"I shall rage on against the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune. The heart, so badly wounded thrice, is holding out, thank the Lord and medical science. I am told to quiet down, to relax. That is the last advice I heed. On the contrary, I shall go up the hill with my squad to that moment, that only moment brave, when the corpsman puts the dog tag between my frozen lips."

These words appeared in a column last week by Russell Roemmele, the managing editor of our company's Bloomfield region office. They were some of his last published words because Russell died the morning the newspapers hit the stands.

Many readers, especially those reading our Union County newspapers, did not know of Mr. Roemmele. I wish they had.

Russell Roemmele was a newspaperman like few others. In old-time, unique newspaper fashion, he began his day at 2 a.m., at least five hours before the rest of the world was out of the shower and on their way to work. During the weekend, he gave himself a break and arrived at the office at 3:30 a.m.

You won't find newspaper editors today with that kind of stamina.

Mr. Roemmele became one of the most controversial figures in the four towns where he served as managing editor. In Bloomfield, Nutley, Belleville and Glen Ridge, he was hated by many for the crusades he embarked on, but an equal number — if not more — loved him for the same crusades.

A man of convictions, Mr. Roemmele used his editorial space each week to root out corruption and expose truth where truth needed to be told and was never afraid of the repercussions. People feared him in life, and, as we learned this week, they fear him even in death.

Mr. Roemmele's weekly columns will be silenced, and that's sad for the many readers who learned a lot about their town's history. It's also sad because the power he had behind those words effected positive change in the towns he covered. They even helped change the course of government.

That's the role a newspaper editor should play. He or she should look upon their communities with a certain kind of love and always have the courage to stand up for what is right — as long as it is right. And when we receive a response in which the letter writer or phone caller shouts at us and curses at us for our opinions, we should sit back and tell ourselves that we've done our jobs — as long as it is right.

I will miss Mr. Roemmele. During the two years I have known him, he has taught me a great deal about the newspaper business. He taught me never to be afraid to write the truth, as much as it might hurt the subjects of articles. He taught me to remain steadfast in my convictions, even if it meant enduring a barrage of criticism against me.

That's what we should be prepared to accept, after all, when we make the decision to join the newspaper industry as reporters and editors.

In the opening paragraph of this column, I quoted from a column published last week by Mr. Roemmele. He talked about going up the hill with his squad to the moment when the corpsman puts the dog tag between his frozen lips. Mr. Roemmele many times used military analogies to describe life, and this was no different. His hill was his crusade — a crusade against corruption and evil. His hill was always steep, but he always managed to reach the top — except this last time.

A strong voice in the newspaper industry has been silenced, and for the moment, my heart is silenced with respect.

Not-so-real training grounds

All eyes will be on the thousands of model train accessories and equipment, as well as operating layouts and movies featured during New Jersey's Central Train Show & Sale on Nov. 12 at the Coachman, Cranford, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Adult admission is $4.50; children under 12 will be admitted for $1.

Challenger to shoot it out for sheriff

By Chris Gatto
Regional Editor

Two longtime law-enforcement officers will be shooting it out with one another during Tuesday's election to decide who will serve as the county's sheriff.

The shootout will feature incumbent Sheriff Ralph Froehlich, an 18-year veteran of the office, and Newark Police Capt. Pete Nevargic.

Nevargic, a Clark resident, would like to reform the Office of the Sheriff if voters provide him with an opportunity to accomplish such a task. Also, he envisions someday regaining control of the jail.

Froehlich, whose focus has had much to do with attempting to steer children away from guns as well as addressing matters of domestic violence, is known by residents as an all-around likable guy.

But, Nevargic says that's about as far as it goes. He says Froehlich is more image conscious than anything, and rarely, if ever, gets his hands dirty.

The sheriff, though, in his own defense, points to a long list of programs, including the production of three community service videos in the past three years, "Be Smart, Play it Safe," "Get Away and Get a Grown Up," and "Teens and Guns, An American Tragedy."

His office also has been known for "deadbeat dad" roundups, something which his supporters say has resulted in lower taxes for the public, because taxpayers do not have foot the welfare bill for mothers who are snubbed by dads who refuse to pay child support.

Nevargic doesn't buy it, though. He says every three years when the sheriff's term is up, Froehlich crawls out of the woodwork and does something, but it is actually a program he introduced at an earlier juncture. Nevargic said the sheriff makes sure cameras are out and about to capture the event when he orders a raid.

The only time Froehlich comes up with an initiative, says Nevargic, is in response to something that has happened on the crime front. "The Union County sheriff is strictly reactive," said Nevargic. "He is not proactive."

A pair of examples were supplied by Nevargic.

The Republican said that Froehlich came out publicly following the riot at the Esmor detention center in Elizabeth, at that time saying he knew there was going to be a problem because the officers were not sufficiently trained. If he knew there would be a problem, Nevargic said the sheriff should have approached the Union County prosecutor beforehand to let him know a potential time-bomb existed.

Also, Nevargic said the sheriff waited until after the Oklahoma City bombing before deciding to implement a court security system in Union County.

Whether it be proactive or reactive, Froehlich notes that more than 1,500 weapons have been confiscated from visitors to county courtrooms in the past three years.

Nevargic joined the Newark Police Department in 1964, after serving his country in the Submarine Fleet during the Cold War. He has been honored for bravery with a Class A Medal of Honor, received a total of six Medals of Excellence and 26 Command Citations, making him one of the most decorated police officers in the city.

He holds a public safety administration degree from William Paterson College. He was promoted to the rank of captain in 1992, and subsequently was appointed by the city's police director as chief administrative officer. In that position, he oversees all personnel matters for nearly 1,500 police and civilian personnel.

Nevargic claims Froehlich's office is riddled with political cronies — non-Civil Service employees — and also is top heavy. The sheriff himself is paid $92,000 annually, and has two undersheriffs. Annual salaries for undersheriffs are $85,000 for the senior appointee and $72,000 for the most recently hired second-in-command. It is the undersheriffs that do all of the work and Froehlich watches from the sideline, said Nevargic.

GOP looks to up numbers on board

By Chris Gatto
Regional Editor

Republicans will be seeking to increase their majority on the Board of Chosen Freeholders when voters go to the polls Tuesday.

GOP freeholders, who will maintain a majority on the board of at least 5 to 4 no matter what happens next week, would take overwhelming control of the board if they sweep the three slots up for election.

Seeking the nomination as Republicans are Rahway Councilman James Fulcomer, Roselle Mayor Joseph Safaryn and Nick Giuditta of Cranford. Democrats, who hope to maintain a voice on the board, are incumbent Daniel Sullivan, Carol Cohen of Westfield and Walter McNeil of Plainfield.

Those in favor of bipartisan government say the three slates up for election this year must be retained by Democrats, or it would throw the board's balance out of whack. But, others say a greater majority on the part of the GOP would provide the party with an opportunity to accomplish some of the things it has been unable to address due to standoffs with Democratic freeholders.

Sullivan, who was appointed to the board in January as a replacement for the retiring Casimir Kowalczyk, said if the Democrats are defeated, then GOP freeholders may "develop a certain arrogance." The Elizabeth resident said this already has been evident when Republicans balked at paying to insure firefighters who trained at the Union County fire training academy.

Fulcomer, who served as a freeholder from 1986-88, said a majority of more than 5 to 4 is necessary so that when a Republican freeholder is absent, there will still be enough votes to pass planned initiatives.

Safaryn, a one-term mayor of Roselle who is not seeking reelection, said he believes in bipartisan government, so the argument that his election would adversely affect that philosophy is untrue. "I appointed more Democrats than Republicans to positions in town," said Safaryn, who pointed to his municipality's Department of Public Works as an example. "It was the fair thing to do. I pick people based on their abilities."

While Democrats and Republicans all seemed to agree on a host of topics including the need to attract more business to the county, the need for dredging the Elizabeth port and the need for control of the deer population, subjects such as the Union County Utilities Authority and consolidating the county clerk's office with that of the register of deeds and mortgages drew differing views.

Republicans were quick to note that 17 of the 21 counties in the state already operate under a system which includes the offices of the clerk and register under one umbrella. Democrats favor the idea of a study being conducted to determine how consolidation could best be accomplished.

Giuditta, who has never sought an elected political office, envisions a savings of about $1.4 million with the consolidation of the two offices. This would be accomplished through the elimination of the register's position, Republicans have noted.

Democrats, however, charge that the move to merge the two offices is purely of a political nature since Rajoppi, a Democrat, has been entrenched in the position for 12 years. Democrats suggest GOP freeholders have proposed the merger to oust Rajoppi.

"This whole thing with the register's office was politically motivated," said McNeil. "I don't think this is such a super-fantastic idea."

Fulcomer objected to the idea of a study being undertaken, and said Democrats were just attempting to protect "two political jobs" when in actuality it is the "people under them who do their jobs."

All Democrats and Republicans running for freeholder indicated they favor dredging the Elizabeth port to entice businesses to remain in that city as well as in an effort to attract new businesses. Democrats, however, charged Republicans with delaying the project, and indicated that dredging is something which should not be delayed.

McNeil said Republicans should not only do more to attract businesses, but should attempt to address the county's 7 percent unemployment rate. Statewide unemployment is at 4.5 percent, but Union County is lagging behind.

Cohen, along with her running mates, has charged Republicans with relying too much on the Union County Alliance, a group of public and private interests concerned with matters of an economic nature.

Republicans, though, note that unemployment in the county and statewide has dropped since the GOP gained control of the statehouse and the county freeholder board. All six candidates agreed the alliance has been helpful, but say that its efforts should be augmented with additional measures taken by county government.

Three candidates seek post of retired county clerk

By Chris Gatto
Regional Editor

One thing's for sure in this year's county clerk race: An incumbent will not get the nod.

With the retirement of Walter Halpin as Union County clerk, the field is wide open for the three candidates seeking the post.

Acting County Clerk Paul O'Keeffe, county Register of Deeds and Mortgages Joanne Rajoppi and former Elizabeth Councilman Bob Griffith are competing for the post.

Voters on Tuesday will be asked to go to the polls and choose who they feel would best be able to protect their personal and property records.

