Plan for Regional expansion winning Springfield friends

Water ballet is for the birds in these Echo photos taken by Bob Baxter at Echo Lake Park in Mountainside.

Borough voters support Meyner and McDermott

With candidates for local office running unopposed in the primary election Tuesday, interest was focused on the race for governor. Mountainside Republican voters favored State Sen. Francis X. McDermott, while the Democrats liked former Gov. Robert Meyner.

Of 1,069 votes cast in the five election districts in the borough, 880 were Republican and 189 were Democratic. There are about 4,300 registered voters in Mountainside.

McDermott received 390 votes in the borough. His closest competitor was Rep. Charles W. Sandman Jr. with 212 votes. Sandman was followed by Rep. William T. Cahill, the state winner, with 159 votes; Harry L. Sears, with 70 votes, and William E. Ozzard with 27 votes.

Meyner polled 69 votes on the Democratic side enroute to an easy victory with Rep. Henry Helstoski running second here with 51 votes. Ned J. Paraskian received 29 votes; D. Louis Tonti, 23; William T. Kelly Jr., 10, and John L. Hennessey, 1.

Mountainside's Charles Irwin, incumbent GOP candidate for District 9 assemblyman-at-large, received 747 votes.

Among the candidates for local office, Thomas Ricciardi, unopposed GOP nominee for mayor, received 740 votes, while his running mates for Borough Council, Peter M. Simmons and Ronald M. Heyman, received 754 and 748 votes, respectively.

On the Democratic side, mayoral aspirant John Walsh received 121 votes, while council candidates Arthur Goldberg and John H. Palmer Jr. received 128 and 126 votes, respectively.

In other GOP balloting in this heavily Republican community, Peter J. McDonough received 766 votes and Herbert H. Kiehn garnered 747 votes in their bids for the General Assembly.

For freeholder, Edward Tiller netted 754 votes; Walter Ulrich, 753, and Harry V. Osborne, 757.

Red Sox trim Athletics, 4-3; Yankees shut out Tigers, 4-0

In a Mountainside Little League American League game played last Tuesday night, Larry Nash of the Red Sox hit a single to drive in the winning run, Jimmy VanBuskirk, Yankees, hit two doubles in the game against the Tigers to help the Yankees to their fourth victory. The Yankees are undefeated at this time.

Scores for the American League were: Twins, 8 - Indians, 4; Red Sox, 4 - Athletics, 3; Yankees, 4 - Tigers, 0; Orioles, 9 - Senators, 5.

Hanigan calls on parents to help check vandalism

Dr. Levin B. Hannigan, superintendent of schools, this week appealed to Mountainside parents to control the actions of their youngsters, and particularly to prevent vandalism to school property.

He declared: "Spring is here and the release of winter tensions, frustrations, and restrictions of various types, coupled with an increasing disregard by students and adults for law and order, have resulted in a wave of school vandalism.

"Windows have been regularly broken; putty from freshly replaced windowpanes has been taken from the frames and smeared all over the windows; obscenities have been etched onto expensive thermopane windows; air conditioner guards and protective metal covers have been ripped off; new blacktop has been defaced with initials and gouges; lights on the outside of buildings have been smashed; ceilings, walls, and doors in the new Deerfield Middle School wing have been defaced; thermostat controls have been repeatedly ripped from walls and smashed; and lockers, furniture, and tables have been marred.

"It is obvious that this kind of senseless and willful destruction cannot be tolerated. So I have asked each principal to try to locate the offenders, inside and outside the building, and I have requested that the police increase the intensity of their vigilance and patrols.

"The school administration intends to file charges against any offender, and it will make every effort to get full reparation for the damages.

"While this may help to solve our problem temporarily, it does not get at the heart of the problem, because there are just not enough policemen to place one behind each child. Teachers and parents must accept the responsibility of trying to get each child to understand that society cannot continue to exist unless every person becomes a committee of one to uphold and enforce reasonable law and order.

"The precepts of the law stand as the only anchor in a shifting sea: to live honorably, to injure no other man, to render every man his due. This is the way of life in which men may live together, if not in mutual helpfulness, at least in mutual tolerance and freedom from fear of one another.

"The only sound principle on which to base a bright future is the cooperation of all citizens in the firm application of the law and the insistence on protection of private and public property. There is no middle ground. A reluctance to get involved, or just plain apathy, puts a citizen on the side of crime, vandalism, and irresponsibility. In a sense, it puts a citizen on the side of crime and against law and order just the same as if he supplied the get-away car.

"Won't you all help to preserve law and order?"

PROFILE--Walter Legawiec

Earlier this month, Walter Legawiec's symphonic impression for orchestra, "Chimera," was premiered by the Lakewood Civic Symphonic Orchestra.

It received a standing ovation and rave reviews. The Asbury Park Press said it was "obviously the work of a skilled craftsman... romantic in temperament, its slow sections containing flowing melodies of sumptuous beauty."

The Ocean County Daily Times said its "sheer beauty... was almost overwhelming."

Legawiec, who lives at 228 Evergreen Ct., Mountainside, with his wife and two children, is well known in the music world, not only as a composer, but as a violinist and conductor, as well.

In fact, soon after he graduated from the Juilliard School of Music in New York in the late 1940s and after working as a protégé of the noted Polish conductor Gregor Fittlerberg, newspapers like the New York Times ("His works already are worth serious consideration..."), the Herald Tribune ("... an expert musical craftsman and a composer whose talents have been soundly and vigorously trained...") and the Christian Science Monitor ("an outstanding talent, a composer far beyond the 'promising' stage") were predicting great things for him.

"I GREW UP with music," Legawiec explained. "My father was a violinist. He taught me first and then I went on to private instruction and eventually to Juilliard."

In entering Juilliard, Legawiec left his Central Falls, R.I., home five miles north of Providence, for good. For many years he lived in New York City, before the family moved to Mountainside in 1961.

While attending school, Legawiec received the Abraham Axelrod Scholarship in 1945 and the Koussevitzky Music Foundation Scholarship in 1946. He also received annual scholarships to the Berkshire Festival at Tanglewood.

Legawiec's biggest break came with the opportunity to study with Fittlerberg.

"I was lucky," Legawiec said. "I had a friend, a pianist, whose father, one of the foremost musicologists in Poland, knew Mr.

Regional board subjects: protests to playing fields

The Regional High School District Board of Education last week introduced a formal set of rules to be followed by students and parents protesting actions of school administrators or teachers. The measure, presented at the meeting at A. L. Johnson Regional, Clark, is scheduled for final approval at the June meeting.

With an audience of fewer than 20 persons, the board did not discuss any aspects of the report on Regional expansion, prepared by Dr. Henry Rissetto, which has been the subject of public meetings in the district's four high schools.

The new grievance policy was prepared at the direction of the N. J. Department of Education, which had called on all local boards to be ready for any divergences of opinion which might arise.

Other matters discussed at last week's meeting included construction of outdoor athletic facilities, the state's Mancuso Report on possible consolidation of school districts, suggestions for a midwinter school vacation, recognition of a bargaining agent for school administrators and the hiring of new teachers.

THE DISCUSSION of athletic fields arose as the board appropriated funds to continue the conversion of the former Nike missile site in the Watchung Reservation into sports areas for Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights.

Dr. Benjamin Josephson, a board member from Springfield, noted that the board last month rejected as too high bids for improving the facilities at Meisel Field in Springfield, County Park Commission property used by students at Jonathan Dayton Regional.

Saying that the board "was not being fair" in its treatment of facilities at the two high schools, Josephson urged that additional funds be transferred from the surplus account to permit a speedy start on the work at Dayton. His suggestion was referred to committee for further study.

Comments on the Mancuso report for consolidation of school districts throughout the state came during the "public discussion period" at the close of the meeting.

Dr. Warren Davis, superintendent of schools, expressed the view that the Mancuso Report, as such, "is completely dead." He said, however, that there would be a state-wide reorganization of school districts within the next decade to eliminate many of the smaller districts. He said that the state now has 593 school districts, and that operations would be more efficient with fewer, larger, districts.

A MIDWINTER HOLIDAY was discussed by board members following receipt of a letter from a Springfield resident objecting to the vote taken by the board at the April meeting. Board members at that time dropped plans for a vacation of several days in February and decided instead to close the schools for such holidays as Veterans Day and Washington's birthday.

The letter said that one-day holidays disrupt continuity in the classroom. It added that patriotism could be better taught with appropriate observances in school than by giving students a day off to sleep late. Avery Ward, board president, ordered the matter tabled for further discussion in executive session.

The board voted tentative recognition of the Administrative and Supervisory Association as bargaining agent for some 24 employees, pending a check on the group's membership applications.

The association represents principals, assistant principals and subject coordinators. It is headed by Frederick Aho, principal at Gov. Livingston. He declined further comment on the organization at the present time.

NEW TEACHERS hired at the meeting included the following, who will serve at Dayton and Gov. Livingston:

John E. Esposito of Clark, a 1969 graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan, will teach physical education at Dayton. Dr. Davis noted that his special strengths are in soccer and gymnastics. He will be paid $7,100.

Gerald Rettenberg of Maplewood will teach health at Dayton, at a salary of $9,200. He has a bachelor's degree from Jersey City State College, where he has also done graduate work. A trained nurse, Rettenberg is a former Air Force captain. He served at the Essex County Jail for seven years, and at Irvington General and Newark City hospitals. He has had extensive experience with alcoholics and narcotics addicts.

Mrs. Marcia Kendler will teach English at Dayton, at a salary of $7,700. She is a graduate of Newark State College, with two years' experience at New Brunswick High School.

