Mayor launches anti-missile base missive at county

By PAT DONALDSON
"Your mayor and council intend to take every legal step open to us to prevent the former Nike base site in Mountainside from being used as a rifle range and a police training site," Mayor Frederick Wilhelms Jr., declared at a meeting of the Borough Council Tuesday night at the Beechwood School.
The mayor explained that he and the council had been made aware that the Union County Board of Freeholders and the Union County Civil Defense Commission intend to receive bids to make the property suitable for a training base. He added, "We have advised them this facility must first obtain authority from the Mountainside Board of Adjustment, and since they think they can supersede our Board of Adjustment we will move to prevent them from doing so."
The mayor said that the borough is not opposed to the use of the site for other purposes but "in this instance, we believe the installation of a training base would be contrary to the purposes of park lands in the borough, and prevention of establishing the base would be for the protection of the people in the area and all people in the entire community." He also said that the matter involved a question of jurisdiction as to whether the county can supersede municipal government.

NOTING THE CLOSING of schools this week in Mountainside, the mayor urged all drivers to be very careful "as children will be running around." He asked that parents instruct their children in safety measures and said that police efforts will be doubled for apprehension of traffic violators on borough streets.

Councilman Don Robertson reported that there are still available memberships open for the municipal pool and that anyone interested may contact Borough Hall.

Councilman Fred Swingle Jr., reported that the Fire Department has responded to 16 alarms in the past month. He said that there were three residential fires, one in a business firm, one automobile fire and eight brush fires. He also said that during the heavy rainfall May 29, the Fire Department had responded to 22 calls for "flooding" and had helped residents pump out their cellars.

Councilman Robert Ruggiero reported that the Police Department had answered 335 calls and had covered more than 11,000 miles of borough streets in the same period. Ruggiero also said that he had received many calls praising the efforts of Mountainside police. He read a letter from a resident who commended Patrolman Joseph Loh for his help. Other commendations were noted from residents for Patrolman Raymond Della Serra and Steven Semancik for "their help in time of need."

Need a summer job? YES has one waiting

The Youth Employment Service (YES) of Mountainside will be open from 9:30 a.m. until noon, Monday through Friday, from this week through Labor Day, it was announced by Mrs. William Gutman, vice-president.
Mrs. Gutman said there are more than 20 openings for summer-long lawn jobs and any youngster interested may come in person to headquarters at Borough Hall or call 233-4505 during the announced summer hours.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the council approved a new salary ordinance for borough employees, retroactive to Jan. 1, as follows:

borough clerk, $6,678; deputy borough clerk, $6,232; court clerk, $2,544; assistant court clerk, $3,116; superintendent of public works, secretary to board of assessors and municipal engineer, $11,766; assistant borough treasurer, $4,960; secretary to superintendent of public works, $4,960; deputy tax collector, $3,116; clerk-stenographer, $4,960; plumbing inspector, fee basis, not to exceed $1,800; director of welfare, $1,400; public works employees, $2.90, $2.80 and $2.60 per hour; municipal court judge, $4,000; building inspector, $4,000; collector of taxes, $2,544; school crossing guards, and special police, $2.25 per hour.

Deerfield team finishes season with top record

John Barry has been selected as the outstanding athlete for the past year at the Deerfield School, according to Charles Carson of the boys' physical education department.
Barry, who led the baseball team, pitched five shut-outs in six games, struck out 52 batters in 32 innings and batted .313.

Carson also stated that the varsity baseball team "had a very successful season" with a record of six victories, one tie and one defeat. The starting team consisted of Barry and Alan Stanke, pitchers; Bruce Honecker, catcher; Ron Steel, first base; Mike Freer, second base; Richard Passafume, third base; Kurt Mohns, shortstop, and Guy Giovannello, Robert Addotta and Don Hempel, outfielders.

Also contributing to the success of the team, Carson said, were Brian Ruff, Tom Farrell, Jeff Shomo, Steve Hiotis, Mike Pincelli and Alan Singer.

The team, which was coached by Carson and Edwin Sjonell, had the following triumphs: Garwood, defeated twice by scores of 12-0 and 14-0; Brewer (Clark), 9-2 and 10-2; Columbia (Berkeley Heights), 7-5 and 2-0. The only loss was to Terrace (Clark) in the first game, 6-0, but Deerfield tied the second game, 3-3.

PTA president reports on school year activities

Mrs. John Hechtle, president of the Mountainside PTA, in her final message of the year to all residents of the community, gave the story of the efforts and accomplishments of the association in the release of the following statement:

School to appoint top administrator

A supervising principal will be "at long last realized by Our Lady of Lourdes School," according to a statement which was released recently by Sister Jane Frances, principal of the school.

In a review of other recent happenings at the school, Sister Frances also said, "Our children in the upper grades will participate in vocal and instrumental music, shop and home economics with the public school system. Our sincere thanks goes to Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, superintendent of the Mountainside schools, and his board for considering us in this program."

Mountainside boys honored at Pingry

Three Mountainside students at the Pingry School, Hillsdale, have been named to the school's list for the fifth and the final marking periods, it was announced by the school last week. They are W. Peter Metz and Michael Metz, both of 1309 Summit lane, and V. Clark Johnson of 32 Bayberry lane.

Robert Kurz of 10 High Point dr., Mountainside, was named to the list for the final marking period.

Peter Metz, who was a senior at the school and one of the editors of the 1968 Blue Book, was one of the students mainly responsible for the 172-page production.

Local Lutherans to attend conclave

The Atlantic District of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, of which Holy Cross Lutheran Church, Springfield, is a member, will hold its annual convention at Concordia College, Bronxville, N.Y. this Sunday through Wednesday.

Representing the congregation on different days will be John Andrus, Robert Baab and John Denman. The Rev. K. J. Stumpf, pastor, will attend all sessions. Each congregation is entitled to one lay and one pastoral vote. Major concerns of the convention, according to the convention workbook, are human rights; programs and reports on Christian education, evangelism, stewardship and welfare, and the possible division of the Atlantic District into three districts. close. These past two years have been for me, and I hope for our 1,300 members, very interesting and stimulating.

"In the area of cooperation with home and community, we have attempted to encourage interest in PTA programs by conducting six afternoon study-discussion groups along with our six evening meetings. The highlight of this year was our safety program, results of which will be a bicycle inspection to be held shortly. A professional safety engineer has been consulted for advice concerning the best possible solution for our congested school area streets. We hope to see some tangible results of our efforts as soon as possible.

"The 'Helping Hand' signs were initiated, and we hope each 'Neighborhood Mother' will continue to display her sign in the future. Reports have come to me that houses displaying these signs have been called on by youngsters with scraped knees, youngsters being chased by older children, and as a place to call mother because she forgot to pick them up. We hope we never have more serious problems.

"In our effort to cooperate with school and community, we have worked to inform parents of our local school board's needs and thereby helped to pass local school budgets. We have sponsored candidates' nights for aspirants to the Board of Education.

"WE HAVE HELD two successful fairs, which after much hard work by chairmen and volunteers alike, invoked a feeling of a job well done for a great majority of Mountainside children, although some of the children's behavior this year left something to be desired. Our aim is to offer the children a day of fun, not a free-for-all, and because of the poor behavior on the part of a few, we might be lacking a fire engine ride next year. It is part of our job as parents to instill in our children the 3 Rs-Respect for ourselves, respect for authority, and respect for other people and their property.

"As a result of the proceeds from the fair, we have been able to present special music assembly programs to the children of all three schools. We have given scholarships to graduating Mountainside high school students, also summer school music scholarships to six of our children. We have donated a mobile display case to the new library, and this year have been able to help the Board of Education purchase a new library for the stage at Deerfield. Our library volunteers, some of whom find the work so gratifying that they have been PTA volunteers for many years, have worked in the school libraries typing, pasting and shelving books.

"We have published a monthly newspaper in order to keep you informed of our activities.

"Finally, I would like to say that I have felt my responsibility, keenly and have tried to serve conscientiously. It has been a gratifying experience working with such co-operative and understanding people. My gratitude goes out to the two executive boards and officers with whom I have worked. Without your assistance we could never have accomplished our goals and without such support, any officer's job is impossible. I will plead with you all in the general membership to participate actively in the affairs of your PTA—you will not regret it.

"Your resident has considered it a deep privilege and pleasure to have served you."

Senator WILLIAMS Reports

The traditional avenue of escape from poverty and the city slums has been education. Typically, in generations past, immigrant parents have worked and saved, send their children to college. And, though the waves of immigration have slowed, education is still "the way out" for children of poor families, Rutgers University, for instance, recently disclosed that more than half its students had parents who did not attend college. This pattern has cut across almost all ethnic and cultural lines in our society—with one major exception.

The U.S. Office of Education recently made a study which disclosed that although Negroes comprise more than 12 percent of the population, only 5.6 percent of the enrollment at our nation's colleges is Negro. Moreover, about half of these are enrolled in predominantly Negro institutions in the South.

