Citizens' group uncovers 'secret case' in fight with state

naval maneuver. Below left, Beetle Bailey shares his freckles with Lorraine Myersson. He is one of the more popular requests. Below right, Robin Zawislak watches the master at work. In about two minutes, she'll have a finished tattoo and the next one on line will move in.

Poolside body painter Beierle tattoos local children

By RAY BARTO

"Here comes the tattoo man, quick, line up by the bench"... "Hey Joel Do me first"... "I want a Beetle Bailey"... "I want a Snoopy!" Anyone who has been at the Mountainside Community Pool in the past two or three years knows what this is all about. It's just Joe, the tattoo man, arriving with his pens and markers for another day of recreational art at the poolside.

His driver's license says his name is Joseph Beierle, but ask any youngster at the pool and he'll tell you it's really just plain Joe. "I guess I've made about a thousand of these in the past two or three years," he said. Sometimes, before he arrives at the pool, there is a line forming at the bench or on the side of the hill. Most of the children don't even need the card he carries, showing what characters he can do. They know just which tattoo they want, and they always get it.

With such popular cartoon strip characters as Snoopy and Beetle Bailey, he can't make any mistakes. "They catch me if I leave a detail out, or if I use the wrong color," Beierle said. "If they think the nose should be longer or the suit should be green, they let me know about it."

WHEN HE ISN'T painting tattoos, Beierle enjoys sculpting, painting in oils and building little objects out of wood scraps. "If I could paint the way he does, I would never stop," said Mrs. Beierle. "Yet his work has nothing to do with art or drawing." Beierle is an employee of Ballantine Breweries in Newark.

He used to drive a delivery truck but it was giving him ulcers, so now he works inside. The popularity of his hobby is evident at the pool. There are apples and horses and Snoopys painted on every member of the pool under 18 years old, and some over. Each tattoo takes about two minutes to draw, and under Joe's masterful hand, the arms and stomachs and chests of the youngsters become colorful enough to rival any sailor in the Navy.

Beierle grinned and recalled, "I guess every kid in town has had a tattoo at one time or another in the past few years."

His friendship with the little people doesn't end at the pool. According to his wife, "At home, kids line up in the driveway and wait for him. They play ball or just run around in the yard."

"As long as he confines his tattooing to the younger set, I think it's great, but as soon as they start looking a little too old for the cartoon characters, I'm putting my foot down," she said with an obvious chuckle.

Mrs. Beierle mentioned that they have no children. That's all in the way you look at it, you could say they have several hundred.

School's computer proves unbeatable as gaming 'house'

The computer programming class at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, took a gamble during summer school and it paid off -- for the computer.

Instructor Richard Fleischer and his students programmed their IBM 1620 computer to play some games of chance, including black jack, dice and roulette, with them.

"Programming the computer to act as the 'house' in a game of chance is more complex than programming it for straight math problems. Therefore, this method becomes a helpful tool in the course," Fleischer said.

"For one thing," he said, "there are more options involved. The computer -- or the house -- won every time. In Las Vegas, the player at least has a chance of winning."

In the dice game for instance, the computer was able to keep track of its winnings and the player's losses. In black jack, it was able to "deal" to as many as six players at a time.

The students also programmed a "one-arm bandit" or slot machine. Instead of coming up with lemons and oranges, the computer flashed number combinations.

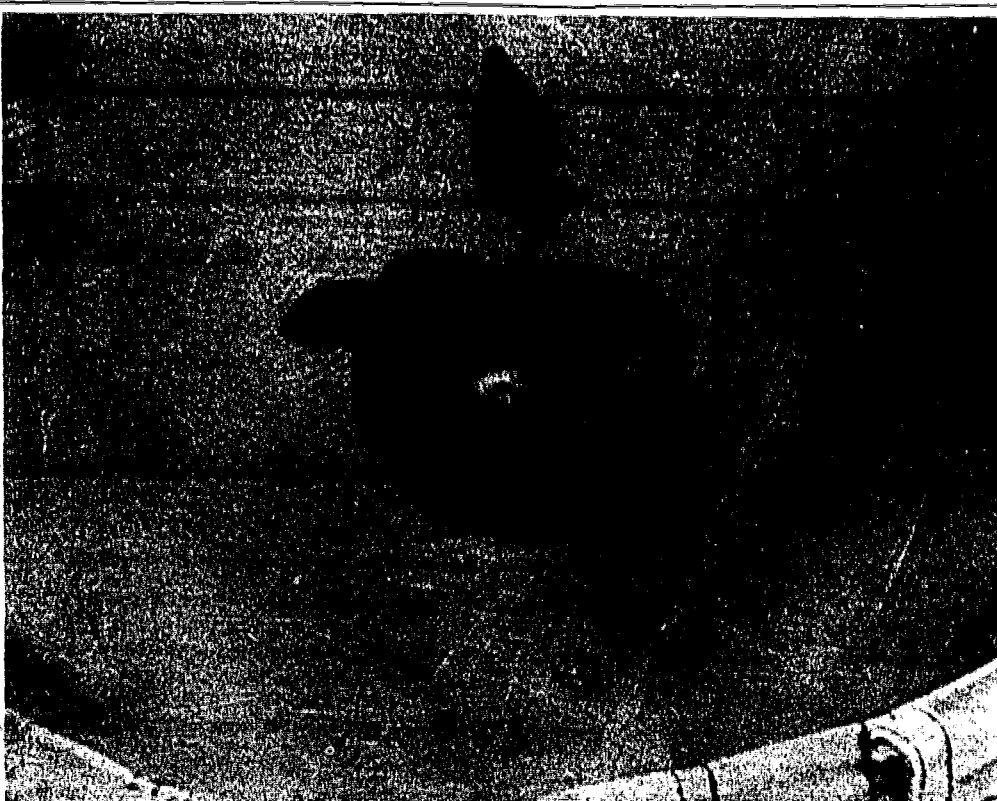

Several popular games were also programmed, including a numerical game called Nim and another called Instant Insanity.

Taking part in the summer course, of which gambling programming played just a part, were Benjamin Shain and Paul Lacko of Clark, Peter Newman and Judy Steinhart of Springfield and Sandy Junker and Curtis Carnes of Mountainside.

MCP diving team beats Beacon Hill

The Mountainside Community Pool diving team maintained its first place standing in the Union County Summer League by defeating the Beacon Hill diving team of Summit by a score of 37-19. The competition was held at the Beacon Hill Swim Club in Summit on Aug. 4.

Taking first places for Mountainside were Barbara Ludd and Lenny Stejk in the 13-17 year age group; Leslie Keating, 11-12; and John Irwin and Denise O'Donnell, 10-and-under; second place winners were Harry Wright, 11-12; and Susan Skogtew, 10-and-under; Donna O'Donnell placed third in the 11-12 group.

Undefeated MCP team places first in its league

Saturday the MCP swimmers ended another busy week in their schedule by defeating Manor Park of Westfield, 191-46. This victory gave them an undefeated season in regular league competition and the Union County Swim League Championship for the second consecutive year.

Another group of swimmers stayed behind at their own pool to host a meet with Warrenbrook Swim Club. Unfortunately, MCP lost this special meet, 139-107.

Working backwards in the schedule, Friday saw a group journeying to Staten Island to compete in the Richmond County Country Club relay carnival. There were only nine events that day, and MCP dominated the meet by taking five firsts, one second, and one fourth.

Further back in the week, MCP played host to the Hillside Swim Club of Staten Island to the first of two meets for this summer. MCP emerged victorious once again, turning back the visitors, 169-63.

Some new pool records were established in the Hillside meet. The first record fell in the first event of the evening, The 15-17 boys' freestyle relay team from Mountainside, consisting of Don Wagner, Dave Wagner, John Cole and Jim Balog, finished the 200-meter course in one minute 59 seconds, beating an MCP record of 2:02.8.

Event 11, the 15-17 boys' 50 M breaststroke event, was taken by a Hillside swimmer, Peter Martino, in 36.0, beating Don Wagner's mark of 38.0. Gary Budge of MCP broke his own mark of 39.9 for the 50-M breaststroke event for boys 13-14, by finishing in 37.1.

The 11-12 boys' freestyle relay team from MCP, consisting of Mike Leist, Keith Kanakis, Dana Levitt and Richard Coe, set a new mark of 2:21.2, to beat the old time held by an MCP team of 2:22.2. The 13-14 boys' freestyle relay team from MCP wasn't to be undone. They set a new mark of 2:06.2, to better the old record of 2:13.1.

Jim Balog of MCP, swimming in the backstroke event for 15-17 boys, bettered Bob Taylor's old mark of 37.3 by finishing in 34.7.

THE RESULTS of all the week's activities follows:

MCP vs. HILLSIDE SWIM CLUB, Staten Island.

Path of 78 was hushed 10 years ago

Committee hears facts in Berkeley Heights

The Methods Study Committee of the Citizens to Preserve Mountainside has uncovered a case in which the state Department of Transportation tried to keep "secret" the path of a proposed highway through a nearby community until it was too late for the town to do anything about it.

