgarro, immediate past president of the Mountainside club; Mrs. Lewis Strohmeyer, first vice-president; Mrs. Frederick Young, second vice-president; Mrs. Everett Perkins and Mrs. Vincent Warkala, Mrs. Melvin Lemmerhirt is chairman of the Mountainside club's community improvement program and Mrs. Charles Mackay is co-chairman.

Club plans call for circulating petitions throughout the borough in the fall, when local groups resume their meetings after the summer vacation.

These petitions, in tentative wording, will urge establishment of a post office which would be "Independent of the Westfield, New Jersey 07090 Post Office, which will afford us one mailing address and faster service, eliminating the need for our mail to clear through the Westfield Post Office before delivery in Mountainside and giving as much as one day faster service when mailed in Mountainside for other destinations."

In a letter to Mayor Frederick Wilhelms and Council members, Mrs. Lemmerhirt explained that the club has undertaken the project because "many of our residents do not use our post office but instead go to Summit, Springfield or Westfield because they get faster service." She added:

"We want to improve this condition. This can be accomplished through our state and United States Government legislators by having petitions signed by our residents reflecting the need and desire to improve postal services in Mountainside."

"We have a beautiful new post office building, adequate parking facilities, our population and revenue points justify a full-fledged post office."

Mrs. Lemmerhirt noted that the Sears Foundation allows $80,000 every two years for youth improvement, medical research, scholarships and community improvement. "We can realize up to $150 for our club and $500 for our State Federation by participating in this program," she said.

Det. Rice reelected president of PBA

Detective Jerome Rice was reelected president of Mountainside PBA Local 126 at a meeting held Thursday night at borough police headquarters.

Officer Raymond Dellaserra was elected vice president to succeed Officer Joseph Mazur, who will continue to serve as delegate. Others reelected were Officer's Steven Semanick, recording secretary; Edward Hafeken, treasurer, and William Ayres, sergeant-at-arms.

Plans were made for the annual dance to be held in October with Det. Rice and Officers Hafeken and Charles Kelly serving on the committee. PBA members also discussed plans for the second annual fishing trip, to be held this summer.

SETON HALL PREP GRADUATE

Robert J. Leist, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Leist Sr., of 332 Longview dr., Mountainside will receive his diploma from Seton Hall Preparatory School on Saturday. He conducts its 1967 activities.

Second member of School Board resigns position

For the second time within a week, a member of the Mountainside Board of Education resigned because of a change in job. Mrs. Mary Rosenquest submitted her resignation at Tuesday night's Board session.

Mrs. Rosenquest's resignation follows close upon the heels of Board member Richard Krebs. Her term would have expired next February. She had been elected to her first three-year term on the Board in January, 1965.

Mrs. Rosenquest listed a change in her husband's work as the reason for her resignation, which becomes effective on June 30. Her husband, John Rosenquest, has been named production sales manager at the Dorr-Oliver, Inc., plant in Stamford, Conn. The couple will be moving from their home at 285 Timberline rd., Mountainside, to New Canaan, Conn.

Krebs's resignation became effective on Tuesday night. Appointed to the Board eight months ago, he had won election in his own right last January. The next-door neighbor of the Rosenquests, resides at 277 Timberline rd., Mountainside. He gave as the reason for his resignation the acceptance of a new job in Chicago.

Robert Britton, board president, said that appointment of a successor to Krebs is likely

Few openings left in courses offered at summer school

A few openings still remain in some of the courses to be offered in summer school at Mountainside this year, according to Marianne Becker, registrar.

The five-week program starting June 26 will be held at Beechwood School this year because construction of an addition to Deerfield School. The regular site for summer school classes, is scheduled to start this summer.

Because of the change in location, such courses as home economics, industrial arts, Spanish, French and enrichment classes in mathematics, and reading have had to be eliminated this year. However, the summer school will offer "strengthening courses" in reading and mathematics for all grade levels, pre-kindergarten, post-kindergarten, art for grades one to five; typing for grades four to seven, piano for all grades, instrumental music for grades four to seven, science for grades four to six and remedial speech for children recommended by the speech therapist.

The music and science classes to be given this summer are filled, Miss Becker said. She reported that there are still a few openings in first and second grade reading and mathematics, third grade reading, sixth grade mathematics, art, pre-kindergarten, post-kindergarten and typing classes.

