Looking back at 1986

MAY

Borough Council approves the school board budget following a public meeting with BOE representatives. Board Member James Pascuiti explains that the 5.2 percent increase over the previous budget is a result of the $18,500 mandated salary for first-year teachers and increases in liability insurance, property insurance and social security...The Public Works Committee of the Borough Council holds a special meeting to give residents an opportunity to comment on the proposed installation of sewers in three Mountainside neighborhoods. Borough Attorney John Post says that property owners can pay off assessments, which include interest, over a 10-year period...The Planning Board holds a special meeting to discuss proposed changes in the borough's zoning regulation. The changes discussed involve the parking of recreational and commercial vehicles in residential areas...Mayor Bruce Geiger proclaims May 11 through 17 as 1986 Preservation Week in Mountainside...The annual Deerfield School Fair is held with special guest "Do-Bee" and "Miss Molly" from Romper Room visiting the school. A display is set up at the fair by the Mountainside Historic Preservation Committee featuring old pictures of the borough...The Board of Education discusses the merits of initiating a full-day kindergarten program. Parents in attendance are split between staying with the half-day program and changing to an all-day program. The board decides to table a vote on the topic until all sides can be weighed...The Borough Council approves the drafting of an ordinance voicing their disapproval of the state's plan to widen Route 22...The governing body approves the drafting of an ordinance which regulates the placement of newsracks within the borough...Councilman and Fire Commissioner Ron Romak is issued a key to the borough's firehouse. Mayor Bruce Geiger says he feels Romak has become an "ineffective" fire commissioner...The historical Hetfield House is formally dedicated. The event is attended by 300 people including actress Celeste Holm and Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden, in addition to members of the Historic Preservation Committee and borough officials...A school bus transporting the Deerfield School track team crashes into a Cadillac limousine, in the eastbound lane of Route 22 near Lawrence Avenue, causing a chain reaction. The bus then collides with a Buick Riviera. The driver of the bus, Charles H. Maxey, 56, is cited for careless driving.

JUNE

The Board of Education approves an extended-day kindergarten program for the 1986-87 school year. The new program's hours run from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m...Only about 200 voters turn out to vote in the primary election, for local, state and county offices. Incumbent councilmen Bart A. Barre and Werner C. Schon receive 194 and 195 votes respectively in their uncontested bids for Republican nomination for two council seats...The Mountainside community mourns the loss of James and David Clifford, former residents of the borough, who are killed in a traffic accident in New York State. Nearly 200 borough residents and friends of the family attend the memorial service in Rochester to offer support to the boys' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clifford...The Fire Committee of the Borough Council presented a proposed policy regarding the use and storage of alcoholic beverages in the firehouse. The code says the beverage must be kept on the second floor in a storage room which will only be given access to by the department's four officers. Minors in the department would not be given access to the beverages...A scholarship in the name of Jim and David Clifford, former residents killed in a traffic in New York State, is set up at Our Lady of Lourdes Church...Graduation ceremonies are held for students at Vail-Deane and Our Lady of Lourdes Schools.

JULY

An estimated 1,000 people view a fireworks display presented by the borough's Volunteer Fire Department. Residents along Summit Road are given the added bonus of viewing the New York City fireworks for the Statue of Liberty festivities...The Borough Council considers Council President Robert Vigilanti's suggestion for the formation of two municipal complexes to meet the expanding needs of the Mountainside Rescue Squad, the library and numerous community organizations. Proposals include the possible demolition or the renovation of the present borough-owned building on New Providence Road and Route 22 to accommodate larger quarters for the squad...The Borough Council approves rules for the use and storage of alcoholic beverages in the firehouse. The code says the beverage must be kept on the second floor in a storage room which will only be given access to by the department's four officers. Minors in the department would not be given access to the beverages...Police Sergeant Raymond Della Serra is awarded compensation for the period of time he was suspended from the department while under indictment for unlawful purchase of firearms. The amount of back pay is not yet determined as this decision is remanded back to Judge Milton A. Feller.

AUGUST

The Borough Council considers assigning the collection of newspapers to either a private scavenger or a county coordinated program utilizing workers from an occupational center. Council discusses the topic of recycling in order that they meet a mandate from the state's Department of Environmental Protection that all Union County municipalities provide a plan of recyclable materials...The borough hires John Lynch as its professional planner at a salary of $80 per hour. Mayor Bruce Geiger says Lynch will study the future of the borough as it pertains to the state's plan for affordable housing for low to middle income families in addition to reviewing future borough development plans being reviewed by the Rahway Valley Sewerage Authority...The governing body approves an ordinance which implements a ban on development that would create more than 2,000 gallons of sewerage for a period of 90 days. The ban is initiated so that the borough can await word from the RVSA on whether additional flow generated by the proposed Prospect Avenue Sewer hookups would be accepted...The Board of Ethics Committee of the Borough Council finds, via an independent study, no conflict of interest among borough officials regarding Charles Tate's application to the Mountainside Fire Department. The committee reviews the roles of Mayor Bruce Geiger, Councilman Robert Wyckoff and borough attorney John Post with regard to this case and other business pertaining to the fire department.

Pupils hold a fiesta

Students at Deerfield School recently held a Spanish fiesta. The students prepared a variety of dishes which included tacos, churros, similar to a donut, chili and empanadas, which is somewhat like a meat or cheese turnover. The students served flan, comparable to an American custard, for dessert.

The students of Maria Johnson's language program class held their fiesta Dec. 22. After taking her class, which is for seventh and eighth graders, students are prepared for the 10th grade language program. The Deerfield language class is coordinated with the school's social studies and art programs where students study South America, Mexico and Spain.

Joe Roughneen, Jamie Urban, Kevin Delaney, Brian Kulesar and Roughneen all made their own pinatas with newspapers, balloons and glue and then stuffed them with holiday candies. Lucas Perea's mother made empanadas for the fiesta.

At the request of Johnson, a number of families from Argentina came to the school to share their experiences with the students.

Council to reorganize Jan. 6

The swearing-in of Councilmen Werner C. Schon and Bart A. Barre head the list of activities to be included on the agenda for the Borough Council's annual reorganization meeting on Jan. 6.

Schon has served as a Mountainside councilman for four years and nine months. Barre has been a councilman for three and one-half years. Both councilmen ran unopposed in the November elections.

The swearing-in ceremony will follow an address by Mayor Bruce Geiger to the citizens of Mountainside. Also included in this section of the meeting will be the appointment of a council president. Councilman Robert F. Vigilanti has served in this role for the past four years and is expected to be reappointed.

Committee appointments will be announced at the meeting. These include the ethics, administrative and executive, public works, buildings and grounds, recreation, welfare and police committees.

Another matter which will be announced includes the memberships of the planning and adjustment boards for 1987. The planning board presently consist of Dominic Aiello, Russell Cardoni, Donald Jeka, Thomas Macek, William McNamara, Theodore Nugent and Jack Carter who serves as the first alternate to the board.

The Board of Adjustment membership includes William Biunno, Nicholas Bradshaw, Donald F. Hancock, Ronald M. Heymann, Henry Largey, William McNamara, George Novitt, Frederick Picut and Timothy Tuohy.

Other memberships to be announced include the Board of Health, Shade Tree Commission, Local Assistance Board, Construction Board of Appeals, municipal library trustees, Recreation Commission and the historical society.

The next order of business to be discussed will include the appointments of members of the governing body as liaisons to municipal boards. These include the Board of Health, Board of Education, Mountainside Library Board of Trustees, Rescue Squad, Board of Tax Appeals, civil defense, Local Assistance Board, Board of Tax Assessors, recreation board, Construction Board of Appeals, Shade Tree Commission and planning boards.

The appointment of borough officials will also be announced during the meeting. Some of these positions include borough administrator, currently filled by James L. Roberts who has served the borough in this capacity for almost five years, and borough clerk, presently occupied by Kathy Toland who has been employed by the borough for six years.

Also included in borough official appointments will be the position of borough attorney/prosecutor which is currently filled by John Post. Post's re-appointment at the 1986 reorganization meeting drew debate from Councilman Ron Romak who said he felt Post, who has held the position for 15 years, has represented the borough for too long a period.

The designated positions of the borough's volunteer fire department will be announced at the meeting. Currently Robert Farley serves as chief of the department with Jay Kelk serving as assistant chief.

Other appointments to be announced include the Community Development Committee members, school crossing guards, special police officer, borough auditor and financial advisor and the borough insurance agent and advisor.

The council will also vote on the designations of depositories for borough funds. In addition the borough council will vote on the designation of official borough newspapers.

The governing body will also vote on the list of meetings scheduled for the new year. The council regularly meets the second and third Tuesday of every month.

The governing body will hold its end of the year meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in borough hall. Among those items on the agenda are resolutions concerning the 1987 municipal budget. One resolution will establish a temporary budget for 1987, while another establishes a 1987 temporary debt budget.

Other resolutions on the agenda will, if approved, authorize the hiring of a construction official and a dispatcher for the borough's emergency services.

Recovery project pact signed

By JOHN WARGACKI
The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders Monday adopted a resolution that paves the way for construction of the resource recovery project to take place in the City of Rahway.

The "host municipality agreement" for the $1.10 million project was approved in separate resolutions by the freeholders, Union County Utilities Authority, CUA, and Rahway municipal council.

After approval the measures were signed by Freeholder and CUA Chairman James J. Fulcomer, County Manager Donald Anderson and Rahway Mayor Daniel Martin. Freeholder Chairman Paul O'Keefe noted he was pleased with the agreement, which promises to reap considerable benefits for the city such as a broader tax base in addition to other financial and community advantages. The plant, designated to be built off of Route 1, is expected to be working by 1990 and handling disposal of all the county's refuse.

Under the the 20-year service contract, Rahway can expect minimum service payments of $1,115,200 annually, plus cost of living adjustments. Rahway will also receive a payment of $650,000 from the start for community projects and recreational programs.

Although the Freeholders and CUA approved the agreement unanimously, the measure passed in the Rahway Council by a vote of 5 to 1. Councilman John Marsh, who opposed the project, was ejected from the session when he continued to speak after being asked to stop.

The Freeholders removed Union County Jail Director Joseph

Carroll Jr. and replaced him with State Police Maj. Vincent P. O'Donoghue. The move to replace Carroll marks the end of a year-long battle over the jail director's post. Carroll officially steps down today.

In a unanimous vote, the Freeholders approved a resolution calling for the resignation of Carroll and providing for a $18,591 settlement.

Carroll, at the meeting's end, addressed the board and the audience, saying, he feels much had been accomplished during his two-year tenure despite difficulties.

"I believe we reached a milestone," Carroll said. "We will see good things come."

Carroll pointed out the adverse conditions he inherited when taking the post which were rectified under his management, such as the training of 35 staff members, who previously had no experience in corrections.

He also noted that there was only one suicide in the two-year span.

"I leave the Union County Jail, not with my head bent, but held high," he concluded.

Selected by former County Manager Louis J. Coletti, Carroll became the first black administrator of the overcrowded facility which became a constant source of criticism. The case of an emotionally disturbed woman who was held in isolation for a total of 16 days prompted a suit filed against the county by the Office of Inmate Advocacy that claimed prisoners were being held under conditions that deprived them of their constitutional rights.

