PRE-REVOLUTIONARY STRUCTURE — As indicated by the eagle-bedecked sign on the second story, this Mountainside residence, selected for possible inclusion in the Union County Planning Board's survey of historic sites, dates to 1763. Located at 590 Woodland ave., the red-painted home is believed to have been built by Aaron Miller for his son, Abraham; both of whom were early settlers in the Westfield-Mountainside area. Ownership of the property later passed to a Jacob Hamilton, with the cottage gaining the name among local historians as the Abraham Miller-Hamilton house. A photograph of the home in earlier days can be found in the book, 'The History of Mountainside, 1895-1945,' by Jean Hesketh Hershey.

Recreation director plans full slate of fall activities

Mountainside residents who assume the borough's programmed recreation program reaches its peak during the summer have a surprise in store for them when the first chill of autumn nips the air and the playing fields of the borough are filled with young athletes.

The Recreation Department, headed by Sue Winans, has a full slate of activities ready to be implemented come fall for all age groups in the community.

Among the more popular is the midget football program, which has already attracted 75 registrants. Boys aged nine to 13 are eligible to participate, and even though official sign-ups have ended and uniforms are on order, the director has given her assurance other interested lads still can register.

The football squad, called the Jets, actually consists of three teams, A, B and C—heavyweight, middleweight and lightweight, respectively—each of which plays seven games per season.

Competition is set to start on Sept. 29 with A and C teams meeting the Chatham Borough Cardinals, while the B team faces the Millburn Redskins. These and other home matches will be played at the Deerfield School.

Tennis crowns to Shropshire, Wood, Dunlaps

Bill Shropshire beat Sy Grubel in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1, to capture the title in the Mountainside Men's open tennis tournament. The finals of the four-division tournament were held at the Echobrook courts Aug. 11.

Carol Wood took the women's singles title with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Hagriet Gerndt. Les Cooper won in the senior men's division title with a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Jim Holcombe. In mixed doubles, Robin and Sandy Dunlap gained a 7-6, 7-5 victory over Bob Weinberg and Mrs. Wood.

The only tough games for Shropshire were the first and the last. In the first game of the opening set, Grubel took him to duce four times before Bill held service. In the final game of the second set, Shropshire was up, 40-15, but failed to capitalize on three match points. Again he went to duce twice before icing the victory. Grubel played steady tennis but was unable to equal the performance of Shropshire, whose ground strokes and brilliant net play were almost faultless.

Mrs. Wood also played faultless tennis, utilizing a conservative strategy to defeat Mrs. Gerndt in straight sets. Gerndt played an aggressive game, but was unable to break Mrs. Wood's machine-like accuracy. After holding serve in the opening game, Mrs. Gerndt was subjected to an array of lobs and passing shots which proved to be decisive. Five games went to duce, but the affable Mrs. Wood won four of them to capture her first borough singles title.

Cooper picked up his second straight senior men's title. The match looked like a run-away creasing popularity, among girls as well as boys, is soccer. "Soccer is a tremendous program," Ms. Winans said. "Since its implementation four or five years ago it has really expanded, growing into one of our finest of ferings. Last year we had 60 youngsters participating, and although registrations haven't started yet, we feel we can expect at least 75 boys this season."

The boys' soccer program is open to students in the third through eighth grades, while the program for girls—first begun last year—is for fourth-through-eighth grade students.

The young women, 36 of whom participated in the sport last season, are just as enthusiastic about it as their male counterparts and are eager to compete with other towns.

"But as far as I know, no one else has a soccer program for girls," the director noted. "I met recently with the people from the Springfield Recreation Commission and I told them they should get their act together and field a girls' soccer team, but I don't know if they reached a decision on this. If our girls can't compete with teams from other towns, we can't compete with teams from other towns."

THE NOVEMBER CANDIDATES

PROFILE--Rose Marie Sinnott

"I am convinced that there is room for women in politics, especially at the county level of government," says newly-appointed Freeholder Rose Marie Sinnott, Republican candidate for freeholder of Union County.

"So many of the Board of Freeholders' powers and decisions, concerning the fields of general welfare for the aged, the disabled and needy, county personnel, prevention and detection of drug abuse and narcotic addiction, and education and mental health directly affect women that a woman member of the board is not only an asset but diversifies the entire thinking of the board," Mrs. Sinnott said. "This is very important because without a fully balanced viewpoint, how can viable decisions be made?"

The Summit Republican was appointed in June to fill the vacancy left by Thomas Kaczmarek, who resigned to enter state government.

Among the major campaign issues and challenges to be faced, according to Mrs. Sinnott, are the recommendations of the Union County Charter Study Commission and its impact upon the community of Union County.

She also stressed the need to maintain quality in county services and to increase county employee benefits while decreasing the overall cost of Union County government.

Flooding is another major issue listed by Mrs. Sinnott, who is the Union County freeholder representative on the Green Brook Flood Control Commission. "The county can and should make its expertise, its technical facilities and capacity for research and

'Special delivery' by Rescue Squad

About 3 a.m. last Saturday, the Mountainside Rescue Squad's Rescue 1 crew participated in a "special delivery," W. H. Brandt, squad president, reported this week.

"Responding to a call for emergency transportation, the crew found that their patient was in last stages of labor and they rushed her to Overlook Hospital in Summit," he said.

"However, Michael Alexander, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Yurochko of 229 Evergreen court, was in such a hurry to be delivered that—with the capable assistance of Nancy Rotchford, Joann Perrin, Stephen Teller and probationary member Dennis Sargent—he was born in the ambulance on the way to the hospital. Delivery was completed in the emergency room of Overlook at 3:06 a.m.

"This marks the second time in its 36-year history that the Mountainside Rescue Squad has participated in a delivery. The first time was in 1939.

"Mother, son and crew are doing nicely," Brandt added.

Mountainside All-Stars finish year with tie and defeat for 3-6-1 record

The Mountainside All-Stars finished their baseball season this week with a disappointing final record of 3-6-1 after losing to Berkeley Heights (8-2) and tying Westfield West (1-1).

In Berkeley Heights Tuesday, Brian Kukon gave up four runs in the first inning. With one out, and runners on second and third after walks, Berkeley Heights drove in two runs with a base hit. This was followed by a homer to left field. With two outs, a check-swing nicked the ball and it rolled into fair territory. Catcher Jamie Kontra scrambled for it, picked it up and threw it to first to end the inning.

In the top of the second, Mike Young walked,

Brian Kukon bunted and raced safely to first while Young reached second. After both advanced on steals, they scored on a hit past the second baseman by Billy Rose, making the score 4-2.

In the bottom of the second, after a hit scored one Berkeley Heights run, a walk and an error lodged the bases. Kukon then struck out to retire the side.

In the third inning, Mountainside's Jamie Kontra walked and Paul Reiter advanced him with a hit but none of the following batters could score them.

The bottom of the third was an easier inning for Mountainside. Kukon struck out the first batter, then leaped for a ball headed for shortstop and fired it to first for a close out. The final out was made by Mark Dooley when a line drive was hit straight to him in center field.

In the bottom of the fourth, Mountainside brought in Mike Young to face the Berkeley Heights batters. A hit back to the pitcher and a well-fielded ball by Paul Reiter retired two

MCP will hold final teeny bopper party

The Mountainside Community Pool will end its formal 1974 social calendar with a teeny-bopper party next Wednesday. The party is open to all MCP members and their guests between the ages of 10 and 13.

Admission will be 50 cents at the gate for all, and the event will run from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m.

Washington at resignation: a scene from Poe

By LOU VETTER

Last Thursday in Washington was an appropriately dark and dreary day for one of the most somber events in the nation's history. As Edgar Allan Poe put it, "the clouds hung oppressively low in the heavens" as the gossip floating for days about the city crystallized into hard fact.

Thursday was the most dramatic day in a week that even political novelist Allen Drury would not have dreamed up in his wildest scenarios of political activity. It began on Monday with Capitol Hill preparing for its first Presidential impeachment in more than a century. The sense of drama had been heightened by reports that President Nixon would resign because of Watergate.

