MMA producer from theatrical family Mrs. Wilhelms started in show biz with father

By EVELYN AVERICK
"I wouldn't do what you do," a professional producer of community theater said to Jeanne Wilhelms. He was referring to the fact that Mrs. Wilhelms, co-director and producer of "Meet Me at Maxie's," the Mountainside

Music Association's bi-annual musical extravaganza to be presented May 3 and 4—has to continue to live among the friends and neighbors who are the talented amateurs she has directed, coerced and exhorted these past 15 years.

Mrs. Wilhelms, wife of the former mayor of Mountainside Fred Wilhelms Jr., is the mother of three grown children. Her motherly demeanor and proportions belie her show-biz acumen and twinkle-toed dancing ability.

She comes by her talents quite naturally as the daughter of Freddy Slackman, known as Elizabeth orchestra leader and showman. Her father would travel with scenery, costumes and orchestra to put shows together for clubs and organizations. Her aunt, a dancer and dance teacher, would go along to handle the choreography and Jeanne's mother was in charge of costumes which she could ingeniously whip together or alter to suit. When her aunt became pregnant, Jeanne, then 18, was called in to fill her shoes. Jeanne rehearsed the cast with dance steps she had just learned from her aunt and continued back and forth learning and teaching almost simultaneously. Her brothers were the stagehands and helped with make-up.

Her co-director in the Mountainside production is Aden Lewis, a former music teacher in the Mountainside schools for 16 years and presently a professor in the music department of Kean College. Mrs. Wilhelms speaks of Mr. Lewis as a kindred spirit with whom she gets along famously. They bounce ideas off each other, neither feeling they could do it alone, neither feeling they could work with anyone else. Together they share the same goals—to produce a quality show and to take this group of talented amateurs and bring them as far as they can go but not beyond themselves.

Mrs. Wilhelms says, "This town has got to be the most unusual there is. I have never seen so many really talented people in one small community, and what I love about Aden is how he strives for quality in helping these people realize the best in themselves. Aden is terrific; he writes all the background music and insists on writing all the choral parts so that we get a really beautiful blend of voices."

Last summer, Mrs. Wilhelms and Lewis were invited to participate in an unusual cruise to Africa to see the eclipse of the sun. A "culture

Cancer Crusade names chairman in Mountainside

Billie Jean Tulchin of 336 Longview dr. has been named chairman of the 1974 American Cancer Society Crusade in Mountainside.

The announcement was made by Union County Crusade co-chairmen, Rosemary Carmody and William Wright Jr., who stated that Ms. Tulchin had accepted the position "because of her sincere desire to help conquer cancer." The crusade, said the co-chairmen, begins in April which has been designated by Congress as "cancer control month."

"I urge all residents of Mountainside to help Billie Jean Tulchin in this most important effort. Ms. Tulchin's leadership will be an invaluable asset to the society's campaign. She brings a wealth of experience and deep commitment to the cancer cause," explained Wright.

Ms. Tulchin is a past president and co-founder of the Mountainside branch of the American Association of University Women, chairman of the Mountainside PTA spring fair and a former Girl Scout leader. She has been a resident of Mountainside for 17 years.

"I first became affiliated with the American Cancer Society as a volunteer on the transportation committee," explained Ms. Tulchin.

In accepting the position, Ms. Tulchin urged everyone to help support the society's programs of research, education and patient service by giving generously during the April Crusade. She stated, "We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime. Join the fight with a checkup and a check."

8 teaching posts dropped; declining enrollment cited

By KAREN STOLL

Officially citing a continuing drop in enrollment as the primary reason for its action, the Mountainside Board of Education Tuesday night voted not to rehire eight of the school system's total of 74 teachers for the next school term.

Approximately 150 persons, many of them borough teachers, packed the cafeteria at the Deerfield School for the 2½-hour session, 90 minutes of which was taken up by the contract discussions. In other action at the session, the board authorized secretarial position changes, voted to accept the secretaries' long-negotiated contracts, authorized purchase of new English textbooks and voted to offer land at the Beechwood School to the Recreation Commission for construction of two tennis courts. The board also formally offered use of the Echobrook School to the Borough Council as a municipal facility.

The eight staff members who will be notified of nonrenewal of contracts are Beverly Ament, who had a one-year contract to teach sixth grade social studies; Nancy Walker, second grade teacher; Jean Coulter, Echobrook librarian; Jane Mercurio, parttime home economics teacher; Evelyn Giunta, piano and sixth grade vocal music teacher; Judith Fromer, eighth grade English teacher; Roberta Von Lunen, third grade teacher; and Edward Saks, physical education instructor.

The board refused to differentiate between those staff members dismissed solely because of lower enrollment, and those with whom the board was dissatisfied.

THE VOTE WAS unanimous on all but the decisions involving Ms. Walker and Ms. Giunta, both of whom were candidates for tenure. Those ballots were split 4-3, with Gertrude Palmer, Patricia Knodel and R. Charles Speth casting 'nay' votes. Saks also would have been a candidate for tenure this year.

Also in the personnel area, the board unanimously voted not to renew the contracts of secretary Barbara Wilde; secretarial aide Lucille Moore; librarian Frances Laczynski and library aide Doris Zeitelhack. The post of Deerfield Middle School vice principal, held by Al Shapiro, was eliminated. Shapiro will be given a teaching assignment.

Tenure contracts were granted to Marilyn Zerkowitz, supplemental instruction teacher; Robert Stephens, third grade teacher at Beechwood, and Richard Adinolfi, fourth grade teacher at Deerfield.

Third-year contracts were awarded to Lois Harrison as vocal music teacher and Pualani Kallstrom, art teacher. However, the position of music coordinator, held by Ms. Harrison, was eliminated.

Teachers granted second-year contracts were Charla Krebs, first grade, Deerfield; Maria Bird, sixth grade English; Carol Finkelstein, foreign language; William Hug, eighth grade science; Lois Mishkin, speech correctionist; and John Theis, seventh grade social studies.

Secretarial position changes, to take effect July 1, include a reduction in the Beechwood secretary's work year from 12 months to 10; elimination of the assistant secretary's post at the superintendent's office; elimination of the post of guidance secretary and transferral of her work to the team secretary, who now handles work from the offices of the school psychologist, social worker and special services team and replacement of the position of library assistant with a clerk-typist.

The board also announced completion of contract talks with the seven school secretaries and authorized approval of a three-year settlement, covering the 1972-73, '73-74 and '74-75

EXTRA EFFORT — Mountainside teacher John Theis kicks up defensively in faculty-student basketball game at Deerfield Middle School Friday night. Fred Mobis was the high scorer of the night as the teachers won, 48-28. Proceeds from the benefit game will go to a scholarship fund sponsored by the Mountainside Teachers Association.

Suckno discounts concern of effect of hydrant testing

Mountainside residents who discover their drinking water discolored after local firemen have been in the neighborhood testing hydrants should not become alarmed, Fire Commissioner Abe Suckno noted this week.

"The health department was immediately called to investigate complaints of 'dirty' water which were received from several homeowners," Suckno reported. "They found the discolored water is not at all harmful. This is a situation over which the fire department has no control, and borough residents should be willing to put up with this slight inconvenience, since it's worth knowing they have a working fire hydrant in front of their homes."

Suckno reported that since the boroughwide testing project began in January, only six hydrants have been found to need "minor repairs." He said reports were forwarded to the Elizabethtown Water Co., which has begun fixing the devices.

The fire commissioner noted no hydrants were found to be blocked by stone and dirt, a condition which resulted in loss of water pressure during the December blaze which destroyed an unoccupied home on Central avenue.

Borough library lists Regional film

A 29-minute film report on the Union County Regional High School District will be shown on Wednesday, April 10, in the Mountainside Public Library.

The movie, which will be shown at 7:15, 7:45 and 8:30 p.m., is the superintendent's annual report and will feature programs at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield. Coffee and Danish will be served.

Alan Isaacson, assistant to the superintendent for public information, will answer questions concerning the film and the schools. He said the film award the district won for an informational display at the 1973 convention of the New Jersey School Boards Association.

Dayton Varsity Club to wash cars Saturday

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School Varsity Club will sponsor a car wash this Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the rear parking lot of the school.

The cost is $1.50 for an exterior wash and $2 for full service. Cold drinks also will be sold.

Regional board to meet

The Board of Education of the Union County Regional High School District will hold a regular monthly meeting at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, April 2, in the cafeteria of the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, at 7:30 p.m. Coffee and cake will be served for district residents who wish to meet and talk with their Board of Education representatives before the commencement of the regular meeting.

TEENY AND FRIENDS — John Hickory, (far left) starts a levee in "Red Cross" Middle School eighth grade production of "Fiddler on the Roof" to be presented at the school at 8 p.m. Friday, April 5. Also featured are (from left) Debbie Organ, Joan Rodding, Steven Bumble and Mitchell Krasnoff. Admission to the play will be free.

Boatmen are told not to drop anchor in backyard ports

Mountainside boat owners who have been keeping their craft in the backyard may be cruising for a summons, if the vessels are spotted by borough zoning officials.

According to Borough Councilman John O'Connell, "from 10 to 15" summonses have been issued in recent weeks to residents who failed to abide by the zoning code, which requires all boats and trailers to be stored in an enclosed garage. He urged all borough boat owners to comply with the law.

O'Connell's admonition came during last week's council meeting, at which he presented the zoning officer's report for February. He noted that two borough businesses, the American Aluminum Corp. and SKW Services, Inc., both located on Sheffield street, have been granted full approval for installation of private fuel tanks and pumps on their property.

A third firm, Kaltman & Son, Inc., Mill lane, was given approval for accessory use of the tank, but was found to be in violation of the zoning code in regards to placement of the pump. The company may appear before the Board of Adjustment to request a variance.

Building advisory report suggests municipal complex at Echobrook area

Utilization of the soon-to-be-closed Echobrook School as a municipal complex is a primary recommendation offered in the final report issued March 11 by the Municipal Building Advisory Committee, a non-partisan citizens' group appointed by the Mountainside Borough Council last July to study present and future needs of borough departments.

The report, released by the governing body last week, stresses the need for expanded borough facilities, but suggests construction of a new municipal building on the borough-owned Barnes Tract "if Echobrook School is not available or feasible."

If the school can be obtained for borough use, the Barnes Tract should be retained by the community "until such time as condemnation of Echobrook School by the state is a reality," the committee urged. (The school site has been placed in jeopardy by state highway department plans for construction of an overpass at New Providence road and Rt. 22, but a final decision on implementation of that project is still forthcoming.)

The full report of the committee reads as follows:

"The committee has studied present borough facilities, both by personal inspection, and by questionnaire. The questionnaire requested specific information on present facilities, and a projection of future space and personnel needs based on an estimated population maximum of 8,000. The committee arrived at this figure after consulting with Walter Rupp and Robert Koser (borough engineer). Mr. Rupp provided us with information on borough population

Red Cross campaign at 82 percent of goal

Mrs. Elmer A. Hoffarth, chairman of the Westfield-Mountainside Red Cross membership and fund drive, this week said 82 percent of the chapter's goal has been reached. She asked those who have not yet contributed to use their Red Cross envelopes so the campaign goal can be reached.

Fall 'International Festival' to feature local ethnic groups

Members of the Mountainside Cultural and Heritage Commission are inviting members of various ethnic groups in the borough to attend a special meeting at the Mountainside Library, Thursday, April 4, at 8 p.m.

At that session, planning will get under way for the commission's "International Festival," a day-long salute to ethnic groups to be held in September as part of the borough's continuing Bicentennial celebrations.

"Every nationality now represented in Mountainside is urged to have a display of their national flags, recipes, foods, music, songs, artifacts, customs, dress, folklore, superstitions, art, and work habits typical of their native land," a spokesman explained. Some borough ethnic groups have already been organized; others need chairmen before exhibit planning can begin, and others have not yet been organized.

"The April 4 meeting will be a planning meeting of all interested parties," the spokesman said, "whether they are in a group already, want to start one, or just want to know more about what's going on." Readers seeking additional information may contact Pat Hanigan at 232-4512 or Matt Powers at 232-4929.

Sign-ups starting for 'tennis night'

The Mountainside Recreation Commission will sponsor a spring tennis night at the Murray Hill Racquet Club on Saturday, May 18. Play will begin at 7 with mixed doubles and will continue until midnight.

The tennis night is open to all levels of players, with registration limited to male-female couples. The registration fee is $14 per couple and includes playing time and a can of balls. Registrations will be accepted at borough hall between 9:30 and 4 p.m., starting this Monday. Payment must accompany reservations. For additional information, readers may call 232-0015.

Ceremony of confirmation at Lady of Lourdes tonight

Confirmation ceremonies for Our Lady of Lourdes religious education students will be held tonight at 7:30 at the church in Mountain Side. Bishop John J. Dougherty will administer the Sacrament, using the revised rite, to 170 children in the sixth and seventh grades.

The program began last fall under the direction of Sister Mary Fallon of the faculty of Our Lady of Lourdes School. She was assisted by Kathleen Crilly, Margaret Reilly and Kathleen Sexton in the seventh grade and Rose Harrington, Theresa Noe, Veronica Geiger and Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor in the sixth grade. In addition to her overall direction, Sister Mary instructed the sixth grade in Our Lady of Lourdes School.

The schedule for the 1973-74 activities included religious instruction by the parish priests as part of the preparation. To emphasize the community's involvement, an enrollment ceremony was held on Jan. 23 for the sixth grade and Jan. 25 for the seventh grade.

The students have been active in making stoles under the guidance of teachers and parents as a symbol of their accepting this adult Christian responsibility. These were used in the vigil ceremony yesterday attended by all members of the parish.

The religious education center has also set April 6 as the date for the first penance service for second grade students. It will be held at the church at 3 p.m. First Holy Communion for these same students will be May 4 at the 10:30 a.m. Mass.

In addition to these special sacramental programs, the religious education center teaches children on all grade levels, plus preschool and kindergarten. The total enrollment is 560 children attending Sunday mornings up to grade six and on Monday evenings for grades seven and eight. All 35 instructors in this phase of the religious education program are volunteers from the parish, with 12 having taught professionally. Sister Mary Fox, CND, in residence at St. Rose of Lima Church in Short Hills, recently joined the parish staff as religious education coordinator to direct the overall parish program. Sister Mary prior to her current assignment, spent eight years in New England as a team teacher for religious education programs.

Motorist injured as van overturns on Summit road

A Newark man was injured Saturday morning when the van which he was driving overturned on Summit road. Mountain Side police reported.

Police said the motorist, Robert D. Sinclair, 34, told them he was northbound near Maple court at 8:50 a.m. when his vehicle suddenly flipped onto its right side.

Sinclair, suffering an injury to his right arm, was taken to Overlook Hospital by the Mountain Side Rescue Squad.

