County historical sites study includes hospital, once part of Drew farmstead

When the Union County Planning Board recently cited 11 Mountainside structures for possible inclusion in a countywide historical sites inventory, high on the list was Children's Specialized Hospital.

Actually, the portion of the complex which most interested the planners was the whitecolumned structure on New Providence road which now serves as the administration building. The building is the original facility of the Children's Country Home, as the hospital was first known. It was purchased in 1896 from the Thomas Drew Farmstead for $6,225, a price which also included 10 acres of land.

The hospital traces its history to 1891 when congregations of various Westfield churches (Mountainside was then a part of that town) responded to a call from their ministers to help underprivileged youngsters in city slums. At a public meeting on June 30, 1891, a board of nanagers and the name "Children's Country Home" were chosen for the planned facility.

The following year, the board rented the Levi

Cory House (now the Barrett and Crain real estate office on New Providence road) for six months at a fee of $12.50 per month. The doors were opened on July 15, 1892 to accommodate

Tax rate is estimated at $2.87 per $100

After an hour-long public hearing during its egular monthly meeting Tuesday night, the Mountainside Borough Council unanimously approved its $1,445,095 budget for 1974, a tally up $176,810 over the current figure. In other action at the session, the governing body ordered a $48,000 reduction in the defeated Board of Education budget.

The municipal figures, presented by Councilman Nicholas Bradshaw, includes $616,165 to be raised by local taxes. He estimated the tax rate would be $2.87 per $100 of assessed valuation. Of that rate, however, only 38 cents is a result of the municipal taxes. The remainder is divided among Regional school board taxes, 86 cents; local school board, $1.07; county taxes, 52 cents; senior citizens ap-propriations, four cents:

Approximately 35 borough citizens on hand for the hearing in the Beechwood School heard Bradshaw introduce the budget as "a realistic effort that balances the realities of today with the desired level of services needed to maintain Mountainside's residential character and to minimize the cost to the taxpayer.'

CITED AS A major portion of the budget ncrease was rising sanitary sewer costs, up from $50,000 to $93,000, a direct result of increased rates charged by the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority. Although not a member of that group, the borough pays for sewage flow rights through Cranford, which is a member. and is charged fees proportionate to that community's rate. These have jumped considerably since completion of the Authority's week disclosed they have received more than 200 letters critical of the Environmental Impact Study draft covering plans to construct Rt. 78 from Springfield to Berkeley Heights through the Watchung Reservation. The highway will also go through Summit and Moun-

Staff members in the transportation department's Bureau of Environmental Analysis, which is charged with writing the final study and replying to comments from the public and 20 government agencies, are reviewing the letters. A transportation department spokesman said it is impossible to set a target date for completion of the final Environmental Impact Statement because of the volume of comments.

There's been quite an influx of mail," said the Department of Transportation spokesman Friday. "Many of the letters are quite thorough. Apparently, many citizens read the copy of the study on file at the Springfield Public Library."

The impact statement must be submitted to the Federal Highway Administration. It will then be reviewed by the U.S. Council on Environmental Quality. The superhighway cutting through the Watchung Reservation between Springfield and Berkeley Heights must win the council's approval before construction can begin.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. one of the government units which reviewed the impact study draft, was highly critical of plans for the highway, saying the road would be 'environmentally unsatisfactory."

Bogdanovich film ends OLL series

Director Peter Bogdanovich's "The Last Picture Show" is also the last movie to be presented in Our Lady of Lourdes parish's fourth adult education film program.

The motion picture, part of the series titled "The Contemporary Actor on Film," will be seen Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the OLL auditorium on Central avenue. Program moderator, Brother Michael Laratonda of Union Catholic High School, will introduce the movie. After the screening there will be audience discussion and coffee will be served.

"The Last Picture Show" stars Cloris Leachman. Ben Johnson (both of whom won Academy Awards for their roles), Timothy Bottoms, Ellen Burstyn, Jeff Bridges, Cybill Shepherd and Eileen Brennan.

According to a spokesman for the program, 'The Last Picture Show' is one of the most moving films in recent memory, largely due to the excellent acting. Peter Bogdanovich came to fame with this well-told story on film. The movie is set in 1951 in Anarene. Texas, and is about the tiny town and the lives of ordinary people at the end of an era and the beginning of another. It is an evocation of a time past, yet still alive. It is a film that touches upon many elements of human experience.'

Overlook drug program enrolled 195 first year

Eleven persons from the Springfield-Mountainside area enrolled for treatment and rehabilitation during the first full year of operation for Overlook Hospital's drug program, according to a progress report released by the Summit clinic this month.

During the period from oOct. 1, 1972, when the facility opened, to Sept. 30, 1973, 195 persons signed up for aid. Of that total nine Springfield residents and two were from Mountains ide.

The program, which developed from a pilot is supported primarily by contributions from the participating communities. Mountainside's 1973 municipal budget included a $3,800 allocation to the program, while Springfield contributed $2,000.

Other communities sharing in the effort—and their enrollments during the first year-are as follows: Union, 56; Summit, 52; Berkelev Heights, five; Chatham Borough, one; Chatham Township, three; Madison, four; Millburn-Short Hills, seven: New Providence. 10. and Westfield. 16. The clinic also treated 30 persons from other areas.

The drug project began at the Summit hospital with a staff of two full-time professional counselors; expanded into Hill House, where clinic services are centered, and added group and family counseling and day care as the year went on.

"The program is based upon two broad avenues of attack on the problem of drug abuse-treatment and prevention," the progress report states. "It has attempted to

School round-up slated next week

The Mountainside PTA summer round-up for the 1974-75 kindergarten will take place from 9 to 11 a.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday. The round-up will be held at Deerfield keep pace with the rapidly shifting trends in patterns of substance abuse, and to ensure that the continuing development of the program is effective in dealing with them. The report points to a "notable...decrease in heroin abuse and a corresponding rise in abuse of other substances." It describes as "particularly striking" the increased "alcohol abuse" among young people

COMMENTING ON A trend "for greater rapprochement between those involved in treating drug abuse and alcoholism," the report says : "In some centers there has been a merging of the two programs. The experience at Overlook appears to warrant consideration of development in this direction. One step has already been taken to broaden the range of services available to the drug abuse patients. namely the establishment of a regular joint clinical conference on alcohol and drug abuse involving staff members participating in both programs.'

In tracing the enrollment pattern, the report lists 150 males and 45 females, with the median age 22 and about half of all those enrolled being between the ages of 16 and 21. Heroin was the drug of principal abuse in 62 percent of the cases and methadone was second, representing 23 percent of the total.

But, the report adds, these figures are for the year ending last September and thus "do not reflect that a downturn has been observed in recent months in the extent of heroin abuse along with a rise in number of new cases referred because of abuse of other substances. including alcohol." The figures also fail to "Swim before summer—or swim better before summer." That's the slogan at the Westfield YMCA as registration begins Monday for the spring term which features more than 40 swim classes,

"Most parents recognize the need for their children to learn to swim before the season opens—for safety as well as to be able to enjoy the entire season," says physical director Harry L. Lesher Jr. "But for youngsters whose family travels to a summer home near the water-who will be boating, or water skiing. it's just as important for them to swim better."

Lifesaving strokes and small craft safety are an important part of Y advanced courses. So are synchronized swimming techniques and competitive strokes that have values unsuspected by many swimmers, in training a youngster in efficient movement of the body through the water in various positions, he said. "We think it's wise for boys to continue their swimming education beyond the basic classes, and we're glad so many do."

Beginning springboard diving, intermediate springboard diving, competitive swimming and water polo will be offered for advanced swimmers. Junior high students may enroll in junior lifesaving and junior skindiving as well. Registration will be held Monday through March 30 at the Y, 138 Ferris pl., from 9:30 a.m. until noon and from 1:30 to 9 p.m. Classes begin

2 firms honored for saving energy

Two Mountainside firms are among the 46 Union County companies which will be awarded citations from Frederick B. Dent, U.S. secretary of commerce, for their participation in the SavEnergy program.

The SavEnergy citations will be presented tonight at the Elizabethtown Gas Co., Elizabeth, in ceremonies co-sponsored by the Eastern Union County-Chamber of Commerce,

Overlook drug program enrolled 195 first year

effect that almost 95 percent of all those enrolled have abused a series of drugs, the eport says, stating:

Our own observation of an increasingly arger proportion of multidrug abusers not involved with heroin and an increasing in-cidence of alcohol abuse among young people is similar to those of other drug treatment programs, school officials and police."

Voluntary admissions accounted for 64 percent of all those enrolled, the report states, explaining: "A large number were referred by physicians, and a sizable proportion of referrals originated from clergymen. School and law-enforcement or court referrals were relatively few."

Treatment, the report says, starts with an interview by a professional counselor, medical and social history and examination of "the current life situation." A treatment plan is formulated and, after consultation with one of the medical directors, therapy is begun.

