Collegiate 'Job Expo' Dec. 29-30

College seniors and recent college graduates who are looking for jobs will be offered an alternative chance to meet employers when St. Peter's College and the New Jersey Dept. of Labor and Industry present Job Expo '76, Dec. 29 and 30 at the Jersey City school.

Organized by George Alpmov of the state's dept. of labor and industry, William Hill, a representative of Jersey City's Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) program, and William Stoms, director of St. Peter's career development center, Job Expo '76 is an employment service program aimed at bringing prospective employers from participating business firms together with scores of college seniors and graduates seeking jobs.

The only program of its kind being offered in the metropolitan area, Job Expo '76 will be open without fee, to all seniors or recent graduates regardless of where they attended college.

According to Hill, "the program will allow business representatives to search out future employees from a quality labor pool in the metropolitan area, while permitting seniors and graduates to meet a maximum of potential employers in a short time."

"Employers will be able to meet and interview well-trained and educated employee prospects, from colleges across the country, who will be home for the holidays," he said.

"Participating firms will be able to provide informational material, and provisions will be made for general or private interviews," Hill noted. He also added that resume assistance, and professional, job counseling will be made available to students and graduates.

Hill encouraged firms interested in participating in Job Expo '76 to contact St. Peter's career development center at 333-4400, ext. 260.

Symphony to perform

The Metropolitan Y Orchestra, sponsored by the YM-YWHA of Metropolitan New Jersey, will present its first concert of the year Sunday, Dec. 21 at 3 p.m. under the baton of Michael Bartos. The orchestra will present works by Mozart, Beethoven and Mendelssohn.

Blossom Winkler Cohon of Maplewood will be the piano soloist. She has recently returned from the northwest where for ten years she performed in solo recitals, as soloist with symphony orchestras, the Philadelphia Quartet and in chamber music recitals. Mrs. Cohon was a member of the piano faculty at the University of Washington in Seattle and at Pacific Lutheran University, Tacoma.

Tickets to the concert are now available at the Y or may be purchased at the door. An informal coffee hour will follow the concert to which the audience is invited. Additional information may be obtained by calling the Y, 760 Northfield ave., West Orange, 796-3200.

Art display by students

Creative artwork produced by New Jersey students in an experimental program seeking to demonstrate a relationship between art education and improved racial understanding is being exhibited in the Lower Level Galleries of the New Jersey State Museum, W. State street, Trenton, now through Jan. 30.

The program, which was sponsored by the N.J. State Council on the Arts and funded by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare through the Emergency School Aid Act, assigned professional artists with varied ethnic backgrounds as resident teachers in 17 desegregating school districts.

The State Museum, a division of the N.J. Department of Education, is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 1 to 5 p.m. weekends and most holidays. It will be closed on Christmas and New Year's Day. There is no charge for admission.

Deer fawn over visitors

Public welcome at park farm

Though the cold weather has finally set in, the 45 miniature fawns of the resident herd at the Essex County Park Commission's Fallow Deer Farm in West Orange still are welcoming visitors—and Commission director James Taylor urges the public to view the compound and its inhabitants.

St. Elizabeth students to perform Yule opera

Sponsored by the Alumnae Association, the students of The College of Saint Elizabeth, Convent Station, will perform Gian-Carlo Menotti's Christmas Opera, Amahl and the Night Visitors tonight and tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Xavier Auditorium on the college campus.

Sister Eileen Dolan is music director and Miss Dorothy Barton is dramatic director for the Christmas opera. Tickets, $5 for adults and $3 for children and students, may be obtained by calling the Alumnae office, 539-1600, ext. 260.

their visitors with all the warmth and wonder they themselves inevitably evoke.

The history of the fallow deer traces back to the Mediterranean area, from which, in Roman times, they were transported to Great Britain.

As for their history in Essex County, that goes back a full 70 years, to 1905, when the Park Commission acquired one buck and four does. These were placed in a 100-acre pen some two miles from the current location of the farm in South Mountain Reservation.

There were subsequent relocations to Weequahic Park in Newark in 1911, and back to South Mountain Reservation in 1918. By that time, nature being its self-restorative self, the herd had grown to over 100 members. Later, all but 40 were traded to other park systems throughout the nation.

Today the herd stands at approximately 45, which experience has proven to be about the ideal number for the area now occupied by the Fallow Deer Farm.