Total enrollment for the summer school program to date is about 450. This represents about 320 individual youngsters, some of whom have signed up for more than one course. William Hummel, principal of Beechwood School, will serve as principal of the summer school. He will direct a faculty of 20.

PROFILE---Roger Tuthill

Roger Tuthill of 1 Tanglewood lane, Mountainside, is an electrical engineer whose recreation as well as his work is in the field of science.

General manager of equipment engineering at the Welding Products Division of the Air Reduction Co., in Mountainside, Tuthill's avocation is astronomy, and he's currently helping to establish the new William Miller Sperry Observatory at the Union Junior College in Cranford.

The observatory was financed through $100,000 donated by two descendants of the late William Sperry, a Cranford resident and founder of the Sperry and Hutchinson Green Stamps firm. The observatory includes two telescopes -- a 12-inch reflector (similar in type to the world's largest telescope at Mt. Palomar, California), and a six-inch refractor (similar in kind to the one at Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay, Wis.).

Tuthill helped in the construction of the reflector telescope. His participation in the telescope construction was as a member of the Amateur Astronomers, Inc., a group which is cooperating with Union Junior College in the establishment of the Sperry Observatory.

TUTHILL SAID THE observatory will be used for classes in astronomy at the college and for public lectures and research work. The facility will be manned by members of the Amateur Astronomers until a full-time astronomer can be put on the college staff.

An astronomy enthusiast for seven years, Tuthill first became interested in the study when he was assistant scoutmaster in the Boy Scout Troop at the Deerfield School, Mountainside. Tuthill took the troop to a park in Irvington for an outing. There was a telescope concession there whereby a patron could look at the stars for 20 cents. According to Tuthill, "that look hooked me."

Since that time, Tuthill has constructed numerous telescopes which are to be found throughout his home. The homemade telescopes were made for hundreds of dollars, and could be sold for thousands, according to Tuthill. He refuses to sell any of them, however.

"When my wife asks me why I don't sell some of the telescopes," Tuthill said, "I ask if she would sell one of the children." At first, Tuthill purchased optical kits and assembled the telescopes. He recommends this to beginning astronomy enthusiasts until they are certain that they will pursue the interest. Eventually, however, he began to make his own reflectors.

TUTHILL SAID THAT the process of grinding a piece of glass to an optical surface is a relaxing one. "It is simple enough for a child to do; in fact, the Amateur Astronomers have mirror classes for children. The task requires patience, but it gradually puts your mind in neutral, and you relax."

After the proper surface is attained, the glass is sent out for reflector coating. When it is returned, the amateur astronomer mounts it in a telescope.

Tuthill's collection of homemade telescopes includes one model which is mounted on a trailer, and which he feels is the largest amateur-made telescope in the state. Other telescopes are in his garage, his attic and his yard.

Tuthill said he spends many of his nights sitting up and watching the light of the stars disappear. He emphasizes that this type of activity is common for the members of the Amateur Astronomers.

The primary activity of Tuthill and other amateur astronomers in their star gazing is making occultations. This is the recording of the time at which the moon blots out the light of various stars on various days. He said this work helps to define the position of the moon, and this information is useful in the U.S. space program.

According to Tuthill, astronomers now know the lunar position within ten miles. Through numerous occultations, it is hoped that the position can be defined 100 times more precisely. As Tuthill points out, "this information could mean the difference between a spaceman's landing in a crater or a flat area on the moon."

TUTHILL HAS SENT information he has acquired to the British Nautical Office in Greenwich, England, and to the U.S. Naval Observatory in Washington. He has also written articles for various telescope magazines.

Part of the use of the new observatory at Union Junior College will be the making of occultations.

A Mountainside resident for 10 years, Tuthill is married and has four children -- Bruce, 20, a student at Union Junior College; Bette, 18, a student at the Ashland College in Ashland, Ohio; Robert, 13, a seventh grader at the Deerfield School in Mountainside, and Thomas, 6, who will be entering first grade at the Beechwood School, Mountainside, next month.

Tuthill holds the Bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from the Pratt Institute in Brooklyn. He worked as an engineer in York, Pa., before moving to Mountainside.

For recreation, Tuthill said he likes to "walk on water." He has a clear plastic ball, seven feet in diameter, which has paddles on it similar to those on a paddle-wheel steamer. When a person inside the ball walks, the balls moves along the surface of a body of water.

