Master Plan the biggest news of 1978

As mandated by New Jersey State law, the Mountainside Planning Board last year completed more than three years of study and adopted a revised Master Plan for the borough. Residents came out in full force to persuade the Borough Council to make changes in a zoning ordinance based on that Master Plan.

Although the voting went entirely Republican, local Democrats offered candidates and took several districts in the November election. In the annual school election, board members Pat Knoedel and Charles Speth denounced the budget which was then defeated by two votes.

The Police Department settled with the borough and agreed to a three-year contract, but local teachers entered the school year without a contract for the eighth time.

$3 million dam at Lanape Park wins Army engineers' approval

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo announced this week that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has given approval for the start of construction of a $3 million dam at Lanape Park to prevent flooding along the Rahway River.

Construction of the earthen dam is expected to start next spring following the awarding of a contract by the Union County Board of Free-holders. The final cost will exceed $3 million if the free-holders include park and recreation improvements in the Lanape project.

Rinaldo said the use of existing parkland owned by the county would prevent the type of flood catastrophe that devastated Cranford during Hurricane Doria. It caused millions of dollars in damage, and cut off sections of the township. "Anyone in Cranford who has experienced the terrible ordeal of being exposed to flood waters every time there is a heavy rain will breathe a sigh of relief when this dam is completed," Rinaldo said. "It is a case of man using nature to hold back the flood waters."

Rinaldo praised Ken Marsh, the county hydrologist, for developing the proposal to use the natural flood detention areas in Lanape Park for flood control purposes. He added it is one of the most cost-effective flood prevention projects in the nation.

In addition to flood prevention, construction will open undeveloped marshland and nature areas of Lanape Park for miles of bike trails on top of the earthen banks. The freeholders also are considering proposals to expand recreation areas in the Lanape Park area, including fishing, trapshooting, and a pistol range.

It is estimated that the dam levees can be constructed within a year, opening the park for public use in the summer of 1980.

Rinaldo said the Lanape dam will improve downstream water quality by controlling soil erosion and sedimentation. The 326 acres in Kenilworth now is criss-crossed by dikes and marshes, and is a natural habitat for fish and birds. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which had given earlier approval for the development, was persuaded that the natural dam would improve water quality in the area and provide overall benefits for fish and wildlife in the lower reaches of the Rahway River.

Rinaldo noted that Congress also has agreed to provide $19 million for flood control on Robinson's Branch of the Rahway River in Clark, Scotch Plains, and Rahway, and for the main stem of the Rahway River and Van Winkle's Brook in Springfield.

Controlling the floodwaters of the Rahway and Elizabeth Rivers is a top priority in this Congressional district, Rinaldo added. The Elizabeth River project, costing $41.6 million, is scheduled to be completed in 1983.

First mishap injures driver

The first accident of 1979 within the borough of Mountainside involved a local resident and resulted in a lower leg injury to the driver of the one car involved.

Donald A. Nelson of Sunny Slope drive, according to police reports, ran off Wyoming drive at 1:53 a.m. on Monday Jan. 1. He reportedly told police that he did not know what had happened when his car ran off the road and struck a tree. Nelson, who was charged with having no registration in his possession, was taken by the Mountainside Volunteer Rescue Squad to Overlook Hospital with a contusion of the lower leg. He was treated and released Tuesday morning. A Wyoming drive lawn and a town-owned tree were reported damaged.

Sacraments series to open Wednesday

The first in a series of six lectures entitled "The Sacraments... A Perspective" will be given by Rev. Edward Elbert Wednesday night at 8 in the sanctuary of Our Lady of Lourdes Church. A discussion period will follow the lecture which is sponsored by the adult education committee of Our Lady of Lourdes.

Council honors two 'survivors'

B'nai B'rith's "Man of Destiny" award will be given to two Mountainside residents, survivors of the Nazi Holocaust, by international president Jack Spitzer Jan. 29 at Temple Emanuel, 756 East Broad st., Westfield. Herbert Ross, chairman, said the two to be honored are Zygmunt Gottlieb and Edward Harvitt.

The Northern New Jersey Council meeting will be preceded by a cocktail party, from 6 to 8:30 p.m., with a donation of $26 per person going to the National Youth Services Appeal.

Further information and reservations are available from the B'nai B'rith office, 687-7494.

Blood donors being sought

The Westfield-Mountainside Red Cross Chapter will hold a community blood bank Tuesday, Jan. 16, at the Presbyterian Church, 140 Mountain ave., Westfield.

Mrs. Edward Love, blood chairman, said: "The need for blood continues. Let us see and have new people contribute along with the ones who have been generous over the years. Anyone 17 to 65 years of age is eligible," she noted.

Council begins year; Voorhees residence prompts some doubts

The local municipal government—including most committees, boards and employees—will remain basically the same in 1979, Mayor Thomas Ricciardi revealed at the Borough Council's reorganization meeting Tuesday night.

The governing body itself will have only one new face, Robert Vigilanti, replacing Don Halbsgut. Thomas Spina, elected in November, continues in the council seat to which he was appointed 12 months earlier. John Post was reappointed borough attorney.

Deputy Borough Clerk-Administrator H. Lee Voorhees remains on the job—but with questions about the appointment raised by Mayor Ricciardi. The mayor said Voorhees committed himself to meet a Mountainside-residency requirement when he was initially appointed a year ago, but Voorhees has found it economically impossible to find housing here.

The council "is aware that we have a problem," Ricciardi said about the Voorhees residency issue. "If further problems develop, then we will face the ultimatum. We haven't faced it yet."

Voorhees, however, questioned whether state residency is a legal requirement for continuing in his position. He said he finds no such requirement in state statutes—and believes that the council merely asked, not ordered, him to move to town at the time of his appointment.

There was no immediate confrontation between the council and Voorhees on the residency question.

Voorhees added, "It's beneficial for the administrator to live within the borough. Council recognizes the benefits of that. The state statutes haven't kept up to date with what the municipalities want."

He said that he is definitely looking for a place to live within Mountainside, but real estate people say that he does not have adequate income to move here.

"If I can't afford a house, I can't afford a house," he said. His annual salary is $35,000. Voorhees resides in Long Valley.

Borough Attorney Post said the problem appears to be organizational, as well as legal. He said out-of-town residency is no legal barrier to Voorhees' being deputy clerk-administrator—but would be a barrier to Voorhees' becoming clerk. The borough has been functioning without anyone legally in the role of borough clerk since Voorhees, in effect, took over the duties of retired Clerk Helena Dunne.

"The problem is two-fold," Post explained. "The council would like to have a borough clerk, and the council feels it is a hardship for Mr. Voorhees to commute ... every day to Mountainside."

In other matters, Bruce Geiger was unanimously re-elected as president of the Borough Council. He was the lone nominee for the position. Serving for the third year in a row, Geiger was nominated by Nick Bradshaw because of "a job well done."

