Regional plan ignites Mountainside sparks

Mountainside residents opposing a proposed Regional High School District-wide expansion plan were among more than 150 persons Monday night who heard the first of a series of four public presentations of the recommendation by its author, Dr. Henry J. Rissetto.

The confrontation was at Gov. Livingston Regional High School. Another will come this Monday at 8 at Jonathan Regional, Springfield.

Opposition of the Mountainside residents is centered around the "fractionalization" of the borough's high school students. According to Dr. Rissetto's plan, three-quarters of Moun-tainside's secondary school pupils would attend an expanded Dayton Regional High School and one-quarter would attend an expanded Gov. Livingston.

By 1980, Mountainside will have just more than 700 ninth through 12th grade students, according to the projection Dr. Rissetto used, after a peak of about 761 is reached in 1972. There are now about 650 students in the regional high school district from the borough.

Dr. Rissetto, a facilities planning expert and a member of the faculty of the Columbia University Teachers' College, was hired last May by the Regional Board of Education to make a study of the district's needs.

A NUMBER OF Mountainside residents contended at the meeting that the borough's students should be grouped together in one school, whether it be Dayton or Livingston, and not arbitrarily split off.

Dr. Rissetto argued that the student bodies of each school should be "more comprehensive and less parochial" and that residents should see the regional system as one whole district instead of six different communities in one district.

One point that members of the audience and Dr. Rissetto agreed on was a student, once assigned to a high school should stay in that "parent" school for his four years.

Ninth graders from Mountainside currently attend Dayton and transfer to Livingston for the remainder of their high school years. Dr. Rissetto said, however, that "although we don't believe a youngster should have to shift schools, our role does not concern the immediate problem of how to solve next year's dilemma."

Mayor Frederick Wilhelms Jr. charged Dr. Rissetto with seeing the Mountainside students "as numbers where we see them as children." He said that "Mountainside students are being discriminated against," as are Clark children the other "beneficiaries" of the plan.

Clark students, under the program, would be divided between A.L. Johnson and David Brearley regional high schools. The plan, however, has all Kenilworth students staying in their town at Brearley; all Garwood students in Brearley, all Berkeley Heights students in Livingston and all Springfield students in Dayton.

MAYOR WILHELMS also contended that there would be a "financial disadvantage" to Mountainside homeowners if the high school student body were split.

The mayor was applauded at one point. Dr. Rissetto thrust his finger in the air at that moment and charged that "it is that kind of community identification that is the problem. You're not seeing this as a single school district."

Rissetto suggested that as far as a "com-

ROBERT SACHAROW

GEORGE HULSE

Sacharow speaks in 9 towns in his campaign for Assembly

Robert Sacharow of Mountainside, Democratic assembly candidate in the Tuesday primary, last week completed a round of speaking engagements in each of the nine Union County municipalities comprising the 9C assembly district.

Together with George Hulse of Scotch Plains, Sacharow has been endorsed by the New Democratic Coalition of Union County, a group of former supporters of Sen. Eugene McCarthy and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. He is also backed by the Mountainside Independent Democratic Club.

A graduate of Rutgers University, Sacharow, 42, has been a candidate for Borough Council, president of the Mountainside Democratic Club and a member of the steering committee of last year's successful Volunteers for McCarthy organization. He is the owner of the Robert Sacharow Insurance Agency, Mountainside.

One of the youngest candidates for assembly, Hulse, 24, is a member of the Union County Black Leader Council. He was instrumental in organizing the Union County Democratic Coalition, particularly in bringing together supporters of the late Sen. Kennedy with the McCarthy groups that formed the basic membership of the Coalition. He is sales manager of the Fred Allen real estate organization of Linden.

Commenting on the discussions in the various municipalities he has visited, Sacharow said:

Central ave. walk voted to cut school congestion

A sidewalk will be constructed on the east side of Central Avenue from Field to Wyoming drives in time for the opening of the 1969-70 school year, it was announced at the May meeting of the Borough Council.

The sidewalk is part of the plan formulated by the Mountainside Safety Committee to relieve congestion in the area of Deerfield and Our Lady of Lourdes schools.

Before school begins this fall, a new traffic pattern rerouting school buses and private vehicles in the vicinity of the schools will be promulgated and implemented.

Also at the May meeting of the council, the local Board of Health made a plea to property owners to wage a campaign against ragweed in the community, to give some relief to allergy sufferers in the borough. The local board directed its plea particularly to owners of vacant lots. A flyer on the subject will be distributed throughout the town.

New street lights will be installed at the following locations: two lights in Deer Path near Fox trail, two lights in Knollcrest road, one at the intersection of Cedar Avenue and Holly Hill and another at the Holly Hill dead end.

An ordinance was passed on final reading appropriating $3,000 from the municipal swimming pool account for the construction of a storage shed at the municipal pool, construction of a sidewalk from Echobrook School to the pool and for landscaping.

A liquor license was transferred to the Jade Fountains restaurant from the Chatham Realty Co.

Room to splash

There are still almost 100 family memberships open to the Mountainside municipal pool. It was announced last week at the monthly meeting of the Borough Council. At the time, 727 families had signed up. There are 825 memberships allotted in the borough.

Public hearing on new salaries slated June 17

A public hearing on a proposed new salary schedule for municipal employees will be held June 17 at the monthly meeting of the Borough Council.

The new guide brings the borough clerk's salary to $8,140 a year and the deputy borough clerk to $6,856.

The municipal engineer, who is also superintendent of public works and secretary of the Board of Assessors, will receive $13,801, and the public works foreman will receive $7,500.

Other new salaries are: assistant borough treasurer, secretary to the superintendent of public works and a general clerk-stenographer, all $5,456; municipal court judge and building inspector, both $4,400; assistant court clerk and deputy tax collector, $3,633; court clerk and tax collector, $3,101; building inspector, $2,000 and director of welfare, $1,500.

The hourly scale of public works employees proposed is $2.90, $2.80 and $2.70. School crossing guards and special police will get $2.25 per hour.

Longevity payments will be based on the following scale: 2 percent for five years of service, 4 percent for 10 years, 6 percent for 15 years, 8 percent for 20 years and 10 percent for 25 years.

The Borough Council passed the ordinance on first reading at the May council meeting.

No local contests calling for decision in primary election

Voting Tuesday from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., in the primary election, will be in three polling places in Mountainside: Echobrook School for District 1, Beachwood School for Districts 2 and 3 and Deerfield School for Districts 4 and 5.

Local Republicans and Democrats are running unopposed for mayor and two borough council seats. The Republican ticket is led by Thomas J. Ricciardi, who is running for mayor. The Democratic candidate is John P. Walsh.

GOP council candidates are Ronald M. Heymann and Peter M. Simmons. Democratic candidates for council are Arthur M. Goldberg and John H. Palmer Jr.

The lack of a primary contest in the mayor and borough council races means that interest on Tuesday will be focused on races for freeholder, state assembly and gubernatorial nominations.

Cahill, touring Union County discusses highway problems

Congressman William T. Cahill, Republican candidate for nomination for governor, toured Union County last Friday and talked with local residents.

While in Mountainside, Cahill spoke with Ronald M. Heymann, candidate for the Borough Council, who expressed concern over traffic congestion on State Highway 22 throughout Union County. Heymann indicated that there was severe unrest by borough residents over a proposed overpass crossing at New Providence road.

Cahill replied that the State Highway Department has historically done a poor press and public relations job and that he would be more sensitive to the feelings of local people who would be directly affected by highway construction.

Cahill, at the conclusion of his tour throughout the county, indicated that he was optimistic about his chances of victory in the primary. He stated, "Republicans of New Jersey are beginning to realize that if they want a governor in November, they must have a winner in this Tuesday's primary first."

Asked to present his views on the educational needs of the state, Cahill stated that he believed that the total educational system needs reviewing, beginning at the elementary level. Further, he indicated that as a former teacher and as the father of eight children, he has always supported progressive legislation in Congress for improvements in education and that New Jersey is still far behind in this field. He promised that as governor he would advance the cause of education in New Jersey.

Teen-Republicans conduct 1st meeting

The Union County Teen-Age Republicans' newly formed branch just organized in Mountainside held its first meeting May 16 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Crom.

Assisted by TAR delegates William Eldred and Raymond Fulton from Summit, and George Evans and Hank Spear from Berkeley Heights, elections were held. The elected chairman was Nancy Crom, Patricia Timpanaro was elected secretary-treasurer, until the Mountainside TARs increase their membership. As the chairman automatically becomes a delegate, two more delegates were elected to fill the quota of three delegates permitted.

Jane Gordon and Clark Johnson were chosen, with Linda Gunn and Patricia Timpanaro as substitutes.

Regulations for a New Jersey TAR organization to become certified include stipulations that the club have a membership of at least 10 persons not over 20, a constitution, and some indication of solvency. As the Mountainside organization met all of these requirements, it was certified at the Union County TAR-meeting two days later.

'Hero' drive here over big weekend

Students from Gov. Livingston Regional High School have once more set out to make their fourth annual "Hero Sandwich Drive" a success and a worthwhile project, according to Kenneth Meeks, student council advisor.

Continuing until Monday, orders are being taken for the sandwiches, priced at 75 cents, in Berkeley Heights and Mountainside. All deliveries will then be made before noon on June 7.

Sponsored by the executive council of the Student Council under the direction of Allan Hill, president, the drive will provide funds for the Student Council scholarship fund and the student exchange program with a South American country.

Mayor names a team for Trenton encounter

Mayor Frederick Wilhelms Jr. has chosen three private citizens to accompany him to Trenton next week to discuss the proposed New Providence road overpass at Rt. 22 and other "improvements" to the highway.

They are Edward Kuebler of 1477 Deer Path, Al Earle of Woodacres drive and Don Lugan of 299 Apple Tree la. The mayor was still awaiting word from Peter Niemiec of 1442 Dunn pkwy., who was also invited to attend the session with assistant commissioner of highways Russel H. Mullin.

Memorial trees given to library

Mrs. Wilfred C. Hand of Evergreen court, Mountainside, and her daughters, Sally and Jackie, have presented six trees to the Mountainside Library in memory of the late Wilfred C. Hand.

A library spokesman stated: "Since Mr. Hand was interested in nature and would have celebrated his birthday on May 21, it seemed fitting to honor his memory with the planting of one of his favorite trees, a copper beech, as well as a pink dogwood, three oaks and a weeping birch.

"When the landscape design was developed for the planting of the grounds around the library, a goal was set to have the entire planting finished in five years. The Wilfred C. Hand Memorial brings the goal within reach."

