PRINCIPAL DECISIONS—Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, seated, Mountainside superintendent of schools, reviews lesson plans with newly appointed principals James Johnson, center, and Allan Shapiro. Johnson, a fourth grade teacher for nine years, will become head of Beechwood School, and Shapiro, a former vice-principal, becomes principal of Deerfield.

Deerfield, Beechwood principals

Shapiro, Johnson agree on aim -- communications with parents

"I feel it's a challenge," Allan Shapiro said. "I hope to get going on the job as soon as I can."

"The same with me," James Johnson agreed, saying that he wanted to make himself available to parents before the school year began to see what might be on their minds.

Shapiro and Johnson have been named principals of Deerfield and Beechwood Schools, respectively. Both have held other positions in the Mountainside school system—Shapiro, for 10 years a vice-principal at Deerfield; Johnson, a fourth grade teacher at Deerfield for three years, and before that, for four years at Beechwood.

A resident of Livingston, Shapiro holds a degree in history from New York University and a master's degree in administration and supervision from Seton Hall University, where he completed a doctoral equivalency in student personnel services. Before coming to Mountainside, Shapiro taught for 14 years in Arts High School and other schools in Newark.

Shapiro has been in charge of Deerfield School as an acting principal, and he'll be running the school now without a vice-principal to assist him. He's ready for the challenge, though.

"Well, we'll have to see, but we're going to give it a good try," he promised. "The responsibilities are much greater, though, and for a while, I've had my finger in every pie."

Johnson, a resident of Cranford, holds a B.A. degree in elementary education and a M.A. in administration from Kean College. In addition, he has completed 30 hours of course work as a reading specialist.

"I feel that I'm moving home," he said, noting his background in the Mountainside school system. "I've resumed my studies in being a reading specialist, and I've been doing work in the area of math problem diagnosis in the last few years. I think that this will allow me to communicate with the staff on reading and math problems, where the major emphasis should be."

Both principals believe that communications with parents will be their primary challenge for the coming school year.

"I'd like to develop better lines of communications with the parents, to get better input," Johnson said. "Usually, I find that problems occur because of breakdowns in these communications."

"That's definitely a primary thing," Shapiro agreed, "but I would like to see more communications between teacher and parents. I'm going to urge the teachers to telephone parents and talk with them, even to write them when necessary."

"And not only when a child is bad," he emphasized, "but also when a child is doing well. If a student is slow, but then shows vast improvement, I don't see why the parents can't be called and told about it. Also, it's good community relations."

"Both men bring very special skills to their new work," Dr. Levin B. Hanigan, superintendent of schools stated, "and the students will prosper from their educational expertise, as well as their familiarity with the Mountainside schools."

ERA advocates gain fund-raising permits

Amid discussion on possible problems occurring because of "opening the door," as one member put it, the Mountainside Borough council agreed last Tuesday evening to allow Equal Rights Amendment For Women supporters to canvass the area for funds. The council also agreed to arrange for a gasoline allotment system for local fire and rescue personnel, and approved an ordinance providing for the financing by allotment of the Mary Allan lane sewer project.

Acting on a request from a National Organization of Woman spokesperson, JeanneMarie Otersen, the council members debated whether political canvassers should be permitted to seek funds within the community.

"I'm reading this because there are some things that bother me," Councilman Abe Suckno commented, and he read the letter making the request.

"If you let one collect, you have to let all the political organizations collect," he said.

Last year, ERA supporters were given permission by the Mountainside police department to solicit cash, and were issued fund-raiser identification badges.

Suckno advised the council that this should not have been done without the permission of the council and mayor. "What happened last year has no binding on this year," Borough Attorney John Post concurred.

Councilman Bruce Geiger agreed with Suckno's observation that "we'll have to allow all political parties with a problem to canvass," but argued that "this is a free country, and we should be able to hear all views." Post assured the councilmen that "each group can be considered individually," and the motion was passed unanimously.

A resolution authorizing the borough attorney to draft a contract with local gasoline retailers for special firefighter and rescue worker fuel allotments was also passed unanimously. The contract, which would allow gas stations to hold part of their fuel shipments for specific distribution to the volunteers, was considered possible by Post, who told council members that such an agreement would be legal under present rationing laws.