Acting-County Manager Robert Doherty, who replaced Coletti after he was fired in October of 1985, fired Carroll in February but the director was reinstated by the freeholders six weeks later.

Senior club elects new year officers

At the regular December business meeting, in an uncontested election, the members of the Kenilworth Senior Citizens Club elected the entire slate presented by Anna Prosseda's nominating committee: President, Minnie Leikaukas; First Vice President, C. Joseph Aragono; Second Vice President, Ann La Costa; Secretary, Ann Scheuerer; Correspondence Secretary, Dorothy Knudson; Treasurer, Julius Kuch; Assistant Treasurer, Margaret Mulligan; Sergeant at Arms, Charles Vitale and Trustee, William Smith.

Also, the Annual Holiday Anniversary Party was held at the Veterans Center on Dec. 5. Dinner, Dancing and Entertainment were enjoyed by 280 members and guests. Among the guests were Councilmen Anthony Montuori, Frank Ferrara, Joseph Benintente, Vicent Foti, Councilman-elect Dennis Schultz, Police Chief Charles David and Director of Adult Education at the David Brearley High School, John Hutchinson.

Music was donated by Mr. M. Sabatelli and Musicians Local 151. Members of the David Brearley Key Club donated their time and services.

Massler named to law staff

Howard A. Massler, of Springfield, has been named to the staff of regular contributors to the New Jersey Law Journal, the oldest and most prestigious law publication of its kind in New Jersey. Massler's contributions to the Law Journal will focus on taxation, his specialty in law.

Massler currently chairs the Union County Tax Committee, is the "Contributing Editor" in Tax and Pensions for FairShare, a Prentice-Hall publication, and has just finished a lecture tour throughout the state for the New Jersey State Bar Association.

Paintings for hospital

According to Florence Laughlin, chairperson of members' exhibits for the Westfield Art Association, another lovely show of members' paintings has been hung for the holidays in Children's Specialized Hospital, Mountainside. Artists participating in this show are: William Coombs, Carol Balliet, Elsie Sanderson, Barbara Cox, Jeannette Golda, Arleen Manburg, Angela Rosenbach, Rosa Vassallo, Laura Ciullo, and Clara Manheim. There have been many sales of paintings during past shows. A percentage of each sale is donated to the hospital by the artist. Anyone interested in seeing this show may do so during daytime hours. Arrangements may be made by contacting Shirley Biegler, hospital community resources coordinator.

SHOWING THEIR WORK—Students of Elaine Cladek's fifth grade Social Studies class at Gaudineer School display the Indian projects which they have constructed.

Exhibit is set

Beautiful, serene landscapes of nearby wetland areas including Seely's Pond and the Great Swamp will be the subject of a watercolor exhibit at Trailside Nature and Science Center in Mountainside.

Gladys Russell, well-known local artist from Summit, will be exhibiting her artwork at Trailside's Visitor Center from Dec. 10 - Jan. 21. The public is invited to view Russell's work which is also for sale, during the Nature Center's business hours, 1 to 5 p.m. daily. Trailside Nature and Science Center is a facility of Union County Dept. of Parks and Recreation.

Rinaldo meets Utgoff

Rep. Matthew J. Rinaldo, R-N.J., said today he will meet with officials of the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation to discuss legislative action to protect the financial integrity of the fund which guarantees the pension benefits of millions of American workers.

The New Jersey Republican is scheduled to meet with PBGC Executive Director Kathleen Utgoff and members of her staff to explore proposals to prevent the independent federal agency from being forced into bankruptcy.

"The PBGC is awash in a sea of red ink and unless corrective action is taken, it could go under within a few years, putting at risk the pensions of many employees," Rinaldo said. "We should be addressing this growing problem now rather than waiting until we have a crisis on our hands."

The PBGC was established in 1974 under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) to take over the plans of companies that failed. The pension insurance program is partially funded by a premium assessed member companies for each employee covered by a pension plan. The revolving fund is deeply in the red and threatened by the termination of several large, underfunded plans.

Last spring Congress provided some relief by increasing from $2.60 to $8.50 the annual premium charged employers for each covered employee. However, this was inadequate and PBGC officials now say $25 is closer to the amount needed.

"While critical to the immediate financial problems of the PBGC, the premium increase approved by Congress is not sufficient to avert an impending disaster," Rinaldo said. "The agency remains in serious difficulty and stronger action is needed to restore its economic equilibrium. The unfunded liability of the more than 1,100 plans it has taken over amounts to $2.4 billion and is expected to reach $4 billion by the end of 1987."

Rinaldo previously called for the creation of a task force to propose sanctions for strengthening the financial condition of the PBGC. He will discuss that proposal with Utgoff. Among the ideas under consideration are that the creditor status of the PBGC in bankruptcy proceedings be upgraded, and that rules be drafted making it more difficult for companies to avoid making minimum annual payments to their pension plans. It also has been suggested that the eight-and-one-half month period companies now have for making minimum contributions after each pension plan year be considerably shortened.

Rinaldo, the ranking Republican on the House Select Committee on Aging, expects congressional hearings to be held on the funding issue during the next Congress which convenes in January.

Bill will remake train station

Through the efforts of Senator Donald DiFrancesco and Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden, a bill has been introduced which would provide funding for the renovation of Fanwood's historic train station.

The bill, which would appropriate $125,000 in state aid for the necessary repairs, was sponsored jointly by DiFrancesco in the Senate and Ogden in the Assembly and was co-sponsored by Assemblyman Bob Franks.

The Victorian Gothic structure, dating back to 1874, is listed on the National Register of Historic Buildings and serves also as a community house for the residents of Fanwood.

According to Linda Stender, chairwoman of Fanwood's Downtown Redevelopment Committee, the borough has hired the Princeton architectural firm of Short and Ford, a firm recommended by the County Preservation Planner. Stender said, "By Dec. 5, existing conditions drawings on the roof are to be completed and followed by a complete electrical, mechanical, and plumbing survey." Construction is to begin by mid-April.

Family Studies Center moves to Springfield

The New Jersey Center for Family Studies which moved to this area in October from 46 Essex St., Millburn, will be located at 535 Morris Ave., Springfield.

The Center offers a two-year certificate training program, spring 1987 workshops, and a Family Therapy Center.

The Family Therapy Center, under the direction of Timothy J.

O'Connell, Ph.D., will cover parent-child conflicts, school and behavior problems, marital conflict, step-family and remarriage stresses. The Center emphasizes that "fees are based on a sliding scale and there are no geographical restrictions."

Further information can be obtained by calling 467-4350.

The following dates and time have been set by the James Caldwell and Thelma L. Sandmeier P.T.A. for the Pre-School Orientation Program: Jan. 12, Feb. 9, March 9, April 13, and May 11 (Round-Up).

The January and April sessions will be held from 9-10 a.m. Details for the Kindergarten Round-Up in May will follow at a later date. If further information is needed, please call the James Caldwell or Thelma L. Sandmeier school office.

Boright to present program

Former Kenilworth Councilman and Freeholder Walter Boright Jr. will present the January program of the Kenilworth Historical Society.

The program will feature a tape recorded conversation between Fred Hiller and Louis Vitale, two early residents of the Borough. The conversation which referred to early Kenilworth events beginning at the turn of the century was recorded by Boright in 1969. The Society will meet at the Borough Hall, on Jan. 5 at 7:30 p.m. and the public is invited to attend.

Resolutions

It's that time of year again when thoughts of self-improvement are on our minds.

We'll wake up tomorrow morning vowing to stop smoking, drinking and overeating. We'll resolve to do more exercise, read a book a week, spend more time with our family and improve our performances in school or on the job.

The editorial department at County Leader Newspapers would like to make some resolutions of our own. We'd like to provide you, our readers, with the best and most complete coverage of events in your community during the coming year. To keep our resolutions, we need your help.

Our editorial pages, for example, are set aside for opinions — opinions of the editorial staff based on facts accumulated through reporting, opinions of political and non-political columnists and the opinions of our readers. While staff members and columnists have no problem writing regular articles, our readers are not as prolific.

Let us know how we're doing. Comment on events going on in your community. React to an editorial or event. We've printed plenty of letters to the editor criticizing as well as supporting our stand on an issue. We will not, however, print unsigned or anonymous letters. We "sign" our names to our editorials every week. Concerned citizens are expected to do the same.

Several weeks ago, we asked for reaction to our Student Writes Page, a feature that appears once a month in each of our eight newspapers to highlight the work of local school children. From a total of seven communities, we received two responses — both favorable. If we are to continue presenting the Student Writes page, it will be necessary to find out if anyone is reading it. The "no news is good news" policy does not apply here.

During the upcoming winter and spring sports seasons, we would like to improve our coverage of high school athletics. With only 1½ reporters assigned to cover sports for seven area high schools, some may not get the coverage they should. Parents, students, coaches and even teachers are invited to become sports correspondents for this newspaper, submitting weekly articles on some of the sports we don't always get around to: girls basketball, junior varsity sports, riflery, swimming, track and bowling. If you'd like to submit articles on non-scholastic sports, be our guest. We can't give you monetary compensation, but you'll get a by-line and some experience. Interested parties should call 686-7700, ext. 41, for information on how to get started.

The same goes for photographs. With only one staff photographer for seven communities, we are forced to miss a lot of events. Anyone wishing to submit photos for consideration should call our offices at the above number for details.

Publicity chairmen for clubs and organizations can help their own cause by submitting typewritten releases by the deadline. Always include a telephone number on the release. Many articles never see print because we can't read an item or there's no phone number to check the details. If you're having a hard time getting publicity in the paper, give us a call and we'll send you a copy of our tips on submitting releases. When sending in photographs, keep in mind that we can't perform miracles. If the picture is out of focus when you give it to us, it'll still be out of focus if we print it in the paper.

Last, but not least, we'd like to keep open a line of communication with our readers. However, it seems that many of you pick our deadline days to call and complain or ask questions. If you think you're being ignored when you call on a Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday morning, you're probably right. We just don't have time to stop our work and search for something that may or may not have been printed in a previous issue. Thursday afternoon is the ideal time to ask questions and register your complaints. We'll have time to discuss your problem, find your release or deal with any questions you might have.

We can't guarantee that we'll cover everything or get every release into the paper, but we'd like to try. Help us keep our New Year's resolutions.

We wish all of our readers a safe and healthy new year.

Help offered in coping with divorce

By KAREN MARCUS

Karen Marcus is a social worker at the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey — Community Mental Health Center at Piscataway, Dunellen office. She conducts a weekly support group for people who are separated or divorced. The group is known as M.A.S.H., which stands for Mutual-Aid-Self-Help.

Fifty percent of today's married couples do not "live happily ever after." Unhappily, half of all marriages are ending in divorce. No matter what causes a relationship to end, divorce is a major emotional crisis for both partners in the marriage.

Regardless of the duration of the marriage, whether or not the divorce is mutually agreed upon, whether or not there is a custody battle for the children, the dog or the dustbuster; the end of a marriage means losses for both partners.

There is the loss of a spouse, and with that, the loss of a dream of a life shared with another. There is the loss of extended family, in-laws, friends and business associates. There is the loss primarily for fathers of day-to-day contact with children. Also, there is the loss of property, a home, and financial and emotional security.

