Board continues split on Regional referendum Revaluation process begins in borough

Reasons for and against plan offered

Cullen stresses amount cut from proposed costs

BY ABNER GOLD

Differences of opinion over the proposed $4.7 million expansion bond issue, to be presented to the voters in a May 4 referendum, were highlighted at a meeting of the Regional High School District Board of Education Tuesday night at David Brearley Regional High School, Kenilworth.

John J. Cullen of Clark, reporting on the referendum decision made last week, noted that the board had voted six to three for the plan. Those opposed were John E. Conlin of Garwood, Dr. Minor C.K. Jones of Mountainside and Charles Scheuermann of Kenilworth.

Noting that the costs had been cut from $7 million in the proposal defeated last spring, to the present figure of $4.7 million, Cullen added, "We just can't go too much lower." He also said that the pupil distribution under the new plan is the same as it was in last year's proposal—with all Mountainside students to attend Jonathan Dayton Regional in Springfield, rather than Gov. Livingston Regional in Berkeley Heights.

Calling for approval of the proposal, Cullen declared, "I wish we just considered the welfare of the kids. We have a pretty nasty problem here—and I just wish the 18-year-olds could vote in this referendum."

Scheuermann, stressing that he is "not opposed to better education," presented seven reasons for his opposition to the current expansion plan. They are:

1. He opposes the pupil distribution plan, sending Mountainside youngsters to Dayton.
2. He does not want expansion at Dayton until Van Winkle's Creek, adjoining one athletic field, can be relocated.
3. There are too many small classes, with

Last tax equalization conducted in 1959

The North American Appraisal and Research Corp. of Glen Rock has begun a revaluation of property in Mountainside. According to Councilman Louis Parent, revaluation procedures will be completed by the end of this year and will be reflected in next year's tax rate.

Property owners received a letter Tuesday from the mayor and Borough Council explaining revaluation procedures. It said:

"The Borough of Mountainside has awarded a contract to the North American Appraisal and Research Corporation, a firm specializing in municipal tax equalization programs, to appraise all real property in the borough.

"The purpose of the program is to establish the fair market value of all real property in order to assure a fair and equitable distribution of the municipal property tax burden and the borough's share of county and regional school taxes.

"A successful tax equalization program distributes our tax burden equitably among all of the property owners in accordance with the fair market value of the property they own.

Therefore, a tax equalization program assures that each taxpayer pays his fair share of local taxes.

"Also, it installs a modern system of estimating property values. One of the most im-

Palmer criticizes bond issue, lauds recent school budget cut

John H. Palmer, president of the Mountainside Independent Democrats, this week commended the Borough Council for its recent action in reducing the Mountainside Board of Education budget for 1971-72.

He also expressed opposition to the expansion bond issue to be presented to the voters May 4 by the Regional High School District Board of Education.

Palmer declared: "We would like to commend the Borough Council for reducing the Board of Education's budget for 1971-72 and especially for resisting the political pressure that claimed the voters had placed an 'albatross around their necks' and that 'they would be damned if they did and damned if they didn't.'"

"Our hats are off to you for using your Solomon-like wisdom to cut the budget. The voters too should be commended for exercising sound judgment in the face of the economic realities of today by rejecting the budget.

"It seems that no sooner is one budget defeated when we have to make another judgment on yet another bond referendum. In May we are being asked to accept a $4 million bond issue (reduced from $7 million when submitted last year) that will include construction on all four high schools. We are being asked to accept this proposal without any mention that Mountainside children again are the pawns.

"Springfield needs our kids to bolster its enrollment in order to get the construction and renovation it wants. Mountainside's children will be forced to leave their 'home school' to accomplish this end.

"Enough of citizens' committees leading the charge for fair treatment by the board! It's

PTA round-up for kindergarten

The Mountainside PTA summer round-up for the 1971-72 kindergarten will take place in all three elementary schools from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The following schedule will be maintained: Beechwood on Monday, Deerfield on Tuesday and Echobrook on Wednesday.

Parents may register at the school which is the most convenient to them. To be eligible to enter kindergarten in September, the child must be five years old on or before Dec. 1. The child's birth certificate must be presented at the time of registration.

A school nurse will be present at the time of registration and will check the youngster's eyes in order to detect a "lazy eye" condition. Anyone who has any further questions may contact Mrs. Donald Jeka at 232-7570.

School board will appeal $204,080 slice off budget

The Mountainside Board of Education Tuesday night adopted a resolution to appeal the $204,080 cut made by the Borough Council in the 1971-1972 school budget to the State Commissioner of Education. The budget was defeated by the voters on Feb. 9 and was then submitted to the mayor and council as required by law.

In its resolution, the board said the reduction would not leave sufficient funds to provide a "thorough and efficient school system" for 1971-1972. "As a result the quality of public education would seriously suffer and deteriorate," it added.

The action in reducing the current expense and capital budget is "arbitrary and less than reasonable," the board commented. Because of this the board attorney, Charles Jerome, has been authorized "to initiate and prosecute a petition of appeal to the Commissioner of Education to determine and certify the amount necessary to provide a thorough and efficient system of schools in the district pursuant to law."

OUTSTANDING MUSICIANS—Three students at the Deerfield Middle School, Mountainside, have been chosen to appear with the Central Jersey Intermediate Band and Orchestra in a concert Sunday at 2 p.m. at Summit High School. Shown rehearsing, from left, are Randy Holcombe, 13, who will play 10th chair trumpet; David Hoffman, 13, third chair tuba, and Walter Mazur, 13, second chair clarinet. More than 450 students auditioned for the concert. Mazur was selected for his third year in a row and Hoffman for his second straight year. Their band instructor is Charles F. Guinta. Herbert J. Brown is the school's principal. (Photo by Bill McLatchie)

PROFILE--Rev. Elmer A. Talcott Jr.

The Rev. Elmer A. Talcott Jr., pastor of the Community Presbyterian Church of Mountainside, is not interested just in the church's relationship to the individual. He is also concerned with the church's relationship to the community.

He said, "The amount and depth of counseling in Mountainside beats Brooklyn where I formerly was. The hangups here are so serious and the effects on the kids are greater. You can excuse Brooklyn because of the type of place it is -- an inter-city community. In Mountainside, I think you should be able to do something about emotional problems.

"I try to deal with the whole person, not just the environment. To be effective the church has to work to change the social environment where we live, as well as personal commitments and values.

"A great part of my time is spent in in-depth counseling and referral. We are very fortunate in this area to have excellent resources for mental health and health."

Mr. Talcott added, "Of great concern to me is that the church be relevant, particularly to young people. A minister's job is always involved in a healing capacity. There is an important need for this -- fellowship and caring. You have to speak in today's vernacular in order to relate to them."

Commenting on one of his favorite topics, drugs, Mr. Talcott said, "We have a different drug culture here than in Brooklyn. Here we have a stable family with concerned parents as against an unstable family. This is a difference like day and night.

"We have to face the drug problem. This is not a reflection on the parents. The chance to recover is based on a family that has strong basic values. The commitment has to do with relations to people and finding security in new friends.

Final teen dance slated at Deerfield tomorrow

The Mountainside Recreation Department will sponsor its final teen dance of the winter at the Deerfield School gymnasium tomorrow from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m.

This dance will be for grades 9 through 12 with no one under Grade 9 admitted. The band will be the "Stone Free." Admission is $1.25.

Council approves municipal budget; local bite reduced

The Borough Council Tuesday night approved a $977,047 municipal budget for 1971 with no signs of discontent from the 12 citizens who attended the 10-minute budget hearing at the Beechwood School. The budget calls for $196,176 to be raised for municipal purposes.

The local tax rate will be an estimated $7.57 over $100 of assessed valuation. This represents a 15-point increase over the $7.42 rate for 1970. The largest single factor is a 26-point increase in the amount for county purposes. The portion for municipal purposes decreased by 24 points.

The portion for local schools went up two points to 3.41 over last year. The rate for the Regional high schools increased by 11 points—from 2.12 in 1970 to 2.23 this year. The apportionment for veterans and senior citizens stayed at 11 points. The county government's share escalated to 1.40 from 1.14 last year.

Following passage of the budget, John G. Walsh of 1603 Rising way and Adam Evans of 245-Friar-lane-complimented-the-council for reducing the municipal portion of the budget.

In other business, the council passed a resolution authorizing negotiations for an agreement with Our Lady of Lourdes Church that will allow the borough to use part of the church's property as a recreation area. The property is on Central avenue adjacent to the Deerfield School.

The council denied approval of an application by Air Con, Inc., at 1148 Rt. 22 for a preliminary subdivision of property on Summit avenue. The denial was made because the firm did not submit development plans in accordance with the borough's codes.

Fantasy movie coming Saturday

The Mountainside PTA youth theater committee will present the movie, "Alakazam the Great," at 2 p.m. on Saturday at the Deerfield School gymnasium.

"Alakazam the Great" is a cartoon classic featuring the voices of Frankie Avalon, Dottie Stevens, Jonathan Winters and others. It is a winner of the Parents Magazine family medal award. Two cartoons and a 20-minute Abbott and Costello comedy will also be shown.

Tickets bought at advance sale may be used or they can be purchased at the door for 50 cents. Children have been asked not to bring food, candy, gum or toys.

Any parent who can monitor this movie was asked to call the youth theater chairman, Mrs. Joan Baker, at 232-6404.

Organist to present concert Sunday at Community Church

Jim Leaffe, a 22-year-old American Indian of the Seneca tribe, will present an evening of organ music Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Community Presbyterian Church, Deer Path and Meeting House lane, Mountainside.

Leaffe originally comes from the Cattaraugus Reservation near Buffalo. He has studied at the Juilliard School of Music and the Mannes College of Music. He is presently assistant organist at the Grace Church in New York City.

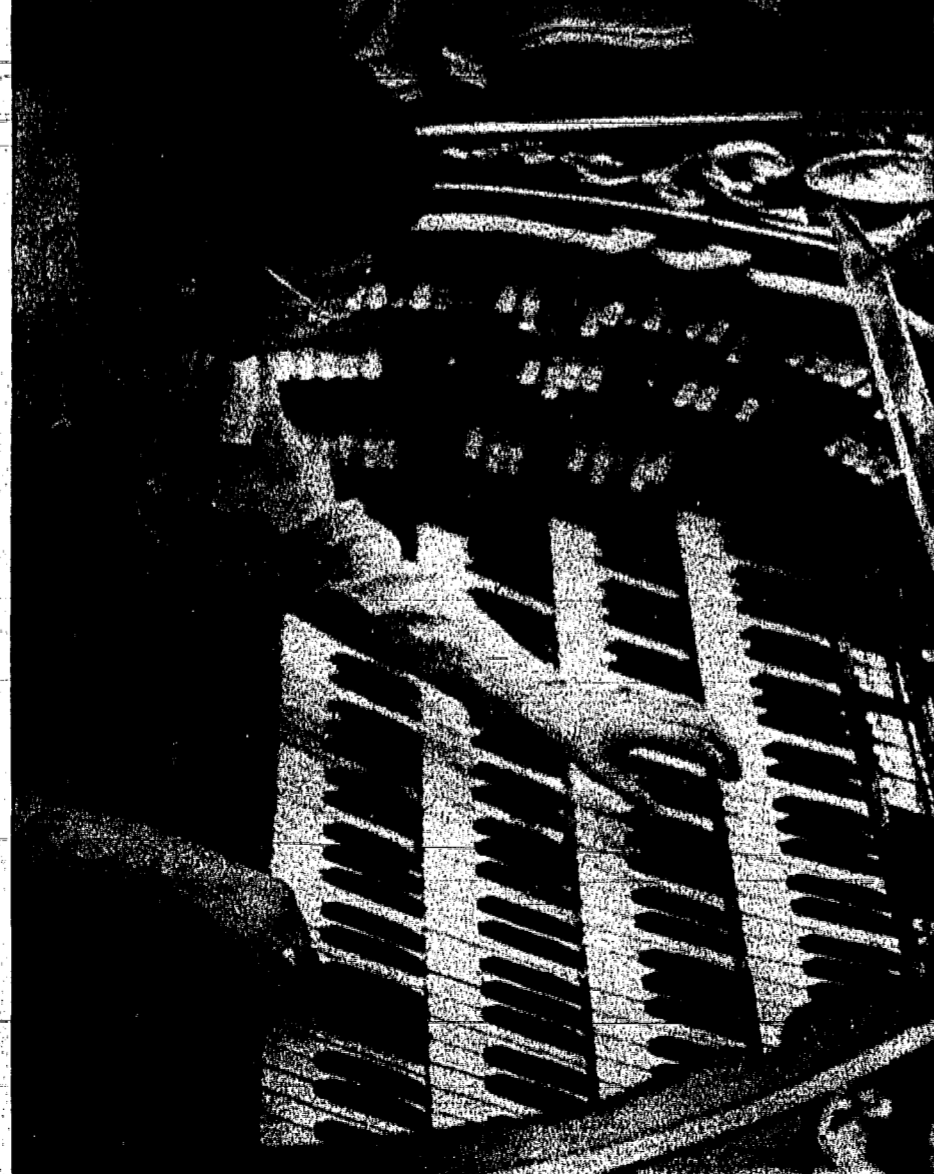

Leaffe also presides over the former Brooklyn Paramount Theater Wuritzer pipe organ in what must be the most ornate gymnasium in the world. The theater auditorium was reconstructed into a basketball court and teaching facilities for Long Island University's Zekendorf Campus. The Wuritzer organ was retained and is played for many activities throughout the school year.

