Life-saving response

By SHAWN EVANS

Forty-seven years ago, a tragic car accident occurred in the Borough of Mountainside — and there was no ambulance available at the time.

In 1938, 11 men, including active member John E. Keuler, decided there was a dire need to establish a rescue squad in the community.

And so it was. The Mountainside Rescue Squad, located on Route 22 West next to the Borough Hall, was founded with the assistance of the borough's police and fire departments.

Today, the 11-member team has grown to some 48 volunteers who actively donate their time to prevent other tragedies.

The used hearse which was donated by a funeral home and used as the squad's first ambulance, has been replaced by an emergency modular ambulance and a van, both fully equipped with medically advanced life-saving equipment to aid at the scene of an automobile accident, fire standby, childbirth, or other emergencies.

Last month alone, the rescue squad responded to 36 emergencies and 14 motor vehicle accidents — totaling 516 miles for the Rescue I unit and 216 for the Rescue II unit, according to Deputy Captain Connie Farr.

Volunteer Captain Detlef Hoffman, 23, has assisted with the department for the past five years.

Hoffman said not only does he receive the satisfaction of helping other people, but he also gets to meet interesting people and each day brings about a new adventure.

"The calls are always different — you can be sitting around for a whole day and have nothing happen — then the next, you may get four calls in a row. No two calls are the same," he said.

Hoffman explained that squad members are adequately trained in areas of valuable life-saving skills such as advanced first aid, cardiopulmonary resuscitation, emergency childbirth, oxygen therapy, defensive driving and more.

He said the training is conducted at the squad headquarters, or at various sites depending on the type of training.

Those interested may be accepted at age 16 and older who lives within five miles of the building. Hoffman said membership to the Auxiliary is open to anyone over age 14.

He said the experience is very rewarding for students in particular who plan to go on to medical school. College credits may be earned by those who take the Emergency Medical Technician course.

Moreover, many rescue squad members use the hands on experience to become paramedics, lab technicians, doctors and nurses.

Still, there are many who don't exactly know what to expect from the rescue squad.

"A lot of people are concerned that they can't join because of the blood and guts stigma, but once you're trained, you're not concerned about the gory details — you're concerned about saving lives," he said.

He also pointed out that it's not all work.

"We take part in a lot of social functions and community events," he noted.

The squad building itself offers a home-like atmosphere, with a very spacious room and huge television.

Another member, Frank Guimont, explained that he's been with the squad for three years because he's always been interested in helping out.

"I had a lot of friends volunteering so I just came and joined. I've always been interested in this," Guimont said.

Senior member Greg Pryor explained that he was captain of the Westfield Disaster Team and was recruited to assist with the squad.

Keuler, who helped found the squad in 1938, and whose wife Ruth is president, said there have been a considerable amount of changes, primarily in the areas of equipment and training.

But he noted that even from the beginning, many of the volunteers have been from other areas, attributing it to the fact that Mountainside is a commuter town.

"We had to accept, and still do, people from out of town in order to keep our membership up. At least half of our members are from other areas," Keuler said.

He said though that those interested in volunteering with the squad can't work with the borough's volunteer fire department due to a conflict of interest. During many incidents, members from both departments must respond.

During the various shifts, which usually consist of 12 hours, there are four people on duty including a crew chief, two senior members and a probationary member.

Volunteers are dispatched through the police department via pagers.

"The police are at the scene on most of all our calls," Hoffman explained.

He said that when emergency calls are made, they are answered by police department officials who will in turn notify the rescue squad that their services are required.

He said the department exists from donations from residents, the town and United Way and those interested may call 233-6338 or 753-8793.

But the greatest donation of all, obviously is the dedicated rescue squad volunteer.

Council announces trail ceremony

By SHAWN EVANS

Borough residents can officially show off their athletic abilities as well as their jogging gear next week in celebration of the opening of the Mountainside Physical Fitness Trail.

The Mountainside Borough Council announced the completion of the trail at its Tuesday night work session, with Saturday, June 22, marking the official ceremony at 11 a.m.

Built on the Echo Lake extension, the tract of land that lies between Childrens Specialized Hospital and the Borough Hall includes 28 exercise stations with 10 specifically designed for the handicapped.

The trail, which includes limbering equipment, a balance beam, stretch rings, an Achilles stretch, chin-ups and parallel bars for able-bodied users, is one of the first in the nation that also provides stations for individuals operating wheelchairs, officials said. Thus, principal users of the fitness trail will be patients at the hospital.

The idea for the trail was derived several years ago, according to recreation department officials.

In other items, the governing body accepted a request to be voted on at its action meeting, from Union County Engineer Armand Fiorletti.

Fiorletti asked the governing body for permission to locate a temporary home and stable on the site of the Watchung Stables in Watchung Reservation in order to allow the facility to open.

Renovations of the riding trails became necessary after heavy rainfall a couple of summers ago eroded the trails, making them dangerous to horse and rider.

But the project, which includes trail resurfacing, new and bigger drainage system of pipes under the trails and more, has been under a considerable amount of delays.

Fiorletti said it was necessary to place a temporary living site at the facility to allow it to open.

"It is quite a revenue-producing facility, but we wouldn't be allowed to open it without the temporary living quarters," he said.

Lourdes principal plans to transfer

Sister Mary Amelia, O.P., principal of Our Lady of Lourdes School, was honored at a reception on Sunday. After five years of service as principal, the sister will become a counselor in the Continuing Education Program at Caldwell College, Caldwell.

Mayor Bruce Geiger presented Sister Amelia with a proclamation praising her for her dedication and her service to Our Lady of Lourdes School and to the community of Mountainside.

Interim school chief selected

By SHAWN EVANS

The Mountainside Board of Education appointed Mel Kline of Livingston as its acting interim superintendent during a special Tuesday night meeting.

While the vote itself was held in public, candidates were screened during closed session, according to Board President Linda Schneider.

With one board member absent, Kline's acceptance was unanimous. He will replace Dr. Margaret Kantes, who recently resigned to take on a position with the Livingston School system effective at the end of the school year.

Kantes, who has served the Mountainside District in the newly created position for five years, will take a position as the new director of curriculum.

Mountainside's Deerfield School includes grades kindergarten through eighth grade. The transfer will allow Kantes to work with high school-level programs and provide an opportunity for professional enhancement.

Schneider said Kline was one of three candidates interviewed for the position, which will be filled on a part-time basis consisting of two days during the summer months.

She said his duties will officially begin on Monday, July 8.

His background includes extensive experience in the school system, with his most recent position as acting superintendent in Lawrence Township, Schneider said.

Prior to that, he served in that capacity in South Orange and Maplewood and also served as acting superintendent as well as superintendent in Livingston.

Function planned for Kantes

Mountainside resident Camie Delaney announced that a reception will be held for outgoing Mountainside School Superintendent Dr. Margaret Kantes.

Delaney, former president of the Board of Education said the reception is being put together by a private group of residents who wish to honor Kantes, who has served the district for five years.

The function, which is open to everyone, is scheduled to be held on Wednesday, June 26 from 7-9 p.m. at the Tower Steak House. Tickets are $12 per person.

Reservations and further information may be obtained by contacting Delaney at 654-6530, or Dolores Sharkey, 654-3432 by June 22.

Flag Day ceremony offered

This year the Mountainside B.P.O. Elks No. 1585 will hold its Flag Day services in conjunction with the V.F.W. Post No. 10136 of Mountainside.

The services will be held on Sunday at 5 p.m. in the lodge hall. Flag retirement services will also be held for worn and no longer usable American Flags given to the organization for that purpose.

The group has asked that anyone who has American flags which need to be destroyed to drop them off at the Mountainside Lodge 1193 Route 22 East, on or before June 16.

Library begins its book sale

The Friends of the Mountainside Library have announced that a Book Sale will begin today.

The sale, timed to coincide with many people's increased interest in summer reading, will offer a wide variety of hardcover and paperback fiction. Also featured will be children's books, biographies, cookbooks, books on travel and a selection of other nonfiction topics. Stereo records, so popular in past sales, will again be included.

The hours of the Mountainside Library book sale will last until 5:30 and 7 to 9 tonight. On Friday, hours are from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday.

