Court: Della Serra can remain on duty

BY SUSAN SWEENEY
Sgt. Raymond Della Serra was granted a stay by Superior Court less than 24 hours after he was dismissed by a majority vote on Nov. 23 from the Mountainside Police Department. The judicial action permits Della Serra to remain on duty until at least Dec. 15.

Della Serra had been found guilty on 25 out of 30 charges brought against him and removed from the police force "effective immediately," by the Mountainside Borough Council.

An appeal was then made immediately by Della Serra's attorney, William Wertheimer, to the council and a request for a stay which would allow Della Serra, an 18-year veteran of the Mountainside police force, to remain working on the force until his appeal hearing could be made. Again, by a majority vote, the stay was denied by the council.

Wertheimer sought and received a stay in Superior Court last Wednesday from Judge Milton A. Feller. The stay permits Della Serra to return to work and continue working until at least Dec. 15, the date set for when the borough is ordered to appear in front of the judge. The borough can then dismiss the complaint against Della Serra or proceed to show cause why the restraint was ordered.

Wertheimer filed a paper of writ with Judge Feller on the fact that the opening public meetings' Sunshine Law had been violated, by deliberating on the verdict in private. "I feel a substantial question of fairness exists. Hopefully, we will be completely cured when this matter is brought out of the prejudice of the borough and into the clean air (Superior Court)," said Wertheimer, following the decision by the council.

Wertheimer added that he had expected his case to be rejected by the borough. "We didn't want it here," he said.

Police Chief William A. Alder felt differently to the decision. "I feel it (the decision) benefits Mountainside. The council made a fair and just decision. It will enrich the police department."

The 30 charges, ranging from illegal firearm sales to bringing a juvenile to work with him, were filed by Alder last year. The hearings, which began in May, were conducted in eight separate nights lasting nearly 50 hours. They had ended in June so the lawyers, Wertheimer and Prosecuting Attorney John Phillips, could submit their post hearing proposed findings of fact.

The council went into executive session on Nov. 13 with its lawyer, David Wallace, to go over each charge separately and review the post finding facts.

Prior to Borough Administrator James Roberts reading of the 28 page document on the Della Serra charges at the meeting last Tuesday, Mayor Thomas Ricciardi expressed to the public the hard work and the lengthy time spent by the council on this case.

"This case occupied the borough for a lengthy amount of time. Regardless, in my judgment, the council bent over backwards to make sure to listen to all of it (the charges and arguments) properly. I am proud of you (the council)," Ricciardi went on to praise them for their "integrity and high intellect."

Of the 30 charges brought against Della Serra, 17 involved illegal possession, sales or use of firearms. Of these 17 charges, he was found guilty of 14: including not posting his license; failure to keep a proper "boundbook" of firearm's transactions; lacking proper registration as a dealer of firearms and presenting that register form to the police chief.

Although a unanimous conclusion for a penalty was not reached, the council unanimously found that "the misconduct engaged in by Sergeant Della Serra is of a most serious nature."

Additionally, "We unanimously conclude that Sergeant Della Serra's misconduct reflects upon and impairs the morale, discipline and good order of the department and demonstrates an attitude of mind and approach to the obligations of his office at variance with his sworn duty and constitutes insubordination and conduct unbecoming a police officer."

Councilmen Robert Vigilanti and Ronald Romak were the only council members to vote against the removal of Della Serra from the police force. Vigilanti asked for a penalty consisting of a six month suspension, a $5,000 fine and a demotion of rank from sergeant to patrolman. Romak agreed on a penalty of a $5,000 fine and a demotion, but no suspension or dismissal.

Vigilanti and Romak were also the only two to support the stay which was refused by a majority.

Following the meeting, Anthony Messano, a resident of Mountainside, spoke on behalf of the people who had supported Della Serra throughout this trial. "I would think that the council would have showed more compassion for someone who worked for the municipality," said Messano.

Messano questioned the council on why the charges, dating as far back as 1976, were "saved up" instead of being taken care of at the time. "Where was the police chief from day one? Drastic action (the decision of removal) was taken. After 18 years, to fire a man who did things as far back as 1976 is not fair," added Messano.

Police officer Jose Pires backed Della Serra. He questioned why attorney John Post, who had removed himself from the Della Serra hearings because of possible bias, attended the Nov. 13 deliberations at the Holiday Inn, Kenilworth.

Rooney guest at breakfast

Looney Skip Rooney, the horn-tooting slapstick comedian clad in big bowtie and battered old top hat, will be the guest of the Mountainside Lions at their Pancake breakfast on Sunday, at the Elks Rt. 22, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Rooney, a former Mountainside resident, co-stars on the nationally syndicated television series, "The Uncle Floyd Show", where his crazy one-liners and skits are a daily feature. The show is seen locally on stations WNBC-TV Channel 4, WWHT-TV Channel 68, and WPHL-TV Channel 17 in Philadelphia.

Skip has been on the show since July of 1978 and in addition to his routines with the show's star and cult hero Floyd Vivino, has done his own television series for Suburban Cablevision's TV-3 and Elizabeth's cable television station Channel 12. He was also a regular comedian on the old "Bozo the Clown" show syndicated from Miami and seen here on WOR-TV Channel 9 in the early 70's.

When not in the act of preserving the art of slapstick comedy, he turns radio personality for WRAN (New Jersey 1510) in Dover. The station is owned by Cousin Bruce Morrow and Rooney holds down the 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. slot playing the top hits of the nation and conversing with the station's audience.

When Rooney makes his appearance at the Lions breakfast Sunday, he plans to do a show along with his oldtime partner Flip Zigman, another Mountainside resident. "Skip and Flip" will unleash some of their madcap antics from the Uncle Floyd Show and then will sign autographs. There will be free pictures for everybody and a lot of silliness to put a smile on anybody's face. For tickets, contact Lions President Ken Keller at 232-6705.

LOONEY SKIP ROONEY—Looney Skip Rooney will be the featured attraction at the Lions Club Pancake feast Sunday, 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Rooney appears on the zany Uncle Floyd Show on Channel 4, and also has a daily radio show in New Jersey.

Woman's Club slates events

The Mountainside Woman's Club has announced its schedule of meetings and Christmas parties for the month of December.

The literature department will have its annual Christmas luncheon today at noon. Mrs. Howard Johnson, 265 Friar Lane, Mountainside, department chairman, will be the hostess.

The American Home Department will fill decorated coffee cans with small Christmas gifts for the elderly patients at Runnels Hospital and various nursing homes in the vicinity. The date is Dec. 6 at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Curtiss, 1067 Sunny Slope Drive, Mountainside, the department chairman. Members are to meet at 11 a.m. for the gift packing and at noon will celebrate their annual luncheon and Christmas party.

The Executive Board of the club will hold its monthly meeting on Wednesday at noon at the home of Mrs. Edward Dudick, 1065 Sylvan Lane, Mountainside.

The regular meeting of the Mountainside Woman's Club, Inc. will be held at L'Affaire, Route 22 East, Mountainside, on Wednesday, Dec. 15 at noon. Entertainment will be provided by Miss Lucille Reilly and her musical instruments.

Mrs. John Rusbarsky, 1139 Peach Tree Lane, Mountainside, will host the Christmas party for the Crafts Department, (formerly the Evening Group) at 8 p.m. in her home.

The Garden Department plans its Christmas party for Dec. 21 at noon. Mrs. Michael Sgarro, 283 Garrett Road, Mountainside, chairman, will be the hostess on this occasion. Members will exchange hand made gifts.

Garden club meets

The Mountainside Garden Club will hold its annual Christmas meeting at the First Baptist Church, 170 Elm Street, Westfield, 1 p.m. Tuesday.

Rte. 78 exempt from cutbacks

The scheduled completion of Interstate Route 78 (I-78) will not be affected by a temporary freeze placed on road construction contracts, temporarily put on hold until the Legislature acts on Gov. Thomas Kean's proposal to cut each department's spending by 3 percent.

The 5.5 mile missing link of I-78, through Union County, has been excluded since the contract represents 20 years of planning, according to John P. Sheridan, transportation commissioner.

Police issue complaints against 2 jailed women

Mountainside police filed complaints earlier this week against two New York women who allegedly drugged a local man and burglarized thousands of dollars worth of valuables from his home during the summer, according to reports.

Police said Susan J. Perry, 28, of Manhattan, and Brenda LaCugna, 37, of the Bronx, were arrested in Totowa on the night of Nov. 23 on charges of murder, robbery and conspiracy in the death of a Montville man after police teams from Morris County, New York City and the Port Authority conducted a six-day surveillance operation into the goings on of the prostitution team who drugged several victims before robbing them.

Mountainside police filed additional charges Tuesday of robbery and conspiracy after a local man became a victim of the duo on Aug. 22 of this year.

According to reports, the 41-year-old resident met the women in a Parsippany bar and invited them home. The victim fell asleep during the early morning hours and awoke several hours later feeling as though he had been drugged.

The victim discovered losses of $8,030 in cash, camera, assorted jewelry, Hummel figures and an oil painting, police said.

By supplying the arresting officers with a detailed description of the suspect's car, borough police aided them in the apprehension.

Superior Court Judge Kenneth MacKenzie, Morristown, set bail at $165,000 for each woman, according to reports.

4 proposals approved in block grant program

BY SUE SWEENEY
Four proposals for application to the Community Development Block Grant Program were approved by the Mountainside Borough Council at its regular meeting on Nov. 23.

Prior to the passing of resolutions, the council opened a public hearing on the matter of which projects would be submitted to Union County. The program, designed under the Housing and Development Act of 1974, is geared toward the improvement of communities, particularly low and moderate income communities.

Of the five proposals suggested to the council, only four were accepted. In order of priority, they are: continuation of expanded senior citizen coordinator program, at an estimated cost for one year of $3,000 to $5,000; senior citizen transportation assistance program, at an estimated cost of $5,000; barrier free improvement to the community pool and deck repair, at an expected cost of $30,000; and construction of a fitness trail, at an estimated cost of $30,000.

The fifth proposal for a preparation of a recreation master plan, estimated to cost $10,000, was turned down. Councilman Abraham Suckno said that the council "should not take any steps on this program without the Planning Board. We should redirect this matter to the Planning Board."

The council approved the resolution of entering into a contract with Alternatives of Summit for making final tabulation of the fact finding survey. Phase one of the project will cost $285 and phase two will cost $650. When the contract is drawn, it will note that if the borough is not happy with the services of phase one, all service will be halted.

Councilwoman Marilyn Hart expressed the need for this service. "My husband and I spent eight hours tabulating only three questions," said Hart. Those tabulations were only in the senior citizen age category. Hart added that the response to the survey was tremendous. "Of the 4000 we mailed out, we received approximately 2,000 responses," she said.

A resolution of purchasing electronic pagers for the rescue squad was approved. The council is donating $10,500 for the purchase of 30 pagers. Councilman Robert Vigilanti said that the rescue squad does not have to go through a bidding process. "They have done massive research and are presently negotiating with a company," said Vigilanti. He added that the $10,500 is only a estimation and that it would not be dispersed to the rescue squad until the correct amount and the company itself is determined.

A sanitary sewer meter service contract with Dilorio & Sons, Inc. of Westfield was approved. After rebidding for a second time, the council accepted the lowest bid of $54,700.

A janitorial service contract with Zenith Maintenance Inc. of Edison was approved for amount of $8,895.

A resolution to enter into a contract with SPCA, of Union County, for dog warden service was approved by the council.

A resolution to reject the one bid submitted for a police alarm panel, by Supreme Security, was approved. The council was not satisfied with the procedure of the bid submitted.

A performance bond to be returned to Marting Vincentsen, Inc. of Westfield was approved. The $2,000 bond is being returned for having completed work on the lighting at Children's Hospital.

Due to the recent retirement of the present police dispatcher, a resolution was approved to appoint Mariann Elizabeth Bambauch to the position at a salary of $8,300.

In a recent evaluation by the Bureau County Services Division of Adult Institutions, "No deficiencies were found in the lock up of the jails for a second year," said Councilman Louis Maas. The borough was commended on its facilities.

Public library shows gift books collection

The Free Public Library of Mountainside will have a display of memorial and gift books running from today through Dec. 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burdge, Sr., have donated six books in memory of Scott Burdge. "How They Lived in Cities Long Ago," by R.J. Unstead, is a colorful volume featuring seven civilizations of the ancient world. The text covers industry, government, religion—every facet of the world of long ago.

The National Geographic Society's "How Things Are Made" is an enlightening book for inquiring minds. Photographs of the manufacture of baseballs, toothpaste, jumbo jets, bridges, etc., are just a few of the things which are sure to interest the old and young.

Sports are also represented in this donation by the Baseball Encyclopedia, Joseph L. Reichler, ed., and The Concise Encyclopedia of Sports edited by Gerald Newman. The former is the complete and official record of major baseball, 5th ed., which provides the statistics of 105 years, while the Sports Encyclopedia will give the reader a substantial introduction to the most popular sports and games, athletic greats of the past, records that have been made and broken, and much more.

"The Presidents in American History" by Charles A. Beard is a compact, lively account of each of our Presidents and his administration, followed by a useful Biographical Digest. Fred D'Ignazio's Creative Kid's Guide to Home Computers is an exciting new activity book for young people who want to create their own super games and projects by using programmable home computers.

Also included in this display are books donated by the Mountainside Garden Club. In "The World's Favorite Roses and How to Grow Them", author Jack Harkness offers a wealth of practical information on the development of the rose, the types of roses that exist, and above all the do's and don'ts of rose growing care.

"The Complete Book of Edible Landscaping" by Rosalind Creasy opens the door to a beautiful and productive home environment. Flower Arranging expresses the attitudes of several leading arrangers on both the formal and informal approaches to arranging flowers. Also included are Ikebana, the ancient art of Japanese flower arranging, and the popular subject of floral competitions.

