School board votes to end its new Browns Mills trip

6th graders spent week out of doors

Cost of study project reason for termination

BY JANCIE ADLER

The Mountainside Board of Education at its meeting at the Deerfield School Tuesday decided to end the Browns Mills sixth grade Outdoor Education Center at Browns Mills for the 1971-72 school year. The trip was initiated this year.

The recommendation was made by Dr. Levin Hanigan, superintendent of schools, and the vote was unanimous. Hanigan, who previously had favored continuing the week-long trip, said the decision based on monetary considerations was made after receiving the bills for air expenses.

The approximately 160 students who went paid $1,000 of the total $4,500 expenditure. They raised money by various projects, such as a car wash and collecting scrap aluminum for recycling.

The other $1,500 paid by the board, had to come out of unbudgeted funds, he said. "I would like to recommend that the program continue but because the expense is not in the 1971-72 budget, I cannot recommend it as part of the program," Hanigan added.

In addition, he said the price was not realistic for what was offered. When he previously suggested continuing the trip he did not realize that the board had unbudgeted money into it and the board would somehow have to raise the funds. Parents probably would have to come up with $25 to $30 each if the youngsters go again, Hanigan decided.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, Hanigan recommended that schedules for English classes at the Deerfield Middle School be changed so that youngsters who need it can get special help in communication skills. He would like to arrange it so that the eight-period could have as many English teachers as possible free to help in tutoring.

The board hired two teachers to replace Mr. Lela Edwards and David Gottlieb who resigned. Mrs. Edwards, who taught fourth grade at Deerfield, is continuing work for her master's degree. Gottlieb, who taught fifth grade at Deerfield, took a post in a religious school.

They will be replaced by Nancy Pranklin of Birch Lane, Mountainside, who is a graduate of Newark State College, and Richard Adolph of Union County, who is a graduate of Wagner College.

The board voted to enter into contracts for electrical, applier, physical, electrical, painting the Schobers and Beechwood schools and mills for the 1971-72 year.

It was agreed to dispose of about 1,000 old text books by sending them to a new school in Vietnam, provided the board receives a letter.

REV. DAVID M. VIRKLER

John W. Campbell, 61, science fiction editor and writer

Memorial services were held yesterday in Westfield for John Wood Campbell Jr., 61, 487 Orchard rd., Mountainside, who died Sunday of a heart ailment. He was a science fiction writer and editor of a science fiction magazine for 34 years.

Mr. Campbell, who was born in Newark, N.J., was a prolific and successful science fiction writer since 1937. The magazine received the Hugo Awards for outstanding publication in the science fiction field nine times in the past 12 years.

Mr. Campbell was also known as a scientific prophet and is credited with making many accurate predictions in the columns of his magazine in 1959. He predicted that atomic energy would be released from uranium.

During World War II, his stories on atomic energy were so specific and accurate that the 15-71 dropped down on him. However, the Bureau decided by Mr. Campbell continues publishing his predictions. The war was over and atomic energy would be released from uranium.

His other man was based on a profound acquaintance with the development of science fiction magazines from Delta University, the magazine to which Mr. Campbell's late Anthony Boucher wrote in the New York Times Book Review in 1959.

He attended the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and received a bachelor of science degree in physics from Delta University. He began to write science fiction in the 1930s but did not become so well known as a writer until 1959.

In the 1940s he began his hobby of amateur radio. He took him 15 months to learn the code and he failed his code examination. His first call letters were W2ZUO.

Mr. Campbell was survived by his wife, Mrs. Margaret Wood Campbell; three daughters, Mrs. Anne Campbell and Mrs. Mary Campbell; two sons, Mr. John W. Campbell Jr. and Mr. William Campbell of Chicago; a sister, Mrs. William Campbell of Washington, D.C., and two granddaughters.

Merachnik picked to temporarily fill superintendent post

Dr. Donald Merachnik, assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services of the Union County Regional High School District, has been named acting superintendent of schools, effective Aug. 1.

Dr. Merachnik will assume the post until a replacement is named for Dr. Warren M. Davis, who's retiring on Aug. 1, after 15 years as superintendent. The school board took the action at an adjourned regular meeting last week at the Jonathan Day Regional High School in Springfield.

