Highlanders in Yule tournament, beating High Bridge, North Hunterdon

By JOHN BARRY
The Livingston Regional High School basketball team won three out of four games last week, including two victories in the Kennedy Memorial Christmas Tournament in Frenchtown.

The Highlanders began last night with a 68-57 victory over Union, G.L. played sound defense throughout this contest and, after a close half, began sinking enough shots to build a large lead.

Don Reynolds, a forward, was outstanding on offense and defense for G.L. He limited Union's high scorer to less than his average total, while contributing 15 points.

Also scoring in double figures for the Highlanders were Kurt Mohs (12 points), Bob Mikulas (10) and Tom Burns (10). Mikulas, the team's leading rebounder, did an excellent job of grabbing missed shots. Overall, G.L. worked doggedly on its man-to-man defense and executed the patented offense perfectly for an outstanding performance.

The Highlanders won their first game in the Kennedy Memorial Tournament Wednesday, beating High Bridge, 31-25. From the opening minutes, G.L. dominated play, racing to a 24-4 lead in the first half before High Bridge made a field goal. With Don Reynolds scoring 23 points, Bob Mikulas 20 and Tom Burns 11, the Highlanders controlled their second, highest point total of the year while playing their best defensive game.

School program coordinated with religious observances

The Union County Regional High School District is attempting to coordinate dates of religious observances with its educational calendar.

Dr. Donald Marachnik, superintendent, noted that each scattered complaint are resolved from parents regarding instructions issued by students who remain out of school for religious observance.

He said the district generally deals with the introduction of new work or tests given on these days. In some cases we have found the teacher to be unaware of the particular religious holiday.

"Each student should have the right to observe his own religious holiday and still participate in all educational activities," Dr. Marachnik added.

In addition, students taking part in inter-school athletic activities will not be penalized for missing practices or regular games because of religious holidays.

Religious holidays falling on school days for the remainder of this school year are:

Jan. 7, Eastern Orthodox Christmas; Jan. 14, Eastern Orthodox New Year; Feb. 18, Ash Wednesday; Feb. 20, Purim; March 20, 31, Passover; March 21, Good Friday; April 4, Passover; April 7, Eastern Orthodox Good Friday; May 11, Ascension Day; May 18, Eastern Orthodox Ascension Day; and May 19, Shavuot.

Religious holidays for the 1972-73 school year are:

Sept. 9, Jewish New Year; Sept. 18, Yom Kippur; Sept. 23, 24, 30, Sukkot; Oct. 31, Reformation Day; Nov. 1, All Saints Day; Dec. 4, Feast of the Immaculate Conception; Jan. 7, Eastern Orthodox Christmas; Jan. 14, Eastern Orthodox New Year; March 17, Ash Wednesday; March 18, Purim; April 18, Passover; April 20, Good Friday; April 23, Passover; April 27, Eastern Orthodox Good Friday; May 11, Ascension Day; May 18, Shavuot; and June 7, Eastern Orthodox Ascension Day.

All the above dates fall on school days when not in session.

Regional schools introduce budget; hearing on Jan. 18

By ANNE H. GORD
The Regional High School Board of Education Tuesday night introduced a budget of $9,853,376 for the 1972-73 school year. The board scheduled a public hearing on the budget for Tuesday night, Jan. 18, at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield.

The proposed budget calls for $961,200 in operating expenses for next year. Dr. Fred Hagelorn, board president, noted that the current expense portion of the budget represents an increase of 5.9 percent, although the portion to be raised by taxes goes up 6.8 percent.

The figures for the present school year are $8,112,206 for current operating and a total of $8,851,822. Hagelorn said that a large part of the increase comes from a rise in debt service from $677,000 to $828,000. This increase is a reflection of the building expansion program approved by the voters in a referendum last spring and under way.

The line vote against the budget was cast by Charles Seidemann, of Kentworth, who opposed it too high. Hagelorn said the board had cut substantially from its first draft—"as much as we could get away with."

Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of schools, commented that it is a "budget based on reality."

Introduction of the budget came at midnight before the remnants of an audience of some 25 people at Jonathan Dayton.

Manuel Thus of Clark and Sherwood of Kentworth.

Mrs. Dorkey has tried vainly for the past year to have the board ask the municipalities to contribute in part for the buying of these youngsters, which comes to some $48,000 per year.

The board accepted the resignation of Erwin H. Falkenberg as assistant to the superintendent for public information, to take effect Jan. 26. Falkenberg, who has handled public relations for the board for the past three years, will join the Union Public Relations firm of Herbert George Associates.

BOARD MEMBERS and members of the audience debated for some time the necessity of bringing traffic consultants to aid in planning a new parking area for the Dayton school. The Springfield Planning Board recently turned down a plan to place a lot for 100 cars on the front of the school and urged that the lot be placed in the rear.

The planning group cited both esthetic and safety reasons for its action. The school board is now seeking consultants to aid in finding the best place for the parking area.

