Symphonic Band of Virginia State to present concert

The Virginia State College Symphonic Band, sponsored by the Mountainside Music Association, will welcome spring with a concert at the Deerfield School Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Musical items include a Mexican folk song symphony, "La Fiesta Mexicana" by Reed, to "Spiritual Festival" arranged by Ades. The latter contains "Let My People Go" and "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands."

The symphonic band's appearance in Mountainside will wind up its 23rd spring tour after having played in Newark, New York and Boston. The MMA will hold a buffet dinner Saturday for the band and a "give-and-take" show with performances by the students and MMA members.

Charles Guinta, instrumental music teacher at the Deerfield Middle School, said, "We are all hungry for something exciting and inspiring that we can share as a family. It's great that the Mountainside Music Association is bringing an afternoon of music to the community that will be entertaining for both children and adults."

In addition to the symphonic band, Virginia State also has a marching band that plays for the New York Giants home football games at Yankee Stadium, New York City. Tom Wallace, vocal teacher in the borough's schools, and Billy Taylor, musical director of the David Frost Show, are alumni of the college.

Tickets can be obtained from MMA members or at the door. Adult tickets cost $1.50 and student and senior citizen tickets are 75 cents.

Library begins new loan service

A new rental service, the McNaughton Plan, which provides a revolving inventory of book titles that are in demand has been inaugurated by the Mountainside Public Library.

The library rents the books but does not charge a fee to the borrower, a spokesman said. Only book titles with recent publication dates are offered. It does not offer textbooks, technical books, multiple-volume sets, definite biographies, how-to-do-it books and autobiographies unless the author or content is of general interest, the spokesman explained.

Once a McNaughton book has been ordered a request will be taken. They will remain in the library until they are no longer requested, the spokesman added.

McNaughton books offered by the library are: "The Bloody Benders" by Robert H. Adleman, "The Passion of Robert Bronson" by Juan-Alonso, "Involuntary Journey to Siberia" by Andrei Amalrik, "Sex in Human Evolution" by Eric Berne, "An Eye for the Dragon" by Dennis Bloodworth, "Bill Among the Ruins" by Vance Bourjaily, "Bucher: My Story" by Lloyd M. Bucher, "The Kennedy Women" by Pearl Buck, "Mandala" by Pearl Buck, "Roosevelt: The Soldier of Freedom" by James Burns, "Great Lion of God" by Taylor Caldwell, "Papillon" by Henri Charriere, "I Remember It Well" by Maurice Chevalier, "Passenger to Frankfurt" by Agatha Christie, "Game of Nations" by Miles Copeland, "The Toff and the Fallen Angels" by John Greasy, "God is an Englishman" by R. F. Delderfield, "Illegal Tender" by D. D. Devine, "From Those Wonderful Folks Who Gave You Pearl Harbor" by Jerry Della Femina, "Melbury Square" by Dorothy Eden, "The Wild Runners" by Melvin Ellis, "A Calculated Risk" by Rae Foley, "Best American Short Stories: 1970" edited by Martha Foley, "Three-Cornered Heart" by Anne Fremantle, "White Dog" by Román Gary, "The Family Tomb" by Michael Gilbert, "A Conscience of a Majority" by Barry Goldwater, "A Guest of Honor" by Nadine Gordimer, "The Child from the Sea" by Elizabeth Goudge, "Such Good Friends" by Lois Gould, "The Family Guarachi" by Giovanni Guareschi, "Cedarhurst Alley" by Denton Hatch, "Best Science Fiction: 1969" edited by J. Borough Council cuts school budget $204,080

The Mountainside Borough Council passed a resolution at a special meeting last Thursday which reduced the 1971-1972 school budget by $204,080.

No immediate comment was available from spokesmen for the Mountainside Board of Education as to whether or not the board would appeal the cut to the state commis-

2nd lecture in series on sex education scheduled by OLL

Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Mountainside, will present the second lecture in a three-part series on Sex Education in the Home Wednesday at 8:15 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Jack McCormick, the parents of four children, will discuss "Parents' Attitudes and Responsibilities." The film "Human Reproduction" will accompany the talk.

More than 100 people attended the first lecture in the series, "Psychological Development of Child and Adolescent," which was given by Dr. Thomas E. Potter, a diplomat of the American Board of Pediatricians. A question and answer period followed.

Committee members for the series are: Mrs. Casimir Ostrecki, school liaison member of the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Root, co-chairmen; Don Leo, Miss Kathy Fischer and John McCarthy, publicity; Mrs. Robert Cleveland, Mrs. Ted Engert, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Gallagher, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Grace, Mr. and Mrs. Emmet King, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Orger, Mr. and Mrs. John Sexton and Mr. and Mrs. George Wiech, discussion leaders; Mrs. Horace Cardoni, Mrs. Andrew Kortina and Mrs. Wiech, welcoming committee, and Mrs. Joseph Slejk, Mrs. Robert Smith and Mrs. Steven Sussko, refreshments.

THEATER FOR CHILDREN — Members of the Webumpka Players, a children's theater group, rehearse for the play "Kingdom in Distress" which is being sponsored by the Youth Theater Committee of the Mountainside PTA. The story is about a king who is ill and has three ugly daughters. He must have an heir before he dies or his brother will inherit the throne. The play, for kindergarten through fifth grade students, will be presented tomorrow from 3:30 to 4:50 p.m. in the Deerfield School gym. Admission is $1. Any parent who is interested in monitoring the play can call Jean Baker at 232-6404.

Regional board backs referendum on May 4

By ABNER GOLD

The Regional High School Board of Education Tuesday night authorized a $4,730,000 expansion bond proposal to be presented to the voters on May 4. The plan would provide additional facilities in the four Regional high schools, serving six communities.

Board members backed the proposal by a margin of six to three in a meeting which was tinged with personal bitterness. Voting in favor of the plan were Mrs. Natalie Wald and Dr. Benjamin Josephson of Springfield, Edwin Little and Dr. Fred Hagedorn of Berkeley Heights and Manuel Dios and John Cullen of Clark. Opposed were Dr. Minor C. K. Jones of Mountainside, Charles Scheuermann of Kenilworth and John E. Conlin of Garwood. Several board members clashed over aspects of the plan. They included Dr. Josephson and Dr. Jones, Dr. Josephson and Scheuermann, Dr. Hagedorn and Dr. Jones and, particularly, Cullen and Conlin.

The $4,730,000 figure represents a sharp cut from the expansion bond proposal defeated by the voters last spring. The price tag on that plan was nearly $7 million.

The new figure includes construction work at all four high schools. Estimated costs for each school are:

Jonathan Dayton Regional, Springfield, $1,902,000; A. L. Johnson Regional, Clark, $1,643,000; Gov. Livingston Regional, Berkeley Heights, $590,000; and David Brearley Regional, Kenilworth, $595,000.

As part of its planning, the board approved a set of "educational specifications for fulfilling the needs of the Union County Regional High School District through the mid-70s."

The preface to that statement reads as follows:

"In order to continue to have a quality educational program in the Regional district, and in order to improve that program to its maximum, it is imperative that much thought be given to the construction and reconstruction of our existing school plants.

"As we move toward the last quarter of the 20th century, certain educational trends are apparent.

Council has complaints about water

By JANICE ADLER

Excess chlorine and chemicals intended to keep the bacteria count in the borough's water system at acceptable levels are the principal reason the water has tasted different recently, this explanation was given by Councilman John Hechtle Tuesday at the Borough Council meeting at the Beechwood School.

Hechtle said he called the water company Monday in response to several complaints by borough residents. He commented that the town's water supply comes chiefly from an above-the-ground system instead of wells, as in the past. Last month's heavy rainfall, combined with a hard freeze followed by a sudden thaw, did not give the water a chance to aerate naturally. Therefore the water company had to treat it chemically.

Some residents also complained that rusty water was coming out of their taps. Hechtle said the water company had opened hydrants to clear the water lines after the gas company had to cut through the pipes to do maintenance work. Opening the hydrants caused the water to flush out the rust, he added.

Committee member Lou Parent commented on the resolution passed by the council that cut the 1971-1972 school budget by $204,080. He said he hopes the Board of Education will have no difficulty allocating funds for the continuance of an adequate and excellent education in the borough.

Police Commissioner Robert Ruggiero read a letter from the Kenilworth Police Department to Police Chief Edward Mullin commending the service of Det. Sgt. Jerome Rice. The letter said Rice was responsible for helping Kenilworth authorities do undercover work

LEARNING EXPERIENCE — Eighth graders at the Deerfield Middle School, Mountainside, are being encouraged to become independent through the formation of the student center there. The center, manned and operated by the Student Council, aims at changing in the students' concept of the school from 'yours' to 'mine,' according to principal Herbert Brown. The pupils are allowed to go to the center once a month during a study or library period to do what they want, such as listening to records or playing educational games.

Board meets Tuesday at Brearley Regional

The regular monthly meeting of the Union County Regional High School District Board of Education will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the cafeteria at the David Brearley Regional High School, Kenilworth.

The Regional District comprises Berkeley Heights, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside and Springfield and operates four high schools.

Feeling of independence Pupils can earn a privilege

There is a room behind the cafeteria in the Deerfield Middle School, Mountainside, where eighth graders are learning to become independent. This is the Student Center.

The center, which opened in January, is entirely operated and manned by the Student Council. The students can only go there once a month during either a study or library period. They receive a pass giving their name and homeroom which is used as a control.

Herbert J. Brown, principal of Deerfield Middle, said there have been no problems so far. He added that if a student defaults he or the vice-principal are the only ones who can rescind his privilege. The pupil cannot utilize the center for the rest of the year if he abuses the rules.

Brown explained the rationale behind the Student Center. He commented, "It encourages the students to move from a state of dependency to one of independence. Current thinking by educational researchers strongly suggests that schools for adolescents be made as humane as possible in every facet of the program.

"It is contemplated that, by creating the center, we might change the students' image of the school from 'yours' to 'mine.' This way we may elevate respect for the establishment and possibly lower the incidence of vandalism. I'm hopeful.

"With the creation of a highly successful tutorial program for sixth, seventh and eighth graders this year, the cafeteria is being extensively used for study periods. The Student Center will be able to partially satisfy their needs by supplying dictionaries and other reference materials.

"EXPERIENCES THAT allow students to accept responsibility and to grow in self-confidence are directly sought. The center is manned and operated by Student Council members in much the same way as they handle activities such as selling refreshments and monitoring the halls."

Brown told what is allowed by having created the center. He said, "This is a place where all eighth graders can go once a month. It provides a free paperback exchange for all

One person killed, three others hurt in Rt. 22 accident

Serafin Valez, 23, of Jersey City was killed Sunday morning when a car in which he was a passenger struck the concrete surrounding a utility pole on Rt. 22 East, according to Mountainside police. Three others in the car were injured and were taken to Overlook Hospital, Summit, by the Mountainside and Westfield Rescue Squads.

A hospital spokesman said Roberto Maldonado of Jersey City, the driver, is in good condition with multiple injuries. Aurora Comacho of Bayonne is in fair condition in the special care unit with multiple injuries; Barbara Kavanaugh of Jersey City was admitted for bruises and was discharged Tuesday. Valez was pronounced dead on arrival at the hospital.

The police report said Patrolman Wayne Martin and Frederick Ahlborn responded to a fire alarm that had gone off at 2:50 a.m. in front of Hall and Fuhs. Upon their arrival they found the demolished car against the pole. Maldonado, Miss Kavanaugh and Miss Comacho were lying on the ground and Valez was trapped in the rear of the car.

Police said they could not immediately identify the victims. It took about 20 minutes to free Valez. Police added they assume Maldonado was the driver because of where he was found.

Police were unable to immediately determine what happened. According to their reconstruction after questioning the victims, the driver lost control of the car which hit the curb and turned sideways. The car then skidded into the pole.

Step right up to hear author of 'Staircase' at synagogue

Author Bel Kaufman will present the second in a series of three adult lectures at Temple Beth Ahm, 60 Temple dr., Springfield, on Sunday at 8 p.m. She is the author of "Up the Down Staircase."

Miss Kaufman will address herself to the general theme "Challenge of Change." German-born, she spent her childhood in Russia where her first poem was published in a Russian children's magazine when she was seven. Her physician father was also a poet and writer of stories and her mother, the daughter of the famous Sholem Aleichem, published more than 2,000 short stories.

Miss Kaufman received a B.A. degree from Hunter College where she was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and was graduated magna cum laude. She earned her M.A. degree with highest honors at Columbia University, specializing in 18th century literature and recently taught a course in it. She also taught in varied New York high schools.

She has written short stories for Esquire, Colliers and other magazines and then moved to her present career of college teaching. Her best-selling novel, "Up the Down Staircase," was originally written for the Saturday Review as a short story entitled "From a Teacher's Wastebasket."

Among her awards are an honorary doctorate degree from Nasson College in Maine, Fiction Paperback of the Year, National School Bell Award and the Box Office Blue Ribbon Award. She is currently at work on a new novel and lyrics for a musical.

A question and answer period will follow the lecture. Refreshments will be served in the temple.

The final lecture of the series will be held on Sunday, April 18 featuring commentator Edwin Newman.

For further information and tickets for this third annual lecture series, readers may contact Temple Beth Ahm, 60 Temple dr., Springfield, or call the temple office, 376-2987; Martin Shindler, president of the temple, 376-3616; Mrs. Edith Callen, 379-9533, or Larry Goodman, 379-3571.

Science teachers hold workshop at Gaudineer School

The New Jersey Science Teachers Association and the New Jersey Department of Education sponsored an elementary science workshop at Florence Gaudineer School, Springfield on March 6. During the workshops, elementary teachers, science supervisors, and curriculum coordinators had the opportunity to work with environmental educational materials.

The workshops, each emphasizing particular grade areas covered a variety of topics.

"Education for Survival," the first workshop was presented in two sessions. David F. Moore, executive director of the North Jersey Conservation Foundation, and Kenneth T. Kellers, chief naturalist for the Monmouth County Park Commission, provided a background of plant and animal ecosystems during the first session. The second session, based on a teachers' curriculum guide published by the foundation and developed by David Moore and Dr. Gertrude Tempe, demonstrated the interweaving of ecological concepts into the curriculum.

"The Great Wide World Outside," presented by Naomi Cory, specialist in science education, stressed using the senses to discover and explain, at the child's level, all phases of life in the environment in which he lives.

Christopher Rose, in the workshop "Water Ecology," provided teachers with techniques for studying the interaction of animals, plants, weather, soil, and water. Emphasizing the food-energy chain, he showed how to relate all forms of life around a water source.

Slide-making and staining were two of several topics covered in the workshop "Basic Microscope Techniques." Consultants to this workshop were Robert Simmons and Daniel Bacon.

Ken Marrow, supervising the workshop "Water Pollution," allowed participants to conduct experiments and investigations related to water quality which they can later perform with their own classes.

Using techniques developed at Newark State College by the School of the Outdoors Foundation, Carolyn Crowell demonstrated in the workshop "Air Pollution," how to involve students in inquiry into and discovery of controls for the problems of air pollution.

Missionary to give lecture on her experiences in Bolivia

Auberta Galusha, a United Methodist missionary in Bolivia, will be guest speaker at Springfield Emanuel United Methodist Church Mall at Academy Green, this Sunday at 5 p.m. The congregation will share in a family night covered dish supper, followed by a slide-lecture in which Miss Galusha will recount her experiences in Bolivia. Each family should bring a dish of food. Dessert and beverage will be served by the Wesleyan Service Guild.

A native of Caldwell, Miss Galusha graduated from Trenton State College, and then taught for two years in Wayne public schools. She then undertook graduate studies at Scarritt College, Nashville, Tenn., before intensive training under the Board of Missions of the United Methodist Church at Drew University and Stony Point Orientation Center. She was commissioned a missionary of the United Methodist Church in 1966 at Morrow Memorial United Methodist Church, Maplewood.

In Bolivia Miss Galusha was involved in literacy work and adult education, served for a year at the American Institute in Cochabamba and was secretary of public relations and promotion for the Methodist bishop of Bolivia before her present furlough.

"ONE GREAT HOUR of Sharing" will be observed by the local congregation at all services this Sunday. An offering will be received to aid the Methodist committee on overseas relief as it responds to emergency situations like the tidal wave in East Pakistan last November. At 9:30 and 11 a.m. in the chapel and sanctuary, respectively, Pastor James Dewart will continue his sermons relating to human crises: "The Crisis of Change," based on Mark 4:35-41, Church School meets at 9:30 a.m.

At the same hour the German language worship service will be conducted by Emanuel Schwing, lay pastor, in the sanctuary. His sermon will be entitled: "God Whose Name is Holy," Isaiah 57:15.

Members and friends have been invited to share in conversation at 10:30 a.m. in Fellowship Hall when the Church School staff serves coffee and buns.

