Opinion aligned against Rt. 78 alternates

By KAREN ZAUTYK

The Department of Transportation's "South of Park" realignment for Interstate Rt. 78 through Mountainside—a plan which would run the highway through a residential area of the community and result in the loss of 65 homes—is drawing vehement opposition from local residents, many of whom turned out for a public hearing sponsored by DOT at Gov. Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, last Thursday night.

Approximately 1,300 persons packed the school auditorium, to view the poster-sized maps of the original route through the Watchung Reservation and the seven alternates, and to question DOT representatives.

Mayor Thomas Ricciardi, who was the first audience member to address the panel, was interrupted several times by applause as he read into the record both a resolution adopted by the Borough Council opposing the realignment through the community and a letter from Rep. Matthew Rinaldo stating the congressman was "in complete agreement" with the Council's position on the matter.

"The serious thing about this," the mayor stated, "is the confrontation that will occur between people of different communities, and unfairly so. I am very upset about the way this was presented to the people in this area." In conclusion, he promised "to try to protect the interests of the borough, and not at the expense of anyone else."

The question of confrontation also was raised by Assemblywoman Betty Wilson, who charged the presentation of the alternates, all but one of which would result in the loss of private homes, "pits town against town."

"I cannot see how anything constructive can come out of this," she said. "I believe we are being made victims of the old segmentation theory of highway building, where you build one section and then hope to create pressure on the people in front of that section so they're left with no choice or unacceptable choices."

Although many of the public officials who addressed the meeting deplored infighting among area residents, something of the sort was apparent at the session itself. After discussion on the "South of Park" line—the first presented for comment—had continued for a while, several audience members who apparently resided in the areas affected by other alignments began criticizing the session's format. Later in the night, when most of the audience had departed, speakers on the more northerly alignments noted there were few left to back up their remarks with applause.

The Mountainsiders' attendance at the meeting was not the first showing of their disapproval to the "South of Park" line. At a DOT-sponsored informal information session held the previous afternoon and evening at the Deerfield School, an estimated 2,000 persons turned out. "We've got more people here tonight than the fire department did when they gave away hot dogs and beer at the opening of the new firehouse," one local citizen commented.

Mayor Ricciardi attributed the large attendance to the distribution throughout the community of flyers by the Committee to Preserve Mountainside. At the Deerfield meeting, DOT quickly ran out of the 1,100 project maps, the Mayor noted, and he gave permission to have an additional 300 copies reproduced on the machine at Borough Hall. These also disappeared within a short time.

At a table set up a short distance away from DOT's, local citizens took signatures on a petition drawn up at the request of the mayor and Borough Council—and as of early Friday, approximately 1,100 names had been recorded.

Community Pool details Fourth of July program

The Mountainside Community Pool will celebrate the nation's birthday with a program of activities on Sunday, starting at 10:30 a.m. and continuing through the afternoon.

Recreation office tennis tournament registration open

The 1975 tennis tournament schedule was released this week by the Mountainside Recreation office. Mixed doubles, men's doubles and women's doubles will be held on July 26 and 27. The men's and women's singles will be held on Aug. 2, 3, 9 and 10.

The doubles competition is open to borough residents 16 and older. Individuals who are entered in more than one doubles tournament will not be given special scheduling consideration. The entry fee is $1 per person. The men's singles will again be divided in two divisions: senior men, 40 and older, and the open, 16 and older. Men over 40 may enter either division, but may not participate in both. The women's singles are for ages 16 and older. The entry fee for all singles participants is $1 per person.

Entrants must have valid 1975 tennis permits. Registrations are being accepted at Borough Hall weekdays between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. The registration deadline for the doubles is July 18 at 4 p.m. The deadline for the singles is July 25 at 4 p.m. For additional information, readers may call the recreation office at 232-0015.

Tennis ladder formed for summer program

The tennis ladder being organized under the auspices of the Mountainside Recreation Commission is completing its plans for this summer's activities. Players of all ages and all levels of ability still have time to register by calling Helen Hewitt at 232-4745 or Bobbie Nestler at 273-3300.

The aim of the ladder is to encourage tennis to improve their game and make new tennis contacts by challenging those on higher steps of the ladder, the announcement added.

Following last year's introduction of an eight-event water contest, pool officials plan to stage the second annual Octothon, open to boys and girls 15 and younger. This event will begin at 10:30 and should be completed by the noon opening time. Signups for the event can be made at the pool's front desk.

The afternoon program will get under way at 12:10 with contests in boys' (15 and under) horseshoes and girls' (15 and younger) shuffleboard. At 2 the potato sack races, promised last year but cancelled because of lack of sacks, will take place—thanks to a generous donation of sacks—and the boys' shuffleboard contest will be held.

Adult shuffleboard and the third annual men's freethrow contest will begin at 3, with the women's freethrow event and men's horseshoes at 3:30. It is expected that the events will conclude some time before 6, the announcement added.

The Community Pool last week offered a morning of lifeguard instruction for 25 young people from the Union County CYO day camp. After an orientation lecture by Bob Anderson, the group divided and started their review. At the edge of the diving tank, MCP instructors Dana Levitt and Jackie Picot reviewed the various types of holds and releases used in a lifesaving situation. MCP guards Dave Allan and Ricky Nelson demonstrated the procedures in the water.

Two other MCP instructors, Leslie Keating and Robin Sury, taught the basis of swimming strokes and the various reaching assists, using a towel, pole, and ring buoy. They were assisted by MCP guards Billy Cullen and Cary Levitt.

Concluding the clinic was a lecture on resuscitation by two inhalation therapists from Overlook Hospital. Using a demonstration mannequin, the therapists reviewed various first aid measures for heart failure, diabetes, and drowning.

According to those adults present, the program was an "insurance policy." They said, "To protect those people that guards must be responsible for, it is necessary to be familiar with any and every possible situation that could occur. We hope the clinic benefited all who attended."

Creek relocation may be dropped

By ABNER GOLD

Expressing growing impatience over continued delays in planning for a project to relocate Van Winkle's Creek in Springfield, members of the Regional High School District Board of Education Tuesday night said they are almost ready to drop the whole project unless work can be started in the near future or at least a firm time schedule can be confirmed.

The comments came at the board meeting at David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth as the board tabled payment of $30,000 in architectural and engineering fees to the firm of Elsasser and Miller.

Stephen Marciniak of Clark told the 20 members of the audience that the original resolution in 1971 called for spending $100,000 to relocate the stream so that the board could gain two more athletic fields for Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. The creek runs along the edge of the Dayton property.