Girls invite moms for Highland Fling

Fashions from Brooks of Summit will be an added feature at this year's Girls Athletic Association "Highland Fling" on Wednesday at Gov. Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights, according to Doris Anderson, advisor. The Highland Fling is an annual awards presentation for girls with outstanding achievement in the GAA sports program.

Modeling the fashions will be girls from the Leaders Club of GAA. They are Kathy Shallcross, Leslie Rhoades, Wendy Saville, Jo Ann Seager, Isabel Krystow, Gail Gorham, Jackie Gibson, Martha Tompson, Debbie Stuart and Debbie Dolbler.

Bonnie Obenchain is the co-chairman with Bonnie Volpe, who is also the fashion show commentator. The program is open to all GAA members, with their mothers as special guests. Refreshments will be served.

PAUSE TO REFRESH — Spring fun at Echo Lake Park, Mountainside, is composed of large parts of running, swinging, rowing, playing all sorts of games, just plain resting in the warm sunlight, watching everyone else have fun — and then a long, cool drink.

LEOKADIA STAWICK

Glassboro honors Leokadia Stawick

Leokadia Stawick of Mountainside and Peter Mahler of Pitman were named co-recipients of Glassboro State College's Distinguished Senior Award, the school's top honor.

The presentations were made at the 12th annual medallion awards assembly at the College last week by Dr. Clyde O. Davis, chairman of the board of trustees.

Miss Stawick, who was also named winner of the Delta Kappa Gamma Award given annually to the outstanding senior coed on the campus, is president of the senior class. She is one of 21 seniors selected for membership in "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" and in Gamma Tau Sigma, distinguished senior honor society at the college. She has been active in the Middle States Evaluation, the advisory board, the senate, the French Club and the Student-Faculty Art Board. She is an art major.

JUST THE FACTS—Lisa Wasserman, a junior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, makes use of computerized college selection system in guidance office, James Wellen, a senior, waits for his turn to ask a computer in Boston for a list of colleges which meet his specific needs. The answers come back in a matter of seconds by way of telephone lines. Use of the system will be expanded throughout the Union County Regional High School District next year.

Students at Dayton are using computer to help pick college

The use of a computerized college selection system that allows the student to obtain the names of colleges which meet his specific needs will be expanded next year in the Union County Regional High School District.

Developed by Interactive Learning Systems (I.L.S.), the system provides almost instantaneous access to comprehensive and up-to-date information about more than 2,000 colleges, universities and junior colleges throughout the United States.

It's designed to save both the guidance counselor and the student time involved in searching through stacks of college catalogues and other reference materials.

Through the efforts of guidance counselor Francis Clancy, Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield is being used as a demonstration center for the I.L.S. system in the metropolitan area.

A computer at the I.L.S. facilities in Boston, stores all the information. This "data file" memorizes over 2,000 characteristics about each school in such areas as cost, location, entrance requirements and available degree majors.

In order to retrieve the information from the computer, the student sits down at a teletypewriter in the guidance office, and by typing simple commands with the use of a code, he designs a profile of the type of school he would like to attend.

The student can even go so far as to ask the computer what colleges have social fraternities and sororities, have an enrollment below 500, and which schools have no religious affiliation.

After feeding what information he wants into the computer, the student, in a matter of seconds, gets a list of colleges that meet his requirements according to the specific material he has fed into the machine. He keeps this list to take home and discuss with his parents.

"The guidance counselor can then sit down with the student and talk over which school best fits his needs," Miss Charlotte Singer, director of guidance, said.

"The computer system has proven to be a tremendous time saving device because we're able to help that many more students. The work sheet the student uses to prepare his profile gets him thinking about the type of college he wants to attend," Clancy pointed out.

COLLEGE-BOUND SENIORS at Jonathan Dayton have already utilized the computer and members of the junior class who are in college preparatory courses have also been scheduled.

Because of its success and the fact that the teletypewriter unit is portable, the system will be made available to the other three high schools in the Regional District beginning in September.

College selection isn't the only service available. Students may also explore various occupational possibilities.

By feeding the computer the characteristics which are important to him in choosing a job, he can get a list of those occupations, together with each job's physical demands, working conditions, possible earnings, required education and opportunities for advancement.

Also, the computer has the capability of printing out a "job profile" which consists of job title, brief job description and names and addresses of where to obtain further information about a particular job.

Guidance officials said this would allow the non-college-bound student to take full advantage of the computer.

On alumni board

Richard English of 579 Hillside ave., Mountainide, was reelected to the board of directors of the Pingry School Alumni Association at the recent Alumni Reunion Day. He is a member of the Class of 1942.

Overnight campout held at Buttonwood by Cadettes' troop

Cadette Girl Scouts of Mountainide Troop 424 went on an overnight outing of primitive camping at the Buttonwood camping ground of Wharton State Forest May 16 and 17. The Scouts pitched their own tents at the camp ground, where other Scout groups were also spending the weekend. The eighth and ninth grade Cadettes went camping on the Oswego River, while the seventh graders toured the historic Batsto. This iron mine area is presently being restored.

Troop 424 continued its activity with a cook-out Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Helmut Grimm, 383 Summit rd. At this time, they held their annual court of awards ceremony. Badges and pins were given out representing the culmination of the year's achievement by individual Scouts.

The last event of the spring season will be the bridging ceremony on Tuesday, with Scouts from Junior Troops 695 and 557 who are entering the Cadette level of Girl Scouting. At that time, the Junior Scouts will be welcomed by members of Troop 424 as new Cadettes in their troop.

Troop 424 has been led this year by Mrs. Robert Taylor, Mrs. Robert Oebahr and Mrs. Helmut Grimm.

Math Day awards won by 14 students at Gov. Livingston

Awards to 14 Gov. Livingston Regional High School students who competed in the recent Union County Regional High School District Mathematics Day were announced this week.

Students from the Gov. Livingston, Jonathan Dayton, Arthur L. Johnson and David Brearley schools competed in three different levels of competition lasting two hours. Contestants were ranked according to placement in the school they attend and were not in competition with students from other schools.

Cary Weisbaum took first place in the level 3 contest and will be awarded a gold medal. Albert Rohr, Wayne Carver and Edward Washuts shared second place, and Virginia Crum received an honorable mention.

A silver medal for first place in level 2 will be given to Eric Kushnik. Stuart Brown took second place, and sharing third were Elroy Shoenfeld, Jon Snyder and Ralph Martin.

Alice White will receive a bronze medal for first place in the level 1 contest. Anne Carlson took second; Joan Faulkner, third, and Edwin Little honorable mention.

All the students will receive citation certificates in addition to mathematics publications. The three levels of competition were determined by the number of years of high school math a student had. Some 250 students were entered in the competition.

EDWARD J. OELS

Oels is graduated from Saint Leo's

SAINT LEO, FLA. -- Saint Leo College granted baccalaureate degrees to 181 members of the class of 1969 at commencement and baccalaureate exercises here.

Among the graduates was Edward Jerome Oels, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Oels of 1555 Grouse lane, Mountainide, N. J. He was treasurer of Alpha Sigma Chi Fraternity and treasurer of the Inter-Fraternity-Sorority Council his sophomore and junior years.

The commencement speaker, Secretary of Defense, Melvin R. Laird, praised the "responsible majority" of young people throughout the nation for their mature social conscience which, he said, compels them to meet the challenge of problems too long ignored, injustices too long tolerated and suffering too long overlooked.

Young to receive a degree from UC

Douglas A. Young of 354 Forest Hill way, Mountainide, is among 179 students who are candidates for associate in arts degrees at Union College's 36th annual commencement on Thursday, June 5, at 6:30 p.m. Williams S. Beinecke of Summit, chairman of the board of The Sperry and Hutchinson Company, New York City, will be the guest speaker at the outdoor ceremonies to be held on the east lawn between the Nomahegan Building and the Campus Center. Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Young, is a graduate of Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights. An engineering major in the day session, he plans to transfer to Rutgers University where he will continue his engineering studies. Young has served in the U. S. Marine Corps and is a member of Alpha Sigma Mu, veterans' fraternity. He has served as business

STANLEY J. ZAWISTOWSKI

Zawistowski to get degree on Monday

Stanley J. Zawistowski of Mountainide will receive a bachelor of science degree from Upsala College in East Orange at commencement exercises on Viking Field on Monday at 10 a.m. Gunnar Myrdal, Swedish statesman and author, will be the commencement speaker.

Dr. Carl Fjellman, president of the college, will award degrees to 309 graduating seniors.

Zawistowski, a geology major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. Zawistowski of 207 Penbrook rd.

manager and managing editor for the Computer, weekly college newspaper, and was engineering representative to the Student Council.

Firm cites 3 agents

General agents Anthony Marchitto, P.J. Ronzel and W.P. Truby of the Mountainide branch office, located in the Mountainide Professional Building at 608 Sherwood pkwy., have won recognition as being among American National Insurance Company's outstanding representatives.

They will be honored by the company, along with others, at a four day 1969 national marketing conference this week-end in Miami Beach.

Approximately 1,400 persons, including wives, from 41 states, Puerto Rico and Guam, will attend the meeting. A.M. Jockusch, vice-president and director of the ordinary agencies division of American National, reported from the company's home office in Galveston, Texas.

With more than $10 billion of life insurance in force, American National ranks 18th among the 1,700 companies in the country, according to industry figures.

The Fontainebleau Hotel will be the site for the meet-

Three students win scholarships

The Mountainside Branch of the American Association of University Women has awarded scholarships to three Mountainside residents. The undergraduates receiving the awards for 1969-70 are Sandra Karwoski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Karwoski of 328 Darby lane, and Sara Elwood, daughter of Mrs. Frank Elwood of 1407 Orchard rd. The third recipient is a graduate student, Mrs. Brian Grant of 590 Woodland ave.

Miss Karwoski, a junior at Douglass College, is majoring in home economics. Miss Elwood, a sophomore, is majoring in retailing and interior design at Rochester Institute of Technology. Both girls are previous winners of the AAUW awards. Mrs. Grant, a graduate of Central Missouri State College, is working toward a master's degree in speech pathology at Newark State College.

The AAUW scholarships are awarded annually to female Mountainside residents who have completed at least one semester of college and who have "shown through good academic standing and personality, a strong desire to earn a college degree," the announcement added.

Professor receives Rutgers fellowship

Dr. Aaron L. Nelson of 1055 Sunny Slope dr., Mountainside, associate professor of science at Rutgers' University College, has been awarded a fellowship by the Rutgers Research Council.