Griffith is president of O'Donnell Agency, Inc., a family-owned insurance company in Elizabeth, and served six council terms in that city. The 58-year-old city native said his management style is one that puts the customer first, something he says he hopes will rub off on his staff if he is elected.

Griffith says he is optimistic about his chances ever since he discovered that 42 percent of registered voters in Union County consider themselves to be Independent.

A former president of the County Officers Association of New Jersey, Rajoppi has served as county register for 12 years. She is the former mayor of Springfield as well as a former assistant secretary of state for New Jersey.

O'Keeffe, a lifelong Plainfield resident, is a veteran of the United States Navy and that city's former mayor. He is a graduate of Holy Cross College in Worcester, Mass., and served as a senior account executive for Mortgage Guaranty Insurance Company in Philadelphia.

As acting clerk, O'Keeffe has been instrumental in expanding hours in the clerk's Westfield office by 20 percent at no additional cost to taxpayers, while increasing revenue by 15 percent. He says this was done in an effort to make it more convenient for residents who can't make it to the clerk's office during regular business hours.

He also plans to begin an educational process to let people know it is important that they have passports even if they are not traveling abroad. His office plans to make passport applications available at the Union Township Municipal Building.

It is expected that the victor will be asked by freeholders to oversee the merger of the offices of the clerk and register, although that action may not take place for three years if Rajoppi should lose.

State legislation passed earlier this year calls for the two offices to be merged, but it does allow currently elected register's to complete their terms. Rajoppi's term will not expire until 1998.

Rajoppi has made the idea of merging the two offices an issue in this year's campaign, charging that the GOP-controlled Freeholder Board has proposed the merger as a means of ridding it of a Democrat, Rajoppi.

O'Keeffe, a freeholder from 1984-89, is seeking the post as a Republican, while Griffith, a Democrat, is running as an Independent.

With the state takeover of the courts, it left about 10 employees in the clerk's office, something which led O'Keeffe to call for a reduction in the clerk's salary by $15,000. Halpin, who had been in office for 29 years, had earned an annual salary of $92,000 in his final year. Freeholders agreed. Griffith endorsed the action.

Rajoppi, who would actually take a pay cut if she were to be elected county clerk, noted that she has devised a plan for a successful merger of the two offices — something which no one else has done. She noted that she is the most qualified for the position, which would require overseeing the $8 million a year generated by the register's office in addition to that which is produced by the clerk's office.

All candidates say a savings can be realized as a result of a merger of the clerk's and register's offices, although they have indicated that the majority of positions will probably remain. The greatest savings, candidates say, would result through the elimination of the register's post in addition to the trimming of either the deputy clerk's post or deputy register's slot, if not both.

Griffith, a political ally and friend of former Elizabeth Mayor Tom Dunn, has continuously voiced his opposition to the selection of Rajoppi by Democrats. He alleges Rajoppi was handpicked by state Sen. Ray Lesniak, R-Union, to run for county clerk.

"I was handpicked by no one," said Rajoppi when asked about the legitimacy of Griffith's statement. She said she expressed her interest in the position when she heard earlier this year that Halpin intended to retire.

According to Rajoppi, she was notified the position would be opening up for election and that a meeting of the county's Democratic Committee would be held. Rajoppi said she was unaware at the time that Griffith was even interested in the clerk's post.

Griffith said he was interested in the post, but was not afforded the opportunity to by the Democratic powers that be. The 18-year Elizabeth city council veteran said he also had been interested in the freeholder vacancy filled by Daniel Sullivan earlier this year, but was denied that as well. He again blamed Lesniak.

In Rajoppi's case, she said she hasn't even received financial backing from Lesniak in her campaign.

As for Griffith's charge that Lesniak backed her as far back as when she ran for register, Rajoppi brushed off the accusation and noted that she had been a member of the State Democratic Committee even before Lesniak.

When asked what the negative impact would be even if Rajoppi were a Lesniak crony, Griffith said it would mean she would be obligated to hire friends of the senator at his whim. Griffith, however, could not point to any specific such hirings which occurred in the register's office.

Said Rajoppi: "If I ran my office politically, I don't think I'd ever be in office."

O'Keeffe chose not to get involved in the crossfire regarding Lesniak's ties to Rajoppi, saying he recognizes that she and Griffith are on opposite political sides in the Democratic Party. Dunn and Lesniak have been in a battle ever since Lesniak forced Dunn to run off the party line as a state assemblyman in 1992 and then supported J. Christian Bollwage as Elizabeth mayor over Dunn.

O'Keeffe, though, has not gone unscathed. There are charges that O'Keeffe is getting paid back for her service as a freeholder with his appointment to the acting clerk's post. He says, however, that Halpin earlier this year approached him to see if he would be interested in replacing the clerk when he retired. Halpin, who, despite his ties to the GOP, always has been viewed as nonpolitical, according to O'Keeffe, believed the former clerk could do the job well.

Ironically, it was Halpin's subsequent endorsement of O'Keeffe as his successor which got him into trouble. Rajoppi filed a complaint when she observed billboards touting Halpin's endorsement of O'Keeffe, charging that it was a violation of rules of conduct set forth by the Supreme Court regarding court employees.

Halpin, who retired to accept a position with the courts, was in violation, but Rajoppi blamed O'Keeffe for failing to immediately comply with a court order issued on Oct. 4 calling for the sign's removal. On Oct. 25, O'Keeffe issued a press release stating he had changed the billboards rather to carry the endorsement of retired Rep. Matthew Rinaldo, who also signed on as O'Keeffe's honorary campaign chairman.

Cohen will strive to get things accomplished

Editor's note: This page includes statements prepared by three of the six candidates seeking election to the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders on Tuesday. Statements of the remaining candidates are on the opposite page. Republicans are Nick Giuditta, James Fulcomer and Joseph Safaryn. Democrats include Carol Cohen, Walter McNeil and Daniel Sullivan. Voters may choose three.

My experience in county government began as an attorney for the Union County Board of Social Services. There I helped to enforce child support obligations of delinquent parents. From there I moved on to assistant county counsel. In that role, I was able to recover over $2.5 million in forfeited bail bonds for the taxpayers of Union County.

I have been a resident of Westfield for 25 years. I raised my two sons here and have my law practice in town. Prior to being admitted to the bar, I was a school teacher and worked as a supervisor of adoptions for the Division of Youth and Family Services. I am particularly concerned about juvenile justice reform. The rate of violent crime among juveniles has increased dramatically in the last 10 years. The Juvenile Reform Package before the New Jersey Legislature calls for a Juvenile Justice Committee in each county which would oversee, coordinate and fund crime prevention, rehabilitation and incarceration. We need people on the Freeholder Board who can help lead the reform in Union County. If not, we will just breed a new generation of criminals and victims.

Another key aspect of the county crime plan must be a stronger program to deal with the rise in domestic violence cases. I support the efforts by Sheriff Froehlich to train and employ domestic violence specialists throughout the county and to hire the staff necessary to serve the increasing number of restraining orders.

I am also concerned about the state of the bridges in the Union County roads system. Two of the most dangerous bridges in Union County are located in Rahway — the East Milton Avenue and Lawrence Street bridges. We have more workers handling mosquito control than we have workers maintaining over 500 bridges and culverts in the county. We need to concentrate our efforts to repair and maintain the infrastructure of our county.

During this campaign I have tried to demonstrate the kind of active freeholder that I would be. I have been out in the community, not just campaigning, but finding out about the concerns of the citizens of my community. Along with my running mates I attended the hearings in Elizabeth when the Mega Mall was presented to the Elizabeth Council. I was at the Port Authority hearings on the expansion of the Goethals Bridge and questioned, with Elizabeth officials, any expansion of the bridge that did not include provisions for traffic coming off the bridge. I went to Summit to a meeting to discuss the parking problems resulting from the new rail service through the Kearny Connection. I testified in Trenton in favor of the Juvenile Justice Reform Package. And last week, I was in Linden to lend my support to the citizens courageous effort to keep an unnecessary and dangerous hazardous waste incinerator from being built in their community.

County government should be alive and vibrant. My career, my civic involvement has been that of an individual working within the group to get things accomplished. I believe I can do that and represent the diverse and vital interests of our 21 communities.

Fulcomer envisions jobs coming with Metro Mall

James J. Fulcomer was a freeholder from 1986-88, when he proposed a county property tax cut, opposed freeholder salary raises, helped to build a new county jail to ease dangerous overcrowding, built a new Runnells medical facility to save tax dollars on operating expenses, created the county improvement authority to save tax dollars and never missed a freeholder meeting. Freeholder candidate Fulcomer is finishing up his fourth term as a Rahway councilman. He was the first chairman of the Union County Utilities Authority and the first chairman of the county Environmental Health Advisory Board. An Elizabeth High School educator, he received his master of arts degree in political science from New York University, his bachelor of arts degree in education from Kean College, and his high school diploma from Union High School in Union Township, Union County. He is a lifelong Union County resident.

James Fulcomer

I oppose the over $15 million of unnecessary taxation that separates my running mates and me from my Democrat opponents. We cannot afford the over $11 million in new taxes the county would have to raise for bonds because of the $7.2 million give-away program proposed by my opponents. We should investigate the $2.2 million lost by the Democrat utilities authority in the purchase of Bedle Place, Linden, and get laws adopted to prevent the possibility of such future losses. We need to consolidate the register's and clerk's office to save $1.4 million during a register's term. We need to eliminate the do-nothing deputy county manager's job for a savings of over $300,000 during a freeholder's term, an initiative which the Republican freeholders are working to achieve. We need to cut the starting salaries of all new constitutional county officers. This action, which the Republican freeholders over Democrat opposition, already have started for the county clerk's office, would bring their pay down closer to a department head's lower pay, rather than the higher county manager's salary. This offers a potential savings of $30,000 next year.

We need to build on the present Republican freeholder success in lowering tax increases, in drastically lowering spending increases, in promoting economic growth, and in reducing unemployment. We need to promote Republican Senate President Donald DiFrancesco's plan to dredge the Elizabeth Port area and we need to help the downtown business districts of our county grow. The Republican freeholders success in getting the state legislation needed for the new Metro Mall in Elizabeth is just the sort of aggressive action that will help to energize our county economy. We need to develop a demanufacturing industry to recycle machinery and create new jobs. These initiatives plus the needed improvement of our county transportation system would enhance greatly the growth of our county economy and create new jobs.

