Mr. and Mrs. Peter Harrison, cochairmen of the Cancer Crusade in Mountainside, reported this week that they have learned of 56 Mountainsiders who have been cured of cancer, eight in

"Not very long ago, the mention of the word cancer would terrorize an individual. People would imagine horrors and equate the disease with hopelessness," stated Charles Hardwick, one of the 1977 Union County Erusade co-chairmen, in a recent speech. "Medical advancements and knowledge gained over the past 30 years have changed that attitude. The American Cancer Society had done much to destroy the myths and create a climate of hope," he concluded.
The Harrisons said, "Medical skills are vital to saving lives, but therapy and rehabilitation determine the difference between success and failure for the individual. Toward this end, cured cancer patients have dedicated their resources to help others become useful, productive citizens.

100 mph auto chase ends with 2 arrested

A 100-mph police chase on Rt. 22 from Mountainside to Scotch Plains early Sunday ended in the arrest of two men on charges of receiving a stolen automobile

Fred L. Banks, 22, of Plainfield, driver of the car, and his passenger, Clifton M. Erwin, 21, of Scotch Plains, were apprehended at 1:50 a.m. after their auto smashed into the concrete curbing on the highway and blew two tires. Neither was injured, police said.

According to police, Mountainside headquarters had received a call from the Steak & Ale restaurant reporting a disabled vehicle, which had run out of gas. Officers William Moylan and Jack Yerich brought a can of gasoline to the restaurant lot, where they were met by Banks and Erwin. The officers drove the two men to their auto, parked on New Providence road, and then asked

The declarations may be filed with the county commissioner of registration or with Mrs. Dunne at Borough Hall.

Police said Banks, who had been driving "at a high rate of speed," was then travelling "in excess of 100 mph." The patrol car, with lights and siren on, pursued the auto for approximately three miles, before Banks lost control of the car near Bonnie Burn road and it hit the curb.

Budget beaten; Speth, Knodel, Williams win

By KAREN ZAUTYK

Mountainside citizens went to the polls Tuesday, defeating the 1977-78 local school budget and giving threeyear Board of Education terms to two anti-budget candidates, Patricia Knodel and R. Charles Speth. The third board seat went to Dr. Arthur Williams, who had run on a slate with Bart A Barre and Alice Gillman.

Of the 5,368 registered voters, only 1,821 cast ballots at the Deerfield School. Including absentee ballots, the vote against the $1,679,175 current expense budget was 907 to 690. The budget will now be sent to the Mountainside Borough Council, which has 15 days to decide how much money should be cut from the total. The governing body also may make recommendations on where the paring should be done, but the school board has the final say on

Panel will list historic sites within borough

The first and probably the biggest assignment for Mountainside's newly formed Historical Preservation Committee was outlined at the group's ecent organization meeting.

"We want to identify and catalogue all of the sites, artifacts, buildings and locations that have historical significance to the borough before this year is out," explained Thomas A. Hyde, chairman.

While recognizing that much had already been done, Hyde said that his committee plans to forward a complete listing to the borough Planning Board so that it can be noted in the master plan which is being prepared to com-form with the state's new land use regulations. Mary Lou Greeley was named chairman of the historic sites subcommittee with James L. Clark. Clark is also vice-chairman of the main

The Historical Preservation Committee was appointed by the Mayor and approved by the Council on Jan. 4.

Committee members are Arthur J. Brahm, James L. Clark, Mary Lou Greeley. Pat Hanigan, Anne Hose, Thomas A. Hyde and Robert A. Osbahr. Donald L. Jeka, who is chairman of the Mountainside Planning Board, is an advisory member.

Other officers appointed were Anne Hose, executive secretary, Robert Osbahr, chairman of the preservation subcommittee and Pat Hanigan, chairman, promotion and liaison subcommittee.

Hyde emphasized that the committee will not take the place of any existing groups in town who are engaged in similar activities. He encouraged other groups to contact him with information and ideas that could contribute to the overall objective.

received 983; Williams, 971. The alsorans, Barre and Mrs. Gillman, tallied 909 and 924, respectively.