The fellowship program, according to Dr. Henry C. Torrey, dean of the graduate school and director of the Rutgers Research Council, which awards the fellowships, was established in 1963. Dr. Torrey said the fellowships allow recipients to carry on specific research and scholarship programs. The council provides grants to various academic departments to pay for temporarily replacing the fellows.

prehensive" education goes, it would still be a single school district and perhaps even better "If Mountainside students went to four different high schools."

A Mountainside man asked why Dr. Risetto didn't elect to build a fifth high school to handle the 1,700 additional students expected by the mid-70s.

Dr. Risetto said that a fifth school was considered but it was decided that it "would only close the gap, and we wanted more. A fifth school would not take care of the inadequacies of the present schools," he said.

Dr. Risetto's $7 to $8 million program would bring major additions to all four existing high schools and the construction of a central administration building for the school staff. Libraries, in Dr. Risetto's recommendation, would be transformed into electronic "resource centers" in keeping with advances in retrieving information and self-teaching. Classroom space and physical education facilities would be enlarged and more efficiently used.

"Not only would facilities be modified, Dr. Risetto, said, but so would curriculum, which would be up to the Board of Education with guidance from the report.

Another Mountainside man said that student hours spent busing back and forth for special programs at different schools and simply just going back and forth to the "parent" school are as "unproductive" and "wasted" as time presently lost in study halls because of overcrowding.

Dr. Risetto agreed, but said "you can't erase" the 25 square miles which the district occupies. He said that bus routes could be planned more efficiently, but conceded that busing is generally "unproductive and costly."

Dr. Risetto took the opportunity to again point out that the geographical size of the district is another illustration that the neighborhood school concept is dead. "It is not what it was historically," Dr. Risetto said, "...and we find no deterioration of attitude among students when they go from grammar school somewhere else to high school," perhaps even far enough away so that they have to take a bus.

A Mountainside woman asked if the content and quality of the schools would be equal.

Dr. Risetto said that although there would be some local-interest courses in each of the schools, the similarities would far outweigh the dissimilarities.

A Berkeley Heights resident attacked Dr. Risetto over the philosophy of the regional high school system. He said that he thought the "primary purpose of the regional high school system" was to separate students into schools where "kids of college caliber all would go to one school."

The man also accused Dr. Risetto of failure to do his job. "That report could have been put together in a week," the man said, waving his hand in disagreement.

Avery Ward, president of the Regional Board of Education, said that putting "college caliber" youngsters all in the same school was not the policy of the district.

Former drug users say communications needed

One of the strongest recommendations being made by a group of rehabilitated ex-narcotics addicts who are presenting a series of programs on drug abuse in the Union County Regional High School District, is that students be given the chance to discuss mutual problems among themselves—with or without adult supervision.

The team of rehabilitated ex-addicts from the Odyssey House treatment center in New York City said they found one of the most serious problems facing youngsters is the lack of communication between themselves and their parents.

The last in the series of four Board of Education-sponsored programs on drug abuse will be held Monday at the David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth. There will be a parent-community meeting beginning at 8 p.m. in the auditorium in addition to the day-long program for the student body.

The Odyssey House team led by professional therapists, have talked to students in the other three high schools, both on a collective and an individual basis.

They said youngsters have told them they have difficulty communicating with their parents. The team said students came to them to discuss problems because of this apparent lack of family communication.

Parents who attended the previous evening meetings at Jonathan Dayton, Arthur L. Johnson and Gov. Livingston, were advised by the Odyssey House representatives to set up opportunities for youngsters to hold group discussions among themselves, and that parents could even form their own group to discuss problems as they relate to the teenagers.

Parents in Springfield met Sunday to discuss ways of fighting what they termed an "alarming increase of the use of drugs among teenagers."

"The real world," the rehabilitated ex-addicts said, "is so painful and dissatisfying that one attempts to escape into a less demanding environment through the use of drugs."

Dr. Donald Merachuk, director of special services and coordinator of the programs, noted that research has shown there is a definite falling off in the learning process by students who use drugs, and that consequently grades tend to go down.

Jerome Mandel, president of the high school PTA, has urged all parents and members of the community to attend the evening meeting. It is open to any resident of the six constituent districts.

Helping to plan the program at the school are the principal, John L. Dixey, and George Cuzzolino, assistant principal. Also involved is the Board of Education president, Avery W. Ward, a Kenilworth resident.

Sacharow

"Reform of the Democratic party is vital if it hopes to recapture the confidence of the voter. My fight for an Assembly seat in the June 3 primary against the organization slate and the slate supported by Mayor Dunn is based on my sincere belief that new leadership is needed in the party. Only if the New Democratic Coalition is successful next Tuesday will there be the substance of reform as well as the stimulus for reform."

Sacharow said that the election of his running mate, Hulse, would "not only give much delayed reorganization to the large black community in the western part of Union County, but bring into the political spotlight a young man of great promise."

"George Hulse's political idol is Julian Bond, the young state legislator from Georgia whose idealism and eloquence in the fight for peace and party reform captured the country's attention at the Chicago convention last year. George could be New Jersey's Julian Bond."

Miss Hartnett gets bachelor's degree

Miss Susan Carol Hartnett of Mountainside was awarded a baccalaureate degree at the 33rd annual commencement exercises at Ladycliff College, Highland Falls, N.Y., this week.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hartnett, 1350 Stony Brook lane, she will teach in the Union Township public school system.

IF YOUNGSTERS GO TO CAMP, CHECK INSURANCE COVERAGE
"Right now, my wife is awash in a sea of shorts, sweaters and name-tapes," a father writes. "With two of our three children slated for a summer camp, are any changes or additions required in our insurance protection?"

Chances are that some minor revisions may be called for. Ask your local independent insurance agent or broker for specific suggestions in your particular case.

A few generalizations are in order. First of all, your children are not only going to camp. They are going to travel — from home to camp and camp to home, not to mention any number of day trips or sleepaway trips which are always a treat for older children.

If they will be traveling by plane, train, bus or other public vehicle, a special travel accident policy can be written to cover them from the time they leave home until their return.

The clothing and other personal possessions which will accompany them are generally protected against fire or theft by the family's property insurance while they are in transit and at camp. Most homeowner's package policies, for example, provide $1000 coverage for losses of personal property away from home.

Still, if expensive cameras, golf clubs or musical instruments are going to be taken along, you might want to ask your insurance man about the personal articles floater.

The family accident policy and the camp's liability insurance generally cover injuries sustained at camp. But since none of us can predict what the summer will bring, a comprehensive insurance checkup is most appropriate at this time.

Holiday bid by Helstoski

On behalf of the Union County Helstoski for Governor campaign committee, Dr. Nathan Weiss, professor of political science at Newark State College, announced this week that a "massive drive" of Helstoski for Governor supporters will be conducted throughout Union County over the Memorial Day weekend.

According to Dr. Weiss, the major objective of the drive will be to reach voters at public parks, shopping centers and railroad and bus terminals.

Dr. Weiss said: "A recent private poll commissioned by the Helstoski campaign organization indicated that over 40 percent of registered Democrats are undecided in their gubernatorial choice for the June 3 primary. Therefore, in defiance of political tradition, and in the spirit of the new politics, we are making a maximum effort to capture the undecided vote for Congressman Helstoski on a traditionally non-political holiday weekend."

Max Schloff of Cranford, a recent graduate of Rutgers University, will be in charge of the volunteer effort during the holiday weekend. Schloff said: "Congressman Helstoski's record of coming from behind in difficult elections will not be broken on June 3."

Pollution effects cause 'deep concern'
Poll shows 3 out of 4 favor action using tax money

Approximately three out of four Americans would be willing to pay more taxes if the money were used for programs to improve the natural environment, according to results of a recent Gallup Poll. The survey, commissioned by the National Wildlife Federation, also shows that the same ratio favor setting aside additional public lands for national parks, bird sanctuaries and wildlife refuges.

The effects of air and water pollution, soil erosion, and destruction of wildlife were of "deep concern" to half of those interviewed, while one-third were "somewhat concerned", and 12 percent were "not very concerned". Thirty-six percent rated air pollution as the most pressing problem, and 32 percent named water pollution. When asked how they would correct the problem of air pollution, the most frequent answers given were the control of auto exhaust and of chemical and industrial wastes. The "revention of industrial pollution, enforcing present laws and passing new ones, rated highest for the correction of water pollution.

The results of the poll also indicated that out of every 100 persons now living in the nation's largest cities, only 13 would remain if they had a choice. Of the total number interviewed, six percent chose to live in a large city, 30 percent in a rural area, 25 percent in a small city, and 18 percent in the suburbs.

nutrient waste into the water resulting in an excess of algae and aquatic plants. The resulting organic matter consumes the oxygen essential to the aquatic life of the water body. Eventually it is literally choked to death.

The results of man-induced eutrophication are "catastrophic," says Arthur D. Hasler writing in the current issue of "BioScience," and it is proceeding at such a "galloping pace that there is insufficient time to raise an enlightened younger generation which would cope with the causes of eutrophication."

Dr. Hasler, a zoologist at the University of Wisconsin, believes that the present rate of deterioration can be reversed if we have the will and determination to come to grips with the task. "Our knowledge of what causes eutrophication is sufficiently good," he says, "that firm and effective precautions can be recommended. They may be expensive to achieve, but the predicted facts are at hand."

MANY LAKES, streams, and estuaries are threatened with destruction because of excessive nutrient enrichment. This process, known as cultural eutrophication, is the result of a variety of human activities which deposit

Stanley F. Volles, M.D.
Director
National Institute of Mental Health

DOES LSD CAUSE MENTAL ILLNESS?
No drug has caused more controversy, with the possible exception of marijuana, than the strange compound known as LSD.

What do we know about it? Here are some of the questions people frequently ask about this mysterious drug. The answers are factual, not preachments. The answers are based on current scientific knowledge.

What is LSD?
It is a powerful man-made chemical, lysergic acid diethylamide, generally called LSD. It was first developed in 1938 from chemicals found in ergot, a fungus that grows on rye — a common grain plant.

LSD is classed legally as a hallucinogen, a mind-affecting drug. It is noted mainly for producing strong, strange mental reactions in people. It causes striking distortions in their physical senses: what and how they see, touch, smell, and hear.

Does LSD increase creativity?
Some users believe it does. But studies of paintings, writings, and other works done by drug users have failed to support this. In many cases, works done by people under LSD influence appeared noticeably poorer.

Is LSD dangerous?
Hospital and other reports warn of definite dangers: accidental deaths, panic, temporary but possibly recurring paranoia (suspicious fear), and the possibility of acute and even long-lasting mental illness.