I want to be a Union County freeholder because I find it rewarding to serve in positions where I can shape public policies that have a beneficial impact on people's lives. I was born and raised in Westfield where my family has lived since the dawn of the 20th century. My grandmother, an Italian immigrant, was one of the first women to own a business in town. Union County has many similar success stories which make us all proud.

Presently, I reside in Cranford with my wife, Francine. I firmly believe that our best days lie ahead of us and that Union County can remain an outstanding place for young families and businesses to establish themselves. This vision of what our county's future can be has inspired me to seek public office as your county representative.

Government needs problem-solvers who can interact with diverse individuals and arrive at solutions which are in the best interests of their constituents. As an attorney, I routinely deal with people from all walks of life. I help them confront difficult problems and find workable solutions by listening closely to their concerns. These interpersonal and analytical skills which I have acquired in my professional life are transferable to serving in government and would make me a responsive and results-oriented freeholder.

Union County is at crossroads. Since the Republicans gained control of the Freeholder Board four years ago, county property tax increases have been kept to their lowest level in 20 years. Unemployment has dropped from 8.9 percent to 7 percent. We can't afford to return to the failed policies of the past which caused unchecked property tax increases. As a freeholder, I would continue the Republican's offensive approach in seeking joint ventures with business, such as the Metro Mall complex and the IKEA expansion which results in less reliance on homeowners for property tax revenues.

Similarly, I support the ongoing process of controlling government spending while maintaining the efficient delivery of services. Specifically, I will work to ensure that Union County joins its 17 sister counties by merging the register's position with the county clerk's office. This will save county taxpayers $1.4 million over a five-year period. Republican initiatives such as forming successful partnerships with business to create jobs and controlling spending has resulted in less unemployment and stabilized county property taxes. These are significant steps in the right direction. We need to continue the progress which the Republicans have begun.

Freeholders to OK pay raise for county's election workers

Freeholders tonight are expected to adopt a resolution authorizing the payment of an additional $25 to distribute to Board of Election workers.

The action is expected to take place during a special meeting of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders at 6:30 p.m. in the Freeholders' Meeting Room, Sixth Floor, Administration Building, Elizabeth.

Funds are expected to be transferred into the Board of Elections "Other Expense Budget."

Poll workers had complained that tax laws enacted a couple of years ago had been sapping money they had received for working at the polls. Some municipalities have had problems attracting people to work polls, particularly senior citizens, who objected to the taxes.

Interviews slated at rape crisis center

The Union County Rape Crisis Center is interviewing for the following groups:

- a group for teenage female survivors of rape age 13 to 17.

- a group for adult female survivors of rape.
- a group for young adult survivors age 19 to 30 addressing different kinds of sexual assault.

Safaryn wants to make county better

Four years ago, I entered politics to make a positive difference in my community of Roselle, and now I want to become a freeholder so that I can make a positive difference in Union County.

I would bring to the freeholder position academic credentials as well as business and governmental experience that would enable me to be an effective freeholder. I have a bachelor of science degree from St. Peter's College, a master of business administration degree from New York University, a law degree from Seton Hall University Law School, and for over 40 years I have been associated with the pharmaceutical industry. At the end of December, I plan to retire and would be able to devote myself full time to improving our county.

As a resident of Union County for over 35 years, I am well aware of the problems and challenges we face as we prepare to enter the 21st century. We need to redevelop our blighted areas bringing new retail and service businesses into replace the manufacturing plants which have closed. We need to aggressively pursue the immediate dredging of Port Elizabeth before our economy suffers irreparable damage. We need to continue to fight property tax increases, but make sure we do not sacrifice essential services.

As mayor of Roselle for the past four years, I have taken on some of the same challenges the county faces. For years, parts of St. George Avenue were like a war-torn city ruined and destroyed. Former Democratic administrations tried to rehabilitate the area, but their efforts failed. As mayor I took decisive action on the blighted section of St. George Avenue and initiated a redevelopment of the area. During my term in office, local and regional flood control was improved, as was public safety through partnerships developed with neighboring towns.

As a freeholder, I will continue to fight tax increases, promote economic growth and strive to improve our residents' quality of life. I want to work on strengthening all aspects of our transportation from improving our infrastructure to connecting our county via rail links. I want to create jobs through new initiatives, and build partnerships to bring strength out of our diversity.

McNeil ready to make hard choices

Recently, while out on the campaign trail, one of the residents of the county, observed...did you ever think Union County would be in the bad straits we are in today? What I think he meant was that our parents saw Union County as a place of opportunity. It was a mix of jobs, good housing and above all, a time of optimism. Our parents believed that our generation would continue to prosper and grow in Union County.

Well, the 7 percent unemployment rate, higher than the state average, the abandoned manufacturing plants, the failure to get our ports dredged, the runaway costs of the utilities authority all point to a county government that is not cutting the mustard.

As freeholder, I will do more than point to the problem, I will work to implement a plan to solve the problems. First, we in county government must take responsibility for our own destiny. We must stop pointing to the Union County Alliance as an answer to our economic problems. With the cuts at the federal and state levels, county government will be even more important in the lives of our residents.

A key point remains the need to put abandoned properties back on the tax roles as productive ratables and a source of new jobs. I am interested in the new initiative in the state Senate, to waive county and local taxes in exchange for the funds going directly into cleanup costs.

Another aspect of my economic development plan is to develop an intermodal transit plan. We face serious congestion problems, for example, in Berkeley Heights and New Providence because of the planned Connell Development. We must develop transit links from the Berkeley Heights and New Providence train stations to prevent gridlock.

As a county, we must also come to grips with the Community Reinvestment Act. Union County should not invest public monies in banks which refuse to detail the amount of investment in our county. If the banks don't share our optimism for the future they don't deserve our money.

What I want is a Board of Freeholders which is active in the 21 towns. A subject of real concern is the Union County Utilities Authority. Now, this is an example of a public agency run amuck. In less than two years, it has spent more than $500,000 on public relations fees for Coleman & Pellet. That public relations firm arrogantly, and we believe improperly, billed the taxpayers $150 an hour to brief these three Republican freeholders on garbage issues. Beyond the spending, the recent tragic explosion at a Pennsylvania incinerator identical to the Union County facility shows that we need to have a public hearing to review the Occupational Safety and Health Association investigation into that tragedy.

In conclusion, what I am saying is that we can do better in Union County. Doing better doesn't mean smiling on the county manager's little cable show on Saturday afternoons. It means making hard choices and showing leadership at a time when county government will become even more important in the lives of our residents.

Privatization, economy on top of Sullivan's list

When I was selected to serve an unexpired term on the Board of Freeholders, it gave me the opportunity to start to address some of the needs of Union County residents.

One of the first battles I faced was my opposition to the decision of the Republican majority to keep $7 million, a one time shot via a court settlement. It was obvious to me that the money should have gone back directly to the residents. To keep that money, and attempt at budget time to say that taxes were being lowered was a sham and hoax on the people of Union County.

I am convinced that tax relief and growth in Union County can be achieved. The recent Kapkowski Road project in Elizabeth and private growth expansion at a U.S. 1 refinery in Linden, both point to the potential that exists.

At this point, however, it is still just potential. A key element of the regrowth of Union County is a rebirth of Elizabeth as a transit hub, and more simply providing alternatives to the private auto for the residents of Union County. The 5,000 ridership potential for the Morris Avenue Townley Station, the South Avenue corridor project offer exciting new vistas to provide jobs, access and a spirit of growth in Union County.

As a freeholder, we not only have to be advocates for new growth, we must be more aggressive as a forum for fighting those plans which decrease the quality of life in our county.

We face the attempts of the Port Authority to ram a new level on the Goethals Bridge, and the pressing of Mayor Giuliani to raise the PATH fare for New Jersey riders. The Goethals Bridge addition would be devastating for the Route 1 corridor. At the very time we face clean air compliance, this project would play havoc with traffic and pollute even more air.

The PATH fare increase has been of special concern. While we're promoting mass transit, along comes this absurd attempt to raise fares. Let me tell you about a young commuter I met at the Roselle Park train station. She was from Springfield, and every morning she drives around in Colored and Roselle Park trying to get one of the precious last parking spaces which are filled by 7 a.m.

I want the county to be a leader not a silent observer as the municipalities grapple with problems such as parking, regional sharing and purchasing of equipment and joint engineering problems. Summit, for example, is going it alone in dealing with the problems of the Kearny Connection line. The benefit of these projects are regional, the problems and the solutions should be regional as well.

Recently, the county has moved to some well publicized, if limited, attempts at privatization. There is universal agreement that market competition creates choices and stimulates quality. Local, county and state spending has doubled over the past eight years. A plan which includes some privatization, and economic growth for Union County and, of course, new transit initiatives is the path I want to pursue and why I seek election to the Board of Freeholders.

Candidates spar over county issues

The loss of $2 million as a result of the sale of a Union County Utilities Authority-owned site located on Bedle Place in Linden drew the ire of Republicans.

Democrats, in turn, lashed out at Republican freeholder candidates for costing taxpayers more than $500,000 as a result of a meeting with the UCUA's public relations company. Republicans said they were unaware at the time that a bill would be submitted to the authority as a result of their meeting with Coleman & Pellet.

As for the county's growing deer population, all candidates say they believe measures must be taken to address the situation. The majority of the candidates favored using sharpshooters due to its cost-effectiveness and safety factors, but would opt for a more "humane" approach were it to be affordable and proven to be effective.

McNeil said trapping and transporting deer would have been the route he'd have taken.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Pastel artist's first solo show in a decade to open Saturday

In his first solo exhibit for more than a decade, master pastelist S. Allyn Schaeffer's "New Painting" will be shown at Swain Galleries in Plainfield from Saturday to Dec. 1.

Although Schaeffer never has engaged in "the sport of kings," the spirit, motion and excitement of horse racing, as well as show jumping and hunt scenes, are predominant in his work. His latest oils and pastels encompass additional outdoor sporting scenes, such as bicycle racing and fishing.

