OFFICE OF THE VICE PRESIDENT
WASHINGTON

Mr. Robert H. Brunell
Advertising Manager
Suburban Publishing Corp.
1291 Stuyvesant Avenue
Union, New Jersey

Dear Mr. Brunell:

The President and I wish to congratulate you on your prompt and imaginative response to the Youth Opportunity Campaign.

By encouraging high school students to place free "situation wanted" advertisements in your 8 newspapers and by informing the public of the importance of the summer job program, you are helping greatly in the campaign to provide work for American youths.

As you know, more youngsters in the 16 through 21 year old age group are seeking jobs this summer than ever before. Your action must give to many in the New Jersey area better hope of obtaining meaningful temporary employment.

You have set a splendid example to communities across the nation by meeting the President's appeal in a manner best suited to your particular medium. We hope that other newspapers in other areas will follow your lead in this case, and that private organizations everywhere will participate in the Youth Opportunity Campaign.

President Johnson and I share with what I'm sure are many grateful youngsters, a deep appreciation for your help.

Sincerely,

Hubert H. Humphrey

State offers housing relocation manual

The state's first housing relocation manual has been prepared by Paul N. Ylvisaker, state community affairs commissioner, it was announced today.

The new manual, which has been filed with the Secretary of State's office, is designed to protect persons and businesses displaced from their homes or premises by government programs. It was prepared by the Department's Bureau of Relocation Assistance after consultation with housing relocation experts from New Jersey redevelopment authorities and consumer and community action groups.

The State Transportation Department is exempted from the provisions of the law but is required to prepare and implement a Relocation Assistance Program "in general conformity" with the provisions of the act and the manual.

The manual also includes recommendations made by several community representatives at a special public hearing held in Newark, March 29. Claude Miller, director of the Department's Division of Housing and Urban Renewal, presided at the hearing.

Commissioner Ylvisaker said the new manual, patterned on the policies of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), was authorized under provisions of the Relocation Assistance Law of 1967, signed by the Governor last May. The law spells out protective guarantees for persons or businesses forced to move because of the actions of state, local or county governments.

Such actions include acquiring real property for public use, implementing a law enforcement program such as a fire, safety, or housing code, and initiating voluntary housing rehabilitation projects. Under the law, the Community Affairs Commissioner is required to promulgate rules and regulations to implement the act.

Commissioner Ylvisaker emphasized that the Federal government provides relocation aid for people displaced by its programs, such as urban renewal, highways or code enforcement. He said the newly promulgated Relocation Manual provides similar aid for New Jerseyans displaced by state and local government.

It is estimated that about 2,000 families and 300 businesses a year are forced to relocate without federal aid in New Jersey.

AMONG THE NEW RULES state and local agencies must now follow are:

- a Workable Relocation Assistance Program must be formulated and implemented before a project can proceed,
- the program must be submitted to the Community Affairs Commissioner for his approval, certifying that adequate and sufficient housing is available to the displaced, within their financial means, convenient to community services and their jobs. The agency also must certify that relocation to other housing "will not reinforce local patterns of residential segregation on the basis of race or national origin" and must give priority to families of five or more, to individuals 62 years old or over and to the physically or mentally handicapped.
- a site relocation office must be opened within the area to help implement the program.
- a "strong and beneficial" community services program must be developed with residents of the area "in an effort to ease their residential transition."

The manual says the Workable Relocation Assistance Program would include, at the minimum, information and social services, data on the housing supply available, assistance in finding new quarters, relocation assistance payments and timetables governing them, and maximum coordination with other project activities. Local government units also are required to appoint a relocation officer to develop and implement the plan.

UNDER THE LAW, the state agency or local government is required to give relocation payments for actual and reasonable moving expenses. These would amount to as much as $200 for an individual or family, $3,000 for a business or non-profit organization and $4,000 to the operator of a farm.

The manual includes these figures but adds a provision giving relocated residents the option of accepting a fixed payment based on the number of rooms they occupy. Fixed payments would range from $40 for a one-room apartment to $200 for nine rooms or more.

Under the law, the relocation payments apply only to people not eligible for aid under other state or federal laws.

The law also guarantees a hearing before the Commissioner for any displaced party who feels he has not been fairly treated. The Commissioner is empowered to approve, modify or rescind the action complained of at the hearing. The manual sets timetables governing the hearing procedure.

Copies of the Relocation Manual are available from Miss June Moore, chief, Bureau of Relocation Assistance, Division of Housing and Urban Renewal, Department of Community Affairs, Box 2768, Trenton, 08625.

Lifeguard positions at state parks open; testing dates slated

Applications are being accepted for lifeguard positions at the various state-owned ocean-front parks and inland recreation areas, the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development announced this week.

Conservation Commissioner Robert A. Roe said the positions are open to both New Jersey and out-of-state residents age 16 or over. "Successful applicants will receive a minimum rate of $1.80 per hour and have an average 40 hour work week for a period extending from May 30 through Labor Day," Commissioner Roe added.

E. Fenton Carey, supervisor of water safety for the Conservation Department, noted that the testing procedure comprises a 200-yard swim from shore to a marker buoy and return; a simulated rescue at the same distance, towing a torpedo buoy and line; the application of artificial resuscitation; a 200-yard sprint on the beach; and an interview in the presence of the beach captain and senior lifeguard.

"Instructions will be given in the use of belt, buoy and harness prior to testing. Applicants should bring a swim suit, warm clothing, towels, food, hot beverages and plan to spend an entire day at the respective test facility," Carey commented.

Tests will begin promptly at 9 a.m. as follows:

- For North Jersey inland area positions - Swartswood State Park, Saturday, May 18 (Rain date - May 25)
- For South Jersey inland areas - Bass River

State Forest, Sunday, May 19 (Rain date - May 26)

For Sandy Hook State Park - Island Beach State Park, Sunday, June 2 (Rain date - June 9)

New Jersey State Lifeguards participate in a summer-long organized program of physical conditioning, including calisthenics, swimming, running, rowing, surfing, first aid and water safety instruction.