How does the law view LSD?
Because LSD is a dangerous drug when not used for research under medical supervision, it is closely regulated by Federal laws. These call for strict penalties, imprisonment and fines, for illegal production, sale, or disposition of LSD and other similar drugs. State laws also provide stiff penalties, some for possession as well as use, sale or disposition.

What is the Institute doing about LSD?
Because we need to know more about this powerful drug, NIMH is supporting and encouraging research on a broad front to get full answers about its chemistry, pharmacology, animal and human effects, and whether it

SELECTIVE SERVICE questions and answers

(Colonel Joseph T. Avella, State Director of Selective Service, has issued the following series of questions frequently asked of the Selective Service System, along with appropriate answers.)

Can any other than a registrant appeal a local board classification?

Yes. The following persons may appeal a registrant's classification: Any person who claims to be a dependent of the registrant; any person who had filed a written request for the registrant's occupational deferment prior to his original classification; the government appeal agent; the State Director of Selective Service; the Director of Selective Service and, of course, the registrant himself.

I will complete my tool and die maker's apprenticeship in three months. Will my Class II-A deferment continue when I work as a journeyman?

Your present II-A deferment must terminate when you complete the apprenticeship training. Your new classification by the local board will be based upon the circumstances and facts as they exist at that time.

I enlisted in the National Guard on my 18th birthday. That was two months ago. I was under the impression that members of the Guard and Reserve did not have to register for the draft. Is this true? If not, what should I do?

Members of the Reserve components of the Armed Forces, Coast Guard and Public Health Service while on ACTIVE DUTY are not subject to registration. Since you are not on active duty, you are in effect delinquent for not registering with Selective Service. Report to your local board immediately, and explain the circumstances of your failure to present yourself for registration.

I am presently classified I-A-O. However, my father died within the last month and I am the sole support of my mother and 15-year old sister. Am I entitled to a III-A classification?

Regardless of your present classification, your change in status should be reported to your local board giving all details involved. You may at that time request the local board to reconsider your classification.

I am a freshman in college and have requested and received a II-S deferment. Must I re-submit a "Request for Undergraduate Deferment" (SSS Form 104) before I am eligible to receive a II-S deferment for my sophomore year?

No. Only one request is required. It authorizes your local board to grant a II-S deferment until you complete the requirements for a baccalaureate degree, fall to pursue satisfactorily a full-time course of study, or attain the 24th anniversary of the date of your birth, whichever occurs first.

I am a full-time undergraduate college student. Recently I received an Order to Report for Induction and immediately requested and received a I-S-(C) deferment. How long will this deferment last? You will be deferred until the end of your academic year or until you cease to satisfactorily pursue such full-time course of instruction, whichever comes first.

New Rutgers turf center of attraction

Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, New Brunswick, will welcome to the campus hundreds of professional turfgrass growers and interested amateurs on Turf Research Field Day, June 11.

The annual program to acquaint the public with different aspects of turf research will this year feature a new turfgrass variety, Manhattan ryegrass, along with the ever-popular Kentucky bluegrasses.

Dr. C. Reed Funk, associate research professor of soils and crops, will explain his grass breeding and evaluation work. Dr. Philip M. Hallisky, a plant pathologist, will exhibit his research work on fungicides and turf disease of Kentucky bluegrasses.

Dr. Ralph E. Engel, professor of turf management, will display grass plots on which fertilizer studies plus mowing and thinning experiments have been done.

The event will be held at the turf research plots, off College Farm road on Dudley avenue on the college campus. A festival tour will start at 10 a.m.

New Plan in interest

W. Kress, president of the Howard Savings Institution, this week announced that, starting with the June 1 dividend period, the bank will pay interest from day-of-deposit to day-of-withdrawal on all regular savings accounts, provided that a minimum balance of $10 is maintained to the end of the quarter when dividends are payable. The bank's current rate on regular savings accounts is 4 1/2 percent a year, compounded and payable quarterly -- March, June, September and Dec. 1. No changes were made in the regulations covering the Howard's investments savings account, which currently earns interest at 5 percent a year, compounded quarterly then left on deposit for four all quarterly dividend periods.

The Howard, with branches in Newark, South Orange, Irvington and North Caldwell, is New Jersey's largest mutual savings bank with assets currently in excess of $900 million.

Industrial employment in Jersey up 22,000

Nonfarm wage and salary employment in New Jersey climbed by 22,000 between March and April to an estimated 2,524,200. According to the planning and research division of the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry, the April employment gain was the result of seasonal expansion in construction, trade, and services.

Total nonagricultural employment continued to run well above the same time last year, with this April's estimate exceeding April 1968 employment by 56,200. The division's estimates are based on a sample survey of employers in the State, and exclude farm, domestic, self-employed, and unpaid family workers.

Factory employment in New Jersey was estimated at 886,000 in April, or about 6,100 less than in March. A 4,200 decline in the apparel industry -- due to seasonal layoffs -- was the key contributor. Employment in non-manufacturing was estimated at 1,638,200. Seasonal advances in construction, services, and trade; the opening of a new facility in transportation; and increased hiring in finance, insurance, and real estate accounted for most of a 28,100 increase in nonmanufacturing employment between March and April.

A slight reduction in overtime caused average weekly earnings of factory workers to drop by about a half-dollar between March and April. Factory workers were earning an estimated $130 in mid-April and were working an average of 40.5 hours per week. Despite reduced overtime at premium rates, average hourly earnings increased one cent to an estimated $3.21. Compared with April 1968, weekly earnings were up about $10.50. The April 1969 work-week was longer by more than an hour and average hourly earnings were 17 cents higher.

Private charity sets record with $15.8 billion during '68

More than $15.8 billion was given to colleges, universities, hospitals and other causes in the United States last year. The amount is eight percent above the total given in 1967, and represents an all-time high in contributions.

In 1968, individuals gave $12.1 billion, more than three-fourths of the total, while $1.3 billion came from bequests by individuals. Grants by philanthropic foundations totaled $1.5 billion, and corporations gave $925 million.

Reported in "Giving, USA" the annual year-book of philanthropy of the American Association of Fund-Raising Council, the estimated figures are based on research by the association's staff and reports from national philanthropic organizations, government offices and other information-gathering agencies.

Religious causes were the chief recipients of this largesse, the association says, receiving $7.4 billion, nearly 47 percent of the total. Hospitals and health causes received $2.74 billion; educational institutions $2.65 billion; welfare and other agencies for improvement of human resources $1.1 billion; civic and cultural causes $710 million. About $1.225 billion was given to other causes, including aid to citizens of foreign countries and contributions to foundations.

The American Association of Fund-Raising Council is a professional organization of major fund-raising counseling firms. It was organized 35 years ago to encourage high standards of ethics and practices in philanthropic fund raising.

614,000 opportunities

The Labor Department reports that the Job Opportunities in the Business Sector (JOBS) program expects to place 614,000 hard-core unemployed individuals in 175 cities by June, 1971.

Announce dividend at Howard Savings

John W. Kress, president of the Howard Savings Institution, announced this week that the bank will pay a dividend in excess of $9.5 million on June 1. This will be the 312th consecutive dividend, and the largest ever paid by the institution.

The dividend will be $511,000 more than that paid for the same period last year, and will increase to $37,300,000 the total dividends for the last four quarterly dividend periods. Kress noted, too, that after this dividend is credited, the Howard Savings Institution will have paid more than $376,000,000 in total dividends since the institution's beginning in 1857.

Bugs at last being eliminated from insect control projects

The bugs are finally being worked out of agricultural insect control programs, reported "Chemical and Engineering News," the weekly publication of the American Chemical Society.

Oponents of the widespread use of insecticides are getting their way. Traditional chemical pesticides, such as the famous DDT, one of the first highly successful and now most criticized insecticides, are gradually being replaced by highly specific biological chemicals, agents and techniques.

Synthetic forms of numerous insects' own body chemicals, hormones and sex attractants are being developed to aid the cause, along with ways to grow and spread bacteria, viruses and other kinds of natural enemies of the damaging insects. These new biochemical approaches to the control of insects are expected to make it possible to check their rampant growth without endangering other forms of life such as birds, fish and other animals that actually help man by devouring the pesky bugs. The new techniques will also keep the poisonous pesticides out of the bodies of animals that we use for food.

Insecticide manufacturers, increasingly "bugged" by government regulations and an aroused public, have virtually stopped research and development on broad spectrum pesticides that nature can not easily decompose into non-poisonous substances. The trend today is toward biological control, aimed at specific insects.

Exceptionally devastating to various crops and known to virtually all agriculturalists, even amateur gardeners, is a high destructive moth known technically as "Heliothis zea." This moth has an enormous appetite in the larva stage of life and generally assumes many names according to what it is eating — cotton bollworm, corn earworm, tomato fruitworm, and soybean podworm.

Its voracious larva form is responsible for the annual loss of crops worth about $300 million, making it the most damaging of all insect pests. About the only consistently effective chemical agent against H. zea now is parathion, used in combination with DDT and toxaphene. But the amount of these insecticides needed to kill H. zea increases every year.

As a new approach toward controlling H. zea and other insects, scientists at U.S. Department of Agriculture's Tifton, Ga., laboratories are looking for certain chemicals in plants that are responsible for their susceptibility or resistance to the pest.

Why does H. zea eat some plants and not others? Entomologist Dr. William McMillan has extracted a chemical substance called a "feeding stimulant" from corn kernels that seems to attract H. zea to the corn plants. If a new variety of corn could be developed that does not have within it this particular pest-attracting chemical, perhaps the new resistant strain could escape the ravaging H. zea. Even so, efforts in still another means of control are being sought. Another somewhat unusual plan for controlling

H. zea involves the use of one of H. zea's own natural enemies, the green lacewing. The lacewing simply eats the H. zea larvae whole. Dr. Richard L. Ridgway of USDA's College Station, Texas laboratory thinks the opportunity for the chemical industry in this field is to develop artificial eggs or chemical nutrients so that large populations of lacewings could be raised and released against H. zea.

His idea would be to promote a lacewing population explosion in special lacewing "factories" by supplying lacewing larvae with all the nutrients they would need to stay alive and grow to adulthood. The problem, however, is in manufacturing the eggs that lacewing larvae find so delicious.

Treatment would involve releasing 100,000 lacewing eggs per acre four times each growing season.

In any event the chemical industry is not leaving any leaves unturned in its search for more effective and safer ways to control insects.

