A newly formed group, The Inclusion Council of Union County, is taking on the momentous task of trying to re-educate people of all racial and ethnic backgrounds to live in harmony with one another.

Talk about setting lofty goals. There is nothing wrong with reaching for the stars, and who knows, they may accomplish what they set out to do if they receive enough cooperation.

Many people may be too quick to discount the possibility of this group having an impact on the populace. They must, however, realize that racial tension seems to be worsening not only in Union County, but around the world almost on a daily basis. Something must be done or we will be faced with the inevitable — a global war based on race, religion and ethnicity.

None of us can accept a war such as that, and no one who is of sane mind should be willing to take on a challenge which means "cleansing" of all cultures except those with which you are a member. Why you would even want to consider "cleansing" — and oh what a horrible use of a word that is — such as this is beyond me.

What we must realize, and what the Inclusion Council is attempting to get people to do, is that each of us comes from a heritage which has brought us many wonderful things. At the same time, hosts of other cultures have brought things with them which all of us have surely enjoyed.

The most obvious example of this would be in relation to our daily eating habits. America is indeed a "melting pot" and we have borrowed aspects we like from others and have had no problem with making those items part of our own daily living experience. How many of us enjoy eating Italian, Chinese, Spanish, Japanese or the wide array of other foods? Probably most of you reading this enjoy partaking in the culinary pleasures of at least one of the aforementioned cuisines.

But there are many other things which we have borrowed from other cultures and can be seen in our own homes, ranging from fashions to the decor on our walls.

Imagine how boring we would all be eating the same food, wearing the same clothes or having similar household decor. So much for anyone being "cultured."

The council will strive for people to celebrate their differences, and some of those already are the focus of much hoopla. At the same time, the council also intends to have us "concentrate" on our similarities. In some cases, similarities may be much more plentiful than we realize, and in particular our views may not be as far off as some may believe.

After all, just because someone is of a particular race does not mean they can automatically be stereotyped as having a particular view. And even if their view is akin to what it is "supposed" to be, so what? If you disagree with it, then it allows for debate.

One of the ways in which the council has gone about trying to familiarize its 12 board members, each of whom represent a particular ethnic group, is to have each of them experience what it is like to sit in the chair of another. During a session, the group's chairman, Veronica Desmond, had each member pretend to be the other, thus asking them to represent someone from another ethnic group.

Desmond said she has plans to have each of those members visit with members of other backgrounds to experience their concerns. This would be interesting, although obvious degrees would exist as to how far this trading of places could be taken.

People would be more apt not to talk with someone as candidly if that individual is of a culture different from their own. And, although it may be easy to mask differences in some cases, color is something which cannot so easily be hidden.

Overall, though, the idea is an interesting one. Asking people to trade places could do a world of good. Those who accept the challenge, however, must be truly committed to the cause.

Is the ocean the best route for planes?

FAA official challenges Port Authority's study

By Mark Crudele
Staff Writer

Eight years ago, Glenn Bales devised a flight plan for the entire eastern seaboard. Now, he regrets it. "In my 40 years with the FAA, I never looked at what was on the ground when I was making flight paths," Bales said. "I only looked at the airspace."

Bales' plan is the one that most legislators cite when they talk about excessive airplane noise over Union County. And as a consultant for a state citizens group, he says it's time to change that.

"If I broke it," Bales said, "maybe I can fix it."

Hired by the New Jersey Coalition Against Aircraft Noise, Bales is pushing a plan that would route incoming and departing planes over the water instead of having them fly at low altitudes over land. That scenario has garnered support from the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and select lawmakers, who feel the FAA ignores the county's concerns about air traffic noise.

Bales believes that "ocean-routing" is the best way to keep the low-flying planes from disrupting people.

"Unless you go over the ocean, you'll affect someone at some time," Bales explained during a hearing in Trenton last week.

However, NJCAAN's plan was dismissed by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, whose own consultants found its conclusions unfeasible. They said it would create operational and safety problems, as well as causing flight delays at Newark International Airport.

The FAA then based its decision not to reroute planes over the ocean based on that Port Authority study.

But NJCAAN maintains that the Port Authority's consultants misrepresented Bales' Oceanic Routing Plan in its analysis, said Pamela Barsam-E'own, executive director of the citizens group.

She claimed the authority "has steadfastly stood in the way of scientific accuracy and a truthful record."

Bales told Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden, R-Union, that the Port Authority distorted the routes he proposed, the noise the planes would make, the excess cost and delay consequences of his plan when they determined it would not work. He stressed that there aren't many plans that effectively decrease takeoff and landing noise like his does.

"We never said this is the only way to solve the noise problem," Bales said. "But it is the only one that I know of."

After the meeting, Ogden said she wants the Port Authority's study redone.

"There seems to be an honest disagreement, but there is too much at stake here," Ogden said. "We are talking about people's lives and their enjoyment of their homes. When someone like Glenn Bales says it, you have to listen. I can't think of anyone who has more in-depth knowledge than he does."

She said not correcting the Port Authority's plan would be misleading to citizens.

"That's really what has been unfortunate," Ogden said. "If people believe what the Port Authority said, and it was based on an incorrect model of the plan, then that wrong should be righted. Despite the disputes between these two experts, I feel we can go forward."

Assemblyman Richard Bagger, R-Union, added he also will ask the Port Authority to re-evaluate its study.

"There clearly were assumptions made that possibly were mistaken. It is not a difficult task to make changes

'Unless you go over the ocean, you'll affect someone at some time.'

— Glenn Bales
Federal Aviation Administration

in the assumptions. We owe it to the people."

But William Dunlay of Leigh-Fisher Associates, the Port Authority's consultants, said he had no plans of redoing the authority's study.

"We do have some differences of opinion," Dunlay said. "We acknowledged there are differences. They have their conclusions, and we have ours. But we believe we modeled the plan as they defined it."

NJCAAN members charge that the Port Authority did not communicate with Bales before it formulated its report.

"All of these 'mistakes' could have been avoided had the Port Authority staff and consultants conferred with Mr. Bales before their version of the plan was modeled," said Michael Schatzki, president of the New Jersey Citizens for Environmental Research.

"Upon learning of these errors, the Port Authority chose to do nothing about them," claimed Patrick Russell, counsel to NJCAAN.

"Free exchange between the two groups was not an easy task," Ogden said. "It was very, very difficult."

Bales was the architect of the Expanded East Coast Plan. Implemented in 1987, the plan routed planes over local communities.

The consultant said the plan's intent was to increase efficiency and reduce delays at Newark, LaGuardia and Kennedy airports. However, he conceded all it did was increase aircraft noise.

After residents complained about the EECF, the FAA decided to conduct an environmental impact study, which recommended some flight plan changes. However, it concluded that NJCAAN's plan to reroute airplanes in and out of Newark International Airport along the Atlantic Ocean would be dangerous, cause flight delays and increase noise for residents in other states.

"We are now on the fast track to providing relief for many of the state's residents who were affected by the implementation of the EECF," See OCEAN, Page B3

Council reaches out to unite diversity

By Chris Gatto

A bipartisan citizen group has announced its plans to serve as a vehicle for the implementation of the governor's diversity agenda in Union County.

The Inclusion Council of Union County's formation was announced during a press conference last week when Secretary of State Lonna Hooks accepted the group under the state's "Many Faces, One Family" program umbrella.

Hooks, who said the council was the first of its kind, told attendees that people must become involved in order to address "stresses" which exist between various groups of the state's population.

Veronica Desmond, who serves as commissioner to deter criminal activity under the state Division of Law and Public Safety, heard the governor's call for assistance and became involved in the program.

Signing on as the group's chairman, Desmond said when she became involved in this endeavor, she and other council members "examined the global factors that affect our nation, its markets, businesses, different levels of government and the core of our very future," they discovered that the key to future success is diversity.

"If we the people of the United States, the people of New Jersey can understand different viewpoints, respect differences, build on common ground and use our differences as a cumulative advantage to foster positive growth in many areas, then nothing can stand before us," Desmond said during the Aug. 24 gathering at the Elizabethtown Gas Company's building in Union.

"It is Governor Whitman who has ignited the spirit of diversity, the spirit of 'We the People' that you see assembled here today," she said. "And it is Governor Whitman, in the true spirit of entrepreneurship that has given us the freedom to develop our 'We the People' pilot here in Union County."

Through educational forums and testimonials, Desmond said the council will strive to "concentrate on our similarities and celebrate our differences," while also encouraging others throughout the state to follow suit.

The council's boundaries will not stop in Union County, said Desmond, who foresees three regional groups — one each in the south, north and central portions of New Jersey. The council, of course, would change its name if Desmond's vision should be realized.

Hooks said she and Whitman have been trying to raise issues of understanding across the state during the past 18 months, and her experiences make her believe citizens will "rise to the challenge and do what is right." The secretary of state noted that for everything people have heard about someone who is "not good-hearted," she sees 20 or 30 people a day who are different and want to see things work out.