"Folk Art of the Americas" by August Panyella has been donated by Mr. and Mrs. John Barry in memory of Rose Munz. This book is a spectacularly-illustrated country-by-country tour through North, Central, and South America, searching out crafts in hundreds of villages.

Residents of Saddle Brook Road have donated two books to the collection. "The Organic Gardener's Complete Guide to Vegetables and Fruits", A. Halpin, ed., contains all one needs to know to grow healthy, productive vegetables and fruits at home without introducing any chemical fertilizers or pesticides into the garden. "The Laura Ashley Book of Home Decorating" by Elizabeth Dickson contains over 200 color photographs and masses of ideas for how to decorate and furnish every room in your home, as well as advice on how to develop your own style.

Thieves hit Bristol Road

Thieves hit two Bristol Road businesses over the weekend, police said.

According to reports, $500 in petty cash was discovered missing from Muirhead Instrument, 1101 Bristol Road, after thieves entered through the building's roof and ransacked the second floor between 10 p.m. on Saturday and 1:30 p.m. on Sunday.

A second weekend incident was reported at the same time at Elliott & Co., 1071 Bristol Road, after thieves entered through the roof, ransacked offices and left with an undetermined amount of cash, police said.

Also, a resident of Stony Brook Lane reported jewelry losses of $500 after thieves entered his home at about 10:20 p.m. on Sunday. Entry was gained through the front door, police said.

Free throw contest

The Mountainside Elks will sponsor a hoop shoot, free throw contest on Dec. 18, from 10 a.m. until noon at the Deerfield School on Central Avenue here.

NEW EXHIBIT—'Thunder and Shower III' is among prints on display in the new 'Seton Hall Collects' exhibition at the Student Center Art Gallery, Seton Hall University, South Orange. The exhibition opens Monday and runs through Jan. 30.

'Seton Hall Collects' to open on Monday

With the opening of an exhibition of 33 prints on Monday in the Student Center Art Gallery on the South Orange campus, Seton Hall University begins a special series of exhibits calling attention not only to the works of fine art on display but also to the fine art of collecting art.

The exhibit, entitled "Seton Hall Collects: Prints from the Art Center," will continue until Jan. 30. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday through Friday and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays.

Since the prints represent 33 different artists, the exhibit is an assembly of printmakers ranging from A (Alvar) to Z (Zalkin) and includes such luminaries as Cocteau, Miro, Picasso, Roualt, and Raphael Soyer. It offers a variety of style, technique, content and approach.

The prints on display do have one thing in common: they all belong to Seton Hall.

The exhibit is the first under the theme, "Seton Hall Collects," that will present selections from artwork acquired by the university over a number of years. The collecting effort has been coordinated by two faculty art historians, Dr. Petra T. d. Chu of South Orange and Dr. Louis de Crenascol. Seton Hall now has a substantial collection of American, European and Japanese prints, including several old masters, according to Dr. Chu, who is also chairperson of the department of art and music. Each year during its regular exhibition schedule, Seton Hall will devote one show to selections from its own collection.

The first "Seton Hall Collects" exhibit consists of prints drawn primarily from collections recently donated to the university by three private owners. Joseph Elkind, Lawrence Kaplan and Leonard Bartou. Members of the university who were instrumental in arranging these acquisitions included Msgr. William Noe Field, librarian emeritus, John Wilson, director of development, and Dr. Philip Kayal, professor of sociology.

"We are deeply appreciative of these and other benefactors of the university who have made major contributions in the form of fine art," Dr. Chu said. "Our 'Seton Hall Collects' shows will help acknowledge their generosity and also focus on the role and function of a university as an art repository that affords stewardship for valuable works as well as accessibility to scholars and students."

Several artists have also contributed their works to the university, including three printmakers represented in the current show: the late Louis Lozwick of South Orange, Shiu-Ping Liao of Englewood Cliffs, and C.J. Yao of New York. Shiu-Ping is also a member of the Seton Hall faculty, teaching a popular course in printmaking.

The print exhibition includes serigraphs, etchings, woodcuts, lithographs, and mixed media in both color and black and white. Other artists whose works will be on display include Sunol Alvar, George Belkind, William Gropper, Ernst Hailer, Felix Labisse, Jacob Landeau, Hilary K. Marie, Laurencin, Jack Levine, Henri Masson, Peter Max, Josh Morgan, Oi Motoi, Eugen Ne'has, Gabor Peterdo, Robert Phillipp, Leopold Survage, and Victor Vasarely.

Guest curator for the exhibition in Margaret L. Smith of Maplewood, a graduate of the School of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and Tufts University.

Warning signals of heart attack described

In 1979 some 550,000 Americans died of heart attack, including as many as 350,000 who died before they entered a hospital.

Dr. M.J. Berger, Ph.D., M.D. of West Orange, president of the American Heart Association, Metropolitan Chapter, Inc., which serves the residents of Essex, Hudson and Union Counties, says that many of the 350,000 who died before getting to a hospital could have been saved, "but they died within two hours after the symptoms first appeared."

"All it takes is to be able to recognize the symptoms or warning signals of a heart attack and get emergency medical help immediately," she said.

The warning signals of a heart attack are: uncomfortable pressure, lullness, squeezing or pain in the center of the chest lasting two minutes or more; the pain may spread to shoulders, neck or arms; severe pain, dizziness, fainting, sweating, nausea or shortness of breath may also occur. Sharp, stabbing twinges of pain are usually not signals of heart attack.

Berger said anyone who has these signals two minutes or more should call the emergency medical service immediately. "Don't deny that you are having a heart attack. Often people believe that it's indigestion, or that they are too healthy to have a heart attack, or that they don't want to bother their doctor," she said.

"Denying the heart attack and delaying the call for emergency medical help can spell danger. If a person is having a heart attack, minutes especially the first few minutes — count," Berger said.

The warning signals of a heart attack are often an indication of a disruption in the supply of oxygen-rich blood to the muscles of the heart. The actual heart attack, on the other hand, is often an interruption or severe reduction in the supply of blood to these muscles, the muscles that contract and relax to provide the pumping action.

"There is no way to predict when an actual heart attack will occur once the warning signals have appeared, which is why it is so crucial to seek emergency medical help," she emphasized.

And once the heart attack occurs, there is always the possibility of the heart going into a chaotic or quivering beat, which can lead to sudden death, the chapter president said. "Emergency medical aid can help in stabilizing the heart and, in some cases, even prevent the heart attack from occurring once the warning signals have appeared. The coronary care units in hospitals can help reduce the impact of a heart attack and monitor heart functions to revive the heart if sudden death occurs," Berger said.

The heart is a remarkably tough organ, she added, "but there is a limit to how much damage it can withstand, and the warning signals of a heart attack may be an indication that the damage to the heart has begun."

The American Heart Association wants to reduce the prevalence of heart attack. "So give generously to your Heart Association," she said. Contributions can be sent to the Chapter at 12 High Street, Glen Ridge, N.J. 07028.

Lights festival slated Dec. 9

SPRINGFIELD—The Springfield Recreation Department is sponsoring for the first time in Springfield a festival of lights. This event will occur Thursday, Dec. 9, at 8:30 p.m. on the front lawn of Town Hall.

A Christmas tree and a Menorah will be lit together, signifying the brotherhood of mankind during the holiday season. All citizens are invited to attend this ceremony.

In conjunction with the festival of lights, the recreation department is supplying all interested citizens with free paper lanterns to be lit on the evening of Dec. 9 and Christmas Eve. Anyone interested can obtain their lantern at the Springfield Recreation Department, Sarah Bailey Civic Center.

Soccer signup set by YMCA

The Summit Area YMCA is now accepting reservations for its winter Indoor Soccer League for youth in grades 3-8. Participants will play an eight gameschedule, with games on Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday evenings.

Indoor Soccer is a fast paced, exciting game which involves six players from each team on the floor at a time," commented Bill Lovett, Y director in charge of the League. "There is no out-of-bounds, and because of the decreased number of players, there is more opportunity to be directly involved in the play."

Rules for Indoor Soccer are easy to learn and will be fully explained at the OPENING CLINIC on Friday at the Summit Junior High School. League play will begin on Jan. 5, 6, or 7, 1983 and teams will practice between Dec. 10, and Jan. 5. For registration or information call the YMCA at 273-3330.

Bauer completes recruit training

SPRINGFIELD—Marine Pvt. William C. Bauer, son of George and Carl Bauer of Meisel Ave., has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival.

president Jim DiMauro, vice-president Anne Wilson, outgoing president Andrew O'Connell, president-elect Joseph Zahn, and vice president-elect Gella Seiden.

Newcomers Club sets 3 events

MOUNTAINSIDE—The Mountain-side Newcomers Club will hold three important events during December. On Monday, 8 p.m., a meeting will be held at the home of Peggy and Jerry Vaccacio. The guest speaker will be Dr. Peter Kallellis, who will give a lecture on "Communication in Marriage."

Husbands are welcome, too. For information and to make reservations, call Lorene Lingelbach or Sigrid Patsch.

The second event is the annual Christmas luncheon which will be held at L'Alfibre on Wednesday, Dec. 8 at 11:30 a.m. In keeping with the spirit of giving, the proceeds from the Club's fund raising drive will be donated to the Mountain-side Rescue Squad, the Mountain-side Fire Department and the Children's Specialized Hospital.

There will be prizes, crafts, gift certificates from raffles, along with a delicious luncheon. Additionally, the Jonathan Dayton Chorale will help to initiate the Christmas spirit by singing Christmas Carols. This gala event is made possible through the efforts of chairperson Judy Kiss and co-chairpersons, Susan Murphy, Pam Shaw, Michele Hopkins, Sigrid Patsch. Anyone interested in attending the luncheon should contact Cathy Lukenda at 232-2762.

The third event for the Christmas season will be "A Day With St. Nick" where Santa Claus will be visiting the Community Presbyterian Church of Meeting House Lane, on Dec. 18 at 10 to 11:30 a.m. with Christmas songs and refreshments provided. In preparation, parents must bring six cookies, one dollar, and one wrapped toy gift (approximate value $5) for each child to Dorothy Unchester's home by Dec. 15.

Music association gives large donation to library

The Mountain-side Music Association has made a generous donation to the Free Public Library of Mountain-side, enabling the library to add over 25 phono albums to their collection.

Many varieties of music are included in this grouping, from children's albums to opera.

Beethoven's String Quartets, Op. 18, Nos. 1-6, F major, is sure to be enjoyed and opera lovers will be pleased to note that our music lounge now offers Norma, Romeo & Juliet, I Pagliacci, Boris Godounov, Semiramida, La Traviata, Tristan and Isolde, Arabella, Idomeneo, Adriana Lecouvreur, La forza del Destino, La vida breve, Martha, Orfeo ed Euridice, and Rake's progress.

H.M.S. Pinafore, the Sullivan operetta, is included in this donation as well as Broadway's original cast hits of Applause, Oliver, Barnum, Finian's Rainbow, Hello Dolly, Camelot, Jesus Christ, superstar, Joseph & the amazing technicolor dream coat, Dreamgirls, and Lady in the dark.

Children were also thought of while selecting these albums; music from the score of the Walt Disney motion picture "Sleeping Beauty" based on Tchaikovsky's ballet and Nursery rhymes for little people, both of which are delightful additions to our library.

Its collection has grown considerably and everyone is sure to find their favorite type of music. Patrons are invited to visit the library for a complete listing of our phono records. Recordings are checked out for a 2-week period for enjoyment at home.

Introducing INVEST

It used to be that the Wall Street way of investing was the only way of investing. But not anymore.

Now there's INVEST. The unique, new investment service that takes a totally different approach to investing. From the way we make our investment recommendations to how we work with you.

Sound advice based on facts.

At INVEST, we don't believe in hunches... just the facts. Because we want to recommend only solid investment opportunities.

To accomplish this, we base all of our investment recommendations on a highly selective performance rating system. A system that draws from Value Line and other proven research sources. A system designed for maximum long-term growth with a minimum of risk.

Our job is to help you select the right stocks, bonds and mutual funds. Not to distribute securities for corporations. So we don't have a vested interest in any particular stocks or bonds influencing our recommendations.

Representatives with your best interests in mind.

Each INVEST Representative is skilled in helping you with your investment needs. From analyzing your financial profile to handling special transactions that your account might require.

They'll also follow your portfolio and keep you informed on important market changes that may affect your investments.

INVEST Representatives are on salary instead of commissions. So you know when they make recommendations they have your best interests in mind.

Full-service Centers to help you.

INVEST is an independent service of ISFA Corporation designed to help you invest wisely and conveniently.

To do this, we've located our INVEST Centers at the same place you probably visit frequently for other financial transactions. Your Savings and Loan.

Each Center is private, and fully equipped to give you every kind of stock market information. From the Dow Jones average to an in-depth stock analysis.

So check the list below for the INVEST Center nearest you and take advantage of the new kind of Wall Street at your Savings and Loan.

Scene around the towns

Travel to Springfield if you want to locate this week's mystery Scene. And if you recognize it, let us know by 9 a.m. Monday. Write to Scene, in care of this newspaper, at 1291 Stuyvesant Ave., P.O. Box 3109, Union, N.J. 07083.
Last week's pre-Thanksgiving Scene was on William Street, behind the Roselle Park Borough Hall. The plaque on the wall at the parking lot there says "Freeholders 1928."
The Scene rang a bell with Rich Barz of Roselle Park, who pinpointed it as being next to the driveway that leads into the municipal parking lot.

