Right-to-know law may take new form

By KEITH A. DRUMBORE
 Proponents of the recently watered-down New Jersey "Right-to-Know" law have decided to take a new route to get to manufacturing firms — a route, that if successful, would make local governments and residents aware of just what manufacturers are doing in their towns.
 State Sen. Daniel J. Dalton, D-4, said legislation is currently being put together that would require all manufacturers to provide local government agencies, particularly police and fire departments, with a list of on-site chemicals and materials.
 The manufacturers would also be required to provide that same information to community residents, Dalton said.
 No date has been set as to when the proposed law will be presented to the Legislature, he said.
 Dalton is the author of the revised "Right-to-Know" law, which went into effect Aug. 29, and was considered to be the toughest state employee-awareness law of the 16 on the books at that time.
 The law required that nearly 43,000 New Jersey employers submit reports by Feb. 15, to the state Health Department's Occupational Health Program, the state Department of Environmental Protection, county health departments and local health, police and fire departments on any use of 2,000 substances that the state considered hazardous.
 The substances were listed in a 144-page book that was provided to each employer.
 The substances were categorized as either carcinogenic (cancer-causing chemicals); mutagenic (causing physical change in chromosome relationships or fundamental changes in genes); teratogenic (causing abnormalities in growth or structure); fourth-degree flammable; third-degree flammable; fourth-degree reactive; third-degree reactive; second-degree reactive and corrosive.

 Examples ran from such common substances as coal dust, ammonia, and silver to more uncommon substances as nitrogen mustard and trimethylhexamethylenediamine.
 Employers were required to clearly identify and label all containers holding these substances. If an employer was unable to identify the substances in any material or chemical, he had six months to investigate and properly label the containers.
 Employers also had to provide training programs by March 1, that would inform employees on the correct handling procedures for hazardous substances and to make copies of the submitted reports available to employees on request.
 The law referred to both manufacturing and non-manufacturing firms, and covered an estimated 1.2 million employees.
 The purpose of the reports was to protect the health of both the public and employees by making them aware of possible exposure to these substances.
 According to 1984 state Health Department estimates, 1,200 New Jerseyans are diagnosed as cancer patients annually as a result of exposure to workplace chemicals and another 1,300 are hospitalized.

Lourdes revels in celebration

By SHAWN EVANS
 The classroom instruction at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic School, Mountainside, was basically the same this past week, with a few notable exceptions.
 Grown-ups were huddled in the chairs next to students, and many new faces were seen strolling along the hallways.
 The aroma of coffee seeped from the auditorium, and a table was adorned with paper plates supporting doughnut balls.
 The noted changes were part of a celebration for the observance of Catholic Schools Week. This celebration has carried over into Catholic schools nationwide for the past several years, officials noted.
 Parents visited the many classrooms from pre-school to eighth grade during an open house Monday, and parents of prospective students inquired about the various programs.
 Publicity Chairman Alice von der Heide says the purpose of the week long celebration is to show that "Catholic schools are alive and well."
 "The community is very receptive to the programs as it allows the parents to come out and look at us while in operation," von der Heide notes.
 She says each year a new theme is developed to coincide with the celebration, and this year the faculty chose "Sharing the Vision — Teaching Values."
 School Principal Sister Mary Amelia, members of the school board and the Home and School Association, were on hand to greet the many visitors.
 Also on Monday, some 125 students gathered outside for the launching of 150 brightly colored helium balloons, which were filled about an hour before "take-off."
 Each balloon contained a message about the child's concern for peace along with the child's name and the school's address. The index cards also indicated that anyone finding the balloon(s) should return the card, with a prize to be awarded to the finder of the balloon which travelled the furthest.

 "It will be very interesting to see how far a balloon travelled when the postcards are returned to Mountainside," von der Heide says.
 Other activities which were part of the celebration included "Teacher Appreciation Day," which was held on Tuesday.
 "In keeping with this year's theme, the students wrote their teachers a note, or in the case of the younger child, drew a picture, expressing their individual gratitude for the 'visions' and 'values' they have shared through the year," said Mary Capece, publicity coordinator.
 Capece said the School Board and Home School Association, on behalf of the parents, showed their appreciation to the staff by providing a luncheon for the school's faculty.
 Also this week, the 10th annual Senior Citizen Luncheon was held Wednesday, which gave the staff and student body an opportunity to share their vision of education with the seniors of the community, Capece added. The hot lunch menu was prepared by Rosemary Conley and Gerry Fredricks.
 As the culmination of the week long celebration, the school has designated tomorrow "Student Appreciation Day," in which Sister Amelia along with the faculty and parents will honor all students.
 According to von der Heide, a prayer service will be led by the students tomorrow, featuring a litany of spiritual songs and readings. Also, during the program, the eighth-grade class is expected to be honored and they will receive their school pins.
 "The children are really looking forward to this annual event. It is a joyful celebration for our children who are the future," von der Heide said.

Bridge work to start Monday

By PHILIP GIMSON
 The long-delayed plans to rebuild the Mountain Avenue Bridge, originally scheduled for completion on Sept. 9, 1984, are expected to begin next Monday, according to a project engineer from the state Department of Transportation (DOT).
 Signs temporarily closing down the bridge were posted early this week, according to the engineer, Frank Cimonetti, who speculated that the reconstruction work will probably be completed in late April.
 "The work will be completed quickly, within a couple of months at most," Cimonetti said. "We'll relocate a water line first but all the equipment and materials will be delivered this week so we can start immediately." Elizabethtown Water Co. is scheduled to work on rerouting the water line on Monday.
 Previous problems that set back the starting date for the project, originally slated for early July, resulted when the state delayed in giving the contractors, Conti Construction of South Plainfield, notice to proceed with the project, according to borough officials.
 In addition, the contractors asked the Borough Council for a brief postponement in August due to problems they were having in obtaining epoxy-reinforced steel, a material crucial to the reconstruction.
 The council opposed the idea of continued delays in the project, however, expressing fears that this would set back construction into the fall, disrupting school bus routes and impairing accessibility to local businesses.
 But as the summer drew to a close, rather than agreeing to let the reconstruction begin in late August, the council requested that the project be suspended until the summer of 1985, in spite of pleas from state officials and project contractors to replace the bridge as soon as possible.
 According to Borough Administrator Jim Roberts, the reason the state decided to move forward with the reconstruction now rather than waiting until the summer had to do with "contractual reasons. We've never seen the contract, but I believe there was talk of salary increases for union laborers and the state decided to act now rather than incur additional costs."

 Roberts also noted, "We have no power to tell them when to begin. The borough has played a purely advisory role on the project."
 Cimonetti confirmed that the state decided to begin the work now because laborers will be getting an increase in wages starting in March. "Some if not all of the trade unions will be getting increases. There are also material escalations caused by inflation."

In noting that the contractor will also be owed payment for preparatory work done last summer, including the installation of signs, and transportation of equipment and supplies, Cimonetti said, "There will definitely be additional cost, but I have no idea how much the total will be until the contractor submits the bills."
 Cimonetti said he was uncertain whether the borough would be charged for any cost above the originally stipulated contract figure of $450,000, but said that the state would make all payments directly to the contractor, with the question of any reimbursement to be decided later.

 The original plans called for the state to fund 20 percent of the reconstruction, with the federal government absorbing 80 percent. State officials previously indicated the borough would be charged for any overages in the contract caused by delays.

Stable repairs again delayed

Construction work on the 2-year-old Watchung Stables project at Watchung Reservation, Mountainside, is expected to continue after the rebidding of an unfinished contract, according to county officials.
 The $5.5 million project has been plagued by considerable delays, and although officials said inclement weather was a factor last spring, the major problems stem from the construction firm's unsatisfactory work, according to a county engineering spokesman.
 Armand Fiorletti, county director of engineering and planning, said the Mahwah construction firm of Seasonal Gardens Inc. never finished the job and caused sequential delays.
 "They just didn't show up much to do the work, so we put them in default," Fiorletti said.
 As such, a revised contract which has been estimated at $500,000, is expected to be awarded later this week to one of five bidders, officials said.

 As a result of the delays, Fiorletti said additional costs have been incurred. Although he would not specify as to the amount, he said the expenses are to be picked up by the firm's bonding company, and that any action that may be taken will also be referred to the bonding company.
 Fiorletti said construction has been taking place and buildings have already been going up, as well as some of the site work.
 Fiorletti said there is still some unfinished site work, and another contract is expected to be awarded for the construction of an administration building next year.
 He placed the expected date of completion for the entire project for sometime in June.

Months of delays have resulted in the stables relocation project ever since the October 1983 groundbreaking.
 The construction of the new stables is taking place at the former Nike missile site on Summit Lane in Summit, which is about a mile away from the present location.
 Fiorletti said the present stables have been in use since the new construction has been taking place. Within the new project, Fiorletti said riding rings will be included as well as exercise area, a show arena and parking on the 11-acre site.

Rec committee names Connolly new '85 chairman

John A. Connolly was re-elected chairman of the Mountainside Recreation Commission at its annual reorganization meeting. Adele Magnolia will again serve as chairman of the Pool Committee.
 Sue Winans was reappointed recreation director and pool administrator. Winans has served as recreation director for the past 11 years. Alan Hauser was appointed pool manager and Sandy Burdige will serve as recreation office secretary.
 George Serio and Donald Crabtree were both appointed to the Commission. They join Connolly, Magnolia, Jim Barrett, Carl Marinelli, and Mrs. Regina Picot on the seven-member board. Councilman Bart Barre will serve as council liaison.

Blood drive gets underway

The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church of Westfield and the Westfield-Mountainside Chapter of the American Red Cross have joined together to sponsor a blood drive to cover the community's blood replacement needs.
 The drive is scheduled for Monday, from 2 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 148 Mountain Ave., Westfield.
 All ages are welcome, but donors must be at least 17 and 65, weighing at least 110 pounds and in good health, with blood pressure under 160/90.
 The blood donation process takes less than 10 minutes and normal activity can be resumed shortly afterwards.
 The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church urges all Westfield residents to donate the gift of life and assisting that when the community's blood needs are met, the American Red Cross is a participating agency of

Probe centers on resolutions

By TIMOTHY OWENS
 An investigation by the prosecutor's office of alleged improprieties on the part of the Union County counsel centers on five resolutions adopted by the county Board of Chosen Freeholders. The allegations of improprieties, made by County Manager Louis J. Coletti, concern County Counsel Robert C. Doherty's handling of the resolutions to appropriate funds. Coletti, in a letter to County Prosecutor John Slamler dated Jan. 24 and made public late last week, alleged that the resolutions were not reviewed by the county's finance office. The resolutions, the latest of which was approved by the freeholder board last July 12, include a $30,000 appropriation for the ad-hoc committee on John E. Runnells Hospital, a $13,100 appropriation to Memorial General Hospital (MGH) in Union for the development of a long-range plan, a resolution to retain a firm to conduct an audit of the county purchasing department, a $45,500 appropriation to retain MGH for consulting services, and a resolution authorizing budget transfers of certain appropriations. In the letter, Coletti alleged that the failure to send the resolutions through the proper channels could possibly violate the county's administrative code.