Hooks noted that it will take the efforts of people, such as those on the council, and not legislation to begin addressing current wrongs. She said it will take the efforts of people going "street by street" in order to have a significant impact on the populace.

The council is comprised of a diverse group of individuals who represent the following groups: Russ Triolo, youth groups; Louise Yohalem, Jewish-Americans; Rafael Bentancourt, Puerto Rican-Americans; Sue Yang, Asian-Americans; Karen Torian, African-Americans; Carmen Mendiola, Cuban-Americans; Manny Grova, Portuguese-Americans, and Sophie Kauchak, different women's groups in Union County.

In addition to Desmond, others include Jerry Midgette, vice chairman; Sophie Kauchak, secretary, and Maria Sartor, media representative.

Desmond said the council is still looking for representatives of the Italian, Irish and Polish communities.

The group, formed last year, has scheduled a meeting for September, when it will tackle the subject of property taxes and education. A regional economic summit is envisioned for the spring some time following elections.

According to Desmond, the council's focus will be more on economics than the "Many Faces, One Family" program.

The council intends to develop surveys and "other tools" to measure its impact. Members of the press will be invited to review the group's report card. Information as to how the report card will be developed is still in the planning stages.

College's acting chief is looking for higher standards

By Chris Gatto

When baseballs from the Kean College campus were landing on neighbors' lawns, denting cars and striking homes, there were a lot of angry people.

This matter, which eventually was addressed, succeeded in building a thicker wall between the college and members of the community.

Acting Kean College President Hank Ross says matters such as these can be easily resolved, and would impact greatly in chipping away at the bricks which make up the wall separating Kean and its neighbors.

Enhancing Kean's soured relations with the community is one facet of a three-pronged approach Ross believes is necessary for the college to undertake if it is to become a top-notch institution of higher learning.

Ross' plan is to restore funding to the college, reduce some of the tensions which have existed between assorted groups and refocus energies on campus by strengthening some of the college's programs.

The 51-year-old acting president says he thinks it is a pivotal time for the college, and welcomes the task which lies ahead.

"I think Kean College is standing at a crossroads. I think that staff, faculty and students have an external community that wants us to do well, so we have a tremendous opportunity," he said. "I think there have been some difficult years, but I think we can build on the tremendous strengths that we have and they'll bring us to where we have every right to believe we should be, and that is to be one of the premier schools of higher education in the State of New Jersey. We have the building blocks in front of us, so I think it is a tremendous opportunity."

The opportunity for Ross to lead, however, may never really come to fruition, because his role as acting president carries no security. Figuratively, Ross could be out of that post tomorrow, but it is more likely he will hold it until at least the end of the first semester.

Ross declines to commit as to whether he is interested in the president's post, and has indicated he has not been approached by anyone on the board of trustees about the full-time post. He says only that he serves at "the pleasure of the board."

Pat Molden, spokeswoman for the college, said Kean's Presidential Search Committee remains tight-lipped about its plans.

The committee held its sixth meeting July 26, when it issued a report indicating that its review of 100 applicants was continuing. Initial candidate interviews are expected to take place in September, with finalists expected to be screened in October.

Comprising the 12-member committee are four trustees, two student representatives, five faculty senate members and an alumni representative.

Presidential Search Chair Patricia Weston Fivera said in the report that "the caliber of candidates we are reviewing is outstanding and the pool is representative of a diverse population. I am sure the campus will be impressed by those selected by the committee for the fall campus visits."

Ross, who resides in Branchburg with his wife, Robbie, had served as special assistant to the president for economic and community development/president of the Union County Alliance before being named acting president in June. The other title he held was director of institutional research.

He has been with Kean for about 25 years, starting shortly after completing graduate school. He has a doctorate in political science from Rutgers University. He initially served as a faculty member and moved to the administration, where he served in assorted capacities.

Ross to target university status for Kean

If Ross inevitably gets the nod, he would make among his priorities whether Kean should move to university status. A number of other state colleges recently have gone that route. "This has been a desire expressed by many people. I think that's feasible, but that's something that has to be decided by the campus community," Ross said. He noted that it would involve some strengthening of the graduate area, not that such a shift would involve some strengthening of programs.

Another item Ross sees as vital, or in his words "absolutely critical" is restoring the college's funding base. Kean College is among the eight state colleges that receive the lowest level of state funding, said Ross. It receives about $1,000 per full-time student below the state average. The state's system of funding colleges and universities changed about 12 years ago, and Kean has been negatively affected, Ross said. Funding used to be based on enrollment, but now funds are awarded based on a college's previous year's budget.

When the state changed this system, Ross said it allowed colleges to do what they wished in terms of enrollment. "A lot of schools took the opportunity to cut their enrollments. What it did," he said, "was to increase their funding on a per-student basis."

But Kean remained "committed to providing opportunities, and we are an institution which really is a college of opportunity with standards of excellence," he said. After a certain point, the impact on funding becomes cumulative, said Ross, who noted there had been a deleterious impact on programs.

"We enroll about 7,500 students. That's a $7.5 million annual shortfall against the state average," he said.

"Our tuition is also the lowest in the state. If we brought that up to the state average, that would be another $2 million to $2.5 million. So, in effect, the college suffers from a $10 million annual shortfall. That's against an $80 million budget. That's a huge number in any terms, but it's certainly a huge number against $80 million."

"For us, that's the difference in being able to fund our program at a level of adequacy as opposed to a level of excellence, which it deserves," he said. "So for our institution to do the kind of job that it needs to do in the best way possible, we've got to restore our programs."

Ross said he does not believe the current political climate will allow Kean to gain more money by simply pleading poverty. "It won't work. What we need to do is demonstrate performance. We've got to show value for value. We've got to demonstrate that we have programs that can make the maximum contribution to the state," he said. "Show how you can do it, why you can do it, what way you can do it based on the value we have to offer. And based on performance, we think we need some enhancement in funding. And I think people are willing to increase funding if they're going to see value for value."

Ross said it is necessary to put in place a strategic planning process. This would mean coming up with a vision of what Kean envisions for the future. That plan must be "effective," "strong" and "tough," he added.

Another of Ross' goals, and one that many people across the nation will probably be watching, is reducing some of the tensions that existed on the campus during the last several years.

"I've been spending the last six weeks meeting with groups across the campus, with faculty leadership, with rank-and-file faculty members, with student leaders, with administrators, with different ethnic groups, with all kinds of committees — the union, the faculty senate, executive committee and so on — and basically what I shared with them was an approach that I had outlined when I initially met with the board of trustees in June when I was first appointed," he said. "I said, in my mind, there were three major priorities the college would have to face in the years ahead. They're basic, they're fundamental, and they go to the heart of what we need to do as an institution in my judgment and I certainly invited input in response to these priorities."

Ross was not critical of past handlings of speaking engagements by controversial figures such as the Rev. Al Sharpton, Nation of Islam Leader Louis Farrakhan or Leonard Jeffries of the City College of New York.

On the subject of speakers, two issues exist — one involves freedom of speech and the other has to do with being the institution standing up for "tolerance and shared respect, civility," said Ross. He said it is important that the president enunciate clearly the college's position and that a response come without delay.

The communication, however, that Ross envisions would not stop with the campus community, but would include the college's host municipality, Union Township. During the past few months, the college has taken steps toward being a better neighbor.

While only time will tell if those wounds can be mended, one thing's for sure: If Ross does become college president, neighbors' complaints of having to dodge baseballs will be short-lived.

Ocean cited as best route

said Barry Valentine, FAA's assistant administrator for Policy, Planning and International Aviation, when announcing the results last month.

Congressman Bob Franks, R-7, charged that the FAA's findings were "an affront to citizens through Central New Jersey who have been pleading for relief from the constant roar of airplanes over their homes."

And four New Jersey Republican House members demanded a meeting with FAA Administrator David Hinson to show support for the ocean-routing proposal as a solution to a problem that "has been hanging over our constituents' heads for seven years."

A joint letter signed by Franks, Rodney Frelinghuysen, R-11, Marge Roukema, R-5, and Dick

Zimmer, R-12, said, "The citizens of New Jersey see an agency that has been unresponsive and has refused to provide or address a regional solution."

The FAA expects its new routes, which they should have in place by 1996, to provide jet noise relief for 18,755 Union County residents.

But Bales argued that ocean routing would reduce jet noise for far greater numbers of residents. He said it would be close to 703,000 residents, while the Port Authority claims it would only help 420,000.

Dunlay projects ocean routing would cost airlines $72 million in increased travel time and delays. Bales said it would only be $15 million more.

The FAA is accepting public comment until Sept. 11, when it will finalize its decision.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Conrad puts an audience under his hypnotic spell

By Lisa Ann Battito
Arts and Entertainment Editor
Performer Gary Conrad has a successful show when members of his audience fall asleep.