The school board announced that some 30 candidates have applied for the job and the screening and interviewing of applicants will go beyond Dr. Davis' retirement date.

Dr. Merachnik joined the regional district in 1955 as a reading specialist. He was appointed director of special services in 1957 and was named an assistant superintendent in 1969.

In other business the board approved preliminary plans for the additions and renovations to the four high schools. Preliminary approval will now be sought from the New Jersey State Department of Education.

CHECKING ON PROGRESS—Michael Kolody (left) and John Gell of the Union County Park Commission inspect the progress of the dam that is being replaced at Echo Lake, Mountainside. The dam, which was built in 1930, is being replaced with a 90-ft dam which had fallen from its original dam. It is being replaced to restore the well to its original state.

DEAD END—David L. Miles of Pileswater was killed instantly July 2 when his car crashed into the rear of a truck that was parked along the curb on Rt. 22 West near Sonini road to make repairs. The car was found about 10 to 14 feet behind the truck. The front end of the Miles car was completely demolished and Miles was slumped behind the steering wheel. He was pronounced dead at the scene at 10:33 p.m. by the police physician. Dr. Stuart Bason-Police are investigating—the reason for the borough's fifth auto fatality this year. PROFILE-- John Hoagland

Emphasis on teaching English has changed from just language to reading, understanding, ideas, and concepts, according to John Hoagland, English coordinator for the Regional District.

Hoagland, who came to the district in 1964, has seen the department grow from 40 teachers to 55 this year, including part-time help. He succeeded Mrs. Murial Muller, who became an instructor at Newark State College.

He explained changes in the curriculum since he came. "The biggest change has been from the old idea of one literary anthology and grammar book to multi-text program, mainly paperback. We've strengthened work in comparative because we insist on spending more time on this."

"We have added in and revised the elective program. Among the new electives are the modern novel, creative writing, drama, workshop and a journalism workshop. Other courses such as the literary, speech and dramatics, have been revised and expanded."

Plans for the English department include the possibility of dividing the full-year course into semesters and the possibility of an all-elective system. These will be implemented "as soon as we know where we're going and get approval from the Regional Board of Education," Hoagland said.

His colleagues, teachers have been working in groups this past semester to study the possibility of going in either of two directions. "With the first class, all courses would be one semester long with the idea of possibly going into original credit courses in summer school. The second class would be a half year each, we might be able to get four years of required English in three. Also, a student need not repeat the entire year if he fails half a year of the course."

"In the second program, we are possibly looking to set up an all-elective English program for the junior and senior years. This would be done by going out and adding additions approved by the curriculum."

HOAGLAND WENT ON to describe the curriculum. "English teachers have been working with the students in making original films in the district we have prepared video tapes. One of the English films was a videotaping of the play, 'The Emperor Jones'." Hoagland added.

"We have independent study within the curriculum. For example, one class and a

Work isn't over by the dam site

Work on the dam at Echo Lake, Mountainside, is expected to be completed by the end of this month, according to Michael Kolody, assistant engineer for the project of the Union County Park Commission.

The dam at the lower end of the lake was damaged by a storm about two years ago. The dam had fallen into the lake and it was believed there was no danger, but the Park Commission decided to make repairs before the next fall season (September).

Concrete has been poured and the commission is widening the original dam. It also is being repaired and the rubble will be put back on to restore the dam to its original state. Kolody said.

"While preparing the dam, the park commission is also removing soil from the middle lake. The lower and middle lakes had to be emptied because the dam is being replaced but together where it was a small pool can be created, Kolody added.

period where the students chose their own field of interest.

"The freshmen and sophomore years together are an effort to provide an introduction to literary forms and to provide a base for further work in literature in both high school and college. Literature will include short story, the novel, biography, the essay, play, the novel, play, the novel, Shakespeare, mythology, poetry and the novel. This year was a very successful year, mythology and biography, humanism, study the novel, the Greek play.

"In the second program, we are possibly looking to set up an all-elective English program for the junior and senior years. This would be done by going out and adding additions approved by the curriculum."