Applications may be obtained from the Supervisor of Water Safety, Bureau of Parks, N.J. Department of Conservation and Economic Development, Labor and Industry Building, Box 1889, Trenton, N.J. 08625.

FAMILY POT LUCK

BY HELEN HALE

Stuffed eggs are most everybody's favorite, are easy to prepare. Hard-cook number of eggs required. Cool in cold water, shell and cut eggs in half lengthwise. Remove the yolks and place in mixing bowl. Add mayonnaise and pickle relish. Season to taste and stuff each egg. For extra appeal, top with a whole Norway sardine and decorate with criss-cross strips of pimento.

If you have hard-cooked eggs left over from breakfast, save them for tomorrow's first meal. Chop the eggs, add to creamed fried beef, heat and serve over waffles or toast.

Celery is a Johnny-come-lately to the produce counter that may be used in hundreds of good dishes - appetizers, salads, soups, stews, sandwich fillings, stuffings and as a cooked vegetable.

Add cinnamon candies and red food coloring to sugar syrup and cook pared apple slices in this. Serve as salad with cream cheese nut balls.

Ask Amy

Dear Amy:
Is a married woman who has no children entitled to a Mother's Day card when Mother's Day comes around?
I say no, but maybe I'm an old, foolish woman. I'm 75 years old. A friend of mine got very angry at me because I voiced my opinion.

Dear Mrs. R.E.:
Millions of cards are sold each year which read "To My Wife on Mother's Day." If a husband is the card-sending type (and if he knows what's good for him), the little woman gets one... whether she is entitled to it or not.

Dear Amy:
I would like your advice and the opinions of the adult readers of your column. Lately, my 14 year old daughter has become very flippant in the way she talks to me and she also seems to think nothing of disobeying me. One example is that I want her to be home by 9:30 p.m. on school nights. She is always late. I have punished her by taking away privileges or keeping her home. But after the punishment is over, she goes right back to doing me.

Two weeks ago she came home very late. This time I lost my patience and she got a good spanking. This seems to help because she has, at least, not been late since. I am thinking now that perhaps this is the solution to my problem, but my daughter says she is much too old to be spanked.
I just don't know. What do you and other readers think I should do?

Dear Mother:
Many young girls do go through the stage you describe, but they "get over it." It's important for you to be understanding, but firm, to create a mutual understanding and to tell her of your love and concern for her which prompts your decisions on her behavior and social life. A spanking wears off when the hurt stops, but the right words, used at the right time, sink in.
Now I turn your problem over to the parents in my reading audience for their suggestions.

Dear Amy:
Is there any help for me? I became involved with a man while married to another. A child was born. I always thought she was the other man's child. Now all of a sudden, I'm not sure and I don't know what happened to give me doubts.
Is there any way I might know who is or who isn't the father? I'm so ashamed. I know I did a terrible thing and I haven't had any peace of mind in four years.

Dear Desperate:
It will do you no good to pursue this any further, nor would I recommend that you do. You could destroy your marriage and the lives of many people. Live with it, or forget it... but leave it alone.

Dear Amy:
I am 16 years old and I'm not allowed to date this boy who is 17. My parents disapprove of him because of his long hair which I think is very nice.
To get out to see him, I would tell my parents that I was going to the library to look up Science homework. Two weeks ago report cards came out... and I failed Science.
Now my parents don't trust me. What am I going to do?

Dear Daughter:
Now that you have learned a lie finally is discovered, perhaps you will learn that trust must be earned by being honest and trustworthy.
Tell all now, and in the future, be truthful with your parents... or you will suffer the consequences which could be more fatal than failing Science. This is a lesson to be learned early in life in your association with everyone.

Time To Spare
By GERALD ANDREWS - Retirement Adviser

What Sport Do You Prefer? The other day I was waiting to catch the bus back from town when Jack and Martha Conner pulled up to the curb and offered me a lift. Jack's in his sixties. Martha - well I've never asked Martha her age, and don't intend to.

My reason for mentioning this is that they're both sold on tennis. Play a few sets every Friday morning at the local club. Seems like they might be tempting fate at their time of life. So, after some chit-chat back and forth, I mentioned my surprise that they were still at it.

Jack made the reply I might have anticipated. "Why not, wasn't King Gustave of Sweden still playing tennis at the age of ninety-five?" "Yes, but wasn't he the exception that proves the rule?"

Martha gave a pert toss of her head. "I hope," she countered, "you're not implying we're that old. But seriously, a sport like tennis isn't out of line for retired people, if they use a little common sense."
"We both have regular physicals, and our doctor tells us every time that we're in better shape because we run around the court bating the ball over the net."

Jack swung the car onto our street. "You've written a lot about the benefits of exercise," he reminded me. "Well, tennis is good exercise. I'm not saying, mind you, that just anybody our age should take it up. We're used to it. If we were just beginning a sport, we might prefer golf or swimming - or just walking. Less strenuous."

"The old rule," I observed. "An individual's condition is what counts, and only his doctor can say what's the best sport for him - or any."

Jack pulled up in front of my house. "Right you are," he answered as I got out. "I'll give you an example I happen to know about. Mine was headed for a heart condition if he didn't take it up. Now he gets his exercise in the garden."
"I'll tell you one thing. The moment our doctor tells us to give up tennis, we'll drop it like a hot potato."
As they pulled away, Martha waved, and had the last word. "Until then," said she, "tennis is our game."