This is both a symptom and a cause of the fact that Negroes are not moving into the middle class in the same numbers and at the same rate as other minority groups. Part of the reason for this is high that many Negro families cannot afford the high cost of sending one or more children to college. To meet this problem, I have introduced legislation to provide tuition grants up to $500 a year for children of low income families in the first and second year of post-high school education. Obviously, this doesn't just apply to Negro families. The grants would be available to all who meet the income requirements.

But, lack of income is not the only reason for the low enrollment of Negroes in colleges and universities. There are far more subtle and complex reasons which are far more difficult to deal with.

FOR THIS REASON, I recently organized and chaired a workshop on "The Negro and Higher Education" which brought together more than 40 of the top authorities in the field. Among those taking part were the presidents of several southern Negro colleges; Dr. Thomas Billings, the head of the OEO's Upward Bound program; James Farmer, now president of the Center for Community Action Education; Ralph Dunbar, New Jersey Chancellor of Higher Education; the directors of admission at several large eastern universities, including Rutgers; and representatives of philanthropic foundations.

There was general agreement that lack of money is the most easily identifiable problem and, for that reason, probably the easiest place to begin an attack.

But several other problems emerged, too. Perhaps most fundamental, it was agreed, is that most Negro children do not aspire to college. Harold Howe, U.S. Commissioner of Education, said he met for three hours with representatives of the Poor People's March in Washington and their discussion didn't even touch on higher education, except for better teacher training. He concluded that their aspirations for their children simply don't rise that high.

Another problem is peer preparation. In the South, where Negro teachers predominate in Negro schools, those teachers have attended patently inferior colleges. In the North, too often the ghetto schools are over-crowded, under-financed, and overwhelmed by the problems of educating disadvantaged children. It also was suggested that both the curriculum of the schools and the training the teachers receive is irrelevant to the culture and experience of the student.

THE SCARCITY of successful Negroes, ex-

Superintendent of schools comments on school year and plans for autumn

Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, superintendent of the Mountainside schools, reflecting upon the school year which is coming to a close commended the Mountainside PTA for its contributions, noted the "outstanding program which has been initiated as a start toward school safety" and put forth his views on other matters pertinent to the "continuing improvements" sought for the Mountainside schools.

In the following statement he said: "As the 1967-68 school year draws to a close, my thoughts turn to many things that the PTA has done for the school system. Among these are:

"Another outstanding fair that was successful in spite of relatively poor weather and limited space.

"An outstanding program on school safety. The solution to the problems noted still has to be found.

"Strong assistance in the lot of hard work the school budget in February. A large part of what was needed to do this.

"Excellent study programs that were at-

Heide slams homer in feature of action for Little League

A grand-slam home run by Bruce Heide of the Mountainside Little League Chiefs helped defeat the Elks, 18-2, was one of the features of the past two weeks' action of the league, according to Ed Gihadlo, president.

Other highlights, included the first loss experienced by the previously undefeated Pioneers when the Mustangs beat them, 3-1 behind the pitching of Chris Barry and the relief pitching of Keith Kitchan. Also, Brian Sweat of the Mountainside pitched a no-hit game against the Blue Stars for a 7-0 victory.

cept in athletics and show business, upon whom Negro children can model themselves, contributes to the lack of aspiration and motivation, it was said. In this connection, the director of Upward Bound, Dr. Thomas Billings, conceded that when most of the participants in an Upward Bound project are from one minority group, whether it be Negro, Mexican-American, or some other, better results are achieved by having the project leader or leaders from that minority group. Within a year, Upward Bound leadership will reflect that finding, he said.

Many of the participants in the workshop had ideas on what needs to be done, some of them practical, some of them, perhaps, a bit visionary.

Most agreed that the Negro colleges need to be strengthened, especially in view of the fact that some of the best potential enrollees at these schools are being lured away by the big name northern schools. Senator Edward Brooke asked the presidents of some of these schools what they are doing to attract white students. There was no satisfactory answer to this question.

There also was a suggestion that college financial aid, to disadvantaged children who have college potential but aren't living up to it, be committed much earlier than is the present practice. One suggestion was that these children ought to be told in the tenth grade: "If you want to go to college and are willing to do the work required to bring your grades up to snuff, we'll guarantee you the financial aid suggested. This ought to be done as early as the sixth grade.

THERE WERE A number of proposals for enriching the curriculum of schools which have a predominantly minority group enrollment.

Perhaps the most surprising thing about the conference—to me—was that there was very little discussion of using or other artificially induced methods of racially integrating elementary and secondary schools.

I hesitate to draw any conclusions from this fact. Rather, it can simply be reported that the discussion focused, primarily, on ways to improve preparation and opportunity for college for disadvantaged young people.

Without question, this was one of the most fascinating activities in my experience in the Congress.

In my judgment, it also will be one of the most productive. Some of the ideas suggested are immediately practical and will be brought before the Senate Subcommittee on Education within a few weeks. Others, more far-reaching in nature, will require research and refinement. But nothing is so irresistible as an idea whose time has come. And there were a great many ideas whose time has—or soon will—come, presented at this workshop.

tended by small groups of interested parents. (Mostly mothers, because the meetings were held during the school day.) The topics were timely and valuable.

"Another successful pre-school round-up. The Mountainside Public Schools are indeed fortunate to have a fine and effective PTA that has done all these things. Yet, in the closing days of this school year and all of next year, there will be even a greater need for a strong PTA to help solve some acute state and local educational problems that exist:

"There must be a concerted effort to stop the legislature from steadily eroding local control of public education. In eight short years, the usual number of bills affecting public education has increased from five per year to well over 100. Most of these have been concerned with mandated programs that have added greatly to teachers, working conditions, pay schedules, more inflexible teacher tenure provisions, fringe benefits, and grievance procedures (still pending) in the hands of the state or state agencies. Every time this happens, local control is weakened.

"In addition, public monies have been diverted to private programs of various types. Our PTA will have to work more closely with the county and state organizations to oppose these legislative maneuvers.

"A concerted effort to get more state aid for local school districts must be made. At least 40 percent of the cost per pupil should be forthcoming from the state.

"A LONG AND SEARCHING look must be given to our own local education program and facilities.

We cannot afford to have top teachers leave because of substandard facilities. If we believe that vocal and instrumental music, piano instruction, typing, foreign language, independent study and advanced programs of various types are important for our children, then proper facilities and an adequate number of staff positions must be provided.

"More thought about an expanded school year and an expanded school day must be done. The possible addition of summer and winter camping and outdoor education should be considered as additions to the curriculum.

"Employment on an 11-months' basis may be part of the answer to the economic squeeze being put on male teachers, particularly.

"The last part of the originally defeated bond issue for school construction and additional school land should be initiated very soon.

"A great deal of thought must be given to the Mountainside school system's role in the racial problems that surround us. Do we have a part to play? If so, what is it? Do we have any evidence that will help us make wise decisions in this area? Since this is a very sensitive area, thorough study must be given to the problem.

"The whole problem of student, parent, school and community values must be re-examined. Control of the children in the home, school and community is not what it used to be. The present critical situation at Columbia and other institutions of higher learning, the apparent breakdown of law and order and the rapid acceleration of the crime rates may be clues to the need for immediate action.

"The problems that I mention are only a few of the many that could be listed, and I hope we can all consider them over the summer and start the 1968-69 year with a determination to relentlessly seek solutions."

Student awarded MBA at Harvard

Glenn Noah Rupp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn N. Rupp of 317 Farridge run, Mountainside, was among the more than 4,100 students who received their academic degrees from Harvard University on June 13, it was announced last week.

Traditionally held in the tree-shaded Yard on a permanent stage adjoining the Memorial Church, the annual ceremony of conferring degrees was followed by a series of small informal "commencements" in the Harvard Houses and graduate schools. There, each student received his degree individually from officials of the school or House with which he was associated.

Rupp, a graduate of Westfield High School who received his BA degree in mechanical engineering from Duke University, Durham, N.C., was awarded a master's degree in business administration from Harvard. He plans to become affiliated with a New York City business firm in the near future.

cipal pool, which will be paid from proceeds from the pool and will not come out of borough taxes, were fixed by the council as: pool manager, $2,000 for the year; assistant pool manager, $1,000 for the season; assistant coaches $75-$90 per 40-week; life guards, $50-$65 per week; instructors, $60-$80 per week; maintenance men, $60 per week; clerk, $60 per week; gate control, $1.50 per hour; extra maintenance, $1.50-$2.00 per hour.

An ordinance was approved to authorize the acquisition of lands owned by George and Virginia Dreyer, which are adjacent to the Deerfield School property and which will be used to enlarge the play area behind the school.

An ordinance was also adopted to prohibit parking on the north sides of Mountain and Virginia avenues, and on the east side of Central avenue.

THE COUNCIL APPROVED Mohamed Mahl as a new member of the volunteer fire department.