"The emphasis in the sixth grade is on using language and on writing. It is very important in our curriculum and in all of our courses to believe language analysis is important."

"SHAKESPEARE IS taught only in the sophomore and senior years. In the sophomore year it's an introduction. The senior year, the students read several plays in a series and read regularly. We try to get the complete works of Shakespeare in the junior year. It's very important to learn literature. Shakespeare is taught in fresh material. We combine the older classic with new books and almost all reading is done at least one book a semester, much as 'Antigone'."

"This year we have added books and made changes where they seemed appropriate. In other words, what we are trying to do is to give the students a good foundation in reading literature. Emphasis is placed on reading literature, rather than about literature."

"According to the report, there have been changes where they seemed appropriate. In other words, what we are trying to do is to give the students a good foundation in reading literature. Emphasis is placed on reading literature, rather than about literature."

Seats available for puppet show

There are a few more openings for children to go to the Garden State Arts Center to see the musical marionette show "Punchinello" on Wednesday.

There will be a change in the timing as originally listed in the summer program. The bus will leave from the Sarah Baitley Civic Center at 11:30 a.m. Children have been asked to bring their lunch and will be able to picnic at the Garden State grounds. The show will begin at 2.

The cost of this program is $5 per child, which includes transport and tickets. The bus is scheduled to return to Springfield by 6 p.m.

Since its formation in 1935, the Union County Regional High School District has had two superintendents of schools, Robert W. Halsey and Dr. Warren M. Davis.

Dr. Davis who succeeded Halsey on July 1, 1966, will leave his position on Aug. 1 to become an associate professor at Lehigh University, Bethlehem, Pa. During the past 13 years of his administration he noted, "The district has been 'very stable' because there has only been one architect for the system and one principal in each school — except for Jonathan Dayton Regional in Springfield where Robert LaVenture took over when Dr. Randolph T. Jacobson was promoted to assistant superintendent of schools in 1962.

Dr. Davis said there has been consistent growth in the district since he came. "When I began we were just moving into the second part of the building at Dayton. Since then there has been continual growth.

"Within three days after we moved into Gov. Livingston Regional in Berkeley Heights in 1969 we had to have another referendum. This was to buy land in Kenilworth and David Brearley Regional."

The retiring superintendent went on to review the growth of the curriculum. "We had a tremendous broadening of the curriculum. We added 'cooperatives' and vocational education program."

"We've seen the addition of special facilities for the physically handicapped at Brearley. We also are taking care of the severely physically handicapped at Brearley."

"We have added honors programs, advanced placement and programs for the mathematically talented and slow learners. In other words, we have attempted to care for the needs of all secondary school-age children in the Regional District."

DR. WARREN M. DAVIS

"I recently tentatively suggested additions as I saw needs developed and directed our system into the cooperative vocational education area."

"On the state level I worked on the committee to develop county colleges. The report on this helped foster the legislation for county colleges."

"I served as a consultant for the National Accrediting Commission for the Blind until two or three years ago. There was no organization which accredited institutions for the blind in the United States. We saw the need for accreditation because some homes and schools were very bad and some were very good. And there was no way people could differentiate."

"I spent several years with the Middle States Association's secondary school commission, was secretary of the association for three years and now am on the board of trustees. I was a member of a committee to rewrite the group's by-laws and constitution."

"I have been on the board of trustees of the Columbia Boys' Choir school in Princeton for 16 years."

Dr. Davis, who is leaving the district after 15 years and one month as superintendent of schools, will become an administrator in the graduate school of education at Lehigh, He explained, "I have always and felt it was time to go into a good university and felt it was time to make the change."

"I HAD AN OFFER which I did not want to turn down because I may not have the opportunity later. Also, I do not contemplate just sitting in a rocking chair the rest of my life."

Dr. Davis and his wife, the former Bea Burkhardt of Ohio, live in Berkeley Heights. They have two children, two sons. Davis will commute to Bethlehem, from his home because it is only about an hour's drive on Rt. 78, he said.

He was born in rural Ohio and originally taught in one-room schools in Belmont County, Ohio. He then moved back to the educational field and finally came to the Regional District from North Plainfield High School, where he was the principal.

