Deja vu all over again?

Scoreboard sparks second controversy

By Mark Crudele
Staff Writer

The players and parents of the Mountainside Youth Baseball League thought all controversy surrounding the new Memorial Field scoreboard was settled when permission to unveil it was granted earlier this year.

They were wrong. Residents now are raising concerns that the scoreboard's speakers are blasting their homes during ball games.

"Neighbors on Cherry Hill Road are concerned about the noise of the scoreboard," said Richard Hewitt, a resident of that street.

Hewitt presented a petition to the Planning Board that contained the signatures of a "substantial number" of neighbors, all of whom were said to be concerned about the scoreboard located in the outfield at the Little League's Deerfield School field.

"The noise from that scoreboard is extremely loud, and it can easily be heard from a block away," said Hewitt.

"It is louder than the crowd noise, and we feel it is disturbing the peace of the neighborhood," he added. "The people who signed the petition believe it disrupts our quality of life."

After the meeting, Hewitt declined to comment further, explaining that he wanted to attempt to solve the matter privately before making it a public issue.

Hewitt told the zoners that he came to them because the Board of Education, which owns the ballfield property, said they could not help.

"We went to the board initially, and we were told it's not their authority to respond to the problem," he said.

"When we gave the league permission to put the scoreboard in, we told them they would have to do it lawfully," said Board of Education President Frank Geiger. "They accepted that condition, and we really didn't stand in their way."

"The town gave them permission to put the scoreboard in," said Geiger. "We have to abide by the laws of the town. If it is illegal, we can take steps to have it removed. If it is not illegal, we don't have the authority to do anything."

The Planning Board attorney disagreed, stating that the scoreboard is on Board of Education property and the board should deal with it.

"It looks like the landlord has been contacted and the landlord will take no action," said John Tomaine, chairman of the Planning Board. "The question is what recourse do these neighbors have."

"We might consider doing something informally," he added, "but we have real concerns about whether this is our matter to deal with."

"Someone from Borough Hall did call us, and asked us to verify the situation," confirmed Geiger. "I told them that we feel it is in their jurisdiction. The simple fact is that if you live next to a ballfield, there's going to be noise during a game."

Geiger explained that before the scoreboard was installed, the audio-speakers, which are used to announce players, were near the backstop, so the sound traveled out into the field. Now that the speakers are on the scoreboard, the sound is directed at the dugout and the houses beyond it.

"It is unnecessarily loud, and the scoreboard is at a place where the sound heads up the block," Hewitt said. "The system they had before, had speakers pointing out to the field, and that was not a problem. The music is nice for the children, but not nice for the neighborhood."

Hewitt said the noise is during ball games on some weeknights, on Saturday mornings and all day Sunday.

He explained that the public address system on the scoreboard announces player names and plays songs such as "Take Me Out to the Ball Game."

"It is difficult to barbecue," said Hewitt. "You have to keep your door locked and your windows shut. Imagine having a circus on your block for three months a year."

"They should have been concerned with the negative aspects of the scoreboard," said Hewitt. "The people in the neighborhood were never contacted, and the scoreboard just appeared."

The Little League responded to Hewitt's concerns in a letter. And while he would not release it to the public, Planning Board member Dean Paskow said the league's letter did not take a tone of compromise.

"It sounds like they're approaching it like we're using the speakers or not," Paskow said. "I don't think this is a situation where you can draw a line in the sand."

"And after everything this board, the mayor and the council did for them," said Paskow. "Now it seems like the shoe's on the other foot."

The scoreboard at the baseball field used by the Mountainside Youth Baseball League has sparked a second controversy. Residents of a street near the field have been circulating a petition to prevent future use of the board's public address system, saying the noise is disruptive.

Council tables road repair ordinance

The Borough Council tabled an ordinance that would have enabled it to bond for $60,000 for street repairs.

The ordinance was introduced during the July 18 meeting of the council, and was put on hold last week.

There had been some confusion among borough officials in recent weeks regarding the amount of money needed for the repairs. The language of the ordinance named Charles Street, near the Mountainside/Springfield border, as the site of the proposed repairs.

Public Works Director Robert Wyckoff disputed the need for the $60,000, saying the problem on Charles Street — a small sinkhole — was "not a major problem."

Explaining why Charles Street was named on the ordinance, Borough Administrator Kathleen Toland said it was a step needed to secure funds from the state in the future.

"On the ordinance that was passed, the state requires we have a specific name of a street to get extra money for repairs in general to add to the general fund," she said.