Conrad, a former Linden resident who now resides in Texas, is a hypnotist — not the type that makes people stop smoking or overcome their fear of public speaking — but one who helps people shed their inhibitions and “ham it up” by putting them in a trance. Volunteers from the audience become part of the entertainment when they are led through a variety of scenarios created by Conrad. In the past, volunteers have participated in beauty pageants, imitated fish, lost their feet and spoken martian.

“I assign them roles or I let them select them,” Conrad said. “Through hypnosis, they can have a negative hallucination, such as being a performer without an audience, or a positive one, such as seeing a leprechaun. The power of hypnosis is very impressive.”

Conrad received his bachelor's degree from Furman University in Greenville, S.C., and he worked as a stock broker in New York City, and in the shipping business in New York and Los Angeles.

His journey into the world of the subconscious began in 1980 as a way for him to maximize his abilities as a bodybuilder. After studying the craft for several years, he began hypnotizing people in clinical settings before taking his show to the stage.

While hypnosis can make a person do something he wouldn't ordinarily do — like imitating Madonna or forgetting his name — Conrad said it can only go so far in making someone do the unthinkable. This contradicts the belief many people have that they will lose control while under hypnosis. “During my show, I make men think they are Chippendale's dancers and most of them will take their shirts off. However, if a person is uncomfortable with his body or if he doesn't like this kind of thing, he won't do it. You can't make people do anything they find repugnant or reprehensible,” he said. “If it's in them, they'll do it. Sometimes people feel repressed by society but they'll do something if they know they can get away with it. When people are hypnotized, their inhibitions are lowered. After the show, they come up to me and tell me they had a great time.”

On the chance an audience member has no inhibitions to begin with, Conrad has spotters who keep their eyes on the volunteers to make certain no improprieties take place.

Another belief Conrad shatters in his shows is that people are put under by swinging a watch in front of them and telling them they are “getting sleepy.” He hypnotizes groups of about 14 through relaxing music, voice commands and hand movements. Most people on the stage “take,” and Conrad said those who don't probably didn't want to be hypnotized in the first place.

Conrad described the mental state of being hypnotized as somewhere between being awake and sleeping, and people in this frame of mind are not controlled by him.

“At any time they can leave,” he said. “They can get up at any time they want if they think it is not to their liking. It is the job of a skilled performer to make them want to stay.”

The members of the audience who are not participants in the show get to observe their friends in odd situations, something the performers miss out on. However, Conrad said they do get a residual for all their work, in addition to their 15 minutes of fame.

“Being hypnotized is like riding a bicycle. If someone has been hypnotized by me they've learned how to do it and can now apply it to different areas of their lives,” he said. “The trick is for a hypnotist to never show his prowess. The focus is on having the audience entertained by their friends. I help you break down your own limitations,” Conrad said.

Conrad will be performing at Rascal's Comedy Club in West Orange tonight through Sunday. In celebration of the club's anniversary, tickets for tonight's show are $5.

Woman is a force behind Union's Festival on the Green

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

Sharon Patel's middle name should be “versatility.”

The highly energetic woman, who resides in Maplewood, is co-owner with her husband, J.C., of a business in Union called the Patel Printing Plus Corp. She also is co-chairwoman of the annual Festival on the Green, which will be held Sept. 16 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Friberger Park. Union; serves as director of the Union Township Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the festival; is director and secretary of the Rotary Club of Union; is director of the New Jersey Association of Quick Printers; vice president of the administration of the National Association of Quick Printers; and is director and development chairwoman of the NAQP.

“This is my second year as co-chairwoman of the Festival on the Green,” said Patel excitedly, “and we're going to be better than ever. I'm co-chair with Frank Polednik. I've been on the committee for the past eight years,” explained the attractive, amiable woman the other afternoon. “and I've loved the festival from the very beginning.”

“This year, we have a lot of ethnic entertainment, and of course, all the clubs and organizations and businesses in town will be very involved. We have more artists and photographers than we had in previous years along with a lot of crafts.”

According to Patel, the festival is in its 22nd year. “It's a special event because it really brings together the residents, the business community, the art community and the civic clubs and organizations. It's an event that's cultural and fun and whatever money we make on it goes toward scholarships to Union High School students who are pursuing art as a career.

“It also is a juried show, so we have many cash prizes for many different categories in arts and crafts and photography including a category for student artists. It's also eight minutes from my home in Maplewood, and I know the residents there would be very interested in attending. And what makes it even more interesting is that it's a juried show, and Sheila Nussbaum and one of her associates from the prestigious Sheila Nussbaum Gallery in Millburn will be among the jurors.”

The Festival on the Green committee begins its meetings in April. “About 15 local business people are on the committee,” Patel said. “And James Schaefer, president-chief executive officer of the Union Chamber of Commerce, presides over every committee. He's really quite incredible,” she exclaimed. “He knows everybody, and he's concerned about the relationships that exist within the committee, and he understands all the nuances of those relationships. I think that's an important key to the success of the Chamber of Commerce events.”

“Grace Lane was one of the founders,” Patel recalled. “And Les Malamut was on the committee since its inception — until last year, when illness prevented him from doing all the publicity and the writing to be distributed to the newspapers. Because of illness, he can't do it now. And no one can replace him,” she said.

“Actually, the committee consists of a lot of energetic, enthusiastic and creative business people. I think it's the energy of their input and participation that makes the festival the success that it is.”

There are subcommittees “for every aspect of the festival, and the members are expert and talented in individual areas.”

The committee members include Irving Rosenberg, James Rosser, Arlene Schor, representing Hamilton School; Eileen Torbick and Jodi Weinberg, Union County National Bank; Donna Visco, Visco Graphics; Cheryl Wasserman, art teacher; Judy Welshons, Hollywood Memorial Park; Janet Wheeler, Union Library; Jason Eichner, student; Joseph Cantalupo, Total Protection; Paula Cohen, Union Review; Dick Fried, Tony Girodano, Maplecrest Lincoln Mercury; Laura Goetting, Chemical Bank; Barbara Griggs and Joe Hulsen, artists; Fred Copecki, ComCast Cablevision; and Phyllis Monguso, Senior Citizens Council.

Among the participating clubs and organizations involved are the Junior Woman's Club, Exchange Club, Rotary Club, Senior Citizens Council, Union Hospital 5 Points YMCA, Cerebral Palsy League, Union Township Community Action, Union Township Garden Club, Union UNICO, Hands Across Union, Union Elks, Union High PTA and Community Police Unit.

Entertainment will be provided by the Union High School Band; Nicholas Griggs, bagpipe; Young Artists Workshop Theater; Municipal Band; Priya Mehta, Indian dancer; and Greek, Portugese and Scottish dancers.

Rain date is Sept. 17 and more information about the festival can be obtained by calling (908) 688-2777.

Patel first became involved with the festival when “Janet Haggerty, you know, the lady who makes balloons here in Union, talked to me about it. She was a long-time customer of my company and a friend. She also was chairwoman one year and she invited me to be part of the committee. That was eight years ago.” Patel offered one of her generous smiles. “Once a committee member of the festival, always a committee member of the festival.”

“We try to get new people each year so we have the old and the new, the experienced and those who are learning, and that keeps the committee fresh and infused with new ideas. You know,” she reminded, “last year, at the end of the festival, we surveyed all of the participants, and we got a lot of input from them — what they liked about the festival and what they would like to see changed. We were happy to see that 90 percent of the people in the survey felt that the festival exceeded their expectations. We took the ideas that they gave us and incorporated them into the planning of this year's festival because the success of it is about doing little things right.”

Patel, who has been in business for 19 years at 1525 Morris Ave. in Union, explained that “Patel Printing Plus is a full-service, creative commercial quickprinting company that specializes in extraordinary images that enhance the customers' identity on paper. It is known for exceptional service, professionalism and 100 percent total satisfaction guaranteed.”

Her husband, who was born in India, was an architect prior to entering the printing business. They have a son, Justin, 20, who is in his third year studying business at the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. “His passion is cars,” said his mother.

In addition to her involvement with business and the festival, Patel's interests include “human dynamics and relationships, gourmet vegetarian cooking, metaphysics, reading books that enhance personal development and spiritual growth. And I'm writing two books. One is a gourmet vegetarian cookbook, and the second is a book called ‘Gangaba,’ the story of lessons I learned from my mother-in-law even though we communicated without language.

“My mother-in-law is no longer with us,” said Patel, “but she taught me so much. I love cooking, I'm a vegetarian, and in my book, I want to tell my readers that there is so much more to it than steamed vegetables and salad.”

Patel also has been busy leading a Dream Study, which is a dream group that “explores the analyzation of dreams as a tool for inner growth and development.”

She said she loves the festival and she loves being busy. “I was honored to be asked to be co-chairwoman, and my duties include overseeing the committee, coordinating all the subcommittees and holding regular meetings from April through September, plan, follow up, plan, follow up.” Patel grinned. “I'm very busy trying to squeeze a lot into 24 hours.”