Blumenfeld supervised teachers conducting investigations designed for the seventh and eighth grades, in the workshop "Advanced Microscope Techniques."

'Send Seals to Florida' drive to be started by Y

Boys and girls from the Summit Area YMCA swim teams, known as the "Summit Y Seals," will represent the local Y at the YMCA national championship meet to be held at the Swimming Hall of Fame in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., April 21 to 24. Approximately 20 swimmers will be selected by qualifying trials from among the older Summit team members. They will compete against teams from all over the United States.

All 200 members of the Summit Y swim teams and their parents will cooperate in fund-raising efforts to help finance the trip for their representatives.

The weekend of March 27 and 28 will be designated "Seal Weekend" at which time there will be a white elephant sale held at the Y auditorium, and a two day "Swimathon" to be held in the pool.

In addition, bumper stickers will be sold bearing the message, "Send the Summit Y Seals to YMCA Nationals." The "Swimathon" is a type of swimming marathon in which many swimmers sign up sponsors among their friends and families who will pledge an amount of money for each lap the swimmer is able to swim continuously in a two-hour period.

Every swimmer regardless of his ability will be able to contribute laps toward the project. The public will be invited to see the "Swimathon."

Joseph Dunn of New Providence is in charge of fund raising activities, with Mrs. Calvin Doonan of Summit in charge of the White Elephant Sale.

'Lovers' play in rehearsal

Rehearsals are in progress for the Springfield Community Players production, "Lovers and Other Strangers," at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center in Springfield.

Some set construction work has begun and there is still a need for set construction men, scenery painters, people to handle tickets and publicity, and backstage workers and crew. There is also a need for properties (furniture used in scenes) and prop personnel.

"Lovers and Other Strangers" will be presented May 7 and 8 at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. Anyone interested in joining the production may call the Civic Center, 376-5884, for further information.

Police investigating 2 Sunday break-ins

There were two break and entries Sunday, according to Springfield police. A woman's wrist watch, two men's rings and a pair of binoculars were taken from a house on Tooker avenue, police said. Entry was made by someone forcing a side door.

The other break and entry was at a house on Avon road. Entry was made by someone forcing the rear door, police reported. Three furs, silverware and jewelry were reported missing.

Y schedules a rally for day camps

A rally for the Summit Area YMCA's summer day camps, Camp Cannundus for boys and Camp Triangle for girls, will be held in the YMCA auditorium Friday, April 2, at 7:30 p.m. Members of the camp staff will present a program of slides of camp activities and answer questions. Refreshments will also be served.

Boys and girls, grades 2-7, interested in attending day camp this summer, and their parents, are invited. Reservations may be made by calling the Y, 273-3330.

Camp Cannundus has been operated by the Summit YMCA for over 30 years; Camp Triangle is now in its fifth season. Camps are operated in four two-week sessions beginning June 28 with activities including swim instruction, recreational swimming, crafts, games campcraft, trips, overnights, cookouts, hiking, exploring, nature study, sports and skills training.

Outdoor campsite this year will be the Boy Scout Junco area in the Watchung Reservation. Part of each day is spent there with a shuttle bus transporting campers to the YMCA for swim periods.

During the camp season bus service is provided from pickup points in Summit, New Providence, Berkeley Heights, Millburn, Short Hills, and Springfield to transport children to and from day camp.

David R. Cotten, YMCA extension and camping director, is in charge of the day camp program. Brochures and information may be obtained by calling the Y, 273-3330.

GOSPEL VENTRILOQUIST - Wally Jones, a Gospel ventriloquist, and his friend Tommy will present a show presenting Bible truths to children Sunday at 9:45 a.m. at the Evangelical Baptist Church at 242 Shunpike rd., Springfield. Jones, a former night club and stage entertainer, has presented programs of this sort since his conversion and Bible school training. Next Sunday, March 28, there will be a circus parade in the church parking lot at 9:45 a.m. These events are intended to encourage the township's children to attend church.

Success of basketball, wrestling teams make next season's outlook really rosy

By BILL LOVETT

In one of the more successful winter sports seasons in Gov. Livingston's 10-year history, the wrestling team continued its winning tradition and the basketball team made fantastic strides in its quest for a Watchung Conference championship.

It was also a season for individual stars -- like Rich Weiss, Stuart Brown, Kevin McBrien and Brian Ruff, who battled injuries, inexperience and some pretty tough opponents to contribute to the success the basketball and wrestling teams enjoyed.

It was also a season to look ahead -- both squads will have most of their members returning so prospects are promising for next year. The wrestlers have two district champs returning; the basketball could boost the top front line in the conference or county and will have Peter Haberstroh, a fine guard, coming up from JV.

The basketball team had its first winning record in six years, coming back from a dismal 2-7 start to finish 12-11 -- despite the loss of the greatest player in Gov. Livingston history, Jeff Burdette.

The team also defeated Scotch Plains for the first time, in a 59-57 thriller and routed Westfield, 74-58. In the state tournament, despite an injury that kept their top guard and playmaker Weiss, off the court most of the contest, Regional beat Watchung Conference champion Cranford, 66-60, before being eliminated by East Orange.

Weiss and McBrien, key figures in Regional's resurgence, will be lost through graduation. The 5-10 Weiss had a superb second half of the season; despite his lack of height, his fine outside shooting ability and brilliant passing and driving set up Regional's offense. When he was confident, as he was to a much greater degree the second half of the season, the Highlander attack became a superbly coordinated unit.

McBrien was the team's leading rebounder and was their most consistent scorer. The 6-2 center battled taller opponents all year and lost few of those battles. Few will forget his final game against East Orange -- giving away four inches and 40 pounds to his opponent, he scored 26 points and held his man to just two.

But there is a host of talented juniors returning, including Ron Steele, Don Reynolds, Curt Mohns and John Barry. Haberstroh fits into the Weiss-Burdette mold. Possessing a jumper which is getting better every day, and a flair for passing, Pete should run the offense with a more than capable hand.

Although several standout wrestlers will graduate, Coach Mike Sorrentino has district champs Kevin Keyes and Brian Ruff coming back as well as other standouts such as Scott Shallerross, Kevin Dowling, Gil Smith (who was injured all season) and Kevin Shallerross. Graduating are Stu Brown, who also triumphed in the districts, and Dana Sommers, who finished second, losing to Ron Ferrara on a reversal in the last six seconds. Brown, who lost only twice all year, was the mainstay of the team.

Next season, the squad will be bolstered by some fine JV wrestlers, led by 115-pound Rusty Ciendenin.

Angels purchase L. A.'s Torborg

Mountainide's baseball star Jeff Torborg spent most of the winter telling friends around Union County that he expected to be traded by the Los Angeles Dodgers.

He got his wish Sunday when the Dodgers sold him to the California Angels for an undisclosed sum, believed to be in excess of the $20,000 waiver price.

Torborg, a graduate of Westfield High School, had been a member of the Dodgers for seven seasons. He was used mainly as a backup catcher, appearing only in 64 games last year. He hit .231 with 17 RBIs and one home run.

The trade means that the 29-year-old catcher will still spend his seasons in California. He had hoped to be dealt to Montreal of the National League. With the Angels, Jeff will battle Joe Azcue for the first-string job. Azcue has yet to sign his 1971 contract.

Car flips on Rt. 22, but driver is unhurt

Sylvester Harris of Newark escaped injury Friday morning when his car turned over on Rt. 22 West near New Providence road, according to Mountainide police.

Police said Harris was traveling west on the highway when he lost control of his vehicle which ran off the road and turned over. There was damage to trees and shrubs in front of 1500 Rt. 22 and to a mailbox in front of 1496 Rt. 22.

IN RECENT YEARS, the Port Authority has used as its justification for shunning unwanted projects. 1962 laws enacted by New York and New Jersey that give bondholders assurance that the project will not be forced into any mass transit projects involving deficits that exceed an amount computed under a complicated formula. Since the Port Authority has issued bonds that do not mature until 2006, it should be clear that Governors Cahill and Rockefeller and the legislatures of the two states are engaging in exercises in futility in hoping that the Port Authority will get involved with mass transit. By agreeing to study four of Governor Cahill's excellent proposals, the Port Authority is buying at least two more years of time in which to continue shirking what I regard as its duty to take meaningful action on mass transit.

Those familiar with the Port Authority's evasive tactics will recall that the agency went into the mass transit program feet-first nearly a decade ago. But when it finally permitted itself to be dragged in, the agency won approval of the laws in New York and New Jersey that effectively give it veto power over any future forays into mass transit that might be mandated by the two states.

NEW YORK ATTORNEY Theodore Kheel has filed suit to overturn that law in his state. A similar suit has been filed in New Jersey. Kheel seeks to nullify the 1962 law that he contends the Port Authority is using as justification for refusing to spend more than one percent of its bonded indebtedness on railroad projects unless they carry freight or are profitable. As Kheel so aptly put it during a news conference, "if it's profitable, who needs the Port Authority?"

A victory in the courts for Kheel could be a milestone in the battle of the States of New Jersey and New York to force the Port of New York Authority to take a more active role in mass transit. However, should Kheel fail to prevail, the Cahill and Rockefeller administrations should support legislation to repeal these most unusual laws that the Port Authority has used as a shield to keep it out of mass transit on a large scale.

Whether the laws are overturned in court or by legislative action, they must be removed from the books so the States of New York and New Jersey can tell the Port Authority what to do in the field of mass transportation and not wait for any more "studies."

Hy Kalus, one of Israel's leading stage directors and founder of the Israel Actors Studio, will speak at the pacesetters' luncheon of the Women's Division, Westfield-Mountain-side Area, United Jewish Appeal, at noon next Thursday, March 25, in the Tower Restaurant on Rt. 22 in Mountainide.

Mrs. Walter Averick of Mountainide is chairman of the pacesetters' division. Members of the committee include Mrs. Herbert Seidel, Mrs. Harold Simon and Mrs. Milton Wasch of Mountainide.

Kalus was born in Providence, R.I., and spent several years in New York and elsewhere studying for the theater as an actor, director and producer. He went to Israel 10 years ago.

Kalus has directed works by Eugene O'Neill, Arthur Miller, John Osborne, Lillian Hellman and William Inge for two of Israel's major theaters, Habimah and the Chamber. He has also directed several documentary films. Presently, he is directing a Broadway production of "The Madness of God," by Elie Wiesel. The United Jewish Appeal, to meet health, education and welfare needs in postwar Israel and in 30 other countries, continues the emergency fund which was launched in June 1967 on behalf of Israel's people and the regular annual campaign to finance the welfare, medical, reconstruction and immigration programs that are conducted on behalf of 850,000 destitute Jewish men, women and children throughout the world.

Grand jury gets a robbery case

Stephen H. Adams of Summit was referred for action by the Union County Grand Jury at a preliminary hearing by Judge Jacob Bauer last Wednesday in Mountainide Municipal Court. Adams is charged with robbery at the Citgo Service Station on Mountain Avenue while armed with a knife and forcibly taking money by putting the attendant in fear of his life. He was released on $2,500 bail.

Richard B. Giordano of Westfield was fined $25 on each of two charges. They were failing to stop for a stop sign at the corner of Rt. 22 and Mountain Avenue and driving with an expired driver's license.

Roger S. Ballingall of Millington was fined $15 for driving a commercial vehicle in a county park. He also paid $25 for not having the registration for the vehicle he was driving in his possession.

In addition, Louis Larasso of Linden was fined $25 for not having the registration for the vehicle he was driving in his possession.

Hadassah art show offers wide choice for buyers, viewers

"If you are looking for a Picasso or a Renoir or just something to fit some design scheme, you will find it at the 13th annual art show and sale of the Westfield-Mountain-side Chapter of Hadassah which will open Saturday night and continue through Tuesday at Temple Emanu-El," according to a chapter spokesman.

Included in the exhibit of 1,500 original works in all media are pieces by nationally and internationally known artists, along with local and statewide exhibitors. There will also be a large portfolio collection—unframed works—for the young collector as well as the seasoned connoisseur, the announcement added.

Mrs. Lewis Goldstein and Mrs. Mic Perlman are selections chairmen for individual artists.

This event of the Westfield-Mountain-side Chapter is the primary means of fulfilling the chapter's commitments to the numerous projects of Hadassah. Among these are the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center, Hadassah Medical Organization, Jewish National Fund, vocational education projects, Youth Aliyah and youth activities in both the United States and Israel.

The show will be open to the public on Sunday from 1 to 10 p.m. and Monday and Tuesday from noon to 5 and 7 to 10 p.m. Monday is the two-for-one day when two visitors may enter for the price of one. A sandwich luncheon will be served on Monday. Free babysitting service is planned Monday and Tuesday from 1 to 4. Students will be admitted free.

Brother, sister named to college dean's lists

Rita and Gilles Einstein, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Einstein of 1416 Chapel Hill, Mountainide, have been named to dean's lists at colleges they are attending.

Rita is a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences at Ohio University, Athens, Ohio. Her brother is a junior at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa.

Dr. Ott is named head of Red Cross Chapter

Dr. Robert J. Ott of Westfield was elected chairman of the Westfield-Mountainide Red Cross Chapter at a recent Board of Directors meeting. At the same meeting, Mrs. John R. Skowronski was elected to the board and was named public relations chairman.

The Red Cross Council of Lyons Veterans Hospital has named Patricia Haetlein of Westfield to represent the Red Cross Junior Volunteers serving at Lyons at the Veterans Administration Voluntary Service 25th anniversary convention in Washington, D.C., March 31-April 2.

Two matriculate at Union College

James M. Unchester of 364 Central Ave. and Edward C. Zelazny of 1272 Virginia Ave., both of Mountainide, are among 252 students who launched their college careers at Union College's Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield campuses during the current spring semester.

Prof. Elmer Wolf, dean, reports the total of 252 includes fulltime and part-time, day and evening, and degree and non-degree students at all three campuses.

Unchester, a graduate of Rahway High School, is a liberal arts major in the evening session. He is the son of Robert Unchester Sr. and the late Mrs. Unchester.

A graduate of Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, Zelazny is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Zelazny. He is majoring in business administration in the evening session.

Lintner honored as sales leader

Harry M. Lintner of 1177 Wyoming Dr., Mountainide, was awarded a plaque for "outstanding performance" by Vulcan Metal Products, Inc., sales manager Larry Hagood in Birmingham, Ala., last week.

Lintner, who has represented Vulcan for more than 20 years in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Rhode Island, had the greatest dollar sales in the nation for an individual for the firm last year. Vulcan manufactures aluminum, steel and plastic materials for the building industry.

Man, woman face county grand jury on fraud charges

Carol Krantz of Irvington and Gary Hodge of Summit were bound over for action by the Union County Grand Jury by Judge Max Sherman Monday in Springfield Municipal Court. They are charged with defrauding the innkeeper at Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge on Rt. 22 by attempting to use a stolen credit card and with absconding from the motel without paying their bills.

In addition, Miss Krantz is charged with possession of a homemade syringe and needle. Bail of $1,000 each was continued.

Three persons were convicted of careless driving. David M. Epstein of 2 Avon rd., Springfield, was fined $30 for passing on the right and causing an accident on Mountain avenue. Gerald R. Maciolek of Lake Parsippany paid $25 for going too fast for road condition on S. Springfield avenue. Christian C. Rottmann Jr. of Delran was fined $20 for careless driving on Melsel avenue.

Four persons were fined for speeding. They were Thomas J. Walvada of South Orange, $30 for going 60 miles per hour in a 40 mile zone on Springfield avenue; Jesse L. Black of Union, $45 for going 58 mph in a 35 mile zone on Morris avenue; Bart A. Oberhauser of Mountainside, $35 for going 58 mph in a 35 mile zone on Mountain avenue, and Murray Price of Metuchen, $10 for going 45 mph in a 35 mile zone on Morris avenue.

Other convictions and fines were Mark Bogda of Union, $15 for following too closely on Morris avenue; Basil Milliano Jr. of Cranford, $15 for driving with a noisy muffler; Deborah O'Donnell of Bogalpa Park, $15 for disregarding an officer's signal on Morris avenue; and Eric M. Gomes of Plainfield, $15 for having only one headlight and one taillight.

Union youth, 20, turns himself in

Albert Peters, 20, of Union was arrested Friday by Springfield police in connection with a break and entry Thursday night at the Kaufman Carpet Company on Rt. 22. He is charged with breaking and entering and petty larceny.

Peters said Peters allegedly entered the store by breaking the glass in a side door and reportedly took an undetermined amount of cash. He allegedly returned the money and turned himself in to authorities, police added. He was released in the custody of the manager of Kaufman Carpets.

Anthony Zito of Newark and Robert John Roberts of Bloomfield were arrested Friday by police and charged with failing to give a good account of themselves. In addition, Zito was charged with possession of stolen property because he allegedly has unused prescription blanks from Martland Medical Center, Newark, in his possession. He also was charged with obtaining amphetamines with an invalid prescription.