Memorial Day

*A Time
to Pause...
A Time
to Remember*

Once again, on Memorial Day, we pause to recall, with respect and much pride, the selfless sacrifices of our brave and valiant departed heroes. Gallantly, they marched forth, united as one in defense of freedom. And with unflinching courage and unyielding devotion to cause, they gave their lives so that our precious heritage of liberty might endure. Lest their deeds be forgotten or ignobled, and their sacrifices be in vain, let us all now resolve to be equally steadfast and courageous in preserving that which has been so heroically achieved. Let us dedicate ourselves to ever cherish and uphold that priceless freedom, which is the legacy of those whose memory we honor today.

State Police exam to be held June 4 at Essex Catholic

The State Police will conduct examinations on Wednesday, June 4, at 7 p.m. in Essex Catholic High School, 300 Broadway, Newark. Applicants must meet the following requirements:

Citizen of the United States; high school diploma or equivalency certificate; between the ages of 21 and 34 as of Nov. 2, 1969; weight not less than 150 pounds; height not less than 5 feet 8 inches; vision not less than 20/30 in both eyes without glasses or contact lenses; ability to distinguish colors; normal hearing in both ears; good teeth with satisfactory restorations; body free from all physical defects; good reputation and moral character; must have a valid driver's license. Married and single men are accepted.

All men who meet the requirements may take the written examination without prior application. Applicants who take the exam will be notified of the results. Those who pass will be instructed to report to division headquarters, West Trenton, for the medical and physical examination. Results of all examinations are held in strict confidence.

Successful applicants appointed to the academy for the 14-week training period will receive a biweekly salary of $252 plus meals and quarters. Upon graduation, the annual salary of a trooper is $6,684 plus a $1,704 maintenance allowance. Yearly increments of $344 are granted until the maximum of $8,688 plus $1,704 is attained for a total of $10,392.

'Other-than-honorable'

For the 1.5 million men and women holding general or "other-than-honorable" discharges from the Armed Forces, the Department of Labor offers a special service which might make them more acceptable to employers. The Department will help them get an Exemplary Rehabilitation Certificate, documenting their good behavior over a three-year period.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

'No, you can't have a great big smile...'

Ozzard hits Gross on admissions plan

Public Utilities Commissioner William E. Ozzard, Republican candidate for governor, went on record this week in opposition to the open admissions policy at Rutgers-Newark, advocated by President Mason Gross.

"To admit the disadvantaged without requiring them to qualify is a mistake and a disservice, not only to the disadvantaged, but also to the other students of the university," Ozzard said.

He explained that his objection rests on a firm belief: "It is one thing to expose a young person to education and another thing to actually educate him."

Ozzard said, "I find that all Dr. Gross is recommending is exposure." "I will strongly recommend that those who would have been included in the open admissions program be brought up to admissions level. They could then enter the university and get more than exposure. They would then get an education. And education is something they have to have if we are going to advance the position of the disadvantaged of this state."

Dem state group sets up minority affairs division

A new Division of Minority Affairs, headed by C. B. Cargile Jr., has been established in Democratic State Committee headquarters as the result of consultations with Black political leaders throughout the state.

Robert J. Burkhardt, Chairman of the State Committee, said the Division "will back up statements about the need for an open and reformed party with some real action aimed at involving more Blacks and Puerto Ricans in party affairs."

He said that no other Democratic State Committee in the nation has such a division at the present time, and expressed hope "that our initiative in New Jersey will be followed by New York, Penn-sylvia and other states with large minority group populations."

Cargile has resigned his position as field supervisor for relocation programs in the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs to accept the directorship of the new division. Cargile previously served as supervisor of Employment and Public Accommodation Compliance in the Division on Civil Rights, Department of Law and Public Safety.

Cargile said the priorities of the new division will include greatly expanded programs for voter education, registration, and for stimulating individual participation -- especially by young adults -- in party activities. In addition the division will gather and present minority group opinions and problems directly to county and state party leaders. It will also act in conjunction with minority leaders in New York and Pennsylvania on problems of a regional nature.

"I want to make it clear," Cargile said, "that this new activity is a part of the Democratic State Committee and is aimed at bringing about desired social and economic changes in the minority community through an orderly political process. We are going to work within the party, and support all-of-its candidates in the general elections."

"It is my firm opinion, and the opinion of Black leaders in this state, that the prompt improvement of the status of Blacks, Puerto Ricans and Spanish-speaking citizens can best be achieved through the strength of the Democratic Party, the party most sensitive to human rights and human dignity."

FAMILY POT LUCK
BY HELEN HALE
Looking for something different? Take the usual ingredients — ground beef, frozen mixed vegetables and mushroom soup — and add soy sauce and Chinese noodles.
You have an Oriental-style casserole that should be a meal pleaser.
For a novel salad, ring an individual salad plate with sliced chilled cucumber. In the center arrange a bed of finely chopped lettuce leaves and top with 6 or 7 whole, drained Norway sardines. Garnish with criss-cross strips of red pimento and serve with your favorite dressing.
If you pack lunches for some members of the family, keep them interested with milk-made desserts. Disposable and vacuum containers make most any food packable, including puddings, cottage cheese specialties and creamy soups.
For sauce pique to top off a favorite meat loaf, combine 1/4 stick of margarine, one small chopped onion, a pinch of rosemary and salt and freshly ground pepper. When margarine is melted, add 1/4 cup wine. Scrape off the sticky bits and finish the sauce with 2 tablespoons of heavy cream.

Party Chicken (Serves 6)
2 slices boneless ham, 1/4" thick
2 stalks celery, chopped
1 teaspoon minced onion
6 chicken breasts
2 cans cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup cream or top milk
Cut ham in 6 serving sized pieces. Sauté until lightly browned on both sides in a little butter. Place a portion on a large square of aluminum foil. In the same frying pan, sauté chicken breasts until lightly browned. Add celery, onion and cream to chicken soup. Pour 1/2 cup of this sauce over each portion of ham and chicken breasts in foil. Turn edges of foil upward so there will be no danger of leakage. Place packages on a cookie sheet and bake in moderate (375 degree F.) oven for 1 to 1-1/4 hours. Place packages on serving plates and fold back foil just before serving.

Kiehn, Heilmann get to know about a very special hospital

It has been customary to pay lip service to the dedicated work of the medical profession during Hospital Week.

But Assemblymen Herbert J. Heilmann of Union and Herbert H. Kiehn of Rahway took a more practical and down-to-earth approach, during last week's observance.

They visited Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside, to learn first hand the needs and accomplishments of one of New Jersey's best-known hospitals. And they came away both impressed with the hospital's work and determined that its skilled medical and rehabilitation services be more widely known and used to benefit handicapped children.

"The theme of Hospital Week this year was 'Progress through Community Involvement,'" Heilmann said. "As elected representatives of the community, we felt it was our duty to do what we could to assist New Jersey's hospitals in the fine work they do."

"We chose to visit Children's Specialized Hospital because it is situated between both our new districts and draws many of its patients from our areas. And also, we felt the handicapped children of New Jersey had first claim on our attention."

"We know that Children's Specialized was nationally known for its fine rehabilitation work, but we had no idea that it so completely and thoroughly prepared the handicapped child for a useful and happy life. The tragedy is that many parents of handicapped children, and even some doctors, are still unaware that these facilities are available, the expanded programs benefit not only polio patients but all children needing long-term care."

"The major result of our visit is our determination to work for a wider public knowledge of the job done at Children's Specialized Hospital," Kiehn added. "As long as there is a handicapped child in New Jersey who needs rehabilitation care, and an empty bed at Children's Specialized, we will do whatever we can to bring the two together."

"We started this project by reading a statement on the hospital's work on the floor of the Assembly, and we will continue our efforts in any way possible."

Children's Specialized Hospital was founded in 1891 and, until 1962, was known as the Children's Country Home.

After establishing an international reputation as a rehabilitation center for youthful polio victims, it gradually broadened its services to include highly-specialized treatment of any long-term ailment in a child—and occasionally in adults.

Today its complete, fully-accredited medical and rehabilitation facilities serve some 50 children suffering from rheumatic fever, cerebral palsy, orthopedic conditions, accident disabilities and other long-term ailments.

It is an "open" hospital in that a referring physician may assign full responsibility for prescribing treatment to the hospital's medical staff, or he may elect to retain that responsibility.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

THESE TIMES
The world today is filled with alarmists and with realists. Sometimes, it is difficult to tell them apart. Publicly and in print, Chicken Little of fairy tale fame is being paraphrased with the warning that "the world is falling apart."

On one hand, we are told that the individuals of the world are rapidly losing a sense of moral values and that Christianity is fighting for its very existence.

And then we are told that there is nothing really new in the world, that people are not better, no worse than they have been since Adam tasted the forbidden apple, and that Christianity, far from dying, is rising to do battle with the crying needs of the times. All things are relative, of course. Perhaps our world is little different in the good-versus-bad category than it was a generation or so ago. Certainly our communications technology today is such that small events and happenings in the remotest sections of the world can be quickly made available to news media around the globe.

In summary, we are more aware of the world in which we live. We are better informed about the problems that exist within the community, within the state, in the nation, and around the world.

The simple truth is that, being more aware, we should find it easier to meet our individual responsibilities, to accept the challenges that we know are present, to promote some manner of good in that part of the world in which we live.

Wanted: Gentler people

Scientists write about violence

Anthropologist Loren Eiseley says that we do not really need more brains; the need now is for a gentler, a more tolerant people than those who won for us against the ice, the tiger, and the bear.

Writing in "Science" on this theme and about violence as a form of aggressive behavior, psychiatrists Marshall F. Gilula and David N. Daniels of Stanford University School of Medicine say that violence may have lost whatever adaptive value it may once have had. Violence is not unique to a particular region, nation, or time, and although man required violent aggression to maintain his territory when food was scarce even after he became agricultural and sedentary, he now can adapt his environment to his needs instead of the other way around.

But man has retained the adaptive mechanisms -- including violence and aggression -- derived from a long history of mammalian and primate evolution. Violence and aggression show up as inclinations to fight in a time of emergency. Unfortunately, today this fighting response is not always the best response to social, cultural, and psychological stresses. Human beings are uniquely endowed, both biologically and culturally, to adapt to their environment, and although we are capable of consciously determining the nature of our environment, our outmoded adaptive behavior -- our violent aggression -- according to Drs. Gilula and Daniels, prevents us from doing so.

Current examples of violence and the factors fostering it include assassination, the mass media, mental illness, homicide, firearms, resistances to restrictive gun legislation, and collected and sanctioned violence.

The major obstacle to removing violence from our society is our slowness to recognize that our anachronistic violent style of coping with problems will destroy us in this technological age.

RED-BELLIED

One of the snakes native to New Jersey is the northern red-bellied snake, which has a plain brown back and red belly. However, there are many variations in color. The snake, which hisses loudly, can measure from 48 to 66 inches.