Establishing an earlier reputation a landscape, still life and figure realist, Schaeffer in the last decade has become a specialist in equine subjects despite never owning nor riding a horse.

He credits his background with enabling him "to paint anything." Following a standard education and his instinct from childhood to be an artist, he studied at such New York schools as the Art Students League and the National Academy of Design and cites as major influences artists Robert Brackman and Ivan Olinsky from whom he learned figure and portrait painting.

Schaeffer said he enjoys portraying the movement of horses' muscles, the sheen on their coats from exercise and racing, the festive surroundings, including the jockey's flashing silks and the contrasting quiet moments when one horse jostles another, a jockey stands silently with his mount before the race.

"It all started with parades," said Schaeffer. "I was attracted to the colorful movement, the sunlight slanting off a trombone. I found the same kind of ceremony and festivity at the races."

Since he is not involved with horses and events personally, he can paint from a fresh viewpoint, he added.

New Jersey, Schaeffer's native state, has afforded him numerous and diverse opportunities for equine portraits, from the Meadowlands racetrack in East Rutherford to Monmouth Park in Freehold to the hunt country of Far Hills including the Essex Horse Trials at the U.S. Equestrian Team headquarters in Gladstone.

He takes advantage of his figure and landscape talents that make it possible for him to portray anatomy and gesture, to present the human figure and the mount, and to create a plausible setting in which "all elements in the painting contribute to the whole," he noted, and one segment does not subsume another. His pastel, "On Course," portrays a single horse and rider charging toward a forested trail with sunlight on both horse and turf.

Schaeffer uses both oils and pastels. "They are both opaque media. One is dry, the other is fluid. What is important is that both provide the immediate effect I am seeking," he explained.

From horse racing he took a next step to the thrill of bicycle racing. His "Stage Horse Turn" shows the exciting rush of cycles as they pass a landmark building in Scotch Plains," noted the artist, who lives in Fanwood.

Schaeffer's innumerable awards have been received from such places as the Museum of Fine Arts, Springfield, Mass.; Salmagundi and National Arts Clubs, in New York City;

Pastel Society of America which, in 1984, elected him a "master pastelist," a lifetime honor held by only 30 of 500 members at the time. He captured the society's Grumbacher Medal in 1990.

By invitation, he has been an exhibitor at the NJ State Museum in Trenton; Springville Museum in Utah; Columbus Museum in Georgia and innumerable one-persons shows throughout New Jersey. Among the permanent collections housing his work are Monmouth Park and Meadowlands racetracks, Giants Stadium, Fanwood Public Library, Schering Corporation and NJ Bell Telephone.

Further awards were bestowed by the Jersey City Museum, Newark Art Club, Ridgewood Art Institute and Harness Tracks of America.

An instructor at the New Jersey Center for Visual Arts, Summit, where he teaches "the basics of oils and pastels" as he himself learned, he has also published at least four books through Watson-Guptil on the subject of oil painting including "Color, Composition and Light in the Landscape" and "The Big Book of Painting Nature in Oils."

Schaeffer's exhibit at Swain's will include a still life with toy horses, some interiors and figures and a pencil drawing. His scenes of fishing once more draw upon his figurative and landscape artistry. The opening reception is scheduled for Saturday from 5-7 p.m. with the exhibit continuing weekdays, 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Saturdays to 4 p.m. at Swain Galleries, 703 Watchung Ave., Plainfield. For more information, call 756-1707.

Sharon Wilkes is seen as Effie Melody White, who is replaced in the rising trio of singers climbing to fame in the musical 'Dreamgirls,' which will run through Dec. 10 at the Paper Mill Playhouse in Millburn.

Paper Mill's 'Dreamgirls' retains winning elements of Broadway hit

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

There is so much entertainment up on the Paper Mill Playhouse stage in Millburn these days with such a variety of talent that a theater-goer is in his or her glory throughout a performance. The show is "Dreamgirls," a musical that took six Tony Awards in 1982 during its Broadway run, and won two nominations for Jefferson Awards in Chicago.

Amidst the heart-pounding music, the marvelous choreography, the exquisite gowns, the magnificent costumes, the incomparable scenic delights, there is a dramatic, moving story that follows the careers of a trio of girls from Chicago, who make it to the top. "Dreamgirls," with book and lyrics by Tom Eyen and music by Henry Krieger, both of whom offer a rock-and-roll and rhythm-and-blues score to the production, is reminiscent of the careers of the legendary Diana Ross and the Supremes. In chronological order, the play unveils the "show biz" struggle in the lives of the lead performers and the numerous compromises made by black singers in the 1960s to be accepted by white audiences.

The performances of the main characters are so strong they can tear one's heart out, particularly the beautiful women who make up the trio, LaTonya Holmes, Angela Robinson and Sharon Wilkes, and in the second act, Deirdre Lang, who joins the trio when Wilkes is fired. The other principals in the cast who give powerful performances include Alton Fitzgerald White, who plays Curtis Taylor Jr., the trio's unscrupulous manager; Marshall Titus, the overbearing star singer whose appetites for fame and women are insidious; Curtiss L' Cook, as C.C. White, the songwriter-brother of the Sharon Wilkes character; Herb Downer, as Marty, an honest promoter, and David White, who plays Little Albert, who leads his Tru-Tones group.

Mark S. Hoebee, who held the directorial reins of "Dreamgirls" in Chicago and won a nomination there, is responsible for the superb production that is at the Paper Mill Playhouse. Choreographer Kenny Ingram has created some really fine dances in cooperation with Wendy Bobbitt, musical director. Michael Anania, the incomparable scenic designer, has provided the various parts of the backstage of the Apollo Theater and the dark and bright corners of other theaters in conjunction with Tim Hunter and Gregg Barnes, lighting designer and costume designer, respectively.

The early days of the pop rock concert and recording industry and the emergence of the Motown dynasty are clearly shown in the music and the musical dialogue of "Dreamgirls." With 12 scenes in the first act, from the Apollo Theater, Atlantic Hotel in Miami to backstage and on stage in Las Vegas, such numbers as "I'm Looking for Something," "Goin' Downtown," "Cadillac Car" and "I Want You Baby," consistently tell the story of the trials and tribulations of the rise to stardom of four young women. And the music and the musical dialogue follow the story line with such numbers as "I Am Changing," "One More Picture Please," "When I First Saw You," "Got to Be Good Times," "I Meant You No Harm," "I Miss You Old Friend," "One Night Only," "Hard to Say Goodbye My Love," and the title song, "Dreamgirls."

The dramatic talents that are unfolded in this Paper Mill production are surprisingly outstanding. The sparkling show, which is unlike any show that the Paper Mill Playhouse has staged in the past, is a most unusual experience. And if one likes loud, significant music, fantastic drama and spotlights occasionally turned onto the audience, then it is one's cup of tea.

And, as it is often mentioned in the dialogue throughout "Dreamgirls," "that's show-biz," well, that's exactly what it is. Show biz — personified.

Music store sponsors drum clinic

Russ May, a nationally known drummer, teacher and clinician, whose drum studio has been located in Elizabeth since 1964 and who recently joined the teaching staff of Loria Music of Rahway, will be featured in a drum clinic.

The drum clinic is geared for all ages and levels, from beginners to professionals, and will be held at the Firehouse Eatery and Pub on Wednesday at 8 p.m. It is sponsored by Loria Music.

Topics will include various styles of music, ranging from rock, and jazz to Latin and fusion. There also will be a live band, as well as guest celebrity drummers. Free doorprizes will be raffled at the end of the evening. The Firehouse Eatery and Pub is located at 455 St. George's Ave. Tickets are $9 at the door or can be obtained at Joe Loria Music in Rahway by calling 888-8873.

Russ May has performed and recorded with Vic Damone, Connie Francis, Bobby Rydell and Pearl Bailey. His students include world famous drummers who perform music from rock to the Broadway show circuit.

Guests will include drummer, author and teacher Sam Ullano of New York City; and John Sarraeco of Staten Island, who played drums and appeared in two "Godfather" movies.

May's former students, who will attend, include Donald Boyle, who was the first chair New Jersey All State Band and recently toured Italy with the All American Youth Symphony; Todd Walker, who was the first place winner of the 1995 Pearl Drum solo contest in Vancouver; Pat O'Donnell, a Broadway show drummer, who performed in "Cats," "Phantom of the Opera" and "Les Miserables;" and Charles Cordes, the inventor of the nylon drum-brush and the free floating snare drum.

Professor to judge art exhibit

Professor Antoni Nicoli, professional artist, contemporary art critic and coordinator of fine arts at Union County College, has been selected to judge the Westfield Art Association's 71st annual oil, pastel and sculpture exhibition.

Alfred Kaercher, exhibition chairperson, announced the selection in preparation for the opening reception and awards presentation to be held Saturday from 2-5 p.m. at the community room in the Municipal Building at 425 E. Broad St. in Westfield.

Awards to be presented include: the Barnett-Sitzler Best in Show Award; four Awards of Excellence; four Awards of Merit; and eight Honorable Mention Awards. The Barnett-Sitzler Award is in memory of Catherine Barnett-Sitzler and Fred Sitzler, local artists and past members of the association. The award is given annually and will be selected from all entries, irrespective of media.

In addition, Nicoli, is a visiting professor at the Central Academy of Fine Arts and Design in Beijing, and an advisory professor at East China Normal University in Shanghai.

The exhibition and reception are open to the public. Exhibition viewing hours will be posted at the community room.

Jahn's to host '50s flashback dance Saturday

Jahn's in Union will hold its third 1950s dance tomorrow from 8 p.m. to midnight. "Flashback" will be the featured entertainment.

Dance contests a la will be featured. Tickets are available at Jahn's Restaurant, 945 Stayvesant Ave., or by calling 964-1511.

Union YM-YWHA to hold concerts, craft shows

The YM-YWHA of Union, located on Green Lane, is noted for creating an annual Russian Concert Series which promotes new talent. Less publicized, however, is the addition of a "New American Artisan Exhibit" that precedes and follows each concert.