Slamler was unavailable for comment Tuesday. Assistant Prosecutor Richard Rodbart, in answer to inquiries regarding how long the investigation might take and what penalties could be involved for violations of the county's administrative code, would only say that "the matter is under review." Doherty said that he didn't know why he had been singled out by Coletti, but that he had "a lot of suspicions." "It is one of those political things," Doherty said. "I have a political position and I have to expect that things like this will occur." Noting that the allegations involved "administrative procedures," the counsel said, "nothing criminal is involved here." He called the allegations "totally surprising." Doherty said that when he was informed of the prosecutor's investigation, "You could have knocked me over with a feather." He added that he was considering filing a defamation suit against Coletti, "unless there is a public retraction," but would not act until the prosecutor's investigation is concluded. He said that he is optimistic about the result of the investigation. "I have nothing to fear." Doherty, whose term as county counsel expires next year, was appointed to the post in January 1981 after being named deputy county attorney. The 42-year-old Westfield resident served as assistant county prosecutor from 1971 to 1972. Two Democratic freeholders criticized Coletti for bypassing the board and going directly to the prosecutor. At the Jan. 31 board meeting, Freeholder Michael Lapolla questioned why the county manager did not bring the matters to light sooner, especially since they involved resolutions dating as far back as July 12. He said Coletti's charges involved administrative technicalities that could have been rectified if the board had been made aware of them. He added that if Doherty was at fault, so were the freeholders and other county officials. Lapolla said that he was "appalled" that Coletti went directly to the prosecutor without informing the freeholders. Freeholder Walter Boright said that he had a "serious question" about Coletti's "professionalism" in his failing to notify the freeholder board. Coletti did not return phone calls made to his office Tuesday. His monthly press conference, scheduled for Tuesday morning, was cancelled Friday.

Dems' caucus slated Feb. 20

Union County Democrats will hold a caucus at 8 p.m. Feb. 20 to elect 96 delegates to a gubernatorial-year party conference in Atlantic City March 3-5. Though the delegates will be chosen by the county committeemen and women, County Chairman Anthony Amalfe said that the meeting, at the Polish National Home at 300 Roselle St., Linden, will be open to the public. Union County will send 72 district delegates and 24 delegates at large to the state conference, which is expected to consider a platform for the 1985 election as well as candidates for the party nomination for governor. Some potential gubernatorial candidates also are expected to attend the county caucus, Amalfe said.

Additional information on the state conference, which will be held at Resorts International, and on the delegate selection process is available from the Union County Democratic Committee, 289-8400, or Kate Litvack at State Democratic Headquarters, 1-609-289-3367.

Slifer gift finances two therapy units

The Physical Therapy Department at Memorial General Hospital in Union has acquired two pieces of equipment with a $6,000 contribution from the Sara Slifer Orthopedic Relief.

Interferential current procedures produce less discomfort to the patient, making it superior to conventional electric muscle stimulators. This equipment also has other uses.

"Memorial General Hospital, and the Physical Therapy Department in particular, are deeply appreciative of the ongoing support it receives from the Sara Slifer Orthopedic Relief," said Valerie Freitas, physical therapy director. "Our department features the best in physical rehabilitation equipment — and this is due in great measure to the hard work performed by this charitable organization."

The Sara Slifer Orthopedic Relief is a non-profit organization which distributes orthopedic equipment to needy individuals. The group is also active in raising funds for area hospitals such as Memorial General. The hospital named its physical therapy department in honor of the group four years ago.

One of the items is a fluidotherapy unit, which uses small particles of solid matter suspended in heated air in a unit in which the hand, wrist, elbow or foot can be immersed. The sensation felt by the patient is similar to that of a whirlpool, but the results are more effective. Fluidotherapy is recommended for patients with strains, sprains, arthritis or healed fractures where the use of superficial heat is indicated.

The second piece of equipment is an interferential current, which has been used in Europe for more than 20 years but was only recently introduced to the United States.

The unit is a nerve and muscle stimulator which can reduce and relieve muscle spasms, alleviate pain by working on damaged nerves, and help in muscle strengthening.

Daycare bill proposed

State Sen. Donald T. DiFrancesco (R-22nd District) has introduced a bill to provide a comprehensive program of criminal background checks on anyone who works at a child care facility.

DiFrancesco said, "Right now, a case is being tried in California involving day care workers and the owners of the facility they worked in who have allegedly been abusing children in their care for more than a decade. This case is receiving national attention."

"A climate of fear and distrust has developed among parents who depend on day care for their youngsters. We must do everything we can to assure them their fears are unjustified. My bill would help us to do this."

DiFrancesco's legislation would require that criminal history records checks be conducted on all current employees and operators and any prospective owner or operator of child care facilities. The check would include a name and fingerprint identification check to determine if the person is fit to serve as an employee or operator of the facility.

After reviewing the information disclosed in the background check, if the Department of Human Services determines that the person is not qualified, that person would not be employed or permitted a license to operate a day care facility.

Kenilworth woman to perform recital

Ruth Schlenker, daughter of Dr and Mrs. George Schlenker of 501 Quinton Ave., Kenilworth, will present a clarinet recital on Sunday in Brown Hall at New England Conservatory, Boston, Mass.

Her program will include works by Arnold, Mozart, Rozsa, Debussy and Brahms. Schlenker will be assisted by two New Jersey residents, Gail Olszewski of Whippany and Carl Purdy of Ringwood.

Schlenker is completing a master of music program at the conservatory where she studies with Peter Haddock, a member of the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

A graduate of David Brearley Regional High School, Schlenker attended Ithaca College, Ithaca, N.Y., where she earned magna cum laude honors in music education and applied music. In college, she served as president of Sigma Alpha Iota, Epsilon Chapter of the National Music Honor Fraternity, a member of the Alpha Nu Chapter of Pi Kappa Lambda and Oracle Society. She was elected to "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities" while an undergraduate.

While growing up in Kenilworth, Schlenker studied clarinet with Herman Toplansky of Union and Herbert Blayman, principal clarinetist with the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra. She also studied with Leon Russianoff of New York City and Robert Schmidt of Ithaca.

Schlenker is presently a member of the wind ensemble, symphony orchestra, woodwind quintet and a trio at the New England Conservatory.

Laudable, but...

Two bills passed by the Assembly recently have laudable aims for improving the quality of public education, but don't show clear thinking in their present forms.

One bill, A-635, would set a minimum salary for all public school teachers that would increase each year by the rate at which state-wide per capita income increases. Under the companion measure, A-634, the state would reimburse local districts for the cost of bringing salaries up to the state minimum.

The concept of raising teacher salaries has been offered as a solution to the present woes of American education, most notably by a federal commission in a 1983 report, "A Nation at Risk." Its argument was that qualified teachers are difficult to find because of the low salaries offered in the profession. According to the New Jersey Education Association, the largest teachers' union, the median salary for starting teachers this year is $14,880.

Gov. Tom Kean proposed that the Legislature raise starting teacher salaries to $18,500, however, the Democratic majority in the Assembly went further. Under the bill's formula, tied to the rise in per-capita income, starting teacher salaries for 1985-86 would range from $19,795 to $20,200. We aren't about to split hairs in a discussion of what a starting teacher is worth. That is a topic we will deal with another time. We have other problems with the legislation.

A teacher who started work in the Mountainside school district in 1984-85, receives $15,490 annually. While the bill would set a minimum salary for all teachers, it contains no provision for the teachers with master's degrees and/or post-graduate credits to receive more than the minimum. Moreover, there may be teachers receiving $18,500 or more who have seven or eight years' experience. No doubt that they would seek increases as well. There is no plan for the state to reimburse local districts for this type of increase. It would have to be borne by local taxpayers.

The bills contain no provision for tying competency testing of teachers with the salary increases. The state's taxpayers will be footing the bill for the increases to the tune of $80 million next year, if the legislation is approved, and up to $110 million five years later. The state has to make sure that the taxpayers are getting their money's worth — qualified and quality teachers.

We hope that before the Senate acts on these bills, it addresses these issues. It has an incentive. Kean has promised to veto the bills if they are approved in their present form. There is too much at stake — the future of the state's education system — to waste too much time.

Reflections on reaching the age of 45

By GERRY DIGESU

I've always been happy when my birthday rolled around because it was a day to celebrate and reassess where my life was headed. Thirty was OK. By marrying young, I felt as if there had been much emotional growth in the 10 years since I became a bride. Even 35 wasn't bad. I experienced my first pregnancy and looked forward to a new phase of my life. Forty was an important birthday. My daughter started school and my two sons were old enough to be self-sufficient and also help me. "Life begins at 40" held every promise.

Then I was going to be 45. For the first time in my life I didn't want to celebrate a birthday. I didn't want to be 45 — five years away from 50. All of a sudden, 50 sounded old and I felt as if I was starting on the downhill swing of life, a place I didn't want to be.

But that was a while ago and during that time I've discovered that being 45 is a pretty comfortable place to be. My knees and stomach droop a little more, veins and spots are more predominant and I wish they weren't, but I don't feel as if I'm going to seed. I'm not fighting age (not too hard anyway), just accepting my appearance while still trying to look my best. I used to tsk, tsk at women who spent time in beauty parlors for perms and hair coloring. Now I join them. The "attractive mature woman" is rather how I would like to picture myself for a while.

There's an easiness about life that wasn't present before, an acceptance of what is and not constantly wishing for how it should be. I call myself a cynical idealist and leave it at that. It's not that I especially like the system, but have learned to work within and around it in a way that suits me. My values and principles haven't changed, they're still often contrary to the majority, but no longer do I spend feverish hours trying to convince you that my point of view is right. Now I can say with ease, "OK, that's the way you feel."

I hope my children have noticed a mellowing in my attitudes because it's there. I won't compromise values I cherish and hope to pass on to them, but try more gently to point out why my feelings are important rather than "you better think this way because I'm your mother."

When my daughter wants to wear a "punk" style outfit, I can say go ahead without preaching how foolish I think the style is. She's neat and clean, a good girl and this phase will also pass. It's easier for both of us.

It's a delight to watch my sons mature, apparently having assimilated most of the basic values and faith I've tried to impart to them. I know they live in a totally different world from the one in which I spent my teens and realize that many compromises are needed in order to survive, but it's reassuring to know they have a core of faith and principles on which to draw to help them cope with life. The most joyful moments of parenthood for me are as I watch my children implement principles I feel are vital to becoming a good, caring person.

