GOP incumbents hold governing body seats

BOROUGH DROP-IN -- For the first time since flying helicopter 710, WOR's ace flying traffic reporter, Fred Feldman, will attempt to create traffic jams rather than report them. "Fearless Fred" will make his landing on Nov. 15 at 3 p.m. on the landing strip of Our Lady of Lourdes School, located on Central ave.,

Mountainside. His appearance is in behalf of the Mountainside, New Jersey Community Fund Drive which will begin its annual fund-raising campaign at that time. This year the Mountainside Community Fund seeks to raise $21,450 to help support the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts and other organizations in the community.

Nixon takes local votes; Dwyer wins

County Republicans carry Mountainside

Republicans maintained their exclusive grip on the Borough Council in Tuesday's balloting, outpolling Democratic candidates in national, congressional, county and local voting.

Re-elected to the governing body was William Brandt with 2,433 votes. Fellow Republican John Hechtle polled 2,389 to win in his first try for elective office. Hechtle was appointed to the council post nine months ago to fill a vacancy.

Defeated Democrats John H. Palmer Jr. and Arthur M. Goldberg received 1,480 and 1,285 votes, respectively.

On the top of the ticket for the GOP was Richard M. Nixon, who received 2,567 votes throughout the borough. Hubert Humphrey received 1,102 votes, while American Independent party candidate George Wallace got 233 in Mountainside.

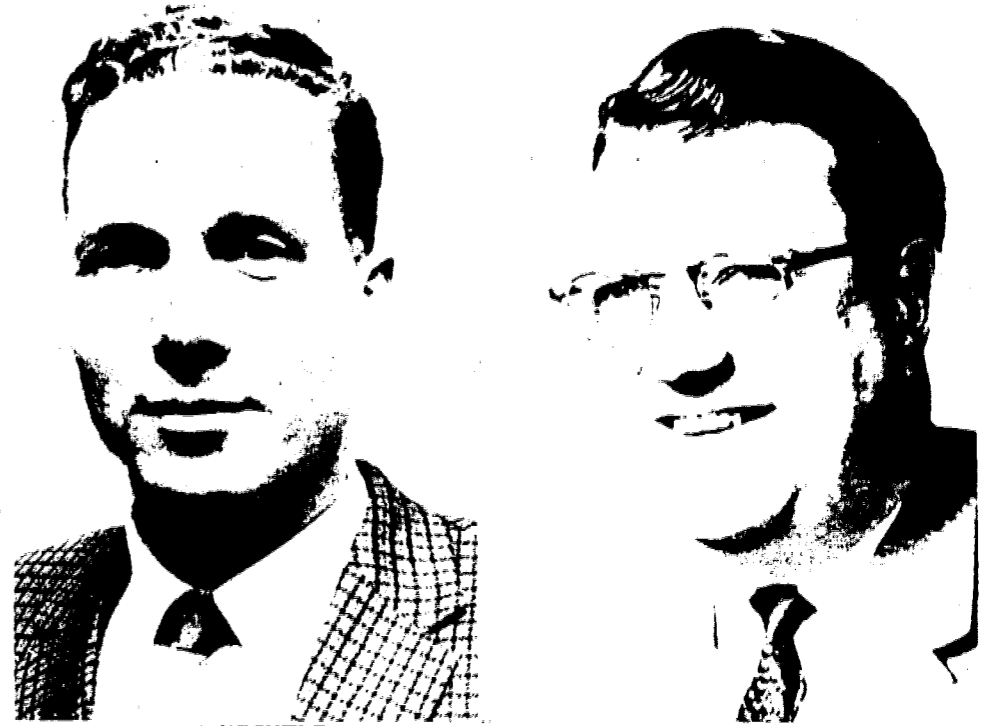

In the congressional race, incumbent Congresswoman Florence P. Dwyer polled 3,096, the best GOP tally in the borough, to Democrat Dr. John Duff's 659. Of all Democrats running for all offices in Mountainside, Duff was at the bottom.

Local voters gave support to the four questions on the ballot throughout New Jersey, including approval for three bond issues--the transportation bond issue, $200 million; public buildings construction bond issue, $337.5 million; and the housing assistance bond issue, $640 million. Voters also endorsed a statewide referendum extending the session of the New Jersey Legislature from one to two years.

County Board of Chosen Freeholder candidates David Zuraw, Donald Dunne and William Maguire, Republicans, received more than 2,600 each in Mountainside. Democrats William Ahern, Hugh Caldwell and Arthur Fried received slightly less than 1,000 each.

In the race for sheriff, Vincenz Brinkerhoff, Republican, topped incumbent Democrat Ralph Oriscello, 2,452 to 1,228, in the borough. Surrogate Mary Kanane, GOP candidate, defeated Veronica Leonard, 2,826 to 826 in the local results. Republican Registrar Joseph

High school football field named for board veteran

Prior to the start of the recent game with Westfield, the Gov. Livingston Regional High School football field was dedicated as a permanent memorial to the late Edmund Frey Sr., of Mountainside.

Mr. Frey was a member of the original committee which established the Union County Regional High School District No. 1. He was also subsequently named as the first representative from Mountainside on the Regional Board of Education. Upon completing his term as a board member, Mr. Frey became a custodian and later head custodian at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, the original school building in the district.

In 1956, Mr. Frey assumed the position of superintendent of buildings and grounds of the Regional District and served in this capacity until his retirement in 1963. In his various capacities associated directly with the Union County Regional High School district, Mr. Frey served the school district for a longer period of time than any other person in its history, from Oct. 22, 1935, to June, 1963.

After retirement, and until his death in April, 1968, Mr. Frey actively pursued his deep interest in lapidary and mineralogy. Not long before his death, Mr. Frey and his wife achieved international recognition for this discovery of a previously unknown fossil form while upon

Woodwind quintet to open Pathways series on Nov. 24

Pathways in Music will open its 1968-69 season on Sunday, Nov. 24, when it will present the Philharmonia Woodwind Quintet. The concert is scheduled for 8 p.m. and will be held at the Community Presbyterian Church, Deer path and Meetinghouse lane, Mountainside.

Patron memberships and subscriptions are available by calling 232-6898. Single admissions are also available or may be purchased at the door.

The Philharmonia Woodwind Quintet originated in 1964 and made its New York debut at Carnegie Hall in 1965. All the members, in addition to appearing as soloists in music centers throughout the country, have been associated with major orchestras, including the American Symphony Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Symphony and the New York City Ballet. The five instrumentalists have been solo members of the Philharmonia of New York since its inception. The group's performances as a quintet in the Philharmonia Chamber Orchestra series have been greeted with enthusiastic acclaim.

Following the Nov. 24 concert will be a Feb. 9 concert featuring the Douglass Chamber Ensemble and one on May 18 which will offer chamber orchestra with organ soloist.

Confidence of public in GOP given credit for the victory

BY ROBERT L. LIBKIND

The main dining room at the Mountainside Inn on Rt. 22 was dark Tuesday evening. Illumination was provided by the headlights on the highway and in the establishment's kitchen. Tables were made up, complete with place settings and napkins, ready for the next day's lunch rush.

Downstairs, however, all was different. In the restaurant's Walnut Room, jubilant Republicans were alive with the taste of victory. Not an unexpected victory, to be sure, but still a victory.

No one was really surprised about the outcome. It was just a matter of how much the GOP would win by. It turned out to be a two-to-one margin in most races in the borough.

John Hechtle, incumbent who won his first term on his own after being appointed earlier this year, praised campaign manager William O. Van Blarcom as the "hardest working campaign manager that we've ever had in this town." Van Blarcom put his praise on "a lot of people who did the hard work." Asked for a comment on the victory, he said, "I'd like to let the statistics speak for themselves."

More than anything else, the local Republicans regarded the overwhelming support they received at the polls as a "vote of confidence."

"The results show the Republican party in Mountainside is a long way from being dead," Van Blarcom observed. "We'll welcome future jousts" with the Democrats, he said.

Mayor Frederick J. Wilhelms Jr., re-elected last November to his post, said the election was "an indication that the people are satisfied with year-round performance and not campaign literature and promises."

"The people indicated confidence," the mayor said, "in the Borough Council and all the boards of the community, many of which were wrongly charged" by the opposition during the local campaign.

WILLIAM BRANDT, who led the locals for the GOP in his second successful governing body race, said he and Hechtle "are both extremely pleased with the vote of confidence given to us by the citizens of Mountainside. As we pledged in our platform," he continued, "we will continue to serve to our very best abilities."

"Our platform as pledged was sincere," Brandt said, "and we mean to move ahead on it."

The consensus was obvious to borough Republican leaders. As Hechtle said a few hours after learning of his victory, "The majority of the people in Mountainside are satisfied with the quality and performance of the men who have been elected."

Even though Richard Nixon ran ahead of the local candidates, the two re-elected councilmen denied a coattail victory. While Hechtle admitted "national influence has to play a part in the local elections," he attributed the local victory to local success of the GOP in Mountainside.