To save our roads

Not long ago, Gov. Thomas Kean unveiled a proposal for an "Infrastructure Bank" — a state fund designated specifically for saving the New Jersey's fast deteriorating roadways, bridges, sewers and water lines.
It was an excellent idea. Unfortunately, much of its impact is being washed away by the latest in what seems like an endless series of fiscal crises.
In his attempt to produce the balanced budget that is required by the state constitution, Kean has proposed, among other ways of raising revenues, a 5 percent surtax on gasoline. If approved, this could well come on top of another 5-cent gas tax hike now being urged by President Reagan.
Not surprisingly, the reception Kean's message received from the State Legislature was chilly.
It will take time before the Democratic legislature and the Republican governor reach a compromise. In the meantime, Kean's transportation commissioner, John Sheridan, has imposed a freeze on road construction projects throughout the state. Only two exceptions were made — for the long-delayed "missing link" in Route 78 between Springfield and Berkeley Heights and the Jackson Street Bridge in Newark, which Sheridan himself described as unsafe.
The other projects will have to wait.
Perhaps another delay will not make terribly much difference in new construction, even though it is inevitable that costs will rise.
But it's a different story where reconstruction is concerned. Roadways in urgent need of repairs, such as Route 1-9, will continue to crumble at an ever-accelerating rate. The longer the delay, the more serious the situation will become. The condition of many of these roads make it imperative that the governor and the legislators find a solution quickly, without the time-consuming haggling that too often goes on in Trenton.

Prime Time
U.S. policy needed on 'graying' society
By CY BRICKFIELD
No doubt by this time there are very few people who don't know that Americans are getting older — that our society is, in effect, "graying" as the number of older people in our midst continues to increase. What most people don't realize, however, is that there is still no consistent federal policy that addresses the needs and potential impact of an aging population.
We have before us one of the most extraordinary demographic changes in history, not only in this country but in the world," Robert N. Butler told Science magazine, but "we're just not facing the music yet."
Butler ought to know. Until just recently, he headed the National Institute on Aging (NIA), a position he had held since the agency was created in 1977. In September, Dr. Butler resigned to become chairman of the first department of geriatrics in an American medical school at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York.
Before leaving Washington, however, Butler spoke at length with reporters about the implications inherent in the aging of America, a phenomenon which has been called "the most dramatic trend of the past 100 years in the United States."
Rather than deal with the problems posed by an aging population, the government, charges Butler, is "waiting until the crisis happens." Federal policies, he told the National Journal, are near-sighted and often conflicting.
Butler sees ill-considered policies everywhere. As a case in point, he cites the Administration's proposal that employers' contributions to health insurance be raised for older workers (a move intended to slash federal health care costs). Such a change, observes Butler, will cause companies to hire fewer old people just when the retirement age has been raised, and there is growing talk of eliminating it entirely.
Butler is also troubled by what he sees as a weakening commitment to research and development and backsliding from "the fundamental belief that we must always be investing in new ideas, new findings and new technology."
Although NIA's budget has grown substantially over the years, Butler points out that it will be able to finance only 14.5 percent of approved grants in 1983; moreover, NIA's current budget of $2.5 billion is only 2.5 percent of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) budget. Yet, the elderly account for about 40 percent of all health spending, a statistic which would seem to make

The State We're In Development rights can aid conservation

Here at the New Jersey Conservation Foundation (NJCF) we are so deeply involved with preserving choice open space for the benefits of future generations that it's too easy to forget that sometimes the layman can have trouble understanding what we are talking about.
I'm thinking of conservation easements, or the transfer of development rights. They result in the same thing, but they can use a little explaining. The important thing to remember is that ownership of property isn't necessarily as simple as it sounds. There actually are degrees of ownership.
In the terms I'm referring to, easements or development right transfers, I'm going to ask you to visualize a machine (any kind) which is made up of numerous parts. This machine will retain its identity as a machine, and will continue to function, even if you remove some of the parts.
That's the way it is with property ownership. Like a machine, ownership of land can be taken apart and put together again. Removing some of the parts makes for a simpler machine, but it still runs to fill your particular needs.
Now visualize a piece of land without buildings on it. You own that land free and clear without restrictions of any kind on the uses to which you put it, provided they won't injure anyone else. When you own that land as I described it, your ownership is comparable to the complete machine with no parts removed.
Through the generations government has frequently had to step in and restrict the uses to which certain lands can be put. Building codes and zoning laws are two obvious examples.
A lawyer would call your complete ownership of the land, minus regulations, mortgages or other encumbrances, "fee ownership." It's still a functioning machine.
But suppose an Oklahoma oil driller comes along and buys the mineral rights on your land. Or a lumberman pays you for the sole right to harvest your timber. In either case, your ownership has become "less than fee ownership." You still own the land and can live there and do anything except sell timber or drill for oil. In other words, the machine is still running but has lost a part or two.

By the same token, there are other ownership restrictions which you can sell or donate, while retaining all the remaining rights of ownership. Restrictions on the use of land so that a conservation purpose is assured are called "conservation restrictions."
For example, you can decide to restrict your ownership, and the ownership of anybody else in the future, so that no additional houses can be built, no garbage dumped, no trees removed and no soil mined, and you name some responsible agency to make sure these deed restrictions are met. When you give or sell those specific rights to present and future use of your property, you will have conveyed a "conservation easement."
If the restrictions prohibit building but specifically encourage farming, it would be a "farmland preservation easement," or if restrictions protect a treasured historic building, it would be an "historic preservation easement." And so on. But you would still be the owner.
When these rights to develop land are transferred, parts of the machine are moved from one tract to another, leaving a restricted deed behind and increasing the number of housing units allowed to be built on the parcel to which the machine parts have been moved.
The great thing about these land machines with parts removed is that they run very well indeed, with a minimum of public expense to make them work. Folks donating or selling such deed restrictions may be eligible for income tax deduction or property tax reductions, or both.
If you want to know more, I'd be glad to send you some examples and information. Here at the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, we have a booklet on the subject of easement donations and estate planning which is available for a small fee. Write to me at NJCF, 300 Mendham Road, Morristown, N.J. 07960.
Even though the concept of splitting the various land ownership parts into pieces (as with taking parts from a machine) and giving some away is sometimes hard to understand, it's a great way to guarantee proper land stewardship. It's easy and inexpensive for private landowners and the public alike.

Christmas Island: Memories of a veteran

By SAM ARENA
Often, much of what I write is rooted in a long ago past. This is not impelled by any reflection that those were "the good old days." All days are what we make of them, good in their own time. Given the grace, today will be one of my "good old days" in some future time.
Occasionally, something triggers a memory of some long ago time and I enjoy sharing the recollection of it.
Today, I read about the natives of Betsu, an island in the South Pacific which clamors to determine its own destiny. In the days of World War II, it was called Pelelieu and it was the site of some of our bloodiest warfare.
It brought to memory those other islands in that region, one of which was Christmas Island, in the chain of Line Islands, where I spent almost 18 months.
A garrison force of army and air force personnel manned the island, stationed there to maintain the airstrip and communications.
It was under British rule and, in peacetime, natives from the outlying islands were conscripted to harvest copra for the production of soap products.
A British army officer was in command of this work group, which was billeted at one end of the island in an area which was placed "off limits" to us, a restriction which we scarcely abided.
As first sergeant of this garrison, in the absence of any commissioned officer, it was my duty to execute its command.
The Brit remained completely detached from us save to take his meals with us and to view our nightly movies.
Aside from our seven-hour workday, there was little for us to do but to gather seashells, fish and await the evening film.
A PBY at our disposal flew to Oahu twice weekly for rations and supplies and to pick up our movie films. It also flew up to Johnson Island weekly for our beer supply.
Although each movie was shown for one night only, whenever we received a Betty Grable or an Alice Faye movie, it was repeated on several nights as the second of a double feature and, armed with a blanket on which to sprawl and all the beer we could carry, we headed to the movie clearing and remained until the final fadeout. On one occasion, our block of films had been mislaid and, as a result, our projectionist ran "Tall

In The Saddle" for eight straight nights. For want of anything else to do, we attended all showings of it and by the last, we had so memorized the lines that we were speaking them simultaneously with the characters on the screen.
The British lieutenant, although well stocked with Scotch whiskey at all times, never shared one single drop of it with us.
There were a few southern lads with us who could make liquor from almost anything. They connived a supply of dried apricots and a sack of sugar from our mess sergeant and, in a few days, they had whipped up a concoction which they strained through a pillow case and poured into empty beer bottles. It made for a potent drink.
Within a matter of weeks, it seemed that every guy on the island had his own still going. They were buried beneath fallen and dried palm fronds. The island took on the aroma of a distillery and sugar disappeared from the mess hall tables as soon as it was put out.
About a month after the Japanese surrender in August 1945, orders came through to us to roll up the island for return to the British in early 1946.
We commenced by bulldozing heavy equipment, for which there was no available shipping space, into the lagoons.
We had only one purpose in mind — to accomplish the rollup as quickly as possible and to be on our way to separation from service. The men worked feverishly to that end.
We prepared for a civilian style of living once again.
We knew, however, that we would spend the Yuletide season on the island so the men went about the business of making up a goodly supply of apricot liquor for the holiday.
Just when we were beginning to lose all sense of attachment to the military, one early December morning, the teletype clattered the news that we were scheduled for a stop by the inspector general's team. We were secure in the knowledge that we were prepared for our inspection but we had grown so accustomed to the odor of fermentation in the air that none of us gave any thought to it.
On the morning when the I.G. team's plane touched down on the airstrip, Lieutenant Peavey, the Brit, stood by my side. He came stiffly to attention and saluted as the team deplaned. The rest of us followed suit, belatedly. We had already forgotten G.I.
Almost immediately, one of the rank-

Commissioner's Column
Ninth graders to be given writing test

In this week's column, Dr. Saul Cooperman, commissioner of education, addresses questions on the new writing test to be given to all 9th graders for the first time this spring.
Q. Commissioner Cooperman, why have you recommended a writing test for 9th graders?
A. The primary reasons are to continue to promote educational accountability, establish higher educational standards and fulfill the requirements of the high school graduation law of 1979. The law calls for a writing test for all 9th graders in addition to tests in reading and computation. Our students must be able to analyze and interpret what they have read, they must be able to solve problems, and they must be able to express their understanding and their ideas in literate, written English.
Q. Will the writing test be a graduation requirement this year?
A. No, students must be given sufficient time to prepare for a graduation test. It will be anywhere from two to four years before the test can serve as a requirement for the awarding of a high school diploma.

Q. What skills will the writing test assess?
A. The writing test will assess both a student's writing ability and his or her knowledge of the rules of the English language.
In the writing sample section, a student will have 30 minutes to complete a narrative essay on a topic related to a personal experience. The students will have the first five minutes to organize their thoughts, approximately 20 minutes to write, and five minutes to do final editing.
Q. How will the writing test be graded?
A. The multiple choice section will be graded by computer and the writing sample section will be hand-scored by readers specifically trained for the scoring.
Q. How was the writing test developed?
A. The preliminary objectives of the writing test were established by a 24-member committee of English teachers, college professors and other writing experts from New Jersey.
In addition, the committee used information from a survey completed in 1979 by 12th graders, business representatives, local school board members and other educators from throughout the state.
The writing committee was then charged by the department with ensuring that the test items developed by a testing consultant met the specifications and objectives originally published by the committee and the public.

ing officers began to sniff the air, deeply and repeatedly.
"My God, sergeant, what is that odor?" he asked, his eyes fixed directly on me. "It smells like mash."
I felt the perspiration break out all the way to my toes.
Peavey never batted an eye.
"Och, that sir," he said. "After you've been here a bit, you grow so accustomed to it that you can't smell it anymore."
I turned to him, not knowing what to expect.
"Och, the copra down at the plantation," he continued. "Smells just like mash — all over this bloody rock."
That evening the cook baked a lemon cream cake especially for Peavey.
The I.G. team flew off, none the wiser.
We whipped together a beer party and made Peavey our guest of honor. The more we drank, the better the friends we all became. Before the night ended, Peavey had us calling him Rodney.
Thereafter, he frequently joined with us in our drinking sessions and he shared his Scotch with us just as often.
I have never been able to watch a David Niven movie that I do not think of Lieutenant Rodney Peavey.

Dr. Baruchin supporting an 'elongated' approach

SPRINGFIELD—Speaking to more than 200 administrators and supervisors of the Archdiocese of Newark, Dr. Fred Baruchin, Superintendent of Schools in Springfield, suggested an "elongated" approach to the tasks of education today. "An elongated approach is one in which we hitch our professional wagons to the stars, while we simultaneously maintain a good foothold on terra firma," he said.

"It's vital," he continued, "for us to realize that the students we are educating today will be living most of their lives in the new century. This futuristic perspective demands that present school programs be adequate to develop the skills, qualities and competencies students will need in their future years. We are educating today for the future!"

Baruchin explored a dozen different contemporary social factors biophysical development of the brain, global implications of world events, altered states of consciousness, familial change, and stress related to "The Hurried Child" syndrome.

Kerosene heaters bring fire department caution

SPRINGFIELD—The township Fire Prevention Bureau has expressed its deep concern over the use and misuse of portable kerosene heaters in Springfield. It must be noted that the use of any portable kerosene heater in town is in violation of township ordinance, according to the fire department. It added:

"If you should already own a portable kerosene heater it is imperative that you thoroughly understand how to use it safely. Only kerosene grade 1-k or pure white kerosene as it is known is to be used. Never fill or clean your heater in the house. Keep your heater away from drapes and other combustible material. Always follow the manufacturers recommended procedure for wick replacement.

"Also, never store large quantities of kerosene. No larger than a 5-gallon vented safety can should be used. Any divergence from these recommendations could be fatal to you and your loved ones.

"For more in-depth information please contact the Fire Prevention Bureau at 376-1740. Your cooperation and support will save life and property," according to the fire department.

Program leader Stanley C. Mieczkowski is an expert in Meta Learning who specializes in teaching self-esteem and self-confidence and self-development. He has the uncanny ability to identify what is wanted and needed in order to help you obtain the desired results in changing your unwanted habits.

Mieczkowski has trained in stress management, behavioral medicine, and hypno-therapy. Currently, he is Merachnik to talk at Jersey City St.

SPRINGFIELD—Dr. Donald A. Merachnik, superintendent of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, will be the keynote speaker at the Jersey City State College Conference on special education and vocation education on Dec. 8. Merachnik will discuss the role of vocational educators in working with handicapped students in the public schools.