As for the commonly asked question of why the fallow deer haven't been incorporated into the Turtle Back Zoo, Taylor answers that the zoo can't provide a large enough land area for a 45-deer herd. "Apart from which, we like the idea of providing the public with an additional and separate area that they can visit. And the area surrounding the Fallow Deer Farm is in itself one of the most scenic, unspoiled and relaxing that you'll find anywhere."

Despite the popularity of the Fallow Deer Farm, and the costs of maintaining the herd, there is no charge to visitors. The only requirement, and it's really only a request, is that visitors desiring to feed the deer purchase the dietetic foods that are available all year from the farm attendants for a few pennies cost.

"These deer are so lovable that everyone wants to feed them," Taylor notes. "And unfortunately, they just don't qualify for Weight Watchers." So Taylor implores visitors not to feed the fawns normal "human" foods.

U. S. to continue panel on nitrites

WASHINGTON — The Expert Panel on Nitrites and Nitrosamines has been renewed by the Secretary of Agriculture, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced this week.

The purpose of the panel, which was established in September, 1973, is to advise the Secretary of Agriculture.

Nitrite, a chemical substance used in the curing of meats such as ham, bacon and sausage, has been demonstrated to inhibit the growth of the organism that causes botulism. It has also been reported that nitrite can combine with secondary amines in food to form substances called nitrosamines, which have been shown to be carcinogenic in laboratory animals when administered at high dosages.

The panel has already made recommendations that nitrate be banned from cooked sausage such as frankfurters; canned, cured, perishable or shelf stable products like canned hams; canned, cured sterile products, and bacon. It has also recommended a reduction in the level of nitrite used as a cure.

Income tax workshop

A one-day workshop for preparers of federal income tax returns will be held at Kean College, Morris Avenue, Union, on Saturday, Dec. 20, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The free workshop is open to all returns preparers, accountants, and tax practitioners regardless of professional affiliation. It is sponsored by the Internal Revenue Service and the New Jersey Association of Public Accountants.

Employees of the Internal Revenue Service will discuss preparation and filing of returns, explain ways to avoid common errors and changes in tax law which affect 1975 income tax returns.

Zoo plans Yule show

Turtle Back Zoo will present a free holiday program Sunday at 4:45 in the zoo's Education Building.

This program will include a variety of short films focusing on wildlife and cartoon-type themes, members from the cast of the successful new show called "The Circus" and a visit by a few of the zoo's popular animal friends.

Turtle Back Zoo (560 Northfield Ave., West Orange) is open all year round, weather permitting, from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily. Pony rides have begun for the winter season.

Kean lists 'Oratorio'

The Music Department of Kean College will present the "Christmas Oratorio" of J.S. Bach, parts four, five and six, Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the college's Wilkins Theater.

Featured will be the combined Concert Chorus and Choral of Kean College with instrumental ensemble, conducted by Professor James Cullen. On the same program, the Women's Chorus, conducted by Professor Michael Montgomery, will sing compositions representing several composers and periods.

A donation of $2 will benefit the tour fund. Students and senior citizens will be admitted free. For tickets or information, readers may call the Music Department of Kean College, 527-2107.

Film on TV on elderly

The psychological, physical and religious problems of the elderly in the United States will be explored in a film feature on "Focal Point," Saturday, Dec. 20, at 6 p.m. on Channels 50 and 58.

The film documents how the United States has historically treated its elderly citizens.

Following the film, hosts David Langston Smyrl and Susan Robinson will discuss the plight of the elderly in New Jersey.

Dance Dec. 18 for group at Y

The first anniversary dance of the Speak-Easy group sponsored by the YM-YWHA of Metropolitan New Jersey will be on Thursday, Dec. 18 at 8 p.m. Music will be provided by the Vic Juris Combo.

Speak-Easy meets on the first and third Thursday of each month at the Y for lounge programs, special activities and dances planned by the group. Further information and fees may be obtained by calling the Y, which is located at 760 Northfield Ave., West Orange, at 736-3200.

Holiday energy conservation urged by U.S. regional aide

Urging all segments of the community—family, business, industry, government and community organizations—to include “energy saving ideas in their holiday preparations, Alfred Kleinfeld, regional administrator for the Federal Energy Administration, this week pointed out “Americans must be prepared to sacrifice in order to enjoy the principles of Brotherhood.”

The Regional Energy chief said he is calling for “good sense in the use of decorative lighting designs.” Kleinfeld notes that one way to show good taste and exercise sound energy practice at the same time is to increase your enjoyment of the tree by turning off the rest of the lights in the room.