CHILDREN NEED PARENTS' GUIDANCE!
Parental ingenuity is important at every stage in your child's development.
For The One-Year Old: Does Johnny like to play at taking off his shoe and examine it? This is the time to help him develop his skill and dexterity. Try giving him one of his out-grown shoes to play with. Encourage him to stick the laces in and out of the eyelets and become thoroughly familiar with the shoe. As he develops his skill and dexterity in lacing his two shoes, watch how much more often the shoes remain on his feet.
For The Two-Year Old: Does your child like to play where you are doing your housework? Why not try shifting the scene of your work to his play area? Then you can do your work and keep him out of mischief at the same time.
For The Five-Year Old: Have you given your Jane or Paul a daily responsibility to help him feel like an important part of the family? Setting the table with plates, knives and forks, napkins and tumblers can be one method of starting. Use of a symbolic diagram may help your child arrange the items in the proper order.

Thinking ahead to school, the drawings will serve several purposes. They help him to understand symbols and how things differ in size. Printing the names below each item will eventually help him to recognize these words. Of equal importance, your child will learn the usefulness of diagrams - a factor children often ignore in their text books.

Mother's Day idea offered by CARE

The Mother's Day tradition of treating mom to a special meal can be extended to mothers and their children around the world through CARE.
A CARE donor can honor mother on May 12 by sending food packages in her name to needy mothers in Asia, Africa and Latin America. Each mother so honored will receive a special CARE Mother's Day card notifying her that a contribution has been made in her name to help the needy overseas.

For each dollar, CARE will deliver one food package which contains about 25 pounds of food. A package to Columbia, for example, contains 10 pounds of flour, five pounds of corn meal, three pounds of wheat and 7 1/2 pounds of cooking oil. Last year, CARE distributed more than 30,000 Mother's Day packages.
Contributions can be sent to CARE, 660 First Ave., New York, N.Y. 10016. Be sure to include the name and address of the mother to whom the CARE card should be sent.

Special plan to find pre-schoolers with hearing handicaps

The State Department of Education, as part of its survey to locate all pre-school children who have hearing handicaps, has made special arrangements by which parents not reached in the normal survey channels can report their child's case.

Miss Vincentz Cianci, survey director, said parents of pre-school children between the ages of 2 and 6 with hearing impairment, with or without another handicap, may telephone the State Education Department, collect, either today or tomorrow between 6 and 9 p.m. The special telephone number to call is Area 609-992-4270. Parents may also contact their nearest public school during school hours to report children.

The survey is being made to determine the number and location of children with hearing handicaps so that plans can be made to develop educational programs. The survey was ordered by the State Legislature with a view toward making special provision for New Jersey children afflicted with sensory disorders as a result of the epidemic of rubella disease (German measles) that occurred in the United States during the years 1962-64.

This newspaper will again offer, on an expanded scale, a campaign of free "situation wanted" classified advertisements to help high school and college students find summer employment. The first ads will appear in the issue of May 9.

The free ads will appear for the next several weeks in the classified section of this and seven other newspapers in nearby communities published by Suburban Publishing Company, so that the students can get their message to prospective employers.

Students who took advantage of the free ads last year received excellent results, according to Robert H. Brumeli, advertising director. He reported that 300 young people looking for summer work placed classified ads.

This year's project will be the fourth undertaken by Suburban Publishing in support of President Lyndon B. Johnson's "Youth Opportunity Campaign."

THE PRESIDENT AND Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey have awarded a "Certificate of Appreciation" to Suburban Publishing Co. "in recognition of a meaningful contribution to the welfare of the nation and its youth."

In his letter Humphrey said: "The free summer employment advertisements which you offered to high school students seeking vacation employment represents the sort of cooperation between the private sector and government which will lead to the solution of the youth problems which so concern us all."

Gov. Richard J. Hughes wrote to Brumeli: "I wish to congratulate you on your public-spirited response to the President's 'Youth Opportunity Campaign.' Your newspapers' willingness to run free 'situation wanted' advertisements for high school students seeking summer employment is a commendable example of citizen participation in programs to help our young people."

The governor added: "Let me urge further that New Jersey businessmen take advantage of the Suburban Publishing Corporation's willingness to print free 'help wanted' advertisements and, thus, participate in a program designed to help all our children—for the kind of world they shall live in will depend in a large measure on the way we educate the next generation of Americans."

Letters explaining the offer have been sent to all high school principals and superintendents and special forms will be made available at these schools. A clip-out form also appears in today's paper.

HERE ARE SOME tips on wording the ads from Classified Manager Frank Sollow:

1. Try to stress what you can offer, not just the fact that you are available for work.
2. Point out qualities and skills that you possess that are different rather than "willing to do anything," or "willing worker."

3. Word your ad simply and clearly, stressing chief points in the first few words, as these are the ones that catch the reader's eye.
4. Since the ads will appear in several communities, it is a good idea to mention your town or neighborhood, particularly in ads for baby sitters, to facilitate the spotting of your ad by a prospective employer.

The rules for submitting ads:

1. Offer applies only to young people currently in high school or college.
2. Ads must not exceed 25 words in length.
3. All ads must be typewritten or printed.
4. Only one ad per student, please!
5. Ads should be submitted in person or mailed to SUBURBAN PUBLISHING CORP., 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., Union.
6. No ads will be accepted by telephone.
7. Most ads will be printed as written. However, the publisher reserves the right to re-word if necessary for clarity and to reject an ad for any reason.

8. Deadline for Thursday insertion: Friday 5 p.m. Ads received after this time will be held for the following week.
9. This offer will expire May 31.

Officers nominated by state SAR unit

Vincent Van Inwegen of Union has been nominated for the post of first vice president of the New Jersey Society, Sons of the American Revolution, which will elect officers at a meeting in the Governor Morris Inn, Morristown, on Saturday.

Others nominated by the organization include Edwin F. Jacobus of Irvington, assistant chaplain; Henry G. McMullen of Springfield, chancellor, and Henry G. McGrath Jr. of Union, member-at-large.

In addition to electing officers, the SAR will conduct its annual oratorical contest for students and inspect the historic Ford and Hamilton mansions.

