$747,000 bond proposed to replace Echobrook School

The Mountainside Board of Education on Tuesday announced plans for a $747,000 construction bond issue that would allow complete replacement of Echobrook School, the oldest facility in the system.

This proposal will be placed before the voters of Mountainside in a referendum on Tuesday, Oct. 14.

In adopting the resolution calling for the bond issue, board president Grant Lennox said, "It has been the stated goal of the board to replace these older school buildings which are just not up to par for a school system of the 70s. We have now reached the point where the borough can make better use of these buildings than we can. All money received by the proposed transfer of property will be used to lower the bond issue."

The $747,000 bond issue will provide for the replacement of eight classrooms, a gymnasium-lunchroom, a small school library and related storage space now in use in the main Echobrook School building (1936) and the school annex (1903).

In addition, an instrumental music room, a new library-learning center and a multi-purpose room will be provided. All new construction will be on the Deerfield School site, and details of the addition will be discussed in future releases and meetings.

FLEXIBILITY WILL be provided in the classroom addition and library-learning center by using demountable walls and folding doors between pairs of classrooms.

The "open room concept" may also get more study as planning proceeds and staff is involved. The existing Echobrook School buildings are becoming increasingly inadequate and inefficient for school use.

Dr. Levine B. Hanigan, superintendent of schools, pointed out several reasons for this situation in commenting on the need for replacement:

1. A dangerous location on Rt. 22.
2. Vibration and noise from Rt. 22.
3. Inadequate classroom size and school storage space.
4. Traffic problems created by parents trying to get into the school driveway from Rt. 22 or New Providence road.

5. The proposed overpass at New Providence road and Rt. 22 that could create a situation even more unsatisfactory and unsafe than that which now exists.

6. Small size of school that makes it exceedingly difficult to service adequately with a nurse, librarian, special teachers (reading, art, physical education and music) and secretarial assistance.

7. A possible proposed widening of New Providence road will increase the volume of traffic near the school entrance driveway and magnify the safety problems for children and parents.

8. A proposed overleaf will bring the entrance from New Providence road (going north) to Rt. 22 very close to the Echobrook School and increase the intensity of child safety problems.

Details regarding the borough's use of the Echobrook School buildings will be forthcoming, a spokesman for the Borough Council said.

Across the board raises for police proposed by Council

4th-year patrolman would get $10,800

An across the board pay hike of about 10 percent of the current salaries of members of the Mountainside Police Department next year was proposed Tuesday night by the Borough Council at its monthly meeting in Beechwood School.

The wage boost would mean that a fourth-year patrolman would receive $10,800 a year, an increase of $1,000 over the present rate.

The proposal was in the form of an ordinance, which requires two readings by the local governing body. The final reading and public hearing will be held at the September 16 meeting of council.

The ordinance proposes the following pay scale: first-year patrolman's salaries would go from the current $8,000 to $8,800; second-year patrolman from $8,500 to $9,300; third-year from $9,000 to $9,900, and fourth year, as already noted, from $9,500 to $10,500.

For the higher ranks, the pay boost would go like this: sergeant from the current $10,300 to the new rate of $11,300; detective from $9,800 to $10,800; sergeant detective from $11,000 to $12,000; lieutenant from $11,300 to $12,300; captain from $11,700 to $12,600 and chief from $13,100 to $13,600.

IT WAS ALSO made known by Councilman Robert Ruggiero, who is also police commissioner, that the police pay contract would henceforth be negotiated on an annual basis rather than every two years.

"It's due to the inflationary spiral," Ruggiero said.

Regional board

The next regular business meeting of the Union County Regional High School District Board of Education will be held Tuesday at the David Brearley Regional High School in Kentlworth. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m.

PROFILE—Edward H. Tiller

(This is another in a series of Profiles on candidates for office in this November's election.)

Freeholder Director Edward H. Tiller would like to see the county get out of the welfare business.

The Garwood Republican, running for his fourth term on the Union County Board of Freeholders, sees little reason for the county to concern itself with welfare.

"Welfare expenditures are controlled by the state and federal governments," the 57-year-old politician said.

Tiller added that the current welfare administration in the county is akin to "taxation without representation." The freeholder complained that the board has "nothing whatsoever to do with the money spent by the county welfare board."

While the freeholders must approve the welfare board's annual budget, he said, their expenditures cannot be controlled by the elected freeholder board.

If the federal government did take over welfare payments, the county, said Tiller, would have more to spend on regional needs which municipal, state and federal government are doing little about.

High on his list of priorities is flood control. Tiller believes much can be done by the county to relieve property and personal dangers because of floods.

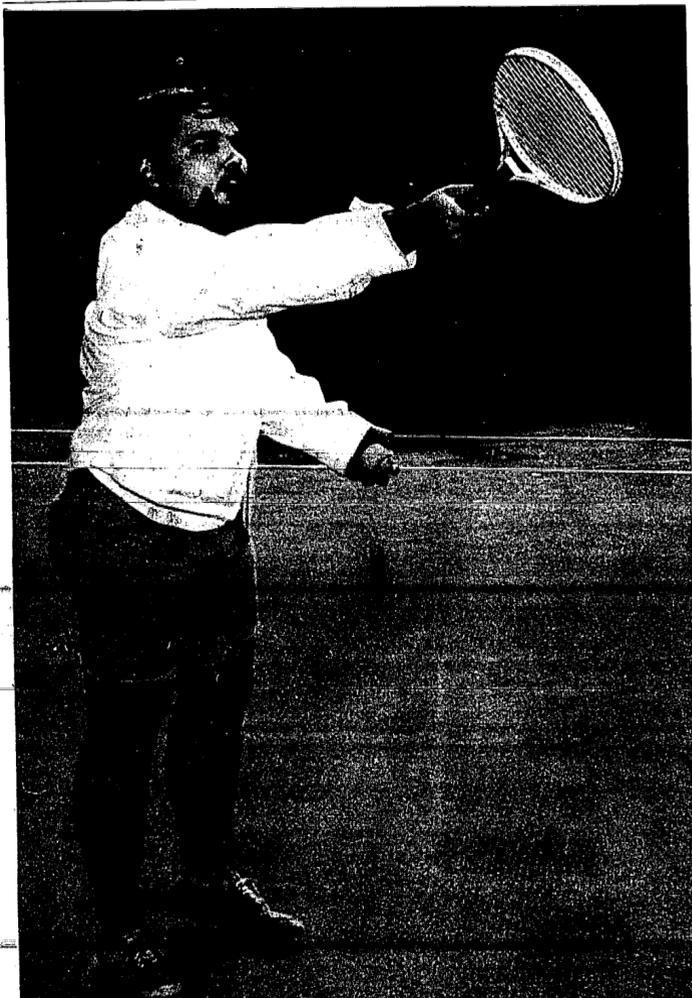

The effort in flood control, he noted, should be done both on the county and state level. Right now, the state has a Water Policy Commission, but the freeholder said this group does little to aid in the fight against floods.

