Regional

He added, "There has been a marked lack of constructive criticism by the opponents. This has been killed by ill-considered and possibly illogical statements. MountainSide has supported those things the entire region has enjoyed. Now we ask the same fair treatment. We want to work constructively with all the communities in the district."

Mrs. L.S. Yablonsky of Springfield, president of the Dayton PTA and a strong supporter of the bond issue, suggested to the board, "When the time comes to decide on resubmitting the proposal, consult with interested citizens, provide help so more people will understand the issues. This will lead to less incorrect criticism."

A SPRINGFIELD COUPLE, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Starr, cautioned the board against hasty resubmission of the same proposal. Mrs. Starr urged the board to "take into account the criticism of the plan. Don't assume it all is ignorance or illegal methods."

Her husband cautioned, "The board would be in error if it attributed the defeat in Springfield to ignorance. The voters here were very well-informed." He cited the "well-considered criticism" of the bond proposal offered by the Springfield League of Women Voters.

Starr went on to say, "Last year, critics from MountainSide stirred up a hornet's nest in Springfield. They made people think Dayton was not up to standard within the region." He concluded, "The League of Women Voters in Springfield is a reasonable and knowledgeable group, and it deserves the board's consideration."

Ward urged all residents of the district to submit to him any proposals they might have for revision of the expansion plan, or reasons to account for the defeat of the bond issue.

Dr. Jones offered the final comment on the defeated proposal: "Despite the Springfield League of Women Voters, it was the anonymous leaflets and sound truck in Kenilworth that caused the defeat."

IN ITS REGULAR MEETING, the board adopted a new calendar for the coming school year which institutes one major change. For the first time, the regional high schools will be closed for three days on the Jewish holy days of Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur.

Dr. Warren Davis, superintendent of schools, commented that the increasing number of Jewish students and teachers "makes it an impossible task to conduct our regular program on these days."

Committee assignments were announced by Ward, as follows, with the chairman of each committee named first: Athletic committee, John J. Cullen of Clark and Robert W. Lockwood of Clark; buildings, grounds and planning, Mrs. Natalie R. Wald of Springfield and John E. Conlin of Garwood; curriculum, Dr. Minor C. K. Jones of MountainSide and W. Robert Powers of Berkeley Heights.

Legal and finance, Powers and Cullen; public relations, Dr. Jones and Dr. Benjamin H. Josephson of Springfield; safety and health, Dr. Josephson and Mrs. Wald; supply and equipment, Conlin and Mrs. Wald; teachers, Lockwood and Edwin Little of Berkeley Heights; transportation, Little and Conlin.

THE BOARD APPROVED rental of an IBM 1620 computer at a rate of $6,240 for next year. It will be used for a term of instruction in computer programming at A.L. Johnson Regional in Clark and a term at Dayton, as well as after-school club activity and the adult schools.

After some discussion, the board approved payment of $2,000 for the year for special education for a girl from Clark at the Our Lady of Grace Training School, Morristown, where she had been placed by the Union County Juvenile Court. Several members questioned the legality of paying tuition for a child at a sectarian school, even though the special education program there had been approved by state authorities as nonreligious in nature.

Dr. Davis reported progress in efforts to have the N.J. Department of Transportation leave the Nike base road through the Watchung Reservation, despite construction of Rt. 78. The road provides a link between MountainSide and the Gov. Livingston School in Berkeley Heights.

Garden Club highlights table settings at meeting

PROFILE -- James R. Root

Col. Root, who works "about 60 hours a week," explained that he has "three other offices--the ITT, Curtis Wright and Bendix Corp. They are subordinate to these headquarters. I have 20 of the largest contractors. And that's 20 out of 1,000," he smiled.

The products contracted for by Root include aluminum, electronic equipment, electronic supplies, research and development materials, missile guidance equipment, pharmaceuticals, electrical motors, specialized clothing and textiles, radar and associated equipment, military overcoats, electronic tubes, propellants and ammunition, rubber products and pump compressors.

"New Jersey," said Col. Root, "is 46th in size and seventh in manufacturing. Over New Jersey's highways flows the world's greatest concentration of traffic. There are more than 200,000,000 (trucks) interstate crossings each year."

Col. Root said that "here at DCASD---we live in a world of alphabets---we employ 1,038 people with an annual payroll in excess of nine million dollars. And the total value of contracts runs about 2.6 billion dollars."

COL. ROOT then proceeded to take the reporter (pass in hand) on a brief tour of the central building. He explained that the central headquarters had moved from Newark several years ago.