“You see,” she said, “the challenge is in finding the balance between running a business, my civic life, my family life — and time for me. It isn't the problem of ‘you can't find the time.’ You make the time. It is all about prioritizing the things that are important to you and just making the time to do them.”

And as far as the Festival on the Green is concerned, “we hope for a million people this year,” she mused, “but we expect about 2,000 people. After all, where else can you go and be entertained and fed and have a visual feast for your eyes? “Really!”

horoscope

September 3-9

ARIES — March 21/April 20
A new friend could be made under an unusual circumstance. Let your spontaneous side take over and you'll get a lot more out of your free time. Accidents could happen if you're careless in outdoor sports. Play it safe and play by the rules. Someone's loss will be your gain.

TAURUS — April 21/May 21
Harmless joking could turn into a full-blown argument if you're not careful. Be cautious of what you say. This is especially true if you happen to be dealing with Scorpios and Arians. If traveling, be sure to check all important documents well in advance. There could be a bit of red tape involved.

GEMINI — May 22/June 21
Indulgence in food and drink could lead to regret. Practice moderation to keep yourself on an even keel. Think twice before asking a relative for a favor. It could end up being more trouble than it's worth. Avoid deception of any kind. Romance may be the source of aggravation.

CANCER — June 22/July 22
A unique idea can turn a profit if you're willing to put it into action. All you need is the confidence to see it through. Safeguard valuables, especially if you are planning to travel this week. If you are involved with a Libran, this will be an especially good time for romance.

LEO — July 23/August 23
Use your insight to better understand a friend's behavior. You'll realize that things are not always as they seem. Patience will be a virtue in matters of romance. Your desire to be the center of attention will not be satisfied this week. Family matters will dominate the weekend.

VIRGO — Aug 24/Sept 22
Your lack of spontaneity may keep you safe but it also keeps you from enjoying some of life's more interesting offerings. Learn to let loose — you may just enjoy yourself. If you are involved with a Sagittarian or a Leo, you could be in for an emotional rollercoaster ride.

LIBRA — Sept 23/Oct 23
Even if you'd rather be sunning yourself in the Caribbean than going to the office, you could find simple pleasures in your work. Taking a unique approach will get you further than playing by the book. Romance looks good for both single and married Librans.

SCORPIO — Oct 24/Nov 22
Making plans for the future helps you get through the doldrums of the present. Nobody knows better than the tenacious Scorpio that patience is a virtue. A coworker's error may turn out to be your problem, too. Be a team player and you're sure to get ahead. Avoid gossip.

SAGITTARIUS — Nov 23/Dec 21
A week to be on your guard. Someone — possibly a coworker — may try to make himself look good at your expense. Don't be a victim. You can make this plan backfire by staying one step ahead of the game. Seek the advice of a professional before making large investments. Not a week for gambling.

CAPRICORN — Dec 22/Jan 20
Voicing your extreme opinions to a new acquaintance could put you in a negative light. A softer, more diplomatic approach may be in order. Arguments at home may be unavoidable. Staying calm will be the key to keeping peace. A friend may ask to borrow a treasured belonging.

AQUARIUS — Jan 21/Feb 18
Your ideals and values may be under scrutiny by a more conservative member of the Zodiac. Don't give in to pressure. Stand up for what you believe in and you'll end up the winner. In the business arena, don't make promises you can't keep. Be realistic when setting deadlines.

PISCES — Feb 19/March 20
A great week! A relationship you thought was going nowhere could take a serious turn. You'll have a much better idea of where you stand in romance. A friend's good news will have a positive effect on you, and you may be treated to a special evening out on the town. Enjoy!

Residents pull together for festival

A grassroots crew of 23 local residents combined talents to produce this year's Festival on the Green, Union Township's 22nd annual arts and crafts show. Several thousand art enthusiasts and their families are expected to attend the event, Sept. 16 at Friberger Park in Union.

More than 100 artists, crafters and photographers will participate in the juried show, while music, dance, ethnic entertainment and a variety of food are offered to participants.

Co-chairs of this year's event are Sharon Patel of Patel Printing in Union and Frank Polednik of Bierturn:pfel-Ostertage, also of Union. The full festival committee includes 23 local volunteers, many of whom were divided into three sub-committees: set-up, entertainment and winners circle.

The set-up committee includes Joseph Cantalupo, Total Protection; Tony Giordani, Maplecrest Lincoln-Mercury; Frank Polednik; Chamber of Commerce Director Jim Schaefer; and attorney Irving Rosenberg.

The entertainment committee includes Paula Cohen, Phyllis Monogous of the Union Senior Citizens and Schaefer.

The winners circle committee includes Sahron Patel, Frank Kopecki of Suburban Cablevision and Laura Goetting of Chemical Bank.

Other members of the main committee included Judy Welshons, Hollywood Memorial Park Company; Colletta Liccardi, Chamber of Commerce; artists Barbara Griggs and Joseph Hulse; student Jason Eitner; and Nancy Rajobbi-Manno, Arlene Schor, Eileen Torbick, Donna Visco, Cheryl Ann Wasserman, Janet Wheeler, Linda Arias and Dick Fried.

Fine arts, oils, water colors, photography, giftware and clothing produced by professional and nonprofessional artists and crafters will be on display and available for sale during the show, which extends from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Proceeds from the event will support two scholarships to be given to local high school students who plan to pursue careers in art.

The day's entertainment will include bagpiper Nicholson Griggs, the Union High School Band, the Union Municipal Band, a barbershop quartet, a juggler, ethnic dancers and YMCA fitness and karate demonstrators. The Union High School Young Artists Workshop will also display works by its members.

Friberger Park is situated behind the Union Township municipal building. Arts and crafts displays will be set up in the upper level parking lot behind the library, while the lower level parking lot, in front of the municipal building, will be reserved for food stalls provided by local nonprofit groups.

Admission to the festival is free. In case of rain, the alternate date will be Sept. 17. For information, call (908) 688-2777.

Center slates variety of classes

Encouraged by the success of its recent first venture into performing arts education — "SummerStaged" — the Union County Arts Center has scheduled a fall series of weekly dance and vocal classes. The registration deadline is Monday. Classes commence Sept. 12.

Dance classes in ballet, jazz and tap will continue into May, with beginner classes on Tuesdays and intermediate on Thursdays. The one-hour classes start at 4 p.m. for ballet, 5:15 for jazz and 6:30 for tap. Alison Dooley is the professional instructor.

Voice workshops conducted by Ruby Robertson are offered in two Thursday time slots, 5 to 6 p.m. or 6:15 to 7:15 p.m. The classes will continue for 12 weeks, ending in December.

The fee for dance classes is $30 a month with discounts available to those who sign up for more than one class. The full voice workshop fee is $120. For more information or to sign up, phone the Union County Arts Center office weekdays at (908) 499-0441 before Labor Day.

The arts center occupies a nationally landmarked, 1,300-seat vaudeville-movie showplace originally opened in 1928 and since restored and upgraded to a stage and film venue. Its stage has played host to Marvin Hamlisch, Johnny Cash, the N.J. Symphony, Bobby Vinton, Lionel Hampton and a host of other entertainers.

The facility is located at the junction of Main and Irving streets and Central Avenue in the heart of Rahway's historic district.

Dining Review August 31, 1995

By Robin Wallace Staff Writer

For Chinese food lovers looking for a premium quality meal at neighborhood prices, the Union Chinese Restaurant at 1975 Morris Ave. in Union offers a delightful dining experience sure to turn first-time patrons into devoted regulars.

Opened last Saturday by first-time restaurateur Cindy Ao, the main goal at Union Chinese appears to be well-fed customers. Although even the most enthusiastic eater would be challenged to complete the generous portions served for appetizers and main dishes, your tastebuds will keep you eating well past the belly-busting limit. Considering the extensive Cantonese and Szechuan menu and reasonable prices that may also encourage diners to order an extra appetizer or two, the best companion to invite to Union Chinese is a hardy appetite.

To start your meal, the boneless barbecue ribs are an absolute must. The zest of traditional barbecue flavor meets the tanginess of classic Chinese sweet and sour in a house specialty sauce served smothering on a heaping plate of lean strips of tender pork. Without bones, the "ribs" can be eaten with a fork and take much of the mess and labor out of eating ribs as they all but melt in your mouth.

Follow this with any one of the many main dishes, such as steamed vegetables with tofu or General Tso chicken, a delectable concoction of breaded, deep fried dark meat coated in its own hot and spicy sauce, and chances are you won't feel the need to eat for the next week.

For those who can't decide what to order, Union Chinese offers an all-you-can eat lunch and dinner buffet seven days a week. The lunch buffet, available from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., offers diners the chance to sample three soups, eight appetizers, and 12 main dishes for $4.95. The dinner buffet, which begins at 4 p.m., offers a slightly altered menu of nine appetizers and 13 main dishes for $6.50.