Rising trend seen in N. J. for industry

A 15-year forecast of economic trends with encouraging news for New Jersey's leading manufacturing industries has been issued by McGraw Hill Publishing Co. Ranking 27 major industries by estimated percentage increase in output from 1967 to 1982, the chemical industry leads with an estimated increase of 227 percent. Another leading industry is electrical machinery, ranking in fifth place with an increase of 138 percent. Other New Jersey industries in the top five include rubber and plastics, electric utilities, and instruments.

Of particular interest to New Jersey is the forecast of an annual growth rate of 4.3 percent for the next fifteen years, capital spending increasing by 85 percent, and R & D expenditures to go up 135 percent by 1982.

The forecasters assume an end to the Vietnam conflict by 1972, a decline in defense expenditures, and a big increase in social spending by the federal government over the 15-year period—230 percent over present levels.

One reason for the optimism is the expected rise in income by 1982. Per capita income is expected to rise 55 percent by 1982, and median family income will rise from the present $7,000 to almost $10,000. Highest increases in spending levels among consumers are seen in housing—up 122 percent, and in durable goods, 105 percent.

manager, New Jersey Veterans Administration Regional Office, Newark, advises that these figures were estimated on a national level.

The VA must pay the proceeds of the insurance policy to the last beneficiary designated by the veteran even though it might be a divorced wife or wealthy parent. In far too many cases, the status of the original beneficiary is changed by marriage, divorce or death, and the veteran neglects to make the change in his insurance. In a recent sampling it was found that six out of 10 veterans probably need to update beneficiary information on their policies.

Forms for this change may be obtained by writing directly to the VA insurance office, where the premiums are paid, or contacting the VA Regional Office, 20 Washington Place, Newark, New Jersey.

Employment Ever see 'cackle crate,' 'pajama wagon' on road? up 10,500 for March

Seasonal hiring in construction, trade, services and state and local government raised nonfarm wage and salary employment in New Jersey by 10,500 between February and March to an estimated 2,388,500. This estimate, prepared by the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry on the basis of a sample survey of employers in the state, excludes farm, domestic and self-employed workers.

The largest employment gain between February and March was in construction, where an estimated 4,900 workers were added to contractors' payrolls. Jobholding increased by 1,900 in services and by 1,800 in retail trade, despite layoff by food stores. The number of state and local government employees rose by 700 to 268,600. Factory employment expanded moderately by 1,100.

Ever hear of a "bed bug hauler," a "cackle crate" or a "pajama wagon?" How about a "horse" or a "boll weevil?" If this all sounds a bit unusual, the translation can be found in the just-released "Truck Drivers Dictionary and Glossary" published by American Trucking Association.

Newark College of Engineering's big solid-state computer doesn't know a trout fly from a wading boot but it will go fishing for information this summer, working on a water pollution research project that may ultimately result in more fish and more fishing for everyone.

The new NCE project is a $15,000 16-month study into the biochemical factors that affect a fresh water stream environment.

Success will mean that authorities will be able to determine in advance what can or cannot be dumped in a stream and thus be able to take steps to revitalize streams where fish cannot now live.

At NCE the project will be directed by Dr. Robert Dresnack of the College's civil engineering department and coordinated by NCE's research affiliate, the Foundation for the Advancement of Graduate Study in Engineering. Funds for the study came from the National Science Foundation.

According to Dr. Dresnack, he has already developed a "mathematical model" to simulate the various biochemical changes that take place in a body of water as it moves downstream. This summer he and a graduate assistant will gather samples from representative New Jersey streams and thus be able to assign weighted numbers to these factors.

The factors will essentially revolve about the oxygen needs and the level of various pollutants at points along existing streams.

By establishing many such data check points, Dresnack will be able to use differential equations to allow the computer to "build" its own trout stream within its memory banks. Because of the computer's great speed and its ability to balance many sets of equations simultaneously, the computer will be able to analyze all characteristics as its mathematical water flows downstream.

By the time the computer has waded through the body of information fed into it, it will be able to print out the biochemical characteristics of any given stream at any point by substituting new information in the basic formulas that will be developed.

THE STUDY SHOULD produce results that will be beneficial to wildlife agencies, governmental water resource offices and to industry. Among the anticipated results of the research will be accurate means of predetermining safe levels of pollutants, the ability to predict future environmental situations, and possibilities of recommendations for upgrading fresh water streams in New Jersey and the rest of the nation.

"Presently there has been no accurate means of measuring the downstream effects of a chemical pollutant until the actual dumping is done and often knowledge after-the-fact is regrettable," Dr. Dresnack said.

The research at NCE will eventually allow the determination of how much, if any, pollutant can be dumped at a point and will describe in detail the effects of such dumping on downstream wildlife and water purity.

According to Dr. Dresnack there are ten major factors and innumerable minor ones that affect the relationship between the biological organic debris and the oxygen level in any given stretch of river. These factors range from bacterial oxidation to re-aeration, and to the amounts of fresh and polluted waters added from side streams.

TELEVISION EYE ON SAINT BARNABAS---The world's largest and most complete hyperbaric medicine and research facility, at Saint Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston, will be featured on CBS-TV's 21st Century series Sunday at 6 p.m. Shown above is a recent cyrosurgical operation being performed in the surgical hyperbaric chamber at the center, which was the first hospital in the U.S. to combine cyrosurgery and hyperbaric medicine for operations on poor-risk patients.

Each physical change in the stream can produce different biochemical characteristics, helping to compound an already difficult problem.

"Looking at the problem on a long-range basis, one can see that detailed answers to the workings of our streams will be of benefit to the community and to our naturalists," Dr. Dresnack said. "It might even bring back the old swimming hole."

The program director is a New Yorker and has specialized in sanitary engineering. He earned his B.S. degree at CCNY, and his M.S. and Ph.D. at New York University. Before joining Newark College of Engineering in 1966 he had engineering experience with the New York City Board of Water Supply.