On Monday, at 4:12 p.m., an 18-year-old Asbury Park man was hurt when the car in which he was a passenger was involved in a three-vehicle pile-up in the eastbound lanes of Rt. 22, near Globe avenue.

Police said the victim, Steven Piechae, was riding in an auto operated by Bonanno Santo, 23, of North Brunswick, which smashed into the rear of a dump truck driven by Paul Usdin, 50, of Springfield. Santo's car was hit in the rear by one operated by Nancy J. Walker, 25, of Lake Hiawatha.

Police noted a discrepancy in the reports of the drivers: they said Santo claimed his car was pushed into the truck by Ms. Walker's, while she stated she hit the auto after it had struck the truck.

Piechae was taken to Overlook by the Mountain Side Rescue Squad. Police said none of the drivers was injured.

UN group visits area host families

A group of people employed by the United Nations Secretariat recently made their first trip to Mountain Side. They spent the weekend with various families who are part of the New Jersey Chapter of the American Host program.

A buffet dinner was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Powell of Scotch Plains for the guests and host families.

A spokesman for the local group added: "The American Host program gives one the opportunity to enjoy a meaningful and rewarding experience with your family while influencing the course of international friendships. Almost any family can qualify as a host family. If interested in further information about joining, please call Mr. or Mrs. Philip Adams, 464-3164, or Mrs. Martin Devos, 232-2605.

Volunteer firemen prepare alarm, extinguisher displays

The Mountain Side Volunteer Fire Company will hold two public meetings to demonstrate fire detection alarm systems and extinguishers soon, according to a company official. The firemen will also arrange for the re-charging of home fire extinguishers.

The volunteer fireman said "a larger than expected number of families have returned our questionnaire regarding fire extinguisher re-charging and inexpensive home fire alarm systems. As a result, we will arrange for a representative of a fire extinguisher re-charging company to be at our fire headquarters in the near future. "Residents," the volunteer firemen's official said, "will be invited to bring their fire extinguishers to headquarters and will be able to pick it up re-charged a few days later." It is also planned that a fire extinguisher display will be set up.

A second "resident night" will be held to demonstrate inexpensive fire alarm systems. A manufacturer's representative will explain the heat and smoke detectors.

"We assure you that you will not be under any obligation to purchase anything that night or anytime from the manufacturer we invite," said the volunteer fireman. "Each family that sent in the questionnaire will be contacted by phone as to date and time. We welcome additional families to send in their questionnaires about these services," he said.

Mail response to the Mountain Side Volunteer Fire Company's annual fund drive was termed "quite good" by the company spokesman.

"A mail response will save us a trip to your door on April 27," said the spokesman. "Take a few minutes today and mail in your contributions in the self-addressed prepaid envelope sent a few weeks ago."

Theft of microscope reported at health labs

Mountain Side police reported the theft last week of a $1,200 binocular microscope from National Health Labs, 271 Sheffield st.

Police said the firm's night manager reported the device had been taken from a laboratory cabinet sometime between 5 and 8 p.m. March 20.

Pupils' art work in OLL spotlight

Our Lady of Lourdes School, Mountain Side, held an art show March 11 and 12 featuring paintings created by the pupils.

The contest, which was promoted by two sixth-graders—Wendy Grande and Jill Gardner, was divided into three categories: Primary grades, Intermediate grades and Grades 7 and 8. Winners in the primary group were Ed Mayer, first prize; John Gardner, second; Lisa McCarthy, third; James Cleveland and Sharon French, honorable mention.

Intermediate winners were Barbara Sauer, first prize; Tommie Ann Gibney, second; James Fleming, third; Kathy Kelly and Joanne Casulli, honorable mention.

Seventh and eighth grade winners were

Kathy Krajeck, first prize; David Keselica, second; Mary Pat Sexton, third; Kathy Sexton, honorable mention.

A special citation was given to all members of the first grade class "for their spirit, enthusiasm and participation."

Huter, Porter attend meeting of fire chiefs

Chief Ronald Huter and First Assistant Chief Henry E. Porter of the Mountain Side Volunteer Fire Department attended the winter meeting of the New Jersey State Fire Chiefs' Association in Willingboro Saturday.

The program included a discussion on airport fire safety and fire-fighting procedures for aircraft, led by Capt. Edward Hreha of the Philadelphia Fire Department.

Mercedes-Benz has some good news about driving in Europe.

You've heard the rumors. "There's no gas in Europe." "It's crowded." "It's expensive." "Things have changed."

Forget them. Here are the facts. It's true things aren't the same. In some ways they're better. Gasoline is available. Europe will probably be less crowded this year than in quite some time. And the value of your dollar has been climbing.

You can still find a bargain too. Example: Buy your Mercedes-Benz here, pick it up at the factory in Stuttgart, and you can save from $800 to $1800. And that's after paying for shipping and duty.

Newarker forfeits bail after failing to appear in court on alcohol count

A Newark man, facing what was reportedly his third offense for driving while under the influence of alcohol, forfeited $250 bail when he failed to appear at Mountainside Municipal Court March 20 to answer that charge.

Judge Jacob R. Bauer ordered forfeiture of that bail posted for Anthony P. Serritelli, as well as an additional $75 bond on two other charges—failure to have registration in his possession and misuse of dealer's license plates. Serritelli had been issued his summonses on Rt. 22 on Aug. 25, 1972.

In other court action, two motorists were fined $215 each for driving while their licenses were suspended. The penalties were levied against Garrett C. Ward of Belleville and John P. Stelzer of Union, both of whom had been ticketed on Rt. 22.

Careless driving on Coles avenue resulted in a $25 fine for John Korb of Watsfield, Vt. Ralph T. Pagliaroli of Parlin, ticketed on Park drive, paid $15 for failure to reinspect his vehicle.

Ford marketing—Tom's Ford Inc. of Keyport was fined $15 for having only one license plate on one of its cars that had been halted on Rt. 22. Fines totalling $35, including contempt of court charges, were levied against Margaret C. Butler of Plainfield for driving on Mountain avenue without an insurance identification card in her possession and for operating a car overdue for inspection.

Also receiving penalties for operating vehicles overdue for inspection were Robert S. Schultz of Green Village, $20; Kenneth D. Clowes of Somerville, $20; Schultz Bros. Furs, Millburn, $25; Dolores Samansky of North Plainfield, $20, and Ralph T. Pagliaroli of Parlin, $15. All fines, except Pagliaroli's, included contempt of court penalties. Schultz Bros. Furs' summons was issued on Mountain avenue; Pagliaroli's, on Park drive; the remainder, on Rt. 22.

All other motorists appearing at the session had been ticketed on Rt. 22. They were: Eugene C. Barlow of Plainfield, failure to have a valid driver's license in his possession, $25; Reinaldo Rodriguez of Plainfield, passing on the shoulder, failure to have his vehicle inspected, $50; Walter Armour of Plainfield, failure to have his vehicle inspected, $20.

Also: William D. O'Brien Jr. of Westfield, passing on the shoulder, $25; Frederick M. Koehler of Bound Brook, expired registration, $20; and Raymond R. White of Plainfield, failure to keep right, $20. White was the only one not fined for contempt.

The only non-motor vehicle case involved a complaint made by Stanley Krushinski of 1128 Corrine ter., Mountainside, against Joseph Rudoski of 1132 Corrine ter., alleging Rudoski had dumped debris from his property onto Krushinski's. Rudoski pleaded innocent. The case was dismissed because Krushinski reportedly failed to set forth the date of the offense in his complaint.

terms. Under the pact, salary increases will be 5.5 percent, seven percent and seven percent, respectively.

Also authorized was the expenditure of $2,277 for sixth, seventh and eighth grade language literature textbooks. The proposal had been turned down at a meeting March 12, after it was noted there are plans to call in professional consultants to evaluate the system's English program. At Tuesday's session, James Keating advised purchase of the books, noting that new ones are needed for next term and selection should not be delayed. He stated the consultants, in any case, would not review specific texts.

A LENGTHY audience discussion was raised when, for the third consecutive year, the board considered a request by the Mountainside Recreation Commission to construct two more tennis courts on Echobrook School land. The borough now has four courts, two on Echobrook and two at Deerfield.

Although the suggestion was made that the new facilities be placed in the Beechwood School, Recreation Commission member Dan Grace stated it was "in the best interests of the borough" to place the courts at Echobrook, since a single site would be more conducive to a supervised tennis program.

Grace cited overcrowding at the current facilities, noting 1,400 tennis permits had been issued to borough players last season. He emphasized site study and plans for construction and funding have already been completed for the Echobrook project, whereas no survey has yet been made at Beechwood.

The board decision on the matter was split 3-3, with Mrs. Knodel, Speth and Keating casting "aye" ballots; Dr. Irvin Krause, Walter Rupp and Grant Lennox casting "nays." Mrs. Palmer was not present for that vote.

The board agreed to again consider the Echobrook request at its April 9 meeting, and also voted 4-2 to offer Beechwood property to the Recreation Commission as a tentative site. Echobrook School also came under discussion when Mrs. Knodel moved the board officially offer the facility to the Borough Council for use as a municipal building, as recommended in a recently-issued citizens' committee study report. (See story elsewhere on Page 1.) The board agreed to do so, although Lennox noted a similar offer several months ago had been turned down by the governing body.

Named to dean's list

Christopher Legacki, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Legacki of Heckel dr., Mountainside, N.J., has been named to the dean's list for the second term at New England Aeronautical Institute and its division Daniel Webster Junior College, Nashua, N.H.

Building advisory report suggests municipal complex at Echobrook area

clarified the projected needs of their departments, and considered their written and verbal recommendations on special space requirements, adjacencies, and building layout. Committee evaluations of projected needs are reflected in the recommendations section of this report.

"The committee has studied the property acquired by the borough (Barnes Tract). Members have walked the land, studies topographical maps of the site, and discussed traffic flow, topography, land utilization and landscaping-environmental effects.

"Echobrook School has also been studied by the committee, both by personal inspection and detailed group discussion and evaluation.

"Based on the activities detailed above, the committee developed the following conclusions and recommendations:

"Based on the activities detailed above, the committee developed the following conclusions and recommendations:

"1. There is no question that the current borough facilities are inadequate in terms of size, layout and condition.

"2. According to our evaluation of projected departmental space requirements, we recommend that office area be provided for the following: police chief, three police officials, two secretaries and file clerk, violations clerk, court clerk, mayor and council, judge (chambers), borough engineer, secretary to engineer, building inspector, secretary to building inspector and engineer, tax collector, treasurer, borough clerk, business administrator, planning board secretary and part-time secretary, recreation director and part-time secretary.

"Since our study indicates that many employees wear two hats, and back each other up on a regular basis, we recommend that open space planning be used wherever possible.

"The listing above is for office space, exclusive of general files, storage and vaults.

"We also recommend that space be provided for the following—Police: four detention cells, locker room, conference classroom, interrogation rooms, sally port (attached to building), darkroom, finger printing room, teletype, main desk and lobby; courtroom—public meeting room; conference room; lounge space.

"3. The committee strongly recommends that the Borough Council investigate the availability and feasibility of utilizing Echobrook School as a borough hall. Our study of the existing building indicates that this alternative would give the borough approximately 13,000 sq. feet of space, and save a considerable amount of money over the cost of building a new and equivalent facility elsewhere.

"4. If Echobrook School is not available or feasible, the committee recommends that the council build a municipal building on the Barnes Tract, incorporating the following recommendations:

"1. Two floor, 10,000 total sq. ft. building.

"2. Police entrance and parking facing Mountain avenue at ground level.

"3. Administrative offices on the upper level having ground-level entrance and parking on the north side of building.

"4. The site should be well landscaped and buffered. Maximum preservation of the natural environment is strongly recommended.

"Based on our study, we recommend that Knightsbridge road not be used as an entrance or exit to the proposed municipal building, since the road would become a bypass to Mountain avenue.

"A rough estimate of the cost of this building and site work, as of February 1974, would be approximately $65 per sq. ft., exclusive of special equipment and cost of land.

"5. If the Borough Council decides to utilize Echobrook School, as recommended, we suggest that the borough hold onto the Barnes Tract until such time as condemnation of Echobrook School by the state is a reality.

"6. Finally, we recommend that the council make immediate inquiries to appropriate county agencies and the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs regarding the availability of seed money to finance a feasibility study on borough hall facilities. The council should also investigate the possibility of SLEPA (Stater Law Enforcement Protection Agency) funding for police facilities.

"The committee would like to thank those who took the time to talk with us about borough needs. If the mayor or council require any additional information or explanation, the members of the committee stand ready to help."

Chairman of the committee, which has now been dissolved, was Arthur H. Winter of 1100 Saddle Brook rd. Other members were: Mrs. Peter Harrison, 1423 Woodacres dr.; Michael Sgarro, 283 Garrett rd.; Joseph Chieppa, 301 Indian trail; John Iupp, 359 Dogwood way; Jay Kelk, 304 Partridge run; Robert Wyckoff, 356 New Providence rd.; Robert Butler, 205 Evergreen ct.; Gerald West, 126 New Providence rd.; Harry Horan, 126 Knightsbridge rd.; Benjamin McKinney, 1440 Orchard rd.; Robert Koser, 275 Hawk dr.; Ronald Mays, 1219 Rt. 22, and Dr. Morton Abend, 1399 Knightsbridge rd.

USDA describes method to destroy gypsy moth eggs

Now is the time for homeowners in the northeastern United States to seek out and destroy gypsy moth egg masses, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) recommends.

From now until mid-April, leaf-eating gypsy moths are in the egg stage—buff-colored, velvety egg clusters. On homeites, egg masses appear on the undersides of tree branches, lawn furniture and attached to stationary objects such as recreational vehicles. In the woods, they are in bark crevices or on the undersides of tree limbs, rocks and other objects. All egg masses should be painted with creosote or completely scraped off into a can of kerosene.

"Since each egg mass contains 200 to 500 potential leaf-stripping caterpillars, destroying egg masses now is much more efficient than trying to kill individual caterpillars when they are feeding on the leaves in the spring," says Leo G.K. Iverson, deputy administrator of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS).

"We recommend that egg mass hunting be a neighborhood or area project. Otherwise, individual homesites will be 'cleaned up,' but caterpillars will move back into the same area in the spring from adjacent infested properties," Iverson said.

