Council eyeing developmental funding

BY SUE SWEENEY
Funding for a Community Development Program from the state was discussed at the Mountainside Borough Council work session last week.

The program, which was designed under the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, was developed to aid low and moderate income communities and help handicapped and senior citizens. This is the second year that Mountainside is involved in the project.

The four possible projects being sought by the borough are: improvements to the pool, including dressing rooms, a handicapped bathroom and repairs to the deck; a fitness trail near the municipal building, with the majority of the trail on County

Parkland and the remaining on Borough Land.

Also being discussed were a mechanical device to aid those in wheelchairs and walkers to negotiate the stairs, with a possible second alternative of an elevator in the municipal building to aid the handicapped; and a continuation of the senior citizen service which includes an additional day for the coordinator and sharing senior citizen transportation facilities that might be available in conjunction with adjoining municipalities.

Applications for funding of these programs must be submitted to the county by Dec. 2. The council will vote on the proposals at the Nov. 23 regular meeting.

Mayor Thomas Ricciardi suggested that instead of the transportation system for senior citizens, there should be a Red Cross service provided for the Mountainside residents. The council will look into alternative transportation services for them by possible concurring with an adjacent community who has this type of program.

The council showed enthusiasm for the proposed fitness trail, which is estimated at $20,000 to $25,000 for construction. The trail is multi-purposed. It will benefit runners, senior citizens for walking around the area, and the handicapped where special trails will be set up for them.

Mountainside acquired approximately $30,000 for fiscal 1982 from this project. Carol Hertweck of Planner's Deversified, Summit, who has helped Mountainside set up this program last year and again this year, estimates that the amount should stay stable.

The proposals from each community in Union County is submitted to the Community Development Revenue Sharing Committee, which has two representatives from each town on it. The committee makes its recommendations to the freeholders on which community is most needy. Although a bulk of the money goes to urbanized areas in need, richer communities are not turned away if they show a need to facilitate the handicapped and senior citizens.

In other business, the council discussed the progress of the renovations on the municipal building. Councilman Werner Schon spoke about the limited access to the municipal and the board of education buildings for the handicapped. Schon would like to avoid obtaining an elevator for the buildings because of the "astronomical expense."

"We will explore every avenue to make accessibility possible, without making it a large expense," said Schon.

A proposal for spending $935 for the final tabulations of the fact-finding survey was discussed. A questionnaire which is aimed at finding out the needs of the borough is in the preliminary stages. The council is hoping that the planning board will look further into it to help senior citizens.

Municipal transfers from a $26,000 surplus developed from several areas were discussed. Councilman Robert Vigilanti announced that an expected "conservative" surplus from police, fire, streets and roads, shade tree, and buildings and grounds can be utilized to help prepare for Budget 1983.

One area in which it could be utilized is toward snow removal.

The council made a motion to reject the only bid they received for an alarm panel. The bid was found to have defects.

A motion to return a performance bond to M. Vincentsen, Inc. for installation of lighting in the parking lot of Children's Hospital was approved.

An increase in SPCA contract with Mountainside was discussed. The SPCA is requesting a 10 percent raise from last year for its services, which brings the amount to slightly over $5,000. "It's necessary, but it's a shame it is so expensive," said Police Chief William Alder.

A motion to return a cash bond to Meyco Products for their services was approved.

Board okays change in charter

By LYNN JOFFE

The Board of Education last week approved an application by the Educational Services Commission that would change its charter to include a program for non-public school students. Opposition was heard from former superintendent of schools Dr. Levin Hanigan.

The board voted 6-1 to support the Educational Services Commission's application for a change in charter that would include a program for non-public school textbooks and non-public transportation. Board member Linda Esemplare voted against the decision.

Members of the board pointed out that approval of the application does not indicate that the Mountainside Board of Education will participate in the program.

"We're making it clear in this resolution that we don't support the concept or this expenditure of funds," Board President Arthur Attenasio said.

According to Hanigan, "It's costing $800,000 for the Union County Educational Association to run the program for 2,000 kids.

"I think the time has come for this Board of Education, as well as others in the state, to stand up," Hanigan said. He said it was time to "eliminate private aid and put monies back into the public schools."

"It's time we took a look at this. Instead of crying for more money, we should see how the funds are distributed," Hanigan urged the board.

According to Board Vice President Pat Knodel, "Legislation was passed a few years ago which allowed non-public pupils to receive a certain amount of money. The money comes from the state. We are reimbursed completely by the state." Knodel pointed out that students of Our Lady of Lourdes School travel to school on buses along with students of public schools.

"All this does is allow the Educational Services Committee to apply to the state for an amendment to their charter to include this program," Knodel said.

In other board business, Frank Clooney of Supplee, Clooney & Co., addressed the board on the 1981-82 audit. This year's audit indicates that the records of the school district, maintained by Board Secretary/Business Administrator John McDonough, are in excellent condition and comply with the regulations of the State Department of Education.

Clooney said his firm audits "somewhere between 25 to 30 various size school boards." He said that on a scale of one to 10 (10 being the highest), he would give the school an eight or nine.

The board unanimously granted approval for eighth grade students to conduct fundraisers, under faculty supervision, for the annual yearbook and/or Great Adventure trip.

Edwin Sjonell, guidance counselor and student council advisor; Chris Ventura, student council president; and Larry Keller, council vice president, approached the board with a list of possible fundraisers. Included in that list were: the sale of pizza, juice, stickers, two-dollar memo boards with grease pens for the student lockers and fifty cent cookies. Other possible fundraising activities included a basketball shoot, car wash, paper drive and the showing of Saturday movies.

Sjonell told the board that students will need a total of $1,500 for the 89 eighth graders to visit Great Adventure; and $1,200 for the yearbooks.

"The idea is to get everybody involved in it," Keller said.

Board member Sandra Burdge said she thought, "The students should be commended for wanting to do something instead of coming to the board to just ask for money."

The board unanimously granted approval for the hiring of Judith Anne McClellan of Union as a teacher of art for fifth through eighth grades; and Peggy Wylie Marr of Mountainside, as a Resource Room teacher of the handicapped for grades one through eight.

The next agenda meeting has been scheduled for 8 p.m. on Dec. 20 in the Deerfield School cafeteria.

Mabel Young cited by over 125 friends

Over 125 friends of Mabel Young gathered recently to honor the 40-year resident of Mountainside for her many contributions to the community at Dasti's Mountainside Inn.

Mayor Thomas J. Ricciardi presented Young with a proclamation from the Borough Council, and the Women's Club presented her with a gift for many years of service.

Former Mayor Fred Wilhelms served as master of ceremonies, and unveiled the Mabel G. Young Good Neighbor Award which will be given annually to the Borough resident who has "helped to make Mountainside a fine place to live." A number of books will also be given to the public library and the Deerfield School Library in Mrs. Young's name.

Young taught for many years in the borough's public schools. Among the many civic groups in which she participated, she was a member and past president of the Women's Club, a member of the Board of Trustees of the United Way of Mountainside, lifetime member and officer of the PTA, the American Association of University Women, and the Senior Citizens Club of Mountainside.

She also worked with Meals on Wheels, and was a member and officer of the Mountainside Teachers Association, the Mountainside Music Association, the Republican Club of Mountainside, and in her spare time, served as a library volunteer.

A long-time member of the Community Presbyterian Church, Young served as an elder, clerk of session, and Sunday school Superintendent. She was also a member and past president of the United Presbyterian Women.

PTA is scheduled to meet tonight

The Mountainside PTA has scheduled a meeting for tonight, 8 p.m. at the Deerfield School. Dr. William Herkelrath will speak on "The Effective Ways to Handle Stress."

Students score well at regional schools

BY PHILIP HARTMAN

On the average, students in the Union County regional high schools scored well above students from comparable schools in the Minimum Basic Skills tests administered earlier this year.

In a report Tuesday night to the regional board of education, Director of Pupil Personnel Services Francis Kenny said about 90 percent of the regional students in the 9th, 10th and 12th grades scored at or above the level of comparable "socio-economic" school districts within New Jersey.

Those comparable schools within the state number 50, all of whose students were given the TASK (Stanford Test of Academic Skills) and Otis-Lennon skills tests. TASK measures academic achievement and Otis-Lennon measures mental ability.

Both mathematics and verbal skills are tested.

Kenny explained that comparison of a student's scores on both tests can determine whether the pupil is achieving according to his ability.

In the 9th grade cross section, 96 to 98 percent of the students in the district were achieving at or above their measured ability, while more than 90 percent of the same group was at or above student scores in comparable schools.

The 10th and 12th grade students fared as well. More than 90 percent in those grades were at or above other comparable groups on both tests.

"The conclusion is, in the district as a whole, students are mastering the basic skill abilities," Kenny reported.

Board member John Conlon agreed with Kenny that the results "are good," but emphasized that there are relative weaknesses in specific areas that students were tested in.

English was cited as the area where most deficiencies were found.

Kenny indicated that to "beef up" English scores the regional district should concentrate on reinforcement of basic skills rather than acceleration into more difficult material.

He added that in schools where more students are found with deficient skills, staff ratios per student could be increased to provide more efficient instruction.

He explained that an additional cause of low scores in specific areas is the adolescent's inability to deal with "mundane factors," such as spelling.

In other business at the meeting, the board voted 6 to 3 against a resolution that called for a freeze in the salary of

New Jersey School Board Association employees.

Conlon introduced the resolution to the board, which, for a time, was confused whether it was discussing a freeze on all employees salaries or the salary of the executive director, who makes $77,000 per year.

The resolution, which was submitted to the regional district by the Hudson County school districts, had "no binding effect," other than the district being morally opposed," board member Harold Donaldson said.

Mall foes awaiting turn

Mall opponents will continue their arguments Wednesday against Bamberger's-Alexander's bid to rezone 55 acres of light industrially-zoned land off Route 22 and South Springfield Avenue to allow a shopping center at the site.

Yesterday evening, Harvey Moskowitz, a professional planner who has said the mall will seriously damage downtown business in Cranford and Westfield, was to have concluded his testimony before the Springfield Planning Board. Moskowitz was brought before the board by Westfield, one of the towns officially against the mall including Cranford, Kenilworth and Mountainside.

The final group expected to argue before the board, the Springfield "Stop the Mall" committee, also was to have presented its case last night.

Children gifts day slated

Spaulding for Children, the free adoption agency in Westfield, and Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside have been chosen to share the benefits from Our Children—Our Gifts Day at Adlers of Westfield, 219 North Ave., Westfield.