James Fettes of 1334 Hidden Circle complained to the mayor and council of the continued water problem on his property. He said the recent rains had made his property "unlivable" and that because of the clogged drains, debris was piled up.

He said that although he has had trouble over the past five years, the condition has now reached such proportions that despite the retaining wall which was installed and which had been washed away, he has no intentions of permitting this "untenable condition" to exist any longer without more help from the borough.

His complaint was corroborated by a neighbor, Eugene Platt, who told the council that the stench from the piled-up debris, necessitated his installing central air conditioning in his home. Platt suggested that a bacteria count be made by the Board of Health to determine if the condition was hazardous to residents in the area.

The mayor told the two men that he and the council were sympathetic to their problems. He said permanent relief could be obtained only when the federal funds the borough was awaiting become available to complete the job of installing a new and better drainage system, but in the interim he would take immediate steps to determine some means to prevent the debris from stacking up.

He said he would confer with Robert Koser, borough engineer, concerning the matter and would instruct Koser to do whatever he could to help alleviate the matter.

Miss Romano honored on 25 years at Dayton

Anne Romano, of Mountainside, assistant principal of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, was the guest of the school's Teachers' Association at a dinner held at Stouffer's Restaurant, in Short Hills last night honoring her 25th year of service at the school.

Avery Ward, president of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 Board of Education, presented Miss Romano with her 25-year service pin and inducted her as the 10th member of this service group in the district. Jonathan Dayton Regional High School opened its doors as the only school of the Union County District in 1937. In 1962, the first members of the 25-year club were honored at a dinner of the Teachers' Association. They included Carl Matthews, Walter Hohn, Miss Barbara Dimmers, Margaret Maitland, who are still teaching at Dayton; Mrs. Ruth Montgomery, retired, and Stanley Werner and Edward Fry, who died recently. Two years ago, Helen Crawford and Joseph Sott, who are still teaching, were inducted as the eighth and ninth members of the 25-year club.

August Caprio, coordinator of languages in the Union County Regional District, acted as toastmaster. He introduced members of the head table who paid tribute to Miss Romano for her 25 years of service as a teacher and administrator: Dr. Warren Davis, superintendent; Dr. T. Randolph Jacobsen, assistant superintendent; Robert F. LaVanture, principal; George Barclay, past president of the Regional District Teachers' Association; Avery Ward, president of the Board of Education; and Dennis Fox, president of the Teachers' Association, who presented Miss Romano with a gift from the association.

Caprio also introduced, from the 120 friends in attendance, Michael Romano, father of the guest of honor, Dr. Minor Jones, William Mellick, Thomas Nolan, Mrs. Natalie Waldt, board members, and Warren Halsey, retired superintendent of the Regional schools.

Miss Romano is a 1940 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. She graduated in 1943 from Montclair College with a BA in social studies which she taught in Dayton that year. She became assistant principal at Dayton in 1960. She also has an MA degree from Rutgers University in 1953 and has completed work beyond her master's degree at Rutgers. She holds permanent certificates as high school principal, high school supervisor and director of student personnel. She resides in Mountainside with her father.

The committee in charge of the affair included Mrs. Dorothy Cassak, Mrs. Jean Cusmano, Mrs. Claire Masson, Mrs. Carol Snyder and Herbert H. Palmer.

Hundreds injured each year from careless lawn mowing

Power mower accidents this year alone will affect the future of hundreds of persons so unfortunate as to get their feet or hands in the way of the rotating mower blades, a national safety expert warned this week.

Most everyone has read or heard about a few power mower accidents involving well known personages, but few people realize how many of these mishaps there are annually throughout the country, according to Don Costa, safety director of the Allstate Insurance Companies.

"Although most power mowers appear harmless and are designed to operate safely, they are dangerous when misused," Costa warned.

Lethal injuries are comparatively infrequent. However, the so-called minor injuries can be costly and -- all too often -- disabling. A mower can clip most objects, including toes and fingers, that get in its way. If the blade hits a stone or piece of glass, the object can be hurled with enough force to kill. The number one danger of a power mower is direct contact with the blade. About every seventh mower injury is an amputation.

"But while nearly half of all people disabled in power lawn mower accidents were cutting the grass when they were hurt, other injuries occurred in lifting a mower, trying to start a mower, removing foreign objects from the blades or taking off the grass catcher," Allstate's safety authority points out.

With the increasing use of power mowers, it is essential that the public be aware of the dangers involved in their operation, Costa said. Allstate offers the following tips for power mower users:

1. Disconnect the spark plug whenever you want to work on the underside of the mower, as well as when you are refueling. If you do not know how to disconnect this wire or electrical plug for safety, ask your dealer to show you.

2. Thoroughly inspect the lawn before beginning to mow and clear it of all sticks, stones, wire and other debris.

3. Never fill the tank indoors or while the engine is hot or still running.

Family food dollar buys more extras, group told

The food dollar of the typical American family today buys more expensive foods, more variety, more convenience and more services than it used to. And this family spends less than 18 percent of its income for food because basic food items are costing less and disposable incomes continue to increase.

So said Leland G. Merrill, Jr., dean of the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environment Science, last week at a Rutgers dinner marking the end of a second 14-week seminar course for supermarket managers. Another speaker was Francis A. Raymaley, director of the Division of Markets, N.J. Department of Agriculture. Dr. Merrill awarded certificates to 60 men and women who completed the course, a repeat of the first management seminar last fall. The seminars were a joint venture of the College of Agriculture and Environmental Science and the food retailing industry.

Isotopes 'weigh' Russian trains

Soviet industries are saving tens of thousands of rubles annually by the use of radioisotopes. New techniques using isotopes can be used for such diverse jobs as weighing loaded freight trains and measuring layers a few thousandths of an inch thick.

The industrial measuring methods are described in the latest issue of "Impact," the quarterly science magazine of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

The gamma rays emitted by radioisotopes are partially absorbed depending on the mass and thickness of the material through which they pass. To "weigh" freight trains, radioisotopes are placed beneath the train and a gamma ray counter above it. The thickness of the load is known, so the mass can be calculated after measuring the number of gamma rays passing through.

Negro history course in Rider pilot program

Rider College will include as part of its pilot program for disadvantaged students this summer a special course in Negro history and culture. Teaching the course will be Richard Kane, a history instructor who has specialized in Negro history and is authoring a thesis on "Federal segregation of the Negro in the Progressive Era" for his doctorate at Lehigh University. It will mark the first time that Rider has offered a course in Negro history. The summer program will serve as preparation for the entry of the students into regular classroom work in September. Rider is paying for a full four-year scholarship plus room and board for 10 students. Kane says he is planning a flexible course that will deal with contemporary Negro life and literature as well as history. "We want to bring to the surface hidden fears and disguised hatred," says Kane. "We want to produce a general understanding of attitudes, an understanding of people as people." Scheduled as part of the program are five films including documentaries on Watts, a study of prejudice, discrimination in housing and non-violence in civil rights.

Kane says the course also will deal with different views of slavery and with the relevance of Africa to the students as individuals. Kane says his thesis points out that in the so-called period of progressivism between 1900 and 1928 officially sanctioned segregation in federal departments "was accepted if not desired" by the federal administration. "Because of this hypocrisy in a progressive era, the reaction of black extremists from Marcus Garvey then to Rap Brown today becomes understandable," says Kane. A Philadelphia native, Kane graduated from Overbrook High School — he played some basketball there — with Wilt Chamberlain and received his bachelor of science and master's degrees in history from Temple.

Kane taught at Lehigh and at Inter-American University in Puerto Rico before coming to Rider two years ago. He resides with his wife and son in Morristown.

THE RAVEN

Edgar Allan Poe's poem, "The Raven," was published for the first time in the New York Evening Mirror on January 29, 1845. It was not signed by him, however. Poe chose to use the nom de plume of "Quarles."

My Neighbors Job age law now in effect

Employers and employees in New York and New Jersey were reminded that the new Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 is now in effect. The reminder came from Frank B. Mercurio, regional director of the U.S. Department of Labor's Wage-Hour and Public Contracts Divisions.

Mercurio pointed out that the Act protects individuals 40-65 years old from age discrimination by promoting the employment of the older worker based on ability rather than age, prohibiting arbitrary age discrimination in employment, and helping employers and employees find ways to meet problems arising from the impact of age on employment.

The Act specifically states that any employer who fails to hire or promote a worker because of his age, or who fires a worker for the same reason, is in violation of the law.

Any employment agency failing to refer workers because of their age, or any union organizations refusing membership or job referral on the basis of age, are also in violation.

It is also unlawful under certain conditions to advertise a job vacancy or employment preference based on age. Mercurio said that questions about the new Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 would be answered at any office of the Wage-Hour and Public Contracts Division.

Secretary of Labor praises Neighborhood Youth Corps

WASHINGTON—The Neighborhood Youth Corps, now three and one-half years old, has been one of the nation's most successful antipoverty programs, Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz has declared.