To repair the street, a task performed Aug. 16, workers had to widen the hole, examine the ground, fill the hole with stone and repave that section of the street. The cost of the repairs was estimated at between $1,500-$2,000.

"Because there was a pipe in the area, we decided to dig to make sure there were no real problems," Wyckoff said. "Possibly there was bad compaction after a sewer-line repair three or four years ago. We don't really know why a settlement occurred."

The job "was something that needed to be done," said Borough Council President Ron Romak. "It's a hazard. It has to be repaired. We had to find out what caused the collapse, and it's been repaired."

Police to increase patrols of highway

By Mark Crudele
Staff Writer

Chief of Police William Alder announced this week that the department will increase its patrols of Route 22, following a string of car thefts from an area restaurant's parking lot.

Three cars were stolen from the lot of the Steak & Ale restaurant last week. All three cars were later recovered in Newark.

Alder said two luxury cars were stolen on the same night from the restaurant, located at 1443 Route 22 East.

Both cars, a 1993 Acura and a 1993 BMW, were taken from the restaurant's parking lot between 7:30 and 10:15 p.m. on the night of Aug. 17.

According to the police report, the owner of the Acura had parked her car at 8:30 p.m. and gone into the establishment. When she came out of the restaurant at 9:45 p.m., the car was gone. The vehicle's value was approximately $30,000.

Patrolman Kevin Betyeman, who responded to the theft, was checking the parking lot when he was approached by the owner of the BMW, who informed the officer that his car also had been taken. The BMW was estimated to be worth $40,000.

Both cars were recovered in Newark a few days later. Alder said it is possible the crimes are related.

"It looks like a car with possibly three people in it arrived at the restaurant," he added. "So what could have happened is the car's two passengers could have each stolen a car. However, the investigation is continuing."

The third robbery from the same parking lot occurred Saturday afternoon.

According to police reports, a 1993 Honda Accord was taken between 12:06 and 4:41 p.m. The car's estimated cost was $20,000.

The Honda was recovered early Sunday morning in Newark.

"We are increasing our patrolling of the area," said Alder. "We are trying to apprehend these thieves."

In an unrelated motor vehicle incident, Union County police apprehended a Plainfield woman suspected in a hit-and-run on Sunday.

Identified by police as Germaine Bedeau, 48, the suspect was stopped by police on Route 22 in Mountainside after allegedly striking another Plainfield woman with her car.

According to police, that incident occurred in Somerset County. Due to a description of the suspect's car, police were able to identify it when spotted on Route 22.

According to police, the victim was at the intersection in North Plainfield at approximately 3:15 p.m., when she was struck by Bedeau's 1989 Hyundai, and was thrown from one side of the street to the other.

Police said Bedeau then fled the scene, turning in the direction of Route 22. Upon being stopped by the County Police, Bedeau was taken to the North Plainfield Police Department.

She was charged with both leaving the scene of an accident and careless driving. Police said she admitted to being involved in the hit-and-run. Stiffer charges could be added to those motor vehicle violations if the victim's condition worsens.

The victim suffered head injuries and was rushed to Muhlenberg Regional Medical Center in Plainfield.

Bedeau was released by North Plainfield police on $500 bail.

Council establishes no smoking rules

By Mark Crudele
Staff Writer

No one can smoke in a Board of Education building, and minors can not smoke on school property, the Borough Council established last week.

"The Board of Education requested that we pass this," said Ronald W. Romak, council president. "We modified it and it went back and forth between us and them until it was perfect."

"We wanted to give the officers in the police department the power and authority to handle juveniles on the premises who smoke," said Board of Education President Frank Geiger, "and give fair warning to juveniles who currently smoke on the school grounds."

"There is not only a problem with our own children, but with visiting children from other towns. It doesn't look good to have them smoking and it's not lawful," he added.

The board president explained that although there are laws to keep minors from buying cigarettes, they are not stopped from smoking when they are able to get them.

"We all realize that there is a law that prohibits the selling to children, but very little is done to stop them once they acquire the cigarettes," Geiger said. "So many times during events on school grounds, we see children smoking. It's just not right."

According to the ordinance, smoking "cigarettes or other tobacco or similar products" is now prohibited by anyone who is inside a building owned, used or maintained by the board.

Additionally, minors cannot smoke anywhere on board property. Smoking "cigarettes or other tobacco or similar products" is banned for minors under 18 years of age on property owned, used or maintained by the board.

Residents on Deer Path have complained about the speed limit on the street, and council members are listening.

The council will vote on an ordinance at next month's meeting that would drop the street's speed limit from 35 to 25 miles per hour.

