First woman council member to take office in Mountainside

The first woman council member in Mountainside history will be sworn in tonight at the Borough Council's organization meeting, which will be held in Borough Hall at 8.

Marilyn Hart, a former Union County Regional Board of Education member, will take office along with Mayor Thomas Ricciardi and Councilman Abe Suckno, who both were re-elected this fall.

All three are Republicans, continuing the more than four-score-year tradition in the borough of an all-Republican council.

Joan Nemick, who also ran on the Republican ticket, will be sworn in as tax collector.

Nicholas Bradshaw, who was appointed in May 1973 to fill the unexpired term of Louis Parent and elected in 1973 and 1976, will step down from the council this year. Bradshaw most recently served as finance chairman.

A list of appointments was not available at press time, but sources indicated that few major changes would occur on the council.

Two openings on the Board of Adjustment will have to be filled as the terms of John Ament and George Novitt have expired. Marilyn Tonneson's term on the Local Assistance Board also has expired.

Other terms which have expired include: Dr. David Rodman, Board of Health; Gene Simpson, Library Board of Trustees; Lawrence Curtiss, Shade Tree Commission; and Theodore Nugent, Planning Board.

Maguire rips timing of Byrne's tax drive

Assemblyman William J. Maguire (R-22) said this week Governor Brendan Byrne's plan to force a $340 million package of new taxes through the lame-duck legislature is ill-conceived, ill-timed and an insult to the newly-elected Assembly that takes office Jan. 8. He said the "backdoor" approach of new taxes "is typical of the Byrne administration" and said the package, if passed, "will be effective only until the next budget deficit."

"It's an insult to the taxpaying public for the Governor to use a lame-duck legislature to consider a major tax program," Maguire said. "Many of these Assemblymen were defeated in the November elections and cannot be held accountable to the public for their votes."

Maguire said the package of three new taxes is "ill-conceived" because it severely penalizes the business community "at a time we should be encouraging rather than discouraging business and industrial growth." He said the 20 percent increase in the corporate business tax "will discourage new investment and send private investment dollars scurrying to states with more attractive business tax climates."

Maguire predicted the Governor's plan for a 5 percent tax on professional services "does not stand a chance" in the State Senate and faces a "doubtful" future in the Assembly. The "third new levy is a 1 percent tax on oil refinery output."

"Obviously, all three new taxes will be passed on to the consuming public at a time when inflation has seriously eroded existing buying power," Maguire said. "The Governor's timing is terrible."

The Clark Republican said a "serious flaw" in the Governor's new tax program is his "silence" on spending curbs in order to close the projected $250 million budget gap. "The effect is a costly new chapter in the Byrne administration's patchwork approach to revenue raising while pushing state spending above the $5 billion mark for the first time in history."

Democratic legislative leaders have scheduled special sessions Saturday and Monday to consider the tax program. The new legislature takes office at noon on Jan. 8.

"There simply will be no time for public hearings and the sort of debate the public deserves when tax proposals are considered," Maguire added. "I resent the backdoor approach the Governor is taking and I reject the excuse that the existing lame-duck legislators 'understand the fiscal needs of the state.'"

"The only real understanding involved is the Governor's pledge to find jobs in government for the Democrats who were defeated in November and favorable votes on his new tax proposals are emerging as the quid pro quo. It's a poor way for the state to do business."

Library displaying 1979, yule stamps

A collection of first-day covers and Christmas stamp memorabilia are being displayed at the Mountainside Public Library throughout January.

The covers are of American stamps and postal stationery issued during 1979. The display of Christmas memorabilia consists of American first-day covers, stamps, and holiday cancellations.

The displays were assembled by Milton Smith, a ninth-grader at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, who has prepared other displays of first-day covers and Bicentennial stamps over the past four years. This year's display of 30 hand-drawn covers ranges from Robert F. Kennedy to the 1980 Olympics, and includes such topics as endangered flora, Pennsylvania Toleware, American architecture, and historic lamps.

