SUMMER SCENE—With the approach of summer, Girl Scouts are once again looking forward to attending the Washington Rock Council's Camp Hoover, which last year drew a record attendance of 800. Recently expanded, the camp is located on Swartswood Lake in Sussex County. Activities include gymnastics, horseback riding, computer studies and sailing. In addition, there is a family camping program. Further information is available from the Washington Rock Council, 232-3236.

Crimestoppers off to ringing start

By ADAM SOMMERS

Crimestoppers is still in its infancy.

But, according to Clifford Peake, president of the Union County Chamber of Commerce, "the phones are already ringing" with people eager to do just what the name of the new group implies — stop crime.

Crimestoppers is a county-wide organization that will pay from $25 to $500 to people who provide information leading to the arrest and conviction of criminals, with the amount of the reward depending on the circumstances.

It establishes a 24-hour hotline — 645-TIPS — for informants to call with information. All information will remain confidential; the persons making the phone calls need not identify themselves.

County Prosecutor John Stamler and Peake have been working for two years on "getting the program off the ground," the county Chamber president said.

"The phones are already ringing," he said. "A lot of people aren't even interested in the reward."

He added that the program was made possible largely by financial support from the business community, which has donated money for rewards.

"There is already enough money to get the ball rolling, but more is needed," said Peake.

He speculated that donations will increase once the organization wins approval for its non-profit, tax-exempt status.

Money donated so far is being kept in a bank account overseen by a 10-member board of trustees made up of "concerned citizens," Peake said.

He explained how the system works:

When a call comes in, the caller is given an identification number, the information is taken down and the informant is told to call back. The information is then checked out, with the board determining how much of a reward is to be paid. When the informant calls back, he or she is told whether a reward has been approved. If it has, the informant will be able to pick up the cash at the bank, with no questions asked.

Crimestoppers is patterned after a program in New York City which has generated thousands of calls, paid out $8,000 in reward money and led to 34 arrests, including a number of previously unsolved homicides, Peake said.

In Union County, he said, "the program seems to be getting a very enthusiastic response. We're very happy about it."

Stamler said that once the program gets into full swing, it will publicize, through local police departments, a "crime of the week" of which citizens will be asked to take special note.

There will also be a "tip of the week," which Stamler said he hopes to have publicized through the media as a way of calling attention to the Crimestoppers program.

With the cooperation of all the citizens, he said, "there could be a noticeable reduction of crime in the county."

Eclipse chase takes astronomers to Topping

Members of Amateur Astronomers, Inc., will be in Topping, Va., at the end of this month. That, they say, is where observers will get the best view of the partial solar eclipse that will occur on May 30.

AAI, the astronomy group based at the Sperry Observatory on Union County College's Cranford campus, has among its members a number of veteran "eclipse chasers" who have viewed numerous partial and total eclipses from various parts of the globe. They are looking forward to the annual eclipse of May 30.

"An annular eclipse," according to Roger Tuthill of Mountainside, the group's eclipse expert, "occurs when the moon's apparent size is too small to obscure the whole sun at any one time." It occurs rarely enough to make it worthwhile to travel miles to see it, he said.

The amateur astronomers have decided on the Hummel Airport in Topping as the ideal place to view this event. They chose the site after analyzing factors including accessibility, freedom from smoke and haze and wide open spaces. In addition, at this location the duration of the annular phase will be the shortest, with the least amount of the sun visible at the time of mid-eclipse, according to Donald Kruse of West New York, president of AAI.

"From our selected site on the shores of the Rappahannock River," Kruse said, "this eclipse will provide the most spectacular views along the path of annularity, since the solar disc will be more nearly covered there than anywhere else in the country."

The three-hour event will take place during midday on May 30, with the annular phase lasting a mere seven seconds at about 12:45 p.m., Tuthill said.

"This annular eclipse will be one of the most interesting to view, since the moon matches the sun in size so closely that only small pieces of the sun will be visible in a narrow band less than three miles wide at this location," the past president of AAI noted.

Persons located east or west of the path of annularity will see a crescent-shaped sun which will give a unique view, but not as memorable as being directly under the moon's shadow, Tuthill added.