My children have experienced the death of all their grandparents within the past few years, a very difficult time for our family. Yet this hurt drew us closer together. They learned how to pitch in and help unselfishly through long, heart-breaking months of illness. They helped each other draw on hidden strengths and share in a commitment of love. I became acutely aware of my own mortality and underwent a deep re-evaluation on the direction and meaning of my own life.

Even in death, though, there can be growth and benefits. We sorely miss the faces of our loved ones around the dining room table, especially at holiday time. But these places are being filled by members of a new, extended family. It's been a joy to reach out to others who are alone or whose family has diminished to unite and share new traditions, warmth and love.

I think sustaining a successful marriage where both partners can continue to grow and share is one of life's most difficult jobs. My husband and I have had rocky times over the years as countless others have, but there's something quite wonderful and reassuring to have an emotional, physical and spiritual communion with a mate of almost 25 years and the realization that whatever the future holds, our love can surmount any crisis.

So being 45 isn't bad after all. The blunt edges of life have smoothed out a little and it's easier to get through the day. I'm looking forward with great hope and joy to the next 45 years.

CPAs offer a quiz to test tax trivia IQ

Taxes certainly are not trivial; if you treat them lightly, you are bound to be pursued by the government. However, the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants thought you might enjoy playing a game of tax trivia to help raise your tax IQ. Can you answer the following questions without peeking at the answers at the end?

1. If you don't itemize deductions, but you do give to charity, the maximum amount you can deduct for a charitable contribution is:

(A) 25 percent of contributions up to $100. (B) 25 percent of contributions up to $300. (C) The full amount of any contribution less than $200. (D) You may only deduct a charitable contribution if you itemize deductions.

2. What is the maximum contribution a single person can make to an Individual Retirement Account (IRA)?

(A) $2,000. (B) $2,250. (C) $1,000. (D) Only married persons may contribute to an IRA.

3. Every taxpayer is allowed one of these, but a blind taxpayer 65 or older is allowed three. What is it?

4. True or False. Sixty percent of a long-term capital gain is not taxed, but a short-term gain is fully taxable.

5. Find the pair of deductible items — only one pair is deductible.

(A) Dog licenses, bar examination fees. (B) adoption costs, commuting expenses. (C) bad personal debts, investment guides. (D) title searches, excise taxes.

6. True or False. If you hold two jobs, the cost of commuting from your first to your second job is deductible.

7. True or False. While interest rates in general have been heading downward, the IRS has raised the interest rate it charges on overdue taxes — and pays on overdue refunds — from 11 percent to 13 percent compounded daily.

8. The standard mileage deduction for business-related driving is:

(A) 14 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles. (B) 20.5 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles. (C) There is no standard mileage deduction.

9. True or False. If a person dies in the middle of the year, no income tax return need be filed for that year.

10. Which three of the following are deductible? (A) cigarette taxes. (B) mortgage interest. (C) loan finance charges. (D) business gifts under $25. (E) bank fees for a personal checking account.

11. Choose one: ACRS stands for: (A) Alimony Credit Reporting Schedule, an IRS form showing compliance with alimony registration rules. (B) Accelerated Cost Recovery System, a rapid means of depreciating business property.

12. True or False. The cost of hiring a CPA to prepare your tax return is not deductible.

13. If two working people are married and file jointly, they are entitled to a two-earner deduction. It is worth:

(A) $100 off their tax bill. (B) 10 percent of the income of the lower-earning spouse up to $3,000. (C) The two-earner deduction was phased out in 1983.

14. The exclusion for interest income from savings accounts is:

(A) $100. (B) $200. (C) There is no exclusion on interest income earned from savings accounts.

15. True or False. For the first time ever, Social Security benefits may be taxed.

16. True or False. You may be entitled to a tax credit for adding storm windows in your home or apartment.

17. True or False. If you are single and receive unemployment benefits, your benefits may be taxed if your income is greater than $12,000.

18. True or False. You can take an itemized deduction for any medical expenses that exceed 5 percent of your adjusted gross income.

19. True or False. You can deduct any casualty losses that exceed 10 percent of your adjusted gross income and a $100 exclusion.

20. Bill is a welder and wears protective clothing to shield at him from the welding torch. He reports to a union hall to find out where he will work that day. He is entitled to deductions for: (select the best answer.)

(A) The cost of clothing and trip to the union hall. (B) The cost of clothing and laundering it. (C) The cost of the clothing, laundering it and the trip from the union hall to work but not the trip from home to the union hall. (D) The cost of clothing and laundry bills, but none of the traveling costs.

ANSWERS

1. B. 2. A. 3. An exemption. 4. True. 5. C. 6. True. 7. True. 8. B. 9. False. 10. B, C, D. 11. B. 12. False. 13. B. 14. C. 15. True. 16. True. 17. True. 18. True. 19. True. 20. C.

Dentists continue an annual tradition

February is National Children's Dental Health Month, the 37th annual celebration of this event. In Springfield, Dr. Lee Kaswiner and Dr. Irwin Hammer have started their own annual Children's Dental Health Month tradition. This will be their sixth year of going into the local public and parochial schools of Springfield to educate the youth of the town. Come February, all fourth graders in town can learn about dentistry and dental health "first hand".

Kaswiner and Hammer speak to the children in small groups and allow them to become involved in performing dental procedures on models. They learn about nutrition, proper tooth brushing and problems that bad habits such as thumb sucking can cause. The response by the fourth graders has always been one of interest and excitement, and both the classroom teachers and school nurses report of increased enthusiasm and awareness after the annual "dentist's visit." Kaswiner and Hammer always receive lovely drawings and thank you notes from the children.

Kaswiner is co-chairman of Children's Dental Health Month for the Union County Dental Society. He is an orthodontist in Springfield who has been in practice with his father for seven years. Kaswiner is also chairman of the Orthodontic Department at Newark Beth Israel Medical Center.

Hammer is a general dentist in Springfield. He established his practice 10 years ago after serving a tour of duty in the armed services. He resides in Springfield with his wife, and three children, who all attend Springfield public schools.

The following is the menu of lunches to be served next week at the Becky Seal Nutrition Center in the Raymond Chisholm School, Springfield.

MONDAY—Hamburger, baked beans, coleslaw, fresh fruit salad, milk, and beef noodle soup.

TUESDAY—Closed for holiday.

WEDNESDAY—Chicken chow mein, rice, fried noodles, broccoli cuts, applesauce, milk, and cream of chicken soup.

THURSDAY—Roast beef au jus, mashed potatoes, red cabbage, fruit cocktail, milk, and cream of potato soup.

FRIDAY—Batter dipped fish, spaghetti and sauce, lettuce wedge and dressing, fresh fruit, milk and prune juice.

All meals are served with bread and margarine.

AT&T official heads tribute

William Kastning, director of Springfield operations for AT&T Technology Systems, will serve as chairman of the sixth annual Tribute to Women and Industry (TWIN) awards.

Sponsored by the YWCA of Plainfield/North Plainfield, the awards honor successful businesswomen for their accomplishments in executive, managerial and professional roles, and recognize companies whose policies encourage the advancement of women in business and industry.

The 1985 TWIN awards will be presented May 16 at the Town and Campus, West Orange.

Corporations interested in participating in this year's TWIN project should contact the YWCA at 756-3836.

Steirs win honors in college studies

Robert and Michelle Steir, children of Enid and Alan Steir of Warwick Circle, Springfield, have been named to the dean's lists at their colleges for the fall semester.

Robert is a junior at Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., where he is a finance major. Michelle is a sophomore at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa., and plans to major in psychology.

Both are graduates of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield.

Filler nominated for scholar award

Fred Filler of Mountainside has been nominated for New Jersey's first class of distinguished scholars. He was notified of the nomination by T. Edward Hollander, state chancellor of higher education.

The Distinguished Scholars Program, signed into law by Gov. Thomas Kean last year, was created to recognize the state's outstanding students. It provides for a $1,000 annual scholarship award for up to four years of undergraduate study at a state college or university, and is renewable if the student continues to make satisfactory academic progress.

pool opened in 1969, retired last month. She and her husband, Everett, long-time residents of Springfield, have moved to Florida.

More than 100 persons attended a recent dinner honoring her at the YWCA.

"I feel that if a child can swim it alleviates a lot of problems," says Kaufman. "I want to make them safe in the water. I'm not as concerned how the stroke looks as long as they stay afloat. Refining the stroke comes later."

Kaufman has been particularly interested in teaching children with handicaps to swim. She donated much time and financial support to the YW's swimming program for children with special needs. The Sue Kaufman Fund will continue to support these efforts.

Under her guidance, the YW has developed "special classes" for the neurologically-impaired children or children who need more personalized attention and function better in smaller classes.

She also taught swimming at the Brooklake Daycamp in Florham Park for 21 years.

Free car checks set for Wednesday

The Union County Regional High School District No. 1, in celebration of Vocational-Education-Week in Union County, has arranged for free auto emissions and safety inspections for residents of the regional district in its Vocational Automotive Shops.

Instructors and students in automotive mechanics programs at David Brearley Regional High School, Kenilworth, and Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark, have set aside Wednesday, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., for the inspections. Residents of the regional district.

from Kenilworth, Mountainside, Springfield, Berkeley Heights, Clark, and Garwood who wish to participate must call in advance since all inspections will be conducted by appointment only.

Appointments may be made by calling Eugene Stryker, automotive instructor at David Brearley Regional High School, 272-7500, or Ronald Foster, automotive instructor at Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, 382-0910.

Auto emissions and safety inspections will serve to point out hazards to safe driving and to improve the quality of the environment by assisting in the reduction of auto pollutants.

Stanley Grossman, Regional District Vocational director, is in charge of the project.

District to show off facilities

Public tours of the vocational, technical and business education facilities of the Union County Regional High School District No. 1 will be conducted Tuesday and Feb. 14, it was announced by Stanley Grossman, director of Vocational Education and Emma Massey, coordinator of Business Education, for the Regional District.

The guided tours, arranged in conjunction with National Vocational Education Week, Feb. 10 to 16, will enable residents to observe student offerings in automobiles, beauty culture, computer technology, electronics technology, child care, occupational business classes, word processing and many others.

A program orientation will be held in the Instructional Media Center at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, at 8:30 a.m. From there, 25 guests per day will be transported to Governor Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights; Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School, Clark; and David Brearley Regional High School, Kenilworth. Lunch will be provided during the tour which will conclude at about 3 p.m. each day.

Residents of the Regional District are requested to make reservations by tomorrow by calling Grossman between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. at 376-6300, Ext. 253.