In reply to a question from the audience, Hagelorn outlined plans for an intramural athletic program for boys, scheduled to get under way in March. He said the first step would be to provide a boys' program comparable to that offered by the city's Athletic Association, and then to expand both.

Mr. Merachnik said that the program, which will be new for boys, will start by utilizing around existing facilities. He declared that he is also thinking in terms of good participation in such sports as archery.

The board acknowledged a letter from A. Graham Miller of Mountside, who objected to two performances by folk singer Pete Seeger this fall as part of the district's Thanksgiving program for juniors at all four high schools. (Continued on page 3)

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board voted reducing pay rates for guidance counselors and administrators who worked during the summer months before President Nixon's Aug. 15 wage and price freeze. Hagelorn commented that the action had been approved by the Federal Pay Board.

By a vote of four to three, the board approved a motion by Sonya Dorkey of Springfield to seek meetings with the governing bodies of Clark and Berkeley Heights. The meetings will be to discuss the possibility of having sidewalks built in areas where the Regional board has buses stationed in school, because of hazardous conditions, for distances less than the 2.5 miles required by state law.

Mrs. Dorkey reported on her recent study of Regional students bused less than 2.5 miles. She said there are 16 youngsters bused by Clark and 150 in Berkeley Heights in areas with no sidewalks and 135 in Clark in an area with sidewalks.

The motion for the meetings was supported by Mrs. Dorkey, Natalie Wald of Springfield, John Cullen of Clark and Dr. Hagelorn of Berkeley Heights. Opposed were John Conlin of

THE STATE WE'RE IN

By this time many of us have been conditioned into thinking of energy as something on the verge of running out. The fact is that energy is abundant, but it is being used in a wasteful manner. The energy crisis is not a crisis of energy, but a crisis of energy conservation. We must learn to use energy more efficiently. This means turning off lights when we leave a room, using energy-saving light bulbs, and being careful of our water usage. We must also be careful of our car usage. We should carpool whenever possible and use public transportation when it is available. We should also be careful of our heating systems. We should make sure our homes are properly insulated and that our heating systems are in good working order. We should also be careful of our electricity usage. We should turn off our televisions and radios when we are not using them, and we should use energy-saving light bulbs. We must all do our part to conserve energy. It is not just a matter of saving money, it is a matter of saving the planet for ourselves and for future generations.

For And About Teenagers

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: I am 12, 12 years old and I want to wear pants to school and shorts and short-skirts. My mother will not let me. She said I could wear a pant suit I received for my birthday, but only as a set. I want to wear the pants with just a blouse, as many of the girls do.

OH REPLY: Forget what the other girls do and know that, in this matter, mother knows best. We say: As you grow older you will discover that what others do is not always right. What their children want to do is not always right. Some of your friends who are careless in their dress, probably have parents who don't care, or pay little attention to what their children want to do.

Your mother's decision is not made simply because she is "boss," but because she wants you to be neat and well-groomed. She is not concerned about what others do. You are her main interest, and for this you should be glad.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, COMMUNITY AND SUBURBAN PRESS SERVICE, FRANKFORD, N.J.

It's actually an announcement that comes from the public address system of St. Vincent's Hospital in New York City which lists a series of events calculated to save the life of someone dying from severe heart attack. A trained team of doctors and nurses speed into action and within seconds they are at the patient's bedside. Each member of the team has his or her own pre-arranged duty to perform in the organized ritual of life saving. If doctors can get to a patient in the first four minutes of attack, before his brain begins to die, his chances for living are best.

AS FOR RECYCLING: A pioneering attempt to find answers has come from Bruce M. Hannan of the Center for Advanced Computation of the University of Illinois. He reports that sending a bottle back to the glassworks in an example of a basic physical law, the conservation of mass. Another physical law, the conservation of energy, shows that it's better to reuse an existing bottle rather than melt down and make a new one. Right away, we can see an argument for returnable beverage bottles rather than the throwaway kind, even though returnables are made stronger, with more glass.

Lanning has pilot study to soft drink containers. Hannan and his computer determined that in a manufacturing system incorporating 20 percent recycled glass, it takes 93 BTUs to provide raw materials for the glass for a gallon of beverage in returnable bottles, and 1300 BTUs for a gallon in throwaway kind. The energy to raise the temperature of a pound of water by one degree Fahrenheit is 2.5 BTUs per gallon of beverage in returnable bottles, and 135 BTUs for throwaways. Don't get it? These ratios result from a returnable bottle being used over and over again.

Figuring that 30 percent of the glass in municipal waste can be sorted and sent to a manufacturer, Hannan came up with energy figures for separating and sorting waste glass and transporting it back to the manufacturer.

The importance of recycling becomes more apparent, Hirst concludes, when we figure that Americans produced half their steel and aluminum from scrap, eliminated 20 percent of our packaging material, replaced half our auto tires with mass transit and used less than half the waste heat from electrical generation, we could cut the national energy consumption by 17 percent. It appears to me that the system utilizing the least energy to obtain its objectives is going to be the most successful in the long run.

