TWO SECTIONS — 50 CENTS

Easy primary victory for GOP candidates

By SUZETTE STALKER

It was an exceptionally quiet primary in Mountainside Tuesday as the two unopposed Republican candidates for Borough Council smoothly won the GOP nomination. The two are expected to fill two vacant seats on the council following the November general elections.

Mountainside Borough Councilman William "Tex" Jackson, running for his second term on the governing body, garnered a total of 210 votes, while newcomer Keith Turner captured 204 votes altogether. No Democrats are running for the all-Republican council this year.

The polls opened at 7 a.m. in Mountainside at the Borough Hall auditorium, the Presbyterian Church at Deer Path and Meeting House Lane and Deerfield Avenue on Central Avenue and School Drive. All polls closed at 8 p.m., after which the results were tabulated.

A Forest Hill Way resident, Jackson began his career on the Mountainside Borough Council in January 1988. He currently serves on the council's Police and Fire committees, as well as being the governing body's liaison to Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside.

The councilman, who is vice president of an equipment rental firm in Jersey City, has also served on the council's Administrative and Executive committees during his tenure with the governing body.

Turner, of Bridle Path, is running for the seat currently held by Borough Councilman Louis Maas, who decided not to run for re-election this year. The candidate is co-owner of a dental laboratory in Scotch Plains.

Maas announced recently that he and his wife, Marge, would likely be moving to Saratoga, N.Y., within the next couple of years, and stated that he did not wish to make a commitment to the council which he could not fulfill.

'Gifted' students display talents at annual exhibit

By SUZETTE STALKER

An extravaganza of young talent, imagination and creativity filled David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth Monday night during "Gifted and Talented Expo '90," an annual event sponsored by Union County Regional High School District 1.

The exposition featured projects done by students enrolled in the Gifted and Talented programs at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, David Brearley, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark and Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

Students accepted into the program are those who are considered to be exceptionally adept in academics, music, athletics, leadership or other areas, according to regional district curriculum director Dr. Martin Siegel. There are currently 55 district students in the program.

The students are required, as part of their participation in the program, to select a project which reflects extensive research and work in a particular subject, and which they have a full school year to complete.

Students gave classroom presentations on their projects for parents, peers, educators and others during the exposition, which was divided into 15-minute periods to allow visitors to choose which exhibits they wanted to see and to attend several different presentations during the course of the evening.

The students' exhibits covered a wide range of disciplines, among them science, mathematics, computer science, language studies, architecture, banking, nutrition, music, creative writing, crafts, photography, genealogy, art, theater, psychology, engineering, and business.

Tatiana Aizenberg, 17, of Mountainside, a senior at Jonathan Dayton, reached back to her own heritage as the source for her project, titled "The Russians Are Coming — Will You Be Ready?" which fell under the category of language studies.

Opening of pool marks beginning of summer's activities in borough

By SUZETTE STALKER

The Mountainside Recreation Department will kick off summer 1990 this weekend with the opening of the Mountainside Municipal Pool, to be followed by a well-rounded season of activities for all ages, recreation staffers have announced.

The pool, located adjacent to the Borough Hall Complex on Route 22 East, will be open Saturday and Sunday, June 9 and 10, from 11:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. It will be open again on June 16 and 17, during the same hours, and from June 18-23 from 4 to 8 p.m.

Recreation Department spokeswoman Sandy Burdge confirmed on Monday that the pool will be open full time from Saturday, June 23, until Labor Day, from noon to 8:30 p.m. each day.

Mountainside residents can register to join the pool in the Recreation Office, located at Borough Hall, weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The cost is $130 per family, $65 per individual, and $30 for senior citizens.

Registration for swimming lessons for pool members five years old and up will be held at the pool on June 9, with lessons scheduled to begin on June 25. There will be two four-week sessions, with participants meeting four days a week.

Each four-week session costs $16. The sessions, taught by qualified instructors, will be held from June 25 to July 20, and from July 23 to Aug. 17.

There will also be four two-week sessions for pre-schoolers, from June 25 to July 6; July 9 to July 20; July 23 to Aug. 3, and from Aug. 6 to Aug. 17. The cost for these classes is $8 per session.

The Recreation Department will also be holding registration for its swim and diving teams, each of which are open to pool members up to age 18. The swim team will be under the direction of Jeff Jotz of Rahway this year. Cindy Ahlholm, of Springfield will be returning as coach of the diving team.

This year, pool patrons will be able to enjoy a brand new wooden deck which was recently built against the grassy embankment adjacent to the Echobrook tennis courts. The deck will allow patrons to relax and watch pool meets and other activities from a comfortable vantage point.

These events are expected to include traditional Fourth of July festivities, an adult "Rock 'n' Roll" party scheduled for Friday, July 13, at 8 p.m., and pool parties for teens which will be announced within upcoming weeks.

Recreation Director Susan Winans and Burdge acknowledged that the department's annual Summer Playground Program will begin on Monday, June 25, and will be open weekdays, 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., until Friday, Aug. 3.

Children must be entering first grade in order to participate in the program, which will be held on the grounds adjacent to the Borough Hall complex. The program will once again be headed by supervisor Ricky Brahm of Mountainside and assistant supervisor Cindy Coster of Chatham.

In addition to such regular playground fare as four squares, whiffleball and nok hockey, Winans reported that the playground program will feature (Continued on Page 2)

Departing principal fondly recalls career in district

By SUZETTE STALKER

Deerfield School Principal James A. Johnson Jr., who will be resigning from his position at the end of the 1989-90 school year, reflected fondly this week upon his long and diversified career with the Mountainside school district.

A Cranford resident, Johnson will be taking over as principal of the Brookside School in his hometown on July 16, a day after leaving his current position. Brookside is a public elementary school serving students in kindergarten through sixth grade.

The principal began his affiliation with the Mountainside school system in 1970, as a fourth-grade teacher at the Beechwood School, now the Vail-Deane School. He later taught fourth grade at Deerfield, and from 1979-1982 was principal of Beechwood.

In 1982, Johnson served as assistant principal at Deerfield for one year, and the following year taught seventh-, eighth-, and ninth-grade social studies there. He became principal of Deerfield in 1985, and also served as curriculum coordinator there for many years.

PRINCIPAL JAMES A. JOHNSON prepares to hand over the reins to a successor after recently announcing his resignation as head of Deerfield School in Mountainside, a position he has held for the past five years. Johnson will be taking over as principal of the Brookside School in Cranford, where he says he hopes to implement some of the same programs which have proven successful at Deerfield.

Kean College in Union in 1970, and four years later attained his master's degree in administration and supervision from the same school. He also later earned 30 additional credits in reading and mathematics from Kean. The educator remarked that he is proud of what the Mountainside school district has accomplished while he has been principal, including expansion of Deerfield's reading, math and computer programs, as well as integrating school and community for the benefit of education.

"In the area of math, we moved away from purely paper and pencil tasks to more problem solving and manipulative tasks," Johnson explained. "In the area of reading, we moved away from simply the utilization of basal text materials to a 'whole language' approach."

The principal cited such successful school programs as Deerfield Pride Week and the DEAR Connection as being instrumental in strengthening the link between Mountainside's school district and community.

The purpose of Pride Week, according to Johnson, was to stimulate morale among staff, students and parents through participation in various projects. DEAR Connection, which is an acronym for Drop Everything And Read, offers Deerfield youngsters an incentive to read both inside and outside of school.

Johnson also praised Deerfield's recent reinitiation of its summer school program and development of its School Plus program, which provides students with extra assistance in reading and mathematics.

In addition, he reported that Deerfield's expanded kindergarten program has allowed teachers to provide students with more information at a more relaxed pace, along with more small group instruction in reading and math readiness.

Finally, Johnson expressed his pleasure with Deerfield's revised computer programs for students in grades 4 and up during the past six years. The basic logo programs have been remodeled and expanded to cover word processing, and will soon include spread sheets and data base instruction as well.

The principal and his wife, Beverly, a nursery school teacher in Roselle Park, have two daughters, Heather and Kristen. Heather, who will be graduating from Cranford High School this month, will be attending Rutgers University in September. Kristen will be starting ninth grade in the fall.

"I think what I'll miss the most are the students, staff and parents — the school community as a whole," Johnson remarked about his pending departure from the Mountainside school district. "It was a very difficult decision."

called "Russian For Everybody," in which she described the 33 letters and symbols in the Russian alphabet. She explained that once a person learns it, Russian is a very easy language to understand.

The student explained that although she knew the spoken Russian language, she wanted to learn to read and write it, as well as master the rules of grammar.

Aizenberg said she gained a particular satisfaction from knowing that she will now be able to write to her grandmother, as well as other relatives, who still reside in the Soviet Union.

Springfield resident Andy Arnold, 18, who is also a senior at Jonathan Dayton, showcased his talents in music and creative writing with "Eyes of the Wild," an original musical fantasy in which animals symbolize a cross-section of American society.

The characters included the eagle, symbolizing the proud American veteran who feels his country has forgotten him; the sparrow, seeking freedom and a better life; the pidgeon, representing the environmentalist; the rat, alone and apprehensive, symbolizing the homeless; and the deadly scorpion, who betrays the sparrow who helps him.

Kenilworth resident Devang Muchhala, 18, a senior at David Brearley, discussed his project, titled "Refraction of Light: the telescope and the spectroscopy," for which he displayed the telescope and spectroscopy he made during the past two school semesters.

A science buff who hopes to pursue a career in engineering in college, Muchhala explained how constructing the telescope involved exact precision calculations, and how the spectroscopy allows people to witness the break up of white light into the "rainbow" colors of the solar spectrum. "We feel in the Union County regional district that we are very fortunate to have programs like this one to offer our children," explained Nancy Baton, who is Gifted and Talented program coordinator at David Brearley.

"It affords children with a special gift or talent the opportunity to pursue a particular area of interest that is not offered by the regular school curriculum," she continued.

Siegel explained that students for the Gifted and Talented program are recruited from among the 10th grades at each of the four high schools, and that some 11th-graders are also eligible to join the program if they have just moved to the district or if they meet the program's criteria.

Candidates for the program can be nominated by parents, peers, teachers or community members to a special committee at each school which reviews the academic records and guidance folders of all students, and chooses the most qualified students through a process of elimination.

The committee prepares grid sheets on each of its candidates based on all the data it has received. Each of the students is subsequently interviewed about a possible project he or she would like to work on, after which the committee makes its own recommendations to each building's Selection Committee.

The Selection Committee, comprised of the original committee, the school principal, assistant principal, guidance director, guidance counselors, school psychologist and Siegel then makes the final determination concerning which students will be invited to join the program.

AARP luncheon planned

The Lunch Bunch of the Mountainside Chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will meet at the Tower Steak House, Route 22 East in Mountainside on Thursday, June 14, at 12:30 p.m. One can call 232-8797 or 654-8684 to confirm attendance. All senior citizens are invited.

During the May 17 meeting of the Mountainside AARP, group President Pete Harter announced the Mountainside chapter was incorporated on Jan. 31. The official designation of the chapter is now the Mountainside Area Chapter 4498 of AARP Inc.

There will be an installation of officers for the chapter at the next meeting on June 21. Program guest speaker will be Dr. Adam Rowen. His topic will be "Respiratory Disorders in Senior Citizens."

The Mountainside AARP will hold two picnics at the Mountainside Pool on July 19 and Aug. 16.

ture many popular activities from years past, including a Beach Party, Shaving Cream Adventure, carnival and various field trips.

Finally, tennis lessons will be given on the Echobrook courts by returning instructor Nancy Harter of Plainfield, which will be open to adults and children 8 years old and up. Participants do not have to be Mountainside residents, but must have a valid 1990 tennis badge.

There will be three sessions for tennis lessons, from June 25 to July 6; July 9 to July 20, and July 23 to Aug. 3. The charge for lessons is $50 for adults; $28 for children.

A tennis team conducted by Harter for children ages 10 to 16 will also be available, which will play other area teams from June 25 to Aug. 3. The cost for joining the tennis team is $24. Registration for tennis lessons and team membership is currently being taken in the Mountainside Recreation Office.

College information is offered

Assemblyman Bob Franks, R-22, whose district includes Mountainside, has announced that he will offer the residents of his district information from the New Jersey Department of Higher Education, Office of Student Assistance.

A number of brochures and forms also are printed in Spanish.

To obtain any of the described information, one may call Franks' legislative staff at 665-7777 or write to his office: 219 South St., Suite 109, New Providence, 07974.

Summer courses offered

The director of the 1990 summer school program for Union County Regional High School District 1, George Cuzzolino, has announced that brochures for the summer program are currently being distributed to students' homes throughout the regional district and in schools both inside and outside the district.

The regional district includes Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, David Brearley Regional High School in Kenilworth, Arthur L. Johnson Regional High School in Clark and Governor Livingston Regional High School in Berkeley Heights.

Classes for the 1990 session will begin on Wednesday, June 27, and will conclude on Thursday, Aug. 2. Classes will not be held on Wednesday, July 4, in observance of Independence Day. The summer school program will once again be conducted at David Brearley, located on Monroe Avenue in Kenilworth.

Students will be offered opportunities to accelerate their academic progress through original credit courses, although these courses will not be counted toward the students' class rank. Youngsters also will have a chance to take review courses, to enroll in enrichment programs and/or to join in other special course offerings.

All courses are provided free of tuition to bona fide residents of the regional district who are under the age of 21.

Regional district residents also may sign up, free of charge, for specified evening programs, including a musical theater workshop at David Brearley, a vocal music workshop at Jonathan Dayton, a fine arts workshop at Arthur L. Johnson and a crafts workshop at Governor Livingston.

These workshops are open to all residents of the regional district's communities, regardless of age.

Registration forms for all regional district summer programs are available in the summer school brochure. Pre-registration for summer school will be accepted until noon on Monday, June 25. Late registration will be accepted at the summer school office at David Brearley at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, June 27, on a space-available basis.

If sufficient room exists in a course, non-resident students may be accepted after payment of tuition fees.

Original credit, review and enrichment courses in the regional summer school will run between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m. Special courses and programs will be conducted at times to be announced. Transportation will be provided for the day sessions and bus schedules will be available in the main office of each regional high school prior to the start of the summer program.

For further information about specific details of summer school in the regional district, one can contact George Cuzzolino at 272-7500 or Benjamin Jones at 464-3100.

Doctor elected to staff

Dr. Joel D. Levinson of Mountainside was among the slate of officers recently elected by the medical staff of Overlook Hospital in Summit for the next two years.

Those elected were: Dr. Brian Donnelly, president; Levinson, vice president; and Dr. Gregory Sachs, secretary-treasurer. Levinson has a private medical practice in Springfield.

At Overlook Hospital, Levinson is chief of the Department of Medicine. He was formerly head of the Division of Gastroenterology at the hospital.

Levinson earned his M.D. degree from Georgetown University. He served his internship at Georgetown University Hospital and his residency in the Department of Medicine at both Georgetown University and Vanderbilt University hospitals.

Levinson, who is board certified, served in the United States Air Force with the rank of captain.

A LOOK BACK — These fifth-grade students, from left, Stephanie Chiavarelli and Noland Huynh, who are enrolled in Joan Krystow's class at Deerfield School in Mountainside, show their classmates the social studies projects they made recently depicting westward expansion and the industrial revolution in America.

Dog decals are available

Springfield Postmaster William G. Daniels has announced that the post office is offering dog decals to households that have dogs. The dog decals are yellow and black, 2 inches in diameter and may be affixed to mailboxes or doors containing postal slots. Their purpose is to alert mailmen that a dog is on the premises.

"The decal not only will serve as a warning to letter carriers," said Daniels, "but also may protect homeowners from potential intruders."

Daniels pointed out that dogs are territorial by nature, and will often attack if they feel their territory is threatened by an unfamiliar person. "The postal service tries to do its part, by stressing awareness of dog bite dangers to its carriers. It also relies on the support and cooperation of the community to help end these painful and costly injuries."

Postal customers may request decals through their carrier, or may pick them up at their local post office.

HONORED ON NURSES DAY — Springfield resident Ellen Cooperman, LPN, left, and Margaret Popovitch, RN, right, of Berkeley Heights were recently honored for their years of service to Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside. The facility treats children and adolescents suffering from various illnesses and injuries, and also operates an outpatient clinic in Farwood.

Nurses are honored

Ellen Cooperman, LPN, of Springfield has been chosen as 1990 Nurse of the Year by Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside.

Cooperman, who has nursed at the pediatric rehabilitation hospital for 15 years, was recently honored at a special reception. Also honored was Margaret Popovitch, RN, of Berkeley Heights, a supplemental staff nurse. The Nurse of the Year is selected via nominations and recommendations from the hospital's nursing staff. The honor is a recognition of the nurse's skills, accomplishments and abilities to work with patients, staff and family members.

