Solution to 'impasse' urged

By MARK HAVILAND

Members of the Union County Board of Freeholders last week urged quick action to resolve the impasse between the board-created County Utilities Authority and city officials in Rahway over the planned resource recovery plant, proposed for that city.

Democrats on the Rahway City Council reacted strongly when Freeholder James Fulcomer, a Republican who is also a Rahway councilman, was named to the chairman's seat on the authority, which was formed to help oversee the development and operation of the $110 million plant.

Rahway authorities have threatened the board that it might have to find another town to locate its plant.

The nine-member authority selected Fulcomer as its chairman, but the Rahway city administration protested that in an original agreement reached between the county and the city, Rahway Business Administrator Joseph Hartnett, a Democrat, was tapped to be the chairman.

At last week's agenda session, Republican board chairman Paul O'Keeffe, who had recommended Hartnett, stated, "We will spare no effort to get this project back on the table."

"It's unfortunate that this brouhaha has come about. O'Keeffe said he cannot envision dissolving the County Utilities Authority just because of the dispute over the selection of the chairman.

"Why dissolve the system because of one title that is relatively meaningless?" O'Keeffe asked. Freeholder Michael Lapolla, a Democrat, lamented that this dispute might delay the plant, which is intended to resolve Union County's garbage disposal woes, and urged that the board take some initiative to make sure that Hartnett is appointed chairman.

"We are proceeding full steam ahead without a site for the plant," Lapolla said. "For us to sit here discussing the project without a site for the plant is ludicrous."

"It's imperative that we get the project back on the track again," he added.

Lapolla explained, "The fact of the matter is that we have a garbage crisis in this county and the fact of the matter is that we have to deal with it."

Last week, the board of freeholders also received copies of a report from Joseph Kazar, the county's director of the Division of Environmental Affairs, with recommendations from his staff that were to be presented at the public hearing scheduled for last night.

The hearing was for the purpose of introducing amendments to the Union County Solid Waste Management Plan, and the recommendations of Kazar's staff were that a leaf composting center be created at the Houdaille Quarry in Springfield, north of Route 78, and two landfill sites for the disposal of ash residue and non-processable waste that would be a by-product of the resource recovery plant.

Busing routes changed

By PAUL PEYTON

The Mountainside Board of Education approved five changes to its school transportation policy at its meeting Tuesday.

The changes, presented by Superintendent of Schools Leonard J. Baccaro, were previously approved by the transportation committee of the board on Sept. 4 and implemented last week.

According to Baccaro, Summit Road residents in grades K-5 will now be transported to school regardless of mileage restrictions. He said the second change is that no school children will be transported by way of Route 22.

Baccaro said that an additional bus has been added at 1 p.m. for the purpose of transporting kindergarten children.

According to the superintendent, other bus stops which might pose hazards to the safety of school children are being reviewed and more changes may be made. Youths in kindergarten through second grade whose homes are between New Providence Road and Central Avenue and who were transported during the 1985-86 school year have been granted permission by the committee to be bused this year, according to Baccaro.

Board president Linda Schneider said she would encourage more input from the parents with regard to the busing policy. "We would encourage parent comment on the matter," said Schneider. Schneider said the board would revise the policy if necessary for the safety of the youngsters.

Plan for housing due

By PAUL PEYTON

Mountainside Mayor Bruce Geiger has presented an eight-part memo to the borough council regarding the development of a master plan concerning the state's affordable housing program.

At Tuesday's meeting, Geiger said the new state law makes it necessary for the borough to review its master plan for development. A professional planner was recently hired to help the council and the planning board develop a plan to meet the state requirements of 198 low to middle income housing units in Mountainside.

Geiger said his goal would be to hold public meetings that would be attended by members of the council, planning board and the public to get their views on the issue.

The mayor pointed out in the fourth part of the memo that the council will be required to adopt a land use ordinance after the planning board has completed its work on the issue.

Another suggestion by Geiger is to have the new borough planner review all ideas given by the governing body before a master plan is developed.

"We would require the planner to produce a report that explores every option and comment upon probable results of each option," said Geiger.

He announced that borough administrator James Roberts will be in charge of recording all proposals made by the council.

Geiger said he would prefer to have the planning board remove those proposals which are found unsuitable from consideration after a preliminary hearing with the planning consultant.

"What I'm trying to do is make everybody involved in the process aware of their responsibilities and also prevent a non'orderly review," said Geiger.

Council president Robert Viglianti said he would be opposed to presenting his ideas in a public forum where they might be misunderstood.

"Tomorrow everyone will think I'm proposing space ship landings on the mountain," said Viglianti.

Geiger said a process needs to be developed that can be presented to borough residents without alarming them.

Ruling on newsrack law due

An ordinance regulating the placement of newsracks in Mountainside will come up for final reading at Tuesday's council meeting.

The ordinance was approved on first reading at the council's Aug. 19 meeting. An earlier ordinance was defeated in order for the council and area newspapers to work out an acceptable ordinance.

The decision to rewrite the ordinance was made after an attorney for a daily newspaper objected to the original ordinance on the grounds it infringed on the constitutional rights of the newspapers.

Borough administrator James Roberts said that the ordinance was "defeated with the understanding that changes would be made." He said that if the board had tabled the proposal, the representatives of the papers and the council would have only one meeting to discuss the matter, according to state law.

Roberts said by rewriting the ordinance both sides have been given enough time to reach an agreement.

If passed, the new ordinance would limit the height of the machines to five feet and the width to 30 inches. The depth would be limited to two feet.

One area questioned by the council in the past was the chaining of the newsracks to utility poles and other fixed objects. The new ruling would permit the machines to be "chained, bolted or otherwise attached to any property" which the newspaper in question does not own.

Newsracks, according to the proposed ordinance, could be any permanently fixed object if the owner of the property does not have any objections.

The number of newsracks placed together would be limited to three along curbs within the borough. A space of 18 inches separating each group of machines would be required.

The proposed law also would require that "each newsrack be maintained in a clean and neat condition and in good repair and operational at all times."

The ordinance states that any newspaper which places its newsrack in a public area before first applying for a permit, or which fails to remove a machine for which a permit has been revoked or denied will be subjected to a maximum fine of $250.

An additional fine not to exceed $25 will be added onto the original fine for each day a newspaper owner does not remove the newsrack.

The council decided to draw up the ordinance due to the fact that the coin-operated machines have increased significantly and may interfere with pedestrians and motorists as they attempt to walk or drive in the vicinity of a newsrack.

"While such newsracks do provide residents of the borough and others with convenient access to local, regional and national newspapers, the manner in which such newsracks are constructed, maintained, operated, located and attached or fastened has and can interfere with the health, safety, welfare and convenience of pedestrians, motorists, residents, and businesses," the ordinance states.

The proposed law goes on to explain that that borough needs to enforce such regulations, also, to maintain the "aesthetic beauty" of the borough.

The purpose of the ordinance, according to officials, is to protect the health, welfare, safety and convenience of those living in Mountainside.

Roberts said the areas which were amended from the original version of the law included the width and heights of the machines and the registration fee.

"We feel it will be easier to implement," said Roberts.

He said that the ordinance has been written to protect public safety while allowing residents access to the various papers

Clifford scholarships awarded

Scholarships in the amount of $1,000 each have been presented to two Fairport, N.Y., high school students in memory of the late Jim and David Clifford, formerly of Mountainside, who were killed in a car crash in June.

The youths, sons of Jack and Mary Claire Clifford, formerly of Ridge Drive, were killed in a head-on car crash June 10 near Rochester, N.Y.

Mrs. Clifford, in a letter to The Mountainside Echo, expressed her family's appreciation for the contributions received so far and for those who have helped her family since the tragedy.

"We are most grateful for all the support that we have received from the Mountainside community," she said.

The scholarship recipients are Mark S. Card and Michael E. Putney. Both are residents of Fairport and will attend Bowling Green University. The youths played for their high school football team along with James Clifford and Kent Bouley, a friend of the Cliffords, who was also killed in the crash.

The memorial scholarship will be awarded annually to two seniors on the football team who intend to go to college.