Roberts was released on $200 bail. Zito is being held in the Union County jail in lieu of $5,000 bail.

Mrs. Wohlreich, active in charities

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon for Mrs. Erna D. Wohlreich of 100 Stone Hill rd., Springfield, who died Friday at Overlook Hospital, Summit. Mrs. Wohlreich, 59, was the wife of Charles C. Wohlreich.

Mrs. Wohlreich was born in Monticello, N.Y. She moved to Springfield two years ago after living in Maplewood for 25 years.

She was the founder of the Social Service Bureau of Temple B'nai Israel, Irvington, and belonged to the Ruth Gottscho Kidney Foundation, Millburn.

She was a member of Hadassah and was active in the Heart Fund.

Mrs. Wohlreich is also survived by a son, Jack, Jr. in Maryland; a daughter, Mrs. Sheila Weinstein of San Antonio, Tex.; two sisters, Mrs. Edith Pearl of Irvington and Mrs. Myra Bernstein of the Bronx; and three grandchildren.

Police arrest four in two incidents for possession of drug

Four persons were arrested last week by Springfield police and charged with possession of drugs in two separate incidents.

Police said Dennis G. Cannerella and Charles Clark, both of Elizabeth, were arrested last Thursday afternoon after police stopped them for questioning. The car's driver reportedly could not produce the registration. Upon searching the car, the investigating officer reportedly found marijuana on one of the men. The men then allegedly admitted they had been passing it back and fourth. They were released on $20 bail each and are due in court April 5.

Seth Leonard of Port Washington, N.Y., and David Bell of Sands Point, N.Y., were arrested last Wednesday morning, police reported. They allegedly were driving on Rt. 22 at 4 a.m. when police reportedly noticed a piece of furniture in the back of the car which they suspected to have been stolen. Upon investigation it was discovered that the furniture belonged to the mother of one of the men.

However, police said the driver was unable to produce the auto registration. Upon searching the car, the investigating officer allegedly found marijuana on one of the men. The men allegedly admitted they had been passing it back and forth. They were released on $200 bail each and are due in court Monday.

Dr. Oscar Fidel, local dentist, 67

Services were held Monday for Dr. Oscar Fidel, 67, of 14 Richmond dr., Springfield, who died Sunday at home. Dr. Fidel was born in Russia and came to this country as a young boy. He moved to Springfield several years ago.

He was graduated in 1928 from the College of Dental Surgery of the University of Maryland, College Park. He practiced dentistry in Baltimore, Newark and Springfield.

Dr. Fidel was a member of the New Jersey, Maryland and Essex and Union County dental societies, the Georgian Orthodontal Society and Springfield B'nai B'rith.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Dorothy Saltz Fidel; a daughter, Mrs. Jodi Smith of Springfield; his mother, Mrs. Ethel Fidel Kaufman of Plainfield; a brother, Morris of Union, and two sisters, Mrs. Nancy Wagman of Millburn and Mrs. Rose Fein of Union.

Five persons suffer injuries in Springfield auto accidents

Charles L. Wong of Orange was given a summons Saturday afternoon for careless driving even though he was not behind the wheel, according to Springfield police. His car, operated by Kwok Sau Mui of Newark, who was driving on a learner's permit, was involved in a collision. The accident involving Wong's car and a truck driven by Peter P. Smith of Cranford happened at the intersection of Shunpike road and Mountain avenue.

Police said the truck, owned by the Crerter

Adult school offers Scandinavian tips

Thinking of a vacation to one or all of the Scandinavian countries but you don't have enough information on what to see, what to wear, where to stay and how to tip?

The problem may be solved by attending a travel program sponsored by the Union County Regional Adult School Tuesday evening at the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, from 7:30 to 9.

A representative of Finnair, the Finnish airline, will be in Room 10 of the high school to present a program of travel tips to Denmark, Finland, Sweden and Norway. The travel session is being offered at no cost, according to Harry E. Linkin, director of adult education.

Library trustees set meeting tonight

The board of trustees of the Springfield Free Public Library is scheduled to meet tonight at 9 o'clock in the meeting room of the Library. The board's meeting, originally scheduled last Thursday was postponed for lack of the necessary quorum. The meeting is open to the public.

The Board of Trustees has elected the following officers: president, Mrs. Ben Paul Yuckman; vice president, Milton Kappstatter; secretary, Mrs. Samuel Filreis; treasurer, Mrs. Arthur Goldstein, and chairman of buildings and grounds, Robert W. Halsey.

Ex-Officio members of the board are: Committeeman Robert T. Weitchek representing Mayor Stokes, and John O. Berwick, superintendent of schools.

Vault Co., Garwood, had stopped at the intersection and was waiting for the light to change. Mui was approaching the light and accidentally put his foot on the gas pedal instead of the brake.

Three persons were slightly injured Friday night in an accident on Rt. 22 West near Stern avenue, police reported. The two drivers, Robert E. Hedrick of West Millington and Janet D. Barton of Cranford, and a passenger in the Barton car, Robert D. Debernardis of Brooklyn, were taken by the Springfield First Aid Squad to Overlook Hospital, Summit, where they were treated and discharged.

According to police, Hedrick was traveling west on the highway when the Barton car pulled out from Pizza Town USA. There were about 180 feet in skid marks from Hedrick's vehicle, police said. Both cars had to be towed away.

Angeline Basile of Union was slightly injured last Thursday afternoon in a three-vehicle accident at the corner of Morris avenue and Keeler street, police said. The Springfield First Squad took her to Overlook Hospital where she was treated and discharged.

The police report said the Basile car and a vehicle driven by William L. Servider of Norwood were going west on Morris when the Basile vehicle struck Servider's car. His car was pushed into another car that left the scene before police arrived.

A car driven by Ona J. Karasa of Berkeley Heights was allegedly responsible for an accident involving cars driven by Robert G. Parvin of Union and Delzon Kingett of Somerville on Rt. 22 West by the Echo Plaza Shopping Center, police said. Parvin, who was slightly injured, told police he would see his own doctor.

The police report said the Parvin car and Kingett's vehicle, owned by Magnetic Dictation of Somerville, were traveling west on the highway when the Karasa car suddenly pulled out of the shopping center. The Kingett car struck Parvin's car in the rear. Mrs. Karasa was not involved in the collision. She drove on but returned to the scene after a witness caught up with her and told her what had happened.

Curtis M. Brittle of Chatham was given a summons by police last Thursday morning for driving without glasses after his car was struck by a vehicle driven by Daniel Scarano of Millington, police said. The accident occurred the corner of Morris and Short Hills avenues.

According to police, Scarano was traveling east on Morris when a car driven by Diane Roe of Chappaqua, N.Y., pulled out of a driveway on Morris avenue and cut him off. The Scarano car was forced to cross the center line and collided with Brittle's vehicle that was going west on Morris.

Performance set by Millburnaires

An award from NCCJ

Joseph H. McCarthy, divisional vice-president of First National Stores, Inc. (FINAST) will receive the Brotherhood Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews at a dinner-dance in his honor on May 19 at the Americana Hotel, New York.

Announcement of the award to McCarthy was made by Dr. Sterling W. Brown, president of the NCCJ. The dinner will be sponsored by the Grocers and Allied Industries Division of the intergroup human relations agency.

Dr. Brown said that McCarthy was chosen for the award because of his "dedication to the cause of brotherhood." The award is given annually for significant contributions in the field of intergroup relations.

Founded in 1928 to counter religious prejudice, the NCCJ today has 75 offices throughout the United States and conducts a five-part program to better human relations in America through institutes on civic relations and the administration of justice, youth programs, courses to teach parents to raise children without prejudice, human relations seminars and institutes for teachers and interreligious programs for better interfaith understanding.

Legawiac works to be presented in Rhode Island

"First Performance," a recorded musical program featuring tape performances of compositions by Walter Legawiac of Mountainside, violinist, composer and conductor will be presented on Sunday evening, March 21, by the Pawtucket Public Library, an affiliate of the Northern Interrelated Library System of Rhode Island. The program will include:

Four Episodes for chorus and piano performed at Town Hall in New York in 1960. Mr. Legawiac received the Wassili Leps Foundation Award sponsored by Brown University for this work.

Mazurka No. 5 performed at the Kosciuszko Foundation in New York in 1970 by the gifted young American pianist Ian Shapitsky.

Polka for violin and piano, a musical memorial to John F. Kennedy performed by Legawiac and Paul Kueber, pianist, at the Kosciuszko Foundation.

CHARLOTTE MONTGOMERY

Selma Ross of Mountainide won third prize in the "Man and His Child" category of the annual photo contest held Sunday by the Westfield-Mountainide B'nai B'rith. More than 200 entries were received in the competition held at Temple Emanu-El in Westfield. First, second and third prizes and honorable mentions were given in each of 10 categories.

"Speaking Up for the Consumer" will be the subject of Charlotte Montgomery's talk this evening at 8 at the monthly meeting of the Mountainide Branch of the American Association of University Women at the home of Mrs. Roland Schiefelbusch, 1421 Chapel Hill. A group spokesman said the public is invited. Mrs. Montgomery has been a free-lance writer, speaker and consultant to business for a number of years, specializing in the woman consumer. Since 1955, she has been a contributing editor of Good Housekeeping magazine for which she writes a column called "Speaker for the House."

She is vice-president for women of the National Safety Council and a member of the board of trustees, Council of Better Business Bureaus. She has served as vice-president of the Society of Magazine Writers and is an honorary member of Theta Sigma Phi, national professional society for women in journalism and communications. She is a graduate of Vassar College, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

THE MOUNTAINIDE BRANCH of the American Association of University Women will hold an open house for new and prospective members on March 25 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Richard Wenzler, 1000 Chimney Ridge dr. (phone 232-6705). A spokesman added:

"This open house and finding will give old members an opportunity to become reacquainted; for new members to become better acquainted, and for AAUW membership rolls to be bolstered."

"Every AAUW member is urged to bring a prospective member. Any eligible woman is welcome."

(Continued from page 1) students so that they can read during a study period if they want. It is a repository for outdated and obsolete magazines that can be cut up and incorporated into students' reports in the various academic areas. It is a place where they can play educational games.

"It is a location where teachers' aides are available at certain times of the day for supervising make-up tests or monitoring students who are satisfying the instructional prescriptions of teachers. In addition, they have a place to work when assisting teachers with non-teaching chores."

"It is a place for teachers' aides to transcribe audio materials for use by students and teachers. Lastly, it is a place where we can operate and house our stereo equipment for playing music during those lunch periods when students cannot go outside because of inclement weather."

All materials in the room, including a soda machine and FM radio, were obtained by money that the students raised. The soda machine can only be used by students who are in the center.

Brown concluded, "We feel we are giving the students a chance to handle their own."

2 named to dean's list

Two Mountainide girls were cited for academic achievement at Beaver College, Glenside Pa. Named to the dean's list were Louise Sgarro, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sgarro of 283 Garrett rd., and Randy Schott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Schott of 371 New Providence rd.

Council meets

(Continued from page 1) on drug abuse. Because of him four persons were arrested on six charges and all pleaded guilty, the letter said. Ruggiero announced that Patrolman Joseph Loebli has received a grant for outstanding academic work at Union College, Cranford, which he attends nights. The commissioner said this is an indication of the type and ability of the men on the force.

Noting that there was a fatal automobile accident Sunday on Rt. 22, Ruggiero urged all who only have a short time to wait until they receive their driver's licenses to wait until they are properly prepared before driving. He added that the police will be on the lookout for anyone who is caught driving without a license.

Councilman Wilfred Brandt, sitting in for Mayor Thomas Ricciardi, urged drivers to exercise caution because the days are getting longer and children will be out playing in the streets. He requested drivers who come home at dusk to be especially careful of the youngsters because they mostly do not look out for themselves.

Borough Clerk Elmer Hoffarth read a copy of a resolution adopted by the Township of Garwood last month. The resolution opposes the passage of two Assembly bills that would provide a means for the dissolution of any regional school district.

Hecht commented on the newly inaugurated adult classes sponsored by the Recreation Department. The three classes began March 3. They are contact bridge, with 20 persons; silmastics, with 15, and woodworking, with seven. "They are the beginning of what the commission believes will be an expanding program if residents of our community want to take part with their friends and neighbors," he added.

The spring girls' softball league has 175 girls who signed up. The league will not be under the auspices of the Little League this year, Hecht added.

Brandt reminded the community that the public hearing on the municipal budget will be held Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the Beechwood School.

Regional

"(2) There will be a much greater use of large-group and small-group instruction, and of various types of scheduling.

"(3) Guidance will assume a larger position in the educational spectrum.

"(4) There will be much greater use of the library and concomitantly of other instructional materials including dial access master tapes, and instructional television.

"(5) Learning for leisure, viz. the areas of the arts, industrial arts, music, etc. will assume a new dimension.

"(6) The schools will, increasingly, be used by adults in the community. School buildings will be used more hours per day and more days per year, by more different groups than ever before.

"(7) Our areas of special education will increase.

"(8) We shall furnish educational services which are not only on the drawing boards of the most imaginative thinkers of today. "This is we build, we must build for a future, not for the present. With the maturing of all of the communities of the Regional district, this may be the last opportunity for changes which will assist us in the development of a new look at education. Let us build well."

The remainder of that statement will be printed next week.

Westfield Y in the swim

Scuba and junior skin diving lessons are again being offered at the Westfield YMCA during its spring term, which begins Monday. Registration is being held through this week at the Y, 138 Ferris pl.

The coed scuba classes, for those 15 or older, will be held Saturdays from 1 to 4:30 p.m. from April 3 to June 12. Safety as well as physiology will be emphasized in the study of self-contained underwater breathing apparatus. Maintenance and use of equipment will also be highlighted. Persons enrolling will be swim-tested the first day of the course. The test consists of an underwater swim, towing a victim, treading water and a quarter-mile swim. A YMCA-certified instructor, Irvin Rubin, is instructor for the course.

Junior skin diving is offered Mondays from 5 to 6 p.m. for boys in grades four to nine who have completed the flying fish level. A progressive aquatic program. The paper kick with flippers, clearing a mask, snorkeling and proper water entry will be taught. Divers must supply their own flippers, mask and snorkel.

Other advanced aquatic classes being offered for boys fourth grade to ninth include competitive swimming, springboard diving and water polo.

All competitive strokes, turns and starts will be taught in the competitive swimming classes from 10:30 to 11 a.m. Saturdays, with emphasis on better performance through fitness and technique.

Team prizes hiked by Echo Lanes for 40G bowling event

New Jersey's richest bowling tournament -- the $40,000 Echo Lanes-Cadillac Handicap five-man event for men and women's teams -- will have its 13th renewal April 24 to June 13 at the Rt. 22 establishment in Mountainide.

Jack Best, tournament director, announced the guaranteed top prize for men's teams is now $3,000 and the women's top award $600. In 1970, the winners received $2,000 and $500.

Main prize in the individual competition will be a $7,000 Cadillac coupe. The keys will be presented to the man or woman who bowls the highest gross series. The 1970 Cadillac was won by Al Figliolla of Brooklyn, who posted a 785 series on a 653 net score and handicap of 132.

The entry deadline for five-man, singles and doubles events is April 17.

The other guaranteed top prizes for men are $1,000 for the team scratch event, $800 for handicap doubles, $300 for scratch doubles, $375 for handicap singles and $150 for scratch singles. For the women top awards will include $300 for team scratch event, $250 for handicap doubles, $100 for scratch doubles, $125 for handicap singles and $50 for scratch singles.

The 1970 Echo Lanes tournament, one of the biggest in the East, produced a record prize list of $36,912, with $29,664 going to the men and $7,248 to the distaff legions.

Last year's handicap team winners were the Roosevelt Five of Jersey City, with a gross score of 3,262 in the men's division and the Gothamites of Jamaica, N.Y., with 3,160 in the women's section.

School Budget

(Continued from page 1) will nevertheless be in a position to continue to provide our children with an outstanding educational experience.

"Perhaps some of our fellow citizens will feel that we have not reduced the budget enough. Others may believe our modifications have been too large. Our only response to those who are not fully satisfied is that we have applied diligently the collective intellect of the council with searching consultation with those actually charged with the responsibility of operating the school system.

"We are satisfied that these reductions are responsible, and believe they are responsive."

Turnpike records low accident rate

The distinction of having the lowest accident rate of all major U. S. toll roads logging more than one-billion vehicle miles in 1970 goes to the New Jersey Turnpike, it was announced this week by Turnpike Authority Chairman Alfred E. Driscoll.

Citing figures released this week by the International Bridge, Tunnel & Turnpike Association, Driscoll noted that the New Jersey Turnpike accident rate of 89.3 per 100-million-vehicle miles was the lowest of the nine U. S. toll roads reporting more than one-billion vehicle miles.