We walked up and down corridors, past private, partitioned-off offices and a large round central room with lots of typewriters, desks, men and women, past the infirmary, special switchboard room, and the snack room (operated by blind people). Col. Root said, "we are quite self-sufficient." It was an impressive tour.

Col. Root, who was born in 1917 in Pittsburgh, Pa., received his commission as an ordnance officer, U.S. Army, at Aberdeen, Md., on Sept. 5, 1942.

He transferred from ordnance to the Air Corps in 1943.

During his USAF career, he served as an ordnance officer, executive officer, director of supply and services, and wing and division material officer. Col. Root is a graduate of ordnance training at Aberdeen, Md.; Air Tactical School at Tyndall, AFB, Florida; Air Command and Staff College and Air War College at Maxwell AFB, Ala.

Col. Root served overseas in England, France, Belgium and Germany. He was awarded the Bronze Star and the European African Middle East Medal, with six battle stars.

The colonel is married to the former Beatrice Barth of Pittsburgh, and they have three children: Barth, who is at the University of Texas in a Navy ROTC program; Cherie, a senior at Governor Livingston High School in Berkeley Heights, and John, who is a freshman at the high school.

Col. Root explained that prior to coming to live at 1075 Charles st. in MountainSide, he and his family lived in San Antonio, Tex.

Everyone seems to have adjusted to the change, as far as the colonel is concerned.

Not only should Boston sustain its strength in Carl Yastrzemski and Jim Lonborg and the host of talented youngsters who have matured in experience and strength, but the influx of talented rookies into the Sox training camps indicate a well balanced, winning team. We'll pick them to repeat.

Opposing teams will have a tough roster at Boston to contend with, among them George Scott and Joe Fay to give power at the infield corners, Mike Andrews and Rico Petrocelli who are sold in the middle and Jerry Adair and Dalton Jones to stand by with top reserve protection. For an early spray during this month, we can then use high viscosity spray oil which is most effective and yet absolutely harmless to humans as well as our birds. The scale insects infect trees which will decay beyond any means of help later on. Don't let this happen to your trees that are the source of enjoyment year after year. # Urge public involvement in conservation education

A call for greater involvement of New Jersey citizens in conservation education efforts was issued this week by Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development in conjunction with this week's celebration of National Wildlife Week.

Conservation education is being emphasized during Wildlife Week this year, with the theme, "Learn to Live with Nature." State chairmen for the observance are William Meyer of Edgewater Park and David G. Dean of Colts Neck, on behalf of the New Jersey State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, State affiliate of the National Wildlife Federation.

Commissioner Roe said, "Opportunities for meaningful action abound, with government agencies and many private organizations conducting meaningful conservation education programs. The threats of pollution, litter and waste of natural resources make it a vital necessity that people learn to live with nature—not in spite of it.

"The recent honor accorded Dr. Eugene Vivian of New Jersey's Glassboro State College as National Conservation Educator of the Year demonstrates the kind of cooperative effort being made by the State Departments of Conservation and Education and many School Districts.

HE WAS AWARDED a whooping crane statuette by the National Wildlife Federation, having previously received the State Award from the Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs.

"Dr. Vivian conducted teacher workshops involving some 40 southern New Jersey School Districts, resulting in more than 40 classes spending a week in the Pine Barrens for study of natural history, ecology and conservation principles. He will direct a permanent Conservation and Environmental Science Center for southern New Jersey.

"He was a prime mover in establishment of the State School of Conservation in Stokes State Forest. Nearly all students at the six State Colleges participate in this program, co-sponsored by the Departments of Education and Conservation, so that they begin their teaching careers with an awareness of the out-of-doors. Facilities are also available for school and camp groups.

"Teacher workshops are an increasingly effective means of imparting basic knowledge of natural resources to instructors whose daily classroom contacts enable them to communicate most effectively with the younger generation. Besides Dr. Vivian's efforts, the Conservation Department and the Rutgers Cooperative Extension Service are active in arranging such programs, as explained in the October 1967 issue of New Jersey Outdoors, Robert Hanna of the Extension Service, who was named New Jersey Conservation Educator of 1966, has compiled kits of teaching materials on conservation.

"PARENTS CAN ENCOURAGE their school districts to participate in a teacher workshop or similar conservation program. Some Districts have established their own outdoor education camp programs to help youngsters learn to live with nature.

"Many private organizations make valuable contributions in this field. Besides the Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, these include Scout Councils, 4-H groups, camps, watershed associations and groups dedicated to a particular cause or area. Typical of these efforts is the work of Mrs. Hermina Lechner of the South Branch Watershed Association, named in 1965 as the first New Jersey Conservation Educator of the Year by the Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs.

