SECTION B

From The Editor's Notebook
By Tom Canavan
Editor in Chief

When a woman can boast on network news that she has been on welfare for 20 years and is upset with legislation that would eliminate her support five years from now, something is wrong with this country.

Reacting to the news that President Bill Clinton signed legislation that would end the 60-year public assistance program as we have come to know it, the woman complained that she had nine children to support and that she might not be able to find a job in five years. Well, how about the other 20 years? The reporter did not ask the woman if she had even attempted to find a job during that time period.

I simply can't sympathize with this woman, or any person who has lived off the government and taxpayers for even half that length of time.

Clinton's legislation will create a sweeping overhaul of the welfare system and will give states the burden of individually determining the kind of public assistance programs that should be enacted for their residents.

While I want to say, "It's about time Clinton has done something good for this country," I can't help but be suspicious of the timing of the legislation — less than three months before he asks voters to reelect him to another four years in the White House.

Clinton was quoted as saying his proposal is far from perfect, and that he would prepare second-term proposals so as not to make it difficult on the needy. Sounds like another campaign promise that Clinton will not fulfill if re-elected. Those second-term proposals may include trying to rescind everything that was put forth in this proposal. And if he was so uncertain of this proposal that he is already talking about subsequent proposals, why sign it in the first place? Ah, election year action.

I'm in agreement with the terms of the reform, which include a lifetime benefit limit of five years, requirements that welfare recipients must find work within two years, and cuts in Food Stamps and aid to immigrants.

In response to the legislation, Gov. Christine Whitman vowed that New Jersey would move full steam ahead with a plan to get people off welfare and into private sector jobs. Residents should hold Whitman to that promise.

"Our welfare system, which was intended to provide temporary support, unfortunately has turned into a way of life for generations of people. It has been harmful to children and destructive to families. It has rewarded failure and discourages work. And it has wasted billions of taxpayers' dollars and millions of lives in the process," Whitman said.

The governor's plan is called Work First New Jersey. Let's hope it does work.

Whitman summed it up best when she said that the old welfare system forced hard-working citizens to support able-bodied men and women in their choice not to work.

Cigar-making family rolls into Summit

By Jay Hochberg
Regional Editor

It's taken the Flores family decades to get to Summit — they've come via Cuba, Miami, and Hoboken, among other points — but they have arrived.

The family that manufactures the increasingly popular Flor de Florez brand of handmade cigars has set up Floréz Tobacconist on Maple Street in the city, opening their fourth retail outlet there earlier this month.

"It was either Princeton or Summit," said Carlos Flores, Jr., the chief executive officer of the family-owned company. "We liked Summit because it has the demographic ideal: affluent people, the best mall around and the train station."

It is Summit's population of professionals that Flor de Florez — the Spanish for "flower's blossom" — has come to serve. Rather than offer only retail sales or retail with a smoking lounge, the family built their newest store with an exclusive clientele in mind.

A club membership, not just off-the-street customers, is their objective. Inside the 300 square foot walk-in humidor are more than five dozen private lockers that are available to those willing to pay the $500 annual membership fee. Each locker, replete with ventilators to allow in the moist air, is large enough to contain 12 boxes of cigars and bottles of liquor.

Once cigars and spirits have been retrieved, members may retire to the smoking lounge, a climate-controlled room furnished with comfortable chairs and televisions and enclosed behind glass doors. To provide additional attractions, the Flores family plans to use a satellite dish to tune in all NHL games this season.

While Florez Tobacconist's doors have been open for more than two weeks, the brothers who work there intend to throw a grand opening party sometime next month, featuring Cuban cuisine, Cuban music — and of course Florez cigars.

When asked which competitors he'd observed before opening Florez Tobacconist, Flores said "I don't copy them. They copy me."

"I'm a manufacturer; there's no problem getting supplies. And I'm a retailer. With the club membership, I want to combine both of them and give people an option."

The production end of the business involves the family's three factories in Miami, Honduras and Nicaragua.

"We want to be different from the others," he added. "We'll be more personal and not open to all the public so much. These people are used to a country club life."

He went on to say he plans to help his customers select a variety of smokes, according to their preferences, the food and drink they'll have with the cigar, their sense of adventure and even the time of day they'd smoke.

Inside the humidor are dozens of different brands of cigars, each represented in many sizes, shapes and blends. Among the non-Florez brands are Dunhill, Montecristo, The Griffin's, Nat Sherman, Romeo y Julieta, CAO, Punch and Hoyo de Monterrey.

"Only Hoboken has a better selection," Flores said, referring to his family's store, The Smoke Shop, on Hudson Street near the train station. Their other shops are The Cigar Room in Fort Lee and Eastside Cigars at Third Avenue and 57th Street in Manhattan.