He noted that project now has a $400,000 price tag as a flood relief measure, with joint participation by the school district, the Township of Springfield and the Union County Board of Freeholders. Cost increases and new requirements for the work by the N.J. Water Policy Commission have necessitated several revisions of the plans.

"Not a blade of grass has been moved in nearly four years," Marciniak stated, "and we still have no estimate when the work will start. I will oppose any further action without a firm time schedule."

Voicing his agreement, the board president, Charles Vitale of Kenilworth, added, "The board's total commitment to the project remains as $100,000. We will not spend a penny more."

The petition protests the "South of Park" line because it will cause "further fragmentation" of the community already divided by Rt. 22, result in increased noise and air pollution, aggravate flooding problems, cause "staggering losses in property values," "wipe out a prime residential area of the community," and result in "a substantial increased real estate tax burden" on the remaining homeowners.

The petition, a copy of which has been placed in Borough Hall for additional signatures, also calls for DOT to ensure the original alignment of Rt. 78 through the Watching Reservation. Mayor Ricciardi, explaining this is not simply a reaction to the "South of Park" line, noted the local governing body had approved the original alignment in 1972 after it was accepted by the Union County Park Commission.

The mayor also said he had contacted Transportation Commissioner Alan Sagner and noted Sagner had denied the introduction of the controversial alternate routes is an attempt by DOT to gain support for the original alignment, which has been opposed by conservation and environmental groups.

At Thursday's hearing, DOT representative Lester Finch declared the agency was not ready to make a decision on any route at this time, since the environmental data was not complete. "I want to emphasize that we have not chosen any route to date, nor does the department have a preferred alignment," he said.

The alternates study was ordered by Sagner 13 months ago because of "heavy public response" to the first draft environmental impact statement on the original alignment, a Regional in Berkeley Heights objected strongly to reports that a new ruling would require final examinations for students at all four schools—Dayton, Brearley, Gov. Livingston and A.L. Johnson Regional in Clark.

Regional

Dayton's Morey Epstein said that instituting one policy for all four schools would "infringe on intellectual and academic freedom." He charged that little information had been given on the proposed grading program. Epstein also said that the Dayton student member of the grading committee had been chosen by the staff, without consulting student leaders.

Dr. Donald Merachnik, superintendent of schools, said the committee had been at work for two months and its findings are under administrative review.

Dr. Martin Siegel, director of instruction, said most of the principals had consulted their Student Councils before naming the student member for each school. He said the student members had been urged to report all progress to their fellow students, usually through the Student Council.

Vitale said the report will soon be discussed at an open meeting of the board's education committee, with advance notice in local newspapers.

The board held first readings of two policy changes. Both are scheduled for final action at the Aug. 5 meeting at Brearley, and Vitale invited any comments that might be sent to the board.

The first change spells out policy for trips by school bands and other music groups. The board will pay travel expenses for performances or competitions for which there is no reimbursement.

If a donation is made by the sponsoring group, it will be applied to transportation costs. The board will make up any deficit, and the music group will retain any excess above transportation costs.

The second policy change directs district executives to develop and implement guidelines for student attendance.

Three new teachers were hired, all with master's degrees in their fields. Mrs. Judith Boccia will teach English at Johnson, Robert L. Eyre will teach English at both Brearley and Gov. Livingston, Louis Spirito will teach English at Dayton, where he did his student teaching this spring.

The board approved appointments of members of the Regional Adult School lay advisory committee. Those named for Dayton include Mrs. Claire Katz, Mrs. Madeline Lancaster, Mrs. Hortense May, Mrs. Barbara Rothfeld, Mrs. Peggy Schwartz and Mrs. Elaine Weibel.

Named for Brearley were Michael Iazzetta, Mrs. Jessie King, Miss Jeanne Meeker, Richard Colonna and Henry Dorst.

Miss Passafiume gets Arizona M. Ed. degree

Lynda M. Passafiume of Popular avenue, Mountainside, was awarded a master of education degree by the University of Arizona, Tucson, May 17.

More than 5,000 degrees were conferred on summer school, fall and spring semester graduates at the school's 80th commencement.

2 electric typewriters worth $1,600 stolen

Two new electric typewriters, worth a total of $1,600, were reported stolen last week from the Elb Grinders Corp., 1140 Globe ave., Mountainside.

Borough police said the machines, which had been delivered the day before, were removed sometime after 5:40 p.m., June 25, by burglars who jimmied open doors to both the warehouse and office area.

five-mile link through the Reservation connecting the present western terminus of the highway at Ridgefield avenue in Berkeley Heights with sections completed or under construction in Union and Essex Counties.

At the hearing, Clifford Ellis, a member of DOT's division of design, stated the "South of Park" line had been drawn up by the agency's engineering consultants, Madigan-Praeger Inc., New York, on that firm's own initiative. Under the proposal, also called Alternate G, 63 acres of parkland would have to be acquired at a right of way cost of more than $24 million. (The original alignment calls for 116 acres of parkland at a right-of-way cost of $3,996,000.) The new route also would require the state to purchase or condemn 65 dwellings and one commercial building, which was not identified.

Ellis explained that under the "South of Park" plan the superhighway would "run very close to Rt. 22" in Scotch Plains, where an interchange would connect east and westbound traffic on both roads. From there, Rt. 78 would travel along the southern edge of the Watching Reservation, crossing over Glenside avenue in Scotch Plains and running south of Far View drive in Mountainside. It would then pass over Deer Path, continue about 300 feet north of Forest Hill way, cross over Ackerman avenue and under Tracy drive south of the park, go under Summit road and run between Chimney Ridge drive and Tree Top drive in Springfield. From there it would continue along the upper edge of the Baltusrol Golf Club to the existing alignment in Springfield.

The total cost for this alignment is estimated at $87,837,000. The original route through the Reservation, estimated at $34,683,000, would be approximately one mile shorter and require no loss of residential or commercial structures.

The other alternates presented include the Well Field route, Alignment B. Carrying a projected construction cost of $41,058,000, it differs from the original only at the eastern end of the Reservation, where it would avoid the headwaters of Surprise Lake. It would, however, cross well fields maintained by the Commonwealth Water Co. in Summit and also require 22 acres of the proposed Hidden Valley Park.

Under Alternate C, the highway would follow a ridge overlooking the northern edge of the Reservation and run through an open cut in front of Gov. Livingston. Sixty-two acres of parkland, in both the Reservation and Hidden Valley, would be required, as would 69 homes and one commercial building. Total cost would be $49,656,000.