The council approved the construction of a restroom facility near the borough's tennis courts.

Money for the facility, which is estimated to cost $56,000 to build, will be taken out of the borough's Capital Improvements fund.

The borough will be reimbursed $24,000 of the cost by the County of Union from the Community Development Block Grant fund.

The borough is finally getting a Fast Cops grant.

The federal grant of $75,000 will be used to employ an additional police officer to the Police Department.

Bagger bill protecting charity employees signed

Gov. Christine Todd Whitman signed legislation on July 25 sponsored by Assemblyman Richard Bagger, R-22, expanding charitable immunity to officers, employees and volunteers of non-profit charitable, educational and religious organizations.

According to Bagger, the new law was necessary to encourage and support volunteer charitable activity.

Until enactment of Bagger's bill, the charitable immunity statute protected only the charity — not its officers, employees and volunteers — from claims of negligence brought by beneficiaries of the charity.

"Excluding the officers, employees and volunteers of non-profit organizations created a loophole that defeated the purpose of charitable immunity," Bagger explained.

"With the charities themselves protected from liability, claims were being filed against the officers, employees and volunteers of charities in their individual capacities, causing the non-profit organization to indemnify the individuals with its own funds or insurance.

"This defeated the purpose of charitable immunity, which is to preserve the assets of the charity, and dissuades people from doing work for charities," Assemblyman Bagger said.

"People have been reluctant to volunteer for charities for fear of being named as an individual in a lawsuit," Bagger said. "By providing them with charitable immunity, hopefully more people will be encouraged to volunteer their time to charitable, educational and religious organizations."

Under the new law, immunity does not apply to intentional act, motor vehicle negligence or claims against health care providers.

Deer committee's study materials put on display

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders have arranged to have copies of the research materials used by the Watchung Reservation Deer Management Subcommittee placed for public view at the Public Library and the Trailside Nature and Science Center.

The subcommittee was appointed by the freeholders last year to study the growth of the white-tail deer population in the reservation. In addition to the research materials used by subcommittee members, correspondence disseminated among the members also is on display.

The effort to put the materials on display for public inspection is an attempt by the subcommittee to keep the public informed of its progress. The group meets on the last Tuesday of each month at Trailside, but the meetings are closed to the public.

"Many people have requested these documents," said Freeholder Linda DiGiovanni. "By placing it in locations around the county, and two sites which are also very involved in this issue, we hope to enable everyone who wishes to view the materials to do so."

Based on past recommendations of the subcommittee, the county has authorized a hunt of deer in the reservation in 1994, and dispatched sharpshooters to the reservation earlier this year.

The subcommittee is expected to prepare a report later this month regarding any possible deer population control efforts for 1996.

The paperwork also is available for public inspection at the public libraries in Berkeley Heights and Scotch Plains; the municipal buildings of Scotch Plains and Summit; the Animal Damage Control Center at Rutgers University in New Brunswick; and the library of the Morris County Park Commission at the Frelinghuysen Arboretum in Morristown.

The Trailside Nature and Science Center also will provide videotapes of presentations made before the subcommittee by wildlife management experts.

Among those taped presentations are those made by Jay McAninch of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources, and a meeting of the American Association of Botanical Gardens, held in Morristown.

While the documents are available to the public, the Freeholders recommended that those who plan to view the papers first contact the specific sites and determine viewing hours.

School board and YMCA plan after-school program

The Summit area YMCA and the Springfield Board of Education recently announced the start of an after-school adventure program for middle school students.

Club Mid will be held at Guadineer School during the coming academic year. Registration is now open.

Club Mid will run after school until 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Students will check in, relax and have a snack after school. A variety of classes will be offered in two class-periods. After classes, students can work on homework, participate in tutoring or mentoring programs, or play quiet games.

"Middle school students are generally too old for child care and too young for many extra-curricular activities," said Wendy Wolski, YMCA Teen Program director. "We wanted to offer students a fun alternative and the opportunity to try new things in a safe and social environment."

Club Mid will focus on leadership and social development, positive values and personal growth. Students will actively participate in program planning, so that Club Mid will reflect the activities and special events that the teens are interested in.

Different classes are offered each day. Examples of classes offered include strength training and step-aerobics, karate, floor hockey, tennis, creative arts and writing, earth service corps, sign language and junior mock government.

Students will be transported to and from the YMCA in minivans for special classes such as karate and step-aerobics.

Club Mid registration is now open. To register or for more information, call Wendy Wolski, Teen Program director, at (908) 273-3330.