"This is a wonderful opportunity for recent new American craft people to show their wares to a large and varied audience," said Myrna Friedman, coordinator of the program. The Y seeks moderately priced items such as pottery, quilts, dolls, crafts, jewelry, etc.

New American Concert dates slated for the 1995-96 year are Saturday evenings, Nov. 18, Jan. 20, and March 16 at 8 p.m. For further information contact Friedman at (908) 289-8112.

Wynton Marsalis will perform to benefit childrens' groups

Called "a genius" and "leader of a powerful renaissance in jazz" by New York Times Magazine writer Frank Conroy, Wynton Marsalis will perform at the State Theatre in New Brunswick next month.

The concert, scheduled for Dec. 10 at 3 p.m., will benefit the work of two central New Jersey organizations — St. Peter's Medical Center and Music For All Seasons. All money raised will be used to brighten the lives of children: St. Peter's Medical Center will apply the support to its pediatric programs, and Music for All Seasons will apply the money to the support of its live musical programs for children in St. Peter's Medical Center and other residential care facilities.

Ticket prices for the concert are $35, $30, $25, $20 and can be ordered by calling the State Theater Box Office at (908) 246-7469. Patron tickets for orchestra seats and the reception are $150 and may be ordered by calling either (908)745-8542 or (908) 755-5753.

ARIES — March 21/April 20
Consider all options before making a serious commitment this week. Shopping around prevents future regret. At work, it's time to change a system that doesn't work. There's no better time like the present to make improvements. Bad news comes in threes on Wednesday.

TAURUS — April 21/May 21
Make use of extra time by tackling those tasks you always mean to "get around to." You'll feel productive and satisfied with yourself. If you're in a new relationship, this may be the time to let your true feelings be known. A Pisces associate will show you the way.

GEMINI — May 22/June 21
A temporary situation may turn into a permanent one if you play your cards right. Stay focused and you will get what you want. Pay attention to details at work, especially on Thursday. Your sense of humor lifts a gloomy friend into a happier state of mind. Children play a role.

CANCER — June 22/July 22
Don't be defensive when dealing with criticism. Try to be confident and open to change. Remember, there's room for improvement with everyone. A selfish acquaintance may try to take advantage of your kind nature. Stay one step ahead and you'll come out on top.

LEO — July 23/August 23
Even the most outgoing Leo will find more pleasure staying close to home this week. Quiet moments will give you the most enjoyment. A friend from far away will have some interesting news. You'll be intrigued at the way people change. A valued item may be carelessly lost.

VIRGO — Aug 24/Sept 22
Expect the unexpected this week. As much as you like to plan, there are some things you can't control — or anticipate. The answer to a puzzling question is right in front of you. Take a good, long look and you will find it. A Scorpio may need your help this week.

LIBRA — Sept 23/Oct 23
Don't procrastinate when it comes to important projects. Take tasks head on and you can kick back and relax when it's all over. Putting things off will only prolong the inevitable. A Scorpio will do something nice for you this week. Make sure you show your appreciation. Long-awaited news will finally arrive.

SCORPIO — Oct 24/Nov 22
Your tenacity and endurance will be necessary to get you through a busier-than-usual week. If working too hard puts you in a cranky mood, try not to take it out on loved ones. Best to keep a low profile at home. An old friend may need a favor. Be willing to oblige.

SAGITTARIUS — Nov 23/Dec 21
A week of ups and downs. A disappointment early in the week will be countered with some very good news later on. Keep a positive attitude and everything will end up going your way. Your sense of humor will come in handy at the workplace this week.

CAPRICORN — Dec 22/Jan 20
Communication is very important in a romantic relationship. Why be frustrated when you can get your feelings off your chest? A misunderstanding at work could set you behind schedule. You may have to put in extra hours to make up for it. Try to keep an optimistic attitude.

AQUARIUS — Jan 21/Feb 18
Unforeseen interruptions will keep you from the task at hand. Give yourself extra time when planning any projects. A family dispute could put a damper on your spirits, but don't let it get you down. Things will work themselves out with time. Finances look good.

PISCES — Feb 19/March 20
A good week for meeting new people and making new friends. Your friendly nature will set the stage for an interesting social scene. A work associate may try to make you look bad in order to look good. Don't let it happen. Stay on your toes and the rest will fall into place.

November 5-11

YOUR BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
The next 12 months:
Even if things seem pretty stable right now, change in some areas is inevitable. A rocky romantic relationship could reach a major turning point. You may have to decide whether you want to make it or break it once and for all. Think long-term when making decisions of the heart. A change of residence is possible, too, especially if you are renting an apartment. You may decide to move to a bigger, more comfortable space in a more interesting neighborhood. A happening this spring will change your attitude towards certain areas of your life. You'll feel more fortunate for what you have.

Authors of history book to visit Cannonball House

On Sunday, the Osborne Cannonball House Museum in Scotch Plains will host the authors of a newly published book on local history. The book, "Images of America: Scotch Plains and Fanwood," is a compilation of many photographs and maps from our towns. Its purpose is to preserve these fading images and to offer all of our citizens with an opportunity to revisit our past. Many of the images come from personal collections, local merchants, and the Cannonball House Museum archives.

The authors, Richard and Suzanne Bousquet, and their daughter Danielle, are long time residents of Scotch Plains. Richard is president of Construction Service Specialists, Inc., a local builder who restores and preserves historical properties and structures. He also is president of the Historical Society of Scotch Plains and Fanwood. Suzanne is a professor of psychology on the faculty of Kean College in Union.

The Bousquets will be at the Cannonball House Museum from 2-4 p.m. on Sunday to meet with visitors and to discuss their book.

Dining Review November 2, 1995

By Robin Wallace
Staff Writer

For Chinese food lovers looking for a premium quality meal at neighborhood prices, the Union Chinese Restaurant at 1975 Morris Ave. in Union offers a delightful dining experience sure to turn first-time patrons into devoted regulars.

Opened last Saturday by first-time restaurateur Cindy Ao, the main goal at Union Chinese appears to be well-fed customers. Although even the most enthusiastic eater would be challenged to complete the generous portions served for appetizers and main dishes, your tastebuds will keep you eating well past the belly-busting limit. Considering the extensive Cantonese and Szechuan menu and reasonable prices that may also encourage diners to order an extra appetizer or two, the best companion to invite to Union Chinese is a hardy appetite.

Union Chinese
The best companion to invite to Union Chinese is a hardy appetite.

Cindy and Gus Ao, owners of the Union Chinese Restaurant, prepare a dish of appetizers for their customers.

To start your meal, the boneless barbecue ribs are an absolute must. The zest of traditional barbecue flavor meets the tanginess of classic Chinese sweet and sour in a house specialty sauce served smothering on a heaping plate of lean strips of tender pork. Without bones, the "ribs" can be eaten with a fork and take much of the mess and labor out of eating ribs as they all but melt in your mouth.

Follow this with any one of the many main dishes, such as steamed vegetables with tofu or General Tso chicken, a delectable concoction of breaded, deep fried dark meat coated in its own hot and spicy sauce, and chances are you won't feel the need to eat for the next week.

For those who can't decide what to order, Union Chinese offers an all-you-can eat lunch and dinner buffet seven days a week. The lunch buffet, available from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m., offers diners the chance to sample three soups, eight appetizers, and 12 main dishes for $4.95. The dinner buffet, which begins at 4 p.m., offers a slightly altered menu of nine appetizers and 13 main dishes for $6.50.

During lunch hours, diners can enjoy a full menu of main dishes all priced below $5, and a special diet and health menu of dishes prepared without salt, oil or cornstarch is also available. To top things off, the menu includes desserts of ice cream, almond cookies, and fortune cookies.

Although a $10 minimum order gets take-out fans free delivery service, the cordial and friendly service of the staff and the comfortable, pristine dining environment make an in-person visit to Union Chinese an imperative.

The Union Chinese Restaurant is open Monday to Thursday from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Friday and Saturday, 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., and Sundays, from noon to 9:30 p.m. For more information, or to place an order immediately, call 688-5678.

'Tom Sawyer' comes to UCAC stage

A musical adaptation of Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" comes to the stage of the Union County Arts Center Nov. 19, at 2 p.m.
 Tom's adventures will unfold in seven scenes and nine original musical numbers in this award-winning roadshow by the American Family Theater. Tom, Huck, Becky, Aunt Polly, Injun Joe and all the other familiar Twain characters will be brought to life by an experienced professional acting troupe, realistic costuming and Broadway-style staging.
 "Tom Sawyer" is the second of five shows in the AFT "Broadway for Kids" series in the Union County Arts Centers' 1995-96 season. The AFT show have garnered high praise in the hundreds of American cities they have toured, plus a White House citation and the Freedom Foundation's Medal of Honor.

 Tickets for "Tom Sawyer" are $7 or mezzanine seats and $8 for orchestra and loge. They are currently available at the Arts Center box office, 1601 Irving Street, Rahway, and may be reserved by phone at (008) 499-8226.
 The restored, 1,300-seat Union County Arts Center, an authentic vintage vaudeville-movie palace, is centrally situated at the junction of Central Avenue and Main and Irving streets in Rahway's historic preservation district.

MACK BORING & PARTS COMPANY
 2365 Route 22, Union, New Jersey
 908-964-0700

Mack Boring continues to expand

When the late Edward "Mack" McGovern Sr. founded a small automotive machine boring company in Newark in the 1920s, he began something that today is one of the most respected engine and generator parts, sales, service and remanufacturing operations in the Northeast.

Despite some lean times caused by numerous recessions, Mack & Boring Parts Company has continued to expand. The company recently added a new industrial and marine service department to its headquarters in Union, New Jersey. The new department is housed in a renovated 5,000 square-foot building and contains five additional service bays, increasing the total service area to 10 bays, said Ned McGovern, the company's president.

Larger service bays will now allow repairs on bigger vehicles, including buses, utility and recreation vehicles. The company already has the capabilities to rebuild and repair diesel engines ranging from 4 hp to 700 hp.

"We're expanding because our customers' needs are expanding. We can now repair or rebuild anything from small diesel water pumps and generators to large equipment and buses," said Steve Waite, operations manager.

"As for marine engines, we can service everything from transmissions and starters to alternators and turbo-chargers," Waite added.