Adlers Jewelers will be "cherry picking" in anticipation of this day for this holiday event and will be selecting their finest goods from their outlying stores and adding them to the Westfield supplies for one day only.

Thursday, Dec. 2, from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., Adlers will offer a 10 percent to 40 percent reduction incentive from regular prices on every item in the Westfield store. This includes jewelry, crystal, china and gift items with the exception of a minimal number of fair traded manufacturers pieces.

chairman, said Monday if he stop the mall group was given the balance of last night's meeting a decision by mid-December is possible.

"I'd say at least four more meetings, but that's just a wild guess," Pancani said.

The chairman said that once testimony against the mall is finished, the board must open the hearings to the general public, take summations from attorneys on both sides of the case and make a final recommendation to the Springfield Township Committee.

In other news on the hearings, at the Nov. 10 hearing the board was told there is a possible 20 percent loss of businesses in Cranford and the closing of roughly one quarter of the 243 stores in Westfield if the shopping center is constructed.

Moskowitz, who predicted those business failures, said the mall would have a "significant, substantial and adverse effect" on central business districts in surrounding municipalities.

Increased traffic on Route 22 and local roads was tabbed by Moskowitz as the most adverse effect that would be produced from the proposed 85-store, bi-level mall.

In addition, he projected a loss of $75 million in annual retail sales by Union County businesses resulting from their competition with the mall, which "in effect, would become the Union County downtown," the planner added.

Annual retail losses in Cranford and Westfield alone would be $7.5 and $9 million, he predicted. He said Cranford could lose 30 stores.

Moskowitz said much of the damage would come from "specialty stores" which would be in direct competition with services offered by small retailers.

Moskowitz proposed that the site would be better used if developed for residential use, specifically, one-family housing.

Also at the meeting, traffic expert Robert McMillan concluded his testimony that traffic increases would result from the mall.

McMillan predicted that one-mile backups of cars and trucks would occur on Route 22 and other roads during peak operating hours of the mall.

Robert Podvey, a Newark attorney representing mall developer General Growth of Des Moines, Iowa, called McMillan's traffic figures invalid because they were based on 1961 statistics.

A 200-page pictorial history of Elizabethtown and Union County by Charles Aquilina of Roselle, Jean-Rae Turner of Newark and Richard Koles of Belleville, formerly of Union, is now on sale.

Publication of "Elizabethtown and Union County: A Pictorial History" has been announced by National State Bank, at whose branches the book is available.

Covering a period of more than 350 years, the book looks at changes that have occurred in this area from pre-colonial to modern times.

It includes more than 700 photographs, some never before available to the public; the oldest is of a Linden woman, taken about 1860.

"We are extremely proud of our long association with Union County and especially with the City of Elizabeth," said W. Emlen Roosevelt, president and chief executive officer of the bank.

"This bank originated on Broad Street back in 1812 and we have been conducting our business from basically the same location ever since," he said. "We believe our partnership with the city and county have been mutually beneficial. When I first heard about this project, it seemed a very fitting way to say thank you."

The hard cover limited edition is on sale at $29.95 at all Union County branches of the National State Bank and will not be available through any other source for a year.

FDU receives Mellon grant

New Jersey's Fairleigh Dickinson University has joined a special group of colleges and universities to receive gifts from the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation. The grant of $350,000 will be used by the university to analyze the liberal arts programs on all three of its North Jersey campuses, in order to provide courses which will prepare a student to integrate liberal arts disciplines and apply that knowledge appropriately. The grant will also make possible opportunities for faculty to consider new ways of using interdisciplinary studies and teaching methods.

Last year the Andrew W. Mellon Foundation contributed over $58 million to higher education, research, the arts and the humanities.

The FDU proposal was written by the deans of Fairleigh Dickinson University's liberal arts colleges, Dr. Joan P. Bean of Teaneck-Hackensack, Dr. Frederick H. Gaige of Florham-Madison and Dr. Michael S. Pincus of Rutherford. Since 1968, the university has had separate Maxwell Becton Colleges of Arts and Sciences on each of its three New Jersey campuses.

University President Jerome M. Pollack, in asking the deans to develop the proposal, said "it was a natural collaboration for the deans, who have been dealing with the need for more integrated courses of study which cross department and discipline lines and incorporate the newest research." Each dean solicited ideas from faculty to define more clearly what a liberal arts education must offer now.

The liberal arts colleges have experienced a pattern of enrollment decline over the past six years as student interest has shifted from liberal arts to career-oriented professional programs, especially business administration. The Mellon grant will provide for analysis of the required basic course of study of the three colleges, so that courses may be planned to connect the liberal arts disciplines with one another, and to incorporate knowledge about computers and how their use impacts on various subjects.

The proposed program, Dr. Pollack noted, offers undergraduate courses which will facilitate a student's ability to integrate liberal arts disciplines and also develop skills capable of addressing the problems of contemporary society. Every student, no matter what his or her major, will also gain experience with computers, he said.

While the number of liberal arts students is declining, the size of the liberal arts faculty has remained relatively constant. About half of the 540 faculty at Fairleigh Dickinson University teach in liberal arts colleges. To assist faculty to prepare for new teaching responsibilities, the university will offer seven seminars for liberal arts faculty over the next four years on interdisciplinary studies. "Interdisciplinary" applies to both method — the way in which faculty teach, generally using a team approach, and to content — integrating material from different disciplines and presenting ideas that cut across department lines. Another seven seminars from 1983-86 will focus on computers — on how to use them to enhance teaching capability, and on the impact computers have on various disciplines.

"The quality of our faculty is without parallel," Dr. Pollack concluded, "and I am particularly proud of the accomplishment of Deans Bean, Gaige and Pincus and their faculties, in conceiving and presenting this fine proposal which the Mellon Foundation endorsed."

Studded tires now allowed in New Jersey

Motor Vehicles Director Clifford W. Sneider has announced that studded tires are now permitted on New Jersey roads. They must be removed by April 1, 1983. Sneider reminded motorists to prepare in other ways for winter driving:

- Allow extra time for your winter trip. Start sooner — drive slower.
- Watch for icy patches, especially in early evening and always on bridges.
- Take time to clear all windows of ice and snow. Do you have a windshield scraper? Do your wipers and defoggers work?

- Slush and dirt can diminish the effect of your head and tail lights. Check and clean them frequently.
- Allow greater space ahead for stopping distance. Increase and decrease speed gradually; sudden stops and starts cause skids.
- Use snow tires and remember, they go on the front of your new front-wheel-drive car.

- Drive carefully and watch out for other drivers and pedestrians.

Views On Dental Health

By SEAN T. FENTON, D.M.D.

OVERCOMING DENTURE "GAGGING"

The most common problem with new dentures is gagging. The presence of this foreign body (the denture) causes an increased flow of saliva which may cause a person to gag. A lozenge sucked continuously for the first few days will increase the rate of swallowing and thus get rid of the extra saliva. Within a few days, the body will gradually adjust to the new dentures.

The upper denture is held in place by adhesion and cohesion (suction). The back of the palate must be covered (sealed) for the denture to fit properly. Unfortunately, some patients have difficulty adjusting to the back end of the denture. They gag, feel uncomfortable and often plead with the dentist to shorten the denture. There is little the dentist can do. If he were to shorten the denture, the seal would be lost and the denture would no longer fit. Lozenges are useful, but it is up to the denture-wearer to adjust to the new environment. It might help to know that the full upper denture is almost always successful. Buy you must give your body a few days to get used to it.

Mass transit

In a column on this page this week, state Transportation Commissioner John Sheridan talks about the 20 percent fare hike which NJ Transit says it must impose next month unless the State Legislature comes up with additional funding for mass transportation.

If that increase goes into effect, the commissioner points out, it will mean that fares will have gone up on the average of 40 percent in the past six months.

It also will mean something else, which the commissioner does not point out: more and more people who have a choice will give up on mass transportation and turn to their cars.

Of course, giving up mass transportation will be made easier for them by another factor which the commissioner also doesn't mention: the widespread cutbacks in service which NJ Transit plans to put into effect on Jan. 1.

It is ironic that the announcements of the fare hike and service reduction come on the heels of the start of construction of the missing five-mile link of Route 78. That highway has been bitterly opposed by environmentalists. But if we continue to drive people away from mass transit, more and more of them will get into private cars to go to work or shopping. If that happens, the only way to keep the entire state from coming to a halt will be to pour more and more money into repairing and widening existing highways and building new ones.

This scenario does not even begin to take into consideration what will happen if there is another gas shortage.

A solution to the mass transit problem will cost money. Finding it won't be easy, but it's about time we started looking.

Mental Health

Computers play role as psychiatric aides

BY KENNETH S. MATHISEN, PH. D.
This column is from The Carrier Foundation, a psychiatric facility. Inquiries should be addressed to The Carrier Foundation, Belle Mead, N.J. 08502.

The computer, which one generally associates with space travel, industrial automation, and video games, is now playing a very important role in modern psychiatric hospital practice. While no substitute for trained clinical personnel, the computer is proving to be a valuable tool in assessment, diagnosis and research.

When a patient is admitted to a psychiatric hospital, numerous interviews are conducted to enable the professional staff to make an accurate diagnosis so that appropriate treatment may be given. Some interviews are given in a structured format to ensure that all necessary information is gathered from each patient. One such structured interview is the Diagnostic Interview Schedule (DIS). This interview is usually conducted on a person-to-person basis and the answers are recorded by the interviewer so that they may be studied and evaluated.

At present, researchers are working at computerizing this procedure. Computerized, it would work as follows: The patient is seated in front of a computer screen which looks like a small TV set. A question appears on the screen, with a three or four part multiple-choice type answer. The patient is instructed to take an "electronic pen" and touch the little square next to the answer which he has chosen. The choice is recorded automatically and the next question appears on the screen. The procedure is repeated until the computerized "interview" has been completed. Then, instead of having to have a psychiatrist and psychologist analyze each individual answer to provide a probable diagnosis, the computer, on the basis of previous programming, produces the diagnostic indicators automatically.