"Resource personnel from the Department of Conservation and Economic Development participate in many of these projects, particularly experts from the Division of Fish and Game and the Division of Forestry, Parks and Recreation. Wildlife Week is an occasion for this Department to pledge an ever greater effort to encourage, assist and coordinate programs aimed at stimulating public awareness of man's dependence on our natural resources."

Proper care and pruning of shrubbery will be demonstrated by James Corradi with the use of live plants and the correct tools.

Parkway is 1st in safety

The Garden State Parkway is again No. 1 in the land. The New Jersey Highway Authority this week reported that final safety statistics for 1967 from the National Safety Council have stamped the Parkway with the lowest fatality rate of 0.93 per 100 million miles of travel as traffic deaths dropped to 17—including three pedestrians—despite substantial increases in the number of vehicles using it and the distance they rode.

The Parkway was previously rated tops in such super-highway safety for 1956, 1957, 1960, 1961 and 1963. It was second in 1958 and 1965. Full operation of the basic Parkway started in mid-1955.

In 1967, the Parkway carried an estimated volume of 129,648,000 vehicles for a total travel distance of 1,824 billion miles. These were respectively some 4 and 5.5 per cent above the marks in 1966, when 30 traffic deaths occurred on the 173-mile Parkway.

The National Safety Council's statistics for the 12 months of 1967 showed the listing of fatality rates that among major toll roads the Illinois Tollway (1.1) and the Connecticut Turnpike (1.4) were next behind the Garden State Parkway (0.9).

Among all toll roads regardless of length and usage, only the Mountain and Western Parkways in Kentucky and the Hutchinson River Parkway in New York—each of which had less than 150-million miles of travel last year—recorded lower fatality rates than the GSP.

Dakar organizes literacy program

A literacy program, part of a larger project for women's education, has been organized at the Centre of Dakar, a district of Dakar. During 1966-67, 218 women took courses at the center, and 180 more in other districts of the city.

The students are taught in classes of 15 to 20 by volunteers, mainly young men and girls between 18 and 25. These volunteer teachers are given a short introductory training course, and then take charge of one group for a whole year, or sometimes even two years. Some of the volunteers have already been teaching illiterates for four years.

$3 billion master plan for N.J. transportation proposed

Transportation Commissioner David J. Goldberg this week announced the Department's first Master Plan for Transportation in New Jersey. The plan recommends a 10-year program for meeting the first priority capital needs in highways and public transportation. Using a combination of bond funds and regular State appropriations, it provides for $1.4 billion in non-Interstate highway construction, $375 million for public transportation improvements and $150 million in additional State Aid for local roads.

To cover the gap between the revenues anticipated from regular sources, Goldberg has recommended a three-stage bond issue totalling $1.2 billion over the next 10 years. The proposal outlined to Governor Hughes and legislative representatives of both parties would authorize issuance of the bonds in separate installments of $400 million each and would be completely amortized by a one-cent increase in the State gasoline tax in 1969 and another one-cent hike in the tax in 1974.

Goldberg presented his recommendation in a highly detailed 128-page report stressing the urgency and magnitude of problems confronting the Transportation Department. The Transportation Act of 1966, which brought the Department into being, requires the Commissioner to develop and maintain a comprehensive master plan.

The Commissioner proposed that the entire bond proposal be authorized at one time and that the $400 million installments be scheduled as follows: the first, or part of it, including $100 million for public transportation, this Dec. 1; the second, or part of it, including remainder of funds for public transportation, Jan. 1, 1971; and the final, Jan. 1, 1974.

"THE ACTION PROGRAM recommended, while large, is no larger than the problem it seeks to handle," Commissioner Goldberg said in a preface to the Master Plan. "If this program is adopted, the Department is prepared to state that substantial progress can be made in solving New Jersey's chronic transportation problems, and that the cost will be more than justified in terms of improved safety, increased economic activity and greater comfort for the traveling public."

The Commissioner emphasized the importance of the decision facing the people of New Jersey.

"If there is to be an answer to growing traffic congestion and the deteriorating service on our railroads, the Department of Transportation believes that it must be provided by New Jerseyans. There is no reason to believe that a program of the magnitude discussed in this report can or will be paid for by the Federal government or any other outside source."

"The issue, therefore, is whether New Jersey wants the transportation improvements mentioned in this report badly enough to pay for them. The alternative is to do without them."