Those who wish to donate may do so by sending contributions in care of Gary Falor, 69 Little Briggens Circle, Fairport, N.Y. 14450.

Township schools offer free meal plan

James Caldwell, Florence M. Gaudineer and Thelma J. Sandmeier schools, Springfield, have announced that low cost, nutritious school lunches are available to all children enrolled. In addition, meals will be provided free or at a greatly reduced price to children from households whose gross incomes are at or below those shown for their household size on the income scale below. Applications for Free and Reduced Price Meals are being sent to households of all children enrolled in the schools. Foster children are also eligible for free or reduced price meals. Application forms are available at your school and application can be made at any time during the school year. If a household member becomes unemployed, or the household size or income changes during the school year, parents should contact the school so that all children receive the proper benefits.

For the school officials to determine eligibility, the household must provide the following information listed on the application: names of all household members; social security numbers of all adult household members or a statement that the household member does not possess one; total household income listed by the amount received by each household member; and the type of income it is; and the signature of an adult household member certifying that the information provided is correct. Households are required to report increases in household income of over $50 per month or $600 per year and decreases in household size.

The information provided by parents on the application will be kept confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

The school will advise parents of their child's eligibility within 10 working days of receipt of the application. Any parent dissatisfied with the eligibility determination may contact the school to request an informal conference or may appeal the decision by requesting a formal hearing. A hearing can be arranged by calling or writing Dr. Gary Friedland at Board of Education P.O. Box 210, Springfield.

Parents may call their child's school for further information on the program.

Once determinations are completed, school officials are required to verify a minimum of three percent of the approved free and reduced price applications on file.

In the operation of Child Nutrition Programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, national origin, age, or handicap. Also, the names of those receiving free or reduced price meals will be kept private. Children who receive free or reduced price meal benefits are treated the same as children who pay for meals. If you believe you have been discriminated against, write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Allocation of casino funds described

For eight years, legalized casino gambling has been a reality in New Jersey. Voters in 1976 approved the referendum allowing casinos to operate with the express requirement that all taxes on casinos be used exclusively for programs to benefit our elderly and handicapped citizens.

New Jersey in 1978, the state has collected $739.6 million in taxes and an additional $15.7 million in interest earned on the money. This amount represents 8 percent of the casinos' "win" figure — the amount the casinos keep after all bets are paid off but before they pay any operating expenses.

"One of the most frequently asked questions when I meet with senior citizens around our district is 'what happens to all the money collected by the casinos?,' said Assemblyman Bob Franks who represents Mountainside in the New Jersey General Assembly.

"The state has recently printed a brochure describing the programs available under the casino revenue fund act and how the money has been allocated. The facts brought out should reassure our senior citizens that the casino moneys are indeed being spent on valuable programs for our elderly and

Among the programs available to seniors and disabled citizens are the Special Homestead Rebate and Property Tax Reduction, the Lifetime Credit Program, Pharmaceutical Assistance to the Aged and Disabled, Community Services for Blind and Disabled Children and Adults, Community Care Program for the Elderly and Disabled, Congregate Housing Services Program, Boarding Home Rental Assistance, and Transportation Services for Senior Citizens and Disabled Residents.

Each of these programs is described in the specially printed brochure "Where Do Casino Revenue Funds Go?" which is available free of charge to anyone who wants one simply by writing to Assemblyman Bob Franks, 219 South Street, New Providence, NJ 07974 or by calling his office at 665-7777.

CPR course begins

The Summit Area Chapter of the American Red Cross is offering a CPR course at the Chapter House at 695 Springfield Ave., Summit, beginning Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and continuing for four sessions.

More information may be obtained by calling 273-2076.

Self-esteem workshop set

Self-Esteem and the Mirror Within, a four-part workshop repeated by popular request this fall, will be held at the Summit YWCA on four consecutive Thursdays, Sept. 18, 25, Oct. 2, 9. Classes are set from 7 to 9 p.m. at the YWCA, 79 Maple St.

Under the guidance of William J. Arranga, M.S., psychotherapist, school psychologist and consultant, class participants will examine how their beliefs determine their behavior, how attitudes turn them into winners or losers and how feelings can help or hinder.

The goal of the workshop is to teach you how to raise your self-esteem, self-worth, and improve your self-image. Each student will be provided with a set of basic psychological principles of positive self-esteem to promote greater self-confidence and self-acceptance.

Class size is limited. Anyone interested should call 273-4242 for more information on how to register.

New posts offered by board

By MARK YABLONSKY
The concept of teacher administrative assistants to Gaudineer principal Richard Brockel and disciplinary procedures already in place in the middle school were the main topics of conversation at Monday's conference meeting of the Springfield Board of Education.

Designed to help fill the void created by the earlier abolishment of the vice principal's position, establishing the two new teacher-administrative positions will help to ease some of the "burden" on Brockel, board officials say.

The two positions would be filled by in-house teachers, one of whom would likely be responsible for dealing with student supervision, while the other instructor would oversee inventory control and curriculum. The co-administrative assistants would each receive a stipend of $500.

"I think it's an excellent idea," said board member Ruth Brinen of the proposal that is expected to be voted on in two weeks. "I think it will help the school run smoothly."

The proposal has already received the endorsement of the school government committee.

Brockel, who was officially hired less than two months ago, gave a detailed outline of a new disciplinary program that has been instituted as part of his overall program at the 33-year-old middle school. Known as the "Time-Out Room," students who have initiated a classroom disruption will be sent to a separate room for a chance to "calm down" and regain his/her composure, the principal said.

Patterned after the progressive consequences philosophy of known disciplinarian Lee Canter, the program will serve the purpose of ensuring the learning of other students, while also helping the affected child sort out his/her problem. Upon a first exclusion from class, a child will be met by a staff member who will first calm him/her, discuss why the child was sent, and then allow the student to do the work he/she would normally miss in that situation, explained Brockel.

While the child's parents are notified only by the "excluding" teacher in the first circumstance, Brockel will contact the parents personally in the event of a second occurrence. By the fourth instance, the student will spend an entire day in the "Time-Out" room, with a two-day, out-of-school suspension resulting in the event of a fifth occurrence.

"The progressive consequences are automatic," said Brockel, who first became familiar with the technique some four years ago, before later becoming a supervisor of it in the Bergen County school system. "If a student chooses to go down the path which requires discipline, that student, whomever it may be, will meet up with the consequences. The success of the time-out room is measured by the amount of students not having to use the time-out facilities."

The new principal also told the board that 1986-87 will be a "banner year" for the middle school.

"I think we're off to a real good start," Brockel stated. "The building is in tip-top shape. The students look happy to be back. I'm looking forward to a banner year here at Gaudineer."

A public service

For the past several months, this newspaper has been publishing a list of real estate transactions for this and surrounding communities. These transactions are real estate sales that occur three months prior to our publishing them.

Since they appeared, we have been getting a mixed bag of reaction from our readers.

Contrary to what some people believe, no Realtor is involved in compiling this information. It is public information, available to anyone who cares to go to the Union County Register's office to get it.

The sales are taken from deed books in the register's office at the county courthouse in Elizabeth. These books are available during working hours. Compiling these sales is a lengthy task because they must be listed from books that contain copies of the deeds, one page at a time. The room is usually crowded with others gathering the same information.

So, why did we decide to publish this information? For one thing, it gives the community a measure of its worth. Real estate is a tested barometer of the health of a community. These sales are used by many to determine various bits of information about a town. For example, people who have lived for a long time in one community may not have any idea of the worth of their home.

In Union County, for example, much of the population is over the age of 65. Many are retired, but still own their own homes, which by now are paid off. What are other houses in their area selling for? Is it worth it for them to sell and move to a smaller home or retirement community? Are they better off where they are? Can a young couple afford to buy a house in a particular community? These figures can help them make some "educated" decisions about their future. They now have access to information many other people have had all along.

The transactions also give the public some idea of how many houses are changing hands. Some communities have a great deal of transactions during a given period, while others have only a few.