"Many of the patients are later discussed at the weekly team meeting where the combined seven-member professional staff deals with ongoing problems encountered in helping the patient adjust to a drug-free lifestyle," the report says.

Those who enroll also receive a complete physical examination. "In approximately twothirds of the patients...some form of physical illness or abnormality was discovered," the report says. "Most prominent has been some degree of impaired liver function. A number of cases of venereal disease were detected, and

Other "large items of increase" cited by Bradshaw were the statutory reserve for uncollected taxes, from $82,625 to $135,897, based on an estimated 97 percent of tax collections; the payroll for municipal employees, up $38,000 to $439,000, representing 17 percent of the budget increase; flood repair costs, "largely a by-product of the Aug. 2, 1973 storm," representing $22,000 or 10 percent of the increase; general operating expenses up $20,000 or nine percent of the increase and road repairs, up $8,000 or four percent of the in-

IN ANNOUNCING the council's decisjon to shave $48,000 from the $1,521,875 current expense portion of the $2,009,902 school budget. Mayor Thomas Ricciardi read the following statement:

The New Jersey statutes provide that after a school budget defeat, the borough governing body is charged with the responsibility of providing funds necessary for an efficient and thorough school system. The council has studied the defeated budget in an item-by-item review. With the reduction in projected student enrollment, the elimination of one physical plant (the Echobrook School), and with good fiscal planning, we feel that the budget can be reduced by $48,000 yet maintain the educational program and activities presented by the Board

"The mayor and council continue to state that they are as firmly committed to the support of quality education for the children of Mountainside as they have been in the past.

"The mayor and council also state that they hope that the present Board of Education will endeavor to present a unanimously supported budget next year which will be acceptable to our community, for we feel that continued defeats of school budgets by our community can only be detrimental to our town, to property values and most of all, to our children." This was the second year in a row

After presenting the official statement, the mayor spoke extemporaneously, noting the $48,000 figure was one of "compromise" within the council, which he said has vastly differing opinions on how much should be cut. He urged the school board to follow the governing body's example in handling differences of ideas, stating, "It is most important that the board get a direction they can compromise on. It's damn well time they start to work together. because if they can't do that they can't work for the good of the town."

Ricciardi was also critical of some candidates, actions in the recent school election. charging some "used the emotion of the dollar to misrepresent facts." He urged the board to demand its auditor "to clarify all figures quoted by board candidates" to give a "straight answer to the town once and for all." The mayor did not mention specific candidates in his charges.

in answer to a question from borough resident Scott Schemdel regarding conflicting surplus figures cited by board hopefuls, Ric-ciardi said he had been told by the board's business administrator that the surplus for the 1972-73 fiscal year was $79,000, and the amount expected to be generated in the current year Would be "up to approximately $30,000."

came to light. While all patients did not receive full medical evaluation during the past year. that will be the goal for the year ahead."

THE DETOXIFICATION procedure also is

"A person who is physically addicted to a particular substance can be given small amounts of that drug or a related medication in diminishing doses in order to prevent the development of withdrawal syndrome..

"The majority of cases seen during the past year involved heroin or 1methadone addiction. Where appropriate, small dosages of methadone are administered in gradually diminishing amounts over a certain period of time (generally nine days).

"To be eligible for detoxification, in ac cordance with federal regulations, the addicted person must be showing outward physical signs of withdrawal. The patient begins to receive methadone on a twice-a-day basis. Throughout this period, regular intensive counseling efforts are instituted, either in individual or in group sessions, or in both. Where applicable, as for example in cases of barbituate addiction, other medications and methods are employed.

"Of the 126 detoxifications begun during the past year, only 52 percent were completed. This low figure must be seen in relation to the experience common to drug treatment programs that there is a high rate of recidivism among heroin-addicted individuals, and that it is not until after the second, or even at times the third, detoxification that there is sufficient motivation for persisting in rehabilitative effort. One of the program's goals for the year head is to develop means through which the initial treatment phase can be used to develop greater motivation and commitment to personal change."

COUNSELING, according to the report. usually starts on a "one-to-one" basis, "followed by group or family counseling or a combination of these, according to the needs of the individual patients."

The two professional counselors in the program conducted 1,290 individual counseling sessions during the year, averaging 50 minutes in length. These are described in the report as 'the core effort of the treatment phase." Family counseling, used in 21 cases and involving 58 persons, is conducted by the counselor, "often with the psychiatrist team member present or at least readily available." The report calls it "particularly effective" with younger patients.

In addition, Overlook is instituting a day care program. "This form of treatment has not yet been fully implemented," the report says. "It has been employed with a small (12) cohort of patients only, in an attempt to gain some experience...It is a form of milieu therapy in which patients remain for longer periods within the treatment center than patients coming for counseling only.

Some patients are referred to other treatment centers, such as methadone maintenance clinics, long-term residential communities, inpatient hospitalization, mental health clinics and half-way houses, the report adds.

It describes consultation and education as 'the main thrust" of the preventive program,

"Consultative services on problems of drug abuse have been made available...to medical staff, schools, clinics, service agencies, police, courts and clergy in the participating communities. Educational sessions and drug-abuse workshops have been provided by program staff members to local drug abuse councils, parent-teacher organizations, and staffs and students of high schools and colleges in the

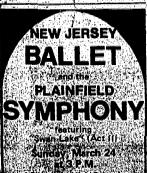

EVALUATING the first year's program, the report says:

"The past year's experience has been one of expansion of service; follow-up data upon which to base a meaningful evaluation are not lable. Even more difficult to appraise is the impact of a broad-based preventive effort on the problem of drug abuse in the community as a whole One of the projects currently under way is the development of a protocol to be used in a follow-up study of patients who have gone through the program... our impression is that the intervention provided through the program is having a significant and lasting impact on approximately 50 percent of the patients served. There seems to be a greater opportunity for success among younger, non-heroin addicted patients. Since this group represents an increasing portion of those entering the program, it is hoped that a greater measure of success can be secured in the months ahead.

"In August...a team of program evaluators from the State Department of Health conducted an audit of the treatment records (the patients' names being withheld) in order to do an effectiveness study. The results of this study have not yet been received. The early stage of the program's development at the time of the survey will limit the conclusions which can be: drawn from it, but it is hoped that it will offer an impartial, although incomplete, measurement of the program's success and suggest ways in which it can be made more effective for the future.'

Windows broken: 3 boys accused

Three borough boys were apprehended last week for breaking windows at the Mountainside Community Pool, police reported.

According to police, the youths-two aged 12. one aged 13-were accused of breaking three windows in the facility on March 1. Police said a total of eight were shattered, but they believe five had been broken at another date, and the oys were not involved in that incident.

Police said the parents of the youngsters have agreed to divide the cost of replacing the three windows among themselves. Cost to repair all eight was estimated at $53.

In order to clarify its public image, the name of the Children's Country Home was changed in 1962 to Children's Specialized Hospital.

Ensuing years saw a continued increase in the expansion of facilities. Affiliate training programs for physical therapy, speech therapy and occupational therapy, and a special education program for university students were adopted. A genito-urinary clinic was started, and in 1969 an arthritis clinic was opened, under the sponsorship of the New Jersey Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

In 1968, an outpatient school program was started, under the direction of the Mountainside Board of Education, who had supervised the education of the hospital's inpatients since 1923. The educational program, funded by the local school districts, is provided for inpatients through the services of the teaching staff of the Union County Educational Services Commission. In Addition to the inpatient program, the County Educational Services Commission leases schoolrooms from the hospital for an outpatient program.

The need for additional space for services, care and education of the Randicapped led the medical staff and Planning and Development and Joint Conference Committees of the facility's board of managers to begin exploration of an expansion program in 1972. By the fall of 1973, plans had been approved, and acapital fund-raising program is now under way for construction of the $3.5 million expansion

The Columbia Scholastic Press Association, organized in 1924 out of a mutual desire of certain preparatory schools in the metropolitan area to increase communication among the staffs and editors of their newspapers, is now administered by officials of Columbia University.

The association lists its five aims as: "To make good writing the basis of successful school publication work ... to maintain the school press as an instrument published by the students, for the students and containing news of student activities ... to consider it always as a means in the educational development of youth and not as an end in itself ... to conduct contests only to stimulate greater efforts on the part of students and advisers to better their publications ... to play the game for the fun of the game.'

Cancer Society fund-raising drive to be held in April

Rosemary Carmody, chairman of the American Cancer Society's fund-raising drive in Union County, is asking all residents to give generously when an American Cancer Society volunteer calls during April. "We desperately need your help in supporting the America Cancer Society's programs of research, education and patient service," Mrs. Carmody

In addition to supporting the research effort, the American Cancer Society helps residents of Union County in other ways, she noted. The society provides financial assistance to all cancer patients who are considered medically indigent, including the leukemia patient. The Society also supplies loan-closet items such as wheel chairs, hospital beds and commodes, regardless of financial need.