Three gain honors

MOUNTAINSIDE—The following students from Mountainside: Matt Miller (10th grade), David Rizzo (11th), and Aaron Sawabi (12th), made the first honor roll at The Oratory School. John Bradley (12th grade), Matthew Ryan (11th), and Ryan Lake (10th) all made the second honor roll.

president of the Holistic Hypnotherapy Association and maintains a private practice in New Jersey and in New York City where he is a participating practitioner at the East/West Center for Holistic Health.

Also, registrations are being accepted now for the next 12-week cycle of JOY aerobic fitness classes.

Starting the week of Jan. 3, classes will be offered weekday mornings, late afternoons and evenings with babysitting available during the morning sessions.

"The hour-long classes are designed to increase vitality and stamina while trimming and firming your entire body," explains JOY director, Midge Meyerowitz. "The YMCA has been a pioneer in cardiovascular fitness, and believe me, there is real aerobic benefit in this program."

Class size is limited, so early registration is urged. For further information, call the Springfield Y at 467-4440.

Type-a-thon aids Leukemia Society

Twenty student members of the Union Catholic High School Business Club will work their fingers to the typewriter for charity on Dec. 7.

Erika Matzer, chairperson of the business department at the Scotch Plains school, will direct a type-a-thon for the benefit of the Leukemia Society. Student participants will receive pledge money for every correct work they type. Funds realized will be announced over WNEW-TV on Saturday, Jan. 8, between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

Coddington chosen as a Jersey finalist

Michele Marie Coddington, 15, daughter of Russell and Vivian Coddington of Summit Road in Mountain-side, has been selected as a state finalist in the 1983 New Jersey National Teen-Ager pageant to be held at the Hyatt Cherry Hill in Cherry Hill on May 27-28, 1983.

The New Jersey National Teen-Ager pageant is the official state finals to the Miss National Teen-Ager pageant which is to be held in August, 1983. The winner of the pageant will receive a $1,000 cash award, a full modeling scholarship from Barbizon, a $4,000 tuition scholarship to Millikin University in Decatur, Ill., and an all-expense paid trip to compete with 51 other winners representing every state, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico for the title of Miss National Teen-Ager of 1983.

Other scholarships to be awarded at the state competition are a $2,000 tuition scholarship from Millikin University for the talent winner, two $4,000 scholarships from Eckerd College in Florida for the citizenship winners, and a full tuition scholarship to Johnson & Wales College in Rhode Island.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic achievement, leadership, poise, personality and appearance. There is no swimsuit competition. There will be optional speech and talent contests with cash awards for the winners. Coddington is sponsored by the United Jersey Bank/Central and Coddington's Delivery Service of Mountain-side.

Her hobbies include varsity soccer, basketball, softball. The reigning Miss New Jersey National Teen-Ager is Linda Wegen of Bernardsville.

More pageant information is available from G.F. Scarborough, P.O. Box 2838, Pensacola, Fla. 32503.

Seniors cited at special tea

MOUNTAINSIDE—Senior citizens of Mountain-side were honored recently at an Appreciation Tea held during American Education Week at Deerfield School.

The guests were treated to refreshments and a brief educational program, featuring Deerfield students sharing some of their class work.

An unusual highlight of the tea was the chance to use the school's microcomputers. Math teacher Oliver Deane explained how the computers are used in teaching computer literacy to all eighth graders.

Five eighth grade students collaborated in writing special programs for the senior citizens to respond to when they sat down at the computers. Colleen Delaney, David Kadesh, Gina Messano, Pam Panagos, and David Simon programmed the computers, directed the senior citizens in their participation, and answered questions about the program.

In another presentation by math students, sixth graders—Christine Castelo and John Hurley shared the results of a classroom project on "Is Fast Food Fat Food?" Math students in Lorraine Leber's classes had measured the impact of a trip to a fast food restaurant on a day's nutritional and caloric needs.

The guests enjoyed a delightful story read to them by kindergarten student Lindsay Braunstein. The afternoon closed with instrumental music performed by David Blackwell, Suzanne Crane, Kelly DeCristoforo, Jimmy Kellerk, and Matthew Swarts.

Bestowers slate party

MOUNTAINSIDE—The Mountain-side Bestowers annual Christmas party will be held Sunday, Dec. 12, at L'Affaire 22, Mountain-side from 2 to 6 p.m.

Some of the organizations have been benefited from this affair over the last 22 years included: John E. Rannels Hospital Senior Citizens, Boystown, Children's Specialized Hospital, St. Joseph's School for the Blind, St. Peter's Orphanage, Bonnie Brae Farm for Boys, Westfield Day Care Center, Little Sisters of the Poor, Jewish Family Service Agency, Lift for Learning and Mobil Intensive Care Unit Volunteers.

All are invited to join with friends for an afternoon of hors d'oeuvres, raffles, prizes and a good time. Tickets are $15 per couple. For tickets, contact Richard Benninger, 232-9428.

AAUW craft fair set

MOUNTAINSIDE—The annual American Association of University Women scholarship craft fair will be held Saturday, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Deerfield School here on Central Avenue.

Thirty craftsmen will be exhibiting their hand made dried and silk flowers, stained glass, Christmas decoration, and hand knits, jewelry, carved wooden items, preserves and jellies, and others.

Madame Butterfly is a special attraction, offering a local woman who has completed at least one year in college. Scholarship information and membership inquiries can be made at the fair.

AAUW women will sell used books, home baked goodies, and lunch. An old fashioned home made gingerbread house will be one of the raffle prizes.

An admission fee of 50 cents will be waived for senior citizens and children under 12.

All proceeds received by the AAUW will go into the Mitzi Salemini scholarship fund which is presented to special attraction, offer-

Hach ends USMC camp

MOUNTAINSIDE—Marine Pvt. Robert P. Hach, Jr., son of Robert P. Hach of Poplar Ave., has completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S.C.

During the 11-week training cycle, he learned the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

Vaughan set as executive

MOUNTAINSIDE—Benjamin F. Vaughan has joined Barclay's American Leasing as senior account executive, according to Dale D. Peters, president of the division. Based in Mountain-side, he will serve leasing clients located in New York and Connecticut.

Prior to joining Barclay's, Vaughan was regional manager for Arlington Leasing, Inc. A native of Providence, R.I., he is a graduate of Babson College in Wellesley Hills, Mass.

Views On Dental Health

By SEAN T. FENTON, D.M.D.

WHEN THE TOOTH MUST GO

There is no substitute that can replace the natural tooth for strength, longevity and usefulness. But, there are times when the best decision is to extract the tooth. For example:

- 1) To relieve overcrowding: Occasionally there are too many teeth in the dental arch. Overcrowding can produce diseases, loosening, crooked teeth and a bad bite.
- 2) A hopelessly diseased tooth: Occasionally, a general body ill can be cured by removal of such a diseased tooth. Usual cause is waiting too long to see the dentist.
- 3) Loosens: Teeth loosen as a result of periodontal disease and bone loss. If it is so wobbly with nutrient supporting bone to save it, kiss it goodbye.

4) Appearance: When a tooth is so crooked that it will produce an unattractive smile or bulging lip, it should probably be removed, unless it can be restored and crowned.

5) An impacted or unbedded tooth (normally the wisdom tooth), if it is a hazard to your oral health, would be extracted.

Wiesel's touching life is probed

By Rose P. Simon
SPRINGFIELD—Following are the reviews of the recently popular books for fall reading at the Springfield Public Library.

HOLOCAUST TESTAMENT

"Elie Wiesel: Witness For Life," by Ellen Norman Stern.
 Born in a small Transylvania mountain town, Elie Wiesel was the son of an extremely pious Chassidic Jew whose life centered on the teachings of the Talmud. His cultured, educated parents attended to their grocery business, and raised a family, the father involving himself in communal affairs.

Elie was a lonely child, and as he grew he became engrossed in his studies, with the goal of entering the rabbinate. An excellent scholar, he found time to play chess and the violin. During the early 40's, disquieting tales of terror disturbed the peace of the Jewish community. In time the town was divided, with the Jews in a ghetto, cut off from their non-Jewish friends and neighbors. Then one night burned, became a correspondent for an Israeli newspaper, and traveled. It was his friend, Francois Mauriac, who urged him to break his oath of silence to write his memoirs of the Holocaust. More than 15 books testify to his own story, to the ordeal of his people, and to man's inhumanity to man. These and Wiesel's many other accomplishments as writer, lecturer, and teacher, are dealt with sensitively.

HYPNOSIS AS HEALER

"The Inner Source," by Donald S. Connery.
 With Dr. Herbert Spiegel, Clinical Professor of Psychiatry at Columbia University's College of Physicians and Surgeons-Connery explores hypnosis for a variety of therapeutic ends. Some of its uses are for: pain relief, anxiety and insomnia, smoking and weight problems, etc.

Spiegel discounts the myths and quackeries which have caught the attention of the public in the past. He does not claim to be a hypnotist, but he professes to be able to lead his subjects into a so-called "trance" state, by pointing (1944) the dreadful edict of deportation was announced, and the Jews, deprived of all worldly goods, were herded into freight cars to Auschwitz.

Families were separated, some to the gas chambers, others to the labor camps, where humiliation and starvation faced them. Although Elie still believed in God, he refused to praise Him in his prayers. He felt a profound sense of abandonment and bitterness.

The experience of the Young boy was agonizing and numbing, especially as he tried to protect his ailing father from abuse. The author tells of the march to Buchenwald, the illness and death of his father, the move to the children's block, where, with 600 others, Elie awaited evacuation or death. Hospitalized after liberation, weak and exhausted, he was sent to Paris for rehabilitation.

He resolved then, that if he survived, he would someday write to testify to the events which had changed him from a boy to a survivor. Until then he would take a vow of silence about this ordeal.

Gradually Elie's fortunes took a turn for the better. He studied at the Sor-bonne, cut off from their non-Jewish friends and neighbors. Then one night burned, became a correspondent for an Israeli newspaper, and traveled. It was his friend, Francois Mauriac, who urged him to break his oath of silence to write his memoirs of the Holocaust. More than 15 books testify to his own story, to the ordeal of his people, and to man's inhumanity to man. These and Wiesel's many other accomplishments as writer, lecturer, and teacher, are dealt with sensitively.

Spiegel discovered the eye-roll technique and is the developer of the Hypnotic Induction Profile, both of which have been utilized by the members of the medical and psychotherapy professions. Some very popular self-healing and self-awareness techniques (meditation, acupuncture, biofeedback, est, faith-healing, Silva Mind Control, Suggestology) have much to do with trance with hypnosis, more than is admitted.

This book's intention is to "clarify hypnosis by describing the adventures and discoveries of an explorer (Dr. Spiegel) who has journeyed far into uncharted territories of the mind."

THE PARADOX OF FRIENDSHIP

"On being a Friend," by Eugene Kennedy.
 These 14 essays open up new aspects of friendship, which, says the author, is a paradox: "We do not stay close together unless we allow each other to remain, in some sense, separate."

To proceed a step further, we must recognize that in a true friendship there are many occasions for pain (disappointment, unexplained silence, separation etc.), each one, perhaps, an unintentional wound, a small death. Therefore, friendship and death are closely related and must be dealt with together. Pain and sorrow, joy and fulfillment, are involved as part of living. There must be separation and closeness, giving and receiving.

Kennedy discusses the media, which, in its superficiality, presents us with such a distorted version of life, that it cannot teach us anything about real friendship. Its illusory environment has provided "selfishness, easy liaisons, spurious sexual freedom and loneliness." We really have to learn for ourselves, what love and work, living and dying, is.

Other essays include: discovery and acceptance of ourselves, the challenge of friendship (belief in others, trust, honesty, support, understanding), sexually, temporary and surviving friendships, separations, beginnings and endings.

PERFORMING CAT—Shanghai, a 20-year old Siamese cat who has been performing for 18 years, will appear at the Vaile-Deane School in Mounainside Friday, 9:30 a.m.

Cats to appear at Vaile Deane

The world's oldest and youngest performing cats will be in Mountainside Friday, 9:30 a.m. at the Vaile Deane School. Shanghai is a 20-year old Siamese Cat who has been performing for 18 years, while Trickster is a five-month old cat who has been performing for two months. They will be joined by a four year old dog named Sunshine who will also do tricks.

The students at the school will bring in a new toy or game, which will then be given to the crippled childrens hospital, the Dub Children Shelter, and also to the Union County Juvenil Detention Center in Elizabeth.

Frank McSweeney, who works for the Rahway Bus Co. in Colonia, is the owner and trainer of the animals.

Markstein on Academy Board

SPRINGFIELD—Newark Academy at Livingston has named Donald F. Markstein of Springfield to its Board of Trustees, announced William G. Ohaus, Chairman of the Board.

Markstein has been with Price Waterhouse since 1948 and is now a partner in Management Advisory Services in the firm's national office in New York City.

Active in community activities, Markstein is treasurer of the Metropolitan New Jersey chapter of the American Jewish Committee and serves the group's national organization on its budget committee and domestic affairs commission. He serves as treasurer of his class in the Williams College Alumni Association and is active in financial affairs in Temple Sha'arey Shalom in Springfield.

His professional affiliations include Institute of Management Consultants, American Institute of CPAs, New York State Society of CPAs, and National Association of Accountants. He also belongs to the City Athletic Club of New York City, Harvard Club of New York City, and Fairmount country Club in Chatham.

Markstein received his Bachelor's degree from Williams College and his Master's in Business Administration from Harvard University Business School.

Markstein and his wife Judy have four children. Robert, a student at Trinity College, and Ellen, who attends Williams College, are both graduates of Newark Academy. William and David are in the junior and freshman classes, respectively, at Newark Academy.

Activities listed at public library

SPRINGFIELD—The Children's Department of the Springfield Public Library has several activities listed for December.