He suggested that a water-flood commission be established by the state with the power to undertake major projects throughout New Jersey. Coupled with this, he said, should be authorization for the county to do more flood control work. Now, he noted, counties can only do flood work when related to bridges owned and maintained by the county. All other waterways are the responsibility of municipalities, he said, which vary in their effectiveness of flood control.

WATER BASINS in north and west New Jersey, he said, have an effect on flooding in Union County. "We can spend a million this year for this year's problems — but it has to be done statewide for any long term relief." Elimination of retention areas in other counties, he said, brings floods to Union County.

"There is no question of the need for better flood control in Springfield, Hillside, Union, Plainfield, Cranford, almost all the municipalities in the county," Tiller said.

Tiller added that in Springfield, the Union County Park Commission has $50,000 budgeted to clean out some of the small lakes "where smudge has accumulated over the years." The freeholder hopes that will offer some relief for residents of that area.

TENNIS RETURNS TO THE DARK AGES—Your friendly neighborhood reporter is shown above taking part in the Recreation Department's tennis program. After a one-hour lesson, it is reasonably safe to assume that while Ray Barto may recover, tennis never will. The program, which was formerly a raging success in teaching young pupils, has suffered its first major defeat in attempting to cram a four-week course into one hour for the benefit of the local George Plimpton. (Echo Photos by Bob Baxter Jr.)

Adult program this year offers 230 courses

Everything from scuba diving and recreational games for the visually handicapped to Russian is being offered in the fall term of the Union County Regional Adult School program.

Harry E. Linkin, director of adult education, announced this week that more than 230 courses are being offered this year. Classes will begin on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings during the week of Sept. 29, at the four high schools in the Regional District, and at the Lincoln School in Garwood.

Garwood was added this year as the result of a mail survey of the entire community. Linkin said the newest adult school program in the Regional District will open with nine course offerings.

Linkin said brochures detailing the courses being offered, together with registration information, are scheduled to be mailed to every resident in the Regional District and surrounding areas within the next week or two.

Interested persons may register for courses by mail by using the registration form on back of the brochure, or in person at the nearest Regional high school on Tuesday, Sept. 16, and Wednesday, Sept. 17, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

Late registrations will be accepted the first night of class.

"It's best to register as early as possible to insure a place in the course of your choice," Linkin said.

Linkin also pointed out that residents of the Regional District who are 65 years of age or over may join a number of courses at no cost.

The Regional District consists of Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kentlworth, Mountainside and Springfield.

Besides the new adult school in Garwood, classes will be held at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield; Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark; Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, and David Brearley Regional High School, Kentlworth.

Become a tennis pro? No net profit in game for reporter

By RAY BARTO

"Mommy! There was a strange person on the tennis courts yesterday and he didn't know what he was doing!"

To say simply that of all the games I know, I know tennis least, would be an understatement on the order of saying that the cost of living has risen since the 1800's. What little tennis I have played has usually been with badminton rules, which should give you some idea of my background in the sport.

Obviously, the best way to learn the game is to take a lesson, which brings us to the Mountainside Recreation Department's tennis program. There are approximately 70 young Mountainside residents taking part in the

State puts up cash to pay for widening of Central avenue

The New Jersey Department of Transportation this week announced it has allocated $100,000 in state road building aid to 11 county municipalities, including $10,000 for widening Central avenue in Mountainside.

The aid is being provided from one of six separate funds which have been authorized by the state legislature to provide approximately $31 million in aid to New Jersey counties and municipalities each year. Under the provisions of this particular aid source, the department annually receives applications from municipalities interested in constructing or reconstructing portions of their road and street systems.

Allocations to each municipality requesting aid are then reviewed with an eye to their relative need. Through this fund a total of $100,000 is available annually to municipalities in each county.

The amount set aside for each municipality represents the state's share in the total cost of an approved project. The state share may be up to 90 percent. Subsequent construction plans are reviewed by the department which also checks materials and construction work.

Three crashes along Rt. 22 on rainy night

The Mountainside police this week reported three major accidents on Rt. 22 during the heavy rainfall last Friday. In the first, Patrolman Joseph Lobl reported that a car, driven by Frank Londino, 17, of Scotch Plains, ran off the highway at 7:05 p.m.

Londino told Lobl that he was driving in the right lane of Rt. 22 East when the car in the left lane went into a skid. The other car then cut him off, he said, forcing him off the highway and he struck a fire hydrant.

The report stated that the car was a total loss and that a passenger, Ronald Cochran, 17, also of Scotch Plains, was taken to Overlook Hospital by the Mountainside Rescue Squad. He was treated and later released.

A little more than two hours later, at 9:15, Shirley Howard of Scotch Plains was at the east-to-west U-turn on Rt. 22 when, according to her statement, she stopped before entering traffic on the east-bound lanes. Seeing it was clear, she began to pull out when she saw a fire truck. She stopped again and was struck in the rear by a second car on the U-turn, she said.

The second car was driven by Barbara A. Sandford of Scotch Plains. She told Lobl that she was behind Miss Howard's car in the U-turn when she began to pull out into traffic. Miss Sandford then began pulling out with her. When the first car stopped, she was unable to brake in time, and struck the other car in the rear.

Miss Sandford was taken to Overlook Hospital by the Rescue Squad, and released after treatment. Her car was damaged in the front fender and the windshield. Miss Howard's car was dented in the rear bumper.

In a third accident, at 10:25, Gary Nitrolo, 18, of Springfield wrecked the car he was driving on Rt. 22 east. He told Lobl that he was driving in the right lane when he saw a truck stopped in front of him. He tried to pull into the left lane but was cut off, he said. He then pulled back to the right lane and hit the truck in the rear.

The truck driver, Lawrence Falzone of Jersey City, told police that his vehicle was disabled in the right lane when the other driver

A GREAT BANK TO GROW WITH

1st Quarter Profits Rose Sixty Percent at 1st State Bank

UNION, N.J. -- First-quarter profits of The First State Bank of Union rose 60 percent from $84,000 last year to $136,000, it was announced today by Frank M. Pitt, president. The pre-tax profit was 53 cents for the period ending March 31, an increase of 21 cents over 32 cents for the corresponding quarter a year ago. The per-share earnings are based on 255,966 shares outstanding at the end of 1968.

Pitt said that prospects for the year were good, although he did not expect results for the last three quarters to sustain the pace of the first three months.

The First State Bank president said non-recurring expenses in connection with the change of name that has been approved by shareholders would depress earnings later in the year. Additionally, Pitt pointed out, The First State Bank has applied to the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance for permission to establish branch offices in other parts of New Jersey's banking district number two, which includes Union County. "If any of these should be approved this year," he said, "the expenses of launching new branches would necessarily serve to cut into our profits for 1969."