"However, the contract would have to be sent to the state Department of Energy for approval or disapproval," he said.

Geiger, who urged passage of the measure, said that the volunteers "had assured me that they would police their use."

"If the situation arose where gas is scarce, these people would not have a way to respond to a fire," he observed.

The council approved a $62,000 assessment from Mary Allan lane residents for their new sewage system.

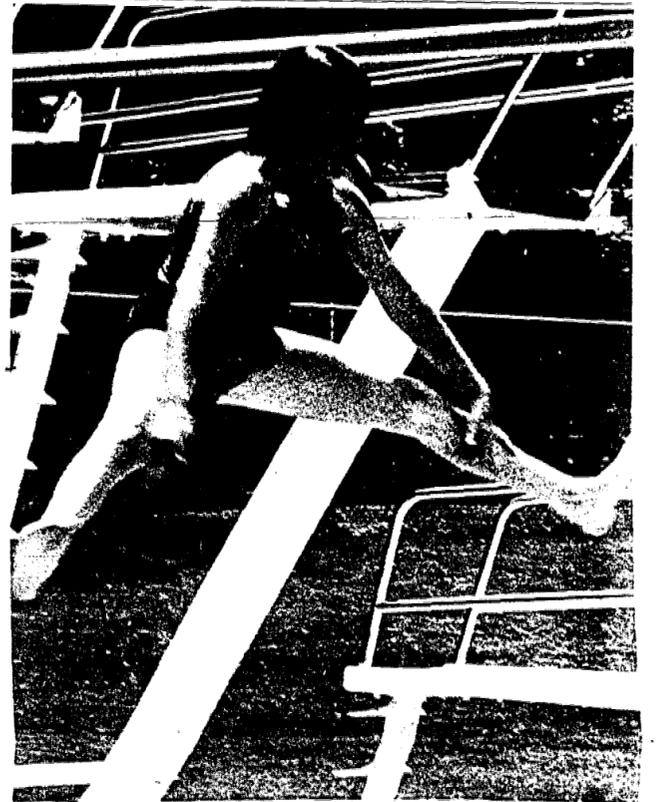

Construction will begin as soon as all the property has been obtained.

The council also approved an ordinance which grants Suburban Cablevision a franchise to operate a cable television and communications system in Mountainside, and makes provisions for a 2 percent gross receipt municipal payment yearly. In conjunction, the council also approved an ordinance proposed by Joseph Moran, chairman of the Shade Tree Commission, which sets standards for the pruning and removing of tree and shrub growth when cable television wires are being installed.

Mayor Thomas Ricciardi read a county ordinance concerning pay raises into the record to "let people know about the salaries of the county personnel, which I find excessive." Among the salaries noted were county manager, $48,150; director of John E. Runnells Hospital, $44,801; director of engineering, $36,380; and director of public works, $34,026.

Weekends not lost

Student dilemma: suspended in class

By CHARLES HORNER

Spending weekends in school in a kind of reverse suspension for errant students is getting mixed grades from pupils at both Jonathan Dayton High School in Springfield and David Brearley in Kenilworth.

"Most kids have after-school and weekend jobs," said Kevin Karp, a senior, "and if they go on suspension, they lose out. And if a kid loses out both ways, he'll cut that weekend suspension."

"Yeah, but then you get three days schoolday suspension," someone told him.

"Then he'll take the suspension instead of losing his job," Karp replied.

The regional high schools have numerous ways of punishing wrongdoers—rebukes, visits to the office, office detention, suspension, expulsion.

Recently, a new device has been considered by the regional school board, one that borrows from the logic of adults and the dislikes of juvenile offenders. The weekend in-school suspension, already in use in Union, might be invoked in the four regional schools, including Jonathan Dayton and David Brearley.

The weekend suspensions would be used to punish frequent incidents of truancy, leaving the building without permission, cutting class, cutting office detention, tardiness to school and smoking. The guilty pupils would be required to go to school buildings on Saturday or Sunday from 8 a.m. to noon—and to complete school assignments under the watchful eye of a certified teacher hired for that purpose.