People who divorce need time to mourn their losses just as though they were mourning a death. As with a death, the mourning process of divorce is characterized by three stages. First, shock and denial. Second, anger and depression, and a third stage of acceptance and understanding.

Shock is the first emotional state experienced by people facing divorce. After the initial shock wears off, people tend to deny what is happening. Some withdraw from family, friends and activities once enjoyed. Others try to block out feelings by keeping so busy they don't have time to think. During this state some hope in vain for a reconciliation. Denying the situation will not change or improve it.

Anger and depression describe the second emotional stage of divorce. People may feel lonely, frustrated, and resentful of the hand they've been dealt. Feeling sentimental one minute and furious the next is normal. Not being able to live in the style to which you were accustomed adds to the emotional strain. The future seems uncertain, and there is the fear of being single again in what seems like a couple's world.

The one who decided to leave the marriage may feel both guilt and anger over the failure of the relationship. The one who is left may feel powerless, helpless, rejected and depressed. Anger may follow. During this stage both partners will alternate between anger and depression. This is not a time to make important decisions. Maintaining rituals or structuring your routine can be a big help in getting through each day.

Anger and depression can lead to serious mental health problems such as alcoholism, drug abuse and suicide, none of which are solutions, only additional problems. While a person's identity may be strongly tied up in the marriage, it is important to remember that no one is less of a person because of divorce. Each individual has a unique personality.

Realizing that the situation is the way it is, and not the way you'd like it to be, marks the end of this stage of mourning.

Acceptance and understanding are the final stage in the mourning process. Being divorced finally becomes reality, and a separate identity must be established. Creating a lifestyle that does not include the ex-spouse, and being comfortable with that lifestyle, is a major step toward acceptance of the divorce. At this stage people can come to terms with all their losses and can rebuild and replace what was lost in a way that is satisfying.

Divorce has always had a negative connotation, but the experience can have some positive impact. Divorce is the end of marriage, but it is not the end of family relationships, friendships, happiness, or life itself.

Joining a support group can be most helpful in coping positively with divorce. In a support group there is an opportunity to connect with others who are dealing with the same issues and fears. Separated and divorced people have an obsessive need to talk about what's happened to them, and a support group is a good place to talk, and to redefine the concepts of family and happiness.

People facing divorce should know that they will go through this three-stage mourning process, and that the feelings they experience are normal. Even though it may be hard, separated and divorced people should stay in touch with other people. In a support group they can talk out their feelings, draw strength from one another, and learn to face the future with new confidence.

People who live near Dunellen and would like to join a support group may call 752-5110. For statewide referrals, call the Mutual Aid and Self-Help Clearinghouse at 1-800-367-6274.

Energy bill to be reintroduced

By MATTHEW J. RINALDO

Congressman, 7th District
 When the 100th Congress convenes next January, I intend to reintroduce the National Energy Conservation Act which was approved by the just-concluded Congress but pocket-vetted by President Reagan after final adjournment of the House and Senate.

The bill, which sailed through both houses of Congress, would have established energy efficiency standards for most major home appliances and central heating and cooling systems. It would have cut consumer energy costs, deflected the need for up to 10 new power plants, and replaced a patchwork of costly state codes with a single national standard.

Most new home appliances, such as refrigerators, freezers, ranges and dishwashers would have been required to use from 15 to 25 percent less electricity or natural gas. To reduce the economic impact on the appliance industry, the new standards would have been phased in over a four-year period to allow manufacturers sufficient time to retrofit their assembly lines.

The benefits would have been enormous. It was calculated that based on the current cost of electricity, the bill would have saved consumers $28 billion — or about $300 per household — by the year 2000. The more efficient electric and gas appliances could have obviated the need for 10 new power plants capable of generating 22,000 megawatts of electricity, and saved the equivalent of about 160,000 barrels of oil per day within the next 15 years.

An unlikely coalition of appliance makers, consumer advocates and utilities supported the legislation. Among the backers were the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers, the American Council for an Energy-Efficient Economy, which is a non-profit conservation organization, and the Edison Electric Institute, an association representing investor-owned utilities.

The appliance industry endorsed the bill because it would have preempted a profusion of state appliance standards that make it costly and difficult to plan for appliance production, and utility companies liked the measure because it would have improved their ability to forecast future electrical requirements.

U.S. utility companies have currently overbuilt by an estimated sum of $20 billion, according to Department of Energy data, to generate energy for demand that has not materialized. The cost of the unused capacity is being passed along to consumers.

National energy efficiency standards for appliances also can increase the nation's international economic competitiveness. Recently, Japanese and other foreign home appliances manufacturers have begun to expand their marketing efforts in the United States. They already have a strong position in the microwave ovens market and have begun to enter others. In these cases, the greater energy efficiency of imported appliances is a fundamental reason for their growing success in the United States.

The administration opposed the bill on the grounds that it interfered with the marketplace, consumer choice and the prerogatives of the states to set their own standards. Hopefully, the administration's rejection of the bill is simply an opportunity deferred and not lost. This is cost-effective, responsible legislation that is pro-environment.

While generally the federal government should not be meddling in the marketplace, this is a case where it's better to have a little bit of regulation in the form of agreed-upon standards than to have much more regulation in the form of conflicting state standards that are detrimental to business. The consumer-choice argument is not compelling because a large percentage of home appliances are purchased by builders, contractors and landlords who have no incentive to buy energy-efficient products because they generally do not pay the operating costs.

For these reasons, I intend to reintroduce the National Energy Conservation Act when the 100th Congress convenes in January.

Conflicts and confusions

By RON GAETANO
 Q. My wife has started having problems remembering things said after having had a few drinks. I've also found out that she's been buying more liquor from the store than normal. When I confronted her, however, she denied having memory lapses and insisted that she was not buying any more booze than usual. She also accused me of being suspicious for no reason. Does this sound as if I have a problem on my hands?

W.M., Kenilworth

A. Many alcoholics do not understand an alcoholic blackout. Memory lapses due to consumption of alcohol are certainly a matter of concern. If you are sure that your wife has been buying more alcohol than usual, this is an additional concern. The denial of these actions are a common defense mechanism used by people who suffer from alcoholism. You may very well have a problem. I suggest you contact an alcoholic information and counseling center and obtain some reading material to help you understand alcoholism. It would be helpful to you to make an appointment with a counselor and invite your wife to come with you. It would be a positive move if she came, however, it would not be necessary that she did.

Q. I belong to a health club and there are some guys there who are always going out for a "few beers" after their workout. Isn't alcohol even worse for your body after a strenuous workout, and doesn't it defeat the whole process of keeping in shape?

K.A., Union
 A. What basically happens is that people tend to consume more beer in a shorter period of time after a strenuous workout. They have lost a lot of fluid and are very dry. A nice, cool beer all too often turns into six to eight beers within an hour or two. I would caution health club goers to go easy on the beer, it is more productive to take the time to use orange, grapefruit or pineapple juice mixtures that are made from the real fruits.

Q. Everytime I go to a party someone always lights up a (marijuana) joint or has some kind of drug to pass around. I always refuse to take part in this drug ritual and end up being referred to as a prude among other things. I like to go to parties but am starting to dread it when I get an invitation because of the drugs. What can I do about this?

S.B., Linden

A. Your problem is one that a non-drug user faces all too often. First, ask yourself why you have to defend yourself for saying no to a drug. You don't have to. Don't stop going to parties because a group of people call you names when you choose to maintain your health. Many drug users are uncomfortable with their use when a friend does not use. Your saying no may help another person stop. Stick to your guns.

Ron Gaetano is director of the drug and alcohol abuse program at Union Hospital.

Statehouse perspective

New Jersey key in national debate

By JOHN F. RUSSO
 Senate President

It isn't often that the New Jersey Legislature becomes a key player in a national debate that has enormous and possibly dire implications.

And if we're not careful, our actions can set this nation on a path that could conceivably lead to a gathering that may allow special interest groups to rewrite the U.S. Constitution to reflect their own religious and political philosophies.

A rather inconspicuous resolution that has been in the legislative hopper for two years, and until lately attracted little attention, would add New Jersey to the list of 32 states that have already called for a Constitutional Convention. Since it takes petitions from just 34 states to convene a convention, New Jersey's action on this issue may be decisive.

Proponents of this resolution, ACR 54, want to call the convention in order to draft an amendment requiring a balanced federal budget. New Jersey is already required by law to have a balanced state budget. A similar requirement on the federal level is a laudable goal that we should all work toward.

But this issue does not involve the merits of whether the federal government should be required to keep its checkbook balanced. The issue is the convention itself and the fact that it could easily be manipulated by special interest groups and religious extremists seeking to promote their own agendas.

What is to stop the Constitutional Convention from going beyond balanced budget proposals to enacting amendments on controversial issues like abortion or prayer in public schools? What is to prevent the delegates from even throwing out the Bill of Rights that guarantees the precious liberties we too often take for granted — such as freedom of speech, freedom of the press and freedom of religion.

There are no ground rules for a constitutional convention because we haven't had one in nearly 200 years. But one lesson we did learn from the Constitutional Convention of 1787 is that the delegates then were able to break every legal restraint put in place at that time to limit their power and the scope of their agenda.

For it was at that convention that the delegates abolished the Articles of Confederation — the nation's first constitution — which was supposedly governing the convention's work.

Proponents may argue that the result in 1787 wasn't all that bad. After all, it did produce the present U.S. Constitution which has worked remarkably well for nearly 200 years. So why not go this route again?

Perhaps I would be more easily persuaded if I could be sure that this new constitutional convention was going to be in the hands of people like Ben Franklin and James Madison, as it was in 1787, instead of people like Jerry Falwell or Lyndon LaRouche.

The fact of the matter remains that there are no rules on who the 1986 delegates would be and how they'd be chosen.

Nor are there any rules on who controls the convention to make sure it doesn't run amuck. Do the states control it? Or does Congress? Perhaps it's the Supreme Court? Is it even possible at all to restrain the agenda of a convention where the delegates may simply rewrite the rules governing their own activities?

And how long can this convention last? Do the delegates conduct their work in secret as they did in 1787? Who pays for this event, which could cost millions of dollars and involve hundreds of delegates from all over the country?

Then there are the host of technical questions surrounding this issue. How long are the states' petitions calling for a constitutional convention valid? Some petitions are now more than a decade old. Other states passed their petitions on merely voice votes. Who decides if these petitions are valid?

It seems foolish to embark on such a dangerous path when there is already another way to amend the Constitution that has been used 26 times before. Under the traditional method, a constitutional amendment can be made if two-thirds of Congress votes to do so and it's ratified by three-fourths of the states.

Letter to the editor

O'Keefe thanks supporters for vote

I would like to use this forum to thank the citizens of Union County for their support of my candidacy for re-election to the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders. The campaign was issue oriented and I believe those citizens who followed the election are better informed about their county government.

During the next three years, we are facing major issues which will impact the service delivery of this county for years to come. Brick and mortar projects of a new Health Care Facility, a new resource recovery plant and a jail are necessary to all of us and will be built during my next term.

We will streamline the size of our government and at the same time implement modern day efficiencies through the better utilization of technology. We must employ better techniques and increase productivity as we face severe revenue reductions from the federal government.