For this reason, it is expected that thousands of viewers with telescopes will converge on the Hummel Airport site, and some schools in the area will be closed so that children will have an opportunity for a life-science lesson, Tuthill reported.

Members of AAI will supply a number of telescopes so that the public may look close-up at the sun, where they can expect to see sun spots and solar flares becoming obscured as the moon moves slowly across the face of the sun. They will also supply free instruction at Hummel Airport describing safe methods of viewing the eclipse as well as how to avoid damage to the eyes while permitting the full spectacular event to be seen.

In the New Jersey area, free information on safely viewing the eclipse may be obtained by calling 201-232-1786 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and merely saying, "Solar Eclipse," Tuthill said.

For New Jersey watchers, the eclipse will begin at 11:21 a.m., when the moon will begin to move in front of the sun. The moon's disk will have covered 93 percent of the sun by 12:52 p.m. — the maximum for this area. The moon will gradually move away from the sun, and the eclipse will end at 2:26 p.m. During the eclipse, the sky will appear to be in early twilight.

Looking at an eclipse without proper precautions can be dangerous, Richard

D. Peery, planetarium advisor at the New Jersey State Museum, warned this week.

"The sun should never be observed directly with the eye," he said. Telescopes or even binoculars can be used to project the sun's image onto a cardboard screen for indirect observation.

Another simple technique is to pierce one side of a large box with a pin. By pointing the pinhole toward the sun, one can see its projected image on the opposite side of the box, Peery said.

The New Jersey State Museum planetarium has two free information sheets about the eclipse, one discussing the circumstances and ways of observing it and the other explaining how to photograph it. They are available by writing to Eclipse, New Jersey State Museum Planetarium, 205 West State St., CN 530, Trenton 08625. Those interested should specify which sheet they want.

Estate planning sessions to start

The Union County Cooperative Extension Service will present a series of meetings on estate planning starting next Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Extension office at 300 North Avenue, East, Westfield.

Featured speaker at the first session will be Ann P. Conti, Union County surrogate, who will discuss the meaning of probate.

On May 31, "Options in Funeral Arrangements" will be presented by C. Stewart Hausmann, executive director of the New Jersey State Funeral Directors' Association, and "Financial Planning for the Over 50-Age Group" will be discussed by Denise M. Matejic, specialist in family resource management, Cook College.

On June 7, "A Will of Your Own" will be presented by John Wood Goldsack of King, King & Goldsack, attorneys.

The program for June 14 will be "Insurance for the Over 50-Age Group," presented by Robert J. Pekarsky of Provident Mutual; and "Social Security for People Over 50," presented by Bob Vitolo, field representative of the Social Security Administration.

Carolyn Y. Healy, Extension home economist, has organized the series and registration is necessary. A $2 fee is payable at the door.

All Extension Service programs are open to the public. The Extension Service auditorium is accessible to the handicapped.

Legion, Auxiliary schedule convention

Plans are being completed for the annual convention of the Union County American Legion and Auxiliary, according to County Commander Joseph Rybak. He announced that Clark Post and Unit 328 will be the host.

The convention, to be held May 31, June 1 and June 2, will open with the annual flag retirement ceremony. Rybak said the this ceremony provides for the proper disposal of American flags that are in such condition that they are no longer fitting emblems for display.

The public is requested to bring worn or outdated flags to local American Legion Posts for proper disposal, Rybak said. He also invited the general public to attend the county flag retirement ceremony.

The program will be held on the grounds of Clark American Legion Post 328, Westfield and Liberty Avenues, Clark, at 7 p.m., May 31.

Participating in the ceremony will be Rybak; Vice Commanders John Stanier of Connecticut Farms Post 35 of Union, Gordon E. Fugee of Roselle Park Post 60 and Joseph Gettys of Johnson-Jeter Post 219 of Plainfield; and James Roberts, county sergeant-at-arms, of James E. Mackie Post 499, Rahway.

Guest speaker for the program will be Past State Commander Frank Ricciardi. Also appearing on the rostrum will be Union County Auxiliary President Ruth Simmons, National Executive Committeeman Warren E. Davies and Department Executive Committeeman Douglas E. Barrow. The invocation will be given by County Legion Chaplain Laura Sharpe and Clark Mayor B. Yurasavage. A marching and playing exhibition will be given by the Clark High School Band and the Cranford Patriots Drum and Bugle Corps.