State highway construction needs total approximately $2.75 billion, the Master Plan states. Of this amount, about $1.5 billion falls into a top priority and should be built within the next 10 years. About one-third of this amount would be used to construct important freeway and other highway facilities in communities like Newark, Paterson, Camden and Trenton. The rest would enable the Department to carry out urgent suburban improvements like the Rt. 24 Freeway in Morris County and the Rt. 18 Freeway in Monmouth County, as well as improving such existing key arteries as Routes 1, 206 and 45.

The $2.75 billion estimate of needed highway improvements does not include the cost of Interstate System routes. The Department believes the Federal Government is committed to the cost of these projects.

The non-Interstate highway needs are broken down to $1,545,400,000 worth of projects in "first priority" and $1,217,700,000 in "second priority."

In the public transportation area the plan recommends a $325 million capital improvement program which would permit complete modernization and reequipment of commuter facilities in the most populous sections of the state in five to six years.

This would permit electrification where necessary, provide new high speed air conditioned commuter cars and improve parking and station facilities. Included in the $325 million total would be about $92 million for elimination of hazardous grade crossings.

It is further suggested that over the next 10 years $50 million be allocated for additional bus and transit improvements and modest capital projects in the aviation area.

New Jersey, the most densely populated state in the nation, is expected in the coming generation to have a 50 percent increase in population, a 75 percent increase in automobiles and more than a doubling of its highway traffic, the plan notes.

The importance of prompt action is stressed. "It is unlikely that the highway and railroad improvements discussed in this report can ever be provided at a cost below our present estimates. The longer we wait the more we will have to pay," the reports says.

The "Highway Transportation in New Jersey" study conducted by the Department for Wilbur Smith and Associates which was released this week with the Commissioner's Master Plan, indicates the need for a substantial program for assistance to counties and municipalities for local road programs. The Department's master plan proposal, if adopted, would finance from existing and increased State Aid programs a local road construction program of almost $2 billion during the 20-year period discussed in the Wilbur Smith report.

The Master Plan report cites the woeful inadequacy of present funds to finance the plan. In highways most of the Federal funds now available are dedicated to completion of the Interstate System which originally was to have been completed by 1972. Because of a shortage of Federal funds, the earliest completion date for the nationwide system is now expected to be 1975. Thus, the Department does not anticipate any substantial Federal financial aid for non-Interstate programs before 1976.

For all non-Interstate highway construction, the most the Federal government can expect to provide is $175 million, a sum which must be matched by State appropriations. Thus, if New Jersey expects a non-Interstate construction program costing more than $350 million for the next decade, it must provide this revenue from its own sources.

The highway program recommended contemplates the construction of 493 miles of new freeways. It is estimated that by the time the final mile of this freeway system is opened, it could save more than 500 lives, prevent more than 70,000 injuries, and avoid more than $1.3 billion in the total cost of accidents.

The report declares that the key to success of the bond proposal is a single vote on the entire fund total.

"Cutting the program into two or three steps would cost most of the benefits that could otherwise be expected. The Department's planning process suffers now from lack of certainty regarding future availability of funds. This would persist since legislative approval would be required again on one or two additional occasions in the next 10 years to say nothing of the uncertainty of the referendum process."

The staging of the bond issue as permitting "subsequent Legislatures and Governors to have a direct say in the final allocation of the funds." The staging was also viewed as insuring "a continuing re-evaluation of the program so that necessary revisions of priorities could be made from time to time."

Computers aid study

The role which a computer can play in the detailed study of literature will be discussed at a Congress of the International Federation for Information Processing to be held in Edinburgh, Scotland, from Oct. 5-10.

Among the world's 4,000 leading designers and users who will attend will be the Rev. Andrew Morton, a Scottish minister who is one of the foremost experts in this field. His current work includes supervising the Homer project—an examination by the major British universities of the last book of the Odyssey and a part of the Iliad. Some scholars think these are late additions to the renowned poems.

Morton will discuss the problems of authorship, dating and relationship of old writings and will explain how computer analysis can be used to compare works of disputed origin with those known to have been written by a particular author. With this type of examination, it has been proved that a writer's style changes little over the years and idiosyncrasies and stylistic rhythms can be detected in the earliest and latest of his works.

The IFIP is an international organization formed in 1959 to provide a link between the various information processing communities of the world and to help the development of the information sciences. (UNESCO FEATURES)

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
What can I do about a cousin who willingly bet for me especially after he had convinced me that he would help me to win. He did this just to make me angry at him? Out Ratted serious and that he was too young to get married.