The Secretary said the Corps has significantly reduced school dropouts rates; favorably affected juvenile delinquency rates; placed hundreds of thousands of hard-core jobless young people in permanent jobs; sent more thousands back to classrooms, and helped to relieve help shortages in crucial areas such as health care.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps has enrolled 1.4 million youngsters 14 years and over since it began in December, 1964. Of this number 957,000 were in-school and summer enrollees and 439,000 were out-of-schoolers. The Federal Government has invested close to $1 billion in this effort.

On April 1, 1968, approximately 200,000 youths were enrolled and at work, 137,000 participating in the in-school program and 63,000 in the out-of-school program.

The latest study of enrollees reveals these characteristics: A third of the enrollees are from families with eight persons or more. The median family size is six persons.

About a quarter of the enrollees come from families receiving public assistance.

About one-half of the enrollees are from households headed by a father.

Although the Corps has always recruited poverty-level youngsters, it continues to dig deeper into the rural areas and urban ghettos to enroll those whose families have been hardest hit by economic and cultural deprivation.

Youngsters in the out-of-school program in 1965 were 51 percent white and the remainder nonwhite. By August 1967 the balance had shifted to 53 percent nonwhite.

The shift in the in-school and summer programs combined was even more dramatic. In 1965, 33 percent were nonwhite. By August 1967 this had increased to 48 percent.

A typical out-of-school enrollee in 1965 had completed 10.9 grades in school. By August 1967 this was down to 10.7 grades even.

And the Corps is now recruiting youngsters from poorer families. Out-of-school enrollees as of August 1967, came from families whose median income was $2,208. By August 1967 this figure had slipped to $2,084.

Median family income for in-school enrollees during the same periods went down from $2,593 annually to $2,386.

During the past year, the average out-of-schooler was paid $1.40 an hour, while his in-school counterpart was paid a minimum of $1.25 an hour.

Four outstanding examples: In Cleveland, the dropout rate among enrollees in 13 inner-city schools was three percent for the 1966-67 school year, compared to a dropout rate of 15 percent in these schools for non-NYC youth.

In Pittsburgh, a survey completed in May, 1967, of all 16 high schools for the 1965-66 year disclosed that the dropout rate for NYC enrollees was four percent, or half the dropout rate for non-NYC students.

In Washington, D.C., a study of NYC teenagers during 1965 and 1966 at three high schools revealed that fewer than two percent of these youngsters had dropped out of school by June, 1967. The normal dropout rate for these schools is nearly 20 percent.

In Minneapolis, a study of 11 high schools for the 1966-67 school year revealed an overall dropout rate of 15 percent. Only four percent of the NYC enrollees quit school.

Some 61 percent of the 1,766 enrollees in the project between September, 1966, and September, 1967, came from welfare families.

When the Neighborhood Youth Corps was launched in December, 1964, Secretary Wirtz said:

"For many thousands of boys and girls, the employment provided by Youth Corps projects will be the exact difference between having no future as a high school dropout and having a good future as a graduate. For thousands of others who have dropped out of school permanently, this program will rescue their job hopes by providing them with desperately needed work experience."

After three and one half years, the Secretary said, "While our record isn't perfect, we have in the main delivered on our promises."

NYC youths get into less trouble with the law after they enroll. In San Antonio, for example, juvenile delinquency declined nearly 13 percent in the slums last year, where NYC was operative, while it jumped 5.5 percent during the same period in the higher income areas of the city and county.

In Dayton, Ky., a letter early in 1967 from a local judge stated that juvenile delinquency decreased 30 percent and he gave the credit to NYC.

The Los Angeles Times reported in May, 1967, that only one percent of the 2,000 enrollees in a project in that city had been convicted of a crime since enrolling, though 50 percent had previous criminal records.

Youths active in juvenile crime often find themselves on the right side of the law after joining the Neighborhood Youth Corps. Labor Department figures show that in September of 1967 more than 2,500 enrollees were working in public safety jobs.

NYC enrollees serve as aides in libraries, schools, hospitals and other public and nonprofit institutions. The in-school program allows youngsters 14 and up to work in their spare time up to 15 hours a week. In the summer and out-of-school projects, enrollees spend up to 40 hours a week working or taking advantage of supportive services such as remedial education, job-related training, counseling and health care.

The Labor Department's Manpower Administration funds up to 90 percent of the cost and lays down the guidelines. The local sponsor — a community action agency, a state agency, a municipality, a county institution or a school system — handles the administration, such as locating the work sites, recruitment, record-keeping and arranging for supportive services.

Mrs. Miriam "Ma" Ferguson became the second woman governor of a state in 1925. She was Texas' chief executive. A few days earlier, Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross was inducted as governor of Wyoming. She was elected to fill the term of her late husband, William B. Ross.

Coins to carry 'food gap' messages

War on hunger minting sponsored by UN

A score of countries are planning to toss coins into a unique war-on-hunger pool sponsored by the United Nations.

The idea is to mint special coins carrying designs and inscriptions aimed at educating the public to the food-gap crisis. Italy, for example, will circulate five million silver pieces of the 1,000-lire denomination, each worth a little over $1.50. India will strike a 10-rupee coin, worth about 12 cents. Other countries participating in the education-by-coin project include Afghanistan, Brazil, Ceylon, Jordan, Syria, the Philippines and Turkey.

The designs will fall into two categories: under-developed countries will accent the necessity of producing more food nationally, and more advanced nations will stress the need to support worldwide food production through the United Nations and other international agencies.

For coin collectors, the Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO) headquarters in Rome will assemble and sell in complete sets the special issues of all participating countries. The sales proceeds will help support regional farm-credit projects.

TODAY'S DAILY WORLD output of 60 million gallons of fresh water distilled from the sea will more than triple by 1979, the U.N. predicts.

TO PROTECT THE flood-ravaged art treasures of Venice and Florence from further damage, the United Nations has launched a five-year drive to raise $10 million in voluntary contributions.

The action was taken by the Executive Board of the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). The campaign, the resolution reads, is intended "to safeguard the awe-inspiring models and splendid monuments bequeathed by Italian genius to the human race."

The new funds would supplement private and government efforts which already have gone a long way toward repairing the damage of the 1966 floods. For example, the Italian government alone has allocated more than $7 million in emergency money in the past two years. American government and private sources account for an additional $4 million. And the Soviet Union and Canadian governments have given about a half million dollars each.

THE GROWTH of worldwide travel has increased the threat that leprosy will spread from Afro-Asia and Latin America, where it is most prevalent, to the United States and other advanced countries. That prospect is suggested in a United Nations bulletin which estimates that there are 15 million lepers in the world today, including 2,000 registered cases in the United States. The report says that in America, the incidence is highest in California, Louisiana, Texas and Hawaii.

In pleading for greater understanding and more generous research funds, U.N. officials say that superstition surrounding leprosy often causes more suffering to the victim than the disease itself. Dr. Leon Baumgartner, president of the American Association for World Health, emphasizes: "Leprosy isn't a killer. It isn't even highly infectious. The most dismal fact about leprosy is that it can be arrested in most victims but isn't."

ANTICIPATING THE signing of a non-proliferation treaty to halt the spread of nuclear bombs, the United Nations is preparing to hire more inspectors to police the pact.

Inspection is intended to detect any secret attempts to divert nuclear materials from peaceful uses to the manufacture of atomic weapons. IAEA (International Atomic Energy Agency) already functions as a watchdog by voluntary invitations extended by some countries, including the United States.

A score of inspectors are now on the IAEA staff, but 100 more will be needed when the international non-proliferation treaty comes into effect—possibly later this year. The urgency of applying safeguards is pointed up by estimates that by 1980, the world's nuclear power-plants will yield sufficient plutonium as a by-product to manufacture 100 nuclear bombs a day.

FLIGHT CANCELLATIONS, delays and aircraft diversion caused by bad weather cost the world's airlines up to $100 million a year in lost revenue, the United Nations International Civil Aviation Organization estimates.

PROFESSOR SETH SPAULDING, formerly of the University of Pittsburgh, has taken up duties as director of educational methods, techniques and teacher training for UNESCO (United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization). The uses of new resources in education such as TV, teaching machines and language laboratories will be extensively studied by Professor Spaulding's committee.

ADVOCATES of a global war on poverty through the United Nations were deeply disturbed by the refusal of the U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee to authorize funds for the IDA (International Development Association). Speaking of the "poverty-gap" — between industrialized and under-developed countries — Secretary General U Thant declared, "Since the second World War, the rich countries have become richer, and the poor countries, poorer. This widening gap is, in my view, the most potent source of tensions in the world today — a growing threat to peaceful co-existence."

1,456 given treatment during '67 at Union County Psychiatric Clinic

The Union County Psychiatric Clinic spent $317,54 during 1967 to provide psychiatric treatment for 1,456 emotionally disturbed children and adults in Union County and North Plainfield.

Mrs. William Kinast of Westfield, who is serving her second one-year term as president of the clinic's board, this week made public its annual report which showed there were 796 children's cases and 660 adult cases during the year. Weekly therapy was administered 520 children under 18 and consultation was held with 612 parents of these children.