Cooperman, who is married and the mother of two, is a graduate of the Union County Vocational Technical Nursing School. She began her career at Children's Specialized as a volunteer and also served as a nursing assistant prior to her current position as staff nurse on the hospital's long term care unit.

"I'm so very honored by this award," Cooperman commented. "I have witnessed a lot of growth at the hospital during my years here, and I'm glad to have been a part of it." She noted that she has always enjoyed working with children, and the relationships she has developed over the years with patients and their families has had an impact on her life.

"It has helped me develop into a better person and a better professional," Cooperman added.

Popovitch has been a supplemental staff nurse since 1985. She is a graduate of Mercer Medical School of Nursing, and currently participates in the weekend program, working three out of four weekends per month.

Children's Specialized Hospital is a comprehensive pediatric rehabilitation hospital which includes 60 acute rehab beds and 25 long-term care beds.

Dayton youth cited for achievements

David Schlosser, son of Heather and Mel Schlosser of Springfield, and a senior at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, has been named as the school's most recent "Student of the Month."

Schlosser has attained a cumulative grade-point average of 3.91, on a scale of 4.0, and is ranked first academically in this year's senior class at Jonathan Dayton. As the valedictorian of the Class of 1990, he will address his classmates during commencement exercises at the school on June 18.

He has been recognized as a Garden State Distinguished Scholar by the New Jersey Department of Higher Education and as a Rutgers University Presidential Scholar.

In addition to his impressive record of academic achievement, Schlosser has participated in many co-curricular activities during his four years at Jonathan Dayton. He has served as the secretary of the school's chapter of the National Honor Society and has worked as an active member of the Spanish Language Honor Society, Spanish Club, Future Business Leaders of America and Key Club.

He also served as the captain of the Dayton Varsity Soccer Team during his senior season of 1989.

Outside of school, the 17-year-old Springfield resident is the vice president of the Youth Group of Temple Sha'arey Shalom, Springfield; and last year served as a delegate to the American Legion Jersey Boys State leadership/government conference, held at Rider College in Lawrenceville.

Starting in the fall, Schlosser will attend the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School of Business. He plans to major in finance.

at the library

The Springfield Library recently added several new titles to its growing collection of young adult books. Stored in the alcove between the children's and adult departments, the books deal with conflicts, dreams of the future, friendships and special problems which young adults face today.

Among the new titles are "A Sudden Silence," by Eve Bunting; "Say Goodnight, Gracie," by Julie Reece Deaver; "Waiting for the Rain," by Sheila Gordon; "This Stranger, My Father," by Robert Hawks; "City Light," by Harry Mazer; "Silver," by Norma Fox Mazer; "Close Enough To Touch" and "Those Summer Girls I Nerver Met," by Richard Peck; "Song

From Afar," by Cynthia Voigt and "The Amazing and Death-defying Diary of Eugene Dingman," by Paul Zindel.

New mysteries include Vivien Alcock's "The Mysterious Mr. Ross;" Lynn Hall's "A Killing Freeze;" and Sonia Levitin's "Incident at Loring Groves."

Parents' program noted

"The Balancing Act," a series of five consecutive Tuesday evening sessions for mothers of children ages 9 months to 2 years, has been scheduled at Overlook Hospital beginning Tuesday, June 19, from 7-8:30 p.m.

The program provides mothers with the opportunity to meet other mothers in order to share experiences and explore and explode the "Supermom" myth.

The group leader, an experienced mother as well as an RN, will discuss many aspects of the infancy to toddler transition, such as sleep patterns, socialization, vocalization, nutrition, safety, child care and returning to work.

For further information or registration, please telephone Overlook's Department of Health Education at 522-2946.

Seniors appoint officers

Installation of the new officers for the Senior Citizen Club of Mountainside Inc. for the 1990-1991 term will be held at the Suburban Country Club, Morris Avenue, Union, on Wednesday, June 27, at the noon luncheon meeting.

The slate is Angelo S. Morganti, president; Pauline Tims, vice president; Etta Sauerberger, secretary; and Alberta Stogniew, treasurer.

The ceremony will be conducted by Mountainside Senior Citizen Coordinator Helen Rosenbauer.

As part of the program, members Loretta Buschmann, Doris and Angelo Morganti, Helen and Howard Snyder, Alberta and Richard Stogniew and Pauline and Richard Tims will present an original skit titled "We Are the Seniors," written by Doris Morganti.

campus corner

Marissa Sanford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Sanford of Old Tote Road in Mountainside, has been named to the dean's list for the spring quarter at the Rochester Institute of Technology.

She is a junior, majoring in industrial design at the school.

To be named to the dean's list, a student must attain a grade point average of 3.50 or better.

YWCA provides summer day camps for children

The YWCA of Summit, located at 79 Maple St. in Summit, is planning another season of camping. Various programs will be offered, designed to teach children and adolescents new camping skills, help them develop new interests, or brush up on those which they already possess.

The Day Camp programs for children, ages 3 through 15, will begin on Monday, June 25, and will run through Friday, Aug. 10. Registration is currently under way at the YWCA.

For 3- to 6-year-olds, Camp Littlefoot will be held each morning from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. The emphasis will be on creativity and sports, with a daily swim lesson, arts and crafts, storytelling, games and guest performers, including clowns, jugglers and puppeteers.

There will also be weekly themes such as "Circus," "Animals" and "Fourth of July," which focus upon activities in one area, with all programs to be held at the YWCA.

A new program this year for the 3- to 6-year-olds is an Extended Day program, which includes lunch period, story and quiet time, an open swim and group and individual activities, plus play time in the park. Extended Day Care runs from 12:15 to 4:30 p.m. and can be a real help to working parents.

Older children can choose from a wide range of camp programs at the YW this summer. For those who prefer round-offs and hand-springs, Gymnastics Camp will be available.

Held at Wilson Gym, Gymnastics Camp is for girls who have completed kindergarten and older and features a complete gymnastics experience, including floor and apparatus work, taught by the YWCA's certified gymnastic team instructors.

The six one-week sessions are held mornings from 8:30 a.m. to noon.

Dancers, or those who wish to be, can learn and improve their skills in ballet, tap and jazz in the YW's dance workshop "camp." The instructor is professionally trained at the Royal Academy of Dance in London.

The coed dance workshop meets Monday, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, from 12:30 p.m. to 2 p.m. for ages 6 to 8, and from 2 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. for ages 9 to 13. Two three-week sessions are scheduled beginning June 25.

Chris Goedecke, the YW's black belt karate master, will be back again this summer with Karate Camp.

For children ages 7 to 15 with no previous experience in the martial arts, Karate Camp will teach blocking, striking and kicking techniques, along with basic routines, or katas, controlled Kumite, dynamic tension exercises and practice with traditional wooden karate weapons.

The one-week program will meet from 1 to 3 p.m. at the YWCA in July.

Sports Camp for girls and boys is an afternoon program of skills development in gymnastics and tumbling, soccer and Frisbee and more. Teacher Liz Jones will conduct the program on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays from 1 to 3 p.m. at the YWCA. Three one-week terms will be held in July.

All campers must register in advance and parents must fill out a medical form prior to the start of the summer programs. Please call the YWCA at 273-4242 for information. Scholarships are also available for campers; please call the YWCA number and ask for Anna. All requests are kept confidential.

FLYING FIRST CLASS — Kathleen McCabe, right, of Jonathan Dayton Regional High School in Springfield, was selected as one of several students who will attend a special congressional seminar from April 28th through May 4th. The seminar, which will be held in the nation's capital, is sponsored by Union Carbide. The congressional seminar is organized by the Washington Workshops Foundation, a non-profit educational organization. McCabe is shown receiving an airline ticket to Washington from Joseph Hughes, on the left, manager of Union Carbide Industrial Gases Inc., Linden Division, in Springfield.

Area blood drive announced

A blood drive, sponsored by New Jersey Blood Services in cooperation with the Eastern Union County Red Cross, will be held on Thursday, June 21. It will be conducted at the Manor Care Nursing Home, 1180 Route 22 West in Mountainside, between 1:30 p.m. and 7 p.m.

The NJBS hopes to collect 40 pints of blood during the drive. Area residents are urged to participate in the program.

"Despite the generosity of many community members toward this vital need, blood usage far exceeds the amount of blood donated in the Garden State. This blood deficit requires blood to be imported to support our medical needs," according to a statement issued by the NJBS.

"Unfortunately, hospitals don't have an unlimited supply. A single transplant operation can use 100 pints of blood, made possible only through the contribution of 100 volunteer blood donors."

Blood is made available to hospitals through blood collection agencies such as the NJBS in New Brunswick. Each donated pint of blood, after processing, can be used to treat as many as five patients.

Red blood cells benefit anemic patients, platelets aid cancer patients undergoing chemotherapy treatment, white cells benefit leukemia victims and plasma helps shock or burn victims.

Within hours of donation, the blood is typed, processed and tested before being shipped to 76 hospitals in the New Jersey area. For further information on how to help, please call 828-9101.

Fashion show aids hospitalized kids

Fashions by top American and European designers that fit the lifestyles of today's women were featured recently at the annual Spring Party and Fashion Show, sponsored by the auxiliary of Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside.

The event was held at the Hilton Hotel in Short Hills. The fashions were presented by Saks Fifth Avenue, located on Millburn Avenue in Springfield. Entitled "The Best of Saks Fifth Avenue," the show featured the spring collections of a group of American and European designers.

All proceeds from the Spring Party and Fashion Show benefitted Children's Specialized Hospital for the purchase of needed rehabilitative equipment for the young patients. A comprehensive podiatric rehabilitation facility, Children's Specialized Hospital houses 60 rehab beds and 25 long-term care beds. In addition, the hospital provides extensive outpatient and community services at its outpatient facility in Fanwood.

The auxiliary, a dedicated volunteer group in service to the hospital, traditionally raises funds for various projects to assist the young patients at Children's Specialized, which is located on New Providence Road.

The theme of this year's party was "Centennial Countdown," in honor of the upcoming 100th anniversary of Children's Specialized Hospital in 1991.

Trailside trips scheduled

The Trailside Nature and Science Center in Mountainside has announced that "summer safaris," Thursday field trips for sixth- to eighth-graders, will be offered again this summer.

The trips are designed to introduce students to a variety of unique natural areas in New Jersey, and include:

A fluorescent mineral excavation at the Buckwheat Dump and a visit to the Franklin Museum — July 12.

Crabbing at Cheesquake State Park, Matewan — July 26.

Waterloo Village, including Lenape Indian Village and Museum — Aug. 2.

Fossil Search at Shark River Park, Lincroft — Aug. 16.

Trout Hatchery, Oxford — Aug. 20.

For more information on how to register for summer safaris, please call Trailside at 789-3670.

Publishing course slated

Union County College will offer non-credit classes this summer on its recently-installed desktop publishing equipment. This announcement was made today by Dr. Joann LaPerla of Cranford, dean of continuing education.

The computer laboratory facility is equipped with an Apple Macintosh network and scanner for use in publications.

"Desktop Publishing" will offer instruction on the Pagemaker software package. Participants may select from two time slots, either from 6 to 9 p.m. on Tuesdays, June 5 through June 26, or from July 10 through July 31, both on the Cranford Campus.

"Advanced Pagemaker: Macintosh" is designed for those with more experience using this package. Two time slots will be offered, and participants may select from either 6 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays, June 7 through June 28, or from July 5 through July 26.

Those interested in further information should call 709-7601.

U.S. safety officials urge fire precaution

With more than 450 electrical home fires in the United States each day, government safety experts are urging consumers to inspect their houses and apartments for electrical hazards.

According to Commissioner Melvin R. Primas Jr. of the state Department of Community Affairs (DCA), there are "an estimated 169,000 home fires of electrical origin in the United States each year, claiming 1,100 lives and injuring 5,600."

"Property losses," he added, "are estimated at $1.1 billion annually." To help combat the problem, Primas noted, the United States Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) has designated the month of May as National Electrical Safety Month.

In non-fire related accidents, the CPSC estimates that 340 Americans are electrocuted each year in accidents involving consumer products, while an estimated 7,700 others require hospital emergency room treatment for electrical shock or electrical burn injuries.

The Bureau of Fire Safety, part of DCA's Division of Housing and Development, has sent press releases to newspapers throughout the state urging electrical safety in the home. The following are commonplace electrical hazards frequently overlooked in the home:

- Electrical cords buried under rugs and carpets: In such cases, move the lamp or appliance closer to a receptacle so the cord is out from under carpets and away from foot traffic.
- Using extension cords on a permanent basis. Extension cords should only be used temporarily. Rearrange lights and other electrical items so extension cords are not needed, or have new electrical outlets installed to eliminate the need for extension cords.
- Frayed, stiff or cracked electrical cords: Such cords pose electrical and fire hazards. Check cords to make sure they are safe and in good condition.
- Warm or hot cover plates over electrical outlets: Heated cover plates often indicate an unsafe wiring condition, in which case an electrician should be called to inspect the wiring.
- Flickering lights: A number of problems cause lights to flicker, and are most often related to faulty wiring of the receptacle, the wall switch or the electrical product itself. Discontinue use until the source of the problem can be determined and corrected.

An electrical product that shocks you: Stop using the product at once and have it repaired by an electrical repair shop. Continued use of the product could result in electrocution.

CPSC has developed an electrical safety checklist to help residents locate and correct common electrical hazards that may cause shocks and fires. The checklist outlines a room-by-room inspection to pinpoint electrical hazards.

Free copies of the home electrical safety checklist are available in English or Spanish by sending a postcard to Electrical Safety, Washington, D.C., 20207.

Additional information on fire and burn safety is available by writing: Public Education Office, Bureau of Fire Safety, CN 809, Trenton, 08625-0809.

A new SS rule makes it easier for the disabled

By JOHN H. McCUTCHEON

A new rule makes it easier for a disabled Social Security beneficiary who works to retain Medicare coverage when coverage lapses because of earnings. If Medicare coverage has already lapsed, a person must sign up by June 30, 1990, for coverage to begin July 1, 1990.

Under the provision, a person may purchase Medicare coverage by paying a monthly premium. In 1990, the premium is $175 a month for Medicare hospital insurance coverage and $28.60 per month for Medicare's medical insurance coverage.

People have seven months after they receive notice that their Medicare coverage has lapsed to enroll. Those who do not enroll during that time would have to wait until the general enrollment period — January-March of each year — and may have to pay a premium surcharge.

Note that, while a person may purchase hospital insurance without the medical insurance, it is not possible to purchase medical insurance without hospital insurance. Medical insurance pays doctor bills and certain outpatient expenses not covered by hospital insurance.

The new rule is expected to be a major boost for disabled beneficiaries who are attempting to return to the workplace in spite of their disability. Fear of losing Medicare protection is one of the major deterrents to such work attempts. Because their disability continues, they can expect continued substantial medical expenses.

Disabled beneficiaries who would be eligible to buy Medicare but have limited income and resources need to know that the States are required to pay Medicare hospital insurance premiums for "qualified disabled and working individuals" who meet certain income and resource standards. However, the States are not required to pay Medicare medical insurance premiums. For specific information on the income and resource requirements, contact your State Medicaid agency.

Disabled people who would like to buy Medicare coverage or need more information should contact Social Security.

McCUTCHEON is the Social Security Administration's manager in Elizabeth.

State We're In

Will Congress really help clean the air?

By DAVID F. MOORE

Reports out of Washington assure us that Congress is in hot pursuit of cleaner air, although in this era of compromise between environmental and economic forces, lukewarm might be a better word.

Each day brings another reason to act for cleaner air. One example is the element chlorine, pervasive in industry and even our swimming pools. It is the element which in certain forms floats up, up and into the stratosphere, where it destroys the ozone which nature keeps up there to filter ultraviolet rays from sunlight, so that we down here can survive.

Nobody knows how many problems might be caused by increasing bombardment of ultraviolet light. But we know it can cause skin cancer in people and can disrupt our delicate ecosystems, as well as many kinds of vegetation and forms of animal life.

Being a melanoma cancer victim myself, I can relate to what a seemingly tiny increase in chlorine compounds in the stratosphere can mean in building the intensity of ultraviolet light. A 1 percent reduction in the ozone layer will produce a 3 percent higher incidence of basal-cell skin cancers in light-skinned folks, plus more cataracts, melanomas and immune system diseases. Ozone levels over our part of the world dropped between 2 and 3 percent between 1969 and 1986!

Despite international agreements to end the use of chlorofluorocarbons (CFC's — the stuff that makes spray cans and air conditioners work) by the year 2000, we still have lots of other sources that can and do get that chlorine into the upper air.