Alarm reminder

The Springfield Police Department reminds residents that burglar alarms must be registered in the Police Department by Jan. 1, of each year.

Applications may be obtained at headquarters or by calling Crime Prevention Officer George Hildner at 376-0400, Ext. 54.

Overlook M.D. named UMDNJ trustee

Michael Bernstein, M.D., chairman of Medical Education and director of Internal Medicine at Overlook Hospital, has been confirmed as a trustee of the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey (Newark, Piscataway and Camden).

Dr. Bernstein was nominated by Gov. Thomas Kean and his nomination was given unanimous approval by the Senate.

Bernstein also has begun a six-year term as a regent of the American College of Physicians. He was elected in April 1984 to the governing body of the 60,000-member physician organization, which serves as the "academic arm of internal medicine" promoting "high standards in medical education, medical practice and medical research."

As a member of the board of trustees of the state's medical schools for the next three years, Bernstein will be involved in setting standards and establishing policies for the training of physicians, dentists, and nurses on both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

"This position provides me the opportunity to be of help in promoting the growth of the state medical schools," Bernstein explained.

He brings to the trusteeship many years of experience in teaching young physicians and in developing medical education programs. He is a full professor at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York City, with which Overlook Hospital is affiliated and has been program director and chairman of Overlook's Internal Medicine Residency program since 1973. He also has been an attending physician in Internal Medicine and Cardiology at Overlook for 23 years.

Bernstein has been involved in the Internal Medicine Residency Program both as an administrator and a teacher since its inception, molding it into a highly attractive program sought after by graduate physicians. He took on the additional chairmanship of Medical Education at Overlook in 1983 bringing all postgraduate education under his supervision. Hundreds of medical school graduates apply each year for about 100 positions in Overlook's seven residency programs.

"We're trying to bring back the broad-based physician who spends meaningful time with his patient. We are encouraging more physicians to enter the field of general internal medicine and are providing more expertise in the field of gerontology. Because New Jersey has the 10th oldest population in the nation, medical students and residents here require more special training in the single and team approach to the care of older citizens."

Bernstein was a governor of the American College of Physicians for five years before being elected to the 18-member board of regents.

As a regent of the largest organization of internists and allied subspecialists in the world, Bernstein is involved in policy-making including national-level academic policies, and contributes his expertise to all the accrediting bodies of internal medicine.

Bernstein was a Phi Beta Kappa student at New York University and a 1953 graduate of New York Medical College. His postgraduate work in Gastroenterology, Internal Medicine and Cardiology was done at Manhattan Veterans Hospital (Cornell Division), Montefiore Hospital and Beth Israel Hospital, all in New York City. He then entered private practice in Internal Medicine in Summit and Millburn until joining Overlook to develop the residency program.

DR. MICHAEL BERNSTEIN

Three elected by instructors

Two Springfield police officers and one from Mountainside have been elected to office by the Union County Firearms Instructors Association.

They are Officer George Hildner of the Springfield Police Department, who has been named corresponding secretary; Officer John Olock of the Mountainside Police Department, treasurer; and Officer John Sasileo of the Springfield Police Department, sergeant-at-arms.

The association is composed of a pool of firearms instructors from every police department in the county, the sheriff's office and the prosecutor's office. Its members serve as staff for the Union County Police Chiefs Academy, operated in conjunction with Union County College.

Toddlers prepared for new sibling

To prepare little ones for the new baby, Overlook Hospital in Summit is offering a new program, Toddler Sibling Preparation.

The program is given on Saturdays from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m. Parents discuss closely-spaced children, learn how to prepare the toddler for the new sibling, and discuss how to deal with a toddler's negative reaction. Parents and children also visit the nursery and maternity unit.

The next class will be held Saturday. There is a $15 fee for the family, and class size is limited.

Overlook Hospital also offers a Prepared Sibling course for children ages 3 to 12 and a monthly breastfeeding class for expectant couples, whether they have decided to breastfeed or not. The next class will be held Wednesday from 8 to 10 p.m.

Fathers as well as mothers are encouraged to attend the session. After a film, discussion will include physiology of breastfeeding, advantages and disadvantages, diet and nutrition, coping with common problems and breastfeeding and the working mother. Overlook also offers a comprehensive review of Lamaze techniques for expectant couples who have taken classes previously. There are three Friday classes offered in each series, from 8 to 10 p.m.

Family-centered maternity care plus adjustment to the expanding family will be discussed. The next series begins tomorrow. Couples should sign up six weeks before their due date.

Interested persons may register for any of the above programs by calling the Health Education Department at 522-2963.

Wacker obtains honor

Robert J. Wacker, of Colfax Avenue, Kenilworth, was the recipient of the first place award, Single Sheet Division, for the state of New Jersey from the American Legion Press Club of New Jersey given at the annual Awards Dinner on Jan. 13. The dinner was held at the Galloping Hill Restaurant, 5 Points, Union.

Wacker has worked as the editor of the Rolling Roundhouse, the newspaper put out by the Union County Voiture 227, 40/8 for the past 17 years. The Rolling Roundhouse lists all the important events and articles important to the American Legion and the 40/8, which is the Honor Society of the American Legion.

In addition to the awards which are given to the various American Legion Posts and Auxiliary Units, for outstanding publications during the year, the Press Club also awards a scholarship award to the son or daughter of a member of the American Legion or Auxiliary.

Eligibility is also extended to any student who has attended the American Legion Boys State or American Legion Auxiliary Girl State programs. The applicant must intend to work toward a degree related to the field of communications.

Journal cites lawsuit

A case that was successfully prosecuted by a Springfield firm was the subject of attention recently in "Jury Verdict Research," a national publication.

That review described a verdict achieved by Springfield attorney Jack Wurgaft on behalf of an injured client as one of national significance.

Red Cross to hold blood drive Friday

The Eastern Union County Chapter of the American Red Cross will hold a blood drive tomorrow at the chapter house, 203 West Jersey St., Elizabeth. Co-sponsored by New Jersey Blood Services, the drive will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Anyone between the ages of 17 and 65, weighing at least 110 pounds and in good health can donate blood.

She's no stranger to mid-life

By ROSE P. SIMON
Following are reviews of some books currently available at the Springfield Public Library.

A LOOK AT MIDDLE AGE
"I'm a Stranger Here Myself," by Joan Scobey.

Middle-age may come on swiftly or stealthily, but there isn't any way it will be welcome. In any case, Scobey succeeds in portraying this "epidemic" condition sometimes seriously, but often cheerfully and humorously (to soften the blow?). Her own recognition of having "arrived" was when she was invited to her 30th college reunion while she had been feeling like 27. She indicates that each person becomes aware of mid-life differently, and for various reasons.

Parents feel the generation gap when a child leaves for college, or announces that he is living with a girlfriend, or is joining the Peace Corps in Africa. When the children are married — or no longer living at home — there are often difficult adjustments to keep the parents' marriage in equilibrium (careers, extra-marital relationships, divorce). Quoting from professional sources, such as psychologists, psychiatrists, sociologists, medical men, friends, famous people, the author illustrates and confirms her own theories about the middle years (40-to-50), analyzing the problems and offering guidance.

Scobey refers to the pains and aches that come with aging, the current mania for fitness to prove one's youthfulness through tennis, jogging, swimming, etc., taking high risks in business and physical activities, the need for men to take stock, the women's move toward independence and autonomy, coping with generational affiliations, and coming to terms with death.

A HISTORY OF WOMEN'S COLLEGES

"Alma Mater," by Helen Lefkowitz Horowitz.

Horowitz, now associate professor of history at Scripps College, Claremont, Calif., has written a history of the original Seven Sisters colleges (Mount Holyoke, Vassar, Wellesley, Smith, Radcliffe, Bryn Mawr and Barnard) and their "offspring" (Bennington, Sarah Lawrence, Scripps). In addition she has included their women's studies, education, planning, landscape and architecture. This material provides data about the way American women were perceived by men, and subsequently by themselves.

Although founders offered curriculum imitative of men's colleges, they tried to shape the communal life of women by creating distinctive buildings and landscapes. On the other hand, the students, through athletics and organizations, transformed their imposed notions of femininity by drawing from men's experiences in college and altering their own landscape. The author indicates how pressure within and without administrations transformed the policies of the founders by "raising standards, shifting imagery, reorganizing its forms of governance, and erecting new buildings."

At the end of the first century, after the founding of Mount Holyoke, there were many changes: campus design, student heterosexuality, professors of both sexes, emphasis on liberal arts, etc. Since World War II, the demand for privacy, the new goals for service and personal success, the relaxation of sexual values, the broadening of intellectual choices for women, evolving notions of democracy, had their influence not so much on campus design as on academic and extra-curricular programs.

The author includes portraits of the founders in each case, and those subsequent persons who strongly influenced the character of each institution. There are also many photographs illustrating the old and the new.

Faith marks 20 years at counseling agency

Milton Faith, executive director of Youth and Family Counseling Service, Westfield, recently celebrated his 20th year at the agency.

David McCornack, president of the agency's board, explained that Faith took over as director in 1964 with the goal in mind of establishing a permanent home for the counseling service, in existence since 1918.

Faith is a graduate of New York University and was employed at the Child Guidance Clinic of the Oranges and Maplewood. He became director of the adolescent program at the clinic and was consultant at the League for Family Service in Bloomfield.

In 1964, Youth and Family Counseling Service was situated in a suite of offices at 24 Prospect St. The service moved to its present location at 233 Prospect St. in 1966 and has grown into a viable, vital family counseling and mental health resource. Presently, it is staffed by 10 professional clinicians and is open five days and three evenings a week.

"It is interesting to notice the change in primary problems referred to the agency," Faith explained. "Originally, the agency met with two-parent, intact families. The conflicts centered on length of hair, black leather jackets, marital stress after one to five years of marriage, dating problems, depression and aggressive and hostile behavior."

Faith contrasts this with the increase in emergent and crisis situations. The cases the center is handling now include a majority in which the mother works, a total of 60 percent involving single parent homes, and numerous couples who have been married longer periods of time — five to 25 years.

He added, "We are noting more depression, anxiety and self-destructive behavior — overdosing on drugs and alcohol exist in many situations." He notes that increasingly professionals are able to identify problems in young children and families are encouraged to seek professional help at a much earlier stage.

Local students receive distinction

In local college news, the following students were awarded degrees or received honors for academic distinction:

Cindy S. Freund of Ridge Drive, Mountainside, received her bachelor of science degree in consumer and family science from Purdue University, West Lafayette, Ind., in graduation ceremonies Dec. 22.

John Randolph Enders of Mountainside was named to the dean's list at Westminster Choir College, Princeton, for the fall semester. Enders is a junior studying voice performance and pedagogy.