Alternate D, the "Valley" route, would bring the roadway next to Surprise Lake. A total of 153 acres of parkland would be lost under this plan, which the consultants say would cost

The most expensive scheme introduced is Alternate E, the tunnel and cut and cover route, which would hide the highway from visitors to the park, but would require three ventilation stacks to be placed in the Reservation.

Only 17 acres of parkland would be lost, but total construction figures are estimated at $255,184,000. In addition, the consultants said a maintenance building for the tunnel would have to be constructed and annual projected maintenance figures, at present rates, would be $5 million per year. Also needed would be "last ditch" exits in Berkeley Heights and Springfield for vehicles carrying propane gas or other explosives, which would not be permitted in the tunnel. A variant of the plan, using only cut and cover, would cost $214,668,000.

Alternate F, called the "Hospital By-Pass," would utilize the design and a "Ridge" route around John E. Runnels Hospital in Berkeley Heights, with a total cost of $58,666,000. The engineers estimate the original alignment and the by-pass route would cost $43,693,000.

The transportation department has already rejected two other realignments, a northerly route through Summit, New Providence and Berkeley Heights, and one following Rt. 22 through Mountainside.

The former, which would have cost

$74,708,000, would have required 248 private homes. The latter would have put the superhighway between the east and westbound lanes of Rt. 22 and had a projected price tag of $217,898,000. A total of 368 dwellings and 241 commercial buildings would have been lost, as well as 2,500 jobs in the business area affected.

Also under consideration by DOT is a "no build" alternative, announcement of which drew heavy applause at the hearing.

Several persons, including Assemblywoman Wilson, urged investigation of the possibility of abandoning the present Rt. 78 plans, feeding its traffic instead onto Rt. 287 in Pluckemin. From there, vehicles would travel north to Morristown where Rt. 287 joins Rt. 24, presently under construction, and follow that highway south to the Rt. 78 link-up in Springfield, already open to traffic. The route would be about eight miles longer than the original alignment through the Reservation.

The transportation department is expected to complete its second draft environmental impact statement in October. Public hearings will follow and a final impact statement and route recommendation will be forwarded to the federal government for its approval. The highway design must meet with the approval of the Federal Highway Administration and the Council on Environmental Quality before construction can begin.

BATTLE OF SPRINGFIELD - 1780

The translation of a diary kept by a Hessian soldier at the Battle of Elizabethtown - Springfield in 1780 reveals that the encounter was one of the bloodiest of the Revolution and a rousing victory for Continental militiamen.

Pvt. Stephan Popp writes in the diary of the continuing skirmishes and sorites that occurred from June 6 to June 23 in that year.

From what he reveals, the Hessians, together with crack British troops, suffered severe losses. In the June 23 engagement he writes, "We lost 400 to 500 dead and wounded in this action" (Springfield). "On the return," he continued, "we really lost the most men."

Also believed revealed for the first time is the information that 100 Americans were burned to death in the First Presbyterian Church of Springfield, where they had taken refuge from the battle.

Pvt. Popp's diary refers to this as follows:

"The place (Springfield) was put to the torch and not even a pig-sty was left standing. About 100 men had taken refuge in the church, but they had to burn with it. Their pleas for life were moving, but it did not help them."

The diary appears to sustain the belief of some historians that the Springfield conflict was not a mere skirmish, but was a full-fledged battle with at least 10,000 Hessian and British troops participating. The Continental forces are figured about half of that number. This fact, too, makes the rebels' victory all the more astonishing, historians say.

General von Knyphausen led the Hessian-supported British force into battle. In addition to the Hessians, Knyphausen had at his command the famed Coldstream Guards and Scot Highlanders.

Facing them were about 1800 Continental Army regulars and an undetermined number of militiamen hastily recruited from the area. Any man or boy willing to carry a gun was on the firing line against an enemy force made up of some of the best-trained troops England could muster.

The British troops landed at Elizabethtown from bivouacs on Staten Island. They originally were based on Long Island.

It is believed that the landing was made at what is now the foot of Elizabeth Ave. The troops proceeded up Elizabeth Ave., then called Water St., and were engaged by a handful of Continental troops at Union Square in the delaying action. Couriers were sent by the Continentals to warn Washington and his army at Morristown.

After the skirmish, at what is now the location of Harmonia Savings Bank, the British continued up Elizabeth Ave. to Broad St. There, after some maneuvering in Washington Ave. and Pearl St., they moved to Rahway Ave. and out Cherry St. to what is now Westfield Ave. As near as can be determined, the column moved out Westfield Ave. to Galloping Hill Road, thence to the Five Points and out Chestnut St. to what was then called Connecticut Farms, now Union.

They burned the Presbyterian Church and other structures there. This was the incident in which Hannah Caldwell, the wife of James Caldwell, pastor of the church, was killed by a soldier.

After this foray, the British pushed on to Springfield, though harassed by delaying actions. At Springfield, the Continentals and militiamen dug in and fought.

The Continentals retired to hills north and west of Springfield to await reinforcements from General Washington at Morristown. When these arrived, they increased fire on the British.

The enemy learned from a spy that additional troops were enroute from Morristown and General von Knyphausen decided to withdraw. As his troops fell back, the Continentals pressed their advantage, pouring heavy fire on the retreating Hessians, which resulted in heavy losses for the British forces.

With the ultimate American victory at Springfield followed by the British retreat, New Jersey was never again invaded by the enemy during the war.

Did You Know

That approximately 15,000 men faced each other in combat in the Battle of Springfield... at least 10,000 Hessian and British troops were engaged by Continental forces that totaled about one-half that number. This engagement was one of the bloodiest and fiercest fought battles of the Revolution.

and Did You Know that in 1851 when the "Harmonia Savings Fund" (later to become Harmonia Savings Bank) was founded, the total population of the City of Elizabeth was only 6,000 - less than half the number of participants in the Battle of Springfield.

Letters to Editor

'VOTES OF THANKS'
A vote of thanks is due to the Mountainside Board of Education, the Mountainside Little League officials and the Mountainside Police Department for working to improve conditions in and around the Deerfield athletic fields.

Since a number of residents petitioned and wrote the Board of Education earlier this spring, Little League members have greatly improved the physical appearance of the grounds, the Board of Education has had speed-reducing bumps built on the parking lot road, the lighting has been refurbished and there seem to be fewer problems with local traffic offenders.

I am sure many residents appreciate these efforts at maintaining the beauty and safety of our town, as I do.

Dried herbs add a delicate flavor

By DONNA PATEREK
Associate Home Economist

More families are becoming involved in growing their own herbs, with gardens ranging from windowsill pots to backyard plots. Spices (roots, berries and seeds) and herbs (leaves), almost more than anything else, determine how a dish will taste and fresh herbs are more delicate and delicious than store-bought ones.