Increase in Social Security will not affect vets' pensions

A bill which President Johnson signed into law on March 28, 1968, will protect nearly a quarter of a million veterans, widows and parents against any reduction in Veterans Administration pension or dependency and indemnity compensation due to the recent Social Security increase, Paul M. Nugent, manager, New Jersey Veterans Administration Regional Office, Newark, said this week.

The measure will also result in added VA payments, beginning Jan. 1, 1969, to more than 1.1 million on VA pension rolls, Nugent emphasized.

VA now pays out approximately $2.3 billion annually to these two groups on beneficiaries and to some 600,000 pensioners under a prior protected law.

Nugent explained that pensions are paid to veterans whose total and permanent disabilities are not related to military service and to widows, who, like eligible veterans, meet low income limitations.

He noted that in two messages to Congress on America's servicemen and veterans, the President recommended legislation to "protect the veteran against disproportionate losses that could result from increases in other income, such as Social Security."

Veterans, widows and parents are assured by the new law of no reductions in VA benefits through 1969 because of increased Social Security payments which went into effect this month, Nugent said.

Added VA benefits beginning next January for more than 1.1 million pensioners will result from restructuring of the entire VA pension and dependency and indemnity compensation (DIC) program, as provided in the new law.

Effective Jan. 1, 1969, Nugent explained, income limitations, which govern financial eligibility for VA pensions and dependency benefits, will be raised $200 for all beneficiaries. This increase is particularly important to "old law" pensioners since it will mean that the recent

Marines seek to trim high schoolers

Parents, you may soon see your children getting shorter haircuts! And the United States Marines just may be responsible. As a result of a pilot program conducted by the Marines in the New York-New Jersey area, the Florida Citrus Commission will distribute more than a million of their "Shape-Up" booklets to high school students across the nation.

The booklet, titled "How to get in Shape — And Stay There!," features Marine training exercises, the basis for the annual National Marine Corps High School Physical Fitness Championships held in Washington, D.C. each June.

In addition to the exercise, the booklet covers teen-age tips on grooming and nutrition and provides each youth with an individual set of standards for self-scoring. In the exercise section of the booklet, which includes instructions on how to properly execute push-ups, sit-ups, squat thrusts, pull-ups and the 300 yard shuttle run, teen-agers can test their abilities against the scores of Marine physical fitness experts.

A RATING CHART, with a lighter touch, is also included in the booklet. On this one teen-agers award themselves points for personal conditioning. A score of zero is offered for those whose hair is too long and who habitually fail to hang up their clothes.

The tips on nutrition place emphasis on the vitamin-packed foods needed to build a solid physical foundation.

To date more than 250,000 booklets have been made available to high schools by Marines in the New York-New Jersey area. This is part of the information program geared to participation by more than a thousand local high school students in the regional championships of the Marine Corps High School Physical Fitness competition yesterday at the U. S. Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, N.Y., and today at Newark State College, Union.

In addition the Florida Citrus Commission is providing the regional participants with blazer crests and certificates of physical achievement.

Greek pottery exhibit scheduled for museum

An exhibition of Greek pottery from the Joseph V. Noble collection will go on view at the Montclair Art Museum on Sunday and continue through June 23.

Noble is the vice-director of the Metropolitan Museum of Art and a resident of Maplewood. He is a ceramic archaeologist, a widely known photographer and producer of documentary films, and the author of the book "The Techniques of Painted Attic Pottery." His collection of Greek pottery is considered to be the largest and most important in private hands in America.

INDOOR PLANTS POPULAR

Always popular as indoor plants because they tend to hold moisture, succulents and sedums in red clay pots can be effectively used in outdoor gardens, too. Succulents make fine ground covers for sunny areas and many of them flower spectacularly. They like sunshine and the good drainage provided by porous clay pots and require less fertilizing and care than most container plants.

Conservation chief to speak at meeting of state sportsmen

Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the State Department of Conservation and Economic Development will be the principal speaker at the Conservation Convention of the New Jersey State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs. The convention will be held on May 17-19 at the LaConcha Hotel, 3100 Boardwalk, Atlantic City.

The favorite sports of fishing and hunting will be featured during the main program on Saturday May 18. This will include exhibits and competition as well as talks.

The Garcia Corporation, New Jersey-based giant of the fishing tackle industry, will conduct a fishing workshop and show on Saturday morning. Brief introductory remarks will be made by Federation President Steven Tczap and honored guests, Carl Fenderson of the National Wildlife Federation and Colonel John Lee of the National Rifle Association.

A hunting workshop will open the afternoon program. It will be followed by archery and rifle exhibitions and a trap shooting competition at the Atlantic City Trap Range.

The venison banquet will start at 7 p.m. Prior to Commissioner Roe's address, prizes will be awarded for the three best conservation essays submitted in the Federation's annual contest for school youngsters. This year's awards have been increased to $100, $75 and $50 in U.S. Savings Bonds.

A special program for ladies will be conducted including a sightseeing tour of Cape May and a luncheon at the famous Lobster House in Cape May. Friday night will include a Federation business meeting and Delegates' reception. The Sunday morning program will include a non-denominational service and installation of new officers.

Some 150 adult educators are expected to attend the conference, being held in cooperation with the New Jersey Association of School Administrators and the Bureau of Adult Education of the State Department of Education. The Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Springfield First Presbyterian Church will visit the Missionary Orientation Center and Gilmor Sloane House at Stony Point, N.Y., next Wednesday. A chartered bus and several cars will leave the Presbyterian Parish House at 10 a.m., returning to Springfield about 4 p.m. Arrangements for the trip, tour and luncheon have been made by Mrs. Howard Heerwagen, program chairman for the group.