1st State Bank Moves Into Top 1000

NEW YORK -- The First State Bank of Union moved into the top 1,000 banks in the nation, according to the American Banker magazine's annual roll call. The American Banker issue published February 25 indicated that the Union, New Jersey bank jumped from 1056 in 1967 to 981 in 1968.

The First State Bank, which was opened in 1953, has moved steadily upwards to its position in the top 1,000 banks. Its assets at the end of 1968 were $52,820,742.03, an increase of $7,020,315.06 over the 1967 figure of $45,800,426.97.

Stockholders Approve Split Of Bank Stock

Stockholders of the First State Bank of Union have approved a 2-for-1 split of the bank's common stock. The action was taken at a special stockholder meeting. Stockholders also approved a board of directors recommendation to double the number of authorized shares from 125,663 to 251,326.

The stock split will be effective immediately with distribution of the new shares to take place in November.

The First State Bank paid stock dividends of 10 per cent in 1959, three per cent in 1961, 1964 and 1965, and 10 per cent in 1967, in addition to cash dividends each year since 1956.

3-Month Net Up 62 P.C. At Union's First State Bank

First quarter profits of The First State Bank of Union rose 62 per cent, from $84,000 last year to $136,000, it was announced today by Frank M. Pitt, president. The pre-tax profit was 53 cents for the period ending March 31, an increase of 21 cents from the 32 cents for the corresponding quarter a year ago. The per-share earnings are based on 255,966 shares outstanding at the end of 1968. Pitt said prospects for the year were good, although he did not expect results for the last three quarters to sustain the pace of the first three months.

The First State Bank president said non-recurring expenses in connection with the change of the bank's name would depress earnings later in the year. First State Bank increases dividend

The board of directors of The First State Bank of Union has voted to increase the bank's annual cash dividend from 90 cents to $1.00 per share. Frank M. Pitt, president, said the first dividend under the new rate — a 50-cent payout — would be paid on July 10, to stockholders of record as of June 28. It will represent the 16th consecutive cash dividend paid by the bank.

Pitt said "earnings for The First State Bank were 'substantially higher' than in 1967. He estimated that year-end results would be 15 percent higher than last year's, when the after-tax earnings were $2.20 per share. Last year, he pointed out, The First State Bank earnings were 'slightly depressed' because of extraordinary non-recurring costs attendant to the opening of a new branch in Union's Five Points section. However, the new branch, in less than 15 months, has begun 'to contribute to the bank's overall profitability,' Pitt added.

Record earnings are reported by First State Bank

The First State Bank of Union has reported record first-half earnings of $254,000, an increase of 58 percent over the $159,000 earned in the first half of 1968.

Frank M. Pitt, president, also said that the bank's assets jumped $9,000,000, from $45,500,000 last year to a new high of $54,500,000 for the first six months of this year.

Total operating income was up from $1,300,000 to $1,500,000 for the first half. The per-share earnings increased from 63 cents for the first six months of 1968 to 98.3 cents for the comparable period this year. The figures are based on approximately 251,000 shares outstanding during the first half of 1968 and approximately 258,000 shares outstanding during the first six months of this year.

Pitt said deposits grew to $48,800,000 from $41,200,000 last year. Loans outstanding increased to $32,500,000, a jump of $5,200,000 from the $27,300,000 on the books June 30, 1968.

Pitt said the pace of the record earnings would not necessarily be sustained during the second half. "The earnings for the first six months reflect the increased profitability of our data processing services operation, as well as the continued upward thrust of business at the Five Points branch, our newest office, which opened only two years ago," he said.

Union Bank Plans 3 More Branches

The First State Bank of Union plans to open temporary branch offices in Clark, New Providence and Middlesex locations, as approved last week by the N.J. Department of Banking and Insurance.

The Clark location will be on Raritan Road near Westfield Ave, the New Providence site is 1253 Springfield Ave and the Middlesex office will be on Route 28 in the vicinity of Garden Place.

The new branches will bring to nine the number of First State Bank locations.

Union Bank Considering Expansion

The First State Bank of Union is considering taking advantage of the newly liberalized New Jersey banking laws, Frank M. Pitt, president, told shareholders in his annual message.

Pitt, who described the adoption last year of the new laws as "the most significant development in New Jersey banking," said First State Bank is exploring the possibilities of expansion under the new regulations.

He also said approval of legislation permitting the creation of bank holding companies and allowing branching on a three-district basis would prove a boon to medium-sized banks as well as to the larger financial institutions.

He said that the old regulations had "stifled expansion and contributed to a climate in which meaningful growth was nearly impossible."

Pitt pointed out that the new regulations would permit banks to expand beyond their home counties, thus contributing to their growth.

At the same time, he continued, smaller banks will be able to work together through the formation of holding companies that will contribute to their overall growth.

"We at the First State Bank are confident that we will be in the forefront of this activity as New Jersey begins a new era in banking."

LAKE BAIKAL AND BRATSK

Even though Lake Baikal is the deepest lake in the world, as much as 5,299 feet, with a constant shivery temperature of 34 degrees Fahrenheit at its lower depths, and only 57 at the top at the very warmest (in August), its biggest inhabitant, "omul," is not to the lake what "The Monster" is to Loch Ness in Scotland, it is rather just the opposite. It is the "angel" of the area.

Omul is a medium size fish of the salmon family and the people of the Lake Baikal region practically survive on it. On the day of our visit to the lake we went for lunch at a lakeside restaurant, and did the same. We had smoked omul to start, omul soup in between, and fried omul for the main course. What? No omul ice cream? We would not have been surprised.

Despite its great depth, Lake Baikal is not the biggest lake in the world, but it is a wonder that it is not. Altogether 326 rivers flow into this body of water and only one, the Angara, flows out.

It is a very large lake even without holding the record being some 500 miles long, but it is not well inhabited. Its cold water eliminates bathing vacationers and its cold winter discourages settlers. Its greatest fame lies in its depth. With 326 faucets and only one plug, why not. Also, the Trans-Siberian railroad runs along part of its shores; its shores boast the only golf course in the entire Soviet Union; there are 30,000 seals in the lake with desirable grey color coats, and there are many Barguzin sables, with even more desirable coats, raised near its shores.

Its greatest attraction is the 65-place hydrofoil boat that runs from Irkutsk up to a few settlements along the lake, and -- the price of coal. You can get one ton of coal for 60 kopeks and that, believe me, is some bargain. Sixty kopeks is about 60 cents! The mines, which are open mines, lie between Baikal and Bratsk.