Mrs. Arthur Olson of Mountainside will also be featured as soloist on the program. Mrs. Olson has performed locally with the Mountainside Music Association and is a member of the choir of the Community Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Olson will sing "Where Have All the Flowers Gone?" "Amazing Grace," and "If I Had a Hammer."

9 youths arrested in hold-up attempt

Nine Bronx youths were arrested Sunday at the Deerfield School by Mountainside police. The boys, all between 13 and 15 years old, allegedly worked in a group and attempted to hold up three local boys at the rear of the Deerfield School.

Police said the boys were among a group of students from the Bronx that was brought by their teacher to hear the Virginia State College Symphonic Band concert. Two of the youths reportedly pulled out knives and demanded money from the local youngsters. The others allegedly held the local boys and went through their pockets. All nine were released in their teacher's custody pending juvenile and domestic relations court action.

Regional District board reviews school needs

The Union County Regional High School District Board of Education last week approved "educational specifications" as a guide for the $4.7 million expansion bond proposal to be presented to the voters in a referendum on May 17.

The text of the specifications follows:

I. INTRODUCTION. The Board of Education has rightly indicated to the administration that it is the responsibility of the educators of the district to prepare educational specifications for new construction and for renovation of existing buildings. It has indicated that it is the responsibility of the architects to develop plans which will implement these educational specifications.

After reviewing the educational and architectural plans, it is then the responsibility of the Board of Education to accept, amend, or reject the plans.

In line with this vein of thinking, the Board of Education has received a report from Dr.

Henry Risetto, which it has accepted in part, amended in part and rejected in part. It has commissioned a study of traffic in the area of the Gov. Livingston school, and has authorized the board architect and attorney to proceed with their thinking and planning. It has, informally, ordered the superintendent to prepare this report.

Up to this point in time, the architect has prepared certain very general space allocations and has presented certain problems to the board. The educational staff has determined the location of several schools, which on paper at least, contain features which are deemed to be desirable for inclusion in our new construction. Some of these have been visited by administrators, a representative of the architectural firm and a board member. More such visitations are planned.

The management staff was called together during August, when most members had returned from their vacations, and engaged in an afternoon of transcribed discussion concerning features which should be included in the new (and renewal) work. Arrangements are being completed so that many, if not all, of these people will have an opportunity to see, at first hand, some examples of modern school construction and also its educational utilization. Opportunity will also be given for board members and architect to accompany the groups whenever it is believed that something significant may be seen.

It is planned that classroom teachers shall have the opportunity to participate in final decisions.

II. ADMINISTRATION. The first need of the regional district is for proper administrative space. This should include areas for the secretary of the board and his staff, for the superintendent of schools and his secretary, for the assistant superintendents and their secretaries, for the director of instruction, the educational media specialist, the coordinators and their secretaries and clerical staffs, and must also include space for conferences, and a board room.

Although there will be some thinking on the part of coordinators for a separate office in each building, this is a luxury which the district cannot presently afford. There must be, however, conference space in each building, where in addition to other conferences, coordinators, assistant superintendents, and the superintendent may confer with teachers.

The plan now under consideration will move the central offices out of the four classrooms now in use and return this space back to regular classrooms. An exact plan for administrative office space has not been completed as of this date; however the plan to rent commercial office space seems to be gaining favor.

III. INSTRUCTIONAL MATERIALS CENTERS. The instructional materials center should be the heart of each school. Built around a library which is designed to hold at least 30,000 volumes, and have seating space for from 110 to 150, depending on the projected population of the school, the instructional materials center should be fitted with study carrels which may be readily adapted for use in a dial access system whenever money for such a system is available. Each instructional materials center should be equipped not only as a reading center and a book charge-out center, but also as an area which will include all of the multi-media equipment of the school.

Areas should be provided for storage, for charging out audio-visual equipment such as eight-millimeter projectors to students, for pre-viewing materials, and for construction of audio-visual aids. Space and equipment for video-taping should be present. The library portion should be on the first floor, and there should be access so that it may be used at night or in summer with a minimum of policing. It is recommended that the architect work closely with our educational media specialist in the design of this space.

IV. CLASSROOMS. The number of classroom spaces to be projected at each of the locations may be determined by adjusting the recommendations of the Risetto report up or down in accordance with the changes in population totals which have occurred because of the amending of the report by the board. Actual final numbers should be arrived at by a close collaboration between the principals and the architect.

Divisible classrooms and adjoining classrooms which are separated by folding partitions are very necessary in moderate number.

V. STORAGE SPACE. Every building needs to have much more storage space than at present. This is a very serious need at all locations.

VI. CONFERENCE SPACE. All locations must have more adequate conference space. Adequacy for a given location should be determined by close liaison between the architect, the principal, and the coordinators.

VII. LARGE GROUP TEACHING AREAS. Every building needs a large-group teaching area. This area should accommodate from 75 to 100 students, and should be built for the purposes it is to serve. Just joining two standard size classrooms together is not the answer. Such an elongated arrangement does not answer the purpose for team teaching, audio-visual presentations, evening meetings, etc. This room may be divisible into smaller rooms.

VIII. TEACHER WORKROOMS. Each building needs teacher workrooms for the major departments. These can double as conference rooms, if money must be saved.

IX. DATA PROCESSING CENTER. The next few years will see a tremendous increase in data processing and computer use in schools. Air conditioned space should be provided somewhere in the district for the equipment which will be used on a school-wide basis. The administrative area may be the proper place.

X. STUDENT STORES. In all of the buildings there is need, in the rebuilding, to plan areas for student council, for student publications and for student stores. These need not be large. The student store should be in the vicinity of the cafeteria.

XI. PARKING FACILITIES. Additional parking facilities are needed at all schools. Better lighting of parking facilities is required.

XII. BETTER LIGHTING. In the reconstruction of our buildings, better lighting is required. This is particularly true at Arthur L. Johnson.

XIII. LAVATORY FACILITIES. In the two schools which do not have them (Johnson and Dayton) lavatory facilities which may be used without opening the rest of the building should be supplied. Wherever they are not present, lavatory facilities in the area of the cafeteria should be provided.

XIV. LARGER ROOMS. Where additional business education facilities are needed (see Risetto report) the rooms should be much larger than present business education rooms for efficiency of operation. Typing rooms and stenographic rooms presently are so small as to be extremely wasteful of teacher time.

XV. GUIDANCE. All guidance departments need major expansion, with the exception of David Brearley. Guidance counselor's offices should be on an outside wall, not a windowless room. A conference room must be supplied adjacent to each guidance department.

XVI. INDIVIDUAL WORK SPACES. In the development of science areas, a small number of individual work stations should be developed in such fashion that the users (students on independent study) will not interfere with operating classes.

XVII. OUTSIDE STORAGE SPACE. Space for storage of driver education cars and outside equipment must be enlarged at each building.

XVIII. GROUNDS DEVELOPMENT. While our outdoor athletic and physical education facilities have used virtually all of the land at all of our sites, a re-examination of the sites by our coordinator of athletics and physical education may enable us to recommend changes which will give us more facilities. A report will be filed later.

XIX. ELECTRIC OUTLETS. While a minor item in developing plans for a building, a major problem in using it is the fact that too often there are not enough electrical outlets. They should be placed in front, on one side and at the rear of each new or newly developed room. Conduit should be run for future television and dial access use.

XX. CAFETERIAS. The cafeterias at the Jonathan Dayton and Arthur L. Johnson schools shall be enlarged.

XXI. NURSE'S OFFICES. More space is needed at Arthur L. Johnson.

XXIV. NEEDS AT VARIOUS SCHOOLS: Jonathan Dayton, Mr. LaVature has outlined the needs as follows:

1. Seven classrooms.
2. Two health classrooms.
3. New library media center.
4. New auxiliary gym and locker rooms.
5. New art room.
6. New instrumental and vocal music rooms.
7. Three new science laboratories.

8. Enlarged lunch room and kitchen.
9. Enlarged metal shop.
10. Enlarged guidance offices.
11. New general pupil toilets.
12. New field house facilities.
13. Renovation of original building.

- b. Arthur L. Johnson, Hough has outlined the needs as follows:
1. Five new classrooms.
  2. New library media center.
  3. Expanded guidance offices.
  4. Two new science rooms.
  5. New instrumental and vocal music rooms.
  6. Enlarged cosmetology room.
  7. Teachers' workroom and departmental offices.
  8. Enlarged lunch room and kitchen.
  9. New administrative space.
  10. New student activities, school store and student project rooms.
  11. New field storage.
  12. New typing room.
  13. Renovation of original building.

- c. Gov. Livingston. Also has outlined the needs as follows:
1. New instrumental music room.
  2. New library media center.
  3. Enlarged guidance rooms.
  4. Department office space and student project rooms.
  5. Open space, flexible classroom and large group area.

- d. David Brearley, Dixey has outlined the needs as follows:
1. Two health classrooms.
  2. Expanded library media center.
  3. Teachers' workroom.
  4. New business room.
  5. Special education room.
  6. New science laboratory.
  7. Home management room.
  8. General pupil toilets.
  9. Student store.
  10. Open space, flexible classroom, large group area.

Y sets up can depot in parking lot

The Summit YWCA announced this week the establishment of a permanent aluminum can collection center in the rear of the YW parking lot. The project, which is being sponsored by the Public Affairs Committee, has been developed under the direction of Mrs. John Stochaj of Berkeley Heights. The collection center came about as an outgrowth of the YW-sponsored forum on consumer action for environmental protection last fall.

The center has been made possible by the generosity of K.E.E.P. which donated funds for the two bins, and by the S.A.G.E. Workshop, where they were constructed.

Individuals may bring aluminum cans and other clean household aluminum scrap to the YW parking lot and deposit them in the bins. Members of the YW public affairs committee will periodically take the materials to a recycling center in Newark.

Aluminum cans can be identified by the fact that they have rounded bottoms with no side seams. They are lightweight and easily crushed when empty. The bottom and sides are all one piece. Some easy open tops of cans show the word "aluminum" but this does not necessarily mean the whole can is aluminum. Persons bringing cans to the YW are asked to crush them before dumping them in the bins.