Last minute bargain hunters are welcome on Saturday, when Bag Day will be featured.

Pair arrested for possession of alcohol

Two Mountainside residents have been charged on several alcohol-related counts, having been arrested at a function at Jonathan Dayton High School June 6, according to Springfield police.

Police said John Daniel Connally, 20, and George Curt Graham, 19, both of Mountainside, were arrested for allegedly consuming beer at the event.

Connally was charged with unauthorized possession of an alcoholic beverage, resisting arrest and disorderly conduct, while Graham was charged with unauthorized possession of alcohol.

Sgt. William Chisholm made the arrests. Both subjects were released on their own recognizance, police said. The apparent theft of a Tandy portable computer is under police investigation. Police said the computer Tandy model number 200 bearing serial number 841200061, was taken between 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. Friday from the Radio Shack store on Route 22. The store manager, police said, reported that one customer was in the store at that time. The computer was discovered missing a short time after the customer left the premises, police said.

Patrolman Ernest Vardalis is investigating.

Springfield police are also looking into a series of other thefts.

A garage at a Ruby Street residence was entered by smashing a side window sometime between 9 p.m. May 30 and 6 a.m. Friday. The items taken include a 13-inch black and white television, a hand drill set, a hedge cutter and a saber saw. Patrolman Scott Brokaw responded to the call.

Two cars, one belonging to a Scotch Plains woman and the other owned by a Baltusrol Way resident, were burglarized at the Baltusrol Way address. Missing from the Scotch Plains woman's car was a stereo worth $500.

The other car, from which a cassette tape and a pair of ski goggles were taken, was entered by prying open a passenger side door.

Patrolman John Trampler is investigating.

Police are investigating the apparent theft of construction supplies from a site at 247 Morris Ave.

Police said the items, belonging to the Modern Construction Company of Rahway, were left at the site May 31 and reported missing June 3.

The missing items include eight rolls of roll roofing, seven cans of roof cement, seven cans of finishing cement, one keg of nails and a roll of roofing membrane. Total value was estimated at $250.

Patrolman James Sabol is the investigating officer.

Springfield police are also investigating the latest in a series of radar detector thefts.

An Escort radar detector, valued at $245, was taken May 27 from a car parked at the Ground Round restaurant on Route 22. Entry was gained through the front passenger window. The car belongs to a Hawthorne, N.Y. man, according to police reports.

A second Escort was stolen May 27 from a car parked in the driveway of a Timber Acres road residence. Also stolen were $96 in cash, a credit card and a driver's license, police said.

On Treetop Drive, an Escort detector valued at $260 was taken from a car, sometime between 1:30 and 10:15 a.m. May 27, police said.

A Becker Road theft between 1 and 8:25 a.m. May 27, netted an Escort valued at $250, police said, while another robbery at the Holiday Inn parking lot resulted in the disappearance of an Escort worth $250 belonging to an Allentown, Pa. man.

Dayton French Club had busy year

The French Club at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School, Springfield, has just completed an exciting and busy year.

Its first activity was a Trivial Pursuit competition, all questions made up by the two French Club advisors, Madame Levy and Mademoiselle Fahrman, were related to French vocabulary, grammar, history, cooking and culture. The "Red Team" won.

To further the students' appreciation of the French culture, the club went to see the witty play, "Cyrano de Bergerac," by French author Edmond Rostand, performed by the Royal Shakespeare Company. The members enjoyed the memorable performance, full of panache, of Derek Jacobi. In early March, during Foreign Language Week, the French Club joined the other foreign language clubs for an evening celebration of music and food.

Their last outing was a memorable culinary demonstration and sitdown luncheon at "Jacques' Restaurant," South Plainfield. Monsieur Jacques demonstrated

The French Club at Jonathan Dayton is open to all students enrolled in French, or former French students.

Woman is hit crossing road

A 26-year-old Linden woman remained in serious condition Tuesday with injuries suffered when she was struck by a car driven by an off-duty Kenilworth police officer while crossing Route 1 at the Wood Avenue intersection early Friday night, Linden police said.

Cheryl Shuta of 15th Street is in University Hospital, Newark, with serious internal, head and chest injuries as well as a fracture of the leg, according to a hospital spokesman.

The police officer, Kenneth J. Vrzal, 26, of S. 17th Street, Kenilworth, was not charged in the accident.

Linden Police Officer Gary Stanicki of the traffic bureau said that Shuta was attempting to cross Route 1 against a red light when she was struck in the left lane at 8:49 p.m.

Eyewitnesses said she stepped directly into the path of the car driven by Vrzal, who was travelling south in the left lane.

Police said several eyewitnesses testified that a number of cars swerved to miss Shuta just prior to the accident.

A true reform

Trying to unravel all the details of President Ronald Reagan's tax reform package is a bit like trying to understand the myriad of variables that make up the economy. The president's ambitious and historic proposal, referred to frequently as the Reagan tax simplification plan, is anything but simple.

Part of the difficulty in understanding its impact is that an objective evaluation of the Reagan plan's implications defies a basic attempt to weigh pluses and minuses. There are at least some aspects of the proposal with which almost everyone will find fault, but it should be kept in mind that the Reagan measure tries to deal with the inequities of the present tax system and the need to generate additional revenue created by the ballooning federal deficit.

For starters, the new plan would eliminate or curtail 65 categories of preferential taxes, certainly a change for the better. It would reduce the number of rate categories for individual taxpayers from the present 14 to three. Part of the plan also calls for simplifying the system so that IRS computers, working with information supplied by employers, banks and investment managers, would automatically calculate many Americans' tax bills, freeing them from the burden of filing their own returns. Federal projections estimate the new plan would reduce taxes for 58.1 percent of all American families, increase taxes for 20.7 percent and leave the tax load for 21.2 percent virtually unchanged.

Indeed, there are some tradeoffs that are unappealing to most of the middle class. Mortgage interest deductions would be retained for a principal residence, but limited on second and third homes. Charitable contributions would still be deductible, but only for those who itemize deductions. Medical expenses would continue to be deductible, beyond 5 percent of a wage earner's income, though employees would be responsible for paying taxes on some work-related benefits. But by and large, most middle-class citizens would end up paying slightly less or roughly the same as under the current system.

The single biggest revenue-raiser in the tax plan, elimination of the investment tax credit (a move which could generate an additional $37 billion by 1990), reflects an overall attempt to make businesses and corporations share a more equitable tax burden. This too is admirable. The eligibility of capital-gains income for tax shelters would be severely tightened; income currently deducted by businesses which use depreciation allowances would be subject to tax; disparate tax rates for different industries would be made more uniform; and deductions for business lunches would be curtailed slightly, while tax consideration for business entertaining beyond the dining table would be eliminated almost completely.

The most controversial aspect of the Reagan proposal, the elimination of state and local tax deductions, is one change that is difficult to justify and potentially dangerous to implement. While this proposal alone would generate an additional $33 billion in federal revenue in 1987, taxpayers in a handful of states, including New Jersey and New York, would be hit hardest, and could end up paying several hundred if not thousands more in taxes. The Reagan administration's justification for this measure, that the federal government should not continue to subsidize excessive state spending, is hard to support when the federal government is increasingly turning over responsibility for innumerable programs, including education and human services, to the states.

Still, it's important to remember that the Reagan plan is only a proposal and is subject to change. It's up to our elected representatives in Congress to devise a tax package that will refine the inadequacies of the present system and help our country pull itself out of the economic danger posed by the multi-billion dollar deficit. The president has at least gotten the ball rolling. While there are certainly some faults and inequities in the proposal, at the very least, the president's tax reform legislation provides a foundation for improving the present system.

Finances play a big part in job search

Women are no longer on the sidelines of the American labor force. Nearly 46 million women — almost 50 percent of all women over the age of 16 — were employed in 1984, according to the U.S. Government Bureau of Labor Statistics. Women's presence in the work force continues to increase as more and more homemakers, among others, begin or renew careers and strive for economic security.

Whether you're a homemaker who is being thrust into the work force because of divorce or the death of a spouse, or if you're looking for a way to contribute some extra income to your household, it's important to consider your financial situation in your job search, points out the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants (CPAs).