If I hadn't been nagged into getting a checkup, I'd be kicking up daisies.

The toughest fight I ever had didn't happen on any big, wide screen. It happened in real life.

I was just finishing my 99th picture. My 99th ridin', jumpin', fightin' picture. Never felt better in my life.

I told the family when I'm through here, I'm going out on my boat. Sure, they said, just as soon as you've had your medical checkup. I said nonsense. I had one eight months ago. They said it was more like eighteen.

So I said okay, okay. I went to my doctor and the chest X-rays showed a spot on my lungs. It was cancer. If I'd waited a few more weeks, I'd be dead.

The first couple of months after surgery, it hurt like hell to get on my horse. Since then I've been good as new. If you caught "True Grit" or "Chisum" you've seen for yourself.

So, friend, I know what I'm talking about when I tell you, get a checkup. Nag someone you love into getting a checkup.

And when the lady from the American Cancer Society rings your doorbell, dig deep in your docket. They're working to rid this world of cancer once and for all.

DIABETIC RETINOPATHY

Diabetic retinopathy is a disorder of the blood vessels in the retina of the eye which occurs as a complication of diabetes. It accounts for about 12 percent of all blindness in the United States and is rapidly becoming the leading cause of new adult blindness in the Nation. The use of insulin and other anti-diabetic drugs has improved the well-being and life expectancy of diabetic patients, but complications associated with the disease have increased.

At the present time the basic cause of diabetic retinopathy is unknown, but the incidence and severity of retinopathy is generally proportional to the duration of the disease. Of patients who have had diabetes for 10 years, approximately half have some degree of retinopathy. After 15 years, 75 percent have retinopathy, and after 25 years approximately 95 percent have some degree of retinal complications.

Retinopathy occurs in two different forms. The first, where the walls of retinal blood vessels degenerate and balloon out (aneurysm), is relatively mild. Blood leaks through these aneurysms into the retina but remains contained in the retinal substance.

The proliferative form of retinopathy, new blood vessels erupt through the surface of the retina and penetrate the vitreous—the clear jelly-like medium which fills the center of the eye. Hemorrhages and the growth of fibrous tissue lead to major visual impairment including, in some cases, retinal detachment.

The National Eye Institute conducts research in diabetic retinopathy and other diseases of the eye's blood vessels in its laboratories at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Maryland and supports other studies at research centers throughout the Nation.

Studies using the electron microscope have aided investigators in learning about the structure and chemical composition of the retinal capillaries in which aneurysms occur. Diabetic dogs which develop retinal changes comparable to those in humans are aiding research. Because diabetic retinopathy often progresses or corrects itself without treatment, it is difficult to assess the usefulness of treatment methods.

A method of treatment that is widely used today by ophthalmologists is photocoagulation, in which an intense beam of light is directed into the eye and focused to a small spot on the retina. This method is primarily used in treating patients with proliferative diabetic retinopathy to seal small blood vessels to keep them from hemorrhaging. A new photocoagulating device, the argon laser, puts forth a green light enabling fine focusing with tissue. Whether the photocoagulation actually helps to arrest the progression of diabetic retinopathy needs to be determined by controlled studies of treatment involving large numbers of patients.

The picture which is being held over for a second week at the Union Center in Union Center, Pa. is the first film to use the broad range of 'animapac' combined with Technicolor in telling the animation story.

Narcotics picture continues at Rialto

'The French Connection' which continues on screen at the Rialto Theater, suggested by Philip LaFollette production. 'The French Connection' is a gripping tale of a pair of dedicated hard-boiled New York City Narcotics Squad detectives. Eddie Feroze and Sami Feroze are played a frog suit bunch that eventually led to the arrest of a $20,000,000 international drug syndicate. The involved leading citizens of both France and the United States, including Richard Gere and popular television personality of the day. Eighty six separate locations throughout the city were utilized covering various scenes of the highly sensitive New York City locations. The film was shot at great government buildings in Washington, D.C. and in Barbours France. Gene Hackman plays one of the detectives, and Roy Scheider is his sidekick. 'Spartan' Fernando Rey, an international star, is featured. The two real life detectives, whose exploits inspired the film, 'Spartan' and 'Groucho' both play featured roles in 'The French Connection' in addition to serving as technical advisors during the production. don't MAKE IT ONE FOR THE ROAD!

Not if you want to make it into '72! That slightly out-of-focus vision, that not-quite-perfect coordination can get a lot of laughs at a party. Out on the road it brings tears. Drunken drivers aren't the only staggering figures. The statistics on car accidents caused by them are pretty staggering too. And, a lot of people become statistics...courtesy of the chap who had to have just one more for the road. It is the season to be merry. It is the time for good fellows to get together to celebrate. And we want you to keep right on celebrating all through the year. Remember. Tomorrow is the beginning of the rest of your life. Be here to enjoy it. Don't make it one for the road. Make it home safely instead.
