Candy chicks fine gifts..but not live ones

By ELIZABETH SEP

Giving a live chick or bunny to a loved one for Easter? It's usually not a good idea, according to area pet shelters, who are asking people to stick with chocolate bunnies and stuffed animals.

Even though pet stores do give special care instructions, most people are not able to take adequate care of these animals. This is especially true of children, who are often the ones to receive them from well-meaning relatives.

A few months after the animals are purchased and have become domesticated, they are apt to be abandoned or set free to join others of their kind. Nina Austenberg, regional director of the Humane Society of the United States, said.

But since the animals are domesticated, they more than likely will not be able to make it on their own, she said.

Austenberg cited a report in January from a woman who wrote about the death of a little white duck in her area that had been abandoned.

The woman said that the duck apparently was the victim of malicious juveniles; it had been

CUTE AND CUDDLY—Seventeen-month-old Michele Frankshun of Union is surrounded by a whole menagerie of Easter 'pets' of the best kind. Humane Society and animal shelter officials strongly urge that adults give stuffed or candy animals for Easter, not live rabbits or baby chicks, which are apt to die.

Bar association to hear talk by Fred Graham

The Union County Bar Association will feature CBS News law correspondent Fred Graham on Thursday, April 26, at the Coachman Inn, Cranford. Graham's topic will be "The Law Beat in Washington... and other crimes." Born in Little Rock, Ark., Graham graduated from Yale University and received law degrees from Vanderbilt University and Oxford University. The law correspondent for CBS News, based in Washington, D.C., he is the recipient of three Emmy awards — for coverage of Watergate and the Agnew case — and a Peabody award. He has been law correspondent for The New York Times, assistant to Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, and chief counsel of the Constitutional Amendments Subcommittee of the U.S. Senate. Graham is the only TV journalist listed in the Dictionary of American Scholars. His first book, "The Self-Inflicted Wound," was a study of the Supreme Court in the Warren years.

News" with Bill Kurtis and Diane Sawyer, and anchors "The Law and You" each weekend on the CBS radio network. He is substitute moderator of the CBS News broadcast "Face the Nation." Tickets may be obtained by contacting the Union County Bar Association, Courthouse Annex, Room 307, Elizabeth 07207.

Graham reports regularly on the "Law" segment on "The CBS Morning clubbed or stoned to death. She wrote, "The duck was probably sent out in the springtime and was joined by wild geese and wild ducks in the summer and fall. Winter approached and the wild geese and ducks flew to warmer climates but the domestic duck remained.

Food became scarce as the colder weather and snow came and I fed the duck each day. Before long, the pond began to freeze and there was only a small opening on the edge of the pond where swimming was possible. The duck became very vulnerable to stone-throwing juveniles," the woman said.

Austenbergh noted that "many of those live Easter gifts will have the same fate as the little white duck and will be abandoned at local parks and ponds."

Joanne Astalos, president of the Pet Adoption Waiting Station (PAWS) in Linden, said that requests for chicks and ducklings — animals that the shelter does not have — seem to have dropped off over the years in this area.

"I don't think many pet stores are carrying them any more. Maybe people are getting wiser," she said.

Astalos has received few phone calls inquiring whether the pet shelter has chicks or ducklings available for adoption.

"Let them buy a marshmallow or push chick. You are teaching your children a humane lesson that way," she said.

Years before she opened the shelter Astalos said that someone gave her a half-grown chicken.

"It was pathetic. The poor thing was scrawny and it had no feathers. We kept it for five days and then called Kindness Kennels. They got in touch with a man that takes in wayward animals and he took it," she said.

The shelter does not carry rabbits but has received inquiries about them. "Rabbits are easier to take care of — if you create the right climate for them. But chicks have to be fed special food and they need their mother a lot longer. They flock together like puppies," she said.

"It's best just to leave live animals alone for Easter," Astalos said.

According to Dom Caggiano, manager of Kindness Kennels in Rahway, state law prohibits the sale of chicks or ducklings that are less than two months old. The law also prohibits dyeing chicks, which was a practice of pet shops who wanted to make them more festive for Easter.