Would higher income be more welcome now, when your spouse's salary may be lower, or later when you may be faced with your children's staggering college bills? If you choose a position with a low starting salary because of its future opportunities, how does this measure up against the household expenses, present and future?

Money management is a personal finance column distributed by the New Jersey Society of Certified Public Accountants.

To answer these and other questions, take stock of your finances. If you don't already have one, set up a budget to guide you in spending current income as well as anticipated earnings.

When evaluating any job offer, deduct the costs of holding the job from its total dollar compensation. Consider the transportation costs and expenses for clothing, lunches and child care which may result from you taking a specific position. A tight budget may restrict you to taking a lower-paying job in a company closer to home, as opposed to a position with a higher salary located in an area farther away, necessitating extra travel costs or the purchase of a new car.

Calculate the deductions from your gross salary to determine the amount of your take-home pay. Your gross salary may be $15,000 a year, but your net income will probably be at least 15 to 20 percent less than that due to deductions for such things as taxes and insurance plans from your paycheck.

When evaluating what a job has to offer, take into account the company's fringe benefits. Health and life insurance plans, thrift plans, stock purchase options, pension plans and other benefits, such as low-cost meals and child care, can add as much as 25 percent to your base pay. Be sure to coordinate your health insurance plan with your spouse's to ensure that you're getting the most cost effective coverage for you and your family.

If you're looking for additional training to help you sharpen some rusty skills, consider companies that provide technical training programs for their staff or that pay for courses at educational institutions.

When you take a job, your tax situation is likely to change. If you're married, you and your spouse will most likely be taxed at a higher rate as a result of your added income. However, some of your work-related expenses may be deductible.

— Dues to unions or professional organizations related to your occupation.

— Medical exams required by your employer and which cannot be adapted to personal use (for example, a nurse's or police officer's uniform).

— Trade or professional magazine subscriptions related to your work.

You may also be eligible to take a tax credit for certain child care expenses. If you pay someone to care for your child so that you can work or look for work, you can take a credit of up to 30 percent of the amount you pay, not to exceed $720 if you have one qualifying dependent or $1,440 if you have two or more qualifying dependents.

If the personal or economic costs of a full-time job are simply too high for you, consider part-time employment. A temporary employment situation affords you an opportunity to earn money, gain experience and evaluate and improve job skills while leaving you time to meet personal and family commitments.

How kids can catch up with computers

By BETH GIORDANO & FRAN SULLIVAN

Q.—Although my oldest child will not start first grade until September, I am very concerned that he will lag behind on computer dexterity because many of his peers' families have personal computers at home.

My child's school starts basic computer education at grade two by which time he will have had no hands-on experience with computers while many of his friends will.

Do you think I should invest in a personal home computer which he can use and, if so, what type of software should he begin with? — J.R. Union.

A.—Your question is one being asked by many parents as more and more computers enter the classroom. We referred your question to Dr. Jay Sivin of the Education Product Information Exchange (EPIE) Institute at Teacher's College, Columbia University, who replied, "We know that physical dexterity at that age is just not a problem. They take to it rather quickly. If the reason (to get a computer) is because of fear, stop being afraid and let it happen." Parents, he said, should be prepared to spend time with their child as they would if they gave the child a book. If parents just put the child in front of a computer as if it were a television, they will soon be disappointed as the child will get bored.

Sivin stressed that the computer is an assistant and not a necessity. If parents are interested in buying one, they should try to spend time with a family who already has a computer to see what they would be getting into.

Sivin recommended Logo software. While Logo is not primarily a children's package, it does have a lowest level that children can use fairly well.

Computer mania is definitely sweeping the country's school system. Even parents in lower income areas are insisting that computers be included in their children's curriculum. Many parents are buying computers for school use — an estimated one in five, in fact.

This year, parents will spend approximately $300 per child as opposed to $2 the schools will spend. Nationally, parents will account for $75 to $100 million in home educational software.

Q.—I just received a notice that my child was referred to be tested for speech therapy. Does having a speech problem reflect his intelligence? Will the psychologist be testing him too?

A.—You don't say why your child was referred for speech therapy, so it is hard to say whether or not his difficulty is connected to other problems. Situations in which there is a learning problem are usually identified early, before speech therapy is recommended. If your child has not been so labelled, his speech problem is most likely not to be reflective of his intelligence.

Parents whose children have speech problems are wise to avail themselves of therapy at the earliest possible opportunity. Children with speech problems are often perceived as less intelligent.

Letter to the editor

Anniversary of 'landmark' decision noted

June 7 was the 20th anniversary of one of the most important and far-reaching decisions the United States Supreme Court has ever made. The landmark Griswold v. Connecticut, handed down in 1965, legalized the use of birth control for married couples. It also laid the foundation for nearly 20 subsequent Supreme Court decisions that expanded reproductive freedom for all Americans.

In 1965, women in Connecticut and 28 other states were barred by law from using contraceptives, and physicians were subject to arrest for prescribing them. Outraged by these restrictive laws, Estelle Griswold, the courageous executive director of Planned Parenthood of Connecticut, challenged them all the way to the Supreme Court and won.

Estelle Griswold's victory has touched the lives of nearly all Americans. The freedom to use contraceptives has been a contributing factor to the dramatic decline in the numbers of women dying in child birth, babies dying in infancy, and unwanted and mistimed births, as well as to a decrease in the American fertility rate. It also is largely responsible for the increased number of career and child bearing options available to women.

However, 20 years of legal contraception have not solved all the problems related to fertility. Many challenges remain that demand our attention: American women still experience more than 3 million unintended pregnancies each year; during the last 20 years, the U.S. has not developed or marketed one new birth control method; and the U.S. is the only developed country where teen pregnancy has been increasing in recent years.

Despite the widespread public support and demonstrated benefits of contraception, many people still lack access to contraceptive services. Title X of the Public Health Service Act, the federal family planning program, provides services to nearly 5 million American women, but it is threatened by the Reagan administration's current efforts to eliminate it and by the efforts of anti-choice groups who seek to prevent the availability of birth control services as well as abortion.

The Griswold v. Connecticut decision was a legal milestone which laid the foundation for both the individual right to privacy in childbearing decisions and for profound changes that have improved the health and well being of tens of millions of Americans and their families. We will continue to struggle to maintain the right of women to control their own fertility and urge readers to contact their legislators and enlist their support for the continuation of family planning funding.

Vocal workshop to begin on Monday

Summer Vocal Workshop, a new cultural enrichment course in Union County Regional's Summer School program, will begin Monday, at 7:30 p.m., in the Vocal Music Room of Jonathan Dayton High School, Springfield.

Intended to meet cultural and musical needs of the six communities of the Regional District

Berkeley Heights, Springfield, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth and Mountainside the free course will deal with a broad range of vocal musical endeavors. The class will meet Monday through Thursday beginning Monday through mid-August, culminating in a public performance of ensembles and soloists from the class.

Al Pendleton, vocal music teacher at Governor Livingston Regional High School, Berkeley Heights, is the course instructor. Pendleton, who holds degrees in coral music from Westminster Choir College and Trenton State College, has taught vocal music at Governor Livingston since 1977. He has studied choral conducting with Robert Shaw, Dr. Joseph Flummerfelt, Dr. George Lynn and Dr. Ruthann Harrison. During his tenure at Governor Livingston, choirs from the school have garnered high acclaim through community appearances and has won many prizes in competitions in Florida and Maryland. The school has produced several outstanding soloists and music majors from among its students.

Music of all styles, including classical, popular, and rock, will form a part of the course, as will instruction in vocal technique, literature, vocal coaching, stage presence, performance practice, and music theory. Classes will be informal and tailored to the needs of the enrollment, with individual instruction available as requested.

Interested singers should call Pendleton, 464-3100, for more information. Registration materials are included in the summer school brochure available from Summer School Principal Harry Linkin, 376-6300.