What should I do? Break up with him or trust that he still loves me? He is 20 years old.

Dear Amy:
Do Nothing. This should teach you that a wager can be lost in more ways than won by talking about it.

Dear Amy:
I leave nothing to trust. He is probably right. You need more "he's" in your life, and he needs more "she's"!

Dear Amy:
Why is it that everytime you women get together you always wind up the conversation by talking about men?

Dear Amy:
My husband told our five-year-old that everything in our home belongs to all of us. I disagree with him because I feel they will take over, use anything or play with anything that they have a mind to. After all, some things are personal and that means "hands off" unless they have permission. He says he wants them to learn to share, and I say sharing and using anything in the house are two different things. Isn't that right? I'm afraid this will become more of a problem as the children grow older, therefore, I'm asking you to help me.

Dear Amy:
Don't knock it. What do men usually wind up talking about...huh!

Dear Amy:
I agree with you both to a degree. The definition of sharing is "to use and enjoy jointly." I doubt that your children will "take over" if they are taught to respect personal property and to share community property. Both of you set an example for them by practicing what you preach, and above all, preach from the same set of rules!

Dear Amy:
I am 17 years old and have been going steady for a year. We planned on getting married when I finished school. Now the "he" in my life has told all my friends that we have broken up because I was getting too

Dear Amy:
My name is Carol and I'm a married woman. When I was very young, my parents nicknamed me "Cookie." As I grew up, everyone called me "Cookie." I didn't mind when I was young and single, but now that I am married and have children of my own, I resent "Cookie" very much. When I tell my husband, my family and friends to please call me Carol, they laugh and say they can't because I'm just plain old "Cookie" to them. I don't like it and want to know how I can change this?

First National State Bank of New Jersey -- the state's largest commercial bank -- began offering a new savings investment certificate Monday with the five percent interest rate guaranteed for eight years.
Robert R. Ferguson Jr., president, said that the new certificates of deposit "give to the New Jersey public protection in a fluctuating market against any possibility of falling rates by guaranteeing the interest rate for eight years. At the same time, the investor will be able to take advantage of any increase in rates by having the right to withdraw his money on 90-day anniversaries at full interest."
The new certificates will pay five percent compounded daily. This means that when held to maturity they will yield an average annual rate of 6.1 percent.

Rider dean issues anti-drug statement in wake of articles

Rider College's policy outlawing the distribution or use of narcotics and dangerous drugs by students has been formalized in writing.
James M. McRoberts, dean of students, said this week the action was taken in the wake of recent investigations into the use of marijuana by a "small group" of Rider students and an article in the college newspaper contending that a survey showed five to 10 percent of the 3,500 Rider students had tried marijuana.

The policy statement reaffirms that "student participation in the distribution, possession, use or misuse of dangerous drugs or narcotics on or off the Rider College campus will be considered sufficient basis for immediate dismissal."
The statement was prepared in conjunction with the 11-member faculty-student committee on discipline. McRoberts said the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators had suggested that such a step be taken by all colleges.

Classified by the statement as being in the dangerous category are barbiturates and amphetamines without prescription, hallucinogens, cocaine, morphine, heroin, marijuana and cocaine. It also cites the illegality of the use or possession of the drugs without prescription.
The statement further details dangers in the use of the listed drugs and narcotics and says the "escape from reality and responsibility" that the drugs may provide "is diametrically opposed to the very purpose of Rider College which is to enlighten young men and women and prepare them to carry responsibility."

Pointing out that the reasons for the written policy should be obvious, the statement says that the rationale is stated "in the fervent hope that any student who is considering drug experimentation might be further discouraged."
The faculty-student committee on discipline is composed of five faculty members, three members of the college administration,

LUCIA EVANGELISTA

Lucia Evangelista will star in Opera Theatre's 'Butterfly'

Opera Theatre of New Jersey announced this week that Lucia Evangelista, lyric soprano, will sing the title role in its production of Puccini's "Madama Butterfly" on April 19 and 20 at 8:15 p.m. in the Westfield High School auditorium.

Alfredo Sillipigni will be conductor and Ricardo Moresco stage director.

Miss Evangelista is from Genoa, Italy. She studied voice at the Verdi Conservatory and made her debut as Mimi in "La Boheme." Her following year La Scala Opera Company in Milan engaged her.

She arrived in the United States twenty years ago to sing with the New York City Center Opera Company, and has sung in practically all of America's major cities.

In 1951 she met Jerome Hines while they were both performing in Cincinnati and they were married a year later.