The psychiatric staff of the clinic also gave 192 brief consultations including psychological testing to children under 18, and held 418 consultations with parents about their children.

The clinic, volunteer-organized and directed, offers weekly psychiatric interviews and therapy and allied services to children and adults at its offices in Plainfield, Elizabeth, Linden, Summit and Westfield. Fees are based on ability to pay.

The professional psychiatric staff is directed by Dr. Jay W. Fidler who succeeded Dr. William E. Gans as medical director last July.

The clinic staff includes 27 psychiatrists, psychologists and psychiatric social workers. In addition there were 20 other members of the staff during the year, many of whom completed specialized psychiatric courses under the clinic's training program.

THE ANNUAL REPORT SHOWS that the largest number of patients were referred to the clinic by their physicians, a total of 321. Another 313 were referred by school officials, while 146 came to the clinic on their own initiative. There were 125 cases referred by the courts.

The clinic treated 351 Plainfield patients, and 317 Elizabeth residents. The breakdown for other towns is as follows: Berkeley Heights, 59; Clark, 44; Cranford, 123; Fanwood, 38; Garwood, 29; Hillside, 84; Kenilworth, 39; Linden, 173; Mountainside, 18; New Providence, 75; North Plainfield, 84; Rahway, 91; Roselle, 76; Roselle Park, 48; Scotch Plains, 96; Springfield, 71; Summit, 113; Union, 188; Westfield, 139; Winfield, 12, and referred by the courts, 173.

The largest waiting list at the end of the year was in Union where 27 could not be taken immediately. Linden had a waiting list of 19, Plainfield 12 and Roselle Park 10. Service to communities is pro rated according to the towns' financial support of the clinic though cases judged to need immediate attention are cared for without waiting, according to Executive Director Benjamin H. Haddock of Fanwood.

Support by communities during the year was as follows: Berkeley Heights, $3,000; Clark, $3,000; Cranford, $7,228.96; Elizabeth, $8,207.50; Fanwood, $1,900; Garwood, $600; Hillside, $2,194; Kenilworth, $1,000; Linden, $5,079; Mountainside, $1,900; New Providence, $2,540; North Plainfield, $3,500; Plainfield, $9,505.77; Rahway, $2,937.42; Roselle, $1,894; Roselle Park, $824; Scotch Plains, $3,704.80; Springfield, $3,500; Summit, $6,668; Union, $5,000; Westfield, $5,200; Winfield, $400; Court, $500.

Teachers elected Delegation to Jersey board

James Holcombe of Union has been selected to the Executive Committee of the New Jersey Education Association. Holcombe will represent Union County for another three years on NJEA's governing board. His term will expire in November, 1971.

Elected to full two-year terms on NJEA's policy-making Delegation Assembly are John Gardner of Summit, Charles Longacre of Newark State College, Vivian Maggese of Union County Regional, and Amy Sarro of Plainfield.

William Teley of Mountainside was elected to a one-year Delegation Assembly term. Teley also won election as Union County representative on the state nominating committee, the group that will select the "official" slate of candidates seeking NJEA's three top offices for 1970-71.

The Mobilization was held in an effort to put pressure on Congress to act on anti-poverty measures, including creation of a million jobs, adoption of the Housing and Urban Development Act, repeal of welfare legislation passed by the 90th Congress, inclusion of the poor in planning and administering federal programs at the local level and other measures.

NIH RESEARCH FOR HEALTH
A REPORT FROM THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH
BETHESDA, MARYLAND

POISON IVY, OAK, AND SUMAC
Many people claim that they are highly susceptible to poison ivy, but are totally unaffected by poison oak or poison sumac. This is probably not true, according to the National Institutes of Health, for the substance which causes the allergic reaction is closely related to that which causes the allergy to poison oak and probably that of poison sumac. According to research studies conducted and supported by the Division of Biologics Standards, NIH, the villain which causes the allergic rash and blisters is a sticky sap whose active ingredient, called urushiol, is found on all parts of all three plants. Thus a person who contracts poison ivy most likely also will react to poison oak and poison sumac. The skin reactions from the urushiols, which affect seven of every 10 people, varies with the individual's sensitivity and amount of exposure.

Contact with urushiol is necessary to develop the allergic reaction, but contact with the plant itself is not necessary. Garden tools, work clothes, camping gear, pets, and smoke from the burning plants can cause a person to come into contact with the oily sap. Even the dead roots and leaves of the plants contain urushiol and are potentially dangerous. Children sometimes eat the berries which may cause an allergic reaction in the mouth or in the rectal area as the plant is excreted. Urushiol victims worry about scarring—which seldom occurs—and tend to overreact to the symptoms. Contrary to popular belief, scratching the rash and "weeping" blisters does not cause scarring. The most important procedures are preventive measures: learning to recognize the plants and avoiding contact. If that fails, the exposed skin should be washed immediately with strong soap to remove the urushiol. Clothing which has made contact with urushiol is usually the cause of spreading the rash and should also be thoroughly washed.

A new pamphlet prepared by the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases (NIAID), contains information on research in these plant allergies, along with pointers from the U.S. Department of Agriculture on how to recognize, avoid, and eliminate the plants. The NIAID—one of the eight National Institutes of Health—is the primary research arm of the NIH concerned with seeking knowledge leading to the prevention or cure of allergic disorders and infectious diseases.

Pilot course for Negro at college

Rider College will include as part of its pilot program for disadvantaged students this summer a special course in Negro history and culture. Teaching the course will be Richard Kane, a history instructor who has specialized in Negro history and is authoring a thesis on "Federal segregation of the Negro in the Progressive Era" for his doctorate at Lehigh University. It will mark the first time that Rider has offered a course in Negro history. The summer program will serve as preparation for the entry of the students into regular classroom work in September. Rider is paying for a full four-year scholarship plus room and board for 10 students. Kane says he is planning a flexible course that will deal with contemporary Negro life and literature as well as history.

TERRA COTTA

The rich terra cotta color of clay pots is a standard, widely-recommended decorator color, so clay pots whose surfaces are kept clean can be properly and attractively used without ornamentation as exterior containers for house plants. They also blend well with flowering and foliage varieties, without detracting from the plant itself.

CLOTHES CARE COMMENTS

SAM MANN (Diamond Cleaners)

In the spring, a young man's fancy may turn to tender thoughts. However, for many homemakers, I'm afraid spring thoughts turn to washing windows and storing winter woollens.

Unfortunately, summer storage too often means crowded closets that flatten and wrinkle crisp summer cotton dresses and sportswear. Summer storage may also mean summer feasts for moths.

Ordinarily, normal dry cleaning will kill moth life, but during the season when a garment is not worn or cleaned regularly, it should be moth-proofed before storage.

And that's only half the job. To be sure of preventing moth damage, closets used for storage should be fumigated and all concentrations of dust (such as gathers between the floor boards) removed. Otherwise, you may find that these dusty areas are breeding places for hungry moths.

Of course, there's an easier way. DIAMOND CLEANERS service includes both moth-proofing and protected storage in moth-proof vaults.

The Volkswagen for people who refuse to drive Volkswagens.

If you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because it's ugly, we can't help you.
If you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because you have eight kids and it isn't big enough, you have our sympathy.
If you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because it isn't fancy enough, that's for you to decide.
But if you refuse to drive a Volkswagen because you're used to an automatic transmission, listen carefully.

Now you can drive a Volkswagen all over town without shifting.

We call this new option the automatic stick shift.

And in true Volkswagen fashion, a bug with an automatic stick shift will deliver up to 25 miles on a gallon of gas, use very little oil, and nary a drop of water or antifreeze.

But just because we've made it easy to drive, doesn't mean we're about to make it any prettier, or any bigger, or any fancier. So we imagine some people will still refuse to drive Volkswagens.

You can't win them all.

Ask Amy

By

Dear Amy:
A new tenant (a single male) moved into the apartment next to mine. He knocks on my door all the time with the silliest excuses for doing so. Such as: "Is my hi-fi bothering you?" . . . or . . . "Do you have a book I can borrow on how to play Bridge?" . . . or . . . "I ran out of stamps; can you sell me two?"

Dear Amy:
There is a girl who is always "hanging around" with us. If we go to the movies, she goes to the movies. If we go to the Center, she goes to the Center. All this uninvited. She would just "happen" to bump into us (so she says). She is really a nice girl and is really very cute but she just doesn't seem to fit in.

Dear Amy:
My husband is understanding, sweet, and a wonderful guy. But my mother lives 15 miles away from me, which is a toll call. My husband allows me to do whatever I want and buy whatever I choose. My mother insists that I call her every day. She's elderly and these calls comfort her. If I don't call, she worries about the children and me. My dear husband disagrees with this, as I can understand, because the phone bills are so high.