Brandt agreed with Hechtle. He cited past electoral victories by the Republican Party in the borough as proof of local GOP strength

All the pancakes you can eat . . .

"All the delicious pancakes you can eat," prepared by Mountainside Kiwanians, will highlight a pancake buffet breakfast to be held at Wieland's Steak House, 1099 U.S. Highway 22, Eastbound, Mountainside on Sunday from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., the Kiwanis Club announced this week.

This buffet, sponsored by the Mountainside Kiwanis Club will feature orange juice, sausage, unlimited serving of "freshly prepared pancakes swimming in syrup," and coffee. Milk will be served to the youths only. A sugar-free syrup will be available for those who prefer it.

Kiwanians Larry Curtiss, Nick Bradshaw and Joe Spayth are the chefs who will bake the pancakes for the feasting.

A donation will be accepted at the door, or tickets may be purchased from Daniel Blitwise at his store, Highway 22 at Mountain avenue or from the Mountainside Delicatessen, 895 Mountain ave.

The Kiwanis scholarship award that is presented annually for vocational study at the post high school level and the youth program are supported entirely by the proceeds from this buffet.

STACKING THEM UP -- Checking on advance sales for the pancake buffet breakfast to be held by the Mountainside Kiwanis Club Sunday at Wieland's Steak House are Karen von Nessi, daughter of club treasurer Peter von Nessi, and Everett P. Perkins, secretary.

Informal institution of VFW post slated

The newly-chartered Mountainside Memorial Post 10136 VFW, will be informally instituted at a meeting at Echo Lanes, Mountainside, Wednesday at 7:45 p.m., it was decided at a meeting of the group last week. Formal institution of the post is expected to take place next February.

Post Commander David Hutchison stated, "It is our earnest desire to make this post one of the finest in the state. In keeping with this desire, it is my intention to contact every veteran in the Mountainside area personally to solicit his membership." Membership now stands at 38.

Hutchison urged all interested and eligible veterans to attend one of the post's meetings. Through the courtesy of Sam Hays, manager of the establishment, these meetings have been set for the second and fourth Wednesday of every month at Echo Lanes, Route 22, at 7:45 p.m.

For further details readers may call Hutchison at 232-9360.

Highlanders win fourth in row, 8-7; to play 'capable' Cranford Saturday

John J. Kinella, head coach of the team, said that the victory was a result of the team's ability to play to their strengths. The team's defense was particularly strong, and they were able to keep Cranford's offense from getting into any real rhythm. The game was a close one, but the Highlanders were able to hold on to their lead in the final minutes.

Cranford had won three games this fall and will be led by 11-1b. fullback Norstrom, tackle DeLoe, and quarterback DeLoe. Commenting on his team's close victory against the Rahway Indians, Coach Kinella said, "It was our worst game of the year" but he was glad that Livingston could pull it out. In the second quarter, Rahway surprised Livingston with a quick touchdown following one of the Highlanders' many errors of the afternoon. Gray Hopper of Rahway booted a short punt from his own 38. As the ball fell, it touched the foot of a running backman and was alertly recovered by the Indians. Quarterback Jim Baker used eight plays to guide his team 30 yards for the TD. Baker scored on an option play, chiding several of his backfielders and lowering his way into the end zone via a straight line play, fullback Andy Ingram smashed in for the extra point.

Despite the fact that they were often given excellent field position by sturdy defensive play, the Highlander offense remained inactive for most of the game. The Rahway defense should receive some of the credit, but sloppy execution was the main reason for the post-offensive showing.

The defense finally got Gov. Livingston on the scoreboard with less than six minutes remaining. Rahway had the ball on its own 19, third and 10 to go. Inexplicably, when he should have been running out the clock, Jimmy Baker gambled and faked back to pass. He appeared ready to throw when Baker suddenly came crashing in to drop Baker for a safety. Following the free kick by Indian John Johnson, Regional and Rahway traded punts. Up to this point the Livingston receivers had been unable to get clear deep, mainly thanks to tight double coverage assigned to each wide end. Both Jeff Barlette and Eric Wichelhaus had three receptions, but the combined yardage was nowhere near last week's total against Clark.

The tight coverage forced Piccirillo to stop using the deep pass to Eric that had worked so well the week before. The play was called only twice once earlier when it was incomplete and once when Regional got the ball back with less than ten minutes remaining. Wichelhaus, covered by John Johnson, sped across the middle and Piccirillo passed to him. Johnson leaped frantically and managed to tip the ball into the air. Grabbing the ball in stride, Wichelhaus was finally tackled at the Rahway two, to complete a 46-yard gain.

With 2:22 left, Piccirillo dove in on a quarterback sneak to put the Highlanders ahead, 8-7. The extra point was missed, but who cares?

Rahway, however, would not give up. Burrowing deep into their reservoir of plays, the Indians pulled out an old touch football play. Baker threw a quick pass to Cisco Garay, who whirled and shoveled a lateral to halfback Cornell Green. Turning on the speed, Green sped to the Regional 28. But as they have done in past games, the Highlander defense rose to the occasion and held Rahway on downs. Piccirillo easily ran out the clock to give Gov. Livingston its fourth straight triumph.

It was a hard fought contest and it showed in injuries. Mac Ramsey, Regional center, suffered a broken wrist and will be out for the season. Johnny McElgunn received a slight concussion but will play Saturday although he will not participate in any contact drills this week.

Leading Rahway to its best effort of the year, Andy Ingram played both ways, scored an extra point, and was the Indian's top defender. Halfback Cordell Green rushed for more than 80 yards and carried the bulk of the Rahway attack. QB Jim Baker and linebacker Jerry Puskko, who had an interception, also gave good accounts of themselves.

In other games including Watching Conference Elevens, Scotch Plains tied Hillside 7-7, to draw the Conference race tighter while Clark and Westfield both won non-conference contests.

The Highlanders cannot afford to make the same costly errors they did against Rahway. The team is not about to, and Saturday, Cranford should become Governor Livingston's fifth victim of the year.

Costly, confusing squeaker for Regional over Rahway

Compared to the Clark game, the same last Saturday was one in which the Highlanders looked like a Top Warner football league team. I have nothing but praise for the Rahway team, which with only 25 players and a record which has a zero in the victory column, gave the Highlanders one of the toughest games of the year.

The 8-7 triumph over the Rahway raiders was a costly one in terms of players. Defensive lineman Mac Ramsey injured his arm and John McElgunn suffered a slight concussion. Both are key players whose absence will be felt.

The last note about Saturday's game: From my vantage point in the press box I noticed quite a bit of confusion on the Gl. sidelines—confusion, which more than once was the reason for a penalty. I can realize the players' excitement and interest in the game; however, it would seem to me that the coaches could operate more efficiently if everyone sat on the benches. The Highlanders are not that perfect that they can afford to incur penalties which are the result of the confusion on the sidelines.

Last Saturday's lackluster performance gave spectators some time to observe the missing heroines of the football games, the cheerleaders. These nine girls: Bev Braun, Martha Ibe, Kathy Dowling, Joan Drobnyc, Pam Langston, Toni Toland, Leslie Rhoades, Wendy Seville and Kathy Shallcross, are something else. It is the cheerleaders' duty to keep the fans alive, get them cheering and to give the team some confidence and pride.

Whereas the fans are allowed the privilege of frowning on a badly executed play or booing a referee's poor call, the cheerleader must at all times be the epitome of confidence, never losing hope that the final outcome will be in their favor. To this end, Gov. Livingston has none of the best, hard-working, always smiling, and I might add, good to look at, they make a dull game worthwhile. Girls, I salute you.

203 saving one game for the losers. Shut-outs were recorded by Mountainside Drug and Drewette's Nursery, while two-plays victories were registered by Blivise Liquors, Mountainside Plumbing and Heating, Mountainside Luncheonette, and Chrono's Tavern.

Other high individual games were rolled by: Joe Buccino, 232; Mario Cecchetti, 223; Joe Martino, 215; Bob Coleman, 210; Phil Santaniello, 206; Paul Meade, 203; Ed Mullin, 201; Donald Dalstrom and Larry Johnson, 200 each.

Team standings are: Owens Flying A Service, Satellite Diner, Owens Flying A Service, 21 points each; Mountainside Luncheonette, 20; Benninger Tansy Agency, 19; Air Con. Inc., 19; Mountainside Plumbing and Heating, 18; Lynn Insurance Group, 17; Drewette's Nursery, 17; Blivise Liquors, 16; Mountainside Deli, 16; Chrono's Tavern, 15.5; Mountainside PBA, 14; Mountainside Drug, 14; Fugmann Fuel Oil, 13.5; Westfield National Bank, 10; Wilhelms Construction, 5.

Mountainside PBA laid down the law to Satellite Diner in Mountainside Men's at Echo Lanes as they clubbed the league leaders into submission with a shut-out. Leading the onslaught were Steve Semancik with 237 and Joe Mazur with a 203. Bob Egido won a 218 for the losers. The victory was the first sweep of the year for the police and the first shut-out loss for Satellite.