Simmons said that plans have been completed for the Auxiliary convention session to be held Friday, June 1, at the Valley Road School, Clark. Plans are now being formulated for the annual dinner-dance honoring her and Rybak at the Elks Club, Union, June 2.

DR. DEREK N. NUNNEY, now president of Joliet, Ill., Junior College, has been named president of Union County College effective July 1. A graduate of the University of British Columbia, Canada, with a master's degree and doctorate from the University of California at Los Angeles, he was formerly with the U.S. Office of Education in Washington, D.C., and Oakland, Mich., Community College. He succeeds the late Dr. Saul Orkin at UCC.

Poster contest open to children

Area youngsters, seven and under, have been invited to participate in a poster contest for National Better Speech and Hearing Month, which is being observed in May.

Lynn Angevine, clinical audiologist at Alexian Brothers Hospital, Elizabeth, said announcements have gone out to all area schools to announce the competition. Prizes have been donated by local merchants.

No limits have been placed on the size of the posters or media used, Angevine said. The poster must depict a speech or hearing theme. Entries must be submitted to the Audiology Department at the hospital by May 21. Judging will take place on May 24 and entries will be displayed in the hospital.

The competition, according to Angevine, endeavors to heighten the public's awareness of the prevalence of communication problems and the professional services available for identification and remediation.

Communication disorders constitute this nation's number one handicapping disability, she explained. An estimated 22 million Americans have some form of speech, language and/or hearing impairment which may seriously limit their productiveness in society.

The poster contest, she pointed out, is geared to young people because one American out of 20 exhibits a speech or language disorder. One-quarter of them are between the ages of five and 21. Three million school age children have some degree of hearing impairment.

Further information about the contest or the services of the Alexian Brothers Hospital Audiology Department may be obtained by calling 351-9000.

Bell taxes top $6.03 million

New Jersey Bell paid $6,031,430 in real estate and personal property taxes in Union County last year, according to Bill McKinlay, the company's local community relations manager.

The company also is one of the state's largest taxpayers, said McKinlay, having paid more than $157 million in taxes throughout New Jersey in 1983. The total includes some $48.8 million in franchise and gross receipts taxes paid directly to the state.

"In many of the communities we serve, we are the single largest taxpayer," McKinlay said.

Taxes paid by New Jersey Bell municipalities in Union County include: Kenilworth, $33,678; Linden, $246,640; Mountainside, $35,460; Roselle, $356,732; Roselle Park, $43,384; Springfield, $94,524; and Union, $601,703.

Talk on exercise

The Union County Chapter of the American Diabetes Association will hold its final meeting of the season Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Westfield Rescue Squad. Stephen Schneider, assistant professor of medicine at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey, will speak on exercise.

Senior Center

Elderhostel, the national program for senior citizens that combines educational and cultural offerings with the concept of hostelting on a university campus, will take place at Stevens Institute of Technology in Hoboken this summer for the fourth consecutive year.

Participants can enjoy a variety of courses and cultural activities while living at Stevens or commuting to the campus. Stevens is making special provisions this year to accommodate larger numbers of commuters living in nearby communities who wish to participate in the courses and cultural features offered.

The program at Stevens runs from July 8 to 14. Hostelers will have courses in such subjects as the New York cultural scene, the American presidency, popular astronomy, the literary hero in the 20th century, and problems of the criminal justice system. There is no formal educational requirement; not even a high school diploma is necessary.

Hostelting, the idea of living simply and economically in a dormitory-like environment while touring, began with youth hostels in Europe. The Elderhostel program has expanded the concept to accommodate senior citizens interested in an intellectually stimulating environment on a limited budget. More than 700 educational institutions in the United States and abroad participate in the Elderhostel program.

Participants must be 60 years of age or older. The resident program fee for July 8-14 is $190, which includes the courses, lodging on campus, meals in the Stevens dining hall, as well as course related tour guidance and cultural and social offerings. The cost for commuters, covering courses and all other activities except for lodging and meals, is $75.