Have you ever considered "drying food?" Sun-drying is one of the oldest methods of food preservation. The main purpose of drying is to remove enough moisture from the food so that the spoilage organisms do not grow and multiply during storage.

Try drying your garden herbs. Dry only the tender and most aromatic leaves from the upper six inches of the stalk. Choose plants that have just started to bloom and cut them with plenty of stem. Remove and discard the lower leaves. Hold the stalks in small bunches and swish them around in cool water to remove any dust or soil. Shake off excess water and spread stalks on absorbent toweling to allow moisture to evaporate. Cut off the main stem and spread the sprigs in a single layer on trays for drying.

Place in a warm, dry and dark area that is well ventilated. Turn the herbs occasionally to insure even drying. Test for dryness by placing a few sprigs or leaves in a tightly covered glass jar. Any indication of condensation, mold or discoloration means insufficient drying.

When herbs are completely dried, store in an airtight glass jar in a cool, dark place. Dried herbs retain their flavor best if pulverized just before using.

Insurance group backs Rinaldo's no-fault proposal

A no-fault auto insurance bill (HR 7985) introduced last week by Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo (R-N.J.) is the insurance industry's best bet for compromise on federal guidelines, a spokesman for a leading producers' association declared in Atlantic City this week.

Ralph J. Marlatt, vice-president of government affairs for the National Association of Mutual Insurance Agents (NAMIA) said that the Rinaldo bill "satisfies industry objections" to the coverage provisions in the Hart-Magnuson proposal, S. 354.

"Rep. Rinaldo's bill restricts tort, limits first-party benefits, provides for inter-company subrogation, and maintains the primacy of auto insurance over health insurance," Marlatt told the annual convention of the Independent Mutual Agents of New Jersey. "These provisions put to rest some of the apprehensions which industry forces have voiced in opposing federal guidelines," he emphasized.

According to Marlatt, state-by-state advocates have been only partly successful in pursuing auto insurance reform. To date 24 states have some form of no-fault, although only 15 of them limit lawsuits for pain and suffering. He said that North Dakota is the only state to pass a no-fault law this year, leaving 26 others that have rejected reform or failed to act on legislative proposals.

"The driving public in these states is being denied what everyone agrees are the benefits of no-fault," Marlatt asserted. "Impatience with state legislatures is bound to hasten calls for federal action."

"Questions relating to the constitutionality of federal solutions are for the courts to decide," said Marlatt. "It's time for our industry to recognize that minimum federal guidelines is a better alternative than federal takeover of auto insurance. The Rinaldo bill offers an opportunity for compromise that will keep the business in the private sector, and that fact should not be ignored."

Pingry's students win science prize

The Pingry School, Hillside, has been named overall first place science winner among the 83 public and private schools throughout the state which competed in the 15th annual Junior Science and Humanities Symposium held recently at Fairleigh Dickinson University's Madison campus.

The symposium is sponsored each spring by the Picatinny Arsenal in Dover, the U.S. Army Research Office in Durham, N.C., and Fairleigh Dickinson University. It attempts to encourage, through national and local recognition, potentially talented high school students to pursue careers in the sciences and the arts.

This year, 1,660 students contended in the testing in teams as well as individually for honors in chemistry, biology and physics.

Pingry's first place standing was determined by the final ranking of its student teams: chemistry, second of 130 teams; physics, second of 101 teams, and biology, fourth of 124 teams.

In addition to its statewide title, Pingry was named first in Union County.

UCTI's academic chief stresses work training

"Career education is what makes the world go."

So says Dr. Irving Engelson, who became vice-president of instruction at the Union County Technical Institute and Vocational Center, Scotch Plains, this week.

Dr. Engelson has been assistant dean for engineering technology and an associate professor of electrical engineering at the New Jersey Institute of Technology (NJIT), formerly Newark College of Engineering, where he was responsible for the academic phase of all degree and certificate programs in technology.

At the Union County Technical Institute and Vocational Center, Dr. Engelson will have the overall responsibility for arranging and coordinating the 34 academic programs.

"We live in a service-oriented society," commented Dr. Engelson. "And I mean service in a broad sense; I'm talking about careers. A diploma or degree doesn't serve much purpose unless that student is ready for work."

Dr. Engelson sees the Union County Vocational Center, the Union County Technical Institute, and four-year colleges as part of one wide career spectrum. "Some careers," he says, "have evolved into programs which lead to degrees. Others have not. But the wording on a piece of paper—degree or diploma—is not what's important. The value of education lies in its preparation of young people for useful service to society and gainful employment."

At the New Jersey Institute of Technology, Dr. Engelson has tried to do just that. He has been instrumental in building NJIT's Bachelor of Science in Engineering Technology programs.

Through close work with community colleges throughout the region, Dr. Engelson has helped to coordinate the smooth transfer of technically-oriented students into NJIT programs. He also maintains a continuing relationship with industry.

Dr. Engelson's industrial experience includes positions as engineer, technologist, and technician.

An honor graduate of an engineering technology program and a college program in technology education, Dr. Engelson holds a B.S. Degree with high honors from Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn and an M.S. from Rutgers University. He earned his Ph.D. in electrical

Aquatic classes offered by county

Learn-to-swim classes have been scheduled by the Union County Park Commission as part of the annual aquatic program at the Rahway River Park Pool, Rahway. Registration forms are available at both the Rahway Pool and Wheeler Pool, Linden.

Classes will begin at different periods during the summer season, for children 6 through 15 years, and for adults 16 and older. Private lessons will also be available.

Also scheduled at the pool are basic water safety courses as well as advanced life saving and also senior lifesaving refresher courses.

Rahway Pool is open weekdays from 2 to 6 p.m. and Wheeler Pool, Linden, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Both pools are open on Saturdays and holidays from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sundays from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m.

DR. IRVING ENGELSON
engineering from Worcester (Mass.) Polytechnic Institute.

His two decades of experience in engineering technology education includes positions as department and division chairman at the junior-community college level and dean at the technical institute level. Dr. Engelson has lectured and published on a wide range of topics including electrical engineering, computer simulation, technological education, and brain function.

Dr. Engelson's research on the statistical analysis of bio-electric signals has demonstrated a number of important physiological and behavioral states of the brain.

Dr. Engelson has a clear idea of how the Union County Technical Institute and Vocational Center should fit into his career spectrum. "The programs at the Union County Vocational Center should be planned so that the skills learned in the Vocational Center are not obsolete when students want to continue their education."