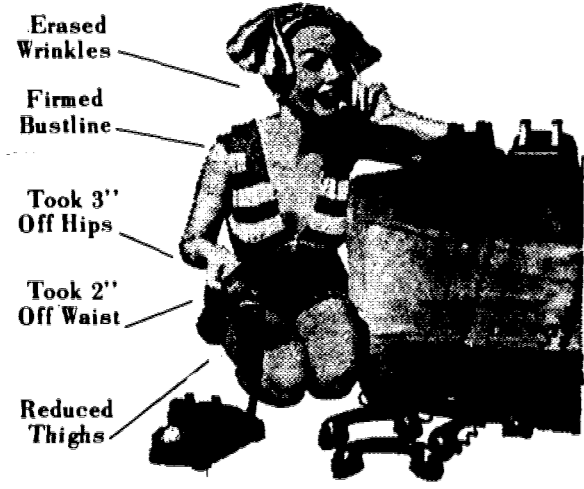

I judge him to be about 33 or so. I am a married woman of 37. Do you think he knows this and doesn't care or is he trying to make time with me because he doesn't know I'm married?
Gladys

"We've tried snubbing her, but couldn't go through with it. Is there any way we can quietly dump her?"
Ex-Friends
I would say you have done a pretty good job of dumping her already.
What's wrong with your girl? Is your friendship so precious and clickish that you cannot accept into your midst a girl who is, by your own admission, a really nice girl who is also lonely - shame on you! With friends like you, who needs enemies!

Dear Amy, what shall I do? I love my mother, but I love my husband, too.
A Phoney Wife and Daughter

Dear Gladys:
His reasons for bothering you don't sound like he's trying to "make time". But if you want to make sure he knows you're married, tell him your husband has what-ever he wants to borrow, and he will have to ask him.

Tips for Today's Homemaker

From Anne L. Sheelan, County Home Economist

Preparing homemade ice cream is an event which can result in enjoyment for the entire family.

Many of you will remember with nostalgia the excitement and anticipation of awaiting a dish of homemade ice cream from the hand-cranked freezer. When the crank refused to budge one more inch, out would come the dasher covered with the creamiest, most delicious ice cream you ever tasted. Provide a similar experience for your children so they too will have such fond memories as adults.

A wide variety of ice cream freezers are available in the market. They range in design from the simple, old-fashioned hand-turned style to the more sophisticated motor-driven electric models. If you decide to purchase an ice cream freezer, choose the style which is most suitable to your needs. Consider how often you plan to use it and your requirements with regard to time and energy.

Specific directions for using an ice cream freezer should be available with a particular unit. A couple of specific hints, however, are in order.

When pouring the ice cream mixture into the freezer can, fill it only two-thirds to three-fourths full. Room is needed for expansion during the freezing process.

Your ice cream needs to develop flavor and should not be served immediately. When the freezing process is over, protect the ice cream with ice and rock salt as directed for your unit and let it stand for at least four hours.

HOMEMADE VANILLA ICE CREAM

1 quart milk
2 cups sugar
1/4 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 eggs, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon vanilla

1-1/2 quarts light cream, or dairy half and half
Scald milk. Mix sugar, flour and salt. Add enough hot milk to sugar-flour mixture to make a thin paste. Stir paste into hot milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens slightly about 15 minutes. Add hot mixture gradually to beaten eggs and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens slightly, about two minutes. (Do not cook longer or eggs may curdle.) Cool quickly in refrigerator. Do not allow mixture to cool at room temperature.

Add vanilla and light cream to cooled mixture. Pour into freezer can; fill only two-thirds full to allow for expansion. Freeze and ripen by basic directions for freezing ice cream. Makes 1 gallon.

VARIATIONS:

Strawberry Ice Cream: Omit three cups light cream. Add one quart washed and hulled strawberries which have been mashed and sweetened with 1/2 cup additional sugar. Add a few drops of red food color if you wish.

Chocolate Ice Cream: Add four squares unsweetened chocolate to milk before scalding. After scalding, beat with rotary beater until chocolate flecks disappear. Increase sugar by one-half cup and prepare according to directions for freezing Homemade Vanilla Ice Cream.

Dear Amy:
Our daughter (16) has dated a couple of nice boys recently. Now she has a boy on her mind who is a graduate of high school. She thinks she likes him, would like him to come to the house and also date him.

The trouble is he has been involved in a sex affair during the time he was in grade school, involved in petty thefts and is of a different religion. Most of his teachers have said he was a problem boy in school.

With these things against him, how is the situation handled? Do we tell our daughter not to date him . . . or allow it?

Does a 16-year-old really know how she feels about certain boys?
Troubled Parents

Dear Parents:
A 16 year old girl THINKS she knows how she feels about boys . . . but her feelings are short-lived. You have every right to oversee her friendships. The wrong ones can be damaging.

Do not permit her to date this boy unless he has changed and his present behavior patterns are acceptable to you. And don't take just anyone's word for it, find out for yourself!

A FEMININE LOOK AT SOME MID-EUROPEAN CITIES: 1968

(Commentary on a Study Mission to Germany, Hungary, Yugoslavia and Greece)
By TRUDINA HOWARD

Third in A Series
THE GREEK GOVERNMENT

In the year since the coup of April 21, 1967, the new Army-backed government of Greece seems stronger than when it began—and more popular.

It seems to have won over its own people as well as people abroad. Internally, there appears to be no sign of upheaval or discontent or distress, and externally, the rule-of-the-Colonels is recognized by most governments of the world, and the new government is a member in good standing at the United Nations.

In a time when most new governments are absorbed only in entrenching themselves, the new regime in Greece seems also to have done some people-to-people work. It has made some improvements, some changes, some mistakes, but at least, it has done things. There are some who think the improvements are mistakes, and some who think the mistakes are improvements—so perhaps things will come out even. But there have been numerous church reforms; large portions of agricultural debts have been canceled; personal loan privileges have been restored (even though the interest rate reaches to 12 and 13 percent); reportedly there is greater efficiency in the handling of governmental affairs; "Law 89" has been passed to allow special tax allowances for certain types of businesses, as well as other tax measures for foreign investors; Greece's association with the Common Market has been maintained; shipping is up, (although tourism is down. The other big industry of Greece is agricultural and that appears normal); there is no evidence of black-marketing, and the Drachma has remained stable. These are but a few.

all foreign newspapers and magazines have free access into Greece and can be had at regular prices at all news stands just as they come. No censorship!

But whether there is approval or disapproval the important question seems to be whether or not the new government serves Greece, with Greece's own particular set of conditions and problems, better than the ones before. Perhaps it does. Perhaps it does not. Perhaps there will be another opposition government soon. Perhaps this one will succeed. It all remains to be seen.

It does seem, however, that the Greek "Colonels" have a word for it, and a way for it—at least for now.

Guards at UN appreciate mini—even if they're against the rules

By TRUDINA HOWARD

While the mini-skirt may not be entirely welcome at the United Nations, even in the summertime, it is still a thing of appreciation for the male guards, and many a mini gets through.

But it is the men and their dress that give the guards the biggest problem in summer. Shorts and sport shirts are considered inappropriate at the UN where the rule for dress is more to the "courtroom" style, and in the warm months many tourists appear in shorts and sports shirts. Sometimes they get through, but in the Delegate's dining room, never. Even little boys are required to wear jackets there.

The pretty girl guides at the UN who have long yearned to wear shorter skirts on their UN uniforms, have finally gotten them to about two inches above the knee, and that is now fairly standard except in the case of national costumes (such as the Indian sari) and then the length is no question.

In the peak of the season, which is spring, there are approximately 100 guides representing 44 countries, according to Maurice Liu, Chief of Visitor's Services. Low ebb is January and February and then the guides number only between 55 and 60, with lower national representation, naturally.

Summer hours this year for the tourists will be the same as in the winter, Liu said. The building will be open from 9 to 5 every day, including Sundays and the Fourth of July. Tours leave every time a group reaches 25 and the last tour will gather at 4:45 p.m. Group tickets are sold at the information counter in the visitor's building on the north side of the UN.

Tickets to the Delegate's dining room are also available on a first come, first serve basis. The dining room is open to the public during the complete lunch hour when the General Assembly is not in session. When the GA is in session, however, it is open only until 12 noon for the public and then again from 2 to 3 p.m. The GA is usually in session from September to the end of December.

Director will debut at new Arts Center

Henry Lewis, the New Jersey Symphony's new music director, will make his formal public debut with the orchestra in the Symphony's first appearance at the new Garden State Arts Center on Monday at Telegraph Hill on the Garden State Parkway.

The concert, to begin at 9 p.m., will be the first of a series of five to be given by the orchestra this summer at the new cultural facility. Each will be directed by Lewis.

The concert will consist of two major works, with the program opener to be the Dvorak Symphony No. 4 in G Major. Following the intermission, the Symphony will be accompanied by the 150 voices of the Desoff Choirs of New York, as well as three distinguished soloists, in a performance of "Carmina Burana". The popular choral work is a scenic cantata by the 20th century German composer, Carl Orff.