For example, methyl chloroform and carbon tetrachloride are two very common industrial processing chemicals that do more ozone damage than CFC's, although they have much shorter life spans. Both are toxic, and are on their way out here for that reason alone, but what we do in the U.S. won't make much difference if the rest of the world won't go along.

And there's yet another problem: The substitute materials for CFC's aren't perfect; they do the same thing to ozone, only it takes more of them. And as we switch and substitute and spread technology worldwide, guess what — there'll be more of it.

That's not all the bad news! Ozone shield problems are one thing, but separate and distinct is the now-familiar "Greenhouse Effect," which scientists see raising our planet's temperature. How much and how soon remain in dispute, but that's more hair-splitting; 50 or 100 years are too soon in terms of raising sea level from melting polar ice, and radical climate changes everywhere.

Growing carbon dioxide levels in our atmosphere trap solar heat, as a greenhouse does. Carbon dioxide comes from burning fossil fuels and other oxidation processes, like breathing.

Both ozone and greenhouse problems are cases where we need cooperation worldwide. We got it for ozone a short time ago in Canada, where nations around the globe agreed to cut CFC's. But we need more of that cooperation, and should start at home with our own Clean Air Act. We use most of the world's natural resources, and contribute the bulk of world air pollution, despite our current laws.

Short-term economic and lifestyle disruptions by shifts away from using fossil fuels are impeding efforts to face up to the Greenhouse Effect in the U.S. Other nations are being more realistic, and are looking askance at us!

Although each house of Congress has passed its own version of the Clean Air Act, the final bill will essentially be written by the House-Senate Conference Committee, so it's important that you express your feelings to the environmental stewards we've elected to office.

Moore is executive director of the New Jersey Conservation Foundation, a non-profit organization.

Trial lawyers' notebook

Of lawyers and doctors

Ordinarily, the lawyer plays no part in the health care that is delivered to a particular patient or family. The patient goes to see a physician who prescribes medications or various treatments. Even when there is a death in the family, there still may be no role for the attorney.

Some families feel that, if there is a medical malpractice, an attorney should play a role. While this is correct, the number of malpractice cases is far smaller than the problems facing families when legal advice becomes necessary.

The relationship between the physician/hospital and attorney is very close. Every hospital has a legal staff to provide it with advice. Physicians routinely consult with attorneys and, therefore, so should patients.

When an individual has passed away, there may be a question of an autopsy. Physicians are requesting fewer autopsies than previously, but in some cases such a procedure may be important to the family.

Did the individual die as a result of chemicals inhaled or absorbed at work? Did he die as a result of a genetic defect that may be present in other members of the family? Did she have a neurological disease such as Alzheimer's, or were his neurological problems due to another cause, and will this affect other members of the family in the future?

The physician's main concern is with the current patient, and the information gained may help other family members not under his care. Autopsies are also important with the death of children, and are often recommended. When an autopsy is not offered, a lawyer's intervention may be required.

In another situation, a parent is deteriorating, but is still competent. What steps should be taken, not only to maintain maximum treatments, but to prepare for the future when the parent is no longer capable of managing his own affairs?

A child does not want to interfere, but there may come a time when involvement is not interference, but is vital for the well-being of the family.

Appropriate legal action may well ease these problems.

Musical spoof is a delightful premiere play

By BEA SMITH

The premiere offering of "Mikado Inc." at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, is an unusual, rather overwhelming production, which has a totally unexpected effect on theatergoers. It is particularly true as the public is unaware of what the show is all about in the beginning.

Audiences familiar with the Gilbert and Sullivan century-old operetta will probably be astounded by its transformation into a new contemporary musical. Then they will simply open themselves up to the multitude of delights that "Mikado Inc." has to offer. For there is something for everyone in this unique production — fun, comedy, slapstick, music, directing, settings, lighting, costumes. You name it. "Mikado Inc." has it.

The play, which gently spoofs the original "Mikado" and pokes fun at an ultra modern Japanese corporation with headquarters in Hohokus, N.J., was derived from the Paper Mill's Musical Theater Project. This is the second successful Musical Theater Project this season. The first was the exceptionally funny "Rhythm Ranch."

"Mikado Inc." resulted from a series of staged readings, workshops and laboratories. Robert Johanson, Paper Mill's gifted director-choreographer-actor-singer-writer, collaborated with Jane Waterhouse, book writer; Albert Evans, lyricist; Glen Kelly, musical adapter; and the wonderful Michael Anania, Lindsay Davis and Phil Monat, designers, to give birth to this unique offering.

In the first scene, which takes place in and around the ultra, ultra offices of a Japanese company which makes tiny drink umbrellas, the audience has time to warm up to the funny situations and funnier characters. By the end of the second act, which takes place on the island of Titipu, the audience is so caught up in the fun and music and story and characters, that it is ready to climb onstage to participate with the performers and the nonsensical excitement and lively music.

And the performers, chosen from the cream of the crop in the musical theater — really, who needs Broadway? — have the most beautiful light-operatic voices, which they employ with great range and quality to enhance the audience's enjoyment.

In the cast are Marsha Bagwell, a real Paper Mill favorite, who does her best work as the employer, Madame Katisha, daughter of the Great Mikado. She rules, while her employees shudder. Having taken a fancy to a young rock star, Frankie Pucelli, half-Italian and half-Japanese, who later becomes Frankie Poo, she has made him the new voice of Mikado Inc. Poo is played to the hilt by James Rocco, another Mill favorite, and strumming his guitar, he brings forth his marvelous rendition of "A Wand'ring Man Am I." He has a natural tendency toward comedy, and there are moments when he very nearly steals some scenes from his cronies.

Philip Wm. McKinley, a versatile young man, who serves as casting director of the play, and who is starred as Mr. Koko, manager of personnel, is superb in everything he does. Whether he is singing, in his beautiful operatic voice, "The Manager of Personnel," "A Floppy Disk," "How Do You Spot a Geishanette?" or bounding in and out of doors and under tables, or making love to Katisha, he is absolutely wonderful! The man is as versatile and tireless as the whole of "Mikado Inc."

The others in the cast are just as competent and talented and lovable. There is Mr. Pish-Tush, manager trainee, played by Jason Ma, in a stiff, businesslike manner, with lots of bowing and kowtowing as he comi-cally sings with the company "If You Want to Know Who We Are" and "The Contract," and with Bagwell and McKinley and company, "Here's A Little Clue." Michael Mulheren is equally funny as Mr. Pooh-Bah, the very formal manager of development.

THE DRAGON BOAT takes the boss lady, Katisha, played by Marsha Bagwell, and her employees, Mr. Pish-Tush, played by Jason Ma, and Mr. Pooh-Bah, played by Michael Mulheren, to the island of Titipu, as Mr. Koko, played by Philip Wm. McKinley, looks on from the bridge in a scene from the world premiere musical, "Mikado Inc.," at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, through June 24.

For additional decoration there are "The Three Little Temps," with lovely voices, and faces to match. They are Yum Yum, performed by beautiful Christine Toy; Peep Bo, played by gorgeous Mia Korf, and the equally pretty Ann Harada, seen as Pitti-Sing.

Most of the second act is comprised of the marvelous goings on on the tropical island of Titipu, as the company in part and whole sings and dances to "Till the Blossoms Fall," "A Robot Will Never Say No," "The Samurai Stomp" — a real show stopper, "The Teahouse of the Sliding Screens," "Jersey Heart," "What Turns You On," "Mikado Anthem," "I Knew It" and "Once in a Glade."

Johanson, as usual, has provided the theater with a fantastic production, which can be produced on its own merit, intact, on Broadway, with audiences panting for more, more, more! The stage settings are unbearably beautiful, a la Anania, and the costumes lush and colorful and delicately dainty. The music, a la Gilbert, Sullivan and Johanson, is hearty, endearing, lovable and toe-tapping.

"Mikado Inc." is truly a great season's finale for the Paper Mill Playhouse. Take a reviewer's word for it. This production offers pure enjoyment from beginning to end.

Bravo, Angelo Del Rossi, executive director. Bravo, Johanson. Bravo, company. Bravo, Paper Mill.

Heritage festival slated at Center

The Garden State Arts Center, Holmdel, is offering a heritage festival featuring costumes, traditional foods, sports competitions, whirling dancers on the Mall, ethnic arts and crafts exhibits and demonstrations, all presented in a park setting on the Arts Center grounds.

Begun in 1971, the festivals, sponsored by the Cultural Fund, are now the main events of New Jersey's ethnic celebrations, it was reported. Many of the festivals are developing theme and stage shows featuring "stars from the homeland."

Festival tickets can be obtained by contacting the Cultural Fund office, 888-5000. Tickets are available for purchase at the box office.

The 19th annual Polish Festival took place Sunday. It celebrated the 10th anniversary of Solidarity.

The Ukrainian Festival U.S.A. will take place Saturday. It will open with a 9 a.m. soccer tournament. The mall show and sale at 11 a.m. will feature pysanky — hand-painted Easter eggs, hand-embroidered items and Ukrainian artwork. Homemade foods and pastries will be available from noon to 7 p.m. Appearing at the 3:30 p.m. theater show will be the master of ceremonies, Ted Woloshyn, Voloshky, Ukrainian dance ensemble, vocalist, Ulana Perfeky, the Oles Kuzyszyn Trio, the Echo of the Steppes Bandura Ensemble, the Flying Kozaks, and comedian Jim Karol.

The Jewish Festival of the Arts will take place Sunday with "a cavalcade of stars." A plaza program will take place at 1 p.m. A variety of traditional kosher foods will be available for purchase, and the "Cavalcade of Stars" will feature Aliza Kashi, Emil Cohen, Sasha Tormas and The Brothers Zim in the theater at 3 p.m. Renee Balaban, general chairman, has

NAIL PROBLEMS

By Dr. Michael Eglow

An ingrown nail occurs when a toenail edge embeds itself into the surrounding skin. It can cause pain, swelling, redness and often, infection. Home treatment may consist of soaking the affected toe in warm Epsom salt water and then packing cotton at the nail edge to keep it from piercing the flesh. Podiatrists handle ingrown nails on a daily basis using the most advanced techniques to minimize discomfort and provide rapid healing.

To avoid ingrown nails, keep them clean, trim nails straight across and wear shoes of proper length and width. Avoid over-the-counter home remedies.

The same fungus that causes athlete's foot can attack toenails, causing them to turn a yellowish-brown color. Early treatment of fungus is important.

If you experience pain when pressing straight down on a nail, it could be a small bony growth underneath. The growth can easily be removed in the doctor's office with little discomfort or inconvenience.

Remember both you and the doctor are a team working toward a common goal, comfortable feet, so that you can remain active an fit in today's fast-paced lifestyle

The Good Fight

The Industrial Revolution has given us innumerable inventions and innovations, aids and conveniences. It has dramatically and forever changed the way we live. At the same time, the Industrial Revolution has ravaged nature on a worldwide scale. It is no exaggeration — considering ozone depletion, rain forest destruction, acid rain, drifting radiation and the various sorts of water pollution — to say that the Earth today is in critical condition. We of the Post-Industrial era are everyday face-to-face with this paradox of progress and destruction. We need the benefits that science, technology and industry can bring us. We also desperately need to curtail the ruination of nature, or there simply will be no place in which to benefit from our technological gains.

When, on May 24, Governor James Florio signed into law the Clean Water Enforcement Act, New Jersey took a necessary and overdue step in the right direction towards rescuing and preserving that so essential facet of our environment — our water. The law brings a schedule of fines to bear upon industries that allow dangerous levels of pollutants to enter the water.

The segment of industrial New Jersey destined, at least in the near future, to feel the brunt of the new enforcement is, as everyone concedes, the waste-water disposal industry. The amount and chemical makeup of the effluent discharged into the water system by such plants is comparatively easy to assess, since these are discharges gauged at specific locations. On the other hand, how much of what a chemical company shoots through its private pipe into a stream that also serves as a catch basin for other industries and run-off systems is a much more difficult thing to measure.

So, the agents of the state's Department of Environmental Protection will have their eyes on the waste-water disposal plants. Plant officials are currently complaining that the new law is too tough.

One complaint is that many of these disposal plants are operated by public utility authorities, which is to say they are publicly owned. Fines assessed on such plants would, in effect, be tax dollars, and we are taxed enough.

But one of the amendments to the act allows the DEP to compromise with first offenders. A public utility plant can forego the $1,000 fine if it signs a consent agreement to correct conditions within a certain time period.

If the consent form is signed and the problem not corrected further fines, which cannot be foregone, will be imposed.

That's fair. It is also fair to crack down on water polluters. Waste-water disposal authorities, pledged to public service, are not serving the public when they join with private industry, as now is the case, in bellyaching about the new regulations. Yes, they are tough, but also utterly necessary. Our children and grandchildren will, we daresay, need water.

There are many private firms — probably the majority — that do their utmost to comply with state regulations, and that show a progressive consciousness in dealing with the threat to our environment. We commend these companies and urge them to continue in this good fight.

There are also, however, certain companies that want to play an old game: to delay as long as possible, rather than incur the expense of updating facilities to meet the new rules.

Our lawmakers wisely did not extend the zero-fine compromise to private firms, because consent agreements in the hands of corporate attorneys can be disregarded in order to serve as a means to litigation. Litigation works in favor of the private firm, giving it more time to operate illegally while its attorneys wear down the state and push our officials into further compromise.

Unfortunately, certain private firms will do whatever they can to wriggle out of renovating facilities and paying penalties. But the crackdown must continue, because the stakes have become too high for such business-as-usual maneuvers. Polluters do not stop until laws are passed to stop them. Even then, when enforcement is lax, pollution continues. Before the Clean Water Enforcement Act there was the Clean Water Act which, as regards dealing with certain New Jersey violators, was as useful as a bladeless axe. The enforcement act's purpose is to make that prior law active and strong.

The law is stronger now. Some waste-water disposal plants began clean up measures even as the ink from Florio's pen dried on the line. The state is serious, as it well ought to be, about the quality of our water.

Eulogy for a librarian

Mountainside has lost one of its most prominent citizens with the passing of Emily Hoffarth. Both our citizens and our schoolchildren have benefitted because of the efforts of this fine woman.

Emily Hoffarth was the driving force behind the Borough's establishing a Public Library in the basement of the old Echobrook School and became its first librarian.

Emily dreamed and planned for years for the day when Mountainside would have a real library of its own. Then, shortly after our new library was opened, she decided to retire. When asked how she could leave this lovely library after working all those years in the basement, she replied "How many people are lucky enough to see their dreams fulfilled? Well, I've seen mine so now I can leave. Besides, I am not as patient with the young children anymore and I do not want them to remember me as that 'crabby old librarian.' If there is one thing I am not going to be it's the last hurrah."

Emily was also convinced that there would be no troublesome youth if the children could all be taught to read. She was aware that some children had great difficulty in learning to read. So she badgered her husband Elmer and the other members of the Board of Education to establish a program in remedial reading in the Mountainside Public Schools. Many of our children have been the beneficiaries of this program.

Emily Hoffarth will be remembered always for her untiring devotion and dedication to the people of Mountainside.

Plea for mental health help

Mental Health month has slipped by with little fanfare, unfitting for such an important health area in our country and the world. A new decade is upon us and looking backward ten years, we see very little progress in the mental health field.

The following data has been taken from information supplied by Dr. E. Fuller Torrey of The National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (NAMI).

We currently have more than twice as many seriously mental ill individuals in shelters and on the streets as we have in state mental hospitals. We have one-and-one-half times more seriously mentally ill individuals in prisons and jails as we have in state mental hospitals. Follow-up and aftercare in most states is abysmal, rehabilitation and housing is usually non-existent. Aggressive public advocacy is lacking. Insurance companies in their policies and employers still discriminate against mental illness.

We must ask ourselves where the $20 billion per year in public money is going that funds the mental health system. Could New Jersey be like the New York State Office of Mental Health which has 607 administrators whose salary averages $71,145 a year? In Fort Wayne the director was voted a $200,000 bonus.

As far as research funds, the mental health field started out so far behind other fields of medicine that in 1990 it is just beginning to catch up. Funding continues to go to traditional mental health areas which, in the opinion of Dr. Torrey, have lower priority than research on serious mental illnesses as schizophrenia and manic depressive or bi-polar illnesses. Research on the brain must be connected to research on the rest of the body. One is not divided from the other.

The mental health field needs a lot of support and help to become a powerful constituency for the seriously mentally ill. Support and education is necessary to families afflicted by mental illness and the stigma attached to the disease must be removed. The danger is complacency. Needed is local, state, and national support. Write to your elected officials regularly reminding them that most families have been touched by mental illness, if not directly than indirectly.