Issued in New Jersey were Albert Einstein, Seeing-eye dogs, and an Aerogram depicting soccer. Special covers include Eisenhower's 89th Birthday, and the Pope's visit to America.

First day covers can be obtained in two ways. The preferred way is to buy the new stamp, apply it to a self-addressed envelope, and mail it to the city of issuance within 15 days of the stamp's date of issuance. The other method is to send a check for the proper amount with a self-addressed envelope to the city of issuance. This method will take longer because the postal service gives preferential treatment to pre-stamped envelopes.

Franks raps Byrne for 'lame-duck' action

Assemblyman-elect Bob Franks of Berkeley Heights said this week he "resents" Governor Brendan Byrne's plan to force his new $340 million tax package through the "lame-duck" legislature this week. He said Byrne's recent pledge to find government jobs for Democrats defeated in the November elections "raises the specter of payoffs" for favorable votes on the tax plan.

"The entire package is a disaster," Franks said, "and the timing of the vote is worse. Lame-duck legislators cannot be held accountable for their votes."

"The new legislature taking office on January 8 must wrestle with the estimated $200 million budget gap and the entire tax-spending spiral that has become the hallmark of the governor's administration," Franks said. "We should have the opportunity to vote on the proposals after responsible committee action and public hearings. This is impossible if the governor's plan prevails."

Franks said the tax package is

"severely anti-business" at a time the state should be encouraging business growth. "The Governor's timing could not be worse in light of our depressed state economy and our loss of jobs to states with more attractive business climates," he said. "The governor's proposals will further penalize business growth instead of encouraging it."

Franks, who pledged last fall to oppose any new taxes, said the governor's proposals "indicate no real attempt to cut spending" as a means of closing a projected $200 million budget gap. "Instead, he offers a package of anti-business and anti-middle class tax proposals to the wrong legislature at the wrong time under the wrong conditions."

Burglars take jewelry, TV at residences

Mountainside police are investigating two break-ins that left two borough houses ransacked.

A possible malfunction of an alarm system in a Deer Path residence may have allowed entry that resulted in the theft of about a dozen pieces of gold jewelry and diamonds from the master bedroom some time between midday Tuesday and Wednesday evening, police said.

Entry was gained through a basement window. A hole was chopped through a solid wood panel in the door leading to the first floor, police said.

Jewelry was strewn about the bedroom floor, and dresser drawers also were lying on the floor, police reported.

On Friday a neighbor of Central Avenue resident called police to report a blue passenger car parked in the resident's driveway. After the call, police said, the neighbor told them the car was gone.

Entry was gained by breaking a window of a side door.

Motorist held on 4 charges

Mountainside police last Thursday arrested a Port Washington, N.Y. man wanted in Hillsborough Township on various charges in connection with a traffic accident in that Somerset County community.

Anthony Deleo, 24, was being held in Union County Jail last week in lieu of $10,000 bail, according to Hillsborough police.

According to police reports, Mountainside police headquarters informed officer John Olah, who was on patrol at about 3 p.m., that Hillsborough police were looking for a 1972 green four-door Chevrolet that had left the scene of an accident.

Olah spotted the vehicle heading east on Route 22 and stopped the car at Locus Avenue, police said.

Key Club slates glass collection

The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School will hold its twice-a-month Glass-In Saturday. All residents are urged to bring glass bottles, sorted by color and without metal rings around the month of the bottles. Newspapers should be tied in bundles.

The Glass-In will be held in the high school front parking lot from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

AAUW offers scholarships

Applications for scholarships awarded annually by the Mountainside Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) are now available from Mrs. Robert Greeley, chairman of the scholarship committee.

To be eligible for the awards for the 1980-1981 academic year, an applicant must be female, attending college and either a resident of the borough of Mountainside or a member of the immediate family of a member of the Mountainside Branch of AAUW.

Scholarships are awarded on the basis of academic achievement and financial need. Students engaged in graduate-study programs may also apply for the funds.