During the past few weeks, we have received numerous requests to leave out certain transactions — in some cases, under threat of a lawsuit. We do not claim to print every transaction that is recorded. While we understand the reluctance of both the seller and buyer to advertise the sale price of a home, it would not be fair to promise to honor requests to refrain from publishing certain transactions.

By discriminating in this manner we would fail in our efforts to provide a random evaluation of what's going on in the real estate market of a particular city.

Like police reports and the salaries of public officials, real estate transactions are a matter of public record and easily obtainable by members of the public.

We did not invent this column. Newspapers throughout the state and nation have found it worthwhile enough to give precious editorial space to it. It is, according to those who read the papers that publish it, one of the most widely read items in the newspaper.

We see this column not as an invasion of privacy, but as a public service to our readers.

Your comments on this are most welcome. We urge you to write letters to the editor on this subject, and any others for that matter.

Letter to the editor

Cites need for 'two-party system' in town

Your recent editorial concerning the excessive monies spent by the officials of the Borough of Mountainside for legal costs and the apparent lack of interest on the part of the taxpayers of Mountainside was, to use the current vernacular, "Right On!" Maybe a few more editorials along the same line will eventually make the people of Mountainside realize that there is a real need for the two-party system in our town. Failing an effective loyal opposition, the people should be grateful that the press at least will bring such matters to their attention.

Relative to the old cry raised by a member of the borough council that the state is mandating that each community do something positive concerning recycling and such actions are eroding "home rule," it follows logically that unless the community takes the initiative to develop a recycling program, eventually the state will step in. I notice that the borough officials in Springfield, Summit and Westfield have developed their own recycling programs without waiting for the state to mandate it. Again, without a loyal opposition, the current administration can cover up their lack of planning by crying "erosion of home rule."

Washington report

Litter turning ocean into 'floating plastic dump'

BY MATTHEW RINALDO
Plastic litter is creating environmental cesspools in the world's oceans. According to marine biologists, millions of pounds of plastic bottle caps, bottles, fishing nets, six-pack holders and thousands of other plastic products are choking the world's fish and bird life, causing starvation and turning the seas into a floating plastic dump.

One survey of the South Atlantic found 1,000 to 2,000 raw plastic pellets per square kilometer. Marine research biologists blame off-shore dumping and sewage outfalls along the coastline with contributing to the sea litter. But they find cause for hope among the 10 states, including New Jersey, that have enacted legislation banning the sale of nondegradable six-pack holders and other plastic beverage containers. Connecticut, Maine, Delaware, Massachusetts, New York, Oregon, Vermont, California and Alaska are the others.

Even with these steps by coastal states that depend on the sea for their economic well being, the problem is so overwhelming that it requires global cooperation. Ocean going vessels outside the three-mile limit can not be adequately patrolled to prevent dumping of plastic waste that finds its way to shore and invades marine life. The rising tide of plastic threatens the eco-system unless a concerted and long-term effort is made to regulate plastic use, including the plastic fish nets mainly produced in Japan. Thousands of miles of discarded and broken plastic fish nets cover the sea. Marine mammals, seabirds and fish become entrapped and die by the millions in these stray nets.

Surveys show that plastic waste accounts for over half the man-made products littering the ocean and threatening the balance of nature in the seas that we depend on for survival.

While the public becomes enraged at seeing photographs of seal pups clubbed to death in the Arctic, it has hardly noticed that as many as 60,000 northern fur seals in one tiny island chain die each year after becoming ensnared in floating plastic nets. The strangulation of marine life far exceeds the damage that hunters and fishermen are causing to the seal population.

The problem is that plastic rings and devices used to store, carry and transport a variety of products persist in the environment for long periods of time. Under legislation I am sponsoring, the Environmental Protection Agency would undertake a study for the purpose of determining the adverse impact that the millions of pounds of plastic waste each year have on the environment within the United States and the oceans. It would cover all bodies of water. The study would consider the views of the fishing industry, the beverage and plastic industry, consumers and environmental groups in shaping recommendations for dealing with the problem.

At the end of 18 months, the EPA would report its recommendations to Congress. The EPA also would require that any regulated plastic item covered by the Act would have to be made of biodegradable plastic which would decompose within the shortest period consistent with the use of the product. In cases of fishing nets, for instance, they would have a longer life than plastic bottle caps and six-pack holders.

As the world's largest consumer of plastic products, the United States has an obligation to lead the way in resolving this serious environmental hazard before it reaches monumental levels that could take decades to clean up, during which much of the world's marine life and food chain would be depleted and the oceans turned into plastic cesspools.

Finance facts

How to develop a good 'stock selling discipline'

By JOEL SPITZ
Seasoned investors know that they run more risk by waiting too long to sell a stock than by missing profits by getting out too early. But in investing, psychological factors can be as strong, and sometimes even stronger than objective analysis.

Investors sometimes become attached to a stock which shows a handsome paper profit and are unable to recognize that it is now overvalued. Conversely, investors may be reluctant to admit making a mistake on a stock that falls well below the price at which it was bought, and so continue to hold it until they can "get even."

The first step in developing a good selling discipline so that you sell stock at the right time, is to take a good look at the stocks you already own. Ask yourself some tough questions about each issue:

—Does the return so far on this stock match my overall portfolio goal?

—If income is my chief goal, is the company likely to be able to keep up dividends at this rate?

—If I have a gain on a stock, how does it compare with what I expected to achieve at this point? If the market price is now well above what I expected, does it have much more to go?

—If the stock is below what I paid for it, what went wrong? Are things likely to change in the near future?

Talk to your adviser if this appraisal leads you to think you should sell some issues and put the funds to work elsewhere. Get an opinion too, from your tax adviser. Many investors resist selling because they do not want to realize gains and pay taxes. But professional traders don't think about tax consequences. They take their profits and run when they think particular issues are too highly priced. A slow-moving investor might easily lose more in a sharp market slide than the size of his tax bill, if he sold when the stock was strong.

Right now is an excellent time to make this review because many investors are enjoying healthy profits on their stocks as a result of the strong market run-up. The mistake to avoid is trying to hold until the stock reaches its "top." Even professional traders recognize the futility of attempting to call the tops and bottoms for particular stocks.

The best approach is to consider what your selling strategy will be, at the time you buy a stock. If you are convinced that a particular stock is a sound, long-term investment, work together with your adviser to set an upside objective for the stock.

Once the stock reaches your objective, ask your adviser to put in a stop loss order at a price 10 percent or below that level, and don't forget to keep moving the price on that stop loss order upward if the stock continues to climb. A "stop loss" order will be activated to sell your stock, if a specified price is hit. Stop loss orders can also help you limit your loss if a stock takes a disappointing drop right after you buy it.

At the time you buy the issue, put in a stop loss order at a price 10 percent below your purchase price — or even 5 percent below if that is the limit of your tolerance for risk. Such a strategy will take much of the guesswork out of stock ownership, and will help to maximize your finances.

MARJORIE DRYSDALE

Drysdal starts tour

Majorie Drysdal of Mountainside has just begun a year-long tour with Cast B of Up With People, the international, educational and cultural program headquartered in Tucson, Arizona.

For the past six weeks, Drysdale has been participating in rehearsals for Up With People's musical production, "Beat of the Future." During the tour, she will be responsible for every aspect of the production from technical setup and strike, to costumes and advance promotion.

During their preparation for the tour, seminars were conducted by distinguished guests including Dr. Stephen H. Rhinesmith, coordinator of the President's U.S.—Soviet Exchange Initiative, who discussed the importance of open communication between nations.

Throughout the year, the student's participation in Up With People will earn them career skills in marketing, counseling and guidance and other fields. They will live with 80 different host families and participate in community service projects. During these activities, the students develop an awareness for the special needs of the handicapped, elderly and others they meet. This interaction leads to the development of a stronger sense of self confidence in their own potential for understanding.

Drysdale, 25, attended Duke University. Cast B represents 131 students from 15 countries and will begin their year with an extensive tour of the Northeast. Featured performances include Bosch Corporation's 100th Anniversary Celebration in Detroit and Boston Edison's Centennial Celebration in Massachusetts. Following the cast's semester break in December, they will tour Scandinavian and European countries.