THE CITY OF BRATSK, pronounced Brad and meaning "brotherhood," is situated about 250 miles north of Lake Baikal's southernmost tip, and it is only 12 years old. Actually, the city is called New Bratsk because Old Bratsk is now at the bottom of a lake which was made by the great new dam on the Angara River. The old town was burned away and 40 million kilometers of forest were cut out to make room for the 5,500 - square - kilometer lake formed by the dam.

The dam wall itself is 345 feet tall and is the second largest dam in the world, coming after the great Carribe Dam in Angola. But the plant produces more kilowatt power than any hydro-electric power station in the world and supplies 20 percent of the power in all the USSR. Moscow, some 4,000 miles away, receives power from this dam. It has 18 generators with a final goal of 20. It cost 720 million rubles to build.

Sixty nationalities were represented in the Old Bratsk area and now 160,000 live in the New Bratsk area, and they are almost all under 30. Seventy percent of the population is under 30 years of age and it seems likely to get even younger and bigger. The birth rate here is the highest in the entire USSR. To take care of some of this youth corps there are over 80 kindergartens operating in the region. It is mandatory for all children to attend the kindergarten, which is at the expense of the government.

THE NEW TOWN consists of seven settlements about five miles apart but the government is settled in the one called New Bratsk. It is only 12 years old but looks like a worn-out Brasilia. All the trees have been chopped down and it is filled with row after row of unlandscaped, dreary apartment houses. The area is now one of the greatest industrial areas in the USSR -- and New Bratsk looks it.

When we visited it we stayed at a lodge in the settlement called Padoun. Here, the Siberian pines had been left standing and it was a beautiful rural area directly on the new lake, but the new six-year buildings were not so impressive.

We did not believe six-year-old bath rooms could look the way these did. We had been used to poor bathrooms all along but they were generally older. These had no excuse and these were the worst.

They were painted Dreary Ecru, had no windows, the light came from one lone naked light bulb hanging askew from a cord from the ceiling, the commodes had no seats, the floor was paved up to the tub and then disappeared into darkness under the ball-footed tub, and most startling, all the pipes for everything were on the outside of the walls. Thick pipes and thin pipes and medium pipes ran up and down the walls and across the ceiling, all painted Dreary Ecru to match the walls.

It was so unbelievable I took my camera and flashed a picture. I knew no one could picture it. But even the camera shuttered and the print was blank.

The room was also exceedingly small. In order to stand by the sink one had to sort of bend around the tub. And, to top it all, when I reached over to turn the faucet on, the entire tiny little sink came off the wall and hung there. I gently tucked it back and it stuck. We followed this procedure during the entire stay.

On the bus with our special Bratsk In-Tourist guide, we asked why the pipes were all strung around the outside if the buildings were so new. His answer was so absurd, (something about "discovering they needed hot water after finishing the building") that we realized he did not want to answer.

So, while we did not have a Lake Baikal Monster we sort of found one at this dam lake.

Jersey publishes relocation booklets for road victims

The Department of Transportation has published booklets which explain how the department goes about purchasing land needed for highway and transportation improvements, and how the Department can help owners and tenants find new homes.

The booklets, which were primarily written for owners and tenants affected by right-of-way acquisition, are available for public distribution.

One booklet, "How Land is Purchased for Highways," answers questions which are asked most often after a property owner learns his land is required for a highway or public transportation facility. The booklet, which accompanies the formal letter of notice mailed to every affected property owner, includes space for the name and phone number of the department representative assigned to personally help the owner.

The second booklet, entitled "If I Must Move," also used the question-and-answer form to explain the services and payments available to owners of improved properties--residential, commercial and industrial--and their tenants. The relocation aids include assistance in finding replacement houses and business locations, moving expense reimbursement, business discontinuance allowances in place of moving reimbursement, payment of replacement housing supplements, payments of rent supplements, some title transfer expenses and individualized aid and counsel during every phase of the relocation. The relocation booklet is mailed to owners-residents of improved properties and to tenants.

Copies of the new publications are available from the Bureau of Public Information, Department of Transportation, 1035 Parkway ave., Trenton, 08625.

Many new courses added for fall term at county college

Eighteen new courses will be added to the curriculum of Union College, Cranford, with the start of the fall semester. It was announced by Prof. Elmer Wolf, acting dean.

Prof. Wolf said that seven of the new courses result from the establishment of a new curriculum in law enforcement leading to an associate in arts degree. They are: contemporary problems in law enforcement, police organization and administration, police management, police role in the community, patrol administration, public administration, and New Jersey government.

Introduction to philosophy and child psychology courses are being added as part of an education option. The liberal arts curriculum, Prof. Wolf said.

Other new credit courses are: introductory anthropology, cultural anthropology, bacteriology, computer programming, contemporary problems, Afro-American history I and II, and fundamentals of science.

Prof. Wolf said contemporary problems and fundamentals of science were developed for the Educational Opportunity Fund Project, but are now being made available to all students.

In addition, a new non-credit course in introduction to mathematical concepts (Math C) has been added, Prof. Wolf reported.

"The addition of these courses reflect our new role as Union County's community college and our efforts to broaden our curriculum to better meet the needs of our students and the constituency we serve," the acting dean said.

Prof. Wolf stated that the new courses were developed by the various academic departments in conjunction with the faculty's curriculum committee. Prof. Wolf is chairman of the curriculum committee whose membership includes Prof. Raymond Boly of Berkeley Heights, chairman of the business administration department; Prof. Helen T. Farrow of Westfield, a member of the English department; Prof. Alice E.A. Hunt of Mantoloking, a member of the mathematics department; Prof. Richard Selcoe of Glen Ridge, coordinator of the social sciences department; Clifton O. Siegelin of Westfield, a member of the engineering department, and Prof. Oliver West of Cranford, a member of the mathematics department.

Social Security's 34th birthday 44 million receiving benefits, Medicare aid

This month, with more than 44 million Americans receiving $2.5 billion a month in social security benefits and 20 million people insured by Medicare, the Social Security Administration will celebrate its 34th anniversary, Ralph W. Jones, district manager of Social Security in Elizabeth said this week.

The anniversary is being observed with ceremonies and special displays in many social security offices throughout the country, as well as at the national headquarters in Woodlawn, Maryland, just outside of Baltimore. At the headquarters, a historical room is being opened this week showing mementos of the agency's history including the desk used by all the heads of the social security system since 1935.

When President Franklin D. Roosevelt signed the Social Security Act into law on August 14, 1935, he called it "the cornerstone of a structure which is being built but is by no means complete."

"The original law, continued Jones, "provided for old-age benefits to retired workers in industry and commerce only. Over the years, the social security program has expanded so that it now provides financial protection for virtually everyone in the country."

The first benefits to retired workers were paid in 1940. By that time, however, amendments to the law had been passed to provide additional benefits for the dependents and survivors of insured workers, said Jones.