"In past experience we have found that kids have the chick for one week and then either hurt it or end up looking for a place to bring it," he said.

Henderson set for Drew group

A performance by the New York Pops with guest conductor Skitch Henderson featuring works by Geršhwin and Rachmaninoff will highlight the "Drew Promenade '84," a gathering for friends of the university, May 11 at 8 p.m. in Carnegie Hall, New York City. The concert will be preceded by dinner in the Grand Tier Restaurant at the Metropolitan Opera House.

Special guest will be pianist Ruth Larado.

'R. E. Cycle' is coming

Mr. R. E. Cycle, New Jersey's "recycling magician," will make his first appearance in Union County at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday when he visits the Trailside Nature and Science Center, Coles Avenue and New Providence Road, Mountainside.

Sponsored by the New Jersey Department of Energy's Office of Recycling, Mr. R. E. Cycle serves as a symbol of the statewide recycling program.

His program, "The Magic Is ... Recycling Pays," is designed to illustrate how recycling pays off, not just in money but also in a cleaner environment and reduced amount of land required for landfill.

His visit to Trailside is being sponsored by the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation and the Union County Environmental Resource Center. Admission is free.

Consumer Week planned

Representatives of the Union County Division of Consumer Affairs will visit central locations in municipalities throughout the county next week to distribute handbooks and information packets.

The project is being undertaken in observance of National Consumers Week, which starts Monday, according to Ellen Bloom, division director.

The literature to be distributed, supplied by the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission, will include the "Consumer's Resource Handbook" and product safety information, she said.

She reported that the Union County

Division of Consumer Affairs also will be mailing copies of the handbook to schools, libraries and organizations throughout the county.

The division mediates consumer complaints and attempts to keep both consumers and retailers informed on issues of importance to both, Bloom said.

Since its founding in 1977, it has saved consumers more than $4.5 million through refunds, exchanges and contracts voided or completed, she reported. Last year — its busiest year ever — it recorded more than $1 million in savings, she said.

Concord group plans concert

The Concord Singers will present a concert of choral and instrumental music April 29 at 8 p.m. in St. John's Lutheran Church, Summit. Two choruses, under the direction of Jane Bender, will share the program, assisted by soloists and strings of the New Jersey Youth Symphony.

The Motet singers will offer Haydn's "Missa Brevis St. Joannis de Deo," also known as the "Little Organ Mass," with Wayne Dietterick, organist, and Ann Gamble, soprano. A second featured work, in combination with the Women's Chorus, will be Brahms' Liebeslieder Waltzes, Op. 52."

The Mass was written at the height of the composer's creative power.

The Concord singers are members of the New Jersey Symphony, a Summit based orchestra of gifted young musicians chosen by statewide audition.

Orchestra will dedicate a concert to Monument

The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra will dedicate its April 28 concert at Newark Symphony Hall to the Liberty Park Monument, to be erected at Liberty State Park in Jersey City in 1985. In order to help raise funds for construction of the monument, called "Liberation," the NJSO has donated a block of tickets to the Liberty Park Monument Committee, which will keep all the proceeds from the sale of tickets.

The performance will feature the 105-member New Jersey Symphony Orchestra under the baton of guest conductor Jorge Mester in Gustav Mahler's "Symphony No. 1, The Titan," Zoltan

Kodaly's "Harry Janos Suite," and Dvora's "Carnival Overture."

When erected, the Liberty Park Monument will form a historic triangle with the Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island. The monument depicts the liberation of Holocaust survivors by American soldiers and is created by sculptor Natan Rapoport, whose works can be seen in the cities of Warsaw, Jerusalem and Philadelphia.

Honorary chairmen of the committee are Gov. Thomas H. Kean and New Jersey senators, Bill Bradley and Frank R. Lautenberg. John L. Hyer, executive director of the NJSO is a member.