Joan M. Kalafut will teach physical education at Gov. Livingston, where she did her student teaching. A 1969 graduate of Trenton State, she will receive $7,100.

Mrs. Patricia Cilo, who will teach English at Gov. Livingston, formerly taught in the Regional District for four years. An alumna of Pennsylvania State University, she will be paid $8,300.

Martha Moritz will teach English and Latin at Dayton, at a salary of $7,100. She is a 1969 graduate of Montclair State.

Mrs. Eleanor L. Billig will teach home economics at Dayton, at a salary of $8,050. She has a bachelor's degree from Bowling Green University and a master's degree from Ohio State University. She has taught in Ohio, Utah, and in Mountainside.

Raymond A. Massaro, new gym teacher at Gov. Livingston, will receive $11,300. He has bachelor's and master's degrees from

Cancer fund drive in borough nearing the half-way mark

The local chairman, Arthur M. Goldberg of 1111 Wyoming dr., and the county chairman, George J. Forrester, this week, issued a report on the progress of the American Cancer Society's 1969 Crusade in Mountainside. They stated that Mountainside has raised $1,527 of their 1969 goal of $3,300. The 1968 Crusade received $2,689 from residents of Mountainside.

Goldberg stated that all the funds raised in Mountainside would go to further the American Cancer Society's three-point program of research, education and patient service in the control of cancer. "You know, the only limit on the help the Union County, Unit of the American Cancer Society can provide to residents of Mountainside and residents throughout Union County who develop cancer is the generosity of all residents," Goldberg stated.

"For like all organizations the society has a budget, and the only funds that go into that budget are the generous contributions of friends and supporters in the 21 communities of Union County."

Goldberg extended his thanks to all who had supported or worked on the Mountainside 1969 Cancer Crusade and urged fellow residents who hadn't given to do so as soon as possible. "When Mountainside surpasses its crusade goal, it brings closer the elimination of cancer, which is as close as tomorrow's newspaper headlines or as far away as the moon, depending on the efforts made to conquer it," Goldberg concluded.

Consultant puts stress on equality

Citizens favor making 4 schools same size

BY ABNER GOLD

Strong support in Springfield for the principle of equality in size for the four Regional high schools was highlighted at a sparsely attended meeting Monday at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield. A scant 50 citizens took part.

The meeting was the third of four sponsored by the Regional Board of Education at which Dr. Henry L. Rissetto explained the expansion proposal he prepared for the board to provide for an additional 1,700 student places. The report, designed to deal with current severe overcrowding in the high schools, was begun following defeat at the polls of an expansion bond referendum last year.

At the first meeting, last week at Gov. Livingston Regional, Berkeley Heights, a number of Mountainside parents expressed strong opposition to that part of the Rissetto plan which would send one-fourth of the Mountainside teenagers to Gov. Livingston and three-fourths in Springfield. Dr. Rissetto did not suggest a basis for determining which Mountainside youngsters would attend which school.

At the second meeting last week, at A.L. Johnson Regional in Clark, parents expressed some opposition to the plan to send approximately 90 percent of Clark students to Johnson Regional and the remainder to David Brearley Regional, Kentworth. The final meeting in the series was held this Tuesday at Brearley.

THE DEFEAT of last year's proposal stemmed in large measure from opposition by the Springfield League of Women Voters and others in Springfield to the plan to concentrate most of the new facilities at Gov. Livingston and Johnson. Many Springfield voters also objected that the plan did not provide for adequate renovation and updating of Dayton's facilities, many of which date back to the original construction in 1939.

Dr. Rissetto, in all his presentations, stressed that equality of educational opportunity could be achieved only with four high schools of approximately equal size. He criticized the concept of encouraging any one community to identify itself with one high school. Rissetto said, instead, that parents and children should regard themselves as constituents of one high school district serving 25 square miles, rather than six municipalities.

He also stressed that a student should attend the same high school for all four years, to provide a maximum of continuity. As a temporary expedient because of crowding at Gov. Livingston, Mountainside students now spend their freshman year at Dayton and their last three years at Gov. Livingston.

Mrs. Herbert Forman, president of the Springfield League of Women Voters, told the board at Monday's meeting that the LWV "urges that you take note of the basic philosophy which Dr. Rissetto has expressed -- that our six towns constitute one single school district in which student mobility is implicit; and that the four schools of our district should be of approximately equal size in order to achieve a similar school experience for all students."

"Much study, effort and time has gone into Dr. Rissetto's work. We request that you bear his philosophy in mind when considering implementation of his report."

DR. RISSETTO on Monday made much the same presentation of his plan as he had the previous week at Gov. Livingston. He presented detailed projections of district enrollment, designed to show a total of just over 6,000 students, from the present 5,300 by the late 1970s, and a much slower growth from then to the turn of the century.

He also presented figures to support his belief that the Regional District could well afford the $7 to $8 price tag on his proposal. He said these additions would be adequate for much of the next decade, and the district would then have to start planning for another, but much smaller, expansion of facilities.

Rissetto said he had considered construction of a fifth high school, but dropped it for several reasons. He said a fifth school would increase community identification with specific schools, and that a plan for a fifth school would impede redevelopment of existing school facilities.

He emphasized that amortization of his proposed construction costs would remain under 10 percent of the district's annual budget, and that the costs of education, based on the number of students, would not be affected by any decision on construction.

IN RESPONSE to a question from a Mountainside resident, Rissetto said that he did not expect any large tracts, such as that occupied by Baltusrol Golf Club in Springfield, would go

Mayor gets reply on Rt. 22 woes

A preliminary review indicates that the only feasible solution is the construction of a grade separation, at the intersection of New Providence road and Rt. 22, state transportation commissioner David J. Goldberg wrote in a letter to Mayor Frederick Wilhelms Jr. this week.

The letter was in response to a recent letter of protest by the mayor to the commissioner.

The commissioner also assured the mayor that "this department has no plans for making New Providence road a connector between Rt. 22 and Rt. 78."

Mayor Wilhelms released the letter without comment.

Cloudy outdoor day cooked up by girls

Mountainside Browne and Junior Girl Scout troops gathered recently for an outdoor day at Seeley's Pond.

Undaunted by a cloudy Saturday morning, the girls and their leaders cooked lunch over campfires, hiked and learned lashing. Each Junior troop shared the day with a sister Browne troop, and all Scouts joined together to end the afternoon with a songfest.

Assisting the leaders were Senior Scout Betsy Sommerwerck and Cadette Scout Debbie Wiener. The outdoor day was coordinated by Browne leader Mrs. Donald Peterson and Junior leader Mrs. Michal Kluczewski.

Regional athletes are 'good sports'

The athletes and fans in the Union County Regional High School District are real sports. The three schools in the regional district that are members of the Watching Conference topped the balloting for the annual sportsmanship awards at the last meeting of conference representatives.

The sportsmanship shown by both the athletes and the fans is taken into consideration in the voting.

"The awards are a tribute to all concerned, including John Brown, our coordinator of health and physical education, his coaches, the athletes and the fans," Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent of schools, said.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

WHY SMILE?
It isn't easy to smile when you feel the world is kicking you in the teeth and everything you touch seems to turn into ashes. But you can do it, if you try.

Think about it for a moment and you will realize that you know some individual who has shown that it can be done; someone who has had more than one man's share of disappointments and setbacks, and yet manages to walk with his head high and with an outward smile to the world.

Why smile? Why pretend that life is a bed of roses when it's nothing more than a bag of thorns? Simply because a smile is the outward sign of an inner determination to persist, to carry on.

Anyone can quit. Some do it by rolling over, like the possum, and playing dead. Others quit by walking away, believing foolishly that troubles will not follow.

Keep your smile and never lose it. A smile is a sign of inner strength and confidence. A smile is a sign of faith strong enough to hang in there and keep trying until something can be done about troubles and problems. A smile is recognition of the fact that troubles are nothing more than temporary inconveniences along the road of life.

Life is not always beautiful, is never so bad it cannot get worse; and yet it is never so horrible as to reach a stage of complete hopelessness.

PROFILE--Walter Legawiec

then Legawiec had the "direction" and "sophistication" he needed.

One of the highlights in Legawiec's career was the winning of the Wastli Leps Foundation Award in 1957, sponsored by Brown University, for a composition for chorus called "Episodes."

Last season, his "Soliloquy" for voice, violin, cello and piano, with a text by William Carlos Williams, was given its first performance at Douglass College. It had been jointly commissioned by the Music Teachers National Association and the New Jersey Music Teachers Association.

Legawiec has done other work for string quartets, trios, soloists and piano.

He is currently involved in a myriad of activities.

He is often a featured soloist at concerts.

to record. He is an excellent sight reader. He teaches violin. He conducts.

Next month in the Catskills he will conduct a special concert by the Polish Singers Alliance Chorus.

He met his wife, in fact, almost on the podium.

"It was at a concert in Philadelphia," he said. "It was a choral concert about 16 years ago." His wife shares his interest in music, having studied the piano.

The couple have two children, Loren, 13, who is in the seventh grade at Deerfield School, and Stephen, 11, a Deerfield fifth grader.

Legawiec's limited free time is taken up with sports. "When I had more time I played tennis a lot," he said, "but now I play golf on a catch as catch can basis. I like it tremendously."

Restaurant accepts card

The Tower Steak House of Mountainside has joined the list of establishments in honoring the American Express Card. It was announced by Richard B. Howland, senior vice-president of American Express Company and general manager of the Card Division.