Again I thank the citizens of Union County for their confidence in my performance during the past three years and I can only promise that I will fulfill my responsibilities to them diligently and faithfully.

Best wishes to all the residents of our county and may you have a healthy, holy and prosperous 1987.

State Police receive enforcement grant

The New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles has awarded a $485,000 federal highway safety grant to the State Police to continue enforcement of the federally mandated 55-mile-per-hour speed limit. Governor Thomas H. Kean announced on Dec. 8.

The money will provide for an additional 360 hours of patrol time a week to supplement regular patrols on highways posted at 55 miles per hour. The goal is to reduce the number of motorists exceeding the limit and the number of accidents caused by speeding.

The hours and locations of the patrols will be determined by an analysis of high accident areas. The patrol will consist of one sergeant and four troopers who will work a six-hour tour of duty.

In 1982 the unadjusted percentage of drivers exceeding 55 miles per hour was 59 percent. This figure dropped in 1983 to 51 percent and in 1984, to 48 percent. In 1985 the 55.6 percent, but it was still 1.7 percent less than the national average.

After the Federal Highway Administration made adjustments for such factors as sampling error and odometer error, the actual percentages showed that in 1982, 43 percent of drivers in New Jersey exceeded the 55-mph limit. This figure fell in 1983 to an adjusted percentage of 34.6 percent, and to 33.5 percent in 1984, Kean said.

There was an increase to 39.8 percent in 1985, which is 3.4 percent lower than the national average of 43.2 percent. However, that increase makes the continuation of this grant all the more important, Kean said.

"Without these patrols on the road, New Jersey motorists might be even more inclined to disregard the posted speed limit," he added.

In 1985, there were 133,016 speeding summonses issued by officers working these overtime patrols.

The mandatory 55-mph speed limit was adopted in 1974 and the State Police supplemental patrols were implemented in 1977, with the original goal of reducing alcohol related crashes.

During 1978, the patrol's goal became the enforcement of the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, with D.W.I. checks a secondary, but still important, consideration, since speeding and drunk driving often go hand in hand.

Highway deaths dropped below 1,000 for the first time in 20 years in 1983, when 932 people were killed in crashes, compared with 1,061 in 1982. Although the 964 deaths in 1985 were higher than in 1983 or 1984, when there were 922 deaths, last year marked the third consecutive year deaths remained below 1,000.

The $485,000 federal grant is part of $5 million funneled to the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles' Office of Highway Safety by the National Traffic Safety Administration.

Alcoholism workshops set

The Union County Council on Alcoholism is presently running a series of workshops dealing with chemical dependency and related problems. Upcoming workshops include on Jan. 10: interviewing and assessing the adolescent for appropriate intervention; and on Jan. 23 community agencies and alcoholism.

Other workshop topics to be covered through May are group counseling skills, pharmacology of alcohol, alcoholism ethics, confrontation and conflict resolution; confidentiality; sexual and alcoholism; individual counseling skills; and getting high and why - focus on youth.

These workshops meet the core course requirements for individuals working towards certification as alcoholism counselors. Participants will receive six credit hours for each completed course day. All courses have been submitted to the New Jersey Alcoholism Counselor Certification Board for credit. Persons concerned or interested in increasing their knowledge about alcohol and other drug use are also invited to attend.

All workshops will be held at the Union County Council on Alcoholism office, 300 North Ave., East, Westfield. Courses run twice a month, now through May. The workshops begin at 9 a.m. and end at 4 p.m., at a cost of $20 per day.

For more information or to register, call the council Monday through Friday, between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., at 233-8810.

Plan parenting self-help courses

The Mothers' Center of Central New Jersey is now accepting registrations for its winter cycle of three-week mini-groups. Registration deadline is Jan. 5.

These groups will meet weekly beginning Jan. 12 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. at the Mothers' Center, located in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church, 716 Watchung Ave., Plainfield. Members of the public may register on a space-available basis at a cost of $7.50 per three-week session. Childcare is available for a small additional fee.

and sexual assault prevention and victim assistance.

Danice Stone, from the Child Assault Prevention organization of the Community Coordinated Childcare Agency in Elizabeth, will address the issues of identifying an abused child and crisis intervention. From Overlook Hospital's Addictive Services program, Debby Smith will offer techniques for educating young children about drugs and medication.

In Mommy, What Can I Do Now?, mothers of preschool-age children will discuss ideas for arts and crafts projects, creative play, and local outings, which hopefully will entertain the children but leave the house relatively intact and mom unfrazzled.

To Spank or Not to Spank presents an opportunity for members to sort out their feelings regarding spanking as a form of discipline.

The Mothers' Center of Central New Jersey is a nonprofit organization founded by mothers to offer support and information on child development and parenting to members and other interested parents in the community.

For further information and registration, please call 561-0624 or 232-2442.

Chamber to hold seminar

On Jan. 7, the Union County Chamber of Commerce will conduct a seminar in cooperation with the Small Business Development Center of Rutgers University.

Improper preparation and lack of knowledge are the prime reasons for small business failure. The Small Business Development center is designed to aid small businesses in all phases of business management to help them survive and grow.

Janet Holloway, director of the center, will explain the many opportunities small businesses can avail themselves of through the center. Management assistance courses in all phases of small business are available, including marketing, accounting, computer usage, preparing for borrowing, etc.

The seminar will start at 8 a.m. and end promptly at 9 a.m. Registration is at 7:30 a.m. and is open to all area business people. It will be held at the Union County Chamber offices at 135 Jefferson Ave., Elizabeth, 07207. "Due to the importance and timeliness of the subject, we urge that you call early since seating is limited," says the chamber.

To reserve seating, call Jeanne Hall at 352-0900.

VISIONS OF PEACE—Springfield art teacher Marilyn Schneider, above, with the five students whose work was selected for Partners In Peacemaking's "Visions of a World at Peace" International Youth Art Exhibition. Marnie Sambur, left, Gina Gruber, Leah Demberger, Rebecca Raj and Kristen Rusak were among more than 1,000 students, ages five to 19, in 25 countries who submitted work, which to them symbolizes peace. The work of Sambur and Demberger will be on display at the Squibb Gallery in Princeton until Jan. 11, while the entries of Rusak, Raj and Gruber will be seen at the Hunterdon Art Center in Clinton, also until the same date. Shown below are the parents of the young artists, along with Yogesh K. Ghandi, center, the great-grand nephew of the late Indian leader.

Registration is slated

Registration is open now for a schedule of teen activities, physical education programs for people of every age, courses for children, and Hebrew and sculpture courses for adults at the YM-YWHA of Union County on Green Lane in Union. Agency President Harold Brewster is announcing publication of the Winter Program booklet said, "I invite everyone in Union County to look over our programs — the Y offers interesting activities for every member of the family." Registration can be made at the Y, on Green Lane near Kean College, or by mail. The Y's Teen Department, under the direction of Chairman Ed Leibowitz offers programs for junior and senior high students. The new "Humanities Bridge" is "a program for the social service minded." Several evenings of beauty with professional cosmetologists are slated, and the American Red Cross will present business-oriented programs. Ski trips and a college caravan also are planned by teen Director Terri Ampel.

The AAU-size swimming pool, the gym, the workout room and the health club are featured. Lap swimming at dawn, at noontime, and in the evenings provides the opportunity for stress-free, whole-body toning. Drop in times for paddleball and basketball allow exercisers to combine recreation with a stiff workout. Exercise classes are designed by Y physical education Director Jani Kovacs. There are classes for babies and for the elderly, there are women-only classes and classes at a variety of levels. Dr. Neil Rosenstein, physical education chairman, is in charge.

Overlook appoints doctors

On the recommendation of the medical staff, the Board of Trustees of Overlook Hospital has appointed two new physicians: Arthur J. Perelman and Felice Woolrich. Dr. Perelman is an internist and specialist in cardiology with a practice in Union. A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Perelman earned a medical degree from the university of Vermont College of Medicine and completed a medical residency at Newark Beth Israel Hospital.

Perelman is a member of Sigma Xi Fraternity, a Fellow of the American College of Physicians, and serves as assistant clinical professor of Medicine at the University of Medicine and Dentristry of New Jersey. He and his wife, Charlotte, live in Union and have three children.

Dr. Woolrich is a pediatrician with a practice in Union. A graduate of the State University of New York at Stony Brook, Woolrich earned his medical degree from New York Medical College, Valhalla.

Symptoms of diabetic emergency

The seasonal increase in drug and alcohol abuse can create the dangerous possibility that a diabetic emergency — either an insulin reaction or ketoacidosis — may be mistaken for intoxication.

"Around this time of year, we are much more aware of the serious problems caused by alcohol and drug abuse, but most people are not aware that several of the symptoms of the onset of a diabetic emergency are easy to confuse with drunkenness or drug abuse," says Dr. Peter A. Lodewick.

Someone who appears drunk or under the influence of drugs could possibly be experiencing either a low blood sugar reaction, also called insulin reaction or hypoglycemia, or very high blood sugar, ketoacidosis.

The symptoms of low blood sugar which may appear suddenly include: staggering, poor coordination, anger, bad temper, pale color, confusion, disorientation, sudden hunger, sweating.

The symptoms of ketoacidosis which may appear gradually include: drowsiness, extreme thirst, very frequent urination, flushed skin, vomiting, fruity or wine-like breath odor, heavy breathing.

"People with diabetes must control the level of sugar in their blood at all times through careful diet, exercise, and the use of insulin injections or oral medication," says Lodewick.

"If control is lost and either too little or too much sugar is in the blood, stupor or unconsciousness can lead to coma, brain damage, and even death," he says.

Actions to take to assist a low blood sugar reaction: Provide sugar — if the person can swallow without choking, offer any food or drink containing sugar — soft drinks, fruit juice, candy. Do not use diet drinks when blood sugar is low. If the person does not respond within 10 to 15 minutes, take him/her to a hospital.

Actions to take to assist a person with suspected ketoacidosis: Take this person to a hospital. If uncertain whether the person is suffering from high or low blood sugar, give some sugar-containing food or drink. If there is no response in 10 to 15 minutes, take the person to a hospital.

The American Diabetes Associations has instituted an educational training program for emergency personnel to consider diabetes when they encounter an emergency. For more information about the emergency personnel program, "Think Diabetes," contact 1-800-562-2063.

Diabetes is a disease in which the body does not properly convert sugars, starches and other food into the energy needed for life. It affects 11 million Americans and is this nation's third leading cause of death by disease.

The New Jersey Affiliate serves the nearly 400,000 people with diabetes in New Jersey. The American Diabetes Association is the nation's leading voluntary health organization supporting diabetes research and education. It services the entire diabetes community through the efforts of thousands of volunteers from more than 800 affiliates and chapters in communities across the United States.

BUSINESS OF THE WEEK

A WINTER WASH—You don't have to choose between getting sick this winter and keeping your car clean and bright. Have the best of both worlds at Speedy Car Wash in Union where you can keep salt and sand from destroying your car's shine while never leaving the warmth of your driver's seat.

Staying warm while car is cleaned

Not many people enjoy going outside on a cold, windy day to wash their cars. The chore of keeping your car clean may be a great way to get some sun in the summer months, but in the winter, it's only a good way to catch a long winter's cold or flu.