According to Mrs. William Houpt, chairman of the public affairs committee of the YW, the recycling project is but one way of aiding in the reuse of materials for which natural resources are limited and in combating pollution. However, the main thrust of the committee's efforts is to urge householders to become conscious of buying habits. Consumers, the group feels, should try to reduce purchases of aluminum packaged products wherever possible and try to buy, instead, products that come in returnable bottles.

Rinaldo raps Bergen, to keep fighting for Parkway commutation ticket plan

State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-Union) this week strongly criticized the Republican Assembly delegation from Bergen County for its role in defeating his bill to provide reduced rate commutation tickets to regular users of the Garden State Parkway. The bill, which already has passed the State Senate, was defeated last week in the Assembly.

Despite the setback in the Assembly, Senator Rinaldo pledged to continue his fight to establish cut-rates for Parkway users. "In fact," he declared, "I will not rest until reduced rate tolls are put into effect -- one way or another."

Senator Rinaldo said he was "puzzled by the hostile nature of the attacks directed at the bill by the Republican Assembly delegation from Bergen County. Despite their criticism of the bill, none of its opponents came to grips with the heart of the matter. They offered vague and unsubstantiated claims that the measure would harm the Authority's fiscal soundness. This is simply not so, and I have obtained an analysis from a certified public accounting firm stating that commuter rates can be established on the Parkway without damaging its financial posture."

The Union Township Republican went on to describe the measure as "one that Union County residents want to see adopted. It would give the beleaguered little man a rare break in the unrelenting spiral of rising costs."

Senator Rinaldo said he found it "difficult to understand how the Bergen County Assemblymen could oppose this measure. Most Bergen residents must at one time or another use the Parkway, which bisects their county. And since the Parkway has two toll booths in its path of approximately 15 miles through Bergen County, it is inconceivable that they are not among the proposals' foremost advocates."

"Certainly reduced rate tolls are the trend throughout the country," he asserted. "Most authorities, commissions and states themselves issue reduced rate commutation tickets to regular users of bridges, expressways and tunnels -- and still make a profit." He cited the Port of New York Authority bridges and tunnels and the facilities of the Delaware Joint Toll Bridge Commission, the Delaware River Port Authority and the New York Thruway as examples of this trend.

Psychiatric Clinic re-elects Crane as president of board

Carlyle W. Crane of Plainfield was re-elected president of the Union County Psychiatric Clinic board of trustees at the clinic's annual meeting last week in First Baptist Church.

The board also re-elected all other board officers. They are: First vice-president, Norman Pinnix of Roselle; secretary, Mrs. Edward A. Reisen of Summit, and treasurer, John Foley of Union.

A panel of three led a discussion on the problems of intensive child evaluation. Panelists were Dr. Catherine Spears, pediatric neurologist at Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside; Dr. August Cavornik, coordinator of special services at Springfield Public Schools, and Dr. Jay W. Fidler, medical director of the Union County Psychiatric Clinic.

The clinic is a non-profit organization which offers out-patient treatment for residents of Union County and North Plainfield suffering from emotional disturbance. It is directed by a board of trustees representing each of the communities it serves.

Among those elected to the board of trustees were Seymour Margulies of 29 South Derby rd., Springfield, and Milton Waldstein

"BABES IN TOYLAND" -- A Children's Theatre production of the Victor Herbert classic "Babes in Toyland" has been scheduled for April 14, 15 and 16 at Symphony Hall, Newark.

Symphony Hall will present 'Babes in Toyland' program

Symphony Hall, Newark, will present its first school vacation program April 14, 15 and 16 with a production of Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland" by the Children's Theatre. The production, written especially for children, is the same which played successfully during Christmas week at Town Hall in New York City. The Herbert classic, as performed by the Children's Theatre, has broken house records at the Bucks County Playhouse, the Regent Theatre in Syracuse and the Detroit Institute of the Arts.

The special performances in Newark come during school vacation for many school systems. The production is part of Symphony Hall's School Field Trip Series and offers discount rates of up to 40 percent to groups of 10 or more.

"Babes in Toyland," which opened on Broadway in 1903, presents such appealing musical favorites as "Toyland," "I Can't Do the Sum," "The Villain Song" and "The March of the Toy Soldiers."

Ticker information may be obtained through the Symphony Hall educational director, 1020 Broad st., Newark, phone 623-1815.

only 35 people at a performance, it is necessary to obtain a ticket from the Trailside office on the day of the show. Tickets are issued on a first-come, first-served basis. Children under eight years of age are not permitted in the Planetarium chamber. The Trailside Nature and Science Center is open to the public each weekday, except Friday, from 3 to 5 p.m., and on Saturdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.

Movie on Jersey celestial program

"This is New Jersey," a color, sound film, will be shown at the Union County Park Commission's Trailside Nature and Science Center, in the Watchung Reservation, on Sunday at 2 p.m.

The film takes the viewer on a trip through New Jersey from industrial areas to farmlands and from the highlands to seashore. Also on Sunday at 3 p.m. and 4 p.m., Donald W. Mayer, director of Trailside, will present a program in the Trailside Planetarium entitled "Let There Be Light." The program will show the story of light and how it is used by astronomers in studying the universe. The stars of the month will also be discussed and shown. The same program will be presented on Wednesday at 8 p.m., and on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, April 1 at 4 p.m.

Westfield art show opens at UC center

Ann Dickens of Westfield won the Elizabeth Tomasiulo Award for Best in Show in the Westfield Art Association's 10th annual state-wide exhibition which opened Sunday in the Campus Center of Union College, Cranford. It was announced by Mrs. Harold Ginn of Mountainside, exhibit chairman.

Miss Dickens received the $200 award for her mixed media work, "Reflective Drawers," at a reception in the Student Lounge at Union College attended by participating artists, officials of Union College, and members of the Westfield Art Association. This is the first time in some years that the Best in Show Award was not given for a work in oils.

The exhibit of 116 paintings by artists born or residing in New Jersey will be open to the public through Sunday. Exhibit hours are 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. through Saturday and 1 to 5 p.m. on Sunday.

The $100 Pfister Award for exploration in concept and materials was presented to Judith T. Weiland of Madison for her painting, "Iceland."

The third exhibit-wide award, the $50 Gerald Lubeck Award for best small realistic oil painting, went to Alfred Massa of Englishtown for his "Untitled Moment."

Award winners for paintings in oils included Janis H. Schantz of Wyckoff, the $100 Louis J. Dughi Memorial Award, first place; Ann E. Atlas of Westfield, $75 Donors Award, second place; Lucy Pirtle of Summit, $50 Morton Donald Catek Award, third place; Lynne Stone of Summit, $50 L. A. Frame Company Award, honorable mention, and Elizabeth Sharp of Cranford, M. Grumbacher Artists Materials Company Award, honorable mention.

Awards for paintings in watercolor were presented to Ruthann Williams of Bloomfield, $100 City Federal Savings and Loan Association Award, first place; G. S. Anthony of Westfield, $75 Donors Award, second place; A. J. Barbour of Ringwood, $50 Jane Smith Award, third place; and Ruth Andreasen of Scotch Plains, $50 John Franks Award, third place.

Graphics awards were won by Kenneth Hart of Perth Amboy, $50 Felice Award, first place; Marie Welsh of Summit, $30 Patrons Award, second place, and Marlene Lenker of Cedar Grove, Barry's Frame Shop Merchandise Certificate, honorable mention.

The three mixed media awards were presented to W. J. Brockway of Rockaway, $100 Hugh W. Long Memorial Award, first place; Betty O'Brien of Glen Rock, Westfield Art Supply Merchandise Certificate, second place, and Myra Bagish of South Orange, Bocour Artists Colors, Inc. Award, honorable mention.

Judges for the exhibit were Theodoros Stamos and Ernest Briggs of New York. Both men are professional artists who have achieved critical recognition for their work.

House costs will continue to increase

Continued increased housing costs for 1971 was predicted this week by Wendell A. Compton, president of the Union County Multiple Listing Service.

"As the year advances, we can only see higher home prices in the offing," Compton said.

"With land for new homes in short supply, the law of supply and demand will cause land costs to rise," he continued.

"In addition, the building trade unions have contracts calling for automatic increases in labor periodically for some time to come.

"As spring and summer approach, and builders sell off their inventory of houses on hand and under construction, they will be unable to hold the line on current prices and will be forced to price their homes to reflect the increases in costs of land, labor and materials.

"These factors will also have an inflationary effect on homes being offered for resale."

Compton advised prospective home buyers to visit any Multiple Listing Service member real estate firm as soon as possible.

"We have 106 member firms throughout the Union County area. Each week pictures, descriptions and locations of all multiple-listed properties are sent to them. Thus, by merely visiting one member-office the prospective buyer can see the major portion of the local home real estate market."

Safe-driving road rally scheduled by Explorers

James A. Ast, director of exploring for Union Council, Boy Scouts of America, announced this week an Explorer safe-driving road rally to be held on May 2. This rally is the second to be held by the council. The Lincoln-Mercury Division of the Ford Motor Company and the Sports Car Club of America will be sponsoring this activity. This rally is designed to test the driving skill, ability to follow directions and the ability to keep on schedule of the participants. It stresses safe driving and the ability to follow maps and driving instructions.

Some 200 participants are expected in the rally with each car having three participants -- the driver, navigator and observer. The rally will cover more than 100 miles, starting at Newark State College, Union, and ending at Winnebago Scout Reservation, Den-ville.

The Explorer Road Rally Committee, made up of members of Explorer Post 338, of Union, will be doing most of the planning and physical arrangements. Chairman Kenneth Johnson of Union and Eugene Finney, the adult advisor, hope to have as many Explorers working on the rally as possible to lessen the burden for the adult advisors. Johnson is now making plans for the Rally School to be held at Newark State College April 18.

Participants will be shown by S.C.C.A. members how to figure speed and time charts, the following of the sometimes complicated route instructions, and safe-driving tips.

Further information may be obtained by calling Ast (354-5676) or Johnson (686-2946).

Lecture set by Dr. Potts

Dr. James E. Potts, senior research scientist in the chemical and plastics division of Union Carbide Corp., Bound Brook, will lecture at the fourth in a series of five science seminars for academically talented high school students sponsored by Union College.

Dr. Potts will discuss the disposal of solid wastes on Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the lecture hall of the Nomahagan Building on the Cranford Campus.

The science seminars, which opened in January, focus on recent developments and research in the scientific world.

Low-calorie cooking course begins next month at YMCAs

Registration opens this week for a new series of "Creative Low Calorie Cooking" classes starting next month at YMCAs in Rahway and Scotch Plains.

The Rahway class begins April 20 in the Y building at 1564 Irving st. and will be held on six Tuesday mornings from 9:30 to 11:30.

The Scotch Plains class starts April 21 in the Y at Grand street and Union avenue and will meet on six Wednesday afternoons from 1 to 3.

Both classes are open to anyone who is interested; there are no residence or Y membership requirements, however enrollment will be limited.

The first series of "Creative Low Calorie Cooking" classes began in February with three classes and a total enrollment of 125. Response was so great that an additional 250 applications had to be turned down.

By eliminating loudspeaker calls to doctors and other staff members, personal pocket paging will control noise and provide greater privacy in the hospitals.

Group Alert will be included in each hospital's page system. This is a registered feature which allows the simultaneous calling of a number of key medical specialists who may be needed as a group in cases of cardiac arrest and other emergencies.

Gary Jay is given grant to examine effects of mercury

LANCASTER, Pa. -- A Franklin and Marshall College junior from Springfield, N.J., has been awarded a $13,200 grant from the National Science Foundation to conduct independent research this summer on the effects of mercury on the central nervous system of goldfish.

The student, Gary W. Jay, was awarded the grant under the foundation's newly established Student Original Studies program. He was only one of 103 students nationally who were funded by NSF among some 500 who applied for the program.

The purpose of the NSF program is to encourage undergraduate students to express in productive ways their concern for the environment.