Walter Dawydiak and Michael Kossor of Kenilworth were both named to the dean's list at the New Jersey Institute of Technology, Newark, for the fall semester. The NJIT dean's list requires a minimum grade point average of 3.0 based on a four-point scale.

Stephen N. Soloman of Mountainside was named to the honors list for the fall semester at Fairleigh Dickinson University, Teaneck. Soloman satisfied the honors list requirements by maintaining a minimum 3.5 grade point average.

James K. Darecca, of Cental Avenue, Mountainside, was named to the dean's list at Bloomsburg University, Bloomsburg, Penn. A senior, Darecca was one of 880 undergraduates named to the dean's list at Bloomsburg for the fall semester, in satisfying the minimum 3.5 grade point average standard.

Bradley gets Intelligence position

Sen. Bill Bradley has been named to the Select Committee on Intelligence.

He is one of four Democrats named to the committee this year. The other new members are Sen. David Boren (D-Okla.), Sen. Thomas Eagleton (D-Mo.), and Sen. Ernest Hollings (D-S.C.).

"I am very pleased by my appointment to the Intelligence Committee," Bradley said. "It is a big responsibility and I accept it with a determination to do the best job I can."

"Being on the committee will allow me to develop expertise in national security and defense questions by giving me an in-depth understanding of these areas." Over the next six years, there will be no more critical committee in formulating the long-term United States strategy toward the world."

Bradley, who has sought the nomination to the Intelligence Committee for three years, will continue to serve on the Finance Committee, Energy Committee, and Special Committee on Aging.

Clinics planned for smokers

"I just decided that I wanted to quit," says Frank J. Hiljer of Mountainside. "I knew it wasn't good for me and that if I stopped I might live a little longer. I heard about the Freedom From Smoking Clinic at Children's Specialized Hospital and I decided to give it a try."

Hospice sets youth series

The Hospice Program at Overlook Hospital in Summit is sponsoring a six-week bereavement series which will offer help to two separate age groups of young people: children 6 to 12 years old and teens from 13 to 17.

Weekly meetings will be held Wednesdays, starting Feb. 27, 7 to 8:30 p.m., at St. John's Lutheran Church, 587 Springfield Ave., Summit.

Led by trained counselors, each 90-minute session will feature multimedia techniques and group and individual discussions on disease and death.

Refreshments will be served. Further information may be obtained by calling 522-2089.

Hiljer, a smoker for 50 years, hasn't had a cigarette since completing the clinic. "Attending Freedom From Smoking was a big help to me," he says. "Being with a group of people who were all trying to quit gave me a lot of support and encouragement." The Freedom From Smoking Clinic, cosponsored by Children's Specialized Hospital and the American Lung Association of Central New Jersey, will be held again beginning Feb. 21.

The clinic, which consists of seven Thursday sessions, from 7 to 8:30 p.m., is designed to help smokers develop a plan of action for quitting and staying off the cigarette habit.

"I tried to quit smoking about 25 years ago and I couldn't do it," says Hiljer. "But since then, my daughters have grown up and they've been after me for the longest time to stop smoking. As a matter of fact," he adds, "I now have several grandchildren and whenever I would go to visit them, my daughters would make me go outside if I wanted a cigarette."

"I noticed immediately after I stopped smoking that my chest was less congested and I didn't cough so much," Hiljer says. "I found that food tastes better to me now and when I recently went to my dentist for a checkup, he told me that my teeth are a lot cleaner."

According to the American Lung Association of Central New Jersey, decreased congestion and coughing, improved taste buds and cleaner teeth are just a few of the benefits in store for the smoker who kicks the habit. Other benefits for the ex-smoker include a healthier physical appearance, increased energy and stamina, a reduced risk of developing an ulcer and a much lowered risk of disability and death from coronary heart disease and smoking related lung diseases such as chronic bronchitis and emphysema.

"My daughters were elated when I told them I quit smoking," says Hiljer. "They couldn't wait for me to come out and visit so they could see for themselves that I had actually kicked the habit." "And," he concludes, "if I can do it after smoking for 50 years, anybody can do it."

Those interested in registering for the Freedom From Smoking Clinic, which begins Feb. 21 at Children's Specialized Hospital, may call Barbara Maehl, 233-3720.

75th

This year the Boy Scouts are celebrating 75 years of community service. Teaching boys to become responsible adults, they get involved with society, working towards a better life...one with a social conscience. It's a great way to learn responsibility and start out life. At any age, from cubs to adults, these energetic souls are the life blood of the community they serve through volunteering.

Hummel's delivers the goods

Hummel Distributors—A quiet facade hides the stream of activity that goes on behind the doors at Hummel's. The Union company handles average jobs of distributing 10,000 to 50,000 pieces of mail.

The Hummel Mail and Printing Distributing Corporation hasn't been in business for more than 100 years because it knows how to stuff an envelope. Herbert Hummel Jr., the owner of the company, believes it has expanded and profited because it strives for customer satisfaction.

Hummel's prints and distributes newsletters, flyers, price lists, brochures and a score of other items in the metropolitan area.

"Anyone can stuff an envelope," Hummel tells his employees, "it's the fringe items that make the difference." He knows that the most persuasive literature or advertisements will not make a difference unless they are timely when they reach the reader.

When Henry Hummel, Herb's grandfather, began distributing circulars by hand in Newark in 1884, he had no idea he was establishing a tradition of service.

In the early 1920s, Herbert Sr. took over where his dad left off, but he now had the advantage of using automobiles in the business. When he picked up the reins, Herb Sr. traded the horse and buggy team for delivery trucks.

Although a mature business, Hummel's didn't move to its present location at 850 Springfield Road, Union, until June. The original Newark operation moved to Hillside, where it operated for 20 years.

When his father retired, in the early 1960s, Herb Jr. stepped in and expanded the company to include on-site printing. He also decided to modernize the hand-delivery business to mail delivery.

Herb Jr. was exposed to the family business all his life, but remembers he was about 10 when he started paying attention. He was eager to get started in the operation and "make money."

He recalls the times when he had about 50 customers and would wait for work to come in. Now his clientele numbers about 800.

Hummel admits technological progress has also helped his business, particularly computers. He praises the computer for making it a breeze to get demographic breakdowns for mail distributions. Hummel's also has machinery which stuffs, seals and stamps envelopes, tasks which were formerly done by hand.

In addition to assuring that materials will be packaged correctly and mailed promptly, Hummel's specializes in presorting for the post office. This procedure, according to Hummel, can save a client money on postal rates.

He prefers that the company take three working days for an average project, ranging from 10,000 to 50,000 pieces, but adds, "Sometimes you have to do the impossible."

Hummel also believes a tenacious staff is a bonus to operations. He is proud that there is no "revolving door" for the employees in his company.

"Fortunately, we've been lucky to find good people and I've been able to keep them happy — so consequently they stay. This is a unique business and it takes a long time to groom people to understand and know what we do here," Hummel explains.

Hummel is a born and bred Unionite. He and his wife and two children currently reside in the Orchard Park section of the township.

Hummel's is open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday, and Saturday if "absolutely necessary."

"We are in a service business, the only thing we can do is sell service," Hummel says.

Dayton, Brearley vie in UCT wrestle

By WAYNE TILLMAN

The Union County wrestling tournament will begin tomorrow at 5:30 p.m. at the Dunn Sports Center in Elizabeth with the preliminaries and quarterfinals. The tourney concludes Saturday, starting at 10:30 a.m. with the semifinals and the consolation at 1:30 p.m. At 2:30 will be the championship finals in all weight classes.

There will also be a team champion crowned and four teams have a definite shot this year: Westfield, Roselle Park, Cranford and Union.

Who will win? It's hard to tell, but Union coach Al Lilley feels tonight's seeding meeting could tell the tale.

"The meeting will be very critical," he said. "There are so many good wrestlers this year and the talent is spread out over all the weight classes, so a lot will depend on the seedings."

Cranford is the defending champion, but undefeated Roselle Park, who captured the season-opening North Hunterdon tournament without an individual champion, will severely test them, as will Westfield, who is very strong, and Union, who will definitely vie for honors in many of the weights. Governor Livingston, Brearley, Dayton and New Providence all have talented competitors and must be watched.

A brief look at each of the weight classes:

•101: The top area entrant is Dayton's Jim Yee, who was just handed his first loss this season by GL's Phil Esposito. Along with Esposito, Elizabeth's Gary Fuller, Park's Scott Toy, Plainfield's Ron Lewis and Rahway's Orlando Washington bear watching.

•108: Gary Jones of Cranford is one of the top wrestlers here, but will be tested by the Panthers' other freshman sensation, Rob Kinney, as well as Paul Robinson of Scotch Plains and the defending champion, Westfield's John Schaefer.

•115: Undefeated Jim Shelhorn of Governor Livingston is the early favorite here, but will be challenged by defending champ Rob O'Hara of Westfield and Summit's Pat Catullo.

•122: Excellent class led by Union's Jim Colley, John Ahearn of New Providence and Rich Sheehan of Brearley. Colley and Ahearn, who have had some excellent bouts against each other in the past, could meet in the final.

•129: Scotch Plains' Ralph Sorrentino has the best mark this season, but with Paul Minicelli of Brearley, Matt Locatelli of Dayton, Frank Genova of Cranford and Joe Placa of Roselle Park, it will be most competitive.

•135: The early favorite is Hillside's Kevin Burkert, but will face competition from George Muench of New Providence and Dave Aldridge of Cranford. Roselle Park's Ed Jachim is another possible contender.

•141: Larry Montero of Cranford, who has won 14 of 16 matches this year, looks to be the early favorite, but Linden's Pat Scanlon and Brearley's Scott Musik could surprise.

•148: Summit's Enzo Catullo, the defending state champion and 14-0 this season, is favored, although Linden's Joe Legiec and Union's Tom Lilley could surprise.

•158: Larry Guarino of Union, 15-1 this season, looks to be the man to beat here, but will be up against some good competition in Ken Weeks of Summit, Toly Volkov of Westfield, Dayton's Dave Salsido and Johnson Regional's Ken Sarnecki.

•70: Along with 148, this is the most competitive weight class of the tournament. Mike Stagaard of Westfield, Paul Feola of Roselle Park, Keith Blackston of Hillside, Dan Waldron of Union and Dan Kelaher of New Providence are all title contenders.

•188: This class won't be short on talent, either, not with the likes of Westfield's Jay Factor, Roselle Park's Jamie Shriner, Brearley's Lou Pascarella, Governor Livingston's Jay Haddad and Union's Nick Yarussi. Any one of them could win this class.

•Heavyweight: Defending champ Tony Siragusa of Brearley is the favorite, but it will be tough against a field highlighted by Union's Jeff Barber, Roselle Park's Mike Antonucci, Dayton's Tom Verducci and Scotch Plains' Mark Witzal.