The facilities of Stony Point, which will be toured by the ladies, include the Gilmor Sloane House, which is used as a conference and retreat center; the Readers' Service Center which receives used books from all over the United States and mails them—45,000 a year—to every corner of the globe; and the Missionary Orientation Center, a training center for adults going overseas as fraternal workers and missionaries.

In addition, housing is provided for missionaries back in the United States on furlough. Six denominations cooperate in this project. The Barn Playhouse, where religious drama is presented over a two-month period each summer, completed the facilities at Stony Point.

Next week's trip will be concluding activity for this season for the Ladies' Society. Their regularly scheduled program will resume in October.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

STRAIGHT ROAD
 Being a Christian is sometimes the most difficult job of all. In a world where temptation abounds, it is sometimes hard and difficult to stay away from sin.

Those who persevere know that the straight road is always the best road. Sometimes, perhaps, it should be spelled straight, which means hard, difficult, because it can be a lonely road, a road away from the crowd.

Yet the true Christian takes heart. He ignores the fact the straight road may be difficult and hard, even narrow. He is well aware that it leads ever upward and that it ends only at the City of Peace.

The straight road is seldom without pitfalls. Yet, because vision is clear, they are more easily discerned and more readily prepared for. On a bright day one can see, almost, forever.

Love is the most beautiful thing in the world...

Technical school holds open house

More than 300 parents, students and dignitaries attended an open house last Wednesday night marking the official opening of Union Technical Institute's new facility in Route 22, Mountainside. The 20-year-old school moved earlier this month from Union, where it had been located since 1962.

Paul J. Barotta, president and director of the two-year, non-profit institute, greeted the guests along with members of his faculty. Guests were given a tour of the 7,200 square-foot building, which has five classrooms and two laboratories.

There are approximately 125 students taking a two-year course that prepares them to become electronic technicians and engineering aides. The school also offers training in design and drafting technology and blueprint reading.

Union Technical Institute is approved by the New Jersey State Department of Education and accredited by the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools.

OPENING DAY — Student Charles Sasson of Bloomfield points out feature on circuit demonstration panel to State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo of Union (center) during open house at Union Technical Institute's new quarters in Mountainside. Looking on is Paul J. Barotta, director of school.

Harris favorite here and abroad

Richard Harris, who portrays the leading role of King Arthur in "Camelot," currently on screen at the Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair, came to notice as an international star in 1963 when he received an Academy Award nomination and the Cannes Film Festival award for "This Sporting Life." Earlier, he had scored a personal hit opposite Marlon Brando in the remake of "Mutiny on the Bounty."

Harris was born in Limerick, Ireland to the Ivan Harris family of eight. At school, he did well in sports, but in his late adolescence he was stricken with tuberculosis. During his long period of inactivity he read widely and began to write poetry and plays.

When he recovered he went to London to learn directing, but turned to acting and enrolled in the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Arts. Harris made his professional bow in "The Quiet Fellow" at Stratford's Theater Royal. His major films have included "The Red Desert," "Hawaii" and "Caprice."

By MILT HAMMER

FORTY YEARS WITH HIS SAME TWO LOVES J. Carrol Nash, the distinguished actor whom Hollywood has chosen to play Italians, Spaniards, Mexicans, Indians, Chinese and what-have-you, is in reality a first generation Irishman born and raised in New York City. Nash, true to the established Hollywood tradition, recently played El Presidente Rafael, leader of the government of a small mythical Caribbean island on a "Chrysler Presents The Bob Hope Show."

Nash, twice nominated for an Academy Award, celebrates his 40th wedding anniversary to Gladys Heaney and his 40th anniversary in show business this year. The Nash's were married Feb. 10, 1928.

Originally a Broadway actor, Nash met his wife when they both appeared in "Shanghai Gesture" on Broadway. He left the "great white way" for Hollywood, starring and co-starring in some 80 films. Two of those films, "Sahara" with Humphrey Bogart for Columbia Pictures and "Medal for Benny," a Paramount Picture, garnered Nash Academy Award nominations. "Medal for Benny" also won Nash the Hollywood Foreign Press Association's "Golden Globe" Award.

NOT LIMITED TO the stage or motion pictures, Nash starred for CBS radio (before the TV onslaught) on "Luigi," portraying an Italian immigrant. The show was consistently rated in the top-10 of radio for over four years and won a multitude of awards from hundreds of organizations across the country. Some years back Nash returned to Broadway after a 25 year absence to star in Arthur Miller's "A View From the Bridge."

Nash's view from his lovely Beverly Hills home? "Much joy, a few heartaches, a lovely wife, a still active career --- and I wouldn't change any of it."

Springfield pair to appear in play

Shelley and Gil Wolfe of Springfield (Mr. and Mrs.) will play the roles of secretary and executive, respectively, in the May production of "How To Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." The production will be presented by the Hillside Community Players in four performances; on Friday and Saturday evenings, May 17 and 18, and Saturday and Sunday evenings, May 25 and 26 at Hillside High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Wolfe appeared last year in the musical revue of "Love Makes the World Go Round" at Temple Beth Ahm in Springfield. Mrs. Wolfe, who served as producer of the show, also has appeared in productions of "Pajama Game," "Damn Yankees," "Cry Havoc" and the "Y Bits of Hits."

Jerome K. Zall of Union appears as J. Pierpont Finch. Admission will be $2, with a special rate of $1 on Friday evening, May 17. Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Wolfe at 379-2293, Mrs. Barbara Girton at 926-6220 or Mrs. Roberta Bornstein at 687-1255.

'Graduate' contender continues at Millburn

The Millburn Cinema management has announced that "The Graduate" is continuing to break box office records weekly and on the weekend. The Joseph E. Levine presentation, photographed in Panavision and Technicolor, started its 13th week in Millburn yesterday. Mike Nichols was awarded an Oscar for his direction of "The Graduate." The film and its stellar cast, Dustin Hoffman, Anne Bancroft and Katharine Ross, all were contending nominees for Academy Awards of 1967.