Owens Flying A Service moved into a tie with Satellite for the lead by defeating Westfield National Bank in a pair. Bud Clevenger rolled a 229; Dan Burke, 228, and Ray Ayres, 224 and 213, for Owens, with Mike Gillespie's

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I read your article and I would like you to answer my problem. I am an adopted child, with older brothers and sisters who are not adopted. They always seem to get more attention from my parents and it is not my imagination. My mother always says I do not do my share of the work around the house. But, I do more than anyone else. What is my problem?"

OUR REPLY: Your problem just might be that you are more aware of the fact that you were adopted than the rest of the family. It is also possible that you are not as over-worked as you think. Are you quite sure that the older brothers and sisters are not making some important contributions to the family life that you are overlooking? In most every family—and this has nothing to do with whether you are adopted or not—the youngest family members generally complain the most about work—and at the same time contribute less to the family operation. We don't say this is true in your case. You may be quite realistic in your appraisal of the situation. But, we still suggest that you take another look to be sure you aren't overlooking the amount of work others are doing.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

Durkin received 2,671 votes in the borough to Democrat Joseph Kania's 898. Write-in and absentee votes were not yet available at press time. However, election officials say there were a few write-in votes for Curtis Lemay, Wallace's running-mate. Also reported was a single vote for Sen. Eugene McCarthy for president. More than 3,900 of the borough's 4,469 registered voters cast their ballots in Tuesday's election.

Republicans

without a strong national showing. The two successful GOP candidates asked that more citizens of Mountainside attend Borough Council meetings. They noted few have taken advantage of this right in past years. Both added, however, that lack of public attendance at the meetings is a sign of public trust in the Republican administration of the governing body and borough.

Temple's forum series to continue on Sunday

The second lecture of the Supper Forum series at Temple Emanu-el, Westfield will take place this Sunday evening, Rabbi Eugene Borowitz will discuss "The Jew in Contemporary American Literature." Rabbi Borowitz is professor of education and Jewish religious thought at the New School of Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion. Supper will be served at 6:45 p.m. and the lecture will begin at 8 o'clock. The last lecture of the series will take place Sunday, Nov. 17, when Rabbi Bruce Goldman of Columbia University will discuss the topic, "The Jewish Student and the Campus Crisis."

Hospital's Senior Auxiliary reports on annual progress

The annual meeting of the Senior Auxiliary of Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside, was held this week at the hospital with Mrs. R.M. Longley, president, presiding. The highlight of the meeting was the announcement that the Senior Auxiliary has contributed $14,500 and 4,200 hours of volunteer work to Children's Specialized Hospital during the past year. Six auxiliary members, who have contributed 170 hours each this year, received special congratulations.

Gold bars, for 500 hours of service, were awarded to Mrs. William L. Brower, Mrs. L. L. Crow, and Mrs. William MeyLaughlin. Three new auxiliary members, Mrs. R.G. Valerio,

Mrs. S. W. Persons, Jr. and Mrs. Joseph Deets, were introduced by Mrs. Longley. Dr. F. Milton Staub, administrator and medical director of the hospital, was guest of honor and principal speaker. In addition to thanking the Senior Auxiliary members for their generosity to the hospital, he outlined the group's history and future plans. The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. George Gross, who was recently elected president of the Senior Auxiliary for 1969. The Senior Auxiliary to the board of managers of Children's Specialized Hospital was organized in 1909. According to Dr. Staub, the auxiliary has become "an invaluable aid in obtaining financial support and volunteer services for the hospital."

SCHOOL NEWS

For several years we have enjoyed reading the Echo. I would like, however, to make a suggestion which I believe would improve it, and result in its achieving a wider circulation.

It seems to me you should devote more coverage to the activities going on at Governor Livingston Regional High School — athletic, dramatic, etc. Additional write-ups with photographs of sport action shots, team members or dramatic casts would do much to increase the interest of residents in the newspaper. (Perhaps you could use a number of student correspondents and photographers.)

Can you think of a better way to arouse a parent's interest in a newspaper than to give them the opportunity to see their progeny's name and picture in print?

PAUL A. JAMES
1566 Grouse Lane

(Ed. note: The Echo agrees on the importance of school coverage, and has tried to provide as much coverage as possible, within limitations of manpower and available space. Actions such as those of one athletic coach, last year, who twice broke appointments for team pictures, sometimes complicate the task.)

Registration up at adult schools

Fall semester registration in the Union County Regional Adult School increased 13.9 percent over the comparable period of 1967, according to a report released by Harry E. Linkin, adult education director of the school. So far this fall, the schools in Springfield, Kentworth, Berkeley Heights and Clark have registered 2,412 persons. Linkin stated that more than 150 courses are being given, in addition to the requested "favorites", such as oil painting, dancing, bridge, sewing and typing, the school is running some firsts, such as aviation ground school instruction, a winemakers' clinic, estate and financial planning, a paper mill program, a series of computer courses, advanced bridge, and an expanded High School Equivalency Program. Future course offerings at the school will be determined by community interest and need. Local business, industrial, governmental, or volunteer groups desiring individually designed programs are invited to contact the Adult School office at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield.

SWIFT CLEANERS

Drapery Specialists

No Uncertainty About Our DRAPER-FORM Drapery Cleaning

As Union County's leading drapery specialists we are here to serve you better. We will give you free estimates on your draperies. We will take down and rehang your drapes and give you our decorator pleat service.

RESIDENTIAL • COMMERCIAL • INDUSTRIAL

Our DRAPER-FORM restores Decorator Folds (pleats) accurately and durably - because DRAPER-FORM replaces human margin of error with mechanical accuracy, all Decorator Folds are restored to a degree of precision not possible by ordinary hand methods. Also, because these Decorator Folds are molded in by steam and controlled tension, they are durably re-set so that often, the DRAPER-FORM folds last longer than those originally put in by the maker.

- If you want: NO SHRINKAGE, ACCURATELY SQUARED CORNERS, UNIFORM PLEATS, SYMMETRICAL HEADINGS, EVEN HEMLINES, NO SAGGING, BULGING LININGS

Former 'Y' chief Lebau Feller award co-winner

For the first time since its inception, professional workers in the Jewish Community Center-YMHA field have been named recipients of the coveted Harry S. Feller award, according to an announcement today by Jacob M. Essoff of Elizabeth, president of the New Jersey Region, National Jewish Welfare Board. The award winners are Harry Lebau and William Hinkler, former executive directors of the Eastern Union County and Paterson YMHAs, respectively. The award is granted each year by the New Jersey Region for outstanding contributions to the YMHA movement, locally, regionally and nationally. The award is in the name of Harry S. Feller who was the first president of the Region and was president of the New Brunswick YMHA. Formal presentation will be made at the 57th annual convention of the region which will be held today through Sunday at Kutscher's Country Club in Monticello, N.J. Lebau served as executive director of the Elizabeth 'Y' for 37 years, following which he was the director of capital funds leading to the erection of the new 'Y' in Green Lane, Union. He was designated "executive director emeritus" upon his retirement a year ago. Currently, he is the chairman of the Eastern Union County United Fund drive. Keynote speakers at the convention will include Dr. Carl Urbont, director of the 92nd Street YMHA, and Irving Brodsky, executive vice president of the Associated YMHAs of New York. Dr. Urbont will speak on the role of Jewish Cultural Arts in promoting Jewish identification and enriching Jewish life. Brodsky will analyze a study he has completed on the impact of the urban crisis on YMHAs.

750 acres purchased for YM-YWHA camping

The New Jersey YM-YWHA Camp, of which the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA in Union is one of 10 affiliated camps, has announced the purchase of 750 acres of camp property in Wayne County, Pa., at a cost of about $1,000,000. Approval of the purchase was granted by the New Jersey Legislature in 1964. The purchase of 750 acres of YM-YWHA camp property in the New Jersey Y Camp.

A Lorenz Rosen of South Orange, president of the New Jersey YM-YWHA Camp, stated that the new acquisition is not only excellent camping site, embracing two lakes, several streams, wide open spaces, and numerous stands of timber, but also is completely equipped with the finest structural, culinary and recreational facilities. The two camps provide 480 added camper beds.

Describing the two camps as "among the most outstanding in the nation," Rosen said that they fit right in with the New Jersey YM-YWHA Camp program immediately will enable the organization to

Consumer price rise offset by decline in food, car costs

WASHINGTON—The consumer price index for September showed the smallest increase in a year, the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported.

The index rose 0.2 percent, to 137.2 (1957=100), mostly because of higher apparel prices and medical care costs. Food prices declined for the first time this year, although the decrease was less than expected seasonally. New car prices also fell less than usual for September. Over the past year, the consumer price index has climbed 4.4 percent.

The Wholesale Price Index rose 0.4 percent in September, following a decline of the same amount in August. Industrial commodities showed their broadest advance since last April for an average increase of 0.3 percent. Farm products and foods were up 0.8 percent after declines in August. At 1961, the Wholesale Price Index was 2.1 percent above its level of a year earlier.