Joe Policastro, another senior, differed with Karp.

"It'll be good," he observed. "Make the students know that the school's not fooling around. If the kid's suspended on school time, he's not sacrificing much, but if the kid has to go on weekends, that's much more of an impact, and he'll know that the school's serious."

At the Springfield swimming pool, most Jonathan Dayton students who were questioned agreed with Policastro. Trish Taylor, secretary of the senior class, concurred. "I think it would be more effective, because it's harsh. I wouldn't like to have it happen to me."

Some of the pupils were not sure whether the suspensions would have any effect on existing infractions that flourish, despite punishment.

"People will think twice before cutting school," Kathy Ostrich, a senior, decided. "But smoking? I don't know if it will help. No matter how many warnings are made, I don't think

Staub aids Vietnam refugees in crowded Hong Kong camps

By RICH POST

When most Americans plan an overseas voyage, they dream of beautiful sights. They imagine walking through ancient ruins or visiting landmarks they thought existed only in travel brochures. But for Rhoda Staub of Mountainside, a trip to a foreign country becomes a chance not only to see these lands, but also to become involved in their activities.

Recently, Rhoda and her husband, Murray, returned from Hong Kong after living and working there for 2½ years. As the Far East representative for Campus Outerwear, Murray Staub had his work set aside. But what about his wife? What would she do to keep herself occupied?

"After some extensive travel to places such as Singapore, Thailand, Korea, Japan and others, Rhoda became involved with the American Women's Association, a group of 750 women, 40 percent of whom were American. A volunteer organization, the AWA learned of a Vietnamese nun who was working in Hong Kong to assist the thousands of Vietnamese refugees seeking a safe place to live. She told us of their desperate need and of how sick

FAR FROM ANY HOME—Rhoda Staub of Mountainside recently completed almost three years in Hong Kong, where she worked as a volunteer to aid these Vietnamese refugees waiting in overcrowded camps until permanent homes can be found for them.

Pony Stars take a pair; Majors split

The undefeated Mountainside Pony League All-Stars beat Millburn, 6-4, behind the complete-game pitching of Rickey Julian. Mountainside took advantage of early wildness by the Millburn pitcher, Pat Esemplare's three-run double and Stu Jurczak's RBI single to gain an insurmountable lead.

The Pony Leaguers completed the week with a 7-3 triumph at Summit. Gary Kane struck out 14, allowing only four hits. Summit broke to a quick lead but timely hitting by Andrew Grett, Stu Jurczak, Kane and Jimmy Dascoli sparked the rally.

The Major League All-Stars breezed to a 19-2 verdict over Kenilworth in the opening round of the Orange Invitational Tournament on fine fielding by shortstop Jeff Ahlholm and the effective pitching of David Gagliano and David Rizzo gave Mountainside 17 hits, including a three each by Rizzo and Gagliano, two each by Mickey Tomko and Matthew Miller, a grand slam homer by Chris Carpency and a pinch-hit RBI single by John Fischer.

The Major League All-Stars concluded the week with a 6-5 loss at South Orange. Mountainside fell behind despite strong hitting by Chris Carpency and Jim Thorlakson. With two outs and none on in the last inning, Mountainside scored two runs on a pinch-single by Darren Ialone.

"Two students listening to the conversation nodded in agreement.

"What do you think?" one asked, as he lazily snapped his towel at a passing girl.

"Well, I'll tell you," the other replied, "I'd rather have the suspension during the day."

"Hah!" hooted his friend, "What happens when you come home and tell your mother, 'Hey, Mom, I've been suspended?'"

"So what?" he answered, "get a couple of hits in the face, and that's it..."

they were," stated Rhoda. "She asked us for help."

According to Staub, most refugees coming from Vietnam are of Chinese ethnic backgrounds. "They're being persecuted in Vietnam. They either leave and pay gold to be released, or they're sent into the hill country. These are an urban people—most were formerly small entrepreneurs or fishermen."

Although persecuted in Vietnam, the Chinese ethnics are very proud of their origins, regardless of how distant their ancestry. "They're always set apart, remaining a closely knit community no matter where they're living. You have to remember, they have more than 5,000 years of written history to reflect upon. They're proud of that fact." Staub continued. They retain all their own customs as far as the cycle of life is concerned.