Nevertheless, the car must be kept clean, particularly in the winter when sand and salt from icy roads build up and corrode the car's paint.

There is one way to get the car sparkling clean and stay warm and dry — Speedy Car Wash.

Located at 515 Lehigh Ave., Union, Speedy offers customers a car that looks like new and all from the comfort of the driver's seat.

The facility is owned and operated by Gene Rooney, who founded Speedy's in 1974. A former sales representative for Sherman Car Wash Equipment, Rooney decided to give his own car washing business a try instead of selling the parts for it.

His customers' cars as well as his business, have shined ever since.

But getting his car wash to be one of the best in the area was not an overnight thing. In fact, it was a struggle just to get off the ground.

Rooney explains that the building he purchased at the location was a car wash with a bad reputation and the facility was in pretty bad condition.

But, Rooney insists, that didn't discourage him. "It's a struggle to start any new business. We had to renovate the whole building. That took six months; so we paid rent for six months without washing a car."

Rooney says his reputation over the past 13 years has been built because he spared no expense at offering his patrons the finest and newest car washing equipment.

Now his customers come from all over state.

"We have a lot of regulars," Rooney says. "We get salesmen types traveling from a different town. But many of our steady customers come from Roselle Park, Elizabeth and other cities."

Rooney even recalls one case where a patron moved to another county but simply could not find a better car wash than Speedy's.

Rooney employs between one and six workers who staff the complex seven days a week. But even when it rains, that doesn't mean a day off.

"Are you kidding," Rooney says. "Those are the days we clean the equipment. You can just imagine the work involved in cleaning all our machinery. That can't be done while cars are going through."

And, when breakdowns occur, Rooney doesn't have the time to shut down and call a repairman. He does the job himself.

"I can't rely on outside help. I have to know how to fix things right here — whenever it breaks down."

Rooney also notes that, with 100 feet of building, he's able to stock a lot of machinery that cleans every part of the car's exterior, even spoked hubcaps that other car washes don't seem to get.

Rooney's formula for success is simple. He says, "We have a lot of cars come in here because they heard about us from someone else. We also don't allow any tipping. The price on the sign is fair enough."

So if the thought of washing your car this time of year makes you a bit chilly, head over to Speedy Car Wash and enjoy a clean, sparkling car without leaving the driver's seat.

'Epiphany Celebration' is set in Union church

An "Epiphany Celebration" will be held at 4 o'clock on Sunday afternoon, in the First Congregational Church of Union, Burnet and Doris avenues. The worship service, which will be led by the pastor, the Rev. Nancy E. Forsberg, will "recall the visit of the Wise Men to the Manger of the Christ Child, and has come to be observed throughout the centures in many different ways around the world. Often referred to as the culmination of the "Twelve Days of Christmas," both sacred and secular customs and traditions have sprung up around this event."

The special music will be presented by duo-pianists, Lois Paul and Phyllis Turner. Both of the keyboard artists are residents of Chatham, music teachers, accompanists and are noted for their playing "Piano For Four Hands." Lois Paul is a graduate of the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore, and Mrs. Turner has a degree from the University of Michigan. After the service everyone will adjourn to Founders Hall, where they will gather around the Wassail Bowl for refreshments and to sing some of the songs which are associated with "Twelfth Night," such as "Here We Come A-Wassailing" and "The Twelve Days of Christmas." The worship experience and fellowship hour will be open to all.

A special New Year's Eve program will be held today beginning at 6 o'clock, when a chartered bus will leave the church for the Cathedral of the Sacred Heart in Newark. The group will attend a special Viennese concert to be presented by the Cathedral Symphony Orchestra assisted by a male chorus and guest artists. After the concert, the group will return to the Congregational Church for a buffet supper to which each guest will bring a donation of food. Shortly after 11 p.m., a Watchnight service will be conducted by "Rev. Nancy," who has invited "anyone in the community to bid farewell to 1986 and to greet the new year with prayer." Further information about the New Year's Eve event, which is open to all, can be obtained by calling the church office at 688-4333.

THE MEN'S CLUB of Temple Beth Ann, Springfield, will sponsor a New Year's Eve dinner dance tonight at 9 o'clock at the Clinton Manor, Route 22, Union. It is open to the public.

Featured will be music and entertainment by the Hank Joel Orchestra, hot and cold hors d'oeuvres. A full course prime ribs dinner, hats, noise makers and favors. Louis Weinstein and Michael Palais are co-chairmen. Martin Lieb is Men's Club president. Reservations and further information can be obtained by contacting Michael Palais at 467-1916.

GRACE LUTHERAN Church, 2222 Vauxhall Road, Union, will hold a Communion New Year's Eve worship service today at 7:30 and on Sunday at 10:30 a.m.

Each of these services "will be special in continued observance of Grace's 50th anniversary," it was announced.

THE REV. RAYMOND P. WALDRON of St. James Roman Catholic Church, Springfield, and Rabbi Peter Kasdan and the Rev. Charles Jones of Livingston appeared on Jessie Frees' Ask The Expert Show on Christmas Eve with "An Inspirational Holiday Message." The show is broadcast on Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at 8:25 on Station WMTR 1250 on the dial.

The show's upcoming guests are actress Helen Hayes and former secretary of the treasury William E. Simon. Robert Hannon of Springfield is proprietor of Hannon Floor Covering Contents, Newark and East Hanover, sponsor of the show.

RABBI STEVEN DWORKEN of Congregation Anshe Chesed of Linden and Rabbi Ronald Hoffberg of Temple Beth-El, Cranford have announced a joint pilgrimage to Israel. This is reportedly a first nationally — "an Israel itinerary, meeting the needs of both an Orthodox and Conservative congregations bringing members of both groups together in experiencing The Land of Israel."

Groups will be escorted by both Dworken and Hoffberg, giving each synagogue's group "an opportunity to experience Israel together with the insights and special arrangements of both spiritual leaders."

The Unity Israel Experience is scheduled to depart on Feb. 5, 1987 from Cranford and Linden. Flying by way of El Al Israel Airlines, the group will spend Shabbatot in Jerusalem, staying in Deluxe-Five Star Hotels such as the Sheraton Plaza, the Tiberias Plaza, Carlton Hotel in Tel-Aviv and the King Solomon Palace in Eilat.

The rabbis have included in the jointly planned itinerary a series of "new" sights to the visitors. In Jerusalem the group will visit the newly opened archeological excavation of the City of David, participate in an archeological seminar and view the "Cardo" and "Burnt House." Jerusalem's Ammunition Hill Museum and the Tourjeman Post and Museum are among the new sites included in the program.

Touring the Galilee and coastal areas will include visits to sites of special interest. Intimate "contact" visits with Israel's people-oriented "tzedakah" activities will be a special highlight. The Ben Gurion Centennial will be commemorated as the group travels south for an unusual trip through the Negav and to Eilat. Special diet requirements and travel restrictions will be accommodated through the entire tour. All arrangements are being handled by the representatives of El-Al and Isram Travel. Brochure and further details are available by contacting either synagogue or rabbi, Anshe Chesed, 486-8616, and Temple Beth-El, 276-9231.

"MODERN FEMALE SEXUALITY versus the Halach (traditional Jewish views)" will be presented during the second educational series program sponsored by the Jewish Federation of Central New Jersey's Young Women's Educational committee Jan. 8, 1987, at 7:45 p.m. at the YMWYHA of Union County, Green Laine, Union. Keynoting the program will be Rabbi Julie Spitzer of Temple Emanu-El, Livingston. There is no charge for the event and there will be no solicitation of funds, it was announced. Further information can be obtained by contacting Rena Schwartz, Women's Division associate, at 351-5060.

Upsala Chamber Singers will tour

The Upsala College Chamber Singers of East Orange will tour six states early next month with a program entitled "Celebrating Upsala: Our Inclusiveness and Our Diversity."

The Chamber Singers will perform in St. Michael's Lutheran Church, 601 N. Kings Highway, Cherry Hill, at 11 a.m. on Sunday.

"Traditionally the Chamber Singers have offered programs based upon important spiritual and educational themes," said Professor Larry Bennett, a founder-director of the group. "This year, the program is a celebration of the college itself, its Scandinavian and Lutheran roots, its New Jersey heritage and its rich, present-day cultural variety."

The choir will perform sacred music by J.S. Bach, choral music by Scandinavian-American composers, traditional Scandinavian songs, works by New Jersey composers — including Ives, Kern and Mason — and songs written for outstanding singers from the area — such as Dionne Warwick and Whitney Houston.

Featured on the program are original compositions and arrangements by members of the Upsala faculty, and original songs by John Davis, a senior from Montclair, who is a music major and a specialist in synthesizer keyboards.

Soloists will include Steven Oosting, tenor, a professional singer and the college voice teacher, and Mary Rowell, a concert violinist from New York City.

Selections will be accompanied by Wayne Alexander, a senior from Franklin.

The concert will be taped for broadcast on the college's radio station, WFMU-FM, in the College Chapel at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 12. The public is invited to attend the taping session.

A look back at sports

When gathering a group of sports fans together it is inevitable that a chorus of "Do you remember?" will erupt like church bells on a Sunday morning. This usually happens near major sports events such as the World Series, State Championships, County Tournaments and when saying good-bye to the old year.

Each person usually has their own special sports memories to cherish, whether it is a spectacular 40-yard pass, a 20 foot jumper or a tough backhand catch.

Arguments usually erupt over who was the best individual, or the best team, what the best play was or what the ultimate match-up would be.

To help jog memories and add fuel to those sports discussions compiled here are some highlights from Union, Linden, Springfield, Kenilworth, Roselle and Roselle Park.

FOOTBALL

A winning streak was halted. The Union Farmers 26 game winning streak came to halt when the Summit Hilltoppers shut them out 7-0.

The Farmers may have lost their consecutive win streak but behind the offensive play of quarterback Ed Baffige and fullback Bubba Wilmore the Farmers won its third consecutive state championship.

Linden went into the sectional playoffs seeded first with an undefeated record and were knocked out in the first round by Summit.

Roselle Park and Brearley again went head to head for the Group 1 Division play-offs. Brearley entered after winning its semifinal game over New Providence. It took five overtimes but the Bears finally took the win. For the Panthers to enter this championship game they too had to deal with overtime play against Mountain Lakes. When the two teams finally met the Bears took the championship for the second year in a row.

BASKETBALL

The New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association created a new rule to "harness" basketball coaches. Dubbed the "seat belt rule" the regulation prohibits the coach from leaving his seat on the bench during play except to cheer a good play by his team, an injury or talk to another player on the bench.

Not only were the coaches harnessed but many of the teams couldn't get out of the starting gate. Though, Dayton, Linden and Union finished with winning records, Brearley, Abraham Clark and Roselle Park lived with more numbers in the "L" column than the "W."

A large amount of excitement did take place on the field, but the memorable event of the year occurred off the field. The school was Linden. The opponent was Clifford Scott. The result was a forfeit. Eight members of the Linden High School basketball team were declared academically ineligible to compete. The academic ruler came down finishing Linden's season.