Rumors and gossip are the lifeblood of Washington, which, after all is our most political of cities. Reports of varying degrees of accuracy sweep with relentless regularity.

The first big rumor of the week hit Capitol Hill last Monday when word began spreading that Nixon would go on the air at 4 p.m. Feeding on itself and the human chain of electrons that pass it along, the report swelled into a story that the President was about to announce his resignation.

However, Washington sighed and shrugged when the 10 o'clock appearance by the President developed into a press briefing by Gerald Warren. The first paragraph about the briefing on the UPI ticker was mundane enough: the

The author of this article was this newspaper's political writer for 14 years before leaving in January 1973 for Washington where he serves as administrative assistant to Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo. Vetter, a former Union resident, lives in Mountainside.

President was releasing the tapes of his June 23, 1972, conversations with H.R. Haldeman. The real story, somehow interred in the second or third paragraph, electrified the city. The President had, in effect, admitted his complicity in the Watergate cover-up. It touched off shock waves that reverberated from the White House to Capitol Hill to Georgetown and back across the steaming ghettos.

Congressman after Congressman changed his position on impeachment. Once staunch defenders of the President assumed the stances of irate shell game victims as they reacted with indignation, hurt and anger to the realization that they had been taken in by a prodigious political sting.

Although business as usual continued in official Washington throughout the most traumatic upheavals, this was different. No war had started, but a bomb had been detonated over the capital nonetheless.

The rumor network operated overtime during the next few days. Support for the President had virtually disappeared, with an Indiana congressman who two weeks before had characterized the Judiciary Committee's evidence as "irrelevant" being one of the few continuing to cling to the tattered Nixon banner.

On Wednesday night, outside the White House, there was a scene redolent of the death watch in St. Peter's Square as a Pope lay in extremis. Television cameras in Lafayette Park, across Pennsylvania ave., were silent sentinels in the night. Pedestrians filtered along the fence on Pennsylvania ave., watching and waiting for word from inside, where the climax of Richard Nixon's seventh crisis was fast approaching.

For, in the minds of Congressmen and

Not disillusioned despite Watergate

Fleischman is intern in Senator's office

Last year a witness before the Senate Watergate Committee advised young people not to get involved in politics. But in the Los Angeles field office of Senator John V. Tunney (D-Calif.), 16 young people have become very much involved as interns. The results have been extremely successful. One of those interns is Howard Fleischman, a resident of Springfield, who is temporarily living in West Los Angeles, Calif., while he works in Sen. Tunney's office, Howard says he's been interested in politics ever since high school. "From the citizen's point of view I wanted to find out what politics was all about," said Howard. Now a junior majoring in political science at George Washington University in Washington, D.C., Howard is pursuing his interest in politics. He is a member of the George Washington University Legal Society and of the Young Democrats. For the past two years he worked in the Capitol Hill office of N.J. Congressman Matthew Rinaldo. Howard's future plans include law school and possibly running for political office in the future. He also hopes to attend the 1976 Democratic national convention. Tunney initiated the internship program in March in order to involve students in the actual workings of a political office. Unlike other internship programs in which students just "help out" around an office, Tunney interns are limited only by their own interests and capabilities. Erik Perkowski, special assistant to Sen. Tunney and administrator-coordinator of the internship program said, "Interns leave this office knowing all facets of a Senate office: legislation, casework, local issues and business procedures."

Perkowski noted that in the past few months interns have done advance work on the senator's appearances, met with government and community leaders to discuss mutual problems and represented the senator at local functions.

"It's great having them in the office," Perkowski said. "The interns have consistently shown they can operate effectively and efficiently in a crisis, stress situation, which is what practical politics is all about."

Though he is busy in Washington, Tunney is fully aware of the success of his Los Angeles intern program. During a recent trip to California, Tunney met the students and discussed his views on public service. Tunney expressed his concern with "serving" the people of California, explaining, "We are doing what we are paid to do, what we must be doing."

Tunney praised the interns for being both patient and persistent. "They take frustration after frustration in dealing with government agencies, but they keep plugging away." It is in this service, assisting the people of California with their problems, that interns have helped the most.

"Helping people deal with government bureaucracy is our main job here. Current problems include social security, veterans benefits and immigration problems," said Marty Nislick, director of casework for Sen. Tunney, who works closely with the interns.

According to the Tunney interns, the recent situation in Washington has not deterred their interests in politics in the least.

One intern said she is far from disillusioned about politics. "We have to make an effort to rise above the current problems. Disillusionment is a negative approach. I believe that working here and helping people with their problems must make a difference."

Lillian Haugstad summed it up for many of the interns. "The current political situation makes me just want to get in there and do something honest."

Steiner urges cut in federal power

Bob Steiner, independent candidate for Congress in the 12th Congressional District, said this week the resignation of President Nixon shows "it is now time for the American people to take an active interest in politics. We must re-examine our basic premises, in order to prevent future recurrences of the corrupt practices which are running rampant at various levels of government and in both major political parties."

"We must once again recognize the truth of the old saying: 'Power corrupts!' The best way to reduce corruption is to reduce the tremendous amount of power which the bureaucracy has over the lives and pocketbooks of the citizens. We must restore individual liberty to the citizens of the United States."

Named to the honors roster were Diane Ragosa; Anthony Duva, 35 Gail ct.; Paul Fries, 142 Bryant ave.; Steven Levine, 17 Kemp dr.; Gerard Spiesbach, 194 Linden ave., and David Stein, 28 Norwood dr.