Preliminary data for October indicate that the Wholesale Price Index remained unchanged from September. Farm products and foods declined, but industrial commodities advanced by 0.4 percent. Introduction of 1969 models of new cars at higher prices contributed significantly to the increase in industrial prices.

Retail apparel prices were boosted 1.6 percent for their latest September increase since 1962, and an advance of 0.8 percent over the past year. More modest increases at wholesale have been attributed to advancing raw material prices and widespread wage increases in the textile and apparel industries. Raw cotton is up nine percent over the year because of a short crop, and cotton products have increased six percent. Manmade fiber materials also are about seven percent higher, but wool products have shown only a small advance. An eight-percent boost in leather prices made the 0.8-percent increase in retail footwear prices over the year.

Mostly, more food prices went down 0.3 percent—but they still averaged 2.8 percent higher than a year ago. Fruits and vegetables dropped four percent as the seasonal increase in supplies brought substantial reductions for apples, grapes, and many vegetables. However, limited supplies of oranges caused prices to rise six percent to a level 31 percent above a year ago. Egg prices also jumped 10.5 percent, and were up 21.3 percent over the depressed levels of last year. Restaurant meal prices maintained their steady climb.

Charges for consumer services rose 0.1 percent, with significant increases for medical care, housekeeping and home maintenance, and personal care services. Medical care services, with an increase of 0.7 percent, resumed their rapid advance after a temporary slowdown.

Industrial commodities showed their most widespread advance in 8 months, when prices rose in September for 106 out of 225 product classes and only 37 declined. Reaching 109.2 (1957=59 equal 100) after a 0.4-percent increase, this index was 2.3 percent above a year ago.

About 19,000 workers will receive pay adjustments as the result of increases in the national and city indexes for September. About 10,000 will receive a three-cent per hour pay raise based on the advance in the national index since June. Other increases will range from two to seven cents.

Synagogue group picks Horace Bier; Silber is secretary

Horace Bier of Livingston was elected president of the Northern New Jersey Region of the United Synagogue of America at its biennial convention Sunday at the Goldman Hotel, West Orange.

Elected with him were the following vice-presidents: Norman Chikm of Hillside, Morton Grubel of West Orange, Hy Jacobs of East Orange, Murray Kempler of South Orange, Norman Kapp of West Caldwell, Dr. Leo Y. Schlesack of Livingston, Simon Schwartz of Lodi, William Weinstein of Livingston, and Ralph Wolf of Fair Lawn. Dr. Harold Silber of Union was elected secretary and Irving Kurtz of Highland Park as treasurer.

A member and former president of Temple Emanu-El in Irvington, Bier is the president of the National Association of Solomon Schechter Day Schools and chairman of the finance committee of the national United Synagogue Commission on Jewish Education. He is also the representative of the United Synagogue to the American Association for Jewish Education.

He is the former president of the Low Cost Psycho Therapy Plan of Essex County. He serves on the allocation committee of the Jewish Community Council of Essex County.

Summer vacation business booming

The New Jersey Resort and Travel Industry exceeded all expectations this past summer season, with an impressive 14.6 percent increase over 1966, establishing a record high of $2.6 billion dollars in generated dollar volume of business, according to Robert A. Roe, commissioner of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

"Excellent weather, intensive state and local promotional programs, improved and expanded resort facilities, plus a multitude of special events and an increase in Canadian visitors were all credited in producing these remarkable results," Roe said.

Of the key resort areas surveyed, Atlantic City far and away topped the list, reporting a generated dollar volume in excess of one billion dollars for the first time in that city's history. The city's luxury tax was also reported as breaking all records.

The Atlantic County area, including Egg Harbor, Margate and Somers Point reported gains from five to 15 percent over last year.

CAPE MAY COUNTY key areas included in the report were Ocean City, Cape May City, Sea Isle City, Stone Harbor, Avalon and the Wildwoods. These areas registered increases of from 10 to 20 percent over 1967 and a marked increase in Canadian visitors was noted throughout Cape May County.

Monmouth County was highlighted by Wharfedale Park's increase of up to 20 percent in hotels and motels, restaurants, boardwalk and beach tap receipts. Long Branch, Sea Bright, Ocean Grove, Bradley Beach, Belmar and Manasquan all reported substantial increases.

Ocean County, including Long Beach Island and Seaside Heights, reported a dollar volume increase for the summer season of 14 percent or more with bank deposits, postal receipts, bond sales and number of visitors, all reaching new highs for the year.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy: You sound like a smart girl, so here is one for you.

I am a policeman who lives on the west side. Well, on my way home a few weeks ago, I noticed a woman standing on the West Side Bridge. I thought I should stop to see why she was standing there. She looked at me and said "Not today, Officer."

Now, Amy, if this woman jumps off that bridge, she is going to die. I saw this woman again Sunday morning about 11 a.m. She was wearing a tan jumper, white heels, had light brown hair, tall, pretty and about 30 years old.

It seems to me that she doesn't care much about living, and was thinking that if you published my letter, someone would know her and give her some help. Perhaps her mother, perhaps her husband, or perhaps some friend. I am a cop, and I... Care

Dear Care: If I could award you a medal for caring, I would, I salute you for going beyond the call of duty, and if I may make a suggestion, I would appreciate that if you should see this woman on the bridge again, offer to take her to the nearest clergyman so that she can unload her problems... because I care, too!

Dear Amy: I am 13 years old and I have a problem. My brother was killed in Vietnam and received the Navy Cross posthumously. Well, when I'm 17, I want to join the Marines but my father said he could stop me.

Can he? D.M.M.

Dear D.M.M.: Yes he can. As far as I know, a minor must have the consent of his parents to join any branch of the service. But don't fret, perhaps you or dad will have a change of heart by then.

Dear Amy: I'm a 16 year old girl who is very, very fond of a 21 year old boy. I've known him since April, and he's a confirmed bachelor. He doesn't want to go steady but he wants to see me every weekend and sometimes through the week. He doesn't go out with anyone else, and I don't, either. Do you think he may be the type who doesn't express his feelings? What do you think I should say or do? Should I tell him how I feel about him?

Wondering

Dear Wondering: A fellow of 21 is not a confirmed bachelor. You may think that 21 is old, but as a matter of fact, he is not ready to marry... or he hasn't met a girl he wants to make his wife.

In your age bracket, you are accustomed to having your friends tell you everything on their mind, but as you grow older, you will find that it is not necessary to say everything you feel.

If you like the fellow, be pleasant, but it is not necessary for you to express your feelings for him at this time.

Plan symposium on effects of cold

An all-day symposium on "The Influence of Cold on Metabolic Regulation" will be held at Rutgers University, Newark College of Arts and Sciences, tomorrow. Scientists from all over the country will participate in the scientific event.

Dr. M.A. Mehlerman of Rutgers University, program chairman of the symposium, announced that more than 20 authorities have been engaged to discuss the physiological, biochemical and zoological aspects of the effect of cold temperature on life.

'Messiah' singers sought by college

Jack L. Platt, chairman of the Music Department of Newark State College, has issued an invitation to singers throughout the North Jersey area to participate in the 11th annual performance of Handel's Messiah. The event will be held Friday evening, Dec. 6, in the Newark State College Theater for the Performing Arts. Participation in the traditional pre-holiday event is not limited to members of the Music Department. Scores of singers from the local and surrounding communities join their voices with voices of college students each year of the performance. Rehearsals are scheduled for 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 12, 19 and 26 in the auditorium of the Campus School and Dec. 3 in the Theater for the Performing Arts.

Now you can drink-- 'with meaning'

'Dictionary About Alcohol' put out by Rutgers

What is "grocery"? Is a "bone-dry cocktail?" Just a super-dry martini? How many jero-boams are there in a reboam?

The definitions of these and about 1,700 other words and phrases related to alcohol are conveniently indexed in "A Dictionary of Words About Alcohol," just published at Rutgers University.

Authors of the dictionary are Mark Keller and Matri McCormick of the Center of Alcohol Studies at the State University. Keller is a research specialist in documentation and editor of the Quarterly Journal and is a poet and novelist.

The book is the culmination of discussions that began in the early 1950s. Discussions studying alcoholism realized that lack of agreement about the meaning of commonly-used terms interfered with communication and understanding even among themselves. Keller has been working on it for about 15 years, with his involvement extending from the original idea to the end product of the dictionary.

Definitions in the dictionary range from "A.A." to "zymurgy" and come from diverse sources.

There are terms applied to drinks, drinkers and drinking, and terms applied to the kinds of behavior that may result from drinking, terms for the medical consequences encountered and the chemistry of alcoholic beverages, terms applied to the religious ceremonies using these beverages and terms used in commercial production technology.

Keller, in a detailed introduction, describes the experience of creating the dictionary and the decisions that confronted the authors.

He pointed to the fact that "nothing evidences the pervasiveness of alcohol better than the meaning of 'drink.' Everyone knows that water is the vital drink for man. But, if one speaks without qualification of drink, it denotes not water, nor even milk, but alcohol-containing beverage."