It was as a manufacturer that Flor de Florez got its start. Carlos Flores, Sr., 71, a native of Cuba, has been hand-rolling cigars for most of his life. He spent years in Miami, where he developed the blend of tobaccos that now is known as the Florez line with the white and blue band: the Miami Selection.

This line of cigar, which was intended for sale only in the family's stores, has earned the company a nation-wide reputation as a purveyor of incomparable premium cigars. An ironic turn of events led "Smoke" magazine to favorably review one of the Miami Selection, when its panel was supposed to have sampled Florez's Honduran line, which is distinguished by an orange band.

William, Abel and Carlos Flores, Jr. — and friend — sweeten the Summit air with a few samples of the Flor de Florez Miami Selection. The Flores family's newest cigar shop is located at 34 Maple St. The family has tentative plans to throw a grand opening party in mid September.

"I don't know how they got them," said Flores, Jr. "I didn't send them."

Once the word got out, retailers around the country contacted the company to place orders to satisfy their own customers. Flores told of another irony resulting from this mix up, recalling how distributors and retailers didn't have time to work with Florez in its early years, but now seek out the family and request exclusive contracts.

"It's a nice feeling to have the big guys coming to me. It's good to be recognized," he added.

To chart Flor de Florez's growth is to look to the future. The company will work with Chicago entrepreneur Diana Silvius, who owns her own cigar store and markets a line of premium handmade smokes bearing her name, to reach customers nationwide.

In addition, Flores had just returned from the Retail Tobacco Dealers Association trade show, where he said he'd taken orders for a half-million cigars. The CEO does a lot of travelling, crossing the country to secure his products' place at a variety of cigar events, including smoking evenings sponsored by "Cigar Aficionado" and "Smoke" magazines.

A new line of Flor de Florez cigars was introduced at the RTDA trade show. Called the Cabinet Selection, the cigars are made at the factory in Nicaragua. They are aged 18 months, feature a dark wrapper, a full body and a fruity taste.

Flores said the line should be available for sale by spring '97, but he has his eye on the distant future.

The Flores family has many relatives in Cuba, where they once had owned much land. Awaiting the demise of the Castro government, Flores, Jr. said his family plans one day to reclaim their land and expand the manufacturing base to the island, making cigars not only exclusively of Havana tobacco, but also of blends part Cuban.

In the meantime, the stateside Flores family includes Flores, Jr.'s wife Kim, the president, who runs the distribution; his brother William, the vice president who co-manages production and product development; brothers Abel and Gilbert, who manage the other retail shops; and the patriarch, who oversees production of the Miami Selection.

Florez Tobacconist is located at 34 Maple St. in Summit, near the intersection of Springfield Avenue and around the corner from the New Jersey Transit train station. The Flores brothers can be reached at (908) 598-1600.

UCUA announces the start of demanufacturing effort

Demanufacturing, a process by which used electronic equipment, household appliances and other goods are disassembled to permit the recycling of valuable components, is coming to Union County.

Acting Union County Utilities Authority Chairman Blanche Banasiak said a contract the UCUA signed last week with Electric Processing Associates Inc. of Lowell, Mass., will bring the firm to Union County where it'll accept and process materials with reusable components.

Possible sites are being considered and an announcement of the location selected is expected.

The plan calls for materials, TV sets, radios, microwave ovens and other home and business equipment and appliances, to be received at locations set up for the purpose by participating municipalities and then forwarded to the EPA processing facility.

Collection and transportation costs incurred by the municipalities will be covered by a $200,000 grant from the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection.

Banasiak, who initiated the UCUA's involvement with the demanufacturing concept, has worked with Board of Chosen Freeholders Vice Chairman Henry Kruz, County Manager Ann Baran and other county officials to bring the plan to fruition.

"I'm delighted to see this innovative program actually happening," said Banasiak. "It's an important one to the authority because it will make a substantial contribution to our effort to minimize environmentally dangerous materials in our waste stream. It will help us to protect the environment and, at the same time, lower the costs involved, with environmental control devices. One of the surest ways to control pollution is to have less pollution to control," she said.

Kurz said the program is the result of the ingenuity and determination of county and UCUA representatives.

"Demanufacturing is a sensible, practical concept that serves both our environmental and economic interests," he added. "Throughout this century, we've been disposing of uncounted volumes of valuable component parts, while they're still in the prime of their useful lives."

"Worse yet, by burning them or throwing them into landfills, we've been using them to pollute our environment. Demanufacturing makes it possible for us to address both of these problems. It's a win for both the environment and the economy — and that means it's a win for the people of Union County."

Baran said the new facility is "another step forward in the county's See UCUA, Page B2

Union plans its annual Festival on the Green

Several thousand enthusiasts and their families are expected to attend Union Township's arts and crafts show, "Festival on the Green," Sept. 21 at Friberger Park.