CHARLOTTE BOLCAR of Hawthorne Avenue, Springfield, recently received an award from S.A.G.E. Homemaker Service for her essay on the personal rewards of working for the organization. In addition to her work, she is an accordion student and recently held a recital at Farleigh Dickinson University accompanied by her music teacher, Rosalie Schweikert. She also volunteers her time to play music at local nursing homes.

DYDEE Project deadline is June 20

The deadline is June 20 for applications from Springfield parents who want their 3-year-old children to attend prekindergarten in the DYDEE Project, at the Thelma J Sandmeier School, in September.

The prekindergarten is part of the nationally publicized DYDEE (Deaf Youngsters Deserve Early Education) Project that is completing its 10th year.

There will be five openings this fall for non-handicapped children who will be age 3 on or before Dec. 1. Each application should be made by letter including the child's name, birth date, address and telephone number. The letter must be received at Sandmeier School no later than 3 p.m. June 20. Parents should allow ample delivery time before the deadline. A public drawing by lots will be held at 10 a.m. June 21, at the school.

After the names are drawn, the five children will be professionally screened for prekindergarten readiness. DYDEE instructors reserve the right to draw again for replacement of any of the five not mature enough for prekindergarten.

DYDEE is a model program in early education for communication-impaired children from the area. At age 3 and 4, the communication-handicapped children are integrated into a "mainstreamed" class with non-handicapped youngsters of the same age. After selection at age 3, the non-handicapped children from Springfield may remain in the project two years, participating as peer models. There is no tuition charge for residents of Springfield, however, parents are responsible for providing transportation.

The DYDEE Project is recognized by the state Department of Education as a model program in integrated education of handicapped and non-handicapped children.

Getting to root of PD

BY ROSE P. SIMON

The following is a review of a book currently available at the Springfield Public Library.

GUM DISEASE PREVENTION
"Ignore Your Teeth and They'll Go Away," by Sheldon B. Sydney, D.D.S.

An assistant clinical professor of periodontics, Sydney has provided us with an overview of the world's most common adult disease - PD, periodontal disease, or the deterioration of the tissues surrounding and supporting the teeth. Periodontal disease creates pockets of infection between the gums and the teeth - leading to receding gums, pyorrhea, later abscess and tooth extraction. In childhood, a milder condition known as gingivitis may occur, often leading, if neglected, to the more serious periodontitis.

Knowledge about the anatomy and structure of the gums and teeth is essential for the prevention of PD. You will learn how PD is diagnosed, how a course of treatment is planned, the various approaches of treatment (if required), and surgery (if indicated). There is a section on oral hygiene, stressing bacterial plaque. The author hopes that the goal of his book will be the prevention of PD for his readers.

Sydney reviews the history of PD from the time of the early Egyptians to the present, the structure of the mouth, the steps in the evolution of PD. He discusses also, some related dental procedures: replacements, splinting, orthodontics, endodontics (root canal), and implants. Illustrations are included.

Cooperman describes plans

Commissioner of Education Saul Cooperman has outlined the State Department of Education's comprehensive plan to help local educators prepare their students for the rigor of the new High School Proficiency Test (HSPT).

Speaking at a public meeting of the state Board of Education, Dr. Cooperman said, "Without question, the HSPT is more difficult and could result in failure rates that are initially higher than those of the Minimum Basic Skills test - the previous high school graduation exam."

"We must move up to a more difficult test," the commissioner said. "Employers and educators have been telling us that too many of our graduates lack the basic skills they need to succeed on the job or in college. That is why we have developed a test that requires our students to cope with such 'real life' tasks as writing coherently, interpreting written material and solving multiple-step math problems. Since the HSPT demands that students demonstrate these skills, it's one of the chief tools we're using to raise academic standards in the state."

"The Department of Education is committed to raising standards and to helping the local districts get their students ready for this more challenging test," Cooperman added.

"We are developing intensive programs and specific materials to help districts improve their students' reading, writing and math skills. Just as important, we are helping districts meet the higher standards of the HSPT by improving student attendance, reducing disruptive behavior, strengthening job training programs and dealing effectively with the problems of high school dropouts.

"The department is doing its part," Cooperman said. "Now it's up to local districts, parents and students to do theirs."

Harriet Doss Willis, director of the department's Urban Initiative, discussed efforts to improve student attendance. Pointing out that "students must come to class in order to learn and prepare for the HSPT," Doss Willis cited components of several experimental projects, such as computerized attendance systems, community outreach programs, counseling and incentive pilot programs. Successful programs, Doss Willis said, will be studied so that useful results can be made available to districts throughout the state.

Noting that "students must have a safe and orderly environment to maximize their ability to learn," Richard DiPatri, special assistant to the commissioner, described publications, demonstration projects and grant programs the department is developing to help districts improve student discipline.

Joel Bloom, assistant commissioner, Division of General Academic Education, and Sylvia Roberts, director, Division of Compensatory Bilingual Education, outlined programs and services being offered to help local educators help their students improve in reading, writing and mathematics. Bloom and Roberts indicated that the department is helping school districts align their curricula to match the skills the HSPT tests, supplying publications for students and teachers, providing both test-specific and general training for educators, and developing special and pilot projects designed to improve a variety of student abilities.

Gordon Ascher, assistant commissioner, Division of Vocational Education, said the department "is making efforts to use vocational programs to increase the 'holding power' of schools." According to Ascher, "Vocational education is a good way to motivate many students to stay in school, so they can improve their basic skills, pass the HSPT and get their diplomas."

Barry Semple, director, Division of Adult Education, addressed the question of the HSPT and student dropouts. "The department and the adult education community have an obligation to provide a safety net, or a second chance, for dropouts," he said.

Semple indicated that the department has developed several pilot programs to increase dropouts' employability as well as their chances to earn Graduate Equivalency Diplomas. Results of these programs, he said, can be used to help districts throughout the state improve their services to young dropouts.

Pesticide pamphlet offered

The New Jersey Pest Control Association, in conjunction with Dr. Steve Marcus of the N.J. Poison Information and Education System, Beth Israel Hospital, Newark, have developed and published a pamphlet on "Pesticides and Pesticide Poisoning." Technical assistance and advice were provided to Marcus by Ted W. Hart, NJPCA president; Dr. C. Douglas Mampe, Ed Bard-bury and Len Douglan.

The pamphlet describes four categories of insecticides, the common name of each and guidelines for pesticides and their use.

The free pamphlet is available by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to: N.J. Pest Control Association, 529 Richfield Ave., Kenilworth 07033.

New Jersey hospitals show efficiency

New Jersey hospitals are efficient, according to a new study released by the New Jersey Hospital Association. The study, entitled "Hospital Statistics: Focus on New Jersey," uses data from the American Hospital Association and the Health Care Financing Administration to compare the New Jersey track record to that in the Northeast and the rest of the nation over a five-year period (1978-1983).

As a measure of efficiency, New Jersey hospital revenues per adjusted admission were $386 below the national average and $623 below the Northeast average. "This means that patients in New Jersey paid $386 less per hospital stay than did the average patient in the rest of the country, and $623 less than four hospitals in the Northeast," said Louis P. Scibetta, FACHA, president of the association.

New Jersey ranked the lowest out of 50 states, plus the District of Columbia, in the rate of increase in expenses per adjusted admission for the four years ending 1983—the most recent year for which data is available. The state now ranks 28th in terms of the cost of hospital care.

"The performance by New Jersey hospitals is particularly impressive when you consider that New Jersey's per capita personal income, an indication of the cost of living here, is the fourth highest in the nation," Scibetta said. "In other words, the cost of hospital care is not a major cause for New Jersey's high cost of living."

Cost of care has been an issue of particular concern to the federal government, which funds the Medicare program. About 40 percent of all hospital patients in New Jersey are participants in this program.

Based on data from the Health Care Financing Administration, the increase in Medicare charges in New Jersey hospitals continues to be the lowest in the nation for the period of 1980 to 1983.

New Jersey has the second oldest Medicare population in the nation—exceeded only by Florida. Those 85 and older are admitted to hospitals three times as often as those 65 and over.

"One might expect the Medicare charges to be increasing dramatically, but this has not occurred in New Jersey. Our state was once again lowest in the nation in rate of increase for Medicare charges," said the NJHA president.