According to Dr. Engelson, the Vocational Center programs must be developed side by side with those of the Technical Institute. "At the Technical Institute, we prepare students to enter paraprofessional careers. That does not mean simply 'the first half of a four-year baccalaureate program.'"

"These students must obtain enough knowledge—both basic and advanced—to make a decision upon graduation. They can choose to move immediately into the outside world and be employable, or they can choose to transfer then or later into a baccalaureate program."

Elizabethtown expects benefit from new leases

John Kean, president of National Utilities & Industries, has reported the company's recent purchase of a 100 percent working interest in approximately 127,000 acres of gas and oil leases in western New York State could mean future additional supply for its subsidiary distribution company, Elizabethtown Gas.

Kean, who is also president of Elizabethtown Gas, said that Elizabethtown's affiliate production subsidiary, National Exploration Co., will begin immediate geophysical studies in the lease acres. An exploratory drilling program of about 20 wells is projected for early in 1976.

According to Kean, a number of major pipelines already crisscross the area and any gas discovered could be delivered to New Jersey through interchanges with Elizabethtown's four regular pipeline suppliers.

This, however, would be contingent upon obtaining Federal Power Commission approval of the transportation agreements and concurrence by the N.J. Board of Public Utility Commissioners of the purchase arrangements, Kean said.

The new leases mark the first time the production subsidiary will be conducting drilling operations outside Texas and Louisiana. The acreage is located in Monroe,

Adult participation in offerings at UC up 2,352 in year

Almost 5,000 adults participated in non-credit courses, workshops, seminars, and conferences during the 1974-75 academic year at Union College, Cranford, according to an annual report issued by the Division of Special Services and Continuing Education.

A total of 4,677 adults registered in 163 programs that featured areas such as management, human relations, fine arts, real estate, health, and a variety of tailor-made professional or personal enrichment courses.

According to Dr. Frank Dee, dean of educational services, this year's report reflects an increase of 2,352 students in almost three times as many programs as the previous year. In 1973-74, some 2,325 students were enrolled in 66 programs conducted by the Division of Special Services and Continuing Education.

A significantly larger number of women than men registered for continuing education courses at Union College this year. In 1974-75 women outnumbered men two to one although during the previous year an equal number of men and women registered for the division's programs.

In terms of attendance, the most popular programs conducted by the division were those offered by the Department of Community Services without charge. These included a lecture series in home horticulture, attended by 285 persons; an advanced science seminar lecture series, attended by 162 academically talented high school students; a lecture-demonstration on the detection of breast cancer which attracted 180 persons; and income tax clinics geared especially for working people, students, and senior citizens which were attended by 172 persons.

Typing classes offered at college

The first course will be conducted for four weeks, Mondays through Thursdays, from 9 to 11 a.m., beginning July 7 and continuing until July 31.

The second course will meet for two weeks, beginning Aug. 4 and continuing until Aug. 14. It will also meet four days per week from 9 until 11 a.m.

Christine Haun of Staten Island, an experienced business teacher, will be the instructor. Tuition for the typing course is $25.

Band school concert Wednesday evening

The 60-member Advanced Band of the Union County Orchestra and Band School will present a free concert Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Locust School, Roselle. Military music and selections from the musical, "Oliver," will be among the program features.

The young musicians are among 200 attending the 43rd annual summer school session of the Union County Orchestra. Classes began June 24 and will run for five weeks. Casimir V. Berk is director of the school.

Union dates listed for recycling van

The Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Co. van will be at the parking lot of the Two Guys store, off Morris avenue and Rt. 22, Union, from 1 to 3 p.m. on July 16, Aug. 6 and 20, and Sept. 10 and 24 to collect all-aluminum beverage cans and other clean household aluminum.

A spokesman for the company, which pays 15 cents per pound for the recyclable material, reported collections during the first half of 1975 are up more than twice over what they were six months ago.

He noted aluminum cans may be identified by the following criteria: they are non-magnetic, light in weight, have no side seams and have a small, round bottom edge.

Homemaker unit adds bath service

Bath service has been added to the list of services offered by homemaker-health aides of the Visiting Homemaker Service of Central Union County. The agency serves Linden, Kenilworth, Mountainside, Roselle, Roselle Park, Union, Winfield and 10 other Union County communities.

The fee of $6.50 for the bath service includes transportation, bathing of the client, preparing bed with fresh linen and straightening bedrooms.

Homemakers responsible for bath service include Mrs. Joan Colvin of Linden, Mrs. Hattie Stimpson of Union.

Ten complete language class

Ten students were honored in ceremonies Monday, marking their completion of studies in Union College's Institute for Intensive English Language Learning, Elizabeth.

The students were awarded certificates by Dr. Mary Ann Parmentier, acting dean of coordinate academic programs at Union College, indicating they have satisfied the objectives of the program.

Second session of UC summer starts on July 14

Registration for Union College's second six-week summer session will be conducted on Thursday evening, July 10, at Union College's Cranford campus, it was announced this week, by John Wheeler, director.

The in-person registration will be conducted from 6 until 9 p.m. Classes will get underway on Monday, July 14, at Union College's Cranford campus and its Urban Educational Centers in Elizabeth and Plainfield.

Union College's Summer Session II will meet four days per week during morning and evening hours. One hundred courses in the areas of English, natural and social sciences, mathematics, the fine arts, business administration and foreign languages will be conducted.

In addition, a number of developmental courses in the areas of English, mathematics, and science will be conducted for those who lack the background or want a refresher before taking the credit-level course.

The six-week Summer Session II will conclude on Thursday, Aug. 21. Union College's summer session is open to current students, students regularly enrolled at other colleges or universities, adults wishing to take courses for professional or personal enrichment, and high school students who would like a "sneak preview" of what college is about, Wheeler noted.

Credits earned in the summer session may be applied toward an Associate degree program or transferred to another college or university.

announcing the first really new milk container in ten years

Tough as nails, clear as glass, and you can return it again and again. That's LEXAN[®], the new space-age milk jug developed for us by General Electric. It's the modern, convenient way to buy the pure, fresh milk your family enjoys. Available only at Garden State Farms Dairy Stores.

For years the big glass jug was Garden State Farms' most popular milk container. Its greatest benefit was the money it saved our customers. By returning your jugs, you saved the cost of throwaway containers.

The only real problem with glass jugs was that they would break if dropped, and, being made of glass, they were a little heavier than most people liked.

What we really hoped to find was a replacement for glass that had all its advantages and none of its disadvantages. General Electric helped us find it. It's called Lexan, a new clear, lightweight material that will withstand the rigid sanitation required to maintain the purity of returnable containers.