Information on benefit tickets can be obtained by calling 994-9400. Patrons and benefactors will be invited to a pre-concert reception with Rapoport.

Additional information can be obtained by calling Sive Paxton at 624-3713.

German music to be offered

The chorus of "Music Inc." will present "An Evening of German Romantic Music" April 28 at 8 p.m. in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church, Plainfield.

The 30-voice choir, under the direction of Garyth Nair, will be accompanied on the piano by assistant conductor Alice Vuocolo.

The program for the concert will include works by Schubert, Schumann, Mendelssohn and Brahms.

Following the spring concert, which the group also will perform in Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., a performance of the Verdi "Requiem," will be performed at the Waterloo Music Festival July 7, under the baton of Gerard Schwarz, with the Waterloo Festival Symphony Orchestra and the Summit Chorale.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 756-7439.

Disc & Data

By MILT HAMMER

Pick Of The LPs. "Headpins" (MCA Records).

The Headpins have made a lot of noise in their short history. In one recording year, their status changed from a part time "fun" band to one of Canada's premier rock attractions. With the release of "Turn It Loud" in July, 1982, Headpins took its number one homeland by storm with a number one position, and with sales surpassing double platinum, they rival previous standards for sales of a Canadian debut album. By year's end, they had amassed awards and nominations.

Headpins story begins with controversy. In late 1979, Brian MacLeod and Ab Bryant, as members of Chilliwack, were prevented from performing by record company litigation. Both essentially "live" players, together with Matt Frenette (Loverboy) and Denise McCann (R&B All Stars), they formed Headpins—a temporary club act that toured the Vancouver circuit.

Headpins generated standing-room-only crowds and received the B.C. Caras award for "Best Club Act" in 1981. Matt left Headpins to resume touring commitments with Loverboy, and was replaced by Bernie Aubin, also a Loverboy drummer, and co-writer of "The Kid Is Hot Tonight." Denise McCann bowed out to Darby Mills, on tour with a nine-piece rhythm and blues show band. Her decision to join Headpins was not an easy one. She was aware of the temporary nature of the project, but proved proved to be the catalyst in the Headpins chemistry. She became the Headpins centerpiece. Darby developed her own unique, charismatic vocal style.

In the summer of 1981, Headpins were included on "Vancouver Seeds Two," a compilation of local talent produced and distributed by a major Canadian FM rock station.

Headpins went in to the studio to record for Solid Gold Records under the direction of Brian MacLeod. "Turn It Loud" was released in July, 1982, while Chilliwack was in the studio recording "Opus X." Although Brian and Ab were the writers and musicians of "Turn It Loud," they were listed only in the production credits, as both were obliged to redirect their energies to Chilliwack. Thus, Darby Mills became known throughout the country as Headpins.

Darby embarked on a 40-date cross-country tour with labelmates Toronto. The tour, which augmented "Turn It Loud's" already impressive sales and airplay, gave Darby a feel for the larger stage. She teamed her adrogynous vocal dynamics with an athletic mastery of the stage (practiced by way of 12 years as a figure skater), and dominated performance after performance. By the end of the tour, "Turn It Loud" had achieved platinum status (100,000 units). Darby Mills was labelled as an "unbridled songstress," and Headpins were heralded as "Vancouver's Next Big Success Story."

By the spring of 1983, while founding members MacLeod and Bryant toured with Chilliwack, Headpins went on the road as headliners.

Award season in Canada found both bands highly honored. Chilliwack swept the West Coast Music Awards by winning in six categories. At the Shure Rock Music Awards, Mills was voted the country's Top Female Vocalist, and Headpins won Top New Group. Juno nominations followed for Headpins in the Album of the Year and Most Promising Group categories, and MacLeod and Bill Henderson took a Juno for Producer of the Year.

One week after the Junos, Brian and Ab had amicably left Chilliwack to join Headpins.

Headpins entered the studio in the summer of 1983. With the release of "Line of Fire," their second album for Solid Gold Records, they can proudly proclaim to the rest of the world just who and what Headpins really are.