The incident occurred 10 years ago when the state was first laying plans for Rt. 78, according to John H. Palmer Jr., chairman of the Methods Study Committee.

Berkeley Heights was fighting at the time to get the state to contribute money for the widening of Mountain Avenue at the intersection of Diamond Hill Road. In working on the project, Palmer said, township officials "stumbled on" the state's plans to run Rt. 78 right through the center of the community.

"The state definitely tried to keep it a secret," Palmer said, "and that's going to be in my report" to CTFM chairman Ed Kuebler and the CTFM executive committee.

CONSIDERING the state's clandestine attitude about the highway through Berkeley Heights, Palmer said "it might behoove us" to be suspicious of any Department of Transportation activities instead of "letting them lull us into a sense of false security and then 'boom' we're at it again."

The Methods Study Committee is charged with the responsibility of examining methods and techniques used by other communities to forestall or alleviate construction planned by the state highway department.

The CTFM is organized to fight the state's plans for a cloverleaf interchange at Rt. 22 and New Providence road which include an overpass over the highway. The plans have been interpreted here as a first step toward making New Providence road a major artery between Rt. 22 and the new Rt. 78.

Palmer and an aide, Mrs. Marilyn Webb, disclosed the information about the Berkeley Heights experience at a meeting of the Methods Study Committee Tuesday night at Palmer's home.

Mrs. Webb and Palmer obtained the information

Two in parked car arrested, fined on narcotics charges

Two young men were arrested Tuesday at 3 p.m. on charges of possession or use of narcotics, according to a Mountainside police report. John W. McClay, 23, of Belmont, Calif., and Ernesto Mortarotto, 25, of Astoria, N.Y., were taken into custody by Patrolmen Joseph Lobl and Herman Hafekens after the officers spotted the car in the Mountainside business center with the two men and two girls inside.

A search of the vehicle revealed a quantity of marijuana, police said. McClay, the owner and driver of the car, was also charged with having no license or registration in his possession.

Both men appeared before Judge Jacob Bauer on Wednesday and were each fined $150 plus $5 court costs, under a new state law which permits municipal magistrates to hear minor narcotics violations under the heading of disorderly persons regulations.

McClay was also fined $10 and $5 costs for each of the two traffic violations, to which he pleaded guilty. There were no charges against the girls.

Man fined $40 on '63 summons

Judge Jacob Bauer presided over Mountainside Municipal Court on Wednesday to hear traffic cases, one of which has been neglected since 1963.

Jimmy N. Hill of Elizabeth was issued a summons in March of 1963 for failing to report his change of address. He did not appear until last Wednesday. He was found guilty of the violation and was fined $10 and $5 court costs, plus $25 for contempt of court for not appearing when his case was scheduled to come before the bench.

Donald Martin of Summit, who had been found guilty earlier of driving while his license was suspended, was ordered released from the county jail where he was sentenced to serve 55 days in lieu of a $205 fine. The fine was paid by his mother, in full, and Martin was freed.

Girl Scout named to attend institute

Karen Van Dyke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Van Dyke of 1578 Brookside rd., Mountainside, has been selected by the Washington Rock Girl Scout Council to attend the 10th annual Brotherhood Youth Institute. Sponsored by the N.J. Region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the institute will be held Aug. 24-27 at the Peddie School in Hightstown.

Miss Van Dyke recently served as a camp living aide at Camp Blue Heron in Sparta, and has been active in council programs and competition for several years. She is a student at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, where she is entering her junior year.

PROFILE--Walter E. Ulrich

(This is another in a series of Profiles on candidates for office in this November's election.)

Direction has been Walter E. Ulrich's guide in his six years as a member of the Union County Board of Freeholders.

The 48-year-old Rahway resident, who is one of three carrying the GOP banner in this November's election for the county board, believes direction is essential in any work, but particularly in planning and operating county agencies. Long concerned with Union County's John Rummels Hospital in Berkeley Heights, Ulrich said the hospital developed "topsy turvy, with no specific direction." The county health facility, he said, started out as the Bonnie Burns tuberculosis sanitarium. The TB patients have since been transferred to state hospitals, opening up a large amount of space.

The new "direction" for the health care center is towards rehabilitation for Union County residents who need medical care, Ulrich noted that in the past few years "Rummels has developed into a full hospital with all the facilities so that it rendered more than the average nursing home, more than would be required by many of the aged people."

The freeholder, whose interest in the hospital stems from his chairmanship of the committee on public affairs and general welfare, said the services at Rummels "could be purchased at a more reasonable rate at outside facilities."

THE NEW DIRECTION of the hospital, he said, is geared to people who require "more serious services, including surgery, who do not fit into the category of general hospital patient or nursing home patient." Ulrich said the hospital will provide a place for the patient who "doesn't belong in a general hospital any longer but cannot receive proper care in a nursing home."

The aim of the center under guidelines developed by the Rummels Board of Managers and the freeholders, said Ulrich, "is to afford an area of care and treatment for a group of patients who normally have no place to go. It will be the job of the hospital to take people when the emergency care is completed." The hospital, he said, would rehabilitate patients. "We're not going to have long term patients. When they have reached their maximum level of rehabilitation, they'll be returned to nursing homes, home care or full productive activity."

The waiting list for admission to Rummels, according to Ulrich, is about 150. Planned is a 109-bed renovation, that help to provide more facilities at the Berkeley Heights health unit.

This is the first time direction has been established for where the hospital should go," said Ulrich. Current plans, he said, are designed to meet "the needs of Union County within the structure of the hospital to give the most care for the least possible cost."

WALTER E. ULRICH

ANOTHER COUNTY PROBLEM Ulrich is concerned with is narcotics. The Republican feels a three-pronged attack is necessary to combat narcotics addiction in the area. First, he noted, is education, which should "encourage those who have not taken drugs to stay away." The next step, Ulrich said, is to give an incentive to addicts to "kick the habit." The third part of his program is "rehabilitation, both psychological and medical."

"Addicts," he said, "are apt to be unstable." A program must be developed, he said, so that "once they get their feet on the ground they're not going to fall back."

Included in his suggestions is the formation of an educational speakers bureau which "could take the prevention message on a regularly scheduled basis to all of our schools as well as the public at large. In the field of rehabilitation I can see a program which would assist those who would qualify through professional evaluation for job placement so as to insure not only the vital incentive needed by the rehabilitated addict but a measure of assurance to the potential employer that his cooperation would be productive and not a regrettable experience."

Ulrich has had an active interest in politics since he was 12. His father served as councilman and mayor of Cliffside Park, where Ulrich was a member of the municipality's Republican committee.

IN 1949 ULRICH moved to Rahway, where he

A MUSING from the desk

The right to protest is being taught to America's young children. I don't mean just those in the teen bracket, but those who make up the sub-teen population.

My daughter came home the other day from an enjoyable day at the summer day camp she attends with about half of the affluent suburban children her age from our town. It's an expensive way to get rid of the kids for the summer but you can't let them sit home helping their mother or reading, while the kid down the block is away.

"We're having a Hippie Protest at camp," she said, bounding into our suburban castle looking over a row of identical suburban castles.

"What's a Hippie Protest," I asked, as I hoisted the inevitable bag of garbage to my shoulders.

"My group is protesting at camp and I have to make a sign," the 11-year-old genius said.

"Were they protesting the war in Vietnam, poverty, the ABM? I was afraid to ask because I knew she was going to make me do some research on the subject."

I tried to remember whether I still had the Sunday New York Times around, or had I wrapped the garbage in it. I remembered that Time magazine had an article about the ABM and I could probably give her some facts about Vietnam.

I believe in the right to protest and I was glad these youngsters are aware of the world around them -- the people and the issues.

"I think it's a good idea the camp is giving you the opportunity to protest because in this country everyone has the right to dissent. It's the American way," I said, patriotically.

"Are you going to protest against the Vietnam war?"

"No," she said.

"The poverty that you can see right in Newark?"

"No," she said.

"Would you believe the ABM issue?"

"I don't know what the ABM is, so the answer is no," she said.

"So, what are you going to protest against, my little suburban bundle of expensive tastes? I asked hopefully, reaching for the gin and vermouth.

"Toilet paper," she said.

"TOILET PAPER?" I asked.

"Toilet paper," she said.

"My group wants softer toilet paper," she said.

Where have I gone wrong, I ask?

Funeral services were held last weekend for F. Eugene Walton, 73, of 1620 Skypor dr., Mountainside, a former Roselle Council president, who died last Thursday in the Ashbrook Nursing Home, Scotch Plains.

Mr. Walton was a Republican councilman in Roselle from 1942-1956, and served as police commissioner from 1946 to 1956. As a police commissioner he reorganized the department and began a police reserve which is still in existence. He was council president in 1947 and 1956.

Born in New York, Mr. Walton moved to Mountainside from Roselle when he resigned. He was a stockbroker 20 years with Winslow Cohn and Stetson, Inc., Newark.

He was a member of the Colonia Country Club.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. G. Vera Walton; a brother, A. Chester of Blairstown, and a sister, Mrs. A.S. Pfeil of Cutchogue, N.Y.