Established by Bill and Elizabeth Moter in 1948, the Tower Steak House has grown into one of the largest restaurants in New Jersey. "Our reputation," says Bill Moter, owner and founder, "is built on cleanliness, hospitality and good food."

The white building contains several dining rooms. Wall murals, knights in armor and other replicas of long-ago England greet the guests in the King Arthur's Court Room, the Hunt Room and the Executive Pub, among others. Each room is equipped to accommodate 10 to 200 guests for a variety of occasions, including banquets, dinner dances and fashion shows.

"Elizabeth Salad" is a specialty, served with genuine imported French Roquefort cheese. Other offerings include prime sirloin steaks, double-thick lamb chops, roast Long Island duckling, ## 500,000 seedlings, shrubs planted to aid wildlife in N. J.

Mental health is desperately needed for our children and adolescents. Look at the figures!

Of the 50 million school-age youngsters, perhaps 10 to 12 percent have moderate to severe mental or emotional problems requiring some kind of mental health service.

It is estimated that as many as 500,000 children in this country suffer from the kind of mental illnesses known as psychoses and borderline psychotic conditions.

Another 1,000,000 are af-licted with personality and character disorders.

Only about 5 percent of the children in the U.S. who need mental health help are getting it. Of those who do get psy-

CYO plans a trip west

A week-long trip by chartered jet to the West Coast is currently being planned by the Newark CYO for local Catholic teenagers, young adults, youth chaplains, adult advisors, and sisters engaged in youth work. The outing is scheduled for November and will be tied in with national CYO federation conventions to be held then.

Two conventions--for teenagers and young adults--will be held simultaneously in Denver starting Thursday, Nov. 20. The local groups will be heading west the weekend before this, Nov. 15, to allow time for some vacationing. The itinerary calls for four days of sightseeing, two days in Los Angeles, two in San Francisco, then on to Denver for four days.

The excursion is being arranged by Rev. Edward J. Hajduk of Sacred Heart Church, Lyndhurst, recently appointed director of Catholic Youth Organizations of the Newark Archdiocese, which includes Bergen, Essex, Hudson, and Union counties.

chiatric treatment, less than one-half receive help of the kind, quality, and duration needed.

These and other figures compiled by the National Institute of Mental Health show the acute and immediate need for a wide range of effective community mental health services for children and adolescents.

Help is on the way, however, under a new national mental health program providing Federal support for the construction and staffing of community mental health centers.

Comprehensive services, including mental health help for children and young people, are being made available throughout the country by these new centers.

In New York, "teacher-moms" were trained to work with schizophrenic children. In California, a "drop-in" clinic for adolescents with emotional problems has been started.

In Maryland, psychologists accompanied police on their rounds to equip themselves to help police officers understand youth's behavior.

These innovative programs, as well as more conventional diagnostic and treatment services, are among the ways communities are responding to the mental health needs of their youngsters.

Over 330 new community mental health centers have been funded with NIMH funds aiding state and local resources. More than 100 are now in operation. Most of the others expect to begin operations this year.

By 1970, NIMH expects to help build a total of over 500 such centers giving a full range of mental health services to both adults and children. Total mental health care for the community is the ultimate goal.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D.
Director

Nearly half a million tree seedlings and shrubs have been planted in New Jersey this spring as part of the State's efforts to improve wildlife habitat, according to Commissioner Robert A. Roe of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

The habitat improvement program is coordinated by the Conservation Department's Division of Fish and Game in cooperation with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. All funds are derived from State hunting license fees and the federal excise tax on hunting gear. Most of the trees are purchased from the State nursery or other sources recommended by the Department's Bureau of Forestry.

Over 286,000 trees and shrubs were distributed to cooperators for planting on private lands to benefit wildlife. More than 177,000 were planted on State Wildlife Management Areas, in addition to nearly 40,000 linear feet of hedgerow.

Nearly 4,000 pounds of seed were also distributed to cooperators, mostly the New Jersey food patch mixture specially developed by the State Bureau of Wildlife Management. The approximately 150 cooperators include Soil Conservation Districts, which arrange further distribution, sportsmen's clubs and individuals interested in conducting a planned program to improve wildlife resources. Advice is furnished to these cooperators and to many others who applied

Seeding of hundreds of acres of State-owned land continued through May, including Wildlife Management Areas and other recreational lands. Clearing of trails and woodland edges is also undertaken, encouraging succulent young growth for wildlife and improving public access. Senior citizens participating in the Green Thumb Program of the U.S. Department of Labor and the Department of Conservation and Economic Development provide assistance to the Bureau of Wildlife Management in this effort.

A FEMININE LOOK

(Commentary on a Study Mission from the Atlantic to the Pacific but across the USSR)

by TRUDINA HOWARD

Third In A Series

THE CAST

My last trip abroad was either a trip through space or a love-in, I'm not sure which. It wasn't a trip to the moon or to romantic Italy, France, Africa, Tahiti, or such either, but a trip through the vast spaces of Siberia. Why anyone would want to go to Siberia voluntarily is a moot question—and I have learned better—but the "reason" for the tour was listed as a "Newspaper Study Mission." At least that is what our tour director supposed it was, and that's what he said it was, but somehow it felt more like a Lonely Hearts Good Will Tour.

In the group were three married couples, four widows, two widowers, one divorcee, two divorcees (what is a divorced man called?) three maiden ladies, two bright young lads and two lonesome married men, and before the trip was a week old, two love affairs were in the budding, one love affair was in the re-make and one was continuing. Besides that, one man liked a new Russian gal in each port, so we had much to study.

But as I said, we were called a "Newspaper Study Mission" because the group consisted mainly of newspaper publishers and we were supposed to be studying Siberia. The trip was run by American Study Missions, Inc., of Washington, D.C., and tickets for the trip were purchased by each individual from that organization.

WE BEGAN THIS LIVELY little tour in Amsterdam where we all gathered to begin the journey that took us to Helsinki, Finland, then into the USSR at Tallinn, Estonia, and on through the USSR to Moscow, Samarkand, Tashkent, Alma Ata, Irkutsk, Lake Baikal, Bratsk, Khabarovsk and out at Nakhodka; then on to Yokohama and Tokyo, then Anchorage, Juneau and Ketchikan in Alaska, and finally, Seattle. What a way to go around the world!

Anyway, there were 22 of us—and Rala. It was at Tallinn, the gateway to the USSR, where Rala joined us and she remained with us during our entire stay in the USSR all the way to Nakhodka. Rala or Rala was assigned to us by In-Tourist through the government, or vice-versa, and she was a dedicated, hard-skinned member of the Communist Party and never forgot it for a minute, which I am sure she knew she wouldn't.

It cannot be said that Rala was lovable. As a matter of fact, she was a crank, but she was efficient. She took charge of the hotel bills (we had pre-paid for them naturally, but she handled the account as a group). She ordered what we were to eat, what we were to do and what we were to see. She was our keeper.

Most Russian women have no style and are usually heavy. Rala had spent two years in London in the In-Tourist office there and some of the polish had rubbed off. None of the politics, of course, that never, but London styles and clothes had gotten to her. Her hair was dyed blonde and highly styled, her glasses were blue up-swept and charged with rhinestones. I never did know what her eyes really looked like. Her clothes were from England and so was her accent, particularly her "Dahling." She was never cordial or gracious, though, as the English are, only cold and heavily communistic.

On the Trans-Siberian Railroad we complained of the extreme heat. It was approximately 95 outside and the train was closed almost airtight. The fans did not turn on, the air-conditioning would not come on, the windows wouldn't open (they were screwed shut) and all the passengers were about to faint. "Could you please ask someone about turning something on?" we pleaded. "Dahling," said Rala with an arched eyebrow, "I don't make the trains." And returned to her book: "The Valley of the Dolls." That was Rala.

THE DAY WE MET RALA we were not at our best. You might even say we got off on the wrong foot. And this is how it went: The hard-hearted Rala is at the dock in Tallinn waiting fretfully for the arrival of 22 titillated Americans to take them to the hotel. We Americans are approaching the USSR coast on a ship out of Helsinki sailing the Bay of Finland and we are still innocently happy. The ship is rolling with a greasy lurch and everyone with any verve is at the bar. Bar? Well, food and drink counter. We are learning to drink warm champagne. We haven't even gotten into the Soviet Union but we are on a Soviet ship and already we are learning about ice. Russians can always find ice for caviar, but never for champagne. I know there are only ten ice cubes in the entire USSR on any given day and 22 Americans use them up in a hurry and then there are none. Russians may know how to make Sputniks but not ten ice cubes.

So we are drinking warm champagne, (really sparkling white Caucasian wine and quite good too if only it were cold) and we are eating delicious cold black caviar, and the two budding romances are warming up. The other two are sizzling. We are behaving like a well-trained study mission group and studying everything. Every once in while we take our eyes off the romancers and even study our "travelers Bible," the itinerary. One of the budding couples is having an argument about communism and that doesn't bode very well, but the waitress is doing wonders with the warm champagne and the cold caviar and the argument is melting. Then someone, who is studying the shore line says, "Hey! Tallinn Port side!" We forsake the warm champagne and go look. Sure enough it is. Not all of us are so sure we are glad. More than one heart beats with a little trepidation at going into the Iron Curtain. Some hearts beat with quite a lot of trepidation too—as we are about to learn right away.