Up With People is a nonprofit, educational organization of which the aim is to encourage understanding among people everywhere.

Schlenker in band tour

Kenilworth native Ruth A. Schlenker, clarinetist with "The President's Own U.S. Marine Band," will participate in the band's annual national tour from now through October.

Schlenker is a graduate of David Brearley Regional High School, in Kenilworth, Ithaca College and the New England Conservatory of Music. She joined the Marine Band in 1985.

This year the band, led by band director Col. John R. Bourgeois, heads for the southeastern seaboard touring cities in Alabama, Florida, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Louisiana and Mississippi.

The 50-piece tour band plays a matinee and an evening performance Monday through Friday and one performance on weekend evenings. This year's tour features cornet, marimba and piccolo solo performances, a baritone vocalist, a saxophone quartet and performances from various sections within the band. The repertoire ranges from "Dixie" to an aria from "The Barber of Seville" to "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

The remaining members of the 140-piece Marine Band stay in Washington to assure that White House commitments are met, for it is the official mission the Marine Band to provide musical support for the president.

The first Marine Band tour took place in 1891 under the leadership of John Philip Sousa, the legendary "March King." The Marine Band national tour has since become an annual tradition, uninterrupted since then except during times of war.

Whipple art on display

Jane Whipple Green's works, a show of 25 paintings, oil and watercolor, pastel and etchings are on display through Sept. 30 at Children's Specialized Hospital, 150 New Providence Road, Mountainside.

Funds raised through the sales of these works will benefit the hospital according to Shirley Biegler, Community Resources coordinator.

The works are being shown in the east wing of the Children's Specialized Hospital and the show is free to the public.

Green, of Mountainside, a well-known artist in the Westfield area, received her art degree at Newcomb College in Tulane University in New Orleans and studied at the Art Students League in New York City. She has exhibited her works widely in New Jersey as well in Louisiana, Illinois, Germany and New York City.

She is a member of the Westfield Art Association, the Creative Art Group of Cranford, Scotch Plains-Fanwood Art Association, Summit Art Center, Hunterdon Art Center, the Board of the American Artists' Professional League of New Jersey and Director of the Federated Art Associations of New Jersey.

Any person who would like more information about the showing may contact Mrs. Shirley Biegler at 233-3720.

On the campaign trail

Dems begin door-to-door campaign

Since the beginning of their door-to-door campaign, wherein they visited over 300 homes, Democratic council candidates Councilwoman Phyllis Baldacchini and Gene Pepe said they have received a tremendous reception.

In a joint statement the candidates said, "It's amazing how much people appreciate being able to actually meet and discuss the issues that they are concerned about. We are also amazed at how well informed the public is about the shenanigans taking place in Borough Hall. Our residents are tired of the same empty promises of bringing peace and harmony—and once they are elected, they completely ignore any attempts at instilling peace and harmony.

"Instead, they form a coalition to put essentially unqualified people in positions simply to satisfy their political supporters." The candidates added, "They are tired of a council that appeases a select few who seek to further their own goals, while ignoring the majority of the residents who put them in office."

The hopefuls stated, "While visiting the homes, the three most commonly raised issues were: why was there such a big tax increase this year while services have not increased? This never happened under a Democratic council majority. Why are the local laws and ordinances not enforced, as reflected in all types of violations? Why are our negotiated contracts so lucrative, when most bargaining units are giving back some benefits in order to prevent layoffs?"

Baldacchini and Pepe said, "We, as candidates, are also very concerned about these issues and as we continue our door-to-door campaign we will address them, as well as any other issues which affect every resident in our borough. We will not support a council that spends tax dollars without considering the ramifications of doing more with less. We will not support individuals in law enforcement positions who aren't qualified or who won't enforce local ordinances because of political favoritism. We want the people to know that we are committed to serving the needs of all the residents, not any group or individual—and our campaign effort is to get this message to the people."

Mullman, Welsch rap GOP opponents

Sy Mullman and Bill Welsch, Democratic candidates for Springfield Township Committee called their Republican opponents either "naive or devious" if they claim there is no chance the quarry will be used as a dump or as an amphitheater just because the Republican freeholders told them so." The Mullman and Welsch statement follows.

"The fate of the quarry is quite properly on the minds of many of our concerned citizens. A month ago we called a meeting to assist a newly formed non-partisan citizens committee, SCOPE, to guard against use of the quarry for either a dump or an amphitheater. We believe the issue is so important that the people of the community must remain vigilant. Our Republican opponents repeatedly take the opposite point of view. They called the organization of SCOPE premature. They continually tell the people of Springfield that there is no need to be concerned. They are quoted in last week's newspaper as convinced there will be neither a garbage dump nor an amphitheater unless Springfield's citizens consent. How do they know? They tell us that they know it because the Republican freeholders told them so.

"Last week, in response to a query from a member of SCOPE, the group set up in response to our first call, the County engineer Armond Fiorletti, stated that even now, as you read this, the county and the state are grading the quarry for an amphitheater. He further stated that this was being done at the order of the Union County freeholder board, the very group who assured our opponents nothing would be done on the amphitheater. If we take Fink and Massler's advice and go to sleep on this issue, we are going to wake up with either a dump, an amphitheater, or both in our back yard. Wake up before then, Fink and Massler. If the freeholders want us to drop our guard on the amphitheater they're going to do whatever they can to lull us into a feeling of security.

"We hope the people of Springfield will pack the Freeholder meeting. It is important to support the work of the hard working members of SCOPE. We also hope the people of Springfield will remember the naive of our opponents and elect Welsch and Mullman to the Township Committee in November," they concluded.

Massler and Fink promise 'sweeping reform'

Howard Massler and Stanley Fink, Republican candidates for Springfield Township Committee, promised party regulars "sweeping reform" when elected.

"The Democrats," Massler claimed, "have mismanaged this town by making appointments solely to repay political favors to party regulars. Too many people appointed," Massler continued, "have neither the qualifications nor the experience to properly serve the public interest. My own experience representing a client before the Board of Adjustment was a horror show," Massler said. "Our petition took five months because Board members never bothered to show up," Massler said.

Massler claimed that, "Springfield has been mismanaged and our tax dollars wasted because the Democrats insist upon making Board appointments on the basis of political favor rather than what is best for our town."

Stanley Fink observed that, "We have all seen friends and neighbors qualified to serve the public interest fired from Board positions because they wouldn't play ball." Fink added, "we promise, when elected, to make Board appointments on the basis of performance and ability, not just old-fashioned Tammany Hall politics."

Both candidates stressed that their election would give a majority for Jeff Katz and Jo-Ann Pieper, current Republican members of the Township Committee. "We must be elected," Fink claimed, "if the great work that Katz and Pieper have started for Springfield is to be completed. We can and will manage Springfield a lot better than the Democrats have," added Massler, "and we won't have to play old-fashioned politics to get elected."

Kenilworth GOP praises Hardwick

Kenilworth Borough Council President Anthony Montouri, Dennis Schultz and Councilman Frank Ferrara, Republican candidates for the Kenilworth Borough Council, issued a statement lauding Assembly Speaker Chuck Hardwick, Assemblyman Peter Genova and state Sen. C. Louis Bassano for securing $50,000 in state aid for the Kenilworth Senior Citizen Center.

Montouri stated, "The efforts of our outstanding legislators has succeeded in securing the $50,000 for the construction of the Kenilworth Senior Citizen Center even though our opponents and their mentor, the mayor, have done nothing but chastise our legislators for their efforts. It is almost unbelievable that anyone would object to our state legislators securing money for our senior citizens, yet considering how our opponents campaign has already sunk into the gutter with their mud-slinging, I have come to expect anything from them."

Council candidate Schultz stated, "We will continue to discuss positive issues and facts in our campaign, emphasizing the accomplishments of the Republican majority on council and will not resort to the low, gutter tactics of our opponents. The construction of the Senior Citizen Center; restoration of financial stability in the library; revision of the building department's fee schedule; and adoption of a salary guide for borough employees, the first ever in Kenilworth, is just some of the positive points accomplished over the obstructionism of our opponents.