"In 1950 and thereafter, coverage was extended to millions of other people who were not covered under the original law—farm workers, state and local government employees, domestic workers, ministers, self-employed doctors, professionals, and members of the armed forces," he said.

In 1956, disability protection was added to cover the thousands of people who could no longer work because of serious illness or injury.

"In its first quarter of century," Jones stated, "social security had already grown into a program that protected a worker and his family in the event of his retirement, death, or disability. But it did not stop there."

In 1965, Congress created Medicare to help people 65 and older pay hospital, doctor and other medical bills. In just three years, Medicare has covered 17 million hospital stays of elderly people. In addition, there were more than one million admissions for posthospital extended care. Older people have also received visits in their own homes from visiting nurses, physical therapists, and other health care specialists, paid for by Medicare. Payments under the hospital insurance program totaled $10.9 billion for the three-year period, and a total of $4.6 billion has been paid under the medical insurance program, which helps pay for doctor bills and other medical services.

In 1967, still other changes were made. Disabled widows became eligible for benefits at 50, people disabled before age 31 needed less work to qualify for benefits, and children became eligible on their mother's earnings record on the same basis as on their father's.

Through the years, increases in monthly benefit amounts were made to keep pace with the rising cost of living. Today's average monthly benefit to a retired worker is $95, compared to $63 ten years ago, said Jones. The average benefit for a retired couple is $166 a month, compared to $111 10 years ago. "One out of every four beneficiaries is well below retirement age—young widows, children, and disabled workers and their dependents," Jones reported. The protection afforded American families in the event of a worker's death has a face value of $960 billion in potential survivors benefits.

UC receives new aid, reduces tuition charges

Union College, Cranford, will reduce its tuition for all Union County residents, effective Sept. 1, it was announced this week by Dr. Kenneth W. Iversen, acting president.

Dr. Iversen said the tuition reduction is possible because of increased state and county aid under a contract with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education.

The tuition reduction will apply to both full-time and part-time students.

There also will be a tuition reduction for full-time Union College students who reside in other counties in New Jersey, Dr. Iversen reported.

Tuition for Union County residents who are full-time students will be reduced from $400 annually to $300 annually, while the per credit hour charge for part-time students will be reduced from $25 to $12.

"The new tuition charges are in line with those of the new county colleges in New Jersey," Dr. Iversen said.

UNION COLLEGE'S NEW TUITION charges are: Full-time students—$300 a year for Union County residents, $600 per year for New Jersey students residing outside of Union County, and $1,200 for out-of-state students; part-time students—$12 a credit hour for Union County residents; $25 a credit hour for New Jersey students residing outside of Union County, and $30 a credit hour for out-of-state students.

The current tuition rate for full-time students at Union College is $1,000 a year. Under a tuition aid plan financed by the Union County Board of Freeholders and the state, all Union County residents who were full-time students in the day session received grants of $600 per year. The tuition aid plan did not apply to part-time students, evening session students, or students residing outside of Union County.

Under the new arrangement with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education, the tuition aid plan will be discontinued, Dr. Iversen reported.

"It is a rare thing in higher education today that a college can reduce its tuition charges," Dr. Iversen said. "We are grateful to the Union County Board of Freeholders and the state that we can make a college education available at a lower tuition cost, so more qualified young men and women can avail themselves of an opportunity for a college education."

UNDER A CONTRACT EXECUTED on June 16 with the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education and approved by the State Board of Higher Education on July 18, Union College agreed to provide university-parallel programs for Union County.

Union College, a "two-year community college of the academic disciplines," offers majors in liberal arts, engineering, life and physical science, business administration and law enforcement as well as pre-engineering and pre-science programs and an Educational Opportunity Fund project for educationally and economically disadvantaged students. The college also conducts a nursing program in affiliation with the schools of nursing of Elizabeth and Perth Amboy General Hospitals.

Leshner received his undergraduate degree at Lock Haven State College in Pennsylvania and has done advanced work in physical education at Ursinus College, Springfield College, and Sir George Williams College. Leshner, his wife Laura and son David will move to Westfield at the end of August.

"We are very fortunate to have Harry Leshner joining our staff. He was one of the outstanding physical directors in the state of Pennsylvania," said William R. Hawkins, assistant executive director. Leshner will be staff member on the physical department committee; Norbert A. Weldon is chairman. Working with Leshner will be Brian Hinman and John Vernon, assistant physical directors.

Dedication service for new cross at Holy Cross Lutheran Church

Church conducts ceremonies to dedicate its 30-foot cross

Several new projects have recently been completed at Holy Cross Lutheran Church, 639 Mountain ave., Springfield.

A new 30-foot-high cross was dedicated on the front lawn. The dedication was the concluding part of a Sunday morning worship service conducted by the Rev. Kenneth Stumpf, which had begun in the sanctuary. The cross is made of architectural exposed steel and with age will develop a permanent brown coating which protects from further oxidation. Also erected on the front lawn is a new metal sign with interior lighting. The times of services and Sunday School and the name of the congregation are on the sign. Inside the sanctuary, the lighting has been doubled, Edwin Fiedler, a member of the congregation, directed the lighting additions.

Instrumental in the cross and sign projects were Robert Miller, who supervised and directed their planning; John Andrus and Henry Freudenberger who assisted him on the special committee; John Lissy Sr., John Lissy Jr. and Martin Lissy who handled the foundation work; and Andrew Ehrenfeld who did the landscape work so that the cross and sign might be easily seen from Mountain avenue.

THE VACATION Bible School of Holy Cross Lutheran Church will hold its closing program this evening at 7:30. This will conclude the 11th annual summer school which began on Aug. 11 and held sessions every weekday morning for children aged 3-12.

The theme for the two weeks was "Living God's Way," and it is also the theme for tonight's program. During a brief worship service in the sanctuary, the children will sing and explain for their parents and friends various projects they have made at the school. Afterwards refreshments will be served in the fellowship hall.

This year's enrollment has been the largest ever with 110 children. Twenty-four adults and teenagers have participated as teachers, assistants, and recreation leaders.

Those who served as teachers were Mrs.

John Andrus, Mrs. John Brink, Dale Dauser, Mrs. Raymond French, Mrs. Allen Klein, Mrs. Robert Miller, Karen Parker, Mrs. Mory Rank, Mrs. Egon Stark, and Mrs. Robert Wood. Assistants on the staff were Mrs. Alfred Parker, Mrs. Donna Waughtal, Diane Andrus, Robert Bauer, Jan Compher, Henry Freudenberger, Marilyn Howell, Carol Kelly, Janice Marshall, Nancy Marshall, Jeanne Palmieri, Irene Prather, Betty Price and Mary Witowsky.