Kleinfeld suggests that families “accent, rather than combat the stars,” in outdoor decorations. “An excellent way to bring out the holiday spirit, Kleinfeld adds, “is to use holiday decorations tailored to today’s conservation era. Energy saving midget or cool lights can be purchased if a lamp or string require replacement and cost only a fraction of a penny a day to operate.”

Kleinfeld hopes the public will continue sound energy conservation practices throughout the holidays, and suggests the following measures:

- Keep heating down to 68 degrees during the day and 60 degrees at night.
- Plan shopping trips to save gasoline, and car pool with friends when you can.

If there are any appliances on the ones Christmas shopping lists, make sure the ones you buy are both durable and efficient.

Local celebration of Bicentennial in state best: Meyner

A Bicentennial celebration in New Jersey featuring a strong base of community programs involving youth and local school systems was called for this week by former Governor Robert B. Meyner, chairman of the State Bicentennial Commission.

“Too many other states have concentrated on one big event or two or three major events in planning their Bicentennial observances,” Meyner declared. “In New Jersey, it is our hope that the Bicentennial will be celebrated primarily through a series of local programs and activities generated by community initiative.”

Meyner told the Bicentennial Commission that he views the Commission’s chief role as seeking to stimulate and assist each community in New Jersey to develop programs that appeal particularly to its residents, especially the young people.

“If anything meaningful is to come from the Bicentennial celebration,” Meyner asserted, “I hope it will be renewed respect and understanding of the institutions developed in this nation over the last 200 years and an ability to transmit those intangibles to our youth. I hope that each community will develop a program to inculcate in its youth an appreciation of what we have in this country and to encourage the young people to participate in these institutions.”

Meyner expressed the hope that the communities, working with their school systems, will develop local programs typical of each community to be carried out during the spring and early summer leading up to July 4, 1976.

“If we can interest our youth,” he said, “we will also interest their parents and the other people in the community.”

Parental contracts expanded by Blue Cross, Blue Shield

Dependent children who reach age 19, starting next year, will be covered under community-rated Blue Cross and Blue Shield parental contracts until year-end under a new liberalized policy announced this week by the Plans.

The new program replaces a former rule that cut a dependent child off at the end of the benefit month during which the child turned 19. Now, regardless of when the child’s birthday occurs during the year, he or she will be covered until the end of that year.

“The purpose of this uniform cutoff date is to eliminate confusion and uncertainty over how long a dependent is covered under a parent’s contract,” explained a Plans spokesman.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield have always permitted children to arrange their own coverage, when reaching the cutoff date, without a health statement. This policy will continue.

The new rule automatically will become a part of all Blue Cross and Blue Shield community-rated Family and Parent and Children contracts. It is being offered as an option to experience-rated groups of 100 or more subscribers which purchase their own programs tailored to their own needs. Many of these groups have different cutoff ages for dependent children.

Members of these groups are being advised to consult their benefit booklets or the person who handles the group’s Blue Cross and Blue Shield coverage to determine how long a mentally retarded or physically handicapped dependents may remain on a parent’s contract after the calendar year in which they reach age 19 if chiefly dependent on the parents for support and maintenance. Under the new regulation, satisfactory proof of incapacity and dependency must be submitted to the Plans within 31 days of the end of the year in which the child reaches age 19. The rule for dependent children who marry will remain the same. They may stay on a parent’s contract only until the end of the benefit month of marriage.

“It is important that parents be aware of the regulations governing dependent children, because the process of conversion to separate coverage for the dependent child is not automatic,” said the spokesman. “The parent must notify us before we can take any action.”

New hiring system for parks jobs

The National Park Service has announced that seasonal jobs in the North Atlantic Region will be filled by a new hiring system beginning Jan. 1. Under the new procedures, all job applications must be sent directly to the Regional Office in Boston, not to individual parks.

Park officials expect the Regional Office centralization to streamline the process, which in the past has been characterized by floods of duplicate forms to many of the parks in the region.

Eight thousand applications are expected for 300 seasonal job openings anticipated in North Atlantic Region parks this year. Prospects for seasonal jobs are relatively slim. Returning employees with proven work records will fill the remainder of the seasonal positions, totaling about 1200 in the region.

All 31 National Park System areas in Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York and New Jersey are covered by the new plan.

Applications for these parks will be accepted between Jan. 1 and Feb. 15 only at the North Atlantic Regional Office of the National Park Service, 150 Causeway St., Boston, Mass., 02114. Federal Form SF-171, the required resume sheet, is available at any post office or federal personnel office. Envelopes sent to the Regional Office should be marked “Seasonal Employment Application.” Available jobs include park technician, park aid and maintenance positions.