Re-use incinerator ash

Governor Florio's recently-announced "pause" in the construction and permitting of Waste-to-Energy plants in New Jersey is based on the misconception that incinerator ash is hazardous waste, and this myth could cost New Jersey households hundreds of dollars per year. It will also force us to pass up a recycling opportunity being used now in Europe and under investigation in several of our neighboring states: the reuse of incinerator ash in construction materials.

In 1989, the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection solicited proposals for the beneficial reuse of incinerator ash. Now Trenton is moving to regulate it as a hazardous waste. Not only is this concept technically unjustified, but if implemented, would economically preclude Waste-to-Energy in New Jersey, requiring millions of unnecessary tax revenues to pay for garbage landfills and hauling out-of-state. It will also deprive us of needed electrical generating capacity.

Classifying incinerator ash as hazardous waste is based on the assumption that this ash will leach or seep heavy metals into groundwaters. The basis for this assumption are so-called laboratory leachate tests, particularly the "EP Tox" test. Such assumed leaching does not occur in the field. In fact, several recent field studies have confirmed that the laboratory tests are not a valid measure of real conditions in an ash landfill.

The most significant of these recent field studies was sponsored by the EPA. This study reported on a long term and extensive study of five incinerator ash landfills. The results of this study show that the leachate (the water that percolates through the ash) and the runoff (the water that runs across the ash) approximates Primary Drinking Water Quality. In an independent study of the Stanislaus Ash Landfill, the California Department of Health Services agrees with the writer's long-standing contention that incinerator ash "sets-up" upon reacting with the lime from the air pollution control equipment — trapping or encapsulating the heavy metals.

These studies confirm work reported by the writer, which showed similar results and also demonstrated that the hardness of the ash could serve as a self-liner. Once ash has been formed into a concrete-like consistency, neither the leachate nor the runoff pose a threat to health or the environment.

Such recent technical and scientific information, based on worst-case and long-term field studies, call into serious question the applicability of the laboratory tests. These dubious laboratory leachate tests have caused unnecessary alarm, creating undue public concern and imposing unjustified regulatory classification. Nevertheless, I have found that ash, inexpensively managed in the field with water and compaction, will leach only one to 10 percent of the maximum allowable levels of the "EP Tox" test.

Accepting such recent evidence, that incinerator residue does not pose a threat to the environment, permits a discussion of using this ash rather than disposing of it. Incinerator ash has a mineralogical or chemical composition similar to cement. When sufficient water and compaction is applied, this residue "sets-up" into a concrete-like consistency. The same is true for certain coal ashes and many air pollution control equipment residues. The principles are well-known. In fact, the Roman roadbuilders used volcanic ash and lime to build the Appian Way.

Incinerator ash, therefore, can be considered akin to cement and placed similar to constructing a concrete parking lot. Proper compaction of this ash achieves such high densities that the disposal requirements of incinerator ash are one-tenth those of landfilling raw municipal garbage. The ash's resultant permeability (the rate water passes through it) is 10 to 100 times better than solid waste landfill liners. Incinerator ash has been used as road construction material in Pennsylvania and New England. Incinerator ash has been used to make barrier reefs off Long Island. New Jersey is presently studying the application of incinerator ash in asphalt paving.

Incinerator ash not only has a composition similar to cement, but it behaves the same as coal ash. In the United States, 25 percent of the coal ash produced is reused rather than landfilled. For instance, Pennsylvania has designated eight beneficial reuses for coal ash. If one-fourth of the incinerator ash is used rather than disposed, hundreds of millions of dollars per year could be saved by avoiding its disposal and using it as a cheaper substitute for raw materials.

In New Jersey, we are faced with increased costs for hauling our garbage to other states. Such states, like Pennsylvania, are trying to limit the amount of garbage we can "export." Combusting our separated, non-recyclable municipal waste in Waste-to-Energy plants and recycling of incinerator residues as construction materials will realize significant reductions of each community's solid waste expenses. By supporting recycling of municipal refuse through source separation, waste-to-energy, and ash reuse, our tax burden could be relieved. Rather than raise taxes, our elected officials and their appointees should allow for the recycling of municipal solid waste into energy and the recycling of incinerator ash into construction materials.

'Domino effect' believer

The letter to the editor by P. Gardella of Mountainside, published in the May 24 issue of The Springfield Leader/Mountainside Echo, deserves a response. While the defeat of school budgets in Mountainside and in the Regional District may be related to separate issues, I nevertheless believe that a "domino effect" exists when residents are asked to vote for two school budgets at the same time. When a voter casts ballots for two separate school budgets by using voting machines in close proximity to each other, it is just too easy for a decision made about one budget to carry over and influence voting on the second. Rather than considering each school budget on its own merits, a vote of yes or no in the first voting booth, may result in a similar decision being rendered in the second voting booth.

This voting behavior seemed to be reflected in the April 24 results. Regional District voters passed the budget in Berkeley Heights and Springfield. And, the local public school budgets were also passed in Berkeley Heights and Springfield. Conversely, the regional budget lost in Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth and Mountainside. And, in those four communities, the local public school budgets also lost. On the surface, there appears to be a relationship between passage or defeat of the local and regional district budgets.

I must also take issue with the statement that our high schools operate "at fifty percent capacity." This erroneous comment was probably taken from an earlier letter to the editor, which was written by Harold Donaldson of Berkeley Heights. Mr. Donaldson was absolutely wrong by implying that our schools are "half-empty." And, there is no need to perpetuate that falsehood.

Furthermore, to set the record straight, the Regional Board of Education has not failed "to address a long-standing problem of too few students in too many schools." The Board of Education has addressed this issue and continues to monitor it. Gardella may not like the Board's decision, i.e., to grow down into four small quality high schools and reduce our staff appropriately, but the Board of Education should not be criticized as if they have completely ignored or neglected the issue. On the contrary, the Board has squarely addressed the problem and continues to do so. They have not avoided their responsibilities, as Gardella intimates.

It is always easy to condemn a Board of Education when you don't agree with its decision. But, don't accuse our Board of negligence when they don't deserve it. The members of the Board examine the issues, make decisions and take action which ensures that students will receive a quality education. They deserve accolades and praise, not condemnation or denigration by a resident who may not agree with their decisions.

NJ sets down search guide-lines for state troopers

The first set of comprehensive written procedures in the history of the New Jersey State Police to offer guidance to troopers in the conduct of highway stops and searches was announced today by Attorney General Robert J. Del Tufo and State Police Superintendent Justin J. Dintino.

The development and publication of this Standing Operating Procedure (S.O.P.) fulfills a pledge made by Colonel Dintino at his swearing-in as Superintendent on Feb. 15, 1990. The S.O.P. is the result of weeks of legal research and study. "For the first time," Dintino said, "members of the division will have a single set of standards to follow in responding to highway stops and possible subsequent arrests and seizures from the first moment they witness a motor vehicle violation taking place."

The S.O.P. combines the old and new and, according to Dintino, "will serve the interests of both the public and the trooper." Dintino explained that the long-standing policy of the division to respect, first and foremost, the constitutional rights of all citizens has now been placed in the context of actual police conduct and that the S.O.P. provides the public with objective criteria to assess whether the policy has in fact been followed.

"By the same token," Dintino added, "the procedures will serve to insulate our troopers from unjustified citizen claims of abuse for the officer may demonstrate in response that he or she conscientiously followed the objective procedures laid out in the S.O.P."

Dintino went on to say that "as always, members of the division shall be required to discharge their law enforcement responsibilities with courtesy, without bias or discrimination, and within the permissible limits prescribed by the state and federal constitutions. This is formidable responsibility demanding good and often split-second judgment under difficult circumstances and heavy pressure. Troopers have a duty to enforce laws that protect the public from serious dangers, including intoxicated or reckless drivers, unsafe and uninsured vehicles, hazardous materials unlawfully transported, and persons who use the highways to smuggle drugs and weapons. Yet a trooper does not know what he or she will encounter when a motorist is pulled over. Each trooper must be alert to the safety of all involved, including themselves. These guidelines will reinforce the training, experience and good sense of division members in traffic stops, motor vehicle searches and arrests."

The S.O.P. spells out the steps to be followed in performing vehicle stops and searches. Some procedures are new. Other procedures were already in force, scattered through various operating procedures. For example, under the guidelines State Police patrolling the highways must continue to obtain prior written consent from motorists who agree to the searching of their cars. This written-consent rule applies only to so-called consensual searches — not to searches where a warrant has been issued or where the division member has probable cause to believe that an automobile contains contraband.

The S.O.P. continues the prohibition on stops based on profiles that focus only on personal or physical characteristics such as race, age, gender, or hair style. Similarly, the use of roadblocks or traffic checkpoints will continue to be banned without the express approval of the superintendent.

The S.O.P. directs the issuance of summonses, in place of arrest, for routine traffic violations or minor offenses. And, finally, it requires all division members to make written reports of consent searches.

As an additional aid to division members, Dintino said, the Search and Seizure Review Board in the Division of State Police will resume regular meetings on new developments in search-and-seizure law, such as the decision last week by the New Jersey Supreme Court.

Freeholders name new county manager

By SUSAN KRAKOWIECKI
At their meeting on May 31, the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders unanimously approved a resolution appointing Ann Baran to the post of county manager. She had been serving as the acting county manager since March.

This appointment makes Baran the first woman to head a county government in New Jersey.

"Mrs. Baran's performance so far merits this appointment," said Gerald Green, chairman of the Board of Chosen Freeholders. "Everyone throughout the county administration supports her performance and her appointment to this position."

Vice Chairman James Welsh, chairman of the County Manager Selection Committee, also praised Baran's appointment.

"I felt from the beginning of the selection process that we had a very capable and qualified candidate in Ann Baran," Welsh said. "I am comfortable with her abilities and her performance. She is very professional in dealing with her duties, and her selection fits the professional tone set by this Board. I am convinced that she is the right person for the job."

As county manager, Baran is responsible for all aspects of the county's daily operation. She also held the position for several months in 1988, on a temporary basis.

Prior to joining the Union County

Administration, Baran served as the metropolitan region administrator. At this post, she was responsible for overseeing an eight-county region for the State Department of Human Services, Division of Youth and Family Services.

Baran came to Union County in 1985 as the Director of the Department of Human Services. In this position she initiated a number of successful programs, including those addressing welfare reform, alcoholism, homelessness and employment and training.

Members of the County Administration are normally required to reside within the confines of Union County. Baran, who resides with her family in Milltown, was given a waiver of this residency requirement in 1985, and, according to County Counsel Jeremiah O'Dwyer, the waiver remains valid in her new position.

Baran holds Bachelor's and a Master's degrees in Psychology from Fairleigh Dickinson University, and a Master's degree in Public Administration from Rider College.

"I am committed to Union County and committed to serving the people of Union County," Baran said. "I am moved and encouraged by the faith the Board of Freeholders has shown in me with this appointment. I look forward to meeting the challenges of being County Manager."

Kean College granted scholarship funds

The foundation explained that the $2,000 increase recognizes the college's initiative in creating this scholarship program and provides more scholarship support at Kean because of the large number of eligible women who have been applying.

The grant will make it possible to award 12 $660 scholarships in 1990-91, Kassakian said. Applicants are women at least 25 years old with 60 college credits and a minimum of a 2.5 grade point average who have financial needs.

According to Kassakian, the Newcombe Foundation has committed more than $3 million to scholarships for mature women since 1981. This year grants were made to 33 colleges and universities that provide good supportive services to mature women. The foundation also grants funds for students with disabilities.

The Charlotte W. Newcombe Foundation, Princeton, has granted $8,000 in scholarship funds to Kean College of New Jersey for aid to mature second-career women in 1990-91, an increase of $2,000 over the last two years.

The total awarded to Kean College by the foundation over three years comes to $20,000. The 20-year-old Kean College Office of Adult Advisory Services is accepting scholarship applications.

In a letter to Sharon Kassakian of Westfield, acting director of Adult Advisory Services, the foundation said, "This grant is made in recognition of the excellent supportive services which you offer to mature returning women and to provide increased financial aid support to a group whose needs are frequently unmet."

Hazardous Waste Disposal Day slated for Saturday

Union Board of Health President Robert Faszczewski reminds residents that the Union County Environmental Health Advisory Board will be holding a County Household Hazardous Waste Disposal Day on Saturday, June 9, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m.

County residents are encouraged to bring their household wastes, such as paints, cleaners, automotive products and pesticides, to either of the two collection sites; Ciba-Geigy in Summit and Merck & Co. in Rahway.

In addition to providing the opportunity for county residents to dispose of their wastes, this event offers the Health Department the chance to educate the public about their role in pollution and its prevention according to Union Health Officer, Dennis San Filippo.

Hazardous waste is a broad term that often implies the substance poses a danger to human health or the environment. The United States Environmental Protection Agency considers a substance hazardous if it is flammable, explosive, corrosive or toxic. Even this rather narrow definition includes many everyday things like polishes, cleaners and paint thinner. It is estimated that the average American household contains between three and ten gallons of materials that are hazardous to human health and a threat to the natural environment.

The potential consequences are serious. For example: paint remover contains methylene chloride, a suspected carcinogen; some wood preservatives contain pentachlorophenol, a chemical toxic to the central nervous system and the liver; upholstery cleaners may contain trichloroethylene, another suspected carcinogen. Gasoline dumped in the yard can contaminate ground water with benzene, a known carcinogen.

If these materials are poured down the drain or thrown in the garbage, surface and/or ground waters will eventually end up being contaminated. Specially designed hazardous waste incinerators and landfills are necessary for proper disposal of these substances.

While high temperature incineration or special treatment and landfilling are more desirable than having these wastes poured down the drain or dumped into the garbage, the best solution is to not produce the chemicals in the first place. These are some examples of what each person can do to help reduce the amount of hazardous waste they produce and the pollution it causes:

□ Before you buy a product, read the label and make sure that it will do what you want. Once you buy something you are also responsible for disposing of it properly.

□ Buy only what you need and use what you buy — Some products require only small amounts to be effective, buying the large economy size will just leave you with a disposal problem.

□ Read and follow directions on how to use a product. Products pose less of an environmental risk when used up in the recommended way than if they are disposed of as waste.

□ Use safer substitutes when they are available.

San Filippo stressed that each person has a responsibility to protect the environment. The Union County

Household Hazardous Waste Disposal Day gives residents a way to prevent pollution by providing a desirable method of disposal for their unwanted materials at no cost to them. Materials will be accepted only if they are in their original container with a label indicating the contents. Unknowns or unidentified materials, explosives, radioactive materials, silvex or 2, 4, 5-T will not be accepted.

No registration is required to participate in the Disposal Day. For more information about the disposal day, Union Township residents may call the Department of Health and Environmental Protection at 688-2800. For more information about household hazardous waste, contact the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection, Division of Hazardous Waste Management at 1-609-530-4123.

Humane Society decries leaving dogs in autos

When readers go shopping or to the beach this summer and open their car doors to go home, they know the hot blast of air that hits them. Unbelievable as it seems, some people still leave dogs in those cars with windows partially open. In New Jersey, that is against the law and the SPCA or local police should be called immediately.

According to the Humane Society of the United States, on a warm day, the temperature in your car can reach 160 degrees in a matter of minutes. With only hot air to breathe, a pet can quickly suffer brain damage or die from heatstroke. The Humane Society of the United States warns: When it's hot — leave your pet at home! Open windows, shaded parking areas or air conditioned cars with the motor off won't save your pet's life.

In addition, be sure you know these signs of heat stress: heavy panting, glazed eyes, rapid pulse rate, dizziness, vomiting, or a deep red or purple tongue. If your dog does become overheated, get him into the shade and take these emergency steps:

- Apply ice packs or cold towels to the head, neck and chest.
- Don't give an unlimited amount of cold water. Let him lick ice cubes or even ice cream.
- Get the dog to a veterinarian immediately. It could save your pet's life.

Flyers are available free of charge from our office which can be placed in store windows, on bulletin boards or on car windows to warn people of the hazards of leaving pets in hot cars. Address your request for flyers to: "Hot Car," The Humane Society of the United States, 270 Route 206, Flanders, NJ 07836.

County receives $25,000 grant for a sign inventory

Union County will receive a $25,000 grant to conduct a traffic sign inventory, Director James A. Arena of the state Division of Highway Traffic Safety announced today.

Consultants will inspect and record sign locations, conditions and day and night visibility on those roadways. Sign maintenance and repair schedules will be developed, and funds will be allocated for replacement signs when necessary. Also, additional signs will be installed which help motorists prepare for conditions ahead, such as blind curves, hills, traffic lights and stops signs.

"Better signs help motorists anticipate conditions and avoid accidents," said Arena. "New Jersey has one of the safest driving records in the country, and projects like video inventory have helped us to earn that distinction."

SECTION B

County legion teams ready for 1990 season

By MARK YABLONSKY

High school baseball may be over, but the real fun is only just beginning.

