LADY OF LOURDES' LUNCHEON—A luncheon for the senior citizens of Mountainside, given last Friday to mark Catholic Schools Week at Our Lady of Lourdes School, attracted approximately 60 guests. All classes helped in the preparation for the affair, making place mats, name cards

Board members deny new budget is too low

Members of the Mountainside Board of Education criticized James Clancy, county superintendent of schools, for his remarks showing concern that the tentative school budget is far below the amount permitted by the cap laws.

The board, which has tentatively adopted a budget for the next school year which shows a $2,576 or 0.18 percent increase over the current school budget, received a message advising the board that if surpluses are used up completely, it is possible to be faced with needs that the board will not be able to fund without seriously hurting the education of the children. The law allows for a 4.31 percent increase.

"We can't concern ourselves with that cap with our declining enrollment," Board member Pat Knodel said. "And the worst decline in our enrollment is yet to come."

"If we find, with a declining enrollment, we can save a few pennies here and there, then I don't think he's being fair," Linda Esemplare, a Board member added.

"The sword has two edges," Dr. Arthur Williams, vice-president of the board said. "The board has tried to keep the budget in line with the cap laws. I do think we have to be careful that we don't overcut and don't deplete a surplus."

Scott Schmedel, president said, "He's telling us to look to the future and we must do that."

"We can't play a game of cap. We don't inflate a budget just to leave a lot of leeway. We should not have to artificially inflate the budget to cover ourselves," Anthony Mazzucca Jr. added.

Knodel added that the New Jersey school boards delegates adopted a recommendation which seeks legislation that would modify the budget cap law so that the budget cap would be calculated from the full budget limit permitted by law in the previous year rather than on the previous year's actual budget.

Mr. and Mrs. Eldridge killed in Wyoming drive house fire blaze

Services were held yesterday for Schuyler S. Eldridge and his wife Clara, both 78, who were killed in a Sunday morning fire at their home at 1181 Wyoming dr.

The fire, labeled accidental by the Mountainside Volunteer Fire Department, apparently started in a television set and was fueled by escaping gas from a main that had been opened by the fire, Ron Huter, acting fire chief said. The fire, which was discovered at 2:20 a.m., had been burning for a couple of hours, Huter added, because the floor where the TV set had been and the thick wall in front of the gas line had been burned away before firemen arrived on the scene.

After Elizabethtown Gas Co. was called in and shut off the gas to the single-story house, the 20 volunteer firemen quickly put the fire under control, Huter said. The primary blaze was extinguished around 3:30 a.m., but small fires were discovered and firemen continued wetting down the home until 5:30 a.m.

Both the husband and wife, who suffered from smoke inhalation and burns, were found clad in pajamas. The deaths were attributed to asphyxiation. Mr. Eldridge was found near the front door, and officials believe he had been sleeping on a couch in the den where the fire originated. Mrs. Eldridge was discovered in one of the two bedrooms in the house. Both were dead on arrival at Overlook Hospital, Summit.

Police were alerted to the blaze by a neighbor who saw flames shooting from the west side of the house at 2:24 a.m. Police broke into the home but said they were driven back by flames and intense heat.

Huter said damage was primarily confined two of the five rooms in the home but there was smoke and water damage throughout the building.

"There are 13,000 television sets that go on fire every year. People can't believe that TVs can catch fire," Hunter said. "To help prevent any future tragedies, I would advise people to pull out the plug on their sets every night."

Mr. Eldridge, who was born in New York City, lived with his wife in Union for many years before moving to Mountainside 18 years ago. After 30 years of employment with Sears & Roebuck Co., he retired in 1957 as manager of the pool stock division, Elizabeth. He was a life member and past master of Tyrian Lodge 134 F&AM, Elizabeth.

Mrs. Clara Scott Eldridge was born in Elizabeth.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Janis Gaskell of Berkeley Heights, and two grandchildren.

The McCracken Funeral Home, 1500 Morris ave., Union, handled the arrangements.

Assault charge is being studied by a grand jury

A case against a 22-year-old Mountainside man who allegedly threatened a police officer with a rifle, went before a grand jury Tuesday. William R. Nelson of Sunny Slope drive, arrested Jan. 11 by Mountainside Patrolmen Wayne Martin and Allen Kennedy, has been charged with assault on a police officer with an offensive weapon.