Stamp and coin show scheduled for Dec. 21

The Central Jersey Stamp and Coin Exchange will sponsor a Stamp and Coin Show on Sunday, Dec. 21, at the Ramada Inn, Route 18 at New Jersey Turnpike Exit 9, East Brunswick. The show will run from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission will be free and there is ample free parking.

BICENTENNIAL BYPATHS

OUR COUNTRY 200 YEARS AGO

On December 10, 1775, Gen. Nathaniel Greene reported to Gov. Samuel Ward of Rhode Island that the troops “seem to be so sick of this way of life, and so home-sick, that I fear the greater part will go home.” The diary of a Private Lunt recorded “Colonel Little’s regiment excused from duty. Paraded in order to enlist men for the new establishment; a considerable number engaged.”

A FEMININE LOOK ... AT THE WORLD ... AND THINGS

The Sun of Lake Powell

The sun shines forever at Lake Powell, the new great man-made lake in Utah and Arizona. It is perpetual and relentless. Or so it seems. But of course, it is not so. There are some days—perhaps all of five or six—when the sun does not shine the entire day.

And so it is with tours. There are, perhaps, some hours in the day when some tour somewhere is not sashaying about. Otherwise, it seems there are tours forever at Lake Powell.

And it is no wonder. It is big, wide-open country with plenty to see.

Lake Powell is now 186 miles long with a coastline of more than 1,900 miles and it is still growing. By today, for instance, the lake may very well be 200 miles long with 2,000 some odd miles worth of coastline. According to reports from dam authorities and local publications, the lake still has anywhere from 28 to 40 more feet to rise, and from three to seven years to do it in. The figures vary according to which report you are reading, unfortunately, but there definitely is more to go, which means the water will considerably inundate more land and increase the lake size and shoreline. All of which means more places for more tours to go to.

Adding to this huge lake playground, there is the damming of the river at Glen Canyon that is creating the lake. This river, with its rapids and canyons including the overwhelming Grand Canyon, offers exciting raft tours through its wild waters.

And so, with lake and river to choose from and good weather to count on, the tours abound. There are one-hour tours, half-day tours, all-day tours, overnight tours, two-day tours, five-day tours, ten-day tours, any number day tours; camping tours, picnic tours, down river tours, rapid running tours, custom tours, boat tours, plane tours, jeep tours, combination tours; you name it, they've got it.

ONE OF THE LARGEST tour companies is Canyon Tours Inc., run by Art and Evelyn Greene of Wahweap Lodge and Marina in Arizona. The Greens, including four children and their families, have had years of Colorado River and backcountry adventures, and when Glen Canyon Dam was completed in 1963 and the entire area made into the Glen Canyon National Recreation Area, the Greens became a logical Park Service choice to operate Lake Powell visitor facilities.

The Wahweap Lodge compound is all facilities to all visitors, believe me. Practically every lake tour begins from its marina; it has an air strip and tie down for the fliers, a National Park Service swim beach and boat launching facility for the boaters and campers, a trailer village for the gypsies, and a new and modern air-conditioned motel and restaurant for the sojourners. What, no golf course? It is only five miles from Page, the biggest town close to the lake; only seven miles from a commercial airport, and right off a major highway. To add to all that, it has the greatest asset in the entire Lake Powell world. It is the only lodge-hotel-motel-what-have-you on that huge shoreline. No other lodge-hotel-motel or what-have-you can make that statement. And what a claim it is.

Wahweap Lodge sits directly on the lake front and most of its rooms and the great dining hall face the view. When the lake rises to its tui height, the guests will probably be able to walk out of their rooms for about five feet and go jump in the lake, literally.

THE STRANGE MARINA called Rainbow Bridge. Unlike most marinas, this one is not connected to land, but is floating. It is anchored at Forbidding Canyon in more than 200 feet of water because the shoreline is so "forbidding." It is solid rock. It is on the way to the famous Rainbow Bridge.

Other motels are in the area, particularly in Page, but none are directly on the water. Hardly anything is directly on the lake, so Wahweap Lodge is particularly blessed. The reason is that the lake and its area are National Park stuff and so no one can buy land. A great part of the territory also is Navajo Indian reservation land which further limits it.

About the biggest permanent installations on the lake are the marinas. Since boating and camping are so popular at the lake, the marinas are almost a necessity. A total of five, however, is the grand sum for that enormous shoreline, and not all of them are for launching either. Some of the marinas are only fuel and supply stations and could not launch a boat if they tried.