The length of hospital stay for all patients has decreased in New Jersey, including Medicare patients.

School target of new lawsuit

By KENNETH SCHANKLER
The deed to the Walton School property has become the focus of a new lawsuit involving the sale of the building.

At the crux of the matter is a condition in the deed to the Walton School property in Springfield which prohibits its use for anything other than public purposes.

"It's a restriction in the deed," said Township Attorney Anthony D'Alessio, who will represent the Township Committee in a suit filed against it by the Springfield Board of Education.

The suit, filed Monday in Superior Court by the school board, is an attempt to bring "very important issues" into the case involving the school board and Greensprings Estates, which has been in litigation for over a year.

"Unless the proposed amended proceedings are allowed," the complaint reads, "the major and important concerns and issues will never be heard on their merits unless a new litigation is instituted."

The suit alleges that when the Township's 1977 zoning ordinance was invalidated in a 1980 court case, the subdivision ordinance that was a part of that ordinance was also invalidated. The zoning ordinance was later corrected to the court's satisfaction, but, the complaint reads, the subdivision ordinance was never properly re-enacted.

Therefore, the suit reads, the initial sale was never valid.

The property was originally turned over to the school board by the Township Committee in 1949, D'Alessio said, with the condition that it not be used for anything other than public purposes.

In October 1983, however, the board voted to sell the property to Greensprings Estates, a development corporation owned by Frank Racioppi for $1,055,000.

Racioppi purchased the property with the intention of building a minor subdivision, but in April 1984, a local resident, Dr. Barry Maltzman, filed suit against Greensprings Estates and the township Planning Board to deny the subdivision use.

The current school board has charged that the land was not subdivided at the time the decision to sell was made.

In addition, the board has charged that the former school board acted unlawfully by allowing Greensprings Estates terms and conditions differing from those up for public bid.

The case is scheduled to be heard June 21.

Town squad gets vols' aid

The members of Group 3 of the Springfield Senior Citizens got together on a very hot and humid day at the Sarah Bailey Civic Center recently to make kravats for the Springfield First Aid Squad.

This group has been volunteering their services for many years to help out the squad. There is a lot of measuring and cutting involved and then the kravats have to be folded.

Volunteers included Kitty Searles, Betty Searles, Anita Ward, Jim and Belle Peterson, Martha Zweibel, Frieda Williams, Mary and Anthony Mattei, Helen Winkelholz, Barbara David, Mitty Anthony, Audrey Anthony, Virginia Catona, Doris Hart, Wilma Scheneack, Virginia Apollito, Elvira Lopez, Amalia Miroles and Marie Zacher.

Young writers' work is published

Two Springfield students have had works published in "The Young Writers' Annual," a collection of writing by students in grades one through eight.

Elizabeth Cross, a second grader at the Thelma A. Sandmeier School, wrote a story entitled "The Outer Space Girl and Her Unicorn." A poem, "My Mother," was contributed by Joshua Jay Zaitz, a member of the first-grade class at the James Caldwell School.

The selections were among 120 chosen from over 2,000 samples submitted from nearly 500 schools nationwide.

"I love my mother," reads Joshua's poem. "My mother has blond hair. My mother loves me. My mother is pretty. My mother is helpful."

Elizabeth's story tells of an unusual night time encounter in her backyard.

"One night while I was sleeping, a strange noise woke me up. I went outside and saw a spaceship in my back yard. A beautiful girl and a white unicorn came out of the spaceship. We said hello to each other. She told me her name was Gigi and asked me to show her around my neighborhood. We got on the unicorn and rode to my school. The unicorn's name was Starlight. When we got to the school, she asked me what I do there. I told her I learn to read and write and play with my friends. Next, I took her to my church and told her it was where I pray. Gigi told me her world is very different. She didn't go to school or church. She told me that my world was the best she ever visited. We rode back to my home, and I gave her cookies and milk. She loved it! Then I had to say goodbye to my new friend. Gigi said she would always remember me and the wonderful place where I live."

Club to sponsor Biber

Tracy Biber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Biber of 36 Denham Road, has been chosen to represent Springfield in the Citizenship Institute to be held at Douglas College in New Brunswick starting Monday through June 21.

The institute is planned by the New Jersey State Federation of Women's Club. Each club in the state sponsors a local girl. Selection of the girl is made by the high school on the basis of good citizenship.

The institute features a five-day series of seminars designated to provide training in citizenship and to encourage awareness of social and political problems of contemporary society and women's role in the coming decades.

Biber is an honor student at Jonathan Dayton and has won an acceptance into the National French Honor Society. She belongs to the Varsity, French and Key Clubs. Her sports activities include cross country winter and spring track and is planning to spend part of the summer at a running camp in New Milford, Conn. Upon completion of high school, Biber plans to pursue a career in the humanities.

Comparing municipal bonds

By GUS GIVISKOS
 Certified Financial Planner
 There are two major varieties of municipal bonds available, one with a splendid reputation and the other with a somewhat tarnished reputation. The first type is called the general-obligations bond. In our trade, it is referred to as the G.O. bond.

In a G.O. municipal bond, the full taxing power of that particular town or city or state stands behind the bond. If the bond ever gets into trouble on either its principal or interest, the citizenry of that town or city or state will be taxed to pay for both the interest and principal. The ability to levy or tax is an exceedingly powerful weapon, such that, next to U.S. government bonds, general-obligation municipal bonds have been historically the safest place one can put money.

The other type of municipal bond is called the revenue bond. In revenue municipal bonds, the money raised from the sale is used to build a special project such as a sewage system or a stadium. The income that the project earns is used to pay the interest and principal on the bonds.

If the project were to fail, however, the citizenry would normally not be responsible, only the specific project would be responsible.

The New Jersey Sports and Exposition Authority not long ago floated some revenue municipal bonds to build the Meadowlands sports complex. Individuals who use the Meadowlands pay for the use of the facilities.

If the Meadowlands sports complex were to fail, however, the citizens of New Jersey would not be responsible because they are revenue bonds. Only the Meadowlands sport complex would be responsible.

If you were looking at one particular town or state or city that had both general-obligation and revenue bonds outstanding, on which of these bonds would you expect the highest yield? The revenue bonds. Why? Greater risk.

Recently, because of the problems that New York City had, there was a depressant on the entire municipal bond market, so that a popular approach to municipal bond investment has been the insured municipal unit trusts — tax free and insured.

In addition, these trusts can be purchased in $1,000 units allowing the small investor to participate in the municipal bond market.

Municipal bonds have historically been the province of investors in the higher tax brackets. Let me give an illustration of that. Take two investors: A and B. Let's assume both have $10,000 to put into bonds.

Mr. A decides that he likes AT&T Corporate bonds. Let's say they are paying 12 percent. So in a year's time, Mr. A receives $1,200.

Let's assume that Mr. A is in the 50 percent tax bracket. If that is true, then on April 15, Uncle Sam will take $600 in income tax, leaving A with a net, in-pocket, spendable sum of $600.

Now B, on the other hand, takes his $10,000 and decides to buy a municipal bond paying 9 percent. So he receives how much interest? $900.

Let's assume that B is also in a 50 percent tax bracket, so in April Uncle Sam takes how much in income tax? Nothing, leaving B a net, in-pocket, spendable sum of $900.

So in this case we have to say we would much rather be Mr. B than Mr. A, although Mr. B's yield was actually less than Mr. A's. This disparity, incidentally, is rather normal. Usually a municipal bond will pay 2 to 3 percent less than a comparable corporate bond.

Poll shows employment increase

A new national opinion-poll indicates that sales and marketing employment in the Mid-Atlantic region, including Northern New Jersey, will increase slightly during the last half of 1985.

companies across the country to project their hiring plans for the next six months.

A total of 40.2 percent of those surveyed in the Mid-Atlantic area indicated they were planning to expand their sales and marketing staffs during the next six months. Another 46.6 percent in the region said they would maintain present staff levels and 13.2 percent planned staff reductions. This is a 5.5 point increase from the last six months for staff additions and a 2.6 point increase among those who planned to reduce staffs.