IT IS ONLY ABOUT A THREE-HOUR trip from the port of Helsinki to the port of Tallinn but one is free Finland and the other is Communist Estonia and there is a notable difference. When the ship docks the thing that leaps to mind is "customs," Communist customs. How bad will it be? Ugh, there is the customs house. We approach the grey ugly little building and begin. Our American group is last to go through and the custom agents are fussy and impolite. They want to see everything and they ask rudely. "Why do you have FOUR pairs of shoes?" one crankily asks me after sashaying through my suitcase for ten minutes. "Because," say I with no small amount of fervor, "I am going to be away for five weeks and I NEED them!" "Is all your jewelry real?" he next wants to know. "Where did you get that watch?" All this takes quite a lot of time because he cannot speak Russian very well and I cannot speak Russian very well and we need the help of a woman customs agent who can speak English only a little well. After about 45 minutes of organized confusion he finally is finished with me and turns to the last two people in the line, it is one of the married couples. They have about five suitcases. "That!" he barks pointing to two little ones, "Open!" (He knows two English words, anyhow.) They open them, but with evident reluctance—and then we see why.

It was a bad day for us at black rock for what he found there delayed us for three hours. Even at that we were thankful. We thought for a while we were going to be delayed forever in the salt mines of Siberia. Goodbye romance, hello vast spaces of Siberia!

Next: The Case of the Two Suitcases

"According to Rala, 'salt mines of Siberia' is not quite a correct term. The salt mines so infamous for incarcerating political prisoners of Russia are on the eastern side of the Ural Mountains and nowhere near the Siberian area. She said,

Creamy and delicious is Chutney Cheese Spread. Combining 2 cups creamed cottage cheese, 1/3 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing, 3 tablespoons finely chopped chutney and 1 teaspoon curry powder. Chill. Makes 2 cups spread.

Ready to bake bread isn't new, but a California manufacturer reportedly has come up with a new idea -- a bake-in-the-box, foil-lined carton that you don't even open. During baking process, the rising bread dough automatically pushes the carton open. The baking pan is formed and the bread bakes.

Picnic time is here again! You don't have to fill the family basket with fancy foods, but be sure to have enough. Outdoor activities always bring out the best in appetites. Deviled eggs are as much a picnic tradition as turkey for Christmas. Make them several hours before picnic time and let them chill. Wrap in some kind of insulation and they'll stay cool long after you take them from the refrigerator.

Ask Amy

By AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
I was compelled to write you because of a Mother's Day incident that happened to me and a friend of mine in the hopes that you would print this letter in an effort to wise up the young, recently married girls who have married some hurt mothers' sons.

My girlfriend (12) eats at my house frequently but always complains about the food my mother serves. My mother is a wonderful cook (everything is homemade). Her mother serves everything from cans.

Why doesn't she know the difference between homemade food versus canned food? What should I do about her? She's my best friend.

Robin Anne

Dear Robin:

There's nothing you can do. As she gets older and becomes more sophisticated, her taste buds will improve. Then she will complain less and appreciate more.

Please address all letters to: AMY ADAMS c/o THIS NEWSPAPER For a personal reply enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dear Amy:
I have been saving up for a $20.00 item. I asked my parents for a reasonable loan which I would pay back. It was refused.

Dear Mr. M.R.C.:
No, only they can tell you why, but if you're saving, so save! Don't ask to borrow.

Dear Amy:
I'm 16 years old and my problem is my grandmother, who is 80. She rents her own apartment but calls our house at least 10 times a day to complain of her ailments. She refuses to eat proper food or to cook for herself but insists on living in her apartment. She has so many pills she could open her own drug store. Doctors have assured us there is nothing wrong except old age, but she insists, about twice a week, that she is about to die. She has to see the doctor at least 3 times a week to cry on his shoulder. When he tells her what to do, she promises faithfully, but when she gets home, she starts her sympathy act all over again.

My mother has to take tranquilizers and is becoming a nervous wreck. She has no life of her own. When she goes visiting, my grandmother hunts her down to tell her to come quickly or she'll die. Mom does this because she feels sorry for her and really thinks there is something wrong.

Instead of enjoying life, she delights in complaining and running to the doctor. We have tried to have patience because she is old, but we are at the brink of our endurance. Grandmother runs our lives by phone, and I am fed up with it. I believe she should see a psychiatrist and be forced to obey his orders. What should I do? Nursing homes refuse to take her.

Dear Fed Up:
Some people grow old gracefully and considerably while others just grow old. There is nothing you or a psychiatrist can do with grandma at this stage of her life, but if you can get her interested in doing something useful with her remaining years (even if it's just some handwork) perhaps she will annoy you all less.

PERSONAL TO Help (Redwood, N.Y.):

If you cannot trust your friends to refrain from making a big to-do over your social life, keep your mouth shut. But more importantly than being called a liar, your actions with boys could cause you to be called a few other undesirable things.

Program by 2 rock groups planned at Parkway's Arts Center June 20

The "Iron Butterfly," one of the hottest rock groups to come out of the New Generation in Los Angeles, will perform at the Garden State Arts Center, Holmdel, the evening of Friday, June 20.

Appearing on the same program that night at the Arts Center on the Garden State Parkway (Exit 116) will be another top rock group called "Chicago." The rock group sensations will perform at the Arts Center between the two night appearances of the New York Philharmonic on June 19 and 21.

The one-night program by the four young men comprising the Iron Butterfly and the seven-member Chicago band will serve as a coming-out present for New Jersey youngsters, falling as it does on the additional school closing day.

The Iron Butterfly is a rock quartet which has spread like wildfire across the country. Just over a year ago Doug Ingle, Ron Bushy, Lee Dorman and Erick Brann were one of the many hopeful quartets. The completion of their first LP, "Heavy," rocketed them into a top-flight career in short order.

Aside from being a best-seller, "Heavy" also opened doors to the Iron Butterfly for a national concert tour and established their own unique sound.

The Chicago group, originally known as the Chicago Transit Authority, includes Pete Cetra on bass, Terry Kath on guitar, and Bob Lamm on keyboard—each the lead voices for the band—and four other instrumentalists.

Tickets for the big rock night can be bought by mail from the Arts Center, Box 116, Holmdel, N.J. 07733, or telephoning there (201) 264-9200 for order forms. The June 20 performance starts at 9 p.m.

NJEA urges expanded role for blacks in education field

The New Jersey Education Association is pressing to expand the role and rights of minority-group members in the public schools.

The association's policy-making Delegate Assembly has authorized an educational campaign to increase recruitment of minority-group members into teaching; promotion of more qualified black teachers into administrative positions; placement of black teachers onto faculties in even the most exclusive suburbs; development of "responsive teacher attitudes" toward students from minority groups; and more community involvement in school affairs.

To boost its human-rights campaign, the NJEA Delegate Assembly has adopted the "Report of the Task Force on Human Rights of the National Education Association" as NJEA policy and is urging other New Jersey teacher organizations to do the same.

The NJEA is preparing to establish a Special Task Force on Human Relations in Teacher Education whose main goal will be to put more training in human relations and minority cultures into the college preparation of New Jersey teachers. NJEA is also planning a Special Task Force on Individualized Instruction to help overcome the "harmful effects" of such current school "tracking" practices as placing pupils into separate classes or courses of study on the basis of results from standardized tests.

Beginning with basics, NJEA's Delegate Assembly called for "adequate representation of racial and religious minorities" on the Task Force.

In its most controversial action, the Delegate Assembly put NJEA on record in favor of removing teachers who "withhold human rights" from students or other school employees. Save the new NJEA policy:

"The profession has no room for educators who -- by direct acts, by their inaction, or by their vocal expressions -- condone racial hostility."

Such teachers should be disciplined, says NJEA. Moreover, "flagrant and repeated violations of these principles, when documented by sufficient evidence and testimony, represent conduct unbecoming a teacher and no longer entitle such persons to the continued protection of our state teacher laws."

However, to protect teachers from abuses, NJEA also recommends legislation guaranteeing that no teacher may be dismissed without "due process," even during probationary periods.

In another proposal concerning teacher attitudes, NJEA is urging that future teachers get classroom experience as early as their sophomore year, if only as observers, "so that those who realize they are unsuited to teaching will be able to begin another course of study."

School districts should use "positive recruitment" to insure "racial balance" on every school faculty, says the NJEA statement, which adds: "It is important for students in mostly black schools to have the experience of being taught by concerned and effective white teachers. It is equally important for students in predominantly white schools to have direct experience with black teachers and administrators performing successfully in positions of high prestige and professional accomplishment. A balanced teaching staff may be the first and best example young people have to see representatives of various groups and backgrounds working together successfully."

The new policies put into writing "commitments which were presumed in the past but which now become official standards upon which NJEA bases its actions," says NJEA's Committee on Human Rights, which developed the recommendations.

Arts, crafts exhibit to be held at Batsto

The historic Village of Batsto will be the scene of an Early American Arts and Craft Exhibition Sunday, according to Robert A. Roe, commissioner of the New Jersey Department of Conservation and Economic Development. Sponsored by the Batsto Citizens Committee, this attraction has been added this year to Batsto's schedule of activities. More than a score of crafts of yesteryear will be featured as history comes alive for the day. Most of these crafts will reflect the activities of the workers at the early iron-furnace community in the Jersey Pinelands — weaving, spinning, crocheting, candle making, milling, needlecraft and china painting.

The old workers' houses in the village will buzz with activities and the greens all around will stir with people working with all kinds of outdated and outworn tools. This unique arts and craft exhibition, representing the Colonial and Early American periods, will be scattered over the fields and throughout the village in workers' cottages, the ironmaster's mansion, the range barn, the saw and grist mills and the general store area.