He received his bachelor of arts, master's and doctor of philosophy degrees from Ohio State University, Ohio. Dr. Davis' major interests in science, which he taught on the secondary level.

He concluded, "I am very superstitious. In the United States who is a member of the National Association for Research in Science Teaching and I am very proud of this. I follow scientific developments and spend a great deal of my leisure time reading books in the field."

THIS WEEK'S HEALTH NEWS

By FRED GREENBERG, R. E. M.D.

Health after forty is determined largely by heredity and by what has happened in the years before forty. By that age the foundation has been laid and the structure built. But periodic health examinations, reduction of stress, physical activity, and emotional tension, reduces strain upon the system, as does limitation of the diet. After forty is the time for intellectual interests, friendships, travel. An active physical and mental life may still be carried on, but now more than ever, it is important to do so intelligently.

THE ADMINISTRATIVE end of the District has also developed. Davis commented, "We have added positions in administrative areas as the needs arose. We have linked the schools in the district with the coordinator system so we can see the entire picture. We have changed the secretary of the Board of Education's position to that of secretary who is also assistant superintendent for business."

"We continued work of the most important changes is that we have grouped pupil personnel work into one center. The assistant superintendent for pupil personnel services is concerned with all student needs."

"We also have added home instruction, guidance, child study teams and medical and dental facilities."

"We have obtained valuable land from the Federal Government free of charge — the Nike base, adjoining Gov. Livingston, which we converted to athletic facilities. In addition, there has been at least a fivefold growth of personnel in the district."

"The curriculum has not stagnated, Davis declared. "We have completely rewritten the course of study, even within the past few years. We try to keep up on the latest in textbooks that are not more than five years old."

"We have added summer workshops for the staff. This is a workshop with concentration on science, mainly ecology. We also are working on world cultures and science-culture studies through the related arts in this program."

School board pays less for insurance on football players

The Union County Regional High School District announces this week it will save almost $5,000 in football insurance costs this season.

Up to now, the Board of Education has been paying a $45 premium for each of the players in the football program. In the four high schools in case of injury, it was complicated if family was able to collect from both the board-paid policy and the family's own insurance.

The state commissioner of insurance has ruled that insurers of school athletes may apply the "excess payment clause," to the school-paid policy which allows payments only in excess of the family's own insurance taken care of.

Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent, says the individual cost to the district will now be reduced $15 to a total of $30.

An accident insurance policy for students, which includes coverage in all sports except football, is available at 97 for the school year. "We strongly urge all students to take advantage of this coverage," Dr. Davis said.

Cancer Society wages war on dread disease, leukemia

"Leukemia is cancer and the American Cancer Society is fighting to find its cure," Dr. Warren H. Knauer, chairman of the executive board of the American Cancer Society, said this week in reporting what is being done in leukemia research.

"Long in the forefront of the leukemia fight, the American Cancer Society continues to supply more funds for leukemia research and leukemia-related research than any other voluntary health agency," Dr. Knauer said last year. More than 40 American Cancer Society grants for leukemia research were awarded in 1970. "This research program embraces the continuing search for more effective methods of leukemia treatment, plus studies relating to radiation and viruses."

"Results of this research have made it possible to extend the lives of many of those who develop leukemia. Twenty years ago little could be done about the disease. Now drugs can produce remissions, temporarily arresting the disease, and there is a return to normal life for months and in some cases up to ten years."

"But, Dr. Knauer stressed, leukemia research, like most biological research, is necessarily a slow and tedious process. Thousands of drugs are tested each year. When one shows promise, it must be tested many times before it is applied to humans."

"Because the problem of leukemia is so vital, no research should be left unexplored," he concluded. "With your help, the American Cancer Society will continue this research program as well as help those who have been stricken with the disease."

For more information about leukemia, contact the Union City of the American Cancer Society at 514 Westminster Ave., Elizabeth.

Report from Trenton

By State Senator Matthew J. Rinaldo

The states of Rhode Island, South Carolina, Louisiana and Georgia have acted in recent years to take advantage of federal legislation that pays half the cost of constructing nursing and restorative care facilities for veterans. There is a severe need for such a facility in this state. The existing veterans homes—in Menlo Park and Vineland—are essentially dormitory facilities with limited nursing services.