When the refugees leave Vietnam, they do so illegally on small, overcrowded fishing boats. Their destination is virtually unknown and travelling conditions are very unhealthy. The journey ends wherever they're permitted to land.

When in Hong Kong, the refugees are taken to hotels until resettlement. The refugee camps are funded by welfare organizations, with some money coming from the United Nations. It is here that the American Women's Association begins its aid.

"The most important thing to the refugees is learning English," said Staub. "For 99 percent of them, America is the promised land—the land of opportunity, just as it was to our ancestors. In fact, most of them do nothing all day, with the exception of attending English classes."

"We aided them in a number of other ways as well," continued Staub. "The refugees had very little to call their own, so we collected used clothing and English reading materials, and we raised funds to buy toiletries such as soap, toothbrushes and other necessities."

Refugees cannot legally seek employment in Hong Kong. Officials believe that if the refugees are allowed to work, a job shortage could arise, raising Hong Kong's unemployment rate. "So, a small number of refugees find work illegally." Some take work into their homes—an illegal practice, but quite common where available. "Vietnamese women did beautiful handiwork which we sold. Money made from these handmade items was then donated back into the refugee program."

Probably the greatest of all problems faced by the refugees is receiving permission to enter Hong Kong. "This year alone, an estimated 500,000 people will emigrate there," according to Staub. "And it's not only Vietnamese-refugees." An increasing number of mainland Chinese are entering illegally each week, forcing officials to crack down on immigration laws. So it seems that the plight of the refugees is far from being over.

It's been six months now since Rhoda and Murray Staub have returned to Mountainside, but that doesn't mean Rhoda is through volunteering. A Planned Parenthood volunteer at home, she recently accompanied her husband on another business trip—this time to Africa. Although it was only for one week, Rhoda found time to visit an African equivalent of our Planned Parenthood. "I was interested to see how their program compared with ours in America," she stated.

Living in Hong Kong for 2 1/2 years is something that few Americans will ever experience. But Rhoda Staub did—and it left her with a very strong impression. "I know this sounds corny, but it's true," she stated. "It really made me appreciate being an American."

Police find 'solution' to mishap in hospital

Mountainside police faced a mystery last Monday morning when they found a nearly demolished vehicle abandoned where it had crashed into an embankment on the corner of Coles avenue and New Providence road. Their surprise grew when the car, which lacked license plates and papers, was discovered to have no record of an owner registered with the state, police reports said.

A check of area hospitals led police to Christopher A. Mako of Westfield who had been taken to Overlook Hospital for treatment of a broken nose, police reported.

Police find 'solution' to mishap in hospital

Mako, who reportedly admitted that he was the driver, told police that he had attempted to make a turn but had lost control of his vehicle and it crashed, and according to reports, had removed the license plates left the car at the scene of the accident because he felt that it had been destroyed beyond repair.

He then contacted his brother, who took him to Overlook for treatment, police said.

Mako received summonses for driving an unregistered and uninsured vehicle, for abandoning the car and for not reporting the accident, police reported.

2 seized as burglars

The good memory of a victim and quick action by police may have ended a string of burglaries in Mountainside and Union.

The chain of events leading to the arrest and filing of charges against Allen Fiore, 30, of Union and Steven Schwartz, 28, of Freehold, began when a New Providence road, Mountainside, resident surprised two men allegedly in the act of stealing items from her home

July 12, police said. Mountainside police, investigating the incident, found other property in the yard. It was later identified as being stolen from another New Providence road home earlier July 12. The victim of the second burglary identified both suspects from police files, provided by the Union Police Department.

Union police said they later located a car in a parking lot operated by Fiore and awaited return of the suspect. Both men returned to the car soon after and, according to reports, police observed the pair transferring property believed by police to be stolen. At the time of their arrest, the two men also had an extra set of license plates, which police believe were used on a getaway car to confuse authorities.

Fiore was released in Union on $5,000 bail and is facing charges of breaking and entering and having possession of stolen property, while Schwartz was released on $1,000 bail and is facing two charges of breaking and entering in Union.