Another season of American Legion baseball in Union County is under way, and this year's race could go right down to the wire again — just as it does in most seasons.

This summer, only 13 teams will be in the Union County League — Roselle, Springfield, Roselle Park, Union, Summit, Cranford, Rahway, Berkeley Heights, Westfield, Scotch Plains, Elizabeth, Clark and Kenilworth. Linden, for the first time in several years, is inactive due to financial reasons. For the second straight year, Hillside also won't field a team.

Everyone will play a 24-game county schedule; Roselle and Springfield will play even more in the way of non-league events. Just how many bids the county receives to state tournament play — most likely, three or four — won't be known until the first week of July.

"Well, in American Legion baseball, there's never a clear-cut anything," explained league chairman and Roselle coach Bob Catullo. "It's going to be a lot of fun this year. But the name of the game is pitching, and I don't think anybody has the pitching we do. With a little bit of luck, I think we'll be right up there."

KENILWORTH

After a year in which a lot of promising, yet green, players had to take some lumps, it now appears as though this year's Kenilworth team is capable of dishing out some of its own.

That's not to say that Kenilworth is going to take the county by storm. But second-year head coach Willie Nickel likes what he sees from a team that figures to better last year's 3-13 finish.

"Certainly," agreed Nickels, whose team was scheduled to open with Springfield on Tuesday, depending on the status of the Brearley Regional squad. "Without a doubt."

"The kids who were sophomores last year are juniors this year, and I've got quite a few returning."

Heading the list of returners is hard-hitting Scott Kinney, who batted over .400 for Kenilworth last summer and broke in some at Trenton State College this spring. He will probably bat in the cleanup spot.

Next comes first baseman Jeff Barr, who should bat third. And Brian Moleen figures to anchor Nickel's pitching staff.

The other names you'll see are among those who experienced growing pains in 1989, but who have since proven themselves for Ralph LaConte's Brearley Regional High team this spring: Chris Carey, who will pitch and play shortstop; Chris Parkhill, who should play third and bat leadoff; and Tim Kaufmann, who will help round out the Kenilworth mound corps.

ROSELLE

At first glance, you might say that Catullo has finally met his match, since the great majority of last year's 30-13-1 team is now ineligible. But you'd better take another look.

For while the likes of Pete Ausiello, Sean Catullo, Pete Fiorini, Sean Conte, Mike Erickson and Jeff Coughlin are beyond age limits, that doesn't mean the Post #229ers are going to be pushovers this summer.

"We got hit hard," conceded Catullo, now entering his 23rd year in charge of the Roselle squad. "But that's all right. We've got a lot of kids coming up. We've had a tremendous loss in graduation, but I think we'll give a good run for the flag this year."

Some of those kids are already proven players, many of them coming from Roselle Catholic High. And if Roselle is to successfully defend last year's league title and visit to the state's Final 8, many of the varsity newcomers will be needed.

Alluded to by Catullo as a strong point, the pitching will be anchored by returners Chad Hensler and Nick Koman, although Hensler did miss most of the '89 regular-season schedule with a broken finger, returning only on a limited basis for the playoffs.

Throw in Luke Monsorno, Tim Zawacki, Greg Sekac, George Doney, Dave Kahney and Ed Zembryski, and you can excuse Catullo for sounding so confident about his mound corps. Hensler, Koman, Zawacki and Zembryski were all members of Jeff Ryan's 19-5 Roselle Catholic team this year. Doney and Kahney hail from Linden.

Back behind the plate will be the strong-armed Mike Massaro, who batted .313 for Roselle last summer. The rest of the infield will have Hensler, also a 6-3, 190-pound power hitter at first base; Mike "Duck" Wielgus of Roselle Park at second base; Linden's John Cubala replacing Coughlin at shortstop, and Tony Mendoza, who batted .350 for Jack Byrnes' junior legion team last year, battling Zawacki for the job at third.

Jim Rankosky, also from Linden, can fill in at first base, and Diego Sei, who batted .400 for Roselle's junior legion crew in '89, can spell Cubala at short.

In the outfield, Doney, Kahney, Zembryski, Mike Donnelly and even Hensler are the main candidates.

ROSELLE PARK

As always, it will be a young team Roselle Park team that embarks on another season of legion play, but with a bit more in varsity high school experience returning, the team is hopeful of improving on the three wins of last season.

"We have more experienced players this year," said R.P. assistant Jim Simmons, who has full control of the team until Jack Shaw's high school team hands in its equipment this week. "Hopefully, we'll win more games this year than last year, and we hope to be competitive and to help our players gain experience."

One key returner should be Scott Birmingham, who can pitch and play the outfield. The same holds true for Chris Kelly.

The infield is slated to include Joe Baylock at first base, Andre Alarcon at second, Dan Serretti at shortstop and Joe Arena — another pitcher — around at third.

Mike Baker will catch, and Mike Leonardis will play the outfield, along with John Jacobs, who also pitches. Other players to watch include infielder/pitcher Chris Hartzler and Derek Vanderkoy.

SPRINGFIELD

Like Catullo, Harry Weinerman just loves summertime because that means American Legion baseball. Like Catullo, Weinerman's Springfielders also schedule plenty of non-league games.

And like the league chairman, Weinerman has been busy working to keep things cooking in 1990.

"We're looking to be competitive," said Weinerman, whose team finished seventh at 12-12 in county play last year, then defeated Westfield and Rahway to win a four-team playoff and squeeze into the states as the county's fourth and final representative. "We've been to the state tournament in eight of the last 10 years. We'd like to keep that going."

"I think our county will be one of the most competitive we've had in years," continued Weinerman, who will be joined by assistants Tom Long, Phil Eisner and former standout legion player Mike Gallaro. "And if my younger players grow and develop, and my seasoned veterans play up to their capabilities, I can see us being a factor come the end of the season."

The pitching? "As deep as it is," Weinerman explained, "that's how youthful it is."

Veterans Bill Hart and Edgar Utset are back to anchor the staff as a top-notch righty-lefty punch. Hart has plenty of big-game experience, including a big 1-0 win at Summit last July 22 that helped catapult Springfield into the county playoffs. So does Utset, a second-year returner from Hillside who got the ball in the opener against West Hampton in last year's District 4 state tournament. The sturdy southpaw went 4-3 with a 2.30 earned run average, also striking out 59 batters in 45 1/3 innings of work.

Fellow Hillside pals Vinnie Cocilovo and Joe DiGrado will join Utset in Springfield, as will Mike Fronzak.

The rest of the staff will include Clayton Trivett and Jay Desai, two sophomores from Dayton Regional; and Craig Hauelsen, Matt Gallaro and Matt Whelan of New Providence.

Gallaro, though, also stands to be the number one catcher, primarily because Dan LaMorges, last year's receiver who batted .367, is still recovering from prior shoulder surgery and will likely be limited to designated/pinch-hitting duty, at least for the time being. But the younger Gallaro, Weinerman noted, "does a great job defensively behind the plate."

Doing a great job swinging the bat will be first baseman Dale Torborg, the son of the Chicago White Sox manager. This year, the youngest Torborg will be around for the majority of Springfield's schedule, something that pleases Weinerman greatly.

Third-year veteran Peter Cirino of Scotch Plains will provide "flexibility" at first.

Clayton Trivett will be at second base, along with Chris Fronzak, Mike's brother. Andy Huber will play shortstop, and Terrence Young will be at third, with Whelan to back him up.

Back to anchor the outfield is Glen Miske, a power-hitting righty who batted a team-leading .375 last summer, while driving in 16 runs. He'll be in right. The rest of the outfield could include Gallaro and Hart, among others.

On July 1, 2 and 4, by the way, Springfield will return to the Meadowlands Tournament for the first time in seven years, having won it in both 1982 and 1983. It will be held at Kane Stadium in Secaucus.

UNION

For the past two seasons, Union has gone a combined 42-20-1 and twice made it to state tournament play as one of Union County's four league representatives. And while some key players have been lost to age eligibility, it appears as though Union still has more than enough strength to make it back to the states this summer, too.

"Well, what we're looking for is to keep going the way we've been going the last couple of years," said Union's hard-working head coach, George Harris, who is now in his fifth season. "We've been playing good ball, and I think we'll do all right."

Especially with the pitching staff, which is basically the same one that led Union High to an 18-8 record this spring. It includes Dave Sawicki, Bill DiGiovanni, Justin Steele and Justin Doyle. And if Dave Shaw's shoulder permits, he'll be around for some relief work, too.

The rest of the team includes Steve Lilley at catcher, Frank Napolitano at first base, Ken Dehart at second, Chris Dunbar at shortstop, and Mike Costello at third. However, the hard-hitting Napolitano could alternate between third and first, bringing Nathan Santiago into the picture at first.

Hard-hitting outfielders Pete Simko, Joe Huss, Joe Marra, Matt McMurdo and Ryan Reeve should account for many Union runs this summer. Mike Rispoli will look to help as a backup catcher/outfielder for Union, which will make an appearance in North Carolina from June 29-July 4.

HOLDING BACK—Springfield batter Edgard Utset tries to hold back on this pitch during last Friday night's game with Maplewood at Ruby Field. Springfield won, 6-5, on a suicide squeeze with one out in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Spfd. tops Maplewood

By MARK YABLONSKY

After failing to hold two previous leads, the Springfield American Legion baseball team, by way of a daring suicide squeeze play, pulled out an exciting 6-5, non-league victory over Maplewood in the start of the 1990 legion season last Friday night at Ruby Field in Springfield.

Springfield, which lost to Iselin Saturday and then dropped a Sunday doubleheader in Bordentown, had taken a 5-2 lead with them into the top of the seventh inning when Maplewood rallied for three runs to force a 5-5 tie.

But in the bottom of the seventh, Springfield quickly loaded the bases with none out when Peter Cirino and Vinnie Cocilovo drew walks, and Chuck Fox was hit by a pitch. After a force play at the plate, Craig Hauelsen laid down his bunt on a 1-1 pitch, plating Cocilovo, who was already in motion.

Joe DiGrado, who, like Cocilovo is a Hillside resident, worked the last three innings to claim the win, striking out one and allowing four hits.

Roselle drubs Rahway

The Roselle Junior American Legion baseball team had only one game this past week, and that was a 23-2 victory over Rahway last Friday at Roselle's home field on the grounds of Roselle Catholic High.

Outhitting Rahway by a 17-5 count, Jack Byrnes' Roselle team also slugged four homers.

Jose Martinez, Vinnie Rettino and David Yorke all went 2-for-3, and all went deep: a two-run homer from Martinez in the first inning, and solo blasts from Rettino and Yorke in the third and fifth innings, respectively.

Roselle's other round-tripper was a three-run shot by Steve Lombardi in the fifth.

Pitchers Dennis Butfiloski and Willie Byrnes combined to hold Rahway in check.

Indians beat Bosox, 3-2

The Mountainside American League Indians overcame an unassisted triple play by Mike Debbie to eke out a 3-2 verdict over the Red Sox in a recent league game. Mike Crisciello and Dan Haddad hit back-to-back doubles to account for the Indian runs, as Steve Cash threw out a runner from center field. Second baseman Jessica Orenczak raced into short right field to grab the game-ending popup.

First baseman Debbie came up with the fielding gem in the first inning as he picked off a line drive, stepped on first and won the race to second base. Chris McPherson led the Red Sox offense with two hits.

The Red Sox bounced back with a 17-hit attack to take the Dodgers, 10-5. Philip Statile had three hits, while Mike Debbie, Joanna Caffrey Eric and Mike Cantagallo added two each to make things easy for winning pitcher Keith Jensen. Sarah McDonough, Josh Zanislak and Chris Zierenberg did the stickwork for the Dodgers. Jonathan Kulscar did well in relief.

The Astros got two-run doubles from Chet King and Robert Hopkins to beat the Indians, 5-1. Nicole Manziano also weighed in with an RBI double to make life easy for pitchers John Freudenberger and Ryan McManemin. Steve Cash was responsible for the Indian run, with James Hertan coming in to hurl a perfect relief stint.

The Pony League Mustangs got courageous pitching from Carlos Lucyk, excellent defense from shortstop Brian Burke and multi-hit performances from Greg Gitrich, Vincent Escalona and Keith Kennedy to trample the Colts, 8-4. Blair Gardiner's two hits and Brad Vonderlinden's two RBIs led the Colt attack.

The Little League Orioles served notice they are a team to be reckoned with, as Joe Parente hurled a complete game and had three hits, including a long home run and three RBIs, to lead the Birds to a 7-2 decision over the Pirates. Kevin McDonough and Jeff Chrono each had two RBIs for the victors. Timmy Byrne and Brian Juba contributed the bulk of the Pirate offense.

In succeeding action, Chrono, Parente and McDonough again contributed two hits each, as did Tony Wladyka, including a three-run home run, as the Orioles pounced on the Blue Stars, 12-4. Centerfielder Jason Zeller made a lunging grab of a two-out, bases-loaded, fourth-inning line drive to shut down a Blue Star threat. Jim Lopes and Nicole Coddington each had three hits for the 'Stars.

Decaro downs Servpro, 19-9

The following is recent action from the Springfield Junior Baseball Leagues.

MAJOR LEAGUES

League champion Decaro Trucking defeated Servpro of Springfield, 19-9, behind strong pitching from Rich McNanna, James Guilas and Ryan Schwartzbad. McNanna batted in six runs, Chris Cariello drove in two, and Vinay Viswani, James Guilas, Ian Telfer, Ryan Schwartzbad, Danny Avidan and Bobby Abraham all drove in one run.

Servpro got good fielding and pitching efforts by Adam Schuyler, Steve Cummings and Eric Fishman. David Weiss had a bases-loaded double for Servpro, driving in two runs.

MINOR LEAGUES

Oksenhorn Jewelers opened their baseball season with a 16-hit attack, beating Kaplow & Co., 17-1. Oksenhorn was led by Ross Mullman and Jason Lewis, who both collected four hits. Jason Weiss, Chris Fisher and Brian Girandola contributed two hits each.

Brian Girandola, Jason Lewis and Ross Mullman did an outstanding job of pitching, limiting Kaplow & Co. to two hits and one run.

On Wednesday, America's Insurance defeated Prince's Farm, 16-9. Josh Millman pitched two strong innings and had two hits to lead the winners. Chris Behar and Ralph Sarracino also contributed two hits apiece. Charlie Schuyler hit a home run. For Prince's Farm, Joe Capriglione was the hitting star with two homers and five RBIs.

Later, America's Insurance defeated Oksenhorn Jewelers, 7-6. Charlie Schuyler pitched two scoreless innings for America's insurance and Ralph Sarracino and Josh Millman led the hitting attack with two hits apiece. Oksenhorn was led by two hits each from Jason Weiss and Jason Lewis, who had a big double and two RBIs.

Then on Monday, America's insurance defeated Farinella Construction by the score of 3-1. Ralph Sarracino and Giancarlo Sarracino each pitched two scoreless innings, and Kevin Kravetz had the key hit in the first inning when the winners scored all their runs.

Who's on 1st?

This week's question: Can you name the all-time leader in innings pitched over the course of one season for relievers? A clue: while he is now retired, a player with the same exact name now plays in New York.

Last week's answer: The only other player in big-league history to hit three homers in one World Series game is none other than Reggie Jackson, who blasted three round-trippers for the New York Yankees in the sixth and final game of the 1977 Series, won by the Yankees, four games to two, over the Los Angeles Dodgers on Oct. 18. The Bronx Bombers won that night, 8-4, to win their first world championship in 15 years, as Jackson won the series MVP award. Babe Ruth, incidentally, happened to do it twice: In Game 4 of the 1926 World Series (Oct. 6), and in Game 4 of the 1928 Fall Classic (Oct. 9). In both instances, the Bambino accomplished the feat against the St. Louis Cardinals at old Sportsman's Park in St. Louis; and in both instances, the Yankees won the game.

And our congratulations go to Daniel R. Files of Union, who correctly answered last week's question to win a $5 gift certificate to a local sporting goods store.

Minuteman tryouts set

Tryouts for Springfield Senior Minuteman Baseball are scheduled for this coming Tuesday and Wednesday, June 12 and 13, at Ruby Field, as announced by the recreation department. Tryouts will be held at 6 p.m. both nights. All boys between the ages of 13-15 — as of August 1, 1990 — are eligible to try out.

Further information is available from the recreation department at 912-2226.

Connell 'Unsung Hero'

Shane Connell of Mountainside, a senior center with the Lafayette College football team, won the "Unsung Hero" award at the team's annual banquet, held recently in Phillipsburg, N.J.