Approximately 1.2 million of New Jersey's more than one million veterans are over 65—the age bracket most in need of the type of care that can be met only in a nursing and restorative care facility.

Additionally, the number of veterans reaching the age of 65 is growing steadily each year. And as their numbers increase, so too does the need for facilities to take care of those with chronic illnesses. Veterans organizations have long recognized the need for a facility to treat their former comrades in arms. All that is required for action in this area is legislation appropriating money to provide New Jersey's half of the construction costs. The federal government would then match the funds put up by the State of New Jersey.

— Adequate Land is available for such a facility.

KNOW YOUR GOVERNMENT

From N.J. Taxpayers Association

A LOOK AT THE N.J. LEGISLATURE
At New Jersey's first two-year legislature received for the summer, the total number of bills and joint resolutions introduced in 1970 and 1971 had exceeded 10 percent of the total introduced in both separate sessions in 1968 and 1969.

As of this June 17, 1,324 bills had been introduced in the twin 1970 and 1971 sessions. Of these 2,429 had been carried over from 1970 and another 888 represented new introductions this year. There is still approximately one hundred 1971 bills awaiting action by the Governor.

These totals compared with 1,942 bill introductions in the 1968 legislative session and 2,203 in the 1969 legislative session. The 1969 bills were measured primarily following failure to legislate passage through the 1968 session. One of the advantages of the two-year legislative session was considered to be economy resulting from elimination of a large volume of new printings of previous year's bills.

With the completion of the number of days on which the legislature met in session each year up to mid-June indicates that despite several weeks in which there were two meetings a week in 1971, there was not a significant increase in the total number of session days. A few additional sessions were scheduled later this year.

The large ever-increasing volume of proposed legislation, and the fact that approximately one-third of the legislators are not returning for reelection in 1971, are among reasons legislative leaders have created an eight-member commission "to study the structure, organization and procedures of the New Jersey Legislature and the general legislative process and to recommend such changes as it deems necessary and desirable."

"Since the last study of the Legislature by the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers in 1963, significant improvements have been made," said the New Jersey Taxpayers Association, "but there are still opportunities to make operations of the legislative branch even more effective."

State bar protests bill considered by assembly tax panel

The New Jersey Bar Association has voiced opposition to a bill that would "unconstitutionally" freeze discriminatory property tax assessments.

Lawrence E. Berger and Joseph B. Irenas, representing the 1,000-member association's taxation section, told the Assembly Taxation Committee that the measure, Assembly Bill 292, creates a presumption that the assessor has assessed at the level mandated by county boards of taxation.

"The bill is patently unrealistic, since the assessor has been assessing property from the county board's standard, and from the standard of uniform taxation established by New Jersey's Constitution," said Berger.

McGovern group seeking members

The newly formed New Jersey Youth Coalition for McGovern has begun a membership drive.

The organization is headed by a steering committee comprised of Stephen Beronchovits, David Greenman, Mark Antill and Rick Greig.

The coalition is also raising money-arranging meetings and rallies, and voter registration.

"The coalition is not only a means of channeling activities, it will also provide an important part of the state's statewide efforts by working closely with the New Jersey Citizens for McGovern," a spokesman said.

Persons interested in the coalition's activities may write YCM, P.O. 1972, Westfield, N.J.

Film captures inner city Photos taken by young people

THE INNER CITY IS profiled in such photographs as this in an exhibit today through Sept. 3 at the Newark Museum's Community Gallery. The photos are the work of youthful photographers from Newark's AIM (Achievement in Media).

What does the "inner-city" look like? Maybe one of the best ways to find out is through the eyes of the young people who live there.

With this in mind the Newark Museum invited 13 young photographers, age 15 to 18, from AIM (Achievement in Media) to focus their cameras on their community and their way of life.

The result, "Our Community," AIM's first major exhibit which will be shown at Newark Museum's Community Gallery, 43-49 Newark Avenue, today through Sept. 3.