Jay, who is pursuing pre-medical studies as a major in biology and psychology, plans to take between 500 and 600 goldfish and expose them to different amounts of mercury over a period of time. In no case, he said, will the fish be given lethal doses of mercury.

In his project, Jay will try to associate specific behavioral, physiological and biochemical changes in the fishes' central nervous system with their absorption and retention of mercury.

Jay will be working with 12 other students--four from F&M and the others from other colleges and universities--in the project which he expects to continue from June 7 to Aug. 14.

Most of the research will take place at F&M's new Whitely Psychology Laboratories, considered to be among the finest undergraduate research and teaching centers for psychology in the nation.

To qualify for the grant, Jay prepared an extensive proposal detailing the goals of his research.

Jay is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin B. Jay of 17 Lynn dr., Springfield. He is a 1968 graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. While in high school, he was awarded a National Science Foundation scholarship for research in biology which was judged the best in the state.

28 educators visit Dayton for Middle States evaluation

A 28-member evaluation committee, headed by Lewis C. Osborne of East Rochester, N.Y., and Robert C. Van Allen of Metuchen, will visit Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, this week to complete the final phase of accreditation by the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. This is the fourth visitation and self-evaluation at the school since it opened in 1937.

Dayton began preparing for the evaluation about a year ago when Robert F. LaVanture, the school's principal, organized the staff into committees and sub-committees for self-evaluation. A high school spokesman said the teachers and administration asked themselves the same questions as the evaluation committee will ask.

At least two committee members will observe and interview the teachers without announcing themselves during the three-day visit. An evaluator will sit in classrooms to watch, listen, examine textbooks and examine the courses of study. Then, after each class, the evaluator will question the teacher about the accomplishments and needs of the class and the department in which he teaches.

After the visitation the evaluators will fill out class observation reports. These will indicate student participation and interest, outstanding features or weaknesses of the lesson and teacher planning and participation.

The subcommittees, consisting of three evaluators on each, will go through a checklist and will rate about 80 points of information that are related to their areas. Subcommittee members will then compare notes and observations to arrive at an over-all rating on each of the 80 points. Following this, they will make commendations and recommendations to help upgrade each department's program. The subcommittee report will be presented to the entire evaluating committee for possible changes and approval.

The next day the evaluating committee will interview the students while classes are changing. They will each pick three or four at random as the students pass through the halls and will have them meet in an empty classroom during the day. The evaluators will ask each student what they would like them to recommend, the spokesman said. Later in the day the evaluators will hear reports from the subcommittees and will try to determine how the high school should be rated on the committee's evaluation form.

By the beginning of the third day, classes will have been observed, teachers and students will have been interviewed, courses of study will have been read and the evaluators will have familiarized themselves with all school procedures, the spokesman said.

They then will compare their observations with the self-evaluations which the school staff prepared in advance. These include everyone from the superintendent of schools, Dr. Warren M. Davis, to the custodial staff.

Paging firm gets big call

The New York City Health and Hospitals Corporation has awarded a contract for personal call paging systems in 13 city municipal hospitals to Multitone Electronics Inc. of Springfield.

The contract for the 13 paging systems is believed to be the largest single contract for site paging equipment to be awarded in the U.S. The 13 hospitals, with a combined capacity of more than 9,200 beds, will be served by 2,539 individual pocket electronic receivers.

By eliminating loudspeaker calls to doctors and other staff members, personal pocket paging will control noise and provide greater privacy in the hospitals. A central control unit in each hospital will enable staff members to be contacted instantly through their receivers by a distinctive beep signal and voice message.

Group Alert will be included in each hospital's page system. This is a registered feature which allows the simultaneous calling of a number of key medical specialists who may be needed as a group in cases of cardiac arrest and other emergencies. In all hospitals with automatic telephone systems, the receiver can be activated automatically from any telephone.

Bill Brandstattes of 1599 Grouse lane, Mountaintide, Troop 177, has won his skiing merit badge--one of the most distinctive in Boy Scouting--after having passed a test at Big Boulder Ski Area at Lake Harmony in the Poconos.

Big Boulder's skiing merit badge program for Boy Scouts was featured in the national magazine, Scouting, in the January issue, as an example of a special service offered by a single ski area to young men in scouting.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Stanley F. Yolles, M.D. Director National Institute of Mental Health

There is a good deal of confusion, misunderstanding, and misinformation prevalent about drugs these days, about "good" and "bad" drugs, and about their use and abuse. It may be well, therefore, to take a look for a moment at the entire subject of drugs and what we mean when we speak of drugs.

A medical dictionary definition of the word "drug," which comes from the old English, "drogge," tersely says that drug means "a substance used as a medicine."

Actually, this comes pretty close to what we mean when we apply the term to substances for treating mental illness, but further explanation is in order.

Nearly anything that makes into his body--by swallowing, inhaling, injecting, or even receiving through his skin's pores--can be called a drug. Any chemical substance that affects living organisms is, in a sense, a drug.

Besides, a substance can be a "drug" at one time and something else at another. For example, a substance known as lithium has been used in industry in ceramics and metallurgy. However, owing to recent research, it is also now used in treating certain cases of mental illness.

To further add to the complex picture are the various uses of drugs for purposes that are not medical, but which may be religious (in some societies), poetic, aphrodisiac, and so on.

Then there are such things as the question of whether a drug is employed principally to affect the body or the mind. In the latter case, the drugs are often called psychoactive (mind affecting) drugs and form a major part of all the substances prescribed by physicians.

Appropriately prescribed and properly used, several kinds of psychoactive drugs can and do play an important role in the prevention and treatment of various mental illnesses.

Among the main classes of such drugs are the major and minor tranquilizers, anti-depression drugs, stimulative drugs, sedative drugs, hypnotic drugs, and, as mentioned, lithium carbonate.

It is important to stress that drugs can be and are beneficial for both mental and physical diseases. But it is also important to emphasize that drug abuse is a grave problem. The seriousness of this problem, from narcotics such as heroin to milder mind affecting drugs, can scarcely be over-emphasized.

AAA urges study of drunk driver rehabilitation

The AAA Auto Clubs of New Jersey have called upon the state legislature "to come to grips with the problem of drunk driving by investigating the feasibility of establishing a rehabilitative program for persons convicted of the offense."
 Maintaining that the highway death toll as the result of drunken driving has reached "mammoth proportions," the AAA Auto Clubs said the fact that no widespread effort has been mounted to deal with the problem "is not only a national embarrassment, it is a national disgrace."
 The AAA call for creation of a legislative commission to investigate the feasibility and cost of establishing a drunk driver rehabilitation program was the principal recommendation in a formal program for legislative action forwarded this week to state legislators for their consideration.

 The program was presented on behalf of the six AAA clubs in New Jersey, which represent more than a quarter of a million motoring families, by Rene Vialle, state chairman and general manager of the New Jersey Automobile Club, headquartered in Florham Park.
 Pointing out that studies show many persons convicted of drunken driving continue to drive despite loss of their license, and other restrictions, Vialle said the AAA feels it is vital to deal with this aspect of the situation through a program aimed at preventing repeat offenses by "encouraging problem drinkers to seek rehabilitation as the only realistic counter-measure to their personal difficulties."

 In its formal presentation to the Legislature, the AA Clubs cite studies showing that alcohol is the largest single factor leading to crashes; that drinking drivers are responsible for the deaths of 44 percent of drivers killed through no fault of their own; that more than 28,000 persons died in the United States in 1969 as a result of drunk driving, and that the 1969 death toll in New Jersey alone in accidents related to alcohol impairment is estimated to surpass 600.
 "Against this background," the AAA Clubs maintained, "it is difficult to understand or accept the fact that New Jersey presently does not spend one single dollar on an alcohol control program."

 The AAA asked that any legislative commission established in this field review efforts now being made in various parts of the nation to cope with drunk driving. One of these, the AAA pointed out, is a corrective course for offenders being conducted in Phoenix, Arizona, under sponsorship of the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety in cooperation with Columbia University and Arizona State University.
 In urging New Jersey to mount a pioneer effort of its own, the AAA Clubs expressed the belief such approaches as that under way in Phoenix "offer substantial hope for reducing the incidence of driving while impaired by alcohol."

Lobbyist group hits Cahill's budget for highway building

Instead of opening the way to a major new highway program, the 1971-72 Department of Transportation budget "is just a repeat of the same old disastrous story witnessed under previous administrations," according to Duncan C. Thecker, president of the New Jersey Citizens Highway Committee, a road construction lobby.
 Thecker, elaborating on testimony he presented last week to the Joint Legislative Appropriations Committee, described the transportation budget as "more appropriate for meeting the transportation needs of horse and buggy days than the demands of the 70s."
 While the New Jersey Citizens Highway Committee can sympathize with the Governor's call for austerity, Thecker said, "the fact remains that in New Jersey, without highway development there will be no development." He noted that the state has failed to complete construction of a new toll-free road, end-to-end since World War II when the eight-mile-long Route 68 was built to serve the Fort Dix-McGuire Air Force Base complex. Thecker stressed these points:

- That a new highway bond issue or substantial "boost" in appropriations must be provided no later than next year, "or our highway system will fall so far behind that the gaps never will be filled."
- That 1968 Transportation Bond Issue funds have been sharply diluted because so much has been used for operational and maintenance expenses "which never were contemplated when voters passed this referendum by almost a 2-1 margin."
- That the Governor's call for lapsing $45 million in State Aid Road System funds was "shortsighted, particularly since much of this money apparently is being switched to other departments in no way involved in highway work."
- That New Jersey needs a comprehensive, carefully developed five-year highway plan "so we will know in 1971 how we are going to meet the highway needs of 1976, and not be sidetracked along the way for the sake of political expediency."
- The NJCHC president declared: "The time for catching up has just about run out. Not only must we worry about the past but it's about time that some real thought was given to the future, too."

DOUG BERNDT AND BARBARA BROWN have joined the roster of stars who will appear in the 1971 Funorama-on-Ice at South Mountain Arena, West Orange, on April 17 and 18. Berndt and Miss Brown won bronze medals both in this year's United States senior pairs competition and in the North American events.

Summer series to open June 9 at Arts Center

The Garden State Arts Center announced this week that its subscription series scheduled for the summer season starting June 9 will include opera star Beverly Sills, the New York Philharmonic, Harry Belafonte, Englebert Humperdinck, The Fifth Dimension, and the musical "1776".
 Chairman John P. Gallagher of the New Jersey Highway Authority, which operates the Arts Center on the Garden State Parkway, said the June 9 season and classical subscription series opener will present the New Jersey Symphony under Henry Lewis with guest violinist Berl Senofsky in an all-Bethoven program.
 Other attractions in the two classical and six popular subscription series are the Alvin Ailey American Dance Company, the Stuttgart Ballet, Burt Bacharach, Jack Benny with Henry Mancini, Red Skelton, and pianists Earl Wild and Gina Bachauer.

Classical Series 2—June 10, N.J. Symphony and Senofsky; June 24, Alvin Ailey American Dance Company; July 13, Stuttgart Ballet; July 27, N.J. Symphony and Miss Sills; Aug. 12, N.Y. Philharmonic and Wild; Sept. 2, N.Y. Philharmonic and Miss Bachauer.
 The Monday-through-Saturday Popular Series schedule—week of June 14, Red Skelton; week of June 28, Burt Bacharach; week of July 5, Harry Belafonte; week of Aug. 2, Jack Benny with Henry Mancini; week of Aug. 16, Englebert Humperdinck; week of Aug. 23, the musical "1776"; week of Sept. 7 (Tuesday through Sunday), The Fifth Dimension.