Other defending champs returning are Feola, Shriner, Genova and O'Hara.

Dayton cagers fall to Roselle in 2 OTs

So near, and yet so far.

The Dayton boys basketball team went to Roselle last Friday with one goal in mind: to snap the Rams' 42-game winning streak at home. And they almost did it.

The Bulldogs fought back from an 18-point deficit in the second half and battled the defending state Group II champions through two overtimes.

Junior Minutemen top West Point

By CHRIS PETINO

The Springfield Minutemen opened up last week's action with their annual game against West Point. This game has been a tradition in the schedule for the last five years. The tradition started in 1979 when Fred Marech brought his senior team up to West Point Military Academy to play a game against the sons of the officers at the Point. The Minutemen have played them every year since.

The Juniors defeated the young team 49-16. Danny LaMorges led the juniors with 11 points and 12 rebounds, followed by Justin Petino and Bobby Sabol, who netted six points each. Greg Graziano scored four points and led the team with five assists. James Morrison, Matthew Gallaro and Ryan Lissy netted three. Claudio Reyna, Chris Swanstrom and Daniel Monaco scored a basket each while Mike Montonari sank a foul shot. Noah Scheinmann played a fine game on both ends of the court.

The Juniors next game was against New Providence and they won that one, 50-29. LaMorges led his team by scoring 18 points and tearing down 15 rebounds. Monaco scored 10 points followed by Petino with nine. Graziano, Lissy, Gallaro and Jamie Shultz each scored two points. Graziano also had five assists and three steals and Morrison also scored.

The Juniors capped off the week by defeating Summit, 41-39. LaMorges once again led the Juniors in both scoring and rebounding with 12 and 10, respectively. Petino scored 10 points, followed by Graziano with five and Monaco with four. Reyna, Lissy, Montonari, Swanstrom and Shutz each scored two points.

play this year," said Dayton coach Ray Yanchus. "We fall asleep early in the game, then respond. Nenner had a big offensive game and Rob Fusco and Tom Kisch played great games, especially on defense."

The Rams led 24-14 after one period before Dayton cut the deficit to 32-26 at halftime. Roselle led 53-38 after three periods before the tough Bulldog defense and good outside shooting sparked a 29-14 final period burst that forced a 67-67 tie at the end of regulation.

Each team tallied four points in the first overtime, but Dwayne Carter, who scored 25 points for Roselle, sank key free throws in the second extra session to win it.

The tough game had an effect on the Rams, who saw their winning streak end at 43 less than 24 hours later in a 40-35 setback at the hands of St. Mary's of Elizabeth.

Basketball program set

The Springfield Recreation Department's Teen Basketball program will be held at the Dayton Regional High School boys gym Feb. 12, 14, 26 and 28 from 7:30-9:30 p.m. All Springfield residents are invited to participate.

Mountainside LL sets registration

Registration for the 32nd year of Mountainside Little League baseball will be held this Saturday from 9:30 a.m.-12 noon and this Monday from 7-9 p.m. in the Deerfield School cafeteria.

Any boy or girl from the second grade up is eligible to enroll. Registration fee is $25 for the first child, $15 for the second and $10 for each thereafter. Applicants must be accompanied by a parent or guardian.

The league will require parent participation for a maximum of two hours during the season. Further information is available from Graham Miller at 232-1960 or any board member.

Harding wrestlers have winning week

The Harding School wrestling team won its second straight match recently, 48-30 over Pingry. Winning by pin for the Hawks were Joe Squillaro, Brian Chalenski, Anthony Romano, Mike Ramos, Antonio Galuzzo and Walter Kimmel, while winning by decision were Bob Cox and Len Lueddeke.

The Hawks then won their third straight meet in a 45-11 triumph over Belleville Middle School. Victor Verno started the winners off with a 10-0 victory at 85 pounds.

The middle of the lineup then exploded with pins from Squillaro, Chalenski, Romano, Ramos and John Lynch. Romano and Ramos each had pins in under a minute.

Perry Cardoso earned a draw at 120 pounds, Galuzzo a 10-3 win at 138 and Walter Kimmel had a 45-second pin at 148.

Last week, the Hawks came from behind to win the first place trophy at the Elizabeth Invitational Middle School tournament.

Harding was trailing going into the consolation round when Chalenski (95 pounds) and Lynch (105) both recorded pins to clinch third in their respective weight classes.

Also winning for Harding were Bob Taylor, Jr. (75), Verno, Squillaro, Romano, Ramos and Galuzzo. Kimmel and Elio Siragusa took seconds and Cox a fourth.

Harding then rolled to a 48-21 win over Park of Scotch Plains as Squillaro, Chris Layden, Romano, Lynch and Mike Ramos all had pins, as did Kimmel and Siragusa.

Right-to-know supporters plan next steps

each year with occupational-related diseases.

An 11-member Worker and Community Right-to-Know Advisory Council was set up to oversee compliance with the law.

The law, however, ran into trouble as soon as it went into effect.

In August, a broad-based group of manufacturers and businesses, calling themselves the Chemical Industry Council of New Jersey and New Jersey Business and Industry Association, filed suit to stop the law. Their argument was that the law conflicted with federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) standards concerning the same matters.

The group later filed a second suit on the grounds that the law would require costly environmental surveys, the disclosure of trade secrets and duplicative labeling, reports and training programs.

On Dec. 20, the New Jersey Right-to-Know Coalition, made up of 70 environmental and labor groups, accused the state's chemical industry of refusing to provide employees, emergency agencies and the general public with hazardous substance information.

The coalition contended that group members were following OSHA standards and ignoring the new law. At that time, Rick Engler, associate director of the Philadelphia area project on occupational safety and health, said that group members were delaying the filing of required forms until the suit was settled despite the fact that the law was in effect.

The group countered that information was being provided to emergency agencies and that they were supporting a new legislative proposal by state Sen. Raymond Lesniak, D-20, that would set up a Hazardous Materials Advisory Council. The purpose of the council would be to define the risks of exposure to hazardous materials and increase preparedness to deal with emergencies involving the materials.

That council was never established.

A day later, Dec. 21, the coalition called for the resignation of four members of the advisory council. The coalition accused the members, who were corporate officials with American Cyanamid, Ciba-Geigy, Exxon, and Union Carbide, with "committing blatant conflicts of interest."

At the time, Engler said that the companies these officials represented had sworn to have the right-to-know law abolished.

The officials were Engle Southard of Union Carbide, Joseph Caporossi of American Cyanamid, Gastone Bello of Ciba-Geigy and Thomas Whaley of Exxon. Southard was chairman of the council.

Southard's reply was that the accusations were "strange" and "out of order."

None of the members of the council resigned their positions.

As the accusations kept the law in the limelight throughout 1984, the suit filed by the industry and business groups was heard in January.

U.S. District Court Judge Dickinson Debevoise ruled that manufacturing firms were exempt from the law.

In effect, his ruling now requires that non-manufacturing firms, or users, file a full disclosure with the appropriate agencies on on-site substances while exempting manufacturers, or producers, from the law.

For example, under Debevoise's ruling, a propane-producer does not have to file a report with state, county or local agencies, but a warehouse that uses propane to run its forklifts does.

Non-manufacturing firms are also required to provide substance-handling training for their employees and also make substance reports available to employees on demand.

One basis for Debevoise's decision was that state officials had never sought federal approval of their regulations. Without clear-cut federal backing, state statutes are pre-empted wherever they are inconsistent with federal law, according to Debevoise.

The decision released nearly 14,000 employees in the state from the right-to-know law.

"We had expected the court challenge from the beginning," Dalton said. "What we didn't expect was that the judge's opinion would be so devastating to employees. We thought the manufacturing portions of the law would be left in."

Dalton added that OSHA regulations are much less stringent than what the state law called for.

Most non-manufacturing firms are complying with the law, Dalton said.

The Right-to-Know Coalition filed an appeal in federal court the day after Debevoise's decision. An appeal date has not yet been set, however.

"The federal judge's opinion has been appealed to the 3rd District court," Dalton said, "and federal judges have been overturned before."

While waiting for the appeal hearing, Dalton has begun work on the new community legislation.

"While the judge indicated that the law as it impacts on manufacturing codes is pre-empted by federal regulations, he still left the door open for a re-enactment of a community-awareness portion of the bill," Dalton said.

Towns battle snow

One of the month's typical snow storms dumped about 3 to 6 inches of the white stuff on Union County Tuesday, according to the National Weather Service.

Warnings of the storm, which were reported throughout Monday, paid off for local municipal road departments which reported no major problems with snow removal.

The snow began falling about 4 p.m. and didn't let up until after midnight, causing schools in Springfield, Mountainside and Kenilworth, including the regional high schools, to close yesterday.

Billy Trivett of Springfield's Road Department said seven plows operated around the clock Tuesday to clear local streets. As of 9:30 a.m. yesterday, Trivett said there was only about an hour's worth of plowing left to do.

"We're in pretty good shape," Trivett commented, "we haven't gotten any complaints yet."

Springfield police reported no major accidents due to the snowfall.

Public officials in Mountainside said snow removal also went smoothly there. Several trucks went out about 2 a.m. and reported no major problems.

Not only did Frank Morro, superintendent of the Road Department in Kenilworth, not mind the snow, he enjoyed it. "It makes the town look nice, well, it makes it look clean anyway," he said.

Morro said five plows went out at midnight and by the morning rush hour yesterday, all streets were passable. "The equipment worked well and we had no problems," he said.

Morro said the plows were to go out again when residents moved their cars off the streets.

A traveler's warning was still in effect throughout yesterday while weathercasters predicted more snow.

Heart group offers 'Pops'

Richard Lloyd, manager of public relations for New Jersey Blue Cross, has announced that Blue Cross-Blue Shield offices will participate in the American Heart Association's "Lollies for Life" program this month.

Designed to coincide with Valentine's Day remembrances, the program offers 5-inch, red, heart-shaped lollipops to employees at $3 each or two for $5.

"Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey is happy to support this American Heart Association Heart Month activity," Lloyd said. "Our organizations share a common interest in that we are both concerned with improving the health of our New Jersey population."

Arrangements for the sale of "Lollies for Life" can be made by calling 376-3636.

The juror's duty

A day of decision...or soap operas

By ELIZABETH SEP

(Editor's note: This is the second part of a two-part series on the jury duty system in Union County.)

It's 8:15 a.m. in the Union County Courthouse. Nearly 200 jurors sit quietly in the assignment judge's chambers wondering what the day has in store for them. Will they be chosen for a trial or will they spend their two days of service watching soap operas and game shows?