SEAL KNOTS - Knots in wood contain sap which can bleed through and discolor a finish coat of paint. To avoid this problem, fill cavities with wood putty or patching compound. When dry, sand the area smooth and then seal the area with knot sealer of shellac. After this precautionary measure, you'll be ready to finish the wood.

If you buy a Volvo 145, mechanics won't always be fixing your wagon.

Volvo's reputation for holding up wasn't earned by luck or a downer. It was earned by lasting an average of 11 years in Sweden, where it's tough being a car. Of course, we don't guarantee that a Volvo will last 11 years in America. But we do know that over 95% of all the Volvos registered here in the last 11 years are still on the road. So if you come in and buy a Volvo 145, you'll have more than just a station wagon you can get a lot of things or people into. You'll have a station wagon you can get a lot of years out of.

'Drop-in' students at Douglass Moms work evenings for college degrees

Mothers -- and even grandmothers -- can work for a college degree, thanks to the Part-Time Matriculating Students Program at Douglass College, the women's unit of the State University.

Since the program's inception 10 years ago, 169 women have completed or are completing work for degrees. At present 70 part-time students are studying on the Douglass campus.

Mrs. Mae Dailey, of New Brunswick, is a prime example of this group of hard-working women. A 1954 graduate of New Brunswick High School, Mrs. Dailey is planning to major in speech therapy. She is currently at the sophomore level at Douglass.

An employee of Johnson & Johnson until 1960, when the first of her three children were born, Mrs. Dailey took evening courses at the University College of Rutgers for several years. In addition to her Douglass courses during the academic year, Mrs. Dailey enrolls in the Rutgers Summer Sessions.

AN EXCELLENT BABY-SITTER and an understanding husband have made it possible for her to participate in the Douglass program. Her husband, William A. Dailey, also a New Brunswick native, is an engineer. Two of her three children, Keelin, 7, and Billy, 6, are in school and the third child, Eavan, 4, is in nursery school. Mrs. Dailey is taking three courses this year.

Mrs. Frances G. Lundy, academic adviser to part-time students, said that most of the part-timers are married women with children, and in some cases, grandchildren. A Roman Catholic nun also is among the current part-time students.

Mrs. Lundy said that family responsibilities prohibit most of these women from going to college full-time or from attending evening classes.

The program evolved from the college administration's recognition of the need for educational opportunities for mature women. At first only applicants who had at least one year of college were accepted. In 1964, the program was broadened to include students with no previous college background.

During the last decade, 28 part-timers were former Douglass students; 118 were transfers from other colleges and universities and 23 had no college training.

Mrs. Lundy had high praise for the part-time students. She described them as "highly motivated" and pointed out that their average grades are higher than those of full-time students.

"They carry on despite domestic crises and other problems," Mrs. Lundy said. "Even if they are forced to drop out, many of them return to obtain their degrees."

"Everyone at Douglass is convinced that it is a worthwhile program," she continued. "Statistics indicate the success of the venture and show its steady growth through the years."

A SURVEY COMPLETED by Mrs. Lundy traces the program's course through the last decade. Sixteen part-timers were admitted during the first year of the program in 1958-59. Since then the number has fluctuated from a low of six to a high of 28. This year 26 new part-time students were accepted, bringing the total currently participating to 70.

Education is one of the most popular fields, Mrs. Lundy said. Many of the mature students look forward to a teaching career when their children are grown. Popular majors are sociology, art, mathematics and biology.

The part-timers are required to carry at least six credit hours each term and must fulfill at least one general requirement for a bachelor's degree each term until all are fulfilled. The degree recipients so far have needed from one to 14 semesters to complete their work, averaging about five.

They range in age from 20 to 47 years, the average age being about 31. Some of the women have as many as five children. A number of part-timers are wives of graduate students who wish to study while their husbands work for advanced degrees at Rutgers University.

It was found that the majority apply for admission when the youngest child enters school in order to prepare themselves for better paid, more satisfying work when the oldest child is ready for college. Intellectual curiosity and a desire to learn go hand in hand with financial objectives, it was pointed out.

Special counseling services are provided for the part-time women students.

MOTHER OF THREE SEEKS DEGREE—Mrs. Mae Dailey of New Brunswick, shown with her children, Billy, 6, Eavan, 4, and Keelin, 7, is a member of the Part-Time Matriculating Students Program at Douglass College, women's unit of the State University. The program provides opportunities for mature women to work for degrees on a part-time basis.

165 Girl Scouts attend encampment at Camp Hoover

Mountainside Junior, Cadette and Senior Scouts of Washington Rock Girl Scout Council held an encampment last weekend at Camp Lou Henry Hoover, Middleville. All troops were represented by the 165 scouts and 23 adults.

Junior and Cadette troops were based at the Hoover staff house, the infirmary building and in three platform tent units, while the Senior Scouts pitched their tents at the primitive camping site. All Scouts prepared their meals out doors, and each troop worked on badges of its own choosing.

Two all-troop campfires were held on Friday and Saturday evenings, and Scouts at all levels participated in a "Wide Game" Saturday afternoon as well as in a "Scout's Own" on Sunday afternoon. In addition, each of the Scouts was offered the opportunity to attend a religious service of her choice over the weekend.

The encampment was planned by Mrs. Paul Smith, 1138 Maple court, assisted by the Scout service team.

Trip to Cloisters planned by group

The Women's Association of the Community Presbyterian Church in Mountainside has planned a bus trip to the Cloisters in Fort Tryon Park in New York City May 14. Members also will go to Patricia Murphy's Restaurant in Yonkers to see the gardens.

The Cloisters is a museum of medieval art incorporating within a modern structure sections from a medieval monastery, a Romanesque chapel and a 12th Century Spanish apse. Recently added to the treasures on view are a French Gothic reliquary shrine of silver-gilt and translucent enamel, which belonged to the 14th Century queen, Elizabeth of Hungary; also a unique ivory cross, carved in the 12th Century for an abbot of the medieval English abbey of Bury St. Edmunds.