UC student given roles

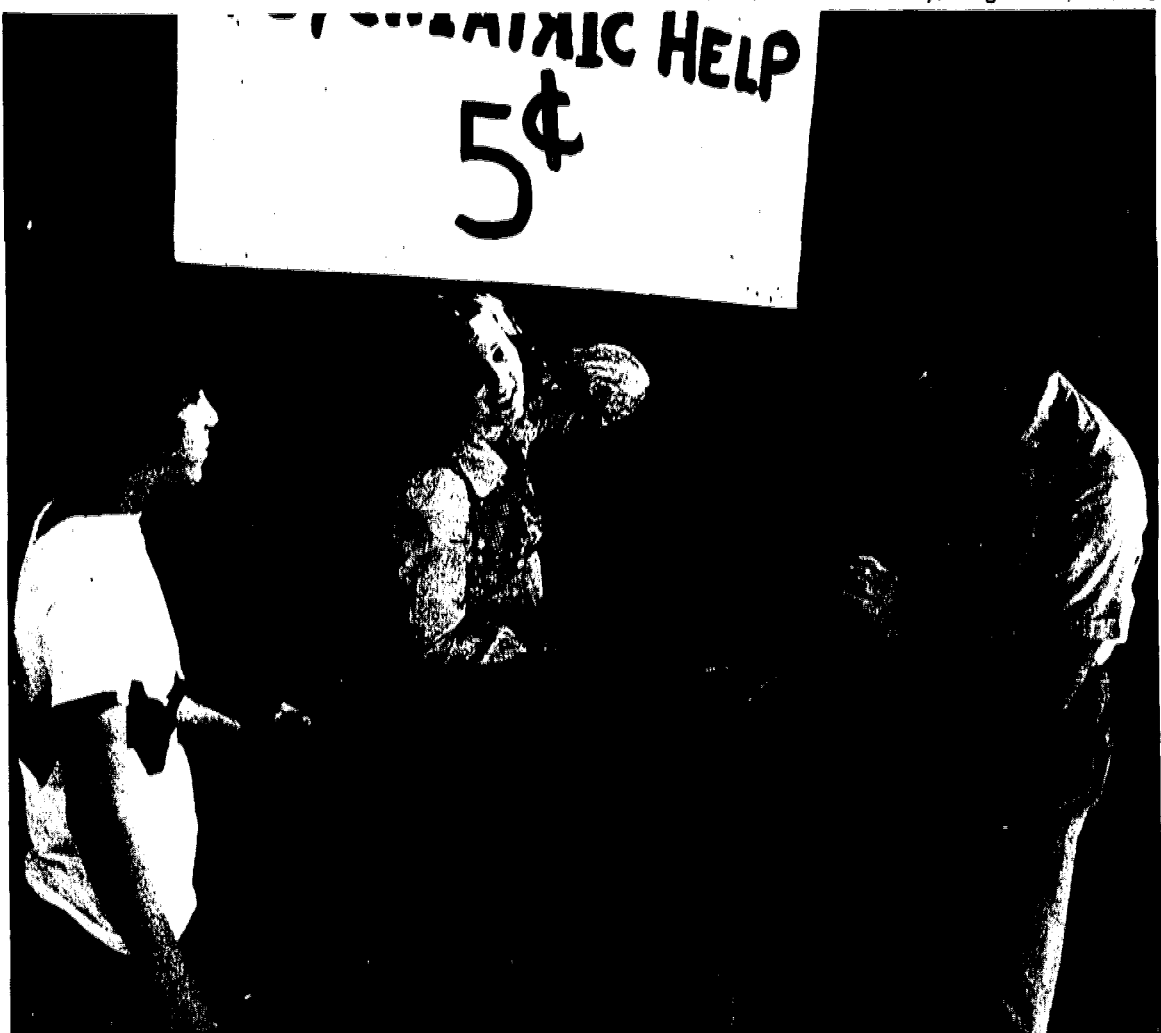

Linda Kozub of 30 Henshaw ave., Springfield, is among 22 drama students at Union College taking part in this summer's production of Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" and "Blithe Spirit."

"Hay Fever," a comedy of bad manners, will be presented Wednesday and Friday, Aug. 21 and 23, at 8 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 24 and 25, at 2 p.m.

"Blithe Spirit," billed as an improbable farce, may be seen Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 22, 24 and 25, at 8 p.m. and Friday, Aug. 23, at 2 p.m.

Both plays are open to the public.

The participating students were enrolled in a Drama Workshop, offered in a Drama Workshop, offered in Union College's Summer Session I, by Prof. Donald Julian, chairman of Union College's Fine Arts Department and professional director, actor and playwright.

DIRECTION and instruction by Jonathan Dayton Regional High School dramatics teacher Joseph Trinity is illustrated during

Levin cites FRB ruling as key factor in inflation

Democratic Congressional candidate Adam K. Levin has accused the Federal Reserve Board of being partially responsible for today's uncontrollable inflation because of its "careless and impulsive" decision in 1972 to increase the nation's money supply by 9 percent.

"Most economists will tell you that there is a significant relationship between the supply of money and inflation," the 12th District (Union County) candidate said. "The Federal Reserve Board's arbitrary decision to increase the supply of money in 1972, despite serious reservations from some of its members, led to an inevitable devaluation of the dollar and our current double-digit inflation."

In a related matter, Levin also condemned a little-publicized action by Congress which, on May 30, voted against the "concept of open government" by prohibiting the General Accounting Office from investigating and evaluating Federal Reserve Board monetary policies.

He criticized his incumbent opponent, Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo, for voting with the vast majority of Republicans in the lower House in refusing to demand "accountability" from those who set important government policy.

"If we have learned anything from the sordid Watergate affair, it is that there can be no excuse for secrecy in domestic affairs," the Westfield Democrat continued. "Recent testimony before Congressional committees indicates there was considerable opposition from some members of the Federal Reserve Board when it permitted rapid expansion of the money supply in 1972. However, these dissenting views were kept secret from the public and Congress due to pressure from the Nixon Administration.

"People have lost faith in Congress because it has been too willing to pass the buck and too unwilling to call those who make major political and economic decisions to account for their actions. We need an effective system of checks and balances if we are to ensure a reasoned and informed approach to government."

"Congressman Rinaldo should explain to the people of Union County just why he voted against subjecting the activities of the Federal Reserve Board to close public scrutiny. We have a right to know whether he's for or against the concept of open government."

In light of the recent Congressional testimony and evidence, Levin called on the House Banking and Currency Committee to release appropriate legislation that would enable members of the lower House to reverse their May 30 vote and give the General Accounting Office the power to audit Federal Reserve Board policies.

"I'm not suggesting that we place outside, political pressures on Board activities," he concluded. "It is, however, in everyone's best interest to review major monetary policy and publish opposing positions."

Harry Stromeyer; rites held Sunday

Funeral services were held Sunday for Harry Stromeyer, 67, of Springfield, who died Friday in Overlook Hospital, Summit.

Diploma study registration set at adult center

Walk-in registration for a custom-tailored study program which will prepare an individual for the New Jersey high school equivalency exam is the objective of the Adult Learning Center of the Union County Regional High School District.

The Regional Adult Learning Center will open at 1 p.m. Monday, Oct. 7, at the David Brearley Regional High School, Harry E. Linkin, regional director of adult and continuing education, said. This program will provide any interested person not already in high school the opportunity to receive individual guidance in studying and preparing for the state high school equivalency examination.

Persons interested in the program may register at the David Brearley Regional High School, Kenilworth, between 1 and 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday, beginning Oct. 7. Evening hours (7:30 to 9:30 p.m.) will be available Mondays and Thursdays beginning Oct. 7 at the high school.

The Regional Adult Learning Center will operate on an individual basis. An individual who registers candidate will meet with the learning counselor to discuss educational goals and to organize an individual program of study. The candidate would proceed with the study program at his or her own pace until the prescribed learning program is completed.

The Regional Adult Learning Center has been designed to meet the individual needs of the interested person; the study program will deal strictly with strengthening those skills in which the individual has a weakness.

Mrs. Harriet Diamond, an experienced adult counselor and educator, will serve as the Regional learning counselor.

The charge for the program is $10 with half being refunded to each individual who successfully completes and passes the General Education Development Test to receive the high school equivalency certificate.

A free meeting to explain the Regional Adult Learning Center program will be held Thursday, Sept. 19, at 7:30 p.m. at the high school, Monroe avenue, Kenilworth. For additional information, call the Regional office of Adult and Continuing Education at 376-6300.

Police car involved in accident in Union

A Mountainside police car was involved in an accident on Rt. 22 in Union Monday morning at 5:20.

According to Union police, Patrolman James Debbie of Mountainside and Mitchell Gamble of Plainfield were driving west on Rt. 22 when the two cars collided.

UNDERPAYMENTS FUND

According to the U.S. Department of Labor, underpayments of more than $18 million to 29,618 workers, nearly all of them women, were found during the fiscal year 1973.

Jewish Family Service unit will be dedicated on Sunday

Senator Harrison Williams will be the guest speaker at the official dedication of the new Westfield office of the Jewish Family Service of Central New Jersey, at 225 Lenox ave., Sunday, Aug. 18, at 11 a.m.

Regional Board hires 3 teachers for area schools

At its meeting last week, the Regional High School District Board of Education acted on several personnel matters, including the hiring of three new teachers for the 1974-75 term.

Among those added to the faculty list was William D. Riva of Short Hills, who will teach boys physical education at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, replacing James Benedict, who resigned. Riva, a graduate of Seton Hall Preparatory School and the University of Delaware, is studying for a master's degree in education at Seton Hall University. He has been a teacher and football coach at Seton Hall Prep for two years.

Hired as an English teacher at David Brearley Regional, Kenilworth, was Timothy Sexton of Clark, who will replace Walter Garwacki Sexton, a 1968 graduate of Union Catholic High School, is a 1972 honors graduate of the University of Maryland, where he earned a B.S. degree in journalism. He completed his student teaching and certification requirements at Montclair State College and did his student teaching at Gov. Livingston in 1973-74, finishing the year as a substitute for a regular staff member.