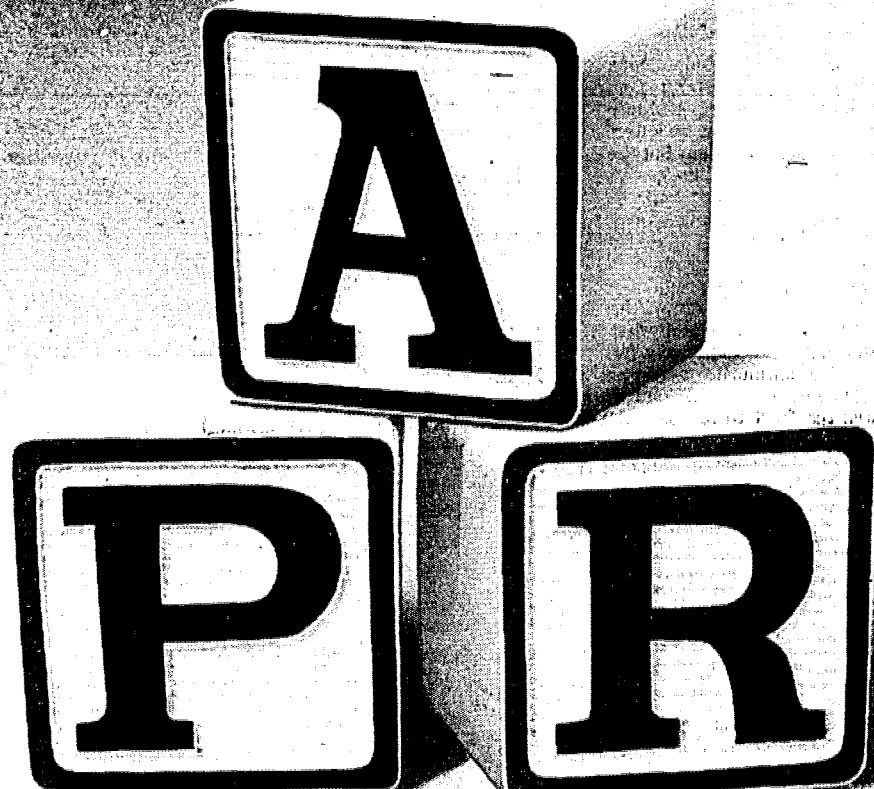

Gypsy moth egg masses now can be found in the infested areas of eleven northeastern states—Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware.

Gypsy moth caterpillars hatch in mid-April and May. In this stage they damage and kill trees by stripping them of their foliage. The insect pest was introduced into Massachusetts in 1869 and annually strips thousands of acres of trees in forests, homes, parks and recreational areas. During the summer of 1973, about 1.75 million acres were partially or entirely denuded.

If You Don't Know Your

(Annual Percentage Rate)

You Don't Know What You're Really Paying For Your Loan!

WHAT IS APR? It's the Annual Percentage Rate. When you know the APR you know exactly how much interest you're paying on your loan. If you don't know the APR, you could be in for an unpleasant surprise.

HOW CAN I FIND OUT WHAT MY APR IS? The law requires that you be told your APR when you borrow money or apply for credit. Be sure to ask when you borrow money for anything: "What is the APR on my new car loan?" Or home improvement loan. Or furniture or appliance loan.

IS APR THE SAME WHEN YOU WANT YOUR CREDIT EXTENDED? No it isn't. On a direct loan banks in New Jersey may have an APR up to a maximum of 11.43%. For new cars, New Jersey Dealers may have an APR up to a maximum of 12.75%.

The National Bank of New Jersey Has a Low, Low 9.25% Annual Percentage Rate On New Car & Home Improvement Loans

Department stores may have an APR up to a maximum of 18%.

HOW CAN I FIND THE LOWEST APR? You can shop for your loan the same way you shopped for your car, or washer/dryer, or color TV. But, before you sign, call the financial advisers at The National Bank of New Jersey. It's wise to compare.

A SUGGESTION: At The National Bank of New Jersey we suggest that you BUY your car, furniture or home improvement where you get the best deal... but BORROW from The National Bank of New Jersey where you get the best deal on your loan.

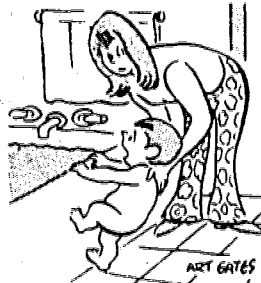

ONLY COMMON SENSE, ISN'T IT? It's only common sense to save dollars and APR is where you save when you borrow.

KNOW YOUR APR. IT'S THE LAW. CALL US AND COMPARE!

PIONEERING NEW CONCEPTS IN ENERGY!

A lot of people seem to think that our critical shortage of conventional fuels is something which has happened overnight. In the utility business, we know better. In fact, we've been warning of an impending energy crisis and the need for alternate sources of energy for several years.

We haven't been standing still. As the nation's third largest combination gas and electric utility serving nearly 80% of the population of highly industrialized New Jersey, we have moved forward in several directions in an attempt to provide our customers with an uninterrupted supply of electricity and natural gas.

We pioneered the concept of an ocean-based nuclear generating station to be located nearly three miles offshore in the Atlantic.

We built the nation's first synthetic natural gas plant, which is now providing urgently needed supplies of this valuable fuel from Harrison, New Jersey, and another plant is well underway.

Not content with accepting dwindling supplies from conventional pipeline suppliers, we have formed our own subsidiary to drill for new natural gas supplies in the southwest. These efforts have already produced quantities of new natural gas.

PSE&G was the first to install test fuel cells to produce actual on-line electric energy.

Valuable research into fusion is being supported by PSE&G.

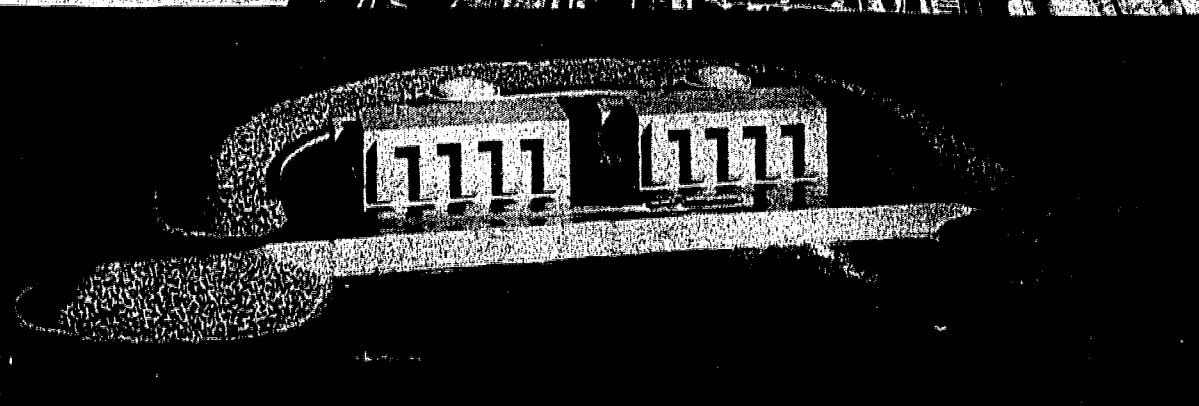

We're building New Jersey's largest nuclear station, which is 75% complete and which will eventually provide one sixth of all the electric energy produced in New Jersey.

Yes, times indeed are difficult. But we're not standing still. We're adopting new energy concepts to help provide uninterrupted energy to our customers and to continue to stimulate a healthy economy in New Jersey.

A 12-week Scuba course providing 35 hours of instruction and leading to national YMCA Scuba certification is now open for registration at the Westfield YMCA.

The class, which will be held on Saturdays from 1 to 4:30 p.m., begins April 6. Mountain-side residents are eligible to enroll. All equipment, including use of air tank, regulator, air, plus the manual and Scuba test fee, are included in the cost of the underwater instruction. The class is open to men and women of 10th grade age or older.

Safety as well as the physiology of diving is stressed in the course which is taught by Irvin Rubin, a certified Y instructor for nearly 15 years.

"The water world is the last frontier left to the average man to explore," contends Rubin. "The wild west is gone. Outer space is too expensive for the average man to adventure in. But three-fourths of the world is water and most people have never really seen what is in it."

Rubin points out that "you need not be a tremendous swimmer—just a reasonably good swimmer to enjoy Scuba—and there's no generation gap. Some of my most successful students have been retired people who have the opportunity for the first time to enjoy long, leisurely vacations."

Congressman visits facilities of Millburn School for Deaf

Congressman Matthew Rinaldo (R-12th District) visited the Millburn Avenue School for the Deaf in Millburn this month to see the program firsthand and to meet the parents of children who reside in his district of Union County.

The Millburn Avenue School is a state-operated day school for deaf children, aged 5 to 14, who live in Essex, Union, Morris, Somerset and Middlesex counties. The school has a current enrollment of 100. Approximately one-third of the children enrolled reside in Union County.

The Millburn Avenue School was established in 1968 by the Millburn Board of Education to meet the growing educational needs of hearing-handicapped children in New Jersey.

Rep. Rinaldo spent time in some classrooms becoming acquainted with the special techniques and equipment needed for educating the deaf child. A coffee hour followed at which he discussed with representative parents legislation for the hearing-impaired, which is currently pending in Congress.

Rinaldo explained various means of using the legislative process to improve the quality of education and provide greater opportunities for the hearing-handicapped.

Thieves net cash, coins in break-ins

Thieves netted $547 in cash and an undetermined amount of gold coins, respectively, in break-ins last week at a local luncheonette and a private home, Springfield police reported.

The cash was reported stolen from Scappy's Sandwich Shop at 169 Mountain ave. on Saturday, police said. They noted entry to the building was gained by forcing open a window.

The coin collection was reported stolen from a Laurel drive home on March 20, police said, after burglars gained entry by breaking a window. Police are awaiting a full list of missing items.

Applications available for summer camp jobs

Youths interested in summer positions at YMCA resident camp Wawayanda-Hird this week were invited to make appointments for preliminary interviews with Peter W. Addicott, Summit Area YMCA director of resident camping.

Applications for counselor, CIT, maintenance, kitchen, program and staff jobs may be obtained at the Summit YM, and further information obtained by calling Addicott at 273-3330.

Assembly will act on 2 Wilson bills on ecology issues

Two bills introduced by Assemblywoman Betty Wilson have been reported out of committee and will soon be coming up for a vote in the State Assembly.

Both bills, A-642 and A-774, deal with environmental issues. "A-774 would set up procedures for the creation of joint environmental commissions by two or more municipalities," said Mrs. Wilson. "This provision of a formal framework for joint action would encourage municipalities to cooperate in solving environmental problems, which rarely stop at municipal boundaries."

"A-642 would eliminate a partial conflict in existing laws which has created a problem for many municipalities," explained Mrs. Wilson. "Previous legislation, which authorized municipalities to establish environmental commissions, required that one member of the Environmental Commission also be a member of the Planning Board," Mrs. Wilson pointed out. However, the Municipal Planning Act forbids citizen members of Planning Boards from holding positions on the Environmental Commissions. "This conflict, in effect, prevented a private citizen from serving on both the Planning Board and the Environmental Commission and thereby providing liaison and coordination between the two bodies," said Mrs. Wilson. "A-642 would eliminate this conflict and allow a private citizen who has the time to serve effectively with both groups to do so."

"Both of these bills will aid municipalities in solving their environmental problems and I am hopeful that they will be passed by the Legislature and signed into law by the Governor," concluded Mrs. Wilson.

Postmaster gives people answers on 10-cent stamp

People with questions about the 10-cent stamp "deserve the answer," declared Westfield-Mountain-side Postmaster Dominick J. Cardillo this week.

"All of us at your Post Office hear the questions about the 10-cent stamp. Nobody likes to see prices go up, me included. Still, I've found that when we tell the people the whole story, most admit they feel a little better about the new stamp," said Cardillo.

"You know as much about inflation as I do. But there's a lot more to the new stamp than that. The idea is that the price of a stamp should pay the cost of delivering a letter. Maybe that's not an earthshaking idea. But the plain fact is that postage hasn't paid the cost of delivering the mail for a long time. Fact is, your tax dollars make up the difference. It can help keep stamp prices down. But a lot of people's taxes end up paying for somebody else's mail. When the Post Office can regularly count on your tax money to bail it out of the hole, there's not as much reason to watch what things cost. Your tax money shouldn't pay for other people's mail," he continued.

The Postal Reorganization Act was signed into law to straighten the Post Office out, he explained, but this won't happen overnight. "Brakes were put on the use of your tax money to subsidize postage. That means the price of postage goes up to pay the real costs of the mail. And this is being done fairly. So all kinds of mail, whether it's letters, packages, business mail or magazines, will be paying their own way—without your tax money. There's no profit on your mail. Our job at the Post Office is only to give you good service—at cost. Most of us who work here are trying hard as we can to do just that."

DAYTON DISPATCH

By Margo Krasnoff

What Filipino toy was introduced to the United States in 1929? Roland Marioni buzzed first, trying "hula hoop," but was wrong, giving Joel Goldberg the opportunity to correctly buzz "yo-yo."

On March 18 Dayton's juniors and seniors attended the annual Key Club "college bowl" in which the faculty routed the students, 430 to 345. Following the format of a television quiz show, panelists pushed the buzzers before them when they thought they knew the answers to the questions posed to them by the student master of ceremonies, Jack Goldman.

Student David Gollob chalked up the scores on a blackboard for all to see. Thomas Baker, Key Club advisor, provided organ music, greeting the students with "I'm on the Top of the World."

The students hoped that they might be - if they had won. There existed a possibility of establishing a precedent in Dayton history. Faculty members on stage with Marioni, science, were Arthur David, English; Julia Latzer, English, and Robert Meyer, physical education. Key Clubbers assisting Joel, the lieutenant governor, were Jon Sieber, president; Dan Gecker, district secretary, and Alan Geist, senior class representative.

The boys, dressed in jackets, ties and dress shoes, besides their usual attire, looked mildly nervous under the big lights. The teachers displayed casual coolness even when they were losing, 60 to 105.

What is the most commonly used word in the world? A faculty member guessed "a" but a student gave the proper answer; "the." What's on the front and the back of a $5 bill? Lincoln and the Lincoln Memorial, correctly answered the students. Chester Gould draws what famous cartoon character? Neither delegation knew. Dick Tracy might have been upset.

What product is good to the last drop? Marioni blurted out "Savarin," and then jumped out of his seat. Why? Because it's Maxwell House.

What is the world's most honored watch? A Longines. What is Louis Satchmo Armstrong's nickname? Father Dip. What president was first born outside the original 13 colonies? Abe Lincoln.

There were many more questions entertaining students and faculty alike. Many of the questions were devoted to sports, but no questions pertained to music and few on literature and art. The display of seemingly obscure knowledge amused some and delighted others. Try spelling diphtheria.

MAY WE HELP YOU WITH THAT HOLE IN YOUR POCKET?

Not that we're equipped to sew it up (our "full service" doesn't yet include mending) — but we do have ideas on how to keep your money from slipping away.

One of them is to open a savings account with our bank. Another is to buy U.S. Savings Bonds on a regular basis — and here you'll find our Bond-a-Month Plan, which transfers money from your checking account for automatic Bond purchases, very helpful.