There are still places available on the bus and anyone interested in joining the group should contact Mrs. Michael S. Sgarro of Mountainside, she said.

Cured cancer patients speak at rehabilitation conference

Several persons who had cancer and were cured of it will tell their stories at a conference on the rehabilitation of cancer patients, the New Jersey Division of the American Cancer Society announced this week.

Their discussion will highlight a day's program for physicians, nurses, para-medical personnel and interested laymen Saturday at the Holiday Inn, North Brunswick.

"Noted medical specialists in the field of cancer will speak at this conference and question and answer sessions will follow each presentation. It is designed to make the participants aware of the problems of rehabilitating those who have had cancer," said Dr. Robert J. Zullo, physician in charge of the Medical Neoplasia Clinic, St. Peter's Hospital, New Brunswick, and chairman of the meeting. Dr. Zullo is an active volunteer for the Middlesex County Chapter of the American Cancer Society and serves as chairman of the New Jersey Division's service committee and as a member of its medical, professional education and executive committees.

DR. WILLIAM O. WUESTER, director of the Wuester Clinic and Green Memorial Tumor Clinic, Elizabeth General Hospital, will speak on "The Patient with Cancer of the Colon and Rectum." Dr. Wuester is a national board member of the American Cancer Society. He is a member of the New Jersey Division's board of trustees, its medical, executive and nominating committees, and also volunteers his services for the society's Union County Chapter.

Dr. Arthur W. von Deilen, chief of plastic and maxillo facial surgery, University of Pennsylvania Medical Center, will speak on "The Patient with Head and Neck Cancer." The doctor is a member of the Philadelphia Academy of Surgery, New Jersey Society of Surgeons and a diplomate of the American Board of Plastic Surgery.

"The Patient with Breast Cancer" will be discussed by Dr. Guy Robbins, director of the rehabilitation project at Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases, New York City. He is a member of the American Association for Cancer Research, the James Ewing Society, and is an assistant clinician at the Sloan-Kettering Institute.

Mrs. Evelyn Cooper, director of social services at Memorial Hospital will present "The Psychological Factors in Rehabilitating Cancer Patients." Mrs. Cooper is chairman of the American Cancer Society's New York City Division committee on rehabilitation and a member of the social service advisory committee.

Registration for the meeting will begin at 9 a.m. and the program is slated to conclude at 3:30 p.m. Since a luncheon will be served, all reservations must be made through the society's New Jersey Division Office at 621 Central ave., Newark. "The program is a first of its kind sponsored by the New Jersey Division and we expect a large attendance with representatives from all 21 counties," said Dr. Zullo.

Need for expansion of facilities at Douglass cited

The cost of higher education will increase at Douglass College in New Brunswick as in the rest of the nation's colleges, as new and necessary facilities are built. Although state and national governments will be called upon to pay the major share of the cost of public colleges in the future, New Jersey residents must face the fact that they will have to pay more toward the cost of their children's education, said John L. Swink, Rutgers vice-president and treasurer.

Swink pointed out that an extensive building program is already under way at Douglass, which, it is hoped, will eventually allow the college to accommodate a peak of 3,500 students.

"The capital for the academic space will be provided by the state and federal governments while the resident and dining halls will be financed from borrowed funds," Swink said. "Since the state has adopted a policy that residential and dining facilities must cover their operating and financing costs, the University will be forced to raise the fees for room and board from $900 in 1967-68 to $1,400 by 1971-72."

"This means that by 1971-72, the cost to a Douglass student living on campus will be approximately $2,000, which may force some of the students to drop out for financial reasons while other very promising girls will not be able to afford their state university."

The treasurer said that these cost problems may arise for some students despite a scholarship program at Douglass which aids some 954 girls, a loan program which serves students with about $100,000 annually at reasonable interest rates and work-study programs amounting to about $320,000 a year.

"One interesting development within the last ten years," Swink said, "has been the willingness of young women to borrow for their education, a reverse dowry in effect, but one well worth taking on."

The capital building program, he said, calls for replacement of Cooper Hall, construction of a classroom building for art, music and drama, additional residence halls for 450 students at Gibbons Campus, a new dining hall at Gibbons and additions to the gymnasium, library and Davison Hall.

Also included is an additional residence hall at Jameson Campus, to accommodate 250 students. This capital program will provide 2,844 living spaces for a student body of 3,500.

FACULTY SALARIES at the State University were raised "very substantially" during the academic year 1967-68, Swink pointed out.

"Salaries compare favorably with those of the better universities. Faculty recruitment, therefore, is made easier, and Douglass is able to attract some very capable faculty, who, in turn, are enriching the curriculum offerings," Swink said.

"These new faculty members, many of whom are interested in graduate teaching and research, are requiring better equipment, more adequate facilities and an expanded library."

"The operating budget of Douglass is being hard pressed to supply the funds necessary to support the requirements of the Douglass faculty," he said.

"The request for a state appropriation of $3,702,514 for Douglass for 1968-69, representing an increase of $814,679, was reduced to $3,051,898 by the governor in his budget message to the legislature. This represents an increase of only $164,063 from 1967-68.

"Much of the university's request was designed to make up for past deficiencies. This, of course, will not be possible this year. In fact, it will not be possible until the tax base of the state is broad enough to support a system of higher education in New Jersey which more nearly meets the demand of its citizens.

"Douglass, with a very limited enrollment growth planned, will be competing hard for the few dollars we are able to allocate from the overall budget," the State University treasurer said.

He explained that the university is presently constructing the physical facilities for Livingston College, a coeducational institution, on the former Camp Kilmer site. This college will help meet the demand for education of young women, and, in fact, will eventually enroll some 1,750 of them.