This procedure does more than just save the time of the professional person (psychologist, social worker, or psychiatric nurse) who would be administering the personal interview. It also reduces the possibility of human error and unintentional bias in interpreting the results. With the diagnostic indication provided by computer, the psychiatrist is able to obtain any information which is needed by the computer program. The computer also provides a series of questions designed to elicit information. There are many other indicators of possible suicidal intent, besides those mentioned here. These are incorporated into the computer program which evaluates the patient's responses and provides a summary for the psychiatrist to use. The computer also provides a summary of the patient's responses and provides a summary for the psychiatrist to use. The computer also provides a summary of the patient's responses and provides a summary for the psychiatrist to use.

computer say they feel more open, free, and relaxed than they do during personal interviews. They are sometimes more willing to provide honest information about themselves to the machine than they are to another person, who, they are afraid, might be judgmental toward them. There was a fear, when this method was first tested, that it might appear too impersonal and mechanical. This concern, however, is not holding up. Patients are quite enthusiastic about it and often remark that they prefer it to a human interview. Naturally, when the patient is severely confused or depressed the interpersonal method is still used.

Another device used in diagnosing some psychiatric disorders is the electroencephalogram (EEG). This device records brainwaves. In certain disorders the normal brainwave patterns are distorted and the way in which they are distorted provides clues as to the specific nature of the malfunction. In the past, a psychiatrist (or neurologist) might spend hours pouring over yards of paper on which the brain wave impulses were recorded. Now, with the EEG computerized, the computer can provide a summary of what has been recorded and an interpretation of what the data means. Time is saved, guess work and possible misinterpretations are reduced to a minimum, and the psychiatrist is quickly given a valid, objective starting point from which to proceed.

Another area in which the computerized interview is being found effective is in the assessment of suicide. There are numerous clues a psychiatrist looks for in determining whether a patient is suicidal. What is the extent of the patient's depression? Does he feel hopeless about his plight, or does he see some "light down the road"? Has he been using alcohol or drugs excessively? Is there a history of previous self-destructive acts? Does he tend to be impulsive? Has he been isolated and withdrawn in his recent contacts with others, his work, his interests?

Up until now, all of this information would have to be solicited in an interview. With the use of the computer, the patient provides it by answering a series of questions designed to elicit the information. There are many other indicators of possible suicidal intent, besides those mentioned here. These are incorporated into the computer program which evaluates the patient's responses and provides a summary for the psychiatrist to use. The computer also provides a summary of the patient's responses and provides a summary for the psychiatrist to use.

Scene around the towns

It's at a private home in Union, but it's so well known throughout the area that it has become a landmark. That's this week's mystery scene, above. If you recognize it, let us know by 9 a.m. Monday. Send your answer to "Scene," in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 3109, 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., Union 07083.

Last week's scene, left, was taken in the French-Richards Cemetery in Springfield. Though the tombstone is cracked and framed by weeds, much of its inscription is still clear. It is a memorial to Robert French, who died in March 1813 in the 89th year of his age.

Timmy Riley of Kenilworth was among those who recognized it — and with good reason. "I helped my father restore this cemetery in 1976," he wrote. "It was a real mess when we started, and when we finished it looked like a cemetery again."

Another one who recognized it was Alan A. Siegel, Irvington township attorney. Describing it as "the French-Richards Family Cemetery," he said, "I should know as I played a modest role some 12 years ago in saving the cemetery from destruction."

Janice P. Bongiovanni of Springfield noted that the cemetery is in back of the industrial park off Fadem Road and Route 22. "This is a Revolutionary period cemetery which was preserved at the time of building the industrial area," she wrote. There are still many French family members in the area.

Eileen Pedersen of Springfield used another landmark to locate the cemetery: it is at the end of Silver Court, she pointed out. And Sidney Hill of Mountainside recognized it as being at the industrial park off Fadem Road.

The gals with perpetual youth appeal to guys who are aging

BY SAM ARENA

I am sitting at the bar with my friend Pete, having a few beers, which is something we do once or twice a week.

He keeps looking up at the clock on the wall every now and then and it begins to make me nervous.

"Whatsa matter?" I ask him, "you got to catch a flight somewhere?"

"No," he says, "I just want to be home by ten o'clock."

"Ten o'clock?" I'm incredulous. The go-go girls are just about getting their hips loosened up by then.

"Yeah. There's something on TV I want to catch."

"A fight or something?" I ask.

"No."

"Hockey? Basketball?"

He shakes his head. He is not being too communicative. So I get curious.

"Hey, Steve, throw me the TV Guide," I ask the bartender. I turn the pages and I look up the programming.

"Nothing. Only Dynasty and some other garbage," I tell him.

"Yeah!" is all he says, but it's the way he says it.

"Dynasty? You mean you watch Dynasty?" I hear myself asking him.

"Well — not for the story," he hedges. "But it's got two cream puffs in it — you know?"

I do know. What it's got in it are Linda Evans and Joan Collins.

"Oh, those two old dolls," I say.

"Yeah!" This time it is more assertive. "Don't knock them or their age," he tells me.

"Who's knocking? Hey! How can I knock it? I mean, at my age? I love the way the gals are growing older these days. For instance, take Lena Horne."

"That's some woman."

"Did you catch her show in New York?"

"Didn't get the chance," he says.

"Well, I did. You know, I've had this thing for her since back in WW II. She was a big favorite with the guys back then. And she wasn't any child prodigy even back then, you know."

"I know. She's gettin' up there," Pete says.

"Yeah. Well, anyway, there were lots of guys there to see her show. Great singer. These guys were all ages and you know something? It wasn't those glowing eyes or the gleaming teeth that dazzled them, you know what I mean?"

"I said she's some woman," Pete reminded me.

"Yeah, you did. You know something else, Pete? It's good to have some older chicks for us guys to relate to. At least they can't call us 'dirty old men,' right?"

"Right! How about Dinah Shore? Now there's somebody who can still wiggle a mean chassis across a stage. She's got mileage on her. I remember when she used to push Victory Bonds, remember?"

"Sure! But she sure wears well," I say.

"You bet!"

"Don't forget about Helen O'Connell. Now, that's what I call perpetual youth. I remember when she sang with Jimmy Dorsey's band. When was it? 1939?"

"About that."

"Unbelievable! Ain't aged a day since. Same bright eyes, same satin skin, same dimples — not a wrinkle in her face and not a pound more on her frame. Just as saucy as ever, too."

"A real dish," Pete says.

Steve sets up two more beers in front of us.

"What about Liz? Speaking of dishes, I mean you got to stick Liz Taylor in there, too. So she's put on a pound or so but let's face it, can you knock it? Sure, the gal's known a marriage or two but you can't fault a dreamboat like that for spreading the joy around, can you?"

"There's Ann Miller, too. Now that's still not a bad hors d'oeuvre."

"You ain't kidding. And that's a gal who's closer to sixty than the Parkway speed limit. You know, when you stop to think about it, there's lots of them."

Talking about dancers, how about Ginger Rogers? Got as much zip in her today as when she spun on Astaire's coattails."

"Oh, yeah! Now you're talking about some nice fluff. Lots of them when you stop to think about it."

We pour the beer into our glasses.

"Sure. Hey, there's Barbara Walters, Julia Meade and there's Bess Myerson," Pete mentions.

"And there's Sophia Loren."

"How could I forget Sophia Loren?"

"I know another one. Helen Gurley Brown. Ever catch her on any of those TV talk shows?"

"Oh, sure! The one who puts out Cosmopolitan magazine. You know, she just came out with a new book," Pete tells me. "Now there's a woman for you. Sixty, and still talks and writes about sex like it's a sizzling steak and gravy. She's something else."

Pete takes a long drink from his glass.

"How many husbands did Liz have?" I ask him.

He counts off on his fingers and turns to me.

"I'm not sure. Five — six? Let's see. Nick Hilton. Mike Wilding. Mike Todd. Eddie Fisher. Burton and Warner, right? What's that make? Six? Yeah, six. Why?"

"I was just thinking about something," I answer.

"What?"

"Funny," I say. "After Liz gets done with them, you don't get to hear much about them anymore."

"Come to think of it, you're right. You don't."

"You know, Pete, you read and hear a lot about burnout these days. That ain't nothing new. Liz invented it!"

I look up at the clock and turn to Pete.

"Drink up," I tell him. "We got time for one more. I got to get home by ten."

He looks at me, quizzically.

"I want to catch those two old broads on Dynasty," I tell him.

DOT leader sees hikes necessary

By JOHN P. SHERIDAN JR.
New Jersey Commissioner of Transportation

As New Jersey's transportation commissioner and chairman of the Board of NJ Transit, I welcome this new opportunity to write about both agencies — their responsibilities, their problems and their progress.

All of us are faced with shrinking purchasing power and growing expenses on the one hand and meeting the needs of our families on the other. Meeting our needs within a budget, whether it's running a household or a multi-million dollar road program such as the one I administer at the department, is a challenging and sometimes frustrating task.

Since New Jersey's Constitution was rewritten in 1948, the dedication of revenues to a specific state agency has been prohibited. Each spring, the DOT presents its budget request to the State Legislature, along with all other state agencies, but it is up to the Legislature to weigh the needs of its constituents and allocate funds through the appropriations process to the programs and projects deemed most important to the well-being of all New Jerseyans.

The motor vehicle licensing and registration fees we all pay, for example, go into the general treasury. If we could follow one of those registration dollars through the appropriation process, we might find it in a program administered by the Department of Corrections or the Department of Human Services or maybe even in a transportation project. But, as the system currently works, there is no guarantee that the dollar will help to fill a pothole or fix a dollar.

With so many equally worthwhile programs competing for limited revenues, the DOT's share of the state budget has been dropping steadily over the last 20 years from more than 20 percent in the early 1960s to about 5 percent this year. Because we never know from one year to the next how much money we will receive from the Legislature, our ability to plan, design and construct extensions or improvements to the existing system is seriously restricted, as is our capacity to provide financial or technical assistance to county and local governments for the rehabilitation their transportation networks so urgently need.

Just four months ago, the DOT's funding shortfall forced me to notify Union County's freeholders that, because of insufficient funding at the state level, we would have to postpone indefinitely right-of-way acquisition for the Galloping Hill Road project in Kenilworth and for intersection improvements in Berkeley Heights, Garwood, Roselle Park, Scotch Plains and Union. Fortunately, the county is able to provide matching fund for these projects, but we will still fall short of our statewide goals for local road and bridge rehabilitation.

The entire question of adequate transportation funding is one which the Legislature will have to address this fall, if only to meet its obligation to the state's 300,000 daily transit riders to find an alternative to the proposed average 20 percent fare increase NJ Transit recently approved to close the gap in its operating budget. The gap was caused by the Legislature's refusal to increase NJ Transit's appropriation this year to required levels. If we must implement this fare increase in December, it will mean that the average transit user will be paying 40 percent more for bus or rail service than he did six months ago.