Numerals for Johnstone

Blakely Johnstone of Mountainside was among 69 freshmen to receive athletic numerals at Leigh University in Bethlehem, Pa. He was awarded his numeral for his achievements on the freshman baseball team.

quickly became involved in GOP politics as a party committeeman. In the mid-1950's he was elected to Rahway City Council, a post which he held for 10 years. Six years ago, Ulrich was successful in his race for freeholder. He is running for his third term this fall.

Born in New York City, Ulrich was raised in Jersey City and Cliffside Park. After graduating from Lincoln High School in decidedly Democratic Jersey City, Ulrich entered Catawba College in Salisbury, N.C. He later transferred to Columbia University in New York City. World War 2 interrupted his academic career, however, and Ulrich enlisted in the Army. A year later he was commissioned as a second lieutenant. He rose to the rank of captain and commanded the 106th Evacuation Hospital Medical Detachment in Europe. The detachment was a field hospital which often operated as close as one mile from the line of battle. He served in four major battle campaigns. His unit received a meritorious service citation.

After the war he enrolled at Johns Hopkins Law School in Baltimore, where he was awarded his bachelor of laws degree in 1948. After graduation he was employed by the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Co. in Newark as a claim and legal department supervisor. He served there for 16 years. In 1964 Ulrich was appointed manager in the law firm of Stevens and Mathias in Newark.

tion last week in a meeting with Arthur Manners, a Union County freeholder and former mayor of Berkeley Heights. Palmer praised Manners for giving an "excellent" report on Berkeley Heights' successful fight against the state's plans to put Rt. 78 through that town.

ULRICH AND HIS wife, the former Bernice M. Janssen of Worthington, Minn., have two children: Walter Jr., 23, who is serving with the U. S. Marines, and a daughter, Marilyn Elisabeth, 21.

The freeholder is a boating enthusiast. Until recently he and his family traveled up and down the coast and up the Hudson for vacations rather than rent a cottage at the shore or in the mountains.

Ulrich, an active member of the Zion Lutheran Church in Rahway, is a member of American Legion Post 5 in Rahway, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Watching Power Squadron, the Law Managers Association and the Franklin-Madison Association of Homeowners, a civic group in Rahway.

Although he holds those memberships, he is not an office holder in the groups, he said, because of his position as freeholder. Ulrich's views of public office prohibit too much outside activity.

"Politics is running for office," he said, but "holding office is to represent and be responsible to the people."

Bank elects new officer

The Suburban Trust Company of Westfield has announced the election of James H. Long as assistant vice-president. He will work out of the treasurer's office in Cranford.

Long comes to Suburban Trust Company from the First State Bank of Union, where he served for two years as auditor. His previous banking experience included the Perth Amboy National Bank, Banker's Trust Company and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

Long is a native of Long Island City, Queens, and was graduated from high school there in 1957. He attended New York University and is now studying at Rutgers University. He presently lives at Laurence Harbor and is married to the former Jane Patetta of Union.

Still time for Y camp

David R. Cotten, executive of the extension and camping division at the Summit Area Y, this week announced there are still some openings for boys at Camp Speers and for girls at Camp Eljabar. The camps are operated by the Central Atlantic Area Council of YMCAs and are located in the Pocono Mountains.

The camps have been serving youth from Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights, Springfield, Millburn and Short Hills and other New Jersey communities for more than 20 years. The activities include boating, canoeing, swimming, overnight trips, crafts, fishing, archery, campfires, riding and nature programs.

A FEMININE LOOK

(Commentary on a Study Mission from the Atlantic to the Pacific but across the USSR)

by TRUDINA HOWARD

Twelfth in a Series
IRKUTSK ON THE IRKUT
"We have two practicing Russian Orthodox churches and one Baptist church," said our In-Tourist guide rather pointedly as we toured through Irkutsk, the sixth stop of our Study Mission trip through the USSR.

The statement surprised a number of our members and the guide proceeded to take us to one of the Orthodox churches to make sure we believed it.
It was quite a lovely little church with a ceiling and dome of beautiful unbelievable blue. The tint of blue was the pale, soft blue of the nicest summer sky you can think of. Several very old women who were caretakers of the church, were guarding the door and did not want to let us enter because a member had died and the body was lying before the altar. They eventually relented and let us in but they were uneasy. So we gently wandered about gazing at the little jewel of a church and did not stay long in deference to their concerns.

The church was empty save for us. It was also impeccably clean. Icons graced the walls, and an unattended coffin stood toward one side of the altar. It seemed to be a very small, old-fashioned coffin, made of wood, and was not quite the usual oblong, but shaped more as an Egyptian sarcophagus might be, broad at one end and narrow at the other. It was not covered by a lid but by a cloth.

The old women wandered about dusting and straightening things, but always keeping a watchful eye on us. They were dressed in drab long dresses with frayed sweaters, "babushkas" on their heads and great clumsy, heavy, oxford-type shoes.

"THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT PERMITS people to follow a religion if they so desire," the guides told us, and even our own Uz-Becky from Seattle told us of a practicing synagogue which she had found in Moscow and visited. "They told me they had freedom of worship," she reported. Yet it was at this time that rumors were flying around in the U.S. of Soviet harassment of Jews, and the rabbi of this synagogue was booted in New York for saying there WAS freedom of worship in Moscow. "That is why I wanted to find a synagogue," Becky said, "to see for myself if they could operate freely, and as far as I could judge, they could, and both young and old were there. They even said that on one happy holiday, the street by the synagogue was roped off and the Moscow police were sent to keep the cars out so the celebration could go on undisturbed." Becky had quite a time at that synagogue. One of the men even proposed! Later in speaking with some Baptists, some other of our members were told that there are 5,000 practicing Baptist churches in the USSR, that five services a week are held with no problems, and that the ministers are paid by the state!

But they were also told that nowhere is religion TAUGHT, or encouraged. There are no youth meetings, no Sunday schools, no Bibles in circulation, no Bibles in the kiosks to buy, so "it would seem we are not supposed to spread it," our informants said, "but within families we are able to pass religion along." Perhaps, was the inference, there is an "underground church." Two years ago, there were 1.1 million Baptists in the USSR, Today there are 500,000, we were told.

THERE ARE 430,000 PEOPLE in Irkutsk, the city, and about two and a half million in the Irkutsk area which is part of the Russian Federation yet like an island way off in the sea of Siberia. Eighty percent of these people are white Caucasian Russians while the aboriginals of the area are of Mongol blood and nomads called Buryats.

The city is 140 miles from the Mongolian border and lies at the confluence of the Angara and Irkut Rivers. (What do you know, there ARE other rivers besides the Volga!) The Angara River is a large one and farther north it is the site of the new huge dam at Bratsk which we were later to visit, but the poor little Irkut River can't claim anything except inspiring a name.

Irkutsk is rather a provincial looking city, few cars, few office buildings, but it is pleasant. It has beautiful trees and flowers, lovely parks and fountains and an inspiring countryside. All this despite a positively uncivilized weather. The average temperature in January is MINUS 13 degrees Fahrenheit and every once in a while it dips down further to a jolly minus FORTY! No wonder wages in Siberia are about three times higher than in European USSR. In the entire year, only 80 to 84 days are above freezing.

ON THE DAYS OF OUR VISIT to Irkutsk in early July we were blessed with temperatures in the simmering eighties. It was refreshingly cool for us compared to what we had been having—and we went on a picnic.

It was an honest-to-goodness picnic in an honest-to-goodness forest, and one of our men even came back with a tick and another with a mosquito bite. Some common denominator! How can a tick or a mosquito live through that winter? We drove about 60 miles over a road that was paved but it had many questionable areas. Is it any wonder? How can a ROAD live through that winter?

We arrived at last at a deserted wooded area of Siberian pine, birch, aspen, maple, and the like, with a large field of daisies, buttercups, clover and luscious other wildflowers near it. There was not one piece of poison ivy though. The first thing we did was follow our guide's example and make a batch of daisy chains out of those thriving daisies and then, with crowns on all our heads, help the cook and his assistants bring the cooking gear and food from the bus.

The cook and his friends had been wood-

THE LOVELY LITTLE CHURCH in Irkutsk with the beautiful blue dome. It is a practicing Russian Orthodox church called the Church of The Holy Cross. There was no one in the church when we visited it and no cars on the four-lane street in front of it either. Irkutsk has an envious traffic situation: hardly any cars.

SOME OF THE OLD WOMEN who guarded and cared for the Church of the Holy Cross in Irkutsk. The woman in the center background is a member of our party and the others seemed to be German tourists.

away from the Hotel Irkutsk to do the picnic lunch for us, and as soon as the gear was at hand, the cook went to work. First he put wine in a small spring nearby; then from a tree hung a leather pouch with a spigot which was filled with water for hand washing, then he built a fire, filled the samovar and began cooking.