Defining the limits of the word "drinking" or attempting to qualify the term by adding the word "problem" to it, illustrates the situation the authors faced in arriving at reasonable limits for at least one definition.

"A man who insists on drinking a bottle of beer with his supper may arouse annoyance, scorn or emotional lites in his wife, who wishes him to abstain. His drinking may thus cause family trouble.

"He is merely a drinker; but his wife may need to be labeled; perhaps she is a problem and drinker. Normal drinkers who make problem drinkers are not therefore problem drinkers."

I'LL DRINK TO THAT -- A dictionary published by the Center of Alcohol Studies at Rutgers University contains definitions for some 1,700 words and phrases related to alcohol.

And, separating "problem drinking" from "alcoholism" and "drunkenness" was another problem, Keller states. "Alcoholism" seems the most critical, most ubiquitously abused, most ambiguously circumscribed, most irrationally combined, most fatuously misapplied, most cowardly-evaded word in the entire list." He said the word is often misused as a "vulgar substitution for something as simple as 'drunkenness.'"

Keller also refers to his introduction, although he provides no list, to at least 100 synonyms in the English language for inebriety, which the dictionary defines simply as "habitual drunkenness."

Keller sums up the accomplishment of the task: "We have tried in the present dictionary to take account of the dynamics in the relationship between words and facts. The more precisely we can word, the more effectively we can work with facts. That is what this dictionary is intended to help achieve: More effective study and use of facts through more precise use of words."

Oh, yes... those definitions. "Grocery" is a "Southern term for a bar or for liquor." "Bone-dry cocktail" is a nutritious nonalcoholic drink used in treating alcoholism, and consists of orange juice, honey, yeast, brown sugar and protein supplements. A "jero-boam" is a large wine bottle containing four standard bottles and is the same as a double magnum. A "reboam" is a double jero-boam.

Symphony to open season on Sunday

The Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Edward J. Napiewocki of Union, begins its 1968-1969 season at the Bloomfield High School auditorium. The program will honor the memory of the late Miss Alma Holm who was pianist with the orchestra for over 30 years.

The featured soloist at the concert will be Miss Elizabeth Marshall, internationally known pianist. Miss Marshall, a resident of South Orange, was graduated with highest honors from the Vienna Academy of Music. She played 14 concerts at the World's Fair in Brussels where she was presented as a Vienna trained American artist.

New construction ideas taught at NCE seminar

Newark College of Engineering has announced it will conduct a two-day course on "New Techniques for Construction" on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 21 and 22.

The program is being presented in cooperation with the Building Contractors Association of New Jersey and is the first opportunity NCE has had to offer a short course of this nature. The college reports that 2,000 contractors, architects and architectural engineers in the Metropolitan New Jersey-New York area have been notified of the program.

TRIGGERED CRIMES

Firearms were used to commit over 7,600 murders, 52,000 aggravated assaults, and 73,000 robberies in 1967.

Fall concert at museum

The second in the Montclair Art Museum's fall series of free Sunday afternoon concerts will be presented on Sunday, Dec. 10 at 4 p.m. Since the date coincides with the twentieth anniversary of the United Nations Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the museum is presenting the concert in honor of the occasion.

Ghity Azari, an Iranian pianist, will perform, Miss Azari is studying with Sascha Gorodnitzki at the Juilliard School of Music under a foreign students scholarship. Her program on Sunday will include Beethoven's Sonata, op. 57; Mendelssohn's Rondo Capriccioso, op. 14; Brahms' Rhapsody in B minor; and Debussy's Jardin sous la pluie.

The museum's concert series is open to the public and admission is free.

UNFINISHED BUSINESS

The first stage of Livingston College, the new coeducational undergraduate unit of Rutgers University, is scheduled to open in the fall of 1969 on the Kilmer Area campus. The 1968 Public Buildings Bond Issue would provide some $5 million toward the second half of the college.

FOLLOW-UP

A follow-up of 17,876 offenders released to the streets in 1963 revealed that 60 percent had been rearrested on a new charge by the end of 1967.

Christmas Seal campaign opener

The 1968 Christmas Seal campaign will be launched in New Jersey on Nov. 13 by Peter Roberts at the 62nd annual meeting of the New Jersey Tuberculosis and Health Association in Princeton.

Roberts, the well-known broadcaster on radio station WOR is heard every day on "Rambling with Gambling". He is a former tuberculosis patient who was treated at Saranac Lake many years ago. He lives on Garret Mountain in Passaic County.

Concert Sunday at State Museum

The Brazilian husband-wife team of Alberto Jaffe, violinist, and Daisy de Luca, pianist, currently on an East Coast recital tour of the United States, will make an exclusive New Jersey appearance in a concert at the New Jersey State Museum Auditorium on Sunday, at 3 p.m.

The program, which opens with "Sonata Satz" by Brahms and concludes with "Spanish Dance" from "La Vida Breve" by M. de Falla, also includes selections from Guerra Piexe, Schumann, Bach and Dvorak.

Auditorium programs are free to the public. Tickets are available at the door one-half hour before programs begin on a first-come, first-served basis.

Among the subjects to be presented at the meeting is the treatment of tuberculosis patients in local hospitals. Charles R. Ream, M.D., physician-in-chief at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Elizabeth, will report on a survey conducted among general hospitals in New Jersey which shows the apparent lack of modern knowledge concerning the infectiousness of tuberculosis.

CRIMINAL PROFILE
 Profiles reveal that 70 percent of the burglars, 72 percent of the auto thieves, and 64 percent of the robbers had been arrested in two or more states during criminal careers ranging from seven to nine years.

Clean Energy for Clearer Skies

How much is clean air worth? At Public Service, we think it's worth a lot... for everybody's sake. We annually invest millions of dollars in pollution control research and equipment, as well as cleaner fuels to feed our electric generators. Cleaner air is one more reason why we're investing $340 million in our Salem Nuclear Generating Station. The infinite energy of the atom can produce vast amounts of low-cost electricity without polluting the atmosphere. Today, Nuclear Energy is the cleanest source of power available to help us meet New Jersey's growing demand for low-cost electricity.

FOR THE BIRDS

By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER, professor, Union Junior College

Anyone looking out their kitchen window and spotting a tufted titmouse, cardinal or mockingbird would regard you incredulously if you told them that 20 years ago these feathered citizens were seldom seen north of the Mason and Dixon Line during the winter. The reasons behind the northward range expansion of these species are not wholly understood. Higher temperatures undoubtedly have had an effect. The increasing number of backyard feeders is another possible factor. But the facts speak for themselves.

The spread of titmice has not been as spectacular as that of the other two, Chapman, in 1895, wrote, "Range - Eastern United States; breeds from the Gulf States to southern Iowa and northern New Jersey; resident throughout its breeding range." The next study of "Birds Around New York City" was written in 1942 by Cruickshank. The situation hadn't changed much in 47 years, Cruickshank says. "It (the titmouse) reaches the northern limit of its range in the New York City region."

A study of Christmas Bird Counts for the last 20 years however, reveals the titmouse has gone much further north than New York City. The number tallied in Princeton has tripled since 1947. Titmice first appeared in the Greenwich, Connecticut, area about 1952, and last year almost 200 were counted. Even more spectacular was the increase in winter population in Hartford, Conn., Schenectady, N.Y., and Northampton, Mass. In those three localities titmice were absent as late as 1952 and abundant last year.

THE SPREAD OF the cardinal roughly parallels that of the titmouse although it started further south and has extended further north. The 1895 account of Chapman lists it as common in Washington, D.C., but rare north of the New Jersey border. Cruickshank, 25 years ago, wrote, "It rapidly decreased during the closing years of the nineteenth century and by 1920 was virtually extirpated from all sections north of the Raritan River." The cardinal's range has recently extended explosively. In Bennington, Vt., one was tallied in the 1957 Christmas Count, two in 1962 and 14 last year. In Hartford, Conn., none were counted 10 years ago but over 200 were tallied last Christmas.

As a year round resident, the mockingbird's range has extended more dramatically than that of the other two. Just before the turn of the century, Virginia was the northernmost portion of its winter range. Early northern records were attributed to the escape of caged mockers. Cruickshank's remarked in 1942 that a mockingbird "is a rare possibility at any time of the year in any locality" in the New York City metropolitan area.

In Christmas Counts from Princeton, N.J. to Northampton, Mass., mockingbirds were virtually absent in 1952, one or two were tallied in 1957 and a few more in 1962. Last year they were a common sight even when the snow was on the ground.

It's rather interesting to note that most of the data presented above was gathered, not by ornithologists from museums and universities, but by birders like you and me. Those of you who feed the birds and note their comings and goings can make a real contribution to bird lore.

Subtle early warnings often missed by smokers

Early warnings of harmful effects from cigarette smoking often are so subtle as to be entirely overlooked or ignored by the person involved, Dr. John Donahue, members of the Professional Information and Medical Committee, of the Union County Chapter, American Cancer Society, said this week.