First will be a craft hour today, 3:15 to 4:15, for children ages 6-10. There will be holiday wreaths on display for December in the glass cases at the entrance of the library.

On Wednesday, Dec. 8, there will be a craft hour for children ages 4-6. They will make Santa Clauses and candy canes. Participants must register at the circulation desk in the children's department. The classes are limited to 15.

On Thursday, Dec. 9, at 3:30 p.m. the library will offer a free after school movie show for children, ages 4-10. Films to be presented are "Anatole and the Piano", about the Parisian mouse who finds a piano to make the symphony complete; "Three Little Pigs", a Walt Disney favorite; "Shopping Expedition", in which Paddington Bear buys a pair of pajamas among other activities and "Poky Little Puppy", an animated favorite.

On Thursday, Dec. 28 at 11 a.m., a free holiday film show will be presented. The program will feature, "Yes, Virginia, There is a Santa Claus", the animated story of an eight year old girl who writes to the newspaper editor; "The Christmas Tree", a humorous and touching story and "Curious George Rides Bike", the popular adventures of a troublesome but delightful monkey.

Merachnik will speak

SPRINGFIELD Dr. Donald A. Merachnik, superintendent of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1, will be the keynote speaker at the Jersey City State College Conference on special education and vocation education on Dec. 8. Merachnik will discuss the role of vocational educators in working with handicapped students in the public schools.

H. Hamilton Weber, 87 was 'Mr. Empire State'

Services for H. Hamilton Weber, 87, of Springfield, the last surviving link to the first owner, John Jacob Raskob, of the Empire State Building in New York City, will be held today in Christ Church, Short Hills. Mr. Weber died Sunday in the Bayshore Community Hospital, Holmdel. Arrangements were by Smith and Smith Suburban, Springfield.

Born in St. Louis, Mr. Weber lived in Short Hills before moving to Springfield eight years ago. He spent most of his life as an executive at the Empire State Building. Mr. Weber retired in 1980 as the executive vice president of Helmsley-Spear, Inc., of New York City. Raskob hired Weber as rental agent in 1929 for the building, which opened in 1931. He was employed there for 51 years.

He also became international president of the Building Owners and Managers Association, a director of the Fifth Avenue Association and the New York Convention and Visitors' Bureau. Mr. Weber served as governor of the Real Estate Board in New York.

He was a member of the Baltusrol Golf Club of Springfield, the Empire State Club of New York City and the Devon Yacht Club of East Hampton, N. Y. He served in the army during World War I.

Mr. Weber is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Melville Taylor and Mrs. John Pitou; two grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Meyer Eisenstein

Private funeral services were held at Memorial Chapels at Millburn in Union for Meyer Eisenstein, 72, of Springfield, who died Oct. 24 at Overlook Hospital in Summit.

Born in Newark, he resided in Paterson, before moving to Springfield 25 years ago.

He was the owner of Herman's Army and Navy Store of Elizabeth for the past 12 years.

He was a member of B'nai B'rith of Springfield.

He is survived by his wife, Florence, of Springfield; a son, David, of Springfield; two sisters, Nona Yavener of Springfield and Lillian Braben of Florida; and one grandchild.

Team play the main ingredient in Bulldogs' 7-1 frosh season

If he really wanted to, Bob Glassman could probably single out a superstar or two on Dayton's sensational freshman football team. But the Bulldogs' frosh coach won't do that, because a long list of ingredients — and not just some talented personnel — accounted for Dayton's 7-1 season.

The way Glassman analyzes Dayton's best freshman campaign in the school's history, overall talent kept the Bulldogs in every ballgame this season. A winning attitude, he said, produced the tremendous success.

"During the year, the team showed a powerful desire to come back when they were behind," explained Glassman. "In several games, the players came back from injuries and first half problems to show great character."

The end result was a 7-1 season. And perhaps even more impressive, the Bulldog frosh were named division champions in the Mountain Valley Conference.

For the season, Darren Iaione drew the most rave reviews of all. The talented running back piled up over 1,200 rushing yards and scored 17 touchdowns for the Bulldogs' high-scoring offense.

There were other stars, too. Latent Bayrashi took some of the pressure off of Iaione by picking up 850 yards and scoring 13 TD's, while Dayton's sparkling passing combination of Tom Kisch to Chris Dooley set up the rushing attack. Dooley caught 23 of Kisch's passes for 124 yards and Tony Quaglietta and Jim Roberts were also passing targets.

The Bulldogs also won several of their games with tough defense. Chris Clemson led the team in interceptions with five, while Shane Connell did a good job on the offensive and defensive lines. And Frank Basta and Walter Jackson were the big stars on the special teams.

Glassman and Company must have known this would be a season to remember when the Bulldog freshman blasted Brearley, 26-6, on opening day. Iaione was simply unstoppable, scoring all four touchdowns and rushing for over 200 yards.

An even more impressive 26-0 victory over New Providence followed, as Bayrashi scored touchdowns on a fake screen and a trap play.

The only loss was a 14-12 squeaker against Middlesex, and Dayton almost pulled out that ballgame. Trailing 14-0 entering the second half, the Bulldogs drove downfield on two occasions in the second half. The first time, Kisch hit Dooley and Quaglietta with clutch passes, setting up Iaione's TD run. Dayton had another opportunity to tie, but a last minute drive was stopped on a fourth and three play.

"The team showed great guts and determination, even in defeat," Glassman said.

The Bulldogs didn't let that defeat get them down. In fact, they took their frustrations out on North Plainfield, blasting their foes by a 32-0 score. Bayrashi scored all five touchdowns in the ballgame on an assortment of passing and running plays. The biggest play of all, incidentally, was an 80-yard play action pass from Kisch to Bayrashi.

Dayton didn't have things quite as easy against Ridge, as Quaglietta and Iaione turned in a defensive gem that enabled the Bulldogs to post an 8-6 decision. With the game tied at 6-6, the Bulldogs drove all the way to the Ridge one-yard line in the final minutes, thanks to a Roberts to Iaione pass up the middle. And when Ridge tried to move the ball downfield Quaglietta and Iaione tackled a Ridge back in the end zone for a safety and an 8-6 Dayton victory.

The Bulldogs kept their hot streak going in their next outing by dropping Governor Livingston, a strong 5-1 team, by a 19-12 score. Iaione picked up 152 yards and three touchdowns, while Clemson had a key interception and a 45-yard run-back.

And in their final performance of the season, the Bulldogs put it all together, pounding Manville by a 29-12 score. Iaione and Bayrashi combined for 230 yards and four touchdowns, while Kisch connected on 13 of his passes and Dooley was his favorite receiver.

On one big play, with a fourth and 25 situation, the Bulldogs faked a punt and Iaione hit Myles Carter across the middle. Carter headed for the sideline and battled his way past the first down marker to keep the drive going. Carter also caught a key two-point conversion pass from Clemson.

And that concluded a very enjoyable season for Glassman and his players.

"On a whole, we showed that we earned the division championship by constantly coming back from deficits," Glassman said. "We showed pride and character and stuck together through some tough times."

Glassman also cited the strong play of Rob O'Neill, Luigi Saracino, Russ Picot, Don Larzlear, Don DiLanno, Frank Lania, Mike Wood, Marc Hodes, Greg Torborg, Chris Delorme, Anthony Boffa, Steve Burton, Jim Clifford, Marc Gross and Darren Marcantune.

"I think the future of Dayton football will be in the hands of a solid, winning team," Glassman concluded.

Bulldogs shock Hillside with defensive system

By RON BRANDSDORFER

If you're wondering how the Dayton Bulldogs shut out a Thanksgiving Day opponent that had entered the game with an 8-1 record, averaging about 25 points an outing and had even demolished one foe by a 54-0 score, it was really very simple.

Right, Tony Policare? "We used a six defensive back scheme and used a channeling theory to force their speed burner receivers to the outside and to the corners," the Bulldog head coach explained after

Sports this week

Dayton overwhelmed Hillside, 21-0, in front of a big and spirited holiday crowd in Springfield. "And we had a squat cover, having one of our outside linebackers stay in the flat to guard against the sweep."

Shop talk aside, what the Bulldogs really did was design a special "Comet Defense" to stop the Hillside Comets and their sensational passing combination of Grady Harris to Jerome Jewell. And, taking advantage of the nearly two weeks between their 27-0 victory over Manville and last Thursday's 7-0 game at Meisel Field, Policare mapped out a complicated system of defensive assignments.

"We drilled very hard," said Policare, whose Bulldogs closed the season with a 5-3-1 record and consecutive victories over Governor Livingston (27-8), Manville (27-0) and Hillside (21-0). "We went over all the formations we might see from Hillside in the game."

"I analyzed what Hillside did best," he continued. "Taking a gamble but knowing that Hillside threw the football very well outside and deep and not across the middle, we went with six defensive backs instead of five. We decided to try to take away their passing game and sweep, which left us very vulnerable to the inside run. Basically, what we wanted to do was align ourselves in a kind of physical chess match and take away their best thing."

To the Bulldogs' credit and delight, the highly technical defensive sets worked perfectly. But not without a lot of hard work and plenty of overtime. "What we like to do," he said, "is take a sophisticated program and break it down to very specific segments. Then, when you take all the small portions, put them together and coordinate it all, you have sophistication."

And a defensive performance that left the Comets totally stunned and frustrated. The key was the six-man defensive backfield, with Kyle Hudgins, Brett Walsh and Mike McNary as the deep backs and Mike Nicholson, freshman Darren Iaione and Pat Esemplare playing up front. And outside linebacker Joe Roessner played almost like a seventh back, holding up the tight end at the line and playing man-to-man coverage.

Policare also moved linebackers Ron Martignetti and Kent Murray to defensive line positions to put the extra pressure on Hillside's Harris, while Nick D'Achille was directed to stop the rushing game up the middle.

"It was tremendous," Policare beamed.

It was so tremendous that the Comets completed just four passes in 18 attempts. And only one of those was completed past the line of scrimmage.

It was fitting that the defense accounted for the first TD, as D'Achille's crunching sack of Harris in the end zone jarred the football loose. John Baber was right there to pounce on the ball and, with Roessner's kick, the Bulldogs had a 7-0 lead.

The offensive unit, which looked very sharp in the last three victories of the season, took care of the rest, as Esemplare and Rich Policastro scored on short TD runs. Both TD's were set up by the running of Walsh, who picked up 81 yards on 18 carries, and Martignetti. As a team, Dayton piled up 196 rushing yards.

"I think this game was the culmination of some of the goals I had coming into the program," Policare said, analyzing both the victory and the winning season. "We ran a sophisticated offense and defense, ran the ball well, threw when we had to and used a lot of different people."

The result was a stunning victory, which meant back-to-back winning seasons and the Bulldogs' second winning campaign since 1963.

And it was even sweeter since the Bulldogs had taken part in a pre-game pep rally and were playing before a packed house.

"The carnival atmosphere was very important to our victory," Policare said. "We really had the home field advantage."

And the home folks were certainly treated to a holiday feast, courtesy of the Bulldogs' hungry defensive unit.

BULLDOG BITS—The Bulldogs concentrated on defense and their own running game, as Policastro threw just six passes, connecting on three, for 38 yards ... Roessner drilled three extra points, enabling him to end the season batting 1.000 in that department ... A number of major college scouts were in town yesterday to begin recruiting Hudgins, the Bulldogs' all-everything wide receiver/safety.

Springfield Minutemen capture league crown

The Springfield Minutemen "B" football team completed a big season last Sunday, winning the area league championship and finishing unbeaten at 7-0-2 by playing to a 7-7 tie with South Orange.

The Villagers took a 7-0 lead at halftime, but Springfield tied the game in the third quarter. It took a 70-yard march to do it, capped by a five-yard touchdown run by Gregg Walsh. John Prudente's point after kick enabled the Minutemen to gain the draw.

Walsh rushed for 116 yards and scored his 10th touchdown of the season. Also playing well on offense was quarterback Eric Storch.

Playing well on defense were noseguard Chuck Saia and defensive end Dan Francis. Each averaged 12 tackles and two quarterback sacks per contest, and the unit only allowed 24 points in the nine games.

"This was the best defensive team I have coached," said Minutemen coach Lou Herkalo. "We used four defenses and no team could get through them. The 24 points scored on us were scored on one-play runs. We never were driven upon. I congratulate the whole team for the superb season we had this year."

Also playing well this season were Glenn Baltuch, Lenny Saia, Kenny Garguilo, Robert Valentino, Chris Kisch, Kurt Swanstrom, Matt Magee, Terry Roberts, Anthony Sickenger, Kelvin Jackson, John Colangelo, Anthony DiNorscio, Matt Lynch and Joe Roth.

Two awards were given following the South Orange game to the outstanding offensive and defensive players: Gregg Walsh and Chuck Saia, respectively.

More awards will be given at the sixth annual Springfield Minutemen Football Booster Club Awards Dinner on Sunday at the Westwood in Garwood.

The last words of famous English naturalist Charles Darwin (1809-82) were, "I am not the least afraid to die."

Meditation aids Dayton runners

By BOB BRUCKNER
A bit of pre-meet meditation — at the big tree adjacent to the fieldhouse at Meisel Field — proved to be beneficial to a couple of Dayton cross country runners in 1982.

Coach Martin Taglienti's team and co-captains Dan Connolly and Mitch Cutler came away with a strong season, including high finishes in the Mountain Valley Conference and state meets.

Connolly and Cutler each earned all-MVC honors this fall and look to be the leaders of next spring's track team.

Another Dayton runner did very well last Sunday, as Mary Pat Parducci finished 24th in the girls' race of the TAC National Cross Country meet at the Meadowlands.

Close season with 6-3 mark

Bears end season in style, 28-6

Buy from your local stores

By WAYNE TILLMAN
Brearley completed its 1982 football season in fine style last Thursday, defeating Governor Livingston, 28-6, before 2,500 fans in the annual and we used it to our advantage. Taylor was very pleased that his team was able to solve all the defenses the Highlanders threw at them last week.