By comparison, 42.1 percent of those polled throughout the country were planning to increase staff size; 47 percent said they would maintain staff size, and 10.7 percent indicated possible staff reductions.

Remus Klimaski of Sales Consultants of Union feels that these projections are healthy and indicative of sales management's approach to long-term planning.

This area is parallel to national projections and the increase for future staff hires seems to balance off the lower trends this region experienced previously.

This survey is the 15th in an ongoing series of polls conducted on behalf of Sales Consultants International by Consumer Pulse of Cleveland.

*This prospectus describes the unit trusts which insure the payments specified by the particular unit trust prospectus. "AAA" refers to the highest rating possible by Standard & Poor's Corporation. The terms of the insurance policy are more fully set forth in the prospectus. This insurance policy is issued by the American Municipal Employees Insurance Corporation, AMEIC, and is not to be confused with the insurance policy of the United States Life Insurance Company. The insurance also covers the market risk of the unit trust. The market value of the units, if the unit trust is sold, will be the market value of the units at the time of sale. The actual yield of a unit trust will be "AAA" lower than the nominal annual rate of return. This difference will still be paid to the unit holder in the form of a pro-rata distribution of the unit trust's capital gains. For more information, contact Van Kampen Merritt Inc.

County directory available

Copies of the updated 1985 Union County Government Directory, listing offices, departments and officials, is now available to the general public, announced Louis J. Coletti, County Manager.

"This year's directory features the new county logo in blue on a gray background, designed and compiled by the Union County Office of Public Information," said G. Richard Malgran, chairman of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

Directories can be obtained at every municipal building and main library branch in Union County's 21 municipalities. Copies are also available by visiting the Office of Public Information, third floor Union County Administration Building, Elizabethtown Plaza, Elizabeth, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday-Friday.

Due to budgetary restrictions this year, directories cannot be sent through the mail to citizens, but ample supplies will be available at the local libraries and municipal buildings, officials stated.

"Among the features of the 1985 Directory are photos of county buildings utilized by the public, the county's organizational chart and directions to the Courthouse Complex in Elizabeth from major arteries," Coletti said. "In addition, photos and biographies of our five Constitutional officers are also included for the first time this year."

"We encourage all those who live, work and do business in Union County to obtain a copy of this valuable reference guide to county government offices and services," Malgran urged. "We believe that good government is based on an informed public. We've provided the proper information, now it's up to the residents to learn all they can about their county and its functions."

Vietnam vet memorial supported

Assemblyman Peter Genova, R-22, has introduced a bill that would appropriate funds to establish a memorial at the Garden State Arts Center honoring New Jersey's Vietnam veterans.

The bill is identical to a Senate measure, S-2578, sponsored by Sen. Peter Garibaldi, which is supported by veterans groups.

"Our nation finally is giving Vietnam veterans the credit they deserve for defending this country during difficult times," said Genova. "A permanent tribute to the courage and determination of those who were sent to fight in that conflict is long overdue."

The bill would provide $100,000 to construct the memorial at the Garden State Arts Center in Holmdel, Monmouth County. The site of the memorial would be subject to the approval of the New Jersey Highway Authority, which would assist the New Jersey Vietnam Veterans Memorial Association and the New Jersey Arts Council in the establishment of the monument.

The legislation calls for a competition to determine the design of the memorial, according to Genova.

As part of our Conserve & Save Program, working with the New Jersey Board of Public Utilities and the New Jersey Department of Energy, we're making no-interest and low-interest loans available through participating banks for conservation improvement measures.

Any Elizabethtown Gas residential heating customer who owns the home may request financing for conservation improvement measures.

Customers with annual family incomes under $30,000 may qualify for financing for up to six years at no interest. Customers with annual family incomes over $30,000 may qualify for financing at 8.5 per cent interest for up to four years.

These loans range from $500 to $4000 and may be used for insulation, caulking, storm or thermal windows and doors, water heater replacement, low-flow showerheads, faucet aerators and others.

To be eligible, you must first have a Home Energy Savings Program energy audit to determine which conservation measures will be most effective in your home. The audit, valued at $70, costs you only $15.

THE PLACE TO GO to find those finishing touches to a redecorated room is Shades 'n Things, 2064 Morris Ave., Union. The store offers a wide range of items — from window treatments to silk flowers.

Decorator finishing touches

One question that arises with many homeowners and apartment dwellers every morning is what are the correct steps to take when decorating or redecorating the interior of their homes?

The beginnings can generally be as simple as living room, kitchen and bedroom furniture. All can be bought in styled sets and easily matched to a room's respective carpeting.

The next step, however, is where the problem starts for many people: For what can be done about — and said with — all those now-bare tabletops and bare shelves that adorn each room, and what about all those uncovered windows?

Well, Shades 'n Things, 2064 Morris Ave., Union, can answer those problematic questions.

A sister store to the B and M Aluminum Company, Shades 'n Things opened its doors in 1977, under the direction of Ellie Ross, whose sole intent was to sell window treatments.

That intention changed a bit over the ensuing eight and a-half years and the store has now grown to the point where Ross said, "We now have something for everybody."

Shades 'n Things, however, still centers on the "Shades" portion of its name as it offers a wide range of window treatments starting with stock, cut-to-order shades. Within that range, Ross also deals in a complete line of trade name blinds such as Levolor, Bali and Kirsch.

Also in that range lies Ross's specialty: helping patrons design their own custom blinds.

"We can have blinds made out of suede, macramé and mirrors. Whatever matches your interior," Ross said.

"Mirrors, for example, go beautifully with contemporary furniture as they match any colored room by reflecting that color and not adding anything more to the room."

"We can also have blinds made out of cloth fabrics," Ross added. "If people bring in a sample of their carpeting and furniture material, we can produce a matching blind."

That matching process is even taken a step further as Shades 'n Things patrons can have their wallpaper design reproduced on a blind by a professional artist.

"We give people a lot of personal service and attention," Ross said.

The "Things" portion of the store's name came about accidentally, according to Ross.

"When we first started out, I went out and purchased some decorative things to make the office pretty," Ross said. "And the next thing we knew, people wanted to buy our decorations. One woman refused to leave the store until we sold her some of the items."

"So, whether we liked it or not, we were in the gift business," Ross added.

The "Things" now include a complete line of wicker furniture for every room of the house. Pieces of furniture currently on display include a brown, wicker vanity complete with mirror and a white, wicker crib.

To place on top of that, or any other table about the house, Shades 'n Things offers custom flower arrangements.

Shades 'n Things is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

Majors, Arians impress in early going

The Linden Majors and Arians, the city's two women's fast pitch softball teams, got their seasons off the ground last week in impressive fashion.

The Majors, who opened the campaign late last month by finishing third in the Philadelphia Invitational, raised their record to 7-3 overall by taking two games from the Tipton VIP's, then splitting a pair with the Allentown (Pa.) Patriots and sweeping the Brooklyn Dreams before getting rained out of a twinbill with the always tough Raybestos Brackettes.

Against Tipton, Linden won the first game, 3-1, on a two-hitter by Michelle Smith, then took the nightcap, 8-4, as Suzanne Luna had three hits, one a triple.

Smith was again the winning pitcher in a 3-2 victory in the first game with the Patriots, but lost the second game, 5-3, despite two hits apiece by Rose Kalsak and Tracy Buono.

In the home opener with the Dreams at Toots Nusse Field last Friday, the Majors rolled to a 13-3 victory as Luna had four hits, including a homer and triple, and Kalsak had two hits and three RBI's to back the pitching of Smith, who also homered to aid her own cause.

In the second game, an 8-0 shutout win, Kalsak fired a two-hitter and added two hits of her own, while Smith drove in three runs with a double.

"This is one of the best hitting teams I've had," said Majors manager Betty Zwingraf. "We smashed the ball around these first few games. But the key is pitching. If it holds, we can go a long way."

And Linden has averaged nine hits a game and has blended speed, power and the pitching of Kalsak and Smith into an exciting team.

This weekend, the Majors will be at the Washington, D.C. Invitational Tournament. Nine teams are in the field, including Johnny's Jets of Baltimore and the powerful Washington Metros. Linden will play Lansdale, Pa., in its first game Friday and if they win, then face the Metros.