Despite an increase in vehicle miles from 2.2 billion miles in 1969 to nearly 2.4 billion last year, a reduction in total accidents from 2,272 to 2,135 brought the Turnpike's accident rate down from 102.8 to 89.3.

Because of the increased traffic mileage, the Turnpike's fatality rate of 1.9 did not change in spite of an increase in fatalities from 42 to 46. The rate for all U. S. toll roads is 2.2—making them twice as safe as the national highway average.

Along the 20-mile dual/dual stretch from interchange 10 to 15, the number of accidents declined from 712 to 595—a percentage drop of 16.5, and the accident rate fell even more—from 138.7 to 98.4, a drop of 29.1 percent. Chairman Driscoll attributed the great decrease in accidents to the travel ease provided by the widened 12-lane section with its built-in safety features. On that 20-mile stretch from Edison to Newark was recorded the lowest accident rate on the Turnpike.

"We must also credit the public with an increasing awareness of Turnpike driving and the State Police for their contribution to the overall safety record by their stepped-up activities in enforcing the traffic regulations," Driscoll said.

"The traveling public on the Turnpike," former Governor Driscoll noted, "was able to take advantage of the engineering advances and the traffic protection afforded them, and the results are indeed encouraging."

Surveillance warning issued by Rutgers prof

"Unless the American public demands a halt to it, the government will soon have detailed dossiers on every man, woman, and child in this country—even before 1984," a Rutgers Law School professor declared Monday night.

Professor Frank Askin of South Orange made the prediction in an address on "Government Surveillance and Citizen Privacy" before members of the Greater Newark Women's Division Business and Professional group of American Jewish Congress at the home of Dr. and Mrs. I. J. Bernstein of 100 Stone Hill rd., Springfield.

Based on this dramatically improved safety record, the Authority has authorized preliminary engineering and design studies for the eventual widening of the Turnpike from interchange 10 to a point below the present interchange 9 at New Brunswick.

With an accident rate of 93.4, the Turnpike's closest rival in the quest for fewer accidents and greater safety was the Garden State Parkway.

"The IBTTA statistics clearly demonstrate that New Jersey has the safest major toll roads in the nation," Driscoll noted. Accident rates for the other billion-vehicle-mile toll roads follow:

- Ohio Turnpike -- 100.2
- Massachusetts Turnpike -- 102.4
- Florida's Turnpike -- 104.0
- Illinois Tollway -- 122.5
- New York State Thruway -- 140.7
- Pennsylvania Turnpike -- 165.9
- Connecticut Turnpike -- 189.5

Diet group names M.D. nutritionist

Dr. William H. Sebrell Jr., director of the Institute of Human Nutrition at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons, was appointed this week as medical advisor to the international "Weight Watchers" program, according to Lester S. Fein, program director in Livingston.

Dr. Sebrell has been U.S. assistant surgeon general, director of the National Institute of Health and consultant to UNICEF. He is currently a member of the Expert Advisory Panel on Nutrition to the World Health Organization.

"Dr. Sebrell's appointment has cemented the linkage between the world of scientific investigation and the group dynamics of 'Weight Watchers,'" Fein noted.

Fein also said that Dr. Sebrell's appointment "considerably strengthens the activities of Founder Jean Nidetch and two top staff members who have brought greater dimension to the 'Weight Watchers' program."

Fein's reference was to Miss Fay Burnett, "Weight Watchers" nutritionist who had been on the staff of Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital, New York City, and Franco Palumbo, the program's executive chef, who has been in charge of the kitchens of some of the world's most renowned hotels.

Fein also noted that Dr. Sebrell's appointment reinforced the long-standing insistence of "Weight Watchers" that anyone who goes on a weight reduction program should consult and keep checking his progress with a physician of his own free choice.

"Dr. Sebrell's appointment as medical advisor in conjunction with our dependence on the family physician now means that 'Weight Watchers' can completely tailor its program according to the individual health needs of persons seeking our assistance," Fein emphasized.

Workshop on investing

A workshop seminar for experienced investors covering charting of stock market price trends will be offered on four consecutive Thursdays at Newark State College beginning tonight, from 7:40 to 9 p.m. by Reynolds & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange.

A review of recent stock market activity based on analysis of major technical and fundamental factors will be covered. The seminar will include charts and technical analysis, understanding market trends, market psychology, investigating growth companies in expanding industries and portfolio management.

The seminar will be conducted by Paul N. Epstein of Reynolds & Co. Epstein has lectured widely on technical and fundamental analysis of stock market trends.

Tuition for the seminar is $15 for the cost of text materials. Seating will be limited to facilitate group discussions.

Rider workshop to look at labor

Current problems in labor arbitration will be the focus of a special all-day conference at Rider College, Trenton, on April 8.

The conference, co-sponsored by Rider and the American Arbitration Association, will feature a series of panel discussions and addresses by Charles Serrano, New Jersey Labor and Industry Commissioner, and James C. Hill, past president of the National Academy of Arbitrators. It will take place in the theatre of Rider's new Student Center.

Parkway has lowest traffic fatality record

The National Safety Council posting of traffic fatality rates for 1970 has left New Jersey's Garden State Parkway again the safety leader among all U.S. toll roads with over one billion miles of travel last year.

Chairman John P. Gallagher of the New Jersey Highway Authority said it was the 10th time in the past 16 years that the Parkway has recorded the lowest fatality rate among the high-volume toll roads of the nation.

The Parkway's 1970 fatality rate of 1.19 deaths per 100-million vehicle miles, as well as its fatal accident rate of 1.1, was the lowest among the nine U.S. toll roads reporting more than one billion miles of travel on each for the past year.

Other leading fatality rates among high-volume toll roads of the nation, according to separate listings by the National Safety Council and the International Bridge, Tunnel and Turnpike Association, were 1.3 for the Massachusetts Turnpike; 1.6 for the Ohio Turnpike; and 1.9 each for the New Jersey Turnpike and the Illinois Tollway.

Chairman Gallagher noted that among the big nine toll roads the Parkway also had the lowest injury accident rate of 31.4 and was second only to the New Jersey Turnpike in total accident rate with a 93.4 mark.

"While it has to be gratifying to see New Jersey toll roads in the forefront of super-highway safety," Chairman Gallagher added, "it is not comforting enough when the figures behind the record total more than 25 deaths on the road, let alone one. There's tremendous need for improvement."

There were 27 fatalities on the 173-mile Parkway last year, resulting from 25 traffic accidents. Sixteen of the fatal mishaps involved only single cars, and six of the total 27 victims were pedestrians either trespassing or out of their parked vehicles.

An estimated 158,702,000 vehicles used the Parkway last year, traveling an overall aggregate distance of some more than two billion miles.

Publicity Chairmen are urged to observe the Friday deadline for other than spot news. Include your name, address and phone number.

The total travel mileages reported for the other eight high-volume toll roads last year were:
Connecticut Turnpike, 1.760 billion miles; Florida Turnpike, 1.115 billion; Illinois Tollway, 1.916 billion; Massachusetts Turnpike,

1.127 billion; New Jersey Turnpike, 2.390 billion; New York State Thruway, 4,028 billion; Ohio Turnpike, 1.475 billion; and Pennsylvania Turnpike, 2.794 billion.

The Garden State Parkway fatality rate in 1969, when it also led the nation's top toll roads, was 1.12 per 100-million miles of travel.

Science fair at Rutgers next week

Nearly 200 students representing some 45 public, private and parochial schools in nine counties will display exhibits at the 18th annual Central New Jersey Science and Engineering Fair to be held Tuesday and Wednesday at Rutgers University.

The entrants will be winners of local science fairs conducted by schools in the counties of Hunterdon, Middlesex, Monmouth, Somerset, Union, Warren, Mercer, Ocean and Sussex.

Entries will be judged by nearly 100 volunteers from universities, colleges, secondary schools and industry. Three judging divisions will include seventh grade, a junior division for grades eight and nine and a senior division for grades 10, 11 and 12.

The senior boy and girl grand-prize winners will be sent with their exhibits to the International Science and Engineering Fair in Kansas City, Mo., May 10 to 14.

Sponsored by the State University in conjunction with the New Jersey Science Teachers Association and International Science and Engineering Fair, the event is being administered by a committee of educators and businessmen headed by Mrs. Jane Woods of the Central School in Warren Township.

The exhibits will be open to public view from 7 to 9 p.m. Tuesday and from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday. Prizes will be awarded at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Fair director is Jack Faron, director of the Bureau of Special Services in Rutgers University's Extension Division.

Camp show looks at N.J.

Resort and historical areas of New Jersey will be highlighted in displays at the State Spring Camping and Trailer Show at the Freehold Raceway, Freehold. Sponsored by the New Jersey Recreational Vehicle Institute, the show will be held April 30, May 1 and 2.

"See New Jersey First" is the theme of the show. NJRVI is working with the N.J. Promotion Department, historical societies and chambers of commerce to create a zoo exhibit on tourist sights in the Garden State.

More than 200 commercial displays will fill the raceway's facilities with travel trailers, tent campers, truck campers and motor homes, indoors and outdoors. Inside booths will feature accessories, souvenirs, unusual camping items, publications and displays.

To present play
The Villa Walsh Academy students will present NOYE'S FLUDDE, the Chester miracle play, set to music by Benjamin Britten, on April 2, 3 and 4, at 3 p.m. in Mother Ninetta Hall at Villa Walsh, Morris-town.

Tax tips for home-seller

Savings possible, say realtors

When the average home owner sells his home, says Charles Kramer of Brounell/Kramer Realtors of Union, one of the state's largest realty firms, some knowledge of the simple tax laws involved in such transactions may save him enough for the down payment on his new home.

"Most people," says the veteran realtor, "don't bother to familiarize themselves with the tax laws involved in their own homes. As a result, they often overpay the taxes and don't take advantage of laws and government regulations which allow for tax postponements."

These reductions and eliminations of out-of-pocket dollars, adds Kramer, can go a long way towards helping the family which is selling one home in order to move into a newer one.

HERE ARE SOME of the areas in which tax savings, reductions and postponements can be effected by the seller of a private home, as noted by the research department of the Brounell/Kramer organization:

- The sale of a home at a profit is taxable as a long-term capital gain.
- Deduct all selling expenses from the gross selling price. These include any commissions paid to real estate brokers, attorney's fees and any advertising costs.

-- Deduct all buying costs. When you bought the home, you had such purchase costs as title insurance, closing fees, mortgage service fees and conveyance costs. These can be deducted from the gross selling price.

-- Add any expenditures made for improvements. While it isn't practical to list all types of improvements possible, some in this category include: finished attics, finished basements, new kitchens, porches or patios, outdoor fencing, etc. You may not, however, deduct normal repair and maintenance.

-- Postponing your tax. If you sold a home for $25,000 and after the above deductions, still realized a profit of $5,000, you can postpone the payment of this tax, under the existing federal laws. If you buy and occupy another house that costs $25,000 or more, you do not have to pay any tax on the $5,000 gain; however, you must buy and occupy this other home during the period beginning one year before the sale of your old residence and ending one year after its sale -- or you're not entitled to these relief provisions. Of course, you'll pay tax on any excess from the sale not reinvested in your new home.

-- Non-taxable gains. Persons over 65 who sell a home under certain financial limitations -- even if they do not purchase another home -- pay no tax on any gain. This moratorium is made with the provision that the home was the family's principal place of residence for five of the eight years preceding the sale.

"IN ADDITION to the above," says Kramer, "we advise families to consult our own tax-knowledgeable staff or directly with their local Internal Revenue Service. There are many other laws -- some highly complex -- which take mitigating circumstances into consideration on an individual basis when considering capital gains from the sale of personal real property."

Brounell/Kramer Realtors is engaged exclusively in providing housing for people. Since its founding in 1950, it has provided homes and apartments for more than 60,000 Jerseyans -- the equivalent to almost populating a town the size of New Brunswick.

The company, which has been responsible for the sale of more than 12,000 new homes, has five operating divisions -- new home sales, resale, apartment rentals, apartment management and a land acquisition department which specializes in sites for new home communities and apartment facilities.

The firm maintains executive offices at 1435 Morris avenue, Union.

Warning: Look two ways plus

"Cars can come towards you from every direction, so be prepared for them" R.J. Valle, general manager of the New Jersey Automobile Club, AAA, warned this week. Valle, explained: "Looking two ways is not enough. Complicated intersections may bring three, four, or maybe more streets together with all of their cars converging. Also, cars may make a number of unexpected maneuvers, such as U turns."

"While pedestrians are in the most danger while crossing streets, many other crossing situations are threatening," added the club official as he described numerous circumstances demanding alertness. "Cars coming out of alleys and pulling out of parking places, either on the street or in a parking lot, can surprise an unaware pedestrian."

"Of course, the most important thing to do is look. Look--because a car may be going through a red light. Look--because turn signals do not always work. Look--because drivers are sometimes careless."

He concluded by saying: "Drivers, through their cooperation, can help pedestrians by obeying traffic controls and by signalling their intentions of stopping or turning."

Air monitor established at hospital

The most recent addition to New Jersey's air monitoring network has been placed at Ancora State Hospital, according to Richard J. Sullivan, state commissioner of Environmental Protection. This marks the 21st air monitoring site established in the state.

The hospital site in Winslow Township, Camden County, was chosen by the department's Bureau of Air Pollution Control because of its location in a low populated and relatively clean air section of the state (south central pinelands). This station serves as a checkpoint and provides background data for air quality comparisons with the more populous, trafficked and industrial areas.

Sensors located at Ancora continuously analyze ambient air for carbon monoxide, sulphur dioxide and suspended particulates (smoke shade). The data are automatically telemetered to a control center in Trenton where they are compared, contrasted and collated with information received from stations based in areas with higher concentrations of air pollutants.

New Jersey's air monitoring network presently includes 825 comprehensive mobile laboratories and 18 satellite stations. These centers have two main purposes: (1) to provide highly reliable data for use in preventing or minimizing air pollution disasters, and (2) to continuously assess air quality. The data received also are used for developing regulations and to help evaluate the effectiveness of such regulations.

Rider alters MBA study

Rider College, Trenton, has streamlined its master of business administration program, eliminating the need for graduate students having to take preparatory course work on the undergraduate level.

Beginning in September, the entire program will be on the graduate level. The present two credit-hour system will be replaced by a three credit-hour system and 48 hours will be required for the MBA degree instead of the present 32.

A special waiver examination system, however, will permit graduate students who prove their proficiency in certain courses to reduce required credit hours to as few as 33, explains Dr. Karl O. Mann, chairman of graduate studies at the School of Business Administration.

"The changes are designed to improve the quality of the MBA program," says Mann. "Courses can be taught more effectively with the three credit-hour system."

Mann said that under the present system students frequently must attend undergraduate level classes in the evening school.

Researchers look at bone diseases

NCE, N.J. Med professors combine attack

An engineer from Newark College of Engineering and a physician from the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey at Newark have combined their talents in an attack on crippling bone disease through research. Dr. Ira Stein, a resident of Union, is a hematologist, and Dr. Gerald Granik an expert in applied mechanics are studying the effects of fluorides and various drugs on the mechanical properties, such as the strength and elasticity, of diseased bones. They hope to discover better ways of treating such diseases as bone cancer; Paget's disease in which bones thicken, soften and become deformed; and a type of rickets known as renal osteodystrophy, still found in people with severe kidney disease. Their studies center around small bone samples obtained from individuals who have died of various diseases. The samples are tested at Newark College of Engineering in much the same way engineers test building materials such as wood, steel and concrete. Later, X-rays are taken, the fluoride content analyzed, and other physical and chemical tests performed in laboratories at the East Orange Veterans Administration Hospital. Until recently mechanical bone testing has been restricted to bones from accident victims, where disease was not a factor, and the bone samples usually were frozen or affected by embalming processes. Drs. Stein and Granik are testing fresh bones where disease was present, requiring considerable innovation and resulting in some novel and unexpected findings. Dr. Granik is an associate professor in applied mechanics in the Civil Engineering Department of Newark College of Engineering. He received his doctor of science degree from Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken. Dr. Stein is an assistant professor of medicine at the College of Medicine and Dentistry and a staff physician at the East Orange Veterans Administration Hospital. He received his M.D. from the George Washington School of Medicine in Washington, D.C.

The two investigators developed their current study as a result of Dr. Stein's interest in finding better ways to treat multiple myeloma, a form of blood and bone cancer. Recognizing the value of mechanical testing, he sought expertise in that area at nearby Newark College of Engineering. Dr. Granik's interest developed and their partnership in the study of diseased bones resulted.

Both researchers, although hopeful of obtaining useful and perhaps dramatic results, feel their studies may take five years or more before final conclusions can be drawn.