"Our kids did a good job in handling what Governor Livingston was giving us. We were a bit confused at first, but came on later," he said.

Senior running back Joe Lospinoso had another big game rushing for two touchdowns on plunges of one and two yards, along with booting two extra points. He finished the day with 111 yards on 22 carries.

Quarterback Rob DeMayo, another senior, also scored twice on runs of one and six yards, along with adding a two-point conversion.

In the first period, Lospinoso dove in from the two to cap an 11 play, 69-yard drive and give Brearley a 6-0 lead. DeMayo ran six yards and also ran for a two-point conversion to up the lead to 14-0. That run capped another long march, 62 yards in nine plays.

Ed Miller's blocked punt in the third quarter set up the third Bear score, an one-yard plunge by Lospinoso. The big senior back then added the extra point for a 21-0 lead.

After Chris Luongo passed two yards to Anthony DiMuzio for the Highlanders' only score, DeMayo sneaked over from the one to complete the scoring in the final period. Lospinoso added the extra point.

But the win still could not erase the disappointment of not having qualified for the playoffs. What's worse, all three of the Bear losses were by a combined 11 points: 7-0 to Dayton, 15-12 to Immaculata and 8-7 to North Plainfield.

"We had breakthroughs on key plays, otherwise we would have had a better record," said Taylor. "But we didn't do it when we had to."

What should make Taylor feel much better is that only six players graduate off this year's team, and there will be a promising new group of players to replace them next season.

Among the departees are Lospinoso, end Brian David, DeMayo, tackle Miller, lineman Bob Rizzo and tackle Tom Nowicke.

Quarterback Pat Hogan, who shows a lot of promise, is one of the returnees, along with backs Tony Costa and Bill Barberio and plenty of linemen. It will be a young team.

But a hungry team too, according to Taylor.

"We're going to come back. It will be a team effort next year," he promised.

So Bear followers shouldn't feel too sad. It will be a new year in 1983, and with it will come the promise of better things to come.

Sports this week

Thanksgiving Day battle in Kenilworth.

The victory enabled the Bears to complete a 6-3 season: fine by most standards, but also a bit disappointing considering Coach Bob Taylor's squad went unbeaten (11-0) and won the North Jersey, Section II, Group I championship the year before.

"We played angry," said Taylor in regard to Governor Livingston. "Being disappointed over not making the playoffs helped us gain a lot more inten-

Winning year for booters

By TOM VANDEWATER

For the 11th straight year, Brearley's soccer team posted a winning record (9-6-4) and qualified for the state tournament. All of which pleased Coach Al Czaya.

"I feel it was a very successful season. We expected to improve with each game, and we did," he said.

The Bears started slowly, but then came on with a rush, going eight straight games without a loss.

Joe Cioffi and John Chessa both played well enough to earn post-season honors. Cioffi, who scored 12 goals to lead the team, was a first team All-Mountain Valley Conference selection and second team All-Union County.

Chessa also was named to the first all-conference team and was an honorable mention all-county choice.

"Goalie Pat Szczech did an outstanding job as a first-year player, especially in the state tournament game against Chatham," said Czaya.

The Bears lost to Chatham by a 1-0 score, quite an accomplishment considering Chatham's 17-1 record entering that game.

Czaya will lose nine players to graduation — Ken Lawrence, Al Guerriero, Claudio Campanella, Pat Szczech, Brandon Brynwood, Xavier Espasa, Roy Frankcolino, Fernando Petry and Eric Zink.

Have A real OLD-FASHIONED CHRISTMAS TREE WITH sensational NEW-FANGLED Convenience

Everybody for miles around knows us... we're Christmas headquarters for big beautiful Balsams, dashing Douglas Firs, scrumptious Scotch pines, old-time evergreen ropings and... our original one-of-a-kind wreaths are almost status-making with the local gentry. This year, we're still all out for charm and old-fashioned values but with none of the nuisance. Come see: —

STAND STRAIT our own exclusive tree holder. We drill your tree to fit it, absolutely plumb, and... when it gets home it stands tall and true, ready to trim 1, 2, 3, with no fuss! no muss!

ALL WRAPPED UP... really! A clean car and house is our present to you. Pick your tree, then we'll plastic-wrap it in Vexar netting to protect its shape, keep things neat!

ADDED TREE USE
After this tree has added joy to your Christmas, let it continue to benefit the environment. Place it on your lawn as a bird shelter and feeder, or remove its branches for plant mulch. The remaining trunk can provide rustic wood of many uses.

THIS IS A QUALITY GROWN CHRISTMAS TREE
During its growing years, this tree has beautified the land; cleansed the air; provided you with oxygen; and protected your water supply. It has been replaced by other trees to continue this ecological contribution.

'Focus on Art: 1982' to be presented at Y

Doors will open at the Y-M-YWHA of Metropolitan New Jersey in West Orange Saturday evening for the preview showing of "Focus on Art: 1982." Sponsored by the National Council of Jewish Women, Essex County Section, this is the 28th year of this art exhibition and sale. The show will run through Dec. 8.

This display of more than 1,000 pieces of major works by artists of national and international reputation, is the most comprehensive in the East, representing all major styles and types of media, from paintings and graphics to sculpture and jewelry.

Diamond, golden and silver benefactors as well as patrons and sponsors will attend the opening of "Focus on Art: 1982" from 5 to 10 p.m. Saturday. Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance from Karen Chermis, ticket chairwoman, 992-7083. The preview will be followed by a supper dance for golden benefactors at the Braidburn Country Club.

Doors will be open for general admission on Sunday from 1 to 9 p.m.; Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 6 and 7, from 1 to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m.; and Wednesday, Dec. 8, from 1 to 5 p.m. There will be a charge of $2.50, $1.25 for students and senior citizens. On Sunday afternoon, from 1 to 4, children can participate in a special art workshop for a nominal fee.

About 10,000 people are expected to attend "Focus on Art: 1982."

Among the works displayed this year are a 12 x 16-inch oil on canvas board by Milton Avery, titled "Landscape by the Sea," to be sold for $25,000, and a hand-woven Gobelin tapestry designed by Richard Callner, titled "Leda and the Swan," to be sold for $30,000. There will be an oil canvas by Larry Rivers, an etching by Jean Cocteau, a large polystyrene relief by Victor Vasarely and other works by William Gropper, Robert Motherwell, Red Grooms, Robert Vickery, Jaime Wyeth, Roy Lichtenstein, Adolf Conrad and Raoul Dufy.

The "Sculpture Room" will contain selections in bronze, cast paper, welded steel and Russian birch by such names as Bruno Luchesi, Louise Nevelson, Chaim Gross and Seward Johnson. Mervine Chianelli has created a recycling fountain with a bronze bowl.

In the "Collector's Corner," browsers will discover framed and unframed "finds" in works by newer artists as well as those by established names.

Collectors of oriental art will have an opportunity to view and purchase old and contemporary artifacts from the Peoples Republic of China, Japan, Thailand, Persia, India and Pakistan. There will be netsukes, vases, cachepots, hand-painted scrolls, garden seats, inlaid hanging panels, standing screens, silk rugs and small lacquered chests and tables.

More than 500 volunteers work all year long to prepare "Focus on Art." Last year, the show took in more than $250,000. The proceeds raised during the five-day exhibit fund community service projects for youth, women, mental health, education, emigres and older adults here and in Israel.

Sue Kassin of West Orange is overall art show chairwoman.

PAINTING LESSON—Peter Homitzky, award winning artist, instructs a student at the Eastern Union Y-M-YWHA painting class in Union. Openings are available in both day and evening classes.

Hispanic affairs aide named by university

Dr. Edward R. D'Alessio, president of Seton Hall University, has announced the appointment of Frank J. Morales as his assistant for Hispanic affairs.

Morales joined the faculty of the Seton Hall School of Education in 1976. He had previously served the university as chairperson of the Seton Hall task force on Hispanic affairs and as director of the English as a Second Language programs in the School of Education.

A graduate of Teachers College of Columbia University and the Inter-American University of Puerto Rico, Morales has studied in the doctoral program of Fordham University and is presently enrolled in Seton Hall's Higher Education Administration program in the School of Education.

As assistant to the president for Hispanic affairs, his primary responsibility will be to coordinate and implement the recommendations of the Seton Hall University task force on Hispanic affairs, direct the university's Hispanic recruitment efforts and to supervise the Puerto Rican Institute and the talent search program.

Morales will continue to assist the School of Education with its bilingual programs and the teaching of English as a Second Language program. He will also function as the university's liaison with Inter-American University of Puerto Rico and Essex County College. A native of Juana Diaz, Puerto Rico, Morales is a veteran of the U.S. Navy. A resident of Landing, he is married and has three children.

Guide issued as aid to Spanish-speakers

Samples of "Tele-guia," an English guide designed to aid Spanish-speaking persons in reaching police, fire and hospital switchboards during emergencies, are going in the mails soon.

Churches, day care centers and some organizations and agencies that deal with Spanish-speaking persons will get letters explaining the system and its availability for those who speak little or no English.

Public Service Electric and Gas Company, which is underwriting the printing and distribution of the guides, estimates that there are more than 53,000 adults in its service area who speak only Spanish. "Fast and full information about emergencies," said Robert Franklin, PSE&G's vice president-public relations, "can save lives. If 'Tele-guia' can help do that, it is worth our attention."

"Tele-guia" is the brainchild of Carlos B. Vega, a native of Spain who got interested in the problems of the Spanish-speaking residents of New Jersey during his service as assistant to the mayor of West New York, Anthony M. DeFino. Vega translated the 1980 Census questionnaire in West New York, then went on to translate some of this nation's most famous documents into Spanish—the Constitution, the Declaration of Independence and the Gettysburg Address.

"Tele-guia" uses phonics to permit someone who doesn't know the English language to call for help.

For instance, someone looks out of his window and sees a suspicious person with a weapon. Number 12 on the "tele-guia's" list of emergencies is, "Alguien con un revolver!" The Spanish-speaking person knows what that means, but if he calls the police and says, "Alguien con un revolver!" he or she will get no help.

But under that phrase on the "Tele-guia" poster is this one: "Somuan jasegon!" which, phonetically, for the Spanish-speaking, emerges as, "Someone has a gun!" With the name and address also supplied phonetically, the police can respond.

History symposium to deal with religion

Religion — how it impinges on a community or contributes to it — is the subject of the New Jersey Historical Commission's 14th annual New Jersey History Symposium. "Religion in New Jersey Life Before the Civil War" The symposium will be held Saturday in the Assembly Chamber of the State House, in Trenton.

Four papers will be presented. One will deal with a charismatic preacher's impact on various communities in which he conducted revivals. Another will show how revivals work, discussing the difference between the First Great Awakening in the 1740s and in the Second, from 1800 to the 1830s. One will discuss the Quaker meeting's differing responses to the question of abolitionism, and the last will show how commonly held beliefs contribute to a feeling of community.

In the morning session, Jean R. Soderlund of the The Papers of William Penn and Douglas Jacobsen of the University of Illinois will present papers on "Quaker Abolitionism in Colonial New Jersey: The Shrewsbury and Chesterfield Monthly Meetings" and "Conflict, Community and Religious Affiliation in Colonial New Jersey." John D. Wilson of Princeton University will act as chairman-commentator.

In the afternoon, Milton J. Coalter Jr. of the Iliff School of Theology in Denver and Martha T. Blauvelt of the College of St. Benedict in St. Joseph, Minn., will discuss "Gilbert Tennent, Revival Workhouse in a Neglected Awakening Tradition" and "The Mechanics of Revival: New Jersey Presbyterians During the Second Awakening." Paul Johnson of Yale University will act as chairman-commentator.

commentator. Before luncheon, Commission Chairman Henry N. Drewry, director of the Office of Teacher Preparation and Placement at Princeton University, will present the commission's annual Award Pitcher, Awards of Recognition and the Governor Alfred E. Driscoll Publication Prize to this year's recipients.

Information and brochure are available from Howard L. Green, research director, New Jersey Historical Commission, 113 West State St., CN 320, Trenton, N.J. 08625. (609) 292-6062.

SAM ARENA

There's no business like show business as Irving Berlin musically proclaimed so long ago.

There is little to match the electric feeling generated by opening night. The heart beats more rapidly, the pulses quicken and the palms of the hands mist and grow moist.

The overture strikes up and the moment is at hand which puts the long and arduous hours of rehearsals into the past.

On with the show!

Years ago, the immortal George M. Cohan penned a musical piece entitled: "Forty Five Minutes From Broadway." It serves well to define the home of the Green Lane Players of Union, who are approximately that distance from the Great White Way, in the Union YM-YWHA.

This troupe is currently in rehearsal of "Hello, Dolly!" the vehicle which accorded Carol Channing the endless opportunity to perpetuate the machinations of Dolly Levi, the matchmaker. The show opens Saturday, 8 p.m.

I looked in on a rehearsal one evening. Gering Hall was alight, as was the stage, with scenery and props scattered all about. A large coffee pot sat on the table to the right of the stage, brewing the beverage for the players. I was alone in the vast hall.

I was made to feel at home by both Edith Jazmin and Alan Zimmerman, the co-producers of the show.

In a few moments, Shia and Sandra Saltzman joined us, a husband and wife tandem who serve as stage and musical directors of this show. For Shia, it is his sixth.

After a few pleasant amenities, both left to confer with blonde and vivacious Karen Lee, the choreographer.

Singly, in pairs and in groups, the cast members began to enter the hall for the rehearsal.

They exchanged greetings and formed clusters, talking, laughing and joking as they awaited the call to commence the evening's work.

The men were shuttled off to a side room to work with Karen while Shia guided Diane Gelman and Myron Rubenstein of Union who portray Dolly and Horace, through a scene. Both are veterans of prior productions of "How To Succeed In Business Without Really Trying" and "Mame." Myron has also essayed roles in "Milk and Honey" and "Once Upon A Mattress."