The ball was devised by the late Wayne Wilson of York, Pa., a friend of Tuthill's. Last summer, Tuthill used it to walk some 20 miles along the Delaware River, south from the Delaware Water Gap.

Sewer line survey started in borough

A borough-wide survey of homes connected to the sanitary sewer system was discussed Monday night at a meeting of the Mountainside Board of Health.

It was pointed out that all homes which about a sanitary sewer must be connected to the sewer.

The survey is being conducted by Daniel Hartnett, plumbing inspector, and Mrs. Maxine Buck, board secretary. When it is completed, probably early in July, homes not meeting the borough requirements will be notified that they must be connected to the sewer.

Named to Key club at Vermont college

Janette M. Gross, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Redrick Gross of 1461 Forde dr., Mountainside, has been appointed to Green Key at Green Mountain College, Poultney, Vt. Members of Green Key, selected on the basis of good citizenship, academic proficiency and leadership potential, serve as counselors to next year's incoming freshmen and act as official campus guides and hostesses.

A graduate of Governor Livingston Regional High School, Miss Gross is now completing her freshman year at Green Mountain. She is majoring in liberal arts.

School board

to be made in a special meeting of the Board next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Deerfield School. He said that a replacement for Mrs. Rosenquest will also be obtained as soon as possible. Both replacements would serve until next January when new members could be elected in the regular Board election.

Britton said that the Board will consider for appointment persons who would be likely to seek election in January. He pointed out that four seats on the Board would be up for election in January. Beside the posts of the two appointive members, Britton and Board member Walter Rupp shall have completed three-year terms by next January.

Next Wednesday's special meeting is one of two called by the Board in the next two weeks. The purpose of Wednesday night's session is the opening of bids on an $830,000 addition to the Deerfield School. The addition, approved in a school referendum last November, will include 10 new classrooms and office facilities. A $15,000 parcel of land was purchased for the extension.

ANOTHER SPECIAL MEETING was called by the Board for Tuesday, June 27, in the Board administration offices on Rt. 22 for the purpose of clearing up year-end business.

In other Board action taken at Tuesday's session, Board Secretary John McDonough was authorized to apply for permission for the borough to participate in a special milk program whereby the federal government would contribute three cents on each half pint of milk purchased by the Board.

McDonough was also authorized to extend the Board's lease on its administration building on Rt. 22. This will be the third year that the Board has leased the offices, and, under the original contract, monthly rental will decrease from $550 to $475 for the coming year.

The Board awarded a contract to John A. Longstaff Jr. to serve as a physical education instructor at the Beechwood and Echobrook Schools, beginning in September. Longstaff is scheduled to graduate this month from Fairmount State College in West Virginia. He will receive a starting salary of $5,900, and $330 for directing after-school activities two days a week at each of the two schools for three months.

DR. LEVIN B. HANIGAN, superintendent of schools, announced that there are 332 pupils enrolled for a total of 456 classes for this year's summer school program in Mountainside. Because of construction work to begin at the Deerfield School, the summer school will be held in the Beechwood School. Dr. Hanigan said that courses are geared to strengthen students in regular curriculum material.

Dr. Hanigan also informed the Board that next Thursday will be the last day of school in the borough. Graduation ceremonies at the Deerfield School will be on Tuesday at 8 p.m. He said that total enrollment in the borough at the close of the year is 1,337 students, seven more than last September. An increase of four has been noted at the Echobrook School, and three at the Beechwood School. There has been no change in enrollment at the Deerfield School, Dr. Hanigan reported.

Two from borough to graduate tonight

Two students from Mountainside will participate in the sixth annual graduation exercises of Union County Technical Institute in Mountainside to be held tonight at 8 o'clock. Ceremonies will be in the auditorium of Union Junior College, Cranford.

The students are Ronald A. Smith, who majored in data processing technology, and Susan Haupt, who majored in medical assisting.

Principal speaker for the occasion will be Richard F. Stringer of Easo Research and Engineering Co., Linden. The invocation and benediction will be offered by the Rev. Robert G. Langaker, minister of the First Presbyterian Church in Cranford.

ACCEPTED AT RENNELAER Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y., announced this week that a resident of Mountainside is a prospective student at the college. He is Douglas R. Johnson, son of Mrs. Gloria S. Johnson of 1358 Birch Hill rd.