"The society also offers services in the area of speech therapy for the laryngectomee (one who has the larynx surgically removed), a visitation program for mastectomees (women who have had their breast removed due to cancer) and assists ostomees (persons who have had an operation in the area of the bowel or bladder)," explained Mrs. Carmody.

Mrs. Carmody added that the Society also offers free educational programs to any interested group. The program consists of a film. speaker and literature dealing with the various aspects of cancer detection and prevention.
"All of the services, organizations and programs that I have just mentioned are made possible through your contributions.

"The Union County Crusade goal is $210,000; the total of the community goals is $115,425. The difference of $94,575 is to be raised through memorials, the special gifts dinner and special events such as the Crimson Ball, fashion show and art auction."

The multi-campus show will run through May 3. It will be open Monday through Thursday at the Tomasulo Art Gallery at Union College from 1 to 4:30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m., and Friday from 1 to 4:30 p.m., and at Kean College Gallery, Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., and in the Library at Union County Technical Institute, Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The art is being planned by Prof. Jane Law of Union College and Miss Zara Cohan, both of Kean College and Roger Flynn of Union County Technical Institute.

The Consortium of East Jersey is comprised of Union College, Kean College, Union County Technical Institute, and Seton Hall University It was formed to explore ways in which the four institutions could cooperate with one another to offer maximum educational opportunities and services to their students. A policy of sharing library facilities by giving students and faculty access to collectons at all four institutions was established in March, 1973.

A cross registration program enables a student to apply at his own institution for permission to take a course at another institution in the Consortium is also in effect. Under study are the sharing of other campus facilities at each school.

Army Reserve seeks members

"The United States Army Reserve needs men and women," said Lt. Gen. Glenn D. Walker, First Army commander, during a recent highlevel planning conference held at Fort George G. Meade, Md.

Gen. Walker announced that a recruiting drive to enlist at least 6,000 additional personnel in the Army Reserve-would begin on April 20 and last until May 5. "This will be an all-out command recruiting drive with everyone in the First Army area taking part," General Walker said.

The New Jersey recruiting drive is being supervised by Col. Milton Bogolub of Union, the staff administrative assistant for the 78th Division (Training), the state's major Army Reserve unit, which has its headquarters at "old Camp Kilmer" in Edison.

For information on enlistment into the Army Reserve, any former serviceman, or other man or woman 171 gto 26, should call 985-6331.

Consortium gives students a wider choice of courses

Extended speedules and an expanded curriculum are among the benefits offered students by a cross-registration program of the Consortium of East Jersey, according to Dr. Henry E. Scott, Jr., executive director of CEJ. The Consortium is comprised of Kean College of New Jersey, Union; Scton Hall University, South Orange; Union College, Cranford, Elizabeth and Plainfield, and Union County

Technical Institute, Scotch Plains, The Consortium cross-registration policy permits full-time, matriculated students to chroll in up to two courses a semester at other member institutions at no additional cost, Dr. Scott explained. The only restrictions are that the receiving institution accommodate its own students first and may accept other students only if space is available. Currently there are 19 students taking advantage of cross registration. They are enrolled in 28 courses at Consortium in-

Elizabeth Ann Don of Plainfield, a student at Union College, is taking "Introduction to the Education, of the Handicapped" at Kean College, a course not offered at Union College. For Hemlatta Nirmal of Hillside, a student at U.C.T.I., for whom English is not a native language, cross-registration means the opportunity to improve her English in an intermediate course in "English for Speakers of Other Languages" offered at Union College.

- Cross-registration, according to Dr. Scott, reflects the Consortium's efforts to afford students the widest educational opportunities within the existing economic framework. The Consortium also shares library facilities and has adopted a voluntary faculty exchange

Cross-registration was introduced for the first time in September. "As more students become aware of the program, it is expected that it will become more widely used, permitting students greater specialization in their major interests, as well as the opportunity to sample a broader range of subjects." County GOP unit endorses Rinaldo

Union County Republican Chairman George Syme of Rahway announced this week that a party policy committee has unanimously endorsed Congressman Matthew J. Rinaldo of

"Although Congressman Rinaldo has made no announcement of his plans, I am confident he will seek re-election," Syme said. "Certainly on the basis of his record during the 93rd Congress, he has earned the right to another

Syme said Rinaldo met informally with Republican leaders in the 12th Congressional district to discuss federal affairs relating to Union County.

The GOP chairman said that Rinaldo, recorded one of the largest pluralities of any new Congressman in the nation during his successful 1972 bid for election. "I am confident he will win again this year, despite the dif-ficulties some Republican candidates will face in 1974," Syme concluded.

Hospital goal: expansion Fund drive to aid children units

The main goal of the $3.5 million fund drive now under way at Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside, is to expand both inpatient and outpatient facilities, according to hospital officials. Noting that the hospital is the only rehabilitation center in North Jersey for physically handicapped youngsters, they said that the demand for services has overtaxed present facilities.

The funds will go for construction of an addition to the present building to provide treatment for pr -adolescents and to expand outpatient facilities and existing programs, according to Charles H. Frankenbach. Jr., president of the board of managers.

The need may be the greatest in the recreation therapy department, directed by Isabel Watson, "Recreation therapy is a vital part of rehabilitation," explained Miss Watson, because it incorporates all other therapies and reinforces them. Although the majority of the 37 inpatients at the hospital are involved in recreation therapy. the department is housed in one room which is adjoined by a greenhouse. Another small room used for ceramics work is also part of the department.

Activities for older patients are limited by the department's lack of space, according to Miss Watson, "There is such a variety of age groups involved in activities in one room;" she said, "that some of our older patients are deprived of crafts requiring tools because these tools could be dangerous to our younger patients.'

She continued, "Space for more sophisticated arts and crafts for our older patients is imperative because these crafts are closely related to occupation therapy.

Only one workbench is now available for all activities. According to Miss Watson, the proposed recreation therapy department. which will include three activities rooms and

'ANOTHER EXAMPLE of our crowded facilities is the sewing machine." she said. "In order for our older patients to use the machine, an assistant or I must first remove the record player. Naturally, with the younger children in the room we must be careful, and the older patients may use the machine only if a member

"The purpose of recreation therapy," she continued, "is two-fold. We provide a followthrough for speech and physical therapy and reinforce the therapies with activities that makes the patient use the skills he has learned.

"Our second purpose is to encourage creativity and develop the latent talents that all of these children have, and develop them at each patient's individual pace."

"We never select an activity that "undoes" another therapy," she said. In addition to in-dividual arts and crafts projects, group activities are planned for the children

Miss Watson explained that integration of various age groups and social interchange play a vital role in recreation therapy.

Social interchange and the need for separation are other areas limited by the lack of space in the recreation therapy department.

"Our older children need a place where they can come and talk with other patients their ige." Miss Watson said. "This is a necessary part of our therapy program. They also need an area where they can come, away from their rooms, to read or participate in educational activities because this, too, is part of recreation

Miss Watson explained that the need for separation is necessary for certain types of handicaps. "A noisy environment is potentially dangerous for a cerebral palsy patient," she explained.

Despite the lack of space, which Miss Watson says has become "a way of life," the recreation therapy department is still able to offer a wide variety of arts and crafts and activities.

"Our patients come and go between their other therapies, and they really enjoy their time here." Miss Watson said. "That is one thing about our department I never want to celebrated its 25th anniversary by collecting, processing and distributing more blood and blood products for treatment of the ill and injured than in any other 12-month period in its history, according to Mrs. Vera S. Majer of Union, chairman of the Eastern Union County

Chapter of the American Red Cross. Nationally, blood collections for the 1972-1973 fiscal year topped 3.8 million units, an increase of seven percent over the previous year, enabling the Red Cross to make available to hospitals and physicians more than 5,624,175 transusible units of blood combonents and derivatives, Mrs. Maier said.

In Eastern Union County, the ned cross provided 3,000 units of blood components or derivatives to five hospitals during the last fiscal year, she said. The local chapter participates in the program through the Red Cross Regional Blood Center in New York City.

Bloodbanks are held at the chapter house. 203 W. Jersey st., Elizabeth every second and fourth Friday of the month from 12:30 to 5:30 p.m. Anyone between the ages of 21 to 60, in good health, can donate blood safely and harmlessly through the American Red Cross, Mrs. Maier noted.

'March is Red Cross Month.' she stated "Please acknowledge it by donating a unit of blood to the Red Cross and supporting the

The blood program's anniversary year also was marked by a strong Red Cross statement of support for the federal government's new national blood policy, which is aimed at securing blood from volunteer donors instead of those who sell their blood and who are likely to transmit hepatitis, Mrs. Maier said.