REPORTING FOR DUTY

The door swings open and in walks Walter Garthwaite, the Union County jury manager. For each group of new jurors the routine is the same — Garthwaite spends a few minutes telling them what they will be expected to do before showing them a slide presentation and introducing them to the assignment judge.

The jurors are then sworn-in by Walter Halpin, county clerk.

The jury manager introduces Edward W. Beglin Jr., the superior court assignment judge. Beglin assures the jurors that they are not expected to be lawyers or judges, or "superhuman or perfect."

"You, in effect, become collaborators in judgement with the judge that sits on the bench.

"You, in effect, become collaborators in judgement with the judge that sits on the bench. You will be expected to do what's right, just and fair ... to serve with integrity and impartiality."

Assignment Judge
Edward Beglin

You will be expected to do what's right, just and fair ... to serve with integrity and impartiality," he tells the jurors.

"You have the powers of decision over human affairs not given to anyone else," the judge added.

The jurors are then escorted to their lounge on the fourth floor — the room where they spend their time reading, watching television or napping while waiting to be chosen for a trial.

After taking roll call, Garthwaite instructs the jurors to wear the paper "badges" which identify them as jurors at all times so that attorneys and other officials do not discuss cases while in their presence.

"Wearing the badge eliminates the possibility of a mistrial," he tells the jurors, adding that the cost of a mistrial would be $3,000 to $6,000 per day.

Garthwaite said his department started using paper labels printed out by the computer to save money because badges were being taken home by jurors at a rate of 1,200 per month as souvenirs.

For this vital service they provide, jurors are paid $5 per day and 2 cents per mile for their traveling expenses. The 2 cents per mile, dating back to 1896, was estimated on the basis of how much it would cost jurors to feed their horses, Garthwaite noted.

The mileage is calculated by the county, according to Garthwaite, who said that the distance is measured from a resident's local post office to the county courthouse.

Well aware of the meager stipend jurors receive as pay, the county and state are working on a law that would raise the pay for jury duty to $10 per day with no mileage compensation, Garthwaite said. The new law also would prohibit employers from taking the jury duty pay from their employees.

A time clock, located in the rear of the lounge, is provided for jurors whose employers require proof that they served. His staff began this procedure to cut down on some of its paperwork, Garthwaite said.

When jurors are excused earlier than 4 p.m. — which is when the courts usually close for the day — they get credit for a full day, Garthwaite said. In no instance will the staff of the jury management office tell employers when an employee left the courthouse for the day, he added.

"If they are excused early in the day, I tell them that they should go back to work. But I think most of them rather go to Atlantic City," Garthwaite joked.

CALLING IN

There is a chance that some prospective jurors may find out the night before they are expected to report for jury duty that they won't be needed. Jurors are asked to call a special number after 4

"You have the powers of decision over human affairs not given to anyone else."

Judge Beglin

p.m. and a recorded message recites the numbers of the jurors who are expected to report for duty the next morning.

The call-in system is not unique to Union County, but Garthwaite's stand-by juror system is the only one of its kind in the state. Those who have been designated stand-by jurors are told to report to work and then call the jury management office later in the morning to find out if they will be needed.

If Garthwaite finds that he doesn't have

Happiness blooms at WISE care center

By ADA BRUNNER

They come from throughout Union County: from Union Township, Roselle Park, Roselle, Linden and other communities.

They bring with them a cloud of sadness, growing out of loneliness and out of the guilt that comes from knowing that they are a burden on those they love most.

But at WISE, the sadness is cured. Companionship puts an end to the loneliness and the guilt is lifted as they realize they are no longer such a heavy burden on their families.

WISE stands for Wellness, Independence and Social Interaction for the Elderly. It is a day care center for senior citizens conducted by Memorial General Hospital at the United Methodist Church in Union.

Now well into its second year of operation, WISE has 40 clients who come two or three days a week, and in a few cases as often as five days a week.

Some of them are post-stroke patients, some are recovering from fractured hips, some are simply forgetful. But while they may have some physical disabilities, and may at times be confused, they are not there for therapy.

"We don't offer therapy," said Susan Chasnoff, director of day care and family service for Memorial General.

What the center does offer is an outgrowth of a program begun at the hospital some years ago, when a senior citizens ambulatory care center was begun to provide some social services as well as health screenings to the elderly, Chasnoff said.

It was a natural development for a hospital at which more than 60 percent of the population is over the age of 60, she noted.

But it was only a start. With so many elderly people in the area, providing services that will enable them to avoid permanent institutionalization is "vital," Chasnoff pointed out.

As a result, on Sept. 26, 1983, Memorial General opened the new WISE facility in rooms at the church at Overlook and Berwyn terraces.

Funding came in part from the Memorial General Hospital Foundation and in part from others sources, including the Union County Division on Aging and the Adult Community Development Corp., which operates the Ehrhart Gardens senior citizens housing complex in Union Township.

The clients who came were often the victims of loneliness. Though living with their families, they seldom went out. Sometimes, if family members worked, they were left alone for much of the day, with their only human contacts coming from neighbors who looked in occasionally. One woman isolated herself totally, not even coming out of her room for meals, Chasnoff said.

Many also came from households suffering from a double dose of guilt, Chasnoff added. The old people themselves felt guilty about being a burden on their families; the family members felt guilty about their desire to be free of that burden for at least a few hours a week.

While some of the clients showed some "hesitancy" about attending the center at first, they soon became adjusted to the home-style setting, Chasnoff said.

At the center, "they do a lot of reminiscing," she reported.

But there are other, more organized, activities as well.

They have gone on trips to the Morris and Newark museums, to shopping centers and to the Turtleback Zoo in West Orange; they have taken part in joint programs with other senior citizens facilities, such as those at the Jewish Community Center on Green Lane in Union; they have taken part in men's and women's discussion groups which look at such timely topics as "Men's Changing Roles;" and they have conducted fund-raisers for the Statue of Liberty renovation.

Last summer, participants in the center program planted a garden in a plot of land behind the church parking lot. "We had salad coming out of our ears," Chasnoff said.

And throughout the year, "we do a lot of cooking and baking," she reported.

These programs are conducted under the supervision of a professional staff that includes, in addition to Chasnoff, Peter West, coordinator; Susan Butler, social worker; Mary Kay Smith, program therapist; Mary Strohle, housekeeper, and Sam Blasi and Fred Fuhrmann, drivers of the van that provides transportation for most of the clients.

In addition, "we have a super staff of volunteers," Chasnoff added. Trained by Chasnoff and Butler, they work "one on one" with the clients.

With the help of the staff, the men and women at the center "really make it their home," Chasnoff said.

A few clients have left because "they become more functional," she reported; one dropped out of the program because he went into politics; one became seriously ill. "But nobody left because they didn't like the program," Chasnoff said.

The way the clients feel about the center is contagious, she added.

"If you're down, drop by the day care center for just a few minutes," she said. "You'll really be on a high."

enough jurors for the day, these people will be called in. During the past three years, he said he has only called stand by jurors seven times. They are only paid if they serve, he said.

THE MANAGEMENT

Garthwaite has been Union County's jury manager for five years. He directs a staff of three and works closely with the assignment judge and the court calendar.

In addition to seeing that the number of jurors requested by a judge are in the judge's chambers at the right time, Garthwaite is also the man who decides what time the jurors who aren't on a case can go home for the day.

Garthwaite oversees the mailing of summonses for jury duty and also decides whether to grant or refuse requests for postponements or whether to excuse a juror.

ASSIGNMENT JUDGE

Beglin — the assignment judge — has a job that extends far beyond greeting and briefing each new group of jurors. He is the chief administrative judge in the county in charge of compiling the court calendar and assigning all 24 Union County Superior Court judges to cases.

He was appointed to this position in August 1983 by the chief justice of the state Supreme Court and has been a judge since 1976.

Beglin said that the workload from his assignment judge post prevents him from sitting in on many cases anymore. "But I try to as much as possible," he said.

Fishing courses slated

Saltwater fishing

The Watchung Saltwater Fishing Club, which is beginning its 17th year of fishing instruction, will run two courses at the Union County Regional Adult School during the spring term.

Club members and knowledgeable experts will present an Inshore Course designed for beginners, as well as those interested in brushing up on basic techniques. The club's Canyon/Blue Water Course, the first in New Jersey when introduced in 1979, is now in its 7th year.

Plans being made for Fitness Festival

Preparations are under way throughout Union County for the American Cancer Society's second annual Fitness Festival Sunday, Feb. 24, at the Westfield YMCA, 138 Ferris Place, Westfield, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Health instructors Heidi Bell of New Woman and Elaine James of Contempo Woman, both in Union, will lead members of their clubs in Fitness Festivals at each of their locations on Saturday, Feb. 23.

Marian Villani, chairperson, said the purpose of the festival is to promote good health and to raise funds for the Cancer Society's programs in research, education and patient service.

No experience is required to take part in this event. Participants are asked to obtain sponsors, who will pledge financial support for their efforts. The participant who raises the most money over $1,500 will win a trip for two to Paradise Island in the Bahamas. Other prizes include T-shirts, portable stereos, cameras, color televisions and video cassette recorders.

Free spay, neutering available

The Animal Alliance Welfare League of New Jersey, in conjunction with Kindness Kennels of Rahway, is offering free spaying and neutering to the first 25 dogs, puppies, cats or kittens eight months or older adopted from Kindness Kennels beginning Monday.

A spokesman for Animal Alliance said the program is being offered because many who would like to own a pet hesitate because of the high cost of food and veterinary care. "This program is being offered by the league as an incentive for people to adopt one or more of the homeless pets housed at the kennel, and to make the decision to adopt easier by offering free spaying or neutering. All animals adopted from Kindness Kennels have already had their initial shots," the spokesman said.

Animal Alliance is a nonprofit organization with no paid members. Anyone wishing to donate to the league, either money or time, should contact Animal Alliance Welfare League, P.O. Box 696, Hillside 07205. A low-cost spaying and neutering program is in effect 365 days a year. Those wishing more information can call 574-3981 or 354-0537.

Rummage sale set

People for Animals will hold a rummage sale Feb. 16, to raise funds for homeless strays and low cost spay neuter clinics from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Emanuel United Church of Christ, at the corner of Lincoln and Nye Place, Irvington.

Those who want to donate items for the rummage sale can drop them off at the People for Animals clinic at 433 Hillside Ave., Hillside.

Further information is available by calling 374-1073.

raising the most money over $2,000 also will win a trip for two to Paradise Island in the Bahamas.

Additional information and pledge sheets may be obtained by calling the American Cancer Society at 354-7373.

HEALTH & FITNESS

THE CHARLES "BUDDY" SCHREIBER Civic Association of Linden is sponsoring a station in memory of its founder in the Fitness Trail under construction in Mountainside.