Mrs. Knodel, a member of the school board for five years, lost a reelection bid in 1976. Following Tuesday's victory, she commented, "I'm just delighted with the confidence the people placed in us (herself and Speth). I'm also delighted about the budget

Explaining her stand against the budget, she noted, "There has been an 11 percent drop in school enrollment; last year we paid off a bond, resulting in a $33,000 reduction in debt service; and the board no longer has the expense of paying for the Echobrook School maintenance, which has been taken over by the Borough Council.

Speth, the only incumbent seeking reelection, stated he was "very thankful for the confidence the people showed in me." Commenting on the budget, he said, "If you would like to hear a little Will Rogers, I believe the budget is like a garden. You fertilize it, but you still have to pull out the weeds."

Dr. Williams, who supported the budget and whose running mates had been defeated, declined to make a statement on the election results "at disease is most commonly found in the descendants of people with Italian or Greek ancestry.

"First discovered by Dr. Thomas Cooley of Detroit in 1925, the disease afflicts more than 200,000 children in the United States.

"There is no known cure, and the only known treatment to keep these children alive is by blood transfusions every two to four weeks. The prognosis is generally not encouraging by reason of the side effects of an excessive accumulation of iron into the blood stream and body systems. We hope that the results of current national research projects will lead to an eventual cure of the disease.'

All interested persons have been invited to support the affair; they may purchase tickets from the ticket chairman, Ernest Liguori of Springfield, 277-0463, or the Unico president, Joseph DiLeo of Mountainside, 233-3080.

There will be a cocktail hour, dinner, dance, professional entertainment and "Venetian hour" of pastry, fruit, nuts and assorted delicacies.

starting assignment as a junior. By MIKE MEIXNER Joseph's forte is rebounding.

Dayton Regional's basketball team completed the season with a 7-14 record, but Coach Ray Yanchus is not totally disappointed. The team was loaded with juniors who will be back next season. Their inexperience this past season cost the Bulldogs some games late in the season, but their development over the past four months points to good things to come.

Here's a look at the 13 members of the team and their statistics:

Ken Baskin, a highly talented 6-2 forward, was slated for a starting role as the season began. He then developed a serious illness, causing him to see action in only 10 games. Baskin ranked third in field goal shooting on the squad, hitting at a 46 percent clip.

Kevin Doty, the team's high scorer and rebounder, will return for his senior season next winter. Doty's impressive statistics were 18.3 points per game, and 9.9 rebounds an outing.

Kenny Feld, a shifty playmaker, played both junior and senior varsity basketball during his junior year at Dayton. Coming off an injury which sidelined him during his sophomore year, Feld saw limited action.

Ken Fingerhut, another junior, was counted upon for both starting and relief duty. Ken was a 75 percent free throw shooter who scored 31 points on the year. Dave Ironson, a two-sport performer, played forward under Coach Yanchus. Dave hit double figures in the scoring column. Ironson sported an excellent log from the charity stripe.

Israel Joseph, perhaps the team's most aggressive ballplayer, received a

Skip Liguori, an added surprise for the team, enjoyed an excellent year during which he started regularly. Liguori, an outstanding passer, will return next year. Skip notched 25

Brian McNany, the senior guard, was an excellent defensive performer who forced many turnovers. The hustling co-captain scored 82 points, fifth among Dayton players.

Ted Parker, an on-and-off starter, finished his third varsity season. A strong rebounder with great leaping ability, Parker starred in many aspects of the game.

Steve Pepe, sharing co-captain duties with McNany, averaged over 15 points per ballgame. Steve, a 42 percent shooter who led the team in free throw shooting (75 percent), contributed Dayton's single game high output of 37

Kevin Walker, a 6-5 center, hit 50 percent of the shots he attempted. Kevin averaged 10.5 points per game and, being a junior, is constantly im-

Willie Willburn's dazzling passes earned him the team's assist championship. Also a scorer, Willie totalled 156 points, many coming from long range.

STEEL PRODUCTION

Some 20 countries account for 93 percent of the world's total steel production - led by the United States, the Soviet Union and Japan. In the decade from 1960 to 1970, Japan practically trebled her steel output.

