I always referred to her among the staff as the Grande Dame of the Assembly because she carried herself well.

There weren't too many legislators like her, nor do I expect there to be too many like her in the future. Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden announced she will retire this year after she completes her seventh term as a member of the New Jersey Assembly. New Jersey residents, not only those from her 21st Legislative District, but residents across the state, certainly will miss this "citizen's politician."

She has been dubbed the "citizen's politician" because she has acted in the best interests of her constituents during her tenure in the Legislature. Whether the legislation is targeting domestic violence or opening adoption records to adoptees, Mrs. Ogden — and I feel I can deviate from our style that prevents us from using courtesy titles — has listened to the concerns of her constituents and has tried to support those who need her help.

Worrall Newspapers has endorsed Mrs. Ogden's bids for reelection since at least 1987, pre-1991 redistricting, when I was managing editor of our Maplewood newspaper and she served in the Assembly's 22nd Legislative District. We have always felt that government at every level needed elected officials of Mrs. Ogden's caliber. By the way, when she served in the 22nd district, her colleague in that district was Rep. Bob Franks. Talk about a well-represented district.

Following state redistricting after the 1990 Census, Mrs. Ogden had to fight and conquer another battle. While the number of municipalities remained the same when she moved from the 22nd district to the 21st district, the make-up of those towns had changed. During a conversation we shared in 1991, Mrs. Ogden said she felt like she was running for election for the first time. Who in Roselle Park, Union, Springfield or Kenilworth knew her? I recall her asking me what these towns were like and to help her become familiar with some of the issues facing their residents.

She and then-Essex County Freeholder Monroe Lustbader won the Assembly seats in their new district in 1991. Some will still say they were swept into office with a majority of Republicans because of voter dissent with Gov. Jim Florio's $2.8 billion tax package, but I'd still like to credit intelligent voters for their victory.

Last week, I spoke to Mrs. Ogden about her reason for choosing this year as the time to retire from the Assembly. She said she planned to leave two years ago, after serving 12 years, to give someone else a chance to enact policy. Term limits, she said, are good for a healthy government, and 12 years in the Assembly is enough time to effect change.

Well, we got to keep her in the Legislature for two additional years. State residents are better for having representation from the Grande Dame of the Assembly.

United Way gains fund-raising ally

Hard work and dedication combined to make Dun & Bradstreet Information Services' employees stand out during the United Way of Union County Campaign.

The company's commitment to the community was demonstrated by raising $136,716 this year. A 15 percent increase in employee participation was a key factor for the outstanding return during the 1994-95 campaign.

David Monfried, vice president of Public Relations and this year's employee campaign coordinator, was enthusiastic during the kick-off breakfast for the campaign team held at the Murray Hill headquarters. The involvement of management staff provided the company's employees with the support necessary to make the event a success. The result will be felt by Union County's residents who receive services from the 88 member agencies that are funded by United Way of Union County.

Kathleen A. Dunn, left, Y.M.C.A. general director; Martha DeNoble, member of the Y.M.C.A. Board of Directors and Dinner Committee chairperson, and William C. Roden named humanitarian for his efforts with youths

The Y.M.C.A. of Eastern Union County will honor J. Kenneth Roden, president emeritus of Junior Achievement of Union County, Inc., with the sixth Nicholas C.J. English Humanitarian Award on March 30.

Roden will be honored for his 45 years of work on behalf of the youth of Union County. The dinner will be held at Baltusrol Golf Club, Springfield.

The award was established by the Y.M.C.A. of Eastern Union County in remembrance of the first president of the organization and as a living testament to the men and women of the community who have given unselfishly to enrich the lives of their fellow citizens.

The award is presented periodically to honor an individual and/or organization in the community who has provided outstanding leadership and support to the community through work with local non-profit organizations.

Roden joined the Junior Achievement of Union County 45 years ago. He retired in 1994, having served as executive director and, later, as president of the organization. Through his leadership, vigor and dedication to youth and the American-free enterprise system, Junior Achievement of Union County grew to include Middlesex and Somerset counties and became the most honored and commended junior achievement organization in the nation.

Banasiak re-elected UCUA chair

Blanche Banasiak of Elizabeth was unanimously re-elected to serve a second year as chairwoman of the Union County Utilities Authority, during the UCUA's ninth annual reorganization meeting.

Also elected, during the meeting held earlier this month, was Garland Booth as vice chairman, Kathy Fulcomer as treasurer, and Bill Wolf as secretary. Following the elections, Banasiak reviewed some of the UCUA's 1994 accomplishments.

"Tonight's meeting is not only the formal opening of a new year for the UCUA, it is an opportunity for us to review the accomplishments of the year just past," said Banasiak. "On Feb. 11 start-up of Union County's long-awaited Resource Recovery Facility took place."

Between Feb. 11, 1994 and Dec. 31, 421,123 tons of waste were processed at the facility and nearly 215 million kilowatt hours of electricity were produced, said Banasiak. In addition, 11,344 tons of ferrous metals were recovered, according to the chairwoman.

Shooters reach quota in effort to cut deer

By Mark Devaney

On Monday the sharpshooting program in the Watchung Reservation came to a conclusion as the last of 50 deer were killed.

While Dan Bernier, chief of park operations for the county, was prohibited from speaking with Worrall Community Newspapers, because the bureau objected to several word choices in last week's local story published in the Summit Observer and Mountainside Echo, Public Information Officer Peggy Salisbury provided factual information regarding the sharpshooting program.