There were no hot dogs and no hamburgers but it was a smashing success. There were meats and balones and hams and hard-boiled eggs and tomatoes and olives etc, etc, etc, and a sort of a stew. There was no Coke either—never saw one Coke in all of the USSR—but there was the wine and ugh, kvas, Kvas is the Russian answer to Coca Cola or Pepsi and is a soft drink of water, bread, hops and sugar fermented—and it tastes that way.

Even so, the picnic was a success. It was a delightful time. (And there WERE ants to make it all authentic.)

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

READERS WRITE ABOUT STIGMA AND MENTAL ILLNESS

Are we still casting stigma upon those who have or have had a mental illness?

Readers' letters and comments are most helpful in preparation of these articles for Mental Health Matters because they forcefully call to attention specific human problems which may too often be overlooked. One of these is the matter of attaching stigma and shame to a past or present victim of mental disorders.

A reader writes of difficulties a member of the family suffered. As a consequence of having been stricken with mental illness while in high school, he was looked down on and jobs were denied him. He finally moved to another town, where he obtained and successfully held down a good job.

Expressing the heartfelt wish that the stigma of mental illness could be done away with and that "everyone would accept it as any other disease," our reader correctly says that most of the mentally ill "get well or can be greatly helped."

"If society doesn't treat them right and let them work as other individuals who have been sick and got well, we will always be in the dark ages," the reader adds.

Writing of the interest in these articles, another reader tells of the history of mental illness in a family and some of the many problems that beset them.

While pointing out the difficulties in finding solutions to individual cases, such as getting job rehabilitation services, the writer was emphatic in the viewpoint that we are not going backward, but forward.

"Thank God for the progress made in helping the mentally ill," the writer said. Although there is, unfortunately, still some stigmatizing associated with mental illness, progress is also being made against it, and attitudes and opinions are changing for the better.

Each of us can play a part in advancing this progress by learning facts and replacing the superstitions, fables, and fables about mental illness with true information based on today's knowledge. There is a very real challenge to and opportunity for all of us in pitting knowledge and understanding of mental illness against neglect and ignorance.

A GREAT BANK TO GROW WITH

1st Quarter Profits Rose Sixty Percent at 1st State Bank

UNION, N.J. -- First-quarter profits of The First State Bank of Union rose 60 percent from $84,000 last year to $136,000, it was announced today by Frank M. Pitt, president. The pre-tax profit was 53 cents for the period ending March 31, an increase of 21 cents over 32 cents for the corresponding quarter a year ago. The per-share earnings are based on 255,966 shares outstanding at the end of 1968.

Pitt said that prospects for the year were good, although he did not expect results for the last three quarters to sustain the pace of the first three months.

The First State Bank president said non-recurring expenses in connection with the change of name that has been approved by shareholders would depress earnings later in the year. Additionally, Pitt pointed out, The First State Bank has applied to the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance for permission to establish branch offices in other parts of New Jersey's banking district number two, which includes Union County. "If any of these should be approved this year," he said, "the expenses of launching new branches would necessarily serve to cut into our profits for 1969."

1st State Bank Moves Into Top 1000

NEW YORK -- The First State Bank of Union moved into the top 1,000 banks in the nation, according to the American Banker magazine's annual roll call. The American Banker issue published February 25 indicated that the Union, New Jersey bank jumped from 1056 in 1967 to 981 in 1968.

The First State Bank, which was opened in 1953, has moved steadily upwards to its position in the top 1,000 banks. Its assets at the end of 1968 were $52,820,742.03, an increase of $7,020,315.06 over the 1967 figure of $45,800,426.97.

Stockholders Approve Split Of Bank Stock

Stockholders of the First State Bank of Union have approved a 2-for-1 split of the bank's common stock. The action was taken at a special stockholder meeting. Stockholders also approved a board of directors recommendation to double the number of authorized shares from 125,663 to 251,326.

The stock split will be effective immediately with distribution of the new shares to take place in November.

The First State Bank paid stock dividends of 10 per cent in 1959, three per cent in 1961, 1964 and 1965, and 10 per cent in 1967. In addition to cash dividends each year since 1956.

3-Month Net Up 62 P.C. At Union's First State Bank

First quarter profits of The First State Bank of Union rose 62 per cent, from $84,000 last year to $136,000, it was announced today by Frank M. Pitt, president.

The pre-tax profit was 53 cents for the period ending March 31, an increase of 21 cents from the 32 cents for the corresponding quarter a year ago. The per-share earnings are based on 255,966 shares outstanding at the end of 1968.

Pitt said prospects for the year were good, although he did not expect results for the last three quarters to sustain the pace of the first three months.

The First State Bank president said non-recurring expenses in connection with the change of the bank's name would depress earnings later in the year. Additionally, Pitt pointed out, The First State Bank has applied to the commissioner of banking and insurance for permission to establish branch offices in other parts of New Jersey's Banking District 2, which includes Union County. "If any of these should be approved this year," he said, "the expenses of launching new branches would necessarily serve to cut into our profits for 1969."

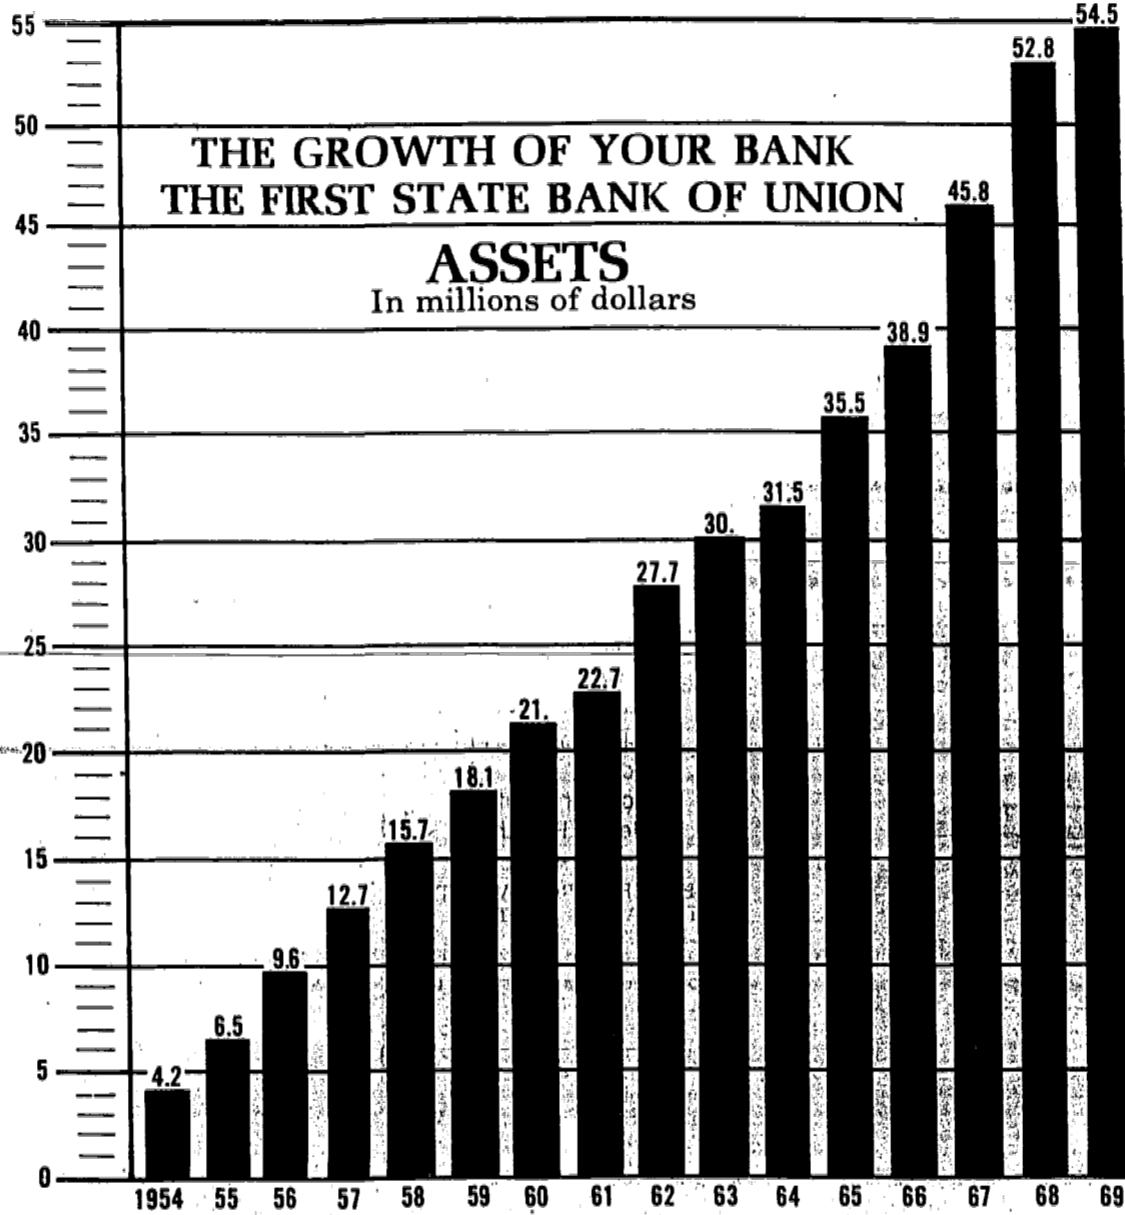

First State Bank increases dividend

The board of directors of The First State Bank of Union has voted to increase the bank's annual cash dividend from 90 cents to $1.00 per share. Frank M. Pitt, president, said the first dividend under the new rate -- a 50-cent payout -- would be paid on July 19 to stockholders of record as of June 28. It will represent the 16th consecutive cash dividend paid by the bank.