The national blood policy, she explained, closely matches the essentials of the statement adopted by the Red Cross board of governors in February 1972, which called for a more uniform system for blood collection, more complete federal regulation of blood banks and processing centers, and cooperative efforts by all blood collecting organizations to work toward a national nonprofit blood service. Such a service would ensure a continuing supply of safe blood from volunteer donors for those who need it, she noted. While recruitment of additional volunteer blood donors continued to be a brimary Red Cross goal, Mrs. Maier said, the organization last year moved forward in ways to further lessen the danger of transmitting hepatitis by starting a new and more effective test to detect the hepatitis B antigen in donated blood. The new test, called radioimmunoassay, detects about twice as many hepatitis carriers as other tests. Names of persons suspected of having the disease are maintained on a computerized registry as a measure to minimize cases of hepatitis transmitted by transfusion.

Scientists at the Red Cross Blood Research Laboratory screen up to 90,000samples of blood a year to develop more sensitive tests for hepatitis and to find methods to eradicate it. Mrs. Maier added. Through research sup-ported in part by the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Disease, the Red Cross has made the first full-scale national survey of Western Electric Co., Springfield. Lee Corcoran, director of modeling, Barbizon School of Modeling, Union, and Gail Orsini, assistant director of modeling, served as hostesses for the evening.

Neil McGinley, vice chairman of the United Way of Union County, spoke of labor's significant role in a successful United Way effort. Zriny explained the necessity of proper planning and budgeting for effective agency management. The necessity of cooperation between the voluntary and public sectors was addressed by George Albanese, vice-president, United Way, who is also director of the Criminal Justice Planning Office, Union County. He centered his comments on Title IV-A funding which will result in $1.2 for improved infant, day and after-school care for Union County children.

O'Marra concluded the program by summing up the accomplishments of the United Way during 1973-74: "Despite severe problems of inflation and uncertainty of employment, the United Way experienced a large increase in employee giving. Corporate pledges reflected a modest increase over last year. This clearly indicates that people living, or working in Union County do care, and are anxious to keep the United Way working in their County.'

Kean students share views with adults on key issues in Rinaldo questionnaire

Nearly 500 Kean College students responded Congressional questionnaire, and their views were basically the same as those of adult residents of the district.

In descending order of decisiveness, this is what the students said: -They believe strict limits on campaign contributions and expenditures would help restore integrity to politics (84 percent to 16 percent), favor the establishment of an independent Federal Elections Commission with power to enforce election laws (83 percent to 17 percent), and oppose complete Federal financing of all Federal elections with no private contributions (67 percent to 33 per-

-They believe Congress should limit the President's power to impound funds appropriated by Congress (78 percent to 22 per—They want closer relations with the Soviet Union and Communist China (78 percent to 22

-They oppose aid to North Vietnam (76 percent to 24 percent).

-They favor reduction of U.S. forces in Western Europe (76 percent to 24 percent). -They want the defense budget cut by at least 10 percent (75 percent to 25 percent).

-They favor the Supreme Court decision permitting abortion (74 percent to 26 percent). -They're against U.S. forces being sent into combat without Congressional approval (70 percent to 30 percent).

-They do not favor the busing of school children (70 percent to 30 percent).

-They favor stronger gun control, preferably the licensing and registration of all weapons (70 percent to 30 percent). -They believe parents should be allowed to deduct part of private and parochial school

-They do not believe draft evaders who left the country should be allowed to return and spend the time they owe the government in an appropriate alternative service capacity (64 percent to 36 percent).

-They oppose restricting the authority of the Food and Drug Administration to limit sales of vitamins and minerals (62 percent to 38 per-

-They favor merging all railroads into a few big systems (62 percent to 38 percent) and oppose greater freedom for railroads to raise rates and abandon unprofitable service (62 percent to 38 percent).

-They oppose restoration of the death penalty for certain crimes (60 percent to 40

On the final question-the rating of the President's performance in office, the vote went this way: 16 percent rated him good, 33 percent fair and 51 percent poor.

Of the adult respondents to the questionnaire, 26 percent rated the President's performance as good, 31 percent fair and 42 percent poor.

Eighty percent of the adults favored restoration of the death penalty-sharply disagreeing with Kean College respondents.

Health bill variety in Congress topic for seminar at UC

Did you know there are eight different national health insurance bills pending in Congress, some as different as night and day? According to Miss Maurine Dooley, coordinator of community services at Union College, many citizens are only slightly familiar, if at all, with the proposals and so Union College is scheduling a free afternoon seminar to explore them.

The Health Insurance Seminar will be conducted on Saturday, March 30, beginning at 1:30 p.m. Jointly sponsored by Union College and the Senior Citizens Council of Union County, the program will explain the eight different national health plans under consideration, including the controversial Kennedy-Griffiths Bill and President Nixon's proposal.

Glen Gersmehl, who has taught comprehensive health insurance courses at the City College of New York, will serve as seminar leader, Miss Dooley said.

"Now is the time to find out more about these health bills-before our Congressmen vote on them," commented Miss Dooley.

Miss Dooley said that although there is no fee, prior registration for the seminar is necessary. Additional information about the program or registration procedures may be obtained by contacting her office at 276-2600.

Hydrants examined

The fire hydrant out at the cub can fill your bathtub in less than nine seconds, but it takes regular maintenance to make sure of this so the Elizabethtown Water Co. is starting its annual spring check-up of the 8,000 hydrants

The job will take about five weeks and is designed to make sure all equipment is in good order and readiness when needed by the local fire department. The inspection involves greasing all parts and checking flows to insure adequate pressures.

Flushing and checking the hydrants in the territories served by Elizabethtown Water and its subsidiaries. Bound Brook Water Co. and Somerville Water Co., will be completed by the end of May All of this will be done after 10 p.m. and before 6 a.m. to avoid traffic interruptions and to eliminate the possibility of young children playing near the hydrants while they are being tested.

Customers may notice a bit of discolored water the morning after testing, but this disappears within a few hours.

Fire hydrants can supply 100 times the volume of water that comes from a garden hose and some hydrants--in large industrial areas-can supply 5,000 gallons a minute. In contrast, the kitchen sink faucet supplies about 10

A special prize has always been another feature each year. Two popular local wilsts have donated pictures for this feature. They are Natalie Becker of Westfield and Joseph Domarecki of Mountainside.

Mrs. Becker received her training at the ennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts and the Art Students League. She is preparing for a one-woman show in the New York Gallery of the Pen and Brush Club, where she recently won a first prize for her painting. Her work has been exhibited at the Carnegie Institute, Allied Artist of America exhibit, National Academy of Design, the Audubon Artists of America and the Jersey City Museum.

Domarecki, a longtime resident of Mountainside, has had one-man shows at Contemporary Arts Inc. in New York, Louisiana State Museum and Seton Hall University, among others. His paintings were also exhibited at a traveling exhibit for the Museum of Modern Art, at the Chicago Art Institute and at the New Jersey State Museum at Trenton.

The show will open Saturday evening with the preview champagne reception for participating artists, sponsors and patrons. Public showings will be held Sunday from 1 to 10 p.m. and Monday and Tuesday from noon to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m. The admission charge will not apply to students, who may enter free.

On Monday and Tuesday, a light luncheon will be available to visitors from noon to 2 p.m. At other times, cake and coffee and soft drinks will be served. All funds raised will go to the support of Hadassah projects in the United States and Israel.

Women's group to hear speaker from NOW tonight

"Breaking the Sex Barrier" will be the title of Gloria Deodato's talk to the Mountainside Branch of the American Association of University Women tonight at 8 in the Emma Weber Room of the Mountainside Public Library

Ms. Deodato is a charter member and local vice-president of the National Organization for Women. As a graduate student at Rutgers she is studying American' history and women's studies and serves as consultant in women's studies for Morris County College.

She is a speech therapist, and has taught elementary school as well as feminist courses for EVE at both Kean College and Union College. Her interest in "breaking the sex barrier" has led her to become a member of the speakers' bureaus for NOW and to be active in starting new consciousness raising groups.

The branch has invited all prospective members to attend. The only requirement for membership in AAUW is a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution of higher education. Marilyn Kierspie, membership chairman, may be called to answer any question regarding membership.

Alexandrovich to be featured Mideast is topic in Temple Beth Ahm concert

Martin Shindler, president of Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield, this week announced plans for the appearance on Sunday, May 12 at 8 p.m. of the Russian Jewish tenor, Mikhail Alexandrovich, in concert at the temple.

Shindler explained that in honor of the celebration of Mother's Day, Alexandrovich, who now lives in Israel, will present a program especially for the "Yiddish mommas" of the temple member family.