Whether your elected representatives enact some form of dedicated funding or earmark a larger proportion of the state budget for transportation, it is up to all of us to insure that our $42 billion transportation investment is preserved and improved to the greatest extent possible.

Protecting our investment will doubtless require us to make some very difficult decisions and choices over the next several years.

Statistics show no 'crime wave' by elderly

By CY BRICKFIELD

Readers of a number of major news magazines and newspapers throughout the country in recent months have been led to believe that we are in the midst of a crime wave by the nation's elderly.

Stories have cited large percentage increases in crimes committed by older persons. They have quoted social scientists as speculating that increased crime among the elderly was a response to Reaganomics or a reaction against the loneliness of aging in a modern society.

While they may sell a lot of papers, such sensational stories play fast and loose with the statistics, says George Sunderland, head of AARP's Criminal Justice program.

"If one older person was arrested for aggravated assault in 1977, and three were arrested in 1980, that's a 200 percent increase in that crime," Sunderland points out. "But it's hardly a crime wave."

Sunderland, a veteran criminologist with extensive experience in municipal and federal law enforcement, could find no statistics that indicated any particular spurt in criminal activity among older persons. His research included the Uniform Crime Reports of the Federal Bureau of Investigation as well as individual crime statistics from states with a high population of older persons.

According to the FBI, the percentage of offenders 65 and older in the total offender population committing violent crime in 1975 was .69 percent. In 1980, it dropped to .66 percent. The percentage of those 65 and older in the total offender population committing crimes against property did rise between 1975 and 1980, but only from .59 percent to .78 percent, not quite two-tenths of a percentage point. However, during the decade from 1970 to 1980, the number of people aged 65 and over in this country rose from 12.9 to 25.5 million.

In California, the total number of criminal arrests for felonies and misdemeanors in 1977 was over one million with 35,231 of those arrested aged 60 and over. In 1980, while the total arrests rose to 1.3 million, only 31,190 of them involved persons 60 and older.

"For all crimes committed in Virginia in 1975, only 3,384 of 203,229 were committed by persons 65 and older. In 1980, that number rose to 3,914 but the total number of arrests jumped far higher to 289,996.

not in the vast numbers or for the types of crimes these news stories would lead you to believe."

For instance, Sunderland notes that of the 31,390 arrests of older persons in California in 1980, nearly 60 percent, or 21,531 arrests, were for driving under the influence of criminal drunkenness charges. "Alcohol-related offenses have always been the highest category for older persons," he says, "and that is where the attention needs to be focused."

There is, of course, no denying that there may be more crimes being committed by older people now than there were when there were fewer older people, but that does not necessarily add up to a crime wave. Portraying America as being held hostage by its older citizens makes for exciting reading, but the untruth of this portrayal may be the greatest crime of all.

More services available at the hospital

MOUNTAINSIDE — A library and resource service has been made available at Children's Specialized Hospital to parents of handicapped children and members of the general public interested in childhood problems.

The service is offered through a newly expanded Parent Resource Center in the Medical Library of the pediatric rehabilitation hospital located on New Providence Road, Mountainside.

"Our primary objective in setting up the Parent Resource Center is to assist families who need specific information about childhood handicaps, disabilities, or illnesses," said Mrs. Sallie Comey, the hospital's Education Coordinator.

Some 90 books, in addition to magazines, pamphlets, and current newsletters from organizations specializing in various disabilities are available for use in the library. Many books concern the education of handicapped children and the handling of the handicapped child at home, Mrs. Comey said.

Mrs. Emily Snitow, medical librarian, is available to assist parents in their quest for information, as are members of the Education Department when Mrs. Snitow is unavailable.

Kean, freeholders team up with ACLD

Governor Thomas Kean and the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders, in commemorating November as Learning Disability Month, and the Union County Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD) in conjunction with the National ACLD (70,000 members), is working to help the learning disabled child. Union County Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD) was organized in January 1976 and is located at 5 Carol Rd., Westfield. Parents, educators, friends and physicians have united to increase public awareness of the problem, promote education, provide service programs and raise funds. Services provided by UCACLD include maintenance of a speakers' bureau and a lending library and reference center. These services are free. The UCACLD phone (233-0072) operates as a resource for referrals and advice. UCACLD president, Betty Lippert of Westfield, reports, "There are a large number of learning disabled throughout the country.

Morris and Blanche Eiser of Springfield members of ACLD added, "We hope everyone will join with us to help these children to know the true meaning of our Union County ACLD motto: 'If a child lives with acceptance and friendship, he learns to find love in the world'."

Office to give help to drivers

New Jersey motorists who are experiencing problems in dealing with the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles can expect quick help by contacting the Division's new Office of Citizen Information and Complaints, says DMV Director Clifford W. Snedeker.

The office's exclusive function will be to assist individual motorists who have become frustrated in their dealings with DMV.

"I want to be certain it performs the mission intended — namely, to cut red tape and slice through bureaucratic roadblocks to assure that motorists experiencing a problem at any level of DMV get fair treatment and results."

Individuals needing help should call (609) 292-5591 or write the Office of Citizen Information and Complaints, Division of Motor Vehicles, 25 South Montgomery St., Trenton, 08666. The office is open daily, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Soon-to-be-retirees to apply for benefits

People in the Union County area who are planning to retire early next year should apply soon for Social Security retirement benefits if they have not done so already, John H. McCutcheon, Social Security district manager in Elizabeth, said recently.

It is best to apply about 3 months before a person retires so that Social Security checks can start shortly after a person's income from work stops. This way, a person can avoid a break in income.

Before a person actually applies, he or she should gather certain information and evidence to support his or her claim, Mr. McCutcheon said. This includes:

The person's Social Security card or a record of the number.

Proof of date of birth. The best evidence is an official or religious record of birth or baptism recorded before age five. Only original records or copies certified by the issuing agency can be used. If this record is not available, the person should submit the best evidence available. The best is often the oldest.

Evidence of earnings for the past two years. Forms W-2 can be used by wage earners. Self-employed people should submit copies of their self-employed tax returns along with evidence showing the return was filed (a cancelled check, for example).

A person applying as a husband or wife will need his or her Social Security card and evidence of his or her date of birth. It is a good idea to also have the marriage certificate available.

These documents will be enough in most cases, but sometimes additional evidence is required. The people at the Elizabeth Social Security office can tell you if additional evidence is needed, McCutcheon said.

Introducing this year's longest, widest luxury car.

Every year, Detroit presents its new line of luxury cars. Unfortunately, in its quest for gas efficiency, it's quickly doing away with some of the luxuries that made you buy luxury cars. Comfort. Quietness. An interior you can really stretch out in.

You won't find them in most of today's new cars. But you will find them in the new cars NJ TRANSIT is now running on the Raritan Valley Line.

We've replaced all the old trains with new ones that are considered the most comfortable commuter cars ever built — providing the smoothest, quietest ride ever.

With year-round climate control, carpeting, reversible high-back cushion seats, soft interior lighting and many other "standard" features, these new cars will make every trip you take more comfortable. And faster, too. For example, they can take you from Plainfield to Penn Station in Newark in 30 minutes — from Westfield, a mere 20 minutes. From Newark, there are convenient transfers to midtown New York (Penn Station) on NJ TRANSIT trains and downtown via PATH.

We're also adding new platforms and making other improvements at many Raritan Valley Line stations.

To save you money and add extra convenience, NJ TRANSIT offers 10-trip, weekly and monthly discount tickets. And Mail-Tik, our computerized ticket-by-mail service, can save you the hassle of waiting in line to purchase your monthly ticket. For off-peak riders, our one-day round trip ticket means a 25% discount off the regular fare.

For more information about Raritan Valley Line schedules and fares, call NJ TRANSIT information, toll-free at 800-772-2222.

Then start riding the new Raritan Valley Line. After all, how many other luxury cars offer you the added luxury of not having to drive?

Rutgers will receive grant for fellowship

A $7,800 Lockheed Leadership Fund award is being presented to Rutgers University to establish a graduate fellowship in electrical engineering.

Harold L. Brownman, president of Lockheed Electronics, will hand over the fellowship grant to Rutgers President Edward J. Bloustein in New Brunswick tomorrow.

The award follows Brownman's call earlier this year for increased business support for scientific and engineering education.

In an address in April before the New York Academy of Science, Brownman called for a "creative partnership" between business, academia, and government to make the New Jersey and New York metropolitan area a center for high technology industry and research.

Brownman and Bloustein were recently appointed by Governor Thomas H. Kean as charter members of the New Jersey Commission on Science and Technology. Composed of leaders of industry, education and state government, the commission was created to formulate a plan for spurring the growth of high technology industry in the state.

Among the issues on which the commission is focusing are the forging of an alliance between industry and institutions of higher education and the strengthening of the state's engineering and scientific education.

"Strong institutions of higher education are vital to the growth of the industries of the future in New Jersey," said Brownman on the selection of Rutgers for the award. "By contributing to our colleges and universities, we contribute to a better future for all of us."

The fellowship will support a graduate student at Rutgers' College of Engineering; the recipient will be chosen by the school on the basis of academic merit.

Voting topic of census queries

Did you vote on November 2? Were you registered but did not vote?

The Bureau of the Census is asking these and other questions about voting in the 1982 elections in a sample of households in this area.

William F. Hill, director of the Bureau's Regional Office in New York City, stressed that no questions are being asked about party affiliations or for whom a person voted. The survey will provide a profile of American voters and non-voters by characteristics such as age, sex, residence, education, and labor force status.

These voting questions are in addition to the usual ones asked in the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted nationwide by the Bureau for the U.S. Department of Labor.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

Annual retreat to be held

The Matt Talbot Retreat Group Number 42 will hold its seventh retreat for recovering alcoholics tomorrow, Saturday and Sunday at the Queen of Peace Retreat House in Newton.

Harold Clotworthy of North Plainfield, chairman of the group, said new members are welcome to participate in the weekend non-sectarian retreat.

Additional information can be obtained by calling Clotworthy at 754-7658 after 5 p.m.

Car inspection units reject 51 percent

The New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles' roving roadside inspection teams examined 9,908 vehicles during October and rejected more than 51 percent of them because of one or more safety defect, according to DMV Director Clifford W. Snedeker.

In addition, 31 percent of all the vehicles had either a serious enough safety defect or legal violation to cause the issuance of tickets by municipal police officers working with the inspection teams.

The teams also issued 84 48-hour rejection stickers because the vehicles were in such poor condition. Those stickers require the motorists make the necessary repairs within 48 hours or remove the vehicles from the road.