The old horse-drawn stage-coach will be in operation to provide passengers with an unusual view of the scenic Batsto area. The postmistress will be stationed in the old post office, enabling visitors to have letters and postcards postmarked from Batsto.

Visitors will also have the opportunity of touring the mansion and outbuildings, including the blacksmith shop. This exhibition will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Batsto, located in Burlington County, is an excellent replica of early American industrial life.

United Methodists meet to update their ministry

United Methodists of northern New Jersey and adjacent New York and Pennsylvania communities will devote five days of their Annual Conference starting Sunday to updating their view of the ministry.

The sessions of the 112th annual meeting will be held in Baldwin Auditorium on the campus of Drew University, Madison, beginning Sunday at 4 p.m. and ending Thursday afternoon. For the first time, members of the former Evangelical United Brethren, now included in United Methodism, will be among the 600 lay and clergy delegates and up to 400 nonvoting visitors.

Another "first" will be the appearance of a Catholic cleric, the Most Rev. George Guilfoyle of Camden, as a speaker. Bishop Guilfoyle, scheduled for Monday at 8 p.m., will describe how "The Ministry is Ecumenical." He will be presented by Bishop Prince A. Taylor, Jr., who as head of the state's 200,000 members with offices in Princeton, will also preside at all sessions of the conference.

The subject is roses...

Open house to be held at Stokes on Sunday

The North Jersey Rose Society and the Essex County Park Commission announce their first annual Brookdale Park Rose Garden Visitation on Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m. The park is in Upper Montclair.

Members of the rose societies throughout this area will greet guests and help them with their rose culture problems.

There are 1,400 rose bushes at Brookdale Rose Garden. Mrs. Irene Nemoszyk of Union is in charge of the program.

New Jersey residents will have the opportunity to visit Rutgers University's Youth Center for Outdoor Education in Stokes State Forest Sunday.

An "open house" is planned at the center from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Its purpose is to acquaint the public with the facilities and the outdoor education and youth development programs conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service, according to Thomas J. Murphy, 4-H extension leader at Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science, who is also director of the center.

Director Murphy and his staff will explain the operation of the center and the various programs it offers. The center, heretofore known as the State 4-H Camp, is an accredited outdoor educational facility and has been a member of the American Camping Association since it was established in 1951.

Families planning a Sunday outing are welcome to bring their picnic lunches and spend the day with us," says Murphy.

The road leading to the center intersects Route 206, opposite Stokes Forest headquarters.

Israel Verein meets next week

Israel Verein will meet next Thursday, June 12, at 8:30 p.m., at the YM-YWHA, Green Lane, Union.

George Feller will preside at the nominations of officers, Harry Weiss is entertainment chairman and Mark Gale will serve refreshments.

Watch other guy

While driving, at least five cars concern you—not counting your own, says the All-state Motor Club. They are the one ahead, the one behind, the one approaching in the opposite lane, the one ready to enter from a side street, and the one parked at the curb. You also must watch cars moving parallel with yours. Be prepared for any one of them to do anything without warning. Drive defensively.

NCE prof to study opportunities for black engineers

Newark College of Engineering has received a Department of Labor research grant of $15,000 to underwrite the third segment of a long-range, in-depth study of opportunities for blacks in the profession of engineering.

Announcement of the grant was made this week by Dr. Richard G. Griskey, director of research for NCE's affiliated research organization, the Foundation for the Advancement of Graduate Study in Engineering.

Griskey stated that Dr. Robert Kiehl of Summit, NCE professor emeritus in industrial relations will be the principal investigator. Kiehl has been studying the situation since 1957.

The purpose of Kiehl's newest study will be to gather engineering educational and employment information about blacks for use in five related areas. These will include the use of the data in planning career conferences with freshmen at predominantly black colleges; in assisting curriculum committees of such institutions and in developing engineering manpower programs to more fully utilize black engineering graduates as a national resource.

IN ADDITION THE STUDY will provide up to date information on educational and employment opportunities for those working in black youth guidance and will give current data to planners in industry, state and federal government agencies.

Kiehl reports that his new study for the Department of Labor's Office of Manpower Research will encompass the more than 200 accredited and nonaccredited engineering institutions, 80 accredited technical institutes and about 500 nonaccredited institutes that have not previously been surveyed. He will also obtain data from a large number of recent black engineering graduates; some of the basic questions he will ask will provide insight into the career incentives and motivational aspects of the study group.

He has noted that the blacks in America are not taking full advantage of the opportunities that come from the manpower shortages in our increasingly complex and technologically-oriented society.

Summer project to draw 350,000 Program for disadvantaged in second year

More than 350,000 disadvantaged youth throughout New Jersey, will have the opportunity this summer to participate in recreation, conservation-education and cultural opportunities in the state's parks, forests and centers of culture. Now in its second year, the program is under the direction and coordination of the Department of Conservation and Economic Development in conjunction with other state agencies, county and municipal governments and approximately 40 participating religious, fraternal and community action organizations.

State Conservation and Economic Development Commissioner Robert A. Roe said the program participation has been doubled this year. He announced the approval of approximately $435,000 of direct state grants-in-aid to 40 participating agencies and organizations.

Some of the state grants-in-aid will be used to underwrite transportation costs of over 7,000 busloads of youngsters throughout the summer.

The Department also is providing increased lifeguard personnel for maximum safety and trained park recreational counselors as well as waiving all parking and admission fees to State facilities.

The full range of New Jersey's facilities will be utilized from the ocean parks of Island Beach and Cape May to the mountains and forests of High Point.

Cultural enrichment opportunities will be provided by visitations to the Garden State Arts Center, the Newark Museum, the Cultural Center at the State Capitol in Trenton, New York and Philadelphia Metropolitan Museums of Art and Natural History, Turtle Back Zoo, Bronx Zoo and a host of other centers of education and culture.

Arrangements have been made for visitations to sports activities including events of the New York Yankees, New York Mets and Philadelphia Phillies baseball games, New York Giants and New York Jets football training camps.

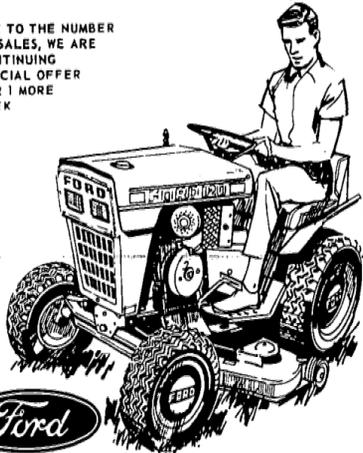

Substantive historical-educational tours have been arranged for visitations to Batsto, Allaire, Jockey Hollow Park, the Statue of Liberty, Waterloo Village and other places of historic interest.

Participation in the "Youth Conservation and Recreation Program" is available to all disadvantaged youth up to age 21 upon application to their local participating agencies or organizations. Sponsoring organizations are fully responsible to provide adequate supervisors and counselors to accompany all group visitations and are also responsible for food and other incidental costs. Many local merchants, industries and civic organizations throughout the state are contributing towards these needs.

Day camp begins six-week session June 30 at NSC

Camp Union, a summer day camp operated under the auspices of the Union County Organization to Aid Children with Learning Disabilities, will open for a six-week session on June 30, on the campus of Newark State College, Union.

Mrs. Edward Goodkin, of Union, president of the county organization, said the camp will take youngsters "who are not classified as mentally retarded, seriously emotionally disturbed or brain injured to the extent that they deviate very far from the norm."

She added: "Other than learning difficulties that these children present in school, they find it difficult to interact socially in group situations in accepted patterns of behavior."

Dr. Edward La Crosse, chairman of the Department of Special Education at the college, and Dr. James Caulfield, assistant superintendent of Union Township school system, are professional advisors to the camp.

The camp will be directed by Vincent Aniello, who teaches at Newark State College, and has a master's degree in special education and is working towards his doctorate in the same field. He has been waterfront director of Camp Notre Dame in New Hampshire and Stoney-brooke Day Camp in Hillside.

Newark State College is making its facilities available free of charge to the camp. Included

Survey to be made on nurse education program in county

Hospital, nursing and nursing education officials in Union County agreed last week that a study should be made to determine if a nursing education program is needed in Union County.

This decision was reached at a meeting sponsored by the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education at Union College, Cranford. The feasibility study would be made by Union College in cooperation with the Coordinating Agency, the Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, and Union County hospitals.

Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, executive director of the Coordinating Agency, said the study would include such factors as population, current and projected, professional nurse supply and demand; extent and adequacy of existing resources, including facilities, programs, personnel and financial. Dr. MacKay reported that Union College is seeking a private grant to make the study.

Dr. MacKay presided at the meeting, which included representatives from Alexian Brothers Hospital, Elizabeth; Elizabeth General Hospital; Memorial Hospital, Union; Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield; Overlook Hospital, Summit; Rahway Hospital; John E. Rannels Hospital of Union County, Berkeley Heights, and St. Elizabeth Hospital, Elizabeth.

There also were representatives present from the Schools of Nursing of Elizabeth and Perth Amboy General Hospitals, and Muhlenberg Hospital, and from other nursing agencies.

Mrs. Marion Leary of Cranford, nursing coordinator of Union College, outlined Union College's nursing program conducted in affiliation with the Schools of Nursing of Elizabeth and Perth Amboy General Hospitals. Under the program, first-year student nurses attend classes at Union College four days a week and earn 22 college credits, which are transferrable to other institutions of higher education.