You'd probably be surprised at how much of your cash disappears without a trace. With a regular savings program those odd quarters and dollars would be accomplishing something for you. Instead of getting lost they'd be building security for your future.

Handling and protecting your money is our business. Stop in soon, and let us show you how savings accounts and U.S. Savings Bonds can end that "losing" streak.

BOROUGH CHAMPS — Stephanie Rizzo, Michelle Davis, Patil Schon, Mary King, Sharon McGurty and Lori Wroblecki (from left), members of the Mountain Side Falcons, captured the borough Girls' Basketball League championship March 21 with a 31-16 triumph over the Condors. Other team members (not pictured) were Cheri Swanson, Sue Mazzarella and Caroline Garretson. Sharon McGurty tossed in 14 points and Stephanie Rizzo added 13 in the title-winning effort. In the semifinal round, the Falcons upset the league-leading Eagles, 26-21. The Condors reached the finals with a 28-24 victory over the Hawks. The Condors were paced by the Young sisters, Beth and Theresa, and by Lisa Simon, who netted 12 points.

Dayton nine faces Hillside in opener with a 'new look'

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School baseball team will open its 1974 season against Hillside Friday, April 5, at home. The game will begin at 3:30 p.m. The Bulldogs will be home again April 6 against David Brearley Regional in a 1 p.m. game.

The Bulldogs will open the season with two new outfielders as well as a new shortstop, third baseman and pitchers. Following the graduation of Dave Mollen, Brian Mullen and Mark Weber, only one letterman will return to start in the outfield—Gary Treasone in left. Treasone started several games last year, when Mollen was hurt, and showed a fine arm and good range. Jerry Ragonese will start in center, coming off a fine junior varsity campaign last year. Former Jayvees Bill Bohrod and Wayne Schwarte will share the assignment in right field. All were strong hitters last year as well as solid fielders.

Midget wrestlers are eliminated in state quarterfinals

The Springfield Midget Wrestler's officially ended their 1973-74 season with district champs Dave Szymanski (90) and heavyweight Ronald Butman, competing in the AAU state midget wrestling tournament held at Phillipsburg High School last week.

Both fifth graders put in a good performance despite losing in the quarterfinal round. Dave came out on the short end of a 4-0 decision as he lost to a solid opponent from Hunterdon Hills.

Ronald brought the Springfield fans to their feet as he held a 2-0 lead after the first period in his match. Midway through the second period, Ron got himself in trouble and trailed 5-2 as the second period ended. The final score of Ron's match was 7-2 in favor of his Lyndhurst foe.

The coaching staff has announced that eighth grader Dan Solazzi has been named the outstanding wrestler of the season. Dan placed second in this year's AAU tournament and ended up with a 12-2 record for the season. Dan's total midget wrestling record was 19-4 in two years of wrestling.

Kansas (in OT), Florida win in Youth Basketball

A disappointed California saw a super final period rally which brought them a tie at the end of regulation time go down the drain as Kansas gained a 36-35 overtime victory in the State League last weekend. A bucket by Jeff Kronert iced the big victory for Kansas. Kronert hit in overtime to put the game out of reach.

John Riccardi played a great game to pace the Kansas victory. Riccardi did it all for Kansas. He led all scorers with 16 points, played outstanding defense as he blocked many California shots and was the top rebounder in the contest. Riccardi was also effective in the

Rosarian tourney announces details

The 13th annual Rosary Bowling Tournament at Garden State Bowl, Union, will be held on April 29, on Monday only, with two squads from 9:15 a.m. to 1 p.m. Closing date for entry is April 25.

The tournament will again be a three bowler team event, but there are special prizes: trophy for hi-game, one for hi-series and one for the bowler who bowls the most pins over her average. Each member of the winning team will receive a trophy and cash prizes are also given. The Rosary Society of the winners also has a trophy. Money prizes go to usually one out of every six entrants.

Any Rosarian may enter the tourney even if she is not a member of a regular bowling league or if the league she is with is not sanctioned. Last year's rule of multiple entry will again be used. Entry fee is $3.50 per bowler and from this a donation is sent to the church of the winning church. Full particulars can be found on the entry blanks available at Garden State Bowl.

Youth basketball will end tonight

The Springfield Recreation Department will conclude the 1974 season of the Youth Basketball Program tonight with a triple-header of basketball. The program will start at 6:30 p.m. at Gaudineer School and will feature the championship game of each league sponsored by the Recreation Department.

At 6:30 p.m. the Small-Fry Championship game will tip-off. The contest will pit the Jets against the Raiders. Florida will meet Kansas in the State League Championship game at 7:30 p.m. The final game of the evening will be played at 8:30 p.m. when the championship of the Ivy League is decided between Brown and Cornell.

Echo Lanes sets $60,000 event

New Jersey's richest team bowling tournament, the $60,000 Echo Lanes-Cadillac handicap competition for men's and women's teams, will have its 16th renewal April 27 to June 23 at Echo Lanes on Rt. 22 in Mountainide.

Jack Best, tournament director, announced the eight week-tournament will offer approximately $54,000 in prizes, plus a 1974 Cadillac Calais Coupe, which will go to the bowler who registers the highest gross three-game series.

Best said the guaranteed first two prizes in the men's five-man handicap competition will be $3,000 and $1,500, with the top scratch team getting $1,000. The women's top awards will be $750 in the handicap kegling and $350 in the net pinning.

Entries for the men's and women's team, doubles and singles events will close April 20.

Red Devils, Silver Flyers meet in DIPPER competition

The undefeated, undefeated, league-leading Red Devils (11-0-0) tangle with the second place Silver Flyers (9-2-0) this morning at 7:15 in the boys gym in one of the crucial games of the Dayton Intramural Program Physical Education Recreation (DIPPER) floor hockey play which concludes its regular 14-week season action next Thursday.

DIPPER Director John Swedish announced that the playoff rounds would begin on April 8th with teams in first and third position playing a two out of three series followed on succeeding days by teams in second and fourth place battling for the other playoff spot. Finals will take place the following week on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, if necessary. DIPPER championship trophies will be given to the team with the best winning percentage.

HELPING PEOPLE

A fall, a broken shoulder— and an elderly woman lay on the floor all night, unable to get to the telephone. Fortunately, her son stopped by the morning and found her.

That was before the "lifelines" were set up by Project Interact in Bingham and friendless, was talked into County, Idaho, so people who live alone could check on each other by telephone. Each of the 3 lifelines consists of 8 intervals in a chain sequence, with the last person calling the one who starts the chain. The lifelines quickly proved their usefulness. The first week, a woman was found sick in bed and unable to prepare food. A doctor was sent; medicines and food were provided.

Project Interact was designed by county volunteers with consultation and support by the Federal Government's mental health agency—the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Its aim was to reduce loneliness, alienation, and boredom and to promote better mental health through various kinds of interaction among people who needed more human contact as well as practical services.

The idea, in brief, was to enable people to help themselves by helping each other. And help themselves they did—with surprising gusto. One lady, 86, who had spent most of her time in a wheelchair, going weeks without a

Brown will face Cornell for Ivy League's crown

Brown posted one of the biggest upsets of the Springfield Ivy League basketball season by defeating Harvard, 49-43, in a semifinal contest. In the other semifinal, league champion Cornell powered past Dartmouth, 78-62. The teams will meet tonight for the playoffs title.

Brown played a fine team game in upsetting Harvard. Billy Young paced Brown with 15 points. Billy was very effective in offsetting a final-period Harvard rally, sinking a bucket on a jumper from behind the key and three free throws down the stretch. Kenny Baskin, with 14 points, played his best game of the season as he excelled at both ends of the court and led his team in rebounding.

Dave Ironson had another good game for Brown. Dave played a solid floor game, contributed 10 points, was outstanding on defense and got some key rebounds. Jeff Bernstein played solid defense and scored seven points.

Minutemen score 2 victories to move into semi-final round at Florham Park

The Springfield Minutemen fought to a pair of victories last weekend in the Florham Park Tournament and moved into the semi-final round.

The Springfield team put on a final period rally to top South Orange, 63-53, in an opening round game last Friday night. The Minutemen returned on Sunday afternoon to down the host team, Florham Park, 52-45. The Minutemen again used a big final period to spell the margin of victory.

Springfield will return to the Holy Family School in Florham Park this weekend for a semi-final contest against the winner of the game between Livingston and Scotch Plains. The Minutemen will also travel to Tenafly over the weekend to play an opening round game in the Tenafly Tournament.

Seniors learn trade skills at technical institute

The image of grandpa sitting on the front porch in a rocking chair enjoying his well earned leisure may soon take its place with the horse and buggy era—a dim recollection of the past.

And helping to dispel that image is a group of senior citizens who are learning how not to be idle at the Union County Technical Institute and Vocational Center in Scotch Plains.

Under the school's new policy of enrolling senior citizens tuition free, there are a number of over 65ers taking courses ranging from Practical House Plumbing to Auto Mechanics and TV Repair.

"I sometimes wonder where I found the time to go to work," says Hans Nommensen of 1443 Orchard rd., Mountainside. The former printer for the New York Times is currently enrolled in three courses at the Vocational Center. He's studying Major Home Appliance Repair, Electrical Fundamentals and Practical House Plumbing. He's already completed a course in Engine Tune-Up.

Nommensen, who has also expressed interest in taking some academic courses at Union College, which has a similar policy for senior citizens, notes that he had nine years of schooling 50 years ago. Now, he says, "I want to find out what's going on."

Robert Carkhuff of 115 Birchwood rd., Linden, is a retired technical chemist who has been working since he was 10 years old. He feels the key to keeping fit is keeping busy.

Travel and study are his answer to keeping busy. He feels these tuition-free programs for senior citizens are a rare opportunity for people "to fill in the gaps or add to careers and interests they may have started some years ago and have been sidetracked from pursuing."

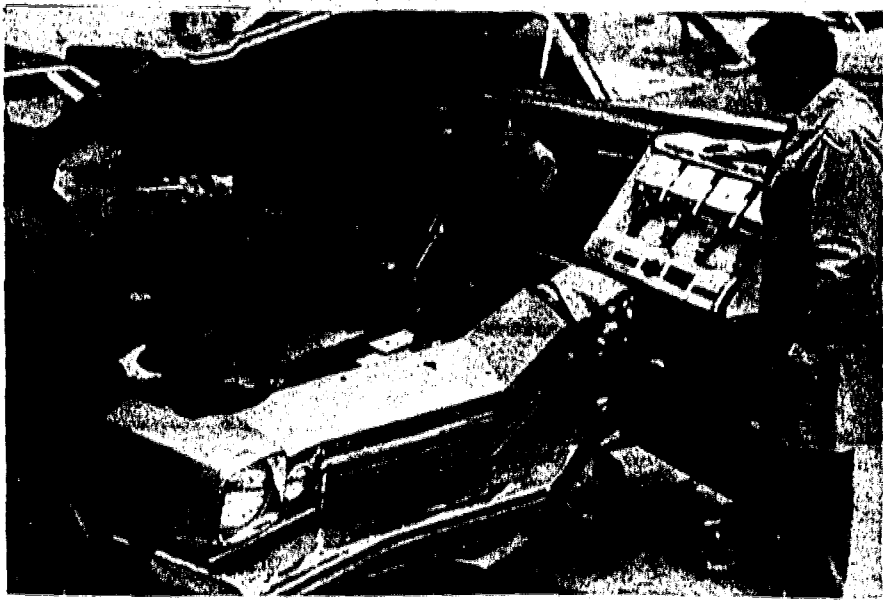

Carkhuff is taking his second course in Auto Mechanics and feels he will be qualified to maintain and repair his own automobile. He would like to take courses in other areas in the future.

He is also enjoying the cross-section of students in his class. "People bring various experiences and backgrounds to the course," he says, "and are able to share their knowledge and skills which provides for a greater education through peer group interaction."

"Once you get started, you can't stop," says Karl Roettiger of Shunpike rd., Springfield. He's now taking two courses in Auto Mechanics. He began knowing nothing, he says, and was recently able to repack his front wheel bearings.

The former steeplejack also keeps himself occupied maintaining his 117-year-old home.

All of the senior citizens attending Union County Technical Institute and Vocational Center are apparently in agreement that retirement doesn't mean sitting back and taking it easy, but rather an opportunity to do the things there was never time for when they were working. It's for certain, that if these men get involved with rocking chairs it will be when the Technical Institute and Vocational Center institutes a course in furniture building.

IT'S NEVER TOO LATE — Dr. Harold Brennan of Westfield (left) and brother Robert, also of Westfield (center) apply some of the new skills they're learning in an Auto Mechanics course at the Union County Technical Institute and Vocational Center under the watchful tutelage of Herman Colodini, instructor. The two brothers are among a growing group of senior citizens who are enjoying new interests and learning new skills under the Technical Institute and Vocational Center's tuition-free policy for senior citizens.

UC anniversary dance to present Miller orchestra

The Glen Miller Orchestra and the Big Band sound of the '40s will be the featured attraction at the Union College faculty's 40th anniversary celebration, it was announced this week by Prof. Kenneth J. Hanselman, chairman of the anniversary committee.

The faculty will host the celebration on Saturday, April 20, to mark the 40th anniversary of the college. Dancing will be to the music of the Glen Miller Orchestra, under the baton of Michael (Peanuts) Hucko. Dancing and refreshments in the college gymnasium will begin at 9 p.m. and conclude at 1 a.m.

Tickets may be obtained from the 40th Anniversary Faculty Celebration Committee, Union College, Springfield avenue, Cranford, 07016.

Union College first opened its doors on Oct. 16, 1933, as Union County Junior College. Classes were held in Abraham Clark High School, Roselle, in an evening session only.

Initially funded as a WPA project, the college became an independent, non-profit institution in 1935. A day program was added in 1941 and in 1942 the college moved to its first permanent home, the former Grant School in Cranford.

Union College moved to its present site in 1959. The campus now covers 48 acres and includes seven buildings. Branch campuses are located in Elizabeth and Plainfield.

From an initial enrollment of 243 men and women, the college has expanded to serve the educational needs of 4,000 full and part-time students.

Area Red Cross responded to 70 disaster alarms in '73

The Eastern Union County chapter of the American Red Cross responded to 70 disaster situations during 1973, spending approximately $20,000 to assist families temporarily displaced by floods and fires, according to Mrs. Vera S. Maier of Union, chapter chairman.

Across the nation, she said, the American Red Cross assisted in 25,273 disaster situations at a cost of $37.7 million. In the 626 largest disaster operations, the Red Cross provided emergency care to 98,234 families to enable them to return to normal living.

"Seldom in the 93-year history of the American Red Cross have disasters of all kinds pounded so incessantly at U.S. communities and created such widespread havoc," said Mrs. Maier.