SAFETY 'POINTERS' -- Model has made some fashion choices which could impair her ability to drive safely. Arrows point to potential dangers -- gloves, hair, cape and bracelet.

High hemline a safety aid

'Mod' look can curb mishaps

If you still need an excuse for wearing a mini-skirt, here's a beauty:

It could lower your chances of having a traffic accident.

What you wear can make a difference in how well you drive, according to Aetna Life & Casualty, whose Drivotrainer system is used to teach driving at 650 high schools and colleges. And there's nothing like the leg freedom of a short skirt for easy braking and accelerating.

Aetna notes that the number of traffic accidents involving women motorists has climbed faster than hemlines during the past decade and that one of every seven distaff drivers is likely to be in an accident this year.

While safe-driving habits are your best bet to remain in the accident-free majority, sensible clothing can help, the insurance company suggests.

The mod look is a step in the right direction. For example, high skirts demand low heels, which are ideal for driving. Unlike the stiletto heels of old, today's square heels are less likely to catch in your car's floor covering or on the accelerator--a pair of situations likely to produce accidents. If you do occasionally wear high or narrow heels, keep a pair of flats in the car to slip on for driving.

If you wear gloves while driving, they should be of a material such as leather that gives you a sure grip on the steering wheel. A slippery fabric such as nylon or cotton could cause you to lose control in an emergency.

Don't let coats and jackets limit your freedom of arm movement. If they're too tight or bulky they could leave you in a driving bind. Unbutton your coat or re-arrange it so you can move freely.

Watch dangling bracelets and wide sleeves. They can catch on the shift lever, window and door handles or turn signal. Imagine the consequences if your bracelet were caught and you had to move quickly to avoid an accident.

Much of the beauty of long hair is the way it floats when you swing your head. But if it happens to swirl in front of your eyes in a car, you may be in trouble. Tying your hair back with a scarf or ribbon solves the problem quickly and fashionably.

Formal evening clothes are more restricting than daytime wear. Chances are you'll be escorted on your "night-out," but if you do drive be sure you can move freely. Fold your long skirt up away from your feet, be sure you have plenty of arm room, and keep dangling jewelry in your purse until you arrive at your destination.

You'll always be in vogue if you remember the most important accessory to any driving outfit--your seatbelt. Worn securely fastened at all times, it will help keep the risk of death and injury to a "mini-mum."

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy: I'm 18 years old and have been married for two years. I have a daughter eight months old. I live in a nice house and have all the things a young married woman would want. But I don't love my husband and I don't think I ever did. I married him because I had to get away from my family (I ran away from home once and I didn't want to do it again) and since my family liked my husband, I saw marriage to him as an escape from them. My husband is a good provider. I don't want to live with him, but I think my daughter is more important than myself. When I was a child, my parents split up and I had to live with one than the other so I know what my daughter would have to face. I know I would have no trouble getting a divorce. My husband doesn't beat me but he is very inconsiderate and he tried to shoot me once. I'm afraid to get a divorce because I would have no place to go and I don't want to deprive my daughter of the things I didn't have.

Should I stick it out?
Nervous

Dear Nervous: Your marriage is more than slightly sick. Any girl who uses marriage as an escape can expect to be disappointed. It's no use crying over spilt milk. Get the help of a marriage counselor and take your husband with you... with-

Men Women And Teenagers Welcome

There's no problem in losing weight. The average person has lost weight by himself many times, only to regain it again. The problem is to keep your lost weight from returning... to acquire a new set of healthy eating habits, so strongly entrenched that you automatically are kept from going back to your improper ways of eating.

And that is why the ethical Weight Watchers program, founded by Jean Nidetch and directed by educators Lester S. and Cecile Fein, is so successful. During your weight reduction period Weight Watchers will help you give up chocolates, macaroni, puddings, creams, cookies, cakes, pies, gravies, fried foods and what have you... and substitute tantalizing, productive foods that will enable you to lose weight -- and keep it off.

Moreover, Weight Watchers will work with you afterward in a wide variety of ways to make sure your weight stays off. Consistent with its responsibilities as the leader in the weight reduction and maintenance field, Weight Watchers urges every member to consult a physician of his own choice and to check his or her progress with him.

CYO asks members to join in urban programs for poor

Local members of Catholic Youth Organizations are being called upon to participate in urban programs for the poor this summer. The programs are being prepared by the Newark Archdiocesan CYO Teenage Council.

The Council's chairman, Barney Schneider, in a letter to CYO moderators and officers states: "Many of us in CYO feel a sense of Christian responsibility toward those who are suffering want and deprivation, and we are seriously looking for an opportunity to be active assistance to them. There are enough projects so that each CYO unit and individual will be able to find one which is best suited to his time and talents. For instance, there are openings for tutors, playground instructors or any number of other positions. Transportation can usually be arranged as many priests, sisters, seminarians and lay people travel to the cities from the suburban areas each day."

A four-phase program, outlined by Schneider, includes sponsoring a music festival for the benefit of an urban recreation center; participation by volunteers in a summer-in-the-city program covering areas of sports, tutoring, art, etc.; fund raising; and collecting toys, art material and sports equipment.

The Council chairman said parish CYO units can help in many ways and it will be the function of the Council to tell "how" and "where."

"In any case," he concluded, "there is much to be done and you are needed."

New Jersey pays $1.79 for each $1 received from U.S.

New Jersey residents paid $1.79 in taxes for each $1 in federal grants-in-aid received by their state and local governments last year. This continued New Jersey at the top of a list of 17 states which paid more in taxes than they received in grants.

The annual tabulation of cost vs. benefits of federal aid was reported this week by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association. It is based upon a formula devised by The Tax Foundation showing the state-by-state distribution of $18 billion in billion in total federal grants-in-aid nationally in fiscal year 1968.

The tax cost of the federal aid program allocated to New Jersey approximated $762.5 million as against actual grants received in the fiscal year 1968 totaling $426.7 million. Thus, in terms of the cost vs. benefits ratio, New Jersey contributed $1.79 for each dollar of aid received.

Last year Alaska, paying 25 cents, was lowest among 32 states that paid less than one dollar for each grant-in-aid dollar. New Hampshire "broke even". Among New Jersey's neighbors, a federal aid dollar cost $1.30 in Delaware, $1.24 in Pennsylvania and $1.16 in New York State.

The Tax Foundation formula reflects the actual tax burden on taxpayers rather than federal taxes collected in New Jersey. For example, federal cigarette taxes, collected mostly in a few tobacco-producing states are, by the formula, allocated among all the states on the basis of cigarette consumption by state.

"The continuation of New Jersey's unique position as the state which makes more federal tax payments and receives less in aid grants illustrates," according to Clarence Ziegler, executive director of NJTA, "that any basic shift in New Jersey's status will depend on changes in aid formulae that take into account population density and other indices of urbanization and not solely on participation in every available aid program."

Vision consultant in schools proposed by N. J. legislator

TAMMINGTON, Pa. -- Legislation to require every school district in New Jersey to maintain a professional vision consultant on its staff and to make a complete eye examination an entrance requirement for all new pupils has been introduced in the New Jersey legislature.

The bill -- one of two offered by Assembly speaker Peter Moraites (R., Bergen) -- was disclosed by the Alpine, N.J., legislator in an address Saturday at the 66th annual convention of the New Jersey Optometric Association at the Tamiment Hotel and Country Club.

A second bill introduced in the past week, Moraites said, would tighten New Jersey's automobile driver licensing procedures to meet federal standards by requiring all license holders to pass a vision examination at least once every four years in order to keep their licenses valid.

Assemblyman Moraites declared that he would press for enactment of both bills during the present session of the legislature.

He deplored the "unnecessary" handicaps which he said many children face in their schooling because of correctable but undetected faults in their vision.

All New Jersey school districts, he pointed out, now have school physicians and psycholgists and many have school dentists "yet there is no adequate check on the children's visual performance even though 80 percent of everything they learn is through their eyes."

The vision test now given, which measures acuity at 20 feet by the child's ability to read letters of various sizes at that distance, is inadequate for modern needs, Assemblyman Moraites declared. These tests, administered by teachers and school nurses, do not even measure visual acuity at normal reading distances of 16 inches and ignore many other possible conditions, he said.

Although educators cannot tell precisely why some children fall in their school work and must repeat a year, he said that it is widely believed that visual defects are a major contributing cause.

The Theatre Seen

THE THEATRE SEEN BROADWAY 1968-69 BY ROBERT LYONS

On Saturday night the Broadway season officially ends...

From the nearly 70 entries that began to arrive last autumn...

Three musicals, 1776, Promises, Promises; Zorba; and two dramas, Hadrian VII and The Great White Hope...

The dominant aspect of the season was the male performers, James Earl Jones, Donald Pleasence, Alec McCowen, Lee J. Cobb...

Great acting needs no explanation. The parts cannot be badly written and none were.

Next season it may be the actresses, or the directors, maybe the designers, perhaps the costumers, or no one group.

I hope the exciting news of the 1969-70 Broadway season will be the plays.

'Irma La Douce' is risque musical at Meadowbrook

By BEA SMITH "Irma La Douce," entertaining stage musical, which does justice to the theater-in-the-round at the Meadowbrook Dinner Theater, Cedar Grove, has much to offer in talent, color, pleasant toe-tapping songs and risqué comedic moments.

Monique Van Vooran has a lot to do as "Irma," the French street-walker with the kind heart, and she has a lot to do with. She has a fabulous figure for "walking" or dancing or prancing...or just standing still.

There are Will B. Able, a tall, loose-jointed dancer-comedian (a la Ray Bolger) and Ronald Young, as Irma's naive lover, Rita Charisse choreographed the bouncing numbers, and let's face it, some of Miss Van Vooran's specialties were too closely reminiscent of a certain Miss Gwen Verdon's--but then, Miss Verdon originated the role on Broadway.

It's an entertaining evening all around, but

DANNY MEEHAN -- stars as George M. Cohan in the new Broadway musical, "George M!," which opened at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, Tuesday for a five-week run. Meehan was nominated for a Tony Award for his portrayal of Eddie Ryan opposite Barbra Streisand in "Funny Girl," and will be soon in his first film--"Don't Drink the Water," starring Jackie Gleason and Estelle Parsons.

A Newley comedy on Union's screen

"Can Heironymus Merkin Ever Forget Mercy Humpe and Find True Happiness?" is the title of the new satirical film comedy, which opened yesterday at the Union Theater, Union Center.