Suzanne Law, director of nursing education of Perth Amboy General Hospital, outlined a possible new program of nursing education which would combine the curricular strengths of hospital school programs — clinical experience in particular — with the elements of collegiate education, which she said have proven most effective in preparing competent and well-rounded nurse practitioners.

are the swimming pool, athletic fields and classrooms.

A typical day at the camp will include swimming, arts and crafts, dramatic play, musical activities, sports and picnics. Camp hours will be 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Gerard Carlucci is camp chairman.

A meeting of all interested in Camp Union was held last week at the YMHA on Green Lane, Union.

Nine-foot-long cake baked by students

A sprawling, rambling, ranch-style cake, nine feet long, weighing 224 pounds, which was prepared, baked, and decorated by students of Union County Vocational-Technical School, 1776 Raritan rd., Scotch Plains, was displayed at a dedication ceremony last week. The cake will be disassembled, cut into small portions and pet fours, and offered for sale to students and faculty to offset expenses.

The cake is an accurate full-scale model of the three-building complex, plus a detailed map of Union County complete with properly identified municipalities including Troy, Winfield and Fanwood.

Donald Raiger, instructor of the baking class, explained that the cake was constructed sheet by sheet, block by block, according to patterns and maps drawn by his students. Thirty-eight pounds of shortening, 40 pounds of sugar, 40 pounds of flour, 10 pounds egg whites, 30 pounds whole eggs, 30 pounds confectioner's sugar, 20 pounds of fondant, and 21 pounds of coconut were used during the week of preparation which included 30 hours of decorating activities alone.

Fred Weisenbacher of Union did the careful lettering. Other students who contributed to the task were Philip Reilly and Richard Jeckel of Cranford; Glen Stowe, Scotch Plains; Carolyn Jones, Union, and Willie Riddick, Roselle.

The map cake of Union County was covered with mocha-colored, butter-cream, fondant icing. It featured three major roadways shown in blue; several main arteries (such as U. S. 1, 9, and 22, the Garden State Parkway and the New Jersey Turnpike) indicated in red; and municipality demarcations designated in green. The irregularly-shaped map was mounted on a two-foot rectangular base, royal blue with white lettering.

The panorama of the buildings resembled an architect's rendering, with reproductions of details including a red stop sign at an intersection, a white flagpole and TV antennae. Stone walls of real buildings were reproduced on the cake model in peanut brittle. Pebbles atop the roof were represented by toasted coconut. Sidewalks of white royal icing (egg whites and sugar) lined broad roads of licorice, which were marked with white gum-paste lamposts. Green lawns and shrubs sprouted from rich chocolate devil's food soil. Trees were simulated in green royal icing, so that all components of the cake, with the exception of toy cars, were edible.

Cut-away sections were hewn in large, white, rectangular building blocks on which course offerings at both the high school-level Vocational School and college-level Technical Institute were spelled out: appliance servicing, auto repair, auto body repair, baking, beauty culture, biochemistry, chemical technology, civil technology, commercial art, cooking, data processing, dental assisting, dental hygiene, electronics technology, electrical technology, electricity, graphic arts, heating-ventilating-air conditioning, library assisting, maintenance mechanics, mechanical technology, medical assisting, medical laboratory technician, pre-technology, practical nursing, radio-TV repair, technical secretary and welding.

Raiger was a pastry chef at B. Altman's, Short Hills, for eight years; the Old Mill Inn Town House, Morristown, for 12 years; and in business for himself at various times. Currently instructor of baking at the Vocational Center, Raiger teaches high school students, high school graduates and out-of-school adults. In February of this year, he demonstrated cake decorating techniques and other baking skills for the Scotch Plains-Fanwood Newcomer's Club.

Stop & Shop sales are up 40 percent

BOSTON, MASS. -- Since dropping food stamps in 1965 and implementing mini-pricing, Stop & Shop's sales volume has increased 40 percent and pre-tax earnings 104 percent, Donald A. Gannon, president, told shareholders at the company's annual meeting last week. A Stop & Shop store is located at 800 Morris turnpike, Short Hills.

To sustain and insure its growing volume, Stop & Shop has embarked on an extensive remodeling and expansion program. Gannon noted that in the past 3-1/2 years the company has opened 25 new food stores, closed 28 less efficient sites and remodeled 35 more. In its Bradlees mercantile division, 24 new stores were opened, two closed and three remodeled. Four new drugstores were opened in the company's recently established Medi Mart division.

Despite its 55-year history, 85 percent of Stop & Shop food stores have been either newly opened or remodeled in the last 10 years; the average age of the mercantile stores is 4-1/2 years, and the Medi Mart drugstores are not one-year old.

Shareholders also were advised that Albert S. Frager has been promoted to corporate financial vice president and elected to Stop & Shop's board of directors.

Montclair chosen to be testing center for teacher exams

Montclair State College has been designated as a test center for administering the National Teacher Examinations on July 19. Richard Taubald, Assistant Director of Examinations, has announced.

College seniors preparing to teach and teachers applying for positions in school systems which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores on the National Teacher Examinations along with their other credentials are eligible to take the tests. Last year more than 95,000 candidates took the examinations, which are prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton.

The designation of Montclair State College as a test center for these examinations will give prospective teachers in this area an opportunity to compare their performance on the examinations with candidates throughout the country who take the tests, Taubald said.

At the one-day session a candidate may take the Common Examinations, which include tests in professional education and general education, and one of the 15 Teaching Area Examinations which are designed to evaluate his understanding of the subject matter and methods applicable to the area he may be assigned to teach.

"Bulletins of Information" describing registration procedures and containing Registration Forms may be obtained from Taubald at Montclair State College, Upper Montclair, New Jersey 07043.

Let students help form policy in school affairs, says NJEA

Deal the students a piece of the action. That's the advice of the New Jersey Education Association on student participation in school affairs.

As "a first-hand model of a democratic institution," public education should involve students in "all phases" of school life, giving them a voice "from conceptualization to evaluation" in policies and practices that affect them.

However, student authority should be "clearly defined," says NJEA, "so that student expectations are realistic and not ultimately disillusioning."

Civil War group to cite Upsala's chief librarian

Professor Dean L. Ritzman, who is about to retire from his position as chief librarian of Upsala College, East Orange, will be honored at a testimonial dinner to be held by the Civil War Round Table of Northern New Jersey on June 14 at Florham Park.

A founder and the first president of this Civil War history group, Ritzman is resigning from his library post to become director of the Learning Resources Center at Edison Junior College, Fort Myers, Florida.

Chamber of Commerce selects state officers

Thomas C. Butler, chairman of the board of the Grand Union Company, East Paterson, was elected president of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting of the Chamber's board of directors last week.

Among those named to the board of directors were Robert W. Kean Jr., president of the Elizabethtown Water Company, Elizabeth, and John W. Kress, president of the Howard Savings Institution, Newark.

Moreover, students should be cautioned that participation in authority requires student responsibility.

"Obviously, the orderly conduct of education is impossible in an atmosphere of disruption," says NJEA, "violence and vandalism in schools cannot be condoned. But if schools cannot operate in an atmosphere of disruption, no longer can they operate in an atmosphere of repression."

Many school matters affect the student's present and future well being, NJEA notes. Discipline, staffing, curriculum, textbooks, guidance, job placement, college admission—all are "legitimate questions argued within the teaching profession and in the mass media." But as much as anyone else, these questions concern the student himself. Thus he, too, should have a voice in proposing changes and improvements.

NJEA's Committee on Instruction and Innovations wrote the recommendations on student involvement because of widespread youthful unrest, NJEA's policy-making Delegate Assembly has adopted them, and NJEA is advising teachers and schools of its position.

The new NJEA policy takes some exception to the State Board of Education's recent memorandum asking New Jersey school districts to adopt grievance procedures for students and plans to cope with potential student disorder. Agreeing on the need, NJEA's proposals go a step further. They ask the schools to involve students in the formulation of these student grievance procedures. NJEA also wants schools to create "channels of communication" for parents and urges that parents be involved in developing them.

NJEA has been urging its local affiliates to establish joint teacher-administrator councils to advise boards of education on instructional matters. The new policy calls upon these councils to expand their membership to include parents and students.

Sunny-as-spring daffodil cake

Daffodils—the thought alone is as refreshing as the first warm breeze that heralds spring. And there's never been a cake that looked and tasted more springlike than Daffodil Cake.

This cake's a classic marriage of angel food and orange sponge batters which bake up light and moist, and with a delicate marbling of silvery white and sunshiny yellow. The golden touch makes it a winner for an anniversary party or a bridal shower, swirled with rich Lemon Butter Cream Frosting and served with a bit of flair. Put it on a pedestal plate of cut crystal or pretty china and ring the bottom with tulips, daffodils, or other posies.

The cake is especially delicious because you make it from scratch, using Swans Down Cake Flour and lots of eggs. However, as with all angel-type cakes, a light hand in the making is a must. One of the secrets is in the proper beating of the egg whites before adding the sugar; they must be stiff enough to hold a peak but still moist. When adding cake flour and egg yolks, fold gently to keep your batter cloud-light. And since it's easier to separate eggs when they are cold, plan to do the separating an hour before you start your cake. Then they'll be at room temperature for beating up to their greatest volume.

Another time, bake a Daffodil Cake and leave it plain or give it a light dusting of confectioners' sugar. Serve it thinly sliced with compotes of juicy fresh fruit, like strawberries.

If you're a cake lover, you'll enjoy the many cake recipes in a free 16-page leaflet—just send your name and address (including ZIP code) to: "Come for Coffee and Cake," Box 5041, Kankakee, Illinois 60901.