Modern features at this new facility include retractable air hoses and electrical lines to keep workspace clutter-free, a new office and a better work area for a dynamometer. The expansion is expected to increase service personnel number 50 percent by the end of the year.

Mack Boring & Parts Co., at 2365 Route 22, is a north-eastern U.S. distributor of marine engines, generators and power packages. They also operate an accredited diesel mechanics school.

FDA approves osteoporosis treatment

Merck's new drug Fosamax also is cited as a treatment of Paget's disease of bone

Fosamax, a new non-hormonal medicine for the treatment of osteoporosis in postmenopausal women, now is available in pharmacies throughout the United States, Merck & Co., Inc., announced.

A breakthrough medicine called alendronate sodium, Fosamax was cleared for marketing by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration less than three weeks ago.

"We began shipping Fosamax to local pharmacies last week to ensure that it would be available as quickly as possible as a treatment option for women with this potentially debilitating bone-weakening disorder," said Robert J. Glaser, senior vice president for osteoporosis research, at Merck.

Fosamax is indicated for the treatment of osteoporosis in postmenopausal women. Osteoporosis leads to fractures in more than one in three women over age 50 and is a progressive disease of the skeleton caused by an imbalance in the body's bone-rebuilding cycle. Osteoporosis is characterized by low bone mass, which results in bones that are prone to fracture, or by the presence or history of an osteoporotic fracture. Bone mass is closely related to bone strength; the greater the bone mass, the stronger the bones and the less likely they are to fracture. A woman's bones can become so fragile that even bending to pick up a newspaper can cause bones in the spine to fracture.

Because bone loss occurs without symptoms, osteoporosis often goes unrecognized. In many cases, it is not diagnosed until after one or several fractures have occurred. However, several types of tests, all of which are quick, painless and non-invasive, can detect low bone mass.

Osteoporosis affects more than 25 million Americans, 80 percent of them women. Each year, osteoporosis causes more than 1.3 million fractures, including 500,000 spinal fractures, 250,000 hip fractures and 240,000 wrist fractures. The disease costs the U.S. healthcare system more than $10 billion annually, primarily due to these fractures of the hip, wrist and spine.

"Fosamax builds healthy bones, it inhibits bone breakdown, decreasing the amount of bone lost. The effect of continuous treatment with Fosamax is a net increase in bone mass in women with osteoporosis after menopause," said Laurence J. Hirsch, executive director of clinical research, at Merck. "To date, a progressive increase in bone mass has been observed for at least three years in the clinical trials of Fosamax."

The FDA also cleared Fosamax for the treatment of Paget's Disease of bone, a chronic disorder that affects up to 1.3 million Americans and may result in enlarged and deformed bones in one or more regions of the skeleton. In patients with Paget's disease of bone, excessive remodeling causes the bone to be enlarged but fragile, and may result in bone pain, deformities, fractures and, in some cases, arthritis and neurological complications.

The most commonly reported drug-related side effects in patients with osteoporosis taking 10 mg of Fosamax were abdominal and musculoskeletal pain. Less frequently reported were the digestive disturbances such as nausea, heartburn and irritation or pain of the esophagus. In patients taking 40 mg of Fosamax a day, most side effects were similar to those seen in the treatment of postmenopausal women with osteoporosis.

However, there was an apparent increase in upper gastrointestinal experiences and musculoskeletal pain in patients with Paget's disease of bone. Patients with low levels of calcium in their blood, severe kidney disease or who are pregnant or nursing should not take Fosamax. As with other drugs in its class, caution should be used when Fosamax is given to patients with active upper gastrointestinal problems. The safety of treatment with Fosamax for longer than four years has not been studied; extension studies are ongoing.

Fosamax was licensed to Merck & Co., Inc., by Institute Gentili SPA of Pisa, Italy, in 1988 and is approved in 18 other countries. The New Drug Application for Fosamax was submitted to the FDA on March 31.

Merck has entered into a promotion agreement with Wyeth-Ayerst Laboratories a division of American Home Products Corp., under which Wyeth-Ayerst will promote Fosamax to obstetricians and gynecologists in the United States. Merck will concentrate its promotional and educational efforts on other key specialty groups, such as endocrinologists, rheumatologists, and orthopedic surgeons, and primary-care physicians.

Merck & Co. Inc., is a research-driven pharmaceutical products and services company. Merck discovers, develops, manufactures and markets a broad range of products to improve human and animal health.

Union Hospital offers HIV/AIDS support group

Union Hospital continues its HIV/AIDS Caregiver Support Group meetings. Held on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month, admission is free.

The Union Hospital GRAND Center developed the support group, which is designed to provide information and assistance to adults who care for adults living with the HIV infection/AIDS virus. The group is primarily for support, but it also provides participants with new information as it arises.

The groups are open-ended, but participants are encouraged to attend as regularly as possible. The program is being funded by a grant from the Division on Aging. There is no fee to join, but registration is required. The group meets evenings every second and fourth Thursday monthly from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. The meetings are held at the GRAND Center, 2545 Morris Ave. in Union. For more information or to register for the program, contact Sylvia Walkers at (908) 686-3117.

Other community outreach programs include: The AARP course on defensive driving, scheduled for Nov. 16 and 17. Fee: $5 per person.

This two-day AARP classroom course is designed to help older adults become better and safer drivers through classroom discussions and workbook activities. Classes are scheduled for Nov. 16 and 17 from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Union Hospital's Community Services Center. Please make checks payable to AARP and mail to Union Hospital SeniorHealth. Light refreshments will be served and participants are asked to bring a bag lunch. You must have a valid New Jersey driver's license to attend. For more information or to register for the course, call (908) 964-0444.

Hospital offers seminars on philanthropy

If you've always assumed that philanthropy was the domain of the wealthy, think again. An upcoming series of seminars, titled "You Can Be a Philanthropist" will introduce the process involved in making charitable gifts and demonstrating that one need not be wealthy to be a philanthropist.

The first in the series of three one-hour seminars, "First Things First: Who To Give To And What To Give," will be held Nov. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in suite 405 of the Overlook Hospital Medical Arts Center at 33 Overlook Rd. in Summit.

This introductory seminar will focus on the primary issues of selecting the charities potential philanthropists wish to support with a planned gift and deciding which assets would be most appropriate for the gift. It will also help answer such basic questions as:

- Why don't more people think of themselves as philanthropists?

- Does the IRS approve of your choices of charities?
- Will your wishes be carried out after the gift is made?
- Who should you contact as the charity for information about making a gift?
- What questions should you ask a charity?

Seminar materials will help participants gain a broad perspective on assets available for charitable gift planning.

Presented by the Overlook Hospital Foundation and David G. Clough of Planned Giving Specialists, Inc. in Brooklyn, N.Y., "You Can Be A Philanthropist" seminars are designed to help participants:

- select the charities they wish to support
- decide which assets will be contributed

- select the gift methods, or strategies, that meet their financial and philanthropic goals
- choose the right time to make the gift
- take positive steps toward implementing their charitable gift plan
- enjoy the result of their generosity

"These seminars are designed to help take some of the mystique out of being a philanthropist and provide practical step-by-step guidelines for making a charitable gift commitment," said Clough. "We will encourage participants to engage themselves in the gift-planning process as well as to seek the advice and counsel of their own advisors and the planned giving staff of the organization they are planning to support."

Upcoming seminars in the series are scheduled for March 19 and May 21, 1996. All of the "You Can Be A Philanthropist" seminars are offered free of charge, but reservations are required. For more information, or to make a reservation, write or call the Overlook Hospital Foundation, 36 Upper Overlook Road, P.O. Box 220, Summit, NJ 07902-0220. (908) 522-2840.

CARE FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

Maybe middle age is behind you and you are now an active senior citizen. You know that in the natural process of aging there may be occasional aches and other physical discomforts. Perhaps structural problems are causing pain and stiffness in your back or in other parts of your body. Your body is not as resilient as it used to be.

But with proper treatment you can be helped to feel well again. The problem may be a lack of good muscle tone, which you need to maintain the structural balance of your spinal column. Or maybe the spinal vertebrae have developed a tendency to slip or move erratically. This can affect the spinal nerves that lead to all the vital organs in your body and may be causing health problems.

Through chiropractic adjustments, you can be helped in maintaining your body's normal balance and mobility. Gentle manipulation to correct any misalignments in your spine may bring you the help you need to feel well again.

Blue Cross Blue Shield joins CHAMPUS health-care network

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey announced that its statewide health center network has become a participating provider in the Civilian Health and Medical Program of the Uniformed Services.

CHAMPUS is a federal cost-sharing program providing health insurance for dependents of active-duty U.S. military services personnel, as well as military retirees under age 65 and their dependents, and survivors of deceased military members.

Any eligible individual will have the option of using one of the 12 Blue Cross Blue Shield Health Centers for primary medical care, under certain CHAMPUS guidelines. Among those centers are five sites in military installation areas including Brick and Eatontown, near Fort Monmouth and Lakehurst Naval Base; Burlington and Mt. Laurel, near Fort Dix and McGuire Air Force Base; and Parsippany, near Picatinny Arsenal.

"We look forward to providing CHAMPUS beneficiaries with one-stop, personal, reliable and quality health care at convenient locations and at affordable costs," said Daniel J.

Dragalin, vice president of managed care operations at BCBSNJ.

"With the heavy concentration of our health centers near military bases, where many military dependents reside, it seemed natural for us to participate in CHAMPUS," he added.

CHAMPUS supplements uniformed service hospitals and clinics, covering medical necessary services and supplies for diagnosis and treatment of illness or injury, including maternity care. There are 70,000-100,000 eligible CHAMPUS beneficiaries in New Jersey.

The Blue Cross Blue Shield health center network is participating in the CHAMPUS Tricare Extra program which offers reduced cost-sharing advantages to beneficiaries.

The program is being provided at 10 Blue Cross Blue Shield Health Centers where physicians are affiliated with Physician Group Practice Associates. In addition to the sites near military bases, the 10 centers include Clifton, Cranford, Jersey City, Mays Landing and Paramus.

Two other Blue Cross Blue Shield Health Centers, in Trenton and Quakerbridge, provide CHAMPUS.