Frank Zahn, sturdy and aggressive. also received a starting assignment. A gutsy performer, Zahn possessed an ability to make things happen. Peter Jacques, a solid performer. was forced to miss his senior year. being injured at the season's beginning. Mike Rosenberg also received a varsity letter. The hard-working senior was a key factor in organizing the equipment. The players recognized Mike as an integral part of the team. John Kronert also played for Dayton, acting as a playmaking guard before leaving the team.

Golf team to tee off

By MIKE MEIXNER

The golf season at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School is scheduled to begin on Monday. The team will play all of its home contests at the Baltusrol Golf Club, ac-Coach cording Raymond Yanchus, who expressed his thanks to the club for lending its facilities.

The 1977 team has two returning lettermen, senior Mike Rosenberg and junior Skip Liguori. Five other team members have seen varsity action. They are Jeff Scholes, Phil Fantozzi, David Gechlik, Al Rothenberg, and Bobby Silva. Newcomers who should help the squad in Suburban Conference play include freshman Martin Swanson, sophomores Toby Lesofski and Neil Tepper and senior John Irwin.

The scoring format for Suburban Conference golf has been changed for the coming season. The new style will include the addition of the scores of six players who have of golf, and the team receiving the lower score will be declared the victor, gaining one point in the conference standings. If a match ends in a tie, a halfpoint will be given to each squad.

The championship of the conference will be decided in an 18-hole competition. and other major postseason events will be the county state tournaments, which will feature some of New Jersey's finest New Jersey's golfers.

Coach Yanchus sized up the Suburban Conference: 'Summit and Millburn are the conference powers, sporting some experienced country club golfers. New Providence and Madison are also strong clubs.'

is practically yours.

When your house runs out of room, the practical thing to do is add a room. Or two. Or a deck or a porch. Or finish the basement. But do something. Because needed home improvements are practical in every way.

In most cases, it's much more practical than moving. And by doing it now, when you really need it you avoid possible inflationary hikes in costs. In addition, chances are you'll get more than your money back if you have to sell the house.

So if things have gotten too cozy around the old homestead, make room with a United Counties Trust Company Home Improvement Loan. We've got the money and we'd like to help. And with our new increased loan limits, we can help as much as $10,000 worth. And give you extended repayment terms.

All you have to do is apply for a Home Improvement Loan at any UCTC office. Once that's done the extra room (or two) you need is practically yours.

The number of unemployed in the 18 county New York-Northeastern New Jersey area rose by 33,000 between December and January to 694,000, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics. The åreawide unemployment rate rose from 9.7 percent in December to 10.3 percent in January, with increases reported throughout the area.

The bulk of the over-the-month rise occurred in Northeastern New Jersey where the jobless rate increased from 9.3 percent in December to 10.8 percent in January reflecting a jump of 30,000 in the number of unemployed to 224,000. With post-Christmas seasonal cutbacks in employment in trade and other sectors, unemployment typically rises sharply in January

Among the six metropolitan area components of the New York-North. eastern New Jersey area, double digit jobless rates were reported in five, with Nassau-Suffolk, at 9.6 percent, the exception. ## Contractors charge: DEP ignores landfill

New Jersey this week criticized the annual report of the state's Department of Environmental Protection for "ignoring the effectiveness of sanitary landfilling and leaving the impression that resource recovery must become the only method of solid waste disposal. Carmine F. Malanka, president of SWIC, which represents private contractors and disposal operators handling 80 percent of New Jersey's solid waste, said that, in its 51-page report, the DEP devoted only six paragraphs to solid waste. He stated:

"Only the worst aspects of improperly-operated landfills were discussed in the report. The DEP chose to ignore that properly-run sanitary landfills, as regulated by the department, are completely acceptable from an ecological and environmental point

"Obviously, the DEP's strategy is to continue promoting resource recovery in preference to existing sanitary landfills. The DEP fails to point out, however, that even a resource recovery system operating at maximum efficiency would require sanitary landfills to handle the 15 to 50 percent residue which would remain.