DAFFODIL CAKE
1-1/4 cups sifted cake flour
1/2 cup sugar
1-1/4 cups (about 9) egg whites

(at room temperature)
1-1/2 teaspoons cream of tartar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup sugar
4 egg yolks
1 teaspoon grated orange rind
2 tablespoons orange juice
2 tablespoons sugar
Sift flour with 1/2 cup of sugar four times.

Combine egg whites, cream of tartar, salt, and vanilla in large bowl. Beat at high speed of electric mixer, with rotary beater or flat wire whip until egg whites are stiff enough to hold up in soft peaks, but are still moist and glossy. Add 1 cup sugar in four additions by sprinkling about 4 tablespoons at a time over egg whites and beating until sugar is blended. When beating by hand, beat 25 strokes after each addition of sugar.

To make white batter, sift flour mixture over the beaten egg whites, one fourth at a time, folding in with 15 complete fold-over strokes, turning bowl frequently. (TO FOLD use a spoon, a flat wire whip, or a rubber scraper. Cut down through mixture, lift up, and fold over. DO NOT STIR OR BEAT.) After last addition, use 10 to 20 extra fold-over strokes.

Layer alternately yellow and white batters into an ungreased 10-inch tube pan starting with the yellow batter and ending with the white batter. Bake at 375 degrees for 35 to 40 minutes, or until cake springs back when pressed lightly. Remove from oven, invert pan on rack, and let stand 1 hour, or until cake is cool. Loosen from sides and center tube with knife and gently pull out cake. When cake is thoroughly cooled, frost with Lemon Butter Cream Frosting, if desired.

BUTTER CREAM FROSTING
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/8 teaspoon salt
1 pound (about 4-1/2 cups) unsifted confectioners' sugar

2 egg yolks
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons (about) milk
Cream butter until soft. Add salt and part of sugar gradually, blending after each addition. Then add egg yolks and lemon rind; blend well. Add remaining sugar, alternately with milk, until of right consistency to spread, beating after each addition until smooth. Make 2-1/2 cups frosting.

Wood paneling for walls requires additional finish

By CAROLYN F. YUKNUS, Senior County Home Economist

Wood paneling offers variety and durability as a wall treatment for many interior decorating schemes.

However, before installing wood paneling, it is important to visualize the finished effect and know how to treat the wood.

In selecting the type of wood paneling, it is well to realize that highly grained wood creates a distinct pattern. Outstanding patterns of this type perform much the same as vividly patterned wallpaper.

If this type of paneling is used on four walls, it will often create the optical illusion of advancing and make the room look smaller.

Whether you choose unfinished or pre-finished wood paneling, either type will need additional finish to prevent general darkening or light areas behind pictures.

Two or three coats of transparent sealer applied to a clear surface will do an excellent job of bringing out the mellowness of the wood and maintain the color over the years.

If a less shiny finish is desired, a satin finish coat of sealer may be used as a final coat, or the final coat of transparent sealer may be lightly rubbed down with fine steel wool to dull the shine.

This type of finish does not need extra maintenance of wax or polish. Since wood paneling used on four walls does reduce the light reflection in a room, as well as create a smaller size illusion, an interesting effect can be achieved by masking wood paneling.

This treatment maintains the grained effect of the wood but reduces the advancing illusion of wood paneling.

Masking is done by first applying a thin coat of sealer to the wood. After this is dry, apply a tint of compatible color in dull paint to the surface. With a clean, rough cloth, wipe off as much paint as possible while it is still wet.

This technique leaves a bit of color in the cells of the wood, but does not cover the grain.

After the paint has dried, a second and perhaps a third coat of sealer may be applied.

The resulting appearance is still that of wood paneling but with a lighter, more subtle effect.

Propose UC state research facility

Establishment of a research and development institution on the two-year level by the State Department of Higher Education was proposed last week by Union College.

Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president, made the proposal in a statement submitted at a hearing in Trenton on the draft master plan of the State Department of Higher Education. He said a research and development institution would provide New Jersey an opportunity to engage in research and innovation in all areas of two-year college operations.

"Since our college has a three-decade history of providing quality education on the two-year college level and since our college is unencumbered by limitation, statutory or otherwise, sometimes placed on other types of institutions, we respectfully suggest that our college be designated as the two-year research and development center for New Jersey," Dr. Iversen said. "Such a plan is included in the draft master plan for higher education in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and we commend it to you for inclusion in New Jersey's master plan."

Dr. Iversen also proposed that a two-year college center be established on the Union College campus "for the collection of data on two-year colleges, as well as on faculty, students and other aspects of their operations."

"WE PROPOSE the establishment of such a center by our institution and the Graduate School of Education of Rutgers—the State University," Dr. Iversen said. "This Center, too, would provide an opportunity for innovation in curriculum, staffing, and other areas, and would collect data and conduct research on two-year colleges, both public and independent."

Dr. Iversen also suggested the development of in-service and pre-service programs to better train two-year college teachers, administrators and counselors. He cited a cooperative program between Union College and Seton Hall University, South Orange, to provide internships for two-year college counselors. Dr. Iversen added that plans have been discussed with Rutgers to provide an internship program for two-year college teachers.

"It is our belief that New Jersey could take far greater advantage of its independent colleges and universities than it does now," Dr. Iversen said. "It would be a reasonable approach for the state to contract for specific services and programs with independent institutions when these services are not available in the public institutions or when an independent institution is in a better position to provide the service or program. Essentially this contract arrangement has been established in the affiliation of our college with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education, which promises to provide a high quality system of two-year college education for Union County at the lowest possible cost to the taxpayer."

Overlook seminar on 'family planning' slated by staff MDs

A panel of specialists from the Overlook Hospital Staff will present a special seminar on Family Planning on Wednesday, June 18, from 1:30 to 4 p.m.

Designed particularly for professional workers in the fields of health, education, welfare and social service, the program is also open to the public and to the hospital staff. Moderator of the program will be Robert J. Staub, M.D., Chief of the Department of Obstetric and Gynecology.

Jessie Pead, M.D., Medical Director of Overlook's Family Planning Clinic will report on latest findings and methods both in birth control and infertility.

Kenneth L. Day, M.D., Attending Physician in Gynecology on the Overlook Medical Staff, will discuss contraception and the male.

Mrs. Genevieve Kirby, R.N., Overlook's Family Planning Nurse, will present procedures followed in the clinic, describing the work and purpose of this newest unit of the hospital.

"A happier, healthier family is the goal of the family planning clinic. With overpopulation and poorly spaced families one of today's most pressing problems, it is important that the community hospital enter into this new area of medical service," Dr. Pead emphasized.

Overlook's Family Planning Clinic is open three Monday mornings and one Monday evening each month, with appointments to be made by calling 273-8100, ext. 425, a hospital spokesman said.

FOR THE BIRDS

By FARRIS S. SWACKHAMER, professor, Union Junior College

Rustler, my pet Brown Thrasher, was pouring out his loud, long, spring song. A phonograph, or rather a graphophone, had been left on a table near the cage. Everything seemed to favor the collection of a bird song. I placed the instrument so that the open funnel of the horn came within less than a foot of the Thrasher's swelling throat and touching a lever, set the wax cylinder revolving below a sapphire-tipped style, which cut the bird notes into the wax. Just as the melody changed from that of a thrush to that of a Wood Thrush, a Robin flew past the window. Rustler stopped short, but the style continued to cut and ruin the wax cylinder. When Rustler started in again he hopped to the opposite side of the cage, partly covering his back on the graphophone.

A far cry from the sophisticated parabolic microphones and tape recorders of Peter Paul Kellogg as he makes possible those superb bird song records up at Cornell University. The quotation is from Volume I, Number 1, of "Bird Lore," February 1899 in "Notes from Field and Study" contributed by Sylvester D. Judd, Ph.D., Washington, D.C. The librarian at Union College came across this first edition, a true collector's item, in a carton of magazines contributed to the college some months ago.

Union College is a treasure house for the amateur ornithologist. Part of the campus surrounds a little lake near where a wood duck built a nest in a hollow tree two years ago and where spring warblers innundate the shrubbery. The Biology Department has a good collection of stuffed birds, bird skins, eggs and bird books and now the library has a collection of old ornithological journals.

"Bird Lore" was a bi-monthly magazine devoted to the study and protection of birds, official organ of the Audubon Societies, edited by Frank M. Chapman and published by the Macmillan Company. In addition to the note on recording bird songs, which we think of as a modern development, it contains an article on "The Camera as an Aid in the Study of Birds" which has some surprisingly good photographs of a chickadee feeding its young. One problem the author refers to is a top shutter speed of 1/25th of a second and the necessity for waiting until the birds are reasonably still before snapping their portrait.

The back cover advertises Montauk Cameras, "Always Strictly High Grade" - new designs for 1899. The Snap-Shot Montauk, a 3 1/4 x 4 1/4, fixed focus, sells for $5 and the 4 x 5 with focusing device sells for $7. "Send for Complete Catalogue (free) of all our many styles at from $5 to $250." These bargains may be bought from G. Gennert, 13th street and Fifth avenue, New York.

Mother-exec is UC graduate She was 'absent' 30 years

"It was rather strange," said Mrs. Doris Veronica Howell of Garwood as she described the experience of returning to a classroom after an absence of some 30 years.

The time lag was not the only adjustment Mrs. Howell had to make when she enrolled in the evening session at Union College, Cranford, in 1964. A professional woman with executive experience both in business and volunteer work, she admits it was somewhat difficult to take orders when you are used to giving them. But, adjust she did and will be graduated with an Associate in Arts degree tonight at Union College's 36th annual commencement exercises.