Pitt said earnings for the First State Bank were "substantially higher" than in 1967. He estimated that year-end results would be 15 percent higher were $2.20 per share. The after-tax earnings were $2.20 per share. Last year, he pointed out, The First State Bank earnings were "slightly depressed" because of extraordinary non-recurring costs attendant to the opening of a new branch in Union's Five Points section. However, the new branch in less than 15 months has begun "to contribute to the bank's overall profitability," Pitt added.

Record earnings are reported by First State Bank

The First State Bank of Union has reported record first-half earnings of $254,000, an increase of 58 percent over the $159,000 earned in the first half of 1968.

Frank M. Pitt, president, also said that the bank's assets jumped $9,000,000, from $45,800,000 last year to a new high of $54,800,000 for the first six months of this year.

Total operating income was up from $1,300,000 to $1,500,000 for the first half. The per-share earnings increased from 63 cents for the first six months of 1968 to 98.3 cents for the comparable period this year. The figures are based on approximately 251,000 shares outstanding during the first half of 1968 and approximately 258,000 shares outstanding during the first six months of this year.

Pitt said deposits grew to $48,800,000 from $41,200,000 last year. Loans outstanding increased to $32,500,000, a jump of $5,200,000 from the $27,300,000 on the books June 30, 1968.

Pitt said the pace of the record earnings would not necessarily be sustained during the second half. "The earnings for the first six months reflect the increased profitability of our data processing services operation, as well as the continued upward thrust of business at the Five Points branch, our newest office, which opened only two years ago," he said.

The chart above shows the consistent pattern of remarkable growth enjoyed by The First State Bank of Union over the past 16 years.

We are particularly proud that this growth has accelerated over the past five years, a period during which assets have nearly doubled.

COME GROW WITH US

Union Bank Plans 3 More Branches

The First State Bank of Union plans to open temporary branch offices in Clark, New Providence and Middlesex locations, as approved last week by the N.J. Department of Banking and Insurance.

The Clark location will be on Raritan Road near Westfield Ave., the New Providence site is 1253 Springfield Ave. and the Middlesex office will be on Route 28 in the vicinity of Garden Place.

The new branches will bring to a total of 15 the number of First State Bank locations.

Union Bank Considering Expansion

The First State Bank of Union is considering taking advantage of the newly liberalized New Jersey banking laws, Frank M. Pitt, president, told shareholders in his annual message.

Pitt, who described the adoption last year of the new laws as "the most significant development in New Jersey banking," said First State Bank is exploring the possibilities of expansion under the new regulations.

He also said approval of legislation permitting the creation of bank holding companies and allowing branching on a three-district basis would prove a boon to medium-sized banks as well as to the larger financial institutions.

He said that the old regulations had "stifled expansion and contributed to a climate in which meaningful growth was nearly impossible."

Pitt pointed out that the new regulations would permit banks to expand beyond their home counties, thus contributing to their growth. At the same time, he continued, smaller banks will be able to work together through the formation of holding companies that will contribute to their overall growth.

"We at the First State Bank are confident that we will be in the forefront of this activity as New Jersey begins a new era in banking."

Exams reminder issued by IRS

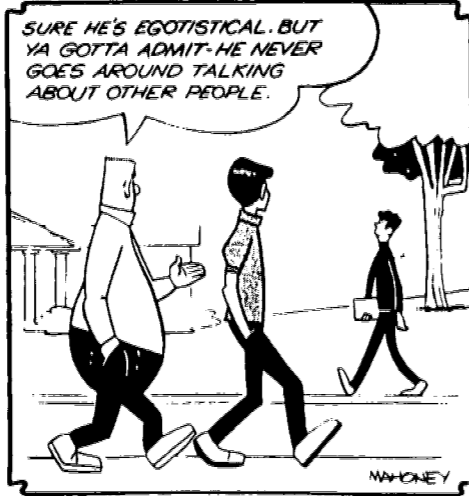

Roland H. Nash Jr., district director of Internal Revenue for New Jersey, has reminded persons who plan to take the 1969 Special Enrollment Examination that applications must be filed by August 31.

The examination, which will be given in the Newark Federal Building on Sept. 29 and 30, must be passed by all tax practitioners, who are not attorneys or certified public accountants, before they are permitted to practice before the Internal Revenue Service.

Application blanks are available in Room 103 of the IRS District Office at 970 Broad St., Newark.

Completed applications should be mailed to the Director, Audit Division, IRS, 1111 Constitution Avenue N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224. Each application must be accompanied by a check or money order for $25 payable to the Internal Revenue Service.

'Minigrant' applications coming in

Teachers seeking aid for innovative projects

The Teacher Innovation Program of the State Department of Education is entering its second year. Applications already are rolling in from teachers seeking to secure a "minigrant" to help them carry out a creative project.

The State Legislature has appropriated $100,000 to extend the program into the 1969-70 school year. In the program, teachers planning an innovative project may apply to the Department of Education for a grant of up to $1,000.

Dr. Thomas H. Adams, director of the program, has announced that deadlines for applications for this year are Sept. 3 and Oct. 15. He said the deadlines were set earlier than last year so that the grants can be awarded as early as possible in the school year.

Last year, some 400 projects were submitted for approval, Adams said, and 108 of them were approved and funded by the department. For the most part, the projects submitted very nearly approached the $1,000 limit on each project. However, some projects requested as little as $300 and a few of these were funded.

Adams said that a considerable number of applications already had been received and that he expected the total to exceed that of last year.

"The department has not established program priorities with respect to the types of projects desired," Adams said. "Each project is considered on its individual merits and uniqueness. The spirit of the Teacher Innovation Program is to encourage a genuine 'grass-root' approach to innovative educational experiences."

"Because of the low level of funding, minimal technical assistance is offered by the state, it is our hope that the prime source of ideas generated through this program will be the local district using its own resources.

Adams said that many of the projects undertaken last year had made an impact on the school program and were being retained by the local district as part of the curriculum. For example, he said, a Midland Park project experiment in "mini-course" electives, featuring no grading, is being added to the curriculum for the coming year.

Prof digs 'Harper Valley PTA'

Says country ditty gets down to nitty-gritty

BY DONALD S. ROSSER,
NEW JERSEY EDUCATION ASSOCIATION
City dwellers rioted; the poor people demonstrated; students closed down their schools; but the biggest blow struck against "The Establishment" this year was a song entitled "Harper Valley P.T.A." So successful was this humorous piece of social criticism that at least one college professor is analyzing its deeper meanings.

"Doubtless, the underground syndrome to which Americans are particularly vulnerable is operating here," says Dr. John Jarolimiek, chairman of criticism and instruction at the University of Washington. That a "little nobody" could confront "one of society's most sacred institutions, the P.T.A. — and win — disarms the listener completely."

"Harper Valley's" success wasn't the music; it was just another country ditty, it wasn't the performer; Jeannie Riley had never had a real hit before. Undoubtedly, the reason for the record's popularity was the anti-establishment story it told.

In the lyrics, a junior high school student relates how her mother, a swinging young widow named Mrs. Johnson, "socked it to the Harper Valley P.T.A." after receiving a note signed by the P.T.A. secretary admonishing her for wearing skirts "way too high," "running around with men," and generally "going wild."

Putting on her briefest miniskirt, Misses Johnson rushes right down to the P.T.A. — conveniently then in session — to remind members of their own peccadilloes. One P.T.A. member had asked her for a date seven times. A P.T.A. wife used excessive amounts of ice whenever her husband was out of town. Misses Johnson even asks Mr. Baker, a pillar of society, to explain the suspicious circum-

"The discrepancy between what is preached and what is practiced comes through in a dramatic, plain-talk way," Dr. Jarolimiek comments. "This is precisely what young people have been telling us all our society — an attempt on the part of adults to embrace two or more value systems at the same time."

"Harper Valley" points up the "extraordinary scrutiny" that society focuses upon the unattached female, Dr. Jarolimiek notes. "It also reminds us of the low tolerance we have for the individual who just happens to conduct his life a bit differently from the conventional and generally accepted patterns."

The Old Testament advises: Let him who is without sin cast the first stone. Says Dr. Jarolimiek: "Isn't it sad that 2,000 years later we find precisely the same message again in such an unlikely spot as a meeting of the Harper Valley P.T.A?

Dems' Jamboree to be held Sept. 10

The Democratic State Committee's Jersey Jamboree will be held Sept. 10 at the National Guard Training Center in Sea Girt. It was announced this week by Salvatore A. Bon-tempo, Democratic State Chairman.