Each man faces three charges of breaking and entering and three of larceny in Mountainside. Police in Mountainside released them on their own recognizance, reportedly on the condition they remain at a drug rehabilitation center in Elizabeth.

No clues found in eatery theft

Police found no signs of forced entry to indicate how the H.M. Winston restaurant on Rt. 22 East was entered July 11, and there were no clues as to how a safe was opened and $9,624 in small bills, $50s, $100s and traveler's checks was removed, police reports said.

Sometime between 1 a.m. and 9 a.m. the cash and checks, stored in small metal boxes within the safe were taken, according to police. H.M. Winston is a Philadelphia-based company.

THOUGHT FOR FOOD

By GOULD CROOK

About Barbecues

The most difficult aspect of barbecue cooking is timing. Success with the grill depends on temperature of your fire and the food. Foods from the refrigerator take more time than room temperature. Stick to a brand of charcoal that you're familiar with — for heat intensity and length of time it takes for the fire to be right. All charcoals are not the same.

The simplest way to start the fire is with charcoal lighter — don't ever pour lighter fluid on an already burning fire.

Invest in some simple long-handled tools, forks, tongs, turners and brushes for basting. A good spray bottle with clean water is a must to douse the fires that pop up. Fat from the meat or an oily baste will cause the coals to flame. Trim excess fat and build the fire around a drip pan to catch the grease.

Compounding ideas
There are factors other than the interest rate that help determine how much you earn on savings. One is the frequency of compounding. Daily compounding of a thousand-dollar savings account may earn only a dollar or two more per year than compounding quarterly, but the difference is in what you lose with quarterly compounding if you have to withdraw the money before the end of a quarter.

An invitation: dine with ORT

An open dinner invitation has been made to the public by the Women's American Springfield chapter of the Organization for Rehabilitation through Training (ORT).
The chapter's dinner is planned for July 30 at 7 p.m. at the East Winds, Rt.
22, Scotch Plains. A $10 donation per person is specified.
"Bring a friend," urged Sherri Wendroff, of Park lane, Springfield, vice-president for special projects of the chapter. "Eat dinner, and then play your favorite game, or just relax with us," she said. She added that the dinner and other chapter activities provide opportunity for meeting different people.
Deadline for reservations is July 24.
They can be made by calling 379-2169 helps to hold down local property taxes.

PICTURE WORTH 1,000 WORDS—This artist's sketch of Crestwood Village's new Lynnewood Single, fully-detached model, was all 100 visitors had to go by in making the decision to purchase this model. No sample home has been built, although an earlier twin version of the Lynnewood has been on view at the retirement community on Rt. 530, near Whiting, Ocean County.

$5 million in homes sold, just by a sketch

What is believed to be a record has been set by Crestwood Village—more than $5 million worth of homes has been sold to buyers, sight unseen.

"We didn't even have a sample to show visitors," said David S. Wolff, marketing director at the Ocean County retirement community, "and yet we sold 100 of our new Lynnewood Single models from an artist's sketch and a floor plan."

He explained that the Lynnewood Single is the direct descendant of the Lynnewood Twin, born at Crestwood Village 14 years ago, which became one of the community's most popular models, though priced at the "top of the line."

During that time, many Crestwood visitors, who admired the luxury features built into the Lynnewood twin—but preferred the privacy of a detached home on its own lot—urged management to offer the home in a single version also.

"But we were reluctant to listen," recalled Wolff. "We continued to sell the Lynnewood Twin and built other detached models to answer the demand. We didn't recognize the unique potential in a Lynnewood Single."

Finally Mike Kokes, president of the Ocean County retirement community on Rt. 530, near Whiting, decided, "We'll do it."

Since the modified blueprints were completed a few months ago, Crestwood has sold 100 Lynnewood Singles. "It's phenomenal," declared Wolff. "People walk out into our model area and inspect the sample of the Lynnewood Twin. Many still buy it as a twin. But for many others—those who want the same home in a single—we now have an answer. And they buy from an architectural rendering and a set of floor plans in the Exhibit Center."