We call it our SUPERJUG. Because that's exactly what it is. It provides the economy and purity of glass, yet it's made of material so tough it actually went to the moon with the astronauts.

We invite you to try SUPERJUG. We think you'll really like it.

N.J. Bicentennial leader
256 communities are cited

New Jersey is No. 1 among the 50 states in the number of municipalities and counties which have received official federal designations as "Bicentennial Communities."

The State Bicentennial Commission announced this week the state now has 256 "Bicentennial Communities" designated by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration in Washington.

New York and Texas are tied for second with 252 each, followed by Massachusetts with 240 and Ohio with 221.

To receive the designation, a community must demonstrate it has developed plans for Bicentennial programs and activities that will generate wide public participation and interest.

In making the announcement that New Jersey had moved from fourth to first place, former Gov. Robert B. Meyner, chairman of the State Bicentennial Commission, said, "This is a welcome sign that New Jersey is succeeding in one of the major goals of its Bicentennial observance—to stimulate the broadest possible base of local grass-roots activity, involvement and diversity of programs."

Seventeen of New Jersey's 21 counties have designated "Bicentennial Communities." They are: Atlantic, Bergen, Burlington, Camden, Cape May, Cumberland, Essex, Hudson, Mercer, Middlesex, Monmouth, Morris, Salem, Somerset, Sussex, Union and Warren.

Among the counties, Bergen is in first place with 35 of its municipalities recognized as "Bicentennial Communities." Morris is next with 25, followed by Union and Monmouth with 20 each.

Among the Union County communities cited by the Commission are Mountainside, Linden, Roselle, Roselle Park, Springfield, Winfield and Union. In Essex County, Newark is among the designated municipalities.

Leave fireworks to the pros is plea of Safety Council

The New Jersey State Safety Council this week issued a plea to youngsters and their parents to forego what it calls the doubtful pleasure of shooting off illegal and dangerous fireworks in the back yard.

According to the Safety Council, nationally, an estimated 3,000 persons sought emergency room treatment last year and thousands more were treated by private physicians for injuries associated with fireworks.

The most serious fireworks injuries commonly involve loss of eyesight, amputation of fingers, severe burns, broken bones and cuts.

On the basis of studies made by the U.S. Product Safety Commission and the National Fire Protection Association, most injuries seem to occur in the following ways: a firecracker is held in the hand too long after lighting the fuse, throwing a lighted firecracker at another person, exploding one or more firecrackers stuffed inside a pipe or some other object, taking a firecracker apart and lighting the powder.

Parents were advised to immerse firecrackers in water or dampen them with a hose and drop them off at the local police or fire department.

The Safety Council noted that even the so-called "harmless" sparklers are responsible for large number of injuries to children. The sulfur-coated wire of the sparkler can reach temperatures as high as 2000F—and just the afterglow of the wire can cause burns and clothing fires.

The Council suggested attendance at a public fireworks display operated by trained and licensed pyrotechnicians under controlled conditions.

Epilepsy chapter asks center funds

The New Jersey Chapter of the Epilepsy Foundation is appealing for $6,700 in private contributions, required to match federal funding, in order to establish the state's first pre-vocational evaluation center.

The center would provide personal counseling, work evaluation, substantial contact with other people and assessment of seizure activity. There is no facility in the state to determine the vocational ability of these people and, as a result, they often remain at home, isolated and unproductive.

The State Division of Mental Retardation will provide the space, insurance and building maintenance; the Division of Vocational Rehabilitation Services will provide the funds for staffing the center. Donations may be sent to Epilepsy Foundation of America, New Jersey Chapter, 9 Terminal rd, New Brunswick, 08902.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My mother passed away last year and my father has been dating a younger woman who works at his office. I do not dislike this woman, but I do feel she is going with my father only because of the gifts she has been receiving. For her birthday, he gave her a very expensive watch with diamonds. A couple days ago Dad gave her a cluster diamond ring which must have cost $1,000. What do you think of this?

Cindy

Dear Cindy:

I think it proves that diamonds really are a girl's best friend! If Dad is over 21, there isn't much you can do but voice your opinion. But don't expect anyone to hear you.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

Larry and I have been married three years. I am 29 and he is 25. Larry was married before and has two children. He spends every Saturday with these children and I feel like an outsider. Besides I want a child of my own because I feel that Larry will have more interest in our home. This may be wrong and I may be selfish. But do you think it would work?

Dear Left:

Of all the reasons for wanting a child, this is one of the worst. Babies aren't something to be used to keep a husband home. Besides, it wouldn't work. You knew Larry had two children when you married him, so adjust to the fact and learn to live with it.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

My daughter piles on makeup like it is going out of style. She is only 16 and here's what she uses—mascara, lipstick, eye liner, lip gloss, blusher, makeup base, and several other things which I can't remember. What can I do?

Mom

Dear Mom:

Makeup has been around almost as long as soap and water. Girls have always found ways to give mother nature a helping hand but your daughter seems to be overdoing it.

Why not suggest that she enroll in a charm class? They will teach her to make down, NOT make up.

Dear Pat and Marilyn:

Denise and I went together for a year. We were engaged and had planned to get married in six months.

My best friend, Greg, was always very nice to Denise and often accompanied us bowling, to shows, swimming, etc. I just thought he liked both of us. Then Denise started breaking dates and our relationship suddenly changed. I asked her why and she said she just wanted to be free. Within two weeks she was dating my best friend. What can I do?

Hurt

Dear Hurt:

Nothing. I know you feel betrayed by Greg and hurt by Denise. This is a natural reaction. Keep your social life active. You'll be surprised how quickly another pretty girl can mend a broken heart.

Actor challenged by role created by Marlon Brando

Robert De Niro, a virtual newcomer to the screen, plays the part of Don Vito Corleone in "The Godfather, Part II," which is being held over for a second week at the Park Theater, Roselle Park.

Director Francis Ford Coppola, who also wrote the screenplay in collaboration with novelist Mario Puzo, says that "De Niro's assignment is incredibly difficult when you consider that he is being asked to become a well-known character created by one of the most famous actors in the world Marlon Brando ('The Godfather'), in a role for which he received tremendous credit.

"To have the audacity to play him as a young man... to evoke that character without doing an imitation of him... and, in addition, to do it all in Sicilian - which he doesn't speak... those are his problems."

"The Godfather, Part II" spreads out in opposite directions, says Coppola, the modern half following the path of Vito's son, Michael, resumed by Al Pacino, two-time Oscar nominee.