Smokers put up with runny noses, throat irritations, post nasal drips, deep gravelly voices and a mouth that frequently feels like the inside of the legendary motorman's glove. Many are quite used to a chronic cough. These are just a few of the irritations a smoker tends to overlook in his pursuit of happiness via cigarettes, Dr. Donahue said.

The explanations often offered, he continued, generally fall into two categories. One is "I'll smoke until I get into trouble and then I'll quit." The other is the oft-heard "Well, I've smoked much too much and too long as it is, so it's too late for me anyway."

Answering the first argument, Dr. Donahue pointed out that if smokers continue until they "get into trouble" it may indeed be too late, for lung cancer cannot be reversed and five-year survival for all cancers is only one percent out of 20 can the patient be saved," a shockingly high mortality rate. Answering the second argument, he explained that it usually is not too late to stop because the cells can repair themselves even after years and years of smoking. Only when cancer or emphysema develop is repair of the cells impossible.

ACCORDING TO THE American Cancer Society, lung cancer was responsible for 52,000 deaths in the United States last year, Dr. Donahue continued. Of this total 44,000 were men and 8,000 women. Increasing alarmingly, lung cancer is now the leading cause of male cancer deaths with the rate jumping to 15 times what it was 35 years ago.

"This total persists despite the fact that most lung cancers are readily preventable -- simply stop smoking. In addition, because it's difficult to diagnose cancer of the lung in time, this form of the disease has an abnormally low recovery rate -- only 5 percent of all cases are saved today," Dr. Donahue said.

Dr. Donahue concluded his remarks by stating that the greatest importance to the confirmed smoker is that fact that when he quits the habit, he will greatly diminish his chances of developing any one of the forms of cancerous disease. The human body has a great capacity to repair itself provided irreparable damage has not been done.

"Don't wait until you get into trouble," Dr. Donahue pleaded. "By that time it may be too late."

'Legal liability' is topic of county CPA meeting

"The Accountants Legal Liability" will be the subject of a program scheduled Tuesday by the Union County Chapter, New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants, to be held at the Kingston Restaurant, Union.

Clyde H. Foley, CPA, a partner in Price Waterhouse and Co., Newark, will be the guest speaker. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m.

Union 'Y' hosts 100 at session

The Eastern Union County YM-YWHA was host Friday to more than 100 Jewish leaders at the third annual statewide conference of New Jersey Jewish Communal Workers at the 'Y' center, Green Lane, Union.

The day-long program included a general session opened by Elijah Bornkern, executive director of the Jewish Education Association of Essex County, as conference chairman, and a statement from the National Conference of Jewish Communal Service by Irving Greenberg, executive director of the Jewish Counseling and Service Agency of Essex County. Arnold Aronson, of New York City, director of program planning and evaluation, National Community Relations Council and secretary of the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, was the keynote speaker. His subject was "The Urban Crisis, Implications for Jewish Communal Services."

An interrogatory panel followed, the participants in which included Aronson, Albert I. Asher, director of professional services of the Jewish Vocational Service of Essex County; Reuben Lefkowitz, executive director of the Jewish Community Center, Plainfield; Dr. Solomon Geld, executive director of the Daughters of Miriam Home and Infirmary for the Aged, Clifton; and Irving T. Spivack, executive director of the Federation of Jewish Agencies of Atlantic City.

Following luncheon, workshop sessions were held on the subject, "Implications in the Urban Crisis for Specific Disciplines." They were divided in four categories, "Group Work and Jewish Education," led by A. Harold Murray, executive director of the YM-YWHA, Hackensack; "Health and the Aged," Mervin Silverman, assistant executive director of the Daughters of Miriam Home and Infirmary for the Aged, Clifton; "Individual Services," Solomon N. Brownstein, of the Jewish Family and Children's Service, Paterson, and "Community Organizations and Community relations, Sam Hatov, of the Jewish Community Council of Paterson. Mitchell Jaffe, executive director of the host association, headed the committee on arrangements.

Composer at Union 'Y'

Mario Lombardo, composer and pianist, will present "An Evening of Music" at a meeting of the Women's Division of the Eastern Union County YM-YWHA, Green Lane, Union, at 8 p.m., Monday, Nov. 18.

Lombardo, who composed the music for the comedy hit, "Love Is a Three Letter Word," will also play and sing his music for his new show, "It's Worth Your Life," soon to open off-Broadway. He will play favorite show tunes and his original compositions. Lombardo is a former professor of literature and music, and has composed more than 200 songs and piano compositions.

Mrs. Gerald Mauer, program chairman, announced the meeting will be open to members and guests, Mrs. Stanley Dash will be in charge of refreshments, with Mrs. Jack Greenspan, president, presiding.

EARLY COPY Publicity chairmen are urged to observe the Friday deadline for other than spot news. Include your name, address and phone number.

READY TO ROLL: The bus fleet owned and operated by the Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, is ready to roll for the organization's annual independent fund drive. Approximately 1,500 marchers are conducting a house-to-house canvass in Garwood, Kenilworth, Union, Springfield and Winfield Park.

Retarded Children unit sets annual campaign for funds

The Union County Unit, New Jersey Association for Retarded Children, is conducting its annual Independent Fund Drive this month in conjunction with the nationwide drive of the National Association for Retarded Children.

There will be approximately 1,500 marchers conducting this house to house canvass in the communities of Garwood, Kenilworth, Union, Springfield and Winfield Park.

Programs for the retarded in Union County primarily supported by the annual fund drive, are designed to help the retarded child become a contributing member of society rather than a life-long burden. Many types of assistance are available to the parents of a mentally retarded child. The Union County Unit, alone and in conjunction with other agencies, offers services with a dramatic impact on a child's future.

Programs include the Harry W. Kohler Day

Care Center which provides training for the retarded child of school age who is not accepted by the public schools; four nursery schools that prepare youngsters for admission to public education; the Union County Rehabilitation Institute, where retarded young adults are trained in the skills and habits they need to function independently, and where additional programs of vocational training and sheltered employment are being developed; a six-week summer day camp; a two-week residential camp; two social programs for young adults; and a physical fitness class.

Information and referral services provide counseling for parents and referral of the retarded person to all appropriate services, such as diagnosis, religious training, scouting, swimming, speech therapy, public schooling, and residential care.

Club paper drive slated for Nov. 16

The Union County Catholic Young Adult Club will sponsor a paper drive Saturday, Nov. 16. Residents of Union, Kenilworth and Springfield have been asked to bring their papers to St. Michael's Church parking lot, Kelly st. and Vauxhall rd., Union; residents of Linden and Clark to Mother Seton Regional High School parking lot, Valley rd., Clark (at Parkway exit 135); residents of Roselle, Roselle Park, Cranford and Garwood to St. Anne's Church parking lot, Second avenue, Garwood; residents of Railway to St. Mary's School parking lot Central avenue, Railway; residents of Elizabeth to St. Patrick's Rectory, Court street.

Members of the CYA will be there to receive the newspapers. Papers must be tied in bundles and may be dropped off between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 16.

The purpose of the drive is to raise funds for an orphanage outing the CYA is planning for this spring. Area residents are asked to cooperate, a spokesman said.

For more information about the drive or the CYA, which is open to young adults 18 and over, call 351-7672 or 688-7857.

Exams scheduled for post office jobs

Examinations for full-time positions as clerk, carrier, mailhandler, motor vehicle operator and substitute garageman in Post Offices in Union County will be held during November and through Dec. 14 at the Elizabeth Post Office. No tests will be scheduled during the Christmas holiday season.

Men and women are eligible to take the examinations. There is no residence requirement for the positions. All applicants will be notified one week in advance of the exact date and time of the test. Applicants who qualify will be considered for employment according to the rating attained in the examination.

Any United States citizen may apply. The minimum age requirement is 18 years. There is no maximum age limit. This does not apply to persons entitled to veteran preference. The federal government is an equal opportunity employer.

Further information and necessary forms for applying may be obtained at all post offices in the county as well as the Civil Service Office, Room 18, Main Post Office, Elizabeth.

Area residents get cancer unit awards

Sixteen area residents were honored by the Union County Chapter of the American Cancer Society at a luncheon last week at the Westwood Lounge in Garwood.

Raymond J. Donahue of 508 Princeton rd., Linden, president of the Union chapter, presided over the presentations and the program, which included a talk by Miss Virginia Barkley, R.N., nursing consultant to the national office of the Society, and a talk by Dr. Warren Knauer of Elizabeth.

Awarded certificates of merit and rhinestone pins were Mrs. Arthur Dorfner of Roselle Park and Mrs. Mary McCoy of Kenilworth, Mae Milley of Union was presented a certificate of appreciation.

Fifteen year awards were given to Mrs. B. Boyd and Doris Hildebrandt, both of Union. Recipients of ten-year awards were: Peg Locher, Helen Noe, Gertrude Meier, Mrs. Dorfner, Theresa De Malo, Edith Lepore, Sophie Davis, Patricia Stefanic, Leona Schreyer and Katherine Lorcheim, all of Roselle Park; and Mrs. Eleanor Dilly and Mrs. Howard Yates, both of Union.