"Despite the fact that there is no sample to inspect, and though the Lynnewood Single is our highest priced model at $61,490, it is one of our fastest-selling homes today. We can't build them as fast as we can sell them. Deliveries are now scheduled nearly a year ahead, into February and March of 1980. For buyers who can anticipate that far ahead, we offer Crestwood's written anti-inflation guarantee. That document guarantees today's prices on the Lynnewood—or any of our other 11 models, for that matter—to a purchaser who places a minimum deposit for future delivery of a home, even into next year."

The Lynnewood Single is a luxury two-bedroom, two-bath home with attached private garage and central air conditioning. The front section of the home, with its open design of entrance hall, enclosed porch and expansive 23½-foot living and dining rooms gives an impression of commanding space. G.E.'s deluxe appliances equip the kitchen with Americana double oven, dishwasher, side-by-side 18-foot frost-free refrigerator-freezer, and the separate utility-laundry room with washer and dryer. Both bedrooms feature wall-to-wall sliding door wardrobes, plus an additional wardrobe in the master dressing room, and a tiled shower in master bath.

"All this, plus dozens of quality features found in all Crestwood homes—such as solid oak kitchen cabinets, insulated glass windows and screens throughout, wood flooring over a crawl space—make this a standout home design," concluded Wolff. "This home has everything."

Crestwood Village, one of several communities in the adult complex on Rt. 530, is 10 miles west of Toms River Exit 80 of the Garden State Parkway. Twelve model homes from the 20s to low 60s, are on exhibit seven days a week from 9 to 6.

Jerseyans awarded five research grants

Five new American Cancer Society research grants totalling $481,000 have been awarded to scientists in New Jersey institutions, Raymond J. Donahue, president of the New Jersey Division, has announced. The new grants bring to more than $900,000 the amount of American Cancer Society grants currently allocated to cancer research in New Jersey.

"The size of these individual grants, among the largest allocated by the National ACS indicates the stature that has been attained by New Jersey institutions in the field of cancer research," Donahue said.

The American Cancer Society designates 25 percent of funds contributed to the annual cancer crusade for research.

More than $3,000,000 was raised in the ACS New Jersey Division's 1978 crusade. Of this amount, over $750,000 went to the national society for research allocations.

The largest grant, $130,750, effective July 1, 1979, through June 30, 1981, has been awarded to Dr. Irwin Clark, a member of the Department of Surgery at Rutgers Medical School of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey. Clark's research is designed to determine whether alterations in the pattern of nucleosides in the urine or serum can be used to detect pre cancerous conditions in animals.

John C. Wooley, Ph.D., a member of the Department of Biochemical Sciences at Princeton University, received a grant of $120,000, also effective July 1, 1979, through June 30, 1981, to explore cell changes in sea urchins for clues to genetically derived cell patterns.

A grant of $105,000 was awarded to Raghbir S. Athwal of the Department of Microbiology at Newark Medical School of the College of Medicine and Dentistry for a similar period. Athwal will map gene transfers from hamster to mouse cells.

Maurice J. Rosenstraus, Ph.D., a member of the Department of Biological Sciences at Douglass College of Rutgers University, has received a grant of $100,000, effective July 1, 1979, through June 30, 1981, to study mechanisms that lead to changes in embryonal carcinoma cells.

An institutional research grant in the amount of $25,000 also has been awarded to the Newark Medical School of the College of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey for a period of one year. Purpose of the grant is to encourage cancer research among the school's faculty and students.

PLANNING CHARITY TOURNEY—Phil Rizzuto, left, meets with others to plan the third annual Phil Rizzuto celebrity invitational golf and tennis tournament to be held Monday at Canoe Brook Country Club in Summit for the benefit of the Kidney Fund of New Jersey, Inc. He is joined by tournament chairman Arthur J. Sabatino of Westfield, greens chairman Al Bucher of Union, and celebrity chairman Joseph Costa of Springfield.

Energy workshops set

In conjunction with the current exhibition, "Soft Energy Expo-79," the Newark Museum will offer special workshops and discussions about energy conservation techniques as part of its summer programming.