"An administrative decision was made that factual information will be distributed through the Office of Public Information," stated Salisbury.

Of the 50 deer, 28 were female; 22 were male. Twenty-two of the does were pregnant and it has been estimated that all save one was carrying twins; the exception was believed to be carrying triplets, according to Salisbury.

It will take "several weeks" for pathologists at the Division of Fish, Game and Wildlife to ascertain the precise conditions of the killed females.

Additionally, 22 males were shot: 10 button bucks, an antlerless male deer less than one year old, and 10 bucks that had shed their antlers. The high number of dead males was an indication that the sharpshooting "should have taken place earlier in the year to avoid shooting antlerless deer," said Salisbury.

Six of the shot deer were fawns, one of which was pregnant, Salisbury added. Also, 37 deer were killed with one shot, which testified to the accuracy of the selected agents, reported Bernier, according to Salisbury.

Officials plan to count the remaining deer in the park, but Salisbury stressed that such a count would not involve deer located at locales other than the reservation.

"There are deer in other pieces of private property and other parks. We're not talking about the entire deer population in the County of Union," said Salisbury.

fee fell from $106.59 to $71.50.

The chairwoman then listed some of the authority's other major accomplishments from the past year. These included increased resident participation in the Special Household Waste Collection Program, an increased county recycling rate to more than 50 percent, start-up of the state's first Used Fluorescent Lamp Recycling Program, an agreement with the county to establish a Truck Route Enforcement Unit to ensure trucks traveling to and from the Resource Recovery Facility use the proper roads, implementation of reform policies at the authority dealing with car use and compensatory time, formation of the Business Liaison Committee and active participation in the municipal waste flow control debate. In addition, at Banasiak's direction, the Authority held an orientation to educate them on the UCUA. A similar workshop will be held this year as well.

"One of my goals as chairman is to improve communication between the UCUA and the community. That is why the Business Liaison Committee was established. In addition, I am determined to have an open door policy with the county's mayors. I think it is essential that everyone have a clear understanding of how the authority operates," she said.

In closing, the chairwoman discussed her involvement in a new demanufacturing program. "Late in 1994, I announced that I have taken steps to initiate a demanufacturing program in Union County. This is an effort to identify, locate, process and market the valuable components of manufactured products that have historically been discarded," she said.

"I believe this program will make a major contribution to the development of a farsighted effort to minimize not only the dimensions of our waste stream, but also the costly economic losses that are now incurred by society's inattention. Value should not be thrown into a scrap heap...or into a resource recovery plant. It should be located, processed and used...and that is the point of our demanufacturing program," said Banasiak.

Teen-agers ready for health conference

Some 400 students from Union County public and parochial high schools will explore ways to work through problems common to all teenagers at Go to Health, an annual youth health awareness conference given by the National Council on Alcoholism and Drug Dependence of Union County, Inc. on March 27 and 28.

Designed to help young people develop a positive self-image, an important step in preventing alcohol, tobacco and other drug use, the conference will be held each day at the Cranford campus of Union County College from 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Go to Health will focus on ways young people interact with their peers and learn to overcome obstacles that impede healthy growth. This year students will attend workshops on making sexual choices, improving family relations, resisting peer pressure and reacting to media influences. They will explore coping strategies through interactive theater. Teachers and counselors accompanying students will attend a workshop on crisis response in the schools.

The Go to Health conference is sponsored by the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Schering-Plough Corporation and the ASSIST Coalition for Smoke Free Essex/Union Counties.

Darlene Daves, 3, prepares for this year's Little Miss Daffodil contest. Last year, she was selected as the contest's first runner-up.

Little Miss Daffodil title up for grabs this month

Your daughter, granddaughter, niece or neighbor could be crowned Little Miss Daffodil 1995 and win a $100 gift certificate to Toys-R-Us.

Last year, 3-year-old Darlene Daves was the first runner-up. Now she's back and looking to claim the title.

The Little Miss Daffodil contest attracts children from all over Union County. The event is sponsored by the American Cancer Society and is open to all children 12 years of age and under who would like to spread around the spirit of spring by selling daffodils.

Participants will receive one vote for every $5 bouquet of daffodils sold or any $5 contribution in her name. The child with the most votes by March 24 will be named Little Miss Daffodil during a crowning ceremony March 30. A gift bag will be presented to all participants with five or more votes, and the parent of the winning child will receive a gift certificate from an area beauty salon.

The daffodil is the first flower of spring, and has become a symbol of hope that the world will one day be cancer-free. To register or for more information, call the American Cancer Society at (908) 354-7373.

Mill stars find dual roles real 'fun'

By Bea Smith
Lifestyle Editor

Both Jonathan Wade and Nancy Bell, stars of "The Prisoner of Zenda," current production at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, find their dual roles "challenging" and "fun to do," rather than difficult and nearly impossible.

It seems that Wade's roles of Rudolph Rassendyll, an English gentleman, and Rudolf, Crown Prince of Ruritania, were so energizing, that the versatile actor lost 10 pounds during the early rehearsals. But he takes it all in stride, as does the lovely Bell, who also exerts herself endlessly in the roles of Rose, Lady Burlesdon and Princess Flavia of Ruritania.

Both were happily inclined to talk about dual roles during dual conversations last week.

"It's getting easier as I get into shape," said Wade. "Really, it just gets easier and easier."

"It's not so bad," echoed Bell. "It just takes a couple of seconds in getting myself together. I take a deep breath and switch railroad tracks. That's all."