Councilman Ferrara said, "I am proud to be part of a team which is dedicated to 'Building Pride in Kenilworth', unlike our opponents

Hellman plays survive

By Rose P. Simon
A Playwright Speaks Out

"Conversations With Lillian Hellman," edited by Jackson R. Bryer

One of our most celebrated dramatists of our time — Lillian Hellman — is also known as a writer of memoirs, screen plays, film reviews, etc. Her 13 plays — some eminently successful — include: The Children's Hour, Toys In The Attic, The Watch On The Rhine, The Little Foxes, and Candide. Her brilliant writing was recognized by awards from reputable drama institutions and by honorary degrees from numerous universities.

Hellman never married, but lived for some years with the liberal activist and writer — Dashiell Hammett — who was jailed during the McCarthy era. Both of them suffered financially as the result of being black-listed, but their works have survived.

More than two dozen interviews, arranged chronologically, reveal important events in Hellman's personal life, her works, and her candid opinions. They occurred during the years from 1951 to 1981. In 1968, editor Lewis Funke, met Hellman in her Manhattan apartment (she had a summer home in Martha's Vineyard). He found her independent, determined, but modest about her work. She was enjoying her seminar at Princeton, and had recently completed a memoir (An Unfinished Woman).

She felt that, although women were not as creative as men, they were on a par in intelligence, observation, and emotion. She believed that good playwrights are born so, Hellman told Funke that she rarely took notes, but tried to remember about characters and events. She required a very quiet room for work, never read her plays to others, disapproved of political plays; plays of day were only for the rich; current children had become movie buffs.

Another interviewer — Christine Doudnor — spoke with Hellman in 1974, during her memoir-writing period. Hellman mentioned Senator McCarthy, who "only summed up the angers and fears of a great many people." She spoke of the Jews (she was a member of a Southern Jewish community-New Orleans) who "should fight it (persecution) anytime, anywhere..." Scott-Fitzgerald was a good writer but over-romantic... she liked Woody Allen, and Altman; had had analysis, which cured her of her drinking habit; she found men more interesting than women, except for Dorothy Parker, a good friend; it was important for women to be equal economically.

Hammett and she were never in competition; he was extremely helpful to her about her work. Neither of them opted for marriage, yet they both liked children. Being a celebrity was no problem; she simply saw only those she wished to see. Re-aging: she resented being unable to do certain things, such as gardening. Her last few years were spent in and out of hospitals (emphysema). She died June 30, 1984.

Man found hanged in park

A 35-year-old Union man was found hanged in Echo Lake Park, Mountainside, by two people walking through the park Sunday afternoon.

According to Lt. Dan Vaniski of the Union County Police Department, Westfield, Jiri Dolezal was found hanging from a tree by pedestrians passing through the woods at about 2:25 p.m.

The man, Vaniski said, was found in the Middle Lake area of the park. He said that tests done Monday by the medical examiner revealed death was caused by strangulation. He said that the case is still being investigated, but it appears the victim committed suicide.

Safe toys for baby warning

The Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) and the Juvenile Products Manufacturers Association (JPMA) are co-sponsors of Baby Safety Week now through Sunday.

The week "emphasizes a major public campaign to target the importance of safety related to children and the products they use."

Parents are invited to send for free safety materials from both CPSC and JPMA. In addition to preparing materials especially for Baby Safety Week, the two organizations will distribute two brochures nationally: JPMA's "Be Sure It's Safe For Your Baby" and CPSC's "Tips for Your Baby's Safety." The Union County Division of Consumer Affairs has announced that it has a limited supply of CPSC's "Tips For Your Baby's Safety" brochure which can be picked up at 300 North Ave., East, Westfield, this week.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the Office of Information and Public Affairs, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C., 20207, or the Juvenile Products Manufacturers Association, 66 East Main St., Moorestown, N.J., 08057.

The Union County Division of Consumer Affairs, within the Department of Public Safety, has received word of a "strong warning against the use of potentially hazardous second-hand juvenile products such as cribs, playpens, strollers, high chairs, and walkers which was issued to the nation's parents in a joint statement from the Consumer Product Safety Commission and the Juvenile Products Manufacturers Association.

In stressing the dangers of some used juvenile products, CPSC and JPMA said that many items bought at flea markets and garage sales, handed down by families and friends, or stored for years in garages and attics were made before safety standards, now in effect, were introduced.

In addition to development of new standards, significant improvements in construction methods and safety design have been made in recent years. New products generally are considered safer than those that have been around for a long time, and outdated equipment has been one contributing factor in childhood injuries and deaths over the years.

Many juvenile products on the market today are manufactured to conform to strict government or voluntary safety standards. These standards were drafted to address hazards that have been associated with serious injuries and death to children using these products. Some examples are openings that have caused head entrapment, small parts that have caused choking, decorative knobs that have caused clothing entanglement leading to strangulation, and inadequate restraining systems that have caused falls.

The CPSC is an independent regulatory agency charged with reducing unreasonable risks of injury associated with consumer products.

The JPMA represents the manufacturers of cribs, high chairs, play yards, car seats, carriages, strollers and related products.

Top man promoted

Victor J. Fresolone, president and chief executive officer of Memorial General Hospital in Union, was advanced to fellowship status in the American College of Healthcare Executives, at its 52nd Convocation ceremony held recently in Toronto, Ontario, Canada.

Founded in 1933, the college is a Chicago-based, international professional society representing more than 20,000 health care executives.

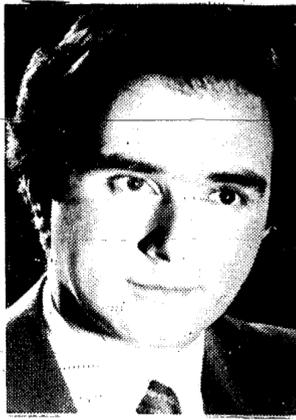

Fellowship is the highest level of achievement in the college. In order to advance to the level of fellow, candidates must demonstrate their education, experience and leadership in the health care field over a period of several years. Prior to attaining this status, Fresolone was required to complete a thesis on a health care-related subject.

His professional affiliations and positions include a number of leadership positions in the health care field. Among them are chairman of the board of trustees and fellow of the College of Osteopathic Healthcare Executives, member of the board of trustees, American Osteopathic Hospital Association, where he serves as chairman of the committee on hospital accreditation; member, American College of Health Care Administrators; past president, New Jersey Osteopathic Hospital Association; member, New Jersey Hospital Association, where he formerly held the posts of chairman of the association's council on management practices and member of its board of trustees.

Active on the state and local level, Fresolone's community involvements include his memberships on the board of trustees at the Jersey City Medical Center, the New Jersey State Commission to Deter Criminal Activity and the Lions Club of Union Township. He also is chairman of the board of the New Jersey State Department of Human Services Medical Assistance Advisory Council.

In addition to serving as president and chief executive officer of Memorial General Hospital, Fresolone is chairman of the board of Mega Source, Inc., of Union, the parent company of the hospital and the Memorial General Development Foundation, Inc., a non-profit organization devoted to raising funds to support specific health care programs and services; Human Concepts, Inc., of Union, a for-profit provider of health care projects and employee assistance programs, Cline-Med Realty Corp. of Union, a for-profit real estate holding corporation; and Mega Care, Inc., which owns and operates Cornell Hall Convalescent Center in Union, Greenbrook Manor Nursing Home in Green Brook and Ashbrook Nursing Home in Scotch Plains.

Three-day Greek festival set

St. Demetrios Greek Orthodox Church of Union, 721 Rahway Ave., will highlight its three-day Greek festival Sept. 19, 20 and 21 with Greek culture, traditions, foods, music and crafts under high tents on the church grounds.