The Jamboree will be the party's principal fund-raising event and more than 3,000 supporters of former Governor Robert B. Meyner and the Democratic Assembly candidates are expected to attend. Tickets are $100 each, U.S. Senator Harrison A. Williams Jr. is general chairman of the Jamboree.

"Evidently, self-righteousness is a rather persistent and long-lasting characteristic of human behavior. This, along with the absolutely irresistible urge to stick one's nose into someone else's affairs (presumably in the interest of society), combine to make one somewhat optimistic that songs like 'Harper Valley P.T.A.' will be around for a long time."

College-bound vets get check warning

Several thousand veterans in college this fall will not get the GI education check they expect in November from the Veterans Administration, Administrator, Donald E. Johnson said this week.

Johnson said many who were enrolled in college last semester have failed to send in their end-of-term certification of attendance card, and cannot be paid in the upcoming school term until they do.

Administrator Johnson said the VA is also holding nearly a half million dollars worth of June GI Bill checks, which cannot be mailed until the attendance card reaches VA computers.

GI Bill college students who did mail in their attendance cards in June will get paid the new term allowances on time — but those who skipped mailing to VA the required card certifying that they had completed the spring term will not get paid until they straighten out their accounts with VA.

This can be done, Johnson said, by mailing in the 3 x 7 white card with a blue stripe across the top to the VA immediately. If the veteran has lost this Certification of Attendance card he should get in touch with the VA officer which has his records, and ask for another.

Symphony strikes up busiest season

Ambitious schedule leads to Carnegie Hall debut

The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra will make its New York City debut Jan. 14 in Carnegie Hall as the highlight of what will be the busiest season of public performances in its history.

Plans for the Carnegie Hall concert were announced by Joseph Leavitt, manager of the orchestra, who also outlined the full season of public appearances, all under the baton of Henry Lewis, the symphony's music director.

Marilyn Horne, world famous soprano and wife of Lewis, will sing with the New Jersey Symphony when it performs in New York. The same program, also with Miss Horne as soloist, will be given at Symphony Hall, Newark, four days earlier, on Saturday evening, Jan. 10.

The principal elements of the remainder of the season are these:

A highly active series of suburban concerts encompassing at least 17 dates in seven communities: Millburn, Montclair, Hackensack, Morristown, Summit, Westfield and Wayne. The dates in Wayne, Morristown, Westfield and Summit will mark the first time the orchestra has played in any of those communities.

A new series of four "Dollar Concerts" at Symphony Hall, at which most of the seats in the big hall, — which is the orchestra's home base — will be made available at one dollar each. This series is being undertaken, Leavitt said, to fulfill the determination of the orchestra's leadership to bring the Symphony's program to a broader audience, including many persons in the low income bracket who live in or near Newark.

Soloists for the coming season, besides Miss Horne, are to be Toshiya Eto, Berl Senofsky and Erick Friedman, violinists, and pianists Nerine Barrett and Anthony di Bonaventura. All are to appear at suburban concerts. One or more soloists also will probably be engaged for the Dollar Series in Newark.

Leavitt, who became manager of the Symphony only this June, noted that the 1969-70 season is late in its presentation to the public. This was the result of the four-month period during which the orchestra's management and union were seeking to settle a difference which had cut short the previous season and caused the cancellation of the concerts set for this summer at the Garden State Arts Center. A settlement was announced jointly by union and management on July 2.

THE NEW MANAGER NOTED also that besides embarking on the busiest schedule of public concerts in its history, the New Jersey Symphony plans during the coming season to engage in the broadest program of educational concerts. Leavitt said he is currently engaged in contacting school groups around the state in an effort to complete arrangements of this phase of the orchestra's upcoming schedule. All told, he said, the orchestra will perform some 60 times, counting public and student performances during the upcoming season, and summer activity following.

The program for the Carnegie Hall appearance, and the "Gala Preview" to be given in Newark four nights earlier, was the only one announced in detail. In it Miss Horne and the symphony will perform excerpts from two Rossini works, the Stages of Corinth and L'Italiana in Algeri, and from the opera Orfeo by Gluck. The Concerto Singers, a prominent New York choral group, will participate in the performances of the pieces from Orfeo and the Stages of Corinth. That chorus is directed by Abraham Kaplan.

The Dollar Series concerts are to take place on four weekend dates, one each in November, December, February and March. Specific dates are to be announced later.

A benefit concert is planned for either October 18 or 19 at Symphony Hall, the date to be determined by the availability of star performers who are to participate. Proceeds from this concert are to be dedicated to the support of the dollar series.

THE 17 SUBURBAN DATES break down as follows: Five Friday-Saturday night pairs of concerts in Montclair, and Millburn (an enlargement of the four Montclair-Millburn pairs scheduled for the past season). These are set for Oct. 24 and 25, Nov. 14 and 15, Dec. 5 and 6, Feb. 13 and 14 and March 6 and 7. They take place in the high schools of the two communities.

A Bergen County series, in Hackensack, the orchestra's first series there, is to take place at Orrie de Nooyer Auditorium. This is to consist of three Sunday evening concerts, on Oct. 26, Dec. 7 and Feb. 15. In each case the concert follows the Montclair-Millburn pairs. Single concerts in Morristown, Westfield, Summit and Wayne. The Wayne concert is to take place on Saturday, Nov. 1 at the Wayne Valley High School. The orchestra will play on Sunday Nov. 2 at Summit High School, Saturday Nov. 8 at Westfield High School and Saturday March 14 at Morristown High School. They were to have appeared this last spring in Westfield and Summit, but the controversy arising from the labor issue caused cancellation of both dates.

The five suburban series soloists are scheduled to appear according to this schedule: Eto is to perform at the Montclair-Millburn-Hackensack set on Oct. 24, 25 and 26, in Westfield Nov. 8, and again in Wayne and Summit, Miss Barrett is scheduled for the Montclair-Millburn pair on Nov. 14 and 15. Senofsky will appear at a Montclair-Millburn-Hackensack trio of concerts on Dec. 5, 6 and 7, and di Bonaventura is scheduled for a similar group of three on February 13, 14 and 15. Friedman also is to play three concerts, in Montclair and Millburn on March 6 and 7 and in Morristown on March 14.

The orchestra has plans to appear sometime next spring in a program to be sponsored by the North Jersey Cultural Council, with the Garden State Ballet also participating.

Lewis, who became the symphony's music director in 1968 will embark on this expanded schedule of activity after his return from a summer of guest conducting with leading orchestras in this country and abroad. On Aug. 17, he will conduct the Boston Symphony at the Berkshire Music Festival at Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass. He also will appear at the Hollywood Bowl in August. Earlier this summer he appeared with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra at the Meadow Brook Music Festival in Michigan and with the Royal Philharmonic of London for a concert there and for a recording session.

UAW backs vote for 18-year-olds, LUV head reports

The United Auto Workers recently endorsed the November referendum that calls for the 18-year-old vote, according to Roger Jacobs of 895 Douglas ter., Union, chairman of "Let Us Vote" (LUV).

Joel Jacobsen, director of community affairs for the UAW, said "the community action program of region nine of the UAW has endorsed the 18-year-old vote referendum." Jacobsen said the region is "urging our 50,000 auto workers in New Jersey and all their families to support the referendum when they vote."

Members of LUV, said Jacobs, are seeking support for a "yes" vote on the referendum. Members of the group are also looking for endorsements from civic and political organizations, private citizens, public officials and the candidates of both major parties in the November election.

Rep. Henry Helstoski (D-9th), whose son is LUV chairman in Bergen County, has supported the effort, saying he feels 18-year-olds "are capable now of taking a responsible part in determining our national future." Salvatore Bontempo, whose son is Morris County chairman of LUV, informed Jacobs that the Democratic platform for 1969 "includes strong support for a 'yes' vote" on what he termed a "vital question."

Navy offers college and commission

The Regular Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps (NROTC) offers the college-bound student a chance to earn a degree and a commission at the same time. The regular NROTC is a program designed to train career officers for the Navy and Marine Corps. The program includes payment by the Navy of tuition, educational fees, textbooks, uniforms and provides a $50 monthly subsistence allowance to its members for four years.

Selected candidates are enlisted in the U.S. Naval Reserve and are appointed midshipmen upon enrollment in college. The college majors which a candidate may undertake are many and only a few nontechnical professional majors are prohibited.

During the summer between college years, midshipmen participate in at-sea training periods which provide practical experience in naval operations and from which they receive many varied and rewarding experiences. Upon graduation, midshipmen may be commissioned as ensigns in the Navy or as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps.

Further information on the program may be obtained from the nearest Navy Recruiting Station listed in the telephone directory or from the Chief of Naval Personnel (Pers-86411), Department of the Navy Washington D.C. 20370.

Don't injure green thumbs Power mower hints offered

Power mower accidents this year alone will affect the future of hundreds of persons who get their feet or hands in the way of the rotating mower blades, a national safety expert warned this week.