Newark Link holds grand officers night

Newark Link 3, Order of the Golden Chain, will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Elizabeth Masonic Temple, 668 North Broad St. Miss Francis Plotkin will preside.

A grand officers' night will follow the business meeting. Officers will be honored. Newark Link is holding its 21st annual tag week drive in Newark through Saturday. Mrs. Beatrice Warner is chairman. All proceeds will go to the Golden Chain Camp for Underprivileged Children in Blairstown.

Mrs. Jeanne Forman Brown will sing at Tuesday's meeting, and she will be accompanied by Mrs. Rose Plotkin Freedman of Newark. Mrs. Pauline Josephson is in charge of hostesses. All master masons and members of the order are invited to attend.

APPARENTLY THE ONLY DISSENTING voices come from Greek nationals abroad complaining in newspapers and on television in New York, London, Paris, etc.; and the shopkeepers and inn-keepers, whose sales are lower because of the lower number of tourists. The Scandinavian ban on travel to Greece, President Johnson's statements regarding foreign travel, and the publicity of the Greek coup itself have all tended to lower the tourist business. Even though the places we visited seemed crowded, in a normal year, they would have been stuffed. One must assume also that the relatives of the reported 2,000 or so ex-officials who are now believed to be under house arrest (George Papandreu for one) or imprisoned on one of the Greek islands, are not among the satisfied ones.

Yet an ex-prime minister of a few years back is very highly spoken of by current groups of officials and seems likely once again to be active in political life. So, presumably, not all ex-officials are doomed. An American source said there was no evidence of police cruelty to these prisoners—"no more than the usual police cruelty anyways."

Of the 22 cabinet members of the so-called "Army regime," only three are ex-Colonels. The Premier, George Papadopoulos is one, two were in the army up to 1961, three are university professors, three are lawyers, one is a high court judge, the rest are scientists or other professionals and one—is a journalist!

Since there is no Parliament, and we found no Parliament to dissolve, one official said, these 22 men run the country and a majority vote rules. There is no voting by the public. This new regime has set a date for a plebiscite on a new Parliament, however, September is set for a new constitution to be drafted and the people will vote whether to accept it or re-adopt the previous one. After that, an election day will be set to vote for a leader. One of the men mentioned as possible prime-minister quality, and who is rumored to be the power behind the throne now, is one Jacques Japhet. It was, however, reception party talk.

ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING FACTS heard at the briefings we attended was that the populace as a whole has been invited to express opinions on the constitution through newspapers and meetings. Up to the time of mid-May, there had been 2,500 public meetings with 500 to 1,500 people attending each, and the newspapers had received two million letters! What's more, by the June 15 deadline date for all this opinion-gathering, the newspapers had expected to receive another million more.

Newspapers in Greece can be privately owned but the government press censorship is almost complete. At first, proofs had to be submitted to the government, but now the order has relaxed somewhat. However, the government still says where certain official statements or speeches of officials should be placed. "Nevertheless," said one American spokesman, "the reporting is much better now. Previously, anything could be printed and it was seldom correct. There was no censorship before but the papers were terrible. There was no objective reporting and nothing was right. If censorship had not been in force last fall, there would have been all-out war between Greece and Turkey, because anything could have been printed." (Speaking of Turkey, there seemed to be no concern over Cyprus in Athens this time, no talk, no interest.) Surprisingly also, on the censorship subject,

Comparison in shopping can pay off

By MABEL G. STOLTE, County Home Economist

It takes both time and effort as well as knowledge to stretch your dollars these days. One way is to discover which items different stores sell for less. Now when you can buy children's socks; vitamin tablets and curiers where you purchase food, comparison shopping can be easy.

The best way to start comparing the cost of items is by brand name and quantity. Staple food items such as canned and frozen food, household supplies and basic wearing apparel are the easiest to explore when beginning to comparison shop. Experts from the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics use comparison shopping to compile the cost of living index for our federal government.

Supermarket prices should be compared with supermarkets and grocery stores. Do not attempt to compare prices in a grocery store with those in a supermarket. Grocery store prices are usually higher than supermarkets but, remember, they generally offer additional services in return. Wherever you can charge or buy on credit, have home delivery or other services, you will find prices higher.

Store which sell products for less also may be less convenient to your home. However, some homemakers, having limited transportation facilities, have found it convenient to band together and rent a taxi every few weeks to shop in one or two supermarkets located in a less accessible area. Only you can decide which factors are most important for you.

For a list to guide your first steps in wiser home management and comparison shopping either write: Union County Home Economics Extension Service, 1106 Elizabeth Ave., Elizabeth, or the Office of Consumer Protection, Room 335, 1100 Raymond Blvd., Newark, for their complimentary copy of "The Shoppers' Guide".

Bill would soften impact of tax loss

State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo of Union has introduced legislation aimed at softening the financial blows sustained by communities where taxable properties are taken for highway construction purposes.

The Union Township Republican said his home town of Union had been "particularly hard-hit by State Transportation Department purchases and condemnations for Rt. 78. What makes it even worse is the interminable delay between acquisition by the state and the actual start of construction. In the meantime, the township tax rolls are suffering."

Researchers find cancer link with chromosome imbalance

Evidence that human cancer is associated with an excess of a specific chromosome is reported in "Chemical and Engineering News."

Chromosomes are microscopic rod-shaped structures made up of genes, and found in all living cells.

The analysis of a variety of human cancers and laboratory cultures of malignant human cells shows that the amount of the specific chromosome identified as E-16 is consistently higher than in normal cells—sometimes by as much as 400 per cent—according to Dr. John W. Gofman and Jason L. Minkler of the University of California Lawrence Radiation Laboratory in Livermore. This discovery supports a 66-year-old theory, advanced by the German embryologist Theodor Boveri, that a chromosome imbalance leads to cancer.

"We have developed evidence that the Boveri hypothesis is correct," said Dr. Gofman in the American Chemical Society publication. "We believe that a specific chromosomal imbalance is strongly associated with malignant proliferation of human cells."

OF EQUAL IMPORTANCE is the observation by Dr. Gofman and Minkler that the E-16 chromosome plays a key role in normal cell reproduction as tissue grows. The researchers noted that the death of normal cell cultures in the laboratory is coincidental with a decrease in the amount of E-16 chromosome. This usually occurs after about 55 cell generations. In the cancer state, cell growth continues indefinitely until the malignant tissue kills the host. The essence of cancer is not that cells divide and grow faster, but that they go on dividing indefinitely. Dr. Gofman pointed out.

It is too early to predict just how this new knowledge can be put to practical use. But it opens the way to some intriguing experiments. One is the attempt to induce malignancy in normal human cells by the addition of excess E-16 chromosomes. Another is to track down the specific enzymes the body produces with the aid of the E-16 chromosome. With this information, there might be the possibility of regulating cancer cell reproduction through biochemistry.

THE RESEARCHERS have measured the chromosome content of cancers of the lung, stomach, breast and colon and have studied 11 different lines of laboratory cells from human cancers and normal tissue that has become malignant in the laboratory, as well as cells that have become malignant as a result of viral infection. They have compared this data with normal cells, both male and female. Altogether, they have measured some 140,000 chromosomes. The total chromosome content of cancer cells is generally higher than normal, but the E-16 chromosome is consistently higher in all the malignant samples and is consistently higher relative to the other chromosomes.

The method of differentiating between the various chromosomes, which occur in pairs shaped like capital H's, was to measure the short arms and the total arm length and calculate the ratio of the two lengths. Microscopic and projection equipment were used in the measurements, and a computer was employed in making the calculations.

DR. GOFMAN HOLDS the M.D. degree as well as the Ph.D. in physical chemistry. He was associated with Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, now chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, in the discovery of uranium 233. He is associate director of the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory and professor of medical physics at the University.

Biologist Jason Minkler began the chromosome study with Dr. Gofman 18 months ago as part of an AEC-sponsored project aimed at finding whether low doses of atomic radiation cause cancer.

Interns to assist communities Students planning careers in government

The second annual summer intern program sponsored by the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs got under way yesterday with the opening of a three-day orientation and training session on the Douglass College campus, New Brunswick.

The 145-week program, known as Interns in Community Service, is administered by the Department's office of Community Services. It is designed to prepare qualified undergraduate and graduate students for careers in state and local government.

Community Affairs Commissioner Paul N. Ylvisaker said this summer's program, patterned on last year's pilot project, would employ 145 students—nearly twice as many as last year. They will hold jobs with selected local and county governments, the Community Affairs Department and other state agencies, local and county governments, and quasi-public or non-profit private organizations.

Ylvisaker said the interns, scheduled to begin work on Monday, June 24, will work a regular 40-hour, five-day week, earning salaries based on the regular Civil Service pay scale for student assistants, ranging from $2 an hour for college freshmen to $4.25 an hour for graduate students. The salaries are paid by the Community Affairs Department through state appropriations.

YLVISAKER SAID the interns are residents of 67 New Jersey communities in 17 of the State's 21 counties. One intern is a resident of Massachusetts.