Leroy Mumford, elected tax collector at the polls in November, took the oath of office Tuesday. Mayor Ricciardi described him as "a quiet individual with a power behind him."

A resolution establishing the committees to which council members are assigned was described by Mayor Ricciardi as "basically no change except Robert Vigilanti has been substituted for Don Halbsgut."

The committees are as follows with the chairman of the committee listed first:

- Finance—Bradshaw, Tim Benford, Vigilanti;
- Police, law and rules—Abe Suckno, Spina, Geiger;
- Building and grounds—Geiger, Spina, Vigilanti;
- Welfare—Suckno, Benford, Vigilanti;
- Recreation—Vigilanti, Suckno;
- Engineering—Geiger, Bradshaw, Suckno;
- Water, fire, civil defense, lights—Spina, Geiger, Benford.

Mayoral appointments of council representatives to civic boards and agencies were confirmed. They are: Planning Board—Geiger; Board of Health—Benford; Board of Education—Bradshaw; Library—Ricciardi; Rescue Squad—Tim Benford; Tax Board—Geiger; Civil Defense—Spina; Welfare—Suckno; Shade Tree—Vigilanti, and Recreation—Vigilanti.

In his address, Ricciardi named several problems that the borough will have to face in the coming year. Among

A team of detectives execute a search warrant on the apartment of GLADYS and CARMELO COLON, two 19-year-olds who had told police when taken in for suspicion of break and entry that they were juveniles. In the apartment, police recover a large amount of loot believed taken from homes during the burglaries ... State Senator PETER McDONOUGH announces his resignation.

Council meets

top priorities on the mayor's list are the question of land use by property owners within the community, declining school enrollment and Rt. 78.

"We will continue to be challenged on zoning," Ricciardi said. "Our problems will continue to come from property owners who own buildings and land along our major arteries." The mayor also cited a petition brought before the Council at its last regular meeting which asked that the council place a question about senior citizen housing on the November ballot.

At best, the mayor predicted, schools at a local level could only hold to a plateau. Ricciardi reminded residents that the question of closing a school may come up at the local level as well as within the regional high school system.

"The best thing that could happen for Mountainside is for it to be completed," the Mayor said of Rt. 78. "Rt. 78 is still a problem."

Appointments to the borough offices were also unanimously accepted. They are H. Lee Voorhes, deputy borough clerk, business administrator; William Tyndall, borough treasurer, tax search officer; Melinda Hagey, court clerk, assistant registrar of vital statistics; Alyce Psemeneke, secretary to construction official, zoning official, Board of Adjustment; Ruth Osbahr, clerk stenographer; Fern Hyde, administrator of public assistance; Donald O'Mara, public works foreman; Robert Farley, public works full-time employee; Robert Koser, director of public works, assistant building inspector; Leon Anson and Charles Dooley Jr., police physicians; John Post, borough attorney and prosecutor; Victoria Keller, deputy treasurer; Daniel Hartnett, plumbing inspector; Chester A. Johnson, zoning officer, assistant director of public works, land use administrator; and Robert A. Ruggiero, municipal judge.

The nine member Planning Board appointments, which the mayor broke down into categories will include the mayor and one council member, six residents of the community and one member of the Board of Adjustment. Members are Ricciardi, Robert Koser, Geiger, Donald Jeka, George Ramsey, Shirley Horner, Melvin Lemmerhirt, Theodore Nugent, and Michael Sgarro. For the first time, the Board of Adjustment will have an alternate ready to step in at any time. The mayor, who said that he has been reluctant to appoint an alternate, gave Frank Torina the assignment. Regular members of the board are Mike Sgarro, Andrew Tully, John Ament, George C. Novitt, Gerald S. Dillemeuth, Ronald M. Heymann and John Hancock.

A special meeting to discuss the budget for the year will be held on Saturday, Jan. 12, at 9 a.m. Nick Bradshaw, chairman of the finance committee, predicted that there will be at least two additional Saturday morning sessions required to complete the work.

IN CONGRESS

Matthew Rinaldo

12th District

The Social Security Administration has released some startling projections about the future impact of inflation.

According to its figures, if wages rise at 5.75 percent a year — a rate below the current increase — by the year 2050 the average worker will be earning $656,000.

Before going overboard and dreaming of living like a Rockefeller, consider what you will have to reckon with on that $656,000 salary if prices keep rising at 4 percent a year—a rate less than half of the current pace of inflation.

A loaf of bread that now costs 60 cents will be priced at $37.50. Today's 10 cent phone call will cost $9.50. A new car that now sells for a modest $4,500 would cost $281,000 in the next century.

It could happen unless the government stops spending more than $1 billion a week it doesn't have while tolerating waste and taxes that are hurting our economy.

When a country keeps going into debt as fast as the United States, it is no wonder that the dollar, which was worth 100 cents when President Eisenhower left office in 1958, has dwindled in value to a measly 44 cents this year.

Essential remedies include balancing the federal budget, eliminating wasteful government spending, achieving a foreign trade surplus rather than a continuing deficit and an effective U.S. role in controlling oil prices.

The adoption of another new tax — a Value Added Tax that is being recommended by some members of Congress — is not the answer to curing inflation. It would be inequitable and inflationary in an economy as complex as ours. In any event, one of the overriding needs is for less, rather than more taxes.

The Value Added Tax, or VAT — a form of national sales tax increased at each stage of manufacture or distribution of a product — has been applied in Great Britain and what has happened to Britain's economy as a result of the tax is certainly nothing to write home about.

Turning to VAT in the hope of economic salvation would be like setting fire to your home to prevent the spread of dry rot.

The more sensible course for Congress and the Administration is to bolster the dollar by spending only what we have on hand — which means an end to deficit budgets and eliminating waste in all branches of government.

With it must come a faster and more effective attack on excessive federal regulation.

Businesses are being needlessly snarled in bureaucratic red tape. So are millions of individuals. The result is a multi-billion drain on the economy and a significant boost in the rate of inflation.

Barry Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, estimates that government overregulation is responsible for three-quarters of one percent of the current inflation.

Moves are under way to reduce the extent of regulations, and in particular to cut down on paperwork. But the pace is painfully slow. In some areas it has failed to offset the introduction of new regulations. In fact, the outlays of 41 regulatory agencies increased 100 percent over the past five years.

Reducing inflation and restoring fiscal reasonableness in government must be the overriding goal in 1979.

School Lunches

campaigned against the budget last year.

The budget will now go to James J. Clancy, the county Superintendent of Schools who will authorize it for advertising and make sure that it complies with the T & E (thorough and efficient) laws. This must be done before the first public hearing on the package, scheduled for March 6.

The budget, according to John McDonough, Board of Education secretary, calls for spending far below the level allowed by state cap law.