The girl's season didn't fair much better with action and excitement. Only one team had a winning season and they went on to win a state sectional title. The Roselle Park girls finished the season with a 22-6 record. Though ousted from the county tournament in the semifinals they went on to win the North Jersey Section 2 Group 1 title defeating Univeristy in a 70-46 romp.

Union basketball coach Bill Hazelton returned to the basketball court to coach after a five year lay-off.

Union basketball alumna Cheryl Taylor is named to the All-America for the second consecutive season at Tennessee Technology.

BASEBALL

Hold your breath for a holy moly close one. It took place at the semifinals of the Union County tournament. Linden was playing against Westfield. Westfield was ahead 9-2 in the final inning of play and Linden started to comeback. Linden brings the score to 9-6 with two outs and the tying run on base. But, they just couldn't come up with the win — a heartbreaker.

The Panthers lost the Group 1 finals to the Florence Flashes 8-1.

Greg Torborg, of Mountainside who attended Dayton, decided to attend Duke University than join the New York Yankee organization.

BOWLING

Linden produced a "King Pin." Michael King compiled the highest individual average in the Watchung conference with a 186.

FIELD HOCKEY

Seniors Barbara Legg and Kathy

Carrea of Brearley, and Toni Serritelli and senior goalkeeper Hanna Antonson of Roselle Park were named to the All-Mountain Valley Conference field hockey team.

GYMNASTICS

The Linden gymnastics team for the first time in its history walked away with a winning season. Finishing first in all-around competition in Union county was Gabriella Linarducci. Team Coach Jill Hall was named County coach of the year.

Union bowlers beat Clark for the state title behind Neil Goldrosen's series high of 699 points.

SOCCER

The Dayton Bulldogs lost in the quarter finals of the state sectionals to Whippany Park 1-0.

SWIMMING

The Union swimmers finished with a 12-2-3 mark the best in nine years.

TENNIS

After three years of being beaten in the finals the Roselle Park girls tennis team won the sectional title and went on to be champions of the Group 1 division.

TRACK

Tony Stewart of Union won the 110 meter hurdles at the Union County county tournament with a time of 13.9 seconds.

WRESTLING

The Dayton Bulldogs beat Roselle Park for the first time in 30 years, 34-19.

Frank Croce, Tom Megles and Gene Mirabella from Roselle Park were named to the All Mountain-Valley Conference team.

Union wrestlers win the district 10 crown from host Milburn. Chr-Nazaro, Nick Yarussi and Mike Ferroni, win individual crowns for Union.

MISC.

Union's Tony Stewart is named New Jersey High School Outstanding Male Athlete of the Year. The National Collegiate Athletic Association's proposition 48 deemed Stewart ineligible to compete in football as a freshman due to academic shortcomings. Stewart still went on to the University of Iowa.

The Union High School twirlers won their third consecutive state championship. They became the champs in the senior twirl and dance division.

World darts throwing champion John Lower visited two New Jersey local pubs demonstrating his mastery of the sport by defeating all comers.

LINDEN BASEBALL—The Linden High School baseball team in action.

WRESTLING—The Roselle Park wrestling team came out strong.

GYMNASTICS—The Linden gymnastics team had a winning record for the first time.

BASKETBALL—Roselle Park and Abraham Clark girls' teams baffle it out on the court.

BOWLING—Michael King from Linden was the 'King Pin' of the Watchung Conference.

Lady 'Dawgs defeated

By MARK YABLONSKY
In basketball, if you take more than one step forward with the ball, you are called for traveling and end up losing it. But if you continually take a step backward, you will find yourself without the ball. Such was the case for the Jonathan Dayton Regional women's basketball team Saturday, which went down to a 53-28 defeat in Millburn. They were, by their coach's own admission, guilty of taking a "step back."

As a result, they had the ball less often than Millburn. And when the Lady Bulldogs did have the ball, they often didn't know quite what to do with it.

"I think we took a step back from Middlesex," said Dayton coach Arthur Krupp, who felt his team had given a better account of itself in a season-opening 60-43 defeat 11 days ago. "We were extremely disappointed with our passing against Millburn. We passed the ball into the middle when we shouldn't have. Our passing was terrible. We just didn't play like we're capable of playing."

For Millburn, the leading scorer was junior center Catherine Vickroy, who scored 14 points. But aside from point guard Kathy Dunn, who registered five field goals, no one else in the Lady Miller lineup hit double figures. By halftime, however, it made little difference, as Millburn walked off the court with a 25-9 lead.

The lone bright spot for Dayton was Staci Weirnerman, who despite missing several long-range shots, netted a game-high total of 17 points, or 61 percent of her team's scoring overall. After a 25-point performance against Middlesex, the junior guard has a total of 42 points for the year, good for a two-game scoring average of 21.0.

While the rest of the club did have trouble generating any kind of consistent offense, Krupp was pleased with freshman center Lauren Meixner, who did manage to account for six other Lady Bulldog points.

"She's a real competitor," the coach said. "She works hard all the time."

After a 2 p.m. home contest with Roselle on Saturday, Dayton will take to the road against Immaculata, Boonton and Ridge. It won't be easy, to say the least.

"We can't just harp on the negatives," insisted Krupp. "We're playing the toughest part of our schedule the first week after vacation."

King's latest 'heavy reading'

By BEA SMITH

With "It," Stephen King's latest and biggest tome, 1,138 pages and weighing nearly three pounds, the "King" of the macabre and horror fiction has pulled all the tricks of the trade out of his magician's hat, then stomped on and destroyed it. The hat, that is. Tossed it into the gutter one rainy, stormy night in a small town called Derry in a small state called Maine. Green claws reached upward from the main drain in the street, clutched at it, brought it up to the clown's body that owned the bloody claws, brushed it against its big, orange button puffs and turned it into a bunch of colorful balloons.

"We all float down here," smiled the foul-smelling clown-turned creature to the bobbing balloons. "You'll float, too," he gurgled to all of his victims, and especially to the author's more than 50 million readers.

Viking Penguin Inc. of New York City recently published "It," King's most ambitious book to date. One of the most fascinating writers of our time or any time, as far as this reviewer is concerned, King puts Edgar Allan Poe to shame. He really is one of the most frighteningly popular writers in the world!

"It" reaches out — as with all of King's writings — in a normal, natural setting and moment, then turns that situation into one so horrifying, that it is too disastrous to believe. And it is just powerful enough to keep a reader hanging on to every haunting word, paragraph, page, chapter, book — fearful, but fearfully afraid of missing something new just by momentarily putting down the heavy book.

The book is basically about seven somewhat inferior children in Derry who form a club one summer in 1958 and call themselves The Losers. There are six boys and one girl, all of whom have some sort of physical or emotional problem. Alone, they are lost; together, they draw strength from each other and are strong enough to withstand the mediocrities of the world — strong enough to combat It. The club members are the leader, stuttering Bill Denbrough; Eddie Kaspbrak, an asthmatic youngster; Ben Hanscom, a bulky, huge overweight boy; Richie Tozier, a bespectacled comedian, who hides his fears behind his impersonations; Stan Uris, a Jewish boy, and Mike Hanlon, a black boy, both victims of cruel bigots in town; and Beverly Rogan, who tries to escape from a wicked father.

On the shelf

These are the youngsters, who are ridiculed and attacked by hoodlums, but most importantly, chosen as the haunted by the monster that lurks in drains, cellars and beneath porches.

It utilizes all sorts of identities, especially that of a clown, to lure young children under bridges and into gaping sewers, then kill and dismember them. It fears the strength of The Losers, and after the club members believe they have chased It away, they make a blood pact to return to Derry at any time in their lives should It return so that they can destroy it forever.

Twenty-seven years later, the mature seven, who are scattered around the country in successful careers, are called back to Derry because It is at it again. They are no longer Losers; in fact, even their leader, Bill, has stopped stuttering. What happens to every one of the members shouldn't happen to the most avid King devotee.

In telling the combined stories of these wonderful seven, King unfolds humankind's personalities, foibles, weaknesses, strengths. He leaves no stone unturned. But he leaves a reader all atremble, afraid to be alone in a room while reading the book.

And one can believe that the reader is never the same again, because now a clown can no longer make a King follower laugh; one cringes instead. Even balloons may turn into decapitated heads, or pictures in albums come alive and take hold of one, or a deceased family member or friend's face may suddenly pop up and disintegrate into a clown-skeleton face.

Stephen King. You've really outdone yourself this time. What can you come up with for an encore?

Help trees survive in winter weather

Neglected and structurally weak trees and many evergreens are the plants most likely to be injured by heavy snow, ice and strong winds, according to Rutgers Cooperative Extension specialists at Cook College. Broken branches and split limbs are commonly seen in the wake of winter storms on trees that are poorly formed and contain undesirable growth and deadwood.

Trees may be susceptible to breakage because of narrow, weak branch crotches and poor form, often the result of inadequate or improper pruning. Proper pruning on a regular basis will help trees develop strong, wide-angled crotches and attain a structure that will resist damage from adverse weather.

Fast growing trees, such as poplar and silver maple, characteristically produce branches that are weak and subject to breakage. More desirable trees, including oak, ash, linden and sycamore, are stronger.

Trees with multiple trunks and large or mature trees with heavy limbs may be structurally weak and vulnerable to the forces of nature. Such trees can be strengthened using techniques called cabling and bracing.

Cabling is a means of supporting weak branches and unsturdy trees by attaching wire cables to stronger limbs and vigorous trees, or to ground anchors. Bracing consists of supporting split or weak crotches and cavities by means of long bolts or screw rods. In all cases cabling and bracing should be installed by a professional arborist, who has the necessary equipment and experience. Usually, a combination of pruning and cabling or bracing is done to obtain the best result.

Evergreen trees that become heavily laden with snow and ice are often more susceptible to damage than deciduous trees. If branches are not broken, it is best to let the snow and ice melt so the evergreens regain their shape naturally. An attempt to restore bent branches while they are still frozen may cause them to break. If an entire tree is leaning, it can be gently pulled upright after the spring thaw and supported by stakes or guy wires.

Accepted maintenance practices of pruning, fertilizing, damage repair and pest control applied to trees and shrubs when needed are the best ways to reduce the incidence of storm damage, preserve plant health, and insure landscape value.

Cyclamen are again becoming popular Christmas plants, both the larger "European" varieties in 6- 8- and 10-inch pots, and the newer dwarf and miniature cultivars in 4-inch pots. Ironically, heightened consumer acceptance of the cyclamen can be attributed at least in part to the energy crunch of the 1970s, which resulted in lowered home temperatures. Cyclamen have always been most popular in Europe owing largely to the cool temperatures maintained in homes there.

Cyclamen purchased for Christmas should prosper if the consumer can provide these conditions, listed by Rutgers Cooperative Extension specialists:

Cyclamen prefer full light during all seasons of the year except summer.

Night temperatures should be in the low 60s. With high light, day temperatures can be 70-75 degrees; on cloudy days, 65-70 degrees is preferable. In winter, a south window away from radiators and heating registers is a good location.

Cyclamen do not require heavy fertilization. A balanced formula, soluble fertilizer, such as 15-15-15, applied at a low rate every two weeks, should be sufficient. Follow the manufacturer's directions for plants requiring low levels of nutrition.