All participants will have the run of the entire campus, including the swimming pool, tennis courts, gym, ballfield, library, and lounges, on the same basis as regular campus residents. Commuters will be able to use the same campus facilities, in addition to attending classes. In an effort to accommodate its neighbors, Stevens is allocating many more places this year for commuting participants than it has in the past.

The Elderhostel program is under the direction of Dr. Norman J. Horing, professor of physics and engineering physics at Stevens. Those wishing to register for the resident program can contact Elderhostel, Inc., 100 Boylston St., Boston, Mass. 02116 or telephone (617) 426-8056. Commuters can contact Leonard Frisco, business manager, Stevens Institute of Technology, Hoboken, 07030 or telephone 420-5126.

The courses to be offered are:

Disc 'n' Data

By MILT HAMMER

Pick Of The LPs, "Hardchoir" (Backstreet Records).

Hardchoir formed in 1980 when drummer Pat Maroshek and bassist Steve Hess began working on the concept of a three-piece band that would sound more like 10 pieces, with heavy emphasis on vocals. The sound truly cohered when Mark Easterling (a lead guitarist who had just moved to Los Angeles), joined the band.

They then played a gig at Madam Wong's with Rain, a group, led by the legendary Los Angeles guitarist Waddy Wachtel.

"I went up to Waddy and asked him if he'd hang around and listen to us," Pat relates, "and he was really impressed—enough to say, 'I'd really like to do something with you.' Since we met Waddy everything has fallen into place."

Mark picks up the story. "Waddy gave us a 4-track, and we rehearsed in Pat's garage constantly. By the time we went in to record, we were really tight. We all had day jobs, so we'd get to Pat's around 8 p.m. We could only play in the garage until about 10 because of the neighbors. In that two hours, we crammed to get it all together, four or five times a week and on weekends."

Wachtel then produced Hardchoir's demo and shopped it around town with no initial success. Then he accidentally locked himself out of his car following a soundcheck for a Linda Ronstadt concert.

at the Universal Amphitheater. When he went upstairs to Backstreet's offices to use their telephone (to call Triple-A), Waddy took advantage of the circumstance and played the demo for those in the office. Halfway through the second song, a record deal was sealed with a handshake.

The most immediately impressive element of "Hardchoir" is its three-vocal attack and the amount of sound textures created with only three instruments. "We always had the idea of making a lot of sound with less people," states Pat.

"This is the first trio that I've ever played in," adds Mark, "and I've found that with Pat and Steve I have more expression. I'm free to do almost anything I want to on guitar. A lot of people think that three instruments would be limited as far as sound, but we tend to use the vocals as another instrument. A lot of times when I'm playing a lead, the other guys are singing, doing some kind of vocal thing, which is kind of unique. It really adds a lot. I was really shocked when they explained that concept to me."

"Most of the stuff on the album is just three pieces," Pat points out. "Some of Steve's solos were overdubbed. But on some cuts, he soloed live and left out the rhythm guitar, like it would be on stage. 'Fooling You' is completely live, for example."

The trio's vocal harmonies are, in Pat's words, "definitely identifiable. Not many three-piece bands can sing like us. When Mark joined Steve and me, his voice fit immediately, as did his ideas, his writing, his way of playing. He was headed in the same direction as us."

Steve agrees. "It was just a freak coincidence that Mark's voice blended with ours so well."

The boys' distinctive vocal blend has already landed them one prestigious recording session. They are featured on background vocals on three songs from Ringo Starr's upcoming album which was produced by Joe Walsh. (This in fact, was their first official recording session as a group.)

One listen to "Hardchoir's" debut album reveals why Wachtel agreed to produce them and why Peter Asher Management took them on as clients, after hearing them play in their garage.

Composed entirely of original tunes, the group's debut LP displays a remarkable degree of maturity and an uncanny knack for coming up with hook-filled melodic rock 'n' roll—ranging in mood from the new wave tinged "Sheila" (written by Mark) to the delicate ballad, "Girl I Need You" (penned by Pat), to heavy rockers like Pat's "Fallout Shelter" and "All Right" (a product of his association with songwriting partner Pat Robinson). In Wachtel's words, "If you had the vocal harmonies of the Eagles and the Beach Boys combined with more of a gut-level rock trio, you'd have a rough idea of how great these guys are."