THE 5,058-SEAT AMPHITHEATER at the Parkway's Telegraph Hill Park in Holmdel will have a rousing overture to its fourth regular season in a special gala performance the night of Tuesday, June 8, to benefit the Garden State Arts Center Fund.
 Internationally-famed pianist Van Cliburn will appear with the New Jersey Symphony conducted by Lewis in that benefit program to support expansion of the fund's free concerts for school children and senior citizens. The Arts Center's fourth season will offer in the six popular series, one for each night of the week Monday through Saturday: the Red Skelton show; Burt Bacharach; Harry Belafonte; Jack Benny with Henry Mancini; Englebert Humperdinck; the prize-winning musical "1776"; and The Fifth Dimension.
 The latter group will have a unique Sunday evening performance on Sept. 12 for Monday series subscribers since there is no show on Labor Day (Sept. 6) in the week they appear.

EACH OF THE TWO classical series, one on Wednesday evenings and the other on a combination of Tuesdays and Thursdays, will present the following:
 The New Jersey Symphony with violinist Berl Senofsky, and again with soprano Beverly Sills in a program of operatic highlights; the Alvin Ailey American Dance Company; the Stuttgart Ballet starring Marcia Haydee and Richard Cragun in "Romeo and Juliet"; the New York Philharmonic conducted by Andre Kostelanetz with pianist Earl Wild, and again under the baton of Aldo Ceccato with pianist Gina Bachauer.
 Seven performances are included in each of the popular series and six programs are scheduled for each of the classical series on subscription, as they were last season. Curtain time will again be at 8:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and 9 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, with the Sunday, Sept. 12, performance by The Fifth Dimension scheduled for 8:30 p.m.
 All seat locations inside the Arts Center amphitheater will be available for subscription, but the some 3,000 spaces on the surrounding lawn will be limited to single-performance ticket sales only.
 Mailing address for the Garden State Arts Center box office is P.O. Box 116, Holmdel, N.J. 07733. The telephone number is (201) 264-9200.

THE 1971 SEASON'S subscription series dates follow:
 Classical Series 1—June 9, N.J. Symphony and Senofsky; June 23, Alvin Ailey American Dance Company; July 14, Stuttgart Ballet; July 28, N.J. Symphony and Miss Sills; Aug. 11, N.Y. Philharmonic and Wild; Sept. 1, N.Y. Philharmonic and Miss Bachauer.

Deborah to present art show, auction

Junior Women of Deborah Hospital will present their art show and auction on Sunday, April 4, at the Holiday Inn, 120 Evergreen Pl., East Orange. Viewing will be from 7 to 8:30 p.m. with the auction beginning at 8:30 p.m.
 Mrs. Allen Renkoff and Mrs. Michael Bornstein, the co-chairmen of the show, announced that Todd Gallery will present a collection which will include sculpture, abstract and semi-abstract in various media, oils, water colors and lithographs. All art work will be framed.
 Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served and a donation of $2 per person will be collected at the door. Parking is free. Proceeds will be donated to Deborah Hospital, Browns Mills, famous for its work in open-heart surgery.

Our Pretender Emulates a Diamond Perfectly:

The most superior simulated diamond developed...only a trained jeweler's eye can distinguish between it and a real diamond. Both have 58 facets and like a diamond each facet of a Pretender is cut by hand and polished to a fiery brilliance. And you don't have to worry about problems with insurance when you own a Pretender.

Pretenders are White and Flawless Like the Finest Diamonds:

Unlike other man-made stones it will never lose its brilliance. And it is permanently guaranteed against loss of color or brilliance.

Pretenders have a Most Durable Hardness:

Diamonds are the hardest natural gemstone with a 10 point hardness on Mohr's Scale. Pretender (technical nickname YAG) has an 8.5 hardness which makes it the hardest of the simulated diamonds.

Use of Instructional Councils spreads in state high schools

A new device for improving schools -- the Instructional Council -- is spreading in New Jersey. The Council's purpose is to involve teachers in updating curriculums and streamlining course offerings.

The work of one of New Jersey's first Instructional Councils, in Cherry Hill, is described in the current issue of the NJEA REVIEW, the monthly journal of the New Jersey Education Assn. Now in its second year of existence, Cherry Hill's Instructional Council is examining existing course content at all school levels and in all school departments, reports Anthony Moore, a Council member who teaches English at Cherry Hill H.S. West. As a starter, the Council asked the system's teachers, department heads and coordinators: What are your needs? Your most pressing problems. What are your recommendations for solving them? The Council also consults students, the community, and the school system's professional staff.

Where the Council has decided that change is needed, it has established committees of teachers and administrators to outline improved courses. The next step will be to appoint curriculum writing committees to develop the materials from which the updated courses will be taught. One of the first accomplishments of the Instructional Council was a community program to attack teenage drug problems. The Council is also working on recommendations to improve student discipline, to give greater help to students with learning or behavior problems, to establish a course in ecology, and to improve course offerings in areas such as mathematics, language arts, science, and the social studies.

The Instructional Council originated with the Cherry Hill Education Assn., which negotiated it into existence for the 1969-70 school year. This year the Council has a $60,000 budget, paid by the local board of education. Cherry Hill is a rapidly growing Philadelphia suburb with 17,300 students and 23 schools spread out over 26 square miles. "The difficulties of coordinating all these elements, of evaluating curriculum needs, and of developing valid reforms almost seem insurmountable," Moore says. "We began to discover teachers were frequently unaware of what was going on in other buildings and on other levels."

Heretofore, most curriculum-improvement projects in Cherry Hill have produced recommendations that were never put into effect or materials that could be used only at one school. Says Moore: "We believe a lack of coordinated planning caused this."

Now, however, members of the Council and the study committees come from all levels of the school system and from as many of Cherry Hill's 23 schools as possible. "All 15 of us represent the full spectrum of the educational community," Moore writes. "Collectively we are able to see curriculum problems with a kindergarten-through-12th grade perspective."

The Board of Education and school administration have worked cooperatively with the Instructional Council, Moore reports. A former member of the teacher negotiating team remarked: "I'm so used to seeing antagonism whenever I sit down to talk with administrators that I can't believe what is happening here."

Says Moore: "We are convinced we have the talents, skills, and motivation to improve our young people's education. We've had these abilities all along. What we are discovering now is the necessity and the methods for putting them all together to accomplish something meaningful for a change."

It was a subscription edition, subscribed to by a distinguished group of people on both sides of the Atlantic, including Great Britain's King George IV.

Today, few complete sets of the 435 engravings remain. Those that are still extant are in public and private libraries and museums.

Rare prints at museum

An exhibition of Audubon prints lent by 19 New Jersey collectors will open Sunday at the Montclair Art Museum and continue through May 9.

About 50 engravings of the original elephant folio edition of Audubon's Birds of America are shown. This famous folio was published during the years 1827-1838.

It was a subscription edition, subscribed to by a distinguished group of people on both sides of the Atlantic, including Great Britain's King George IV.

Today, few complete sets of the 435 engravings remain. Those that are still extant are in public and private libraries and museums.

Low-cost VA insurance is given to disabled vets

The Veterans Administration last year issued low-cost life insurance valued at $212 million to 22,000 disabled veterans — the most for any one year since the "RH" policy program for the disabled was started in 1951, according to Joseph J. Mulone, director of the New Jersey Veterans Administration regional office in Newark.

Kids look to the stars

Fifth to eighth grade astronomy buffs can increase their knowledge of the heavens over five Saturdays this spring. The New Jersey State Museum, Trenton, is offering a tuition-free astronomy course designed to show what can be learned with the naked eye, the telescope and the camera about the sun, the planets, double stars, and the moon. The Astronomy Program for Young People will begin May 1, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. in the State Museum Planetarium with an enrollment limited to 100.

Interested persons can get further information by writing: The New Jersey State Museum Planetarium, West State street, Trenton, 08625, or phoning (609) 292-6308.

SUNDAY'S SERMON

"I CAN"
Next time success seems to be out of reach have a little faith—in God, in yourself. Run the full course before you shake your head and turn away. Learn to use those important little words: "I can" and "I'll try." If you think you can, if you have the courage to try, the determination to persevere, your attitude will lean toward success. You may not win the complete victory, but you will salvage some measure of success. You will, through the effort, become a better person. Look about you and consider some individual you consider successful, some local or public figure. Study his biography and you will discover that he knew failure as well as success along the way. He succeeded because he never lost the "can do" philosophy and did not turn aside the new challenges of life. Every man must measure success with effort; it never just happens. BLAST THOSE BUGS! Find an Exterminator in the Classified Section.

Charge for Pictures
There is a charge of $5 for wedding—and engagement pictures. There is no charge for the announcement, whether with or without a picture. Persons submitting wedding or engagement pictures may enclose the $5 payment or include a note asking that they be billed.

N.J. to review hospitals' costs for expansion

The Comprehensive Health Planning Agency has agreed to Blue Cross' request that it review all hospital capital expenditure plans to help avoid costly duplication of facilities.

"The effectiveness of the review may be hampered, however, until the Legislature enacts a strong certificate of need bill," according to agency Director J. Robert Lackey. He explained that a certificate of need requirement would serve to eliminate overbuilding of hospital facilities and unneeded expansion of medical services. "Actual need would have to be clearly demonstrated," the CHPA director said.

Lackey has advised all New Jersey hospital administrators that his office is establishing procedures and criteria on hospital expansion to be used as a basis for Hospital Service Plan (Blue Cross) reimbursement. "In other words, the director explained, Blue Cross will look to the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency for guidance on reimbursement to hospitals for services performed in new or expanded units.

A similar review procedure had been provided by the Health Facilities Planning Council until its recent dissolution. Now the review will be handled for the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency by the 11 Regional Facilities Planning Councils, carryovers from the HFPC, along with the Hospital and Health Council of Metropolitan New Jersey, Inc., which serves Essex, Union, Morris, and Warren Counties.

All proposed hospital construction and expansion plans should be directed to the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency in Trenton, Lackey said in a letter to hospital administrators. After regional agencies submit their reviews and recommendations, final action will be taken by the State Health Planning Council, the consumer-dominated Partnership for Health board which is advisory to the Comprehensive Health Planning Agency.

Pastor is selected for district office

Bishop Prince A. Taylor Jr., area head of New Jersey United Methodist, announced this week he will appoint the Rev. Henry J. McKinnon, pastor of church at Union Village, Berkeley Heights as a district superintendent in the Northern N.J. Conference, effective in June.

Although the Rev. George Watt Jr. of Westfield will be leaving the superintendency at the same time to accept a pastorate, Bishop Taylor has not specified that Mr. McKinnon will succeed Mr. Watt on the Southern District.

Completing one of the three currently longest pastorates in the conference—23 years—the new superintendent will bring to his job the unique experience of having gone to a small church as student pastor, and then led its growth from a congregation of 60 meeting in a simple building to a membership of more than 1,000 enjoying facilities valued at more than $400,000.

Teachers offered tuition-free course

The New Jersey State Museum, Trenton, will offer a tuition-free course, Natural Sciences for the Elementary Teacher.

The course will consist of eight sessions: Three in astronomy, two in geology and three in biology. Besides current information in these areas of science, the course will also include methods and techniques of teaching them.

Classes will be held each Wednesday, beginning April 14, from 3:30 to 4:45 p.m. The astronomy sessions will meet in the Planetarium, and the other sessions will meet in the museum's Science Theater. Enrollment is limited to 50.

Teachers wishing more information may mail inquiries to: The Bureau of Science, The New Jersey State Museum, West State Street, Trenton 08625.

'Your Own Thing' set for NSC stage

The Drama Committee of the Newark State College Center Board has completed plans for the performance of "Your Own Thing," scheduled for Friday, April 2, at 8:30 p.m. in the Theater for the Performing Arts on the Union campus.

This rock-musical version of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" is the first off-Broadway musical to have won the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award as the best musical of the season. The musical also won the Outer Critics' Circle Award in the spring of 1968 and was one of the season's ten best plays in the annual book of that title.

THE STUDY MISSION GROUP that took the journey that saw the Middle East that posed on a hill overlooking Islamabad, the newly built city planned to be the capital of Pakistan. One of the architects, a woman, is in the center.