The centers offer consumers one-stop convenience of a range of services provided by a team of experienced personal care physicians and staff. Diagnostic laboratory and radiology facilities are available for patients, along with an on-site pharmacy.

Any individual can become a patient of the centers, even if they have an insured other than BCBSNJ.

Most of the centers are open Monday and Thursday from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.; Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Personal care physicians are on-call 24-hours a day for urgent care.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of New Jersey is the state's largest health insurer, providing coverage to over 1.86 million New Jerseyans. In 1993, BCBSNJ began implementing a strategy to become a total managed care company, creating hospital, dental, pharmacy and physician networks, and introducing HMO Blue as its premier managed care coverage.

Alzheimer's patients require hospital care, doctor says

Forgetfulness is a common sign of aging, but when an elderly loved one begins to show more serious signs, such as drastic personality changes, forgetting that he or she has prepared a meal or who family members are, a family may begin questioning their loved one's health.

An older adult who shows these symptoms may have Alzheimer's disease, according to Michele Elkins, director of Geriatric Services at St. Barnabas Health Care System.

Elkins supervises clinical services for elderly residents of St. Barnabas Nursing and Rehabilitation Centers, including Greenbrook Manor in Green Brook; Llanfair House in Wayne and Ashbrook in Scotch Plains.

"Since older adults are living longer, the number of cases of Alzheimer's disease in the next few years will increase significantly," Elkins said. "Alzheimer's disease affects nearly 10 percent of those over 65, and 47 percent of those over 85."

Alzheimer's disease affects an estimated 4 million American adults, and by the year 2,030, the number of Americans with Alzheimer's is expected to grow to 14 million. More than 100,000 people die of Alzheimer's disease annually, making it the fourth leading cause of death in adults, after heart disease, cancer and stroke.

The cause of Alzheimer's disease is unknown. Researchers believe genetics play a role. Scientists are conducting diagnosis, treatment and transmission research. "Genetic transmission has been confirmed in the younger cases of Alzheimer's disease," Elkins said.

Elkins suggested asking the following questions, when considering placing a loved one with Alzheimer's disease in a nursing home:

- Is there an area in the home, where care is specifically geared for patients with Alzheimer's disease or dementia? Some facilities have specific units. Others match residents with similar disabilities in certain areas.

- Are there activities designed to meet the specialized needs of the resident? Even long-term care facilities should provide specific activities programs for residents of all levels of physical and mental health.

- Is the facility equipped with safety devices for wandering residents? Many facilities either have locked units, or they provide residents with wander-guard wrist or ankle bracelets with sensors that trigger an alarm when the resident attempts to leave the facility.

- How does the facility resolve behavioral problems? Sedation should be the last alternative to resolving a behavioral problem. Treatment can range from specialized activities, to one-on-one visits from volunteers. The use of medication should be the last resort.

- Can the family have input in developing a care plan? Since the most effective treatment for a person with Alzheimer's disease is to develop a care plan that provides them with a familiar, regular schedule, the family's input is extremely helpful. Activities can be tailored to the resident's interests.

- What is the facility's philosophy about treatment measures? When choosing a nursing home, determine the type of facility that best suits your loved one's wishes regarding end of life care decisions.

Eating disorder self-help group to meet later this month

Eating disorders are serious problems. Sufferers can become medically ill, require medical hospitalization and even die. A free self-help group for persons with anorexia nervosa, bulimia, and compulsive eating problems will begin Nov. 22 at 7 p.m.

The group will meet for eight weeks at 514 South Livingston Ave. in Livingston.

To register or receive free information, counseling, and referrals, call the New Jersey Eating Disorders Helpline at (800) 624-2268.

SUPERIOR COURT OF NEW JERSEY DOCKET NO. F-2862-94 STATE OF NEW JERSEY TO: Renee Chesson her heirs, devisees and personal representatives and their or any of their successors in right, title and interest.
You are hereby summoned and required to serve upon Budd, Lerner, Gross, Rosenbaum, Greenberg & Sade, attorneys for plaintiff, whose address is 200 Lake Drive East, Suite 100, Cherry Hill, New Jersey 08002, an Answer to the Complaint, and Amendment(s) if any, filed in a civil action in which Federal National Mortgage Association is plaintiff, and Glanda R. Phillips, Individually and as Executrix, et al, are defendants, pending in the Superior Court of New Jersey (Docket No. F-2862-94) within thirty-five (35) days from the date of this publication, exclusive of this date. If you fail to do so, the relief demanded in the Complaint, and Amendment(s), if any, will be taken by default against you.
You shall file your Answer and proof of service in duplicate with the Clerk of the Superior Court of New Jersey, CN-971, Trenton, New Jersey 08625 in accordance with the Rules of Civil Practice and Procedure.

This action has been instituted for the purpose of foreclosing a mortgage dated November 30, 1984, and made by Lillian D. Chesson to R.E. Scott Mortgage Company, and ultimately assigned to plaintiff, and concerning real estate located in the City of Plainfield, County of Union, State of New Jersey, being commonly known as 1239 Rose Street, Plainfield, New Jersey 07060.
YOU, Renee Chesson, are made a party defendant hereto by reason of the fact that you are an heir to Lillian D. Chesson, deceased and for any interest you may have in the premises under foreclosure as the heir at law of Lillian D. Chesson.
By virtue of the fact that the plaintiff has been unable to ascertain the whereabouts of the said defendant(s), Renee Chesson, and whether they be alive or dead, there has been designated as additional party defendants the heirs, devisees and personal representatives of Renee Chesson and their or any of their successors in right, title and interest for whatever interest they may have in the mortgaged premises.
If you want an attorney to represent you in this matter or you cannot find one, you may call the Lawyer Referral Service of Union County at 908-353-4715. If you are unable to afford the services of an attorney, you may contact the Legal Services Office at 908-354-4340.

Lauren Estates promises home values in Scotch Plains

With interest rates among their lowest in 30 years and only 10 homes planned in the community, homebuyers are encouraged to visit Lauren Estates and discover home values in Scotch Plains.

Promising buyers only the best in luxurious living, an extraordinary location and ideal neighborhood setting, Lauren Estates has impressed even the most discerning homebuyers. It features innovatively designed homes that offer quality construction and a convenient setting. Homes at Lauren Estates are priced starting at $459,900.

Buyers are offered spacious homes that feature 3,315 to 4,438 square feet of quality living space and six model designs from which to select, including the Alpine, Princeton, Windfield, Hamilton, Bedford and Jefferson. Built by Anthony Marconi, Lauren Estates is destined to become one of Union County's fastest selling communities.

by virtue of its quality homes and convenient location.

Situated on approximately one-acre lots and offering many of today's finest standard amenities including spacious four and five bedrooms, 2.5 to 4.5 baths with ceramic tiled floors, full basements, soaring 9-foot ceilings on the first floor, oak railings, hardwood floors in the living and dining rooms, gourmet kitchens, two-zone central air conditioning and heat, and oversized three-car garages, Lauren Estates offers buyers the most for their money. Other features included in the homes are two-story entrance foyers, spacious family rooms with a fireplace, formal dining rooms and cathedral and volume ceilings.

"Homebuyers will find that buying a home at Lauren Estates ensures them that they will receive a quality constructed home in an ideal setting," said Project Manager Elvira M. Ardrey of Coldwell Banker Schlott Realtors' Westfield office. "Homebuyers should visit the community today to take advantage of the low interest rates and buy a home of their dreams at Lauren Estates."

Residents will appreciate that the community offers a convenient and charming suburban location, with its ideal locale in the shadow of the Watchung Mountains in Union County.

Lauren Estates also allows residents to enjoy all that the Scotch Plains area has to offer, including numerous recreational facilities, including the Watchung Reservation, which provides hiking paths, nature trails, a wildlife sanctuary, a petting zoo and six parks with baseball fields, tennis and basketball courts.

In addition, Scotch Plains boasts one of the highest rated public-school systems in the state, and New Jersey Transit's bus and train service to Midtown Manhattan and Newark is perfect for corporate executives.

The Westfield office of Coldwell Banker Schlott Realtors is the exclusive sales and marketing agent for Lauren Estates.

Lauren Estates holds open houses every Sunday. For more information about Lauren Estates or an appointment to visit the site, contact Ardrey.

JGT arranges transaction in Linden

Jacobson, Goldfarb & Tanzman Associates, L.L.C., the full-service commercial real estate firm, recently arranged an office transaction in Union County.

Negotiated by JGT brokers, the office transaction is the lease to Visiting Nurse Associates for space at the Stiles Circle Associates Building, located at 1025 Saint George Ave., in Linden.

Associate Vice President Walt Daly arranged for Visiting Nurse Associates to lease space in the Stiles Circle Associates Building in Linden. The two-story retail and office complex was chosen by the visiting nurse service because of its excellent location, extra parking and value.

"The building is conveniently located at the corner of Route 27, Saint George Avenue and Stiles Street, offering easy access to Route 1, the Garden State Parkway and New Jersey Turnpike," said Daly. "Some 40 or more visiting nurses will be operating out of this location going to the homes to the sick and elderly."

JGT was the sole broker in the transaction, representing both the lessee, Visiting Nurse Associates, and the lessor, Stiles Circle Associates.

Catherine Estates accepting bidders

Clark Town Associates announced it is accepting bidders for Catherine Estates, a new real estate project offering 10 luxurious townhomes which will be a replica of the classic Williamsburg Colonial design-style, generous landscaping, spacious interiors with 9-foot ceilings on the first floor, two-car garages, and many more features.

Since placing a sign at the site two months ago, the office has received more than 150 phone inquiries.

For more information about the Catherine Estates project, call (908) 272-8000 and ask for Chris Daunno, project manager.

REMODEL YOUR HOME

NOW NO PAYMENTS UNTIL 1996

Monthly payments are for 30-year conventional fixed rate mortgages as detailed below. Please ask about Lower Downpayments, Lower Monthly Payments, Other Options.