Financial aid applications available

The State Scholarship Commission announced this week that tuition aid grant and county college graduate scholarship applications are now available. Applications have been distributed to all New Jersey colleges and universities. The deadline for applying is April 15. Tuition aid grants range from $200 to $1,000 per year and are available only to students attending private colleges in New Jersey. The amount an applicant may receive depends upon the income and assets of the family and the tuition charged by the college. Those who applied for a state scholarship in the fall 1970 need not file a new application. Students who do not qualify for a state scholarship will automatically be considered for a tuition aid grant. Eligibility notices will be mailed to all fall 1970 applicants late this month.

Bar okays program for settlements

To attack delays in compensating auto accident victims and in other personal injury cases, the trustees of the New Jersey State Bar Association have endorsed the Early Settlement Program (ESP) now in operation in Middlesex County. They will press for adoption of this plan throughout the state, said association president Daniel L. Golden, who announced the trustees' action in Trenton last week. Several other counties are launching similar programs. "Since January, 1970, when the ESP was initiated, over 500 cases have been settled," Golden said. "This includes four or five months of experimentation in the early going. Today, with several panels of settlers operating simultaneously, it is not uncommon for 80 cases to be handled on a hearing day. Two-thirds of the cases heard are settled," he said.

"The Early Settlement Program assures to each claimant prompt, full compensation for all of the bitter after-effects of accident-caused losses, such as loss of earning power and disfigurement," Golden explained.

"ESP is a voluntary, non-binding program for disposing of personal injury cases, conducted by attorneys. It is completely outside the judicial system, except for occasional use of an unoccupied courtroom. Cases submitted by a plaintiff's or defendant's counsel, or by an insurance company, are placed on the roster of cases to be heard on a certain date by the committee of attorneys overseeing the program. Then, the committee chooses one lawyer experienced in representing plaintiffs and one experienced in defense, who together will hear the case.

"Each side in the case is represented on the assigned day by counsel. After the case is presented, the two settlers arrive at their recommendation for a settlement figure, drawing on their experience in such cases. Only if the recommendation is accepted and the case settled is there any charge—$5 to help defray secretarial expenses," Golden explained.

Geiger's Would Like To Thank You!

Frank and Bruce Geiger and the entire staff of Geiger's Cider Mill and Restaurant would like to take this opportunity to thank you for your patronage and friendship through the years. It has been our distinct pleasure to serve you.

Our business, as you know, suffered a serious setback a couple of years ago from a catastrophic fire. We have reconstructed with better facilities and equipment to serve you more efficiently and our product range has been expanded.

We are now adding to our restaurant, for your complete dining pleasure, a service bar. Our Service, our Food and our Basic Image will not change. We will look forward to serving you in the future as in the past. A family enterprise serving the Neighboring Families in a Neighborly Way.

British education topic of NSC talk by N.Y.C. teacher

Grace Cohen, teacher at The Little Red School House and the Bank Street College of Education, both of New York City, will show slides and discuss her experiences in the Leicestershire, England primary schools during her 1969-70 sabbatical year, next Thursday, at 1:40 p.m., in the Formal Lounge, Downs Hall, on the Union campus of Newark State College.

She will repeat her illustrated lecture from 5 to 7 p.m. in the Campus School South, and be available for informal questions over coffee after each session.

Whether referred to as "The Open Classroom," "British Infant School," "Leicestershire Method," or the "Integrated Day," this special approach to teaching has received international attention and is in the experimental state in a number of classrooms in the United States. The two Manhattan schools are trying what they call "The Open Door," so kindergarten, first and second grade classrooms are next to each other as an educational unit in the same corridor. The corridor leads to sharing and students of all ages, teachers, assistants and student teachers all use the same equipment and meet informally in a variety of activities.

In a recent article describing this program, Fred Hechinger, New York Times education editor, pointed out that "the open classroom requires far greater effort and sophistication of its teachers" and that there is "danger of bandwagon effect—adopting a popular fad without real understanding."

This program has been arranged by Dr. Pearl Greenberg, associate professor of fine arts at Newark State.

CEYLON REVISITED

If you think New Jersey has humidity—meet Ceylon. "We can hardly keep a bobby pin more than a week before it rusts," a wife of an Embassy staff member said. "Our shoes mildew and the clotheslines rot away."

And it is hot. Nonetheless, Ceylon is a pleasure to visit. Our second National Newspaper Association Study Mission arrived in Colombo, the capital city of Ceylon, on a hot and humid afternoon six years after the first visit. And, just as the first time, even the approaching nightfall gave no relief to the heat.

We had come to Colombo from Madras via Trincomalee, would-you-believe, and were approximately three hours behind schedule, but once in a car in Ceylon, you might as well forget what time it is. By the time we reached our hotel we were even more than three hours behind schedule.

THE ROAD WAS MADE OF tar and RUBBER, because the Ceylon people have found that the addition of rubber, of which they have so much, keeps the road smoother and makes it last longer. But even though the road was two-lane, and well-paved and smooth, it took us a good while to do the trek between the airport and town, and it was a struggle.

The natives of Ceylon, called Sinhalese, (70 percent are Sinhalese ethnically) seem to feel that the road is for men, women and children, AND cattle and dogs—and elephants—and not really for cars. It is a peculiar fact of Ceylon that more people and animals fill the roads, than autos do. No matter if the road is two lane or more, there is only ever one lane; the middle. The rest is jammed with flesh. And they never move over; they never look around. A blasting horn doesn't even get a quiver. Heaven help everyone when a car comes the opposite way. Each car approaches the other straight down the middle, and they each hold out to the bitter end waiting for the other to give, like two stubborn bulls. A ride in Ceylon, consequently, may be a thing of beauty but it is a jolt forever.

On one of the first days in Ceylon which was spent on a long motor trip into the center of the island to Kandy and back, I became so distraught with the heat and struggle and horn blowing, I felt a little green around the edges. The driver of the car, mistaking the symptoms for a hunger problem, very sympathetically turned around and asked, "Does your stomach pinch you?"

THE HOTEL ON OUR first visit was one of the memorable ones and was called Galle Face. No one could determine what language that might be. Several years ago Sinhala was made the official language but the Hindu Tamils want the Tamil language. Consequently Ceylon has seen years of violence over the matter. But "Galle Face" appears to be neither one of those. I finally asked our driver, "Oh," he said, "Galle is a Portuguese name (the Portuguese settled Ceylon first, then Dutch, then English) and there is a fort named Galle. The hotel faces it." So there, Galle Face.

The hotel was large. Large "like" a city block. Perhaps two rooms had air-conditioning machines, but no insides, and the others had ceiling butchers fans. It sounds old-fashioned and like an old India movie, and it looked it, but those fans were more effective than you would believe.

The hotel in the city on our second visit was clumsy new, Early Halloween style, but the second night we moved out to the ocean side to Mt. Lavinia and the hotel on the beach. It too was old as the Galle Face is old, and also memorable. But it had all conveniences, lovely huge, high-ceilinged rooms and breathtaking sea views from the large windows. There was no air-conditioning except the ocean breezes, and we ate in an open-air verandah-like room. We had rare steak and mashed potatoes and all kinds of cuisine Americana and it was delicious.

The waiters were a delight, too. At the Galle Face they were barefoot and in turbans and white full-length skirts, and were as pleasant and nice as could be. One of the women at our table had been complimented many times on her hazel-brown eyes, but no one had ever heard them complimented the way they were complimented at the Galle Face hotel one night on our first visit. One of the little waiters said to the woman's husband: "Your wife—she has beautiful black hair and beautiful chocolate eyes!"

Royal Ballet My Neighbors will perform

Two new ballets and one American classic will be presented by the Royal Winnipeg Ballet when it performs tonight at Symphony Hall in Newark.

The Canadian company of 25 dancers and orchestra will make its only New York metropolitan area appearance at Symphony Hall. The program, which will begin at 8 p.m., is one of Symphony Hall's International Dance Series.

A premiere work on the program is John Clifford's "Concert Fantasy," a ballet danced to Tchaikovsky's Piano Concerto No. 2. Clifford, himself a soloist with the New York City Ballet, calls it a "fun showpiece" that is "classical ballet as I know it today—tutus, on pointe, with classical music—as influenced by George Balanchine."

Also on the program will be "The Shining People of Leonard Cohen" by Brian Macdonald, premiered in Paris last year by the Royal Winnipeg. This pas de deux is a portrayal of two young lovers dancing to music and the words of poet Cohen.

"I've compiled a rather extensive list of my past accomplishments to help guide you in judging this work."

The third ballet on the program is Agnes DeMille's "Fall River Legend," a dance study of accused murderess Lizzie Borden and danced to the music of Morton Gould.

"Fall River Legend," premiered in New York in 1948, is danced by Royal Winnipeg's leading dancer, Christine Hennessy.

Next on the Symphony Hall schedule will be the Inbal Dance Theatre of Israel on Thursday, April 1, at 8 p.m.

Art gallery set up at Newark bank

Clair G. Bradley, president of the Broad National Bank, has announced plans for an art exhibition gallery on the institution's main banking floor at 905 Broad St., Newark. Bradley emphasized that the project, entitled "New Jersey Artists and their Worlds '71," will be an adjunct to the architectural and cultural renewal being witnessed in Newark today.

The bank plans to devote an entire section to the artists' works and to change the show at regular intervals. The exhibitions will be coordinated by Mrs. Kay Weiner, a director of the Artist and Craftsman Guild of Cranford. The initial show opened on Monday, March 1, and extends through April 16. It features the works of three New Jersey artists in various media: Watercolor and acrylic collages by Leo Monti of Cranford; oils by Gerald Luback of Cranbury, and expressions in glass and plastics by Kay Weiner of Mountainside.

Mrs. Weiner is a designer craftsman who recently completed a 14-foot divider wall of embedded glass for the new Springfield library. She is a teacher, lecturer and writer on glass as an art medium.

Monti, a member of the New Jersey Watercolor Society, has won over 60 awards in the last five years. His works have been included in state and national travel exhibitions. Luback has won awards throughout the state for his tranquil landscapes, realistic still life and his dramatic graphics. His versatility is also apparent in his watercolors and abstracts.

The works will be on view during regular banking hours.

Grads to get tuition break

The board of trustees of Upsala College has voted to open its regular day and evening session courses to Upsala graduates at one-third the regular tuition cost.

Tuition for an evening session course for alumni will be $60 and for a day session course $80. All courses will be available to alumni on a "space-permitting" basis with priority going to regular day and evening students. Alumni will be limited to two courses per semester. The new program will go into effect for the fall semester next September.

Alumni Director William Foster said a complete listing of course offerings and appropriate application forms may be obtained at the office of the registrar at Upsala.

Two-thirds of Upsala's alumni are from New Jersey with 50 percent of the graduates coming from the counties of Passaic, Bergen, Morris, Essex and Union.

Everyone should have the Blues when away from home.

Blue Cross if you have to be hospitalized... Blue Shield for the doctor's care... should serious illness or accident strike when you're away from home. Your Blue Cross and Blue Shield ID cards are protection against health care costs virtually anywhere. It's a fact more doctors and hospitals work with the Blues than with any other plans. That's because we're the plans that deal directly with hospitals and doctors. Because we're totally non-profit. Because we're the only specialists in the prepaid health care field. Because our combined operating costs are about 6 cents of every dollar we receive... and we pay out over $1 million every day. Some 3.5 million New Jerseyans avoid doubt, confusion and red tape by carrying ID cards from the Blues. Whether they're at home or away.

Bloomfield College has new calendar

Bloomfield College will initiate in the fall semester of 1971 a new academic calendar. This will make the institution the first college in New Jersey to incorporate a co-operative education 4-1-4 curricular program.

Normally, students will enroll in four courses each term. During the month of January, special experimental learning experiences will be offered. The faculty is also discussing the possibility of creating an experimental inner-college at Bloomfield by the fall of 1971.

Throughout his stay at the college, a student one January term for each two years of residence.

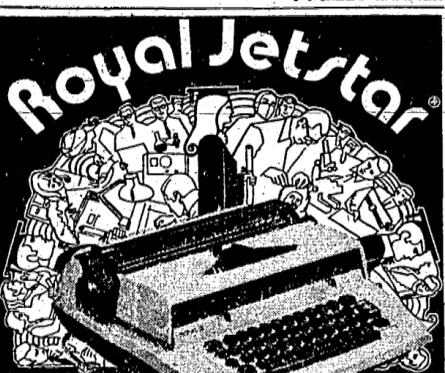

This academic curricular change was initiated at the college in response to educational movements across the nation which have been seeking a renewal of the search for knowledge in college education rather than involvement in amusing credit hours.

FDU offers two dramas

The Madison Campus Theatre at the Florham-Madison campus of Fairleigh Dickinson University will present Garcia Lorca's "Yerma" and Arthur Miller's "Incident at Vichy," alternating in repertory on Wednesday, March 17, through Tuesday, March 23, at 8:30 p.m., in the theatre of the new Dreyfuss College building.

Worth repeating

"Now, then, Thomas," said the teacher, "suppose there were five children and their mother had only four apples to share between them. She wants to give each child an equal share. How would she do it?" "Make applesauce," said Milt Hammer.

It puts the stamp of success on everything you do.

SUNDAY'S SERMON
WITHOUT LOVE
If you are fortunate enough to be part of a family that surrounds itself with love you may not share your neighbor's belief that the world is falling to pieces.
We are prone, all of us, to evaluate the world from our own point of view. When life is unkind to us, when someone falls or disappoints us, the first reaction is "What has gone wrong with the world, anyhow?"
The world has not greatly changed for centuries. Progress, of course. From the invention of the wheel to man's first walk in space. But, otherwise, much of the world is as it has been for centuries—good and bad, happiness and sadness, riches and poverty.
Each man may find his happy life in this world. He will not find it without love and unless love touches every facet of his life. Love begins within the home and in the teachings of religion. Without love in the home, without the belief that God is, the chances for happiness are not very promising.

POW committee formed by county Young GOP

A Committee on Prisoners of War in North Vietnam was established by the Young Republicans of Union County Inc., at a council meeting on Monday in the Villa Restaurant, Summit. Special elections for county officers were held and an intermural athletic committee was established.

"The POW committee will promote public pressure on the North Vietnamese government to observe the Geneva Accords on prisoners of war, investigate charges of mistreatment and promote the 'justifiable requests' of the families of prisoners of war in North Vietnam," YR Chairman James J. Fulcomer said. "We believe that as U.S. forces withdraw, our nation must not abandon our compatriots imprisoned in North Vietnam. We are convinced that their safe return must be a non-negotiable requirement for total withdrawal and for an honorable peace."

Helen Meisenbacher of 1170 Erhardt St., Union, was appointed chairman of the POW committee. Miss Meisenbacher is first vice-chairman of the YR organization. Others appointed include Mrs. Katherine Fulcomer of Rahway, William J. Luckhurst of Rahway, and Paul Penard of 39 Lyons pl., Springfield. Mrs. FULCOMER and Henry Varriano of Clark were elected state delegates. Mrs. Fulcomer is second vice-chairman of the Union County Women's Republican Club, chairman of the Elizabeth Area Young Republicans and a history teacher at Union High School. Varriano is chairman of the Clark Area Young Republicans and an elementary school teacher in Elizabeth.

Also elected were Richard Poole of Summit, second vice-chairman; Miss Lyn Coble of 238 W. Sixth ave., Roselle, third vice-chairman; Mrs. Teri Kachur of Rahway, and Miss Barbara Wehr of Fanwood, alternate state delegates. Poole is chairman of the Summit Area Young Republicans.

The intermural athletics committee will establish a competitive sports program for the 10-area, municipal and college units of the organization. Donald E. Cook of Rahway was appointed committee chairman. Cook is chairman of the Rahway Young Republicans. Others appointed include: Robert E. Rooney Jr. of 428 Durling rd., Union; Thomas Callanan of Cranford; Timothy Nash of Rahway, and Poole.

Four UC students to fill vacancies on judicial committee

Four Union College students have been appointed by the Day Session Student Council to fill vacancies on the College Judicial Committee.

They are: Donald Brady of Cranford; Richard Lockwood of New Providence; Lyle Sigmon of 678 Winchester ave., Union; and Robert Wronck, Cranford.

The College Judicial Committee hears and considers any offenses or infractions of college regulations or conduct that may result in a punitive action. Procedures involve informing the student in writing of the charges brought against him; conducting a closed hearing; and the right of the student to be assisted in his defense, to testify, and to present witnesses.

Decisions of the College Judicial Committee are final, subject only to the student's right of appeal to the president or ultimately to the Board of Trustees.

Brady, a graduate of Cranford High School, is a sophomore majoring in liberal arts/education. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Brady, he serves as editor-in-chief of "The Paper," daily student publication.

Lockwood, a student at Union College's Plainfield Campus, is majoring in liberal arts/education. He is a graduate of New Providence High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lockwood.

Sigmon was graduated from Union High School and is majoring in business administration. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sigmon.