"Resource recovery is still an unproved technology which has been tried and found wanting in several parts of the country. There have been a number of applications made by private contractors for resource recovery operations, and private industry is still continuing its efforts to discover a truly effective method of resource recovery which is both economical and acceptable to the taxpayers of the state. To date, no significant progress has Malanka said that an analysis conducted by engineers from the Los Angeles Sanitation District of 50 resource recovery projects in the U.S. and Canada had concluded that "there is no existing system that has been proven sufficiently to allow for its immediate implementation in the Los

'As in the case of Los Angeles,' Malanka said, "a resource recovery proposal for Denver collapsed once Colorado's lawmakers discovered that the promoters of recycling equipment were nowhere near a proven large-scale capability "The list of failures in the so-called resource recovery programs continues

'Dspite this, however, the DEP-and the Administration-seem determined to force resource recovery upon the industry and public, regardless of the cost which, as indicated, would be extremely high, particularly when compared with the present $2 to $3 per ton for sanitary landfilling.

He continued, "You may be sure that if resource recovery were economically viable, current disposal operators would be the first to adopt the method. The fact that they have not is a strong indication of the problems faced.

"Therefore, until a truly-efficient large-scale resource recovery system has been developed, low-cost sanitary landfilling must continue to be the most effective, economical and, indeed, environmentally acceptable means of solid waste disposal for New Jersey.'

Malanka also challenged the DEP to prove that a landfill "crisis" really exists in New Jersey, as it has stated many times. He said:

"The so-called 'crisis' may, in fact, be laid directly at the door of the DEP. Many times since the department reached this unilateral conclusion several years ago, SWIC has offered to work with department representatives in conducting a survey of land available for landfilling purposes. We have never been taken up on that offer.

"Our own preliminary survey, however, indicates that there is more than enough land available for many years of sanitary, scientific landfilling. Malanka also called for an end to multiple regulation of the industry.

He stated: "This contributes not only to the chaos in solid waste management in New Jersey, but also to the state's reputation as being 'unstable' in its relationship with the private solid waste industry.

Malanka also urged the DEP to work with the industry in "developing a solid waste management plan which will be to the mutual benefit of taxpayers, businessmen and government.

Show planned on 'malpractice'

Opposing views on the subject of medical malpractice will be heard on a live half-hour "New Jersey News: Special Report" on New Jersey Public Television April 14 at 8 p.m.

Rosemary Hall of NJPTV will lead a discussion by State Sen. Raymond Garramone of Westwood, sponsor of a bill to confine malpractice suits to certain limits, and State Sen. Martin L. Greenberg of East Orange, who opposes such legislation.

Screenings set for oral cancer

Oral cancer screening programs will be offered in hospitals throughout New Jersey from April 11 to 16, which Gov. Brendan Byrne has proclaimed as Oral Cancer Screening Week.

The program is being conducted on a state-wide basis for the second consecutive year in an effort to help reduce the increasing incidence of oral cancer, which has one of the highest mortality rates of all cancers, according to Dr. Charles Trad, associate director of surgery at Point Pleasant Hospital, chairman of the state screening program.

The state-wide screening program has been expanded to a week-long observance to allow as many people as possible to be examined. Last year more than 9,000 state residents were screened in one day

Coupons to aid charity project

Spring housing boom is seen by developer

Josh Popkin, president and Development Corp, developers of Dover Heights, Toms River, foresees a substantial increase in new home building in Central New Jersey, in the coming months. An easing of tight money and credit as well as pent-up consumer demand are the prime reasons for Popkin's optimism.

"Although new homes are no less expensive than during the recent recession" Popkin said, 'We can now expect a renewal in inflation as well as natural realty appreciation to start prices moving upward in prime demands areas, such as Ocean County. The consumer who is now in the home-buying market

- or expects to be shortly - would be wise to anticipate rising costs and make a move immediately prior to the demand. We believe today's sophisticated consumer will consider these facts, thereby precipitating an upswing in demand.

Dover Heights has recently opened its final section of lots for spring construction. Eight models are offered, each on minimum 15,000 square feet, abundantly-treed lots. Models include contemporary, tradi-tional chalet and English tudor designs, each customized to suit the needs of individual buyers.