"Almost everyone has read or heard about a few power mower mishaps involving well-known personages, but few persons realize how many of these accidents are occurring annually throughout our country," says Don Costa, safety director for the Allstate Insurance Companies.

"Although most power mowers appear harmless and are designed to operate safely, they are dangerous when misused," Costa warns. Lethal injuries are comparatively infrequent; however, the so-called minor injuries can be costly and, all too often, disabling. A mower can clip most objects, including toes or fingers, that get in its way. If the blade hits a stone or piece of glass, the object can be hurled with enough force to kill.

The primary danger of power mowers is direct contact with the blade. About one power mower injury in seven is an amputation.

"But while nearly half of all power mower accidents were cutting the grass when they were hurt, other injuries occurred in lifting the mower, trying to start the mower, removing foreign objects from the blades or taking off the grass catcher," Allstate's safety spokesman points out.

With increased use of power mowers, it is essential that the public be aware of the dangers involved in their operation. Allstate offers the following tips for power mower users:

1. Always disconnect the spark plug whenever you want to work on the underside of the mower, as well as when you are refueling.
2. Thoroughly inspect the lawn before beginning to mow and clear it of all sticks, stones, wire and other debris.
3. Never fill the tank indoors and never fill the tank when the engine is running or still hot.
4. Mow only when the grass is dry and never use a power mower with bare feet. Wear heavy shoes, preferably safety shoes, while working. Thousands of toes are amputated or mangled every year when feet slip under the blade housing.
5. Keep children out of the area you are mowing. They are likely to run into moving parts or against the hot exhaust pipe. Never let anyone get in line with the grass discharge.

6. Stop the motor whenever you leave the mower. Children are quick to try to operate the unattended mower. Allstate points out. Never give them a chance to get seriously hurt.

7. Learn how to disengage the clutch or stop the motor quickly in case of emergency.

8. Never allow youngsters or inexperienced persons to operate a power mower.

9. Cut grass sideways on hills and banks, not up and down.

10. Stand firmly behind the machine and stay in step with it. Don't run.

11. Do not use an electric power mower when grass is wet or when it's raining. Electric mowers should have the frame grounded through the cord.

12. Have your mower serviced annually by an expert.

Whyte hired as resource investigator

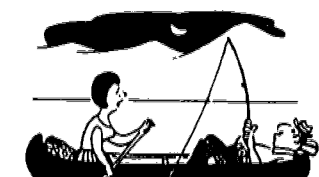

Author and conservationist William H. Whyte has been hired as a consultant to the New Jersey Commission on Open Space Policy. Whyte, author of "The Last Landscapes," began his duties with the unit Aug. 1.

The announcement was made by former State Senator John A. Waddington, chairman of the commission, in conjunction with Senator Wayne Dumont, Jr., (R-Hunterdon, Sussex, Warren), vice-chairman.

Waddington said the commission members are "delighted to have obtained Whyte's assistance, since the author's services are in high demand throughout the country. His name was mentioned by many of us as far back as last March. It's taken this long before he could clear up some of his other engagements and work with us," Waddington said.

Whyte, who is also a member of the American Conservation Association, will assist the commission in its effort to review, evaluate and coordinate all available studies and information relating to land use, open spaces and land and water resources in New Jersey.

Following the review, he is expected to point out areas in need of further investigation. If, however, it is determined that the information already compiled is sufficient, Whyte will advise and work with the commission in drafting recommendations for immediate action.

New Jersey farm brochure published by Public Service

A new edition of "The Riches of New Jersey," a 24-page booklet produced by Public Service Electric and Gas Company, has rolled off the presses.

The booklet has been hailed by Phillip Alampi, New Jersey Secretary of Agriculture, as a "truly beautiful tribute to New Jersey agriculture and the products of its farms."

Lavishly illustrated with original art and new color photographs of Garden State products, the publication features recipes using New Jersey asparagus, apples, eggs, cranberries, milk, potatoes, tomatoes, blueberries, and peaches. The book is now being distributed by Public Service.

"This concentrated effort on the part of our largest public utility to bring the importance of New Jersey agriculture to the attention of all New Jersey citizens deserves a heartfelt vote of thanks from every farmer in the Garden State," said Alampi. "As Secretary of Agriculture, I am delighted to lead the applause. Public Service has long been a supporter of the cause of agriculture in New Jersey, recognizing that our farms and their product are a valuable asset to the Garden State," said Alampi.

"Many outstanding examples of the firm's cooperation with the State Department of Agriculture and other agricultural agencies could be cited. Its home economics staff has long made prominent mention of New Jersey products and has used them in demonstrations and cooking schools before thousands of homemakers. Its Newark headquarters has frequently been the site of agricultural promotions jointly sponsored by the public utility firm and the State Department of Agriculture. Windows of its Newark and branch offices have been repeatedly used for agricultural displays.

"The new edition of 'Riches of New Jersey' is one more indication — and a most welcome one — of the interest Public Service has long displayed in the cause of agriculture and agribusiness."

A series of advertisements about the New Jersey products has been prepared by the company's advertising department.

ICBO offering courses in business operations

Malcolm L. Corrin, executive director of the Interacial Council For Business Opportunity of New Jersey, 24 Commerce St., Newark, has announced the fall semester courses in the ICBO educational program.

The courses will be given at the Rutgers Newark Law School and will start the week of Sept. 22. Record keeping, bookkeeping, basic business management and advanced business management will be given on successive nights. Each session is two hours, and 10 sessions complete the course. Certificates are given to those students who complete the requirements.

The courses are free and are given as a community service for minority groups to prepare them for a career in business. Prospective students can enroll by mail or by telephone by contacting Bernard H. Saperstein, education director, at the ICBO office, 24 Commerce St., Newark, at 622-4771.

Record keeping will instruct the entrepreneur, or would-be entrepreneur, in the hows and whys of records and their importance to the business man. Inventory records, pay-roll, bank checking account reconciliations, petty cash handling and budgeting will be discussed.

Bookkeeping will continue into profit and loss statements, balance sheets, T accounts, and other elements of bookkeeping theory and practice.

Basic business management discusses such questions as "Do I belong in business?", selecting a location, negotiating a lease, how to buy, how to sell, fraud protection and credit selling.

Advanced business management gets into the areas of borrowing money to expand your business, net worth, advertising, business law, insurance, investing, the stock market, business vocabulary and more sophisticated aspects of entrepreneurship. The ICBO is a voluntary organization formed to help minority group members to organize and operate their own businesses. Through the use of volunteers from the business community, applicants are given free one-to-one counseling in their specific business areas.

Christ Child Society schedules luncheon, card party for Oct. 6

The Christ Child Society of Summit completed plans for the annual "fall festival" luncheon and card party at a brunch last week at the home of Mrs. Walter Reilly, 7 Forest dr., Springfield. The benefit, featuring fall fashions from Bonwit Tellers, will be held at the Chanticleer, Millburn, on Oct. 6. Prizes will include a color TV, card table and chairs, hand-made needle point bag, Royal Doulton figurine, antique silver set and Shelton tea cart.

Christmas shoppers can complete their lists with purchases from the boutique. Items made by the members will include bags, waste paper baskets, tallies and score cards, paper and cloth aprons, stocking stuffers, christening bonnets made from bridal kerchiefs and monkeys dressed in gay vests.

All manner of homemade treats will be found at the gourmet table - cheese straws, calico jams, breads and boxes and boxes of our popular home made cookies. A new "taste test" will be miniature fruit cakes with hard sauce. Knitted baby sets, mittens, bed socks and doll sets will also be offered. Mrs. Alex Handy of Summit is general chairman of the festival. Her co-chairman is Mrs. Gerald O'Connor. Mrs. Thomas Mc Cluskey and Mrs. Joseph Lalco are chairmen from Springfield.

Mrs. George Williams of Summit, newly elected president, extended a special invitation to "Christ Child's many friends in Springfield" to attend this benefit for needy children.

Fleas can infest the home during summer season

Along with mildew, rust, fungus growth, ants and wasps, another summertime problem can be an infestation of fleas, reports Carolyn F. Yukus, Senior County Home economist.

This can happen with or without the presence of a dog or cat in the home. Although, normally, when pets are allowed outdoors more in the summertime, the chances are greater for them to pick up fleas.

Lawns can harbor fleas and can infest neighboring houses when either human or pet traffic is in and out.

Fleas are small wingless, jumping insects. The sides of their bodies are flattened which enables them to crawl between hairs.

Fleas must have a blood meal to complete their life cycle. The blood may come from cats, dogs or even man. After the meal, fleas are able to lay eggs on the body of their host. The eggs will drop to the floor or ground and hatch into small larvae that feed on any kind of organic matter.

Within two to three weeks the larvae change into blood-sucking adult fleas. With this life cycle it is quite possible for fleas to infest the house and furnishings for an indefinite time unless control measure are taken.

The first step in control is to kill the fleas on your pet. For this, you may use a commercial powder that contains pyrethrum, malathion or carbaryl for cats and for dogs you can also use rotenone.