Officer Martin, responding at 7:03 p.m. to a report of two young men with a gun, said he found Nelson, with a 22 caliber rifle, arguing in front of 290 Summit road with his brother, who had a long stick in his possession.

"Nobody knew at the time that the gun wasn't loaded. When somebody has a gun pointed at you and says they're going to kill you, you have to think it's loaded. It ended up that there was no bullet in it," Martin said.

Martin said that upon arrival, he asked Nelson to drop the rifle, which Nelson refused to do. Martin, walking towards Nelson, said the defendant was backing away with the gun pointed at the officer while yelling threats about shooting him.

After another request to put the gun down and another refusal, Nelson began swinging the gun, trying to hit Martin, the officer reported. Nelson then stepped out in front of an oncoming car and Martin said that as the defendant was glancing from the car to the officers, Martin lunged at him and grabbed the rifle. A short struggle ensued before Nelson was handcuffed and arrested.

The officers did not arrest Nelson's brother because he immediately stepped out of the way to avoid a confrontation with the police, the report said.

THAT COVERS IT—Milton Smith, a Deerfield School student, checks his book of 1977 first day cover stamps against his collection of 1978 covers now on display at the Mountainside Public Library. He said that the hobby is an interesting one and allows him room to creatively design his own pictures which appear on the left side of his first day cover envelopes.

Stamps on exhibit Collected by 8th grader

A collection of first day covers of American stamps issued during 1978 is on display in the Mountainside Public Library. Milton Smith, a Deerfield School eighth grade student, has lent his collection of 35 to the library for the entire month of February.

A first day cover is an envelope with a brand new stamp on it, bearing the cancellation of the city picked for the first day service. The cancellation reads "First Day of Issue."

On many of Milton's first day covers, he has drawn a pen and ink design on the left side of the envelope depicting something connected with the stamp. For example, the design Milton drew for the first day cover of the Martin Luther King stamp was the Lincoln Memorial with several black figures in front of it.

The covers include stamps honoring author Carl Sandburg, photography, owls, native American trees, the Wright brothers, the Sandy Hook lighthouse, the Statue of Liberty, Fort Nasqually, quilting, the piano, and the annual Christmas issues.

In addition, there are some specialty covers, such as Newark Airport's 50th anniversary and the 50th anniversary of the tunnel in the Rockies between Salt Lake City and Denver.

After completing his original design, he sends the self addressed envelope off to wherever the first day cover is to be issued. The post office then cancels the stamp and sends it back to the addressee. Milton said that first day covers may also be secured through a club which will provide them at a cost of approximately $1.25 per cover.

This Mountainside collector prefers to do a little research through newspapers and the Scott and Stamp Journal to find the new stamps rather than pay eight times the cost of a cover to the club.

Milton, who has been collecting first day covers for two years, has 36 from 1978 and 25 from 1977. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean L. Smith of Chatten court, Milton said that his father and sister collect stamps while he alone has been gathering the first day covers.

Library lists movies for kids

The Free Public Library of Mountainside will present movies for children, age 6 and up, next Wednesday in the Emma Weber Meeting Room.

Four films will be shown. "Really Rosie" is a dramatization of Maurice Sendak's "Nutsnel Library." "Saga of Wind-Wagon Smith" tells the legend of the man who built a ship to sail the prairie. The Magnificent 6½ play in a football tournament in "Up for the Cup" and in "El Gaucho Goofy," Goofy travels to Argentina.

There will be two showings, at 1:30 p.m. and again at 3 p.m. Admission is free.

The library will be closed Monday in observance of Washington's birthday. The library will be open regular hours on Tuesday, from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Key Club slates recycling drive

The Key Club of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School will hold its monthly "glass-in" from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday on the front parking lot of the school. Club members urged area residents to bring glass bottles, sorted by color, and newspapers tied into bundles, for the recycling project.

Restaurants his life Notès 56 exciting years

BARBARA WALCOFF
Exciting is how Adolf Kuhn describes his work. And he must like it—he's been at it for 56 years. Is he a policeman? A fireman? A racing car driver? A Broadway actor?

No, he is the maitre d' at the Halfway House Restaurant on Rt. 22, Mountainside.

"I go in there, and I never know what will happen. It's not like a factory. I like the excitement."

Kuhn of Mountainside has been in the restaurant business for 56 years, serving as a waiter, captain, an owner of his own restaurant and as maitre d'. Where it all started for him was in 1923 at Achelstatter's on Broad street, where he was a captain in Newark.