Ad additional 165 vehicles were impounded by police because they were either too unsafe for continued highway operation, or were unregistered or being driven by unlicensed or suspended drivers. Two stolen vehicles were also recovered by the roadside teams in October, the same number that was recovered in September when roadside inspections were first launched.

Of the 9,908 vehicles checked in October, 5,069 received rejection stickers giving the owners 30 days to make the repairs, while 3,091 were issued summonses.

Of the vehicles stopped, 3,395 were passenger autos and 6,492 were commercial vehicles. A total of 1,698 passenger vehicles were rejected and 3,362 commercial vehicles failed the test. A total of 21 motorcycles were also checked, with nine failing.

As in September, the overall roadside rejection rate is running slightly higher than that in the inspection stations, which, Snedeker said, was to be expected.

"Commercial vehicles registered in the weight class of 6,000 pounds or more haven't gone through our inspection system since 1971," Snedeker said, "and we have instructed the roadside teams to take a close look at them to make sure their owners are living up to the terms of the self-inspection privilege."

Commercial vehicles rejected at roadside sites receive the same 30-day sticker as given to passenger vehicles and must report to state inspection station for reinspection once repaired.

"We are not allowing the owners of self-inspected vehicles to self-certify the repairs," Snedeker said. "They must come to an inspection station and show us the repairs. Those that don't, will face forfeiture of their self-inspection privilege," Snedeker said.

Of the 3,091 summonses issued, 1,769 (57 percent) fell into the two categories of failure to carry credentials or failure to have vehicle inspected or repaired.

There were a total of 972 vehicles cited because their owners failed to have them inspected, or repaired as required, and 797 drivers were cited for not having a driver license, registration or insurance card with them.

Totals of other major summonses during October were:

- 304 uninsured vehicles
- 189 unregistered vehicles
- 133 unsafe vehicles

- 120 unlicensed drivers
- 108 missing or inoperative lighting devices
- 80 driving while suspended
- 64 worn, defective or unapproved tires
- 62 missing, factious, obstructed or defaced licensed plates
- 32 defective or unapproved windows
- 31 defective exhaust systems
- 20 defective windshield wipers or obstructions to vision

"I was pleased with the early results of roadside inspections in September," Snedeker said, "but I am even more pleased with the results shown in October. They indicate a definite need for spot inspections, both for passenger and commercial vehicles. I am also delighted with the public's response to roadside inspections. They understand we are attempting to get unsafe vehicles either repaired or off New Jersey roadways.

"Also, I am happy to report that our teams are operating at peak perfection and not detaining motorists for more than five minutes from the time they are waved off the road until they are back on their way.

"As a further convenience to the public, the teams are not operating during the morning and late afternoon rush hours, so no one should experience an unnecessary or costly delay," Snedeker said.

Gallery talk is set on paintings

Robert Koenig, director of the Montclair Art Museum, will give a gallery talk on Sunday at 2:30 p.m., on the exhibition opening that day "Robert Ferris: Paintings on Paper."

The exhibition represents a return to Montclair for the artist, who is now a Vermont resident. Ferris is the son of Robert M. Ferris, III, the former mayor of Montclair, and Mrs. Ferris. Born and raised in Montclair, he moved to Vermont in 1971, after earning a Master of Fine Arts degree from Indiana University. he received a Bachelor's degree from Yale University in 1966 and then spent a year at the Pratt School of Architecture.

Ferris has had nine solo exhibitions since 1966, including a one-man show in New York at the Forum Gallery in 1980. His work is in the collections of the Montclair Art Museum, the Sara Roby Foundation in New York and Indiana University Art Museum.

Nineteen paintings, all acrylics on paper, are being shown in the current exhibition, which was organized by Impressions Gallery of Boston with the cooperation of five private lenders.

The Montclair Art Museum exhibition will be shown next February at the Impressions Gallery; at Westeyan University, Connecticut, in May; and at Dartmouth College in July and August.

Admission to Sunday's gallery talk and to the museum is free. Museum hours are Tuesday through Saturday, 10-5; Sunday, 2-5 P.M.

WE SALUTE OUR VETERANS

A time to pay tribute to the men and women, throughout our nation's history, who answered the call to arms when troubled threatened the land...who gave their time, energy, courage, and lives to protect the principles upon which this country was founded. Today we take time to remember their sacrifice and renew our own determination that our American way of life shall grow and flourish for us and for generations to come.

Plenty of excitement, victories for Deerfield School booters

Just as you can't judge a book by its cover, you can't analyze the soccer seasons of Deerfield School's boys' and girls' teams by wins and losses alone.

The girls, for example, could only record a 1-7-1 record this past season. But Coach Sandra Everly wasn't disappointed at all.

"I'm pleased with our accomplishments, even though the record may not have been that good," she said. "We played against some very good competition this season, and the girls put forth a good effort throughout."

The boys, on the other hand, were as super as their 7-1-1 record might indicate.

And with a starting team of four sixth graders, three seventh graders and four eighth graders, next year's team looks extremely promising.

Deerfield defeated Garwood and Winfield Park twice, and Vail-Deane, Springfield and Oratory once. The booters tied with Springfield and bowed to Berkeley Heights.

Larry Kelly led the season scoring with eight goals, followed by Craig Carson and Kevin Everly with four each. Tommy Kelly added three more.

Goalie Chris Debbie had five shutouts during the season. Outstanding play during the season was shown by David Clackwell, Matt Stypa, Jim Barrett and David Kadesh at halibacks; Larry Kelly, Jeff Debbie and David Connelly at fullbacks and the front line of Everly, Carson and Tommy Kelly.

Mark Zachieracha, Blair Mücke, Jim Kellerk, Eric Weinstein and Peter Rosenbauer were others who played big roles in the successful season.

Minutemen taking aim at undefeated campaign

The Springfield Minutemen "B" team won its sixth and seventh games of the season recently, defeating Mountainside (8-0) and Millburn (22-0).

By virtue of the victories, the Minutemen can finish with an unbeaten season Sunday when they host South Orange in a 2:45 p.m. game at Meisel Field. Springfield is currently 7-0-1.

Against Millburn, Gregg Walsh rushed for 151 yards and one touchdown, which put him over the 1,000 yard mark for the season. He has scored nine TDs in the eight games thus far.

Also scoring were Matt Lynch and Tony DiNorscio. Placekicker John Prudente booted two extra points.

The pair of shutouts gives Springfield six for the year. In all, the Minutemen have allowed only 16 points in eight games. Leading the defense were Walsh and Dan Francis. Francis had 11 tackles and a quarterback sack, while Walsh's big numbers were 10 and one.

Chris Kisch, Matt Lynch and Chuck

Saia also had sacks. Robert Valentino, Glenn Baltuch, Terry Roberts, Eric Storch, Kurt Swanstrom, Matt Magee, Joe Roth, John Colangelo, Kelvin Jackson and Lenny Saia.

As for the Mountainside Jets, they needed a fourth quarter touchdown by Rob Fusco to pull out a 6-6 tie with Berkeley Heights last Sunday.

Berkeley Heights took a 6-0 lead on the game's second play, a 50-yard run. But the Jets "A" team toughened up, as Fusco, John Lusardi, Joe Castelo and Mike Barinosek came up with some defensive gems.

Chris Petino appeared to have tied the game in the second quarter on a 60-yard run with a fumble, but a clipping penalty nullified the score.

Mark Wance played well at offensive guard in the third period, but the Jets still were unable to score until Fusco's carry climaxed a 60-yard drive with one minute left.

Mountainside's bid to win on the extra point was blocked.

Dayton stars shine again

Two Mountainside residents, both teammates at Dayton Regional two years ago, have been big stars this season on the collegiate soccer level.

Mountainside's Keith Hanigan, a 5-10, 150-pound sophomore midfielder, has been playing this fall on the soccer team at Lafayette College.

Although he has not scored this season, his play has been a factor in the Leopards' 8-6-2 record thus far.

Kirk Yogy of Mountainside was named "Athlete of the Week" at Susquehanna University earlier in the soccer season.

In his first starting assignment, the freshman striker scored three goals in the Crusaders' 4-2 soccer win over King's.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Yogy of Short Drive, Mountainside, and a graduate of Jonathan Dayton High School.

No state crowns in '82 as Bears stunned by NP

By TOM VANDEWATER

Brearley's one-year reign as North Jersey, Section II, Group I football champions is over.

The Bears dropped their second straight ballgame, an 8-7 decision to North Plainfield last Saturday, which knocked them out of a chance at defending their crown. Coach Bob Taylor's team is now 5-3 with only its Thanksgiving Day game against Governor Livingston left.

Meanwhile, New Providence (6-2) will try to keep the sectional crown in Union County when it travels to Glen Ridge (7-1) for the championship ballgame this weekend.

After a scoreless first half, Brearley took a 7-0 lead as Joe Lospinoso slipped across from the one to cap a 15-play, 79-yard drive and added the extra point with 21 seconds left in the third quarter.

North Plainfield, which was a 27-point underdog according to some observers, scored its touchdown in the fourth period as quarterback Bob Newsome plunged in from the one with 7:57 to play.

The drive began as signal-caller Dave Serido, who had been out the past two weeks with pneumonia, pulled off a 60-yard gain on a flea flicker which put the ball at the Bears' 12. Serido connected with David Gough for the two-point conversion that doomed Brearley.

The Bears led the Canucks in total offense, 195-169, and ran off 61 plays to NP's 50. Lospinoso finished the day with 122 yards on 20 carries and Bill Barberio recovered a fumble to prevent a North Plainfield score.

A 34-yard run by Mike McSorley put the Bears at the Canuck 30 late in the first half, and he ran another 15 on the next play. But was tackled at the 15 as the gun sounded.

In other sports, the girls' field hockey team completed its 1982 season with a 3-6-5 record.

According to Coach Betty Jane Franks, the '82 squad just might have been Brearley's best to date.

Nancy Legg was the team's leading scorer and her younger sister, Bunny, a freshman, successfully took over as goalie after sophomore Meg Kinney was injured.

The senior varsity members included co-captains Lorraine Spina and Cindy McDonald, Allyson Glembecki, Nancy Legg, Chris DeChellis, Michele Harms, Kim Sheehan and Mary Pat Kopyta.

In boys' soccer, the Bears were eliminated in the North Jersey, Section II, Group I playoffs by virtue of a 1-0 setback to Chatham Township.