A versatile artist whose repertoire includes folk songs of all nations and cantorial music. Alexandrovich made his concert debut at the age of nine. At 13 he became the cantor of the Central Synagogue in Manchester, England, and during that period appeared in concert in France, Austria and Poland. World War 2 forced him to return to the Soviet Union, where he sang for the Red Army and performed in

Shindler said that He is the holder of the highest honors ever accorded a performing artist by the Soviet Union, including the Stalin Prize, and has over a million records sold annually in the USSR. Though he had received many invitations to appear abroad, permission to perform outside the Soviet Union was denied because of his desire to emigrate to Israel Finally he was granted an exit visa and made his first appearances in Israel in 1972. He is cantor at the synagogue of Ramat Gam in

Tickets for the concert are available at the temple office or by mail: Temple Beth Ahm, Temple drive, Springfield, 376-05349. Sponsor tickets for the first section of the sanctuary are $10 each. General admission tickets are $5

General chairman of the event is Cantor Farid Dardashti, 467-1667. Co-chairman is Nahum Gershwin, 379-2016.

RETIREES:

FACTORS TO

CONCIDED.

What are your plans to cope With inflation, rising realty taxes, Gasoline and fuel-oil shortages?

Below are the major factors which caused 3,000 families to choose Crestwood Village over all other alternatives, since we were founded 10 years ago. Hundreds more are scheduled to join us in 1974. We represent a "safe haven" in a time of economic stress and uncertainty, when the "big-city" anxieties of shortages, soaring taxes and prices, urban decay and pollution threaten to blight what should be the best years of life.

CRESTWOOD VILLAGE:

SITUATION AT

CONSIDER:	CRESTWOOD VILLAGE.	TOO LIVE WORK.
Real Estate Taxes Fire, liability and extended- coverage insurance Bus transportation to shopping centers and Houses of Worship Exterior home maintenance City water and sewer Community center and recreational facilities Lawn cutting and fertilizing Snow clearing Garbage and trash collection Community TV antenna	All these costs of home-ownership are included in a single monthly fee ($50.80 to $91.25) depending upon the model you choose; the fee is managed by residents and was reduced for fiscal 1974 from 1972-73 levels on 9 of our 10 models; the 10th remained unchanged.
Health Care	4 doctors maintain daily office hours and make house calls; Manchester First Aid Squad (2 ambulances) is on standby basis 24 hours a day; 4 full-service hospitals are within 20 minutes.
Neighborhood and Shopping	A tranquil, peaceful, rural community nestled in the pine woods of Ocean County, in central Jersey. Clean air, pure water—yet within minutes of big-city conveniences. Our own Courtesy Bus Fleet provides all-day, everyday service to nearby Toms River, Lakewood, and other communities for shopping and worship. Plus jitney service around the Village—IN-CLUDING our own shopping center.	0
Recreation and Friendships	Lifetime Clubhouse membership is included in purchase price; over 30 clubs cater to a wide variety of hobbies and interests. Lakes, parks, and a nearby 18-hole golf course also are available for outdoor pleasure.
Home heating	Superior insulation saves fuel, which is all-electric—abundantly available, dependable, and rate-controlled.

If you are a retiree, or are planning to retire soon, consider: you didn't achieve this goal by inaction; you planned and worked toward it purposefully, energetically. In that spirit, we invite your visit and thoughtful inspection. All the hosts and hostesses in our Exhibit Center are residents; there is never any sales pressure.

serve is reflected in the comments of our customers. I am pleased to report that the number of complaints to the Board of Public Utility Commissioners and company executives declined again in 1973. Complaints were 10 percent fewer than in 1972, and 34 percent fewer than in 1971."

The company president said that New Jersey Bell completed a construction program of more than $375 million to build new facilities and upgrade existing equipment, "This record level Kleinert noted that the company has an 'almost unparalleled record on holding down the cost of service to customers during this period of persistent inflation. We are as hard hit by rising costs as anyone else. Yet, the overall cost of intrastate telephone service has risen less than 15 percent in the past 15 years. During the same period, the Consumer Price Index has increased by about 60 percent."

In spite of economic uncertainties and projections of lower earnings in 1974, he declared: "We are determined to continue to improve our service capabilities and performance, because it is important to us not to lose the momentum of recent years." As evidence of this, he noted, the company will mount a $400 million construction program

The company reported total operating revenues in 1973 of $975,012,000; total operating expenses of $595,682,000; total operating taxes of $200,368,000 and net income of $127,980,000. This compares with revenues of $850,648,000 operating expenses of $538,655,000; operating taxes of $169,140,000 and net income $101,968,000 for the preceding year.

Citing the role of New Jersey Bell in the state, Kleinert added: "We are hopeful that our longrange, approach to investment, and employment, in the face of a potential economic downturn, will help provide a steadying in fluence for the state's total economic performance." Last year, he said, the economic contribution of New Jersey Bell and other Bell System companies operating in the state amounted to more than $1.5 billion

State seeks rooms in private homes in which retarded adults can reside

The State Division of Mental Retardation is seeking homes in which to place retarded

'The need is acute for many adult retardates. who have lived in the community all their lives and are well adjusted individuals but who, because of deaths of parents or other changes in their family situations are without homes," said a division official. "Those individuals neither need nor wish to be placed in State Schools for the retarded nor would it be advisable for them.

Others in need of homes are those who have completed their training in state schools and are unable to go back into their family homes but are perfectly capable of community living if homes can be found for them.

If area residents who have rooms in their homes respond to these individuals' needs, the division will provide caseworkers to supervise and pay for those services. Since the division feels it is in the best interests of these adults to live in small family groups, these homes need not be licensed, provided that not more than three adults reside in any one of them. An additional amount of money is allowed for each person for spending money.

Caseworkers from the East Orange Field Office will be assigned to each individual who is placed. "A friendly partnership between the

Dear Diana

Tell Mom like it is, Dressing you alike is simply an atlention-getting device that Mom has been inflicting upon you. Attention-getting for her as well as for you. Twins should be allowed to develop their individual talents. personalities, and to lead their own lives

One way to circumvent dressing alike is to avoid yearing the same outfit on the same day. If your sister wears her red skirt, you wear a blue dress thus you avoid the carbon copy idea. Explain to Mom that you feel very strongly about developing your own potentials. Sure, she will understand. Good luck. Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I don't know what has happened to my husband since we were married. I am upset to the point of illness. We had a beautiful wedding and moved into a nice apartment. We should be floating on a pink cloud, but I am miscrable.

My husband loves to hunt and fish. He spends much of his time doing just that with his father. I feel left out and lonely. His sister will call asking him to help with a Boy Scout troop and off he will go leaving me alone. He bowls one night a week with the men from his office.

I feel that my husband is neglecting me and that his loyalty is directed to his family and that that I count for very little in his life. What can I do?

Dear Hurt: Both you and your husband should realign your thinking. I suggest you consult an unbiased third party-your clergyman or marriage counselor. Making the transition from the storybook type of love to down-to-earth living is often difficult.

'Papillon' takes precedence among fine adventure films

It's not up for Best Picture and can't be acaimed as a critical success, but "Papillon," e Allied Artists film of escape from the penal slony in French Guiana, certainly fits the old of adventure films that has proven opular by boxoffice standards.

Starring Steve McQueen and Dustin Hoffman nd directed by Academy Award-winner ranklin J. Schaffner ("Patton"), the film is ontinuing at the Fox on Rt. 22 and at the laplewood Theater, this week. The movie is ased on the autobiography of the late Henri harriere, who survived the dreaded prison ystem in more ways than one. (The author ied last summer at age 66, outliving the penal olony by almost 30 years.)

Graphic visual effects and imaginative amera work leave little to the imagination. Readers of the book might have an easier time inderstanding some parts of the story since the productions skims over sub-plots that would therwise consume too much time. (And it's ilready about two-and-a-half hours.)

Mc Queen racks up another role in the style of The Magnificent Seven" and "The Great Escape." An apparently physically-wearing part, McQueen as Papillon in many ways is ilmilar to Burt Lancaster as Robert Stroud in 'The Birdman of Alcatraz.'

Certainly, McQueen has never undergone such make-up. He appears on the verge of a breakdown, which almost results from two terms in solitary confinement totaling seven of the 13 years he is in the penal system.

-Dustin Hoffman also is different in appearance. With thick bifocals and a disheveled look that includes tonsured hair. Hoffman makes physical allowances for the part of Louis Dega, convicted counterfeiter of government bonds. Dega knows he is guilty and initially plns his hopes for freedom on money and politics back home in France. This contrasts to Papillon, who swears his innocence of murder.

At times, Hoffman sounds as if he talking to Mrs. Robinson in "The Graduate." He recites quotations and deals in logic when conversing with other prisoners. In fact, Dega is probably one of the smartest persons on French Guinea but lacks the physical prowess and instinct to otherwise survive. The bond between Papillon and Dega is sealed when the counterfeiter "hires" the convicted murderer as a bodyguard in exchange for financial help later

The corruption, degradation and blatant inhumanity of the penal system is a constant theme of Dalton Trumbo and Lorenzo Semple Jr., who colloborated on the screenplay. (Trumbo, in fact, appears in the movie as a French official whose duty is to tell the prisoners before they depart France that their Country "has disposed of them."