Allison Ahrens of Bloomfield was named a social studies teacher at Jonathan Dayton, Springfield, to replace Iris Cooley, who resigned. Mrs. Ahrens, an alumna of Roselle Park High School and a magna cum laude graduate of Montclair State College, did her student teaching and served as a substitute teacher at River Dell Regional High School in Bergen County.

Other staff appointments included that of Wilbur Sowder, an English teacher at David Brearley, to the post of assistant football coach at Jonathan Dayton; of Constance Guida of Maplewood as a half-time nurse at David Brearley; and of James Sementa of Bloomfield as a custodian at David Brearley.

The board also accepted the resignations of John Knoll, social studies teacher at Gov. Livingston; Jeremiah J. Britt, freshman basketball coach at Gov. Livingston, and Jeanne Meeker, Title I director for the district.

Diner theft reported

The theft of $100 from the Satellite Diner, Rt. 22, Mountainside, was reported Tuesday by borough police. Investigating officer Alan Kennedy said the crime was discovered at 5:45 a.m. by an employee who arrived at the diner to find the cash register open and a rear door unlocked.

directors, noted that the event marks an important development for the agency in extending its services to the western part of the Union County. Jewish Family Service has a history of more than 60 years of service to the Jewish community, starting when money was collected to assist the victims of pogroms in Czarist Russia.

Staffed by professionally trained and experienced case workers, it is now a modern family agency, responsive to the needs of the community. Its services include professional counseling around marital, parent-child and individual problems. The agency also offers services to the aged and assistance in resettlement of Russian Jewish refugees.

The new office will serve Westfield, Mountainside, Cranford, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, Plainfield, Clark and surrounding communities.

The home office, 500 Westfield ave., Elizabeth is presently serving the eastern part of Union County.

2 persons facing marijuana charge

A 24-year-old Mountainside man and a teenager from Cranford were arrested by Mountainside police last week on charges of possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana.

Police said Mark Bladis of 2 Highpoint dr. was arrested by officer Jack Verich at 10:45 p.m. Aug. 8 after he was stopped for a motor vehicle check on Summit lane. He was released on his own recognizance pending an appearance in Mountainside Municipal Court Sept. 11.

Juvenile complaints have been signed against a 16-year-old boy from Cranford who allegedly was found to be in possession of the drug while hitchhiking on Rt. 22 Saturday. The youth, who was apprehended at 2:45 p.m. by Officer William Moylan, was released in his parent's custody.

Exposition will be held

L. Kaitman & Sons Inc. of Mountainside, one of the largest distributors in New Jersey of audio-visual equipment for education and industry, has announced that it will sponsor an audio-visual communications exposition at the Coachman Inn, Cranford, (Exit 136 of Garden State Parkway) on Aug. 27 and 28, from 1 to 8 p.m.

They invited purchasing agents, training directors, video and sales management personnel and any other interested parties to attend this exposition of what they claim to be the most modern systems and methods for sales presentations, training and industrial relations.

Firms exhibiting at the exposition will be: Amplivox, Audiotronics, Bell & Howell, Beseler, Da-Lite, Dukane, H.P.I., Kodak Lexicon, Luxor, Nikon, Paillard, Panasonic VTR, Pixmap, Polaroid, Seal, Sony, Technicolor, Telex, 3M-Wallensak, 3M-Scotch Brand, Uher, Viewlex and Wilson.

Two local women taking course in Cracow, Poland

Two Mountainside women are among 75 students and adults from the United States and Canada currently enrolled in a four-week course in Polish language, history and culture at the Jagiellonian University in Cracow, Poland.

The local residents are Barbara Byron of 277 Indian trail, an administrative assistant in the religious education program of Our Lady of Lourdes School, and Virginia Osiecki of 1299 Knollwood rd., a volunteer teacher of religion. The program, which will run to Aug. 26, is sponsored in the United States by the Kosciuszko Foundation, New York City. To supplement their classwork at the university, for which college or in-service credit is available, participants make weekend trips to sites around Cracow. A week-long tour of Poland completes the program.

Other summer courses sponsored by the foundation include a four-week laboratory course in Polish folk arts, a six-week session for students and adults at the Catholic University of Lublin and a six-week session for students only at Jagiellonian University. Readers may obtain further information by writing the Kosciuszko Foundation, 15 E. 65th st., New York, N.Y., 10021.

Home is robbed of jewelry, cash

Jewelry valued at nearly $1,000 and cash totaling $92 were stolen last week from a Tanglewood lane home by burglars who forced their way into the residence through a kitchen window, Mountainside police reported.

Police said the thieves, who ransacked three rooms, escaped with an assortment of rings, bracelets, watches, pins and other jewelry valued at $958, as well as the cash. The latter included five silver dollars from the homeowner's coin collection. According to police the theft occurred sometime between 12:30 p.m., Aug. 3, and 5:15 p.m., Aug. 5.

Police Academy to open Sept. 9 at Union College

The 29th annual session of the Union County Basic Police Academy conducted by the Union County Police Chiefs Association and Union College will open on Monday, Sept. 9 at 8 a.m., it was announced this week by Dr. John Wolf, director of the academy and chairman of the Criminal Justice Department of Union College.

The academy provides basic training for new patrolmen from Union County's 21 municipalities, the Union County Park Police, the Union County Sheriff's Office and the Union County Prosecutor's Office.

The academy also offers new recruits the opportunity to earn 12 college credits as part of their basic training. These credits are transferable to degree programs in Criminal Justice, including Union College's associate in arts degree program in Criminal Justice.

College credit courses were offered for the first time in the academy's 28th session last spring, Dr. Wolf noted. The college component, he said, becomes increasingly significant as more police departments require recruits to have college backgrounds or require college credits for promotion or salary increases.

While the Police Academy and Union College have been closely affiliated since 1959, this will be the first class to be held since the two institutions became officially affiliated in June of this year, Dr. Wolf reported.

The academy provides instruction in patrol administration, human behavior, physical skills, investigation, highway safety, auto theft, organized crime, external cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, sheriff's duties and immigration and naturalization.

The credit courses include: introduction to sociology, general psychology, introduction to law enforcement and criminal law.

Trailside Center flower show set; entries accepted

Entries are now being accepted for the annual Fall Flower Show to be held Sept. 7-8 at the Trailside Nature and Science Center, Watchung Reservation.

The weekend show, open from 1 to 5 p.m. Both days, is under the direction of the Men's Garden Club of Westfield, and is sponsored by the Union County Park Commission. There is no admission charge.

Exhibitors are limited to amateurs who are residents of Union County or members of garden clubs located in the county.

Competitive entries may be made in more than 100 classes—including annuals, perennials, bulbous or tuberous flowers, roses, berries or flowered vines or shrubs, garden displays—with 11 classes open to juniors, age seven to 16.

Horticultural experts from other clubs in the area will serve as judges. At the discretion of the judges, first, second and third places and honorable mention will receive ribbons in each class. In addition, a tri-color award may be given to an outstanding entry in each of several groups of classes; the judges, may also present an award for an outstanding entry in the junior section. The Flower Show Committee will present a sweepstakes award to the exhibitor receiving the greatest number of blue ribbons in the show.

In addition to competitive entries, exhibits are planned on birds (prepared by James B. Hawley of Summit) and on berries shrubs (arranged by William Anderson, chief of forestry and horticulture for the Union County Park Commission).

Party to be held for brides-to-be Welcome Wagon International will host a party for engaged girls of Berkeley Heights, New Providence, Summit, Springfield, Mountainside and Union on Tuesday. The party will be in "King Arthur's Court," the Tower Steak House, U.S. Route 22, Mountainside.

Brides-to-be, their mothers and bridesmaids will attend a program highlighted by a bridal fashion show. Gifts will be given each girl. Further information may be obtained by calling Welcome Wagon, 464-0582.

NEW PRESIDENT — Newly-inaugurated President Gerald Ford is shown with Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-12th Dist.-N.J.). Rinaldo was assistant Republican floor leader last October, when Ford was notified that he had been nominated to be Vice President.