The trail, a project of Children's Specialized Hospital in cooperation with the Union County Board of Freeholders and the Borough of Mountainside, is being built on property behind the hospital and Borough Hall. It will contain 18 exercise stations for able-bodied individuals and 10 for non-ambulatory people. All 28 stations will be wheelchair accessible.

According to Franklin Felder, president of the Linden civic group, the association was formed in 1980 by "Buddy" Schreiber to do charitable work.

Much of the activity has been centered around Children's Specialized Hospital, explained Betty Ann Schallert of Linden, executive director and niece of the founder.

THE UNION COUNTY HEALTH OFFICERS' Association has announced that a "Breast Self-Examination Program for Women" will be offered on a monthly basis through Union County College during the spring semester. The program is a cooperative effort of the Health Officers' Association, the Division of Continuing Education and Community Services of Union County College and the Visiting Nurse and Health Services of Elizabeth.

The program will consist of lecture, film, practice on hand-held health education models and a question and answer period conducted by a health educator of the Visiting Nurse and Health Services of Elizabeth.

The program is free to county residents. Individual sessions are on Tuesday, 7-8:30 p.m.; Wednesday, March 13, 7-8:30 p.m.; Tuesday, April 16, 7-8:30 p.m.; Saturday, May 11, 10-11:30 a.m.

Further information is available from the Union County College's Division of Continuing Education and Community Services, 276-2600 Ext. 206 or 238. Applications will be available at the Linden Board of Health North Wood Avenue.

THE BODY SHOP, an exercise and fitness program for men and women will open at the Jewish Community Center, Green Lane, Union, Monday. The program, set to music, will concentrate on muscle tone, flexibility, spot reducing, strength and fun. The class ends with relaxation exercise.

Designed for people at all levels of fitness, the program will run at noon and evenings, Monday through Thursday. A special beginner's class, designed for older adults, new mothers and the very sedentary, will be held on Tuesday and Thursday mornings from 9:30 to 10:15. Additional information is available by calling 289-8112.

Ken Clayton, owner of Union Roller World skating rink in Union, has announced that he will be host to a roll-a-thon to raise money for the American Heart Association, Metropolitan Chapter, on Feb. 18, from noon to 7 p.m.

Participants will skate in games and special events to raise money for heart research, education and community services.

Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and Brownies have already signed up, but the event is open to everyone of all ages. "We can use everyone's help, so please come out and give us a hand," Clayton said. There will be skating to music, special events and games throughout the day. "Besides being fun, rollerskating is good for your heart," said Clayton. "It involves almost all of your body's muscles, especially your heart." Skating is one of the activities recommended by the American Heart Association for the promotion of cardiovascular health.

Anyone interested in participating or seeking information about the roll-a-thon can call Roller World at 964-4790.

Actress to direct deaf in play on Kean stage

COLLEEN DEWHURST

"All the Way Home," a play by Tad Mosel, will be performed at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday by the National Theater for the Deaf in the Wilkins Theater at Kean College of New Jersey, Union. The hearing and deaf actors using voice and sign language will be directed by Colleen Dewhurst, who won a Tony Award for her starring role in the 1961 original Broadway production of the play.

"All the Way Home" will be presented in a style which blends sign language and the spoken word. The company is 16 years old and has toured nationally and internationally.

The play, which was adapted by Mosel from the Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, "A Death in the Family," by James Agee, was presented in the west and southwest in the fall and is slated for the northeast, midwest and south.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 527-2337.

E. G. MARSHALL

Musical comedy slated tonight

The Mason Gross School of Arts of Rutgers College will present the musical comedy "High Button Shoes" at the Levin Theater on Douglass Campus, New Brunswick, tonight at 8. Preceding the play the Board of Governors of the Parents Association of Rutgers College will hold a theater party in the lobby of Walters Hall at 6:30 p.m.

Further information can be obtained by calling Paul Pietroski at 267-8114, Dean Dwight Smith at 932-7442 or Sol Dombrow at 257-4130.

'Inherit Wind' to begin Paper Mill run Feb. 20

Veteran actors E. G. Marshall and Robert Vaughn will star as legal adversaries in "Inherit the Wind," which will open Feb. 20 at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn. It will run through March 24.

The court-room drama is based on the celebrated Scopes "Monkey Trial" of the middle 1920s. The trial had tested the Tennessee law forbidding the teaching of Darwin's theory of evolution in the schools.

Marshall will portray the orator William Jennings Bryan, three-time nominee for President of the United States, and Vaughn will portray Clarence Darrow, the trial lawyer, who headed the defense in the famous Leopold-Loeb case.

"Inherit the Wind" was one of the first American dramas to tour the Soviet Union in 1973. The play has had more than 30 foreign language translations and productions.

The final two plays of the Paper Mill season will be Jerome Kern's stage musical, "Show Boat," which will open April 10 and run through May 12, and "Evita," the Tony Award-winning best musical, opening May 22 and ending June 30.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 376-4343.

Night of opera at Community Center

The Jewish Community Center of Central New Jersey will present "A Night of Opera: Excerpts from Puccini's "Madama Butterfly," as performed by stars of the New York City Opera and arranged by the Jersey Lyric Opera. The performance will be held at the Martine Avenue Building, 1391 Martine Ave., Scotch Plains, Saturday at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are on sale at the Green Lane-Lebau, Union and Martine Avenue buildings.

Further information can be obtained by calling 289-8112 or 889-8800.

Series is run for children

The Kaleidoscope series of Entertainment for Young People will continue its season Saturday with the giant puppets of Poko Puppets, who will tell the stories of "Tubby the Tuba" and "The Boy Who Swallowed the Ocean."

The series will conclude March 16 with the Shoestring Players in "Folktales from Around the World."

The Kaleidoscope series is presented by the Arts Council of North-West Essex and the Whole Theater School. All programs of the Kaleidoscope series are presented twice on their respective Saturdays at the Whole Theater, 544 Bloomfield Ave., Montclair, at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

INTRODUCING ACCENTS™ THE PERMANENT LASHLINER

Accents™ is a new oculoplastic technique which adds permanent color and highlights to your eyelids. Accents™ reduces make-up time by accenting your eyelids with a microscopically applied eye liner pigment. This procedure is done in the doctor's office, by an ophthalmic surgeon.

Accents™ is particularly suitable for persons who want to reduce their make-up time or who have difficulty applying eye liner.

For further information or a free Accents™ brochure, please contact:

Chamber orchestra concert

Concerto Soloists of Philadelphia, a chamber orchestra, will perform works by five composers beginning at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Wilkins Theater at Kean College of New Jersey, Union.

Concerto Soloists, which first appeared in 1964, includes 15 strings and harpsichord with brass, woodwind and percussion when required. Players alternate in their supporting and starring roles in both ensemble and solo performances.

Modeled after the orchestras of Bach and Mozart, the chamber group performs baroque and classical music and seeks out lesser known compositions of the 19th and 20th centuries as well as contemporary works.

Sponsors of the event include the Council for Part-time students, Student Organization, Inc., the Alumni Association and Kean College.

Polish group to give recital

The Polish Cultural Foundation of New Jersey, Springfield, will sponsor a lecture-recital on "Szymanowski: The Man and His Music" Feb. 16 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerzy Papadopulos of Montclair. Walter Legawiec of Mountainside, violinist, lecturer and composer, will be accompanied on the piano of Paul Kueter.

It was announced that reservations are required and can be obtained by calling Diana Gaza at 763-1781.

The program will include six Kurpie songs opus 58 transcribed for violin and piano by Legawiec.

Semmel's art on exhibition

The large figurative paintings of Joan Semmel, will be on exhibit at Union County College's Tomasulo Art Gallery on the Cranford Campus through Feb. 22.

The exhibit is another in a series of art exhibits brought to the community by UCC. In recent months the works of such artists as Paul Sarkisian and Audrey Flack also have been exhibited.

The Tomasulo Gallery, located in the Mackay Library, is open to the public free of charge Mondays through Saturdays from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and Mondays through Thursdays from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

For week of Feb. 7 through 13

ARIES (3/21-4/20) - Many will find that personal relationships fluctuate during most of this week. New friends are possible and unexpected invitations could relieve a case of the blahs. Later, money for a car is needed in months ahead, plan a trip and financial restrictions are felt.

TAURUS (4/21-5/21) - Sudden or unexpected events disrupt daily routine; safeguard your well-being and troubled relationships could reach an explosive climax before long. Later in the week, financial or legal papers are indicated. Joint finances enjoy an upswing.

GEMINI (5/22-6/21) - The early part of this week will intensify matters related to social, romantic or creative interests, and any of these may be especially rewarding or satisfying. Later, emphasis shifts to daily matters, avoid problems on the work front and heed health warnings.

CANCER (6/22-7/23) - Money is likely to be spent on home and family; take care of lingering work matters and offer dependents firm guidance. Gains through the resources of others are made during the coming year. Later in the week, firm up career status, mix business with pleasure.

LEO (7/24-8/23) - Avoid careless losses early in the week, accept social invitations and keep personal plans hush-hush for now. Some may be planning a short trip. Later, your important relationships demand your attention, you may decide to terminate faltering relationships in the months ahead and your restlessness mounts.

Rebecca's forecast

VIRGO (8/24-9/23) - It may be better to bide your time in financial matters early this week; job accomplishments are indicated and improvements in appearance and presentation are likely in the year ahead. Later in the week, success is found off the beaten track, make domestic decisions.

LIBRA (9/24-10/23) - Quiet or secretive goings on are favored early in this period, opportunities now may overwhelm you and continue to spruce up your appearance. A short trip may be on the agenda for some. Later in the week, follow through with creative ideas. Others are drawn to you now.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22) - The early part of this period seems rather reclusive, lingering chores intrude on your free time. Private matters assume importance all year and clandestine relationships are possible. Later, money is spent in the home, new sources of income are possible and an addition to the family circle as well.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21) - The week starts out with a hectic pace, business and community interests are favored and be alert to false promises. Communications mix-ups are indicated. Later, shopping for a new car may be on the agenda, and the pace winds down much to your relief. A romantic theme ends this period for many.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/20) - Be careful of taking the wrong person's advice early in the week. Make your own decisions as much as possible. Career and outside interests are expanding in coming months - be prepared! Later in the week, watch your reputation, friends show their true colors and expect drop-in visitors.

AQUARIUS (1/21-2/19) - Travel is likely to be on the agenda for many during the early part of this period and a mate or partner could be part of the reason. Later in the week, career favors are likely, begin two things at the same time and mix and mingle as important meetings are slated.

PISCES (2/20-3/20) - Keep things low key early in this period, follow your own ideas and expect important gains this year though tax, insurance or estate matters. A partner or mate figures prominently. Later, career interests may leap forward. Keep certain news to yourself.