Heritage Days weekend to be held next month

Volunteers working on the 100th anniversary commemoration have formed plans for the three-day party that will cap the borough's centennial celebration.

The Heritage Day Committee will sponsor a weekend-long birthday bash next month, and committee members promised an event of music, fun and food.

"An Evening at the Pops" — a two-hour concert performance featuring the New Jersey Pops, is on the agenda.

Under the direction of Michael Buglio, the symphony orchestra will perform in the auditorium of Our Lady of Lourdes Church.

In addition, "a gourmet's delight" will be provided, according to the committee. Participants will be able to sample the specialties of restaurants and caterers from the surrounding area.

Tickets are now on sale at $30 for the combined event.

On Sept. 15 the circus will come to town.

Heritage Day Committee members said jugglers, acrobats, clowns and trained animals will come together under the Phills Brothers' Big Top for two performances — at 5:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

From 4:30 to 7:30 p.m., a petting zoo, featuring barn animals, will be open for children.

A family-style dinner also will be offered in the auditorium of Our Lady of Lourdes throughout the course of the evening's events for a nominal fee.

As a discount special for residents only, pre-sale $10 family tickets will be sold. Singles and non-residents may purchase tickets in advance for $5 each. Tickets sold the night of the performance will be priced at $6 for children ages 3-12 and $7 for those over 12.

The celebration will continue on Sept. 16, with the Centennial Fair. Crafters, an antique car display, carnival games, miniature golf, pony rides, a wide array of rides for toddlers to teens and a tethered hot-air-balloon will be on hand.

In addition to a variety of other entertainers, there will be mimes, jugglers, clowns and uni-cyclists strolling the Deerfield School grounds.

Musical entertainment will include a line dancing show and instruction for adults, and special interactive entertainment for the children too.

Many games and contests, such as tug o' war, sack races, water balloon toss, bocce skill tournament, limbo, hula hoop and spoon races will be among the 22 family activities.

Sept. 16 will mark the finals of the week-long sporting events and junior olympiad.

There will be parent/child tennis tournaments, relay races and 100-yard dashes among other events.

The weekend will come to a close with a bang.

Those who want to obtain tickets early may send a check, made payable to the Borough of Mountainside, to 1385 Route 22 East, Mountainside, NJ 07092.

Conflict escalates, state intervenes

In a matter related to the proposed dissolution of the Union County Regional High School District, the Regional Board of Education soon will see the state resolve a dispute that has left board members split into two factions.

The state Department of Education's Bureau of Controversies and Disputes soon will conclude its examination of the controversy surrounding a document prepared by board attorney Lawrence Schwartz — the district's official answer to petitions from four member municipalities appealing Union County Superintendent of Schools Leonard Fitts' opinion that deregionalization is "not advisable."

It is regrettable that Trenton has been involved in what is a regional dispute, but when members of the Regional Board of Education can't control the actions of its own administration, outside agencies should intervene.

Regional High School Board of Education members Carmine Venes of Mountainside, Ned Sambur of Springfield, Robert Jeans of Kenilworth and Thomas Foregger of Berkeley Heights denounced Schwartz's document and brought it to the attention of the state Department of Education.

In doing so, they questioned the process by which the content of board correspondence is decided: Should the views of a majority of board members be expressed, or should a minority of board members decide board policy? Equally significant is the fact they alerted the state to a problem the regional board is having.

This is a key factor in any continuation of the movement to dissolve the regional high school district. If four members of a nine-member body can direct the administration and its attorney, how will that board govern? At the time Schwartz's letter was sent, the regional board had eight members; one seat was vacant.

The next step in deregionalization would involve the formation of a board of review that may call for a public vote to decide the fate of the regional high school district. Five local boards of education and four municipal governing bodies petitioned state Commissioner of Education Leo Klagholz, requesting the formation of a board of review.

Venes, Sambur, Jeans and Foregger also contacted Klagholz, and in a letter said they "would like to see a public referendum on the question of dissolution." They also described Schwartz's document as one that "does not represent the views of a majority of our current board."

That board of review would have convened in Trenton earlier this summer, but was put on hold pending the outcome of the events listed above.

The rift in the Regional Board of Education branches into other board business. Citing his objection to the $37,000 spent last year on deregionalization-related legal expenses, Jeans said he will no longer vote to approve the payment of such legal fees.

That is a gesture indicative of what could become a crippling problem for the board. While it is unlikely that unanimity can be reached at every board vote, individual board members should not feel they either have to appeal to the state for help or protest paying the board attorney because he took direction from a minority of board members.