An insurance broker for a Westfield firm, Mrs. Howell is a member of the National Association of Insurance Women and past secretary of the New Jersey association, a Union County Republican committeewoman, vice president of the Republican Women of Garwood, a past president of the Garwood Woman's Club, and a member of the Marble Collegiate Church of New York, where she assists with radio programming.

With a successful career and varied outside interests, one might question Mrs. Howell's decision to subject herself to the rigors of the college classroom. She credits her son, Daniel, with having helped her make the decision. "He told me that if he could learn electronics, I could certainly get through college." What started as a joke became a purposeful objective when her son entered the Navy.

Learning to study again was no real problem, says Mrs. Howell. "When you're in business, you have to keep up," she explains. She also believes that she has some advantage over younger students because of the discipline that comes with maturity. "When you sit down to study, you study."

A "B" student (2.8 average), Mrs. Howell has found language her most difficult subject. She had never had any foreign language in high school. Science was difficult too, but masterable once she learned the new vocabulary. "I frequently had to consult the dictionary, before I even knew what they were talking about. So much new information has entered the field since I was in school."

Mrs. Howell's favorite subject was psychology and that is what she will major in when she transfers to Upsala College, East Orange, to complete her college education. She also hopes to earn her certification as a Professional Insurance Woman.

As for future plans, Mrs. Howell hopes to go back to giving the orders. She plans to become a teacher.

The Theatre Seen

THE MISER AT LINCOLN CENTER By ROBERT LYONS

Past Lincoln Center Repertory productions were known to fail disastrously. Moliere's 'The Miser' goes down with a steady, unexcited dismalmess.

Harpagon (The Miser) is an avaricious old man who wants to wed Mariane, the girl his son loves. His daughter is in love with one of her father's servants who is really a noble and the brother of Mariane. All this is made known in the final moments by the long lost father who comes to claim Elise, Harpagon's daughter, as his wife.

The comic situations are never explored, much less exploited. Director Carl Weber grounds the play in weak innuendoes to reality. Where there should be stealth entering on a tip-toe there is caution exiting on its heels.

Robert Symonds as Harpagon is externally crochety while being unable to communicate an inward irascibility. Of the cast only Lili Darvas as a matchmaker, and Phillip Bosco, as the long-lost father, conveyed the warmth, grace and charm so necessary to improbable comedy.

David Hays' two-level, eight-act set has a cluttered barrenness that is perfectly wrong. James Hart steams' clothes are drearily shabby. And they actually fit. Rags should be too large or too small, suggesting they have been traded, borrowed, stolen, handed down or anything else to say they weren't originally for their present wearer.

The translation managed to be succinct and still remain monotonous.

I don't know how many more mistakes could have been made. There seemed to be enough errors to insure a limp, casual failure.

Theatre Tip: "In the Matter of J. Robert Oppenheimer," will return to the Vivian Beaumont in late June for six weeks. See it!

'Mayerling' opens on Mayfair screen Omar Sharif and Catherine Deneuve co-star in 'Mayerling,' MGM's romantic story about an ill-fated love, which opened yesterday at the Mayfair Theater in Hillside.

'Drive with care' Automobile accidents in 1968 injured more than 4,400,000 persons on American highways, insurance company statistics indicate that driver error was responsible for more than 80 per cent of last year's casualties.

'If...' is shattering experience on screen at Ormont Theater

Where does reality end and fantasy begin? It's hard to tell in 'If...', the shattering film masterpiece currently on screen at the Ormont Theater in East Orange.

An exceptionally skillful directorial job by Lindsay Anderson enhances this strange film about a British boys' school, with its cruelties, oppressions and hostilities.

The boys, whether they're just entering the school or about to leave, are curiously contemptuous of their teachers, elders, classes, classmates and just everything in general. And their rebellion shows in their thoughts and dreams...and actions...real or imaginary.

This is a real film for the intellectual filmmaker, and the actors do superb jobs. There are moments when a viewer forgets that a picture is being unrolled and truly believes that what he is watching is "really" real.

The effective cast includes Malcolm McDowell, David Wood, Richard Warwick, Christine Noonan and Robert Swann.

'Charly' at Castle begins final week

'Charly,' which won for its star, Cliff Robertson, the Oscar for Best Actor of the year, continues for a third and final week at the Castle Theater in Irvington Center.

The drama was filmed in color and directed by Ralph Nelson.

Starting Wednesday, the Castle will open with two main features: "The Fixer," starring Dick Bogarde, Georgia Brown, Hugh Griffith, Elizabeth Hartman and Carol White, and directed by John Frankenheimer, and "Mayerling," starring Omar Sharif and Catherine Deneuve, with James Mason and Ava Gardner. Terence Young directed the picture in color.

Drunks cause crashes

Nearly 50 percent of all fatal auto crashes involve drinking drivers. Almost half of last year's 55,500 auto deaths, and countless auto injuries were caused by drivers who were drinking. No longer is there any doubt that alcohol is the leading cause of highway crashes.

View on generation gap

Adults all 'immigrants in time'

Thursday, June 5, 1969 -

"As long as any adult thinks that he, like the parents and teachers of old, can become introspective, invoke his own youth to understand the youth before him, he is lost," says anthropologist Margaret Mead in an editorial in "Science."

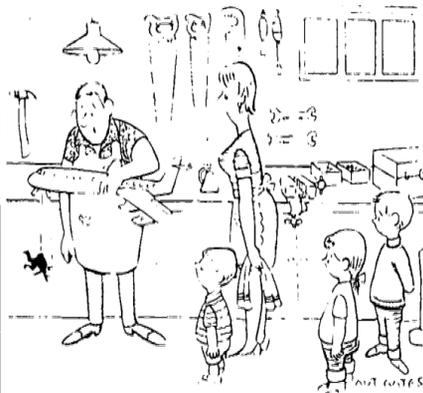

All of us who grew up before the war are immigrants in time, immigrants from an earlier world, living in an age essentially different from anything we knew before, according to Dr. Mead. We still hold the seats of power and command the resources and the skills which have been used in the past to keep order and organize large societies. We control the educational systems, the apprenticeship systems, the career ladders up which the young are required to climb, step by step.

Dr. Mead goes on to say that no generation has known and experienced such rapid change as have the present-day elders, nor has any other generation watched sources of power, means of communication, limits of the exploitable universe, all change before its very eyes. In a sense, this knowledge and experience of change is a breaking point, a breaking point between two radically different but closely related groups — the young and their elders. But all is not lost, for Dr. Mead believes that communication between the generations can indeed be established again when the fact of a deep, new, unprecedented, worldwide generation gap is firmly established in the mind of both the young and the old.

Two ballerinas to star in Arts Center events

Two of the world's most celebrated ballerinas, Kirsten Simone and Lupe Serrano, have been added to the roster of stars scheduled to dance with the American Ballet Theatre company at New Jersey's Garden State Arts Center in Holmdel this summer.

Miss Simone, the prima ballerina of the Royal Danish Ballet, will dance with her renowned compatriot, Erik Bruhn, in two performances during the week-long engagement at the Arts Center here July 28 through Aug. 2.

On Monday, July 28, Miss Simone and Bruhn, internationally acknowledged as one of the world's outstanding male dancers, will have the leading roles in Giselle and on the following Wednesday evening they will appear again in the company's new full-length production of Coppelia.

Carla Fracchi, originally scheduled as Bruhn's partner for this engagement, is now on maternity leave of absence and has cancelled all her appearances for the balance of the year. Miss Fracchi is married to the Italian opera director, Giuseppe Menegatti.

Miss Serrano, for many years prima ballerina of American Ballet Theatre, and Royes Fernandez, first male dancer of the company, will perform in the production of Swan Lake on Tuesday, July 29, and will dance the leading roles in Giselle on Friday, Aug. 1. Miss Serrano is the wife of Kenneth Schermerhorn, former music director of the New Jersey Symphony.

Mailing address of the Garden State Arts Center, located at Telegraph Hill Park on the Garden State Parkway, is Box 116, Holmdel, N.J. 07733.

DANGER—WATCH OUT

Everyone knows that many children get comfort out of thumbsucking, especially when they are apprehensive, bored, or tired. Wise parents respond to such physical signs because they know that the child usually cannot put his distress into words, and may not even understand what ails him.

There are other physical signs, fortunately much less common, which also clearly reveal distress. However, these danger signals are less well understood.

Studies at the National Institute of Dental Research, one of the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Maryland, have shown that sometimes children who have had an ordinary mouth infection with sore gums will continue to pick or scratch at the sore place on their gums and keep it from healing long after the original infection has passed. The child will use his fingernail to accomplish this either openly and habitually, or secretly, if he thinks his parents may object or interfere with this habit. Refractory lesions that have no recognizable cause should lead to a suspicion of self-mutilation. If this is the case, it is a waste of time to rely on medication for a cure or to search for some obscure non-existing allergy as the cause.

The dentist or physician should urge the parents of such children to search for an underlying emotional distress, and if necessary, to get professional psychological help.

The cases reported so far are few. Those most carefully studied have shown that the child is reacting to such family difficulties as the death of a parent, the arrival of another child, or some other serious family dislocation beyond the youngster's ability to handle.

Dentists often say that the mouth is a mirror which reflects bodily health or disease. It can also reflect the state of mental health.

The individual who takes no part in community activities, who fails to support community institutions, deprives himself as well as others of the benefits of community action. Support of civic and philanthropic activities and institutions provides the services and facilities which no individual can supply but which every citizen at some time may need.