During lunch hours, diners can enjoy a full menu of main dishes all priced below $5, and a special diet and health menu of dishes prepared without salt, oil or cornstarch is also available. To top things off, the menu includes desserts of ice cream, almond cookies, and fortune cookies.

Although a $10 minimum order gets take-out fans free delivery service, the cordial and friendly service of the staff and the comfortable, pristine dining environment make an in-person visit to Union Chinese an imperative.

The Union Chinese Restaurant is open Monday to Thursday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Friday and Saturday, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., and Sundays, from noon to 9:30 p.m. For more information, or to place an order immediately, call 688-5678.

Paper Mill opens season with musical 'Nine'

The musical "Nine," winner of five Tony Awards including Best Musical, opens Paper Mill's 1995-96 season on Wednesday and runs through Oct. 15.

Written by Maury Yeston, music and lyrics, and Arthur Kopit, book, "Nine" is based on Italian film director Federico Fellini's autobiographical movie "8 1/2." Kopit and Yeston are the creators of "Phantom," the musical the Paper Mill audiences will remember from two seasons ago. "I'm looking forward eagerly to Paper Mill's forthcoming production of 'Nine,'" Kopit said. "One of the aspects I most admire about Paper Mill productions is that they don't simply clone New York City hits but find their own interpretations, often bringing insights to these productions that the New York versions missed."

"Nine" stars Paul Schoeffler in the role of Guido Contini, a libidinous movie director who suffers from a shortage of creative ideas for his next film and an overabundance of women drifting in and out of his life. Judy McLane plays Guido's long-suffering wife who wants a divorce, Lauren Kennedy is the mistress who demands more attention, Glory Crampton plays Guido's favorite actress who wants a serious role for a change, and Stephanie Pope is Guido's producer who threatens a lawsuit if she doesn't see the script for his new movie immediately. In contrast to the women making demands upon him is the comforting visage of his late mother, played by Judith McCauley. In a Venetian spa setting, where fantasy, reality and flashback are intertwined, Guido attempts to placate all the women in his life before his world spins completely out of control.

Schoeffler was the Count in Kopit and Yeston's "Phantom," both in Paper Mill's 1993 production and at Houston's Theater Under the Stars where he originated the role. He can also be heard on the RCA cast recording. Schoeffler recently returned from England where he played Booth in Stephen Sondheim's "Assassins," and on Broadway he is seen as LeBret in "Cyrano."

Robert Johanson is directing "Nine," which features sets by Michael Anania, costumes by Gregg Barnes, lights by Timothy Hunter and choreography by D.J. Salisbury. Jim Coleman is musical director and sound design is by David Paterson.

Performances of "Nine" are Wednesday through Sunday at 8 p.m.;

Thursday matinees at 2 p.m.; and Saturday and Sunday matinees at 3 p.m. An extra performance has been added on Oct. 10 at 8 p.m. Tickets are $31 to $46. Visa and Mastercard are accepted; $10 student rush tickets are available 15 minutes before curtain. The box office is (201) 376-4343. For groups of 20 or more, call (201) 379-3636, ext. 2438. Tickets for "Nine" are also available through the New Jersey Theater Group's Theater Sampler Series. To learn more about this low-cost, three-play package call (201) 593-0189.

The Paper Mill Playhouse is completely accessible to people with disabilities. Audio-described performances for the visually impaired are on Oct. 5 at 2 p.m.; Oct. 7 at 3 p.m. and Oct. 8 at 8 p.m. Sign-interpreted performances for the hearing impaired are on Oct. 8 and 13 at 8 p.m.

Funding for "Nine" has been made possible in part by the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State and the National Endowment for the Arts.

The Paper Mill Playhouse opens the new season with the five-time Tony Award-winning musical "Nine," Wednesday through Oct. 15. Playwright Arthur Kopit, left, and composer/lyricist Maury Yeston, right foreground, are working with the Paper Mill's scenic designer Michael Anania, center, and artistic director Robert Johanson on a new staging concept.

Slots remain open for county vo-tech courses

There is still room for more students in the 126 full- and part-time, day and evening courses being offered by the Union County Vocational-Technical School as they begin their operational year.

The fall semester will get underway with the opening of the day session on Wednesday. The Division of Continuing Education's evening classes start on Sept. 18 with the exception of Manicuring/Nails Technology and Cosmetology which open on Sept. 13.

Patrick Mauro, director of admissions, points out the day session provides skills training in a wide variety of occupations. The Auto Technology Program with its Automotive Service Excellence certification has been highly received as has the Building Trades Cluster. The Culinary Arts and Baking Programs have won numerous honors and garnered praise from many quarters throughout the years. Other popular courses are Graphic Communications, Horticulture, Masonry, and Machine Technology and Welding. A Supermarkets Institute and a Child Care and Development Program also are available.

Two new, novel offerings coming this fall are Law Enforcement Technology and Twilight Culinary Arts. The former will help prepare students for a career in criminal justice. The latter is for adults above high school age who seek an education in the area of food service.

According to Thomas E. Highsmith, director of Adult Education, two new offerings have been added to the evening session bringing the overall total to 108. State licensing courses, they are nurses aide for long-term health facilities for the elderly and Barbering for the New Jersey Cosmetologist/Hairstyling License. Due to the enthusiastic response, computer programs for beginners and experienced users will again be scheduled.

An introduction to computers, Word Perfect and Windows, is being offered as well as Lotus 1, 2, 3 and Desk Top Publishing, Page-maker and Quark-Xpress. Other courses include the Automotive Service Excellence Exam Preparation, Computer Assisted Drafting, Air Conditioning and Refrigeration, Power Engineering — Blue, Black Red Seals — and Masonry. Popular Offerings being repeated are the following: Manicuring/Nails Technology, Cake Decorating and Locksmithing 1. In addition, a full range of vocational courses is made available to trade persons or interested area residents.

Day session registrations are being held daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Technical Building at the Scotch Plains campus, 1776 Raritan Road. This is also the site of the evening session registrations to take place Wednesday and Sept. 7, 8 and 13 from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and in Baxel Hall on Sept. 11, 12 and 13 from 6 to 8:15 p.m.

For information about the day session call (908) 889-2999 and for the evening session call (908) 889-2922 or 889-2914.

Welcome back

St. Mary's High School in Elizabeth is ready to open for freshmen on Wednesday. Mike Lewicki and Wilfredo Martinez of St. Mary's staff put the finishing touches on the new gymnasium floor.

Legal research taught at Horizon

The Horizon Institute of Paralegal Studies, with day and evening classes in Linden and evening sessions in Madison, offers a unique and enjoyable educational experience. The institute, which has operated since 1979, is approved by the State of New Jersey Department of Vocational Education and all of its teachers are practicing attorneys. Classes are offered Monday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings at Linden and Madison; Monday, Wednesday and Friday days at Linden. Rolling enrollment is available enabling students to start almost at any time during the year.

The institute has an administration consisting of only three people including its administrator, Elva Szurlej, who acts as liaison between the administration teaching staff and students. Szurlej said, "The size of our administration allows us to give personal attention to each student, and this close, familial type setting is beneficial to students."

"The teachers are selected for their expertise as well as their ability to communicate," she said. "Library facilities are available to each student so that they learn legal research in a hands-on method and the course is taught in a practical how-to manner which enables our graduates to assimilate quickly into the legal atmosphere. No general education is included in the curriculum."

For further information, call (908) 486-0404.

Learn karate

World Oyama Karate, located in the Block Buster Plaza Shopping Center in Linden, provides a positive atmosphere and opportunity for all individuals interested in traditional Japanese karate.

World Oyama Karate is a Japanese martial art which takes the traditional aspects of karate: "kihon" — basics, "kata" — forms movement, and "kumite" — sparring, and successfully blends them with scientific training and innovative fighting techniques. World Oyama Karate welcomes men, women and children, experienced martial artists or beginning students.

Classes are offered throughout the day, Monday through Saturday. Children, teens, beginners and adults have classes dedicated to their respective levels of experience and desire.

Children develop patience, self-confidence and respect of others through learning basics and forms. Women have an opportunity to get in shape, become more graceful and confident while learning to defend themselves. Men will develop confidence, spirit and self-control to help them make the right decisions in life.

Chief instructor, M Sakai, Sensei, a fourth degree black belt — yondan — has been studying and teaching karate for more than 20 years. An international tournament champion in both "kumite" — fighting, and "kata" — forms, he served a nine-year apprenticeship under S Oyama, Soshu, the founder of World Oyama Karate.

The school, located at 1025 St. George Ave. is open six days a week from 10 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. Call (908) 925-0077 for answers to any questions and information about our free trial.

Happy Days School is a 'home away from home'

It's a family affair at Happy Days Nursery School in Kenilworth. Bert, Tama and Jay Bruder have been educating children ages 2½ - 6 for more than 36 years.