Rinaldo pledges to abide by Fair Practices Code

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo has signed the Fair Campaign Practices Code and pledged to conduct his campaign for re-election in accordance with the principles embodied in the code.

The Union County lawmaker, who has waged all his campaigns in accordance with the code promulgated by the Fair Campaign Practices Committee, urged his opponent to do likewise.

"I believe that all campaigns should be waged on the basis of issues, not personalities," Rinaldo said. "By signing this code, I have signified my willingness once again to abide by this principle."

The code, which is administered by the non-partisan Fair Campaign Practices Committee, requires subscribers to campaign "in the best American tradition, discussing the issues as they see them, presenting my record and policies with sincerity and frankness and criticizing without fear or favor" the stands of opponents.

Signatories of the code agree to "condemn the use of personal vilification, character defamation, whispering campaigns, libel, slander or scurrilous attacks on any candidate or his personal or family life." The code also forbids use of distorted falsified campaign material.

At the same time, Rinaldo noted that he has voluntarily agreed to abide by provisions of the Senate-passed campaign reform bill that forbids contributions of more than $3,000 by an individual or organization; ban cash donations of more than $100, and require candidates to establish a single fund into which all contributions are deposited and from which all expenditures are made.

"I believe all other candidates for federal office should agree to abide by these provisions, in the absence of an effective law regulating campaign contributions," Rinaldo said. "It is one way in which those seeking public office can demonstrate their commitment to the reforms that are so vitally needed to restore people's shattered confidence in government."

Consumer group sets meeting date

The Union County Consumer Affairs Advisory Committee will hold its next meeting on Wednesday, Sept. 11, in Plainfield, according to its chairman, Clifford M. Peake.

The committee, made up of seven members appointed by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, will meet at Plainfield City Hall, 515 Watchung ave., at 7:30 p.m. in the first floor library.

Consumer affairs topics requiring either policy or education attention are considered. Consumers having specific problems or complaints are welcome to attend the meeting and discuss their situation with the committee.

Dr. Orkin announces instructor promotions

Five instructors at Union College, Cranford, have been promoted to the rank of assistant professor, it was announced this week by Dr. Saul Orkin, president of the college.

They include: Mrs. Vicki Reback and John Zoppi, both members of the English department; Mrs. Regina Siemonell and Anthony Signorelli, both members of the psychology and sociology department, and William Duncombe, a member of the biology department.

Weekend to highlight Colonial period Bicentennial festival planned at Kean College

The Union County Cultural and Heritage Commission, in cooperation with Kean College in Union, will hold its second annual bicentennial festival at the college, Oct. 19 and 20. The event, entitled "Beginnings of a Nation," will highlight the culture of and the contributions made by Americans of the Colonial period.

On both Oct. 19 and 20, the Brigade of the American Revolution will participate in the affair with military drills, reenactment and exercise at arms, 18th Century military camp and exhibits, and demonstrations of 18th Century craft skills.

The Brigade is a national organization of living history, composed of local groups which have reactivated and adopted the identity and uniforms of more than 30 actual units which served the Revolution on both sides. The group employs the living history concept "to make American history come alive, capturing the drama, color and excitement of the War for Independence," a spokesman said. A highlight of the Brigade presentation is a complete military encampment, designed to show how the common soldier of the Revolution lived. The camp is complete with 18th Century crafts and exhibits.

The weekend activities will include the participation of Richard Castner, 18th Century dance expert and professor of dance at the State University of New York (Brookport), who will teach 18th Century dancing, and area craftsmen who are experts in 18th Century crafts and who will supplement the Brigade members' involvement with exhibitions of shingle splitting, hornsmithing, printing and the like.

New agency OKs pollution control building financing

Applications for approval of bond financing totaling $63,000,000 were approved during the first meeting of the newly created Industrial Pollution Control Financing Authority of Union County, according to its chairman, Freeholder-director William J. Maguire. The funds raised by the bond sales will finance the cost of pollution control facilities by Exxon Corp. and American Cyanamid in Co. in Linden.

Members of the county authority, created under the State Industrial Pollution Control Financing Act, are Freeholder Matthew Nilson, John Aurnhammer, John Lanson, Kent Swanson and Maguire.

The pollution control facilities are required to comply with federal EPA and state Department of Environmental Protection regulations concerning air and water pollution. The function of the county group is to approve industrial applications to authorize the sale of tax-free bonds. Funds required to pay the principal and interest on the bonds are guaranteed by the applying companies and do not involve the credit of the county.

"We have several other applications pending," Maguire said. "It is a tribute to the dedication of this new group that two major applications were processed during its first meeting."

Program on Bell planned Sunday

"Here Is Tomorrow," a film on the life of Alexander Graham Bell, will be shown Sunday at 2, 3 and 4 p.m. at the Trailside Nature and Science Center, Watchung Reservation.

The program provides many little-known aspects in the career of the inventor of the telephone.

The Union County Park Commission's Trailside Planetarium will present a feature on "Messenger of the Gods"—concerning light and energy—Sunday at 2, 3 and 4 p.m. and Wednesday at 8 p.m. As the Planetarium seats only 35 persons, tickets are issued at the Trailside office on a first-come basis for the Sunday performances. Children under eight will not be admitted.

Trailside programs are listed on a Park Commission "events" telephone, 352-8410.

GOP candidates attend barge party

The Union County Young Republicans will hold their annual barge party Sunday on the Delaware Canal at New Hope, Pa. The theme of this year's party is "honoring the Republican candidates for the Union County Board of Freeholders." The guests of honor are the Republican candidates for freeholder, Mrs. Rose Marie Sinnott, Matthew Nilson and Robert Doherty.

Tickets are $5, which covers the price of the barge and the banjo band. Participants will provide their own food for a picnic lunch along the canal.

The trip will take approximately five hours. The barge will leave the New Hope dock at 3 p.m. For tickets or information, call Bob Cook, 233-945, or Danny Falladino, 464-6255.

Matching funds needed by Psychiatric Clinic

The Union County Psychiatric Clinic hopes to obtain matching funds to qualify for $296,583 which it has been allotted from the state Community Mental Health Services Act fund.

Benjamin H. Haddock, clinic executive director, has received notification from Ann Klein, commissioner of the N.J. Department of Institutions and Agencies, that the funds will be provided for the fiscal year on a 40-60 matching of funds basis.

"This means," Haddock explained, "that the clinic must raise $196,000 from other sources in order to obtain the state money."

"The clinic, a volunteer-led organization provides professional psychiatric care for the emotionally disturbed residents of Union County and North Plainfield on an out-patient basis. It is non-profit and receives support from community funds, municipal governments, school boards, freeholders and from fees from patients based on the ability to pay."

"The state funds are earmarked for specific services," Haddock said, "including $255,083 for outpatient services, $33,000 for aftercare services and $10,500 for consultation and education."

Included in the clinic's proposed program for the next fiscal year is an aftercare program in conjunction with John Runnells Hospital, Berkeley Heights.

The Trenton State College Bicentennial Singers will present their musical narrative, "Yankee Doodle Fought Here." Dramas and lectures on the Colonial period will be presented by the Kean College drama, art and history departments and other local experts.

A unique feature announcing the festival will be a stage run on Wednesday, Oct. 16, on the portions of Old York Road going through Union County. The horse and carriage will pick up specially printed cachet envelopes, describing the bicentennial activities and the old Revolutionary period roads.

During the weekend, movies on Colonial life and crafts will be shown. Also, in the festival period, there will be published for distribution, a guide to research material and significant collections of the Colonial period available in New Jersey.

Early enrollment at UC offered high schoolers

Union County high school seniors now have an opportunity to complete their first year of college prior to receiving their high school diploma.

Union College will accept, on the recommendation of high school principals, students who have substantially completed their high school program and face a school year or semester that offers little challenge, according to Dr. Saul Orkin, president. And if there is a need, scholarships will be made available to them.

For the past two years, Union College has accepted current high school students who fit college courses into their high school schedules or in the evening.