Wronck, a liberal arts major, was graduated from Roselle Catholic High School. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wronck.

Two-year college heads to visit country in April

A group of out-of-state two-year college presidents will visit Union County in April to see how its unusual system of higher education operates. Dr. Kenneth W. MacKay, executive director, reported last week at a meeting of the Union County Coordinating Agency for Higher Education at Union County Technical Institute, Scotch Plains.

Dr. MacKay said the out-of-state presidents have indicated much interest in the Union County arrangement and plan to discuss the workings of the partnership and determine its applicability to their states and independent colleges. Dr. Alfred Donovan, executive director of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities in New Jersey, will meet with the group.

For the first time in 10 years, the Union County Technical Institute is "experiencing some difficulty" in placing students in jobs, Dr. George H. Baxel, president, reported.

"This is the time of year when students are placed in a cooperative work experience as a culminating activity to their career preparation," Dr. Baxel said. "These co-op positions frequently lead to fulltime job offers upon graduation. Many companies which have cooperated with us in the past have recently notified us of manpower retrenchments such that they cannot accept a field student this year. This is one of the hazards of career education and we are coping with it by assigning special field projects to those students who will not be placed."

Dr. Baxel reported seven two-year programs and two one-year programs are under consideration in the allied health area for inclusion in a composite medical technician program. The two-year sequences under study are: inhalation therapy technician, physical therapy technician, radiology technician, orthopedic technician, occupational therapy technician, medical records technician and medical emergency technician. The one-year programs under consideration are ward clerk and operating room technician.

Dr. KENNETH W. IVERSEN, president, reported that Union College will receive bids today for its $5 million library and classroom building project, which is planned for the corner of Springfield avenue and Princeton road on the Cranford campus. He said the plans and specifications have been approved by the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The faculty of Union College has under study new educational programs in the areas of urban studies, general education and environmental engineering and science, Dr. Iversen reported.

"We must continuously review and reassess the needs in Union County to be sure we are serving all segments of the community," Dr. Iversen told the agency.

Dr. Kenneth C. MacKay, executive director of the Coordinating Agency, reported that the first meeting of the standing committee of the Union County Guidance and Personnel Association, established recently to work in liaison with the agency, was held in January with nearly 100 percent attendance despite a snow and ice storm.

"The group is most desirous of developing all possible links with Union College and

Thursday, March 18, 1971
Dr. MacKay reported on a meeting with the officers and trustees of Union County PTAs at which the "group enthusiastically offered its help to provide more information to Union County parents regarding Union County opportunities in higher education." Dr. MacKay, Dr. Baxel and Dr. Iversen will participate on a panel program at the annual county PTA meeting in April.
James S. Avery of Scotch Plains, chairman, presided.

Tenants back Rinaldo bill

The Tenants Association of Elizabeth has endorsed S-972, a bill introduced in the State Senate by Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo of Union. The measure would stabilize rents in apartments and establish tenant-landlord agencies in each county to resolve disputes on rent and other matters.

Milton Marcus, head of the Elizabeth group, urged all tenants to write their state senators urging them to vote for S-972. "The tenants of New Jersey are sick and tired of being rent gouged by their landlord," Marcus declared.

The association will hold a mass open meeting next Wednesday in the chambers of the Elizabeth City Council. Marcus said tenants from Elizabeth and environs have been invited to attend. Further information can be obtained by calling Marcus at 351-1093.

Violet show to blossom

Clergy, educators to participate in interfaith seminar

RABBI MARC H. TANENBAUM

REV. EDWARD H. FLANNERY

PROF. A. ROY ECKARDT

An interfaith seminar for clergy and educators will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Tuesday at Trinity Episcopal Church, Forest and North avenues, Cranford, under the auspices of 11 Jewish, Protestant and Roman Catholic organizations.

The scholars who will address themselves to the theme, "The Concept of Israel in Jewish and Christian Perspectives," are Professor A. Roy Eckardt, chairman of the Department of Religion, Lehigh University; the Rev. Edward H. Flannery, executive secretary of the Secretariat for Catholic-Jewish Relations of the Bishops' Committee for Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs; and Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, national director of the Interreligious Affairs Department of the American Jewish Committee.

Professor Eckardt, a graduate of Brooklyn College and the Yale Divinity School, received his Ph.D. degree at Columbia University and his L.H.D. degree at the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion. Prior to coming to Lehigh University in 1951, he served on the faculties of the departments of religion at Lawrence University and Duke University. From 1961 to 1969 he was editor of the Journal of the American Academy of Religion.

A frequent contributor of articles to various scholarly and professional journals, Professor Eckardt has also written five books, the most recently published being "Encounter With Israel," done in collaboration with his wife, Alice.

Father Flannery, assistant director of the Institute of Judeo-Christian Studies at Seton Hall University, was educated at LaSalle Academy, Providence; St. Charles College, Baltimore; the Seminaire St. Sulpice, France; the Sulclian Seminar and Catholic University, Washington, D.C., and received his L.H.D. degree from Our Lady of Providence Seminary, Warwick, R.I.

Before joining the faculty at Seton Hall University, Father Flannery served as editor of "The Providence Visitor," a diocesan weekly. His book, "The Anguish of the Jews," is the first history of anti-Semitism by a Catholic priest and has been translated into French, Spanish and Portuguese. He is a leading exponent of Catholic social thought and action, particularly in the field of Jewish-Christian dialogue.

Rabbi Tanenbaum was graduated from Yeshiva University and was ordained and received a master of Hebrew literature degree at the Jewish Theological Seminary of America. He has done graduate study at Johns Hopkins University and the New School of Social Research in New York. Prior to assuming his present position he served as executive director of the Synagogue Council of America.

As the Jewish consultant to the Plus XII Religions and Education Resource Center and the World and National Councils of Churches' Committees on the Church and the Jewish People, Rabbi Tanenbaum has pioneered in numerous programs for interreligious and interracial understanding and has written extensively for many scholarly and religious journals and periodicals.

Other participants in the program will include the Rev. Msgr. Thomas W. Cunningham, chairman of the Newark Archdiocese Commission for Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs; the Rev. Paul Stagg, general secretary of the New Jersey Council of Churches; the Rev. Robert Bizzarro, rector of the host church; Rabbi Elvin I. Kose, spiritual leader of Congregation Beth Shalom in Union, and the Rev. Nancy E. Forsberg, pastor of the First Congregational United Church of Christ in Union. Mrs. Edward Reilly of South Orange will serve as registrar.

Reservations may be made in advance by writing to the Clergy Association of Union, 1340 Burnet ave., Union. The registration (to be paid at the door on the morning of the seminar) will be one dollar. A free-will offering will be taken to defray the cost of the luncheon, which will conform to Jewish dietary standards.

Although the seminar is taking place in Union County, it is open to interested clergy and educators throughout the state. Further information may be obtained by calling Rabbi Kose at 686-6773 or the Rev. Miss Forsberg at 688-4333.

The seminar was initiated by the Clergy Association of Union with the cooperation of the following sponsors: the Central Conference of New Jersey (Reform Judaism), the Cranford Clergy Council, the Jewish Community Council of Eastern Union County, the Newark Archdiocese Commission for Ecumenical and Interreligious Affairs, the New Jersey Council of Churches, the Plainfield Area Clergy Association, the Rabbinical Assembly of New Jersey (Conservative), the Rabbinical Council of New Jersey (Orthodox), the Rahway Ministers Group and the Springfield Clergy Association.

Bank helps in selection of colleges

The Broad National Bank has announced a new service designed to solve the two major problems facing college-bound students and their parents — how to select the right college and how to pay for it.

To help students with the difficult job of picking the most suitable school, Broad National's college service relies on the facilities of Princeton Educational Consultants, Inc., a private firm that has assembled in a data bank all necessary information on more than 1,300 4-year colleges and universities in the United States.

To use the service, students fill out a form available at any Broad National Banking Center, listing their own academic qualifications and college preferences. Computers match these specifications with all schools in the P.E.C. data bank and make preliminary choices, which are then individually reviewed by professionals.

For a $15 fee, P.E.C. then prepares and mails to students a report containing:

- A listing of 3 to 10 recommended colleges or universities, with a data sheet for each showing 21 categories of facts relevant to entrance requirements, composition of student body, curriculum, faculty characteristics, costs, financial aid programs, available sports, etc.
- A full explanation of criteria used in making the selections so that applicants can determine for themselves to which of the recommended colleges they wish to apply.
- An article, "Perspective on Choosing a College," by Dr. Richard Pearson, former president of College Entrance Board.
- Preprinted postcards which can be addressed to colleges to request catalogues and application forms.

To help students and their parents with the equally difficult job of meeting college expenses, Broad National's college service provides a wide variety of savings plans and, if needed, a number of flexible loan programs made to the parents of the students.

'71 Flower Show opens tomorrow

The 1971 New Jersey Flower and Garden Show—largest of its kind in the New York-New Jersey metropolitan area—will open at 1 p.m. tomorrow at the Morristown Armory. Centered on the theme, "Your Own Garden—Pathway to a Better Environment," the show will include a variety of educational exhibits and a daily program of lectures by professional nurserymen, florists and other experts, each followed by a question and answer period designed to help home gardeners.

The show will be open from 1 to 10 p.m. on opening day and from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. each day thereafter through Thursday, March 25. General admission will be $2.25 for adults and 75 cents for children. Discount tickets are available from local florists and nurserymen throughout the state.

The non-profit show is sponsored by the N.J. State Florists' Association, the N.J. Association of Nurserymen, the N.J. Plant and Flower Growers' Association and the North Jersey Metropolitan Nurserymen's Association, in cooperation with the N.J. Department of Agriculture and Rutgers University College of Agriculture and Environmental Science.

Group plans class on egg decorating

The Ukrainian National Women's League of America, Branch 32 of Newark, Irvington and vicinity will give instructions on making Pysanky—Ukrainian Easter eggs—at the Ukrainian Community Center, 140 Prospect Ave., Irvington, on Tuesday, March 23 and 30, commencing at 7:30 p.m.

The ancient Ukrainian folk art dates back to 988 A.D. One centuries-old legend holds that the forces of evil cannot take over the world so long as people love beauty and truth enough to continue making these delicately decorated eggs.

7,200 students aided by educational fund

The Educational Opportunity Fund (EOF), a state program, is aiding 7,200 low-income, educationally disadvantaged students at 43 public and independent colleges in New Jersey. The program is showing "impressive concrete results," Chancellor of Higher Education Ralph A. Dungan said this week.

In advance of releasing a comprehensive report on the second year of EOF operations, the chancellor noted that "the program is successfully achieving its goal of providing educational opportunity for disadvantaged New Jerseyans—largely members of minority groups—who once had little or no chance to secure a college education."

Worth repeating

"On the top line of your paper, write your last name first, and your first name last," instructed the teacher.

"Please say that again," asked John Walker.

Just write your name, but do it in reverse," replied the teacher.

State Bar plans talks

The 300-member General Council of the New Jersey State Bar Association will meet Friday at the Marriott Motor Hotel in Saddle Brook, to discuss positive methods which have been proposed to eliminate civil calendar congestion.

One of those methods, the "Early Settlement Program," will be demonstrated by members of the Middlesex County Bar Association and cooperating insurance company representatives.

Daniel L. Golden, president of the 7,500-member State Bar Association, announced that the first item to be presented to the officers and delegates of county and local bar associations will be a clinical demonstration of the Middlesex County "Early Settlement Program." Better known as "ESP," this voluntary, non-binding program for disposing of personal injury cases is conducted by volunteer attorneys.

Involvement is subject of NJEA talks

The New Jersey Education Association is arranging a three-day conference to get high school students more involved in educational decision-making.

Teams of students, teachers and administrators from 11 New Jersey school districts have been invited to the conference, to be conducted April 1-3 in Asbury Park's Empress Motel.

Each team will include five high school students, three teachers, the high school principal and one other school administrator. The students will be sophomores or juniors — with at least one full year of school remaining after the conference ends.

The participants are being selected jointly by school officials and the local teachers' association.

"Our goal is to bring together a cross-section of ideas and philosophies," says conference coordinator Donald R. McNeely of the NJEA staff. "Although each team will include a Student Council representative, it will also include an outspoken critic of the school system."

NJEA is also asking that teacher representatives include critics as well as proponents of student involvement.

"Student involvement is a necessity in achieving positive change in education," McNeely says. "The conference is an attempt to make students, teachers, and administrators recognize the rights as well as the responsibilities of the other parties and to get them working together for positive change."

Middle East to be topic

The Middle East Crisis: Past and Present will be the topic of a symposium at Seton Hall University, South Orange, at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday. The program, which is open to the public free of charge, will be held in the main lounge of the Student Center.

Speakers will be Dr. Robert A. Markoff, associate professor of history at Seton Hall, and Dr. Abolghasem Sedehi, assistant professor of government. A question and answer session will follow the speakers' presentation. Lambda Epsilon chapter of Phi Alpha Theta International History Honor Society at Seton Hall is sponsor of the event.

Art of Chinese bookmaking on display

An ancient page written in pure gold, a hand-painted wooden book frontispiece with a drop curtain of silk, and an intricate shantung-covered book box whose parts fit together like a Chinese puzzle are among the rare and valuable articles currently on display at Seton Hall University, South Orange. They are part of an exhibit tracing the history of the art of Chinese bookmaking.

The display, which is located in the foyer and main lobby of McLaughlin library, includes some antique book materials loaned from the Princeton University library's Oriental collection and other art objects and books from the private collection of Dr. Fred Fangyu Wang, professor in the Department of Asian Studies and Non-Western Civilization, Seton Hall, who directed the display project under the auspices of Msgr. William Noe Field, University Librarian. The Seton Hall exhibit is one of the few occasions when many of the items will be on public view.

Beginning with a section on the evolution of calligraphy from early shell and bone characters to modern brush-written ideographs, the exhibit covers the development of writing, printing and bookbinding. Both ancient and modern examples of calligraphy, such as a recent Chinese newspaper, are used to indicate changes in the written symbols of the language, including simplified forms that are a result of language reform in Mainland China. Dr. Wang, an author and teacher of Chinese calligraphy, who instructs a class in cursive writing at Seton Hall, contributed his own 17th-century edition of the first Chinese dictionary, originally compiled in 100 A.D., to the exhibit. He himself is the editor of a recent dictionary of Mandarin Chinese.

Printing in China started many centuries before Christ, with the use of engraved seals and rubbings from stone. A bronze seal dating from the sixth century is on display at Seton Hall as well as an actual rubbing made from a stone monument dating from the second century. A 13th-century Buddhist Sutra (or book of aphorisms), amply illustrated and with folding pages, represents the development of block printing.

Even before the inventing of paper the Chinese created an early book form handprinted on strips of bamboo bound together with cord, an example of which is shown at Seton Hall by photograph. Succeeding forms, such as rolled scrolls and accordion-folded pages that predated modern sewn bindings, are seen in several fine examples in the Seton Hall display.

One of the rarest items at Seton Hall is an outsized wood slab, elaborately carved and gilded, which was used as a cover on a book containing gold-inscribed parchment pages, one of which is also on view.

Fine book cases, which are separate covers to enclose either loose leaves or bound volumes, are shown in cotton-covered boards with ivory clasps, carved wood, and embroidered silk brocade. A more modern version, cut into elaborate scrollwork, folds into a book in layers. Several of these book cases are part of Dr. Wang's collection.

Dr. Wang, a native of Peiping, China, taught

CHINESE ART — Dr. and Mrs. Fred Fangyu Wang of Short Hills unfold the intricately-carved cover of a book case that is part of their collection of books on Chinese art. Many articles from their collection are now on display at Seton Hall University, South Orange, as part of an exhibit on the history of the art of Chinese bookmaking assembled by Dr. Wang, professor in the Asian Studies Department at Seton Hall. In the case behind them may be seen a large wooden Tibetan book cover, which is elaborately carved and gilded. It is on loan from Princeton University for the exhibit.

at Yale before coming to Seton Hall in 1966. He is internationally known for his extensive contributions in applied linguistics of the Chinese language, including several books, and is an expert on the multi-media approach to Chinese-language teaching, including computer assisted instruction.

the 1971 series of seminars for lay leaders and members of affiliated congregations will be held Sunday, March 28, at the Jewish Center of West Orange.

Foundation elects new officer slate

Dr. David Reisman of Brookside, has been elected president of the North Jersey Conservation Foundation, succeeding Charles DeBevoise of Harding Township. Dr. Reisman and other new officers of the 2,000-member statewide conservation group were introduced Monday at its annual membership meeting. Other officers are James Kiss of Chatham, first vice-president; E. Esty Stowell of New Vernon, second vice-president; Russell W. Myers of Chester Township, secretary, and William Smith of Madison, treasurer. Two new trustees are Mrs. H. I. Romnes of Chatham and E. Burke Giblin of New Vernon.