Mrs. Greeley urged women who are home for the holiday season to contact her at 1173 Ridge Drive, Mountainside, or by telephone at 233-8048.

U.S. Senate

Energy debate in the last decade has focused almost exclusively on the availability of renewable resources; how long supplies will last, and where can we find more. We have turned gradually to foreign sources for a larger and larger percentage of our energy supply, until now we import more than half our oil. Unfortunately, that dependency is made more dangerous by the fact that the lion's share of these imports come from politically unstable countries, making us vulnerable to embargoes, cut-offs and price hikes.

We have within our means, however, the ability to cut significantly our thirst for petroleum, perhaps by as much as half. According to a recent report by the Harvard Business School, conservation could save the energy equivalent of 4.4 million barrels of oil by 1990 without cutting back at all on our standard of living. Put into perspective, that savings compares favorably with the 8 million barrels per day we are importing at present, and with the two million barrels per day we could hope to get from synfuels by 1990.

To date, however, the majority of conservation programs have been focused on the individual consumer. Cities and communities, which have the opportunity to influence the energy consumption on a large scale, have been left to approach the problem on a piecemeal basis.

A few innovative communities in New Jersey have undertaken some very impressive conservation programs, but these represent only a fraction of the potential savings which could be realized. In Newark, for instance, trained energy auditors are working along with homeowners to identify and rehabilitation opportunities, including possible energy saving opportunities.

In Jersey City, where nearly 80 percent of the housing stock is over 40 years old, the city is planning to retrofit with energy-saving devices residential buildings in two neighborhoods. Atlantic City is studying the feasibility of district heating and cooling. Trenton is working on the design of a cogeneration facility to heat and cool buildings in the central business district.

The cost savings made possible through the resultant conservation would more than balance the federal expenditures needed to get the program off the ground.

There is virtually no end to the potential of a national conservation grant program.

Caldwell gets collection on Robert Frost

Historian Norman F. Brydon has donated his collection of books on and by Robert Frost to the Caldwell College Library. The donation came as a result of Brydon's friendship with Sister Loretta Claire, formerly of the college's history faculty, who worked on a committee with Brydon during the Bicentennial celebration.

The collection includes 36 volumes, encompassing everything from first editions of Frost's poetry to modern biographies of the poet. Of particular interest is a copy of "North of Boston" in which "Mending Wall" first appeared; the copy is autographed by the poet.

Among other articles in the collection is a book called "Robert Frost and the Lawrence Massachusetts 'High School Bulletin'" which documents the beginnings of the poet's literary career. Facsimiles of the "Bulletin" which included Frost's poems make up the book, from the time when he began submitting contributions to 1891, when he became editor.

Brydon, a resident of Essex Fells, has had articles published in a number of magazines and has written three books: "Of Time, Fire and the River" (a story of New Jersey's covered bridges), "The Passaic River," and "Reverend James Caldwell."

Swedish basketballers jolted by former Minutemen, 88-61

A group of former Springfield Minutemen enjoyed the rare experience of playing a basketball game against a team of 15-year-olds from Sodertalje, Sweden, a city of about 80,000 near Stockholm. The game was played in Teaneck last Friday and the Springfield squad, coached by Phil Kurnos and Harry Weinerman, won, 88-61.

Asked why Springfield was selected to participate against the European team, Weinerman, who was instrumental in bringing about the game, said, "The Minutemen have a fine reputation."

"Considering that the Swedish boys are playing only 14 games here, and against teams that include Union City, East Orange and Jersey City, it is quite an honor to be chosen to play against them," Kurnos added.

The teams traded baskets in the early going with Kyle Hudgins, Thomas Ard and Robert Steir accounting for most of the Springfield points. The rangy Swedish team, using a variety of picks, managed to keep pace against the early man-to-man defense and against the 2-3 zone. But when Springfield switched into a 1-2-2 zone, the opponents could not seem to adjust and the former Minutemen gradually pulled ahead to lead, 41-32, at the half.