They offer a before-and after school program as well as half- and full-day sessions. The school day is 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

More than 2,000 children have learned colors, shapes, numbers, letters, beginning sound, whole language, science and songs in at least five languages. They've seen endless puppet shows, clowns and magicians — Mr. Bruder among them — and participated in acting out stories and original shows. They've been captivated by the staff's creative storytelling; the children are encouraged to do their own storytelling as well. The staff includes two male teachers and three female teachers.

Happy Days is a "home away from home" — a place that stimulates learning in a warm and loving environment. In a time when both parents often work, Happy Days offers families the peace of mind they are looking for and "happy days" for their children.

Adult high school offered

Persons who have not completed requirements for a secondary school diploma and are county residents currently not enrolled in high school may attend the new Union County Vocational-Technical Adult High School.

Classes begin on Sept. 18 at the Raritan Road campus of the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools.

According to John Crowley, supervisor, the purpose of the program is to encourage recent high school dropouts to pursue a high school diploma in a setting geared to adults and with a curriculum geared to their specific needs. Credit may be awarded for both academic achievement and life experience.

Emphasis is placed upon both academics and technical training. Graduates of the Union County Vocational-Technical High School will be awarded a high school diploma. The length of the study program will vary dependent upon the amount of credits each individual requires to meet high school graduation requirements.

Those interested in more information should call John Crowley at (908) 889-8288.

Quality of education impacts on property values

Children returning to school this fall may not be thinking about real estate, but the quality of the education they receive will have a profound impact on the value of their parents' homes.

According to Bob Becker, president and chief operating officer of Coldwell Banker Schlott, Realtors, school quality tops the list of home shoppers' considerations in assessing the desirability of a community. Homebuyer interest in schools is borne out by more than 200 calls per month to Coldwell Banker Schlott's HomeMatch consulting program.

HomeMatch is a program by which real estate consultants provide free information to home-shoppers over the telephone regarding the characteristics of specific communities and markets.

"According to our consultants, callers ask about school quality more than any other factor," Becker said. "This has remained remarkably consistent since HomeMatch began taking calls a year ago."

HomeMatch consultants draw upon a customized computer database to answer telephone inquiries regarding a broad range of issues. The database contains detailed profiles of communities throughout most of the tri-state area including information on schools, religious institutions, restaurants, recreational facilities, commuting distances, zoning ordinances, average home prices, taxes, economic climate, day-care centers, cultural opportunities, shopping and other factors.

Becker says questions about schools are fairly specific and pertain to a number of areas.

"People have questions regarding class size, student-teacher ratio, high school course offerings and special services such as programs for the gifted or handicapped," he said. "HomeMatch consultants can address all of these areas by accessing the school profiles in our databases."

According to Becker, the public's demonstrated concern with school quality should be a wake up call to every homeowner.

"The consistent interest in school quality should signal homeowners that school systems are wise investments," he said. "The fact is, property values are often dependent on a good school system."

Becker says statistical data and the ability to identify related trends are exciting byproducts of the HomeMatch program.

"We created HomeMatch as a service to home-buyers, and to support our position as a helpful and resourceful partner in the buying process."

To reach a HomeMatch representative, call (800) 368-9300.

Coldwell Banker Schlott, with more than 100 offices, is the New York Metropolitan region of Coldwell Banker, which includes more than 2,300 residential real estate offices and more than 55,000 sales associates in North America.

Proper care can cure acne

According to a recent study from the University of Michigan, teenagers growing up in the '90s face more "adult" stresses than any previous generation. The mental and physical pitfalls that can befall a youth have been multiplied by the damage that divorce, drugs and disease have caused. For this reason, problems that may affect a teen's identity are often ignored as parents focus more on their child's safety than self-image.

Yet, it's important to note that "minor" problems such as appearance also can seriously affect a teen-ager's life. Acne can damage a teen's self-image and lead to both emotional and physical scarring. Understanding the causes and treatment of acne will help teens control additional problems.

The exact cause of acne is unknown. Nonetheless, many factors play a role, including physical and emotional stress, heredity, environment, hormones and some cosmetics and skincare products. As a result, there is no instant solution for the problem, and the degree to which it can be controlled is individual. However, treatments are available to manage the disease by reducing its severity.

Rated in grades from 1 to 4, acne can range from a few pimples to nodular or cystic acne. In most cases, teen-agers with grades 3 or 4 should be under dermatologic care. Teens with grades 1 or 2 can often treat their problem with products that can be purchased at the drugstore. Whether a teen has grade 1 or 4, the treatment of acne must include a gentle and preventative skin-care regimen.

Although teen-agers often resist regimens of any kind, it's important for those with acne-prone skin to cleanse conscientiously. While acne is not caused by dirt, washing the face twice a day helps remove excess oil, bacteria and dead cells from the skin's surface. Acne cannot be "cured" a day before a big event, but it can be managed with proper care and gentle cleansers like Neutrogena Oil-Free Acne Wash, a gentle, alcohol-free facial cleanser that deep-cleanses without irritation.

If you or a teen-ager you know has a problem with acne, encourage him or her to select cleansing products that are not harsh to sensitive skin. Cleansing with harsh products or too vigorously can cause skin to become more inflamed, making it difficult to break the "break-out cycle."

If you have acne-prone skin, it's okay to wear makeup, but make sure you select a water-based, non-comedogenic foundation. At the end of the day, wash off all makeup before going to bed.

A medicated overnight treatment, such as a new clear gel, Clear Pore Treatment from Neutrogena, can help too. Clogged pores are a leading cause of skin-care woes, and this all-over face treatment is specifically designed to keep pores clear of everyday cloggers.

For more information on acne, consumers can request a copy of the Neutrogena brochure, "The Intelligent Approach to Coping with Acne," by writing Neutrogena Acne Brochure, P.O. Box 45036, Los Angeles, Calif. 90045.

Dance school schedules auditions

The Westfield Dance Company, a young people's dance company, will have auditions on Sept. 9 at the Westfield School of Dance, 402 Boulevard, Westfield.

WDC is an organization whose purpose is to give dancers an opportunity to perform, attend dance workshops and competitions, and work with renowned choreographers.

This award-winning troupe has performed throughout the tri-state area and has brought the community performances of full-length ballets, the "Little Match Girl" and "The Elephant's Child." WDC is also responsible for holding repertoire concerts with guest choreographers and guest artists such as Frank Hatchett from the Broadway Dance Center in New York City.

Audition times will be 1-2 p.m. for ages 8-10, and 3-4:30 p.m. for ages 11-18. Combinations will be given in ballet, jazz, modern and tap.

For criteria information, call (908) 789-3011.

Editorial deadlines

Following are deadlines for news: Church, club and social - Friday noon. Entertainment - Friday noon. Sports - Monday noon. Letters to the Editor - Monday 9 a.m. General - Monday 5 p.m.

School celebrates

Noah's Ark Nursery School, located at 600 N. Wood Ave. in Linden, is beginning its 25th year of service to Linden and surrounding communities.

Classes are offered two, three or five mornings a week from 9 to 11:30 a.m. for children who will be 3 or 4 years old by Dec. 31. There are a limited number of openings in each class.

The school emphasizes an individualized approach to learning with emphasis on each child's social, emotional, physical and mental growth. A variety of activities including music, art, literature, number concepts and beginning science are offered by a staff with many years experience in the early childhood field.

School will open on Sept. 11. For further information about registration, contact Mrs. Seebergh at 272-7355 or Mrs. Pawlowski at 925-7487.

Trio will exhibit at library

The work of three artists will be exhibited at the Donald B. Palmer Museum of the Springfield Library today through Oct. 2.

Rosalind Miniman, a resident of Springfield, will be exhibiting paintings. She received a "Best in Show" award at the New Jersey Center for Visual Arts in Summit, as well as honorable mentions in Union County and South Orange. Miniman likes to paint not only what she sees but what she feels when she sees a flower, a figure, a landscape or whatever it is that captures her interest and imagination.

Susan Pruder, a resident of Union, will be exhibiting her photographs, both in black and white and color. An avid outdoors person and environmentalist, Pruder finds patterns in nature that can lead to interesting abstract images. Victorian architecture in Cape May and Mohonk Mountain House in New York State are also featured in this photographic display. She has photographs permanently on exhibit at the Union County National Bank and the Township of Union at the Municipal Building.

Michael Teters, a resident of Piscataway, will be displaying his artwork of prints and oils on canvas. Most of his prints are manipulated photo images and collages. He is a member of the Print Making Council of New Jersey and the Visual Arts League of New Brunswick. He regularly shows his work through the Print Making Council of New Jersey.

The Donald B. Palmer Museum is located in the Springfield Free Public Library, 66 Mountain Ave. The hours for the exhibit are Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Tuesday, Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday hours for the exhibit will commence Sept. 9.