The current Regional High School Board of Education and the district's administration already have given the state plenty of room to intervene in regional affairs. The state has settled the district's budget. It will settle the dispute regarding Schwartz's letter.

If that matter is representative of the conduct that can be expected from the regional board regarding any discussion of the proposed dissolution of the school district, it is likely the state will help the board govern itself in that respect also.

Now that the board again has nine members, we hope this will not happen. After all, the reason local and regional governing bodies exist is to tend to local and regional needs — a task thought handled better at these levels than by the state.

The Regional High School Board of Education must act to preserve its autonomy. Rejecting the minority-rule school of thought is something the board must accomplish on its own.

"By requiring reporters to disclose sources, government hampers the press from collecting information. If you can't collect it, you can't publish it. This is clearly contrary to the First Amendment."

—Jack C. Landau

Antarctica: Shimmering, pristine wilderness

Ever since Lars Erik Lindblad took the first vacationers to Antarctica in 1965, tourists have been visiting the "White Continent."

This land of remote location, fragile animal and plant life and eerie beauty, is one of the most awesome destinations on the map.

A vast white desert, holding more than 90 percent of the world's fresh water, produces the most breathtaking images of the fifth largest continent. The wildlife, surrounded by a frozen pageantry of icebergs, glistening white glaciers and snowcapped peaks, gives viewers a taste of heaven. Here are endless photographic opportunities.

Be Our Guest

By Fontaine Gatti

The continent has acted like a magnet to great explorers such as Sir Ernest Shackleton and his companions. While on a typical tour of Antarctica, one can visit research stations that were and still are staffed by various nations.

To start this journey, a flight from Miami to Santiago, Chile, will be your first day. Then the next day you're off to Ushuaia, Chile, where most visitors then sail the Drake Passage to Antarctica.

Visits to the continent can only be made during the austral summer season, when penguin rookeries are full of busy adults tending to their hungry chicks. Basically Dec. 19 through Feb. 15 is the height of this austral summer. Here seabirds call and compete with the chattering of penguins and raucous bellows of huge seals.

A distinguished group of scientists and lecturers are always on hand while you explore glacial mountain slopes and wildlife. Of course, there are orca and minke whales by the ton.

The 138 passenger World Discoverer is a vessel specifically designed for passenger expeditions and her ice-hardened hull allows her to navigate easily in the most rugged natural environment. A fleet of Zodiacs quickly and safely transport visitors to shore, allowing easy access to otherwise remote penguin colonies, seal rookeries and research stations.

There you can spend many hours watching albatross, petreals and the comical antics and curious personalities of Antarctica's ambassadors.

Teens should be taught sacredness of sex

In acknowledging its value, we honor our own psyches and spirits. Why would we not encourage students to develop and honor spirit, as well as mind and body? Isn't it possible that we have removed basic spiritual ethics along with the specificity of religious practice?

In a philosophy class we are able to explore issues from several philosophical perspectives. Some high schools may have comparative religion courses. I even found one high school that has meditation classes available to students, allowing them to explore life issues beyond intellect. But in classes primarily concerned with personal choice, where it could be most useful, we often shy away from discussions exploring the spiritual answer. And so, the central truths from spirit that would benefit all students in active discussions are largely being left unexplored. Classes such as sex education could benefit tremendously from such a discussion. Since the point of education is to illuminate perspectives, aren't we cheating students of a complete education when leaving out the spiritual perspective? Those students who have no exposure to spirituality would gain, as would those who already follow a particular doctrine or heritage. Sharing the basic spiritual ethics common to humanity could bring insights and higher awareness to all. Most importantly, by the very inclusion of these ethics in sex education programs, we as adults underline their importance. And in general, as students begin to define and personalize their own spiritual ethics, they may more easily integrate those principles into important life choices.

Presently, a large percentage of schools have either a physical education teacher or a nurse teaching sex education largely from a physiological perspective. Schools that are taking time to consider the availability of condoms and thus are emphasizing protection of the body, might more productively discuss protection of the spirit and the deeper issues around waiting, first. Since schools are almost exclusively where sex education is being taught, what we leave out of the program is as significant as what we are including. Do we need to consider having these programs outside the classroom so that mind, body, and spirit can be included on the agenda? We must find a way to influence teens, so they are not lost in the confusion created by media, statistics and unbalanced sex education programs. The youth of today need a place to discuss spirituality and its link to sexuality. If we can touch the students' hearts, perhaps they will take time out and reflect before they act.