According to Dalea, now a free-lance professional photographer based in New York, "These young people have had total charge of every phase of the upcoming exhibit from the actual assignments and photography to the editing, printing and writing of the picture captions through photography, and the opening of the exhibit."

Summer lectures at Newark State

The series is provided for the summer student body as an extra-curricular activity to enlarge their campus summer experience. Talks have been scheduled at different times to permit a maximum audience. Lectures will be held in Room 110 (Little Theater) of the Hugh A. Baird Building.

PS thinking about Shore company tie

Public Service Electric and Gas Co. and Atlantic City Electric Co. have decided to retain consultants for the purpose of studying the feasibility of some form of corporate affiliation between the two companies.

Atlantic City Electric has offered to make relevant information available for the purpose to Public Service and to consider any other alternatives, any proposal which Public Service may decide to make as a result of such a study.

Public Service had gross operating revenues of approximately $70 million in 1970, and serves electricity and gas in a corridor between the Philadelphia and Metropolitan New York areas.

During the period 1968-1970, Public Service experienced a compound annual growth rate of 17.6 percent, 4.8 percent, and 2.0 percent in its total operating revenues, net income, and earnings per share of common stock respectively.

For And About Teenagers

THE WEEK'S LETTER: "I was going with the boy and one day he came to school and met me. He told me he had heard something on me. I know this is not true. I hadn't done anything. Since school had been out, he is friendly, but that is all. When I first met him he really liked me. He had some friends like me he liked me. It really turned me on. He was always telling me how much prettier I was than that other girl. Now he acts as if he likes her. At least, while I'm around. I really love this boy. I've had lots of boy before, but with this one it is different. It there were just something I could do or say to change his mind."
OUR REPLY: It is quite possible that he invented the business about hearing "something" on you. And quite possible the other girl is now getting the same kind of a rush you were getting. Some boys do operate this way. Whatever the reason for this change in attitude, your boy just is to play it cool. Be friendly, but don't let him know that you really care. Get along without him. You can, as long as you will.

Fateful time for 15-year-old is focus of 'Summer of 42'

By BOB LEBKIND Being 15 years old is difficult. It's an age when changes occur, when a boy starts to become a man.

"Summer of '42," now playing at the Ormont Theater in Cedar Grove, dearsly, the film becomes a visual diary of Herlin's life during that fatal hot summer in classic film noir style.

The Robert Mulligan-Richard A. Roth production takes an 15-year-old, Hermie, puts him on a New England resort island with two friends, Dorphy and Beulah, and his mother, Dorphy, whose husband is off fighting the war. Hermie's friends Dorphy and Beulah are teasing their contemporaries, but Hermie sees his life on Dorphy. It is a crush, puppy love, but that "aha" moment comes when he realizes that "Summer of '42" could easily have been a tragedy.

degenerated into either hypocrisy or pornography, but thanks to Robert Mulligan's tasteful direction and Robert Surrow's excellent photography, the film becomes a visual diary of Herlin's life during that fatal hot summer in classic film noir style.

Gary Grimes is superb as Hermie, successfully depicting in overstated terms what every boy goes through. Jennifer O'Neill handles the part of Dorphy with grace. They are notably reinforced by Jerry Houser as Oscar, Hermie's more brazen friend.

Camp Merry Heart provides healthy outlet for handicapped

Camp Merry Heart, New Jersey's only summer camp for crippled children and young adults will celebrate its annual Men's Service Club Day on Friday, July 16. The event will feature a barbecue, sponsored by District 747, Rotary Clubs of New Jersey.

Operated jointly by the Eastern Seal Societies of New Jersey and the Crippled Children Camp Association, Camp Merry Heart, located in the hills near Hackettstown, has for 20th year of service to the handicapped children of the state. This year more than 300 youngsters will enjoy a two-or-three week camping experience at the facility.

The campers, all severely handicapped, many in wheelchairs and others on crutches and braces, will take part in regular summer camp activities, modified only to compensate for the individual disability. Programs include swimming, fishing in a stocked, man-made lake, outdoor games, campouts, nature study, arts and crafts, indoor lore and hiking.