The settings and their detail gained approval of Charriere during production, which was in Jamaica and Spain. Strong performances are

100 ballet grants offered by school

A total of 100 ballet scholarships will be awarded by the school of the Garden State Newark, this spring as part of an expanded scholarship program made possible by the assistance of the National Endowment for the Arts and the N.J. State Council ont the Arts.

Fred Danieli, founder and director of the non profit ballet school, said the scholarships will be offered to boys and girls in the Newark area who would not otherwise have the opportunity to study. The school has always maintained a firm policy said Danieli, under which "no child having the talent to pursue a professional career has been deprived of the opportunity to train because of a lack of means.

The broad-based scholarship program will offer free introductory courses to Newark area children each year. It also will seek out gifted children who will be offered an accelerated program of free instruction in ballet and related dance courses.

Dayton to meet Gov. Livingston in track opener

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School track team opens its regular season at home against Gove. Livingston Regional on April 2, beginning at 3:30 p.m. The Bulldogs-who have won 32 consecutive dual meets-have captured two straight Suburban Conference titles and five straight State Sectional titles. However, it won't be easy to continue any of these streaks. due to a lack of depth.

Coach Marty Taglienti feels the team will have to work very hard to make up for the loss of last year's seniors. However, he points out that there is some outstanding personnel on the team, including indoor state shotput champion Bruce Heide. Taglienti called the turnout the

The juniors are represented by Tim McCormick, Bruce Blumenfield, Jeff Spolrich, Gary Werner, Joe Campanelli, Jeff Goldstein. Steve Heller, Rainier Malzbender, Mark Pezzuto, Bruce Heide, Bart Zabelski, Joe Natiello, Emmett Rueda, Ben Geltzeiler, Ed. Karamis, Gary Zarin, George Sirigotis, Kevin Mercer, Tony Francis and Tom Earhardt. Sophomores are Bill Bjorstad, Jack Graessle. again be hosts to an intensive junior development tennis program this summer. Eastern Tennis Center, one of the East's largest tennis teaching organizations, will use the courts to conduct several sessions of "Day Tennis Camp," June 10 to Aug. 30.

The program, developed by a former USLTA regional coach, Dr. Roger Flax, will consist of 63 hours of instruction, held on Mondays to Fridays from 8:30 to 1:00. It is geared to boys and girls, aged 8-17, of all playing levels.

Flax said, "Rather than the student taking various lessons from the same pro, we use a rotating system where the student works with one instructor for the forehand, another instructor for the backhand, a third for the serve and volley, a fourth for footwork, another for

Regional finishes at 14-9; respectable yet disappointing

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School basketball team finished its 1973-74 season with a respectable-yet disappointing-14-9 record. At the beginning of the season, hopes for ending Summit's reign as Suburban Conference champion were high; the Bulldogs were even rated as favorites by some. Hopes zoomed higher after an exciting 73-59 victory over the Hilltoppers early in the season—but it was to be the only conference defeat for Summit, which evened the score with the Bulldogs with a 74-59 home victory. Dayton losses to West Orange and Verona eliminated Coach Ray Yanchus' team. Dayton finished the conference season with an 8-6 record, the same as last year.

The Bulldogs fared better in the annual Christmas tournament, whipping David Brearley Regional in the first round and defeating Middlesex in the final.

Dayton, appearing in the Union County Tournament for the first time in many years. was upset by a taller Plainfield team, 93-80, in the opening round.

Congregation five holds league lead; will play Sunday

The Congregation Israel of Springfield National Conference of Synagogue Youth basketball team, formerly Young Israel of Springfield, will place its six-game winning streak on the line in its game this Sunday at 12:30 p.m., with MTA varsity of New York at the Florence Gaudineer School girls' gym. Shunnike road and S. Springfield avenue. For the second straight year, Congregation Israel continues to dominate in NCSY League play.

With most of the team back from last year, Springfield has strengthened itself with the addition of a new back-court man. Mike Meskin, sharing play making honors with last year's starter and fine shooter. Richie Feintuch. Along with Meskin, there are Jay Adler, a quick guard, and Elliot Malamud and Ricky Strulowitz, both aggressive ballplayers.

Back from last year are starters Mitch Kurtzer, a much improved center, and Gary presslaff. Ricky Morris, a fine shooting forward, has returned from a broken wrist suffered in a game with Fair Lawn. Russel Gabay makes the team deep in talent because of his fine play at the center or forward position. Jeff Rockoff and Mike Neibart both can give the team a big lift defensively as well as offensively at any time.

Springfield is undefeated in league play with 6-0 record, which includes victories over Passaic, 83-66; Fair Lawn, 78-77; Teaneck, 56-29; Linden 71-56, and, in what Coach Lou Gitlin calls the team's best game, West Orange, 92-46. The team's latest victory was over Jersey City. an easy 79-29. The overall record is 6 and 2, the losses coming from out-of-league games with the Passaic YMHA and Beth Ahm of Springfield, the latter a big upset considering Congregation Israel's 16 point lead going into the last quarters.

For the second straight year, the team is being coached by Lou Gitlin who is aided by swimming and indoor track were recognized. Varsity letters were given in basketball to Peter Dellomo, Mark Reynolds, Frederick Vail, Peter Lombardi and Peter Rippa, seniors. and Mark Burns, Edward Potempa, Keith Helegeson, Robert Sansone, Charles De Fazio. Roger Huseland and Fric Lisman, juniors. Managers were Michael Keegan and James Fasciano. The varsity basketball team was coached by Ralph Bianchi

Varsity wrestlers include: seniors, John Gross, John Palmer, Michael Pecca, Michael Schon and Todd Shalleross; juniors, Edward Anderson, Scott Cooke, Paul Kelley, Glen Osborne, Thomas Schon, Joseph Stallone, Matthew Staples, Robert Tikely and Thomas Wood. The wrestling team was coached by Michael Sorrentino.

The bowling team was new this year and was coached by Albert Dorhout. The team average was 761.32, 10th in the standings of the Watchung Conference Bowling League. Students lettering in bowling were Michael Palmieri. Richard Rzewnicki, Eric Seeman, Nicholas Fallucca and Ricky Siemons and the statistics keepers, Carol Radtke and Holly Duke.

Ten boys received varsity letters for indoor track, coached by William Verschuren, Captains for the team were Jerry Cerulli. Steve Florian and Drew Hoffmann. Others who received letters were Terry Quinn, James Leanza, John Buck, Dale Remington, John Dalzell, Steve Johnson and Roger Meier. The season record was 2-6.

Almost half of the swimming team, also coached by Verschuren, consisted of girls. Captain Marc Coletta received a gold letter for carning a varsity letter for four_years in swimming. Other boys receiving letters included Scott Ayers, Jeff Bland, Joe Bolil, Walt Bolil, Skip Cole, Jeff Fischer, Andy Hooper, Peter Miller and Ron Lynch, Girls who lettered included Beth Keyes, for swimming and diving: Leslie Keating, for diving, and Lucy Cobb and Karen Prupis as the team's managers. The record for the season was 5-9.

Bob Potamski slapped in a three-goal hat trick to lead the Black Hawks (5-5-1) to an 8-0 rout of the Blue Rebels (4-4-3). Dan Treasone (two goals), Bob Lofredo (one), Vin Mirabella (one) and John Flood (one) also supplied offensive power for the Hawks. Frank Bladis registered the shutout in the Hawks net with strong assists from Bruce Bennett and Gregg Prussing.

Blue Rebels played without their regular goalie and their game showed it despite the valiant efforts of Tom Martino, Scott Grayson, Tom Moen, Denny Circelli, Eric Fromer, Tom Ronco and Stu Ruff.

The Green Rockets (2-6-2) didn't score in last week's game but they held the vaunted scoring power of the undefeated Red Devils (11-0) ir check until the final minutes of the first half when Carmen Scoppettuollo blasted in a sizzling line shot from mid-court. He repeated the shot in the second half for the 2-0 margin over the Rockets. Derek Nardone and Larry Maxwell received credit for the assists while Jerry Ragonese registered his 11th shutout in the nets for the Devils. Rockets stand outs included Mike Bergesky, Gary Treasone, Tom Lovett, Rich Schwerdt, Frank Geiger, Russ Evans, Bob Maguire and Jim Knowles.

The Silver Flyers (8-2-0) toyed to a 7-4 win over the White Demons (1-8-1) with Mark Ronco (three goals), Tom Russoniello (two goals) and Jim Lofredo (two goals) scoring for the Flyers. Brian Belliveau, (two) Joe Ragucci and Jeff Davis scored the Demon's goals.