The Commissioner said the interns, including 100 undergraduates and 45 graduates, have been assigned to jobs according to the following breakdown: 54 in 24 municipalities, 8 in 7 county governments, 40 in state government, 14 in 6 community action (antipoverty) agencies, 18 in 10 local legal services agencies and 11 in 9 quasi-public or private organizations.

The list of interns (with home address and job assignment included): Barbara Zieper, 616 Lyons ave., Irvington, to Department of Community Affairs; Richard Mahr, 192 Ellis ave., Irvington, to Verona; Roger Abrams, 524 Olive ter., Union, to Middlesex Legal Services; Arnold Kaplan, 40 Concord pl., Union, to Newark Human Rights Commission; and Steven Szablewski, 937 Orchard ter., Linden, to Elizabeth Planning Office.

A few more intern assignments may be made before the June 24 starting date, as delayed confirmations are received from remaining candidates among the original 157 who were notified of acceptance last month.

At the opening orientation session, Dr. Mason W. Gross, president of Rutgers University, welcomed the interns at 10 a.m. in ceremonies in the auditorium of Hickman Hall on the Douglass campus. Following this, Commissioner Ylvisaker presented an address outlining the program and functions of the Community Affairs Department.

THE REMAINDER of the day was devoted to a review of the reports prepared by the Governor's and President's commissions on civil disorders, featuring an address by Robert Lilley, president of the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company and chairman of the Governor's riot commission. After dinner, Jay Krieger, special assistant to New York Mayor John V. Lindsay, discussed the federal riot commission report.

Today, the interns will hear speakers and panels discuss the response of government, educators and business to the urban crisis. Among those scheduled to participate are Robert C. Wood, undersecretary of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), Thomas Calcerano, management training program manager of the Western Electric Co., and former director of job procurement and placement for the National Alliance of Business, and State Higher Education Chancellor Ralph A. Dungan.

In addition, a panel of New Jersey mayors will discuss how local governments can respond to the urban crisis. Scheduled to participate are Trenton Mayor Carmen J. Armenti, New Brunswick Mayor Patricia Q. Sheehan and Hawthorne Mayor Louis Bay.

Tomorrow, the interns will participate in a series of workshops designed to acquaint them and their job supervisors with the jobs they will be holding during the summer. Interns will reside during the three-day sessions in dormitories provided by Douglass College.

DONALD B. EDWARDS, director of Interns in Community Service, said the 145 interns had been selected from among nearly 800 applicants. He said the criteria for selecting them were academic achievement, interest in community and public affairs, involvement in local issues, and completion of an essay on some critical community problem.

He said interns selected were majoring in a wide variety of subjects related to public affairs at colleges in New Jersey and outside State.

INTERNSHIP AGENCIES in the following counties will receive interns: Trenton (6), Newark (3), Bergen County (2), Ocean County, Plainfield, and Somerset County (1 each). Also, interns will work at legal services offices in Newark, Hudson County, and Paterson (3 each), Camden and Union counties (2 each), an Bergen, Mercer, Middlesex, Essex and Cumberland-Lancaster-Lancaster (1 each).

Jobless rate matches low of late 1953

WASHINGTON — The national unemployment rate matched its post-Korean War low of 3.5 percent in May as employment continued to show strength, the Bureau of Labor Statistics here reported.

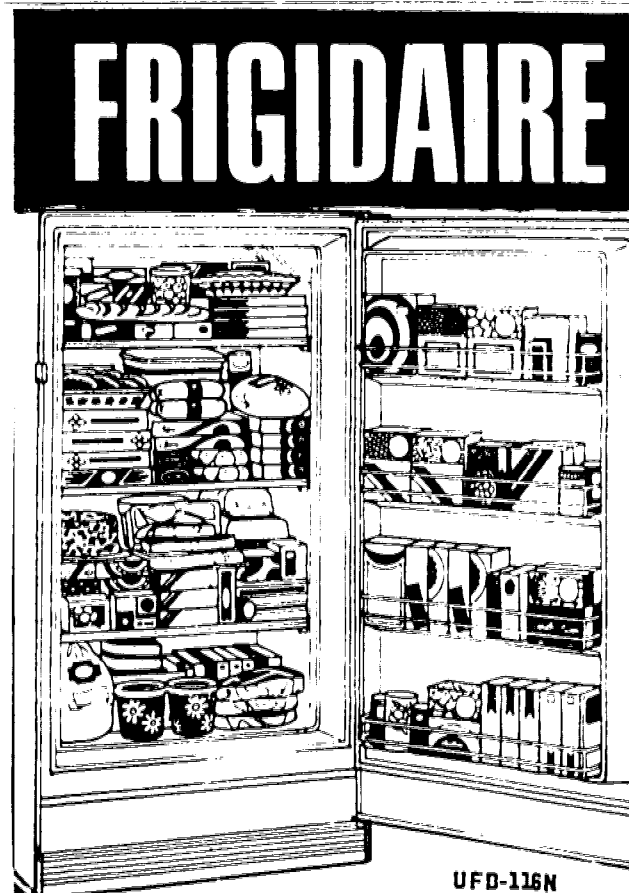

The jobless rate, unchanged between April and May, has remained between 3.5 and 3.7 percent over the past six months, the lowest sustained unemployment rate since late 1953.

Total employment and the civilian labor force in May showed seasonally-adjusted rises of 200,000 and 250,000, respectively, largely due to employment gains for adult women.

Agricultural employment, however, showed less than the usual April-to-May pickup as had weather delayed planting in many parts of the country. Nevertheless, agricultural employment in the first five months of 1968 has been running about 125,000 above levels a year earlier, reversing, at least temporarily, the long-run decline in farm employment.

Seasonally-adjusted, non-farm payroll employment registered 67.8 million in May and was unchanged from April even though 100,000 more workers were on strike.

Over the year, total employment rose by 2.3 million to 75.9 million, with nonagricultural industries accounting for about 2.1 million of the increase.

THE MURDER OF Trooper Lukis brought home to State Police Troop D on the New Jersey Turnpike the dangers to society from the uncontrolled traffic in firearms. Now, two years after Trooper Lukis' death, the traffic in guns along the Turnpike has increased seven times, judging from the number of arrests made by Turnpike troopers for the first five months of 1968.

"Although we have intensified our efforts to stop the flow of illicit weapons along the Turnpike," said Troop D Captain William J. Kennedy, "the problem has grown more serious, and one look at the statistics emphasizes the need for more action to stop this deadly business."

THERE WERE 92 ARRESTS for carrying concealed dangerous weapons, involving a total of 78 handguns of all types, from January through May of this year, Captain Kennedy reported. For the comparable period in 1966, when Trooper Lukis was gunned down by Daniel Kremens of Brooklyn, N.Y., there were only 14 guns arrested, and for the period in 1967 there were 41—less than half the number of persons arrested this year.

Of the 92 persons apprehended this year, 74 gave out-of-state residences and 18 said they lived in New Jersey. Of that number, State Police ascertained that there were only two places where New Jersey gun owners were known to have purchased their weapons. All persons arrested here were carrying the guns unlawfully, without proper authorization under New Jersey law.

Expressing alarm over the increase in gun arrests, Turnpike Executive Director William J. Flanagan said he believed the relatively small number of New Jersey residents involved in the arrests was attributable to the gun control law enacted by the State in 1966.

"But the weapons being transported into New Jersey from out of the state, along the Turnpike corridor" between New York and the South," he said, "present a grave threat to the security of our people everywhere and points up the need for a strong Federal gun control law, regardless of what some organizations may say in arguing for weapons in the name of sport and recreation. If we have to provide hobbies and fun and games at the expense of our national security, we're being ridiculous. If sportsmen want to have something to occupy their time, let them take up bowling or jogging. They'll be better off for it—and so will we."

STATE POLICE RECORDS here show that the 92 arrested came from 15 states and the District of Columbia, and in most cases the weapons were purchased without difficulty. The ease with which the ex-convict bought the pistol that erased Trooper Lukis' life was duplicated in case after case in the Turnpike trooper's files.

Kremens, convicted of murder and now in the death house in Trenton State Prison, gave a fictitious name and address when he bought the gun. The only record made of the purchase by the proprietor was a one-line entry in a school-writing pad used as a ledger. The purchaser's identity was never questioned.

Official alarmed by vast increase in gun traffic on 'Pike

A stranger walked into a souvenir gift shop outside of Fredericksburg, Va., on the evening of May 3, 1966, plunked down $59.95 in cash on the counter and walked out with a brand new .32 caliber revolver. It was easy. Eight hours later, early in the morning of May 4, State Trooper Anthony Lukis Jr. lay slain on the New Jersey Turnpike from six shots fired from the same revolver. The gun had been purchased by a 33-year-old ex-convict, in and out of prison for robbery, kidnaping, felonious assault, attempted rape and grand larceny. When he killed Trooper Lukis, he was out on bail on a New York robbery charge.