It is very important that cyclamen do not become excessively dry. If wilting occurs, some leaf yellowing is inevitable, with the ultimate loss of those leaves. When uncertain if watering is needed, feel the plant's foliage at about 10 a.m. If sufficient water is present, the leaves will be crisp; if leaves feel flacid, it is time to water. If leaves feel flacid and the potting media is obviously soaked, too much water has been applied and the roots may be damaged.

When purchasing plants, examine them carefully for possible disease or insect problems. Soft corms or distorted younger foliage may be indications of problems such as cyclamen mites, which are too small to see with the naked eye.

The practice of mulching strawberries in the winter has been used for decades. Around Christmastime, growers cover the plants with three or four inches of clean straw, salt marsh hay, or chopped leaves.

The mulch effectively moderates the microclimate around the strawberry plants. It prevents the rapid temperature changes that can damage the plants or cause soil to heave, displacing them.

Although mulch is recommended as necessary in our climate, it does have negative effects too. If the mulch is left on too long, it can impede growth in the spring; growers should check the plants in mid-March and remove the mulch promptly when the leaves have only barely begun to yellow. Mulch may also harbor harmful mites, which later feed on the strawberry plants.

Rutgers Cooperative Extension specialists are currently conducting research to compare the effects of the traditional mulches with a "living" mulch of fall-sown spring oats, and with a spunbonded Dupont fabric called Remay. It is hoped that some of the new mulches will afford the old advantages of straw mulches without their drawbacks, and perhaps give the added benefit of earlier flowering as well.

Winter injury to garden plants usually occurs as either mechanical damage to trunk or branches, desiccation of roots or evergreen leaves, or low temperature damage to plant tissue.

Selecting the proper tree or shrub for a certain location is the first step in avoiding over-wintering problems.

New Year's in the Big Apple

The bright Big Apple drops in Times Square. Fireworks color the skyline. Champagne corks pop. Mid-night merriment marks the new year in all five boroughs — Brooklyn, Queens, Staten Island, The Bronx and Manhattan.

"New York City is a magical place to usher in the new year — and you don't have to spend a fortune to have fun," according to Charles Gillett, president, New York Convention and Visitors Bureau.

To help choose a distinctive rite of passage to ring in 1987 in The Big Apple, the Visitors Bureau offers celebratory suggestions from the "traditional to the avant garde, from the formal to the free."

The world's most familiar New Year's Eve celebration is the gathering of hundreds of thousands of revelers in Times Square for the "stirring spectacle of the one-minute descent of the 6-foot, 230-pound, red-lighted 'Big Apple.'" A tradition since 1907, the hollow aluminum ball drops from the flagpole high atop No. 1 Times Square to mark the arrival of the new year. Since 1981, the ball has resembled The Big Apple, in honor of the Visitors Bureau's world-famous campaign.

Competing with Times Square for the limelight, Central Park features a five-mile run at the stroke of midnight with more than 3,000 runners, many in tuxedos and gowns. Open to all, the race offers prizes for the best costume, and every finisher receives a T-shirt. Champagne, in addition to the customary water, will be served at aid stations. Start and finish of the eighth annual race is Tavern on the Green at West 67th Street. Entry details can be obtained by contacting the New York Roadrunners Club at (212) 860-4455.

Lighting up the sky above Central Park at midnight are fireworks by the renowned Grucci family. Best viewing is at either side of Sheep Meadow on 72nd Street, the reservoir running track on East 90th Street, and the park entrances at 96th Street and Central Park West, or near Tavern on the Green at Central Park West and 67th Street.

New York City's great hotels are traditional centers for New Year's Eve festivities. The event in the main ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria (broadcast live on CBS-TV) features an "All Star Show," with special guests Gladys Knight and the Pips, and Helen Glazer and The Jerry Kravat Orchestra, (212-872-4997). The Plaza Hotel's Grand Ballroom features a "Return To Elegance" with dinner, dancing, champagne, or a celebration in The Plaza's Palm Court (212-759-3000).

The New York Hilton offers a four-course dinner in Hurlingham's restaurant, followed by cocktails and champagne in Pursuits, the Hilton's new nightclub. After an evening (and morning!) of dancing and video-disco entertainment, the event will be wrapped up with a 4 a.m. continental breakfast (212-977-9898).

Julie Wilson will sing at the Algonquin Hotel's Oak Room, where one can call 212-840-6800 for reservations. Her next show is "Thou Swell," a celebration of the new Knopf book, "The Complete Lyrics of Lorenz Hart."

"Jazz is back at the Essex House," with a recreation of a different era as the Count Basie Orchestra and vocal jazz great Joe Williams are featured in a black tie reception and dinner at the Essex House Casino-on-the-Park (212-484-5115).

Celebrate the new year in high style with one of five hotel packages at the new Marriott Marquis, in the heart of Times Square. The hotel's top-of-the-line theater package will start with a pre-theater cocktail reception, and then on to the popular hit musical, "Me and My Girl," in the hotel's new Marquis Theater. An open bar, dinner and dancing in the Broadway Ballroom will follow the show (212-704-8996).

At the Novotel on Broadway and 52nd Street, the restaurant on the Skylobby level "offers a perfect setting to watch the Times Square revelries with a holiday dinner and dancing package (212-315-0100)."

For music lovers, the Big Apple repertory ranges from new wave to classical. Among the musical celebrations will be the fourth annual free Concert for Peace at 7:30 p.m. at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine featuring Leonard Bernstein. Carnegie Hall's New Year's Eve event will feature an "Evening of Victorian Song and Music" with Benjamin Luxon, Robert Tear, Isaac Stern, Yo-Yo Ma, Rich Stolzman and Nancy Allen. After the concert, one can join the artists on stage for a champagne buffet (212-247-7800). The Brandenburg Concerti will be performed at the 92nd Street Y at 8:30 p.m. (212-996-1100). At Lincoln Center's New York State Theater, the New York City Ballet will perform "The Nutcracker" at 7 p.m. (212-870-5570).

On a jazzier note, the Blue Note Jazz Club on West Third Street in Greenwich Village will feature Herbie Hancock (212-475-8592). St. Peter's Church in Citicorp Center will offer a free Jazz Night Watch Service at 11 p.m. (212-935-2200). One can "party in the new year" at one of The Big Apple's "hottest clubs," — from the brand-new 4D to the Limelight, the Saint or Palladium.

If one is looking for laughs to start the new year, it was announced the Chicago City Limits, the improvisational comedy group, performs "The Year in Review." Shows are at 8 p.m. and 11 p.m. and they include noisemakers and champagne (212-772-8707). Palsson's theatrical satire, "Forbidden Broadway," on West 72nd Street will begin at 8:30 p.m. and will include dinner, champagne and dancing after the show (212-595-7400). For a "New Year's evening of giggles," try The Big Apple's comedy clubs, Stand Up NY, Catch A Rising Star or the Improvisation.

Many of The Big Apple restaurants are offering special holiday menus, including Windows on the World and Tavern on the Green. Others are "open house" with the customary menu; among them are the Derby Steak House in Greenwich Village, Benihana, New York Deli, Russian Tea Room, Hee Seung Fung Tea House, Gian Marino, Giordano, Shezan, Palm, Trader Vic's, Hard Rock Cafe, Cadillac Bar of New York, and the American Festival Cafe in Rockefeller Center.

Gourmets will be able to "enjoy a formal dinner cruise aboard a World Yacht vessel." The yacht sets sail down the Hudson River navigating around the Statue of Liberty, up the East River to Gracie Mansion, back past the Battery and up the Hudson to the George Washington Bridge. There will be dinner, open bar, and dancing. Embarkation at 9 p.m. from Pier 62 at West 23rd Street and the Hudson River (212-246-4811). The DeWitt Clinton, a sidewheel paddle boat of the Seaport Line, is offering a New Year's Eve package including buffet dinner, live band and dancing (212-406-3444).

The bright lights of "The Great White Way" will blaze with special Broadway and Off-Broadway performances. Among them are "A Chorus Line" and "Wild Honey."

Movie buffs can join Katharine Hepburn and Cary Grant in "Bringing Up Baby" and "Holiday," two film classics, at the Regency Theater on Broadway at 67th Street. A free champagne reception will follow the 10 p.m. show.

On New Year's Eve, South Street Seaport will offer Grucci fireworks at 11:30 p.m. simulcast on WPLJ-95.5, tickets can be purchased at any South Street bar or restaurant (212-732-7678). Grand Army Plaza arch in Brooklyn also will be the setting for free entertainment and fireworks by Grucci.

Sports fans "can enjoy thoroughbred horse racing at Aqueduct Racetrack in Queens or the New York Rangers vs. the New York Islanders on the ice at Madison Square Garden" by calling (212) 564-4400.

Radio City Music Hall's "Magnificent Christmas Spectacular" will give two New Year's Day performances at 2:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. (212-757-3100).

It was announced that "if you miss the Dec. 31 celebrations, do not despair. There's still time to catch the Chinese New Year celebrations on Jan. 29 to usher in 4685, the Year of the Rabbit."

More information on New Year's Eve celebrations in New York City, can be obtained by writing to NYC Visitors Bureau, 2 Columbus Circle, NYC 10019 for a free calendar of events, restaurant guide and hotel guide.

PRESENTED WITH GRANT—The Linden Summer Playhouse received a grant for a student production of the musical "Carousel," from the Union County Arts Grant program at a recent National Arts Week reception at Schering-Plough Corp., Kenilworth. Marcia Cohen, chairman of the Arts Grant committee, gives grant to Peter Sep, representing the Linden Summer Playhouse. The program is sponsored by the county's Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board and Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs and is funded in part by a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts-Department of State.

Studio lists courses

The winter term for the Acting Studio in Cranford will run from Jan. 12 through March 28. A full range of classes will be offered for children and adults who are either beginners or experienced performers. Registration for the fall term will be held Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 5 and 6, from 4 to 8 p.m. at the studio.

Even though the New Jersey Public Theatre will be moving to its new location at Runnels Hospital in Berkely Heights, the Studio will remain at its present address, 189 North Ave., in Cranford.

Classes for adults range from beginning acting classes to advanced professional training. There are four levels in the sequential acting technique classes. The first is called "The Actor Prepares," which stresses freeing the student of inhibitions and teaching basic acting techniques, by using theatre games and improvisations. This is followed by "Creating Characters,"

"Building a Scene," and "Scene Study."

There is a special class to train actors to work on television, "TV Acting Technique," as well as a class to train for musical comedy, "Musical Performance." Speech and diction are handled by private lessons and give the students a complete understanding of how to make their voices strong and clear.

Children's classes include "Creative Acting," which helps children use their imaginations; "Musical Comedy Performance," in which the children prepare songs from musical plays to present at the end of the term; "TV Acting for Children," where students learn commercial and "sit-com" techniques; and "Production Class," where a play is worked on for the term.

A brochure and further information may be obtained by calling the Director of the Acting Studio, David Christopher, at 276-0276.

GSCO concerts listed

The Garden State Chamber Orchestra under the direction of Frederick Storfer opens its third series with a special concert featuring the principal players of the orchestra at a new location. On Jan. 16, at 8 p.m., the GSCO Ensemble will perform at Wilson Auditorium of Fairleigh Dickinson University in Hackensack, followed by performances on Jan. 17, 8 p.m., at the Morris Museum in Morristown, and Jan. 18, 3 p.m. at Wilkins Theatre, Kean College, Union. Tickets are $12 with a 10 percent discount for seniors and students.