Know Your Government

N.J. Taxpayers Association

NJTA LOOKS TO 1979

As New Jersey enters the last year of the decade of the '70s in this 20th Century, analysts concerned with the problems of the state and its economy are making predictions of what to expect. Passage of time will determine their accuracy. The New Jersey Taxpayers Association shares the economic concern as it looks to the new year, but its approach is to identify significant problems facing the state to be addressed by the association's leaders and staff in the months ahead.

Of utmost concern to everyone are the overall economy and inflation, and their impact on state and local governments. If recent predictions of a mild recession prove to be correct, state tax revenues may be adversely affected. If the recession results in increased unemployment—and New Jersey already has one of the highest unemployment rates in the country—the impact could be reflected in local property tax collections and in a variety of other governmental and business indicators.

Most governmental units, including the state, are confronted with balancing their budgets within available income as federal and state aid decline. At the state level, if planned expenditures cannot be financed with available revenue, the only alternative is to change rates of taxes and other charges to increase revenue. At the local level, the one income source which gets tapped to finance additional budget needs is the property tax.

The older large cities continue to demand special assistance in solving their complex problems. Statutory appropriation limits complicate budget balancing problems for budget draftsmen. In 1979, possibly even more than in 1977 and 1978, some officials will be faced with reduction or elimination of services to stay within the "cap" while others are expected to take the increased property tax route, particularly where compulsory arbitration decisions have mandated higher salaries. This result is certain to occur in many municipalities if lower court decisions are upheld excluding from the limits salary increases resulting from arbitration.

The state is faced with the problem of providing ever-expanding capital needs, especially for highways and mass transit in 1979. The energy problem still defies solution. Trend to greater regulation of environmental matters is viewed with great concern by many. Reasonable and workable solutions are needed in these critical areas.

Problems of education at all levels, the state's most costly governmental function, demand more attention. Means of improving pupil as well as teacher quality within available funds and in the face of statewide declining enrollments must be found.

BY DAVID F. MOORE The State We're In

N. J. Conservation Foundation

Just because something is an excellent idea is no reason to think it will take off and fly when it's weighted down by confusion and bureaucracy. That's my unhappy observation about the experimental Farmland Preservation Program in Burlington County.
The goal, to keep prime lands in agriculture instead of becoming developments, gains in importance every day in the so-called "Garden State." Purchase of farmland preservation easements with Green Acres money was the idea of the Department of Agriculture and Environmental Protection.
Initially, farmers were supportive of the program, but somewhere along the line it fell apart. No easements were secured and Governor Byrne decided to let the program die in the middle of 1978. I think that was a mistake, but it's done. Now we had better figure out what went wrong and try to do better.

is being made by the county in securing easements to cranberry and blueberry growing areas, which are certainly agricultural. The difference appears to result from the fact that the county government is not blessed with so much bureaucracy, and so can move ahead handily in achieving the same ultimate results which might have been reached under the Farmland Preservation Program.
I'm sure more contributed to the failure than what I've outlined, but I think you'll get the idea. Now there should be a serious legislative effort to put more thought into the farmland preservation concept, and then to pass a law which will cut through bureaucracy and also overcome the fears of tax assessment impacts elsewhere in New Jersey.

Cult mystique lecture offered

"The Cult Mystique: A Symptom of Our Society" is the topic of a lecture to be given Tuesday at Temple Beth Ahm, Springfield. Sponsors of the lecture are USY and the Youth Institute. Bill Goldberg, a psychiatric social worker and director of social rehabilitation for Rockland County, will be the speaker. He has appeared on several TV programs.
Sally Kaufman, program vice-president will introduce the program. Barbara Steinberg, president will preside over the business portion of the meeting. Refreshments will be served by Mattie Greenwald, hospitality chairperson.
On Friday, Jan. 19, the sisterhood will conduct its annual Sisterhoods Sabbath service. This date has been set aside by the Women's League for Conservative Judaism.

Perhaps the best time and place to begin this effort is in connection with the expected Pinelands preservation legislation in the near future. It will be up to the New Jersey Legislature to provide the legal framework for the Pinelands preservation program embodied in the law recently signed by President Carter.
Under it, New Jersey will provide the money with the promise of a 75 percent rebate from Uncle Sam for planning and land acquisition.

Play to begin today in cage tourney at UC

Defending champion Atlantic County Community College, has been tabbed the favorite to win the fourth annual Owl Classic, which will be held today and tomorrow at Union College.

In addition to host Union College, the tournament entries are Ulster Community College of Valhalla, N.Y., and Delaware Technical Community College of Stanton, Delaware.

"Atlantic looks to be the favorite right now," Union College coach Fred Perry said. "They're stronger than last year, when they won it, and I'm sure they want to keep their crown. They have a couple of players who can put the ball in the basket from 25 to 30 feet out and the whole team is very well disciplined. They don't make stupid mistakes, press all over the court and will capitalize on their opponents' errors. They're tough."

Describing his own team's possibilities, Perry said, "I think we have an excellent chance of winning the tournament. I have some of the best players in the Garden State Conference and Region XIX. My girls are poised and don't let up, they're quick and talented, and I honestly believe they could play against any community college in the nation. Any team who plays us will know they've been in with a top-notch squad," he said.

The first round at 12:30 p.m. today will pit Ulster against Atlantic and the second game at 2:30 p.m. will feature Delaware Tech against Union. The consolation game tomorrow will start at 12:30 p.m. and the championship game begins at 2:30 p.m.

Boosters will meet

National Institutes of Health

DIABETIC RETINOPATHY
This disorder, a frequent complication of diabetes, is characterized by damage to the blood vessels of the retina, the light-sensitive tissue at the back of the eye.
Over the years, a number of treatments have been tried to prevent visual loss from diabetic retinopathy. In 1955, a European ophthalmologist first directed intense beams of finely focused light into the eyes of patients with diabetic retinopathy in an attempt to destroy diseased retinal tissue and to obliterate or inhibit the growth of abnormal blood vessels, thereby halting the progression of the disease.
In at least some patients, this method, called photocoagulation, appeared to forestall loss of vision, and the treatment came to be used with increasing frequency during the 1960s.
However, the course of diabetic retinopathy is unpredictable, and the disease may even improve without treatment. In addition, there are certain potentially harmful effects of photocoagulation, such as mild blurring of vision and narrowing of side vision.
As a result, it was difficult to judge on the basis of uncontrolled observations in small groups of patients whether the potential benefits of this treatment outweighed the risks.
To obtain scientifically valid information on this question, 16 U.S. medical centers agreed in 1972 to cooperate in conducting the Diabetic Retinopathy Study, a controlled clinical trial of photocoagulation for diabetic retinopathy, supported by the NEI.
Approximately 1,700 patients were enrolled in the Study, the largest in the history of eye research. After only two years of follow-up on 1,500 of these patients, the Study demonstrated conclusively that photocoagulation can substantially reduce the risk of severe visual loss in moderate to severe retinopathy.
The knowledge gained from this trial is now being put to use for the benefit of patients everywhere with diabetic retinopathy.
The Study did not, however, provide information for determining at what stage of diabetic retinopathy photocoagulation could be most helpful in preserving vision.
Therefore, the NEI this year began a new trial, the Early Treatment of Diabetic Retinopathy Study, to find out whether photocoagulation may be of even greater value when used early in the course of diabetic retinopathy.
This Study will also try to determine whether such drugs as aspirin, which affect the ability of the blood to clot, may have a beneficial effect on diabetic retinopathy.