The new policy reflects a closer cooperation between the college and the high schools serving Union County. Letters have been sent to all high school principals advising them of the extended opportunities for their students and inviting their cooperation in recommending students for the program.

Some principals have already indicated that they will accept college courses in English and history to satisfy the state requirement that all high school students must take four years of English and two years of American history to qualify for a high school diploma.

come to their senior year," Dr. Orkin said, "needing only English and history in order to graduate. To provide these students with a more challenging academic program, while permitting them to earn credits toward a college degree seems a course of action that will serve both the high school and the student."

Recognizing that a financial barrier may exist that would prevent students from attending the college, the Union College board of trustees has established a fund from which grants may be made to overcome this obstacle even to the extent of providing a full scholarship to an exceptional student who is carrying a full load.

In addition to enrolling high school students on a full-time basis, Union College will continue to accept qualified juniors and seniors as part-time students on the recommendation of their high school principal or guidance counselors.

All credits earned, by virtue of Union College's accreditation, are transferable to most colleges the students may subsequently wish to enter.

High school seniors who are interested in enrolling in Union College for the fall should consult their high school principal, or Dr. Robert Markoff, associate dean at Union College.

PATRICIA A. RHODES

Patricia Rhodes to be June bride

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Alan Rhodes Sr. of 333 Old Tole rd., Mountainside, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Patricia Ann of Summit, to Rodney Samuel Della Salla, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Joseph Della Salla of 106 Locust dr., Union.

The bride-elect, who was graduated from Governor Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, attended the University of Tennessee. She is employed as department manager at B. Altman and Co., Short Hills.

Her fiancé, who was graduated from Union High School and Radiomen "A" School in Bainbridge, Md., served in the United States Navy. He attends Union College, Cranford, and is employed by Fisher Scientific Co., Springfield.

A June, 1975 wedding is planned.

Put pockets in the pork

It's easy to make pockets in pork chops for stuffing. Select rib chops at least 1 inch thick. Using a small sharp knife, cut into the center of each chop from the rib side, parallel to the rib bone and the surface of the chop. Be careful not to cut all the way through to the edge of the fat on the other side. Pockets made in this way will close during cooking and seal in the stuffing.

Colonial styling proves popularity at Whittier Oaks

Ever since the coming of the earliest settlers to Virginia, the two-story colonial home has had continuing appeal and this popularity continues undiminished today at Whittier Oaks, according to William Steinfield, U.S. Home Corp.'s vice-president of marketing points out that the exterior architectural attractiveness and roomy interior of the Colonial home is eminently suited to today's family way of living.

At Whittier Oaks, off Rt. 206 on Hillsborough road, Hillsborough, U.S. Home presents a variety of updated colonial-style model homes on sites approximately three-quarters of an acre or larger. The attractive 80-home community in Somerset County looks custom built with its paved streets, sidewalks and curbing—all of which is included in construction of the spacious homes.

Typical of the distinctive homes at Whittier Oaks is the nine-room Whittier. Priced at $64,990, the exterior is designed in colonial styling with the benefits of maintenance-free siding, set off with brick facing and two-foot wide first-story roof extension. The early American concept carries through the recessed entrance, multi-pane boxed-out windows and decorative shutters.

The interior layout reflects the convenience and separation of living and sleeping areas of a colonial home. Rooms are spacious with many windows to capture daylight and the openness characterized in the country manor style of early times. The first floor of the Whittier has a large living room formal dining, laundry, country style kitchen, room, powder room and paneled family room with optional fireplace. Upstairs are four bedrooms, including 28-foot master bedroom suite with master bath, dressing room and "his" and "hers" walk-in closets. The home also has a basement, two-car garage, modern appliances and conveniences.

Other two-car garage models with floor plan variations offered by U.S. Home at Whittier Oaks in Hillsborough included the Longfellow Ranch, with four or five bedrooms and three full baths; the Sandburg family room on a level by itself and four bedrooms; the Emerson split-level, with cathedral ceiling raised living room and the Bryant Colonial with two-story colonnades covered portico, 25-foot master bedroom, three more bedrooms and two baths, plus powder room.

Whittier Oaks is situated in the historic countryside midway between Somerville and Princeton. Its accessibility to Rts. 287 and 78 provides speedy access to North Jersey and Manhattan metropolitan centers.

U.S. Home of New Jersey is one of 22 divisions of U.S. Home Corp., the nation's largest on-site residential building firm. Its shares are traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

To reach Whittier Oaks, take Rt. 206 south from Somerville and turn left on Hillsborough road or take Rt. 206 north from Princeton and turn right on Hillsborough road. It is 2.4 miles to the community.

Apartment buyers get ombudsman

A major developer of urban housing, the Parker Corporation of Forest Hills, N.Y. has established a Customer Service Department for the firm's 30-story luxury condominium in North Bergen. The Parker Imperial, and all subsequent new buildings.

Sally Demorest of Boca Raton, Fla., will join the Parker Corporation to head the department. Miss Demorest will train future Customer Service Personnel who staff the new buildings. Miss Demorest, who now lives in New York City, will be the initial liaison between the condominium buyers and the developer. She will establish this program at all new Parker buildings.

"The department is being created to be of a service to tenants and/or buyers in our rental and condominium buildings," explains Jack Parker, president of the diversified realty firm. "The Customer Service Department will be the ombudsman for the tenants and purchasers. They will smooth the way to moving in with the professional system which Miss Demorest will implement."

Miss Demorest said the department will handle all facets of the relationship between the buyer of a condominium unit from the time of purchase until after the tenants are firmly established in residency.

"Our purpose is to help our tenants and buyers through the difficult period from the time they choose a Parker building for their future home until the day they take occupancy, eliminating many of the problems that may exist during this time," she stated.

According to the new director of the Customer Service Department, the department's responsibilities will also include an open pipe line to the builder-developer. There always is a preference for colors, certain changes that individuals want to make in their new home as well as what the going trends are. The department will coordinate this data and make sure it gets back to top management at the Parker Corporation.

"In a sense, we are the consumer's advocates, appointed by the developer. Perhaps some tenants have a suggestion about the lobby or its appointments or the model apartment; the C.S.D. will make note of all suggestions for future referral.

"It takes a knowledge of construction, fine arts, design and psychology plus un-

Deluxe model is now open to viewers at the Villages

A deluxe model of the Sorrento has been opened for viewing at the Villages, the adult condominium community now in its final stages of completion in the Adelphia section of Howell Township. The house sells for $37,190 and includes a self-cleaning oven, a sliding-wall mirror in the master bedroom among other features.

The Deluxe Sorrento is one of a number of home plans for adults 52 and over by builder Vahak Hovnanian, a division of Hovbit, Inc., the developer. The Villages is a home community priced from $14,990 to $77,190 which can be purchased for summer and fall occupancy dates.

When completed, the Villages will have 450 units on a 100-acre off Wyckoff road and Rt. 9 about five miles south of the Freehold Raceway circle. The community consists of six separate villages: Granada for Spain, Sorrento for Italy, Lucerne for Switzerland, Stratford-on-Avon for England, Williamsburg for the United States and Bordeaux for France.

Sales are currently being completed in the final 1200 house Bordeaux segment. The Deluxe Sorrento, which can be built in the Bordeaux village, offers a covered entry into a foyer, a combination living-dining room with access to a kitchen with breakfast area, two bedrooms, two full baths, a bordoghera room and attached garage.

Besides the self-cleaning oven and three-way mirror, the Sorrento also includes wood cabinets and a dish washer in the kitchen, all tiled walls and floors in the baths, a wall mirror and a sit-down vanity in the master bath, and a built-in pantry closet in the kitchen.

Multi-recreational features belonging to the residents of the Villages include a swimming pool, shuffle board courts, a 13,500-square-foot clubhouse, spring-fed Lake Se'van where residents can fish and boat, and a pitch and putt golf course which is completed. There's also the Village Mall with professional offices and shops.