In the third quarter, Springfield put on a dazzling display of basketball, outscoring the Europeans, 27-10, to put the game out of reach. Continually beating the Swedish team down the court, they hit the open man time after time to help compile an amazing game total of 40 assists. Hudgins led the rebounders with 15, but everyone did his share off the boards, outbounding the taller opponents, 48-31.

Ard's seven assists led in that category but each boy had at least four. Steir and Danny Circelli each had four steals, but again every member of the team shared in that category. Everyone shared in the scoring, too: Steir had 21 points, Ard 18, Hudgins and David Johnson 12 apiece, Circelli 10, Ron Fusco six, Larry Maier five and Ken Palazzi four.

After the game was over, Hudgins was heard to mutter, "Bring on the Russians."

W. Orange matmen at Dayton Saturday

By BRANDT FEUERSTEIN The Jonathan Dayton Regional High School wrestling team lost, 42-6, to a strong and well-prepared Belleville team.

The young and inexperienced Dayton team, despite the defeat, made the individual contests tough and often close.

Steven Tenenbaum remained undefeated at 129 while Frank Colatruaglia won at 108. Among the winners on the junior varsity level were Chuck Bell (122), Simon DiGerolamo (129), and Jimmy Halpin (141). Freshman winners included Kent Murray (129), Charlie Cachulis (135) and Anthony Castellani (heavyweight).

The Dayton grapplers finished eighth in the Union County Holiday Tournament.

Tenenbaum remained undefeated until the final of the tournament, when he lost 8-0 to John Pinto of Westfield.

David Cushman finished fourth at 101. Ron Buthman (heavyweight) pinned his first opponent but lost to Les Swick of Roselle Park. After a tough bout, Frank Colatruaglia lost, 3-2, to his opponent from Scotch Plains.

Coach Rick Iacono is confident there will be quick improvement and that the team will do better as the season progresses. He feels that the relatively young team had little time to improve its technique before facing Belleville.

Although the Recreation team, under the supervision of Mitch Kotler and Louis Hircolo, is the best it has been in years, Coach Iacono stressed that local support is needed.

Dayton will be host to West Orange Saturday at 1:30.

Unemployment rate up slightly for November

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for New Jersey was 7.7 percent in November, little changed from 6.9 percent in October, according to Herber Bienstock, regional commissioner of Labor Statistics who directs the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Middle-Atlantic Region.

Bienstock pointed out that the November jobless rate was in line with the 7 percent average for the preceding 10 months of his year. In November 1978, the New Jersey jobless rate was 6.5 percent.

The number of unemployed state residents edged up by 13,000 over the year to 246,000 in November 1979. The number of state residents with jobs was down 49,000, to 3,291,000. Bienstock said that this was the first over-the-year drop in the number employed for any month in more than three years, but noted that sample estimates are subject at times to some erratic movements, and it remains to be seen whether this pattern will continue.

At 3,527,000, the civilian labor force, the sum of the employed and those seeking work, was down 36,000 over the year. The labor force participation rate, or the civilian labor force as a proportion of the working age population, was 63.6 percent in November 1979, down from 65.1 percent in November 1978.

Bienstock said that these data are based on monthly responses from a panel of about 1,000 households in New Jersey which are included in the national Current Population Survey. Because the estimates are based on a sample rather than a full count of the population, the data are subject to sampling error. Bienstock emphasized that small differences in the estimates over time should be interpreted with caution.

PROPERTY TAX RELIEF FUND

The New Jersey Property Tax Relief Fund, created in 1974, has completed its first year. The gross income tax collected in 1979 was $1.1 billion, with a balance of $1.1 billion, according to a recently released financial report of the Department of the Treasury. The income tax again failed to meet revenue projections for 1979, therefore it was necessary to dip into some authorized appropriations in order to keep the fund in balance.