Wade explained that it can become confusing when playing the "two different characters at the same time. I have to place my voice in a different place — a higher register for the prince and a slightly different accent for the English gentleman. I can tell you," he admitted, "that Angelo del Rossi, Robert Johanson and I worked a long time on getting a distinct difference between the two characters."

It was especially difficult when I was having a conversation with myself. That took a long time to get it right. It was exhausting all of our patience."

The most difficult feat for Bell, she said, is all ironed out, especially in the last act, when she has to make a quick second change in costume and wig from the Princess to Lady Burlesdon. "I'm ready to come onstage quickly because," Bell laughed, "there are three women backstage who attack me with clothes and wigs. They have to put a dress on what I'm already wearing. And I just stand there. It's fun! It's even more fun when people gasp and say, 'How do you do that?'"

"It's great," Bell reiterated. "I just stand there. I have a person back there who takes my hair off, and puts the other on."

"I have to give a lot of credit to my dresser, Jackie," interjected Wade. "She's the head dresser. She's incredibly right there with everything. She's wonderful! I have a guy nearby who dresses like me," he said, "but even so, I run around making costume changes. It's pretty difficult, but the most difficult part of the play is when I'm having a conversation with myself, as I told you before."

Does he really have the red hair that adorn both characters?

Wade laughed wholeheartedly. "No, it's a wig. I have brown hair. But it's pretty much the same style as my hair. It's a great wig."

Bell, who is familiar with the Paper Mill Playhouse — she played Lucie Manette in "A Tale of Two Cities" and Estelle in "Great Expectations" — said of her roles in "The Prisoner of Zenda," "I love it. They are my favorite roles. I'm getting to do a lot of things on stage that I never did before."

"For example," she said, "the audience enjoys seeing a wonderful sword fight, especially, when it's a woman fighting. It's not something you get to see often. It's really different from the Dickens' roles — which I liked too."

"But this is exciting, you know, when after rehearsing several weeks, you take a big, deep breath and jump into it, and perfect it. The accent helps too. I did British accents several times before in other plays," she said.

Wade, who is new to the Paper Mill Playhouse, said he was really charmed by everything about it. "The people are all wonderful. It's been one of the best ensemble casts I've ever worked with. Everybody works together and the commitment is so great to the script — really, the level of commitment is so high. Everyone has respect for each other. No one is selfish. And that's been a great treat."

"When you perform for these people, you get such an adrenalin rush that it seems like you can do 10 performances in a row, as long as there is an audience. The energy supply is endless. Your will to entertain overcomes your body's need to rest," he said.

Bell declared that "when I'm working at the Paper Mill, especially in this play, I feel that I'm in an old movie."

There are very few theaters that have the resources that the Paper Mill has, and the costumes and sets are so lavish and everything is on a grand scale. It may take a lot of energy but it's really fun."

She admitted that "five shows a weekend, one on Friday night, two on Saturday and two on Sunday — are real killers, but you get two days off after that. I'm happy to be working with Robert again. I've worked with him three times. We speak each other's language. We are able to communicate well. Michael Anania is brilliant, and so is Greg Barnes with their amazing designs; Michael with sets, and Greg with costumes. The Paper Mill has some of the best designers in the business."

What do they both think about "The Prisoner of Zenda" as a Broadway vehicle?

"I think it's suitable for Broadway," said Wade. "At least I hope so — in the sense that it is a spectacle. It's a real epic in which Robert calls it a roller-coaster ride. Once you get on it, you just can't stop."

Straight plays don't usually do well on Broadway, but of course this one can because of its pace and the way it moves," he said.

"If it does go to Broadway," added Bell, "that would be nice. Any straight play to Broadway is difficult. But I do feel this one could make it. And that would be terrific!"

And they indicated enthusiastically, they both would climb aboard for that "fantastic roller-coaster ride all the way to Broadway."

Principals play dual roles and misguided lovers in 'The Prisoner of Zenda' at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn. Nancy Bell is seen as Rose, Lady Burlesdon and Princess Flavia of Ruritania, and Jonathan Wade portrays Rudolph Rassendyll and Rudolf, Crown Prince of Ruritania. The play will run through March 26.

Hadassah Art Show slated in Westfield

The 37th annual Art Show and Sale, organized by the Westfield Chapter of Hadassah, will open on the evening of March 25 in Temple Emanu-El, 756 East Broad St., Westfield. The five-day show will feature more than 1,000 works of art in oils, watercolors, graphics, charcoals and sculpture by known artists.

Included in the art show's collection will be framed works, unframed portfolio pieces and sculptures from approximately 75 individual artists and 20 New York and New Jersey galleries. Each year, the art show commissions an artist to create a limited edition graphic which is available in conjunction with the show. Those commissioned in past years have included such artists as Harry Devlin of Mountainside, Nell Blaine, Wolf Kahn, Chaim Gross and Will Barnett.

Jacqueline Chesley, a New Jersey artist, has been commissioned this year to create "a variate edition of monoprints for art show sponsors." The artist's work is in public and private collections, including the Newark Museum, E.I. Dupont de Nemours and Co. Inc. and Mitsubishi Corp., New York. Her solo exhibitions include the Morris Museum, New Jersey Center for Visual Arts, Summit, the Kornbluth Gallery and Douglass College.