The church, which was located in Newark since its beginnings 58 years ago, found its new home in Union two years ago. It was announced that the festival will focus on Greek food including Moussaka, eggplant casserole; Pastitsio, baked macaroni; Shish-kebab, souvlaki on a bed of rice; Arni Psito, roast leg of lamb, and Mezzedakia, appetizers consisting of Dolmathes, stuffed grapevine leaves; Tiropites, cheese puffs, and Spanakopites, spinach puffs. There also will be Greek wines, brandy, ouzo and beer, Greek coffee and pastries. A pastry shop will be available.

Bouzouki music will be provided on Friday and Saturday evenings and on Sunday afternoon by Mike Daniels and his orchestra and young dancers of the church community, who will perform authentic Greek dances in native Greek costumes, which were imported from Greece and paid for by the church's Philotochos, the Ladies Auxiliary Society. Additionally, there will be a Greek Import Gift Boutique featuring blouses, plaques, Grecian vases, captain's hats, dolls, ceramics and handicrafts. Balloons and games of skill will be featured for the youngsters.

A fast businessman's luncheon also will be featured under the tents on Friday from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 964-7957 or 381-3681.

Blood drive at two sites

In an effort to bolster area blood supplies, the Eastern Union County Red Cross and N.J. Blood Services will co-sponsor two blood drives in the area.

Tomorrow, the Eastern Union County Red Cross, 203 West Jersey Street, Elizabeth, will be the site of a community blood drive from 11 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

On Monday, Garwood will hold a community blood drive at the Knights of Columbus Hall, located at South Avenue in Garwood from 3 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

Anyone between the ages of 17 and 66, weighing at least 110 pounds and in good health, can donate blood, but 17-year-olds require the written consent of parent or guardian. Donors over the age of 65 must have donated previously, be in good health, and meet the medical requirements of a New Jersey Blood Service physician.

Further information can be obtained by contacting the Eastern Union County Red Cross at 353-2500.

Hotline number

The Y.W.C.A. of Eastern Union County operates a battered woman's shelter called Project Protect which provides crisis intervention and shelter services to battered women and their children.

The shelter served 276 women and children in 1985 and received almost 1,000 crisis calls.

Their crisis hotline number is 355-HELP.

MAN'S SELF-CHOSEN WAYS BRINGS CALAMITY TO HIS FAMILY

A hundred year old man, was instructed by the Lord to return to his own country where he would reap his blessings and property. Instead he continued to take up residence in another foreign land with his family for about thirty-three years. Calamity broke out when his daughters' practices (frequent visits with the young women of the alien land) led to her defilement by a young man of the alien land who desired to marry her.

The young alien man and his father informed the young women's father and her brothers of the incident. They were outraged and the young women's brothers plotted to vindicate their sister. The young women's brothers led the young alien man and his father to believe that if they practiced the custom of the young woman and her family, the marriage would be allowed.

On the third day of practicing the young woman's family's custom, the young woman's brothers slaughtered the young alien man and every man of his city. When the hundred year old man learned of his son's error, he was deeply grieved and feared for his life and his family's life, for he was in an alien country against the desire of the Lord.

Now that he is in a state of humility, he sees his error and listens to the Lord when beckoned to return to his own country. Jacob left the alien land, Schechem in Canaan, commanded his family to abstain from practices offensive to the Lord and returned to Bethel to receive his blessings and prosperity.

Proverb of the week: 22:8 If you plant the seeds of injustice disaster will spring up.
Are you unfaithful to the Lord as Jacob was? Have you backslidden?
As a believer, are you training your children and teenagers in the way they should go, so they will not err in ignorance as Dinah did? If you desire answers to these questions or desire to find out how to have peace and happiness in your life, please forward your inquiries to:

Autumn season's programs, events planned

Herbert Ross of Mountainside will be guest speaker at a meeting conducted by the B'nai B'rith Women of Springfield Wednesday at 12:15 p.m. in Temple Sha'arey Shalom, Springfield. The program will be called "Jewish Humor is No Laughing Matter." Muriel Tenenbaum, president, will preside. Mildred Seidman is program vice president. A mini lunch will be served, and the public is invited to attend.

agency and founded the Menorah Chapels in both Millburn and Teaneck. Ross is the recipient of United Jewish Appeal awards and

HERBERT ROSS

Israel Bond awards. His column, "Through A Jewish Looking Glass," appears in local Anglo-Jewish papers.

A PAPER DRIVE will be held Saturday by Grace Lutheran Church, Vauxhall Road, Union. A trailer will be parked on the church lot to receive the papers.

THE LECTURE-SERMONETTE will be given this Sunday at noon for the Higher New Thought Center which meets at the United Methodist Church, Overlook and Berwyn terraces, Union, by the Rev. Estelle Piercy, founder-director. Dr. Piercy's topic will be "Safety Consciousness Creates Safety."

A PASTORAL LETTER from the United Methodists' Council of Bishops will be read at the 10:30 a.m. worship service Sunday in the United Methodist Church of Linden. The letter will be read from the pulpit by the Rev. David LeDuc. It is entitled, "In Defense of Creation: The Nuclear Crisis and A Just Peace." Following the service, there will be a coffee-program hour in Aldersgate Hall. The highlight of the program will be a videotape sent by the Council of Bishops to be used in conjunction with the pastoral letter. A discussion will follow and all are invited to attend.

SUNDAY SCHOOL classes of the Community Presbyterian Church, Meeting House Lane, Mountainside, will begin this Sunday at 10:30 a.m. The pre-school class will be taught by Mrs. Gary Cantagallo, Mrs. Gregory Meissner and Stacey Meissner. Primary classes, grades one to four, will be taught by Mrs. Levin B. Hanigan and Leigh Anne Hanigan. The Junior Department will be taught by Thomas Knierim. Child care services will be provided each Sunday for infants, one and two years old. Mrs. Levin B. Hanigan is superintendent of the Sunday School.

THE ROSELLE-ROSELLE PARK Unit of Church Women United will hold a fall tea and program Sunday at 2 p.m. in St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Walnut Street and Fourth Avenue, Roselle. The theme will be "Highlighting State Projects - CWU in New Jersey Intermedia." Louise Fitzgerald, program chairman, will introduce the guest speaker Dorothy Orner, director of adult basic education for Intermedia. Special guests will include Doris Wilson, past president; Margaret Van Elten, president of Church Women United in New Jersey; Nancy Carrick, director of the Union County Church Women United in New Jersey, and Fern Shaw, president of the Cranford Unit of Church Women United. Ethel M. Pulley, president of the Roselle-Roselle Park Unit of Church Women United, will welcome the guests. Jean Keenan and Ruth Loehr are co-chairmen of the event. There will be a display by the Friendship Club and an offering will be taken for the Center For Hope in Roselle.

Intermedia is an ecumenical agency of the National Council of Churches, where churches of the United States and Canada assist in the ministries of non-formal basic education for adults, and communication in overseas nations. The participation with overseas partners, who initiate and maintain programs, is in the form of grants, training, consultation and linkage to other resources. Intermedia "relates to programs sponsored by church bodies or agencies with similar values in other parts of the world, particularly those which seek out, insofar as possible, the poorest of the poor, such as refugees, peasants, unemployed, landless and illiterate people. It encourages programs which are designed for and by women to enable their full participation in the life of their community and nation."

THE CHURCH SCHOOL of the Second Baptist Church, Second Avenue and Locust Street, Roselle, will hold its annual fellowship breakfast at 8 p.m. Sunday. Special guest speaker will be Dorothy Mayner, a Roselle resident, who is principal of the Lincoln Elementary School, Roselle, a post which has held for several years. She will bring a message for Church School members, their parents and their friends. The public is invited. There is no charge, it was announced. The event will mark the re-opening of the 1986-1987 Church School year.

EVANGEL BAPTIST Church, 242 Shunpike Road, Springfield, has announced that Mitch Glaser of Jews For Jesus will speak at Sunday's 6 p.m. service. He is a key assistant to Moishe Rosen, founder and leader of Jews For Jesus. The public is invited to attend.

COURT PATRICIA 1254, Catholic Daughters of the Americas (CDA), will hold its first meeting of the new season Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Bernard Hall in St. Joseph's Church, 767 Prospect St., Maplewood. Regent Catherine Patania of Union has announced that preparations will be completed for the Sept. 26 benefit auction. Hostesses for the social will be Helen Notté and Nellie Macaluso.