GUILLERMO W. ARNAUD

Arnaud presented degree from MIT

Guillermo W. Arnaud, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Arnaud, of 328 Raccoon Hollow, Mountainside, received the bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Friday. President Howard W. Johnson delivered the address for the 101st MIT commencement.

Arnaud has been a member of the Catholic Club, the Boat Club, and the Club Latino. He has participated in intercollegiate athletics as a member of the crew.

Two owl collections come to roost at Barrett & Crain realtors office

The owl as a symbol of wisdom and June as the commencement month have been combined for a display by an area real estate firm. Two collections of owls assembled by local women currently are being shown by Barrett & Crain, Inc., realtors, at their Westfield offices, 43 Elm st.

Owls made of widely varying materials have been lent by Mrs. H. M. Poole Jr., of 1592 Deer Path, Mountainside, and Mrs. Robert C. Bottorf of Westfield. The owls represent artistry of many countries, including Mexico, Japan, Sweden, France and the United States.

Mrs. Poole's interest in this enigmatic bird came about as the result of receiving an owl as a gift. Other owls have been acquired on vacations and travels and further gifts. One of the most interesting in her collection is the Gattil owl from Arizona which she uses in her garden, suspended from a tree limb, on a wind chime. Others include a pair of mates in sand-colored ceramic and a black iron owl with cutouts in its feathers which is used over a candle on the terrace.

Mrs. Bottorf's collection was started when her husband was presented with a Steuben glass owl at the time he became publisher of "The National Observer." The publication has the owl as its emblem. In her collection are owl match boxes and owl jewelry, salt and pepper sets and a tiny place card holder.

The exhibit was arranged by Mrs. Hazel Ward, who has included in the background several new watercolors of area homes by artist Leslyn Ash.

UJC report shows May was 'wetter and colder'

May was colder and wetter than normal, Harold D. Duflocq, meteorologist at the Union Junior College Meteorological Station, Cranford, showed in his monthly report to the U.S. Weather Bureau this week.

The average temperature was 55.3 degrees or 6.5 degrees below the estimated normal temperature, while precipitation totaled 4.39 inches or .29 inches above the estimated normal rainfall.

NJC to offer summer music program

A revolutionary method for developing musical ability in young children will be demonstrated at Newark State College, Union, this summer.

Called the "Kodaly method" after its innovator, the late Hungarian composer Zoltan Kodaly, it will be taught in a three-week summer course and at a two-day workshop, both at the Morris Ave. campus.

The Kodaly method aims to impart music fundamentals to children in the early elementary school grades through rhythmic exercises and games that teach relative pitch and the skills of reading music and writing from dictation.

Miss Doris Engelhard, a member of the Music Department faculty, who will teach the course under the title, "Music in the Elementary School," has used the method to train classes at the Campus School. She has presented demonstrations to faculty groups from area schools and at the New Jersey Education Association Convention.

The two-day workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. July 11 and 12. It will be led by Miss Mary Helen Richards, whose book, "Threshold to Music," provides the American adaptation of the Kodaly method.

MISS RICHARDS was accompanied by a group of music educators throughout the United States in April on a one-month tour of Hungarian schools to see the Kodaly method in operation there, Miss Engelhard was member of the touring group, called POMF because of its dedication to the development of the "potentials of music education."

Miss Richards says that music educators are just "beginning to understand the tremendous music learning capabilities of small children."

"Every child," she has said, "has a potential in and through music almost completely unrealized until now. Possibly music is to our entire lives what the exercises bar is to the ballet dancer."

"When music is taught correctly, all the faculties are used constantly and together. Seeing hearing, and feeling rhythm; and relationships of tones and melodies and understanding their use is a daily exercise. The memory is sharpened. Instant reactions to aural and visual stimuli are demanded and given."

"It is possible that the very first reading experience a child has should be reading rhythmic notation, symbols used in the Kodaly method, rather than the alphabet or word symbols. In this way a positive attitude toward the use of symbols is established," Miss Richards says.

ST. PAUL, Minn. ## K of C Assembly gets thanks for support of Administration

A resolution passed last month by the John Fitzgerald Kennedy General Assembly, Fourth Degree, Knights of Columbus, condemning "public opposition" to President Johnson's policies, has brought letters of thanks from the White House, the Department of Defense and the Supreme Council of the K of C.