Kuhn moved on to work in the Tavern Restaurant, Newark, described as one of the area's finest eating places in its day; Wieland's Steak House, Mountainside; the Ped-E-Flous restaurant, and the Hitching Post, Union, Kuhn's own restaurant for 16 years.

"My parents always were in the restaurant business. It's the only thing I know," he said.

Kuhn said he grew up around restaurants as his parents owned their own cafe-restaurant in Dusseldorf. Adolf learned the business from his parents but wanted to see some of the world and knew, with hotels all over the world, this knowledge could be his ticket.

"The main thing was to see the world. I wanted to come to America."

The 74-year-old man has been enthusiastic about his work ever since and is proud that he still can work, serving friends and customers who go back 30 and 40 years.

"When I sold my restaurant in 1962, I wanted to retire, but I was too young," he said.

Kuhn noted changes in the business over the years, but added that most are not drastic ones.

The size and type of the restaurants, the basic menu and the clientele have changed little, but this long time restaurateur noticed some subtleties that have made the business different from what it was 50 years ago.

"In the past, we have some different problems, but now it's still the same thing. The main problem is with the help—worrying if someone is sick and how to replace them."

Noting that people go out to eat more than ever before, Kuhn said this accounts for the abundance of restaurants that have sprung up "recently."

"Years ago, the family could only afford to go out once a month or once a week. It was a big occasion. Today, everybody seems to have too much

TABLE FOR FOUR—Adolf Kuhn, a 56-year veteran of the restaurant business, is now maitre d' at the Halfway House. The Mountainside resident has been in charge of the local restaurant's dining room for the past eight years and has had some of the same friends and customers returning to his restaurants for the past 30 to 40 years.

Growth in job openings by '85 to be mainly in white collar area

The number of jobs to be filled in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area is expected to total 3,280,000 in the 1974-85 period, according to Herbert Bienstock, regional commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS). He reported that 1.2 million of the 3.25 million area job openings will be in New York City. He noted that better than two out of every three area job openings are expected to be in white collar categories. Professional and technical job categories in the area outdistanced all major occupational groups in their anticipated rate of job gain.

The BLS study indicated that a 330,000 employment increase will account for about a tenth of the area's openings. The rest will result from replacement needs arising from labor force separations due to family duties, retirement, illness or death.

Bienstock observed that outside of New York City about 2 million job openings are expected, with roughly two thirds resulting from replacement needs and one third from a projected employment rise of 689,000. Other highlights of the BLS report:

—Employment in the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area is projected to rise by five percent; the corresponding national growth rate is expected to be 20 percent.

—The lower area growth rate is mainly attributable to job losses in New York City. The remainder of the area is expected to experience growth more closely approximating the national.

—Area-wide increases were projected for six of the seven major industry categories presented in the new study. The largest gains were in the public administration (15 percent) services (13), and finance, insurance and real estate sectors (10 percent), or double or more the overall projected 1974-85 rise of five percent. The only decline was for the manufacturing sector, down 10 percent.

—The areawide projected decline for manufacturing reflects an anticipated 27 percent loss in New York City. In the rest of the area, each of the seven major industry categories is projected to increase.

—In contrast with the projected loss in New York City, each of the six other geographic components of the area show projected employment gains. The most rapid growth is found in the Perth Amboy and Nassau-Suffolk areas (26 percent), followed by the Paterson-Clifton-Passaic area (25 percent), Westchester-Rockland Counties (18 percent), the Newark area (15 percent) and the Jersey City area (four percent).

—The sharpest area increase among the broad occupational groups is for white collar workers, eight percent. Service worker employment is projected to rise by seven percent, while blue collar employment declines by three percent.

—The area's employment is more heavily concentrated in white collar occupations than is the case nationally. By 1985, six in every 10 workers in the area are expected to be employed in white collar jobs; roughly half will be in the higher skilled professional, technical and managerial categories. Each of the geographic components of the New York-Northeastern New Jersey area will be more white collar in 1985 than currently. Bienstock reported that a decline in the proportion of blue collar jobs is indicated for each of the component areas.

Jewelry courses

Jewelry-making and clay-modeling classes are among the new continuing education courses offered at Kean College this spring. Both will be taught in campus studios by faculty from the college art department.

The modeling course will meet eight Mondays from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., starting March 5. Instructor Stuart Topper will help students work from photographs to develop head or bust models.