YOUR WEEK AHEAD By DAMIS

Wrestlers take second in the county

By MIKE MEIXNER
The Dayton wrestlers established themselves as a powerful unit in the state rankings by capturing a second place in the Union County Tournament, finishing ahead of 12 of the 14 squads involved. The performance of Rick Iacono's grapplers was highlighted by a co-MVP award given to Don Calabrese, Pat Picciuto, and Dave Gschlik.

Calabrese recorded three pins in the four round tournament. In the light-weight finals, Calabrese scored a pin in two minutes forty-nine seconds.

Matt Appicella, Dayton's 108 pound entry, won an opening round match before succumbing in the second phase of the tournament.

Dean Pashaian lost a close 6-3 decision to undefeated Vinnie Hurley of Westfield and took third overall. Westfield eventually took top honors, outscoring the Bulldogs 81-66.

Picciuto, Dayton's 122 grappler, became a county champion with excellent performance highlighted by two early pins.

Both Steve Tenenbaum and Steve Salemy were ousted in the opening rounds. However, these two underclassmen showed potential for the remaining years with Dayton.

The third champion produced by Springfield was Dave Gerchlik at 141. He overcame two rough struggles to earn the county crown.

Rob Fink debuted as a varsity matsman at 148 but bowed 10-8 in the opening round of the tournament.

Chris Smith at 158 was flattened by the eventual champion in a second round bout.

Ken Bell at 170 pounds fought to gain third place in the county. He recorded two pins in the county tournament.

Rich Cederquist nearly knocked his foe down in the waning seconds but the whistle blew, leaving him trailing by two points. The disheartening defeat came in second round action.

Heavyweight sophomore Ron Buthmann was defeated early but gained invaluable experience in the varsity action.

The Bulldogs tangle on the home mats tomorrow at 8 p.m. when they play host to West Orange.

Bulldogs trim Pingry to win tourney crown

By KIRK KUBACH
Evening its ledger at 3-3 the Jonathan Dayton Regional High School varsity basketball team defeated Pingry to win the title in its Christmas tournament. Leading the Bulldogs was senior Mike Meixner, who was high scorer in both tourney games. The 500 squad will play at Millburn tomorrow in a Suburban Conference game.

In the first match-up of the tourney, the cagers downed Kenilworth, 57-50, with Meixner finishing with 35 points. Ed McGrady added eight points of offensive support needed for the victory.

Starters Bill Ventura, Anthony Circelli and Dave Lauhoff also scored. Tyrone Parker and Kevin Englehardt had five points between them. Meixner also was named defensive player of the week for his overall performance. Englehardt was honored as substitute of the week.

The Bulldogs downed Pingry School, 46-42, as Meixner scored 25 points, 14 in the second period. Meixner also had 10 rebounds. Lauhoff added six. McGrady grabbed eight rebounds and scored five points. Ventura sank four foul shots late in the game. Circelli and Englehardt helped increase the margin of victory.

Platform tennis tourney is set

Most of the faces will be the same, but many of the teams will be different, as the first women's Passport Scotch Grand Prix of Platform Tennis tour gets underway Jan. 10 and 11 at the Canoe Brook Country Club in Summit.

According to tournament director Jean Stobaueus, 32 teams will begin play Wednesday morning, Jan. 10, in the Canoe Brook Invitational, with five of the eight top-rated pairs newly matched for 1979. The players will be competing for Passport Scotch Grand Prix points, which will be used throughout the season for national ranking, tournament seeding, bonus money standings and national championship eligibility.

The highest ranked team at Canoe Brook will probably be Kit Knight of Oyster Bay, N.Y. and Pat Lurie of New York City, who finished fourth in the national rankings last year as a duo. The next three teams will all be new: Shirley Babington, of Tenafly and B. J. DeBree of Fair Haven; Evonne Hackenberg of Kalamazoo, Mich. and Linda Wolf of New Canaan, Conn.; and Wendy Chase of Greenwich, Conn. and Fay Gambee of New York City.

Torborg to answer calls on Public TV

Jeff Torborg, manager of the Cleveland Indians, will be the guest with Dick Landis for a live call-in show, "That's It In Sports" to be broadcast Monday, Jan. 15 at 8 p.m. and Saturday, Jan. 20 at 4 p.m. on New Jersey Public Television.

Torborg, a Rutgers University All-American catcher originally from Westfield, now resides in Mountainside.

FIRST ONE IN Concentration, strategy keys to successful tennis

By ED COLLINS
Mature concentration is a characteristic of all successful tennis players. It involves thinking, planning and rehearsing.

Every player has favorite strokes, and favorite shots he likes to hit with those strokes. The smart tactician continually evaluates his opponent, changing his strategy so he avoids his opponent's strengths and capitalizes on his weaknesses.

As you analyze an opponent's game, don't judge them on just one or two shots. For example, if you serve wide on the first point of the match, and he laces one down the line for a winner, the tendency is to be intimidated into serving to his backhand for the rest of the match. And maybe his backhand is more consistent than his forehand, and percentage-wise, a much better shot.

During the beginning part of a match your responsibility is to see how well your opponent moves on the court and what his tendencies are.

Does he move to his forehand side as well as his backhand?

Does he overhit the short ball? On important points will he always serve to the backhand? Will he always pass down the line with his backhand? Crosscourt on his forehand? Volley to the open court?

Many questions must be answered as you play a match. You have to concentrate, plan and rehearse.

Rehearsing takes place before the ball is served or returned. You "see" yourself hitting it precisely where you want it to go, then you hit it there. You consciously, intentionally, predetermine a specific target, and then carefully and deliberately hit it there.

This may sound serious and scientific, and it is. Many serious tennis players just toss the ball up and belt it. Their target is the entire service court; if and where it lands in the court is anybody's guess. Some balls go in, some go wide, some long and some bounce before they hit the net.

Don't minimize yourself: pick a target (deep to the backhand) and if you miss, make sure you only miss by inches.

Junior baseball will open rolls

Registration for the 1979 Springfield Junior Baseball season will be held on Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. at Caldwell and Gaudineer schools and on Sunday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Gaudineer.