A piano recital set by Unionite on Kean stage

Carol Ferri of Union, adjunct music instructor at Kean College of New Jersey, Union, will give a solo piano recital at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Wilkins Theater. The concert is free.

Ferri will perform two sonatas by D. Scarlatti, the "Duport" variations by Mozart, valse nobles et sentimentales by Ravel and the variations and fugue on a theme of Handel by Brahms.

While working at Kean for nine years, she has maintained a private practice in Maplewood. Ferri received her degree from the Philadelphia College of Performing Arts and was graduated cum laude.

Her students will present a class piano recital May 23 at 8 p.m. in the Wilkins Theater. Admission will be free of charge. The performance will include solo piano works, four-handed piano works and chamber repertoire by Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Clementi, Copland and Debussy. Among the students is Suzanne Schoenberger of Irvington, a music major at the college.

Spring concert slated Sunday

The Metropolitan Y Orchestra will hold a spring concert Sunday at 3 p.m. at the YM-YWHA of Metropolitan New Jersey, West Orange. The concert will feature Pegeen Fitzgerald, radio personality, and Philip Smith, co-principal trumpeter of the New Philharmonic since 1978.

Among the orchestra members are Irving Starr of Springfield, violin, and Keith Hardy of Union, cello.

The audience will be invited to join the performers for coffee after the concert.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 736-3200.

Choral Art Society plans final concert Saturday

The Choral Art Society of New Jersey, under the musical direction of Evelyn Bleeke, will present its final concert of the season Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church of Westfield, Mountain Avenue and Broad Street.

The program will feature composers' works written in the romantic-modern idiom during the early part of the 20th century. Guest soloists are Mary Anne Scott, soprano, and Annette White, organist. White is a virtuoso concert artist, accompanist for the Choral Art Society and organist for the Presbyterian Church of Westfield.

The Choral Arts Society will sing Benjamin Britten's "Festival Te Deum," and Randall Thompson's "Frostiana," a musical setting of seven poems by Robert Frost.

The Chamber Ensemble of 20 voices will perform the "Serenade to Music" by Ralph Vaughan Williams. Words are by Shakespeare from the "Merchant of Venice."

The society is supported by a grant from the Union County Cultural and Heritage Program Advisory Board through funding made available by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts.

'Cinderella' Ballet

"Cinderella" Ballet will be presented at the Club Bene Dinner Theater, Rt. 35, Sayreville, Sunday at 2 p.m. The production will be presented by the Evelyn Gardell Performing Arts Ensemble. Additional information can be obtained by calling 727-3000.

Irish Festival scheduled at Arts Center June 24

Tommy Makem and Liam Clancy, Irish folk singing stars, will headline the 14th annual Irish Festival at the Garden State Arts Center, Holmdel, June 24, it was announced by William A. Tarrant, general chairman of the statewide volunteer committee arranging the affair.

"The stage program this year will include genuine Irish performers of star quality," says Tarrant. The master of ceremonies will be Jimmy Kennedy of Ireland.

"Female vocalist will be Anna McGoldrick of Castleblaney, County Monaghan.

Dermot O'Brien, once champion Irish accordionist, also will be featured.

Prior to the 2:30 p.m. stage show, the 1984 Irish Festival will open with the traditional Pipe Band Competition on the Arts Center Mall at 9 a.m. It will be followed by The Holy Sacrifice of the Mass at 11 a.m., with Bishop John J. Dougherty as principal celebrant.

A light program of Irish entertainment will be presented on the Arts Center Plaza at 12:30 p.m. featuring Irish vocalist Joe Finn and Patricia Murphy's School of Irish Dancing. At the same time, a gaelic football match will be held on the mall.

The Irish American Cultural Institute will exhibit Irish art and culture in a large tent on the Arts Center grounds. There will be vendors with Irish goods and food.

Proceeds of the Festival will go to the Garden State Cultural Center Fund. Tickets may be purchased from New Jersey's Irish organizations.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 442-8600, ext. 222, weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Suddenly, the word for New Jersey isn't "suburb."
It's "superb!"