Smith will not be available this weekend, so the pitching will be handled by Kalsak, Bonnie Black and Diane Fulham. The Majors will also face the Budweiser Belles in Parsippany in a doubleheader next Wednesday.

As for the Arians, they got their season started by splitting an exhibition doubleheader with the Colonia Crusaders, winning the first game, 6-0, as Mary Jo Flannery scattered seven hits for the victory and Eileen O'Malley had three hits in four trips.

Manager Linda Lensch's team played good defense in the opener, but the defense was not there in the nightcap as errors and a lack of offense (three hits total) led to a 6-2 loss to the Crusaders. Joyce Flower was the losing hurler.

The Arians added two pitchers to their staff last week: Maureen Getcliffe, former Stockton State star who played with the Marlton Rebels, and Pat Lockne, who played at Trenton State and saw action last summer with the Staten Island Saints.

After facing the Dreams at Toots Nusse this past Tuesday, the Arians will play the Belles in Parsippany tomorrow night at 7:30 and 9, then meet the Adamucci Oilers at Wannanco Park on Saturday in another twinbill, starting at 2 p.m.

This Tuesday, in a home doubleheader (7:30) with the Montclair B's, the Arians will hold as a benefit for the family of Richie Zack, Linden High baseball player. All proceeds will benefit the family to help defray medical costs.

Both the Majors and Arians will then prepare for the Majors' first ever tournament, to be held June 21-23 in Linden. There will be Class A and Major divisions, with a total of 21 teams from four states competing.

News of this "Super Pill" is literally sweeping the country. It's called Amitol and there has never been anything quite like it before.

"Flushes Calories Right Out Of Your Body"

What makes Amitol so thrilling and unique is its reported ability to flush calories right out of your body. Amitol is completely safe, it contains no drugs whatsoever. Its ingredients are derived solely from the Konjac root which grows primarily in Northern Japan.

Why the Konjac root? It has been used in Japan for over 1600 years to produce rapid and natural weight-loss!

Japanese studies verify that Konjac root actually prevents fat producing calories from being absorbed into your system. They say it does this by surrounding much of the fats, proteins and carbohydrates you have eaten with a protective viscous coating which is then gently flushed out of your system. And according to Japanese research this produces absolutely amazing results.

And who can disagree? Amitol (although brand new to this country) is already being called by many people, "the most exciting weight-loss breakthrough of the century." In fact, everywhere there are reports of easy and fast weight-loss from formerly overweight people (in all walks of life) who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Company Offers Extraordinary Guarantee

You now can purchase Amitol direct from the North American distributor, and it comes with an extraordinary guarantee.

If you place your order now and then follow the simple instructions for a period of 30 days, you must be completely satisfied with the dramatic visible results or just return the empty container and Dyna Labs will immediately send back your entire purchase price. This guarantee applies regardless of your age or current weight level. What could be better than that! It's just that simple. If you've tried to lose weight before and failed you no longer have an excuse. Amitol is available, it's easy and it works without dieting!

Best of all, ordering Amitol is simple, fast, and reliable! Simply call Dyna Labs. Toll Free: (1-800-441-5474) and order with your credit card. If you don't have a credit card Dyna Labs will also accept C.O.D. orders right over the phone! All orders are shipped immediately by UPS, which means no delay and no orders lost in the mail!

Broncos 2nd in Mountainside

The Broncos climbed into second place in the Mountainside Little League last week by virtue of a 9-5 triumph over the league-leading Mustangs.

The Broncos swept to an early 8-1 lead on the strength of two two-run singles by Mike Rinaldo and a two-run double by Greg Barisonek. The Mustangs battled back with a four-run fifth inning with clutch hits from Pat Attenasio, Brian Delaney and Brandon Rusche, but Bronco reliever James Downey ended the rally, aided by a fine fielding play by second baseman Justin Toner.

The Broncos then swept a doubleheader from the Colts by scores of 8-1 and 10-8 in 11 innings. In the opener, Glen Miske and Barisonek each had two-run singles and Chris LaFon a two-run double to lead the winners. Downey again picked up the save in relief. Jeff Davis had three hits.

In the nightcap, the winners had to survive a bases-loaded situation.

The lead seasawed in the early stages as Glen Miske of the Broncos and Dwight Dachnowitz of the Colts each driving in three runs, Colt third baseman Scott Boyd sparking in the field and Downey and Jim Barrett pitching well in tough situations. Dale Torborg ended the contest with a two-run single in the 11th.

The Twins continued to dominate Little League play by routing the Mets, 26-2. Peter Gittich, Colin Gordon and Mike Byrne each had three RBI's, with Jason Pearle, Tom Unchester and Jamie Urban chipping in with two RBI's each and Mike Cian scoring five runs. Gittich and Gordon combined to hold the Mets to three hits. The Met hits were doubles by Chip Fuller and Matt and Dave Cook and good holding from first baseman Joe Augusta.

The Twins then outscored the Blue Stars, 18-14, as Gordon had four hits and knocked in six runs and Gittich added four hits. Shortstop Mike Yurochko and rightfielder Jay Geraghty shined in the field.

For the Blue Stars, they rallied from a 12-run deficit to make things close. Chris Chivarelli had two doubles and Erik Swarts tripled and singled and drove in four runs and Jim Boyd cracked a two-run homer. Infielders Doug Stoffer and Jason Feldman played well on defense.

In the American League, the Angels moved a step closer to the title with a 9-1 win over the Brewers. The winners scored six times in the first inning to break the game open. Winning pitcher Eric Serio smacked a three-run homer and Jason Davis, John Symczak and David Falk each had RBI singles.

First baseman Kevin Sauer and Davis combined for two double plays. Ben Schneider and Anthony Caprighone had the Brewer hits.

All about tofu — from soup to nuts

By RAE HUTTON

It's been around for centuries, but has turned up in the American home only in recent years.

It's been alternately described as "devilishly delicious," versatile and bland.

On top of that, it's inexpensive, won't harm your health and it's low in calories.

Tofu — it's pronounced like "go to," resembles a creamy white brick of custard and takes on the flavor and appearance of any product with which it's mixed.

And even though many people don't know what it is or what to do with it, chances are most people have sampled it when eating at a Chinese or Japanese restaurant, or, most recently, at ice cream parlors serving tofutti.

But just what is tofu?

Tofu is soybean curd, used by the Chinese for thousands of years, and now acknowledged world-wide as a healthful source of cholesterol-free protein.

It is soft and cheese-like and is made from coagulated soybean milk that has been the main source of protein in the Orient for centuries. It is coagulated with nigari — minerals extracted from sea water — or calcium sulfate, a naturally occurring mineral, in a process similar to cheese-making. Just as cheese is made from milk, tofu, is made from the milk of soybeans. Soy sauce also comes from the soybean.

Tofu comes in two consistencies, firm and soft, and the two styles can be interchanged in any recipe except those calling for blending in a blender. Soft tofu must be used in any recipe calling for blending or whipping.

Bland in taste, tofu takes on the flavor of any herbs and spices mixed with it, making it the Additional recipes and information are available from New England Soy Dairy, 305 Wells St., Greenfield, Ma., 01301 or the Union County Cooperative Extension Service, 300 North Ave., East, Westfield, which provided the recipes accompanying this article. ideal food extender without changing the flavor or character of the meat or cheese dish in which it is used.

So what's so good about it?

Although it's rich in protein, tofu must be mixed with either whole grains, wheat germ, seeds, nuts, milk products or animal proteins to be a complete protein. It's a good source of calcium and, because it is derived from vegetables, it is cholesterol-free. Tofu contains no additives, artificial flavors, colors or preservatives, is low in sodium and, for the weight conscious, it's low in calories. Tofu has fewer than 100 calories per 3½ ounce brick with only about two grams of carbohydrates. In addition, it's easy to digest.

One of the best things about tofu is its price. A pound of tofu costs about one-third of the price of boned chicken breasts, while its protein quality is about equal to it.

How can tofu be used?

Tofu can be used in so many ways that there are tofu recipes for breakfast, lunch, dinner and for everything from soup to nuts.