UNICEF greetings available Christmas cards aid children

Now is the time to come to the aid of all little children of the world with the purchase of cards and calendar from the United Nations Children's Fund.

With Halloween over and Christmas rushing upon us, the time has come for cards, and UNICEF has them. Contributing artists this year are from the U.S., Czechoslovakia, France, Switzerland, Great Britain, Burma, Austria, Mexico, Germany, Canada, Denmark and Brazil. Samples of all available types are on display at the United Nations visitor's gallery and may be purchased there or by mail to P.O. Box 22, New York.

In case it is more convenient to purchase UNICEF cards locally, following is a list of the voluntary groups in this area that cooperate with the U.N. committee for UNICEF in the sale of the cards. Unless otherwise indicated, however, they are not equipped to handle mail-order printing orders. Such orders should be directed to the P.O. address above.

Purchasing power rises significantly, labor bureau says

WASHINGTON -- The purchasing power of the nation's rank and file workers rose significantly in September, despite a modest reduction in the workweek and a further rise in consumer prices, the Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics has reported.

Gross weekly earnings also reached a record high of $110.49 in September, an increase of 95 cents since August and $0.59 from September 1967. The over-the-month advance was attributable to a four-cent rise in hourly earnings--the largest monthly increase in two years--which more than offset a 0.2 hour decline in the workweek.

Take-home pay also attained record levels in September, averaging 70 cents higher for both the single worker and the worker with three dependents. Significant gains were posted in all major industry sectors except trade. Compared to year-ago levels, take-home pay was up by $3.42 for the single worker and $4.80 for the worker with three dependents.

Real earnings -- take-home pay adjusted for changes in the price level -- averaged 0.6 percent higher in September for both the single worker and the worker with three dependents. A slight decline in purchasing power among workers in the trade sector was offset by increases in the other major industries. As a result, real take-home pay for a worker with three dependents climbed to an all-time high of $79.62, topping the previous record of $79.35 reached in October 1965. However, real earnings remained slightly below the October 1965 peak for the single worker, who is taxed at a higher rate.

Compared with September 1967, real earnings were down 0.3 percent for the single worker but were 0.8 percent higher for the worker with three dependents.

Over 50,000 expected to register for NJEA convention starting today

The annual convention of the New Jersey Education Association opens in Atlantic City today with the Association's policy-making Delegate Assembly meeting to discuss far-reaching pronouncements on teacher working conditions, auxiliary personnel and human rights.

Over 50,000 teachers from all parts of the state are expected to register during the three days of the convention to study school problems, classroom innovations and ways to improve their teaching skills.

The Delegate Assembly will receive the long-awaited report of NJEA's Working Conditions Committee at its 10 a.m. meeting in Haddon Hall Hotel. This 28-page document recommends changes in school operations and assignments "to make the work teachers do more productive, more effective, and more professional."

Besides stating goals, the report stresses "Each eliminated non-professional chore would increase the teacher's personal responsibility to teach, tutor, strengthen professional skills, improve school offerings, participate in community affairs, and improve the preparation that undergirds effective teaching."

In a related study, NJEA's Auxiliary Personnel Committee will submit a report recommending standards for the selection, training, assignment and evaluation of the new family of school employees now assuming many non-teaching school duties.

"TO ENCOURAGE ABLE aides "to continue their education and aspire to greater educational responsibilities," the report recommends that school districts establish "a career ladder" so that auxiliary personnel could climb into jobs of advancing skill and remuneration.

At the beginning rung, an aide having less than a high school diploma would be limited to assignments outside the classroom such as supervising playgrounds, cafeteria or bus-loadings. Aides with diplomas and some college training would be eligible for increasingly advanced responsibilities in the classroom and with children -- under the teacher's supervision -- up to scoring objective tests and helping pupils with individual activities.

Also on the Delegate Assembly agenda is a report from NJEA's Committee on Human Rights establishing guidelines for the selection and promotion of school personnel to encourage fuller representation of various races, religious and ethnic backgrounds on school teaching and administration staffs.

The Delegate Assembly is composed of representatives elected by NJEA members in each county.

"They laughed when I sat down to type 85 words a minute."

"They didn't know I had the Royal Jetstar™ with the electric carriage return."

"Me? A speed typist? Forget it. But with the Royal Jetstar, I changed. A touch of my little finger on the return key flies the carriage back to the margin for the next line. A touch repeats four characters (.) (x) (-) (-). And a touch repeats forward spacing. But there's more: fully-electric tabulator, Magic Margin controls, ribbon color light, on-off light. The fully-electric Jetstar makes fast work of my typing--and that's no laugh."

Tips for Today's Homemaker

PUMPKIN PIE IS TRULY AMERICAN ... Pumpkin pie is an American invention and a traditional part of fall menu plans.

Whether to use fresh or canned pumpkin depends upon the time you have available and your preference in texture of the filling.

Cut, peel, remove seeds and strings, cube. Cover with boiling water, cook until tender, drain, mash, and add one teaspoon of salt to each quart jar. Do not add liquid.

Combine sugar, salt and spices. Add pumpkin and eggs; stir to blend. Add cream and set until the mixture is smooth.

Give bird watching a try, and you may discover that you've been missing a pleasant pastime.

Every year about this time a special breed of humanity puts in an appearance regularly as clockwork.

Of course Mother Nature gives the city dweller a break once in a while by sending a flight of wild ducks over the metropolis.

Combine sugar, salt and spices. Add pumpkin and eggs; stir to blend. Add cream and set until the mixture is smooth.

Know Your Government

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

In one of its final acts prior to adjournment, Congress enacted a long-pending "Intergovernmental Cooperation Act" which has been hailed as a "breakthrough" in the struggle to improve Federal-state-local relations leading to a strengthened "20th Century Federalism."

A major feature of the bill provides for systematic, periodic congressional review of existing and future grants-in-aid programs. Other provisions call for: an increased flow of information on Federal grants from Washington to governors and state legislatures; improved flexibility of administration; making available specialized and technical services to state and local governments, and coordination of intergovernmental policies and planning.

Need for periodic review has been increasingly recognized as Federal aid programs grew by the hundreds and annual appropriations have multiplied to total approximately $20 billion.

Among New Jersey members of Congress supporting the inter-governmental cooperation approach, Congresswoman Florence P. Dwyer was a sponsor of the original legislation and serves on the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations which guided its development. Deploring "disarray, confusion and red tape" that have marked Federal government efforts and appropriations to meet the Nation's social and economic problems, she told Congress the measure will lead to more responsive Federal Government and more responsible state and local governments.

Need for improvement in the administration of Federal aid has been indicated in annual reports of the New Jersey Taxpayers Association showing the high costs of the programs in this State. The Association also has pointed out desirability of legislation, not as yet enacted by Congress, calling for an evaluation of the worth and effectiveness of all Federal programs and establishment of priorities in terms of today's needs.

Special bus to transport handicapped put into operation at Brearley Regional

Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, this week announced that a specially designed bus to transport the physically handicapped students has been put into operation at the David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth.

"The basic cost of the vehicle and its special equipment, pro-rated over a 10-year useful life period, is estimated at approximately $900 annually to be applied to our cost of the special transportation," Dr. Davis said.

This bus, which was built by the Superior Coach Company of Lima, Ohio, is the first 1969 school bus in New Jersey to be equipped with "a safety power-up and safety power-down electro-hydraulic lift for wheel chairs." It will be used to transport 10 physically handicapped children from Clark, Kenilworth, Union and Springfield. Three of these children are confined to wheelchairs. The bus is equipped with special seats and restraining harnesses plus wheel chair stations where the wheel chairs are locked into place to prevent movement while the bus is moving. The seating arrangements are flexible and the bus can transport 35 seated students or 10 wheelchair students or a combination of both types of physically handicapped.

Denis Lynch, transportation supervisor of the district, who helped design and select the bus after an eight-month study and survey of transportation of physically handicapped in other school districts, said the bus is designed to eliminate the use of taxis and truck vans. It meets the safety features of fully-equipped school buses required by the New Jersey Department of Education, which include crush proof body, knock-out windows, school bus lights and identification, emergency door, first aid kits, axe, fire-extinguisher, crow bar, and semi-annual inspections plus a specially-trained bus driver to handle these youngsters.

THE NEW BUS, which has been altered and equipped for the transportation of the physically handicapped student, will now permit the Regional District to provide more effective transportation and a high level of integration of the physically handicapped into all aspects of the educational programs. No longer must the student confined to a wheelchair or unable to climb steps be lifted into and out of a vehicle. The hydraulic lift now permits easy access to transportation for the non-ambulatory high school student.

In addition other educational activities, heretofore restricted because of transportation problems, may now be included within the fund of experiences of the handicapped high school student. Field trips, club activities, attendance at sport events, utilization of special facilities within other community agencies, may now be within easy reach of the handicapped student because of the easier transportation service.