Maestro Sillipigni of West Orange has directed opera at the Opera Festival in Caracas, Venezuela; New York Opera Festival; Connecticut Opera Association, and the Brooklyn Opera Company.

Also in the cast are: Ann Britz of Westfield as Suzuki; Regina Matysek of Mountain-side as Kate Pinkerton; Arthur Lloyd of Westfield as Prince Yamadori and the Imperial Commissioner; Phillip W. Alderman of Watchung as the Official Registrar; Frank Brautigam of Kendall Park as The Bonze;

THE SUNNY SIDE
Life will always be more pleasant if one tries to follow the advice of the song and always walk on the sunny side of the street.
Those who search for gloom will always find it. Generally, they fail to see the many bright spots along the way.
Life on this earth will never be perfect, for any of us. There are good days and bad days. The trouble is that we often forget the good times when trouble looms on the horizon. We anticipate the worst and, in so doing, we see a darker picture and ignore a light of hope.
Some of us expect so much that we must be disappointed. We sit on the sidelines and wait for good fortune to come our way, when we should be on our feet, doing something.
Work and effort point the way to the bright road. Whatever happens, whatever needs doing, go forth with a strong will to do the very best that you can to see that things go as right as they possible can. Do this, and you'll always walk on the sunny side of life.

$200 million paid veterans, dependents in state in 1967

New Jersey veterans and their families received a total of $199,862,773 in cash benefits and services from the Veterans Administration during the past fiscal year, Paul M. Nugent, manager of the New Jersey regional office at Newark, announced this week.

Largest cash benefits were $127,761,580 in compensation and pension checks paid to 110,587 New Jersey living veterans and dependents of 42,668 deceased veterans, Nugent said.

The VA pays compensation for disabilities incurred in military service and pensions for totally disabled war veterans whose disability is not service connected and to certain dependents of deceased war veterans, he said. GI insurance policyholders and their beneficiaries in New Jersey received $33,704,451 in dividends and indemnity payments.

The 139 New Jersey veterans who trained in VA's vocational rehabilitation program in 1967 to overcome the handicaps of their service-incurred disabilities, received $262,226 in subsistence, tuition and school supplies allowances, Nugent said.

Also, a total of 349 sons and daughters of deceased or totally disabled New Jersey veterans received $355,139 in educational allowances under the GI Bill.

Housing grants for paraplegics amounted to $170,000 in New Jersey, and $22,400 was spent for automobiles and other conveyances for severely disabled veterans.

Administrative costs and miscellaneous benefits accounted for the remainder of the expenditures by the Veterans Administration in Jersey during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1967.

Computer is opera 'hero'

An avant-garde composer and a nuclear physicist have co-operated in the creation of an unusual opera "The Legend of the Great Computer," to be mounted at the Royal Opera House, Stockholm.

The composer, Karl-Birger Blomdahl, created a stir some years ago with his "cosmic opera" entitled "Antara." The libretto of his latest work is based on a novel by Hannes Alfvén, professor of nuclear physics at the Stockholm Polytechnic Institute. It is a satirical vision of what would happen if the Great Computer were one day to take power.

discover that humanity was useless and try to eliminate it. The novel, which had an immediate success in Sweden when it appeared in 1966, was in turn developed from a story written by Prof. Alfvén for his five-year-old grandson.

A motorist can check his automobile stop lights regularly by a simple method described by the American Automobile Association. Place a small mirror or a bright tin can lid on the inner doorpost of the garage on the driver's side. When he drives in to put the car away, a glance backward after coming to a stop, or a glance into the rear view mirror, should show a red glow when he depresses the brake pedal.

ROBERT B. MEYNER

Former Governor Robert B. Meyner will moderate a panel discussion on "Crime in the Streets" Friday, May 3, at the Connecticut Farms School, Union. Meyner is a member of the Governor's Committee on Civil Disorders.

Five prominent persons will appear on the panel "to present their special knowledge of crisis conditions now apparent in metropolitan centers throughout the country," Mrs. Lynn Downie, secretary of Union County Open Forum, said. The forum is sponsoring the discussion, which is open to the public.

Panelists will include Vincent Broderick, former New York City police commissioner; Frank N. McDermott, recently elected New Jersey Senate majority leader; Marshall Brown, president of the Plainfield NAACP; Herbert Romerstein, investigator for the House Committee on Un-American Activities, and Dominick Spina, director of police in Newark.

"Governor Meyner as moderator will lead the panel seeking knowledgeable opinions from forum speakers and will encourage audience reaction as an important factor in the discussion as to how the current American crisis in crime can be solved," Mrs. Downie said.