A non-refundable $10 fee must accompany each registration. Registration is open to grades 3 through 10.

Eleven juniors picked to bowl for Dayton HS

Eleven juniors have been selected to represent Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in varsity bowling as the school reactivates the varsity bowling program after a two-year hiatus because of the budget crunch. The keggers will open play today at 3:15 p.m. in Madison Lanes against Millburn and Monday against New Providence. All leagues games will be bowled at Madison on Mondays and Thursdays.

Michael Steinberg, who will be captain for the 1979 season; Stephen Klein, Barry Sherman, Richard Zerke and Michael Pine, will probably open as the starting five. The alternates include: Jeff Roser, Tedd Nugent, Scott Semel, David Lerner, Eric Sheth and Ronald Zerke.

The Bulldog keggers face a formidable task to equal or improve on their second-place finish in 1976, as Suburban Conference champions. Verona and second-place Caldwell have returning lettermen. Summit, West Orange, New Providence and Millburn also have veteran letter-men. Sister school David Brearley will bowl in the eighth spot in place of Madison, which does not field a team. The Brearley game will be counted as an exhibition match on the schedule.

Varsity Club sponsors party

Members of Dayton's Varsity Club helped children at the Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside by sponsoring a Christmas party. Gifts were given and members of the Varsity Club baked and served refreshments.

The evening was highlighted by a volunteer performance by Rondini the magician. The act was performed by Ronald Resnick, a professional magician who attends Jonathan Dayton.

Karen Krop, a Dayton senior, entertained the children by playing guitar and leading the holiday celebration singing. Dave Lauhoff, another Varsity Club member, dressed as Santa Claus.

The affair was planned by club officers, Al Preziosi, Meryl Manders, Kathy Gerndt, and Shari Reich, under the supervision of club advisor Roland Marioni.

Winter rates at golf courses

Special winter discount weekend and holiday rates are in effect at the Galloping Hill golf course in Kenilworth and Union, and Oak Ridge golf course in Clark. The Ash Brook Golf Course, Scotch Plains, Union County's third course, is closed for general maintenance and repairs until March 1.

Under winter rates, county residents pay $3.50 rather than $4.50; Edison Township residents at Oak Ridge pay $6 rather than $8, and out-of-county residents pay $4.50 with an identification card instead of $5.50, or they pay $7 without a card rather than $10.

Senior Citizens pay $2 instead of $3.50 while season card holders pay $2 rather than $2.50. Youngsters under 17 pay $3.50 rather than $4.50.

Season and identification cards, which entitle golfers to discount green fees, will be available at the golf courses during January.

Kean program for older adults aided by grant

Robert Famighetti, director of the gerontology program of the department of health and recreation at Kean College, has been awarded a Title IV-A training grant of $11,000 by the New Jersey State Division on Aging. The grant proposal was developed by Famighetti in response to the needs of practitioners in Union, Essex, Morris and Middlesex counties. Monies will be used to offer a training program in recreation, health and physical activities for the older adult.

The program will have two components. There will be a series of five workshops on nutrition, body management, leisure sports, folk and square dancing and art as recreation. The workshops will be offered to practitioners on a graduate credit or non-credit base. Dr. Nettie D. Smith of the Kean College physical education faculty is coordinator.

Two courses will be offered in the evening to practitioners.

"Exercise and Man-Implications for Special Populations" is a graduate course to be instructed by Dr. Walter Andzel of the Kean College physical education faculty.

"Art Media in Gerontology" is an undergraduate course to be instructed by Dr. Pearl Greenberg of the fine arts department at the college. The course will include laboratory experience with the elderly as well as lectures.

Further information is available from Famighetti at 527-2098.

$50,000 fund helps kidney rental unit

A $50,000 grant, which will figure prominently in the development of a complete new renal center for patients suffering from kidney disease, has been announced jointly by Albert F. Wickens Jr., president of the Ruth Gottscho Kidney Foundation, the donor, and Lester M. Bornstein, executive director of Newark Beth Israel Medical Center (NBIMC).

The facility will occupy the fourth floor of the center building at NBIMC and is designed specifically to centralize services for the inpatient and ambulatory care of renal patients.

"Our association with Newark Beth Israel Medical Center is a long and happy one," stated Eva Gottscho Morris, chairman of the foundation's board. "We have a history of cooperation going back more than 16 years, and we are delighted to play a part in providing this exciting new facility to men, women and children with kidney disease."

The new artificial kidney unit will have a total of 27 dialysis stations including four pediatric units, three intensive care beds and four home dialysis training units. The Ruth Gottscho Children's Dialysis Center, which was first opened at the Medical Center in 1973 and is the only one of its kind in the state, has been a favorite project of Mrs. Morris. It is in the memory of her daughter, who died of kidney failure in 1960, that the foundation and children's unit were named.

Over the years, the foundation has provided artificial kidney machines to those needing them throughout the world; it supports a 24-hour telephone service, "Operation Lifeline," for the reporting of available kidney donors to physicians and hospitals and publishes a directory of dialysis centers throughout the world where traveling kidney patients may obtain the medical services they need to stay alive.

According to Dr. Seymour Ribol, director of Nephrology at the center and Denise D'Eustachio, RN, project director, the new renal center will contain all of the amenities required by state and federal guidelines and will be manned by 40 staff nurses. State requirements dictate a three-patient-to-one-nurse ratio for stable patients receiving general care; a one-to-one ratio for acute care; two patients to one nurse for home dialysis training and two nurses for every three pediatric patients. Presently the ages of patients receiving hemodialysis at the medical center range from three to 94 years.

Presentation of the grant was made at a dinner held at NBIMC and hosted by Lester M. Bornstein. Members of the Gottscho Foundation's board were then taken on tour of the newly dedicated patient care pavilion and visited with nurses and patients in the existing artificial kidney center.

Newark Beth Israel Medical Center, a voluntary, non-profit institution, is a member of the Jewish Community Federation of Metropolitan New Jersey, a beneficiary of the annual United Jewish Appeal of Metropolitan New Jersey campaign and a member agency of the United Way of Essex and West Hudson.

NJPTV to mark first decade with a week of 'best programs'

New Jersey Public Television (NJPTV) will celebrate its 10th anniversary in January. In the past decade, New Jersey's television network has produced more than 70 local award-winning films as well as award-winning series and specials. Many local productions have been shown nationally on the Eastern Educational Network, which reaches all the major cities in the United States, and the Public Broadcasting Service.

The best of these programs and films will be included in a special week of programs starting Jan. 13. The major emphasis on NJPTV programming will be shows about New Jersey; its history, its people, its special places will be visited through the many films, programs and specials produced by NJPTV the past eight years. Major works will include "Bluegrass at the Englishtown Music Hall," "Aqui Se Habla Espanol," "Once Upon a Day," "Listen to the Sun," "Atlantic City: The Queen Takes a Chance" and "The Eleventh Hour."