Consumer info

Some of the most important information never reaches the people for which it is intended because they are unaware of where to find it. Tax and charity dollars go to support many state and county hotlines. The information they provide is invaluable.

- Residents who want to report safety problems with vehicles can call the Auto Safety Hotline at (800) 424-9393.
- The state Department Office of Consumer Protection has a number for information on banking and credit rights and lending laws at (609) 292-1102.
- A 24-hour, child-abuse hotline is run by the Department of Human Services at (800) 792-8610.
- Those with consumer problems can call the Department of Consumer Affairs at (201) 504-6200.
- A 24-hour hotline is available at (609) 292-7172 for air and water pollution complaints.
- Federal agency information is available by calling (201) 645-3600 or (609) 396-4400.

Teen art collection moves to Fanwood

The Union County Office of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, Division of Parks and Recreation, announced the Fanwood Memorial Library at North Avenue and Tillotson Road in Fanwood will host the Union County Teen Arts Touring Exhibit for the month of September.

The exhibit consists of 23 pieces of art selected from the 500 visual art works shown at the 1995 Union County Teen Arts Festival in March at Union County College. Linda Lee Kelly, member of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and liaison to the Cultural and Heritage Advisory Board, said, "We are encouraged to see the talent and creative spirit of our young Union County artists. The creation of their art is a hands-on experience that allows our future work force to leave their finger print on our community."

- The exhibiting students include:
- Clark, Barbara Kus, Mother Seton Regional High School.
 - Elizabeth, Melinda Soto, Benedictine Academy; John Paul Gorgoroso, T.C. Reilly Middle School.
 - Hills de, Chung-YU Hsieh, Hillside High School.

TREATMENT FOR WHIPLASH

If you've had the misfortune to experience whiplash, you should seek treatment immediately to avoid any dangerous consequences.

The most familiar victim of whiplash is someone who's been in an automobile accident, the jolt to the head caused by collision and the effort to control it can have painful results. Other accidents can also cause whiplash, even stepping off a curb and turning an ankle can cause a jolt to the head when you try to prevent yourself from falling.

The affected area is centered in the seven vertebrae in your neck. Assisted by muscles and ligaments, they support your head and help control its movement, the whiplash action may cause the vertebrae to pull out of alignment, putting unusual pressure on the nerves attached to them.

Along with the pain, often there are other alarming symptoms such as headaches, dizziness, nausea, and depression. Treatment to put the vertebrae in proper alignment may relieve the pressure causing these distressing symptoms.

$1.99 per minute. TouchTone or rotary phones. You must be 18 or older.

- After listening to the simple instructions enter the mailbox number of the ads you want to access or browse all greetings randomly.
- You'll hear a greeting with the Connections ad and the person behind the greeting.
- Voice greetings are added to the system every 24 hours. So you can browse through the new advertiser greetings before the Connections ads appear in the newspaper.
- Listen to greetings of people that interest you. If you like, leave your response. That person will hear your message when they call in.

Harvest Festival planned

Re-visit colonial America on Sept. 24 from 1-5 p.m. when Trailside Nature and Science Center, Mountainside, hosts its annual Harvest Festival.

Among the treats awaiting festival patrons are demonstrations of 18th century crafts and livelihoods, an authentic Revolutionary War encampment, Native American folklore, period music and a colonial magic show featuring live animals.

For children there will be the opportunity to play games of yesteryear such as "trundle the hoop," "graces" and "tug-of-war." Children's craft activities and animals, provided by the Somerset County 4-H Club, will also highlight the day. Shows and demonstrations will occur throughout the afternoon. Fresh pressed apple cider, baked pies, organic produce, baked potatoes, and barbecued beef and chicken will be on sale through the day. Pumpkins and mums will also be featured sale items.

Admission to the Harvest Festival, a suggested donation of $3 per person, includes all activities, with the exception of children's crafts and the Trailside planetarium show. Parking is free, with shuttle bus service being provided between 12:30 and 5:30 p.m., from the Watchung Stables, Summit Lane, Mountainside.

This event will be held rain or shine. Trailside is located off Route 22, at New Providence Road and the corner of Coles Avenue, Mountainside. For additional information or to volunteer to help at the festival, call (908) 789-3670.

Trailside Nature and Science Center is a facility of the Union County Division of Parks and Recreation.

The 1996 Jeep Grand Cherokee now has smooth and quiet ride

Extensive improvements to the standard 4.0-liter I-6 engine, an enhanced Quadra-Trac all-wheel drive system, and a new, stronger four-speed automatic transmission on V-8-equipped models make the 1996 Grand Cherokee smoother, quieter and an even better performer on- and off-road.

Grand Cherokee owners have always used "rugged and powerful" to describe their vehicles' standard 4.0-liter, 185-horsepower I-6 engine. For 1996, their praise will include the words "smooth and quiet" because the Jeep platform team has eliminated key sources of noise, vibration and harshness, NVH, while expanding the engine's already broad torque curve.

These upgrades are the latest among hundreds of continuous refinements that have kept Grand Cherokee the benchmark among sport-utility vehicles since its 1993 debut.

Using Finite Element Analysis computer methods, engineers designed a revised, stronger cylinder block with strengthening ribs cast into the inner and outer walls. This extra beef makes the new block substantially stiffer, reducing the amount of mechanical noise it transmits.

The stouter block also incorporates a one-piece main bearing brace, which locks the main bearing caps together. Anchoring the bearing caps as a single unit eliminates their natural tendency to move in opposite directions during normal operation — a potential NVH source.

New lightweight pistons and wrist pins reduce reciprocating mass by 26 percent, smoothing the power delivery. The pistons feature shorter, reprofiled skirts for lower friction. New piston rings are also lighter and more flexible for improved sealing.

Following the lead of last year's 5.2-liter V-8 improvement program, Jeep's 4.0-liter I-6 gains a new camshaft for '96. Cam profiles now incorporate revised ramps for quiet valvetrain operation. This "new" profile also reduces valve overlap for improved idle quality and lower emissions, while fattening the already broad torque curve between 1200-3600 rpm — the range where it's most beneficial. Maximum rated torque is 220 foot-pounds at 2400 rpm.

To complement the internal changes, a new reusable, silicon-beaded, steel backbone gasket seals the valve cover to the cylinder head. Rubber grommets and compression limiters isolate the valve cover from its fasteners and the cylinder head. This significantly reduces the transmission of valvetrain noise by the cover.

Additionally, Grand Cherokee's engine mounts have been reconfigured, with larger rubber surfaces for improved engine-to-chassis isolation.

Even the sound quality of the '96 Grand Cherokee's exhaust has been improved. 4.0-liter-equipped models feature an all-new exhaust system, incorporating a retuned muffler and larger 2.25-inch tailpipe.

These extensive refinements add up to a significant overall reduction in powertrain NVH, particularly at idle and launch, with no penalty to fuel economy.

Quadra-Trac, Jeep's ultimate all-wheel drive system, has been improved for 1996. The changes provide Grand Cherokee customers with increased on-road flexibility and off-road traction.

Grand Cherokee owners appreciate Quadra-Trac's full-time, transparent operation in all driving situations. The improved On Demand Quadra-Trac eliminates a planetary gearset which formerly split the torque between the front and rear axles. That function is now managed completely by the system's viscous coupling center differential.

Under dry road conditions, the improved On Demand Quadra-Trac now delivers 100 percent of torque to the rear axle. This greatly reduces driveline friction, while improving slow-speed cornering responsiveness and high-speed stability.

But when the going gets slippery or the terrain is tough, the new On Demand Quadra-Trac instantly delivers maximum torque to whichever axle needs traction. The result is true on-demand capability for all driving situations.

An added feature of the '96 On Demand Quadra-Trac system is Lo-Lock. When extra traction is needed — such as in deep mud — the shift system overrides the viscous coupling and provides a mechanical lock in the Low Range position. In addition, torque is multiplied by 2.72, giving increased off-road capability.

Further enhancements to the '96 Grand Cherokee drive-line include a new aluminum center housing for the stronger Dana 44 rear axle. The lightweight housing — unique to the sport-utility segment and a first for Chrysler — shaves 16 pounds off the previous steel unit's weight.