More than 100 artists, crafters and photographers will participate in the juried show, while residents also revel in music, dance, ethnic entertainment, and a variety of festive foods.

For art buyers, or casual admirers, the 23rd annual festival will feature fine arts, oils, water colors, photography, giftware, and clothing produced by professional and nonprofessional artists and crafters of all ages.

The show, which extends from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. will be judged this year by Natalie Becker and Gladys Reimers.

Proceeds from the event will support two scholarships to be given to local high school students who plan to pursue careers in art. To accompany the art show, entertainment will be provided throughout the day by the Union High School Band, the ROTC Drill Team, a barbershop quartet, ethnic dancers, a country band, the YMCA fitness and karate demonstrators from Ninja University.

Friberger Park is behind the Union Township Municipal Building. Arts and crafts displays will be set up in the upper-level parking lot behind the library, while the lower parking lot in front of the municipal building, will be reserved for local non-profit groups providing food vendors and service clubs.

Admission to the festival is free. In case of rain, the alternate date will be Sept. 22. For information call (908) 688-2777.

As summer ends, Trenton weighs school reform bills

By Kevin Singer
Staff Writer

While children across the state prepare to return to school, the Legislature has been working on a plan that would revolutionize the curricula and funding of public school education.

The pending legislation, known as the Comprehensive Plan for Educational Improvement and School Financing, calls for the establishment of a core curriculum and introduces a formula to determine spending levels for each district in the state. In 1994, the state Supreme Court ordered Trenton to provide a quality of education similar among all school districts to end what it called a disparity in the quality among the districts.

The core curriculum standards, which have been in development since 1992, are intended to serve as a description of "what students should know and be able to do in specific academic areas and across disciplines."

The standards encompass the areas of visual and performing arts, comprehensive health and physical education, language arts literacy, mathematics, science, social studies, world languages, and cross-content workplace readiness. Also required are cumulative progress tests at grades four, eight, and 12.

The visual and performing arts standards should enable students to develop ideas, increase problem-solving skills, and interact in partnerships. Students would be required to produce artistic products and performances, and identify historical, social, and cultural influences in the arts.

The goal of the health standards is to "develop citizens who are both health literate and physically educated." Students will be instructed on health promotion and disease prevention, fitness, the effects of drug and alcohol abuse, and sexuality.

Language arts literacy is said to provide "ways of thinking that develop through reading, writing, speaking, listening, and viewing."

The mathematics standards would require students to pose and solve mathematical problems, develop reasoning ability, numbers sense, and spatial sense, and understand statistics, algebra, and simple calculus. The standards also focus on technology, such as computers and calculators, as an "integral part of school mathematics curricula at every grade level."

With the science standards, the legislation stresses the instruction of broad scientific areas and investigation processes. The standards cover life sciences, physics, and technology.

For social studies, students will have studied major periods of American and world history, including European, Asian, and African cultures. In addition, they will learn about the democratic system of the U.S. government, and will acquire a geographical understanding of the world, the environment, and human systems.

Cross-content workplace readiness is designed to foster career development through instruction in the use of technology, and development of critical thinking and planning skills.

Regarding language instruction, students would be required to learn to communicate in a language other than English. The legislation recommends "world languages start in kindergarten and continue uninterrupted through grade 12."

As the bills are still pending, some educators have questioned aspects of them. Michael Knowlton, superintendent of schools for Summit, raised questions concerning funding during his recent testimony before a joint session of the Assembly and Senate.

"My biggest concern is whether the Department of Education has carefully thought through the fiscal ramifications," he told this newspaper. "Is the state prepared to pick up any extra costs?"

Funding has been a point of debate throughout discussion of the proposed legislation. The state Supreme Court's mandate is rooted in the state constitution's promise to provide a "thorough and efficient" education to each child. Gov. Christine Whitman's plan to meet that demand includes establishing a dollar amount each school district may spend on each child.

Districts throughout the state would be required to spend no more than $7,056 per pupil. Any excess spending would be deemed "constitutionally unnecessary," and could be rejected by the constituents of the district.

Assemblyman Joel Weingarten, R-Union and Essex, expressed his doubts concerning the curriculum, saying "I've seen no proof that this plan will necessarily improve the quality of education."

Knowlton added that the Summit school system meets or is close to meeting a majority of the standards, but that the world languages requirement may cause problems.

"If the state follows through and initiates the fourth-grade language test by 2001, and communities don't have the language program in place, what will that mean?" he said. "It seems only fair that the state would pick up the extra cost."

Several amendments to the legislation are under review, with voting tentatively scheduled for September.

UCUA announces start of demanufacturing plan

(Continued from Page B1) economic development initiatives. Companies now located here and those considering a Union County location will be very pleased to know that we have a sound, modern, efficient way for them to get rid of obsolete equipment. They'll also be glad to find that economical materials ready for reuse are right here at their doorstep."