NJPTV is non-commercial, non-profit network owned and operated by the State of New Jersey. The network has four UHF channels, 23, 52, 50 and 58, which reach the entire state and parts of New York, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Delaware. The main studio is in Trenton and there is a temporary studio in Newark with plans for a permanent, larger studio on Broad street, Newark.

In its eight years of actual production, NJPTV has won the Award of Excellence from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, 1972, 1973; Silver Hugo, 1975, Chicago Film Festival; Award of Excellence from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting for Latino programming, 1976; Cindy Award for best documentary, best of show and best editing, 1977; Gold Hugo in local TV production; and a nomination for an Emmy from the Academy of Television Arts and Science, 1978. In the recent National Association of Broadcasters Graphic and Design Competition, NJPTV entries took 5.2 percent of the national exhibit awards with 52 percent of all NJPTV entries winning awards.

In the past five years, 10 locally-produced specials have been sent to the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) for nationwide distribution. A 26-week series, "Jazz Set," produced by NJPTV, was also distributed by PBS. Two specials, "Judiciary and the Media" and "Greaseband," were released to PBS. Two series, "Fireside Kitchen" and "Bluegrass at the Englishtown Music Hall" have been released to the Eastern Educational Network (EEN) for distribution to all the major cities in the United States.

One film, "Equality," has gone into world-wide distribution and another, "Work, Work, Work," soon will be in world-wide distribution. NJPTV has been granted permission by WABC-TV, New York, to run the captioned news on all four channels. Several of NJPTV's special programs have also been captioned by PBS in Boston for airing on holidays when the captioned news is not aired.

NJPTV was chosen for unprecedented coverage of the New Jersey Supreme Court Dec. 12 because of the public affairs department's special "Judiciary and the Media."

NJPTV has been awarded funds by the National Endowment for Humanities for scripts and research for a drama series, "Drinking in America." A special on Victorian New Jersey, "To Grandfather's House We Go," is being filmed.

Because public television is partially funded by contributions from the public, several fundraising events are planned throughout the year. The Great TV Auction will begin April 21.

Symphony orchestra plans Millburn visits

The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, under music director Thomas Michalak, will appear in Millburn twice during the weekend of Jan. 13-14 as part of two series—a seven-concert Saturday evening series and a four-concert Sunday afternoon series—presented each year at Millburn High School. The Jan. 13 concert is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. and the Jan. 14 concert will be held at 3 p.m. Michalak will be on the podium for both occasions, and Jean-Jacques Kantorow will be guest violinist.

Michalak has selected a program of music from the 19th and 20th centuries. Audiences will hear Ravel's homage to the Viennese waltz, "La Valse," Roger Sessions' Third Symphony, and Gabriel Faure's "Pelleas et Melisande." Highlight of the evening will be Kantorow's performance of Bruch's Violin Concerto No. 1.

French violinist Kantorow has won the Paganini violin competition, the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium competition, the Geneva competition, the International Sibelius competition and the Carl Flesch competition in London.

Mrs. Eugene E. Shafer of Short Hills, president of the NJSO League's Millburn Chapter, said some tickets are available for both performances. They can be obtained by contacting the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra, 213 Washington st. Newark 07101, 624-8203.

Telethon aides being sought by arthritis group

Volunteers are being sought to answer telephones and accept pledges for the "Saturday Night Fight—Stop Arthritis" telethon from 10 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 10, to 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 11.

"There are any number of physically therapeutic and counseling programs that could be put into effect immediately to help thousands of New Jerseyans, if we had the funds," said Richard R. Hartman Jr., president of the Arthritis Foundation, New Jersey Chapter. "The Stop Arthritis Telethon is a major source of fund-raising to make vital services available."

The telethon will be broadcast over WOR-TV, Channel 9. Volunteer telephone answerers will be at New Jersey headquarters, the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge across from Newark Airport, on Rts. 1 and 9.

Co-hosts for the event will be Kojak's Kevin Dobson and television emcee Tom Kennedy. Guest Stars, including Melba Moore, will drop by throughout the program.

Those wishing to volunteer a few hours of time to answer telephones during the Telethon may call the Arthritis Foundation at 233-7151.

Card party planned

Plans are under way for the annual card party to be held March 30 in the Student Center of Seton Hall University. "Fun for All Seasons" is the theme. On Tuesday, Jan. 9 at 8 p.m. there will be a workshop asking for the help of all Prep Mothers.

Medical group names officers

Joseph Cohn, M.D., Fred M. Jacobs, M.D. and Micki Rosenbloom recently were elected president, treasurer and secretary, respectively, of the New Jersey Society of Critical Care Medicine.

Dr. Cohn, of Short Hills is an author and lecturer attending in surgery and Chief of surgical physiology services at St. Barnabas Medical Center, Livingston.

Dr. Jacobs, also of Short Hills, is chief of the chest service, and co-director, SICU, at St. Barnabas.

A resident of South Orange, Rosenbloom is a cardiopulmonary technologist. She is coordinator of surgical physiology services at St. Barnabas, and is a trustee of the Cardiac Surgery Club of New Jersey, Inc.

Vanishing star museum topic

Astronomers say there is a good chance that the sun will turn into a White Dwarf in from six to seven billion years, according to the New Jersey State Museum, Trenton.

The whole possibility—along with projections on the eventual demise of other stars into supernovae and black holes—will be discussed in "Star Death," the public weekend program in the N.J. State Museum Planetarium during January and February.

"Star Death" will be presented at 2 and 4 p.m. each Saturday and Sunday from Jan. 6 through Feb. 25. It also will be shown at 2 and 4 p.m. on Jan. 15 (Martin Luther King's birthday), Feb. 12 (Abraham Lincoln's birthday) and Feb. 19 (George Washington's birthday observance).

The state museum, a division of the N.J. Department of Education, is open from 9 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 1 to 5 p.m. weekends and most holidays. There is no charge for admission.

Forecasting is topic for purchasing unit

The Purchasing Management Association of New Jersey will hold its monthly dinner meeting on Tuesday at the Town and Campus Restaurant, Union.

The principal speaker will be Dr. James L. Essig, vice-president, economic research, of the Prudential Insurance Company. His subject will be "Economic Forecasting."

Model train show will benefit fund

The Madison Central Model Railroad will present its 20th Model Train Show at 49 Keep st., Madison, on Wednesday and Friday evenings at 8 p.m. and on Saturday and Sunday at 1:30 p.m. and 4 p.m. during January and February.