As rehearsal progressed, Carleton Ryder, Gary Goldberg and Judi Benjamin of Roselle took to the stage. Judi, who plays Mrs. Molloy, impressed me with her stage presence, her delivery and her projection. She also has a pleasing singing voice to complement these.

Goldberg has also served as the group's stage manager in all its productions to date.

Shia Saltzman stood in the middle of the auditorium, blocking the stage action while all about him small knots of players mingled with each other, absorbed in each other, completely detached from the action onstage.

At times, their noise level exceeded the sound of the voices of the players on the stage and Saltzman was compelled to repeatedly call for silence.

As scenes from the show unfolded onstage, they could have been described as chaotic, disjointed and a near shambles. To one who has experienced the mounting of a stage production, as I have, these were all encouraging signs.

Deep into rehearsal, a show begins to assume the specter of a developing disaster until, as though touched by some inexplicable magic, all the pieces fall into place and the entire effort jells.

The rough spots disappear, the dialogue and the action flow smoothly and the show is ready for the boards.

The cast's enthusiasm manifested itself when Sandra Saltzman stepped onto the stage and assembled the entire cast for the staging of "Before The Parade Passes By."

Dorothy Ruskin, the rehearsal pianist who will also serve with the pit orchestra during the performances, spearheaded the troupe through a rousing rendition of the musical selection.

Karen and Shia blocked the cast through the exit music and evinced satisfaction with the manner in which it was carried out.

Alan Zimmerman joined me to inform me that at a point midway between the two weekends of performances, the Green Lane troupe stages a mid-week performance to which it invites groups and organizations of children who might otherwise not have the opportunity to view a live performance of a Broadway show.

It was obvious in the expression in his eyes, the look on his face and the tone of his voice that Alan gains a deep gratification as a result of this gesture.

"Of all the audiences," Alan told me, "it's the children who are the most appreciative, surprising as it may seem. They enjoy everything about the show and they have a very good time."

He emphasized that any organized group of children is welcome to the viewing and it takes only a call to Edith Jazmin to complete arrangements.

The troupe is one which is

'Hello, Dolly' will illuminate Union

In the past, the Gree Lane Players have mounted such vehicles as: How To Succeed, Mame, Milk and Honey, Once Upon A Mattress, South Pacific and Come Blow Your Horn.

"Hello Dolly" written by Jerry Herman, garnered 10 Tony Awards during its Broadway run, which began in 1964. At the time, it set a record for the most performances by a Broadway musical.

After the Saturday opener the players will also perform Sunday, 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 11 at 8 p.m., and Sunday, Dec. 12 at 2 p.m.

Cast members include: Mark Abramson of Roselle, Honor Bing, Irv Clark, Diane Gelman, Allan Gershenson of Linden, Paul Greenberg of Mountainside, Marla

Heller of Roselle Park, Trudie Heller of Roselle Park, Wendy Heller of Roselle Park, Richard Isaacman of Elizabeth, Edith Jazmin, of Elizabeth. Also, Lori, Roy, and Todd Kaminsky of Union, Marsha Kaplan of Elizabeth, Bruce Lieberman of North Plainfield, Hy Maltz of Newark, Dave Metzger of Elizabeth, Amy Olitsky of Union,

Myron Rubenstein of Union, Richard Rubin of Murray Hill, Sandra Saltzman of Bayonne, Eileen Sedlak of Kenilworth, Lynn Shafer of Elizabeth, Marc Shapiro of Union, Suzanne Urcik of Elizabeth, Debbi Warman of Union, Earl and Sherry Warman of Union, Jody Yospin of Union.

Production assistants include Jane Edwards,

Doris Polito and Arlene Rubenstein.

Tickets for all shows are $4 in advance and $5 at the door. There will be a $1 discount offered to senior citizens and children on advance and same-day tickets for the final performance. For further information call Renee Drell at the Y, 289-8112.

Historic house tour is scheduled

A Christmas boutique and house tour, sponsored by Hickory Tree Chapter, Sweet Adelines, Inc., will take place Saturday in Chatham and Madison. The tour will consist of three interesting homes: the Old Paine House and another historical house in Madison, and a uniquely appointed house in Chatham, each decorated for the Christmas season.

One Madison home was built in 1750. It belonged to Luke Miller, a major in Washington's army, and a blacksmith. Originally, there had been an underground tunnel out to the smithy.

The other Madison home is 150 years old, with additions made during the Victorian period. It is described by the owner as sort of a "plantation colonial." There is a skylight in the kitchen, and beautiful stenciling throughout the house. Of particular interest is a "rug" stenciled onto one bathroom floor, with matching stenciling on the walls. The owners have done the decorating.

The third home on the tour is a colonial in Chatham which has a basement decorated to look like the Old French Quarter in New Orleans. There are little shops with items imported from New Orleans, a barbershop in one room, and a replica of a Mississippi river boat, the Delta Queen.

The tour will also include a stop at the Chatham Township Presbyterian Church, where beautifully hand-crafted items and delicious home-baked goods will be on sale. Home-made refreshments will be provided free to tour patrons. The Hickory Tree Chorus will entertain with Christmas music and other selections. Quartets will sing throughout the tour.

House tour hours will be from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.; the boutique will be open from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. The boutique will be open to the general public throughout the day. There will be babysitting at the church, for the convenience of mothers with small children, for a nominal fee.

Tickets for the house tour must be purchased in advance from any Hickory Tree member, or from one of the following locations: Madison YMCA, Kings Road, Madison; Madison Flower and Balloon Boutique, Main Street, Madison; or Chatham Savings and Loan, Main Street, Chatham.

Auditions planned

PJ&B (Princeton Junction and Back), a group of performers under the direction of Milton Lyon and produced by the McCarter Theater, Princeton, will hold auditions for "Camelot," its annual musical Saturday and Sunday. Dance auditions will be held on Sunday.

Auditions will take place at the Art People Center, 102 Witherspoon St. and are by appointment. Additional information can be obtained by calling (609) 452-3616.

John Lucas will serve as choreographer. The first rehearsal will be held Jan. 22, 1983 and performance dates are Feb. 17 to 20.

'Carol' runs to Dec. 12

"A Christmas Carol" by Charles Dickens, which opened over the Thanksgiving weekend at the McCarter Theater, Princeton, will continue through Dec. 12. Nagle Jackson is director, and Frank Kuhn is associate director.

Additional information can be obtained by calling Veronica Brady at (609) 452-6617.

Adult class at UCC

"Preparation for College Study for Adults," a special offering for adults considering enrolling for college in the spring, will be conducted by Union County College at its Cranford Campus on Jan. 11 and 13 from 7 to 9 p.m.

The course, being offered free of charge by the Division of Continuing Education, will benefit those who are preparing to test the collegiate waters, according to Dennis Madej of Montclair, acting director of the division. Topics to be covered are taking notes from texts and instructors, learning to conquer tests, eliminating anxiety of writing papers, developing study skills and utilizing the resources of the library. Enrollment is limited to adults who have been out of the classroom for a number of years.

Dr. Donald Anderson, professor emeritus of Union County College, will be the instructor.

While there is no charge for the program, registration is required. Further information may be obtained by calling Union County College, 276-2600, ext. 206 or 238.

Art museum slates series of exhibitions

To give the public an opportunity to see the work of the Montclair Art Museum art classes instructors—all are professional artists as well as teachers—the museum is mounting a series of exhibitions showing their recent work in painting, watercolors, drawing and other media.

The current exhibition which opened recently is devoted to drawings and watercolors by Miriam Beerman, Michael Burban, Anne Burg, Lesley Dill, William Grah, Edwin Havas, Frances McQuillan, Diana Naspo and William Senior.

Beerman is showing two works one of which was included in her solo exhibition in SoHo last spring. Both are strongly colored works in mixed media of drawing, painting and collage.

Beerma teaches a class in "Drawing with Color" and a Sunday afternoon painting class.

Michael Burban is represented by two figure drawings and one portrait. The teacher of the Anatomy and Life Drawing class, he is classical in his own work, very concerned with light and shadow and anatomical structure.

Lesley Dill's work, on the other hand, is minimal in detail, more concerned with gesture. The large figurative drawings which she is showing in this exhibition represent an attitude about depicting the human figure, and about painting and drawing in general, that is adventurous and experimental, an attitude that she encourages in her students. Ms. Dill teaches Basic Drawing for adults and teens and the Gallery/Studio Experience class for children.

Contrast in approach is evident also in the work of the museum's watercolor instructors. Frances McQuillan, who has taught at the museum for many years, is a traditional watercolorist. She is showing a drawing and a watercolor, both of which display her fine technical command of these media.

Edwin Havas, a well-known and highly accomplished watercolor painter and instructor, who has been on the museum teaching staff for a number of years, is showing two works, one a watercolor from his new series on Provincetown. The painting is new in technique as well as subject matter, the flatness of forms not being typical of his previous work.

William Senior and Bill Grah, new to the staff this year, were both students of Havas.

Main topic: how to relax

A physical fitness enthusiast with a Ph.D. will speak on "Stress Management through Exercise and Relaxation Techniques" at noon Wednesday, Dec. 8 in Downs Hall, Kean College.

The speaker is Dr. Walter Andzel, director of the college's Center for Human Performance and Rehabilitation, who believes strongly that a long pattern of stress can be brought to a halt with tested methodology.

"For most people, occupational stress is an everyday fact of life — finishing work feeling frazzled is an exceptionally common complaint."

Christmas seal drive celebrates 75th year

The American Lung Association of Central New Jersey annual Christmas Seal Campaign is underway—the 75th appeal for funds to combat and control lung disease—in Hudson, Union and Monmouth counties, it was announced by Eugene E. Rodgers of Mountainside, association president.

Rodgers said that more than a million and a half sheets of seals are being delivered by area postal workers to homes and businesses in the tri-county region served by the association.

Butch Woolfolk of Westfield, the running back of the Giants, is serving as Honorary Chairman of the local fund drive, and Jack Klugman, television personality, is the national Honorary Chairman of the American Lung Association.

Thirteen year old Jill Durbin of Linden, who has participated in the Association's Family Asthma Program and summer weekend camps for youngsters with asthma, is the 1982 Campaign Youth Ambassador.

"Christmas Seals have been an American tradition since 1907," Rodgers continued, "and they led the fight against the nation's conquest of tuberculosis and in recent years the campaign has been the source of funds to develop programs and services for children and adults with long-term breathing problems."

Among the services supported by Christmas Seal donations are the Family Asthma Programs, Pulmonary Rehabilitation Classes, Respiratory Evaluation Education and Support Programs, Smoking Cessation Classes, Self-Help Freedom from Smoking Programs, summer weekend camps for youngsters with Asthma and education and training seminars for the professionals responsible for direct patient care in our area hospitals.

"The holiday season," Rodgers noted, "is the time of the year when we think of our friends and relatives and exchange good wishes and toast each other for good health and happiness in the coming year."

"The Christmas Seal Campaign," Rodgers concluded, "provides an opportunity for everyone to give the gift of hope and good health to the victims of lung disease and to help them breathe easier."

If you do not receive your package of the 1982 Christmas Seals, contact the Lung Association at 1457 Raritan Road, Clark, 07066.

Party slated

The Union County Legal Secretaries Association will hold their annual Christmas party meeting on Tuesday, Dec. 11 at 7 p.m. at Town & Campus, Edgar Road, Elizabeth.

The guest of honor will be Santa Claus who will discuss his long trip from the North Pole. Those desiring to attend should contact Helen Hansen, 353-5959.

40 students to graduate at police basic training

Forty police officers who are students in the Union County Police Basic Training Academy will graduate at ceremonies today at Union County College, Cranford, according to Dr. John B. Wolf, academy director and chairman of the College's Criminal Justice Department.

County Manager Arthur Grisi will be the principal speaker. Dr. Saul Orkin, president of UCC, will welcome the graduates, families, and friends in the theatre of the Campus Center at 7 p.m.

Other speakers will include Union County Prosecutor John E. Stamler, Freeholder Chairperson Blanche Banasiak and Summit Police Chief Frank P. Formichella, president of the Union County Police Chief's Association.

The Rev. Joseph Derbyshire of Berkeley Heights, chaplain of the Police Chief's Association, will offer the invocation and benediction. Officer Deborah Dowches of New Providence, class president, will present the class response.

Police Chief Anthony Smar of Clark, chairman of the Union County Police Chiefs' Association's Education Committee, will announce the winners of the two highest academic achievements. Other awards include: firearms awards for the highest achievement and the most improved student in the firearms course; highest average in constitutional law study; physical fitness capabilities; and a merit award to a police officer (selected by his/her peers) as the one "most likely to succeed" in their profession. John Powers, program supervisor of the Union County Police Chiefs' Training Academy, will be master of ceremonies for the program.

The police officers also will receive certificates issued by the New Jersey Police Training Commission, certifying that they have completed the mandated training required by the state of New Jersey for new police officers. Wolf reported.

A health workshop

High school and college students as well as college graduates will be welcomed at 10 a.m. Saturday at a free health careers workshop in room B109 of Bruce Hall at Kean College of New Jersey.

Dr. Amelia L. Smith of Westfield, a professor of biology, said health career areas to be covered will include medical, osteopathic, chiropractic, podiatric, dental and biotechnical. Teaching as well as the allied health careers also will be discussed.

In addition to persons considering such careers, biology teachers, counselors and parents may attend. Dr. Smith can be reached for additional information at 527-2471.

Hiking events slated

The Union County Hiking Club, an affiliate of the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation, offers hikes, bike rides and other treks in the New York/New Jersey area. While new members are always welcome, different levels of hiking and biking experience are required for some activities and these should be noted by the participant.

The following events are scheduled:

Dec. 4—South Mountain Ramble. Leader Joe DeLuca will meet participants at Mayapple Hill, off Northfield Rd., at 10 a.m. for a Class C ramble of 5-6 miles. Bring lunch.