Producer-director-actor Anthony Newley has fashioned a bawdy screenplay about a star who unravels his life on film. The picture, photographed in color, also features Joan Collins, Milton Berle, George Jessel, Connie Kreski, Smiley Kaye and Victor Spinetti.

Student festival slated next year

A statewide Student Creative Arts Festival, to be held in May, 1970 in Princeton and Trenton, was announced following a preliminary planning meeting of teachers, students and administrators held at McCarter Theater recently.

In addition to McCarter Theater and the New Jersey Department of Education, sponsors of the festival will include the New Jersey Council on the Arts and the New Jersey State Arts Museum.

The Festival will take place both at McCarter Theater and the State Museum in Trenton, in order to provide a showcase for drama, film, music, dance, painting and sculpture. Professional workshops in the arts will be an integral part of the Festival.

UC will cite NCE president for his educational leadership

Dr. Robert W. Van Houten, president of Newark College of Engineering, will be honored at the 36th annual commencement exercises of Union College, Cranford, on Thursday, June 5, at 6:30 p.m. on the East Lawn of the campus. It was announced this week by Dr. Kenneth W.

Iversen, acting president. Dr. Van Houten will receive a citation for his outstanding contributions to the field of higher education, in particular for his achievements in the development of Newark College of Engineering and his interest and support of two-year colleges, especially Union College.

Dr. Van Houten has been president of NCE for the past 20 years and has been affiliated with the college since 1926 when he entered as a student. He joined the NCE faculty in 1930 and rose steadily from instructor to assistant dean, dean, acting president in 1947 and president in 1949.

The third president in the history of the 84-year-old college, Dr. Van Houten has guided NCE through its greatest period of growth. When he became president, NCE was a small college encompassing four buildings on less than two acres. Today it is a major urban institution containing 12 buildings on approximately 20 acres in the heart of downtown Newark.

Seton Hall to hold graduation June 7 in two ceremonies

Seton Hall University will confer a record number of 1987 degrees in two separate commencement ceremonies here on Saturday, June 7.

There are 1,180 candidates for undergraduate degrees who will be awarded diplomas at 10:30 a.m. and who will hear addresses by Col. James A. McDivitt, commander of the Apollo 9 space mission, and U.S. Senator Gale McGee, Democrat of Wyoming. Col. McDivitt will be awarded an honorary doctor of science degree by Seton Hall and Senator McGee will receive a doctor of humane letters.

Paul L. Troast, chairman of the Mahony-Troast Construction Co. of Clifton and chairman of the N.J. Manufacturers' Association, and Louis E. Kernan, an alumnus of Seton Hall and president of the M.L. Kernan Quarry Company of South Orange, will receive honorary doctor of laws degrees.

The afternoon ceremony at 2:30 p.m. will see the awarding of 707 advanced degrees to candidates from the School of Law and the graduate divisions of the schools of the university. The law school will award a record of 170 juris doctorate degrees.

The graduate students will hear an address by Mrs. Rita E. Hauser, United States representative to the United Nations Commission on Human Rights, who will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree. Dr. Eugene P. Wigner, professor of physics at Princeton University and Nobel Prize laureate for physics will also receive an honorary doctor of laws degree. Dr. Clarence C. Walton, dean of the Columbia University School of General Studies and president-designate of the Catholic University of America, will be awarded the honorary doctorate of humane letters.

McDermott says he'll name women

State Senator Frank X. McDermott, addressing the New Jersey Federation of Republican Women last week, promised to appoint a woman to a Cabinet level position if elected governor of New Jersey.

"In my legislative career," the Senate President explained, "I have had the privilege of working with such outstanding leaders as Marian West Higgins, Florence P. Dwyer and Mary Kanane. I have long felt that such women could make significant contributions to the Cabinet level."

McDermott evoked laughter from his audience by admitting, "I can think of no more appropriate time to mention my conviction about Women serving on the Governor's Cabinet. However, my comment is serious and you know I am sincere."

"It is my belief that we have overlooked fine administrative talent and that we have passed by women who have deep understanding and insight into New Jersey's problems. It is time to deny denying ourselves the many contributions that well-informed and capable women can make in every level of State government."

Club seeking hosts for German youths

The Kiwanis Club of Willow Grove, Pa., is seeking host families for German youths who will visit this country this summer. During the past five years, Pennsylvania Kiwanians and their friends have provided accommodations for more than 250 German youths in cooperation with the German Youth Exchange Program.

Anyone interested in acting as host may contact Philip Broadhead, past district governor of the Pennsylvania District of Kiwanis International and a member of the Old York Road Club, care of Sun Oil Company, 1608 Walnut st., Philadelphia, Pa. 19103; 215-546-1600.

Nigerian gets 2 degrees NCE graduation set June 5

Like most Newark College of Engineering students, Onia G. Edozian will be busy this week trying to get extra tickets for NCE's commencement exercise on Thursday, June 5. Edozian expects his wife and two small children to attend, along with a brother from the faculty of MIT and another brother who is attached to the United Nations.

His family will see 39-year-old Onia receive two degrees -- a bachelor of science in electrical engineering and a master of science in industrial engineering. These will be his second and third degrees, since he earned his professional diploma in engineering at London Polytechnic College in 1957.

Born and raised in Asaba, Nigeria, Onia is the second oldest of five sons who have shaped distinguished professional careers for themselves; he is also one of 676 young men and women who will be awarded BS degrees and among 198 to be awarded MS degrees at Newark College of Engineering's 53d annual commencement exercise scheduled to be held at the college campus.

"After being graduated from London Polytechnic, I went to work for Nigeria's Ministry of Public Works," Edozian explains. "There I had various engineering and administrative duties and rose to the rank of assistant works manager with a staff of 2,000. We had the responsibility for all electrical engineering projects, from planning generating stations to distribution and office illumination."

AS EDOZIAN rose in rank he qualified for continuing education opportunities, but was able to exchange these piecemeal opportunities for a program of formal engineering studies.

"It was my plan when first I came to America in 1965 to study modern means of power engineering," Edozian said. "But by the time I came, I felt I had been away from schooling for too long. I took some basic undergraduate courses first as a refresher and then decided to undertake the whole curriculum in electrical engineering."

He explained that much of the emphasis of his earlier education had dealt solely with the technical aspects of power engineering. In America, he said, the emphasis has swung to electronics, particularly in the graduate program. To be of greater value to Nigeria, Edozian felt he needed this country's technical treatment of utility facilities.

"It has much merit," Edozian said of the NCE curriculum, noting that courses in such matters as labor-management relations, history and the humanities are not normally part of the engineer's training in Nigeria. When he discovered that he would not be able to complete the entire program last year (he lacked one or two advanced courses), Edozian continued on through the summer and then elected to take graduate courses in industrial engineering for the 1968-69 year.

"The additional year has given me much time to broaden my horizons and my knowledge in industrial relations, much of which is needed in my country," Edozian said.

"Better management is my second major interest," Edozian said, "and I want to be able to expand beyond engineering into decision-making administration work in the future." His master's thesis was presented on the subject of "Managerial Effectiveness" and his specialty has become systems analysis.

NIGERIA HAS BASED its educational system on the British philosophy of training a man for a specific job, he said, so routinely the outlook is "once an engineer, always an engineer."

"The engineering work is good and it is needed," Edozian said, "but I have this urge to view problems more broadly and to place greater importance on human needs."

"I would like to be involved in the total sum of my country's development -- to help the schools and technical institutes introduce the humanities into the standard programs, to help with the concepts of industrial relations and human relations -- the things you have here at NCE," Edozian said.

"I have been made very welcome here at the college," he said, "and I cannot thank the school or the State enough for the use of the library and the other facilities that have been available to me."

Edozian has had little free time from his studies, but he hopes to travel in America before returning to Nigeria in the fall.

"It has been a long time and I look forward to seeing the rest of my family," Edozian said. His older brother, Joseph, is dean of the medical school and professor of nutritional facilities at Abadan University, Nigeria. Currently he is on visiting professor status at MIT at a meeting in Newark last week.

Leaders of the groups, who addressed the meeting at the invitation of the United Irish Institute of New Jersey, attacked the "measure offered by Congressman Peter W. Rodino Jr., and William T. Cahill as being of a temporary nature, grossly misleading, and only offered . . . to dull criticism directed at them because of their support of the present law," according to a spokesman.

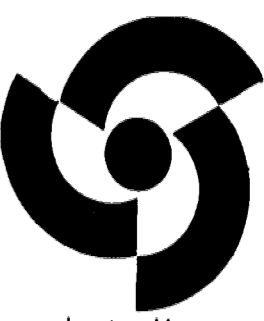

Congressman Henry Helstoski, candidate for governor in the primary, pledged his "continued efforts on behalf of the Ryan Immigration Bill . . . to rectify the discriminatory curtailment of Irish, German and other West European immigration to the United States."

Immigration fight goes on

The New Jersey chapter of American Irish National Immigration Committee and the American German Immigration Committee of New Jersey agreed to continue their joint efforts to remove "the blot of discrimination . . . from the present Immigration Law" and plans to attend the NCE exercises. A younger brother, Emanuel, earned his Ph.D. degree from Michigan University. Emanuel is a professor of economics at Abadan University, but is currently attached to the Nigerian delegation at the United Nations in New York and is the second of Onia's brothers expected for the NCE ceremonies. Onia's other younger brothers are busy at home. Francis, who has his degree in medicine, is currently in charge of the refugee camps in Biafra; and John, who earned his degree in economics, is presently assistant secretary in the Ministry of Economic Development. "I am looking forward to the commencement program," Edozian said with a smile, "and some day to my doctorate as well."

Professor will discuss adolescents
Donald J. Holmes, a professor in the Department of Psychiatry of the University of Michigan Medical School, will appear as guest luncheon speaker at the 18th annual Mental Health Conference, Thursday, June 4 at the Military Park Hotel, Newark. Dr. Holmes, an authority on the psychiatric treatment of adolescents, will speak on "Adolescents in a Residential Treatment Center." Dr. Holmes has published articles concerning the psychiatric problems of adolescents which have appeared in Ladies Home Journal, one of which is entitled, "Let's Take the Gamble out of Child Psychiatry." The conference is co-sponsored by the New Jersey Association for Mental Health and the Department of Psychiatry, Rutgers Medical School. Other featured speakers at the two-day conference are Dr. Margaret Mead, world famous anthropologist, who will speak on "Roots of Change," Dr. Haim Glinot, child psychologist and author of the best selling "Between Parent and Child," and Max Lerner, columnist, author and lecturer. Other topics of the conference include workshops on "Youth and Violence," "The School Drop-Out," "Adolescents and the Courts," and "A New Kind of Facility." A new Philosophy, "The topics are geared to the problems of adolescents in changing times."