The concert highlights Concertmaster Gideon Grau, violin, Rachel Eyster, viola, and Joseph Kimura, cello, in Dohnanyi's Serenade for String Trio in C Major, Op. 10; Franz Schubert's String Trio in B Flat Major in One Movement: Allegro; and Ludwig Van Beethoven's String Trio in G Major, Op. 9, '1. An American composer, to be selected, will also be included.

A special addition to the program will be Sofia Gubaidelina's "The Garden of Joys and Sorrows" with text by Francisco Tanzer. It features Rachel Evans, ably assisted by Sarah Voynow (harp) and Wendy Stern (flute). The changeover to Wilson Auditorium at FDU's School of Dentistry allows the GSCO (and especially the Ensemble) a more intimate space to perform in. Easy to get to, and no problems with parking or security, Wilson Auditorium fits the needs of the orchestra, both for its smaller stage and the raked seats. The rest of the season's Bergen County concerts will be performed at FDU in Hackensack.

More information may be obtained by calling 488-2168.

Puppets set to perform

The Arts Council of the Essex Area, sponsors of the "Popcorn Playhouse" series for young people will present performances of the "Poko Puppets" Jan. 10, at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. at Montclair Kimberly Academy, Penick Auditorium, 201 Valley Road, Montclair.

Titled, "Symphony Stories," the fully staged production brings two classic and well-beloved orchestral pieces, "Peter and the Wolf" and "Tubby the Tuba," to theatrical life. Created and produced by its director, Larry Engler, the presentation features actors, masks and larger-than-life-size puppets.

Forthcoming attractions in the Popcorn Playhouse series will include "Dreams on a String" by the Kitchensink Mime Theater February 7, the "Rosenshontz Family Concert" March 7 and as a rousing finale - the "Vaudeville Circus" April 11.

Tickets may be purchased by mail from The Arts Council of the Essex Area, Montclair State College, Life Hall, Room 221, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043. Make checks payable to ACEA and enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope. VISA or MASTERCARD will also be accepted. For information call 744-1717.

Rebecca's forecast

For week of Jan. 1 to Jan. 8

ARIES (3/21-4/20) This is an especially upbeat period for many, crucial backing or support is highlighted and beneficial allies make themselves known. Overall financial security is boosted and personal affairs are more satisfying. Later, finish with lingering business, share good news and spruce up image.

TAURUS (4/21-5/21) The week ahead highlights the many changes and trials you have contended with over the last 2-3 years.

an important elimination cycle is over and now you will begin to re-build your life...new directions are all around you. Later, new people, places and circumstances enter your life.

GEMINI (5/22-6/21) This will be an important year for new beginnings, social, recreational and romantic interests are especially favored, you are at your best so see and be seen. Later in the week, news from a distance is highlighted, career opportunities expand and important changes are on the horizon for most.

CANCER (6/22-7/23) Private dilemmas and concerns crowd your thoughts early in this period, key alliances need careful handling and situations related to last summer may re-surface for some. Later in the week, those at a distance assume importance, and special accomplishments are linked with younger people.

LEO (7/24-8/23) There will be an intense focus on health, money and career interests for a good part of the coming year. New plans or goals are highlighted and new or additional sources of income are indicated. Later, personal beliefs and philosophies undergo change and your own spirituality is awakened.

VIRGO (8/24-9/23) Although there are certain changes in the air, you are calm and unruffled during this period, communications with siblings and relatives could prove lucky...affectional ties are strengthened. Later, tax, insurance or pension papers assume importance and important trends highlight finances all year.

LIBRA (9/24-10/23) You can breathe a sigh of relief. The past year was quite difficult for many, and as a result you will be doubly appreciative of the favorable trends that begin during this period. Later, a much more secure material and emotional picture begins to emerge, you regain your inner balance.

SCORPIO (10/24-11/22) You continue to be in a cycle of personal power and popularity, this is a good time to exchange ideas and opinions and above all follow your hunches. Later this week, look into new outlets for children, career opportunities expand and your personal charm draws others to you now.

SAGITTARIUS (11/23-12/21) Take advantage of favorable trends early this week; share special time with loved ones and really listen to what another is saying. Later, family members offer a surprise or two, someone may need your emotional support more than you realized and patching up differences is favored.

CAPRICORN (12/22-1/20) Pay attention to the subtle trends during this period, many personal changes are in store as the year unfolds. Much activity and involvement is likely to revolve around family, domestic arrangements and property matters and you better believe some interesting choices are indicated.

AQUARIUS (1/21-2/19) Personal, health and career interests are boosted early in this period, behind the scenes goings on are favored and those in authority prove beneficial to you now. Later in the week, money interests improve, private meetings or talks are highlighted and gains are linked to key relationships.

PISCES (2/20-3/20) Your personal spotlight continues to shine during this week, you continue to be in demand and shouldn't wait too much longer to launch new projects and endeavors. Later, accomplishments may have a price, you impress others favorably now and co-use a fair amount of envy.

How would you like to cut your ad budget by 73%?

We thought so. Here's how it works.

A half-page ad in the big, fat phone book costs you thousands of dollars. That's because it appears in thousands of copies — some as far as fifty miles away.

The Little Yellow Book is distributed (absolutely FREE) in your local, "Target Market" to people who want and need your goods and services.

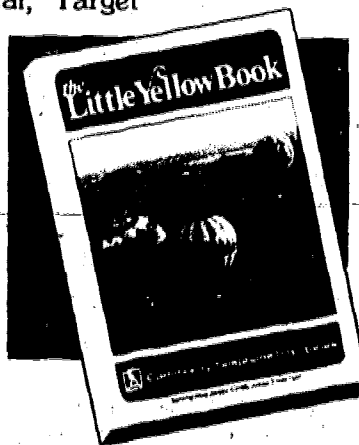

Here are a few more good reasons to choose the Little Yellow Book:

1. Your ad gets more attention. Our smaller page size (5 x 8 inches) makes your ad stand out better.

2. It's compact. New, smaller size means they can take it along on shopping trips. It fits easily next to the phone too.

3. It's packed with information. Police, Fire, emergency numbers, white page listings, Zip Codes, Train and Bus schedules, even a big 17 x 21 inch fold-out road map of your area. And the more they use it, the more they'll see your ad!

Call us toll free at the number below today. Start cutting your phone book ad budget tomorrow.

Simon play due

"Brighton Beach Memoirs," a comedy drama by the award-winning playwright Neil Simon, will open at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, Wednesday, Jan. 7, and will run through Feb. 8.

A semi-autobiographical play, "Brighton Beach Memoirs" is based on Simon's experience as a Brooklyn teenager growing up in a lower middle-class family during the depression years.

The "critically-acclaimed" play is one of a long list of Simon hits which includes "The Odd Couple," "Barefoot in the Park," "Sweet Charity," "Promises, Promises," and "They're Playing Our Song." It was voted the "Best Play" by the New York Drama Critics Circle and won the Outer Critics Circle Award.

The playwright has contributed more than 20 hit plays since the opening of "Come Blow Your Horn" in 1961. At one point, he had the distinction of having four successful plays running on Broadway simultaneously.

The cast of seven will be directed by John Going, director of the 1985 Paper Mill production of "Inherit the Wind," which won Showtime's award for "Excellence in American Theater."

Tickets and information can be obtained by calling the box office at 376-4343.

Opera rehearsals

Dita Delman, artistic director of the State Repertory Opera (SRO), has announced that rehearsals are held Mondays in the Hillside and Valley Presbyterian Church, 494 Hillside Ave., Orange. She can be contacted by calling 763-7969.

Chorus members will sing in the company's spring production of "Martha," a 19th Century opera, written by Friedrich von Flotow. According to Delman, "'Martha' is a charming tale set in England's Queen Anne period. Before we get to the opera's happy ending, we're treated to such memorable arias as 'M'Appari,' one of 'Martha's' most famous arias, and the beautiful 'Tis the Last Rose of Summer,' which weaves through the opera as a leit-motif."

Choristers also will sing in a December concert to be held at Hillside and Valley Presbyterian.

The opera company also will hold a series of benefit recitals by members of the company, its annual wine and cheese party next spring and other events to promote membership in the organization. Delman is available to answer questions from individuals who may want to get involved in SRO's work.

Choral concert

Evelyn Bleeke will conduct the Choral Art Society of New Jersey in a performance of "Honegger's King David" with soloists Thomas Tomasovic, Alice M. Helgeson, Brenda Winnick, Drude Roessler, and narrator, Frederick Walters, plus an orchestra, with the 70-voice chorus.

The concert will take place Jan. 10, 1987 at 8 p.m. in the Presbyterian Church in Westfield, corner of Mountain Avenue and Broad St.

Tickets are available at the door.

Workshop set

A Theater Improvisation Workshop for handicapped individuals ages 10 and over will be held Jan. 17, 1987, at the Mary Connolly Hall at Runnells Hospital, Berkeley Heights. From 9 to 11, participants will be involved in a "creative drama" workshop.

Winter driving tips

The AAA New Jersey Automobile Club reminds motorists that foul weather can strike at any moment.

"If you haven't brushed up on your winter driving skills," says Matthew J. Derham, president of the Florham Park based club, "we encourage you to do so. Winter driving means restricted visibility, clogged or slick roadways, hazardous intersections, treacherous steering maneuvers and conflicts with other vehicles or pedestrians. Before taking to the road, check the weather conditions and always drive with extreme caution."

AAA's Emergency Road Service Department reports that emergency road service calls from disabled motorists in Essex, Morris and Union counties increased by 50 percent during the recent drop in temperature and the season's first snowfall.

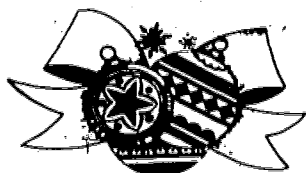

What winter driving skills should drivers develop to ensure a safe trip? The AAA New Jersey Automobile Club urges them to heed the four S's - seeing, starting, steering and stopping - when driving in ice and snow:

□ Seeing: Drivers can't avoid the hazards they can't see. Be sure to clear all windows - front, rear and sides - completely. Although it may be less time consuming to just clear a "peep hole," this restricts visibility severely. Wipe off headlights and taillights and remove snow from the hood and roof so there's nothing to blow back on the windshield or rear window once the car is moving. Remember, road splatter can cut visibility, so use wipers and washer often.

□ Starting: When starting up, apply slow, steady pressure to the accelerator. If stuck, turn the wheels from side to side to push snow out of the way. Point the front wheels straight, keep a light touch on the gas and ease forward. Don't spin the wheels; the auto will just dig in deeper. If more traction is needed, use sand, salt or any handy abrasive material in front of and in back of the driving wheels.

□ Steering: Sudden movements are dangerous under slippery conditions. Make changes of direction gradually. Anticipate turns, slow down in advance and make them smoothly. If you hit an icy spot, don't panic. Ease up on the gas, hold the wheel steady and roll through. If you skid, remember to turn the wheel in the direction of the skid and stay off those brakes.