"Soft" energy describes the use of resources which, unlike petroleum, are renewable—the sun, the wind and recycled biomass (garbage). Soft energy also involves major changes in the use of energy, with a view to avoiding crisis situations such as the current gasoline shortage and other potential risks, including the impending lack of sufficient heating oil.

"Soft Energy Expo," a consumer-oriented exhibit, explains energy conservation measures that can be adapted easily and immediately by individuals to homes and office buildings. The Expo also investigates community-wide alternative energy systems and several large-scale research projects.

Dennis O'Malley of the DOE will discuss solar energy technology at 12:15 p.m. on July 27. Jennifer Berube of DOE will discuss "The Energy Game" and energy-saving home weatherization at 12:15 p.m. Aug. 17.

"Energy Conservation is Good Business" will be the subject Expo organizer Jack Greenspan at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday, July 17, it will be repeated on Aug. 14. Greenspan, an energy consultant, will discuss the auditing of business facilities for energy loss, and financial benefit to be gained from proper conservation measures and possible funding mechanisms for such procedures. At 1:30 p.m. on Aug. 22, Green span will conduct Energy Work shops for children. Several easy "do-it-yourself" projects which show immediate results will be introduced. They include a solar heat collector made from aluminum and tin cans and simple solar energy-concentrating roaster on which hot-dogs and other foods can be cooked.

The programs will be combined with visits to the "Soft Energy Expo," open through Nov. 30 in the Museum's Science Department. Expo displays include simulated solar collecting panels installed on a home roof, a bathroom which incorporates energy-saving measures, an "aquaculture" tank which produces a fish crop and at the same time converts sunlight into heat and a model of the "biosphere", a futuristic domed dwelling that will satisfy the entire food, energy and comfort needs for an average family of five.

"Do-it-yourself" techniques for the homeowner include window double-glazing and methods for insulating walls from the inside.

Funding support for the Expo has been provided by the Victoria Foundation, the Florence and John Schumann Foundation and the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation.

The Newark Museum, 49 Washington St., Newark, is convenient to New Jersey Conrail and PATH train lines and TNJ bus routes. The Museum is open daily from noon to 5 p.m. Admission is free. Information is available at 733-6600.

Hemophilia group plans benefit day at raceway

The Hemophilia Association of New Jersey has announced that "Hemophilia Day at the Races" will be held Saturday, Aug. 11 at Freehold Raceway, where daytime harness racing is under way. Post time is 1 p.m. "It isn't just another horse race" said Mena Ryan, chairman of the fund-raising event. It's a horse race to further the life of a boy or man in New Jersey who has the age-old inherited bleeding disorder of hemophilia.

Tickets for the event are $10 and include grandstand and lunch served at the seat. In addition models from the Barbizon School of Modeling-Red Bank Studios will be at all gates representing the association.

"The money raised from this fund-raising project will help provide the controlling or clotting factor that is needed to stop the bleeding for those who can't afford it," said Ryan.

M.T. Band booked

The Marshall Tucker Band will join the Garden State Arts Center's summer line-up on Aug. 26, the Arts Center at Holmdel announced this week.

Also, the Arts Center announced cancellation of the Aug. 16 Frankie Valli show.

The Marshall Tucker Band, which long ago bridged the gap between rock and country, is well known for such hits as "Fire on the Mountain" and "Heard it in a Love Song." The six-member group specializes in contemporary songs with a rock beat and western twang—a style that has earned them a solid following throughout the country.

Tickets for the band are on sale now at the Arts Center ticket Office, located within the amphitheatre at Garden State Parkway Exit 116 in Holmdel, and at all Ticketron outlets. Ticket prices for the Marshall Tucker Band concert range from $8.50 to $10.50 for box seats, with lawn space costing $5.50. Ticket holders for the Frankie Valli concert may obtain refunds by returning to the place of purchase. Those who obtained their tickets through the mail will be contacted by mail.

Pick Of The LPs UNWRAPPED by Denise La Salle (MCA-3088)

Denise was born in rural LeFlore County, Mississippi and moved to the small town of Belzoni when she was eight. She sang in church choirs and neighborhood groups, but she recalls "The first music that turned my head a bit was Dinah Washington, Sam Cook and Aretha Franklin."