COURT OUR LADY of Fatima, Catholic Daughters of the Americas (CDA), will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in St. Theresa's School cafeteria. The meeting will be conducted by Doris Wojtowicz, court regent. Plans will be made for the court's annual October Mass and brunch scheduled Oct. 26 at the Galloping Hill Caterers, Union. Send them back to school with peace of mind.

A new grade, new teachers, and new friends makes September a time of anticipation, joy or even anxiety for most parents and children. Is your child returning to school in the best of health? A basic back-to-school check-up is quick and inexpensive at Hillside Health Stop and AMC Health Stop. In fact, second and third child exams are half the usual charge when the children are seen together. So this year, send them back to school with a clear mind and a healthy body.

Banker, broker join at National State

Banker and broker come together under one roof at the National State Bank Highland Park office. National State customers will now be able to take care of all their banking and financial needs at a single location, thanks to the addition of Philips, Appel & Walden, Inc., a full-service securities and investment firm.

"National State is continually looking for better ways to serve customers, and the convenience of having a brokerage firm representative on the premises represents the ultimate in customer service," according to Helen Kochevar, manager of National State's Highland Park branch office at 315 Raritan Ave.

It's not only convenience," Kochevar is quick to add. "With the wide and often confusing array of financial products available today, our customers can benefit from the personal attention, guidance and experience that a bank plus brokerage firm can offer."

National State's agreement to lease space to Philips, Appel, and Walden has already proved successful at National State offices in Summit, Westfield, Woodbridge and Trenton.

Philips, Appel & Walden is a member of the New York Stock Exchange and one of New Jersey's largest retail brokerage firms. Robert W. Trause, vice president of Philips, Appel & Walden's Bank

Brokerage Division, explains the positive track record for the successful ventures. "The combination fills a real need for the traditional banking customer. National State has taken the initiative in providing 'one stop' financial services for its customers."

Philips, Appel & Walden has assigned an experienced representative to National State's Highland Park location, C. Jay Pelliconi. Pelliconi, a fully licensed registered securities representative with over 30 years of experience in finance, states that, "Our objective is to give the National State Bank customer complete personalized financial service. They can now do their daily banking as well as check on their current investments. Together with National State we can provide the regular banking customer a broader based financial future."

The National State Bank, headquartered in Elizabeth, is the 1.6 billion flagship bank of Constellation Bancorp. National has offices located across New Jersey.

Crestmont approves program to convert

Crestmont Federal Savings & Loan Association — Crestmont Federal or The Association — has announced the board of directors has unanimously adopted a plan to convert Crestmont Federal from a federally chartered mutual savings and loan association to a federally chartered stock savings and loan association.

The eligible depositors and borrowers, officers, directors and employees, officers, directors and employees of Crestmont Federal and certain members of the general public will be given the first opportunity to purchase the shares of common stock of the association to be issued in connection with the conversion in a subscription offering. It is expected that shares remaining after the offering of the common stock to the Association's members will be sold through an underwritten public offering.

Savings account holders will continue to hold accounts in the converted association identical as to the dollar amount, rate of return and general terms. Savings accounts will continue to be insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., an instrumentality of the United States government, and Crestmont Federal will maintain its membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank system.

After conversion, Crestmont Federal will operate as a federally chartered stock savings and loan association. Borrowers' loans will be unaffected by the conversion and will remain contractually fixed as they exist prior to conversion. The normal business of the association in accepting deposits and making loans will continue without interruption in existing offices.

New investment plan offered by Morsemer

Morsemer Federal Savings and Loan Association has announced that the financial institution is now offering a unique investment product that is not offered by other institutions in their market — a new one-year variable rate certificate of deposit featuring an introductory interest rate of 9 percent per annum, compounded and credited monthly. The minimum deposit is $5,000.

According to Kevin Lenihan, senior vice president, the initial rate is effective through Saturday and will change the first day of each month thereafter, based on Morsemer Federal's current one year CD rate. The CD also has a floor of 6 percent, which is being guaranteed by Morsemer Federal for the full one-year term. In addition, there is only a one month interest penalty for early withdrawal.

"We're extremely excited about this attractive new investment opportunity," Lenihan said, "and public response should be excellent since it lets the saver have his cake and eat it, too.

"When interest rates rise, the saver reaps the benefit and automatically earns the higher rate. This normally wouldn't happen with other types of CDs where one is locked into a fixed rate. On the other hand, the saver also is protected against any sudden changes in market conditions, since the rate is guaranteed not to go below 6 percent. What's more, the nominal withdrawal penalty provides the flexibility for altering one's investment plans. And, of course, our new CD is fully insured to $100,000 by the FSLIC."

Morsemer Federal Savings, with current assets over $264 million, offers a full-range of savings and home financing services from its convenient office locations in Palisades Park, Fort Lee and Cliffside Park.

Cunningham wins contest

Kathy Cunningham, a resident of Union, is the winner of the "Teller of the Month" contest held at The National State Bank's Kenilworth office. "The program gave me the incentive to keep smiling but that wasn't hard for me. I'm always smiling and friendly to my customers," said Cunningham.

Lamin Tarawly, branch manager, presented Kathy with a $50 gift certificate donated by NATPAC Food Distributors of Union and a free dinner for two donated by Repetti's Restaurant in Kenilworth. Both companies are customers of National State.

"We held the contest to stress the importance of good customer relations," said Tarawly. "Now our tellers know that their customers really do appreciate the friendly service they receive at National State."

Greene, Mittra win tourney

Nicole Greene and Shauvik Mittra were winners in the Springfield Junior Invitational Tennis Tournament at the Dayton Regional High School tennis courts. In the girls' division, Greene out-steadied Cristella La Rosa, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2, and Mittra defeated his brother, Kaushik, 6-0, 6-1, in the boys' division. The tournament was opened to members of the recreation department's junior tennis team and featured a three-day round robin tournament to determine the finalists. In the girls' division Greene, 3-0, won all her matches. Cristella La Rosa and Colleen Drummond were tied, 2-1, with La Rosa the winner based on losing the fewest games. Laura Greene finished at 0-3. The winners of each group in the boys division were Kaushik and Shauvik Mittra with 4-0 record. The records of the other players were Hershil Patel, 2-2; Chris La Rosa, 1-3; Samir Sharma, 1-3; Steve Prezimirski, 1-3; Danny Monaco, 1-3; Chris Spirito, 1-3; Eddie Bruckner, 0-4. Lou Monaco, after winning two matches, had to default due to scheduling constraints. Tennis balls for all matches were furnished by the recreation department and all participants were presented with trophies by Susie Eng, tournament director.

Dinner, golf day aid hospital

The St. Elizabeth Hospital Foundation will hold its 6th annual Golf Classic on Sept. 22, at the Echo Lake Country Club in Westfield.

All proceeds will go toward "fulfilling the Foundation's pledge to the hospital," states Bob Cosulich of Westfield, Tournament co-chairman. The Foundation has pledged a quarter million dollars to fund the recent $10.4 million addition to the hospital building. It has realized approximately 70 percent of the pledge.

Cosulich says "we hope to raise about $6,000 to $6,500 in contributions from the tournament."

The $150 entry fee covers the 18-hole tournament, greens, fees, and cart or caddy, open bar all day, a buffet luncheon, cocktail reception and dinner, plus prizes and drawing. Tee, greens, and corporate sponsorships are available.

Those unable to attend the all-day event are invited to purchase dinner tickets.

The golf classic will begin with registration from 11 to 11:30 a.m., followed by a buffet luncheon. A shotgun start will signal the beginning of the tournament at 12:30 p.m. A cocktail reception and dinner will follow at 6 p.m. and 7 p.m., respectively.

Prizes to be awarded at the dinner include a 1987 Lincoln Town Car for hole-in-one, donated by Hillside Lincoln/Mercury/Merkur, and a weekend for two in New York City provided by Park Travel in Scotch Plains.