For purchase prices up to $253,937, monthly mortgage payments (principal+interest) quoted in our ads are to qualified buyers, based upon a 20% downpayment and a conventional 30-year fixed rate loan at 7.125% with 3 points, A.P.R. 7.431%. As an example, a $100,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $673.72. For purchase prices from $253,938 to $625,000, the monthly payments are to qualified buyers based upon a 20% downpayment and calculated at 7.375% with 3 points on a "Jumbo" 30-year fixed rate mortgage with an A.P.R. of 7.585%. An example of a $500,000 loan would mean 360 monthly payments of $1,453.36. Figures herein are approximate and do not include property taxes, hazard insurance, or homeowners association dues for a condominium purchase. Interest rates quoted are as of Sept. 8, 1995, and subject to change. Not responsible for typographical errors; while information is believed accurate, we request that the payment be validated with a mortgage provider prior to purchase.

Saab has a broad range of improvements slated for 1996

Saab has always been recognized for its ability to engineer a broad range of variants, each distinguished by a unique personality, from a small number of base platforms. The Saab 900 is perhaps the best example of this expertise. While every Saab 900 applies the same advanced level of intelligent solutions to today's driving demands, three different powerplant options infuse distinctive character into their respective variants.

The 1996 Saab S 5-door leads the lineup with its solid combination of family values. Equipped with features that most competitors either offer as extra-cost options or simply not at all the 900 S is a remarkable value.

Saab's naturally aspirated 2.3 L 150-hp four-cylinder powerplant, with counter-rotating balance shafts for smoothness, dual overhead cams and 16 valves, ensures smooth, strong performance, whether the task is transporting an antique armoire or a pack of children. The 900 S includes such standard features as CFC-free air conditioning, heated front seats, luxury velour upholstery, telescopic steering wheel, power windows and door locks, remote locking and alarm system, cruise control, 80-watt AM/FM/cassette stereo with six speakers, front and rear fog lights, 15-inch alloy wheels and Michelin all-season performance tires.

For buyers who prefer six instead of four cylinders under the hood of their Saab 900 5-door, Saab offers the 900 5-door V6. The naturally-aspirated 2.5L V6 engine, matched exclusively with an electronically controlled 4-speed automatic transmission for 1996, is optional on the 900 SE. The 170-hp V6 features four overhead cams, 24 valves and a narrow cylinder angle of 54 degrees between banks. An electronic Traction Control System, TCS, is standard with the V6 engine.

Every Saab 900 5-door includes a lengthy list of standard safety features, such as dual air bags, daytime running lights, anti-lock brakes, ABS, lap and shoulder safety belts and head restraints in all five seating positions and industry-leading 5-mph self-restoring bumpers.

Six-cylinder Saab 900 SE 5-doors emphasize driving comfort and refinement. Like all Saab engines, the V6 provides a high level of low-end torque for maximum flexibility and responsive passing ability.

The exciting 900 SE Turbo package, introduced last year in the Saab 900 SE Coupe and Convertible, transforms the popular family hatchback into an aggressive performance sedan-on demand. The 185-hp 2.0L Saab four-cylinder Turbo engine delivers a potent match of torque and horsepower, while a standard rear spoiler, sport chassis and 16-inch high-performance Michelin tires mounted on "Viking Aero" three-spoke alloy wheels spell out performance visually. The 1996 Saab 900 SE Turbo arrives with a manual five-speed transmission, and an electronically controlled four-speed automatic will be available later in the model year. The automatic gearbox will feature three driver-controlled shift modes: sport, normal and winter.

The 2.0L Turbo engine utilizes Saab's Ecopower technology to achieve both high performance and high fuel economy—hallmarks of all Saab turbocharged engines. Ecopower engines feature four valves per cylinder with center-located spark plug and direct ignition, intercooled turbocharger, Saab Trionic electronic engine management, preheated oxygen sensor and a catalytic converter moved closer to the engine for quick warm-up. The 32-bit processor of the award-winning Saab Trionic system helps keep the exhaust emissions clean enough to fall below California's TLEV (Transitional Low Emission Vehicle) limits.

The low-inertia, full-boost turbo-charger ensures an aggressive torque curve and strong acceleration, with boost pressure monitored by Saab's Automatic Performance Control (APC). Saab turbochargers, with water-cooled bearings and maintenance-free operation, are an integrated part of the engine, and can be expected to last the life of the vehicle.

Standard features on the Saab 900 SE, either turbocharged or V6-powered, include power front seats with three-position driver's memory, leather upholstery, power sliding glass sunroof, Automatic Climate Control, ACC, a 160-watt stereo system with eight speakers and a multi-function trip computer that, at the push of a button, calculates distance-to-empty, average fuel use, average speed and additional information.

1996 Enhancements Add Value
The taillight treatment on all 1996 Saab 900s gets a fresh look with the addition of a reflective decor panel between the rear light clusters. Saab 900 models with leather interiors and manual transmissions also integrate a black leather shift knob and hand-sewn shift boot. A new adjustable lumbar support in the driver's seat further enhances driver comfort.

The Saab 900 instrument panel defines ergonomic excellence. Saab's aircraft heritage is immediately evident in the logical layout of the easily accessible controls. Features also include a quartz analog clock, multi-function trip computer and dashboard "Black Panel" feature for darkening unnecessary gauges during nighttime driving. The Saab 900 SE Convertible also features a dash fascia trimmed with elegant polished walnut, available as an accessory for other 900 models.

A stunning new Sky Blue metallic paint color debuts in 1996. Sky Blue is a medium blue with silver undertones and a hint of purple, and it is the brightest entry on the 900 5-door color palette.

The roomy Saab 900 5-door is designated a "Mid-size" car by the EPA, which gives it an advantage in interior room over its compact-sized competitors. And while spaciousness is crucial to Saab enthusiasts, so is safety. That's why every Saab 900 5-door includes a lengthy list of standard safety features, such as dual air bags, daytime running lights, anti-lock brakes, ABS, lap and shoulder safety belts and head restraints in all five seating positions—optional rear seat center head restraint, industry-leading 5-mph self-restoring bumpers, 1997 side impact protection, the innovative rear "Saab Safeseat" and Saab's renowned safety cage construction with front and rear crumple zones.

Another key Saab commitment is to optimize utility. While some buyers simply want to haul, most Saab enthusiasts consider cargo capacity one of the 900 5-door's most appreciated assets. The 40/60/100 split-folding rear seat has a pass-through opening behind the center armrest which handily accommodates even the longest skis. With a push of a release button, the rear seat crossbeam folds down with the seatbacks to fully open the rear area for a maximum carrying capacity of 49.8 cubic feet.

“ My kind of people. ”

Conventional wisdom might dictate that the more expensive the car, the more satisfied the owner. Well, we'd argue that there's a bit more to customer satisfaction than money. Like a pressure-free showroom and a pleasant service department, both full of regular folks—you know, sort of like you. And at Saturn, those people happen to come along with a well-built, affordable car. So maybe customer satisfaction is all about money, after all. Less of it. Hope to see you soon.

Barbara Austin and family, Saturn Owners.

Al Bluh honored

Regal enhances strong reputation

Buick's 1996 Regal features an updated standard V-6 engine, a new, more powerful optional V-6 and numerous other features to enhance its reputation as a premium American midsize car.

Regal, offered in Custom and Gran Sport coupe and sedan and Limited sedan models, continues to provide such standard safety and security features as dual air bags, anti-lock brakes and a PASS-Key II theft-deterrent system.

"Regal provides comfort, performance and security in a premium midsize car," said Buick General Manager Edward H. Mertz. "Regal's contemporary styling, comfortable interior and acclaimed Buick quality make it a strong competitor for import and domestic sedans."

Regal's quality was recently acknowledged when J.D. Power and

The 3100 uses a 60-degree layout, which is inherently balanced, providing a quiet idle and smooth acceleration.

All Regals are equipped with long-life features such as new engine coolant with recommended change interval of five years or 100,000 miles, platinum-tipped spark plugs with first recommended service at 100,000 miles and transmission fluid that requires no change under normal operating conditions.

Optional on the Regal Custom, and standard on the Limited and Gran Sport, is the latest generation of Buick's proven 3.8-liter 3800 V-6, the 3800 Series II.

The 3800 Series II, significantly more powerful than the previous 3800, was named by Ward's Auto World as one of the top 10 engines for 1995.

Buick continues to equip Regal with a full range of comfort and convenience features. Standard for 1996 are cruise control, power windows, power mirrors, automatic power door locks and an AM-FM radio with a cassette player.

Associates, an independent customer research firm, listed Regal first in the midsize coupe category in its 1995 Initial Quality Study based on fewest customer-reported problems.

Standard equipment on the Regal Custom is a 160-horsepower 3100 V-6. This engine receives numerous updates for 1996, making it smoother and more efficient.

Optional on the Regal Custom, and standard on the Limited and Gran Sport, is the 205-horsepower 3800 Series II V-6, introduced on the 1995 Riviera.

Regal's standard dual Comfort-Temp climate controls allow the driver and front seat passenger to independently adjust the temperature in each area of the car.

A new low-torque-axis engine mount system reduces engine noise and vibration at idle to an almost imperceptible level. A new, quieter starter motor and added engine compartment insulation further reduce engine noise.

An electronically controlled four-speed automatic transmission is again standard on all Regals. Also standard are four-wheel independent suspension, four-wheel anti-lock disc brakes and dual air bags.

Buick continues to equip Regal with a full range of comfort and convenience features. Standard for 1996 are cruise control, power windows, power mirrors, automatic power door locks and an AM-FM radio with a cassette player.

Like other 1996 Buicks, Regal uses a new on-board diagnostic system called OBD II that can exhaust emissions by warning of any malfunctions before they cause emissions to rise.

New 16-inch aluminum wheels are optional on Gran Sport.

The 3.1-liter 3100 V-6, standard on Regal Custom, benefits from a number of improvements for 1996, including a low-friction valvetrain for improved efficiency, and an improved engine management system.

The 3100 V-6 is rated at 160 horsepower and 185 lb-ft of torque, matching the performance of more complex multi-value engines. EPA fuel economy ratings are also excellent, at 20 miles per gallon city, 29 mpg highway.

New for 1996 are roller rocker arms. These reduce friction for improved performance, efficiency and fuel economy, and also make the engine quieter. Engine noise is further reduced by an improved intake manifold.