The Canterbury twostory tudor design is Dover Height's latest model and is styled unlike any other now available in the Toms River area. Classic tudor styling graces the exterior while the interior has been designed to reflect contemporary lifestyles.

Included in the Canterbury's base price of $65,500 are continuousclean oven, range with hood, wood kitchen cabinets with full height mica backsplashes around counters, and hardwood floors.

The model features four bedrooms including a master bedroom with walk-in closet and sitting area, baths, U-shaped kitchen, den and two-story entry.

A full range of optional features — including central air conditioning. humidifier, central vacuum and built-in intercom with AM-FM radio is also available.

Now offering immediate occupancy in its first completed 50-story tower, Galaxy tenants will enjoy a lifestyle of urban ambience never before attainable in a rental community in the metropolitan New York area, the developers say.

For example, health and recreational facilities at the 1,200-unit development will include indoor and outdoor swimming pools, tennis courts, paddle tennis courts, saunas, exercise rooms, whirlpool baths, and much more, all within an exclusive country club atmosphere.

But recreation is just a small part of the Galaxy lifestyle. There's shopping and dining at the soon-tobe-completed Galaxy Mall, which will not only feature an exciting array of fine shops and boutiques, but an elegant restaurant, cinema, and a landscaped park and promenade.

Service is yet another important aspect of the Galaxy lifestyle. Each tower not only has its own 24-hour concierge and doorman, but a large, experienced staff to insure the ultimate in personalized service and attention to detail.

Students need 'push' Plan shore tour -- by bed

By land, by boardwalk and by water six football players and a coed from Upsala College, East Orange, will embark upon a strange three-day odyssey along the New Jersey seashore next Monday.

The players, most of them from the shore area, will push a speciallyconstructed bed from Long Branch to Atlantic City to raise funds for the Upsala football program and to publicize the importance of the New Jersey shore area as THE place to vacation. The bed, made by Upsala football coach John Hooper, will have special wheels, lights and a horn.

Assisting them in the "Bed-Push-A-Thon" will be the mayors of Long Branch and Atlantic City. Mayor Henry R. Cioffi will push off the bed at Long Branch and Mayor Joseph Lazarow will receive the bed movers in Atlantic City. The trip will begin at 11 a.m. Monday at the Park of the Presidents. Broad

Vets job drive to aid disabled

An intensive campaign to place veterans in more meaningful, betterpaying positions will be launched tomorrow by the Newark Metro office of the National Alliance of Businessmen in cooperation with area veterans groups.

While helping veterans of the Vietnam-era conflict find employment is a year-round function of the NAB, the April drive will place special emphasis on those who are disabled, according to Frank Dolan, veterans manager of the Newark Metro unit.

"Disabled vets," said Dolan, "seem to be having more problems than the others in finding good jobs in various trades and in middle management positions. This campaign will focus on their special needs, their abilities, reliability and willingness to work hard to achieve. These men not only deserve recognition for what they've done, but what they can do. They also deserve the security and the dignity that comes with a good job, good money, good working conditions and good opportunities for advancement.

Assisting in the project are various posts of the American Legion, the Disabled American Veterans and the Employment and Counseling Section of the Veterans Administration regional office in Newark.

Dr. Kahn expert on education -from blackboard to school board

When students prepare for a teaching career at Upsala College, East Orange, they have the advantage of being taught by a Roselle Park professor whose experience in education has run the full gamut from teacher to school board member.

Professor Fred Hahn, chairman of Upsala's education department, has served as a school board member for 11 years. He started his educational career as a seventh and eighth grade social studies teacher at Hamilton School, Highland Park.

"Serving on a school board and preparing college students to become school teachers complement each other," said Dr. Hahn, "As a school board member I am able to learn what school systems are looking for in teachers. On the other hand, as an educator, I can bring to my fellow board members the latest developments in the education of prospective

Dr. Hahn spent six years on the Roselle Park Board of Education before he decided it would be best not to seek re-election because his wife, the former Paula Sonntag, had joined the Roselle Park High School faculty as a business teacher. (They met in the superintendent's office at Highland Park High School where his wife-to-be was applying for a teaching position). Dr. Hahn, who was born and educated in Washington, N.J., and earned his three degrees at Rutgers University. has been a member of the board of the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools for the past five years.