Tofu can be found in the fresh food section of most supermarkets as well as in the frozen section where tofu pops, desserts, low-calorie tofu and tofutti are becoming popular.

When buying tofu, look for an expiration date on the label. It is as perishable as cottage cheese and should be as fresh as possible when used. Unused tofu may be stored in fresh water in a covered container in the refrigerator for up to 10 days. It also can be frozen, but its consistency will be changed from soft and creamy to chewy and meaty. After being frozen, tofu soaks up marinades and sauces more readily, but it is no longer suitable for blending and whipping and may be slightly yellow in color.

It can be used as the main source of protein in a meal or combined with meats and cheese as a protein extender. It can be diced for use in soups and casseroles, put in during the last 10

Cook and stir about five minutes, or until thick. Stir in pineapple chunks. Serve with rice. Serves 4.

Rub butter on bottom and sides of spring pan. Then coat with graham crackers. Pour in chocolate filling.

Bake at 350 in a pre-heated oven for 45 min. Avoid overcooking. Press finger in the center—filling will stick to finger but there will be a firm feeling to filling. Mousse should be cooled outside of the refrigerator for slower cooling and will get firmer as it cools.

Garnish with whipped cream and chocolate shavings or powder. A dash of nutmeg on top of cream also adds great taste. Serves 8.

Date set for a teddy bear wedding

A teddy bear wedding will be the highlight of a teddy bear picnic Sunday at Essex County's Turtle Back Zoo in West Orange.

The picnic, from 1 to 4 p.m., is a celebration of the 90th Anniversary of Essex County's park system. It carries the Teddy Bear theme to promote the year-long campaign by Turtle Back Zoo to collect donated bears to distribute to sick and abused children in Essex County's hospitals. Zoo visitors are encouraged to bring their own teddy bears to the picnic.

Among the day's highlights will be the wedding at 4 p.m. West Orange Mayor Samuel Spina will perform the nuptials joining Eunice and Clive in matrimony. The bride will be given away by Jim Ownby, founder and chairperson of The Good Bears of the World.

Other bear events scheduled for Sunday are:

St. Elsebear—Complete medical care for old, worn-out teddies will include consultation and diagnosis by Margee Cotton.

Beehive exhibit—Because bears love honey, a member of the Essex County Beekeepers Society will display a live working beehive.

minutes of cooking, just to absorb the flavor and aroma. It can be blended to make sauces and dressings and whirled into mayonnaise, sour cream or a cream cheese substitute, substantially cutting down on the caloric value. It also can be scrambled like eggs, added to salads, whipped into a quiche or lasagna, fried, baked, sauteed, boiled or marinated.

For real tofu enthusiasts, it can be eaten raw, dipped in another soybean derivative, soy sauce.

While many people think of tofu as an "exotic oriental food," it is becoming more popular as a dessert, particularly since it is low in calories. Most ice cream lovers encouraged to come dressed in costumes from that era when the parks system was instituted.

So bring your teddy bear and your dad and enjoy Father's Day at the Teddy Bear Picnic at Turtle Back Zoo, 560 Northfield Ave., West Orange, or call 201-731-5800 for more information. Raindate is June 23. In honor of the Park's 90th Anniversary, seniors will be admitted free.

would have trouble telling it apart from the real thing — even though tofutti has about half the calories of ice cream. Since it has no taste or smell, only natural ingredients like real fruit and nuts are used to create a variety of flavors. Since it is lactose-free, the 30 million Americans intolerant of milk have an alternative.

Precooked tofu keeps forever, making it the ideal accompaniment or a backpacking or camping trip. Here's how to precook tofu:

Heat 1/4 cup oil until hot. Crumble one pound of tofu into the oil and fry until brown, stirring constantly. Cook for about five minutes and then drain off excess oil. When the tofu is cool, store it in an airtight container.

'Seesaw' to open tomorrow

The Michael Bennett musical comedy, "Seesaw," a production of the Springfield Stagecrafters, will be staged at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School on Mountain Avenue in Springfield, tomorrow and Saturday at 8 p.m. A special performance for senior citizens will take place tonight at 7.

"Seesaw" is a musical-comedy about a sassy, loveable girl from the Bronx who falls in love with a tall, good-looking lawyer from Omaha, whose wife and father-in-law try to prevent the hilarious relationship from developing. Alan Souza is the director and producer. Linda Duke is the associate producer.

The production is a tribute to the "gifted and talented" program which enables high school juniors and seniors in many New Jersey schools to intern with professionals in their fields of interest. For this play, Souza, an honor roll senior at Jonathan Dayton, worked with choreographer Donna Bertolotti, an instructor at the Cindy Smith Dance Studio in Cranford; Brenda Kay, director of music at Jonathan Dayton, and Dennis Harold, a set designer for many Broadway musicals.

The cast consists of young thespians, aged 16-23, who come from high schools and colleges from the surrounding area. Leads are played by Carrie Weston and Jamey Bennett.

At age 18, Alan Souza's theatrical career stretches back five years to when he played Anna's son in the Springfield Community Player's production of "The King and I" in 1980. Since then he has played several leads for the Metropolitan Musical Theater and Penny Lane Players of Summit.

Alan has played piano since age 4 and studies voice with Charlotte Smurthwaite of Summit. He will attend Syracuse University in September and plans to major in theater arts.

'SEESAW'—Carrie Weston and Jamey Bennet in a scene from 'Seesaw,' a production by the Springfield Stagecrafters to be given tonight, tomorrow and Saturday at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School on Mountain Avenue, Springfield.

Indicators point to real estate industry expansion

A number of leading indicators point to continued gains in the real estate and housing sectors of the nation's economy, according to the president of Weichert, Realtors.

"Interest rates, inflation, housing supply and demand—all indicate that the second half of 1985 will be a very good time to enter the real estate marketplace, either as a homebuyer, seller, or investor," said James M. Weichert, head of the real estate firm.

"Affordable interest rates, accessible mortgage money, and pent-up demand have created the most active marketplace in recent history.

"Property values are on the rise," said Weichert. "Demand for housing is increasing, which in turn boosts the value of real estate properties. In addition to providing a place to live, housing today is a better investment than ever. It's the ideal time to upgrade, and many homeowners are putting their property up for sale now to take advantage of the positive market conditions."

Trends in the demand for housing make the second half of 1985 a very good time to enter the real estate marketplace, said Weichert. "The nation's prime homebuying group—20-39 years old—has increased by seven million in the last five years, and will increase by another two million by the end of 1986. But, their will only be about 1.5 million new housing starts in 1985, which is not enough new housing to fill the needs of this buying group. So, those people who now own their homes will be holding good investments in the long term."

Prospective homebuyers will have more choices in the mortgage marketplace, said Weichert. "We're probably going to see more of the adjustable rate mortgages, which are becoming more popular. And, the whole process of shopping around for a mortgage may change with the advent of the nationwide computer access mortgage networks."

Other real estate investment opportunities that look promising this year include land and property investments in booming suburban communities, farmland, and commercial property in mid-size malls and mini-warehouses. "We see the balance of 1985 as a good time to enter just about all avenues of the real estate market," said Weichert.

Weichert, Realtors has 100 sales offices located throughout New Jersey, Rockland and Westchester counties in New York, southern Connecticut, and eastern Pennsylvania. Corporate headquarters are located in Morristown, New Jersey.

Chapter honors restorations

Peter Campbell of Union, president of the Northern New Jersey Chapter of the Victorian Society in America, announced that the chapter again will honor outstanding examples of historic preservation of 19th century buildings. These third annual awards will be presented during the chapter's meeting on Monday, May 20, at the Montclair Women's Club.

Joseph Stern of Westfield will serve on the awards committee, which will be headed by John Simonelli, preservation chairman of the chapter.

Residential and commercial properties whose exterior preservation restores the original appearance will be considered. Awards are not just for large-scale restorations, but also for well-done details, ongoing projects and even buildings whose preservation resulted from years of tender care, rather than conscious restoration.

Last year's winners included a 1892 shinglestyle residence in Montclair, a Colonial Revival office building, and Eleanor S. Webster of Glen Ridge for her work to research and document the town's historic district.