The brunt of last year's disaster onslaught occurred during a two-month period in the spring when the Mississippi River raged over of its banks from Iowa to the Gulf of Mexico. Scores of tornadoes, including one in New Jersey, added to the year's disaster totals.

Red Cross assistance to families, said Mrs. Maier, can include food, clothing, household accessories, essential furniture items like beds and dinettes, down payments on appliances, up to 30 days' rent for temporary or new living quarters, cleaning and first aid supplies, home repair materials, transportation for wage earners, medical and health assistance and replacement of lost occupational supplies and apparel.

Birthright office for Union County

Dr. George H. Jones of Westfield was elected president of the Union County Psychiatric Clinic Board of Trustees Monday night at the clinic's annual meeting, also elected were: First vice-president, Gerhard Walsch of Garwood; second vice-president, Milton Waldstein of Winfield; secretary, Mrs. Martha Moran of Westfield, and treasurer, James Cerasa of Clark.

Among those elected to the board of trustees, which directs clinic operations, were Mrs. John McCoy of Kenilworth and Seymour Margulies of Springfield.

Three members of the clinic staff presented talks at the annual meeting. Dr. Bertram Warren, clinical director of the Elizabeth office, discussed "Differences in Practice", Linda Thomas, psychiatric social worker in the Summit office, spoke on "Transactional Analysis" and Dr. Frank Bennett, branch chief psychologist in the Summit office, on "Behavior Modification."

Benjamin H. Haddock, clinic executive director, reported a high volume of service (17,919 hours) during the year although not at the rate of 1972.

Dr. Jones elected president of county's psychiatric clinic

Birthright, a non-sectarian, non-profit service organization offering women "a positive alternative to abortion," will hold open house at its new North Plainfield headquarters, Rt. 22 and Terrill road, Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. The office, made available by Mount St. Mary's Academy, will officially open on Monday.

Birthright, founded in 1968, "offers emotional and practical support and assistance to distressed pregnant women regardless of age, race, creed or marital status," a spokesman noted. Services include providing shelter, clothing, furniture, education, help with employment, and professional assistance of physicians, psychiatrists, social workers, lawyers and clergymen during and following the woman's pregnancy. Volunteer workers and professional aides are being sought for the new office. The first in Union County. Persons wishing to offer their services, or to make a donation to the organization, may contact Birthright at P.O. Box 303, Plainfield 07061, telephone 753-2210. Judy Healy and Lorraine Sullivan, both of Westfield, are co-directors of the North Plainfield headquarters.

Health insurance is seminar topic

Union College will conduct a health insurance information seminar for the general public on Saturday at its Cranford campus, according to Maurine Dooley, coordinator of community services.

The seminar, which will get under way at 1:30 p.m., will focus on the eight different national health insurance bills presently before the Congress, including the controversial Kennedy-Griffiths Bill and President Nixon's Bill, Miss Dooley explained.

Glen Gersmehl, who has taught comprehensive health insurance courses at the City College of New York, will serve as seminar leader.

"The health insurance issue is important to all citizens because of its subsequent costs and benefits," Miss Dooley commented. "Senior citizens, in particular, should be concerned because of the effects they might have on Medicare."

Women will hear book reviewer at regular meeting

Alice W. Holland, who is known for her book reviews, will entertain the Springfield Women's Club at its meeting next Wednesday evening at 8:15 at the meeting room of the National State Bank, 193 Morris ave.

Miss Holland is a graduate of Columbia University where she majored in music and history. For years she was soloist at the Riverside Church in New York City. After teaching school for a few years she became a librarian at the Elizabeth Public Library.

Her interest in music led her to start the library record collection which she built to the point where it numbers in the thousands, and she became the head of the music department. She has now retired from that and does part-time library work with St. Elizabeth's Hospital, devoting the rest of her time to community work and lecturing.

At Wednesday's meeting Mrs. Henry Wright, hospitality chairman, will be assisted by: Mrs. Walter Anderson, Mrs. Walter Lessack, Mrs. C.V. Mentzer, Mrs. Arthur Moore, Mrs. Frank Phillips and Mrs. Charles Quinzel. Mrs. James Cawley will be in charge of decorations. Mrs. Frank McCourt will preside.

JOANNE ROYAL

Royal-DeNardo troth is pledged

Mr. and Mrs. William Royal of 406 Rolling Rock rd., Springfield, have announced the engagement of their daughter Joanne to George DeNardo Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. DeNardo of Bradley Beach.

Miss Royal is a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, and holds a B.A. degree in psychology from Kean College of New Jersey. She is employed by the Hawthorne Supply Co., Newark.

Her fiancé attends Brookdale Community College in Lincroft and is employed by the Jersey Shore Medical Center, Neptune. A May 1975 wedding is planned.

Troop observes Girl Scout Week

Springfield Junior Girl Scout Troop 583, with Mrs. Lee L. Andrews Jr. as leader, observed Girl Scout Week March 10-16 by emphasizing daily a Girl Scout activity. Monday's theme was the home; Tuesday's, citizenship; Wednesday's, health and safety; Thursday's, international friendship; Friday's, the arts. On Saturday, the Scouts had a picnic at Nomehegan Park as their outdoor activity.

The girls are now making Easter egg trees by decorating eggs and attaching them to branches.

Mrs. Andrews' Cadette Troop 273 and Mrs. Joseph Carroll's Junior Troop 501 are making 24 heads of Walt Disney characters out of paper mache for the St. James Mothers' Guild card party next month.

Junior Troop 756, with Corinne Clark as leader, has made yarn owls for the pediatric ward at Overlook Hospital as a service project. On March 9, they went to Burnett Jr. High School in Union to see "Swiss Family Robinson."

Antiques show and sale ends today at Springfield church

Today is the last day of the 32nd annual antiques show and sale, sponsored by the Ladies' Benevolent Society of the Springfield Presbyterian Church. The show opens at noon and closes at 6 p.m. at the Presbyterian Parish House, 37 Church Mall.

Admission to the show, which features approximately 30 dealers, is $1.25. Luncheon is served from noon to 1:30 p.m. and a tearoom will be open from 2 to 5, featuring sandwiches and homebaked desserts, served by waitresses dressed in colonial costumes.

In addition to the antiques displays, a boutique, bake table and flower booth offer items for sale. This event is the main fund-raising project for the year of the Ladies' Society and enables it to contribute to missions on a local, national and world-wide level.

Mrs. Emil Meyer is manager of the show, with Mrs. William Wood as assistant manager. The following chairmen are serving: treasurer, Mrs. William Melick; admissions, Mrs. Charles Maskell; boutique, Mrs. Robert Henrich; bake table, Mrs. Raymond Kolster and Mrs. Herbert Miller; dining room, Mrs. Charles Remlinger and Mrs. Gustav Rupp; flower booth, Mrs. Herbert Wipfler; posters, Mrs. Howard Heerwagen; publicity, Mrs. Frank Richards, and tearoom, Mrs. Godfrey Durand and Mrs. William Wood.

THE STORY of the French Huguenots, the French Protestant Church, including its background as well as the role it played in the founding of the United States will be featured at the meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent Society Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the Parish House.

Mary Virginia Kiehl of Summit will give an illustrated talk on the third international reunion of Huguenot descendants in Fontainebleau, France, in 1972. Some 260 descendants from 12 countries gathered there to honor the memory of the Huguenot leader, Admiral Gaspard de Coligny, who was killed on the eve of the St. Bartholomew's Day Massacre, Aug. 24, 1572. The story also takes the viewer back to Geneva, Switzerland, the center of the Reformation, with an accounting of the impact of John Calvin on the life of the church in that day.

In addition to the story of the Presbyterian Church in France, Mrs. Kiehl will tell the story of the French migrants in the Hudson River Valley in this country.

Mrs. Kiehl, who is a member of the Mayflower descendants as well as the National Trust for Historic Preservations and the Society of Architectural Historians in this country, has lectured extensively on colonial matters and last year presented her lectures before 35 organizations in England.

Mrs. Gerald Brenn, president of the Ladies' Society, has extended an invitation to those outside the local church to attend "if they are interested in this particular phase of the ecumenical church."

DARYL M. GARNER

Garner-Russo engagement told

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard W. Garner of S. Auden terrace, Springfield, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Daryl Michel, to Ralph Robert Russo, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Russo of Thornwood, N.Y.

Miss Garner, a graduate of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, attended Quinnipiac College in New Haven, Conn., and is majoring in fashion merchandising at the University of Bridgeport.

Her fiancé, a graduate of Stepienac High School in White Plains, N.Y., also attended Quinnipiac College and is continuing his studies in the Boston area. While at Quinnipiac, he was a member of the varsity baseball team and was a two-time winner of the "Golden Glove" award. Last summer, he was selected to play in the Atlantic Collegiate Baseball League, and he led the league in home runs. In January, he became the Number 2 draft choice signed by the Boston Red Sox.

Rosary Society will meet Monday

The Rosary Altar Society of Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Mountainside, will hold its monthly meeting in the church auditorium Monday at 8:30 p.m.

Sister Ruth Kennedy, SC, will speak about "The Risen Christ and You." Sister Ruth is the religious education coordinator for St. Michael's Church in Union City. She has taught at Holy Trinity in Westfield, and also has taught the adult education course at St. Helen's in Westfield.

Chairman for the evening will be Mrs. Edward Reilly. Refreshments will be served at the conclusion of the evening's program. All members have been invited to attend.

The conference session will be held Sunday, at 10 a.m. in the auditorium of the Summit High School, 125 Kent Place blvd., Summit.

Mr. Brackbill is appointed director for Forward '76

The Rev. Charles Brackbill of 1537 Deer Path, Mountainside, has been named director of public relations for Forward '76, a Bicentennial project of the Interchurch Center of New York.

Forward '76 is a national interreligious organization which provides planning and program assistance for religious aspects of the Bicentennial. The name Forward is an acronym for "Freedom of Religion Will Advance Real Democracy."

Mr. Brackbill said the project grew out of the conviction of the officers of the Interchurch Center that without this spiritual dimension to the celebration, the Bicentennial period might become mainly an exercise in commercial pagentry devoted to speeches, parades and the dedication of monuments.

Project Forward '76 is a program to give focus and direction, and to provide resources for individuals and groups interested in studying and emphasizing religious and moral values as a guiding force for America's third century.

More than 60 nationally prominent leaders from Protestant, Orthodox, Roman Catholic, Jewish and secular groups have become sponsors.

Mr. Brackbill is an ordained United Presbyterian minister who received degrees from Texas Christian University and Princeton Theological Seminary. After serving as pastor of the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in Elizabeth, he organized the religious broadcasting work for the Synod of New Jersey and the New Jersey Council of Churches, and served as director of radio-television there for seven years.

During the past 12 years he was head of mass media programming for the United Presbyterian Church. In that time he wrote and produced the first religious nationally distributed radio and television "spots" and was involved with the production of many network and syndicated programs, as well as records, film strips and films.

He is the writer-director of "Qumran and the Dead Sea Scrolls," a film documentary made in Israel. He has received numerous awards for his work, among them a "Clio" for a TV spot with humorist Stan Freiberg. Mr. Brackbill will direct the media and public relations work of Project Forward '76 from offices in the Interchurch Center on Riverside drive, New York, and regional offices in major cities throughout the country.

Convenient transportation cited by Parker Imperial

Gasoline rationing underscores the need for housing serviced by public transportation, and a number of recent buyers at the 30-story luxury condominium, the Parker Imperial in North Bergen, have cited this as one of the reasons they selected a unit there.

"The Parker Imperial is only a gallon of gas away from New York City," said a spokesman for the developer, the Parker Corp. of Forest Hills, N.J., "so the distance is not that far if people must take their cars. But there is a bus stop right at the doorstep, so residents can be in Manhattan in minutes."

The Parker Imperial is at 79th street and Kennedy boulevard East, opposite the Manhattan Boat Basin at 79th street. The city is accessible either over the George Washington Bridge, four miles north, or through the Lincoln Tunnel, an equal distance south—"so, the condominium is close enough to the city to be convenient to work and cultural activities; yet is also removed from the hectic pace of urban living," the spokesman said.

The trip by bus from Parker Imperial to the Port Authority bus terminal at 41st street and 8th avenue is less than 30 minutes. A trip to the Port Authority terminal in the Washington Heights section of Manhattan takes about the same time via public bus service.

Half of the 302 luxury apartments have been sold and purchases continue to mount, according to J.I. Sopher & Co., Inc., the real estate agent. A number of purchasers will be parking their cars in the four-level garage at Parker Imperial (one level below ground and three above) and taking the bus to work, the spokesman said.

Occupancies are expected to begin in the spring, according to the sponsor, West Shore Development Corp., Newark. Apartment complexes are selling from $34,990 to $93,000, with down payments starting at $6,598, which entitles the buyer to use of the outdoor swimming pool on the upper garage deck and health club facilities at no cost.

A dozen model apartments, including two furnished by Louis M. Bromente, Inc., New York City, opened recently on the fifth floor of the high-rise, which is adjacent to North Hudson Park. All maintenance-from landscaping to snow removal-will be provided by the Condominium Association.

Each apartment owner will be entitled to deduct from his gross income for federal income tax purposes, the real estate taxes assessed against his apartment and the mortgage interest, as well.

Greenbriar newspaper expanding

Retirement has opened new "careers" as newspaper editors for a group of people at Greenbriar, the adult community rising near Exit 91 of the Garden State Parkway in Brick Town.

Residents of the U. S. Home Corp. retirement community put into full-scale operation two years ago a community newspaper entitled the Greenbriar Times, which has grown from four to six to eight pages.

As the Greenbriar Times embarked on its third year of publication, the editorial staff was honored by William Steinfield, vice-president of marketing for U.S. Home Corp.'s New Jersey division. Steinfield, in lauding the staff, pointed out the the Times has been a fine portrayal of the active life enjoyed by the residents at Greenbriar, which now number over 1,100, and has been a strong force in attracting people into settling at Greenbriar.

With a circulation of over 6,000 copies each issue, the Times is published four times a year—winter, spring, summer and fall—and is distributed free to all residents. It is also mailed to over 3,000 people who have expressed an interest in the community, is given to all visitors to Greenbriar, and is included in U.S. Home's sales prospectus on the single-family detached homes of-

ARTIST'S RENDERING of Schiabor Enterprises' proposed professional condominium in Westfield emphasizes the colonial design to blend with the town's colonial architecture.

Schiabor to start building professional condominium

The first true resort condominium in New Jersey, the second, the third: all three sold out before completion and now the first professional condominium building in Ocean County. This pattern belongs to Schiabor Enterprises, the pioneer condominium builders from Ocean County.

Condominiums are not a new concept to most people. The idea of purchasing a unit and sharing in the common elements of a building—maintenance, taxes—is carried on by millions of condominium owners throughout the country. What is new to the American businessman, however, is the professional condominium.