Roselle Park and Upsala have had a close association during the years. In 1968, Dr. Louis Raths, a former NYU professor considered one of the nation's top educators, and Dr. Hahn were commissioned by the college to develop new approaches in teacher preparation. Dr. Raths came up with 10

These definitions of teaching were adopted by Upsala as guidelines for students to follow in their educational process to become teachers. They also were adopted for teachers to follow in the Roselle Park school system.

Upsala's teacher education program, developed along the lines of a medical internship, includes interns assigned to the Roselle Park system as well as the East Orange and Glen Ridge systems. Interns spend most of their senior years assisting in the classrooms of the elementary and secondary schools.

Upsala products are now teaching in each of the five Roselle Park schools. In addition, Larry Cooper is an Upsala teaching intern at Roselle Park High School.

Dr. Hahn, who also teaches at Georgian Court in the summer, explains that while the teaching job market may be tighter than usual 'there is always room for good teachers as there would be for good engineers." He points out that more than 75 percent of Upsala's teacher graduates have been placed in school systems in every county of New Jersey plus out of state. Many, he said, have gone on to administrative positions.

Professor Hahn's involvement with education never comes to a stop. Later this month he'll be attending the National School Board convention in Houston. And from that he'll bring back new ideas which will benefit his teacher prospects as well as the Union County Vocational-Technical school board.

THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

The unknown or unspoken is often far more frightening than the known. Thus, at the Clinical Center, research hospital of the National Institutes of Health, young cancer patients are aware of their illness and treatment.

The Clinical Center believes that children are individuals who deserve respect. That respect is reflected in the staff's honesty with them.

The NIH team-doctor, nurse, social worker, and professionals-is trained to talk with the children and families frankly about cancer and its meaning.

Leukemia patients know about blood-white blood cells, red blood cells and platelets. Some understanding of medical terms helps to make their disease less frightening for them.

The children discuss with one another the various aspects of the treatment. For example, they may suffer a loss of hair from radiotherapy and openly share their feelings and embarrassment about it.

Children can help each other. In one instance, a boy who was about to have his leg amputated met with an amputee who was walking with a prosthesis. He was encouraged by meeting someone who had survived an amputation and was coping with his

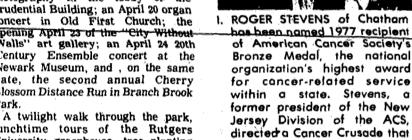

The experience at NIH shows that children can also talk about death, perhaps with greater ease than adults. The young patients are aware of the death of a friend and usually want to ask questions about it. One 11vear-old said he always wanted to know when a death occurred. He said he felt very angry when left

The Clinical Center may become a part of these young lives for a long time because their treatment may require return visits to NIH.

This shuttling back and forth is often arduous; none-the-less, it permits patients and their families to have a home life, And, when they get home they want to be treated as normally as possible.

Therefore, at NIH, children and their parents are assisted in allaying the fears of how they will cope when the patients return home. They learn that community attitudes

Although no scientific proof exists, some people telieve cancer is catching and forbid their children to play with the patient.

Forum planned by child groups

'Permanency, Security and Love: A Child's Right," will be the topic addressed at a statewide conference Tuesday, April 5, at the Holiday Inn in North Brunswick.

The all-day symposium is being cosponsored by Child Service Association, Citizens Committee for Children of New Jersey and the Junior League of Montclair-Newark. The three organizations are concerned about children who remain in out-of-home placement for long periods of time due to the lack of planning and an adequate review system.

Barbara Chappell, director of the South Carolina Office of Child Advocacy, will deliver the keynote address, "A Child's Right to Parents." New Jersey State Senator Alexander J. Menza (D-Union) and Essex County Juvenile Court Judge Horace Bellfatto are two of the participants in the panel discussion "Reviewing the Cases of Children in Out-of-Home Placement."