There is a 24-hour security guard at the gate to ensure privacy and safety, service to transport residents to shopping, etc.

Homes at the Villages can be purchased with no closing costs and the condominium ownership gives the purchaser a package of services that includes lawn mowing and maintenance, insurance, refuse collection, snow removal, as well as numerous other common green areas and recreational facilities.

Each family receives a deed to its property and home and owns it outright. They receive the benefits of property tax and interest deductions from their federal income tax returns. They also receive the benefit of building up an equity position in their homes.

CONDOMINIUM COMMUNITY—Deluxe Sorrento model, priced at $36,190, is open for inspection at The Villages, the 671-home adult condominium community off Wyckoff Road and Route 9 in the Adelphia section of Howell Township. Vahak Hovnanian of Hovbit Inc., is developing the community which offers homes from $28,490 to $37,190.

THE SALEM custom home is one of four colonial big home models at Lawrence Woods on Cold Soil road (off Rt. 206) in Lawrenceville. Builder is nationally known Carl M. Freeman Associates (OTC). The Salem has 25-foot living room, formal dining room, first floor family room with dual fireplace that also serves breakfast room, and is priced in the 'sixties'. Lawrence Woods homes offer residential living, excellent schools and quality construction in the Princeton area. Models are open for viewing daily.

THAT LIVED-IN FEELING — Luxury Top of the East 14-story condominium high-rise is now beginning occupancies on Scenic drive off Route 36 in Highlands. Snyder-Westerlind Corp. of Middletown is developing the 166-unit building which offers one- and two-bedroom condominiums from $38,500. The Applebrook Agency of Middletown handles sales.

derstanding to effectively handle this job," says Miss Demorest.

She entered the construction business 18 years ago with a major apartment builder in New York Metropolitan area and worked in all phases from blueprints to tenant occupancies.

The first building to which Miss Demorest will devote her customer services is the Parker Imperial which is offering apartment complexes from $34,990 to $93,000. Residents have use of an outdoor swimming pool on the upper garage deck and luxurious health club facilities at no cost. Occupancies will start in the fall.

It fronts on more than 200 feet of property along Boulevard East overlooking the Palisades cliffs, the North Hudson Park and the Hudson River and New York skyline.

There are 12 apartments on each of the 26 floors and uniformed doormen attend the covered archway entrance. There's also a television interview and electronic security system. The comfortably furnished card and game room will be located just off the lobby, while sun-decks, complete with reclining sunchairs and umbrella tables, will surround the pool. Each apartment has individual controls for heating and air conditioning in all rooms. It is total electric living.

Apartment sold in Irvington

Headley Associates has purchased an Irvington apartment building, according to announcement by Charles Kramer, president of Brounell-Kramer, Union Realtors.

The 20-unit, three-story brick apartments are located on the corner of Headley terrace and Elmwood avenue. Owners are William and Ellen Lerner.

Seton campus takes on oriental HEW

Grant funds Chinese-Japanese-English Institute

One area of the Seton Hall University campus, South Orange, has looked like a small oriental village for the past five weeks. It's all part of a Chinese-Japanese-English Bilingual Institute being sponsored by the Department of Asian Studies and the university's Institute of Far Eastern Studies.

The unique institute has enrolled 25 Chinese, Japanese and American elementary and secondary school teachers from as far away as Honolulu and San Francisco. The language program is funded by a $243,255 grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Teachers are participating from all parts of the country to learn more about the languages and then return to their respective schools to teach. The ratio of instructors in the institute to pupils is better than a one-to-one basis.

The classroom day starts at 8 a.m. and ends at 3 p.m. But after several hours for dinner and a break, students have additional time for independent studies.

The curriculum is complete and varied. In addition to courses in culture, linguistics, methods of teaching, language concentration and bilingual education, special events are scheduled for the students' enjoyment and relaxation.

A musical presentation by Horusome Shirasuka encompassing different types of Japanese music, a floral arrangement demonstration by Grand Master Setsuko Hata and an Oriental Night of Chinese and Japanese stage performances were some of the activities.

"I'm very happy with the thrust of the institute," explained Dr. John Tsu of Maplewood, director of the program. "It's a large responsibility in teaching bilingual education, but it is very rewarding to observe the results. We have endeavored to make the program not only educational but also cultural."

Students live and dine together on the South Orange campus so they can constantly speak the languages. One floor of the dormitory has been set aside for the participants. Mealtimes look like one large oriental family with the menu offering anything from hot dogs to chicken chow mein.

On Saturdays and Sundays, field trips are arranged for the student teachers. Activities have included trips to the United Nations, Chinatown and Buddha Temples in New York City.

DR. JOHN B. TSU, director of Seton Hall University's bilingual summer institute, chats with some of the children of the demonstration class on the South Orange campus. The program is funded by a $243,255 HEW grant.

The strength of the institute, however, is its staff. Thirty-one teachers from such schools as the University of California, Princeton, Columbia, The Metropolitan University of Tokyo, Rutgers University and Seton Hall comprise the faculty.

A unique demonstration class is employed to better equip the students for teaching situations. Eighteen Chinese and Japanese Children, ranging from the ages of 7 to 14, are a practice teaching class for English. The children's families are working in companies, banks, industry and the United Nations in the metropolitan area.

The classroom situation is video taped to ascertain how each student is progressing. Later the students and teachers analyze the performances.

Right-to-sue measure urged for prisoners by State Bar

"Persons imprisoned in accordance with the law shall retain all the rights of an ordinary citizen to commence actions against a public entity or public employee for an award of damages."

This is the core of a resolution proposed by the Correctional Reform Committee of the New Jersey State Bar Association and approved by the association's Board of Trustees. It was announced this week in Trenton. The resolution urges repeal of the present statutes which prohibit state prisoners from bringing legal actions against a public entity until the prisoner is released from jail.

Newark attorney E. Lawrence Miller, chairman of the Correctional Reform Committee, noted some of the reasons why a change is being sought.

"Because the current State laws cannot prevent prisoners from bringing federal civil rights actions in the federal courts, their only practical effect is to channel all such litigation out of the N.J. State Courts and into the U.S. District Court for the District of N.J.," he explained.

"Furthermore," said Miller, "these statutes unfairly discriminate against the prisoner-plaintiff, since his chances for successful recovery of damages are significantly diminished due to the passage of time, which could make his case almost impossible to prove."

Henry A. Hill Jr., a Princeton lawyer who helped draft the Correctional Reform Committee resolution, brought up the point of rehabilitation and respect for society.

"The institution of litigation by prisoners against public entities and employees represents one of the few legitimate ways by which prisoners can voice their grievances against the system."

Continued Hill, "Permitting prisoners to express their grievances with the prison system in state courts, just as ordinary citizens can, would help insure that inmates will have increased confidence in and respect for the social system."

The State Bar-approved resolution is now being forwarded to Governor Byrne and to members of the N.J. Legislature for further action and implementation.

Strauss will get Judaism award

David T. Chase, board chairman, Rabbinical College of America, Morris Township, announced this week that the college will honor Stanley P. Strauss of South Orange, a leader in New Jersey communal service and Jewish education, with its "distinguished service award" for his "tireless efforts in fostering an awareness in young people to the cultural, historic and religious precepts of Judaism."

This is the 18th year the college has presented its award to a New Jerseyan. Last year's recipients were Dr. Edward T. Blaustein, president of Rutgers University, and Martin Jelin, a leader in Jewish education.

A graduate of the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania and Harvard Law School, Strauss is a member of the New Jersey, New York and American Bar Associations, and is Associate Publisher, N.J. Law Journal. Long active in communal affairs, he serves as president of Congregation Oheb Shalom in South Orange; a trustee of the Jewish Community Federation of Metropolitan New Jersey, and chairman of its Task Force for Jewish Education and Group Work.

He is trustee of the Jewish News; trustee of the Solomon Schechter Day School of Essex and Union counties, and was awarded the 1871 Julius and Bessie Cohn Leadership Award by the federation for his efforts in behalf of the state's Jewish community. He is also a member of the college's board of trustees.