With his column last week, the 10th year of writing in support of the environment, I was proud to be one of the survivors in the New Jersey Conservation Foundation of which I am executive director, and as a personal contribution to those who will follow us.

I originated this column, and continue it as an unabashed effort to help the environmental side of things get a hearing in New Jersey. Weekly newspapers of our state were chosen as the forum because I am satisfied that no other medium as effectively reaches out for thoughtful people.

There are now more than 80 of those newspaper subscribers, representing a circulation of about a million people. And we know those people care, because we get lots of mail responding to the 468 columns produced so far.

And it's thoughtful people for whom I write each week. People who are not bedazzled by the slick innuendos and blandishments of PR types who preach the gospel of anyone who will hire them. I don't say that in bitterness; it's a fact of life. Some believe in what they say and do. In any argument, each side believes it is right. There are a few, however, who prefer to function for love rather than money.

Love happens to be a powerful four-letter word which we shy away from using except under the most intimate circumstances. It's not bad, because love is a whole lot of different emotions. It may tell us something about our culture to realize that we have just that lone word, love, to describe everything from the carnal to the holy. Other languages have more words with which to identify the many kinds of love.

Revenue underruns from the income tax in each of the first three years resulted in depletion by the end of 1979 of the first year's surplus build-up in the Property Tax Relief Fund. Since the fund, on a current income basis, can only support expenditures at a level slightly less than fiscal 1979, the entire fiscal 1980 increase in education aid is being financed from the general fund. This marks the first time that general fund aid to education will exceed its 1976 (pre-income tax) level.

For the future, most of the non-education aid programs in the Property Tax Relief Fund are not expected to increase substantially in cost. The Joint Tax Policy Committee predicted, on the assumption of a 13 percent annual growth rate in the income tax and 9 percent growth in education aid requirements, that the fund will have sufficient resources to stabilize general fund aid to education at the 1980 level by fiscal 1982. Further, beginning in fiscal 1983, the committee forecast that current property tax relief programs can be expanded or new ones instituted. While assuming that the general fund can continue to absorb the impact of revenues from the repealed taxes.

New blood donors are needed to replenish the supply of blood units used over the holidays in the area hospitals.

"Many people have never given blood because they say that they have never been asked," explained Mrs. Edward Love, Red Cross blood chairman.

"Well, the Red Cross is asking them now to give blood and help save a life."

All residents and workers in Westfield and Mountainside, are covered by the Red Cross Blood Service for their blood needs. Those who are healthy and able to give blood are urged to give some of their blood.

Funds granted arson probers in county office

The Union County Prosecutor's Office has received a $40,000 State Law Enforcement Planning Agency (SLEPA) grant to continue the work of its arson investigation unit, according to John J. Mullaney, executive director.

He said the primary goal of the project will continue to be to upgrade knowledge about arson and control techniques.

Training will be provided for municipal police, firefighters, prosecutor's staff, insurance representatives and community groups in anti-arson methods.

Again, I would like to thank Mr. McSweeney for his efforts to entertain and brighten the lives of children.

Sincerely,

CHILDREN SHARING:

I would like publicly to thank the Children of Mountainside's two schools, Deerfield and Beechwood, for the wonderful toys and gifts they donated to me for the needy children of the area.

It's really nice to see children share with one another.

On Dec. 5 and Dec. 7, I did an animal show at these schools, and the children gave us and gifts as the admission price.

A special thanks to Dr. Levin B. Hamgan for granting us permission to do the show. Also to the principals of each school, Allan Shapiro and James Johnson Jr. Our thanks to Peggy Wilson, president of the PTA for handling all of the arrangements and taking charge of the toy collection.

Also to Tim Wallace of the Railway Bus Co. who transported my animals from school to school and for the use of his buses to pick up the toys. It was well worth the time and effort everyone put into it.

Last but not least, we appreciate the story you ran in your paper about the event. It really helped to fill up our empty bags and boxes.

Thanks to all for a job well done.