Attended by more than 300 persons, the meeting was also highlighted by the presentation of the North Jersey Conservation Foundation Award of Merit to Dr. Gertrude Tempe of Budd Lake, curriculum director for the Madison Schools.

Dr. Tempe received the award from Dr. Reisman, as his first official act, in recognition of her pioneering development of a 12-year environmental school curriculum which has been in use at Madison for the past four years.

The North Jersey Conservation Foundation underwent development of the curriculum, believed first of its kind to be published in the nation, and announced publication of its second volume, covering grade IV.

David F. Moore, executive director, reported unprecedented requests during last week for the foundation's new publication, "Be Your Own Eco-Activist," which was formally introduced at the meeting. Compiled by the foundation staff, the 32-page booklet lists numerous ways in which the individual can act to offset ongoing destruction of the environment.

THINK about your shoes. What did you pay for them? Did you pay more than you had to? If you're not all that happy, maybe you should pay a visit to a Thom McAn store. A long time ago Thom McAn figured out a way to give you more for your shoe dollar. This fifty-year-old formula is simple: Make your own good quality shoes. Make lots of them. Sell lots of them. Sell them for less money. Does it sound like the idea is too simple? Then there's something you should know about Thom McAn:

Thom McAn makes and sells more shoes than any other single shoe store brand in all America.

Thom McAn didn't get to be this popular by giving a bad deal. When you make a lot of shoes, your cost per pair is less. When you sell more, the price can be less. This can be done without sacrificing quality. Prove it to yourself. Visit a Thom McAn store soon. Pick up any shoe. Feel the leathers. Inside and out. The leathers and the shoemaker's details are the same as those in more expensive shoes. In fact, everything's the same as costlier shoes except for the price. What makes the shoe good is Thom McAn—not the price.

At Thom McAn, you get more for your shoe money. And considering what's happening to prices these days, we shouldn't spend more money than we have to. Of course, if every other store sold as many shoes as Thom McAn, they could charge less too. But that's their business. Thom McAn sells more shoes and makes a profit with fast nickels instead of slow dimes. But remember they're your nickels instead of your dimes. Think about it. Thom McAn Common cents.

Church fund goals gain endorsements of Cahill, senators

Governor William T. Cahill of New Jersey and U.S. Senators Clifford P. Case and Harrison A. Williams Jr. have given warm personal endorsement to the spring appeals of America's major religious faiths for support of their programs aiding those in need overseas. These appeals are the Protestant "One Great Hour of Sharing" and the "Catholic Relief Overseas Aid Fund" appeal, both of which will be observed in churches in New Jersey and throughout the nation on Sunday and the "United Jewish Appeal," a continuing effort with special emphasis at this period of the year.

Through these independent but common-purpose efforts, relief and rehabilitation are provided for millions of the world's homeless, hungry and destitute.

The three faiths, through their programs of assistance supported by the current appeals, distribute food, clothing, blankets, medicines and self-help materials to millions in need; give aid to orphanages; assist hospitals, tuberculosis clinics and other health efforts, and carry on resettlement and rehabilitation projects for refugees.

Rt. 22 blaze destroys 2 stores in snowstorm

Union firemen this week were still trying to determine the cause of a blaze which destroyed two business places on the corner of Rt. 22 in the township last Thursday. Meanwhile, a spokesman for Casco Concrete said he hoped a new store could be found soon in the Rt. 22 vicinity. Fabric Yard also was expected to relocate in the area. Buildings housing both businesses were left unusable by the flames which broke out in a corner of the Casco showroom during heavy snowstorm last Thursday. The blaze, discovered at 8 a.m., forced firemen to block off both east and westbound lanes of Rt. 22 during the height of the morning rush hour. Vehicles detoured onto township streets, where traffic was already slowed to a crawl by the snowstorm, caused huge pile-ups on almost every major thoroughfare in the township. On the highway, traffic was backed up for miles. Fire trucks and engines responding to the alarm had to ride the shoulder of the highway to reach the scene.

When they arrived, they found smoke and flames pouring from the one-story cinder-block building which housed the Casco showroom. Windows were blown out separately by the heat, and part of the wooden roof was burned away while the remaining portion fell. The flames gutted the building and destroyed the display furniture. Firemen attempted to keep the blaze from spreading but reported damage from smoke and water as well as flames in the adjacent Fabric Yard. Opened only about a month ago, the dry goods store still was displaying a "Grand Opening" sign when it was destroyed by the fire. Firemen under the direction of Chief Hugh Cameron remained at the scene for more than an hour and a half, with the last piece of equipment returning to the station at 10:05 a.m. They were called back to the Casco store the following day when a small fire broke out again inside a filing cabinet, but this was quickly put out.

We'll Be Back!

On the morning of March 4th, FABRIC YARD's new store on U.S. Route 22 in Union was destroyed by a fire of unknown origin. Although our building was a complete loss, we're grateful that no employees or customers were injured.

Within hours after the ashes had cooled, we began looking for a new location for a bigger, better FABRIC YARD. Because, as unhappy as we were at our loss, we were buoyed by the knowledge that our basic idea was right: Quality Merchandise, Low Prices, and Courteous Service are what YOU want.

We're looking for that new location right now, as you read this. And in a few months, we'll be back with a brand-new FABRIC YARD — bigger, better, and more beautiful than ever! We promise — it'll be worth the wait.

Moliere's 'School' gets a superb translation

BY ROBERT LYONS

In the midst of an unperformed season-a Moliere play at the Lyceum is still as welcome as Vichy water in Tampico.

"The School For Wives" may represent the fleeting imagined idea of a man who lives in fear of unfaithfulness. It is funny for probably never having taken place even once in all human history.

BRIAN BEDFORD is Arnolphe. Mr. Bedford is an actor of gifts, class, skill and dedication. He can mimic toward an audience and make a jerky, embarrassed bow just before his front foot oversteps the apron...

'The Night Visitor' plays two theaters

"The Night Visitor," suspense film, about a man who escapes from prison-asylum determined to take revenge on those who imprisoned him, opened at two local theaters yesterday—the Maplewood Theater in Maplewood and the Union Theater in Union Center.

The film, in color, stars Max von Sydow, Trevor Howard, Liv Ullmann and Per Oscarsson. Laslo Benedek directed "The Night Visitor."

Family bike hike New 4-H program

How about a bike hike? It's the thing to do, you know, it's wonderful exercise, produces no air pollution and it's fun for the whole family.

An indication of the growing popularity of the 4-H bicycle program is seen in the enrollment statistics. During 1970 some 135,000 4-H boys and girls participated in the program supervised by the cooperative extension service of state universities.

The program is designed to teach young people between the ages of 9 and 19 the care, maintenance and safe operation of the bicycle and the fun opportunities of cycling. Youngsters learn the rules of the road and ordinances of the community pertaining to bicycles and bicycle riding. And they gain appreciation of these laws for personal safety and courtesy to others.

There is a bonus here, as most of the laws concerning correct bicycle riding also pertain to driving an automobile, enabling these young people to move easily from bikes to the driving of much more powerful pieces of equipment.

But before that day comes, a bicycle is providing more and more young people with fun, mobility and exercise. Rules of the road are but one aspect of the "learning by doing" 4-H bicycle program. The young people also learn how to repair, adjust and take care of their equipment. They also learn to judge when a job is too big for them to handle alone and when a reliable serviceman should be consulted to keep their bicycle in safe working condition.

Draft quota ordered for medical men

Col. Joseph T. Avella, state director of Selective Service for New Jersey, announced this week that the Department of Defense has requested the Selective Service to furnish the armed forces with 1,531 doctors of medicine, 77 doctors of osteopathy and 536 dentists.

He stated that the New Jersey share of this call is for 59 doctors of medicine, six doctors of osteopathy and 13 dentists. Specialists on this call will be ordered to report starting on July 1, 1971. All specialists will be offered a commission and if the commission is accepted will not be required to report for induction. Col. Avella further said that specialists selected for this call will be selected by their random sequence numbers if under age 26. If a call cannot be filled with specialists under age 26, the remainder of the call will be filled by selecting those 26 years of age and over with the youngest called first.

A sounding-off on noise pollution NCE sponsors excess acoustics seminar

Noise pollution is becoming an increasingly critical element in American industry and to explore certain aspects of that problem Newark College will soon hold a one-day seminar.

Since state and federal legislation has recently been passed to regulate industrial noise, NCE will devote its forthcoming program to the interpretation of those laws and the steps engineers, designers and business administrators will have to take to remain in compliance.

The Newark College of Engineering seminar will be held at the college in Newark on Tuesday, April 13, under the program title of "Occupational Noise Exposure and Control." Featured will be five authorities from government and industry who will devote their comments respectively to legislation, characteristics of noise, evaluation of plant noise, engineering solutions and administrative solutions.

According to an NCE spokesman, legitimate concern for noise pollution developed in recent years as industry found increasing numbers of young people starting work with hearing deficiencies. Various clinical studies, undertaken to investigate the physiological effects of "hard rock" music on youngsters, were extended into the industrial scene, supplementing traditional health-and-hazard studies made in manufacturing locations.

These studies tended to find that familiar noises of great intensity and duration were detrimental, for those exposed to prolonged intense noise, hearing impairments occurred earlier and more frequently. Reaction to the investigations resulted in the Walsh-Healy Act, which sets forth occupational noise exposure regulations for industrial operations under Federal contracts, and has been extended in New Jersey under the designation of Chapter 173, Occupational Noise Exposure, of Title 12 of the N.J. Administrative Code.

Adoption of these regulations make it imperative that industrial managers and engineers understand the climate of the new laws and the need for additional safeguards, NCE believes.

In the body of its April seminar presentation on the characteristics of noise will follow, noting sources, characteristics, types and measurements, as applicable to industry. Frank X. Wolfen, industrial hygiene coordinator for Western Electric Co., will be the guest lecturer on this topic.

POTENT HANDFUL: Dr. M. Michael Belkoff, director of pediatrics and physician-in-charge of the Poison Control Center at Memorial General Hospital, Union, holds a handful of analgesic-type medications.

Pain pills can be child killers, warns Poison Center at Memorial General

Pain killers can be child killers. According to Dr. M. Michael Belkoff, director of pediatrics and physician-in-charge of the Area Poison Control Center located at Memorial General Hospital, Union, N.J., internal medicines account for more than half the childhood poisonings treated at the Center. Of that number the greatest percentage of cases involve the common analgesic-type (pain killer) compounds for adults and children which are found in practically every home, he said.

The physician's comments were issued this week to focus attention on National Poison Prevention Week which begins Sunday. The Poison Control Center at Memorial General Hospital treated 118 cases last year including residents of Union, Roselle, Roselle Park, Kenilworth, Linden, Springfield, Elizabeth, Clark, Westfield and Cranford.

"The most dangerous medicine in terms of potential childhood poisoning," explained Dr. Belkoff, "is any drug that is consumed so frequently that its presence in the home is taken for granted. The non-prescription compounds, regularly advertised on television and readily available on supermarket shelves, pose a great danger."

"When one considers how easily television can add the names of these drugs to the vocabularies of our children -- along with the names of foods, toys and household items -- one can begin to understand the problem."

The pediatrician pointed out that to a child playing house, ingesting some tablets or capsules "to relieve nagging headache" would be very much a part of the game. More children die from accidental poisoning each year, Dr. Belkoff said, than all the childhood infectious diseases combined. Despite all the Federal Government does through restrictive legislation, and professional societies do through education programs -- such as Poison Prevention Week -- and manufacturers do through research and development, he emphasized, "the most significant preventative is a responsible parent."

The director of the Poison Control Center outlined the following recommendations to minimize the possibility of all types of accidental childhood poisonings:

— Keep all drugs, poisonous substances and household chemicals out of the reach of children.

Recess will sprout at UC on Monday

Union College students will find the beginning of spring to be more than a break in the weather.

Students at Union College campuses in Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield, will get a study break with the end of their last class tomorrow. The college's spring recess runs from next Monday to Monday, March 29, when all classes will resume.

Students in the evening session at urban campuses in Plainfield and Elizabeth will attend their last class today before the recess. Evening session classes at Cranford conclude tomorrow.

Week-End College classes will be continued through the spring recess.

—Prior to giving a medication, read the label carefully and use as directed.

—Take medicines out of the view of youngsters so that they won't be tempted to imitate.

—Never ask a child to bring you a medication container.

—Turn on the light when giving or taking medicines.

—Store internal medicines separately from other household products.

—Refer to medicine as medicine -- not candy.

—Ask the pharmacist if he has a safety-type closure he can put on the container -- and learn how to use it.

—Get rid of prescribed medicines once the patient recovers. Flush them down the toilet, rinse the container, then discard.

—Every parent should anticipate the possibility of an accidental poisoning and should have the telephone number of the family physician, pharmacist and Poison Control Center on hand next to the phone.

Dr. Belkoff warned parents not to force the child to vomit if the product swallowed contains petroleum, lye or caustic, or if the child is unconscious or convulsing. "Read the label on the container of the ingested substance carefully. Call your physician or Poison Control Center to determine if vomiting should be induced if you are not sure," he said.

The Poison Control Center at Memorial General Hospital is open 24 hours a day and may be reached by calling 687-1900.

Resolution urges troop withdrawal by end of this year

A resolution protesting the incursion into Laos and calling for the withdrawal of all American troops from Indochina this year was adopted by the Union County Chapter of the American Jewish Congress at a meeting in Linden.

Copies of the resolution are being sent to Rep. Florence Dwyer and Senators Clifford Case and Harrison Williams. It says:

"We are convinced that our commitments in Southeast Asia can best and most honorably be fulfilled by diligently pursuing a just political settlement for the problems of that area."

"Rabbi Arthur J. Lelyveld of Cleveland, president of the Congress, has said, 'It is imperative that we discourage attempts, whether by elements among our own leadership or among our allies, to substitute bombing for bargaining, force for negotiation...'"

"Our objective cannot be other than the expeditious, orderly withdrawal of American troops, the closing down of our participation in hostilities in Southeast Asia, and the arrangement of a permanent cease-fire."

"We must reject any course that promises to result in still deeper American entanglement in the morass of this war. Certainly, no pretext can justify opening up still another front."

"The overriding truth about our country at this moment is that the people are sickened by this new escalation of the war and that we overwhelmingly yearn for an end to our country's involvement in these futile and brutalizing military operations."

Summer session to begin June 21

Union College's annual summer session will open on June 21 and run through July 30 at the Cranford campus. It was announced this week by Dr. Bernard M. Solon of Westfield, director.

More than 50 freshman and sophomore courses in liberal arts, engineering, education, physical and life sciences and business administration will be offered in the six-week session. Classes are conducted day and evening Mondays through Fridays.

More than 1,000 students are expected to enroll in the summer session, according to Dr. Solon. About half of the students are expected to come from Union College, and the others from more than 150 colleges and universities throughout the country, he added.

Registration for the summer session will be conducted on June 16 and 17.

Jobs open for summer at YM-YW

The Eastern Union County YM-YWHA, Green Lane, Union, is interviewing male applicants for summer positions as unit heads, senior counselors, life guards and pool instructors in its Junior (K-6th grade) day camp.

The minimum qualifications for the senior counselor position is completion of one year of college or age 18 as of July 1, 1971, and prior camping experience. The minimum qualification for an applicant for life guard or pool instructor is possession of a valid Red Cross senior life saving certificate or water safety aid certificate. The minimum qualifications for a unit head position are a college degree and at least three summers experience as a counselor in a day or sleep-away camp, and some administrative or supervisory experience.

In addition to the above openings, the junior day camp has one position for a camp nurse. The qualification for this position is one year nursing experience in a camp or hospital setting or successful completion of an RN program. The Y camping program serves children from ages three through 15 in five separate day camping programs. All camps are social work orientated.

Carl Shackman may be contacted at 289-8112 for further information or an appointment for an interview.

CYO to hold charity ball

Tickets are on sale for the second annual Union County CYO Charity Ball to be held from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday, April 17, at the Roselle Catholic High School, KURTAN road, Roselle.

Continuous music will be provided by the "Verstiles" and "Barbara Kelly and her Cordovox." The tickets are $12.50 per person and include a hot meal and liquid refreshments. They can be obtained by calling the county office at 354-4747.

Proceeds will benefit the CYO Youth Training Center at Bradley Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Vincent J. Casano of Roselle Park are general chairmen of the affair. Honorary co-chairmen are Rev. Joseph E. Loreti, Union County CYO director and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Siano of Elizabeth.

UC recital by organist

The Friends of the College of Union College will sponsor its fifth annual organ recital by Dr. Thomas Richner on Sunday, April 18 at 3 p.m. at the Cranford campus.

Mrs. Bedford H. Lydon, chairman, said "Dr. Richner has been hailed by critics here and throughout Europe and Asia as a unique talent whose performances are marked by taste and sensitivity."