In 1971, George Schiabor, president of Schiabor Enterprises, studied the possibility of "professional" condominiums. After many trips to Florida, where the resort condominium was quickly becoming commonplace, Schiabor discovered that there were no professional condominiums to be found. This fact led Schiabor Enterprises to delve into more research for the answers. The facts were simple.

"There was a tremendous need by professional businessmen for office space," he said. "Businessmen were always attracted by building equity and demography figures indicated the rise in professional mobility from large cities to suburbs. Why then was the construction of professional condominiums limited? The answer was simple. Being a pioneer takes courage."

Schiabor described it this way: "The old marketing concept of satisfying needs was meshed with our desire to build. We knew the facts, we had the knowledge and the need was there. Basically, all that was left to do was to choose the location."

Schiabor Enterprises conducted extensive research into proper locations and when completed, "the birth of the first professional condominium in Ocean County was about to begin."

Over the past decade, many real estate people have expressed the view that the true professional condominium would soon be commonplace:

but not until Schiabor Enterprises did this view become a reality. Just what is the professional condominium concept as Schiabor Enterprises sees it? Schiabor says: "Basically, the professional condominium concept is a group of professional people sharing in the common elements of a luxury office building in a prestigious environment, while converting part of their business expenses into a major investment."

Schiabor was first to introduce the professional condominium concept as an economical system of office ownership and since its introduction, the response has been overwhelming. "The reason for this is obvious," says Schiabor. "Why rent when you can buy an office for approximately the same money?"

Construction on the first professional condominium in Westfield will begin this March with anticipated completion by early summer. Paul Burgess, director of new development, stated: "Particular emphasis was placed on design of this condominium, in order to blend with the town's colonial architecture. Schiabor Enterprises always blends the design of their condominium with the lifestyle of the town in which it builds."

Schiabor Enterprises, although heavily involved in professional condominium development, is still developing resort condominiums. Schiabor Enterprises has revealed plans for a resort complex, which will be situated along the Jersey Coast. The complex will include approximately 70 luxury condominium townhouses, with tennis courts, swimming pool, clubhouse and boating.

Schiabor is also involved in a project in the Boca Raton area in Florida. This proposed resort condominium is also anticipated for 1974 and will be built with the Floridian concept in mind.

The future looks bright, states Schiabor Enterprises, as they are projecting gross sales in excess of $15,000,000 for 1974-1975. Groundbreaking will begin on four condominiums this spring and two more by fall.

Schiabor is planning to travel to California to study the design concepts and marketing patterns on the West Coast, where the condominium idea was initiated. Said Schiabor, "I am determined to make New Jersey the professional condominium capital of the East Coast."

Brokers offered program creating service 'network'

A program offering real estate brokers the opportunity to expand their services into a new and lucrative area has been initiated by R-T Associates, a Lodi-based firm specializing in recreational community marketing nationwide.

Initially, R-T Associates is inviting New Jersey realtors to participate in a $15 million lot sales program of Ocean Acres, a shore community in Manahawkin, at the gateway to Long Beach Island. Participating brokers will collect up to $1,500,000 in commissions before the end of 1974.

More than 50 brokers have already signed up for this project. R-T Associates trains the broker's staff, shows them how to uncover and qualify prospects from their files and how to search out and follow-up on other prospects. A $250,000 advertising program, scheduled to break soon, plus $50,000 in travel incentives, will further benefit participating brokers.

Most importantly, the participating broker never has to leave his office. He simply sets up an appointment for his prospects at Ocean Acres and the staff there closes them and handles all the contractual paperwork.

According to Thomas A. Voter of R-T Associates, the Ocean Acres project is only the first step in building a cohesive "broker network" which will ultimately include every type of recreational property a prospect could wish for: mountain, lake, shore, ski, even Florida and the Far West. "Multiple listing services already do this for the primary residence market, on the local level," he points out, "and the same basic mechanics could be applied—with some intelligent thinking—to the second home and recreational land market."

Voter sees R-T Associates as being in a unique position to furnish this type of service. "In our marketing consulting work, we screen dozens of recreational and retirement developments each month," he says. "Obviously, we run across a number of places we wouldn't touch with a 10-foot pole, but our emphasis has always been on the more solid and secure type of development, where the customer gets value for his investment. These are developments we are proud to work with, and we think a broker should be proud to offer them to his clientele."

In Voter's opinion, the public would like to be able to rely on their local realtor "for all their real estate needs—primary residence, second home, retirement, or whatever—and he thinks that R-T's program can add a new dimension to any broker's services." "Further," he adds, "we know that in every broker's files are people who are currently prime candidates for recreational property. In most cases, these are opportunities that are languishing away, when they could be easily turned into a valuable source of Plus Business for any real estate agency."

New Jersey-based firm opens condos in the South

Hovnanian Enterprises, Inc. of Englishtown continued its role in residential development last year with the opening of two more condominium divisions in the southern United States. Covered Bridge Houston, that city's first condo, and Covered Bridge Atlanta, bring to five the total number of Hovnanian communities designed to meet the demand for this increasingly popular lifestyle. "There's a new spirit in the South," said Kevork S. Hovnanian, president of Hovnanian Enterprises. "A new sense of energy and excitement. That's why we selected two of the most dynamic cities there for our latest projects. Both cities are bustling centers of new residential development." Hovnanian credits the success of each of the undertakings to careful research and planning. "We make a careful study of the individual market before we hammer the first nail," he said. "We insist on designing a community that belongs where we build it. So where we use the Covered Bridge identification, each community is uniquely appropriate for its locality." The new Houston condominium will provide 224 clustered homes on a 17-acre tract only 12 minutes from the business district. It is geared primarily to the young adult market. One occupant of each unit must be over 30.

The Hovnanian project in Atlanta is less than 15 minutes from the center of the cultural hub of the South. It is convenient to all of the facilities of the city, yet it gains its own character from the rolling woodlands of the country. Ultimately the 38-acre site will provide 288 living units, without any age limitation.

Hovnanian sees the inclusion of quality recreation facilities as essential in meeting the demands of today's market. Buyers in a contemporary residential community have come to expect such amenities as swimming pools and tennis courts. A clubhouse, which serves as a center of social activity, in addition to providing such things as saunas and exercise rooms, is also a paramount consideration.

"A condominium community," Hovnanian noted, "eliminates the impersonal atmosphere usually found in apartment complexes. We learned in building the first Covered Bridge and Shadow Lake Village, both in Manalapan Township and Middletown, respectively, that the social activities, distinctive design and character of each development help create a sense of community. Consequently, there is a revival of the feeling of being part of a neighborhood, something which has unfortunately faded from most of our larger cities."

In addition to the new projects in Houston and Atlanta, Hovnanian Enterprises last year continued construction and sales at the two New Jersey communities as well as at Covered Bridge in Lake Worth, Fla. In all, there are more than 2,200 residents living in the five developments.

Blacks, Spanish eligible for ICBO weekend seminar

A seminar on business leadership for minority entrepreneurs will be given under the auspices of the Interracial Council for Business Opportunity (ICBO) of New Jersey the weekend of April 5 at the Rutgers Newark Law School.

The course concerns personal motivation and identification and expansion of achievement motivation, which can lead to increased sales and better profits. Instructors will be Bernard H. Saperstein, ICBO education director; Llewellyn G. Farr, director of New York State OMBE, and Jeffrey P. Howard, psychologist at Harvard and Boston Universities.

The business leadership training course is an outgrowth of research by Dr. David C. McClelland and his Harvard colleagues and has been developed by McBer & Co., Boston psychologists. The course has been given in Washington, D.C., Baltimore, St. Louis, Chicago and Seattle, as well as in Mexico, India, and four other countries. In addition to minority entrepreneurs, McE. clients have included banks, business, government and educational organizations.

The seminar will be limited to 20 black or Spanish-speaking businessmen in the New Jersey area. Participants must be personally interviewed and there is a $10 registration fee.

ICBO is a voluntary non-profit organization created by the Urban League and the American Jewish Congress to assist black and Spanish-speaking people, as well as other minorities, to organize, operate, and expand their businesses. Through the use of volunteers from the business and professional sectors, applicants are given free one-to-one counseling in their specific business areas. In order to further the chances of success in the business world of the new entrepreneur and to better acquaint him with the managerial responsibilities involved, ICBO has developed its management training program.

Former New Jersey Gov. Robert B. Meyner and Reginald C. Hale are co-chairmen, and Leonard Howard is the president of ICBO of New Jersey.

Property owners urged to obtain federal flood coverage; rates reduced

George K. Bernstein, federal insurance administrator for the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, this week called upon residents of "flood-prone" towns to sign up for federally-subsidized flood insurance to cut heavy property losses from what he said could be another record year for floods.

Among the communities cited by HUD as "flood-prone" are Union, Kenilworth, Linden, Mountainside, Springfield, Roselle, Roselle Park and Irvington.

As a result of the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973, property owners can now obtain substantially reduced premium rates, as well as greatly expanded limits of coverage under the National Flood Insurance Program, Bernstein noted.

Recalling lessons learned from major catastrophes in recent years, Bernstein cautioned against public reliance on federal disaster relief, which he described as "more often than not, inequitable for the victims and unfair to taxpayers in general."

"From the viewpoint of immediate, direct and adequate protection," he said, "it can't hold a candle to flood insurance. The Flood Disaster Protection Act now offers more generous coverage, both for buildings and their contents, and the rates are even lower than under the original program. For example, a homeowner can purchase $20,000 of coverage for $50 per year. For people in flood-prone areas, there can be no sounder investment."

Bernstein also called attention to provisions of the act, which he said could make it one of the most comprehensive land use measures ever adopted by the federal government.

As of March 2 of this year, property owners may buy flood insurance if they live in a community where it is available.

Under the new law, all identified flood-prone communities must enter the flood insurance program by July 1, 1975, and must adopt appropriate land use and other control measures to reduce the chances of flood losses.

FAILURE TO COMPLY, in the case of either the community or the individual property owner, would disqualify them from virtually any form of financial assistance from the federal government for their property in the flood plain, or from any financial help from any federally insured, regulated or supervised lending institution, he noted.

The purpose of these regulations, Bernstein said, is to encourage individuals to protect their property, and to motivate communities to exercise more control over construction in hazard areas. He noted that at least one community has been the subject of a number of suits brought by local flood victims, charging responsible officials with failure to make their city eligible for flood insurance.

Under the federal insurance program's new rates, homes of all sizes in communities participating in the program can now be more adequately insured against property damage at the flat annual rate of 25 cents for each $100 of insurance. Under the old program, the rates started at 25 cents and increased on a sliding scale.

The contents of homes are now insurable for 35 cents per $100, as opposed to the old sliding scale which rose to 45 cents.

For business and other non-residential structures, the rate is now a uniform 40 cents per $100, 20 cents below the top for such buildings in the old program. These buildings include businesses, churches, municipal structures, hotels and motels. The rate for contents of the nonresidential properties is 75 cents per $100, the same as was charged previously.

For single-family homes the limit of coverage at the subsidized rates is raised from $17,500 to $35,000 on the structure. For multi-family homes, coverage increases from $30,000 to $100,000. Contents for all homes and apartments can now be insured up to $10,000, double the previous limits.

Further information on the National Flood Insurance Program can be obtained at all HUD field offices, from other federal agencies involved in the program, and, in some areas, from banks and other lending institutions upon which the program will have an impact.

BY PAT AND MARILYN DAVIS

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I have a daughter who has two beautiful children. The boy is 7 and the little girl is 4. The girl has the face of an angel and the boy is absolutely handsome. The compliments can end right there.

When these two youngsters come for a visit, our house looks like a cyclone hit it. They are in every closet and drawer in the house. They go outside and play in the dirt and then wipe their hands on the wallpaper and woodwork. If they do go to the bathroom to wash, the sink looks like they made mud pies in it and the towels are black. It takes a week to locate everything after they leave.

How can I tactfully tell my daughter to have a few rules and regulations and to enforce them? She has absolutely no discipline or control.

Grandpa

Dear Grandpa:

The next time this wrecking crew arrives, tell your daughter exactly how you feel.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

I am 20 and have been working for one year. I like my job and have a nice apartment which I share with another girl. My problem is Kurt. He is 22, handsome, and has a great personality. But he also stretches the truth, has lost two jobs in one year, and is totally unreliable as far as I am concerned. Despite his faults, I like the guy. Do you think I should drop him?

Sally

Dear Sally:

Kurt would hardly win the title of "Mr. Dependability of 1974." All he has to offer is problems. Unless that's what you want, get a new boyfriend.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

What can a teen-ager do about a snoopy mother? My mother looks in my purse, checks the dresser drawers, and always manages to be around when I'm on the telephone. I don't intend to do anything wrong but I can't stand these spy tactics any longer. How do I tell her how I feel? She's really great otherwise.

Dear Leah:

Let her read it in the paper—hand her this column. Mom, you're wrong. Stop

Rare crafts on display

A rare collection of artistic crafts from the Greco-Roman period will be on display in the St. Peter's College art gallery beginning next Thursday.

The exhibit, "The Greco-Roman World As Seen In Its Crafts," will feature paintings, sculpture and pottery from the classical period, according to the gallery's director Rev. Oscar Magnan, S.J.

Included in the show will be a marble head of Aphrodite and a nude youth in bronze dating to the 4th century B.C. and a black-figured amphora from the 6th century B.C.

The Greco-Roman show will remain on exhibit through May 1 in St. Peter's gallery, located in the O'Toole Library.

The gallery will be open from 2 to 6 p.m. daily except Saturday, when the gallery closes an hour earlier.

Reasons cited in slowdown of state economy

The New Jersey economy showed further signs of slowing down in January and February, Commissioner Joseph A. Hoffman of the N.J. Department of Labor and Industry, said this week, referring to a report in the current issue of "New Jersey Economic Indicators," the monthly business conditions analysis prepared by the Department's Division of Planning and Research.

The principal problems as described by Arthur J. O'Neal, director of the Department's Division of Planning and Research, continue to be reduced consumer demand, declining housing starts, and shortages of petroleum and petroleum-derivative raw materials.

Auto sales, which had been averaging almost 42,000 a month last spring and early summer, dropped about 31 percent to average only 28,800 during December and January. The report noted that retail sales fell short of seasonal expectations during the Christmas holiday season, continuing a downward trend since reaching a peak in March, 1973. This downward trend has occurred despite sharply rising prices which suggests a rather substantial drop in the actual volume of goods sold, the report stated.

Construction activity was sustained through 1973 by a substantial backlog of uncompleted residential units plus a moderate rise in non-residential building. However, a severe downswing in residential contracts awarded and in the number of building permits issued for new homes darkens the outlook for the construction industry in the first half of 1974, said the report. Hopeful signs for the latter half of the year lie in the increased savings reported by savings and loan associations and in some easing of home mortgage interest rates.