Nan Sea, a Summit resident, is the author of "Sex...A Spiritual Guide, for the youth of today."

Ever-growing needs troubling our nation

As I See It

By Norman Rauscher

When you add up all the necessities needed in this life, we do not have enough money left over to help support all the noble causes and charities we'd like to help.

And don't forget the constant flood of pleas from organizations you belong to which are forever seeking funds to finance a new program or strengthen an old one. These requests generally come in the form of theater parties, charitable dinners or 50/50s.

When it comes down to it, we are a society of always having our collective hands out soliciting for our favorite cause, charity, or organization.

We do not mind this since we know that America is known for its charitable nature, but we are troubled when the time comes to decide who gets what and when.

It always has been my feeling that we must help support our local charities and causes first. We live by the old cliché that "charity begins at home." What's left over and if we can afford it, will go to other groups outside of home.

However, a new and complex problem has come upon the scene and becomes more and more evident every day. We are asked to help support the homeless and the hungry. This is a worthwhile cause and we subscribe to it. But what concerns us is the fact that we live in the most prosperous nation in the world, but are unable to feed or house all our residents. We cannot understand this. People must be fed and housed; but we are unable to solve this troubling problem. So what happens? We received a request in the mail to help support a group who will buy food for the hungry and house as many of the homeless as possible. Naturally, we will send out a solicitation; but it troubles us to have to do this in light of this nation's vast resources.

We also are troubled by the problems of our aging population when medical costs can literally wipe out a family's life savings in a matter of weeks. Again, this happens in the world's most affluent nation.

True, there are the takers in this world, who brazenly take but give nothing back. They are of the "free lunch" mentality that says "The world owes me a living." We cannot subscribe to that philosophy, but there are those who are genuinely in need and require help.

Artistic talent pops up in student

Youth excels in adult class for pop-ups

Steve Huang, a 12-year-old from Chatham, knew he wanted to be in the New Jersey Center for Visual Arts class "Art and Entertainment of Pop-Ups," taught by Chuck Miley. He loved his books illustrated with pop-ups and was fascinated with the idea of being able to make them. But the class was for adults.

Steve and his mother, Anshun Huang, came to New Jersey Center for Visual Arts and asked if they could speak with the instructor. Miley, has a 12 year old son of his own who also makes pop-ups, so he decided to allow Huang into the class.

It turned out that Huang was able to create some of the best work Miley has seen.

Huang created a pink flying pig, floating in the clouds with a small airplane that moves across the top of the card, an elephant in a circus cage with a peanut in its trunk which waves when the card is opened, and a frog with a long tongue that tries to catch you as if you were a fly.

In all, Huang had a wonderful time during his six weeks of attending the class and was able to turn his already artistic talent to creating these three-dimensional pieces of art.

Steve Huang, right, found a hidden talent for pop-up art when he attended NJCVA classes taught by Chuck Miley.

A Family Business for Over 55 Years

Join First Night for New Year's Eve fun

Singers, comedians, musicians, dancers, storytellers, magicians, poets and other performing artists are needed to ring in the new year. First Night Summit, a community celebration of the arts, is recruiting a multicultural, inter-generational line-up of talent to entertain families and children — especially kindergarten through pre-teen.

The deadline for artist's selection was May 31. To be a part of Summit's non-alcoholic and drug-free First Night, call 522-1722.

There are only a dozen First Night celebrations in New Jersey. Last year's second First Night was also an overwhelming success. Despite freezing rain, 6,000 people — from newborns to octogenarians — were entertained by 55 different performing groups. From 6:30 p.m. until midnight, a wide variety of performances occurred simultaneously in approximately 20 indoor and outdoor locations around downtown Summit. The evening began with a street procession and concluded with a fireworks display on the Village Green.

Talk explains way to increase survival

Men diagnosed with prostate cancer have an excellent chance of survival when the disease is diagnosed early. If you believe you or a family member is at risk of the disease or would like to learn more about prostate cancer, plan to attend a lecture on prostate cancer at Overlook Hospital on Sept. 14, from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Dr. Pascal A. Piaronti, attending urologist at Overlook Hospital, will be featured. Piaronti will discuss the latest advances in prostate cancer treatment, the importance of detecting the disease in its early stages and he will answer questions from those in attendance.

"Prostate cancer is treated according to the stage of the disease. Treatments include surgery to remove all of the prostate gland, thereby removing the cancer; radiation therapy which destroys the cancer cells; and hormone therapy which shrinks the size of the tumor and slows its growth," said Piaronti.