Rainbow Bridge Marina is such a one. Not only is it not for launching, it is not even tied to land in the first place! Nestled in Forbidding Canyon, just before the waterway to famous Rainbow Bridge viewpoints, this marina is, as you might say, a floater.

Instead of having a nice, inviting shoreline as any respectable inlet would have, Forbidding Canyon has a shoreline of solid orange rock walls instead. Its sides are so steep that there is no land room for a dock or any type of building. There is not even a road to it from the land side. It is an inhospitable wall to both sides. So the marina is a floating one and water-locked one, anchored in more than 200 feet of water. On it is a structure for the manager of the marina to live in, a store, fuel tanks and what the locals call a "summer house."

IF YOU ARE headed for Rainbow Bridge by boat, you must pass this marina and then follow the winding waterway canyon for another ten minutes or so to come to your first glimpse of the wondrous bridge. As you come around a certain bend you can see it for the first time from the boat. Then the boat must tie up at the dock (not to be confused with Rainbow Bridge Marina) and you must walk for another ten minutes to get to the bridge.

It, too, is big. So big that it is the world's largest natural rock span: 309 feet high and 278 feet long. On the top, if you can make it, (there are no steps, all is natural) the widest part is 42 feet. Even with its giant size, the bridge was in such an inaccessible location before the advent of the lake, that it wasn't until 1909 that a white man ever saw it. Now, with the lake, thousands see it each year.

Lake waters will never touch any part of the bridge even when maximum level is reached. Lake water will, however, eventually fill 46 feet of the 67-foot deep ravine underneath the bridge, and seepage may, in time, undermine the stately span. It is seepage and evaporation that have apparently given Lake Powell country some headaches. According to reports, engineers had expected the lake to be at its top level by now, but because of the high, unexpected rate of seepage and evaporation, it still has several years to go, and some of the rock formations are endangered or have already tumbled.

The bridge is a sacred place to the Indians and they call it "Rock Rainbow." So it almost seems, too, particularly when the setting sun hits its splendid red sandstone sides. Then it is indeed a rainbow of rock.

Setting sun and rising sun are flamboyant in this land. Morning sun is sparkling and afternoon sun is golden, but high noon sun is deadly. The trouble with Rainbow Bridge tours is that they all arrive at the bridge at high noon. With no trees to speak of, rock walls all around, the temperature at 90 and the humidity at TWO, the beating sun can really do an Easterner in.

It beat me. I couldn't make it all the way to the bridge and had to settle for staring at it from 200 yards away—hugging a lone shrub pine two feet high for a branch-worth of shade.

Next: Of Pies and Pets and More Canyons

THE FAMOUS RAINBOW BRIDGE in Utah as seen from the Lake Powell approach. The bridge is so huge that if people were standing on the top of the span, they would be only a series of dots, or could not even be seen. At 309 feet high and 278 feet long, the bridge is the world's largest natural arch.

African jewelry, wares in exhibit at Trenton

More than 70 decorative and functional objects, some of them being shown publicly for the first time, are featured in an "African Textiles and Jewelry" exhibition opening Saturday in the Main Galleries of the New Jersey State Museum, W. State street, Trenton. It will continue through Jan. 11.

Organized and circulated by International Exhibitions Foundation, Washington, D.C., the exhibition includes wearing apparel, blankets, wallhangings, ceremonial headdresses, rings, bracelets and necklaces made and used by

VA warns vets: update recipient of life insurance

The Veterans Administration this week reminded the five million veterans covered under its government life insurance program to make certain that beneficiaries on their GI insurance policies are current.

The VA is obligated by law to pay insurance proceeds to the beneficiary of record. Most of the agency's insureds are World War II veterans who carry National Service Life Insurance, a spokesman explained.

The problem of insurance benefits going to an unintended recipient generally arises where the veteran simply fails to change his beneficiary.

In a typical case, a veteran named his mother as beneficiary when he obtained his policy. Later the veteran married and overlooked the requirement to notify the VA of intended change in beneficiary. Unwarranted financial hardship often results, the spokesman said.

If in doubt as to current designation, veterans are urged to submit a change of beneficiary. It was also emphasized that lump sum payments only may be paid when so designated by the insured veteran.

Policy changes should be sent to the VA insurance center—in Philadelphia or St. Paul, Minn. where the insured's premiums are paid. All requests should include policy number along with full name and address.

Additional information on insurance benefits and other veterans' assistance can be obtained at VA regional offices or local veterans organizations.