Dr. Richner has been cited in particular for his performance of the works of Mozart. Mrs. Lydon noted, The New York Times described him as "a born Mozart player," adding that "they are few."

Dr. Richner is a graduate of the University of West Virginia and holds both master's and doctor's degrees from Columbia University. He was also awarded an honorary doctor of music by Colby College, Waterville, Maine.

Dr. Richner combines a concert career with teaching and is on the staff of Douglass College, New Brunswick.

Tickets for the Friends of the College of Union College Concert may be obtained from Mrs. Lydon or at the college.

Volunteers needed to assist retarded children in Jersey

A membership drive is under way throughout the state to recruit volunteers to join and work with local units of the New Jersey Association for Retarded Children (NJARC). March is national membership month for the more than 1,500 local units of the National Association for Retarded Children, of which NJARC is an affiliate.

The 18 units in the state, representing a private, watchful voice of the more than 200,000 mentally retarded children and adults in New Jersey, are opening their doors and programs this month to interested persons who may want to see what is being done in the community to help retarded people and who may want to help promote that work.

There are today more than 18,000 educable and trainable retarded children in public school classes, and hundreds of parents and other legally responsible relatives who no longer have to pay for institutional care for their dependents.

The Association now is supporting proposed legislation that would authorize state subsidies for long-term clients in nearly 30 sheltered workshops, many of which are operated or assisted by NJARC units.

During more than two decades, those units have organized and sustained a variety of programs to help educate and train retarded persons. They include pre-school classes, day care services, recreation and camping programs, independent living programs for the young adult retarded, canteens, religious instruction, and vocational training.

National Safety Council lists fewer accident deaths in '70

CHICAGO, — The National Safety Council reports that approximately 113,000 Americans died as a result of accidents in 1970, a decrease of two percent from 1969.

Disabling injuries totaled approximately 10,800,000 including 400,000 that resulted in some form of permanent impairment. The cost of accidents in 1970 was approximately $26 billion.

Traffic fatalities in 1970 numbered 1,100 fewer than in 1969, according to the Council. The 55,300 total for 1970 represents a two percent reduction from the 1969 toll of 56,400. In addition, the mileage death rate per 100 million vehicle miles traveled dropped from 5.3 in 1969 to 5.0 in 1970 — the lowest rate in history.

This reduction occurred despite the fact that there were three million more licensed drivers and four million more motor vehicles on the road in 1970 than in 1969.

Deaths from public accidents are also on the decline. Public deaths decreased five percent from 21,000 in 1969 to 20,000 in 1970. The decrease of 1,000 deaths can be attributed to fewer fire and burn fatalities, as well as fewer deaths due to falls and aviation accidents. This was the first fatality-free year in commercial air transportation. No passengers or crew members died on scheduled domestic air transport flights.

Preliminary figures indicate that snowmobile fatalities increased in 1970, however. The 1970 death total for work accidents was unchanged from the 14,200 reported by the Council in 1969. Disabling injuries totaled 2,200,000. The cost of work accidents in 1970 was $9 billion. In addition to the 14,200 persons killed at work, 42,200 died in off-the-job accidents.

Since the Council was organized in 1912, the greatest progress in accident prevention has been among children under 15 years of age. All other age groups also showed improvement except for the 15 to 24 age group, which had a seven percent increase in accidental deaths.

NATIONAL ACCIDENT FATALITY TOLL	1970	1969

Motor Vehicle	55,300	56,400
Public Non-motor Vehicle	20,000	21,000
Home	27,000	27,000
Work	14,000	14,200

The motor-vehicle totals include some deaths also included in the work and home totals. This duplication amounted to about 3,500 in 1970 and 3,600 in 1969. All figures are National Safety Council estimates.

Keeping students in line First city schools had ways

Written by the New Jersey Education Association to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the state's free public schools.

Although far in advance of rural areas, schools in New Jersey's big cities one century ago had their own share of problems. From tardiness to misbehavior. Before the day of student rights, school officers often found solutions that, while effective, were heavy-handed.

In New Brunswick, reports the New Jersey Education Association, City Superintendent Henry B. Pierce faced a widespread school problem: severe and persisting tardiness among the students. The latecomers produced "all sorts of excuses," Pierce wrote in his 1870 annual report to the state — "some having been written by parents and some having been forged by themselves. It was utterly impossible for teachers to determine which were genuine and which were counterfeit. To accept a reward for successful deception," Pierce finally had to act, NJEA reports. This was his remedy:

"The principal was authorized to close the gates at five minutes past nine and five minutes past two, and afterwards to admit no pupil for that session, either with or without an excuse." "How did it work?" "Like a charm," Pierce reported. "Pupils that could not possibly help being late before the rule was adopted now are never tardy."

"Four years ago, out of nearly 2,000 pupils enrolled, only two were present every day.

State totals show poisoning extent

Almost 100 New Jersey children under the age of five are accidentally poisoned every day by consuming products containing harmful chemicals. And, an estimated 50,000 New Jersey residents are victims of accidental poisoning each year.

The most common type of poisoning cases for children include aspirin, rat poison, perfumes, berries (in season), cough syrup, and cleaning fluids — particularly cleaning fluids removed from the original container and placed, for example, in a soda bottle. Adults seem to suffer from overdoses of tranquilizers and habituates.

These facts were revealed this week by Jack W. Owen, president of The New Jersey Hospital Association, one of the co-sponsors of Poison Prevention Week in New Jersey (March 14-20). The hospital association, the N.J. Department of Health, the N.J. Pharmaceutical Association and the N.J. Safety Council have jointly publicized Poison Prevention Week since 1961.

Owen noted that poison control centers are maintained by 36 New Jersey hospitals across the state on a 24-hour basis. One of the centers is located at Memorial General Hospital, Union.

Supermarkets sued by Farm Workers

The United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, AFL-CIO, last week filed suit against several New Jersey supermarket firms charging infringement of a certification mark. The suit charged that the defendants were displaying the plaintiff's certification mark "adjacent to lettuce which was not picked by members of plaintiff's organization" in such a manner as to "indicate that the lettuce had been picked by members of the Farm Workers."

Noting that the Farm Workers are on strike against some growers and stating that many people will not buy lettuce from growers who have not signed with the union, the complaint declared, "The defendants have attempted to palm off other's lettuce through the use of the plaintiff's mark."

Defendants in the suit are Wakefern Food Corporation, Inc.; Shop-Rite Supermarkets, Inc.; Consolidated Supermarkets, Inc.; Foodarama Supermarkets, Inc.; and Progressive Supermarkets, Inc. The suit was filed by Richard L. Samuel of the Newark law firm of Lerner, David and Littenberg.

At the close of the last year, the names of 80 pupils were read who had not missed a day."

Salem, another of New Jersey's big cities a century ago reported these school rules in 1869-70:

1. Each pupil shall, on entering the school, after disposing of such articles of clothing as may be necessary, in the place appointed for that purpose, proceed quietly to his or her seat and await the opening services by the principal.

2. Diligence in their studies, respectful deportment to their teachers, and kindness in their intercourse with their fellow pupils, are required from every pupil.

3. Communication among the pupils, either by talking, whispering, sign, or writing during the hours appointed for study; restlessness in their places; any unreasonable noise; or disorderly conduct are strictly forbidden.

4. Cleanliness of person and dress; propriety of deportment, truthfulness, and honorable conduct are expected of all.

Maintaining discipline, says NJEA, has always been a school problem. Although the 1867 statute that created New Jersey's public (but not necessarily free) schools forbade corporal punishment, this prohibition was not always obeyed. Samuel Freeman, local superintendent of schools in the 1870 city of Phillipsburg, made this report:

"The order maintained in most of the schools was excellent. During the last half of the year in several of the schools, whipping or flogging was avoided altogether, while in some schools the teachers occasionally made use of the rod or strap to enforce obedience."

Freeman followed this admission with the hope that "next year, teachers will be able to secure obedience without disobeying the 81st section of the school law."

Things were little different in the state's leading school system—Newark. Wrote City Superintendent George B. Sears: "Our teachers are using the rod very sparingly, some dispensing with it entirely, though having it in reserve. I do not yet believe we are prepared to live up to the letter of that law."

Reston to give Lehigh lectures

BETHLEHEM, Pa. — James B. Reston, vice-president of The New York Times and recipient of two Pulitzer prizes in journalism, will present three major addresses at Lehigh University in April.

As 1971 Jacob and Hilda Blaustein Lecturer in International Relations at Lehigh, Reston will spend two days, Monday, April 19, and Tuesday, April 20, at the university. The address (8:30 p.m. on Monday and 4:15 p.m. and 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday) are open to the public. Tickets are not required.

Riding clinic set

The first of what is expected to be a continuing series of horse riding instruction clinics in New Jersey will be held April 24 and 25 at Tri-Corn Farm in Holmdel (north-eastern Monmouth County) under sponsorship of the New Jersey Equine Advisory Board.

Talking it down

The Alliance of Women for Equality will present a talk — "Zero Population Growth" — by Anna Fletcher, president of the Central Jersey Chapter of ZPC, Thursday, March 18, at 8 p.m. at Creamant Savings and Loan, 1886 Springfield ave., Maplewood.

Met tenor to sing at Cancer Division anniversary night

Charles Anthony Metropolitan tenor, will sing at the 20th anniversary celebration of the American Cancer Society's New Jersey Division, it was announced this week by Mrs. Irving Hayman of Ridewood, chairman of the affair.

Commemorating the 25 years the New Jersey Division has served the citizens of this state in the fight against cancer, the event will be next Thursday, (8:30 p.m.), at the Marriott-Motor Hotel in Saddle Brook.

In addition to several honored guests including the tenor, the event will be next Thursday, (8:30 p.m.), at the Marriott-Motor Hotel in Saddle Brook.

Among the guests will be William B. Lewis, chairman of the board of directors of the National American Cancer Society, Dr. Arthur I. Holleb, senior vice-president for medical affairs and research, American Cancer Society; and George E. Springfellow of Arlington, Va., the division's first president.

Since its incorporation in 1945, the New Jersey Division has conducted its threefold program of research, education and service to the cancer patient with the continued support of all of New Jersey's citizens. This support adds up to more than $35 million dollars contributed in door-to-door solicitation, memorials, legacies and corporate gifts.

Of this $35 million, more than $15 million has helped support national research programs, many of which have been conducted here in New Jersey's research centers. More than $600,000 in American Cancer Society grants is currently in effect in six institutions in New Jersey.

Funds other than those allocated for research have helped support the New Jersey Division's education and service programs, aimed at reaching thousands of people with life-saving information about cancer and its control and providing New Jersey's cancer patients with a variety of services, including treatment, rehabilitation and financial assistance.

REIGNING MISS UNION COUNTY, Hela Yungst of Hillside, center, checks contest plans with Bob Johnston, entries chairman of the Miss Union County contest, and his wife, Sally. Johnston is looking for entries for the contest this year, which will be held May 29, to find a successor to Miss Yungst.

Annual search begins anew for county queen prospects

This could be Union County's year for a Miss America. Last year was the fourth time in 13 years a Miss Union County contest winner became Miss New Jersey. She's Hela Yungst of Hillside.

Bell official named campaign chairman

George M. Zriny, comptroller of Bell Laboratories, Murray Hill, has been named general campaign chairman for the Commerce and Industry United Fund of Union County, Inc. for the 1971-72 fund drive. Announcing the appointment, Lewis G. King, president of the fund, said: "Since the birth of the county fund two years ago, we have not only achieved our goal both times but actually increased total contributions by more than 20 percent. These results were made possible through the sacrifice of time and effort by our qualified volunteers from business, industry and labor. Mr. Zriny can again bring to the fund the quality leadership we need to continue our growth pattern."

The Miss Union County Scholarship Pageant will be conducted Saturday, May 29, at the Scotch Plains Fanwood high school at 8 p.m. Poise, beauty and talent are the three major ingredients. Each contestant will be judged in evening gown, in swim suit and in the presentation of her talent; a contest spokesman said.

There is a special award for the contestant possessing the best talent, the spokesman said. Civic and social organizations are urged to sponsor candidates who they know personally, daughters, friends, and relatives should encourage the girls to enter the pageant, he said. To qualify a young woman must be between the ages of 18 and 28 on Sept. 1 and attending school in or a resident of Union County. Official pageant entry blanks can be obtained by phoning the entries chairman, Bob Johnston, at 889-4231 or write him at 422 Evergreen Blvd., Scotch Plains, the spokesman said.

In addition, committeemen John Bradley (293-7611) or Bob Shear (889-4666) can also be contacted for entry blanks. The deadline for submitting your application is Thursday, March 25, the spokesman said.

Going to the Garden

The Evening Session Student Council at Union College will sponsor a trip to Madison Square Garden, New York City, tomorrow to hear Glen Campbell, it was announced by John Lynch of South Plainfield, president. Miss Janis Peterson of 127 Sheridan ave., Roselle Park, arranged the program.

Junior Achievers spend day with management executives

Some 800 teenage boys and girls engaged in Junior Achievement enterprises in Union County spent last Thursday with the top executives, management and supervisory personnel of their parent companies. The program, called "Project Communicate," is designed to establish effective dialogue between businessmen and youth engaged in the Junior Achievement programs they sponsor. The youngsters, 15 to 18, were assigned to the offices of their senior counterparts in the various industries to observe business procedures at first hand. The Junior Achievers already have had an opportunity to learn the values, motivations and rewards of the American free enterprise system by owning and operating their own junior companies, the announcement added. Adult business and industrial organizations supply three adult advisers to counsel and assist each junior firm in areas of finance, production, sales and administration. The Junior Achievers elect officers, sell stock, purchase raw materials, manufacture and sell a product. They prepare stockholders' reports and are liquidated after about eight months. Through "Project Communicate," it is expected the youngsters will add to their own experience by gaining a keener understanding of the purpose and objectives, functions and problems of the business world; by developing a knowledge of the importance and extent of capital investments and manpower in plants and facilities, and by recognizing the opportunities that lie ahead.

The Junior Achievers had an opportunity to discuss business policies and objectives, to observe procedures and techniques, and to apply to their junior companies some of the lessons learned from the businessmen.

Report form due Apr. 15

Ralph W. Jones, manager of the Elizabeth Social Security district office, said this week that all persons entitled to monthly Social Security checks who worked last year and earned over $1,680 must file an annual report from no later than April 15. The law provides a penalty for failure to file on time. The report is necessary, Jones said, to determine whether an over-payment has been made and also to assure benefit payments to people who have not received all the checks due them for the past year. The annual report form is sent by mail with a return envelope. It should be completed at home. However, Jones urged persons needing assistance to telephone their local Social Security office where help is available to answer the questions on the form correctly. There is no need to visit the district office, Jones said. All questions can be answered or resolved by telephone.

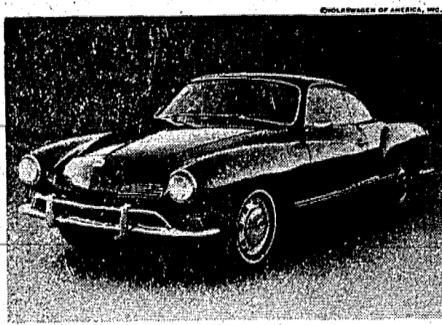

Banker ends study trip

Joseph P. O'Hara, president, Harmonia Savings Bank, Elizabeth, and member, board of directors of NAMSAB, returned from Washington, D.C., where he was one of a group of savings bank industry leaders who met with ranking officials of the Nixon Administration and with members of the Congress to discuss savings and housing trends, inflation and other key economic and financial issues. The meeting in Washington was sponsored by the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks in cooperation with state savings bank organizations. Its purpose was to give the industry's leadership an opportunity to meet with federal government officials and legislators in off-the-record sessions to exchange views on federal programs and policies of common public interest.

1,500,000 Lire.

That's a lot of lire for a car. But that's a lot of car for the lire. It's one of the most meticulously built sports cars in the world.

The classic body was designed where many great sports cars are designed: Turin, Italy. By the famous Ghia Studios. It's built by one of Europe's oldest custom coachmakers: Karmann of Osnabrück. Only a limited number are made each day. Mainly because it takes interminably long to shape the body.

So intricate are some of Ghia's lines that machines can't form them. So Karmann employs sculptors to finish the body. By hand. It's welded, burnished, smoothed, painted, sanded and rubbed. By hand.

And only when it passes hundreds of inspections does it get together with the chassis. Which is a beauty in itself.

Torsion bar suspension. Double-jointed rear axles. Four-speed sync box. Front disc brakes. Rear-mounted magnesium engine. Air-cooled. Utterly dependable. Economical. (About 26 mpg.)

All that will cost you a good 1,500,000 lire. Or XXXX American dollars.* For a Volkswagen Karmann Ghia. That's not a lot of dollars for a car. But that's a lot of car for the dollars.