Tickets are $2 and are available by mail from the Union County Open Forum, 600 Lehigh dr., Westfield.

"Supported by private sponsors and modest admission charges, the forum is non-partisan in presenting differing and divergent views on crucial issues of the day," Mrs. Downie said. "It has presented, among others, Dr. Max Rafferty, controversial superintendent of public instruction in California and now a candidate for the U. S. Senate, Dr. Rafferty spoke to a capacity audience on contemporary public school policy and objectives and the fallacy of much of modern progressive ideology in education.

Increase humidity for safety

Did you know that your house and home furnishings can be damaged by excessive dryness during the cold winter months, asked Carolyn F. Yuknus, Senior County Home economist. Symptoms of this condition are sparks flying when you touch anything, clinging dust that is difficult to remove, having to vacuum the same area several times to pick up lint and pet hairs, splitting of carpet backing, and loose rungs and joints in chairs and tables.

Lack of humidity in heated homes can contribute to real damage to home furnishings during the winter.

A normal amount of moisture in the air is necessary to keep materials and woods from drying out and becoming brittle, and to keep static electricity at a minimum.

Modern humidifiers are now installed in many homes to impart moisture into the heated atmosphere of a home and this makes the air more comfortable, and cleaning easier.

Lacking a humidifier, the level of moisture can be increased by other satisfactory but less convenient methods.

Additional plants requiring frequent watering or growing in water will help but will not be the complete answer.

If radiators are the type that have a special water tank attached, it will be important to keep these tanks filled with water.

For recessed radiators, it is possible to keep low pans of water under the radiators to create moisture.

Some heating systems have water tanks attached. These should be checked regularly to maintain a level of water.

Even in the coldest weather some fresh air should enter the house to improve the humidity level.

Preparation of meals that include boiling or simmering foods will help the humidity level in the immediate area of the kitchen.

Static electricity cannot injure anyone under these conditions, it is merely uncomfortable. But it is one indicator that damage to furnishings can be done because of lack of humidity.

It may be less grand than most station wagons. But it's also about a grand less.

If you're looking for a miniature moving van, our Squareback Sedan isn't it. Even with its back-seat folded down it only holds half as much as the average station wagon.

Which means you can't lug 30 pieces of luggage. Or a full-sized double bed. But maybe you just need a car that can carry 15 valises. Or a full-sized single bed. Then you can save a lot of money with a Squareback Sedan.

It costs only $2349.*

And it not only goes for less than most conventional wagons to begin with, it keeps on going for less.

A Squareback can get as much as 27 miles on a gallon of gas. It takes 5 pints of oil instead of 5 quarts. It never needs an ounce of anti-freeze, because it's cooled by air. And it avoids repair bills like a... well, like a Volkswagen.

So before you go out and buy some station wagon that has twice as much space as you really need, ask yourself this question:

Will all that extra grandness be worth an extra grand?

COMING UP-The unique and individual humor of Ernie Kovacs is something you dig or you don't. There surely was no funnier moment in the history of television than the time Ernie opened a copy of "Camille" and a dry cough was heard.

Miss Redgrave stars at Bellevue

Vanessa Redgrave, who stars as Queen Guenevere in the Lerner-Lowe musical, "Camelot," currently sweeping across the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair, came into her own as an actress when she appeared in British films, "Morgan" and "Blow-Up."

Both pictures won some Oscars, and "Camelot" is a contender for five Academy Awards. Miss Redgrave (of whom "Camelot" director Joshua Logan says "...is the answer to our industry") comes from a family of actors. She is the daughter of Sir Michael Redgrave and Rachel Kempson, and sister to Lynn Redgrave and Corin Redgrave.

Starring with Miss Redgrave in "Camelot" are Richard Harris as King Arthur, Franco Nero as Sir Lancelot, David Hemmings as Mordred, Lionel Jeffries as King Pellinore, Laurence Naughton as Merlin and Pierre Oud as Dip.

'Newcomer' begins fourth year in films

Katharine Ross, who stars with Anne Bancroft and Dustin Hoffman in "The Graduate" (which was nominated for seven Oscars) now in its eighth smash week at the Milburn Cinema in Millburn, starred in 11 top television shows and five major films in the first three years of her career.

Her movies include "Shenandoah," "The Singing Nun," "Maister Budding" and "Games."