The Art Show and Sale serves as the primary means of fulfilling Westfield Chapter's commitment to Hadassah programs. "The Art Show has been tremendously successful over the years," said Hadassah Art Show Coordinator Evelyn Hollander. "We're proud that the show has helped medical researchers and physicians to achieve significant breakthroughs in health care." Founded in 1912, Hadassah is Israel's medical predecessor in healing, teaching and research, it was reported.

The five-day Hadassah Art Show and Sale will make its debut March 25 with a champagne reception and preview for patrons at Temple Emanu-El. The show will be open to the public March 26 from 1 to 9 p.m., March 27 to 28 from noon to 9 p.m., and March 29 from noon to 5 p.m. Admission is $3 for adults and $1.50 for senior citizens. Students are admitted free. "Le Petit Cafe" will be open weekdays for lunch and snacks from noon to 2 p.m.

For additional information about the show and the limited edition graphic, one can call 233-6531.

'The Artist,' a work of Helen Frank of Springfield, will be displayed in the 37th annual Westfield Hadassah Art Show and Sale at Temple Emanu-El, 756 East Broad St., Westfield, March 26 through March 29. It will feature more than 1,000 works of fine arts in oils, watercolors, graphics, charcoals and sculpture.

DINING REVIEW

By Jeffrey C. Turbitt
Staff Writer

Joanna's Ristorante

Delightful atmosphere; warm, friendly service.

Joanna's Ristorante in Roselle provides patrons a delightful atmosphere, warm, friendly service and enormous meals — all at a reasonable price.

Now open for lunches, Joanna's Ristorante serves a full array of appetizers, salads, sandwiches, platters and Italian favorites, as well as omelettes and beverages, along with gourmet pastas, and chicken and veal dishes.

Joanna's is the creation of Tony Terantino and Joe Fenton, who made their services well known at Uncle Mike's restaurant. Terantino has been cooking for 25 years and learned his craft in the Army, where he was stationed at Fort Dix. Fenton learned his craft as a longtime worker in the restaurant trade.

The two have been in business since Dec. 8, and they note that things are picking up after strong word of mouth in the Roselle area. They said lunchtime business has been particularly robust of late.

Joanna's offers the full scope of the dining experience. Of the chicken dishes are the staples: Chicken Francaise and Chicken Piccata. They also serve veal dishes of similar purport.

To begin my meal on my visit to Joanna's, I ordered the hot antipasto. The hot antipasto consisted of calamari, shrimp and stuffed clams. The collection was served with a red sauce. The hot antipasto was a delightful beginning to a full meal.

As for the main course, I ordered Seafood Fra Diavolo, which came piping hot with all sorts of seafood, such as calamari, scallops, shrimp and lobster. The Seafood Fra Diavolo went beyond my wildest expectations.

The linguine was cooked al dente and the red sauce had its own distinct flavor. The portion, quite frankly, was enormous — easily enough for two people.

My dining companion ordered the Joe Fenton, one of the owners of Joanna's Ristorante in Roselle, displays a menu outside the restaurant.

Chicken Murphy, which is essentially two chicken breasts served in a tangy hot sauce with mushrooms, onions, peppers and potatoes. The dishes were served with a side of pasta or potatoes.

The Chicken Murphy, also in an enormous portion, offered a distinctive flavor more notable than other restaurants where I've sampled this dish.

The chef told me that customers often order the Chicken Murphy tailored to meet their desired degree of spiciness. Some also order the dish with a sweetness to it. Being the hybrid that I am, I ordered the Chicken Murphy with a touch of both, and I was surprised at the wonders of the combination.

Joanna's also offers several desserts. Tiramisu, Italian Cheesecake, Spumoni and Tortoni being Joanna's specialties. I tried the Spu-moni, which is essentially ice cream in a chocolate shell with whipped cream and a cherry. The Tiramisu, which I also tried as something of an aficionado, was exceedingly pleasant in conjunction with Joanna's cappuccino. My companion enjoyed his dessert with a memorable cup of tea — graciously served in form and in content.

Joanna's, 199 Sheridan Ave., also is available for private parties on the weekend. During the week Joanna's is open from 11:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and Saturday, 4:30 to 9:30 p.m. It is closed on Mondays.

March 12-18

ARIES — March 21/April 20
Don't obsess over things you can't control. Instead, concentrate on what's positive. Give yourself extra time when working on important projects. You never know when you can come up with a brilliant idea. It's OK to ask for help if you feel overworked. Learn to delegate responsibility.

TAURUS — April 21/May 21
A troubled friend may take up a good deal of your time. Even if you have other obligations, you'll feel happy to help someone in need. Welcome change, especially in the workplace. It could be to your benefit. A phone call from afar will brighten your week.

GEMINI — May 22/June 21
A burst of energy will make you feel happy and ready to conquer the world. You'll be able to tackle difficult tasks with ease. But remember, peaks do have valleys, so use this time of high functioning to your advantage. It's a good time to enter into new relationships.

CANCER — June 22/July 22
Use your nurturing, caring instinct to put a frantic partner at ease. Little things will go a long way in this area. A household project will turn out perfectly if you're patient. Remember, Rome wasn't built in a day. Don't be a pushover when it comes to family demands.

LEO — July 23/August 23
You'll be more popular than usual this week. Friends and family will seem to be popping out of the woodwork. Is there something or someone you're forgetting? Consult your calendar to avoid misunderstandings this week. Express yourself by putting your ideas into writing.