The other semifinal game, to be played at 2 p.m . Saturday, will pit Brown against Harvard Brown defeated Pennsylvania; Harvard eliminated Yale.

Cornell broke a number of team scoring records in routing Princeton, 92-24. The Cornell fast break was awesome as it seemed to score on every break down court. Greg Moroze directed the Cornell attack from his guard position and shared scoring honors with Skip Liquori—each finished with 28 points, high for both boys this season. Skip was the top defensive player for Cornell at his forward

Eddie McGrady and Harvey Kaisch teamed to give Cornell control of the boards, making the Cornell fast break click. McGrady scored 11 points in the game: Kaisch contributed eight. Tyrone Parker, Alan Grossman, Rick Marech and Scott Miller also scored.

Princeton was led by Jack Hirshberg, who played an outstanding game at both ends of the court and did some good board work. Hirshberg finished the game with 16 points: Joe Patetta had four. Joe Blabolil and Jeff Schnee also

A big final period by Billy Young helped Brown hold off for a 54-41 victory. Penn's thirdperiod rally moved the team back into contention. Billy's five buckets in the final period put the game out of reach. Young finished with 14 points. Kenny Baskin, with 16 points, was the high scorer in the game. Dave Ironson added 12 for Brown. Dave was very effective in the first half as Brown roared to a big lead. Jimmy Siegal had seven points and Johnny LaMotta also scored.

Penn was led by Robbie Bohrod. Robbie, playing top ball at both ends of the court, finished with 12 points. Israel Joseph hit three buckets in the third-period rally and finished

Commuting on a jumbo Giant plane could short-land

FARMINGDALE, L.I. -- The scale prototype of a very large commuter airplane - big enough to carry nearly as many passengers as a 747 yet able to land on a short runway in downtown Manhattan -- is now undergoing preflight tests at Polytechnic Institute of New York's Long Island Center in Farmingdale.

Designed by a PINY student-professor team on a National Science Foundation grant, this plane in a full-sized version could ferry 1,000 workers an hour. A STOL (short take-off and landing) craft, it would be powered by four 6,100-horsepower Rolls Royce turboprop engines and hang from a giant wing more than 200 feet long and 40 feet wide at the base.

Polytechnic's scale prototype has an eightfoot wingspan and is powered by four O.S. MAX H40P pylon racing engines so powerful they dragged the plane's restraining weights several feet down the runway during a static test. It is 6.5 feet long and carries a movie camera in its nose.

Its controls are operated by radio using six electric servo motors, and fully fueled it weighs about 31 pounds. This test craft - in size COMETS

Most men since the beginning of time have regarded comets as omens of evil. As recently as 1910, when Halley's great comet last appeared, charlatans sold special pills to protect the fearful.

somewhere between a huge model and a small airplane -- was built by 10 undergraduate students majoring in acrospace engineering at

Garry Shears, a recent graduate of Polytechnic now an engineer at Grumman Aerospace, and Prof. A. Ralph Krenkel of the department of aerospace engineering and applied mechanics at PINY developed and published original designs for this giant air trolley in 1970. The following year a group of undergraduates received a Bendix grant to build and test the small prototype.

Pre-flight testing is under the direction of William Stasi, who helped build the model when he was an undergraduate. He is now a member of the aerospace research staff at PINY in Farmingdale.

"These tests are really of two different kinds," Stasi said. "In the runway testing we run the plane almost up to takeoff speeds to make sure of rolling stability controls.

'We're also conducting stand tests to see that all four engines are throttled properly so that one won't pull more than another."

The first test flight is planned for the spring at Grumman's flight text facility ne'r Calverton, L.I. "We keep running into peopi." most of them from model airplane clubs -- w. tell us it won't fly," says Stasi. "But my computer keeps telling me it will."

"Focus: Education," a coalition created to increase public awareness of New Jersey's problems in school funding, has been annqunced jointly by Nina McCall, president of the League of Women Voters, of New Jersey, and Mr. Mark W. Hurwitz, executive director of the New Jersey School Boards Association. "The coalition has been created because we have found a disturbing lack of public knowledge about the implications of the 1972 Robinson V. Cahill decision," said Hurwitz.

In that landmark case, Superior Court Judge Theodore Botter ruled New Jersey's present system of financing public education is unconstitutional. Upheld by the New Jersey Supreme Court, the Robinson V. Cahili decision further states an equitable system of financing a "thorough and efficient" education for all children in the state must be devised by the legislature by Dec. 31, 1974, and implemented by July 1975.

Citing the need for citizen participation as a major concern of the League, Mrs. McCall stated, "Either we as citizens have an input and make our choices known, or we sit back and let the legislature or the courts decide our educational fiscal future," She noted financial changes will be reflected in tax structure and will have a major long-range effect on schools.

The coalition will conduct statewide public information program before the special legislative session Governor Byrne has said he Education" is twofold, according to its sponsors -- to inform New Jersey citizens about the court decision and the shortcomings of the present funding system; to give citizens information on the possible alternatives for change, in order that they may influence legislative decisions. A brochure, "New Jersey's Billion Dollar Question," is already available for distribution through the League of Women Voters office, 460 Bloomfield ave., Montclair. A slide presentation and a film strip on school finance and a speakers bureau are also in the works. Speaker training sessions will be held during the last week in March for persons interested in dry-stop.

Coalition will explore school funding problem learning the techniques for speaking, presenting the slide program and leading public discussion.

Any groups interested in coope, ating with the coalition by providing speakers, audiences, services or financial support may contact the New Jersey School Boards Association, Judith Schwartzstein, (609) 695-7600 or the League of Women Voters of New Jersey, 746-1465,

In summing up, both Mrs. McCall and Hur witz stressed the importance of prompt and responsible action on New Jersey's growing education crisis, and stated their belief that "Focus: Education" could help citizens play a decisive role in finding the best solution.

EXTERIOR VIEW of one of the famed "bullet trains" of Japan. This is at the Atami Station and is "our" train. It was slowing down to stop, so it stood still long enough, so to speak, to get a picture. Its usual speed is about 120 miles per hour.

INTERIOR VIEW of one of the "bullet trains." Here, a group of tourists enjoys the comfort of the efficient and marvelous Japanese Railway in a first class car. Suzuki Akiko San. Japan Travel Bureau guide, is in the isle.

A FEMININE LOOK ...

AT THE WORLD ... AND THINGS minimby TRUDINA HOWARD

OF PUNCTUAL TRAINS AND OTHER ODDITIES

Eighteenth In a Series

The Japanese must be the Germans of the Orient. Everything they do is efficient; including their landscaping, their farms, their hotels, homes, temples, shrines, parks, offices, you-name-it. Everything is precise, wellordered-and clean.

Even, would you believe, trains? Particularly the ones that are called the "bullet trains."

They are never late.

They are never dirty

They are never dilapidated.

They never break down halfway home, or halfway there.

To make it even more remarkable, the trains go as fast "as a bullet" it seems, up to 120 miles per hour, and on some stretches they run only three minutes apart! To add to the wonder, the stops at the stations are never more than two minutes, with most of them being only one minute. It is the bigger stations, such as Kyoto, which are allotted the two-minute stops. Otherwise, you get just one tiny minute. They mean it, too. It is one of the main reasons for the railway always being on time.

But then the railway belongs to the government

That might be another cogent reason.

THE MAIN LINE stretches from Tokyo to Osaka, totalling 350 miles, but not all the trains do the entire stretch and not all the trains stop at all the stations. In the full 350-mile run there are 67 tunnels (yielding 40 miles worth of tunnels) and 2,911 bridges (yielding 35 miles worth of bridges).

Everytime a train reaches either end of its run, an army of cleaners approaches it and literally attacks it to give it a cleaning, inside and out. Now, would you believe THAT! And I mean at the end of a "run," not of a "day," and I mean, "everytime

The ticket is $20 for first class and $10 for second on a full run. The difference is that in first class you have four seats across, two and two, and fewer sets than in second class, thus affording more leg room. In second class there are five seats across, two and three, and more sets. Each train is usually 12 to 15 cars long, but there are no diner, parlor, or club cars included. Well, nothing's perfect.

Food and drink are both somewhat unimaginative, and limited to sandwiches and soft drinks, and possibly beer. All can be ordered from a small snack bar, and wandering waitresses will bring it to you. The snack bar serves both classes

The other way to get food, and better food, isto have your Japanese tour guide do it for you. And if you have a treasure, such as our group had during our entire stay in Japan, you will have it made. Anywhere.

.Our guide from the Japan Travel Bureau said her name was Suzuki Akiko San, and it wasn't until almost our last day that we learned how it all went together. It sort of revealed itself as we went along. We called her just "Suzuki" at first and then learned it was her last name. From there we weren't quite sure where to go until Suzuki explained it. "Just do it backwards," she said. "San" stands for "Miss, Mrs. or Mr." so in this case it was for "Mrs." "Akiko" was her first name, and "Suzuki" her last. In other words: Mrs. Akiko Suzuki.