Rec department begins special needs survey

The Union Recreation Department, which is hoping to extend its services to both children and adults with "special needs," is looking to would-be participants to decide just what programs should be included.

Richard Fried, director of special needs for the department, reported that more than 200 survey letters already have gone out to parents of children who might take part.

Distributed through Carole Reynolds, director of the department of student personnel services in Union Public Schools, they ask parents to check off activities that might be of interest: gymnastics, swimming, volleyball, basketball, bowling, quiet games, music and dance, arts and crafts, photography, carpentry or other programs.

Similar activities could be made available to physically or mentally handicapped adults, Fried noted.

He said a questionnaire has been drafted explaining that the program for adults would serve those with "visual, auditory and ambulatory problems, among others."

Copies have been turned over to a representative of the Association for Retarded Citizens and are available to other interested organizations or individuals, Fried reported.

Corsetino receives scoutmaster award

Vincent C. Corsetino, scoutmaster of Troop 21 of Saint Joseph's in Maplewood and a resident of Crane Place, Union, has received the national Eagle Scout Honor Scoutmaster of the Year award at a ceremony in Upsala College Chapel. Only 28 such awards a year are given in the United States.

Corsetino has been Troop 21 scoutmaster for 20 years. He has won other Scout awards, including the Silver Beaver, Bronze Pelican and Scouter's Key.

He is a member of the Knights of Columbus of Union, a first aid instructor and a parish lector and has been Eucharistic minister of Saint Joseph's in Maplewood for 25 years.

A graduate of Fordham University in the Bronx, N.Y., Corsetino has been employed for 30 years as an executive by Exxon Research and Engineering, Linden. He belongs to the American Chemical Society.

A veteran of World War 2, with three years service in the South Pacific, he is married to the former Virginia Gannon and the father of a married daughter, Karen J. Mackessy, a registered nurse at Saint Vincent's Hospital in New York, and a son, Vincent Jr., a veterinary student at the University of Parma, Italy.

Irvington stalls housing plans for the elderly

Possible construction of a senior citizens' housing complex on the Union side of the Union-Irvington line is being delayed by failure of the sponsors to get a variance for a senior citizen high rise in Irvington.

The two buildings—an 11-story structure in Irvington and a three-story structure in Union—were planned by Arthur and Sanford Borinsky, owners of the property which spreads into both communities.

But the Irvington Board of Adjustment turned down a variance application last month, despite support for the project expressed in that town by the Town Council and the Planning Board. Neighboring property owners had objected to the plans.

The next step remains undecided, according to Donald Cohen, spokesman for the Borinskys. "We're regrouping," he said.

Several alternatives are possible, he pointed out. These are an appeal, reapplying to the Irvington Board of Adjustment with "substantive changes" in the plans or dropping the project, he noted.

Since parking for the Irvington high-rise was to have been on the Union side of the line, he added, "we must know what we will do in Irvington before we can proceed in Union."

Patterson appointed to board of directors

Floyd S. Patterson of Vauxhall has been appointed to the board of directors of the Educational Improvement Center—Northeast—The West—Orange facility is one of four public non-profit educational organizations in New Jersey created which provide technical assistance, resources, training and materials needed for the "Thorough and Efficient Education" Act of 1975.

The center's 45-member consultant staff responds to technical assistance needs of clients in Essex, Union, Hudson and Bergen Counties. These counties have more than half a million students—34 percent of the state's public school population.

Patterson, who is Union County business and industry representative, has a B.S. degree in industrial education from Florida A & M University and an associate degree in ophthalmic science from City College of New York. He was employed for nine years by American Optical Corporation of Southbridge, Mass., before becoming self-employed with offices in Dover and Parsippany.

He is a member of the New Jersey Society of Dispensing Optician Association of America, Union Township Community Development Advisory Committee and 100 Black Men of New Jersey, Inc.

He and his wife Gladys have two children, Erika and Jamal.