VIRGO — Aug 24/Sept 22
Watch what you say this week — especially at work. Playful ribbing may be misinterpreted as insulting comments. This is definitely the time to curb that sarcastic Virgo tongue. Looking for love? This could be your lucky week. Your dream date could be closer than you think.

LIBRA — Sept 23/Oct 23
A great week for affairs of the heart. You'll go about things in just the right way to make a current emotional tie even stronger. Take stock in your intuitive powers, especially when it comes to any large investments. Sometimes it's better to listen to the heart, instead of the head. An important work project will go smoothly.

SCORPIO — Oct 24/Nov 22
Pursuing an impossible situation is a waste of time and energy. While persistence is an honorable trait, foolishness is not. It may be time to raise the white flag and pursue more realistic goals. Patience will be required at home, especially when dealing with children.

SAGITTARIUS — Nov 23/Dec 21
Don't let petty people antagonize you. Go on about your business, and ignore such behavior. You don't need unnecessary aggravation. If you're the boss at work, be sure to reward hard work. Be sensitive to the needs of your mate, especially if he/she happens to be an Aquarian.

CAPRICORN — Dec 22/Jan 20
You could get yourself in a heap of trouble this week by giving out information you aren't supposed to. Do yourself — and others — a favor: Keep quiet! Remember, loose lips sink ships. Stay focused if you are working on an important project. Don't be a procrastinator!

AQUARIUS — Jan 21/Feb 18
Fight daily doldrums by doing something special for yourself. Whether it's a weekend excursion, a shopping spree or a quiet evening with your nose in a book, it's time for a little self-indulgence. Good news is on the way, especially if you're waiting for some kind of test results.

PISCES — Feb 19/March 20
A phone call or visit from an old friend is likely to brighten up the week. At home, you may have to put the needs of loved ones before your own. Don't neglect your health, however. Avoid junk food, and don't skimp on sleep. Financial matters are less of an issue.

Gov. Whitman to present award to Kirby Carriage

The New Jersey Division of Travel and Tourism and the New Jersey Travel Industry Association have recognized the F.M. Kirby Carriage House Restaurant at the Paper Mill Playhouse, Millburn, as a recipient of the 1995 Governor's Tourism Economic Development Award. Gov. Christine Todd Whitman will present the award at a luncheon on March 14 from 12:30 to 2 p.m. at the Ocean Place Hilton, Long Branch.

The award honors New Jersey businesses that have created new jobs due to new construction, expansion of an existing enterprise or establishment of a new business.

The Carriage House, adjacent to the theater, had originally served as a stable when the Paper Mill was a mill from 1795 to 1926. In 1943, the mill became the private residence of the late Frank Carrington, one of the founders of the Paper Mill Playhouse. His portrait and that of the late Antoinette Seudler, co-founder, hang upstairs in the restaurant.

Named after F.M. Kirby, a philanthropist and patron of the arts, the restaurant opened its doors for the first time in September 1994. It is reserved for ticket holders only. Lunch is served prior to matinees and dinner prior to evening performances. There also is the option of post-performance late night snacks and desserts.

The chef is Scott Sueskind. David Smith is general manager Oakmont and oversees the restaurant.

When entering the Carriage House, there is a fireplace beside the mahogany bar in the 65 seat establishment. Found along the walls are costume renderings by Greg Barnes and photographs of Michael Anania's sets.

Your abilities can earn extra income. Advertise them with a classified ad by calling 1-800-564-8911.

Puerari is tops in electrical business

Joseph Puerari, owner and proprietor of Puerari Electric, is a licensed electrical contractor with the state of New Jersey, and has been operating one of the area's most successful electrical contracting businesses out of his home in Kenilworth.

Keeping his overhead low and customer satisfaction high, he says, are the keys to his success.

"I would say the biggest difference between myself and other contractors is lower prices," says Puerari. "Our overhead and expenses are lower and that helps keep prices down."

Puerari is a licensed electrician for the state of New Jersey with over 25 years of experience. He has had his own contracting business for ten years of those years, and services Union, Essex and Middlesex counties.

His training also includes schooling at the Lyons Institute in Newark and Union County College.

Puerari is an officer for the Union County Electrical Contractors Association which meets monthly. When he has the time, Puerari keeps himself apprised of the changes in his field by attending seminars held by the New Jersey State Electrical Contractors Association Meetings.

Puerari Electric contracts for all types of commercial, residential and light industrial construction. Most of his clients are so satisfied with his services that they often recommend Puerari Electric to others.

Puerari Electric offers competitive prices for a variety of electrical items, including smoke detectors, track lighting, recessed lighting, and is a fully guaranteed and insured contracting company.

Puerari is serviced by at least half a dozen different electrical supply houses throughout the county, putting parts and supplies within its reach at all times.

"I offer a full array of high quality, state-of-the-art merchandise and services," says Puerari. "We contract for all types of renovations, new home construction and upgrading of services within a 50-mile radius."

For quality workmanship at a price you can afford, call Puerari Electric at 276-3687.

The festival also will feature two other classic 007 films, "Goldfinger," 1964, which also stars Connery and "On Her Majesty's Secret Service," 1969, reportedly the most controversial film of the series. Providing commentary for the day will be Piscataway author and Bond historian, Lee Pfeiffer, whose credits include "The Incredible World of 007" and "The Films of SEAN Connery". Also present will be Doug Redenius, one of the world's prominent collectors of 007 memorabilia and board member of the Ian Fleming foundation.

The public will be provided with the latest information on the next James Bond film, "Goldfinger," starring Pierce Brosnan, which is currently in production.