League of Women Voters data on gubernatorial aspirants

The following information on candidates for governor in the June 3 primary was collected and released by the League of Women Voters of New Jersey. Two candidates, Democrat John L. Hennessey of Sea Bright and Charles W. Sandman Jr. of Cape May, did not respond to League of Women Voters' questionnaire.

Questions asked

1. What programs would you institute to relieve the critical conditions in our cities?
2. Do you favor increasing state aid to local school districts? If so, how do you propose to finance it?

ANSWERS TO THE LEAGUE'S QUESTIONS
 1. (a) Development of a more thorough and comprehensive training program for the unskilled. (b) Creation of more job opportunities for the disadvantaged group, through the establishment of Regional Industrial Councils. (c) Planning of Summer School Programs -- in our community and colleges and elsewhere -- to upgrade the education of the disadvantaged, in order to better prepare them for college entrance. (d) Planned neighborhood renewal, particularly in the ghetto neighborhood where action should be taken without delay. (e) Greater concentrated effort in the encouragement of the potential drop-out to attend vocational school system, where necessary.

2. I feel strongly that there must be more State Aid to local State Districts. This is particularly true since local property owners already are overburdened with local taxes. I believe that costs of our school system should become a statewide responsibility. My first step toward raising money for this purpose would be to insist upon a greater share of the Federal Tax Revenue for our State. I introduced in the Congress last year, legislation to provide greater Federal Tax Sharing.

ANSWERS TO THE LEAGUE'S QUESTIONS
 1. The problems of the cities of N.J. simply cannot be solved without immediate and meaningful tax reform. This would include calling a tax convention for the purpose of: 1) repealing the sales tax, a tax that weighs heaviest on the poor, 2) a graduated income tax with exemptions for the poor, 3) change in corporate tax structure to eliminate inequities that make N.J. a corporate tax haven, 4) halt the penalizing of home owners for improving their property; and stop rewarding slum lords for allowing their property to go into a state of disrepair. Massive amounts of money must be made available for construction of low and middle income housing in the cities. N.J. must make an effort to obtain its fair share of Federal funds for this purpose. Employment opportunities that are created by construction of this housing must be filled by residents of the area.

2. The State has to assume a greater share of the financial burden for elementary education in order to remove the inequities that exist. The children in Newark, Elizabeth, etc. no longer be educationally deprived as compared to children in the suburbs. Elementary education budget reform will permit city children to be better prepared for jobs or higher education, as their skills permit. In summation, city problems will be solved by tax reform, housing, jobs and education; and the time for studies is over. The time for action is now!

ANSWERS TO THE LEAGUE'S QUESTIONS
 1. The Federal Government must recognize its responsibility to the 50 States. Only with Federal help can New Jersey rebuild its cities. If New Jersey receives its fair share of Federal aid, be assured that as one who has for many years been a city resident, the cities of our State will be helped by me.

2. Yes. A lottery referendum will appear on the ballot on November 4, 1969. Its proceeds will be used for educational purposes. Be assured that when I become Governor, there will be a fair distribution of aid to

Bauer cited for aid on Savings Bonds
 ATLANTIC CITY -- Raymond W. Bauer, president of the New Jersey Bankers Association and president of Union County Trust Company, Elizabeth, was honored last week by the United States Treasury Department for efforts on behalf of the U.S. Savings Bonds program.

Jack B. Dunn, New Jersey State Director of the U.S. Treasury Department Savings Bonds Division, presented a gold "Minute Man" award to Bauer. The award expressed the appreciation of the Treasury Department to the New Jersey Bankers Association for outstanding public service in support of the United States Savings Bonds Program. "It symbolized the patriotic efforts of New Jersey banks in promoting the sale of U.S. Savings Bonds. The presentation took place during the final session of the NJBA 66th Annual Convention at Chalfonte-Haddon Hall.

ANSWERS TO THE LEAGUE'S QUESTIONS
 1. The first step in restoring our cities to full participation in our country's growth is to restore the individual citizen within these cities to full participation in the economy. But a strong urban economy does not come through public assistance programs or through the meaningless expansion of the public payroll. Rather it comes from a viable private-sector providing employment and wages. My administration will begin this effort to restore the cities by insuring that the executive branch is effectively organized to bring industry and employment opportunities to our cities and to their citizens.

2. I am in favor of increasing state aid to local school districts. I believe the most appropriate program for providing this additional aid is a state lottery. However, the enabling legislation for such a lottery should specifically designate that the net receipts from the lottery be designated for local school assistance, and for no other purpose. The failure of the present state sales tax to reduce local property taxes is due to the failure to specify the program for which the revenue was to be applied.

Branch Interracial Council for Business Opportunity. Member President's Commission for the Observance of Human Rights Year 1968.

ANSWERS TO THE LEAGUE'S QUESTIONS
 1. Our cities will have top priority on the next Governor's agenda. This means the whole range of social and economic problems that afflict the inner core of the urban centers; housing, education, social services, law enforcement and many other unmet needs that add up to a crisis -- not merely for the inhabitants of the inner city themselves but for the entire community. To solve these problems requires not only additional resources, most of which will have to come from federal sources, but major changes in the way in which these issues have been traditionally attacked. This means bringing people into the process of rebuilding and renewal that have been left out of it.

2. I favor increased State aid to local school districts. Clearly, our state needs new revenues as it gets down to serious business on this and other problems. First, we must make sure that we get the most for our dollar out of existing revenues, including the new $990 million bond issues. As the need for additional revenues arises, I would favor a statewide tax convention to decide on new fiscal policies. I would never shy away from developing new sources of revenue to meet the needs of the state.

ANSWERS TO THE LEAGUE'S QUESTIONS
 1. My long-range program for the cities calls for a drastic reduction in their residential use. Instead I would direct the development into commercial, financial and cultural centers, for their surrounding areas. My immediate programs, however, would be three-fold: first, restructuring our welfare program to develop responsibility and pride in the people of the ghettos; second, a basic aid program to upgrade standards and salaries of policemen, firemen and teachers; third, a massive attack on mass transportation needs and highway construction to relieve the traffic congestion now strangling our cities and contributing to their decay.

2. I do favor increasing state aid to local school districts, and to finance it I have a fresh idea that I have already started to activate. I recently travelled to Washington, D.C., and proposed a federal tax revision which would divert those amounts of income tax withheld from teachers' salaries back into the local school district as aid to education. I am asking Congress by law to authorize each public school district to retain those amounts of income tax for local use instead of transmitting the money to Washington to be returned as federal aid to education. This would be a direct aid program without the necessity of bureaucratic paper shuffling. And a true dollar-for-dollar grant to the school districts.

ANSWERS TO THE LEAGUE'S QUESTIONS
 1. Our decaying cities cannot receive adequate attention until the citizens and the officials are willing to face up to two important facts: a) We must rid our State of the organized criminals who are the leeches of the ghetto. They create the problems of gambling, prostitution, and drug addiction which breed the crime of the streets. We must also attack the problem of corruption at the official level that contributes to the enhancement of the organized criminal. b) Meanwhile, we must change our tax structure by adopting an income tax to secure sufficient revenues to rebuild our cities, to train the residents, to provide wholesome housing -- instead of institutional housing -- and guarantee an education on a par with the best of our suburbs.

2. Yes. Only by adopting a State Income Tax can we face up to the realities of our school system. An income tax will give us the revenue needed to properly support our local school districts and help alleviate the overburdened local property tax.

TARS vote to support vote at 18
 The Union County Teen-Age Republicans have passed a resolution supporting the eighteen-year-old vote.

Vice-chairman William El-dred proposed the resolution which stated that the Union County TARs were in support of the eighteen-year-old vote. A vote followed a discussion period and the proposal was passed by a substantial majority. Copies of the resolution will be distributed to all New Jersey State representatives.

Senator Frank X. McDermott, a candidate on the Republican ticket for New Jersey Governor who initially sponsored this resolution in the New Jersey State Senate, spoke at the TAR meeting and thanked those who were supporting him for their help.

Tickets for Senator McDermott's fireworks rally to be held May 30 at Mt. Carmel Field in Berkeley Heights were distributed for sale.

Also included on the agenda was the certification of two new municipalities, Mountain-side and Springfield.

Linda Hennessey of Summit was temporarily appointed recording secretary at the TAR meeting. Union County's recording secretary Dorothy Hudgins resigned.

File early for payment
 "File today and avoid delay" Ralph W. Jones, social security district manager in Elizabeth, advised disabled workers who may be eligible for benefits under the disability program.

The law provides for a six-month waiting period which begins with the month after the month in which the disability begins. If the claim is approved, payments cannot be made to the disabled worker and his family until the seventh full month of disability.

"As it takes several months to process a claim for disability benefits, it makes sense for a disabled person to file as soon as he is forced to stop working," Jones stated. "By allowing us to begin work on his claim immediately, he will receive a decision as soon as the minimum necessary time has elapsed."

The Social Security program provides disability protection for disabled workers under 65 and their families, persons disabled before age 18 who continue to be disabled, and disabled widows and widowers. Persons who are disabled and cannot work should get in touch with the nearest Social Security office right away.

permit them to improve local services, such as law enforcement and public safety. Special attention must be given to improving the quality of primary and secondary education in our cities for it is in this area that the disadvantaged can most effectively be helped.

N.J. taxpayers cannot afford to rebuild the cities physically but we must be certain to obtain our fair share of federal tax dollars, something we have not done up until now. N.J. receives back only $1 for every $1.70 sent to Washington.

2. Distribution under the State Aid to Education formula, which was devised in the 1930's for an agrarian economy has become increasingly inequitable with the rapid growth of N.J.'s economy and population. The Bateman Commission report recommends a revised formula and an increase in the level of State Aid to local districts from the currently inadequate 28 per cent. I support the Commission's findings in principle and also agree with most of its substance. I would implement the proposal over a period of three to four years, utilizing the current revenues available to us, particularly the motor tax.

ANSWERS TO THE LEAGUE'S QUESTIONS
 1. I'd begin by banning the word "programs" and substituting "action". We already have an over-abundance of programs. For example, as Governor, I would call a special session of the State Legislature, armed with a mandate from the people, I would demand passage of the current administration's "Aid to Big Cities" proposal, which was killed by the present Republican-dominated Assembly.

2. Yes. Like everyone who has thought about this subject, I am convinced that New Jersey must overhaul its entire tax structure and seek a more equitable, broad-based approach. However, a proposal I fully support is Governor Rockefeller's plea that the present Federal surtax be returned to the States for educational purposes.