Formerly a defensive tackle at 6-4, 230 pounds, Connell handled all of the Leopards' ball-snapping chores last fall, after having sat out the 1988 season.

horoscope

For week of June 10-June 16

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Lasso in those wayward credit cards. Going beyond your budget causes emotional and mental anxiety. Turn to elders for wise counsel. Make key calls and write overdo letters.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) "Know thyself" becomes your motto. Accent the power of positive thinking. Sitting on your laurels will not suffice. Leap over obstacles through hard work and renewed faith.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Lights, camera, action. Surge forward with self-assurance in major relationships. Magnanimous gestures will help win admiration from loved ones. Turn up the heat in romance.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Join family members for a nature excursion. Send old worries and fears out to permanent pasture. Brainstorms can electrify your mind. Let your eccentric side blossom.

LEO (July 23 to Aug. 22) Run errands and complete odd jobs. Put on your Van Gogh disguise and create a masterpiece. Liberate yourself on the dance floor. Accumulated stress does not befit your regal nature.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Use your business savvy to silence the competition. Hard work and finesse give you the winning combination. Summon extra will power for special projects. Your joy is contagious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Launch monthly projects with care. It is your cycle to shine. Raise your thinking to a higher wavelength. Do not get bogged down in namby-pamby romantic liaisons.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Clean out your psychic closet. Why zoom forward with a dark cloud over your head? Zero in on practical affairs that keep your mind busy. Replace stubborn views with a more practical mindset.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Turn your finances inside out. Clarify investment policies. Call in your chits. The scales of fortune tip in your favor. Be flexible with possessive friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 19) Take your earthly mind off of lingering woes. Hang old habits out to dry. Investigate unusuals fields of yoga, ESP and reincarnation. Your partnerships will strengthen.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 to Feb. 18) Avoid shopping fever. Accent spiritual aspirations over material desires. Listen to friends' opinions about love and relationships. Expand on your humanitarian viewpoints.

PISCES (Feb. 19 to March 20) Revolutionary tides surge in power. Cast conservative methods adrift for now. Try novel techniques on the professional horizon. Take time for your personal exercise program.

Restaurant review The Continental Restaurant

By KATHERINE BROOKS

If you are traveling through the Clark area via the parkway or town roads, the Continental restaurant is a good place to have dinner. With its new menu, it will also be a great place to stop by for an inexpensive snack — perfect for those long drives home from the shore this summer.

Nestled inside the Clark Ramada hotel, the Continental restaurant does quite a business on its own. It has a separate entrance from the hotel and provides ample parking for its patrons.

In the next few weeks the restaurant will be undergoing changes. The decor will remain the same, dimly lighted and tranquil. However, menu changes to be introduced will create the impression of a casual, good eating place.

Its new menu will be less expensive than the current one. It will offer a more diversified selection. It will even combine lunch and dinner menus to accommodate any appetite, any time of day or night.

The Continental is also a great place to enjoy breakfast SEVEN DAYS A WEEK! Monday through Sunday, the restaurant has a breakfast buffet from 6:30-11 a.m. for only $4.95 per person — all you can eat. On Sunday the buffet closes early, at 9:30 a.m., to prepare for Sunday brunch — an absolute feast!

Brunch is served on Sunday from 10:30-2:30 and is $13.95 per person, also all that you can eat. Children under 10 years of age can eat for only $6.95. Brunch offers more sophisticated breakfast items, such as a waffle station, a fresh carving board, made to order omelets, and all kinds of pasta and seafood salads.

With just under a dozen different categories to choose from, the new menu will satisfy any palate. If you are in the mood for an appetizer or snack, the price ranges from the soup du jour for $1.50, to the assortment — fried zucchini, mozzarella sticks, potato skins, chicken fingers, onion rings and dips at $5.95. Thirteen other munchy items fall between those two prices. The roasted clams, $3.95, is a great price for six clams freshly cooked.

Nine different salads are available from a Caesar at $3.95 to the Mediterranean salad — crisp greens tossed with shrimp, artichoke hearts, peppers, salami, pepperoni, and black olives at $6.95.

The entrees are reasonably priced for the quality of food served. The lesser priced items are the chicken entrees, from broiled chicken breast at $6.95 to barbecued chicken with baby back ribs for $9.95.

The steak selection is great, offering a New York sirloin steak or prime rib at $9.95, queen cut, or $13.95, king cut. The jumbo shrimp (3) and steak teriyaki, $14.95, was excellent — marinated and sauteed to perfection.

Broiled or fried scallops and broiled fillet of sole are both offered at $8.95. The surf and turf, $16.95, is the most expensive menu item. However, if you are in the market for a lobster, every Friday and Saturday night the Continental has a lobster-fest. It is a complete lobster dinner for only $9.99.

Omelets, pastas, Mexican dishes, burgers and sandwiches are also on the new menu. Dinner was topped off with a chocolate chambord cake which was moist and rich, with a hint of raspberry.

This summer, the place to visit is the Continental. Do not let the fact that this restaurant is located inside a hotel prevent you from stopping by. It is conveniently located almost on the parkway. Catering is available for affairs up to 350 guests — perfect for weddings. Conference rooms are also available.

'Paradise Lost' has good sound

By MILT HAMMER
Ear-Pleaser: "Paradise Lost" by the band of the same name on the MCA/Gold Dust LP album.

The album takes its name from John Milton's epic poem of good versus evil. It is a name not chosen lightly — this Nashville-based rock quartet invokes all the spirit of drama, grandeur and paradox that is the hallmark of Milton's hallowed work. The sound of "Paradise Lost" contrasts melodic refinement with thunderous delivery, blending earthiness with a challenging mystical bent. These elements and more make the band good listening.

Founding members David Privett, lead vocals, and David Howard, drums, together with new bandmates Allan Phelps, guitar, and Tommy Cage, keyboards, fuse their individual talents into a strikingly distinctive whole. "Paradise Lost" songs convey intriguing lyric themes without sacrificing the intensity of their rock underpinnings. The caliber of the group's musicianship is top-notch, interpreting the multi-textured material with finesse and muscle.

disc 'n' data

Produced by Glenn Rosenstein, whose credits extend from work with the Talking Heads to Ziggy Marley, the "Paradise Lost" LP is an outstanding first effort. Standout tracks include the powerful, soul-searching "Someday" and the moody yet hard-hitting "Light the Dark Sky." From the mythic musings of "Dark Horse" to the edgy, acerbic "Riding Elevators," their music covers a decidedly wide span. What holds the sound of the album together is the band's sense of artistic commitment and integrity.

"From the beginning, the whole concept of this group was to do something uniquely our own," says Privett. "Everyone involved brought something of their own musical vision to it. We wanted to write songs and see how well we could please ourselves, to see how good we could become."

BUSINESS

New bank offers its full services starting June 16

American Union Bank, a full-service bank, will officially open for business on Saturday, June 16, with a grand opening party. During their "Get Acquainted Days" the bank will donate $10 to one of five designated Union Township community organizations for every personal account of $100 or more opened.

"Get Acquainted Days" will run from opening day, June 16 through July 20.

American Union Bank will be located at 2720 Morris Ave., at the corner of Moessner Avenue.

With the assistance of community leaders, the bank has selected the following community organizations as beneficiaries of their community-oriented opening promotion. Those organizations are: The Union Township Cancer Fund, The Boys & Girls Club of Union, Call Men's Ambulance Squad, Emergency Medical Service and the Les Malamut Art Gallery.

"We are delighted to have the opportunity to be of service to our home community," said bank President Jerry Metzheiser. "Union Township is an incredibly dynamic town, with an involved and informed citizenry. We wanted our new friends and neighbors here to know, at the very outset, that we want to be involved too."

"American Union Bank will be dedicated to serving the people and businesses in the Township of Union," said Alan Turteltaub, chairman of the Money Store in Union, the parent company of the new bank.

Advertising professional tapped for Hall of Fame

In an awards ceremony attended by several hundred people at Mayfair Farms in West Orange, Joseph M. Dietz of Mountainside was inducted into the N.J. Advertising Hall of Fame. Dietz, who is president of J.M. Kesslinger & Associates of Newark, New Jersey's oldest agency, joined a select, statewide group of advertising professionals who have been honored for exemplifying the best in the advertising industry and who, "over the course of their careers characterized its highest standards."

A native of Springfield, Mass., Dietz received his bachelor of arts degree from Amherst College. He subsequently attended Northeastern University and the NYU Graduate School of Business. Before joining Kesslinger he had been associated with Standard Tire Sales of Springfield, a family business.

Nationally recognized as an authority in business-to-business marketing communications, Dietz was also cited for his success in helping raise the standards of professionalism in the industry by his work as an officer in such organizations as the Business/Professional Advertising Association (B/PAA) and the League of Advertising Agencies.

As a two-term president of the N.J. Chapter of B/PAA he is credited with resuscitating that organization when it had almost ceased to be a viable group. He initiated new programs and policies which helped the chapter become one of the strongest in the nation, with greater growth than any other in the U.S. or Canada. In 1979 he was honored as "Agency Man of the Year" by the club and is currently its vice president for membership. He is also one of fewer than 1,000 individuals in North America to have earned the B/PAA professional designation of Certified Business Communicator.

Currently serving as president of the League of Advertising Agencies, an organization consisting of principals of ad agencies located in New

JOSEPH DIETZ

York, New Jersey and Connecticut, he has brought new vitality to that group as well.

Dietz has been a member of the Advertising Club of New Jersey for over 30 years and has been a consistent trophy winner at its annual Golf Outings. He is an Air Force veteran and a member of Suburban Golf Club. Dietz has resided in Mountainside with his wife, Judy, for almost 35 years. They have a son, a daughter and two grandchildren.

Face lift set for building

The building owned and occupied by Tele-Solution Inc. at 1767 Route 22 E. in Union is slated for a face lift and expansion, according to Larry Bodner, president of the Executive Marketing Group.

Michael Finaldi, president of Tele-Solution, has named Executive Marketing Group as the exclusive leasing agent.

The present one-story building is to be expanded from 4,600 square feet to 9,000 square feet of retail space for lease.

Tele-Solution specializes in the sales and service of telephone equipment. The facade of the present building is to be renovated to blend with the addition to make an attractive state-of-the-art structure, according to Ron and Margaret Peterson, principals of Archillon Architectural Design.

The site is situated in an area of very strong demographics and will provide excellent exposure for high volume oriented retail tenants.

Franchise is set

Federated Purchaser Inc. of Kenilworth has signed a franchise agreement with Power Dynamics of West Orange to distribute its full line of internationally approved IEC connectors, filtered power entry modules and power cords.

Power Dynamics is recognized as the leading supplier of IEC connectors, which are designed to incorporate domestic and international power switches as integral space-saving modules carrying UL, CSA, and VDE safety-agency approvals.

Federated Purchaser Inc. will stock Power Dynamics' complete line in Kenilworth.

PSE&G declares dividends for second quarter

The board of directors of Public Service Enterprise Group Inc. has declared a quarterly dividend of 52 cents per share of common stock for the second quarter of 1990.

PSE&G has also declared a regular quarterly dividend on all series of PSE&G preferred stock. PSE&G is the principal subsidiary of Enterprise.

All dividends for the quarter are payable on or before June 29 to stockholders of record on June 7, 1990.

Local company handles new account

Association Management Corporation of Springfield has been selected to provide management services to the New Jersey Coalition of Automotive Repairers.

Association Management Director of Communications Debbie Hart will serve as executive director of the group, which is comprised of 550 auto body repair shops around the state.

In this position, Hart will manage the day to day affairs of the group.

Hart joined Association Management Corporation in October 1986 after two years as corporate communications manager for Data Systems Computer Centre Inc., a Union-based national computer retailer.

Pride puts Sisbarro above the rest

Along with the usual signs of spring come thoughts of improving and beautifying our homes. Sisbarro Construction Company of Union Township is a family-owned and operated home improvement business specializing in vinyl and aluminum siding, vinyl replacement windows, and roofing.

After more than 40 successful years in the industry, Sisbarro Construction continues their success by treating their customers as "one of the family."

Henry "Butch" Sisbarro, owner of Sisbarro Construction, emphasizes the fact that he personally will visit the homeowner and give a free, no-obligation estimate at a fair, reasonable price.

"I personally guarantee that no homeowner will feel pressured into something they don't want or need," he says. "Customers want to feel that they can trust you, and they can be assured that we value an honest approach."

Through close contact with each and every customer, Sisbarro is able to give the homeowner a fair and reasonable price, guaranteeing quality material and workmanship. This approach, says the owner, has led to many referrals.

The company prides itself on quality materials. Sisbarro says new siding looks fresh, clean and beautiful. It never blisters, peels, swells or rots and it is maintenance-free. "Besides adding beauty to your home, siding provides new insulation and increases the value of your home by thousands of dollars," he says.

Vinyl and aluminum siding comes in a wide variety of colors and styles and has a written guarantee for 25 years. Only quality materials are used to ensure an always fresh look to the home.

Replacement windows also add beauty and new insulation to the home by eliminating drafts from old, worn-out windows.

Sisbarro Construction also strives to satisfy customers who need small repairs. They claim that "no job is too small" when it comes to making the customer happy.

That's why Sisbarro offers another fine feature — repair work.

"Sometimes a homeowner needs repair to his house on siding that has become loose or has blown off — a little job to the company, but a big headache to a homeowner," he said. "We will repair at minimal cost and guarantee satisfaction."

At the present time, Sisbarro Construction is offering a free microwave or portable color television with every complete siding job. They also offer 100 percent financing and are fully insured.

If you are interested in a free, no-obligation estimate on the cost of siding your home, replacement windows, a new roof or repairs, call the office at 686-9218 to arrange a convenient time for a consultation.

Sisbarro Construction will make your home beautiful.

Tips help to troubleshoot problems before the wedding

By Alison Ashton
Copley News Service

He popped the question. She happily said, "Yes." And the whirlwind of wedding plans was set in motion.

But when wedding plans get sticky and tempers start to boil, it's easy for a couple to lose sight of why they are tying the knot. When things get tough, take a moment to sit back and remind yourself that what really counts is not what type of hors d'oeuvres to serve but the long and happy life you will share after the vows.

With the average engagement lasting about 15 months, you have plenty of time to get to know your fiancé — realistically, as a future spouse, not just the dreamboat who plans great dates.

Longer engagements are especially helpful to younger couples.

"A long engagement allows for increased familiarity and lets couples explore the roles they expect to play," psychologist Evelyn Lehrfield told Bride's magazine.

More important than finding the perfect wedding dress and the ideal caterer, spend time with your fiancé planning your future. Discuss issues such as family and children (Do you want any? How many? When?), lifestyle, finances, career aspirations and fidelity.

Air any fears or insecurities you have about the relationship or marriage in general. How do you feel about your parents' marriages — do you want to emulate them or avoid their mistakes?

How about religion? Are you from different faiths? How will you accommodate the differences and deal with your families? Will one of you convert?

If this is a second marriage, consider how you will deal with stepchildren. Also discuss fears and problems from your first marriage that you are afraid may carry over into this relationship.

Premarital counseling is a growing practice, particularly as more churches and synagogues encourage couples to attend retreats and counseling sessions to teach them the value of open communication.

Premarital counseling can help couples learn to communicate and recognize common marital woes.

To sign or not to sign? That is the question begged by a pre-nuptial agreement.

On the one hand, pre-nuptial agreements, which determine the distribution of a couple's assets in the event of divorce or death, are an idea whose time has come.

Couples are generally older and bring more property to a marriage, a group of matrimonial attorneys told Cosmopolitan. Moreover, couples marrying for a second or third time may have children from prior marriages to look after. And the astronomical expense of divorce makes pre-nuptial agreements a sound idea.

On the other hand, divorce attorneys will tell you, pre-nuptial agreements can victimize the spouse (usually the woman) with less money.

If you and your fiancé choose to sign a pre-nuptial agreement, each of you should consult your own attorney. Books, such as

"Don't Get Married Until You Read This: A Layman's Guide to Pre-nuptial Agreements" by David Saltman, J.D., L.L.M. and Harry Schaffner, J.D., (Barron's) will guide you through the complicated process.

You and your fiancé are getting along like two happy lovebirds, but your wedding plans have presented you with a few problems with your families.

Planning a wedding, as Bride's magazine notes, can take the negotiating skills of a true diplomat. The process starts with you and your fiancé.

"Sit down with your fiancé and write out a description of your ideal wedding," Tessa Albert Warschaw, Ph.D., and author of "Winning by Negotiation" (McGraw-Hill) told Bride's.

Once you have agreed on the ideal wedding, decide what is really important to you. If you have your heart set on an expensive reception hall, you may be willing to negotiate on music or food. If you want a large wedding, you may agree to a more affordable outdoor affair.

Accessories enhance the overall look for the bride

By Debra Cooper
Copley News Service

The dress is, of course, the most important garment you wear at your wedding.