Past film festivals at the 1,300 seat art center, a restored vaudeville-movie palace mainly featuring live entertainment these days, have included Laurel and Hardy, "The Star Wars Trilogy," and the "Star Trek" films. The theater also has film classics accompanied by keyboard artists at the console of the theater's restored antique Wurlitzer.

Plastic surgeon recognized for work

Plastic Surgeon Angelo Bergamo, director of The Center for Nasal Surgery in Glen Ridge, recently was honored by the state Senate in recognition of his 25-year career.

Bergamo, a resident of Montclair, was presented with the citation by state Sen. Joseph L. Bubba at the senator's office in Wayne. The citation acknowledges Bergamo as a plastic surgeon specializing in rhinoplasty and crediting him with assisting more than 4,000 patients.

said Bergamo. "I would like to share this honor with all of my 4,000 patients."

Bergamo, a surgeon for more than 25 years, received his medical degree from University of Rome Medical School. He served on a rotating internship at Mountainside Hospital, Montclair, and a general surgery residency at East Orange Memorial Hospital/East Orange Veterans Administration Hospital.

Founder and director of Montclair Community Hospital's Plastic Surgical Center and co-founder of Montclair's Outreach Skin Cancer Screening Program, he also holds attending staff status at The Mountainside Hospital, Montclair.

Bergamo holds membership in the state medical societies of New York, New Jersey, New York and California. He also is a member of the Essex County Medical Society, the New Jersey Academy of Medicine and the International Academy of Cosmetic Surgery in Geneva, Switzerland. He maintains offices internationally in Rome, Italy and Glen Ridge.

Heart-smart cooking dates set for hospital

SeniorHealth, a free membership program of the St. Barnabas Health Care System for people age 50 and over, will hold a series of cooking class entitled "Kiss the Cook Who's Heart-Smart."

Union Hospital's Coordinator of Clinical Nutrition Leslie Killen will present the following series on cooking for a healthier heart: Tuesday, "Sauces, Broth's, Soups and Fish"; March 21, "Meatless Entrees"; April 4, "Healthy Desserts," and April 11, "Menus for Dining Out." Each session will include lectures, demonstrations, recipes and food samples.

The fee is $10 per session or $50 for the entire series. All classes will be held on Tuesday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon at the Union Hospital Community Services Center, 2343 Morris Ave., Union.

"Are you at risk for diabetes?" will be the topic of a free health talk to increase awareness about a condition which, according to the American Diabetes Association, affects almost 500,000 New Jersey residents. It is estimated that half of this group does not know that they have diabetes.

Robert J. Melfi, a board certified endocrinologist at the Joslin Center for Diabetes at St. Barnabas, will discuss the risk factors, signs and symptoms of diabetes. This free health talk will be held March 23 at 10:30 a.m. at Union Hospital's Community Services Center.

Long-term care insurance covers custodial nursing home care, adult day care, or extensive home care services. These expenses are not reimbursed by Medicare or supplemental health insurance. Many options are available and may be customized. Those with incomes of $25,000 or more and assets over $50,000 may want to consider this type of policy. ElderMed America's long term care insurance seminar, "A Growing Older Concern," is now scheduled at the Union Hospital SeniorHealth facility. Speaker Nancy P. Morish will explain policies available in New Jersey and answer questions during this free program scheduled for April 5 at 1:30 p.m. at Union Hospital's Community Service Center.

SeniorHealth, a free program of the St. Barnabas Health Care System for people age 50 and over, has two locations: St. Barnabas SeniorHealth, 101 Old Short Hills Road, Suite 102A, West Orange, and Union Hospital SeniorHealth, 2343 Morris Ave., Union.

To register for any of these programs or to learn more about SeniorHealth and how to become a member, call (908) 964-0444.

Latest in dental care found in Linden

Michael S. Malka, director of Linden Dental Group, provides complete dental care with the focus on innovative technologies in dentistry.

Malka, who has had a practice in Linden for the past 10 years, utilizes the latest in equipment, the Microprep system, in his office.

"The ability to provide dental care, in some cases with no injections, and no drilling is nothing short of a miracle for the fearful patient," Malka stated. The Microprep system is approved by the Food and Drug Administration and American Dental Association, and affords the following:

- Eliminates anesthesia in many cases;
- Reduces vibration and pressure;
- Reduces noise;
- Treatments can be performed at earlier stages of decay.

The system involves the use of air pressure, no injection and no drilling. Malka provides a composite restoration — white filling — where the cavity was cleaned by the Microprep System.

Malka received his dental degree from the University of Medicine and Dentistry of New Jersey in 1983 and has been engaged in clinical practice for the past 12 years. Malka is also dental director for two self-insured dental programs in Westchester, N.Y.

Dr. Michael Malka uses the newest in technology to clean a cavity from his patient, Helen Szurko. The system involves the use of air pressure, no injection and no drilling. Dr.

Malka's office is open Monday through Friday at 10 North Wood Ave., Suite B, Linden. His office can be reached for more information or for an appointment, at (908) 862-2020.

Pleasing the patient is priority for surgeon

As a plastic surgeon with more than 25 years of experience and having performed more than 3,000 nasal operations, I deal with people seeking nasal surgery on a daily basis. I still hear, particularly from older people, the admonition that it is wrong to interfere with the will of God by changing someone's appearance. The common complaint is that anyone who would undergo this type of surgery is vain and vanity is simply sinful.