The whole school and tonight's closing program have been under the general direction of Mrs. Frederic Compher Jr., superintendent for the third year.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D., Director
National Institute of Mental Health

FUTURE HOLDS MANY QUESTIONS FOR MENTAL HEALTH RESEARCH

Modern advances against mental illness in patient care and treatment, in manpower training, and in research have been extensive. Yet they come at a point when our times seem to be sharply changing and the scope of mental health problems is enlarging drastically.

Thus, it may well be asked, "Where do we go from here?"

In some areas, the answers are relatively simple. We anticipate, for example, that the number of patients residing in State and local mental hospitals will continue to decline.

By the end of the 20th century, not far off now, we should have less than 50,000 such patients. Large residential mental hospitals will not be needed.

There are other issues and directions, however, that are not so neatly packaged. The control of emotional disturbances with drugs is still in its scientific infancy. What will drug research uncover in the next generation?

What of the promises and dangers of electrode implantation? Through such devices we can already stop bulls family structure, jobs, politics, and other aspects of life? What of privacy, group problem solving, and expressions of aggression?

These are some of the questions that the near future holds in prospect for mental health research. How widely and well, and with what resources, we seek the answers is surely a matter of mental health significance to each and all of us.

WHICH PROGRAM FOR YOUR LAWN

No two lawns are alike. Your lawn may have an entirely different problem than that of your neighbor. Each lawn is individual and requires its own particular care and maintenance. An experienced professional in the field of lawn care will diagnose the condition of your lawn and recommend the program best suited for your lawn. Regardless of whether your lawn needs renovation as the result of insect damage, fungus, weeds, or other causes, or merely requires general technical care which includes fertilization, thatching, ailing, insect & weed control, seeding, etc., a custom program can be designed to fit your lawn. U.S. Congresswoman FLORENCE P. DWYER Reports

THE HEAVENS OPEN
What a week it was!
By almost any standard, it will more than match any other during my years in Congress -- for excitement, tension, and historic significance.

On top of all of this, Congress also put in a week of more conventional activity which, by ordinary standards, would qualify as a good week's work. It included: House passage of a $1.55 billion military construction bill, which took a hefty 18 percent cut below the Administration's request; House approval of legislation increasing veterans' educational benefits.

Even though the House, for example, is unlikely to reverse the Senate decision on the ABM, the half-thin margin represented a turning point in Congressional consideration of military matters with implications touching future major defense issues like MIRV, Chemical-Biological Warfare, and defense spending generally.

on each seem called for.
No, 368-page tax bill containing sweeping revisions in 27 major tax areas could hope to attract complete agreement. And this one hasn't and won't. In the House, which traditionally considers tax bills under a "closed" rule, no amendments were possible. It was strictly a question of yes or no on the overall merits which, in my judgement, were strongly affirmative.

WHAT IT MEANS
In terms of its long-range significance, two things strike me most forcefully about this tax reform bill. First, it seems to mark the end of a trend toward greater use of the tax system for subsidizing social and economic objectives.

As Dr. Herbert York, President Eisenhower's defense research chief, recently pointed out, the fact that our national security has declined over the past 20 years even while our military power has steadily increased may force us to recognize that security is at least as dependent on political wisdom as on technical achievement -- the kind of political wisdom, I suggest, which motivated President Nixon in his mission through the Pacific to Vietnam and into Eastern Europe, a mission which saw him move steadily toward cease-fire and disengagement in Vietnam and a more flexible policy toward the rest of the world.

You can send your lawn to college

Step-by-step demonstrations of making a new lawn and renovating an old one will be featured at Rutgers University Saturday during the Central Jersey Lawn Clinic and Demonstration.

The program, to be held on the Rutgers College of Agriculture and Environmental Science campus at the turf research plots on College Farm Road near Rt. 1, will begin at 10 a.m. and be repeated at 2 p.m.

The first event is a brief tour to acquaint visitors with the different types of lawn grasses.

Detailed demonstrations of how to make a new lawn or renovate an old lawn will follow the tour.

College plant specialists and county agents will staff the clinic to answer lawn questions. If anyone has a special lawn problem, he may bring a square-foot sample of turf for a free diagnosis.

The clinic will also include a display of the weeks most common to lawns. The event is open to the public.

Astronomers build two telescopes for observatory at UC

As U.S. astronauts take their first steps on the moon surface, members of Amateur Astronomers, Inc., report on their progress in efforts to five earthbound stargazers a closer look at the moon from the William Miller Sperry Observatory at Union College, Cranford.

Richard Ulmes of Dunellen, chairman of the design and construction committee of AAI, reported this week on progress in the design and construction of a 24-inch reflector telescope to be housed in the observatory. The observatory is now operating with a 12 1/2-inch reflector telescope built by Roger Tunhill of 11 Tanglewood Lane, Mountainside, and contributed to Union College, and six-inch refractor telescope, which was the personal instrument of the late Albert G. Ingalls, who was known as the father of amateur astronomy.

Plans for the new telescopes were first conceived by members of AAI some five years ago, before construction of the observatory. The opening of the observatory in 1967 gave impetus to their efforts. During the past five years more than 4,000 man-hours have been devoted to the two projects. This has been a labor of love for the AAI, whose members have given their Saturdays and Sundays as well as evening hours to working on the telescopes, according to Edward Pearson of Westfield, AAI president.

THE ORIGINAL DESIGNS for the reflector and the refractor were the work of Lewis Thomas of North Plainfield, a lecturer at the Hayden Planetarium of the American Museum, New York City, and Dr. A. Clifton Ashcraft Jr. of Somerset, a chemist with Union Carbide Corp., Piscataway Township. The glass blanks for the refractor were donated by Thomas in 1963 and the beginnings of an observatory shop were initiated. However, the large expenditure required to construct the 24-inch reflector is beyond the AAI's current budget. Recent efforts have been confined to the design and construction of the smaller refractor telescope, which is both less costly and more effective in visual observations of the heavens, Ulmes said.

Under the direction of Dr. Ashcraft, the design and construction committee has completed the design for the reflector mounting including cells, tube, fork, drive and base. Also credited to Dr. Ashcraft is the procurement of the refractor tube and drive and the computer ray tracing and design of both optical systems.

A mirror polishing machine and additional equipment has been obtained, giving the AAI an observatory shop well equipped for the job of telescope construction. Most of the parts are now at the observatory and members meet at least once a week to work on the project. Otto Kockerhans of 152 Warren Ave., Roselle Park, chief design engineer of the 24-inch mechanical components, assisted by Wim Lurcott of Cranford, has drawn up most of the design for the refractor mounting.

HOWEVER, LIKE THE PLANETS destined for closer observation, the observatory has many satellites with much of the work on the refractor conducted in the homes and businesses of members.