But it's just the beginning. Lovely accessories enhance and polish your overall look — and lend your personal touch.

The headpiece and dress should look as though they were created by the same designer, advises Bride's magazine. Both should have similar accents of sequins, beads or crystals, or a repeat of the same fabric or lace.

And, of course, they should be the same color.

If your gown is rich in detail, you'll want an elaborate headpiece; with an understated dress, choose a simpler one.

Remember, your headpiece is an enhancement to your hairstyle. If you're wearing your hair smooth and pulled back, you'll look best with a small but beautifully ornamented headpiece.

For a sophisticated look, accent a chignon with a profile comb; shun bows and frills.

Feminine hairstyles for brides include hair twisted into a roll at the neck; you can adorn it with a pouf made of tulle. Tame thick, voluminous curls with a net snood that sparkles with rhinestones and metallic threads.

If your hair is short, you may look best with a Juliet cap or floral wreath; lace mantillas and tiaras complement any hair length.

Be sure to take your headpiece with you when you visit your hairdresser, several weeks prior to the wedding, to plan how you will wear it on that special day.

Few accents add more emphasis than the train. Imagine a bird's-eye view of your wedding: do you see yourself a picture-perfect traditional bride, a flowing train extending gracefully behind you?

All eyes are on you, the bride, and on your train as you say your vows. Regal trains have exquisite detailing, with scalloped lace edging and intricate cutouts. What could be more feminine than chiffon ruffles, soft satin bows, lattice-work lace and a scattering of pearls?

You'll want gloves that blend with and match your dress, not call attention to themselves. For a summer wedding, choose cotton or crocheted gloves; cooler weather calls for kid leather, taffeta or stretch satin.

A popular option is delicate, all-lace gloves — they're romantic, even Victorian. For a contemporary look, try lustrous, shimmery nylon with lycra.

Your wedding day handbag should be small enough not to be a burden, but large enough to hold a few essentials (handkerchief, lipstick, compact).

Favorite shapes include round and fan, as well as drawstring bags. Fabrics are many: silk, satin, faille, brocade, velvet and metal mesh — and you'll see them trimmed with satin rosettes, tassels, lace, beads, braid, pearls, bows, pleats, lace, sequins, more.

Little things make a difference: shimmery, embroidered hosiery; a satin rosette-trimmed parasol; a fur-trimmed muff; a ribbon bookmark for your prayer book or Bible; heirloom jewelry.

Naturally, you don't need — or want — all those items. But select a few; those you do use on your wedding day will become treasures you cherish for a lifetime.

Some unusual ideas include saluting your ethnic heritage with a ring bearer's pillow of Scottish tartan, Chinese red silk, or some other appropriate fabric; holiday motifs for your garters; wearing a shawl embroidered in the hues of your attendants' dresses.

Oddly enough, many brides overlook the importance of comfort when selecting shoes. Remember, unlike some accessories, shoes are functional as well as decorative. Not only should they fit well when you purchase them, you'll want to wear them once or twice for several hours to break them in before the wedding day — otherwise you may end up thinking more about your feet than your future happiness.

Technology makes wedding photos a whole new factor

By Orlando Ramirez
Copley News Service

Technology is a two-edged sword. It has wrought many wonderful things. Can you imagine a world without microwave ovens, pacemakers or CD players? But technology can cause problems as well as solve them. All one has to do is ask the bride-to-be who must choose between still photos or videotape.

In the old days, you hired a photographer who took several shots of the bride and groom, parents and attendants, disappeared, then had proofs ready once the happy couple returned from their honeymoon.

These days, it's not unheard of for the videographer to interrupt the vows because he wants to shoot from another angle or to treat the reception like a movie set with the guests being just so many extras in the production.

With today's hectic pace, the decision of whether to go with still photos or video or combine both has to be made early in the wedding preparations.

The best photographers are booked months, even years, in advance. Many shoot more than one wedding a day, and any last-minute scheduling conflicts can cause serious wedding-day migraines.

Also, it's important to know in advance whether the church where you are exchanging vows allows flash photography or video cameras during the service.

Some do and some don't. Some will let you tape, but only if the camera and its operator don't intrude on the service. Others have their own cameras in discreet locations and allow you to buy a video of your wedding at a nominal fee.

Still photos capture that one moment and hold it fixed forever.

Videos, on the other hand, capture the movement and energy of the event in a way no other system devised by man can.

Both have their advantages and disadvantages, and many couples choose to use both. If you're on a tight budget, however, it's best to decide which is more important.

Would you rather have a beautiful album of professional photos and a grainy video of Grandma doing the frug with Uncle Roy? Or does the idea of a professionally edited video with credits, titles, background music and special effects and some photos shot by the best man's work buddy seem more appealing?

Whatever your choice, it's best to consider the pros and cons of each format before making your decision:

- Permanence. The most important consideration, besides price, is how long the photos or video will last. Color photos begin to fade after 10 to 15 years.

The negatives, however, can be used again (if you remember to get them from the photographer), and black-and-white photos can be made from color negatives to ensure that your photos last forever.

Videotape is in a state of flux as far as format. Videos taped now may be as obsolete in the future as 8-track tapes are today. Currently, the VHS system is slowly losing ground to the 8mm format. Who knows what technological advances will come in the next 10 years? Holographs?

Also, videotape deteriorates every time it is played. It may not be so noticeable at first, but after 100 plays the quality is seriously deficient. Another consideration — what happens if your recorder eats your master tape? What are you going to do? Reshoot the whole wedding?

- Coverage. Selecting who gets his picture taken and what events get documented is an important aspect of both video and still photography. Each has particular advantages.

Still photos, for example, are good for formal poses — such as groupings of the wedding party and family — and have the advantage that individual shots can be ordered by the people involved.

Videos are better for telling a story. Many couples have their videos edited so that they begin with baby pictures of the bride and groom, following them through school and up to the engagement. Then the live-action footage begins with the rehearsal dinner and takes them through wedding preparations, ceremony and reception. Many even shoot footage of their honeymoon and have that edited in. So the possibilities of creating a document are many.

- Convenience. This category probably is the deciding factor for most couples as to which format takes precedence.

Still photos have the advantage here because it is easier to pull out an album and have guests ooh and ahh rather than have them sit through an hours-long video.

Also, for those moments you just want to remind yourself, photos are easier. However, videos do have an advantage in that they offer multiple images to spark memories — and isn't memories what this is all about?

Most photographers get hired by word of mouth, and this is still the best way to find the perfect person to shoot your wedding.

You shouldn't, however, settle for the first shutterbug that comes along. There are a number of questions that need to be settled before you sign on the dotted line.

If you go to a large agency and they show you sample photos or a video, make sure you get the photographer whose works you were shown.

Most importantly, get everything in writing — names, addresses, deposits, final payment due (before or after the ceremony), arrival and departure times, special circumstances, etc.

Last, but not least, make sure the studio promises in writing to inform you before it throws away your negatives of this most important occasion.

Pay attention to hair and makeup

By Debra Lee Baldwin
Copley News Service

Your wedding pictures are so important. Now is the time to learn how to look your best for yourself, your groom and the camera.

According to Bride's magazine beauty editor Denise O'Donoghue, "hair and makeup are the keys to a bride's beauty, and she should devote as much care and attention to them as she does to the selection of her dress."

Start early to get your hair in shape. If you're considering chemical changes such as coloring, highlighting or perming, do so well in advance to leave room for fine-tuning.

Also, make sure your style complements your headpiece. If your hair is short, try adding some pizzazz with gels, mousses or sculpting sprays.

Long hair can create dazzling effects, too. Try weaving it into a bow, braiding or twisting it into a bun, or tucking it into a chignon accentuated with jeweled hair combs.

Most brides plan a trip to their personal care consultant several weeks prior to the wedding to discuss and preview styling options; it helps to know what to expect on the morning of the big day.

If you're doing your hair yourself, dry and style it as planned, then add hairspray to smooth down flyaways. Make sure you do this before stepping into your gown; spray can stain delicate fabric, leaving spots that show up in pictures.

Makeup application and color selection also are crucial. O'Donoghue explains: "Remember, you will be wearing white from head to toe. Since the only color will be on your face, your palette has to be just right."

Several weeks prior to the wedding, have your face done by a professional makeup artist, who will explain exactly what you should do to duplicate the effect. If all you need are a few tips, a good salesperson will be happy to pass along the latest techniques.

Keep in mind that colors should be soft; avoid anything frosted or pearlized. Even the slightest iridescence can throw reflections over the face, making it look unnatural on film. You might want a friend to take a few test shots to see what the camera will pick up.

Most important: Make sure your mascara is waterproof. A bride without tears is unusual. Right after the ceremony, remember to powder your nose and reapply your lipstick so it will be fresh for more photographs — and more kisses.

Your hands are in the spotlight, too. Prior to the wedding, have a professional manicure every three to four weeks, timing the last one for the day before. Resist the urge to wear red or fuchsia polish; instead, choose a pastel pink or peach shade that is consistent with your makeup.

Make the wedding cake a special addition to your day

By Laurie McCaughin
Copley News Service

There are many joyous moments during the wedding day — moments that remain vivid in the weeks and years to follow. Surely one such moment is when the newly wedded couple holds the single silver knife in midair before finally cutting into the cake for the first time. This is a moment that has been shared by many couples throughout the ages.

Today, however, there are more choices available to the bride and groom regarding wedding cakes than ever before. If the traditional white cake bores the bride or if the groom has a passion for pralines — so be it! Make that moment especially yours by choosing a cake that's just right for you.

In addition, today's wedding cakes can be adorned with you in mind as well. This can be accomplished in a variety of ways by using hand-crafted porcelain figures, intricate icing sculptures or even jewels. The idea is to tell a story about the couple or their wedding by using personalized cake ornaments.

Variety is key to trousseau

By Debra Cooper
Copley News Service

The bride of the '90s is a multi-dimensional woman; no wide-eyed teen-ager, she is professional, practical, traditional — but also romantic, sensuous and feminine.

This multipurpose message is evident in her trousseau. Here are ideas to keep in mind when you shop for a delicate gift for the bride — or if you're a bride in search of special and memorable treasures.

New lingerie lines express elegance in soft, silky knits of lustrous fabrics. Smooth and sleek, these new easy-care materials feel marvelous against the skin and drape gracefully, flattering the figure.

Rich embellishment enhances fabrics, particularly stretch lace that shapes and molds the body, as well as delicate embroideries, fagoting, crystal pleating, appliques, beading, ruffles and more.

There are lots of crossover looks; daywear doubles as sleepwear and vice versa. Many designs from intimate apparel departments can serve as lounge and leisure wear — even outerwear.

These examples are lovely, yet practical:

- For evening, a seductive black nylon teddy with a bodice molded in see-through stretch lace netting.

- A lace-front camisole and bikini set that does double duty as day or sleepwear.

- An ultrafeminine, graceful ballerina gown with a stretch lace bodice atop a full, swirly skirt of soft, satiny nylon.

- Panties that range from full-cut briefs to bikinis, thongs and hipsters. Styled in rich, luxurious fabrics embellished with stretch lace, these coordinate with a variety of tops — camisoles, bralettes, crop tops and boleros.

Other trousseau treasures to consider include keepsake boxes topped with silk or porcelain flowers; sweetly scented heart-shaped sachets; beaded satin slippers; lace-edged satin jewelry wraps; floral scented drawer liners; padded satin hangers; a silver comb and mirror set; lacy pillows for bed or boudoir; and an assortment of perfumes for every mood.

Here are several suggestions to start you thinking about your wedding cake:

- Graceful birds in white, pastel or gold indicating your love of beauty and freedom.

- Lacy old world fan or an elaborate parasol with strings of cascading pearls — what a delightful way to carry on a Victorian or Edwardian theme.

- Sparkling music boxes or harps of gold supporting the delicate flowers you both admire.

- Symbols of good luck — unicorns prancing in white and gold splendor.

- Express a shared interest by using candied or porcelain figures. Love ballooning? Think of the fun you and your decorator will have concocting that colorful display!

- Re-create the place in which you first fell in love, or the location of the wedding or even where the glorious honeymoon is to take place.

- Try silver spangled stars or golden moons for a nighttime wedding. A border of pale teal and lavender would complement this mystical vision.

- For a whimsical wedding cake use humorous characters, including animals, to portray the happy-go-lucky couple. A word of caution: It may be prudent to keep in mind who your wedding guests are if your taste is a bit avant-garde!

- How about an impressive castle in the air? A reminder of the new world you will be creating together.

- You even can use some of your very own personal sentimental items to ornament your cake. Now, what could be more intimate and representative of your love?

Customs still find their way into today's weddings

By Alison Ashton
Copley News Service

These days, as any caterer will tell you, a mood of "anything goes" prevails at most weddings.

"The adherence to conservative traditional guidelines has been replaced with an independent spirit, personalization and flexibility," says Cele Lalli, editor-in-chief of Modern Bride.

Many old customs, however, still persist, and more couples want to incorporate those customs into their own weddings. Following is a rundown of favorite customs, vows and music.

Why does a man present his betrothed with a wedding ring? Why take a honeymoon?

Most wedding customs date back to ancient times. In Rome, for example, the engagement ring was a form of collateral. Viking groomsmen helped the groom kidnap his bride from a rival clan.

Grain, as used in wedding cakes, and rice, which is tossed at the couple, both symbolize fertility. English architect Christopher Wren created the first tiered cake, modeled after St. Bride's Church in London, for his daughter's wedding.

Nuptial getaway cars festooned with tin cans and other noisemakers hark back to the belief that noise wards off evil spirits. Shoes tied to wedding vehicles recall the Anglo-Saxon symbol of shoes as property — when the father of the bride gave the groom one of her shoes.

Ethnic traditions include a German wedding reception custom in which the bride and groom are presented two glasses of champagne and a key on a tray. According to Bride's magazine, the first to drain his glass and pick up the key will "wear the pants" in the marriage.

Other odd bridal traditions, according to Bride's:

Before the 18th century, Mexican couples shaved their heads to show they were prepared for the responsibilities of marriage.

In ancient Persia, a bride was sent to her husband on horseback, draped in red veils, while her bridesmaids held up a mirror — her last opportunity to see herself as a virgin.

Packing up right for a honeymoon

By Glenda Winders
Copley News Service

Put luggage on your list of most-wanted wedding gifts. Ask for sturdy soft-sided pieces that can hold more and have fewer risks of serious damage. Opt for a neutral color that won't show the grime that inevitably collects after several trips around the airport carousel. Pieces that match are easier to locate and keep together.

If you're planning to do a lot of shopping or bring home several souvenirs, take an empty suitcase,

In days of yore, an English bride's property, as well as her debts, automatically belonged to her husband. Thus, brides wore a plain white shift to show they were penniless and free from debt.

What do you promise your spouse-to-be? Love, honor and fidelity are standard favorites.

The vows offered by the clergyman or judge officiating the wedding are certainly special, but the ceremony can also offer you the opportunity to express your love and commitment in your own way, in the presence of friends and family.

You can read a passage from the Bible or select a romantic poem that expresses your sentiments.

"With These Words I Thee Wed" by Barbara Eklof (Bob Adams, Inc) offers a selection of vows that include special promises for reaffirmation ceremonies, second weddings and holiday weddings, such as Christmas or Valentine's Day.

Another option is to write your own vows. It's a challenging, rewarding task that Eklof suggests a couple should approach as a joint effort.

"It may stimulate the important premarital discussions that most experts advise any couple to have before coming together as husband and wife," she says.

The Bard once noted that music is the food of love. Perhaps that's why it's such an integral part of the wedding ceremony and reception.

For the ceremony, the kind of music you select is up to you. For the reception, bandleaders and disk jockeys recommend, opt for a selection that will please guests young and old.

The current trend toward elegant, traditional weddings calls for more classical music, one bandleader told Bride's magazine.

Traditional music for ceremonies includes Handel's "Water Music," Mendelsohn's Wedding March from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" (popularly known as "Here Comes the Bride") and the "Bridal Chorus" from Wagner's opera "Lohengrin." Other classical favorites include Pachelbel's "Canon in D Minor" and Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons."

Also consider sentimental favorites for the ceremony. One bride wanted to march down the aisle to a Randy Travis tune.

For the reception, ask for a selection of tunes, ranging from Cole Porter and Big Band songs to rock 'n' roll favorites. Popular reception sounds, according to Bride's are "I Heard It Through the Grapevine," "Mony, Mony," "Twist and Shout" and "La Bamba."

Ethnic dances, such as the hora at a Jewish wedding or the Italian tarantella, are also popular.

Give the band or disc jockey a list of songs you would like to hear (avoid making last-minute changes — they may not be able to locate the music in time). Let the performers know if they need to dress formally or informally.