Brearley gymnasts end 12-1 dual meet season

Brearley's girls' gymnastics team completed an excellent 12-1 season last week by defeating Scotch Plains (94.20-91.30) and Cranford (91.45-86.60).

Coach Ellen Lawson and assistant Barbara Lospinoso were pleased by this year's team, one of the best in Union County.

Against Scotch Plains, Kathy Giacalone had the top vaulting score of 8.25, followed by Tracey Spillman with a 7.85. Junior Lynn Ferrara also did well in her first try in the event.

On uneven bars, Maureen Riley was first at 8.00 and Giacalone second at 7.80. Giacalone won the balance beam with a 7.75 and Riley followed with a 7.55. Riley's 8.50 topped all scorers in the floor exercise, with Spillman's 8.10 and Giacalone's 8.05 following.

Against Cranford, Giacalone's 8.00 won the vaulting and Spillman's 7.70 was good for second. High scorers on bars were Riley with an 8.25 and Giacalone with an 8.15, while balance beam winners were Claudene Nakly (7.30), Giacalone (7.15) and Susan Beurer (7.10).

Riley was first in floor exercise with an 8.15, followed by Giacalone with an 8.05.

October runs hot, cold

October was a month of contrasts weatherwise.

The Union County College Cooperative Weather Station recorded a 60 degree range in October temperatures, according to Raymond J. Daly of Peapack, station director. Temperatures climbed to 82 degrees on Oct. 6 and dropped to 22 degrees on Oct. 23. The 22 degree reading ties the record for the lowest daily October temperature on the station's records going back to Jan. 1, 1960. This same 22 degree temperature occurred in 1974 and 1977.

The daily mean temperature for the month was 56.09 degrees. This mean reading was the highest since Oct. 1975 when 59.3 degrees was listed. A year ago in October the mean temperature was only 50.9 degrees.

For the third year in a row, the monthly precipitation was below normal. Only 1.62 inches of rain fell in October this year. Of that amount, 1.09 inches fell in a 24-hour period on October 25. Four days had measurable rainfall. Total precipitation through October 1982 was 36.18 inches compared to 31.37 at this time in October last year.

Pediatric orientation proving boon to kids

When small children need hospital treatment, it can be an awesome, even frightening experience.

The Pediatric Orientation Program which for nine years has been presented at Overlook Hospital to about 1,800 preschool children per year has proved to be a successful antidote to the anxiety and stress preschool children can undergo if admitted to the hospital. This month, youngsters are visiting the hospital to attend the program, which is held in the fall and spring each year.

The program is cosponsored by Overlook's Department of Community Education and the Junior Leagues of the Oranges and Short Hills, and of Summit. The children, who come from throughout the area serviced by Overlook, are introduced to the hospital via an introductory discussion with the Junior League volunteers and watch a Mister Rogers' movie, "Going to the Hospital."

The children also take a short ride in a wheelchair, and don stethoscopes to hear what a heartbeat sounds like. They also become involved in a discussion about what it might be like to be a hospital patient.

Overlook Hospital and the Junior Leagues have been working together to ease children's fears of hospitals ever since the need was identified by concerned pediatric nurses at the hospital. A planning study proved that children learn more readily about hospitals, their personnel and procedures, when they are well, rather than at the point of intense stress when they, or a loved one, are ill and need hospitalization. This preparation and understanding can reduce fears.

Because members of the Junior Leagues live in the communities served by Overlook Hospital, their interest in this project adds a special spark to each presentation. They volunteer their time to work on the learning materials, teach the children and have developed much of the research and planning data that have made the program a successful hospital-community endeavor.

The Department of Community Education at Overlook works with the Leagues in planning each program and also provides personnel, food, space and the audio-visual equipment.

Both volunteers and hospital staff are united in their efforts to present information promoting community awareness of available resources that in this instance, will maintain and enhance good health and healthy attitudes of children throughout the area.

Disabled in contact with social security

People in Union County who receive Social Security benefits because they are disabled have a responsibility to notify social security if certain events occur, social security district manager John H. McCutcheon in Elizabeth said recently.

Events that must be reported are:

Any change of address. Be sure to also notify the post office.

Improvement in condition. In addition, a person's case will be reviewed periodically to verify eligibility for benefits. For most people, this review will be conducted every three years.

A person goes to work, no matter how little he or she earns.

A person goes outside the United States.

A person begins to receive other disability checks under a federal, state, or local program. A person should also report if the amount of any other check changes, he or she receives a lump-sum settlement, or the other check stops.

A person marries if he or she receives checks as a disabled widow or widower or a person disabled before 22 getting checks on a parents record.

A person is unable to manage his or her own funds.

A person is convicted of a felony.

A person dies.

Required reports can be made by telephone, mail, or in person at any Social Security office. Reports should include the name of the person about whom the report is being made, his or her Social Security claim number, what is being reported, the date it happened, the person's signature, address, and phone number.

Failure to make a required report can mean the person will have to pay back any benefits that were not due. Making a false statement can mean a possible fine or imprisonment.

More information about Social Security disability benefits can be obtained at the Elizabeth office, 342 Westminster Avenue. The telephone number is 800-272-1111.

CPR program at Overlook

Overlook Hospital in Summit will offer a four-part Basic Cardiac Life Support (CPR) Course to anyone over the age of 14. Classes will be held on Dec. 6, 9, 14, and 15 from 7 to 10:30 p.m.

Participants will learn one and two-man CPR, infant and child CPR and Obstructed Airway Techniques for both adults and children. Those who successfully complete the course will receive an American Heart Association certification card.

There is a $25 fee for the course for the general public. The cost to members of a rescue squad, police or fire department is $10. Early registration is suggested because the class is limited to the first 25.

Interested persons may call 522-2365 for further information.

Mid-year studies set for 3 weeks at Kean

"Mars: In Fact and Fancy" and "Golden Mirage: The Quest for El Dorado," are two of 28 courses being offered for full credit during three weeks in January by Kean College of New Jersey.

Mid-year studies at Kean College, running from Jan. 3-21, break traditional patterns and are innovative in content and method. Work on a pass-fail or letter grade basis is equivalent to a full semester. Registration takes place now until Nov. 24.

Paul Rockman of Springfield, an associate professor in the earth and planetary environment department, will teach the Mars course. It will cover the current status of ideas concerning the red planet — its place within the family of planets, its geology, its environments — as presented in science and in fiction. The class will meet Monday through Friday, 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Dr. Cayetano Socarras, a professor in the history department, will teach the El Dorado course. It will examine the myth that emerged during the conquest of the New World by Spain and its influence on the minds of the Spaniards and other Europeans as a stimulant for the exploration of a great part of northern South America. The class will meet Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Other courses offered are: Basic Tissue Culture; Life on Earth/Evolution; Ecology and Behavior; Natural Resource Use and Supply/An Introduction of Supply-Side Economics/Optimization Techniques in Business and Economics; Eugene O'Neill/The Major Plays and Their Long Shadows; A Series of Poetry Marathons.

Also, LaZarsuela Como Genero Literario; New Music in the Courts of Medieval Europe; Improvisation/Vocal and Instrumental; Choral Music Performance/A Symposium; Backstage at Lincoln Center; Mahatma Gandhi/Prophet of the Century; The Symbolism of Evil; Strategies in Criminal Justice; Different Faces of Group Leadership;

Also, the Japanese Challenge/Lessons for America; Alcoholism/Social Welfare Policy and Services; A Field Based Experience in Individualizing the Mathematics Curriculum in the Primary Grades and Field Study in Selected Facilities for the Handicapped.

Study tours to England, the Soviet Union and the Caribbean also are scheduled. Information can be obtained from the International Studies Office at 527-2166, 2461.

PROUD announces Discovery Day bash

Exhibits, entertainments, food and a dance will highlight the fourth annual Puerto Rican Discovery Day Celebration at 7 p.m. tonight in the Little Theatre in the College Center at Kean College of New Jersey.

The campus group, Puerto Rican Organization for Unity and Development (PROUD), is sponsoring the event at which Dr. Maria J. Canino, a professor of education at Rutgers University, Newark, will be the featured speaker.

Exhibits of Puerto Rican literature, poetry, woodwork, ceramics, foods and the seal, shield and flag of the island will be displayed. Jose Millan president of PROUD, said the Goya Co. will stock the food display which will include Island fruits and vegetables. Goya also will provide refreshments. Another speaker will be Nina Rios of East Orange, past chairperson of the Puerto Rican Congress of New Jersey.

The Inter American Folklore Group, led by Juan Valetin of Elizabeth, treasurer of PROUD, will sing and play Puerto Rican music. Valetin will return to the stage to perform a serenade with Magdalia Colon of Elizabeth. Jose Cruz of Passaic will lead the Hispanic Folklore Dance Troupe through its paces.

Jose A. Quiles of Highland Park, assistant dean, Center for Human Services at Kean College, will recite poetry.

Edwin Irizarry of Elizabeth, a professional disc jockey, will preside at the dance in the Grill Room.

A STRONG AMERICA NEEDS STRONG PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Strength in anything comes from a solid foundation. You build from the bottom up.

It's the same with our country. The essence of America is people. They give us strength. And these people are, for the most part, products of our public schools ... and those who work to help them.

And our schools and teachers are only as good as you want them to be. Your caring, your commitment, your vigilance are vital if our public schools are to remain strong. If they do, there will be no doubts about the strength of our country.

Now and always.

Ms. Pac-Man battle scheduled for Nov. 27

Ms. Pac-Man fans will have a chance to break the scoring record and contribute to a worthy cause at the first City of Elizabeth Ms. Pac-Man Contest to be held Saturday, Nov. 27 at Hi-Cue Billiard Lounge, 333 Rahway Ave., Elizabeth.

Urge smokers to quit for day

Today is "Great American Smokeout Day," the day when the American Cancer Society encourages smokers to give up cigarettes for 24 hours. Larry Hagman of TV's "Dallas" is once again serving as national chairman of the one-day promotion.

Hagman, a reformed smoker, sponsored a "Quit Smoking" letter writing contest last year. The winner broke her pack-a-day habit by wearing a rubber band on her wrist and giving it a snap each time she craved a cigarette.

Hagman and the ACS judges liked the idea so much that they decided to distribute "Larry Hagman Special Stop Smoking Wrist Snapping Red Rubber Bands" to those who participate in the Smokeout today.

The Union County unit of the American Cancer Society has the Hagman "wrist snappers" available for those who wish to "snap away the habit". Pledge cards, posters, buttons, quit tips and quit clinic dates are all available by calling the ACS office at 354-7373.