Started in 1951 by a group of persons, themselves physically handicapped by childhood disease, the camp is a nonprofit.

Clay pots for cook-outs

Bridges get safety study

LEHIGH UNIVERSITY, Pa. — Lehigh University has received a $196,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT) for research aimed at design and construction of safer and more economic highway bridges.

Dr. Richard Roberts, associate professor of mechanical engineering, will direct the program, which will involve a team of scientists and engineers from the fields of mechanical engineering, mechanics, civil engineering, metallurgical engineering and materials science.

The Lehigh project was motivated by the failure, with loss of life, of several major bridges in recent years, including the collapse of the Silver Bridge across the Ohio River between West Virginia and Ohio, in December 1967.

School board pays less for insurance on football players

The Union County Regional High School District announced this week it will save almost $6,500 in football insurance costs this next school year.

The board of education has been paying a $42 premium for each of the players in the football program at the four high schools. In case of injury, it was exploited, a family was out of work until Blue Cross, Blue Shield and Mutual Medical.

The state commissioner of insurance has ruled that insurers of school athletes may apply the excess payment rules if the school paid policy which allows payments only in excess of a family's own insurance.

Dr. Warren M. Davis, superintendent, says the individual cost to the district will now be reduced to $1 a year. An accident insurance policy for students, which includes coverage in all sports except football, is available at $1 for the school year.

A MUSING from the desk

Now that the days are starting to get shorter again, and the sun strips increased warmth from its suburban paradise, the townspeople's social life once again centers around the nearest swimming pool.

The pool staff, as always, has provided a wide and imaginative range of recreational activities for old and young. But there are several exciting special interest subjects they have organized.

Take sunbathing, for example. Has anyone ever thought of making an attempt of sunbathing? How many people are aware of proper techniques for achieving maximum benefit with minimum risk?

The main reason, as determined by federal physiologists and a liaison team of warm weather sociologists, is that people tend to leave their northern hemisphere only, upon the north-south axis.

That is, usually more people, in most socio-economic levels, for rolling to the east or west. North and south rollers run a greater risk of rolling into their neighbors' card games.

the water for the proper time after they have eaten. Another federal research team has determined that the proper time depends on the torso ratio of the bather, as well as on the constant variable of the age and weight of the child, as well as a plus-and-minus allowance for the degree of the water. This averages out to 15 minutes.

The most effective traditional method for keeping kids out of the water is to tie them to the side of the water. This averages out to 15 minutes. In addition, screams of youngsters lashed to trees is too often picked up by the pool microphone, thus adding to the problems of neighbors who object to noise emanating from the pool.

Gluing feet to the concrete walk is worked in the past, but particularly determined individuals can just pull off the concrete. And having children dive into the pool with slabs of concrete on their feet is contraindicated -- it puts too much concrete in the water.

One technique is to make the kids pay for their own refreshments. This cuts down on the intake, but it also limits snack bar receipts. Another plan is to have the last one in the pool in the afternoon entitled to first choice of the pie at night, but this obligates the lady of the house to provide the pie.

In fact, all the studies to date have not been able to achieve any sort of a consensus on the best way to dissuade swimming from entering.

The recreation department might well confer with the adult school on the establishment of a research group to pursue inquiries into the subject.

After all, there are not many towns where a wife can tell her hard-working husband, "Get out of here!"

Borough schools

(Continued from page 1) from the applicant. Contracts to transport handicapped children were approved. The state, through the State Board of Education, will pay 75 percent of the cost.

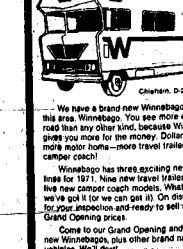

The Peter Tassinari reported on plans of the borough's educational goals and improving the budget for various categories according to priorities. He said he would like everyone in the town to be aware of and discuss the purpose of the educational system and then put suggestions on writing. There are no specific plans at the moment for such a project, but he would like to expand this in the fall.

The board presented a plaque of appreciation to George Novak upon his retirement after 12 years as a member of the school system.

The board voted to cancel its Aug. 10 meeting. This is an annual tradition, the next meeting will be Sept. 14.