Daughter of former U. S. Navy Lieutenant Dudley Ross and Katharine Ross, the young actress became interested in the theater when she joined the San Francisco Theater Workshop, a noted repertory company. She then appeared in several television segments, was initially under contract to MCM, then signed with Universal.

Prof's oppose changes in admissions policies

Say state college standard 'tends to cater to intellectually elite'

The Association of New Jersey State College Faculties this week made public a report opposing recent changes in admissions policies at the six State Colleges.

The Association -- made up of professors at the six State Colleges -- is "deeply concerned about the far-reaching implications of the proposed policy on the future of the State Colleges and upon the youth of the state," says the report.

Adoption of the policy, the report charges, "is not, apparently, supported by reputable research."

"Particularly objectionable" is a requirement that 14 of the 19 high school credits required for admission be in "college preparatory subjects," says the report.

"This requirement will essentially restrict and thus make the high school curriculum unnecessarily rigid in terms of curriculum options and courses available to students," says the report.

"The standard is artificially high and will prevent many capable students from entering college."

The report also charges that the policy "tends to cater to the intellectually elite" and "will seriously reduce the number of students admitted to college from lower socio-economic groups."

"It is regressive in that it means movement against the trend to broaden educational opportunity."

The policy change may deny admission to capable students previously enrolled in vocational high schools or programs, the report says. It may also deny admission to students with special talents and aptitudes, who fail to take a prescribed program, and who discover late in their high school careers that they have the ability and desire to go to college.

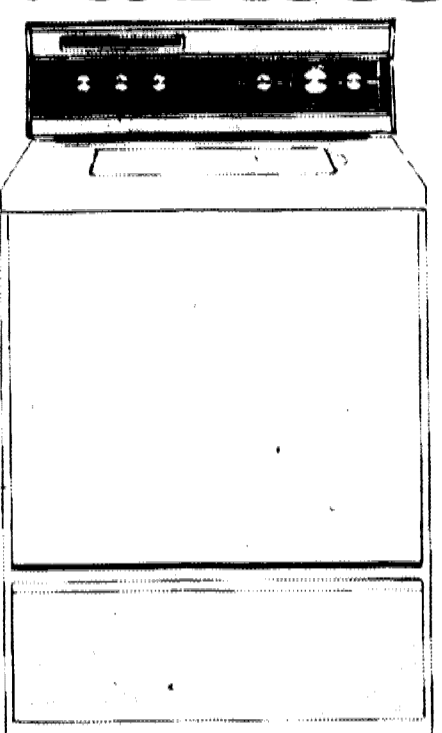

The report refutes widely published claims that the 1956 Legislature intended the six State Colleges to be "liberal arts" colleges. The actual wording of the legislation, the booklet reports, says the State Colleges must provide "higher education in the liberal arts and sciences and various professional areas including the science of education and the art of teaching."

To end "confusion" about this point, the report recommends, the State Colleges should be described as "multi-purpose" rather than "liberal arts" schools.

Prepared by the Association's admissions policies committee and approved by its executive committee, the report contains 28 pages reviewing research studies, done over the past 30 years, on the effect high school courses have on later success in college. Most of the studies show little or no such relationship.

Tipsy driver campaign nets 111 on parkway in six months

New Jersey Highway Authority reported this week that 24 of the arrests in the six-month period resulted from alerts by Parkway toll collectors as they observe passing drivers.

The 111 arrests between Aug. 13 and Feb. 12 represented more than a three-fold increase over the total for the comparable six-month period of 1966-67.

Commissioner O'Connor, who is Authority Secretary-treasurer and a former Judge in Union County, said the special campaign would continue unabated with toll collectors and other Parkway staff members contributing to the State Police vigil for impaired and drunken drivers on the road.

A key to the stepped-up vigil has been the accentuated efforts of Parkway collectors to detect unfit drivers as they pass through toll lanes and to report such suspects immediately to State Police by radio relay.

The intensified program was undertaken and announced last August after a series of incidents involving unfit drivers, including a serious accident in which a car operated by a tipsy motorist struck and critically injured a man on duty at a Parkway toll plaza.

Commissioner O'Connor noted that alcoholic drinking was a factor in half of the 16 fatal accidents on the Parkway during 1967.

remember when you stopped driving home a point?

Opening a can is safer and easier when you do it with electricity. But hasn't the cost of electricity skyrocketed, like everything else? Definitely not! While the cost of living has risen 120% in 25 years, the average cost of electricity has gone down 45%, thanks to increased usage and rate reductions. Of course, electric bills are higher. But when you think how many modern electrical appliances you use in your home today, you'll realize that it's still your best bargain.