The plastic surgeons word for vanity is self-respect and the desire for self-improvement in the great majority of cases is legitimate and understandable.

Even in the short span of 25 years I have seen many changes in performing surgery on the nose. It was not too long ago that people who had nasal operations were hospitalized for several days. Blood loss could be considerable and on occasion, blood transfusions had to be given because of the amount of blood lost at the time of surgery. Noses were packed tightly so the bleeding could be controlled. This was a most unpleasant experience for the patient and the post-operative surgical period was not only filled with discomfort but with actual pain. Today with the many advancements in nasal surgery the procedure has become efficacious, whereas a nasal operation 25 years ago might take as long as two hours or more, today most surgeons are able to perform the surgery in 45 minutes or less. The patients are sedated and have their choice of being totally awake, being in a twilight zone or, indeed, being totally asleep. The patient undergoes the surgery on a same-day basis and returns home after several hours. Ninety-eight percent of the nasal operations do not require any nasal packing and blood loss is extremely limited if it occurs at all. The recuperation period is quite short and the procedure is without pain during and after surgery.

In spite of the many improvements made and although the surgery is a routine procedure, rhinoplasty is not for everyone and many considerations, not only anatomical but psychological, have to be made by the surgeon prior to accepting a patient for this type of procedure. A happy surgeon is he who is selective in the patients he accepts for this type of procedure. The surgeon must make every attempt to study and know his patients well, prior to any contemplated surgery.

Psychologists tell us that self-image, that is, the way a person pictures himself, is probably one of the most important components of achievement and happiness. If, indeed, by operating on a nose you can increase that self-image, then for the surgeon, as well as for the patient, it is a most rewarding experience.

Changing the contour, size and shape of a patient's nose is serious business since that patient will have the "new nose" for the rest of their

'Rhinoplasty is not for everyone and many considerations, not only anatomical but psychological, have to be made by the surgeon prior to accepting a patient for this type of procedure.'

life. Every effort is made to understand what the patient's goals are and should the patient decide to go ahead with the surgery, every effort is made to achieve those goals.

The patient is encouraged to see our photographer who takes several views of the face and profile. By drawing on those photographs, the patient can get a good idea of what the before and after will be. Although the patient is shown pictures of other patients who have had nasal surgery and their before and afters, seeing it on their own profile and face is a better way for the surgeon to understand what the patients want.

The patients are encouraged to meet with others in their age group who have had the same type of nasal surgery performed. The patients are left with those who have already had the surgery and the patient can ask any questions he has of those people, since they have already been through the same type of surgery.

Some of the most frequent questions asked are the following:

- How long will the surgery take?
- How long will I be in the hospital?
- How long of a recovery period is there?
- How long will I be black and blue?

- What kind of anesthesia will I have?
- How long before I can return to work?
- How long does the swelling persist in the nose?
- How much does the surgery cost?
- Will my insurance pay for any portion of the surgery?
- What happens if I don't like my nose?
- Will other assistants operate on me or will it be just Dr. Bergamo?
- Will my breathing be better? Could it get worse and what are the complications of the surgery?

It is the goal of the plastic surgeon to please the patient. The patient should be encouraged to get second opinions since in plastic surgery there is an artistic sense of expression. We have found by our experience that the informed patient makes the best patient and they should be encouraged to ask all and any questions they have concerning the surgery. Making people happy by improving their self-esteem is a great source of satisfaction and gratification for the surgeon performing this act.

Angelo Bergamo is director of The Center for Nasal Surgery in Glen Ridge.

Laser study of eye problems agreed to for St. Barnabas

St. Barnabas Medical Center and Theodore Perl, director of Corneal and Refractive Surgery at the hospital, have been selected to conduct two clinical studies using the Holmium Laser to reduce farsightedness or astigmatism.

The Holmium Laser is a device limited by federal law to investigational use in the United States. With the acquisition of the state-of-the-art Summit Omnimed Laser System, St. Barnabas solidifies its position as a leader in the field of refractive surgery.

The study will be conducted in compliance with federal Food and Drug Administration regulations, under the auspices of Summit Technology, Inc.

"St. Barnabas and Dr. Perl are at the forefront of new refractive techniques," said Ronald J. Del Mauro, chairman and chief executive officer of St. Barnabas.

The study will examine the effectiveness of the procedure in improving the vision of patients with farsightedness and astigmatism. The Holmium Laser uses a crystal to produce a narrow, uniform beam of infrared light to change the shape of the cornea. The laser is administered by placing a fiberoptic probe in contact with the cornea.

In addition to the clinical study using the Holmium Laser, several other procedures performed at St. Barnabas have the ability to correct refractive errors: Radial Keratotomy for low levels of myopia, or nearsightedness; Automated Lamellar Keratoplasty for moderate to high levels of myopia, and Arcuate Keratotomy for astigmatism.

Seminars will be offered on April 6, May 4, June 1 and July 6, all starting at 7:30 p.m., at the Islami Auditorium of St. Barnabas.

Those patients who participate in the hyperopia and astigmatism study will undergo the procedure utilizing the Holmium Laser in the St. Barnabas Same Day Surgery Center. According to Perl, the procedure is painless and is completed in about 15 minutes. The purpose of the procedure is to reduce farsightedness, or astigmatism and thereby provide for improved uncorrected vision — vision without glasses or contact lenses. Other candidates for the Holmium Laser study are patients who desire to reduce their need for reading glasses.