Police training finished by 4

Police Chief Donald J. Ebert this week announced that four members of the department have completed courses conducted by the New Jersey State Police at the training center at Sea Girt.

Officers Joseph L. Golden and Ronald C. Bleemer of the training bureau attended a 10-day "Instructors' Training Course" designed to assist police officers in their role as instructors by providing an understanding of learning principles and teaching methods. The course included effective speaking and teaching techniques, psychology of learning, lesson plan construction, actual lesson presentations, classroom management, test construction and methods for responsibilities.

Officers Joseph Sicking and Peter Jasinski attended a three-day seminar on "Organized Crime," which was attended by federal, state and local enforcement officers and agents from throughout the country.

NEWSPAPER CONFERENCE—Union High School students Linda Simensky and Stephen Mayer, flanking Phyllis Shultz, adviser for the UHS Cannon, look over a sample paper while attending the second annual high school editors' seminar in Trenton. Simensky is features editor of the Cannon and Mayer is editor-in-chief.

3 films slated

The children's department of the Union Free Public Library will present a 45-minute film program in the Main Library at 4 and 7 p.m. Monday.

Three films will be shown: "Doughnuts," taken from the book "Homer Price"; "The Cat in the Hat," based on the story by Dr. Seuss, and "The Magic Tree," a folk tale from Congo. There is no admission charge.

Search for Health

National Institutes of Health began in 1965 as a result of conducting a problem study of rheumatoid arthritis among the Pimas, who were selected because they have lived in a hot, dry climate for many generations. Biomedical investigators were impressed by the extremely high frequency of diabetes reported and they obtained a fascinating history of the tribe and the disease. They then decided to systematically examine the problem of diabetes in that population. Their aim was to identify a series of factors, or potential factors, that might predispose some individuals to diabetes or to the complications of the disease, such as characteristic vascular complications. By studying the Pimas for over a decade, the most comprehensive epidemiologic data ever compiled on diabetes in a single, isolated population was produced. The basic reason so many of the Pimas develop diabetes is not known but it is clear to the investigators that there is an inherited predisposition to the disease.

Widespread interest in the research community. With what investigators say is the highest rate of diabetes ever recorded in a special population, the Pimas are now receiving special multidisciplinary attention from scientists in an international research effort that may yield significant new knowledge about the disease. Fifty percent of the Pimas, aged 35 years and older, are diabetic—15 times the overall U.S. rate. Almost all adult Pimas are obese. "Because of this extraordinary high incidence of diabetes and obesity, the Pimas are an ideal population for study of these important related diseases," says Dr. Roger Unger, professor of medicine at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School and principal researcher at the General Clinical Research Center, funded by NIH's Division of Research Resources. Dr. Peter Bennett, epidemiologist and chief of the field studies branch—National Institute of Arthritis, Metabolism, and Digestive Diseases, explains that the study among the Pima Indians

THE MARKET BASKET

When moved by the Christmas spirit, many of us spend too much for gifts and entertaining. For some, the buying urge is strongest after Christmas when stores undertake "cleanup" and "pre inventory" sales. The wise shopper will resist the temptation to buy just because the price is low, or drastically reduced. Excellent clothing buys can be made after Christmas, if you need the particular items on sale. Wrapping paper and Christmas ornaments are usually a good buy, and can easily be saved until next year. Caution should be exercised, however, because sale merchandise may have been soiled or damaged in the pre-holiday rush.

A comedy in 'Style'

"Going in Style," new film comedy, starring George Burns, Art Carney and Lee Strasberg, continues its run at the Maplewood Theater.

The picture concerns three mid-looking, retired gentlemen, who, bored with old age, decide to rob a very big bank and beat the system.

Burns portrays a retired salesman, who masterminds the bank robbery. Carney plays an ex-singing bartender, and Strasberg is seen as a gentle soul, who drove a cab through the New York streets.

The picture was directed by Martin Brest, who originally found a short story and wrote the screenplay version.

Animals offer a look at human behavior

Tommie and Susie (not their real names) were the products of broken homes.