--0--0--BUT BACK TO FOOD: A small, narrow slab pulls down at your seat, and it is so narrow, it almost seems like an arm, but it is the table. So there you are on one of the famous "bullet trains;" it is almost one, and you are ready for lunch, but where is it Suzuki San has said she has it, only she hasn't! But she smiles secretively and says we will have it by one.

She snatched it.

Akiko Suzuki reminded me of a Japanese Bloody Mary and she was as resourceful. She had ordered box lunches from a station restaurant up the line, and they were packaged and waiting there at the edge of the platform for her. But remember! The train stops for only ONE minute and she has 18 lunches to pick up.

was almost not long enough, though! On the long ride, Akiko kept us quite amused and informed in a unique way too. She had also thought of bringing a whole supply of signs identifying points of interest along the way. She walked up and down the aisle holding them high so we all could see. It was better by far, than trying to hear her over the roar of the train. Ernest was so inspired he made a sign of his own. It said, "Kiss me. I give green stamps."

Again she smiles. Never underestimate a

I wonder if he ran out.

BEFORE WE HAD BOARDED the train, the 17 in our little brood had quite a show of the trains, from the outside. I think

We were on the platform on the second level of the Atami station when Akiko said, "get ready with your cameras if you want to take a picture of one of those trains. The 10:47 is coming through and will not stop here so you can get a picture if you like.' Oh sure

At exactly 10:47 a streak appeared at one end of the station and at exactly 10:47 and-onesecond, it was gone out of the other. We didn't even have time to aim our cameras, let alone push a button. Anyway, we were in a state of shock. We stood gasping as as it thundered by. The whole station shook.

When we had collected ourselves, we began to look for "our" train. "It is due at 11:06." Akiko said. But at 11:05 and one-quarter there was no sign of "our" train.

"Oh." said one of us Americans who was used to the way of trains, "it'll be late. Relax everybody." By that time it was 11:05 and one-HALF, and we were beginning to believe him.
"Oh no you don't!" commanded Bloody

Mary, "No relaxing! We cannot. It will be

At exactly 11:06 that train was there and the doors opened. At exactly 11:07 it rolled out of

Let me tell you, getting on one of those bullet trains can be traumatic. Particularly at a oneminute station. Akiko even placed us at different posts along the platform where the train doors would be, so we could all leap on at once, and not have the last bunch of the 17 get caught in a door, or left behind to become the phantoms of the station. There is no kindly easy going conductor swinging a flashlight or whatever they swing, yelling, "all aboard!; then waiting until everyone is on before signalling to leave. Oh no. Not here. On you go in one minute flat, OR YOU DON'T GO.

Well, I must say that in spite of the worrysome boarding system, if one can have such punctual schedules and such clean trains. (a simulacrum of American trains, you must admit,) I am sure there is not one American

Coast Guard reports 120,000 gallons of oil spilled in N.Y. Harbor in 1973

More than 120,000 gallons of oil were spilled into New York Harbor and its tributaries from Sandy-Hook up the Hudson River to Rockland County, N.Y., during the last six months of 1973, according to a U.S. Coast Guard report released this week.

Coast Guard officials said 1,667 gallons were spilled during the six months in 21 incidents in Linden on the Arthur Kill. Eight spills in Carteret added 1,253 gallons to the Arthur Kill.

The six-month review by the Third Coast Guard District, with headquarters at Governors Island, N.Y., showed more than 300 spills of oil and other pollutants into New York Harbor, The entire study disclosed that some 840 spills had taken place throughout the fivestate mid-Atlantic Third District

Most of the spills within the metropolitan area were small. The largest one occurred in the East River Nov. 15 when 80,000 gallons of No. 2 oil spilled at Cirillo Bros, facility in the Bronx. The spill was the result of a ruptured pipeline.

The big spills, say 5,000 gallons or more, get the most publicity," said Commander Ernest Bizzozero, chief of the Third District's marine environmental protection office, "but it is the little ones that keep us hopping day to day."

Under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act making sure that pollutants spilled along the coastline and navigable waterways of the U.S. are cleaned up belongs to the Coast Guard. Similar responsibility for spills on inland waters or on land rests with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. The responsibility for the actual cleanup of spills

Rules to prevent poisoning listed by pharmacists

Poison Prevention Week will be observed nationally beginning Sunday according to the New Jersey Pharmaceutical Association.

Joseph G. D'Amico, association president, said "Simple precautionary rules can save a serious injury or illness even death where small children are involved. One of the most serious medical emergencies facing young children today is the hazard of accidental poisoning. Because efforts to reduce the number of poisoning accidents over the years have been only partially successful, safety packaging has been introduce.

He added, "Regulations specify that the safety feature must be maintained for the expected length of time it takes for the product to be used up. Re-use of such safety packaging is prohibited because the original container. through wear, might no longer work well. When a prescription is refilled a new child-resistant container will be used by the pharmacist."

D'Amico advised parents to get medical advice even if they only suspect a child has ingested a potentially hazardous substance. Sometimes a youngster is found playing with a bottle of medicine or some household product. but shows no symptoms of illness and it is difficult to tell if he has swallowed any of it," the pharmaceutical leader said.

"Take no chances. Keep the telephone numbers of your physician and the nearest Poison Control Center readily available, and call promptly," said D'Amico.

"It is important to realize that very young children are in stages of growth and development where they are constantly exploring and investigating the world around them. A crawling child will find such products as scouring powder, floor wzx and laundry detergents stored under the kitchen sink and on the floor. When he is able to stand he may discover furniture polish within his reach on low-lying tables. When he starts to climb he can sometimes reach the medicine cabinet. It is essential to keep such products locked up where possible, out of children's reach.

"The life you save may be your own child's," said D'Amico.

Service academy test dates listed

Sen, Clifford P. Case this week announced plans to hold a Civil Service examination on Saturday, Sept. 28, to help him select nominees for the U.S. Air Force, Military, Naval and Merchant Marine Academies, for the classes entering in the summer of 1975.

The examination is open to legal residents of New Jersey. Those who wish to take the test should write to Senator Case, Russell Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20510. All candidates should be at least 17 and must not have reached their 22 nd birthday by July 1 of the year in which they will enter one of the academics.

Puppet show planned

The Charity Council for Cerebral Palsy will present a program featuring Jerry Hochberg's Remarks Puppets Saturday, March 30, at 2 p.m. at Columbia High School, Maplewood. Admission will be $1. Further information is available from Mrs. Isaac Ostrovsky, 762-2847.

Coast Guard facility. Failure to do so is punishable by a fine of up to $10,000 and a possible one year in jail. The act also provides for fines of up to $5,000 for each incident of spillage. Commander Bizzozero added that during 1973, the Coast Guard collected more than $300,000 in fines for spillages throughout the district. The cleanup methods used are determined on a case-by-case basis, depending on what is spilled, where, weather conditions and other variables. Equipment, usually owned by professional cleanup concerns, range from containment barriers and vacuum trucks to absorbent materials. The use of chemicals to clean up a spill is most always avoided, however, if it is used, EPA and state approval is required.

From July to December of last year, 302 spills occurred iun New York Harbor and its related ateries-131 from New York sites for a total of 98,856 gallons and 171 from New Jersey points-mainly along the Kill Van Kull and Arthur Kill waterways between New Jersey and Staten Island, N.Y., for a total of 22,537

In New York, 36 of the spills were from vessels. 17 from shore facilities and the remainder from unknown sources. In New Jersey, 55 of the spills were from vessels, 43 from shore sites and the rest from unknown

Staggered hours of work studied in business Newark

The Greater Newark Chamber of Commerce and The Port Authority of New York and New Jersey are conducting a two-part study of the feasibility of staggering work hours in downtown Newark to reduce transportation congestion and conserve energy. The feasibility study first recommended by the Chamber's Energy Conservation Task Force will comprise surveys of work schedules and transportation patterns of some 85,000 men and women working in downtown Newark.

Letters have been sent to 2,500 member firms asking their cooperation in completing a work schedule survey of their businesses. The survey seeks data on starting and terminating hours, modes of transportation used in reaching the downtown area and the residences of the firm's omployees.

The second part of the study is a transportation survey of commutation patterns to be carried out this spring. Port Authority planners will analyze data collected with the assistance and cooperation of the City of Newark, the New Jersey Department of Transportation, Transport of New Jersey, the Penn Central Railroad, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Eric Lackawanna Railroad, Reading Railroad and Amtrak.

The examination of staggered work hours in Newark is a natural extension of a highly successful program which has been operating in the Manhattan business community since 1970 and is being introduced in other urban centers throughout the nation.