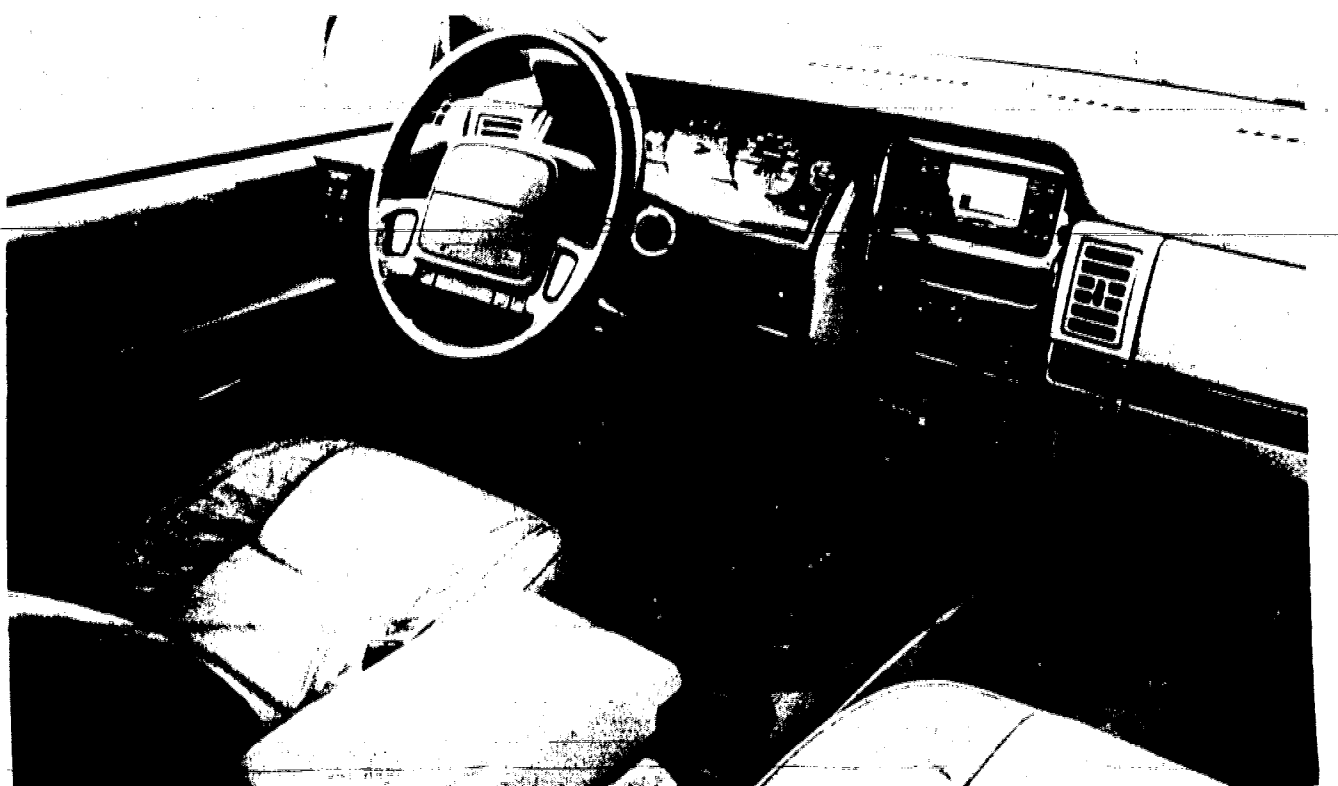

On the front propeller shaft, a constant-velocity (CV) joint replaces the previous shaft's Cardan-type U-joint. This upgrade contributes to reduced NVH at highway speeds.

1996 Grand Cherokee customers opting for the 5.2-liter V-8 will notice improved responsiveness, compared with previous models. This is a result of Jeep's new wide-ratio 44RE 4-speed automatic transmission, standard on V-8 models.

The goal for '96 was to boost performance feel, particularly at launch, without compromising fuel economy.

Grand Cherokee owners have always used "rugged and powerful" to describe their vehicles' standard 4.0-liter, 185-horsepower I-6 engine. For 1996, their praise will include the words "smooth and quiet" because the Jeep platform team has eliminated key sources of noise, vibration and harshness, NVH, while expanding the engine's already broad torque curve. Below, the cabin of the Cherokee will please any automobile enthusiast for comfort, styling and ergonomics.

More than 23,000 people are expected to attend the family-oriented entertainment event, Parts Plus Chevy Show at Old Bridge Township Raceway Park in English-town Sept. 9-10. Several hundred Chevys of every vintage and model will compete for honors at the BFGoodrich-sponsored car show. Additionally, some 500 Chevy and Chevy-powered vehicles will go head to head on the drag strip in sportsman races. The event also features 200 mph pro-mod competition and jet car exhibitions.

Vintage car show in English-town Sept. 9

Chevy lovers will relish an extensive array of vintage and restored Chevrolet automobiles at the Parts Plus Super Chevy Show at Old Bridge Township Raceway Park in English-town, New Jersey, Sept. 9-10.

More than 23,000 people are expected to attend the family-oriented entertainment event. Several hundred Chevys of every vintage and model will compete for honors at the BFGoodrich-sponsored car show. Additionally, some 500 Chevy and Chevy-powered vehicles will go head to head on the drag strip in sportsman races. The event also features 200 mph pro-mod competition and jet car exhibitions.

"The quaint atmosphere of English-town makes this one of the more popular sites on the Parts Plus Super Chevy Show's nationwide 19 event schedule," said Super Chevy Magazine editor, Terry Cole. English-town provides the best of both worlds for car lovers. It's an opportunity to head for the picturesque countryside and a chance to see some of the best examples of original and restored automobiles in the region," he said.

For those in the market to buy a classic, muscle, or collector car, there will be many to choose from at the Super Chevy Show Car Corral. Other highlights of interest to automotive consumers will be the Performance Marketplace featuring the latest aftermarket products, services and accessories, and a swap meet where hobbyists can locate those hard-to-find parts and accessories. Sportsman racing will be ongoing throughout the weekend, with professional racing and exhibitions set for 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. each day.

The Super Chevy Show also features various free automotive-related seminars on car care, safe trailering and other topics. For the kids, A&M SoftSeal sponsors a "Race Against Drugs" presentation on Sunday at 10 a.m., where youngsters can meet professional auto racers and hear what they have to say about the importance of staying drug free.

The Parts Plus Super Chevy Show is produced by AutoStar Productions for Argus Publishers Corporation, publishers of Super Chevy Magazine, Popular Hot Rodding and many other automotive enthusiast magazines.

Hours for the event are 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 9 and 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. Adult admission is $18. Two-day passes are available for $30. Juniors, 13-16, are $5 each day. Children 12 years and under are free with paying adult. For information, call 1-800-820-3602.

Old Bridge Township Raceway Park is located at 230 Pension Rd., English-town. Directions: Between New Jersey Turnpike and Garden State Parkway, east of Trenton. From New Jersey Turnpike, exit 9, Route 18 East to Route 527 to English-town to Pension Rd. Old Bridge Township Raceway Park telephone number is: 908-446-7800.

Acura has big plans for the new automotive year

Acura has big plans for 1996.

The Acura automobile division will be featuring the new, open-top NSX-T sports car, the all-new '96 TL Series of luxury sedans and the Acura CL-X concept car which represents a new vehicle Acura plans to produce in America.

"The featured models represent three of the four new automobiles we intend to offer over the next 12 months," said Rich Thomas, Acura's executive vice president and general manager. "These cars usher in an important new era as we near the end of our first successful decade."

The all-aluminum NSX-T is powered by a 270 horsepower, 3.0-liter, VTEC engine and is a showcase of leading-edge technology. It's unique 19-lb. aluminum top is easily stored neatly between the engine cover and the rear glass. The Formula One-inspired SportShift system for the automatic transmission models features a selectable manual shift mode which incorporates a unique steering column-mounted finger-tip shift control allowing either fully automatic or manually-controlled shifts for spirited driving.

Other features include the only electric power steering system available on any production car, an updated Traction Control System, TCS, and drive-by-write throttle control system.

The new TL Sedan Series will be available in two models, the luxurious 3.2TL, which will offer a 200-horsepower inline 5-cylinder engine. The models were designed as touring luxury automobiles which offer a sporty, youthful alternative to traditional luxury automobiles.

The new TL model feature a full array of luxury appointments including an automatic climate control system, power windows and door locks, cruise control, and a high power AM/FM cassette/CD player. Some of the standard safety features on the TL series include dual airbags, Anti-lock Braking System, ABS, side-impact protection and available Traction Control System, TCS.

"The new TL Series will be the first models to adopt an alphanumeric designation in Acura's efforts to maintain focus on the "Acura" brand name," said Thomas. "Each model—with the exception of the NSX—will also adopt an alphanumeric designation at their full model changeover."

The futuristic "Neo-Classic" CL-X concept car integrates futuristic styling with classic luxury sports coupe design. The CL-X offers a preview of what will ultimately become a new, made-in-America model.

The CL-X was designed exclusively in the USA by a special project team at Honda R&D North America's Los Angeles design studio.

"With the introduction of Acura's U.S.-built model, the Acura division will be the first luxury import automaker to design, engineer, develop and manufacture an automobile in the U.S.," said Thomas. "This will contribute greatly to the company's expansion strategy here in North America."

Since starting operations in 1986, Acura has sold more than one million luxury performance automobiles in the U.S. The new Acura NSX-T and 2.5TL, along with the Legend and Integra, are now available at nearly 300 dealers across the U.S. The 3.2 TL went on sale in July.