Electric power sales dropped sharply at the end of 1973, said the report, reflecting a combination of reduced business and production activity and efforts to conserve energy. Sales to large industrial and commercial users had been running 6 percent above a year ago until December and then fell to 3 percent below the year-ago level. Similarly, sales to small business users, which had been up by 11 percent through most of the year, were down over the year by nearly 7 percent in December.

After allowing for seasonal variations and quirks in some statistics, there was clear evidence of some further declines in employment, particularly in the manufacturing sector where there have been numerous layoffs attributable to shortages of petroleum. Unemployment insurance claims in January exceeded year-ago levels by 23 percent, said the report, and partial data for February indicate some further deterioration of labor market conditions. As of Feb. 16, claims were running 28 percent higher than at the same time last winter.

Accordion event set this weekend

The Accordion Teachers Association of New Jersey will hold its annual accordion contest and festival at the Gov. Morris Inn, Morrisstown, this weekend.

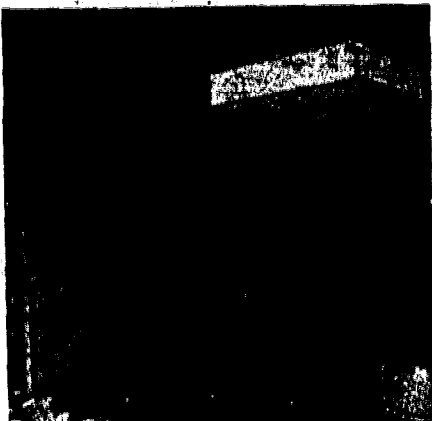

The two-day competition, consisting of solo, duo, combo, band and evaluation categories, is expected to draw approximately 2,000 students. Winners in each category of the open division are considered state-wide champs and will be invited to represent New Jersey in the United States Accordion Championship and Festival July 8 through 12 in Chicago.

White elephant sale set by St. Barnabas Guild

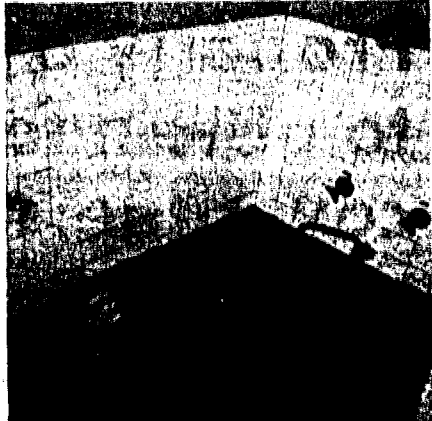

The annual white elephant and attic treasure sale of the Guild of St. Barnabas Medical Center will be held Friday, April 5, in the hospital's ground floor auditorium, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Mrs. L.J. Remington of Springfield, chairman of the money-raising events, said all proceeds go to the hospital. Included in the sale are leather goods, china, costume jewelry, toys, records and small electrical appliances. These articles have been contributed by Guild members, staff doctors and other friends of the Medical Center.

FRIDAY DEADLINE
All items other than spot news should be in our office by noon on Friday.

THE AESTHETIC TOUCH in the ryokan. The delightful Japanese flower arrangement almost never absent in a Japanese main room. Many times an entire niche is devoted to it alone. On the right, however, is a newcomer: the television.

THE GRAND OLD TUB, true to the type used in ryokans. It is natural wood, without finish of any kind, and about three to four feet deep. It is used solely for soaking and relaxing, not washing. A shower head is on the wall opposite.

A RYOKAN ROOM—Tatami mats on the floor, low tea table and legless chair in center, low desk and cushion on the left, and typical sliding screen windows—all part of the living-on-the-floor scheme of a ryokan room.

A FEMININE LOOK... AT THE WORLD... AND THINGS

by TRUDINA HOWARD

OF RYOKANS

Nineteenth In A Series

"There's a small hotel, by a wishing well..." That old song may well apply to a certain type hotel that can only be found in Japan. Of old style, with traditional Japanese home life touches, it differs widely from western style hotels. While it may not nestle next to a wishing well exactly, it almost always nestles up to some element of water or a bit of nature of some sort. And, certainly, to western eyes, it is small.

It is called a "ryokan."
The inns known as ryokans and pronounced "rio-cons," can be found all over Japan and are a joy to experience. That is, if you are agile. But as a westerner, you have to know enough to ask for them, or you will never see one. Travel agencies automatically book American tourists into western type hotels.

THE MAIN THING with the ryokans is this: everything, including you, is on the floor. No standing room "allowed."

And this is how it looks: first of all, on that floor, wall to wall, are the tatami mats. They are always three feet by six feet, and all rooms in Japan are measured by them. For instance, a three-mat room or a six-mat room, etc.

If you arrive in the day time, no bed will be visible. But there, on the tatami mats, may be a desk, tea table, dressing table, bureau, even a television set—some of them sometimes, all of them other times; and pillows always. Everything is without legs such as we know them on our furniture, and everything is low to the floor. You sit on the pillows to use them, or cross-legged on the mats. All of which is great for aching backs and leg cramps.

At night, by some sort of miracle, a bed appears, (or two, if you are two.) This usually consists of two mattresses—on the floor. No bedstead, no legs, no springs. One-mattress, cotton-covered, is on the bottom, and one silk-covered is on the top of it. Two sweet smelling clean white sheets cover them, and a soft, downy, warm quilt tops the lot. No blanket. Regular pillows are there too, but perhaps only for Westerners. The Japanese seem to prefer the round bolster-type ones.

The bathroom, too, is typically Japanese style, with modern plumbing, however, and it literally is just that: a bathing room. The rest of the necessary little plumbing accouterments, meaning regular sink and commode, are in an adjoining little section by themselves.

The "bathing room" is also the entire shower stall. There up high is the shower head, and the entire room is geared to get all the spray. No shower curtains, or separate stall, or tub-shower here. Little wooden slats are there, though, so you can stand above the water on the floor, and a wooden stool is always there to sit on.

The other item is the tub itself. In true ryokans it is usually about three-feet square and about four feet deep. It is made of cedar or cypress WOOD with no finish on it whatsoever. So immediately, you have an aromatic bath at hand. And warm sides! In newer, or westernized ryokans, you may get just plain old cold American Standard. One other thing: there is most always a window looking out on some nice scene.

The procedure for bathing in Japan is nice

TWO LITTLE MAIDS of my ryokan room standing in the shade of a great tree, and before an old well (wishing?) that was once used at the inn. Before the advent of modern plumbing, water was carried to the rooms for bathing.

too. You must soap and clean yourself OUTSIDE the tub under that shower, rinse off, and then go sit in that tub—and soak. Yes, soak, not soap. Given the old size wooden tubs, you just sort of bob lazily and gaze out on some nice views. Or contemplate, perhaps. It is quite a pleasantness.

ALL RYOKANS are one story high and usually level with the ground. Outside the sliding screen door or window of some of them, there may be a little garden, all yours, with a brook running through it, or perhaps a small gold fish pond. If you put on the strange looking sandals and the kimono left in your room for you, and go walking in "your" garden, you can almost feel like Madame Butterfly.

You can even call the desk—yes, there is a telephone in the room and it looks very silly there—for a woman to come give you a massage on that floor-bed.

The first time I met one of these ryokans was at Miyashita in Hakone National Park at the beautiful old Fujiya Hotel. And I just about made it.

Cards, small gifts can brighten lives

The New Jersey Branch of the Shut-In Society, a national organization aimed at making life more cheerful for its shut-in and handicapped members, is seeking individuals and groups willing to send cards and small gifts at Easter to those members.

Names of the shut-ins may be obtained from the society's appeal chairman, Mrs. Margaret B. Hamfeldt, 47 Orange ave., Irvington 07111. Indicate, when writing, how many names are desired.

Gov. Byrne will lead ranks in N.J. War on Drugs walk

Gov. Brendan Byrne will lead the New Jersey Walk Against Death, sponsored by the National Committee to Declare War on Drugs, it was announced last week at a press conference in the State House by former New Jersey Assemblyman George C. Richardson, national president of the War on Drugs movement.

The Walk Against Death will be held in Newark on April 10 to dramatize the extent of the nation's drug problem and the need for a total national commitment to a war on drug abuse, a spokesman reported. Port Authority Commissioner and former Essex County Republican chairman Andrew Axtell, and Dan Gaby, advertising executive and former chairman of the Democratic Policy Council of the Democratic State Committee, will serve as co-chairmen of the event.

The National Committee to Declare War on Drugs was formed late last year by Richardson, who is himself a former heroin addict. The Committee's purpose is to win from Congress and the national administration a total commitment of all financial and manpower resources necessary to fight an all-out war against drug abuse. Specifically, the National Committee to declare War on Drugs asks:

1. Funding, on the same priority scale as NASA and the Manhattan Project, for broad ranging research projects seeking a cure for addicts and addiction.

2. Establishment of a national network of medical and psychological counseling and treatment facilities, as well as job training and placement centers, to accommodate every one of the nation's 500,000 plus addicts.

3. Establishment of a public benefit corporation to set up and coordinate the various anti-drug efforts in a national war on drug abuse.

Business alliance finds 4,500 jobs for disadvantaged

Clarence G. Troxell, Newark-Metro chairman of the National Alliance of Businessmen (NAB), this week said the organization has reached 82 percent of its goal to find jobs for 4,500 disadvantaged persons in the fiscal year ending next June 30.

"Of concern," he stated, "is our Summer Youth Employment Program. Last year we placed 1,181 people in business and industry, but a lower figure of 800 has been established for this summer."

"Great emphasis this year is also being placed on finding jobs for disabled Vietnam Veterans and securing employment for ex-offenders," Troxell continued.

"Sixty-eight percent of our goal for this fiscal year of 700 Vietnam-era veterans has been reached. At this time we have a list of only 15 job seekers who are disabled veterans. New Jersey businessmen and the Veterans Administration have responded remarkably well to this problem," he said.

"Another area which is new to NAB is the finding of employment and training of ex-offenders. We have had contact with the Morrow Project, the Newark House and the Community Information and Referral Service. We are reviewing the background of each ex-offender and handling his placement on an individual basis," Troxell stated.

The NAB serves Union and Essex counties.

Coin show and auction

The Bloomfield Coin Club will conduct its seventh annual Coin Show and Coin Auction at the Holiday Inn, Route 3 by Route 17, in Lyndhurst, on Saturday and Sunday. The show will run from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day, the auction will follow at 6:30 Saturday and 6:30 Sunday. The lots may be viewed from 2 p.m. up to auction time each day.

Colonial Chorus concert Saturday

A spring concert of barbershop harmony, presenting the 80-voice Ramapo Valley Chapter Sweet Adelines, five-time chorus champions; two top quartets, The Pacemakers and The Priorities; and the Colonial Chorus, local chapter of SPBBSQA (The Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc.) will take place Saturday evening, at Westfield Senior High School, Railway avenue and Dorian Road.

Tickets for the performance, the first spring barbershop show in this area in 26 years, are $4. They are available at MacHugh's, The Bandstand and The Music Staff—all in Westfield—or from individual chorus members.

The show is entitled "Spring Song." Wallace G. Bader of Seneca place, Westfield, is general chairman. Robert T. Burns, Whitley terrace, Clark, is coordinating ticket sales. (381-9347)

Museum opens Carter exhibit

A major retrospective exhibition of the work of New Jersey painter-designer Clarence Carter will open in the main galleries of the New Jersey State Museum Saturday. The exhibition, which will continue through May 27, marks the first time in the museum's 138-year history that a retrospective one-man showing has been devoted to the work of a living artist.

Carter, who was born in Ohio in 1904, became a New Jersey resident some 25 years ago. Currently he lives and maintains his studio near Milford in Hunterdon County.

Telethon to seek a million pennies

Thousands of New Jersey children will come to the Easter Seal Telethon '74 Sunday, March 31, at the Saddle Brook Marriott Hotel to participate in the televised collection of one million pennies.

On hand to welcome them will be WABC's Cousin Bruce Morrow, the New Jersey Telethon '74 Celebrity Host. Peter (Columbo) Falk and Mike Douglas are the National Celebrity Hosts and Tony Curtis is the New York City Telethon Host. The telethon will be aired over WPIX-TV-11.

According to Miss Patty Jenecke, the Youth for Easter Seals (Y.E.S.) chairman, almost 500,000 pennies have been collected so far by school children participating in the Easter Seal Youth's Penny Sack Parade.

Small plastic penny sacks were distributed to children through school districts and youth organizations about six weeks ago.

Two-piano concert set

A two-piano concert will be given 8:15 p.m., at the College of Saint Elizabeth by W. Norman Grayson and Sister Mary Elise Kabis, members of the faculty of the music department at the college.

Actor identifies with movie role in local theaters

"My name could as easily have been Papillon, too," Steve McQueen said recently while discussing the film in which he is starred, "Papillon." (The picture is being held over for another week at the Maplewood Theater, Maplewood and the Fox Theater, Route 23, Union.)

McQueen has the title role in screen adaptation of Henri Charriere's international best-selling memoirs as an escaped convict from penal colonies in French Guiana and Devil's Island.

McQueen points out that while the late Charriere's nickname, Papillon, came from the tattoo of a butterfly on his chest, "it was also a symbolic reference to this man's character—to his need, like that of a butterfly, to live free or not at all."

McQueen as a youth resisted restraints which ultimately led him to minor encounters with the law and then a period in the Boys Republic of China, a local California institution for teenagers. He then signed on a Greek Oil tanker, jumped ship in the Dominican Republic and returned to the United States where he became a roustabout in Texas oil fields. Among his haphazard jobs, he worked as topper in Canadian lumber camps, and as a barker with a carnival.

"Papillon" also stars Dustin Hoffman and Ratna Assan.

Adventure films come to Elmora

20th Century-Fox's "Emperor of the North," which opened on a double bill with "The Seven-Ups," at the Elmora Theater, Elizabeth, is an adventure drama of railroad hoboes in the depression. "Emperor" stars Lee Marvin and Ernest Borgnine, and features Keith Carradine, Charles Tyner and Malcolm Atterbury.

The film reunites Marvin and Borgnine with executive producer Kenneth Hyman and director Robert Aldrich for the first time since "The Dirty Dozen."

"Emperor" was filmed in color in Oregon. Marvin plays A-No. 1 the king of the hoboes, and Borgnine is Shack, a sadistic freight train conductor obsessed with keeping tramps off his train.

"The Seven-Ups" stars Roy Scheider, Tony Lo Bianco and Larry Haines. The picture, which was directed by Phil D'Antoni, and photographed in color, concerns a sub-rosa New York police unit that breaks up brutal hoods without concern about ethics.