The letters praising the assembly's stand were received by Charles I. Spingola of Union, faithful navigator.

Paul M. Popple, assistant to the President, wrote that the President "appreciates your courtesy in bringing his expression of views to his attention," adding that "the support of your organization is very gratifying to the President."

Richard Fryklund, deputy assistant secretary of defense, wrote on behalf of Defense Secretary Robert McNamara:

"At a time when national unity is so highly important and essential, it is most gratifying to Mr. McNamara to receive patriotic expressions such as this."

The resolution also brought a letter from John W. McDevitt, supreme knight of the K of C, who said the national organization agrees "completely with the substance and form of the resolution."

Star of Bellevue has a top career

Candice Bergen, latest talent to hit the local screens, has the lead role in "The Sand Pebbles," which begins its fourth week Wednesday at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair.

Miss Bergen, daughter of Edgar Bergen, veteran comedian-ventriloquist, has a multi-million dollar film career. Following the completion of her second film, "The Sand Pebbles" ("The Group" was her first), she rejected several top roles, but accepted a part in "The Day the Fish Came Out."

Miss Bergen says she would like to write and photograph but "I just can't make up my mind on a career." She was a New York model at the age of 17, then attended the University of Pennsylvania for two years. "It's all been so hurried that I haven't had much time to think."

If you're undecided about buying a new Volvo, drive an old one. Old Volvos can tell you a lot about new Volvos. The first thing they tell you is that they hold up. In Sweden, Volvos are driven an average of 11 years. In Sweden, there are no speed limits on the highways, over 70,000 miles of unpaved roads, and driving is virtually a national pastime. An old Volvo will also tell you that new Volvos age gracefully. If you're going to be driving a car for a long time it should be a car you don't mind looking at for a long time. Of course, we still think the way a car works is more important than the way it looks. You may be disappointed that Volvos don't have four headlights, but you'll get over it quickly enough when you find out that Volvos give you nearly 25 miles to the gallon, even with automatic transmission, and gun away from every other compact in their class. Buy a Volvo, keep it a long time and don't let all those big new cars your neighbor keeps buying give you an inferiority complex. Remember, he probably still hasn't paid for one yet.

It comes in three economy sizes.

These are just some of the sizes Volkswagens come in. Regular, large and giant economy size.

The one on the right, our big bus-like box, and the one in the center, our medium sized Squareback sedan, are only about 7 inches longer than the beetle.

But don't let their size on the outside fool you about their size on the inside.

Just open a door and you'll find enough room for more than enough things.

Then there's the familiar bug.

While it's not as big as the other two Volkswagens, it has plenty of room for 4 people and a small dog. Plus a suitcase for everybody but the dog.

All three Volkswagens do everything you expect from a Volkswagen. Except look silly. One of them (the Squareback) looks exactly like a car. They have air-cooled engines in the rear that won't freeze up in the winter or boil over in the summer.

They won't use any anti-freeze and are very easy on gasoline. (The bug and the Squareback average about 27 miles on a gallon of gas. The box about 23 miles.)

And they all go about 35 to 40,000 miles on a set of tires.

So you see, no matter what size we make VWs, they're all pretty economical.

Why not come in and size one up?

A FEMININE LOOK ...At AFRICA 1967

(Commentary on a National Newspaper Association Study Mission to eight African countries south of the Sahara.)

By TRUDINA HOWARD

Tenth In A Series BACK TO IVORY COAST AND INTO GHANA

As I was saying--
Ivory Coast impressed us. It wasn't only because of the lack of TV commercials either, but more. (See Feminine Look June 1) However, there is one little drawback. It is rather expensive. Gas is about 60 cents a gallon, and hotels, dinners and cocktails run high, even as in France. It is another French-speaking city however, and not Abidjan, Ivory Coast, that has the reputation among travelers for being the most expensive city in the world; to wit: Dakar in Senegal.

On one afternoon in busy, Frenchy, expensive Abidjan, we met with the Minister of Information, M. Mathieu Ekra, and heard other interesting facts about Cote d'Ivoire, but there was one thing Monsieur Ekra couldn't tell us. Nobody could. Why is a fromager tree (cheese-maker or cheese-keeper tree) called a fromager tree? Not a single soul we asked could tell us. Nothing on the tree looks like cheese and nothing from the tree is used for cheese.