The pendulum swings back to Vito's childhood in Sicily and his young manhood in the ghetto of New York's Little Italy.

Coppola assigned a Sicilian coach to augment De Niro's studies at Berlitz. Armed with a tape recorder, the actor then took off for Sicily, where he taped the distinct inflections of the people.

Coppola admits that the physical resemblance between the actors "is certainly tangible. But De Niro's features remind me of Vito Corleone, not Brando. The accent had, the kind of funny smile, the strong cheekbones and jawline."

De Niro's own opinion in the matter is "it's like being a scientist or a technician. Audiences already know Vito Corleone. I watch him and say, 'That's an interesting gesture. When could he have started to do that?' It's my job as an actor

Pick Of The LPs...Music from the original motion picture soundtrack of JAWS (MCA RECORDS, MCA-2087). Here's another film music LP album to add to your "originals" collection.

The music is composed and conducted by John Williams, and include "Main Title" (Theme From JAWS), "Chrissie's Death," "Promenade" (Tourists On The Menu), "Out To Sea," "The Indianapolis Story," "Sea Attack Number One," "Preparing The Cage," "Night Search," "The Underwater Siege," "Hand To Hand Combat" and the "End Title" theme.

"Jaws" concerns the nightmare terror that is unleashed when a mammoth man-eating Great White Shark attacks swimmers in the waters off a small East Coast beach resort. The film is based on Peter Benchley's best-seller. The screen version is set against the background of Benchley's fictitious Long Island town of Amity, with film footage shot in the Atlantic Ocean and undersea sequences filmed in the Australian Coral Reef. "Jaws" was filmed on location in and around Martha's Vineyard Island, Mass.

The film stars Roy Scheider, Robert Shaw and Richard Dreyfuss as three men of different sensibilities who join in a hunt to destroy a killer embodying nearly three tons of instant white death.

As we have suggested in the past concerning soundtrack albums, first see the film; if you like the music, then decide whether you would enjoy listening to replays on your turntable.

to find things I can make connections with." De Niro says that "people will make comparisons. I suppose, but I can't really worry about that. He's him, and I'm not him. I know who I am as an actor, and I'm not like anybody. I'll suggest things, that's natural, and that's my job - to make audiences recall and feel the older Vito. It's a very special way to build a character with him in mind. The character may be a continuation but the actors, Marlon Brando and me, we're two separate people."

Co-star in 'Lenny' ran gamut of convent school to Las Vegas

Valerie Perrine, who plays Honey Bruce, wife of Lenny Bruce in the film biography, "Lenny," which opened on a double bill with "The Long Goodbye," yesterday at the Elmore Theater, Elizabeth, is a former hippie, Las Vegas showgirl and convent school girl. She plays opposite Dustin Hoffman who has the title role in the movie.

VALERIE PERRINE

"I adopted a new philosophy to get me through those endless nights of showing off my body. I worked in a mental vacuum of nothingness, thinking of nothing and grating when the music told me to. That was my protection."

"I lived a hippie life for a while," she says, "but I don't think I could live that life again. It's impossible for me to be totally unproductive."

When she returned from Europe, she came to Hollywood, and met her agent-to-be, Bob Walker. She was signed to do Montana Wildhack in "Slaughterhouse Five," then appeared with Jeff Bridges in "The Last American Hero," in which she played a race car groupie.

"Lenny" came next—and with it, a starring role. The picture, in color, features Jan Miner, Stanley Beck and Gary Morton. Bob Fosse directed.

'GONE WITH THE WIND'—Scene from movie classic which won 10 Oscars shows Vivien Leigh as the memorable Scarlett O'Hara and Clark Gable as Rhett Butler. Picture opened yesterday at Old Rahway Theater, Rahway.

'Gone With Wind' opens in Rahway

The massive picture, which has 59 major speaking roles, and thousands of extras, was highlighted by the "burning of Atlanta" scene. Of the picture's 90 sets, 50 buildings alone were designed and erected in recreating the city.

State Bar to ask Senate to drop 'courtesy' vetoes

The N.J. State Bar Association will ask the State Senate to reconsider its rules and abandon the practice of senatorial courtesy, under which senators can veto certain executive appointments.

The association president, Joseph M. Nolan, has appointed a commission to study the practice of senatorial courtesy. He asked the commission to consider the problem in depth, including receiving testimony from interested members of the State Senate. A report on their findings will be issued by Sept. 15.

Co-chairmen of the commission are Nathan L. Jacobs, retired Associate Justice of the N.J. Supreme Court, and Monsignor Thomas G. Fahey, president of Seton Hall University.

Other members of the commission include: Alfred C. Clapp, former State Senator and former chief judge of the Appellate Division, N.J. Superior Court; Woodruff J. English, Newark attorney; Rabbi Harry B. Kellman, Cherry Hill, member of the N.J. Board of Higher Education; Frank J. Kingfield, retired judge of N.J. Superior Court; George F. Kugler, former N.J. Attorney General; Oliver Lofton, former U.S. Attorney for N.J. and current administrator of Newark Legal Services Project; Thomas L. Morrissey, Newark attorney; Barry T. Parker, State Senator.

James C. Pitney, Newark attorney and former assistant U.S. Attorney; the Rt. Rev. George E. Rath, Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Newark; and Mrs. Selma M. Rosen of Millburn, chairman of the legislative reform committee of the League of Women Voters.

9.7 million listed for vet benefits

Almost 9.7 million men and women remain eligible for wartime veterans benefits based on military service during the Vietnam Era, which was ended May 7, by Presidential proclamation.

The Veterans Administration explained that more than 7.5 million persons, who have been separated from military service since Aug. 4, 1964, and some 2.1 million who were on active duty May 7, are entitled to full wartime benefits.

All persons who are disabled in service, regardless of entry date, will continue to receive compensation and dependents' benefits on a par with veterans of wartime service.

Deluxe Claridge House II now accepting applicants

Rental applications are now being accepted for occupants beginning this November at Claridge House II, the ultra-modern, super deluxe 12-story high-rise on First Mountain in Verona. The 336-unit Y-shaped building on Claridge drive and Rt. 23 (Pompton avenue) offers one, two and three-bedrooms apartments from $590 per month.

One bedroom apartments have from 1,300 to 1,600 square feet of space and rent from $580 monthly; a two-bedroom unit averaging 1,800 square feet of space rents from $865 per month; and the super three-bedroom apartment with in excess of 2,400 square feet rents from $1,165 monthly. The latter unit runs from one end of the building to the other and there is only one in each wing.