Last year, close to five million smokers quit for the day and three million still weren't smoking 11 days later. The 1982 goal is to get one in every five smokers to give up cigarettes for 24 hours.

All proceeds from the day-long competition will go to the Association for Advancement of the Mentally Handicapped (AAMH), the non-profit social service agency working with mentally handicapped adults in Union County, according to William R. Kology, president of the AAMH Board of Trustees.

The competition, which is open to all teenagers over 16, will be held at the billiard lounge from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., according to contest coordinators Judy Knecht, AAMH recreational coordinator; Brian Asch, Hi-Cue director, and Sidney Blanchard, executive director of the AAMH.

Entry forms may be picked up at Hi-Cue any time before Nov. 27 or on the day of the contest. Teen contestants under the age of 16 must be accompanied by an adult.

Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third place winners, in addition to other prizes, according to the coordinators.

A statewide Pac-Man contest held at Hi-Cue earlier drew about 275 contestants, "and we expect even more to enter the Elizabeth competition because every cent collected will go to a worthy cause," said Asch.

"I am more than pleased to be able to offer the facilities of Hi-Cue this year to help the AAMH in its efforts," he said, "and we expect the 112,000 score that was recorded in the last contest to be broken this year."

"The AAMH is grateful to Hi-Cue for allowing us to use the facilities for this fund-raiser," Kology said.

"The money raised will help us in our work of providing continuous support for the mentally handicapped in Union County in the vital areas of employment, housing, social activities, health, money management and personal growth.

"Mental disability never goes away, and our goal is to help those less fortunate to live full and productive lives in the community—to be viewed as useful members of the community, to have some of the same opportunities available as the rest of us and to be treated with dignity," said Kology.

"All of this takes money and the proceeds from the Ms. Pac-Man Contest will help AAMH in its vital mission. Not only will Nov. 27 be a fun day for the contestants, but a satisfying one in knowing they are helping a worthy cause."

Trips to Brazil, Taj Mahal on tap

Drink from the "Fone Da Bica" (the fountain of youth) in Salvador, Brazil, visit Trafalgar Square in Bridgetown, Barbados, see the Taj Mahal by moonlight or walk along the city wall in York, England.

All these and more are offered in the Travelearn program during January, 1983, by Kean College of New Jersey. The trips may be taken for graduate and undergraduate credit or for continuing education. Participants are urged to do some pre-travel reading and participate in individualized programming before the trips.

New this year are trips to Brazil, Peru, Nepal and India. Charles Longacre, recently retired Dean of Academic Administrative Services at the college, and Mrs. Longacre, a former teacher, will conduct the first tour to Brazil and Peru. The trip will include visits to Manaus, an island in the jungle, where the Amazon River begins; Brasilia, the new modern city; Ouro Preto, the largest 18th Century town in the world; and Rio de Janeiro. Emphasis of the trip will be on natural history and culture.

Two trips are planned to India. The first will be from Jan 3 to 21, including Nepal and the second from Jan. 3 to 23.

Both will deal with the history and culture of the sub-continent. They will be led by Edwin J. Williams, coordinator of International Studies at Kean College for more than 10 years, and Dr. Ezekiel Barber, who has spent the winters in India since 1965.

Trafalgar Square is just one of the sites that will be visited in the courses "Barbados: Many Cultures, Many Views" and "Assessment of the Exceptional Learner: A Caribbean Perspective" being taught by Dr. Nickie Berson and Brenda Calloway, members of the college's special education department. The courses are designed to give both the novice and seasoned traveler a multi cultural learning experience combined with sea, sand and sunshine.

Two trips are being planned to London. The first by Sidney Krueger, professor of children's and young adult literature, is "Literature At Its Source: London to Edinburgh and Back." It includes visits to York, Bath, Haworth, Glasgow and Cambridge.

The second led by Dr. Margaret Dunn, professor of speech, theatre, media is "Contemporary London Theatre." It features evenings at the theatre and days touring London, meeting John Russell Taylor, drama and art critic for the London Times and visits to Covent Garden and the Elizabethan Theatre at Stratford-On-Avon.

Dr. Robert J. Fyne, an English professor, will conduct the Travelearn's sixth trip to the Soviet Union from Dec. 26 to Jan. 5, to study culture, history, art, aesthetics, music and drama of the Russian people.

Dr. Marilyn Hart, an anthropologist, will coordinate the second annual "Puerto Rico, U.S.A. Its Culture and People" seminar. The trip will focus on the Hispanic and Afro-Caribbean heritage and culture of the island and its implication on education.

Williams, the Travelearn programs are viewed by the college as a relevant extension of its growing commitment to the concept of life long learning. The Travelearn programs offer the participants field experiences at sites and facilities often unavailable to the average tourist.

All programs are supervised by college faculty members, who are well acquainted with the cultural opportunities available.

Information about the trips and credits may be obtained from Williams at 527-2166 or 527-2461.

Foundation reelects Pass at its president

Mrs. Arline Pass of Westfield was recently re-elected president of the St. Elizabeth Hospital Foundation at the annual meeting in the Elizabeth hospital's board room. In addition to her responsibilities of presiding at all meetings and appointing committee chairpersons, she is an ex-officio member of the organization's six standing committees.

Pass has been a member of the Foundation for 13 years and has served in many leadership capacities during that time. Under her leadership as president in 1980 and 1981, the Foundation raised $50,000 toward its $250,000 pledge to the Building Fund of the hospital.

Pass states, "The communities which St. Elizabeth serves have gained much through our fundraising efforts, for the results have been beneficial through technological improvements, the purchase of state-of-the-art equipment, and improved patient care. Currently, our energies are directed toward fundraising for the $6.5 million addition to the hospital, which will provide an expanded and modernized intensive care unit, a pharmacy and additional office space."

Other officers elected for the 1982-83 term are first vice president, Fred Buehler of Westfield; second vice president, Bob Cosulich of Westfield; third vice president, Bill DePaolo of Elizabeth; recording secretary, Dorothy Shea of Elizabeth; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Lucille Boyer of Elizabeth, and treasurer, Jack Pass of Westfield.

Animal group is inundated with beagles

The Linden Pets Adoption Waiting Station has been "swamped" with beagles during the last month.

The small, brown, black and white colored dogs were probably abandoned by area hunters who were dissatisfied with the dog's hunting performance, according to Joanne Astalos, group president. The shelter has six beagle dogs and the animal organization is desperately looking for good homes for them.

The shelter has a number of dogs to choose from. There is Fritz and Buddy, tri-colored and approximately two years old. Monty is a brown and white beagle who is a little larger than the normal size. He is also about two years old.

Betsy and Belle are tri-colored and are about one year old and Ruby, tri-colored, is about five years old. The latter is very complacent and chubby and would love to sleep in a warm living room.

All the pets are fully inoculated, very docile and get along well with other dogs. Anyone interested in adopting a beagle or any of the other waiting station dogs may call 499-9300 or visit the shelter which is located on Range Road, off of Lower Road, behind Koos Warehouse and Route 1 in Linden. The shelter is open on weekdays from 6 to 9 p.m. or on weekends from 9 a.m. to noon.

Special appointments may be set up. Messages may be left on the answering service if no one is at the shelter. Volunteers, donations and food always are needed. The mailing address is P.O. Box 470, Linden, 07036.

Legal secretaries schedule meeting

The Union County Legal Secretaries Association will hold its next meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 30, at 6:30 p.m. at Dasti's Mountainside Inn, Route 22, Mountainside.

The guest speaker will be Edward W. Beglin Jr., judge of the Superior Court.

LISTENING TOOL—Erik DeNault of Linden, a patient at Elizabeth General Medical Center, samples a "talking book." The "talking book" program, offered through the Medical Center's Health Center Library, is a free service to patients.

Auction slated for police lot

The Union County Police Parking lot at 300 North Avenue, E., Westfield, will be the site of an auction Saturday, 10 a.m. Viewing of the merchandise will be held from 8-10 a.m.

According to Susan Belluscio, director of the county's purchasing department and the day's auctioneer, most items were found in the county's park system and never claimed. Items to be sold to the highest bidder include over 30 bicycles, two dirt bikes, a snow blower, lawn mower, aluminum canoe, baseball gloves and skate boards.

All bidders must be 18 years of age or older or accompanied by an adult or parent. The terms are cash and all merchandise must be removed on the day of sale. The auction will be held whatever the weather is that day.

Support group set for Alzheimer's

Recycling aids EGMC patient

An aluminum recycling project, coordinated by the nurses of Elizabeth General Medical Center's second floor east, will again pay off in the form of a new piece of equipment. A "geriatric chair," valued at $300, will soon be among a radio and a 19 inch color television set also acquired for the patients through the project.

For more than a year and a half, physicians, employees, and former patients have supported the effort by collecting and crushing aluminum cans and scrap aluminum.

Barbara Shays, a licensed practical nurse at the Medical Center and treasurer of the project, recently enlisted the help of Elizabeth Boy Scout Troop 23. One of the Scouts in the troop, Joseph Coakley, who is working on his Eagle rank, lead an aluminum recycling project in corroboration with Shays.

Edwin Shays, Barbara's father, has helped in the collection of hundreds of pounds of aluminum.

Anyone interested in donating aluminum for the project is encouraged to call Edwin Shays at 845 7724.

'Royal' meal offered at Ramada's Camelot

BY GAIL CASALE

When one thinks back to the days that King Arthur and the Knights of the Round table lived, images of royalty and gallantry come into mind. These characteristics are personified through the satisfying experience offered at Camelot inside the Ramada Inn located on 36 Valley Road in Clark.

Many pleasures await you inside King Arthur's Dining Room. A dimly lit atmosphere grace the decor featuring high-back chairs, wall plaques of crossed swords and coats of arms reminiscent of the restaurant's theme.

Pure white tablecloths and brown cloth napkins further accent Camelot's charm and refinement.

The menu provides enough variety and versatility to please even the most demanding. Allow your taste buds to begin the Camelot venture with appetizers such as quiche lorraine, coconut shrimp or oysters rockefeller. Clams casino baked with butter and topped with smoked bacon and wine at your request is a rare delight worth sampling.

A house specialty enjoyed by many a Camelot diner is the flambeed delights prepared tableside. Let Maitre d Sergio or another of Camelot's servers display their expertise in this culinary art.

Choose from six flambeed dinners including veal saltabucca, made of sauteed veal stuffed with mozzarella cheese and prociutto ham, served on a bed of spinach. Others are the roast long island duckling and Shrimp de Miguel composed of tender fresh shrimp, sauteed in butter, spices, a pinch of white wine and sweet plum tomatoes that provide a deliciously creamy marinara sauce.