Kenneth Smith of Westfield, a retired engineer with Bell Telephone Laboratories, Murray Hill, has been grinding the refractor blanks at his home for several months. Dr. Ashcraft is working on a 10-inch objective cell at his home in Somerset. Roy Lurcott of Clark, assisted by Art Kasimir of Elizabeth, have been making the machined mounting parts Sundays in a machine shop in Cranford. Sam Meller of Matawan is making the turret eyepiece/camera support mechanism at his home. The steel fabrication and construction of the mounting parts is carried on Saturdays in Ulmes' shop in Piscataway.

It is expected that the refractor will be mounted in its dome sometime in 1971. Taking into account the labor and parts donated to this project to date, Ulmes predicts the value of the completed instrument will be astronomical.

Individual attention for students Cites unique advantage of private junior college

Attention to the individual student is the principal advantage of the private junior college, according to Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, director of the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education and president-emeritus of Union College, Cranford. In "The Private College Study," a report on two-year colleges by Dr. MacKay for the American Association of Junior Colleges under a grant from the Sloan Foundation, emphasis on the individual is cited by two-year college leaders as the major attribute of these institutions.

"Attention to the individual -- his educational, personal and financial needs -- and emphasis on guidance and counseling, and close student-teacher relationship as well as the unique contribution of the small and independent college to education, he said. Responses of two-year college leaders also indicate, according to Dr. MacKay, that "bridging the gap" for the under-achiever is an important function of the junior college. These are the students who need "the encouragement, or the patient help of a dedicated teacher, while making adjustment to the college situation," he explained. "The two-year college provides the 'second chance' opportunity for those rejected elsewhere."

Dr. MacKay also notes that "often it is the two-year college that provides the only education a student, for financial or other reasons, can hope to obtain beyond high school."

In view of their particular role, Dr. MacKay believes that the two-year non-public colleges "have an added responsibility -- an intrinsic opportunity -- to enhance the importance of the individual student and to make available a higher education, not for the academically elite, but for these others who in the aggregate represent a huge national resource."

"True excellence," Dr. MacKay states, quoting Dr. Burkette Kaper, "does not require being exclusive in admissions, classical in our curriculum, and unrealistic in our grading. True excellence is taking a student where he is and inspiring him to achieve at his highest level."

Park Commission plans programs for Trailside

"Aleutian Skywatch," a color, sound movie, will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, on Sunday at 2 p.m.

The film depicts the story behind America's radar watch in the north and of the strategic role played by the Aleutians in this important network of defense.

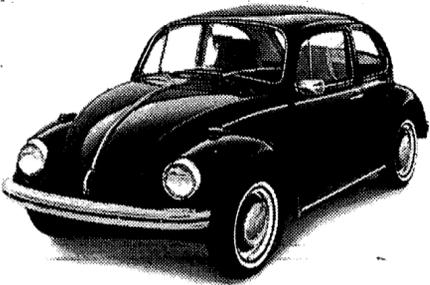

Also on Sunday, at 3 p.m. and again at 4 p.m., Donald W. Mayer, director of Trailside, will present a program in the Trailside Planetarium entitled "Man in Space." Mayer will discuss the race for space and the accomplishments of the United States in space exploration. The same program will also be offered at 8:00 p.m. on Wednesday, Aug. 27. As the planetarium can seat but 55 people at a performance it is advisable to obtain a ticket for the planetarium program at the Trailside office on the day of the showing. Tickets will be issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Children under eight years of age are not permitted in the planetarium chamber.

At 4 p.m. next Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, Mayer and Miss Irma H. Hever, educational assistant at Trailside, will present one-half hour nature talks for children. The topic selected for the four days is "Butterflies and Moths." The lectures will be illustrated with color slides. The talks on Wednesday and Thursday will be followed by a half-hour walk on the nature trails adjacent to the Trailside Nature and Science Center.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public every day, except Friday, from 11 to 5 p.m. The public is invited to visit the Nature Center, tour the live animal area, view the thousands of indoor exhibits, and participate in the scheduled programs.

Live below your means.

If you'd like to get around the high cost of living, we have a suggestion.

Cut down on the high cost of getting around. And buy a Volkswagen. It's only $1,799.*

That's around $1,200 less than the average amount paid for a new car today. (Leave it in the bank. More's coming.)

A VW saves you hundreds of dollars on upkeep over the years.

It takes pints, not quarts, of oil.

Not one iota of antifreeze.

And it gets about 27 miles to the gallon. The average car (thirsty devil that it is) only gets 14.

So the more you drive, the more you save.

And chances are, you'll drive it for years and years. (Since we never change the style, a VW never goes out of style.)

Of course, a VW's not much to look at. So a lot of people buy a big flashy car just to save face.

Try putting that in the bank.

Watchung Troop registration filled

Registration for the fall season of horseback riding with the Watchung Troop, sponsored by the Union County Park Commission, has been completed. During the past two weeks all available time has been taken by Union County residents, boys and girls between nine and 18 years of age, it was announced by Robert J. Luthin, director of the Watchung Troop at the Watchung Stable.

Luthin stated that because of the complete enrollment by Union County residents, the registration for boys and girls living out of Union County that was scheduled for Saturday has been cancelled. He indicated that over 650 places have been filled. The youngsters will start their riding season on Tuesday, Sept. 2.

The Watchung Troop, organized in March, 1934, by the Union County park commission, is said to be the largest children's riding program in the United States. The troop is formed into squads for sub-novice, novice, advanced, and experienced riders. Every member gains riding experience by a progressive series of classes and drills that include every phase of horsemanship.

Expectant parents' prep school to open

The fall series of classes for expectant parents at the Elizabeth General Hospital will start Monday, Sept. 8.

Classes will consist of six sessions on preparation for parenthood entitled Pregnancy—the implications of pregnancy on members of the family; Physical and emotional changes in the expectant mother; Physical and emotional preparation of the mother and father for the birth of the child; Physical and emotional needs of the newborn child; The role of the mother—and father—and instruction in controlled breathing and relaxation during labor.

The classes will be given in the evening so that husbands and wives can attend. Expectant parents are welcome regardless of the hospital they may choose for the delivery of the baby. A professional nurse with special training in parent education will conduct the course.

Classes will be held in the Nursing Students Residence, 133 Reid St., Elizabeth. A nominal fee will be charged. For registration and information, call the public relations office, Elizabeth General Hospital, 289-8600.

Peach treat suggestions are named

Brighten your menus with fresh peach treats while the New Jersey peach crop is coming to market, says Anne L. Sheelen, County Home economist.

As a suggestion for such a peach treat, serve the no crust peach pie, recipe given below. The base for the pie is formed by using easy-to-mix crumbs rather than a regular pastry shell.

For your pie, select peaches that are ripe. Mature peaches have a creamy ground color. Avoid ones with a completely green ground color because they are not ripe and will probably not ripen successfully even if held at room temperature.