Students in the jewelry-making course will learn how to design and construct handcrafted silver necklaces, bracelets, and other ornaments. With instructor E. Austin Goodwin, the class will meet for eight Tuesdays, starting March 6, from 7 to 9 p.m.

The fee for each course is $40 plus the costs of materials. Registration Education Office at 527-2163.

Auto Service Tips

If you lose fluid from the master cylinder of your car (i.e., power brakes) and can't find the leak, try this: Remove the vacuum hose at the brake booster and insert a screwdriver inside the hose, rotating slowly. If there is fluid on the screwdriver when it is removed, the master cylinder seals are bad and should be replaced.

starting March 6, from 7 to 9 p.m. The fee for each course is $40 plus the costs of calling the Continuing Materials Registration Education Office at 527-2163.

Fawn Lakes' buyers finding it 'sure thing'

The only "sure thing" for travelers headed down the Garden State Parkway to the Atlantic City casino is the value of the property they pass at Exit 63. Here, in the area surrounding the affordable year-round resort community of Fawn Lakes, which is situated just two miles west of the Parkway, new stores and recreational facilities are being developed at a pace matched only by the gaming activity further down the shore.

"The Long Beach Island boom" has spread west to our woodland area," reports Bill McCleery, sales manager of Fawn Lakes, where seven models of single-family, duplex and quad homes are currently priced from just $29,900. "The new building activity is truly fantastic."

McCleery explained that governmental approval in recent months has been given for the development of 15 stores in the Fawn Lakes neighborhood along Rt. 72, which links Long Beach Island and Barnegat Bay to the mainland communities. The coming facilities include new auto dealers, another movie theatre and various shopping enterprises.

"More important, we think, are all the facilities and recreational pleasures already within Fawn Lakes and available in the immediate environs," McCleery stated. Fawn Lakes has a private lake, visited these days by flocks of ducks, geese and, of course, fawns. Also offered is a heated outdoor swimming pool. The community's private community center plays host to diverse social and recreational programs, including parties, dances, classes and craft activities. And Fawn Lakes is also watched over by a private security force.

Just 10 minutes to the east are the beaches, bays and inlets that attract hundreds of thousands of visitors from throughout New Jersey, New York City and Eastern Pennsylvania. The charter fishing fleets run, nearly uninterrupted, in all seasons. Fawn Lakes is also surrounded by one of the most expansive forest and natural sanctuary networks in the entire Mid-Atlantic Region. These thick woodlands include Lebanon State Forest, Wharton State Forest, Bass River State Forest and such historic areas as Batsto. Sportsmen consider the area as unique and thriving with fishing, canoeing and bird-watching opportunities. Also very near is the hospital that serves the area.

Also attractive are the area's many fine dining places, including some of the most well-known seafood restaurants in the state. And, of course, Atlantic City is but 28 miles to the south.

Currently, 30-day delivery on selected models is being offered at Fawn Lakes. At no extra cost, all Fawn Lakes homes come complete with such quality features as double-hung thermopane Anderson windows, all-aluminum maintenance-free exteriors and insulated crawl space.

Fawn Lakes sales office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. To reach the community, take the Parkway to Exit 63. Then take the first U-turn on Rt. 72 and proceed west following the hospital signs. The entrance on Rt. 72 is one mile past the Wawa supermarket.

IN SUNRISE LAKES—just west of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the word "satellite" means a recreational community center just a short walk from the apartment. This satellite clubhouse is one already in existence in Sunrise Lakes.

New condominiums in south of Florida

Florida has long been regarded as one of the nation's largest recreation centers, with Miami Beach and Fort Lauderdale as sister cities sharing a wealth reaped from vacationing pleasure-seekers. The hotels of these two cities are gaining a reputation for recreational pleasures along with area condominiums, where people have decided to stay for a lifetime of sunshine and activities in those large clubhouses in which "activity addicts" delight.

In one South Florida condominium, located west of Fort Lauderdale, the builders have decided that one large recreation center is not enough. In addition to a large clubhouse and golf course in the third phase of this condominium community, the builders of Sunrise Lakes Condominiums have built satellite clubhouses, smaller community centers, in which residents can enjoy leisure activities just a short walk from their apartments.

Sunrise Lakes currently has two satellite clubhouses completed, with one opening this month another to be started in two weeks. Proposed and completed satellite clubhouses all have pools, patio areas and shuffleboard courts. In addition, one satellite already built has a tennis court area, while another planned satellite has included in its layout tennis courts and dark room facilities.