Two of the three aspects of a quality high school program for the physically handicapped students are now complete with the addition of the bus. The first factor, a high school plant with special facilities (i.e. elevator, lowered toilet facilities, grab bars in toilets, outside ramps, etc.) was developed with the construction of the David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth. The second factor - a specialized transportation vehicle is now a reality. The third factor, which the Regional District now has under consideration for the future, as specialized services such as physical therapy and speech therapy. These services will serve to complement our adaptive physical education which is now in operation.

Once these three factors are complete the Regional District will be able to provide a total quality education program for the physically handicapped student. This goal is in keeping with the philosophy of providing quality education for each student in the Regional District in accordance with his own unique needs.

Girl Scout founder honored by 200 at campfire program

Under a nearly full moon, more than 200 Mountainside Girl Scouts gathered around a large campfire last Friday for an "in-gathering" in honor of Juliette Low, founder of Girl Scouting, whose birth date was Oct. 31. The campfire was held on the grounds of the Community Presbyterian Church under ideal weather conditions.

The evening's program was led by Cadettes Nancy Osbahr, Kathy Mullin, and Debbie Hechtle. It began with the Brownie promise and song, followed by the Girl Scout promise. The assembled group was led in song by Cadettes of Troop 424, after which a tribute was paid to Juliette Low and the World Friendship Fund. This Fund offers international opportunities to Girl Scouts and Girl Guides. Each troop presented a contribution to the Fund, and a yellow streamer was given to each in turn as a symbol of participation in the Fund.

The evening concluded with campfire songs directed by Senior Scouts, followed by "Taps," after which refreshments were served. The program was planned by Cadette Troop 424 under the direction of Mrs. Robert Osbahr, Mrs. Robert Taylor, and Mrs. Helmut Grimm and Mrs. E.W. Alessi, community chairman, and her service team.

Dysautonomia Chapter sets installation Nov. 14

The Northern New Jersey Chapter of Dysautonomia will hold its installation of officers Nov. 14 at the Shomeri Torah Temple in Hillside.

Mrs. Carolyn F. Yuknus, Union County Home Economist and Program Leader, Home Economics Extension Service of Rutgers University, was elected president-elect of the National Association of Extension Home Economists at a recent annual business meeting in Phoenix, Ariz. As future president she will provide leadership to about 3,500 members of the professional organization of Extension Home Economists. She is currently the Eastern Region councilor for the National Association and serves as liaison between 12 eastern states and the executive board of the association. She has also served as editor of the EHE Reporter (Extension Home Economists Reporter) the official publication of the organization.

In addition to national responsibilities, Mrs. Yuknus conducts an educational program for Union County homemakers in the areas of clothing and home furnishings. She was appointed to the Union County position in 1950. During the annual business meeting four other New Jersey Extension County Home Economists also were present and appointed to serve on committees that will organize and participate in planning the 1969 annual meeting to be held in Philadelphia, Pa.

Among the other New Jersey Extension home economists attending was Miss Anne L. Shee-ten, Union County.

Determine cost of care when buying furnishings

Minimum care and high performance is the desire for many homemakers in the home furnishings area today, reports Carolyn F. Yuknus, senior county home economist. As a mother of young children, a community worker, a working woman, or grandmother, the need to spend long hours and physical exertion to maintain a home can be greatly reduced.

The foremost consideration in selecting new furniture, window treatment, carpeting, linens, appliances, and the many other items you purchase for the home, is upkeep. How much time will be required to maintain this item or how much it will cost for professional care should be as carefully considered as the initial price.

The many demands on a woman's life today do not allow time for a poor choice in home furnishings that will require constant attention and frustration when in use.

Information from labels, manufacturers, sales personnel, or friends, is vital in helping you make final choices. Once the item is delivered to the home, or when it is in need of some kind of cleaning, is not the time to get upkeep information.

In the final analysis, home furnishings for today's living should be considered from the standpoint of not only price, but color, design and care aspects.

Arlene J. Ferry,
George L. Sevret
wed in Kenilworth

MRS. GEORGE L. SEVRET
Miss Arlene J. Ferry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Ferry of 26 S. 17th St., Kenilworth, was married Oct. 26 to George L. Sevret, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Sevret of 54 S. 19th St., Kenilworth.

The Rev. Salvatore P. Citarella officiated at the 1 p.m. ceremony in St. Theresa's Roman Catholic Church, Kenilworth. A reception followed at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Miss Dorothy Turner of Livingston served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Eleanore Sevret of Kenilworth, Connie Picher of Virginia Beach, Va., and Charlotte Patricia of Elizabeth. Michael Carolan of Kenilworth served as best man. Ushers were Joseph Ferry and Daniel Ferry, both of Kenilworth, and Richard Patricia of Elizabeth.

Mrs. Sevret, who was graduated from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, and St. Elizabeth Hospital School of Nursing, was employed as a registered nurse in St. Elizabeth Hospital prior to her marriage.

Her husband, who also was graduated from Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, is serving in the United States Navy at the U.S. Naval Air Station, Roosevelt Roads Puerto Rico as an airman.

Following a honeymoon trip to the Pocono Mountains, the couple will reside in Kenilworth.

CLOTHES CARE COMMENTS
by SAM MANN
(Diamond Cleaners)

STORAGE OF SUMMER GARMENTS
Cottons away! It's almost too cool to wear them... and let's face it, they can look out of place at this time of year.

Before you have them cleaned and stored, however, may I suggest you go through them and discard the clothes you no longer wear, such as: Old party clothes which are apt to be dated after a season or two. Clothes damaged by moths or silverfish. You say to yourself, "I'll have it reweaved," but you never do because your subconscious mind tells you the garment isn't worth the cost.

Clothes you have damaged by home spot removal or home pressing. Unfortunately, this happens all too often with the garment perfectly good, except for the spot where you removed the dye, scorched it, or shined or glazed the fabric. You know deep in your heart you won't wear it again.

Some things, however, may take only minor mending. If you don't have time to do it, remember DIAMOND CLEANERS' services include free minor repairs, as well as more extensive tailoring and remodeling. Out-of-season storage too!

Welcome Wagon slates square dance Saturday

Welcome Wagon Club of Union will hold a square dance Saturday at the Evergreen Lodge, Springfield. All members and guests of members are invited to attend.

The group is working on a Thanksgiving basket to be given to a needy family in Union for Thanksgiving. A spring program designed for children of the members is presently in the planning stages.

The group will hold its next meeting Wednesday at McMahon's on Morris Avenue, Union. A movie provided by the Union County Sheriff's office will be screened.

SPARK PLUG FIRE
Did you know that if you drive your car an average of 10,000 miles per year its spark plugs have probably fired some 15 million times during that period.

Dance set Sunday
by Singles' Alumni

The New Jersey Singles' Alumni Club will hold an open house Sunday at 9 p.m. at the Olympic Restaurant, 877 Springfield Ave., Irvington.

Single business and professional personnel, ages 25 to 40, are invited to attend. Additional information may be obtained by writing to the club at P.O. Box 11, Rutherford. There will be no admission charge.

"THERESE AND ISABELLE" --Radley Metzger's production of an unnatural love affair between two women, opened yesterday at the Ormont Theater, East Orange. Shown above are Essy ("I, A Woman") Persson and (back to camera), Anna Gadl, French adult film was derived from the novel by Violette Leduc.

January warms up Flagship on folk tunes, impersonations

By BEA SMITH Songstress January Jones, who hugs the spotlight (or is it vice-versa) at the Flagship these nights, is an attractive, blonde versatile performer, who can put an audience at ease when she warbles folk songs. She can bring the same audience to sheer heights of joy and delight when she does her impersonations of the "jacks" in the musical world, and when she climaxes one phase of her act with an absolutely marvelous imitation of Judy Garland, one feels inclined to rise from one's chair and shout "Encore! Encore!"

'Sound of Music' film now on Bellevue screen

The Bellevue Theater, Upper Montclair, is showing "The Sound of Music," one of the great film musicals and biggest box office recipient. The Rodgers-Hammerstein musical about the Von Trapp family, stars Julie Andrews, Christopher Plummer, Eleanor Parker, Richard Haydn, Peggy Wood and Charmian Carr, and will play through Tuesday.

ented starlet, shapely and sexy, and has a lot of potential going for her, but the "real" January Jones has yet to be personified at the dinner theater on Route 22.

Nicholas Appert, a French confectioner, discovered a method of preserving food by cooking it in sealed jars, and won a prize from his government in 1809.

'Snow White' joins Custer at Sanford

Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and "Custer of the West" is the current film bill at the Sanford Theater, Irvington Center. The Sanford is featuring matinee showings now through Monday.

LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORDS BY LINDA NORRIS

Heaven Says Hello, written by Cindy Walker, It's Over by Roy Orbison and Love Is a Happy Song by Richard Hollingsworth are all convincing sounds that Sonny James has recorded in his newest album, Heaven Says Hello, to transmit a classic country sound.

INTO THE HOUSE TAMMANY HALL

Only twice has a presidential election been thrown into the House of Representatives because no candidate received a majority of electoral votes. That was in 1800, when Jefferson won, and in 1824, when John Quincy Adams was elected, reports World Book Encyclopedia.