Taken at the tender age of a few months from their respective families, they eventually found each other and had children. But Tommie and Susie were lousy parents—ignoring, mutilating and even killing their babies.

Susie became known as "The Killer." Such bizarre behavior might have become a social worker's nightmare except for the fact that Tommie and Susie were golden lion marmosets, a rare and endangered South American monkey, and they were living in a zoo. Instead, their case became the perplexing problem of Dr. Devra Kleiman, an expert in animal reproduction and behavior at the Smithsonian Institution's National Zoo in Washington, D. C.

Why, Kleiman asked herself, did these animals, taken from their parents and reared outside their families, breed prolifically but make such miserable parents?

The answer had more than academic interest: The only way to save the golden marmosets from extinction was to learn how to breed them successfully in captivity and raise healthy offspring. Only 100 of them remain in the wild. The answer was soon provided by detailed behavioral studies of the animal in captivity and the wild. Golden marmosets live in an extended family, Kleiman and others discovered. The young marmosets like Susie must be left with their parents until a second group of young are born and raised. By having role models and by babysitting with the new youngsters from time to time, the younger marmosets learned how to be good parents.

Armed with this information, the National Zoo began leaving younger marmosets with their parents until an appropriate age. The result? The number of golden marmosets in captivity has grown from 69 in 1972 to more than 100 worldwide. Most of these additions were born at the National Zoo.

The work on golden marmosets also taught researchers another invaluable lesson.

"Behavioral and social studies of animals are absolutely necessary for breeding and raising rare and endangered animals successfully in captivity," Kleiman says.

"Of course, we also must know an animal's diet and nutritional requirements, what diseases it gets and what kind of environment it needs. But if we don't know the social and breeding customs, the chances of success are relatively rare—south American animals—the maned wolf, the crab eating fox and the bush dog. These animals belong to the same family as the common household dog. They share another key feature: Like humans, all three species are monogamous, that is, one male mates with one female at a time.

"Monogamy is unusual in mammals," Kleiman says. "Only three percent of all the world's mammals are monogamous. Humans and these animals are among this tiny minority."

RARE LIONS—This family portrait of mother and young golden lion marmosets, rare and endangered South American monkeys, was taken at the Smithsonian Institution's National Zoo in Washington, D.C. Animal behavior studies there show that marmosets make good mothers if they have good role models as youngsters. Animal behavior studies are necessary for successful captive breeding programs, which in many cases are the last chance for the survival of endangered animals.

Business News

Joan C. Hull, former assistant director of education and acting director of The New Jersey Historical Society, has been appointed director of the 134-year-old organization.

Hull has been serving as acting director since the retirement in April of Clifford L. Lord. She joined the society's staff in 1963 and became assistant director in 1967 with direct responsibility for the society's Jerseyman History Club program, the development of educational materials, and editing the society's "Cockpit" and "Crossroads" publications.

Frank J. Stanek, of Union, a sales representative with Prudential Insurance Co.'s Kearny district, sold more than $2 million of insurance during 1979. Stanek joined Prudential in 1976 and has earned a number of awards for sales achievement. A graduate of St. Mary's High School in Elizabeth, he received a B.A. degree from Bloomfield College.

Staten Island Community College and the American Institute of Banking after serving in the Marine Corps from 1956 to 1959.

Prior to joining the bank, Costello served as an officer of Village Bank of South Orange. He is married to the former Barbara Shapiro, and they reside in Spotswood with their three children.

The Cyanamid plant in Linden has been awarded the American Cyanamid Company's energy conservation award for achieving an 18 percent reduction in energy usage, according to the plant manager, J.B. Reid.

A flag was presented to the plant by Herbert T. Thurber, manager of manufacturing, attended by all of the plant's 800 employees.

"This substantial reduction was possible only because our employees recognize the necessity for using less energy and are willing to work together to achieve it. We're proud of the contribution we have made to the national energy conservation program," Reid said.