There is a $10 fee for the program. For further information or to register, call Health Connection at (908) 522-5353.

Overlook is a 589-bed acute care community teaching hospital affiliated with Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York City.

Eating disorder education

The picture was taken just moments after Cheryl Toner was named college homecoming queen. She is holding a trophy and smiling brightly. Everything looks perfect but that perception couldn't have been further from the truth.

What no one knew, was that she had already forced herself to vomit five times that day. This was part of her daily ritual to expel unwanted food and calories from her body.

"I was dying on the inside and it looked so good on the outside," Toner said.

Looking good on the outside had been the focus of Toner's life since she was 13.

She faced the start of her teen years at almost 200 pounds. A disapproving doctor said, "What a shame you're fat, you're such a beautiful girl."

The remark struck Toner deeply. Six months later, she weighed just 82 pounds. Yet, starvation was a constant struggle and by the time the calendar flipped to another year, she had shifted from anorexia to bulimia.

Now she is working to help others overcome the eating disorders that almost killed her.

What seemed so convenient at first quickly spiraled into a compulsion, a need to take laxatives, exercise, abuse diet pills, consume large quantities of food and an equally intense need to regurgitate it.

"Eventually you can't stop it. You're incapable of stopping it," Toner said, meaning at least incapable of stopping it alone.

In 1982, Cheryl gained support from her peers, insight from a therapist and control over her food and her life. Now Toner is working at Charter Behavioral Health System of New Jersey, located on Prospect Street in Summit, to give other women the same chance.

After beginning her recovery in 1982, Toner finished her undergraduate work and earned a master's degree and doctorate of philosophy in counseling. She is also a certified eating disorder specialist by the International Association of Eating Disorder Professionals and a certified professional counselor.

Cheryl believes that recovery takes more than one person, it takes teamwork.

"It's about the physical, emotional, familial and social, you have to treat them all together," Toner said.

Early detection and intervention along with education can bring these disorders out in the open where support and treatment is available. "There is no reason to feel ashamed, we know because we have been there. You don't have to face it alone," she said.

Women and men who come to Charter will find counseling and support groups for themselves, family and friends. The first weekly support groups began Aug. 14 and were led by a professional and recovering person of anorexia, bulimia and compulsive eating disorder.

Easy choice to be healthy

Advances in science and medicine over the past decade now make it possible for older women and men to choose to be healthy, according to Carole Gordon, program director for the New Jersey Central chapter of the Older Women's League.

Barring serious disease or disabilities, even those with genetic defects or abnormalities may soon find it possible to prolong life as well as improve the quality of life if they choose to lead a healthy lifestyle, she said.

Four experts will reveal the latest information about their specializations at the next OWL meeting on Sept. 16 at 10 a.m. The meeting, open to the public, will be at the Summit YWCA, Morris Avenue and Prospect Street. Featured speakers will be Karen Weinstock, a nutritionist from Westfield, who will talk about nutrition for the older woman; Dr. Anthony Carusone, chiropractor from Garwood, who will address stress management; and Pat Fosella, manager, and Gina Mericle, assistant manager of the Cranford pool, who will discuss land and aquatic exercises.

OWL is a national grassroots membership organization advocating for the special concerns and needs of women as they age. For further information, call (908) 272-5671.

All voice parts open in chorale

Summit Chorale welcomes experienced singers to audition for all voice parts in the 70-member ensemble as it begins its 87th season of presenting choral works from the Renaissance to the present.

The first of the season's three major concerts will feature Christmas music by English composers John Taverner, Edward Elgar, Charles V. Stanford and John Taverner, and will be presented on Dec. 2 in Maplewood and Dec. 3 in Madison. On March 9 in Plainfield, the chorale will perform works by French composers Poulenc and Jannequin, and feature the "Requiem" by Faure. The season concludes on May 18 in Summit with works by "five M's": Monteverdi, Messaien, Martinu, and Fanny and Felix Mendelssohn.

Summit Chorale's music director and conductor is Garyth Nair, who begins his 26th year with the chorale.

UNICO plans benefit car show

The Hillside chapter of UNICO National will conduct a benefit car show on Saturday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. at Hillside High School. The high school is located at 1085 Liberty Ave., and will be the site where classic cars, antiques, street rods and customs will be on display for the general public.

Spectators are admitted free of charge. The high school has a large parking lot, with additional parking on Livingston Road.

There will be several food vendors including disc jockey Wacky Wayne providing an expected festive atmosphere.