Persons interested in participating in the golf classic should contact Cosulich at 862-0030 for further information concerning registration.

R Park runner nipped at line

Bruce Kemmerer of Bernardsville won the Verona Jaycees' Labor Day Five-Mile Run by defeating Matt Makowski of Roselle Park by less than a half second while Jody-Lynn Reicher of Haledon claimed the women's title.

Kemmerer temporarily lost the lead he held throughout most of the race with less than 100 yards to go. Makowski opened a 10-yard lead, but Kemmerer passed Makowski in the last three yards of the race to claim the victory in 24:53.4. Makowski came in second with a time of 24:53.7 while Mike Black of Eugene, Oregon took third place with a time of 25:40.

Reicher, who finished in 30:19, opened up a big lead and was never really challenged throughout the contest. Catherine Paz of Clifton placed second in 31:10 while Verona standout Jill Quigley took third in 31:35.

The ninth annual Verona Jaycees' Labor Day Run attracted its largest field of runners this year by drawing more than 500 runners to the event.

"Everyone involved with the race dedicated themselves to improving this year's run, Race Coordinator Ray Scally said. "We feel that we turned the corner this year into making the Verona Jaycees' Labor Day Run one of the most popular races in the State."

Charity golf tourney is a hit

The premiere Fred Challenge amateur golf tournament, sponsored by Fred Joaillier, held last month at Baltusrol Golf Club, Springfield, to benefit The Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, proved to be a successful fund raiser. A total of $20,000 was raised in research monies for The Juvenile Diabetes Foundation.

Of the 100 players participating from the greater Metropolitan area, 24 qualifiers were presented with trophies and gifts from Fred Joaillier and offered the opportunity to compete against their French counterparts at the famed Racing Club de France, at La Boullie in October. The international competition is called the Fred French-American Challenge.

when NBC's Bryant Gumbel, CBS's Roland Smith and ABC's Storm Field and Mike Barry teed off during the noon shotgun start. While elsewhere on the course, the father-son team of tennis great Billy and Peter Talbert drove for the green for Juvenile Diabetes.

Luigi Leonardi, vice president of Fred Joaillier, representing President Henri Samuel, said, "The tournament fulfilled our every expectation and we look forward to The Fred French-American competition in France later this year, and a continuation of this American event next year. I cannot think of a more rewarding way to introduce a new quality golfing event than to benefit a quality cause as The Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. We were all, indeed, winners."

At one point, the tourney looked like the battle of the broadcasters

Club sponsors canoeing trip

The canoeing section of the Union County Hiking Club will sponsor a canoeing trip to be held tomorrow and Saturday.

A trip on the northern branch of the Raritan river is scheduled for tomorrow, and a trip on the southern branch is scheduled for the following day.

Canoes are available at the rate of $10 for a two-person canoe. The club will sponsor future trips on the Walkill, Batsto and Maurice Rivers, and on Pochuck Creek.

For more information call 964-1703 between 7 and 10 p.m., weeknights.

CYO Golf match premieres

The Union County CYO Board of Directors will hold their First Annual Golf Classic on Oct. 6 at the Suburban Golf Club in Union.

Rev. Charles Hartling, Union County CYO director, appointed Herman Schreiber as Tournament Chairman. Assisting Mr. Schreiber are Robert Guempel, Lauren Hergert, David Muldowney, Hugh Parotte, Robert Healy, Michael Hubert, and Carmine Valiante.

Reservations to play in the Classic are limited — if interested please call Mr. Schreiber at 353-5589 or Mike Hubert 381-3100 or the CYO office 381-1310.

Many celebrities will participate in the Classic including radio personality Arthur George Rust, Jr. from ABC Sports Talk and Joe Nolan from Shadow Traffic.

The day will include green fees, cart, refreshments on the course, cocktail hour, clam bar, dinner and many prizes.

Please call 381-1310 for further information.

Kean veteran coach retires

Pat Hannisch, who has coached the women's basketball team at Kean College of New Jersey for 12 years, is retiring from the coaching ranks.

Her assistant, Rich Wilson, will be the new head coach.

Hannisch sports a career record of 214-79 at Kean. She was the New Jersey Division III Coach of the Year four consecutive years (1983-86), and is a past president of the New Jersey Collegiate Basketball Coaches Association.

She will continue as the associate athletic director at Kean College.

"Coaching has been a big part of my life and I will miss it," she said. "But I've always known I wouldn't coach my whole career. Coaching, particularly in a top-rated program, is all-consuming. For five months, you don't do anything else and that takes its toll over the years.

"The obvious question is why I would leave when I probably have the top-rated Division III team in the nation coming back. That definitely made my decision more difficult. But when you've done something this long, there is no good time. I made this decision when things were going well. I feel very good about where the team is and where they're going. Rich is more than capable of getting them there. I look for them to be just as successful—maybe even more so."

Wilson, a 1975 graduate of Kean College, coached the JV team between 1977 and 1979 and has been the assistant varsity coach for seven seasons. He was a starter on the men's team for four years and captain for three. The 1,000-point scorer is in the Kean College Hall of Fame.

"Rich's philosophy and mine are much alike," Hannisch said. "He's part and parcel of our success, from recruiting to teaching to coaching. It's not going to be that much of a change for the players because our approaches are the same. The continuity will be there."

Wilson agrees. "What people have seen in the past is what they'll see in the future," he said. "With the players we have returning, we should have a very successful year."

Kean, which won the New Jersey Athletic Conference each year since its inception four years ago, narrowly missed the NCAA Atlantic Regional Title last season. The squad was ranked number 2 in the nation for most of last season and has a good chance to be ranked number 1 this year because all of their players are returning. Kean won the Atlantic Regional Championship in 1983 and 1984.

"There are talented young players in the program who will keep alive the winning tradition that we've established," Wilson said. "On the other hand, it won't be the same without Pat on the bench. The team will miss her and I will miss her." And she will miss them.

"The years I've spent coaching have been a very important, rewarding and positive part of my life," Hannisch said. "But it is time to move on to other things."

Benefit races scheduled for Oct. 5

Area residents are invited to run in the fourth annual Heart and Sole Race—a benefit for heart transplant patient Warren Norton—to be held by John F. Kennedy Medical Center in Edison on October 5, 1986.

Applications are now available for the race, which consists of a 10-kilometer and a one-mile walk/run event. All proceeds will be donated to Warren Norton, a 30-year old former medical center employee and former Edison resident who recently received a heart transplant at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center in New York.

The funds will help to cover Norton's rising medical expenses. One drug alone called Cyclosporin-A costs $9,000 per year and Norton must take it every day for the rest of his life. The drug is used to inhibit the body's immune system from rejecting the new heart.

Norton has recently begun participating in Kennedy Medical Center's Cardiopulmonary Rehabilitation program in order to rebuild his strength.

The race will begin at The Robert Wood Johnson Jr. Lifestyle Institute, an affiliate of the medical center, which is located at 2050 Oak Tree Road in Edison. The one-mile event begins at 9 a.m. and the 10 K at 9:30 a.m., rain or shine, at the LIFeStyle Institute. The race course will run through nearby Edison neighborhoods, and traffic will be controlled.

The Heart and Sole Race is being sponsored by Kennedy Medical Center's Cardiopulmonary Rehabilitation Department, the Lifestyle Institute and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey.

Pre-entry application forms must be received by October 4, 1986, and post entries will be accepted the day of the race.

Trophies, free T-shirts and other prizes will be awarded in all age categories, and there is a special category for wheelchair athletes in both races.

Interested persons may obtain application forms and more information by contacting Kennedy Medical Center's Cardiopulmonary Rehabilitation Department at 321-7725.

Teens to conduct yearly flea market

The Union V.F.W. Teener Baseball League will sponsor its Annual Flea Market Sept. 28, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Weber Field, Tucker Avenue, Union.

More than 100 dealers will sell collectables, new and used merchandise, antiques and crafts. There will be no admission charge. Hot and cold beverages and food will be available for purchase. Rain date Oct. 5.

For additional information call Bob Browne at 686-3182 eves. and weekends.