PEOPLE:

TRAVELERS, TIBETAN STYLE: A group of Tibetan refugees as they travel through Nepal. Kathmandu, the capital of Nepal, is about 70 miles from Tibet and many refugees now live in a camp near the city.

ANIMALS:

A GIRAFFE that is not a giraffe: An artistically trimmed hedge gets a giraffe look and peeks over Trudina Howard in a park in Bombay, India. The park contains many plants cut to resemble other animals and also affords a good view of the imposing high-rising Bombay skyline across the bay.

THINGS:

THE HOUSE that Edward built. The strikingly handsome American Embassy in New Delhi, India, designed by Edward Durrell Stone, the view here shows an inner court with its pool and latticed ceiling.

ALBUM OF A JOURNEY

DOORMAN, PAKISTANI STYLE: Proud and elegant in his uniform this stalwart assistant decorates the entrance of the Rawalpindi Intercontinental Hotel. The city is called "Pindi" by its citizens.

A CAMEL that IS a camel: Acting stubborn as usual this camel in midtown Karachi, West Pakistan, is about to cause a traffic jam. The Arabs have a saying that there are three things you cannot hide: love, fire and a camel on a desert. It looks here as though he can't be hidden on a street either.

JACK WENT UP the hill to fetch a pail of water? Not this time. This time he PUSHED it all the way up the hill. It is not the easiest way, but it is one way to do it in Jaipur, India.

A FEMININE LOOK

at Central Asia 1970

by TRUDINA HOWARD

Twentieth in a Series
ODDS AND ENDS AT THE END
Would you believe there is a city where it hadn't rained for two and a half years? That's Karachi, West Pakistan.

Would you believe, at the same time, that West Pakistan has a popular winter sport area, SKIING and all? And, in addition, its name is SWAT? All true.

Also, West Pakistan can claim the world's most expensive soup and the world's most expensive bad martini: ninety cents per can of Campbells and three dollars per terrible cocktail. Only Paraguay and Uraquay were found to be extreme.

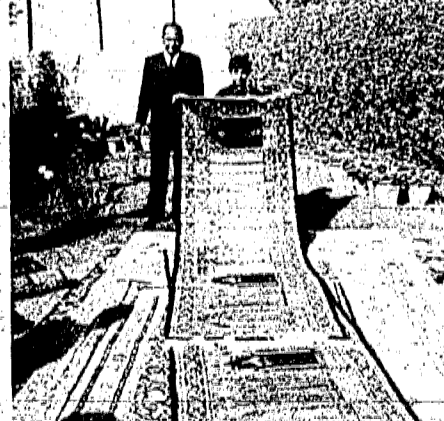

When we arrived in Peshawar, West Pakistan, we ran smack into the dingiest hotel of the journey, too, Dean's Hotel probably was built in the late 1800's and there are several of them in India, West Pakistan is carved out of Punjab-India and East Pakistan out of Bengal-India, so once upon a time the Dean Hotels must have been the Hiltons of their day throughout old colonia "Inja," HUCKLEBERRY FINN, Ceylon style: A young man of Colombo, the capital city of the island, mischievously peeks into our car with the greatest friendliness. Usually the children beg, but this young man only grinned.

A SHEEP that is not sheepish: Fun is fun anywhere and children play the same world over. Here, in Lahore, West Pakistan, a concrete slide amuses a bevy of boys, as well as — a very relaxed ram! Amazingly the animal offered no resistance and climbed the slide steps with the boys and calmly slid down.

RUB-A-DUB-DUB, three men on a rug... Carpet "tycoon" S.A. Rasheed and son Mickey show off carpets and a "prayer rug for a family" in their front garden in the sun light. What a way to see oriental rugs! Mr. Rasheed is with the firm of Jusef-Rasheed of Lahore.

THE TRAVELERS called Trudina Howard, right, and cousin Carlotta L'Ecluse of California and I called it a 'bonzo!' fireplace. And it was.

dollar Beefeaters (airport price), squeezed as much orange as we could into it, hung our flowers on the bonzo mantle, buttoned our winter coats up high, left our boots on, sat down in front of the fireplace, and shivered. With teeth chattering we raised our glasses—no, we added a goodly number of honey-suckles, THEN raised our glasses — and had our warming toddy. Carlotta named it a Peshawar Slop. It was, but we felt much warmer.

Little silly things to remember; little happenings; but add them all together with the big ones and they make a journey. It had been an interesting trip and Carlotta has been the greatest roommate.

Karachi was the last official stop of the Study Mission but we spent one unofficial day in London before catching our BOAC plane to New York. And that was it. The end of Study Mission Number Twelve to Central Asia.

Bavarian festival set

The third annual Summer Bavarian Festival at Barnesville, Schuylkill County, Pa., will feature a team of German schupplattlers who will dance daily at the festival July 2 through 11.

The dancers, known as the Deutsche Alpen Verein "Bergbund" Schupplattler Gruppe, come from Wurzburg in Bavaria.

One of the highlights by the German group will be the traditional Holzhaeker dance which includes the use of logs, saws and axes.

The festival is held at Lakewood Park, located on Route 54 midway between Tamqua and Mahanoy City.

Performance set for benefit of ballet

Three Northern New Jersey ballet stars—Teena McConnell of Glen Ridge, Christina Redpath of Montclair and Marjorie Spohn of Livingston—will be featured soloists in the Garden State Ballet's performance at Symphony Hall, Newark, on Friday, April 2 at 8:15 p.m.

They will join stars Violette Verdy, Edward Villella, Conrad Ludlow and Earle Slevelling in a program for the benefit of New Jersey's professional ballet company.

All are members of the New York City Ballet Company and all have donated their services.

For the Misses McConnell, Redpath and Spohn, the occasion represents a homecoming. Each studied at one time under Fred Danelli, now artistic director of the Garden State Ballet.

On the Symphony Hall program all three performers will be featured in George Balanchine's "Symphony in C."

Miss McConnell will perform opposite Ludlow in the first movement. Miss Spohn will dance with Paolo Russell of the Garden State Ballet in the adagio section and Miss Redpath will perform the fast-moving third movement opposite Slevelling.

Patron and sponsor tickets for the gala benefit at Symphony Hall, Newark, are priced at $100 and $50 per couple. Tickets at regular box office prices, $7.50, $6, $5, $4 and $3, are available to the public and may be purchased at Symphony Hall or Bamberger's, Newark.

Curriculum guide on ecology issued for fourth grades

A curriculum guide integrating ecology, social studies and science has just been made available for use in elementary schools, according to the North Jersey Conservation Foundation, a non-profit organization located in Morristown.

The guide for grade IV second volume in a series entitled Education For Survival, was published in cooperation with educators in the Madison, New Jersey, public schools.

Material for the guide was developed by teachers, administrators, and conservationists during the years 1966 through 1970.

The first volume, published last June by the foundation, for grades I, II, and III, has received wide acceptance, hailed by teachers and administrators as one of the most comprehensive tools available for the teaching of ecology. Stressed in both volumes, is the development of an interdisciplinary approach, making the environmental concepts an inseparable part of the social studies and science curriculums.

According to David Moore, executive director of the foundation, the volume is geared to the fourth grade. "Although the foundation is aware of the fact that teachers will use the book as resource material for other grade levels."

Tenant group plans workshop April 17

The New Jersey Tenants Organization will hold its second Tenant Power Workshop on Saturday, April 17 at Rutgers University, New Brunswick.

The NJTO workshop, a one day brush-up course on "the skills tenants need to organize and protect themselves," is reportedly the only course of its kind, taught by tenant leaders for tenants, to be offered anywhere in the country.

The program will be held at the Labor Education Center off U.S. 1 on Ryders Lane in New Brunswick from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mintz elected director of merged organization of 3 newspaper groups

Milton Mintz, executive publisher of this newspaper and the seven others in the Suburban-Truman-Irving Herald group, has been elected a director of Suburban Newspapers of America. Suburban Newspapers was formed recently in a merger of three national trade organizations serving suburban and inner-city community newspapers in the U.S. and Canada.

Mintz, a resident of Springfield, also was chosen to serve on the new organization's membership committee headed by Stanford Lipsey of the Sun Newspapers of Omaha. William P. Dole, president of Dole Publishing Co., Cambridge, Mass., was elected president. Vice-president is Edward L. Dardanel, Dardanel Press, Monroeville, Pa.; secretary, John H. Wolf, Cincinnati Suburban Newspapers, Cincinnati, Ohio; and treasurer, Jules Jacobson, New Jersey Suburbanite, Englewood.

At a combined meeting of Accredited Home Newspapers of America, Suburban Press Foundation and the Suburban Newspaper Section/National Newspaper Association more than 200 representatives of 89 publishing corporations which produce more than 400 newspapers agreed to pool their strengths. Purpose of the new organization as stated in its constitution is "to service the trade association and research and marketing needs of the suburban and urban community newspapers in the U.S. and Canada."

It is designated an autonomous organization to be affiliated with the National Newspaper Association, 86-year-old trade organization headquartered in Washington, D.C. The suburban association functions will be carried out under agreement in the offices of NNA with a separate staff officer subject to the policy direction of the SNA officers and directors.

In addition SNA will establish under a chairman and operate a Suburban Newspaper Research Center in Chicago, Ill. Named chairman of this function is William H. Over, Paddock Crescent Publications, Downers Grove, Ill. Vernon Spitaleri, publishers of the Laguna Beach, Calif., News-Post was named a director of the National Newspaper Association for a three-year term to represent SNA.

Serving with Over on the Research Center committee are: Oran W. Asa, Northeast Los Angeles Publishing Co., Los Angeles; Arthur P. Cook, Sun Papers, Birmingham, Ala.; Russ Eastcott, Metro Mirror Publishing Ltd., Don Mills, Ont., Canada; Bruce Helberg, American, Bellevue, Wash.; Lou Lerner Publications, Chicago; Don Randa, Life Newspapers, Berwyn, Ill.

Also the three past presidents: Bruce Sagan,

Economist Newspapers, Chicago; Spitaleri, News-Post, Laguna Beach, Calif.; and Harold G. Townsend Jr., Dispatch-Tribune Newspapers, North Kansas City, Mo.

The officers of SNA plus Otis A. Brumby Jr., Marietta, Ga., Daily Journal/Neighbor Newspapers Inc., and Roswell S. Bosworth Jr., Phoenix-Times Publishing Co., Bristol, R.I., will comprise a committee charged with staff and office procedures.

In addition to Lipsey and Mintz, the membership committee will include Dean Leshner, Walnut Creek, Calif.; William W. Pace, Topics Newspapers, Indianapolis, and William E. Strasburg, Montgomery Newspapers, Fort Washington, Pa.

Two directors, Del Bodey, Linden-Northeast News, Columbus, Ohio, and Charles W. Williams, Star-Tribune Publications, Chicago Heights, Ill., will assist Robert Paddock, Paddock Publications, Arlington Heights, Ill., who will continue to head the editorial seminar committee.

The present board of directors comprises 27 active suburban and urban community publishers. This will be cut back in number each year for the next three years to provide a representative board of 18 persons.

American and Soviet experts to debate Cold War at Seton

Three historians, including a Russian diplomat, will offer new views of the Cold War and of American and Soviet policy-makers of the 40s and 50s at a history conference Saturday at Seton Hall University, South Orange. High school and college teachers from throughout the state are expected to attend the all-day conference on the subject, "The Cold War in Historical Perspective."

"The Cold War has become a matter for intense historical reevaluation," said Dr. Edward S. Shapiro, conference director and Seton Hall professor. "Because of the work of younger and more radical historians, the orthodox interpretation that the sole source of American-Soviet tensions was Soviet actions in Eastern Europe and the Far East is no longer generally accepted." The conference is an attempt to clarify the nature of the Cold War and to illustrate differing approaches to the writing of post-World War II diplomatic history.