According to Hillside UNICO Chapter President Angelo Bonanno, Hillside's UNICO organized the benefit as a fund raiser for its three charities, which are: UNICO National Mental Health Project; Lakeview School, which is affiliated with the Cerebral Palsy Center; and the Academic Decathlon Program at Hillside High School. Bonanno expressed strong sentiment about providing a financial boost to the fledgling Academic Decathlon Program. Funds will go toward paying an application fee and for teaching materials and whatever extras that might be necessary to assist Hillside students in competing with 70 other statewide high schools.

During the past school year, 10 Hillside High School students participated in the decathlon. They tested their skills in areas such as language and literature, fine arts and mathematics against other schools. Participating for the first time, Hillside students fared very well, garnering several medals.

Proceeds are derived by charging exhibition fees to the car exhibitors and vendors. The rain date is set for Sunday.

"UNICO's car show also helps bring people to the area for shopping and promotes the Hillside community," said Bonanno.

Anyone interested in more details may call (908) 388-5791 or (908) 965-0415.

Marathon runner promotes Leukemia Society's team

Running great Marty Liquori urged runners who have received acceptances in the 26th New York City Marathon to consider joining the Leukemia Society of America Team in Training, based in Springfield.

According to Liquori, a former top-ranked "miler" and holder of the American record at 5,000 meters, "joining our team will help to make a difference."

A leukemia patient himself, Liquori noted that team members run in the name of a leukemia patient and raise funds to support the society's programs. "Meeting a patient and knowing his or her daily battles makes 26.2 miles seem far more achievable."

He also said he has received great personal encouragement from the Leukemia Society of America and particularly the new Cure 2000 campaign, adding "it's great to hear that by the year 2000, our researchers believe that we shall have the cause and cure of this disease."

The Leukemia Society of America's Northern New Jersey Chapter Team in Training members benefit from a support system including: fitness trainer, training runs, team shirts, fund raising tips, monthly newsletters, pre-race pasta party, transportation to the starting line in Staten Island and headquarters facilities and post-race dinner party at a New York City hotel.

Runners with acceptances for the New York City Marathon, scheduled for Nov. 12, and are interested in joining the Team in Training, can receive further information from the society's Northern New Jersey Chapter at 376-9559.

Springfield tennis players compete in state tourney

In other first round matches, Sayanlar, ever at 3-3, lost 8-3. Zhu, leading at 5-0, withdrew due to a blistered thumb. Garity lost 8-0. Bobby Cpin, seeded fourth, was upset 8-1.

Unseeded Timothy Homlish, with 8-2 and 8-5 wins, advanced to the quarterfinals before falling to the top seed, 8-0.

Vincent Mei, seeded third, upheld his seeding by advancing into semifinals with 8-3, 8-3 wins and a tie breaker 8-7 — 7-3 — victory, before his loss to the number one seed, 6-3, 6-4, the next day.

Tennis balls for the home matches were provided by the Recreation Department. Transportation to the away matches was provided by Tony Tomasino. The team was coached by Susie Eng for the 7th season.

Springfield's LA Law second-best

Union County Senior Softball League team reaches age 60 title game

Coming in second is not so bad.

LA Law of Springfield reached the Union County Senior Softball League age 60-and-over championship game, falling to Don Halbsgut Advertising Agency of Westfield 8-4.

A large crowd turned out for the game and the players, young at heart, put on quite a show.

Ron Cerina went 2-for-3 and teammate Bob D'Arecca played well in the field, making several fine running catches, to spark Springfield.

Ted Kurtz was 3-for-3 with a home run and Chick Miller 2-for-3 for DHAA. Joe Serratelli and George Cernak played well defensively for the champs. In semifinal round action, LA Law defeated Pioneer Transport of Elizabeth 15-7 and DHAA bested ERA Suburb Realty of Scotch Plains 15-3.

Lou Vespasiano, Bill Nichols, Don Auer and John Hirner each went 3-for-3 and Gabe Ilaria belted a long RBI-double for Springfield in its win over Pioneer.

Winning pitcher Bob Rowland had three hits and Miller, Mick McNicholas, Ed McGee and Russ Loveland each had multiple-hit games for DHAA in its win against ERA.

Crest wins 50-and-over championship

Crest Refrigeration of Union defeated Antone's Pub & Grill of Cranford 12-11 to win the age 50-and-over league championship contest.

Winning pitcher John Kennedy went 2-for-3, belted a home run and drove in four runs to spark Crest. Lee Brandyberry drove in the winning run in the bottom of the seventh. He also drove in the winning run with one of his three hits in the team's semifinal-round victory over Burgdorff Realty of Westfield.