'Grease' on screen

"A musical director generally takes a simply constructed song and along with the choreographer, makes it live," explained Louis St. Louis, special creative musical consultant for the film version of Grease. The picture, which stars John Travolta and Olivia Newton-John, is being shown at the Elmora Theater, Elizabeth, with "You Light Up My Life." "Grease" also opened yesterday at the Castle

Theater, Irvington Center, on a double bill with "Three Tough Guys." "Louis also served as musical director and vocal and dance arranger for the original Broadway production. Several songs from the original show were deleted and four new ones added. Louis collaborated with Scott Simonx on a solo for Travolta. "I simply felt that John deserved a matinee-idol song in the show. We wrote a real teenage bleeding heart, agony song, "Sandy." "Grease," which also stars Stockard Channing, has special guest appearances by Eve Arden, Frankie Avalon, Joan Blondell, Edd Byrnes, Sid Caesar, Alice Ghostley, Dody Goodman and Shanna-Na. The picture was directed by Randal Kleiser.

ARLEEN HARDEN

Pick Of The LPs... I COULD ALMOST SAY GOODBYE: by Arleen Harden (CAPITOL ST-11373)

When in her early teens, Arleen joined with her brother and sister to form the Harden Trio. The Harden kids grew up in England, Arkansas, the heart of the Ozarks, and were exposed to folk, country and western music as soon as they could understand what music was all about.

By the late '50s, the trio's popularity was rapidly expanding and it was featured on the Louisiana Hayride. By the early '60s the trio had reached the top; the Grand Ol' Opry. The group signed with Columbia Records and hits soon followed, including "Tippy-Toeing" and "Seven Days of Crying."

In 1968, however, Arleen felt the trio was too confining for her needs and she decided to go out on her own as a solo artist. Songs featured on the LP album were written by some of the best of the modern country writers, PATTI PIKENS will star in a new act at the Ballroom in Manhattan SoHo district, 458 West Broadway. She will sing contemporary songs, songs of the 1930s and some introduced by the Pikens Sisters (Patti, Jane and Helen). For reservations call 212-473-9367.

including Jim Weatherly, Willie Nelson, Larry Gatlin and Harlan Howard. Selections on the LP include: "Roll On Sweet Mississippi," "Ceazy," "Country Sunday," "Bitter They Are Harder They Fall," "Leave Me Alone" (Ruby Red Dress), "Let It Ride," "I Could Almost Say Goodbye," "Soul Song," "Between Her Goodbye And My Hello" and "The Teddy Bears' Picnic."

'Family' film continues run

"The Wilderness Family, Part II," is being held over for another week at the Linden Twin II Theater, Linden, and the Five Points Cinema, Union.

The movie, rated G, is about family determined to live in the wilds and faces one harrowing ordeal after another from animals, winter and accidents. Robert Logan and Susan Shaw star. Frank Zuniga directed the movie, which was photographed in color.

'Shenandoah'

The Scotch Plains Players' production of the stage musical, "Shenandoah," will be presented Jan. 19, 20, 27 and 28, and on Feb. 2 and 3 at the Scotch Plains Fanwood High School. ## 'Bread' held another week

"Bread and Chocolate," a comedy-drama, continues its run at the Lost Picture Show, Union. The picture, which stars Nino Manfredi and Anna Karina, concerns the alienation of a southern Italian worker in Switzerland. It was directed by Franco Brusati.

Stage actor set for film

HOLLYWOOD—Fresh from his Broadway role in "Otherwise Engaged," Nicholas Coster has been engaged to play a major role in "The Electric Horseman," a Columbia-Universal motion picture release. He will join Robert Redford and Jane Fonda, with Willie Nelson, the "king of country music," and stage actor Timothy Scott. Sydney Pollack will direct the comedy-drama, which is about a rodeo star who becomes an advertising image, rising from absurdity and returns to becoming a "nobody."

'Football' star stars

Warren Beatty was no stranger to football when he ran confidently out on the field at the Los Angeles Coliseum to quarterback for the L.A. Rams for Paramount's "Heaven Can Wait" film. The picture is the latest offering by the Park Theater, Roselle Park, on a double bill with "If Ever I See You."

At Washington Lee High School in Arlington, Va., Beatty was an all-star center. Upon graduation, he was offered athletic scholarships by 10 major colleges before rejecting them in favor of the drama department at Northwestern University.

The "movie team" included former Rams' stars Deacon Jones, Les Josephson, Jack Snow, Charles Cowan, Jim Boeke and Joe Corolla. Beatty took part in all the football sequences doing all his own stunts including the "sacks" which the players insisted on repeating several times. The movie, which was written by Beatty and Elaine May, was produced by Beatty and Buck Henry. It also stars Julie Christie, James Mason, Charles Grodin, Dyan Cannon, Vincent Gardenia, Jack Warden and Henry.

Bakshi signed for 'Pop' film

HOLLYWOOD—Ralph Bakshi, who directed "The Lord of the Rings," will produce and direct "American Pop," for Columbia Pictures, a multi-million budgeted full-length animated feature.

The screenplay was written by Ronni Kern, and the production will feature a minimum of 17 musical numbers highlighting the history of American music as told through the eyes and ears of a 10-year old boy. The boy comes to this country in 1910 and lives through four generations of his family until 1980.

CAMPING AMERICANS More than 58 million Americans last year packed up their gear, hopped into recreational vehicles and toiled off to camp in the 20,000 public and private campgrounds in the United States and Canada.

Bihler set Monday

"Pits and Moppet" consultant Penny Harter Bihler, a Scotch Plains poet and first recipient of the "Arnold Gingrich Award," highest creative writing award from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, will appear at the New Jersey Theater Forum Monday at 8 p.m. The theater forum is located at 232 E. Front St., Plainfield. Initiating the 1979 Monday Night Series, Miss Bihler, who is listed in the Directory of American Poets, will present a selection of her poetry during the first part of the program. After a brief intermission, other new poets will bring their work to the public. The evening of poetry, a facet of the New Jersey Theater Forum's Community Service Program, and in keeping with the success of the summer Poetry Forum, the theater "welcomes new talent and urges interested poets to participate in the program on Jan. 8."

Mental Health

From HEW

Many recovering alcoholics can be successfully treated entirely on an outpatient basis without having to interrupt their work and home lives. Outpatient programs exist in a variety of settings, including community mental health centers, family service agencies, private physicians' and therapists' offices, occupational settings and specialized alcoholism treatment facilities. Inpatient services, designed for those with more serious alcohol problems, can be found in hospitals, residential care facilities, community halfway houses and some alcoholism clinics.

To find the program best suited to your needs, start with the phone book.

'Women, law' class offered

The part-time studies division of Caldwell College will offer a three-credit course, "Women and the Law," Monday evenings from 7 to 9:30. Classes begin in January. Mail registration must be postmarked by Jan. 13. In person registration will be held on campus on Jan. 25 and 26.

Further information and a course offerings brochure are available from Sister Patricia Werner, director of concurrent curriculum, Caldwell College, Caldwell, 07008, 228-4424.