The refractive surgery seminars are offered free of charge but registration is requested. To register or for more information on the above mentioned procedures, contact Corneal Associates of New Jersey at (201) 736-1313.

WRIST AND HAND PROBLEMS

If you feel a weakness, numbness, or pain in your hand and wrist, the problem may be carpal tunnel syndrome.

This is caused by pressure on a nerve as it goes through a tunnel in the wrist. The tunnel is made up of several small bones and ligaments that form a groove. The nerve that passes through the groove is vulnerable to injury, especially when the wrist is bent back forcefully. This can happen when you fall with your hands outstretched to brace yourself - or when you hit a swinging door with the wrist bent backwards.

Sometimes it results from the kind of physical exertion that's normal in your daily activities. A carpenter, for example, can develop the syndrome from heavy hammering. So can a mechanic who pulls forcefully on a wrench. So can a housewife who scrubs the floor by leaning on one hand with the wrist bent backward.

Whatever the cause, treatment is available to relieve the pressure and return you wrist and hands to their normal condition - free of weakness and pain.

Crash test dummies help with Saab automotive safety

Controlled collision testing is an invaluable part of Saab safety research, but crash-test dummies can't tell the whole story. Because each road accident is unique, it's impossible to simulate every conceivable type of crash in a collision laboratory. An on-going program of accident investigations is therefore a crucial supplement to Saab's crash-test data.

Saab cars have benefited from more than 20 years of real-world, on-site safety research. The newest member of the Swedish safety engineering team is Dr. Hugo Ugander, Saab's own automotive safety medical expert and a former surgeon with 17 years of experience. Ugander analyzes the vast amount of information continually gathered by Saab from road accidents throughout the Swedish automaker's home country. Saab's world headquarters is based in Trollhattan, Sweden.

"Saab's comprehensive approach to safety research allows us to find factors that improve the crashworthiness of our cars even further," Ugander said. Saab cars have always been built to a high overall standard of safety, instead of being optimized to perform favorably in certain easily measurable types of crash tests.

Since 1971, Saab has been studying actual road accidents in Sweden in which Saab cars were involved. The information gained from these evaluations becomes an integral part of Saab safety development and engineering.

"The car must be designed to protect real people, instead of being based on how dummies respond in a collision. We must know how the car performs in reality — not merely against a crash barrier," said Christer Nilsson, an engineer in the "Real-Life Safety" project at Saab.

Success of the program is apparent in several ways. Sweden's largest car insurance company, Folksam, has named the Saab 9000 "Sweden's Safest Car" continually since 1990. In the U.S., Saabs consistently rank among the top cars for low injury and collision losses by the Highway Loss Data Institute.

Outstanding safety attributes, found in every 1995 Saab 900 and 9000, include a rigid "safety cage" comprised of complex structural reinforcements as well as front and rear crumple zones. The safety cage structure is designed to protect the passenger compartment by absorbing and dispersing much of the kinetic energy of a collision. Other active and passive safety features include dual air bags, front safety belt pretensioners, the innovative Saab rear "safe seat," four-wheel disc brakes with anti-lock, ABS, and a self-restoring bumper protection system for low-speed collisions. In 5-mph barrier tests, the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety reports that the Saab 900 is best in damage resistance among mid-size cars.

Saab has a recognized heritage as a leader in collision protection. From the anti-intrusion door beams introduced in the Saab 99 more than 20 years ago, to the latest expansion of its safety research team, Saab continues to ensure that each and every Saab 900 and 9000 comes standard with real-world safety experience.

AAA reminds motorists that good brakes are always essential

The AAA New Jersey Automobile Club reminds motorists that good brakes are crucial to keeping a vehicle under control when driving on snow or ice-covered roads this winter.

"Brake components that are badly worn or a brake system in need of hydraulic fluid may not provide the responsive control needed for safe winter driving," said Rick town, assistant vice president of automotive services for the Florham Park based Club.

"Have your brakes checked annually by a qualified technician as part of a broader maintenance and safety inspection. And since brakes can't be thoroughly inspected without removing the wheels, be sure to request this service."

The same friction that brakes use to stop a vehicle's wheels also causes brake components to wear out and need replacement. By practicing good driving habits, motorists can make their brakes last longer and reduce repair expenses. When stopping, slow the vehicle gradually instead of stopping suddenly. It's a good idea not to ride your brakes on steep hills. Downshifting helps slow the car and limits the amount of braking that's needed.

"Often the first sign of worn brakes is a brake pedal that seems to require more pressure to stop the vehicle," explains Town. "Scraping, squeaking or chirping noises that come from the wheels when the brakes are applied, are other signs of potentially excessive brake wear. If your vehicle pulls to the left or right when you apply the brakes, it could mean trouble."

AAA's Town recommends conducting the following spot-checks for proper brake system maintenance:

- Master Cylinder- Brake fluid reservoir should be checked periodically to ensure proper fluid level.
- Brake Lines- Steel brake tubing running from the master cylinder to all four wheels should be inspected for leaks caused by damage or rust.
- Brake hoses- Rubber brake hoses running from the brake lines to the brake calipers and wheel cylinders should be inspected for wear and cracking.

Linings and Pads- Brake components that create friction and dissipate heat should be checked for uneven or excessive wear. Glazing or saturation from brake fluid or grease are other potential problems.

Bearings and Seals- Wheel bearings should be inspected and lubricated as part of an annual brake check. Seals should be inspected for proper fit.