Terminal Construction Corporation of Wood-Ridge, the same firm which designed and built the original Claridge House, New Jersey's most luxurious high-rise, is constructing Claridge House II, which is rapidly nearing completion.

A rental pavilion with professionally-decorated model apartments which illustrate the thoughtful planning which went into each is open for public inspection. The public also can view the 12-story building which is just off the rental pavilion.

Features at Claridge House II include: a porte cochere entrance with uniformed doorman, a spacious lobby complete with an entire wall of cascading water, a bevy of beautifully appointed rooms for social activities, including the Highland Lounge which is a quiet retreat for intimate parties, card games, and other recreational games amidst a background of wood-toned paneling and a handsome carpet.

The mountaintop 13-acre tract, just north of the original Claridge House, is the setting for an Olympic-size swimming pool, cabanas, health club with twin exercise rooms for men and women, saunas, tennis courts and other recreational amenities. There is also indoor and outdoor parking with 24-hour valet attendant service. Majestic fountains grace the front of the complex, splashing water into circular reflecting pools. The grounds will be landscaped and groomed and there is an electrical snow melting system for the roadway and sidewalks at the main entrance.

Amenities include laundry facilities in each apartment, separate breakfast areas, sliding glass doors opening to balconies (two in the three-bedroom complexes), room-entry foyers, individually controlled central air conditioning, and kitchens equipped with automatic dishwashers, double ovens with self-cleaning features, side-by-side no defrost refrigerators, with automatic ice makers, custom cabinets and other lavish appointments. Baths have vanities with cultured marble tops and basins and there are telephone and TV outlets in many of the rooms.

A rigid security system has been designed for the complex which is guarded day and night by a trained staff. An unusually sophisticated electronic network includes closed circuit television for 24-hour surveillance and an intercom and intrusion alarm mechanism which connects each residence with the front desk. Each apartment will be monitored whether occupied or not, a feature especially appealing to families who are away traveling.

NEARING COMPLETION — Occupancies are expected to start in November at Claridge House II, a 12-story apartment complex being built by the Terminal Construction Corp. of Wood-Ridge at Claridge drive and Rt. 23 (Pompton avenue) in Verona. The building will include one-, two- and three-bedroom apartments priced from $585 to $1,165 monthly.

The building also has a fire alarm detection system with heat and smoke detectors and connection directly to the Verona Fire Alarm System. In the event of a power failure an emergency stand-by power system will provide necessary emergency service such as lighting in public areas and elevator service.

Each floor will have two storage rooms with a large private storage locker for each owner. There also are two trash disposal rooms on each floor, separate mail and package rooms for the east and west wings, and separate elevator lobbies with three elevators in each wing.

Tidewater appointment

Herbert Meyer of Livingston, for 17 years a supplier of lumber to New Jersey builder-developers in the capacity of salesman, branch manager and director of lumber and plywood sales, has been appointed sales director of Tidewater Lumber, a division of Tidewater Industries with corporate headquarters at 132nd St., Bronx, N.Y.

The announcement was made by Herbert M. Seaman, chairman of the board of Tidewater, who has himself been a longtime lumber wholesaler and proprietor of lumber mills.

The company has major distribution points located at Brooklyn, Port Elizabeth, Philadelphia and Baltimore. "This variety of distribution will offer greater reliability and a high degree of service and speed to merchant-builders in the tri-state area," according to Meyer, "We are prepared to offer full builder service from 'house-load' to 'trailer-load'."

FRIENDS—Bob Baxter and DT, a half-grown tiger, greet each other as handicapped veterans, many in wheelchairs, visit Terry Lou Zoo in Scotch plains. Baxter, who was photographer for this newspaper and is a patient at hospital, arranged trip to New Jersey Press Photographers Association.

Wheeling around the zoo

For most people, a trip to a zoo is a normal summertime outing, but for 20 handicapped veterans from the U.S. Veterans' Hospital at East Orange, many in wheelchairs, it was a first.

The veterans, who are all members of a photographic educational therapy class at the hospital, visited the Terry Lou Zoo at Scotch Plains, N.J. under a program arranged by the New Jersey Press Photographers Association.

The trip was arranged by Bob Baxter, photographer for this newspaper, a member of NJPPA and a patient at the hospital, who started an annual clinic by NJPPA at the hospital two years ago and the class this year. The men were welcomed at the zoo's gate by Frank Terry, the owner, accompanied by DT, a half grown tiger. (DT had few doubts as he sat on Baxter's lap.)

In addition to being the first photographic field trip for the group, it also was the first time for many of the men that they were able to get close to wild animals.

After an initial shyness, they warmed up and permitted the baby llama to nestle up against them, shook hands with a red-faced baboon and were squeezed by a boa constrictor.

Photo tips and camera adjustments were made by NJPPA members who participated. NJPPA members also are serving as guest speakers for weekly hospital programs and believe that other press photographer groups could organize similar programs.

Consumer prices up 0.4 percent; meat leads rise

The New York-Northeastern New Jersey area Consumer Price Index rose 0.4 percent in May, according to Herbert Bienstock, the U.S. Department of Labor's Assistant Regional Director for the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The rise primarily reflected higher prices for meats, as well as home purchase, women's apparel and medical care. Partially offsetting the effect of these increases were lower prices for a number of food items, particularly dried beans, eggs, sugar, milk and several fresh produce items, said Bienstock.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the index also rose 0.4 percent, continuing the moderation evident in recent months. In the first five months of 1975, monthly increases averaged 0.3 percent compared to 0.9 percent in 1974.

Between May 1974 and May 1975, the area's Consumer Price Index rose 7.7 percent, the first time since October 1973 that the over-the-year rise was less than 8 percent. The rate of annual increase peaked at 11.9 percent in October 1974. Since May 1974, food prices rose 8.1 percent, and housing was up 7.7 percent. The health and recreation index rose 9.2 percent, with medical care up sharply by 14.2 percent. Transportation prices rose 7.1 percent, and apparel rose 4.5 percent.

In May 1975, the food index was up 0.3 percent over the month, almost entirely reflecting a sharp 3.7 percent rise in meat, poultry and fish and vegetables index declined 1.2 percent with price drops for dried beans, cucumbers and green peppers. The dairy products index dropped 0.8 percent, reflecting lower milk prices.

The housing index rose 0.3 percent in May. Homeownership was up 0.8 percent, largely due to higher home purchase prices. Household furnishings and operations rose 0.5 percent, with higher service fees and prices for household supplies. The gas and electricity index dropped 2.2 percent as electricity charges declined reflecting lower fuel prices paid by utilities.