Tucked into each satellite area is a card room, and a room which can be used as a card or activity room. Satellites also contain pool rooms, saunas, bathroom facilities, showers and kitchens.

Berta Dee, vice-president of Development Corporation of America, the builder of Sunrise Lakes, explained the importance of the satellites.

"These recreational areas are places where friends can get together in intimate groups and play cards, swim or sunbathe. They are convenient to the residents' apartments and provide an easily accessible means of leisure pursuits, particularly for those who don't drive," she said.

"These satellites, and other pool and tennis areas, supplement activities in the main clubhouse, which is the scene of large group events in Sunrise Lakes."

One event is the weekly Friday night "Showtime" in which stars such as Norm Crosby, Jack Carter, Johnnie Ray, Phil Foster, Virginia Graham and Billy Eckstine have come to perform on stage in the 1,000-seat theater.

Another event is the weekly Saturday night "Cabaret," during which residents dance to a live band, have parties and socialize with friends. Other weekly events are bingo night, the Jack Eigen talk show and movie night.

This multi-million dollar clubhouse also has an outdoor pool-patio area, sauna and showers. Inside is an indoor pool and whirlpool, racquetball court and activity rooms for cards, parties, arts and crafts and physical fitness and academic classes. A billiard room with many pool tables and a golf pro shop, help fill the needs of sports enthusiasts of two Sunrise, Fla. 3332, once popular activities there. A 9-hole golf course is located throughout Sunrise Lakes, and begins at the Pro Shop.

Another popular spot in this clubhouse is the lobby. Overlooking a fountain through glass walls, it is decorated with sofas, chairs and tables. Many residents gather there daily.

There are clubs, groups and classes which meet in the main clubhouse and the satellites. Some of the clubs are the men's and women's clubs, the singles' club, three bowling clubs, and golf and billiards clubs. The cultural committee helps insure that classes taught by professional instructors are brought into Sunrise Lakes.

There is as much variety in the apartments throughout this community as there is in recreation. Floorplans in the model center located at 3000 Sunrise Lakes Dr. W...

Pheasant Run offers luxury homes choice

The finest in modern design single-family homes, located on a tree-filled mountain tract overlooking Loantaka Brook Reservation in Morris Township, is being introduced by Pheasant Run.

A spokesman for Carlton J. Bruen Inc., Realtor, exclusive agent for Pheasant Run, said the new community will feature homes in one of the most sought after locations in the state.

The four luxury sample homes, priced in the low

$200,000 range, are set among stately tall shade trees. Individual rare old trees have been designated "Specimen Trees" by the State Agricultural Department. In one instance, an Austrian Pine established a state record for size.

Limited to just 26 homes, the builders have selected four unusual samples for public offering and have already accepted buyer's plans for additional diversity of exteriors.

The four sample homes offer a wide variety. The five-bedroom Yorktown Colonial features a graceful facade accented by a covered portico. The contemporary four-bedroom Concord Cape Cod plays on sleek lines for a modern effect, the homeowner who is drawn by the charm of a country-style home will be attracted to the more conservative five-bedroom Bunker Hill Colonial. The buyer desiring an unusual home, will be attracted to the six bedroom Lexington English Tudor mansion.

COMING MARCH 4—"An Evening with Jose Greco and Friends" is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 4, at Seton Hall University in South Orange. Among the "friends" will be Nana Lorca, shown here with the artist. She is prima ballerina of Greco's dance company.

Greco to lecture, dance March 4 at Seton Hall

Seton Hall University will present "An Evening with Jose Greco and Friends" at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, March 4 in the Student Center on the South Orange campus. The recital and lecture will be the second program in the President's Artists Series and is open to the general public.

Greco studied as a child under Spain's foremost teachers of dance and became the partner of Argentinita.

After her death, Greco co-starred with her younger sister, Pilar Lopez, and toured with her throughout Europe. Subsequently organizing his own company, he appeared before overflow audiences across Europe and Great Britain. A tour across the United States in 1951 was the first of many for him.

To promote understanding of Hispanic culture in the United States, Greco established the Jose Greco Foundation for Hispanic Dance in 1971. Its goals are to promote and develop an appreciation and understanding of Hispanic culture through choreography and performance of old and new works. Appearing with Greco in the Seton Hall program will be Nana Lorca, prima ballerina of his company.