PORTRAIT by Rophel Soyler is one of 30 prints by five of the leading graphic artists in America today on display at Soton Hall University Art Gallery, South Orange, now through Dec. 20. Also included are lithographs, etchings and wood engravings by Richard Florsheim, William Gropper, Chaim Gross and Lynd Ward, whose works have been provided by the Art Corner in Millburn. "Portrait" has also been reproduced on a commemorative poster available free to viewers upon request. Gallery hours are 10 a.m.-10 p.m. weekdays and Saturdays and 2 p.m.-10 p.m. Sundays.

'Paint the Town' art exhibition set

"Paint the Town" will be the theme of a Bicentennial Art Exhibition, offering a $1,000 grand purchase prize, sponsored by the Jersey City Bicentennial Commission with the cooperation of the Jersey City Public Library Museum. Entries are limited to New Jersey residents.

Claire Warlikowski, art coordinator of the commission and a trustee of the Jersey City Public Library Museum, said "works in oil, acrylic, watercolor, casein, pastel and all graphic media will be accepted." More than 500 prospects and printed historic site brochures have been sent to each library, museum and art association in the state.

All entries should be delivered to the Jersey City Library Galleries May 7-8, 1976. The exhibit will run until June 24. Additional information and a list of historic sites may be obtained from "Paint the Town" Exhibit, office of the Director, Jersey City Library, 472 Jersey ave., Jersey City, 07302, or by calling 435-6282, Ext. 30 or 33.

130 R.N.s, a record, seeking Upsala degrees

A record 130 registered nurses are working toward bachelor degrees at Upsala college in East Orange this semester under a new program which offers up to two years of credit to R.N.'s for previous academic study and work experience. The total includes 44 day students and 86 evening students who are taking 217 courses.

The program now is in its third semester and the number of nurses who seek to study for their liberal arts bachelor degrees has more than tripled since its inception.

Dr. Louisa Fanale, Upsala

biology professor and coordinator of the program, said some nurses are seeking degrees to advance to higher jobs in hospitals, others believe further education will help them in other careers related to nursing and others seek to broaden their educational life experiences.

The program, Dr. Fanale pointed out, is flexible for working nurses whose shifts change periodically. They may take courses in the morning, afternoon or evening and there are no time limit periods within which the educational program must be completed.

Approximately 75 percent of the present group is studying psychology and sociology and a large number is studying Spanish as an aid in communicating with patients in urban hospitals. About 80 percent are studying anthropology because an understanding of primitive culture makes it easier for them to understand present culture, Dr. Fanale said.

FIRST TAX ON AMERICA

The Stamp Act, which went into effect on Nov. 1, 1765, was the first direct tax placed on America by Britain. Before enactment (October) it was protested by the Stamp Act Congress in New York City. The British repealed the measure the following March.

How to keep natural Christmas trees fresh

Nearly 30 million American families will be looking for a natural tree for Christmas this year—repeating a custom that dates back more than 100 years in this country.

The National Christmas Tree Association has initiated a consumer awareness program designed to help them get the best tree possible.

"The essence of a quality natural tree is not only size, shape and density, but freshness as well," an Association spokesman said. "A fresh tree will not sustain a flame and is therefore not a hazard in the home."

A simple test will help consumers determine a Christmas tree's freshness, he noted. Gently stroke a few of the needles. If they bend, rather than break or drop off, it is reasonable to expect that the tree is fresh. It will remain so during the Christmas season if a few more rules are adhered to:

—Make a fresh cut with a saw about half an inch from the bottom of the stump to open the water-absorbing "pores" of the tree. Tests have shown that a straight cut will allow the tree to absorb as much water as a diagonal cut, and will make it easier to stabilize the tree in the stand.

—Put the tree in a water-holding stand—at least two-quart capacity—and keep the stand filled with water above the bottom of the stump.

Place the tree in a room away from heat sources like heating ducts, radiators, television sets, etc.

When decorating, make sure there are no exposed wires or broken sockets on the lights.

"With these simple steps, there is virtually no prospect that a natural tree will become a fire hazard in any home. A fresh Christmas tree will not sustain a flame and will burn only if it dries out as the result of sustained high heat such as might result when something else in the room burns and then transfers the flame to the tree," the spokesman said.

A Christmas tree's usefulness isn't over at the end of the holiday season. It can be put to many uses around the home.

For example, the boughs can be chopped off and used as a mulch around flower beds. The tree can be set upright in the yard and bird food attached to it to serve as a bird feeder. A green tree often adds a cheery spot to a bleak garden in the heart of winter.