Denise's first career move came to at age 15 when she left her Mississippi home to live with her brother in Chicago and tried her hand at fiction writing. TAM magazine bought one of her stories, but Denise, looking for other ways to express herself, soon turned to songwriting. She met noted recording artist Billy "The Kid" Emerson at a Chicago club. Emerson was so impressed with her voice he took her to Chess Records, who signed her in the late 1960's.

Although Chess never got around to recording her at that time, her affiliation with the company gave Denise the motivation to actively pursue a singing career. After obtaining a release from Chess, Denise recorded "Love Reputation" for Emerald's local label. It became an instant success in Chicago, and Chess acquired the record for national distribution. "Love Reputation" remains one of Denise's most popular recordings overseas.

In 1969, Denise set up her own production company. She signed local Chicago talent, wrote songs for the artists, and recorded them. Her first success was with Bill Coday, who had hits with "Get Your Lie Straight"

Denise's first session for Westbound also produced her first gold record, "Trapped By A Thing Called Love." Denise followed that with such soul hits as "Now Run and Tell That," "Don't Nobody Live Here by the Name of Fool," "Married But Not to Each Other," and "A Man Sized Job."

In 1976, Denise signed with ABC Records and recorded two highly successful albums, "Second Breath" and "The Bitch is Bad," the latter featuring Issac Hayes' Hot Buttered Soul vocal group and the nasty licks of some of Memphis' top sessionmen.

DENISE LA SALLE and "Find A Fool." A year later, Denise discovered three dancers she turned into a vocal group, the Sequins. The unit's hits included, "Hey Romeo," "The Third Degree," and "Anyone Can See." Encouraged by her success as a songwriter and record producer, Denise tried making another record of her own. "Hung Up and Strung Out" did well, and she was signed to a young Detroit label, Westbound Records.

Instructions offered for adult students

Adults who may be college's interested in going to building college—but who regard colleges as an unknown quantity—can find out what it's all about at one of two adult open houses scheduled at Union College Cranford, in August.

The college's seventh semi-annual open houses for adults are scheduled for Aug 7 and 8 in the faculty lounge of the Nomahegan building. All adults who have questions about beginning or continuing a college education are invited to attend, according to Patricia Kurisko of Clark, director of admissions and records. The open houses have been designed in an informal, coffee klatch manner, so that college administrators can answer questions.

Red Cross arranges 12-town car pool

Arrangements for a pilot car pool program were announced by the Eastern Union County-Cranford Area chapters of the American Red Cross. The free service will attempt to match up persons who need a ride with drivers who have space in their cars, according to Genevieve DeVenuto of Union, transportation service chairwoman.

Jersey st. in Elizabeth as a clearing house, the Red Cross will take calls from would-be passengers and drivers. Names of prospective passengers or those who would like to take turns driving will be given to others heading from the same area to the same destination at about the same time. DeVenuto said. Drivers and passengers will make financial arrangements between themselves, she added.

The Red Cross is beginning this service because no one else has done so, DeVenuto said. But if it proves successful, she said, the chapter would be willing to turn the program over to a government agency or other

Asthma group installs Catena new president

Ralph Catena of Hillside has been installed as president of the Asthmatic League, the Union County auxiliary of the National Asthma Center in Denver. He succeeds Dr. Dennis Vodarsik.

Mrs. Sara Melik, a national auxiliary board member of the newly-merged National Jewish Hospital-National Asthma Center, noted that Catena's son has spent the last year at Denver for asthmatic and other allergic problems. "I didn't know where to turn," Catena said, "but now that the NAC has helped us I want others to know how to help their families, friends and themselves with breath and allergy problems."

Also installed in the ceremonies at the YM-YWHA, Union, were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Goldberg, co-executive vice-presidents; Judy Gottlieb, membership vice-president; Dr. Vodarsik, vice-president for public relations; Mrs. Val Bauer, recording secretary; Mrs. Frances Eisenberg, financial secretary; Mrs. Louis Cohen, treasurer, and Mrs. Cy Schnirman, social secretary.

Information concerning the NAC is available by writing Box 62, Hillside, 07205.