Dr. Walter La Feber, Cornell University history professor, will discuss "John Kennedy: Culmination of the Cold War" at the morning session. His 1962 book, The New Empire, received the Beveridge historical award and influenced later writing on American diplomatic history of the period.

Dr. Richard S. Ovinnikov, senior counsellor for political affairs of the USSR Mission to the UN, will talk on "The Soviet View of the Corporations' Role in the Cold War."

"The Cold War, Another Look" will be the topic of Dr. Gaddis Smith of Yale. Best known for a highly critical book on FDR's statesmanship, he is now writing a study of the diplomacy of Dean Acheson, Truman's controversial secretary of state.

Wildlife Week observed by sportsmen of state

"Wildlife: Who Needs It?" is the theme for the annual observance of National Wildlife Week this week, according to Russell A. Cookingham, director of the New Jersey Division of Fish, Game and Shellfisheries.

The observance is conducted by the New Jersey State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, an affiliate of the National Wildlife Federation. A primary objective is to help the public become more aware of the link between human environment and wildlife habitat.

"Wildlife provides a conservation warning system," Cookingham pointed out. "When wildlife disappears, it is a sign of environmental change. When the habitat that wildlife needs is destroyed, it often means that a healthy environment for humans also has been taken away."

"Wildlife - who needs it? Take a close look at your Community," Cookingham continued. "Whether you live in cities, suburbs or the country, we hope you will join us in answering: 'We all do!'"

NSC to give unusual play

Byrd Hoffman's School of Byrds will present "New Art" at Newark State College's Theater for the Performing Arts, Union, on Friday, March 26, at 9 p.m.

The show will be representative of the school of Byrd's style, described by a Newark State spokesman as "something like painting, like dance, like theater—art in pure visual and conceptual form in three dimensions."

Newark State students will participate in the cast of 75. There have been workshops this week at NSC by the School of Byrds in preparation for the show.

Aiding Viet servicemen and families

Services outlined in noting 'Red Cross Month'

The American Red Cross, acting as a medium of voluntary relief and communication between the American people and the members of the armed forces, handles more than 30,000 emergency messages a month regarding personal and family problems for servicemen in Vietnam alone.

Along with disaster services, aid to members of the armed forces are the two major obligations of the Red Cross, according to Miss Genevieve Pascale, public relations committee chairman for Eastern Union County, who reviewed the activities of the organization which observes March as "American Red Cross Month."

Family problems and personal emergencies, magnified by the servicemen's distance from home, make up the vast majority of cases in which the Red Cross is asked to help, Miss Pascale said.

"Through its 3,300 chapters in this country," she said, "the Red Cross aids the serviceman and his family. Together, Red Cross workers in chapters and field directors assigned with United States forces form a worldwide two-way communications channel that can provide servicemen with information on births, deaths, and health conditions in their families and supply service members and their commanders with information essential to making decisions for emergency leave to return home."

"The assistance that the Red Cross gives servicemen includes welfare counseling, emergency communications service between the man and his family, emergency financial assistance, and recreation. The Red Cross fulfills this responsibility through volunteers and career staff on more than 2,300 U.S.

military installations in 30 nations around the world.

"In U.S. military hospitals all over the world, Red Cross volunteers and career staff provide the same welfare and recreation services to patients that they offer able-bodied servicemen and help to maintain the communications link between the men and home."

"BEST KNOWN OF ALL RED CROSS services are the emergency program to relieve human suffering in time of disaster and the long-range recovery assistance plan to help families and individuals back to normal living."

"During the early, critical days of a disaster, the Red Cross provides mass care, including shelter, food, clothing and emergency medical care. A large fleet of mobile disaster vans, canteens and portable radio equipment can be rushed to pressure points. Vital as it is, this emergency relief to vast numbers of people represents only about 10 percent of the total cost of a disaster operation."

"When the critical period is past, trained disaster specialists, caseworkers and volunteers remain on the job, working with each individual or family requesting help. With the Red Cross aid, homes are repaired or rebuilt, essential household furnishings replaced, and tools of a livelihood reassembled. Basically, the Red Cross assists with whatever disaster-caused needs are beyond the capacity of the family to handle on its own. This phase of Red Cross disaster relief represents about 82 percent of the organization's expenditures for disaster."

"It is a fact -- all Red Cross disaster relief assistance is an outright gift from the American people through the Red Cross -- no repayment is required."

"In addition to aid to servicemen and disaster victims, the American Red Cross trains volunteers, conducts blood programs, trains youths to serve as water safety aides and as assistants in government projects such as Head Start."

"American Red Cross teaches first aid skills, swimming, lifesaving, and small craft safety, offers a continuing program of safety education through public media and cooperates in such efforts as Poison Prevention Week and National Safe Boating Week. Especially adapted safety courses are taught the blind and handicapped. The Red Cross helps those who need books in Braille, a hospital bed, a wheelchair, crutches, those who need instruction in baby and nursing care... those who need blood."

"Nearly 2,300,000 trained, active Red Cross volunteers outnumber the career staff by 166 to 1. More volunteers are needed in every phase of Red Cross work and should please contact American Red Cross Headquarters in Elizabeth."

"We want to thank the public for support of the American Red Cross through the United Fund. It is your American Red Cross. Respect it, uphold it and please continue to help us help."

EGGING THEM ON -- Mrs. William T. Cahill, left, wife of New Jersey's Governor, presents John R. Mellin, executive director of the Union County Easter Seal Society, and Mrs. J.J. Tomlinson the group's treasurer, with "Morven Seed Eggs." The eggs bear a sticker reading, "Be a Good Egg-Help Crippled Children." They also contain "seed money and a note from Mrs. Cahill asking that the money be invested in special fund-raising projects to help Jersey's crippled children."

Explorers to attend national meeting

Union, Linden and Cranford Posts, all members of the Exploring Division of Union Boy Scout Council, will send delegates to the first National Explorer President's Congress to be held in Washington, D. C., June 2-6.

At the conference, planned as the first in a series of annual events, the youths will discuss their programs for the year.

Seminars will be held on topics including Explorer leadership, the future direction of Exploring, group dynamics, working with adults, current issues facing the nation and youth adults, government and communications.

Viennese pianist to present recital

Viennese pianist Alfred Brendel will present a recital at Seton Hall University, South Orange, on Sunday at 8 p.m. in the main lounge of the Student Center. The recital, part of Seton Hall's Concert Series sponsored jointly by the Student Programming Board and the Department of Music, is in lieu of a scheduled concert of the Hamburg Chamber Orchestra, with subscription series tickets for that concert honored instead for the Brendel recital.

Alfred Brendel is widely known for his six-volume, 36-side recording of Beethoven's entire works for the piano. The pianist is now on an extensive American tour and in addition to his Seton Hall appearance will perform with the New York Philharmonic, Los Angeles Symphony, Chicago Symphony and Cleveland Orchestras.

A pianist since the age of six, Alfred Brendel is also a composer and painter. He attended school in Zagreb and in Graz and studied piano, conducting and composition. He has had an international career as a concert artist and has been invited regularly by all the great summer festivals since 1960. His performances are an integral part of the Salzburg Festival program and for the last ten years he has conducted master classes during Vienna Festival week.

Hiking club plans walks

The Union County Hiking Club has scheduled two hikes this weekend.

On Saturday, Barbara Wagstaff of Cranford and Grace Maslanka of West Orange will lead a hike in the area of Ringwood Manor in northern New Jersey. The trip will include a tour of the historic Ringwood Manor and Skylands area. The group will meet at the Route 17 exit of the Garden State Parkway at 9:30 a.m. and at the parking area at Ringwood Manor at 10:15 a.m.

On Sunday, Leonard Gohs of East Orange and Fred Douby of Union will lead a ten-mile hike in the Shawangunk Mountains in New York State. The group will meet at the Five Points Shopping Center, Chestnut Street, Union, at 7:30 a.m.

Interested persons may obtain additional information by contacting the recreation department of the Union County Park Commission.

May 1 charity ball to benefit Memorial General Hospital

Invitations to the annual Memorial General Hospital Charity Ball were mailed this week. The ball, a fund-raising social function of the auxiliary to the Union County Osteopathic Society, generates contributions for the nonprofit community hospital through public support of a souvenir journal. The ball is open to the public.

Proceeds of the journal, the largest single fund-raiser held annually to benefit the hospital, are donated to the building and equipment fund. This year, the souvenir journal has been adopted as a community service project by the Young Republican Club of Union.

The ball, which has been given the theme "Serenade to Spring," will be held Saturday, May 1, at the Clinton Manor, Rt. 22, Union. The evening will include a cocktail hour, dinner and dancing to the music of Herb Larson. Prizes will be awarded.

Mrs. Alex Kowalenko of Clark and Mrs. Peter Rama of 102 N. 24th st., Keaniworth, are co-chairmen of the event. Committees include: invitations -- Mrs. Rama and Mrs. Kowalenko, co-chairman, and Mrs. Nicholas A. Cunnice of Scotch Plains; Mrs. John Ferrara of Elizabeth; Mrs. John Gudelis of Scotch Plains, and Mrs. Thomas Verrastello of Clark.

Prizes and table favors -- Mrs. Gudelis, chairman, and Mrs. Cunnice and Mrs. Ferrara; decorations -- Mrs. Morton Abend of 1399 Knightsbridge rd., Mountainside, chairman, and Mrs. Cunnice, Mrs. Anthony Ferrarino of 1160 Burnet ave., Union; Mrs. Ferrara; Mrs. Gudelis; Mrs. Robert Maurer of Edison; Mrs. Louis Rosenblatt of 1160 Burnet ave., Union; Mrs. John Bronikowski of Clark; Mrs. Ronald Becker of Westfield, and Mrs. Martin Sherer of 1409 Outlook dr., Mountainside.

Publicity chairman for the ball is Mrs. Abend. "Serenade to Spring" is the eighth annual ball held to benefit the 26-year-old Memorial General Hospital. Last year almost 300 attended the function and the hospital received $5,000 in proceeds from the souvenir journal.

Conference to help area businessmen get federal orders

Congresswoman Florence P. Dwyer (R-12) announced this week that she is cooperating with the Chambers of Commerce of Eastern Union County, Plainfield, Summit, Union and Westfield to co-sponsor a federal procurement conference at Downs Hall, Newark State College, Thursday, April 1. Chambers of Commerce located in the western portion of Essex County are being contacted for their cooperation and support.

The conference will provide an opportunity for businessmen to meet procurement specialists from federal, civilian and military agencies, federal prime contractors and other business concerns. These specialists counsel businessmen on (1) the federal procurement and contracting process; (2) aids and services of government to business; and (3) opportunities in the purchasing programs.

The day's program will begin with registration from 8 to 9 a.m., counseling from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.; lunch from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. and counseling from 1:30 to 5 p.m. Total cost, including lunch, will be $5 per person.

Congresswoman Dwyer said "the main reason for the conference is an attempt to secure additional orders for goods and services to be supplied by area employers, thereby reducing the area's unemployment problem."

County's trees: Color 'em green

Money doesn't grow on trees but trees are certainly worth money -- about $5 million in Union County.

That's what the Union County Shade Tree Commission reported last week in its 1970 report. The agency's superintendent, Carl E. Mellquist, said there are 33,000 trees in the county belonging to 55 species under care of the county. Each tree is valued at $150.

Mellquist said the county should provide more grounds for dumping dead wood because each year 800 tons of such wood needs to be disposed.

The commission is responsible for the care of trees along 156 miles of roads in the county.

Fashion consultant to undo a problem

How to set in an invisible zipper will be demonstrated at a meeting Wednesday, March 31, at 1:15 p.m. in the Union County Cooperative Extension Service auditorium, 300 E. North ave., Westfield.

Miss Patricia McElhenry, fashion consultant with the Talon Co., will show the necessary steps for putting in an invisible zipper. Miss McElhenry will also give other tips in her presentation, "Fashion Favors Sewing."