Next, spray the sleeping box or basket and the surrounding area with a five-percent DDT solution.

For treatment of baseboards, carpets, or furniture that has become infested use DDT sprays or dust, in mild infestations, brush or spray a band of five percent DDT household spray on the floor along the baseboards. This treatment usually eliminates fleas in a few days.

In heavy infestations, distribute a fine layer of 10 percent DDT or five percent carbaryl dust over rugs.

It is a good idea to apply this dust just before retiring for the night. The next morning any rug area can be cleaned with a vacuum cleaner.

Regardless of which insecticide you use, wash your hands thoroughly after using and avoid any contamination of food, dishes or cooking utensils.

Storing steam irons

Store your steam iron in an upright position on the heel rest. This is important whether you leave the water in or remove it from the iron before storing. Keeping the iron upright will prevent chemical pitting or marring of the soleplate from moisture remaining in the iron.

Planning key to trip

Planning is one of the keys to a safe and pleasant trip. June Strelceki, Director of Motor Vehicles urges that before leaving on any trip you make sure your car is in good working order, all tires safe and that you have a full tank of gas. Advanced planning of the route and a careful review of all maps you plan to use is wise. Careful consideration should be given to where stops for food, fuel and lodging will be made. Make sure you are well rested before starting your trip.

N.J. jobless rolls up 6,900 in July to 149,400 total

Total unemployment in New Jersey rose by 6,900 to 149,400 from June to July, and the unemployment rate rose by 0.2 to 4.9 percent of the work force, according to estimates of the New Jersey Department of Labor and Industry. This increase resulted from an over-the-month expansion of 12,800 in the number of persons filing claims for unemployment insurance, which more than offset reduced joblessness among students and other non-insured workers.

The rise in claims was about 70 percent higher than the average June-July increase from 1963 to 1968. Most of it may be attributed to more unpaid vacations than usual during July as a result of plant shutdowns and production line changeovers in the manufacturing sector.

Compared with July 1968, the volume of unemployment edged upward by 5,900, and the rate by 0.1 percent. During July, 4,200 workers were involved in labor-management disputes, 2,400 of them from the chemical and electrical machinery industries.

From June to July, the rate of unemployment went up in seven labor areas, down in seven, and remained unchanged in one.

The Department reported that, in August, unemployment will begin its seasonal decline. In September, the withdrawal of summer job-seekers from the labor force and increased hiring by manufacturing firms will reduce unemployment further. Joblessness normally reaches its trough in October.

N. J. community aid programs are regional award winners

Two innovative community assistance programs of the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs have been named as regional winners in the 1969 Urban Development Inter-governmental Awards Program.

The program, sponsored by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD), seeks to promote cooperation among all levels of government and to recognize outstanding achievement in the field.

Also named as a 1969 regional winner was the State Urban Affairs Council, an independent agency created by Governor Richard J. Hughes in March to focus the attention and resources of New Jersey government on the problems of its urban areas.

Inspection Program, launched in November, 1968, makes use of local housing inspectors to carry out the major portion of the State's registration and inspection responsibilities. Under the Multiple Dwelling Health and Safety Act of 1967, the State is responsible for registering and inspecting an estimated 115,000 hotels, motels, and apartment buildings throughout New Jersey.

UNDER THE PLAN, each participating municipality receives a $10 credit from the Department for every hotel, motel and multiple dwelling which its local inspectors help to register. Later, the municipality receives an additional credit to cover the costs of each building it inspects for the State.

Money received from the credits enables the local governments to expand and upgrade their local inspection capacities. The Depart-

Thursday August 14, 1969 - ment's inspection force conducts inspections in municipalities not participating in the program.

GI Bill helped officials gain college education

Among the 11.4 million veterans who have received part or all of their education under the GI Bill are prominent U.S. government Administration officials, senators, congressmen, governors and noted jurists.

Paul M. Nugent, manager of the New Jersey VA Regional Office, Newark, disclosed on the 25th anniversary of the GI Bill that their beneficiaries include Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, Labor Secretary George P. Shultz, HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch, VA Administrator Donald E. Johnson and Associate Justice of the U.S. Supreme Court Byron R. White.

Also receiving education benefits were Civil Service Commission Chairman Robert E. Hampton and Office of Economic Opportunity Director Donald Rumsfeld.

Hailed by Rep. F. Bradford Morse of Massachusetts as "one of the greatest pieces of legislation ever enacted by Congress," the GI Bill continues to be of great assistance to returning Vietnam veterans, 60 percent of whom are attending institutions of higher learning. Morse earned his law degree, cum laude, under the GI Bill.

Senators Birch Bayh of Indiana and George McGovern of South Dakota matriculated under the GI Bill and have praised it highly. So have many others.

"No education (for me) without the GI Bill," said Rep. Brock Adams of Washington.

"I received my law degree under the GI Bill," Rep. Albert Watson of South Carolina said.

Nugent also said that the commander of Apollo 11, Astronaut Neil A. Armstrong, the first man to land on the moon, studied under the GI Bill at Purdue University and also did graduate work under the same provisions at the University of Southern California.

Commenting on the silver anniversary of the bill, VA Administrator Johnson said: "Some economists have estimated that the nation's $21 billion GI Bill investment in America's veterans will be recovered many times over in the added taxes which these veterans pay on the increased earnings made possible by the higher education and new or improved skills acquired under the GI Bill."

Thirty-four of the 50 governors are veterans, 16 of whom have taken advantage of the GI Bill. They are: Arch A. Moore of West Virginia, Paul Laxalt of Nevada, William L. Guy of North Dakota, Norbert T. Tiemann of Nebraska, David F. Cargo of New Mexico, Stanley K. Hathaway of Wyoming, Robert Docking of Kansas, Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, and Richard B. Ogilvie of Illinois.

Also, Edgar D. Whitcomb of Indiana, William G. Milliken of Michigan, Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky, Keith Miller of Alaska, Daniel J. Evans of Washington, Robert E. McNair of South Carolina and Claude Kirk, Jr., of Florida.

Nugent said veterans who have served after Jan. 31, 1955, should contact the VA Regional Office, 20 Washington pl., Newark 07102 or telephone 645-2150 for information on going to school this fall under the present GI Bill.

VA issues insurance reminder

Paul M. Nugent, manager of the New Jersey Veterans Administration Regional Office, Newark, said this week that more than half of the 236,000 New Jersey veterans who hold $1.7 billion dollars worth of government life insurance have not yet converted these policies from term to a permanent plan.

In 1968, he pointed out, New Jersey veterans paid $26,848,000 in premiums to keep both term and permanent government policies in force.

World War II and Korean Conflict veterans hold most of the term policies, Nugent said. Now at an average age of 49.7 years, World War II veterans in New Jersey who have not converted their insurance will soon find their National Service Life Insurance premiums going up as a result of advancing age.

Permanent insurance costs more to "begin with," but the premium rates for permanent insurance never go up. Permanent policies also have loan, cash-surrender, paid-up and extended insurance values, whereas term policies do not.

Veterans can obtain detailed information about the various government life insurance permanent plans from the VA Regional Office, 20 Washington pl., Newark, telephone 645-2150.

Flower display planned at fair

The theme of the annual flower show at the Flemington Fair, which opens Tuesday, August 26, and runs through Labor Day, will be "Come to the Flower Fair."

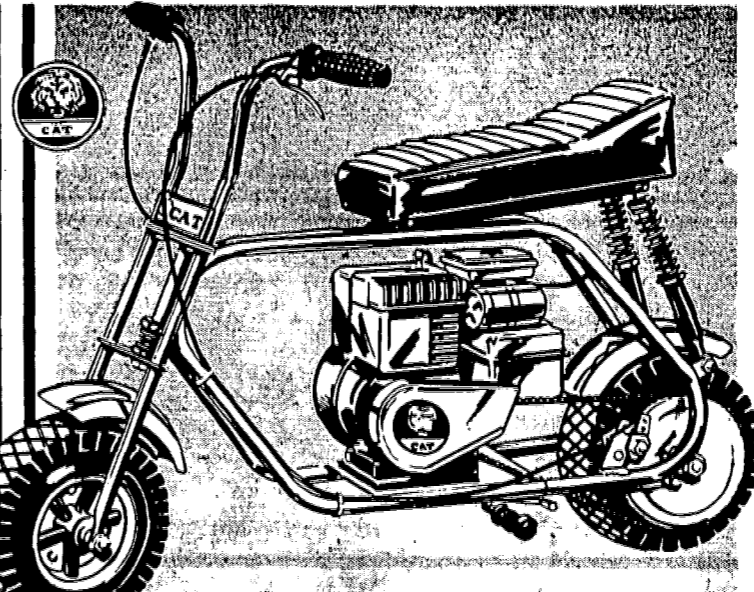

There will be two shows in which entries will be judged. The first show, for amateurs only, will be judged on Tuesday, Aug. 26. Amateurs are classified as individuals who grow flowers and plants for their own pleasure and do not sell them. The second show will be judged on Friday, Aug. 29, with entries from both amateurs and professionals who grow or sell flowers for profit.