Dec. 11—South Mountain Ramble. Nate Cummings is the leader and will meet hikers at 10 a.m. at the Tulip Spring parking lot for a Class C ramble of 5-6 miles, suitable for all. Bring lunch.

Dec. 12—Ramapo Mountain State Forest. Leader Simon DeVries will meet participants at the Pompton Lakes bus station at 10 a.m. for a short shuttle to the trail. Pleasant walk, view castle grounds. Bring lunch.

Dec. 12—Harriman Hike. Leader Erwin Conrad will meet hikers at the Sloatsburg, N.Y. municipal building at 9:17 a.m. for a Class A/B hike that will mix trails and "off the beaten path," depending on weather.

Dec. 18—Annual South Mountain Ramble and Solstice Celebration. To register, send a SASE and check for a $5 deposit to Ray Carriere, 275 Main St., Millburn, 07041. Short hike, followed by an Indonesian Feast for all hiking and biking friends. Total fee, $5.

Dec. 19—Mills Reservation Ramble. Leader Helene Black will meet hikers at the White Castle parking lot, Bloomfield Ave. & Rt. 23, Verona, at 11 a.m. for a short leisurely walk through the woods. Bring lunch.

Dec. 19—Round Valley Tour. Leader Stephen Krauss will meet hikers either at HOJO's Rt. 22, No. Plainfield at 8 a.m. or at the campers' and hikers' parking lot, off Rt. 22, at 8:45 a.m. for 10 moderate miles.

Dec. 19—Hike New York City. Meet leader Dwight Berreman at the World Trade Center, Path Terminal, near the restrooms at 10 a.m. Bring funds for a lunch in Chinatown. New sights promised.

Mail order shoppers facing holiday snafu

Ellen Bloom, Director of the Division of Consumer Affairs, Department of Human Resources, cautions mail order shoppers who want delivery before the holidays not to delay.

"Time is of the essence—don't procrastinate another day if you expect to receive your order in time for holiday giving. However, take the time check on the firm's reliability through calling the Hot Line at 648-3295 before writing your order.

If your merchandise arrives late, damaged, or not at all, you need to know your rights. Clip this article for future reference. If you find your purchases are in dispute, refer to the information our Division is providing you with on the most commonly asked mail order questions," says Director Bloom.

What precautions are advisable when shopping by mail?

1. Note the delivery or shipping time stated in the ad. Order early to allow plenty of time for delivery before the holidays.

2. Find out the merchant's return policy. If it is not stated, ask before you order.

3. Note the merchant's name and address, and the date you sent your order.

4. Keep a copy of your order form, cancelled checks, and charge account records. These will be helpful if you have a problem later.

What if no shipping date is promised?

Under the Federal mail order law, if no delivery is promised, the seller must ship the merchandise no later than 30 days after your complete order is received.

The exception to this is for articles ordered from a mail order business located in New Jersey, or with a New Jersey mailing address. They then have six weeks in which to complete the order.

What can I do when my order is not sent when promised?

You can cancel your order for a complete refund. The law requires that the seller mail you an "option-notice" if the promised shipping date can't be met. This tells you the new shipping date and includes a postage free way for you to cancel your order for a complete refund or to agree to a new shipping date. If the company cannot meet the new shipping date, it must send you a second notice and return it to the company.

If the mail order company has a New Jersey address, and if the company gives you the option of choosing substituted merchandise it has sent, they must allow you to return that merchandise at the company's expense within two weeks of receipt, and there must be a post card for you to indicate whether you want a refund or credit within two weeks. The company also has the option of substituting better merchandise which you may return within 2 weeks at the companies expense.

If I cancel my order after receiving an option notice, when should my refund be sent?

If your order was paid by cash, check, or money order, the rule states that a refund must be mailed within seven business days. If the sale is by credit, the seller must mail the papers that adjust your account within one billing cycle.

Does this rule apply to everything ordered my mail?

No. The rule does not cover photo-finishing, magazine subscriptions (except for the first issue), COD orders, seeds and plants, or credit orders where your account is not charged before the goods are shipped.

What should I do if my order arrives damaged or does not fit?

All complaints taken at the Division must be in writing and copies of documents pertinent to the allegation must be enclosed. Address complaints to The Union County Division of Consumer Affairs, 300 North Ave. E., Box 186, Westfield, 09090.

Disc & Data

By Milt Hammer

Pick of the LPs, "Imagination," (MCA Records).

Leee John, Ashley Ingram and Errol Kennedy wonderfully weave together a unique sound which consists of earthy blues, jazz, funk, soul, classical and rock elements. It's a concept of the soul, the mind and the body which all come together on both of their albums for MCA Records.

First, there was the smash LP, "Body Talk," off which came such major hits as "Just An Illusion," "Burnin' Up" and the title track itself. Produced in England by Tony Swain and Steve Jolley, the pair has teamed up once more on Imagination's newest album, "In the Heat of the Night." All tracks, including "Music and Lights," "All Night Loving" and "Changes," were written by Jolley, Swaine and group members, John and Ingram.

John, A Cancer, is the lead vocalist and is naturally known to his colleagues as Mr. Showbiz. His musical background comes from his love of the theater.

After spending five years in the states, John went back to England, where he formed the group, The Highnotes, which later became Ross and Lee before he joined a drama group, The Hewanorra Strolling Players.

He has done extensive work with such performers as Madeline Bell, Doris Troy, Gonzalez and Del Newman. He also has performed and recorded in Germany, France and New York City, as well as toured on a number of occasions throughout the British Isles. Amongst John's talents are his ability to write, perform mime, play the piano and develop unique vocal arrangements.

Ingram, the Saggittarian of the trio, is a fully-accomplished guitarist-keyboardist, who is as much at home playing percussion instruments and singing, too. Before joining Imagination, he formed his own group called Special Brew, in which he showed his musical prowess, including jazz licks learned from his idol, George Duke. Ingram, with a gospel background, has backed such groups as The Delfonics, Chairman of the Board, the Velvelettes, The Elgins and The Executives.

The third member, Kennedy, is a Gemini, who has been playing drums since the age of three. With his sister, Grace, he once was a member of one of the most popular British punk groups, TSB. From there, he went on to perform with Midnight Express as well as work with such popular acts as Ronnie Laws, The Tams, Freddie Mack and Count Prince Miller. He has toured Holland, France, Belgium, Sweden, Germany and Ireland.

Shows staged for children

Saturday Children's Theater recently returned to the newly-rebuilt Paper Mill Playhouse, Brookside Drive, Millburn. This month's performances will include "Hansel and Gretel" and "Goldilocks and the Three Bears," Saturday and "A Christmas Carol" on Dec. 11.

Performances are at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling 376-4343 Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 8 p.m.

Rare Chinese dishes spice up Mandarin II

By GAIL CASALE

When was the last time you dined on rare Chinese gourmet delicacies fit for a king? Probably not often, but Mandarin II Chinese Restaurant makes it a practice to serve you that and more.

Cordial manager Charles Tang, in collaboration with partner Warren Chang, established the business nine months ago and have achieved a great deal of success. Stemming from the first-rate Mandarin I in Summit, the more elaborate Mandarin II located on Route 24, Main St. in Madison, specializes in authentic Peking, Hunan and Szechuan cuisine nutritiously with no MSG.

When visiting the Mandarin, customers get an education in the art of Chinese cooking, attentive service, a softly-lit atmosphere and plenty of delicious food. According to Tang, the traditional "Mandarin style" of cooking dates back to centuries when great emperors ruled and demanded dinner be served immediately. In other words, Tang's customers are treated like royalty; dishes are prepared fresh instantly, tailored-to-please and ready to eat.

A former seaman turned restaurateur who came to the United States in 1976, Tang explained his main inspiration for opening a restaurant was his nephew, Mandarin II's Master Chef Frank Tang. A graduate of the Peking School of Cooking, young Tang studied under master chefs to become a true professional himself.

For beginners the crab meat and corn soup is a treat indeed. The po-po platter composed of spare ribs, beef sticks, shrimp rolls, fried prawn (large shrimp) and shrimp toast is recommended featuring chunks of pineapples and cherries as a welcomed refresher.

The originality and craftsmanship involved in preparation of gourmet specials at Mandarin are not likely to be matched elsewhere. Sample the seafood nest made of chunks of lobster and Chinese vegetables; three flavor chicken consists of a chili and tomato sauce type, egg white in white sauce and General Tzo's Chicken, named after its admirer, composed of a stir-fried lightly breaded coating in a hot and spicy mixture (mild at your request). This dish is as colorful as it is delicious. The masters at Mandarin can even make squid look appealing.

Dessert is a precious item in China. Served only to emperors and at gala banquets, Mandarin offers many to tempt your taste buds. One is known as snow white cloud ears, made of fresh fruit and a mushroom-like substance grown in China on trees.

For an occasional diversion, I suggest trying Mandarin's Dim Sum featured Friday, Saturday and Sunday from 12 to 5 p.m. Loosely meaning odds and ends of foods or snacks, this Chinese daily ritual allows customers to sample bits of foods like dumplings, noodle dishes and sweet desserts at $1.95 each. Just ask your kind host for some suggestions, and he'll gladly show you in vivid picture form what is offered that day.

When glancing at the many offerings on the menu, which vary every two to three months, you may wonder how it is compiled and who decides what dishes will be included. Part of the answer lies in the cooking demonstrations open to the public each Tuesday between 7 and 7:30 p.m.

Here a different dish is prepared weekly by the master chef and tasted by the customers in attendance. If the response to a certain item is acceptable, it eventually gets added to the menu.

Where do a couple of calorie counters go for a delightful Chinese meal for under 60 calories? The Mandarin, of course. Cabbage and shrimp, with only 54 calories for two, is one of the Calorie Indicated dishes highlighted at Mandarin. Each consists of no sugar, corn starch and little salt.

Much like wise philosopher Confucious, Tang also has a guiding principle that is useful: the customer is the boss. Tang appreciates comments and will modify any dish that isn't up to your standards.

When you visit Mandarin II, located within the Madison Plaza Shopping Center, say hello to this charming host for me. His winning personality makes dining at Mandarin II a thoroughly enjoyable and interesting experience.

Wizard of Oz scheduled for Children's Theatre

"The Wizard of Oz," the first of two major productions in the newly formed Children's Theatre Guild at Centenary College in Hackettstown, will be held in the Little Theatre on Saturday, Dec. 11 at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The Children's Theatre Guild and its productions, directed by Myra Handlin Kramer, are produced at Centenary College by the Centenary Performing Arts Guild.

This Guild presentation, which will include performances by 38 children from Allamuchy, Hackettstown, Long Valley, Mt. Olive and Newton is supported by a grant from the Joyce Kilmer Council, Knights of Columbus No. 2483, Hackettstown.

Staging and lighting for the two

Saturday performances will be designed by Sue Barr, a member of the Theatre faculty with piano accompaniment by Centenary alumna, Ann Barbon.

Featured in this presentation of theatre by children for children, will be Kristin Clark of Panther Valley as "Dorothy," Kristy Hassmann, Panther Valley as "Tin Man," Casey Conroy, Long Valley as "Lion," Kim Cacchio of Hackettstown as "Scarecrow," Karen Mueller as "Wicked Witch of the West," Sandi Sampaio as "The Wizard of Oz," and Kristen Conroy.

Ticket price for performances is $1. Reservations are accepted and encouraged. For further information call the Arts Guild Box Office at 852-1400, ext. 348.

Do not drink & drive

"Over the past 10 years one quarter of a million Americans have lost their lives in alcohol-related crashes. Over half of all fatal crashes involve a driver who has been drinking. Preventative measures must be taken before-hand so that you or someone you care about does not become a statistic," warns Ellen Bloom, Director of the Division of Consumer Affairs.

Concern over the problem has led President Reagan to proclaim Dec. 12-18, 1982 as National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week. It is time for all of us concerned to focus attention on the problem and to act on the reduction of impaired driving.

The Division of Consumer Affairs, within the Department of Human Resources asks you to keep yourself, your family, and your friends alive by observing the following rules.

Don't be an over-generous host. Friends Don't Let Friends Drive Drunk. Provide plenty of hearty food, and stop serving drinks early.

Buckle up for every trip, and ask your passengers to do so too. Safety belts are a great protection. Use them against drunk and drugged drivers.

Report any suspicious driving to the police—weaving, straying off the road, and erratic breaking.

Remember that even prescription medications impair driving—especially anti-histamines, tranquilizers, or any medication containing a narcotic.

Mixing alcohol and drugs is particularly dangerous—taking one anti-histamine with one drunk doubles the impairment of both.

Promote the designated driver concept—one licensed driver in a group of merry makers refrains.

LOVES TO CUDDLE—Belle is a 2-year old beagle up for adoption at the Pets Adoption Waiting Station in Linden. Anyone interested in adopting Belle, who is one of six beagles that the shelter is housing, or any of the other Pet Adoption dogs, may call and leave a message at 499-9300. The shelter is located behind Route 1 and Kods Warehouse on Range Road, off of Lower Road. Weekday hours are from 6 to 9 p.m. and weekend hours are from 9 a.m. to noon.

Heart Healthy Recipe

SUBSTITUTIONS

To modify or reduce the fat content and reduce the cholesterol content of your own recipes try these substitutions.

- Milk — Use 1 cup of skim or nonfat dry milk plus 2 teaspoons of polyunsaturated oil for 1 cup whole milk.
- Chocolate — Cocoa blended with polyunsaturated oil or margarine (1. 1-oz square of chocolate = 3 tablespoons of cocoa + 1 table-spoon polyunsaturated oil or margarine).
- Salt — Use other seasonings instead of salt to flavor foods and reduce their sodium content. Beef: bay leaf, mustard, sage, onion, pepper, thyme. Chicken: paprika, parsley, thyme, sage. Lamb: curry, garlic, mint, rosemary. Pork: apples, garlic, onion, sage. Fish: bay leaf, curry, dill, lemon juice, paprika.