The program has been arranged by Mrs. Carolyn F. Yuknus, home economist of the Union County Cooperative Extension Service of Rutgers University.

Mrs. Yuknus said that the zipper application, whether traditional or invisible, still causes home sewers problems. She said that "too often the zipper application cries 'homemade' on a garment. This need not be the situation if directions are followed."

The meeting is open to the public without charge.

The Theater Seen

Miller, Ibsen collaborate

By ROBERT LYONS

Lincoln Center Repertory's third production, Ibsen's "An Enemy of the People," in an adaptation by Arthur Miller, is a profound and relevant piece of theatre strikingly produced. The play addresses itself to individual rights and how those rights can be so easily subverted and eventually destroyed.

Though set in Norway in the 1880s, the play speaks to today and cries out to tomorrow. The small town of Kirosten is about to become prosperous, because of the health giving qualities of its mineral springs, when it is discovered that the springs are polluted. The conflict revolves around keeping the fact of the polluted water a secret or revealing it. One man stands against everyone; the doctor who has discovered the truth.

WHILE THE PLAY strongly contains the issues of right and wrong, morality and immorality, for me the strongest theme was the relentless and mounting pressures one man standing alone must go through. The construction of the play is superb as each new jolt unfolds with a searing impetuosity on the part of the townspeople that is answered by a bewildered, agonizing recusancy from the doctor. It is very rarely that the playwrights might have tackled this theme even if they had no conviction about it. The conflict, from a writer's viewpoint is an irresistible one.

But they--I can not separate Miller and Ibsen--do have convictions and together with their sense of drama it makes an evening to remember.

Stephen Elliott (here we go again, you're going to begin thinking he's a relative) plays Dr. Stockmann with fire and a superlative sense of disintegration and new-found strengths. The day may come when Mr. Elliott gives a bad performance, but I doubt it. Philip Bosco is officiously stoic as the mayor, Mr. Bosco takes no easy path. The role could easily be played with a political hack platitudeousness and it would not bring the play crashing down. But

Mr. Bosco gives it a moralizing uptightness that is perfect. I have always thought of Pastor Manders in Ibsen's "Ghosts" as being a man with no digestive system. How smug I felt over the fact that Mayor Stockmann eats very little. Our justifications sometimes must hang by such small threads.

DAVID BIRNEY IS a mealy-mouthed rodent as Hovstad, the fence-sitting, wind-sampling, inter-jacent, cop-out, sluggish town newspaper editor. I must have liked Mr. Birney's performance a lot because I didn't like Hovstad for a minute, even when he was momentarily on Stockmann's side. Tandy Cronyn is uninspiringly shrill as Stockmann's daughter Petra, but no matter. Sydney Walker has a creaky comicality as old Morten Kull, a character who is great fun as long as things are moving along his way. Roger DeKoven is marvelously purblind as Aslaksen, who represents the small business interests.

The staging by Jules Irving is pointed. The crowd scenes might have had a little more fluidity, but now I'm carping.

Program aims to boost student interest in state

An innovative comprehensive educational program on New Jersey is being introduced into the state's schools by John T. Cunningham, New Jersey historian, with the help of a grant from the New Jersey Historical Society.

Called "On the Go in New Jersey," the program is for third through fifth graders throughout the state. It is designed to create an awareness of our state's environment among New Jersey's young people, to motivate their curiosity about the area in which they live and to provide genuine enjoyment and excitement in their studies about the state.

"Kindling the curiosity of New Jersey children about their state and creating an awareness of the historical environment in which they live is an important area of work for the New Jersey Historical Society," Milford A. Vieser, president of the Historical Society, said. "The Cunningham program is one of the ways in which we can make history a living thing for the children of our state."

THE CUNNINGHAM PROGRAM is an attempt to translate history and current affairs in terms of lively active children, inclusive of all nationalities and races.

The series, part of which was introduced during this school year, will be completed by spring, 1972. An activity book written by Cunningham with educational consultant Frank W. Ritzer, principal of Fielding School, Maplewood, and illustrated by Bill Canfield, is the first section to be completed and put in use in the classroom. This activity book is in semi-cartoon style and includes short illustrated sections on geographical facts about New Jersey, its history, its interesting residents, Indians of the state, products of New Jersey, names of towns and counties. In fact, it includes every facet one can imagine, all in a lively style which involves the child. There are numerous quizzes, puzzles, scrambled words, places to be colored or in which to provide a child's own thoughts.

In addition to the activity book, part of a series of wall map charts has been completed. The series will concern history, economy and ecology. Each series will have four parts.

A basic textbook is to be coordinated with all other facets and will be completed by Fall, 1971.

OTHER SECTIONS of the multi-media program include slides and film strips, to provide additional scope and to be completed this year; and a series of four supplemental readers concerning "People and Life in New Jersey."

Historic "Time-Line" charts will provide a classroom method of relating various events in the historical growth of New Jersey to one another. The child's lifespan is considered in this time-line approach.

New Jersey folk songs are to be tape recorded in a unique portion of the educational program. The author expects to have three recordings by Spring 1972.

Finally, a monthly reader, comparable to the familiar Weekly Reader seen by many school children, but concerning only New Jersey current events, or current events as they affect New Jerseyans, will be produced in experimental form during the 1971-72 school year.

The society also sponsors an active history program for junior high school and high school students throughout the state, called the Jerseyman History Club Program. Young people participate in events such as an annual History Fair, a History Week, mock elections and government seminars. History is made to come alive as they write, produce and act in historical skits, search for historic landmarks and take part in archeological diggings. Careers in history are explored, a student magazine, The Cockpit, is published and historical outings and educational programs are planned.

Cunningham is the author of numerous books about New Jersey including "This is New Jersey," "New Jersey - America's Main Road," "Newark," "The New Jersey Sampler" and "The New Jersey Shore."

A graduate of Drew University, Cunningham holds an honorary LL.D. degree from Montclair State College. He is a past president of the New Jersey Historical Society and currently is chairman of the New Jersey Historical Commission.

N.J. Cancer unit celebration today

A meeting of the board of trustees of the American Cancer Society's New Jersey Division will be held at the Marriott Motor Hotel, Saddle Brook, today at 4:30 p.m.

The meeting will precede the division's 25th anniversary celebration, which is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m., also at the Marriott.

Mrs. Irving R. Hayman of Ridgewood is chairman of the affair, which will be attended by more than 400 ACS volunteers throughout New Jersey. Charles Anthony, Metropolitan Opera tenor, will sing at the celebration.

Other program highlights will include presentation of the Bronze Medal to an outstanding volunteer and addresses by Arthur I. Hallib, M.D., senior vice-president for medical affairs, and research, American Cancer Society; George E. Stringfellow of Arlington, Va., the division's first president, and Willard C. Nelson of Bound Brook, current division president.

School aid boost urged

WASHINGTON — As a means of overcoming the financial plight of inner-city schools, the Research and Policy Committee of the Committee for Economic Development (CED), has called on the states to assume greater responsibility for school financing.

In an 86-page policy statement, "Education for the Urban Disadvantaged: From Preschool to Employment," the nonpartisan organization of businessmen and educators declared that present state aid formulas are "unequal and misdirected" and urged the adoption of state equalization measures which would assure that financial resources for education are distributed according to need.

At the same time, the committee stressed that equalizing school resources is not enough. Urban schools must be held accountable for their performance and must answer for the achievement of their students.

Season's finale

The New Jersey Stamp and Coin Dealers Association, Inc. will sponsor its last bourse of the season on Sunday, April 25, from 11 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. at the Polish-American Home, 29-31 W. 22nd st., Bayonne. Admission is free.

HALF-PAST TEEN

A dangerous sweet tooth Cream can holds psychedelic

Whipped cream is revealed as the latest legitimate product misused as a psychedelic drug, in the current edition of the monthly New Jersey Journal of Pharmacy.

The Journal's science editor, Col. Jacob Eisen, vice-president of the Mountsinde Board of Health, warns in his "Scientific Developments" column that illegal inhalation of "laughing gas" contained in the devices can be fatal—and has.

Eisen, past president of the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association and chairman of its committee on therapeutics, writes:

"Drug users are constantly looking for new ways to achieve consciousness—expansion experience; in other words, to 'get high.' 'Now they are using nitrous oxide (laughing gas)."

"Nitrous oxide is bought in small tanks but when they cannot buy these tanks they purchase whipped cream bombs, whose inert gas is most often nitrous oxide. They inhale these directly or fill a bag and inhale from it.

"This gives the inhaler a euphoric feeling; however, there is great danger in it. Several deaths have been reported."

Also in this month's column Eisen reports on a British study which shows that iron blocks absorption of the tetracyclines.

Citing widely used vitamin preparations and tonics that contain iron, and so advertise, Eisen reports blood samples drawn from medical students show tetracycline absorption reduced by 40 to 90 percent in the presence of iron, and concludes:

"This study emphasizes the fact that the pharmacist must warn his patients who are on tetracyclines not to take any preparation or vitamins that contain iron."

Easter Seal group to hold buffet-benefit

The Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults will sponsor a benefit "international" cocktail-buffet at Knoll Golf Club, Boonton Manor, tomorrow, according to Mrs. William T. Cahill, 1971 State Easter Seal Appeal chairman. Special dishes from around the world will be featured.

In addition to Governor and Mrs. Cahill, guests will include leaders from civic, industrial, medical and educational organizations from all parts of New Jersey, as well as other countries around the globe.

Monsieur Jean Regniers, president of Rehabilitation International, world-wide organization dedicated to meeting the needs of handicapped people, will be guest of honor.

The purpose of the gathering is to establish closer liaison and exchange ideas, ultimately benefiting handicapped people everywhere. Proceeds will be donated to Rehabilitation International for the furtherance of programs now in operation.

Women's group plans conference

NOW (National Organization For Women) will hold a state conference at the Florham-Madison campus of Fairleigh Dickinson University on Saturday, May 1, beginning at 9 a.m., in the new Dreyfuss College building.

The conference, "New Directions for Women in New Jersey," is open to all individuals expressing an interest in the women's movement.

Several keynote speakers involved in women's civil rights organizations will highlight the May conference.

The day's program will also include twenty workshops dealing with the role of women in today's society.

Miss Paula S. Kassell, conference coordinator, has announced that one workshop, a rap session, will be open to men only.

NOW, a relatively new civil rights organization pledged to work actively to bring women into full participation in the mainstream of American society, is a group of both men and women.

Prep school units hold joint meeting

The Mothers Auxiliary and the Fathers Club of Seton Hall Preparatory School will hold a joint meeting on Tuesday, April 6, Mrs. Thomas Pannullo of West Orange, president of the Mothers Auxiliary, and J. Robert McMenamin of South Orange, president of the Father's Club, will be co-hosts for the meeting.

Election of next year's officers will be followed by a social meeting. Michael Harrington of South Orange, president of the Student Council, has arranged for the boys of the school to have booths displaying the various clubs offered to the boys.

The meeting will start at 8:15 p.m. in the Prep Library. Members will be served "beer and hot dogs" by Mr. David McAdam of Union, hospitality chairman of the Fathers Club.

Educator honored by conservationists

Dr. Gertrude Tempe, curriculum coordinator in Madison, was presented the Award of Merit by the North Jersey Conservation Foundation at its annual meeting last week.

Dr. Tempe was honored for her work of the last five years in developing an environmental curriculum which has resulted in the publication of an elementary school guide entitled "Education For Survival."

The award is the second of its kind to be bestowed by the Foundation, the first having been presented to former U.S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall in 1969 for his help in having the Great Swamp designated as a National Wildlife Refuge rather than to allow it to be used as a site for a metropolitan airport.

CHECK TERMITE DAMAGE

Every year at this time, homeowners find winged insects that suddenly fly out and then drop their wings and crawl all around. These little insects are TERMITES and indicate that there are still thousands of other termites still eating the house, causing further destruction to the wood of the house.