Trends help to personalize your wedding for today

By Debra Lee Baldwin
Copley News Service

We all know what a traditional wedding looks like: bride in white with a long flowing train; groom in tuxedo; flowers at the altar and bouquets of roses and carnations.

But not all weddings fit the same mold. Remember the '60s, with barefoot brides and grooms in blue jeans?

Despite the fact that certain aspects of a wedding are nearly always the same, trends definitely come and go.

We asked bridal consultants and experts from coast to coast what they're seeing "out there on the front lines," and their responses, in general, indicated:

- A return to tradition and romance — but at the same time, a strong tendency to personalize the ceremony.

- Bigger, more lavish weddings — and longer engagements because of time needed for planning.

- More mature brides making the decisions (instead of moms).

- More second weddings and reaffirmations.

- Shared expenses. Since brides and grooms are often working professionals, they are more likely to pay for the event — or share expenses with parents.

- Although white and ivory are still most preferred for bridal wear, colors are popping up in profusion — particularly in attendants' wear and decorations. Vivid brights and black-and-white are common.

While your wedding is still in the dreaming and planning stages, consider these "trendy" ideas — you may find them perfect or reject them. In any case, they are not requirements, only suggestions.

Caterers report that clients want lighter fare — chicken, veal or lamb instead of roast beef — as a first course at the reception.

Cucumber sandwiches and itty bitty hors d'oeuvres are passe. The demand is more for "comfort food, recognizable foods," according to a Bride's magazine article quoting Abigail Kirsch of Culinary Productions in New York. "They want a meal everyone can enjoy, real food, not cute food."

The way people eat at receptions is changing, too. Instead of seating guests at tables where they chat with only a few others, the trend is toward mingling while you munch.

"Instead of one long buffet table with one long line, there are several smaller tables each with a different course or fare," says Modern Bride magazine. "It provides variety and eliminates the waiting."

"Groom's cakes are really big," says Washington, D.C., bridal consultant Regan Botts. "The groom's cake is usually chocolate or the favorite flavor of the groom. It looks like a smaller version of the wedding cake, and pieces of it are boxed so guests can take them home."

"I'm doing a lot of storybook weddings, fantasy weddings," says bridal consultant Lynn Jeter of Beverly Hills, Calif. "I've never arranged for so many horse-drawn carriages as I have this past year."

"Elegance is making a dramatic comeback," agrees Barbara Tober, editor-in-chief of Bride's magazine. "Couples are rediscovering big-band music and dancing cheek-to-cheek."

Reception halls are dressed up in style, in white with touches of green and gold; guests are pampered with champagne while they wait in the receiving line; strolling violinists play classical melodies. Wedding cake by candlelight brings the evening to a close.

Unusual sites create romance. Hotels, family homes, country barns and colleges all have potential, but gaining in popularity are luxury yachts and dream estates.

These last are large homes available for rent, and they're perfect for parties. Most are owner-occupied; the owners vacate the premises during your special event. The settings can be stunning: mansions in Victorian, art deco, Southwest and other styles, with gorgeous grounds. Many larger cities have businesses that specialize in estates for special-occasion rental; if not, your Chamber of Commerce may have information.

Remember when Blake and Krystal Carrington reaffirmed their marriage vows on "Dynasty?" They reflected a new trend.

Most reaffirmations coincide with a milestone occasion or anniversary, says Bride's magazine. (Krystal's preceded a risky operation).

The ceremony is often performed in a backyard or hotel, by a judge or clergy member.

"People feel there's a story to be told," Jeter explained to Bride's. "They usually write their own vows, and may have their children escort them; their grandchildren tell anecdotes."

Krystal walked down a hallway lined with guests who each held a white rose and a candle. As she collected her bouquet, she also received their blessings. "I want tonight to be a celebration of all the shared moments of our lives... a marriage of all of us," she said.

A currently popular way for brides and grooms to express their individuality is in the selection of flowers for their weddings.

As an alternative to corsages for the wedding party, each member may hold a long-stemmed rose combined with baby's breath. It's a nice change from "wearing something on the chest," says Botts. "It's not expensive at all — and it's very elegant."

Rings are a personal symbol for the bride and groom

By Monica Perez
Copley News Service

Somehow, you're not really engaged until you're wearing the ring, a glowing announcement that seems to keep waving itself in front of your eyes. And everyone else's.

Your ring, like it or not, tells friends and strangers quite a lot about you and the person you're marrying: A woman will be judged for style and taste, a man for his income.

Whether you're going for the classic band of gold or a diamond that'll knock 'em dead, you want the best investment for your money. Listen to the experts, but also listen to your heart.

Before you and your fiance go shopping, have in mind an amount to spend. The average cost of a diamond engagement ring is $1,325. If diamonds are a definite, here are good guidelines:

"Many couples find that two months' salary is an appropriate spending guide to follow when making this once-in-a-lifetime purchase," says Mike Roman, chairman of the board of Jewelers of America, a national association of jewelers. "This allows the couple to buy the best quality diamond they can afford without breaking their budget."

Figuring how much to spend has to take into account the possibility of the groom going for diamonds, too. According to the Diamond Information Center in New York, about 16 percent of men's wedding bands purchased today have diamonds.

Once you have an idea of what you're able to spend, find a good jeweler. Things can go wrong with a piece of jewelry — diamonds can fall out, a band can bend — so you'll want a jeweler who stands behind his or her product.

You'll also want to be sure you're getting exactly what you're the degree to which a diamond approaches colorlessness, allowing the diamond to reflect and refract light purely in radiant prisms of color. The best color is no color.

Clarity refers to the diamond's lack of flaws. Imperfections break light refraction, affecting the sparkle.

The larger a stone, the higher its carat weight. And therefore its value.

The most valuable diamonds are those with a high rating in all four categories. In terms of investment, the quality of the stone is more important than size. If size is more important to you than clarity or color, however, by all means spend your money in that direction.

A jeweler is ultimately a businessperson, and hopefully one who will guide you to the best investment. He or she doesn't know, however, what is best for your heart.

When Princess Di married, the rush for colored gemstone wedding rings was on. Since then, we've come back to gold and diamonds.

But they're by no means boring! At Cartier in New York, the top styles for men include a three-band ring for interlocking white, yellow and rose gold. Another is a gold band encircled with nail heads. Third is a single band of the three colors of gold.

The idea of mixing white with yellow gold, for men and women, is not only fresh looking, but practical, as well: It matches any kind of watch or other jewelry.

Though diamond solitaires are still the most popular engagement ring for women, we know plenty of ladies who within a year find that the rings are spending a lot of time in the jewelry box. Try these tests while wearing one: Shove your hands in your pocket. Or rummage around in a deep purse. Now imagine yourself getting into gardening gloves, or pulling on stockings.

Consider a band of diamonds instead; there are hundreds of styles to choose from. Or look for a setting in which the stone is closer in, like a bezel.

Etiquette guides you along second trip down the aisle

By Teresia d'Elgin
Copley News Service

In spite of loving intentions and best efforts, some people find themselves traipsing to the altar a second time. In fact, in 43 percent of all marriages in the United States, one or both spouses have been married previously.

There is no reason why second marriages can't surpass first go-arounds in the quality of ceremony and happiness.

Planningwise, you have the advantage of knowing what you're up against. But this time you may have to juggle sensitive subjects such as children (his and hers), former spouses, ex-in-laws, and what inelegantly might be termed "religious red tape."

First, agree with your fiancé about how best to handle these potentially sticky wickets.

You might want to ease your way by reviewing books such as "The Second Wedding Handbook" by Judith Slawson (Doubleday), "Emily Post's Complete Book of Wedding Etiquette" (Harper & Row) and the classic "You and Your Wedding" by Winifred Gray (Bantam).

Bride's, and Modern Bride magazines have frequent articles with tips on revisiting the altar.

Let your children be the first to know your plans. They will be justifiably concerned about how to get their fair share of your affection and attention with a new husband or wife in the picture. They also will want to be assured that your fiancé is not taking the place of their real father or mother. Emphasize that the marriage will be a new and different arrangement entirely.

Present the children with your news in a non-confrontational manner that leaves room for their reactions. Make the moment a private one, accompanied by some kind of celebration that enhances their importance to you.

Make every effort to include children in the marriage planning. Ask their opinion on the clothes, flowers, food and decoration. This will validate their sense of importance and muster family support for the event.

It's perfectly appropriate to announce your engagement to your family and friends in the same way you announced it for your first marriage. But be sure to wait until your divorce or that of your fiancé is final before wearing a ring and spreading the news.

Many couples tend to choose a less formal approach for second ceremonies, doing much of the inviting by telephone or mail, particularly if fewer than 50 guests will be invited.

Likely your ex-spouse will not be included in the festivities. However, if you have strong ties to his or her parents or siblings, you may include them. Be sure to introduce them as the grandparents of your children, or as friends rather than "ex's."

Friends may want to give you an engagement party or shower. Gifts are acceptable though certainly not required. It is a good idea to register at a favorite store, but you may not want to register for the china, glassware and silver opted for before.

Suggest that friends go in together on a special piece of furniture or sports equipment. They also could give season tickets to the theater or symphony, museum memberships or weekend getaways.

If you are planning a religious ceremony, you may meet with some obstacles having to do with your divorce or that of your intended. Review the situation with your clergy person well in advance. This will ensure that you meet the requirements and have the proper dispensation to remarry.

Many couples treat second weddings with more pizzazz and less tradition than their first. Having done things by the book and very often under the family thumb and/or social pressure the first time, a more casual or unique event may well be a merry relief.

We recently attended a Halloween wedding where all guests were asked to dress as famous romantic couples. And although it was a civil ceremony, the person officiating wore a monk's costume.

This kind of occasion may not be everyone's cup of tea. On the other hand it shows how to create a fun, memorable event. If you host your own wedding, your choices won't reflect on your parents' preferences.

The wedding can be as large or small as you can manage. A small gathering of immediate family members is more intimate and less expensive. On the other hand, the event may provide the perfect opportunity for throwing a major bash.

It's appropriate, though not necessary, to have attendants for a remarriage ceremony. Children who are old enough to participate should be included as honor attendants of any variety — flower girls, ring bearers or readers. Couples can come down the aisle together. A bride's father can certainly escort her again. Or the bride's or groom's children can perform the honor. Enlist at least one usher for every 50 guests.

Instead of throwing the bouquet and garter, some second-time couples hand them to their most likely single friends with best wishes.

or pack with lots of extra room so you can fit the new items in later.

On airplanes, make sure you pack the most important items in your carryon bag. These would include passports, medicines, eyeglasses — anything you positively couldn't do without. If you pack carefully enough to get all your belongings in carryon bags, you'll avoid the interminable wait at the pick-up point.

What else to pack? Think worst-case scenario. Even in the middle of summer, evenings can be chilly, so include a jacket or sweater. Think also about rain gear, sunscreen and comfortable shoes for walking.

But don't overpack. The people you meet won't remember that you wore the same jeans three times in one week.

Tips and destinations for lovely vacations

By Glenda Winders
Copley News Service

The first few days of your marriage are some of the most exciting and intimate times of your life, and they offer a rare opportunity to enjoy what you got married for — being alone together.

Once you're back at work or if you decide to have a family, moments for long walks and quiet conversations become precious indeed. And even the vacations you take won't ever quite recapture this special time.

So even though a lot of your creative energy is going into fittings, reception menus and floral arrangements, taking the time to plan your honeymoon carefully. The chances are it will be the most memorable part of your wedding celebration.

At some point in your marriage, your vacations will undoubtedly take you to popular tourist spots and amusement parks. While these are certainly options for your honeymoon, consider staking out a new part of the world for just the two of you.

Whether it's lavish or rugged, your only happy chore is to make it private and romantic. Here, some destination suggestions to get you thinking.

- Bed-and-breakfast inns are sprouting up all across the country in imitation of their English cousins. Find one in a small, quiet town and check in. Spend your days taking walks and poking through antique shops. In the evening, snuggle in front of a crackling fireplace.

- If you're big-city people at heart, shop for a luxury hotel that offers a special honeymoon package. Look for one that has a Jacuzzi in the room, room service and a view of the skyline. Lunch at ethnic cafes, browse in art galleries, go to the theater and wind up each day with a late-night supper.

- Book a tour of Europe by train. Relax while you enjoy the passing vista of mountains, castles and thatched-roof cottages. Spend a night or two in the places that interest you most, and then on to the next adventure.

- Consider an African camera safari. Long a favorite of animal-loving outdoor types, this now has become a top romantic destination, thanks to the movie "Out of Africa." Honeymoon plans include hot-air balloons over the plains and close-up looks at the world's most exotic creatures.

- Contrary to the pictures in bridal magazines, not all weddings take place in the springtime. If you're skiers and can plan your wedding during the winter months, head for the mountains. Hit the slopes in the daytime; spend the evenings sipping mulled wine in your cozy chalet.

The Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania have long catered to honeymooners. Or head for the Rockies. And don't limit your fantasy trip to the United States. In Canada, couple your travels with a stay at the Banff Springs Hotel in Alberta.

These spots are good summer-time destinations, too. Many resorts offer backpacking, hiking, tennis and golf at a time when the rates are substantially lower.

- Explore whatever exotic part of the world intrigues you. Think about India, Singapore, Malaysia or Japan. And Hawaii, which abounds with ancient mysteries and modern honeymoon amenities, or the Yucatan Peninsula of Mexico, rich in Mayan heritage.

- The sun capitals of the world are always popular with lovers. Book a Caribbean cruise, or go straight to the island of your choice and stay at a hotel on the beach. Enjoy snorkeling, boating and water play, or sit under an umbrella and watch the world go by. Indulge in seafood feasts and island music.

The most important part of planning your honeymoon is doing it together. That's where the fun really begins. It's also a good idea to seek the help of a travel agent.

He or she is trained to cover all the details and to get what you want — rental cars, tickets to local attractions, restaurant reservations — at the most reasonable price.

If possible, don't go where either of you has been before. But if you do, swear that you won't utter the words "The last time I was here..." Approach the spot as if it were new to you, too.

In your fantasies you picture endless hours of time spent alone together doing nothing. The fact of the matter is, if you're active people when you're home, unless you incorporate some structure into your honeymoon, you may be bored senseless.

Include some time for exploring. Plan a honeymoon to the city or country where one or both of you has roots and retrace your family tree. Or drive through several states (off the major highways, of course), stopping when a local vista catches your attention.

Or do a theme honeymoon — history, art, music, food, photography or sports. Tour cathedrals, bicycle through New England, raft down the Colorado River.

Pace the days so that each includes both periods of high activity and easy, relaxed times. And don't feel obligated to spend every moment together. A walk by yourself or an hour spent curled up with a book can give both of you a healthy breathing space that makes the time together even more meaningful.

Maintain your sense of humor. In the best-laid honeymoon plans, luggage gets lost, the hotel gives you an unacceptable room or the rental car gets a flat tire. Remember that these are the stories you'll be telling and laughing about for years.

If your wedding day is a long, exhausting one filled with excitement and activity and peopled with friends and relatives, consider spending that night in a local hotel and leaving fresh the next morning. You'll enjoy your reception more, and the people who have come to share the day with you will appreciate your sticking around.

There are ways to have a memorable, romantic honeymoon without breaking the bank. Consider going to the next state instead of halfway around the world. Be frank with your travel agent. Explain that you want fewer frills — organized tours, luxury rooms, etc.

A good plan helps avoid the mishaps

By Monica Perez
Copley News Service

You can spend an entire year planning your wedding day down to the letter, but unless you have a fairy godmother, there is no way to guarantee that the day will be perfect.

According to Bride's magazine, a little preparation goes a long way toward ensuring that wedding day mishaps don't get out of hand. If you organize an "emergency kit," and keep it stashed nearby at the ceremony and the reception, coping with certain last-minute dilemmas will be a breeze.

Bride's suggests you start with a pretty basket, decorated to match your wedding theme, then include the following:

- Needle, thread, buttons and safety pins.
- Extra stockings for you and your wedding party.
- Spot remover.
- Nail polish — color to match your fingernails, and clear to keep stocking runs from spreading.
- Extra lipstick, powder, blushers, eye shadow, fragrance.
- Comb, brush and hairspray or gel.
- Extra pairs of glasses or contact lenses.
- Tissues and cotton balls.
- Aspirin, adhesive bandages, allergy pills, and any prescription medicines you or your groom might need.
- Personal care items.
- Pen and note paper.
- Extra copies of all passages that are being read during the ceremony.
- Telephone numbers for your caterer, clergy member, organist, photographer, florist, bandleader, car service, and each member of the wedding party.

Keep in mind the most important ingredients of all: patience and a sense of humor. They turn any mishap "mountains" back into molehills.