Kean College still has openings for transfer students

Transfer openings still exist for students wishing to enter Kean College, Union, as sophomores or juniors for the 1974-75 academic year, according to Dr. E. Stier, director of admissions.

The openings exist in all of the liberal arts areas, including philosophy and religion and speech, theatre—media studies. There are also openings in library science and bi-lingual education as well as in the areas on industrial technology and mechanical contracting technology.

Stier noted that, "Student openings exist primarily because of the development of new programs areas. Philosophy and religion, Speech, Theatre—Media studies and bilingual education majors are all new." He added, "with the development of the two-year college system in the state, we still have a large freshman class entering Kean College each year—but for their first two years students are taking background courses. Transfer students can begin to take specialized instruction as soon as they are admitted."

Students who have maintained satisfactory averages at other colleges who wish to apply for transfer admission to Kean College may contact the admissions office at 527-2195. County college graduates will receive full credit for all courses taken at their former college.

Dachshund Club sets match show

The Dachshund Club of New Jersey will hold an American Kennel Club-sanctioned B-OB Match Show at the Hillsborough Fire Co 2 in South Somerville, Sunday, Aug. 18.

Mrs. Barbara Moczydlowski of Somerville will judge the breed, divided into puppy, three to six months, six to nine months and nine to 12 months; novice, bred-by-exhibitor, open miniature and open standard. There will be judging of a brace class and a parade of champions. Sharon Shelly of Oldwick will make the obedience awards in sub-novice, novice, graduate novice, open and utility classes.

Entries will be taken from 10 a.m.; obedience judging will start at 11 a.m., breed judging at 12:45 p.m. and junior showmanship at noon.

Champions and dogs with major points are not allowed in the regular classes. Victories at sanctioned matches carry no championship points.

William Majewski (359-3532) of South Somerville is match show chairman. Refreshments will be available at the show.

Power bills down for second month

Electric bills of Public Service Electric and Gas Company customers will be lower in August for the second consecutive month. Consumers will save approximately $4 million.

In August the company's energy adjustment charge will be 1.6055 cents per kilowatt-hour compared with 1.7263 cents in July and 1.8417 cents in June.

This will mean a reduction of 30 cents in August bills from those in July for residential customers using 250 kilowatt-hours; and a drop of 61 cents for those using 500 kilowatt-hours, and a decrease of more than $2 for heavy users of electricity in homes.

The lower energy adjustment charge has resulted from less expensive nuclear power being brought on line and from a slight decrease in oil prices.

Testing program enters third year

New Jersey's statewide testing program enters its third year this fall.

Mathematics and reading tests will be given to the state's public school pupils in grades 4, 7 and 10 on Nov. 19 and 20, according to Dr. William Mathis, director of the State Department of Education's Educational Assessment Program.

The results of the first tests, given to pupils in grades 4 and 12 in October, 1972, were released by the local school districts and the State Department of Education last May 28. This release had been delayed by a series of legal challenges.

The results of the 1973 tests are scheduled to be released by the districts and the department late in the fall.

Black Masons on Jerseyvision

The history of the Black Masons and the Shrine will be discussed during "Prince Hall Masons" on "Express Yourself," next Tuesday at 8 p.m. and Friday, Aug. 23, at 8:30 p.m. on Channels 50 and 58.

Guests are John Edghill, imperial potentate of the Ancient Egyptian Arabic Order Noble Mystic Shrine of North and South America; Charles W. Jones, grand master, Prince Hall Masons, New Jersey, and Frances Robinson, grand worthy matron, Eastern Star, New Jersey.

STRICTLY PERSONAL

By Pat and Marilyn Davis

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
My daughter attends a good college except for one thing. The girls can entertain the boys in their room until all hours. What do you think of that?
Worried Mother

Dear Mother:
Not much. I do not approve of such a relaxed code; however, I am aware that the situation exists.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
Why do parents want to run everyone's life? Mine are terrible, and it is all because I made a mistake two years ago. I dated a boy and thought I was in love. My parents disapproved of him because of the way he would dress, talk and act. Their suspicions proved to be correct. He was nothing but trouble. I had been sneaking out to see him and they caught me. I was punished. In fact, I am still being punished. All of this happened when I was 15.

I am now 17 and still not allowed to date alone. I must always go on a double date. My curfew is 10 p.m. I can't even get home from a movie by that time so you can imagine how full my social life is. How can I prove that I am responsible? I have toed the line for two years and they still aren't convinced. Even convicts are paroled after two years.

Dear Prisoner:
I'd say that two years is long enough. Why not suggest to Mom and Dad that the curfew be extended to midnight. If you have been reliable for two years, surely you have completed your sentence.

Mom, you can't put her under a basket. By exhibiting no trust, she will eventually draw away from you. Try 12 o'clock for awhile. At 17, she should be able to handle it.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
At 75 I am hard-of-hearing but not senile. Many of my friends have the same problem. Even with aids, we do not hear like an 18-year-old and people tend to equate this infirmity with senility or stupidity. I have had people shout in my ear and all but blast me out of my chair.

I can function quite well but please tell people that those of us who do wear hearing aids need a few courtesies. Speak directly toward the person. Make sure that they are looking at you when you begin a conversation. Do not yell. If you are asked to repeat something, don't say, "Never mind." Just a little common courtesy. Thank you.

Dear Grandpa:
Consider it done.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:
As the assistant principal in a large high school, I come into contact with many teenagers each day. Last week we had to call the police to subdue a boy who was high on something or the other. We expelled 11 students for possession of pills and marijuana, five for concealed weapons, and one for falling asleep in class due to the use of second. Now, I have read that many so-called authorities feel that the drug scene is simmering down. From where I sit, it is at a low ebb.

Young people still try pot, pills and even the hard stuff. What's worse is the attitude of many adults. I have heard responsible people, parents in the community, say that marijuana isn't all that bad. Don't they know that by exhibiting such an attitude they are condoning its use? This softening response to the use of marijuana is completely wrong in my opinion. It is a drug about which science and medicine know little. Experimenting with marijuana is like using the body as a live lab.

If this letter is too long to print, delete part of it. I only hope that someone goes home and thinks a little after reading it. Maybe the printed word will carry more weight than some of my talks with parents.

Principal
Dear Principal:
I printed every word. Bravo!

Business course registration opens

The Interracial Council For Business Opportunity (ICBO) announced this week that the fall semester courses that make up ICBO business education program will be given at the Rutgers Newark campus starting the week of Sept. 30.

Since these courses are free and are always oversubscribed, interested minority group members should apply at once. Courses in record keeping, bookkeeping and business management will be presented for two hours per night, one night each week, for a 10-week period. Certificates are awarded to those who meet the requirements. Over the past five years more than 1,600 certificates have been granted.

Applicants can enroll by mail or telephone by contacting Bernard H. Saperstein, education director, at the ICBO office, 24 Commerce st., Newark, or by calling 622-4771.

The courses have been acclaimed as the "finest in America" by representatives of the Ford and Rockefeller Foundations as well as President Nixon's Task Force on Education and Training for Minority Business Enterprise. Saperstein will be assisted by volunteer instructors Bertram Davidow, Union accountant, Andrew Melnick, West Orange stock research analyst, and Nancy Malveaux, Newark businesswoman and accountant.

The course on record keeping will include inventory control, pay roll, bank checking account reconciliations, petty cash, taxation and single entry bookkeeping.

Business Management I discusses such questions as business pitfalls, location, mark-up, leases, buying, selling, fraud protection, franchising and business structures.

Business Management II concerns itself with borrowing money to expand your business, advertising, business law, insurance, credit, investing, etc.

ICBO is a voluntary non-profit organization created to assist black, Spanish-speaking and other minorities to organize, operate and expand their businesses. Through the use of volunteers from the business and professional sectors, applicants are given free one-to-one counseling in their specific business areas.