Nevertheless it is a cheese-maker tree. It is a beauty though, and it is a giant. It is also taboo to cut one down, and directly in front of our svelte Ivoire Hotel stood one. It was a noteworthy specimen, the decorative piece de resistance and the hit of the hotel guests. Nothing the owners could have purchased could have been as effective, yet they almost took it down.

The hotel is some 15 stories high and the trees are ten, so you can understand how much effect there is. But when they built the hotel, they were going to chop away the tree to put a pool on that very spot, as if there wasn't another inch of ground around.

There are only about ten dozen other acres to choose from, all free and open. Luckily, the tribe which owned the land on the lagoon that was desired for the new hotel, had more sense, or more taboo, and said, "Nope, you can't." And the only way the chief of the tribe would permit the building of the hotel at all, was with a promise to save the tree and a certain payment.

The certain payment?
ONE CASE OF SCOTCH.
The tribe still lives way down on the shores of the lagoon, the fromager tree still stands tall and straight on its spot--with the pool NEXT to it--but the certain payment undoubtedly has run out.

That tree should at least be a Scotch tree. The Minister of Information, at any rate, would then have an answer for his name.
SOMEONE IN OUR GROUP who had never met a Minister of Information before, asked "What does a Minister of Information have information on?" For that there was an answer. In this particular case, the minister was responsible for writings, speeches, pictures, radio, press, television, cinema, newspapers and magazines for the state-owned news media. In most cases it is a variation of the same theme.

Since the word "state-owned" disturbs a lot of people, the Ivory Coast Minister hastened to explain that "free enterprise was more developed in British colonies than

In French ones, and the people in the French colonies are used to state-owned news media." Anyway, they have no TV commercials. Most of the programs on television are educational, mainly teaching the people to read and write. "But there are some amusing things to keep people interested, even if there are no commercials," the minister coyly added. The Voice of America, which is transmitted from Liberia, is popular on the radio. Radio has a "leette beer" commercials and "it will soon come to television too," Mr. Ekra confessed at last.

The telephone company is owned by the government also and it costs $60 to have one phone installed and 30 francs (about 15 cents) per call after that, within the city limits of course.

With a city of 400,000 people, that could be a very large project.

Of the four million people of Ivory Coast, 65 percent are animists, 25 percent are Moslem and 10 percent Christian. Polygamy is illegal, which is not true in a great part of Africa. One fourth of the population comes from outside Ivory Coast where there is an excess of workers, mainly Upper Volta, then Guinea, Togo and Dahomey; and about 30,000 are French or European personnel, administrators, managers and businessmen.

THERE WAS ONE BIG THING we did not like in Ivory Coast, and that was having to say "no" to a very choice invitation. The Minister of Information offered us two government planes to fly 500 miles into the interior to see Bauno Game Park, and we could not go. We were due to leave for Ghana instead. It was a keen disappointment not to see the animals. They are a beautiful experience, to see, not to kill, and we had not visited any game parks on the western side of Africa.
But off we went to Ghana.

IT COULD VERY WELL be said that what Ivory Coast is, Ghana ain't. Where one nation is on the rise, the other seems on the wane. Where one reportedly is prospering, the other reportedly is going broke. There is a comparison in most everything even to the governmental officials. Even the capital cities have names which are pertinently different. Abidjan means "good morning" in some tribal tongue, and Accra means "ant." The city is riddled with ant hills. They are as high as a person and ominous looking, believe me.

Simply, Ivory Coast seems to be building and Ghana seems to be falling apart--except for the ant hills.

According to an official in Accra, Ghana's indebtedness is 778 million dollars, or on a Gross National Product basis in the U.S. that would be equal to 12 billion dollars. For a country the size of the state of Oregon with only seven million people, that is a considerable economic problem.

Some say the reason for Ghana's leanness is Nkrumah, its former president, who reportedly went away with a goodly share of Ghanaian gold. Still others say he was "not all that bad," and really did a rather good job. He just happened to be a normal politician and normal politicians do such things. Be that as it may, and for whatever reason, Ghana has an economic problem, an administrative problem, all kinds of problems-- and it shows. This does not mean to say that there are not some good things in Ghana, both in men and buildings, and perhaps in better things to come. It just sounds that way.