The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra

It's a superb orchestra acclaimed by The New York Times, The Daily News, Newhouse Newspapers, The Star Ledger, and more:

"dazzling... the enormous orchestra tossed it off in an authentically bravura manner."

"The orchestra—large even by New York standards—played superbly throughout"

"orchestral glitter, expansive warmth and clarity of detail"

"The New Jersey Symphony Orchestra is an artistic institution that must be taken seriously."

It's a superb list of great artists—De Los Angeles, Milstein, Davidovich, Firkusny, Fried, and Talvela—and conductors—Schermerhorn, Lanchbery, Shostakovich, Manahan, and Henry Lewis.

It's a superb concert hall near you.

And it's a superb experience you owe yourself now. Because the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra is very close to home. And it can take you out of this world.

'Desert Song' benefit set by Diabetes unit

The concluding performance of Sigmund Romberg's "The Desert Song" at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn on June 10 at 7:30 p.m., has been designated as a benefit performance for the American Diabetes Association, Essex County Chapter.

The American Diabetes Association is a non-profit, voluntary health agency, "with the two-fold mission of finding a cure for diabetes and helping the diabetic patient and his family to live a better life."

Since its inception one year ago, the Essex County Chapter has been holding "very successful patient and public education programs throughout the county."

The theater party is its first fund-raising event and will raise about $5,000 for diabetes research and education.

Tickets for the performance are available by contacting Bruce Tepper, chairman, at 994-4700.

Italian Festival planned in Holmdel Arts Center

Paola Semprini will fly from her home in Verona, Italy, to join the performers in the 1984 Italian Festival at the Garden State Arts Center, June 9 and 10, it was announced by John Gatto of Irvington, general chairman of the festival committee.

The program will be led by Nelson Sardelli, the singer, dancer and impersonator, who recently won Atlantic City's "Entertainer of the Year" award. Also featured will be David Lomascola, pianist.

The festival will include "traditional Italian classical selections with coloratura soprano Maryann Polesinelli of the New York City Opera Co., and tenor Giuseppe Taormina of Palermo, Italy.

The stage show will open at 7:30 p.m. with the presentation of colors by a United States Marine Corps Color Guard and the introduction of La Bella Signorina, "young ladies selected to represent each of the supporting New Jersey Italian organizations."

The afternoon at the Arts Center plaza and mall will begin at 1 p.m. with art and cultural exhibits in a large tent, a Bocce tournament, singing, dancing and an Italian Street Band. The stands will feature such foods as zeppole, sausages, meat balls and Italian pastries. The afternoon activities will conclude at 5:30 p.m. each day with a traditional Italian religious procession and the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass on the Arts Center Plaza.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 442-8600, ext. 221, weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Author to talk

Yaffa Eliach, author of "Hasidic Tales of the Holocaust," and founder of the Center for Holocaust Studies in Brooklyn, N. Y., will present a lecture at the Whole Theater Co., 544 Bloomfield Ave., Montclair, Sunday at 7 p.m. Professor Eliach will discuss her book

Concert is led by Union man

The annual "Music For a May Night" concert will be given by the Bloomfield Symphony Orchestra May 18 at 8 p.m. at the North Junior High School, Hudson Road, Bloomfield.

The orchestra is conducted by Edward J. Napiwocki of Union. He and his wife Jean, librarian of the orchestra, live on Pleasant Parkway.

Other Union residents who play in the orchestra are Barbara Brandyberry of Minute Arms Road, violinist; Lou Tatarko of Brookfall Avenue, violin player, and James Rediker of Locust Drive, cello player.

The orchestra will play a concert of lighter classical music, and the soprano soloist is Deborah Blue.

The concert is free to the public, and no tickets are required.

Canoe clinic

The Union County Hiking Club will sponsor a novice canoeist clinic Saturday and Sunday at Lake Carnegie, Princeton.

For those who own their own canoes, the cost is $5; for those who rent, it is $10. Participants must be swimmers and own a personal flotation device.

The program on Saturday will include an hour's instruction, an hour of cruising on the lake and a four-hour trip on the Upper Mullica. The Sunday segment will be on the South Branch of the Raritan River.

Further information may be obtained by calling George Sedmont at 964-1703 between 7:30 and 10 p.m.