As you are getting ready to prepare your pie, perhaps the directions for peeling peaches which the National Peach Council recommends, will be of help to you. Cover the peaches with boiling water for one minute; no more. Cool under running water. The skin will slip off in paper thin sheets. This method saves both time and waste.

Other ways to brighten your menus with fresh peach treats include sauces for ice cream, cobbler, shortcakes, salads, sliced on cereal or "as is" for a mid-morning or afternoon snack. Check your favorite cookbook for further ideas.

NO CRUST FRESH PEACH PIE

1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind (can omit)

Mix flour, sugar, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Cut in butter with pastry blender, or two knives, to make coarse crumbs. Press one cup mixture into bottom and sides of buttered nine-inch pie pan. Mix fresh peaches with a half

Medicare facts detailed by nursing home official

A forum on Medicare to explain the workings of the plan and its benefits was conducted recently by Cornell Hall Convalescent Center, Union, for a group of senior citizens. According to Mrs. Elizabeth Bair, R.N., administrator, Cornell Hall was certified recently to treat patients under Medicare.

She pointed out that senior citizens are eligible for a maximum stay of 100 days in a qualified extended care facility only after they have spent at least three consecutive days in a hospital. Under Medicare, the patient must be admitted to a nursing home within 14 days after discharge from a hospital in order to qualify for Medicare benefits. "While Medicare pays all charges for the first 20 days of care, the patient must assume a daily charge of $5.50 for each day of care over 20 days," Mrs. Bair declared. "This is in addition to any personal charges, such as beauty or barber shop services, radio, television, telephone, personal laundry and other personal expenses."

Mrs. Bair noted that Medicare pays for bed and board in rooms with two, three and four beds; nursing services, except private-duty care; drugs; medical supplies; diagnostic services; physical therapy and speech therapy. The convalescent center offers religious services by clergymen of various faiths, special prescription diets, outdoor patios, dining room, recreation activities and 24-hour coverage by registered nurses. When medically necessary, private rooms can also be provided under Medicare.

In addition to 100 days of Medicare benefits in a nursing home, the program also covers the costs of as many as 100 home health visits under Part "A" of Medicare, Mrs. Bair explained. These, however, must occur before the beginning of a new "spell of illness." This period has been defined by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare as beginning with the first day of in-patient hospital or nursing home care for a Medicare patient. The first day of the "spell of illness" must not have occurred during a previous "spell" and the period ends when the patient has been out of a hospital and an extended care facility for at least 60 consecutive days.

Mrs. Bair pointed out that the 100 home health visits must take place within one year after discharge from the hospital or extended care facility. In addition, the visits must be made under a plan established by the Medicare patient's physician within 14 days after his discharge from a hospital or extended care facility. The Cornell Hall administrator listed part-time nursing care, physical, occupational or speech therapy; the part-time services of a home health aide, and medical supplies, with the exception of drugs, as examples of the types of services regarded as home health visits. The services must be provided at home, except for the use of specialized equipment that might be available only at a hospital or extended care facility.

Mrs. Bair noted that she would be happy to explain Medicare benefits to any interested group. Arrangements can be made by contacting her at 687-7800.

The epic story of Apollo 11 and man's first moon landing will be observed by Radio of Free Asia through 30 days of special broadcasts to the blacked out millions on the China mainland and in North Korea.

"The great achievement of Armstrong, Aldrin, Collins and the space pioneers behind them is a story that belongs to all mankind. It is a crime against humanity that Communist press and radio have denied news of this triumph to nearly one Billion people in Communist Asia," declared ROFA board chairman Ambassador You Chan Yang.

To shatter this blackout, Radio of Free Asia will devote 450 special programs to bring every detail of the moon shot and moon landing to the mainland Chinese and North Koreans. This is a moving testimony to our free and open society," Ambassador Yang said. The special programs will be based on materials provided by NASA. Radio of Free Asia was created in 1966, based on the late General Dwight D. Eisenhower's inspiration for a "bridge of truth" to mainland Chinese. General Eisenhower served as an honorary president of ROFA until his death. ROFA broadcasts daily from a 500,000 watt transmitter in Seoul, Korea, in Chinese and Korean. ROFA is an activity of the Korean Cultural and Freedom Foundation, Inc., Washington, D. C.

Welcome Wagon parent firm begins trading on Big Board

'Bunnies' to be judged

NEW YORK — Welcome Wagon made the most unique call in its 41-year history Friday on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

The special occasion was the first day of trading on the Big Board for the common stock of FAS International, Inc., parent company of the Memphis-based community service organization. Representing the more than 6,000 Welcome Wagon hostesses in the United States and Canada was Ann Patten of Indianapolis, Ind. She presented gifts from "the most famous basket in the world" to Robert W. Haack, president of the Exchange. Mrs. Patten was accompanied by FAS President Gilbert K. Granet, who purchased the first block of 100 shares traded in the firm's stock.

The gifts donated by each of the companies in the FAS family were created specially for the event. Included were an original watercolor of the Exchange trading floor by Dong Kingman, a faculty member of Famous Artists School; a portfolio of color photographs of the Exchange's new trading room by Alfred Eisenstaedt, a faculty member of Famous Photographers School and an autographed poster from the play "How Now Dow Jones," written by Max Shulman, a member of the faculty of Famous Writers School.

Besides its Famous Schools Division, FAS International has a Linguaphone Institute, Evelyn Wood Reading Dynamics, International Accountants Society, and CIDE in its General Education Division, and Welcome Wagon and Famous Schools Publications in its Publishing and Services Division. Gifts from these companies were also presented to Haack.

Granet noted that FAS International, with its listing on the Big Board, has joined a select list of less than 1,500 of the nation's more than 1.5 million companies.

In its course division, FAS has more than 340,000 active students studying in 60 countries. The company listed 4,388,385 shares. It trades under the ticker symbol, FAS.

ALL ABOUT PEOPLE

By JOE BELFORD

HAVE YOU ever wondered... HOW LONG COULD MAN SURVIVE AS AN ISLAND UNTO HIMSELF? By Island we don't mean Long Island, or Staten Island, or Nantucket Island... but an ISLAND UNTO HIMSELF...

At 11:45 A.M. on November 23, 1942, the S.S. Ben Lomond was torpedoed in the Atlantic Ocean approximately 750 miles off the Azores. Second Steward Poon Lim, a member of the U.K. Merchant Navy, managed to climb aboard a raft... and there he stayed... and stayed... Poon Lim stayed on that life-raft for 133 days (4-1/2 months). Finally, Poon Lim was picked up by some fishermen off Salinas, Brazil, on April 5, 1943. The most incredible part of this story is the fact that after 4-1/2 months on a raft, alone in the Atlantic Ocean... Poon Lim... was able to walk ashore!

In July, 1943, Poon Lim was awarded the British Empire Medal.