TAYLOR SISTERS REVUE — Four sisters (left to right), Karen, Kate, Mary Eileen and Maureen, who specialize in 'Oldies' routines and imitations of such groups as the Andrews Sisters, are being held over for a third week at the Coachman Inn, Exit 136 on the Garden State Parkway, Cranford. They will complete their stint this weekend. There are three shows nightly, no minimum and no reservations, with dancing between shows.

Trio will appear for Recital Stage

The Alsop-Bernstein Trio, chamber music group, will appear in concert on Saturday, April 20 at 8 p.m. at Union High School, in the second presentation of the Recital Stage Spring Series. These concerts are presented under the auspices of the Foundation for the Performing Arts.

The Trio is composed of La Mar Alsop, violinist; Ruth Alsop, cellist, and Seymour Bernstein, pianist. They have played together for more than 15 years.

Tickets are available at $7.50, $6, $5 and $4. Special 50 percent discount tickets can be purchased by senior citizens and students with I.D.s. Tickets and information are available from Recital Stage, P.O. Box 25, Union 07083, phone 688-1617.

'Don, 'Varrick' offered at Park

The Park Theater, Roselle Park, is showing "The Don Is Dead," and an associate feature, "Charley Varrick."

Anthony Quinn, Fred Forrest and Robert Forster star in "The Don Is Dead."

"Charley Varrick" stars Walter Matthau as a former stunt pilot turned bank robber, whose trouble is that the stolen cash belongs to the Mafia. He finds himself running for his life.

MARTY BRILL will share the spotlight with singer Lana Cantrell at the Meadowbrook Theater Restaurant, Cedar Grove tomorrow and Saturday evenings in the current 'Calvocado of Stars.' The comedian has appeared in most of the major nightclubs in the nation.

Study throws light on stormy weather

Correlation with solar activity confirmed

A Stanford University team has reported finding a definite correlation between solar activity and the low pressure "troughs" which bring stormy weather to the continental United States.

The scientists said their work confirms speculation of more than 100 years that solar activity affects the earth's weather patterns. Their findings show that magnetic structure of the sun is clearly related to changes in the earth's atmosphere.

The scientists' findings were reported by Dr. John M. Wilcox, solar physicist and head of the Stanford group, at a recent symposium on the influence of solar activity on the weather held at the Goddard Space Flight Center in Greenbelt, Maryland. Dr. Wilcox's research is funded by the National Science Foundation (NSF), the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and the Office of Naval Research.

Scientists have found that around its equator, the sun is divided normally into four magnetic sectors. From two sectors on opposite sides of the sun, lines of force of the magnetic field are polarized outward from the sun. In the other two sectors, the lines of force are polarized toward the sun.

These lines are blown far out in the solar system by a stream of charged particles, called the solar wind, flowing from the sun, much as a long string would be blown out in front of a fan. Thus, imbedded in the solar wind is the sun's normal magnetic pattern of four sectors, with alternate sectors identified by field lines polarized away from or toward the sun. A clear boundary separates the sectors. As the sun rotates, the long magnetic field lines sweep through the solar system in curved lines similar to the arc made from the water of a garden hose if the nozzle is moved fairly rapidly in a circle.

A few days before the boundary of a magnetic sector passes the earth there is, a decrease in the strength of the solar magnetic field and in the velocity of the solar wind, Dr. Wilcox said. After the boundary sweeps by the earth in a few minutes, an upward surge in the strength of the now reversed magnetic field and in the velocity of the solar wind begins and continues through a period of several days.

Material scientifically equivalent to a stranger from a strange land has been identified in meteorite fragments by scientists at the University of Chicago. Robert Clayton, Lawrence Grossman and Toshika K. Mayeda announced the find. "It's not like anything we've ever seen, from terrestrial sources, the moon, or other meteorites," says Clayton.

This mysterious stuff, mixed in as a small amount of dust grains, is an isotope of oxygen, oxygen-16, in almost pure form. Ordinary oxygen is mostly oxygen-16 with small amounts of oxygen-17 and oxygen-18, all stable isotopes.

"The isotope in the meteorite is almost pure oxygen-16 -- the kind of oxygen you'd find in a primitive star," Clayton goes on to explain that our sun is not a primitive star. It is a third or fourth generation star.

Clayton is a professor in the Enrico Fermi Institute, and the Department of Geophysical Sciences and the college. Grossman is assistant professor in the Department of Geophysical Sciences, and Mayeda is a chemist in the Fermi Institute.

Since this isotope doesn't occur in the solar system in such a pristine state, Clayton and his colleagues conclude that it may predate the solar system, and may be a fragment of interstellar dust with its own nuclear history.

Using a mass spectrometer, Clayton first recognized the material in fragments of the Allende Meteorite, which fell in Mexico in 1969. The Allende meteorite is one of a class of meteorites known as carbonaceous chondrites, formed in the early days of the solar nebula, that highly stirred mass of gas and dust that later accreted to form the sun and planets. The primitive matter has subsequently been found in other carbonaceous chondrites.

The discovery provides a better kind of test for nucleosynthesis -- how the elements are formed. "Even if this took place somewhere else," says Clayton, "all the same laws have to be obeyed -- it's just a different recipe cooked up under different conditions."

Pachtman gets Cancer Society National award

ELLIOTT PACHTMAN

Elliott Pachtman of Union has been awarded the American Cancer Society's Bronze Medal, the society's highest national award for service within a state.

A senior member of Elliott Pachtman and Co., certified public accountants with offices in Union and New York City, Pachtman has been an outstanding ACS volunteer for the last 15 years. He has served as Crusade chairman, vice-president and president of the New Jersey Division. Previously, Pachtman held similar positions in the Union County unit. Currently he is a member of the division's finance committee and chairman of its nominating committee.

The award, which originated in 1949, is a bronze medallion depicting St. George slaying the dragon, international symbol of victory over evil and public calamity. The reverse side of the medal shows the upright double-edged sword, symbol of the American Cancer Society. The medallion was designed by Tiffany & Co.

In addition to his volunteer work for the American Cancer Society, Pachtman serves on the Rent Leveling Board of Union Township, is a member of the board of the American Automobile Association of New Jersey, is an honorary director of the Union Chamber of Commerce and also serves on the board of directors of the New York University Alumni Association. He is a member of both the New York and New Jersey State Certified Public Accountant Societies. A candidate for a Ph.D. degree from New York University, he holds a bachelor of science and master of business administration degree from the same university.

Pachtman and his wife, Ruth, have a son and daughter.

Recycling blood studied

May help a patient in surgery

Recycling a patient's own blood during surgery may be an answer to recurring blood shortages according to Bruce J. Brenner, M.D., an attending surgeon at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center. The process is known as intraoperative auto-transfusion.

"In some elective surgery cases," Dr. Brenner explained, "this procedure can be an enormous help by providing a supply of blood for the patient, even if he has a rare blood type. It also eliminates the danger of contracting hepatitis from donor blood."

The procedure is relatively simple. Blood which is normally suctioned away from the surgical field and discarded is drawn instead into a plastic reservoir. Here it is filtered, defoamed and treated with anti-clotting agents before reinfusion in the patient. The blood returns the patient through a catheter in a peripheral vein in the arm.

The advantages of a readily available supply of blood can not be underestimated, especially in view of recurring shortages at blood banks across the country. "These shortages," Dr. Brenner pointed out, "are due more to the increased demand for donor blood than to a decrease in the number of donors. In addition to scheduled surgical cases there are emergency operations and severe injuries which further strain the existing blood supplies. It's only natural to think about recycling a patient's blood."

In a case of rapid blood loss, such as an injury to an artery, autotransfusion can quickly replace the volume of blood lost by the patient without the delays associated with typing the blood and locating matching donor blood. In most cases, the age or condition of the patient does not prohibit him from receiving his own blood through autotransfusion.

One of the out-of-the-ordinary advantages is that Jehovah's Witnesses, who reject all standard blood transfusions, consent to continuously autotransfused blood during an operation.

Autotransfusion is not a new procedure. Its first practical use occurred in England in 1818, but development of the idea was hindered by a lack of technical knowledge and professional interest. "Now we have the proper equipment and know-how to autotransfuse safely and efficiently," claimed Dr. Brenner, "and considering the current emphasis on recycling, the reintroduction of autotransfusion to the surgical profession is rather timely."

Speakers unit in math formed at St. Peter's

A group of St. Peter's College mathematics professors and their students recently formed their own speakers bureau "to help restore the study of mathematics and science to the academic pinnacle the subjects enjoyed in the early '60s."

Teams of math majors and faculty from the Jersey City school are making themselves available to area educational institutions to discuss important mathematical developments and applications relating to career opportunities, computer science and social science.

RECYCLED BLOOD is seen as an answer to the current problem of recurring blood shortages by Dr. Bruce J. Brenner, an attending surgeon at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center. He is shown above with the autotransfusion unit which can recycle a patient's own blood during surgery, eliminating the need for donor blood transfusions.

Diabetes chapter will hold meeting

The Northern New Jersey Chapter of the Juvenile Diabetes Association will hold a meeting on Tuesday at 8 p.m. at St. Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston.

Mrs. Marian Pettibone, coordinator for Montclair schools volunteer tutoring program will discuss "What Is The Possible Relationship Between Allergies and Diabetes?" The public is invited to attend this open meeting. Plans for door-to-door fund raising drive, to be held from May 11 through May 18, are being formulated.

The Juvenile Diabetes Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to support and enlarge education and research in juvenile diabetes.

Additional information on the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation may be obtained by writing to it at 30 Colonial Woods Dr., West Orange, or calling 736-0429, or Mrs. Donald Perlmutter, 379-9154.

EARTHBOUND

By JOSEPH TOBIN

Director, Ecology and Conservation, Wave Hill Center for Environmental Studies, New York, N.Y.

Maple sugaring is one of the traditional activities of this season - a season marked by weather conditions which are often adverse. The temperature not being able to make up its mind and chill winds sometimes gusting up to 75 M.P.H. March has always been famous for its unpredictable winds.

March also has been traditionally well known for the seasonal beginnings of maple sugaring. John Burroughs, the naturalist, stated poetically some time ago that "A sap run is the sweet goodbye to winter." Well, the sap run is truly a sign of spring and after some warm sunny March days the sap begins to flow through the branches and the sugar maples come alive.

Maple sugaring, as an industry, is a North American one - begun by the Indians long before the white man arrived. The Indians boiled down maple sap and stored the syrup to flavor their cakes of maize and their venison steaks throughout the year.

The technique of removal of the syrup from the tree begins when a horizontal incision in the bark is made and a sort of funnel spigot is inserted, directing the sap into a hanging bucket.

Indians boiled the sap in clay and bark containers by dropping hot stones into the mixture, which took on an increased thickness as the water evaporated from it.

NCE musical comedy based on Bogart films

An original musical comedy, "The Garfield Nude," based on Humphrey Bogart detective movies of the '30s and '40s will be presented next month at Newark College of Engineering's campus theater, 323 High St., Newark.

The show is scheduled April 19, 20, 25, 26 and 27 at 8 p.m., and April 24 at 2:20 p.m. Admission is free. Group reservations may be made by calling 645-5315.

During the revolution in America, farmers, short on supplies from Europe, developed maple sugaring skills and drew great quantities of sugar from their orchards to sustain their families during this difficult and frugal time.

Now maple sugaring is a significant American industry in many portions of the country. It is done scientifically and accomplished in great quantity. It is considered, and rightly so, one of the early American crafts and has been classed with hooked rug making, quilting, and weaving -- the resultant product being well-used in the colonial home.

Even after the passage of time, New Jerseyans may taste the golden fresh syrup of the eastern sugar maple and feel a link with their ancestors who marked the arrival of spring by the flow of the sap in trees all around them.

Princeton theater slates 'Limelight'

Charlie Chaplin's last American-made film, "Limelight," will be shown Sunday at 7:30 p.m. as part of the Chaplin Film Series at the McCarter Theater, Princeton.

"Limelight," the story of age giving way to youth, was released in 1952, just as anti-Chaplin feeling was at its height in the United States, and the film received very few American bookings. When Chaplin left the country for the European premier of "Limelight," the government revoked his re-entry permit (he had remained an English citizen all the years he was in the U.S.). As a result, the film was withdrawn and not seen again in this country until 1972. He also features Claire Bloom.

Tickets go on sale at the box office beginning 10 a.m., Saturday.

Van Hise is elected

J. Morgan Van Hise, state acting director of Civil Defense-Disaster Control, has been elected president of the National Association of State Civil Defense Directors.

Van Hise, who is also director of the State Office of Petroleum Allocation, has been with the CD-DC Division for 22 years. A resident of Titusville, he and his wife Margaret have two sons, Timothy, a recent graduate of Lafayette, and Thomas, a student at Utah State University.

Van Hise recently was honored by the federal government with a distinguished service citation for his outstanding work in civil preparedness.

TV show to air transport study

Transportation problems in New Jersey and some suggested solutions will be the subject of a 30 minute film on "Assignment: New Jersey" Wednesday and April 7 at 8 p.m. on Channels 50 and 58. The film focuses on remedies to today's problems and future needs.

'Lighting Division' seeking members

New Jersey's 78th Division (Training), the "Lighting Division" which fought in two world wars, will embark on its most ambitious recruiting effort during the month of April when the U.S. Army Reserve celebrates its 66th anniversary.

The 78th Division (Training), some 3,500 strong, is participating in this national month-long program "as a reflection of gratitude for the support of the Army Reserve has received from friends and neighbors during the previous year."

Commanded by Maj. Gen. Harry J. Rockefeller of Manasquan, the "Lighting Division" plans to recruit hundreds of young men and women during the First U.S. Army's drive to enlist some 6,000 personnel for the Army Reserve.

Heading the public affairs office is Col. Carmine P. Giordano of 75 Golf Oval, Springfield.

The First U.S. Army drive is being conducted April 20 through May 5, and some 4,000 Army Reserve technicians will seek to add the 6,000 men and women to the roles. The 78th Division drive is headed by Brig. Gen. Edward J. Breen of Edgewater, an assistant division commander.

Col. Milton Bogolub of Union, the staff administrative assistant for the division, is supervising the "on the ground" activities during the drive.

Prior servicemen and women are also being sought to fill the many vacancies which now exist in the ranks of the 78th Division (Training). As a member of the "Lighting Division," a reservist receives a full day's pay for each regularly scheduled drill.

Units of the 78th Division (Training) are spread throughout New Jersey, and each Army Reserve Center has numerous openings.

They are located at Lodi, Route 17 and Essex St. (845-3354); Trenton, 2150 Nottingham way (609-587-1418); Camden, at 39th and Federal St. (609-662-3474); Nixon, 2550 Woodbridge ave. (287-5454); Kearny, Kearny Shipyards (344-5501); Fort Hancock (872-1055); Northfield, P.O. Box 296 (609-641-3440);