Registration to open at Y

Hundreds of courses, social groups and special learning and recreational programs will be available to every member of the family when the winter-spring session begins at the YM-YWHA of Metropolitan New Jersey, West Orange, in January.

Registration for members will open on Sunday and run throughout the week, with volunteers and staff members available to assist families and individuals in their course selections. Non-member registration for adult courses will open on Thursday, Jan. 11 at 9 a.m.

Helpful referral organizations listed in your telephone directory include your local council on alcoholism, Alcoholics Anonymous, your community alcoholism or mental health clinic, the social services or human resources department of your city or county, or your county medical society. Don't hesitate to rely on personal contacts as well, such as your doctor, clergyman, a recovered alcoholic friend or the health office or employee assistance program of your company.

A person's alcohol problem can't help but affect those close to him or her, and those persons may need help as well. Their understanding of the illness and the part they may play in it will help the recovery process. Assistance is available from Al-Anon, a nationwide organization offering support to spouses and close friends of alcoholics, and Alateen, for the children of problem drinkers. Both groups are listed in your telephone directory, or may be contacted through your local Alcoholics Anonymous group.

Up to now, alcohol has played a very important role in your life—perhaps more important than you have wanted to recognize. It has always been there when you've needed it, like a reliable friend. But by now, alcohol may be creating more problems—family, job, health—than it is solving. It just may not be paying off like it used to.

Still, you may be thinking to yourself: "But can I face life without a drink? Can I really make it?" You can, with the help of others who understand your needs and problems. Getting out from under a drinking problem is not a painless process; it requires hard work and determination. But millions of other alcoholic men and women, at one time faced with the decision you're confronting, have found treatment and are now leading productive lives free of alcohol. It is possible. The payoffs—renewed self-esteem and control over your own life—are worth the effort.

Chaison given teaching grant

William Chaison, dance instructor at Kean College, will work with elementary school children in Missouri and Michigan during January through a grant by the National Endowment for the Arts' artists-in-residence program. Chaison is principal dancer with the Eleo Pomare Dance Company of New York City.

Chaison has worked with students in many major American cities, including Houston and New Orleans. Last year he instructed in a dance program designed for blind children.

At Kean, the dance program has doubled in attendance since he arrived in the fall of 1977. Chaison plans to supervise six courses at Kean next semester, four in modern dance and two in jazz dance. The college's dance club, under his supervision, has scheduled two public performances this spring in Kean's Wilkins Theater.

SBA publishes course listing

The New Jersey District Office of the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) made available this week the winter-spring schedule for more than 120 small business training seminars to be held at colleges and community centers throughout the state.

Government agencies and professional associations will cosponsor and help conduct the clinics, workshops and all day seminars. These seminars are designed to improve the management ability of small business owners in the state. Topics to be covered include: success and failure factors in business; legal and organizational aspects; market evaluation and advertising; financing, recordkeeping, tax responsibilities and available resources for small businesses.

The U.S. Small Business Administration in Newark, 685-8066, may be contacted for more information or a seminar schedule.

EARLY COPY Publicity Chairmen are urged to observe the Friday morning deadline for other than spot news. Include your name, address and phone number.

Prize dancers to play at Kean for two months

The Valerie Hammer Project, a professional ensemble of multi-talented artists who recently won first prize for "Best Company" at the Paris Festival of Dance, will be in residence at Kean College, Union, through Feb. 13. The residency will feature a performance of the award-winning piece "Op Odyssey" on Feb. 6, and a new work, "Copernicus," on Feb. 13. Copernicus will be created by the company while at Kean College. Both performances will be free, open to the public and held in the Wilkins Theatre at 8 p.m.

Valerie Hammer, dancer-choreographer and director of the project, is one of only four Americans to ever win the Paris prize, and the youngest by 20 years. She is 26 years old. Her relatively new works have already received critical acclaim from periodicals throughout the United States and Europe. The Village Voice described a recent performance as "very beautiful, full of intriguing images and sounds."

The Valerie Hammer Project is a multi-media presentation which employs many artistic elements: sculpture, poetry, jazz-compositions and an assortment of visual designer effects. The company includes composer Michael Mahaffey, sculptress-film maker Doris Chase, and lighting designer George Gracey.

Individuals or groups working professionally or as amateurs in dance, staging or music can arrange to attend special open rehearsals and workshops through Ruth Sprague, Kean College student activity representative, at 527-2044.

Rehab group slates luncheon

The Central Jersey National Rehabilitation Association will have its annual winter luncheon at noon on Friday, Jan. 12, at Peterson's Sunset Cabin, Rt. 9, Lakewood.

The program will highlight Mrs. Leni Brown of Springfield speaking on the subject of "Occupational Therapy in Mental Health." Brown is serving as supervisor of the occupational therapy token economy program at Essex County Hospital Center, Cedar Grove. She is a member of the N.J. Occupational Therapy Association and N.J. Mental Health Task Force and is active in advocacy programs for the disabled.

Additional information about the luncheon is available from Mrs. Evelyn Aronow Dolan, program chairperson at 609-292-0056.

Kean tech students reported in demand

Graduates of the mechanical contracting technology program at Kean College are more sought after than seeking. According to Dr. Glenn M. Thatcher, chairman of the industrial studies department, "The demand for mechanical contractors is far greater than the number of students we graduate, and it continues to increase."

As a major component of the construction industry, mechanical contracting involves the purchase and installation of equipment and materials needed to build heating, plumbing, piping and air conditioning systems. Currently, two of the most active employment areas in mechanical contracting involve specialists in air and pollution control and retrofitting major plants and commercial buildings for energy conservation.

"The modern-day needs for greater energy efficiency and specially-designed climate controls in these systems (to accommodate computers, for instance) has created a lot of work for the industry," Dr. Thatcher notes. "Many mechanical contractors are becoming specialized in particular types of construction including chemical, refining and power plants as well as shopping centers and hospitals."

"While some colleges offer mechanical contracting as a two-year, technical program or as a spin-off from mechanical engineering, Kean provides the country's only four-year baccalaureate program designed specifically for mechanical contracting," Thatcher says. "The program has a liberal arts foundation with an emphasis in appropriate managerial and technical skills. It's unique, and that's why we get so many out-of-state students, some from as far away as Nigeria and Kenya."

The Kean program was initiated in 1972, largely through the efforts of the Mechanical Contracting Association of New Jersey which recognized the industry's need for middle managers. Today, the program graduates about 25 student specialists each year—many with valuable summer work experience that included salary and college credit hours in the contracting field.

According to Donald C. Rodner, president of the New Jersey association, "The Kean program continues to elicit growing support from members of the Mechanical Contracting Association of America throughout the country. The employment record of its graduates attests to its success and vital importance to the industry."