Other chef's specialties feature breast of capon cordon bleu and the highlighted Paella Valenciana. Served for two, this dish is made with rice, mussels, shrimp, clams, scallops, lobsters, combined with chicken and pork cooked in Camelot's unique sauce. This gourmet treat satisfies almost any kind of taste imaginable.

Coinciding with the first rate quality prevalent throughout Camelot, the restaurant also offers the finest cuts of meat such as roast prime ribs of beef au jus and tender filet mignon.

Crown the Camelot meal aptly with one of its tempting desserts. Select from the rolling dessert cart featuring chocolate mousse, flambeed items, creamy rice pudding or homemade pastries and cakes.

Why just go out for breakfast on Sunday when you can indulge in a simply fulfilling brunch offered at Camelot each Sunday from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. The list of foods here is extremely diverse. Choose from the traditional eggs, french toast, bagels, bacon, and sausage to the more extravagant veal and peppers, beef burgundy, and pasta and chicken prepared differently each week. With Camelot's worthwhile brunch, Sunday could easily become the most important day of the week.

If you're looking for a cozy spot to enjoy a soothing drink, the Guinevere Cocktail Lounge is an appropriate suggestion. Accompany your favorite fresh fruit cocktail with entertainment from 9 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. Tuesday through Saturday, and you've found a great way to unwind after a trying day.

The Ramada Inn's trained staff is available for banquets, weddings and business affairs. Their party facilities can easily accommodate from 10 to 550 people.

The restaurant is open daily, serving lunch from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m., dinner from 5 to 10:30 p.m. and until 11 Friday and Saturday. Major credit cards are accepted, and the Ramada Inn is easily accessible from exit 135 on the Garden State Parkway. Reservations are recommended.

Make that holiday outing something extra special. Visit Camelot where chivalry, elegance and superb dining is alive and well seven days a week.

Orchestra to open season in Rindler Hall

The Union Symphony Orchestra will open its 1982-83 season on Dec. 2 at Burnet Junior High School in the new Rindler Hall.

Named for Leo W. Rindler, conductor and music director of the orchestra and former music director of the Union schools, Rindler Hall is a junior high school band room that was renovated in conjunction with the expansion of the township-operated F. Edward Bier-tuempfel Senior Center in Burnet.

Though the orchestra will give its other concerts this season at Connecticut Farms School, the opening program will be held at Burnet, where dedication ceremonies for the new room will be held and Rindler will be honored.

The concert, which starts at 8:30 p.m., will feature Laura Hamilton, violinist, as soloist in works by Rossini, Mendelssohn, Humperdinck and Bizet.

Born in California, Hamilton received her early musical education in the San Francisco Bay area. At the age of 16, she attended the Moscow Conservatory of Music as a special student of Oleg Kriza.

The daughter of a nuclear physicist and pianist, Hamilton remained active in both the arts and sciences until she reached high school, when she decided on music as a career.

In 1977, she came to New York to study with Raphael Bronstein at the Manhattan School of Music. While a student there, she won top honors in nine competitions, including the Olga Koussevitsky competition for strings and the National Arts Club annual music auditions. East and West Artists sponsored her debut in Carnegie Recital Hall last season after she won that group's 1981 auditions.

Hamilton has been first violinist for three seasons with the Riverside String Quartet. She toured the West Coast and appeared in Carnegie Recital Hall with this group and has given solo recitals at the 92nd Street Y and Lincoln Center Library in New York. She also has performed on WQXR and given a concert in Elverum, Norway.

For the past three summers, she has been on the associate faculty of the Downeast Chamber Music Center in Castine, Maine. She also teaches at the Third Street Music School in New York.

Tickets are required for admission to the concert. They may be obtained without charge from members of the orchestra and from Franklin State Bank, Union Center National Bank, Gruber's and Stan Sommer's, all in Union; Altenberg Piano House, Elizabeth; Rindler, 686-8082; Sherman Perr, 686-5771, or Robert J. Pauli, 688-6887, First Jersey National Bank, Morris and Colonial Avenues.

Disc & Data

By Milt Hammer

Pick of the LPs, "Take Love," by Glenn Edward Thomas (Capitol).

Glenn Edward Thomas was born Sept. 28, 1958 in Knoxville, Tenn. His family moved to Washington, D. C., suburb of Silver Springs, Md., in 1965. Glenn's desire to sing did not surface until seven years later when he decided to join the choir on one fateful Sunday afternoon at the Rock Creek Baptist Church.

Shortly thereafter, Glenn discovered a piano in the same church and whenever it was not being used and no one was around, he would try his hand at playing. These clandestine liaisons went on for about two years, and by the time it was discovered that he was teaching himself to play, Glenn had developed an excellent technique for playing gospel and jazz chords.

Not long after entering Howard University, as, of all things, a business major, he noticed a room from which wonderful noises would emanate almost constantly. This was the practice room, the very same room where the likes of Donny Hathaway, Roberta Flack, Leroy Hutson and Freddie Perren had developed their musical skills.

After three years at Howard, Glenn had become a better-than-average business student by day and a singer, pianist, composer of enormous potential by night. In 1979, he began singing and accompanying himself at various night spots around Washington, D. C., and eventually had to concede that he could no longer pursue both a career in business and in music. So, he decided that music was to be his life.

In 1982, Glenn was introduced to Capitol Records by Don Cornelius of Soul Train, and his debut album, "Take Love," was immediately set in motion. Glenn's songs on the record are a reflection of his very sensitive nature and warm personality. In "Shippin' Out," he writes beautifully of leaving someone and having nowhere to go. More positively, "Poochie" is about his impressions of a delightful 12-year-old he had occasion to meet. "Have You Seen A Little Boy?" was inspired by Glenn's concern for the missing children of Atlanta, and "We Got A Lot to Learn," co-written with Faye Allen, is a bouncy Gospel number with a profound message. "Put Your Head On My Shoulder" was thought by one of the engineers to be a familiar old standard that Glenn was re-recording, "just assuming it was a song I had heard hundreds of times before." The engineer was shocked to learn that this was indeed a brand new song by a brand new writer.

The album's title song, "Take Love," is a raunchy, synthesized-funk collaboration between Glenn, Cornelius and Capitol recording artist O'Bryan (a previously Cornelius discovery), who also co-wrote Glenn's first single, "Turn Around," a driving R&B ballet performed over a progressive jazz chord structure.

A new season is announced

The Plainfield Symphony will open its 63rd season Dec. 5 at 3 p.m. with a performance of Beethoven's Symphony No. 1 in C, Rimsky-Korsakov's "March of the Nobles" and Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer."

John Graf Jr. is general manager. Additional information can be obtained by calling 561-5140.

'Arsenic' comedy will open Dec. 1

"Arsenic and Old Lace," Joseph Kesselring's farce of mystery and comedy, will open Dec. 1 and run through Dec. 4 at 8 p.m. in Memorial auditorium, Montclair State College, Upper Montclair. It will have a Dec. 3 matinee show at 2:15.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 893-4205 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., or 746-9120 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. after Monday.

Credit cards add to responsibility

"The use of our credit cards seem to make purchasing easy, but they also obligate us to certain responsibilities. While they offer you credit, they affect your credit standing and cost you lots of money if you don't take the time to understand the benefits and penalties of this unique tool," states Ellen Bloom, Director of the Union County Division of Consumer Affairs, within the Department of Human Resources.

Credit is a convenience, but what is borrowed must be paid back. And there is the cost of lending money. Acquaint yourself with the facts, for these facts vary from creditor to creditor. Scour the consumer shops diligently for the best retail cost, but, be aware of the difference in credit costs. "A final and full cost figure must be given to you," reminds Bloom.

The finance charge is the total dollar amount you pay to use the credit service. It includes the interest costs, and sometimes other such costs as service charges. The annual percentage rate is the percentage of credit on a yearly basis.

Federal laws require the disclosure of both the finance charge and the annual percentage rate before you sign a credit contract. Be sure to look at all the terms before you make the choice.

Know exactly what the purchase is costing you. Credit called "open-end" allows you to use credit cards, department store charge plates, and check over-draft accounts. "Open-end" credit can be used again and again, generally until you reach a prearranged borrowing limit.

"Many times, consumers claim to have signed a retail installment credit contract in blank, without receiving a copy. This is done in spite of the large printed warning against doing so right above their signature. This procedure is against federal and state laws," warns Bloom.

If you are denied credit, be sure to find out why. You may have to ask the creditor for his explanation. If you think you have been discriminated against, you may contact a federal enforcement agency for assistance or bring legal action.

A credit card can also be used as a protection against faulty goods or services. Using credit instead of cash can save the day for a customer who has been victimized. If you have unsuccessfully attempted to resolve a problem involving such a charge, or want more information about it, follow these steps:

1. Notify the creditor within 60 days after the bill was mailed. Be sure to write the creditor lists for billing inquiries and to tell the creditor on a separate sheet of paper from the bill. Include:

- a. your name, account, and number;
- b. that you believe your bill contains an error, and why you believe it is wrong;
- c. the suspected amount of the error on the item you want explained;
- d. send this out certified mail and keep a copy.

2. You must pay all parts of the bill that are not in dispute. But, while waiting for an answer, you do not have to pay the amount in question, or minimum payments, or finance charges that apply to it. The creditor must acknowledge your letter within 30 days, unless your bill can be corrected sooner.

Within 90 days, either your account must be corrected or you must be told why the creditor believes the bill is correct. If the creditor made a mistake, you do not pay any finance charges on the disputed amount. "Be sure an error is reported and vacated from your credit history," states Bloom. "Often this step is neglected and remains in your credit history."

Once your account is corrected, you must be sent an explanation of the reasons for the determination and a statement of what you owe, which may include finance charges that have accumulated and any minimum payments you missed while you were questioning the bill.

Once you have written about a possible error, a creditor is prohibited from giving out information and would damage your credit rating. Until the complaint is answered, the creditor may not take any action to collect the disputed amount. After the creditor has explained the bill, you may be reported as delinquent on the amount in dispute, and the creditor may take action to collect if you do not pay in the time allowed.

You still have the right to have your side of the story added to the files. Write a dispute statement to the credit bureau, making sure it says that the dispute is a "good faith exercise of your rights under the Consumer Credit Protection Act."

You may obtain a copy of your own credit profile at no charge if you have been denied credit within the past 30 days.