The "search for a qualified demanufacturer began in early 1995, when Banasiak, Baran and Union County Department of Policy and Planning Director Mauro Checchio met with Rutgers University representatives to discuss the benefits demanufacturing had brought to a number of European countries.

After meeting with representatives of American, European, and Japanese electronics companies already involved with the concept and with organizations in the demanufacturing field, UCUA and county officials gave the nod to Electronic Processing Associates.

The program is expected to begin operation in September or early October.

In the meantime, she has invited companies or residents considering disposal of electronic appliances or equipment to contact UCUA Program Coordinator Steve Stanaback at UCUA headquarters, (908) 382-9400.

Ray Masters, orchestra leader, plays with his band Aug. 22 in Friberger Park in Union at the annual Italian Music Festival under the stars.

Music, dancing make festival a success

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

The Italian Music Festival, a rare and joyous event, got underway on Aug. 22 in Friberger Park behind the Union Library, where music and dancing were rampant.

Thanks to Dominick Fagnoli, superintendent of the Recreation Department, Ray Master's band, and a lively, enthusiastic audience seated on folding chairs, the adventure under the stars was a huge success.

Masters, who resides in Elizabeth, and who also plays the drums, introduced his band members: Pat Canterella, accordion; Charlie Barbone, trumpet, flugel horn and French horn; Tony Panzerino, saxophone and clarinet, and Masters' charming wife and soloist Fran, who, despite a bout with laryngitis and a sore throat, nevertheless bravely sang old time Italian favorites. Their grandson, Anthony Mastapeter, served as the band boy.

"Twenty-five years I'm playing here," said Masters. "We started small, and look how many people we're now attracting. We will be playing a medley of Italian songs and familiar tunes, and at half time, because I feel so grateful to the men and women of the armed services, we will play a medley of Armed Forces songs. We will end the program with a patriotic salute with such songs as 'Over There,' 'The Stars and Stripes Forever' and 'God Bless America.'"

After the National Anthem, the audience was offered a rare treat with such music as "Isle of Capri," and "That's Amore," an Italian polka, where members of the audience began to dance in a large wide circle. One could hear "Ahhs" and "Ohhs" throughout the evening, when a favorite tune was about to be offered.

The highlight of the festival was the guest appearance of Jackie Ventura, a singer-comedian, who took time out of his tour with Wayne Newton to entertain an appreciative audience. His most memorable number was "O Solo Mio," and when the audience howled with pleasure, Ventura grinned, "This is turning out to be a fun evening," and proceeded to sing "Just a Gigilo" and some old country Italian favorites.

The latest dance music, line music and Italian line music were highlighted, and members of the audience, from age 5 to age 85, participated in the dances. There also were polkas and tangos; memorable songs such as "The Woodpecker Song," "Marie Elana," and the memorable "Summertime," from the movie with Katharine Hepburn and Rossano Brazzi.

It just goes to show that one doesn't have to be Italian to appreciate Italian music and dancing. This reporter can't wait until next year, the 26th year, and more wonderful Italian music — much more of the same.

DINING REVIEW
August 29, 1996

By Jay Hochberg
Regional Editor

More than just another clean, well-lit pizza joint, Doria's in Summit offers delicious food served promptly in a family-friendly atmosphere.

Located in the heart of the city's downtown business district, Doria's could be lost among the string of store-fronts in the neighborhood, however this restaurant has a liveliness that sets it apart from its neighbors.

The menu includes most of what one would expect of such an eatery — pizza by the pie and slice; cold subs; hot heroes and pasta dishes — but it's the quality of the food and service that brings the customers back.

For selection, Doria's keeps on hand a half-dozen pans, each displaying several slices with Doria's variety of toppings, including sausage, pepperoni and mushrooms. Also, there are Sicilian-style slices and Doria's primavera pizza — topped with either spinach or broccoli, plus potatoes, fresh tomatoes and cheese.

Much of the lunchtime business involves these slices of pizza. Anticipating this daily rush, Doria's operates a small oven near the counter, eliminating what elsewhere is the delay caused by heating slices in a pizza oven.

Doria's dishes feature a variety of pastas. Spaghetti can be had with meatballs or sausage, or with meat sauce. In addition, there's ravioli, manicotti, stuffed shells, lasagna, ziti and pasta primavera.

Chicken parmigiana and eggplant parmigiana round out the list of entrees.

For starters, both the antipasto and Italian salad are recommended, although either would do nicely for a light, quick meal.

For on the side, the garlic bread is served hot, and not too spicy. Also, side orders of meatballs and sausage are available.

Serving Doria's customers is a staff of attentive, polite and friendly young men and women who'll either bring your order to your table or prepare it for take-out. Rather than allow the abrupt and curt service too common among such establishments, the Doria's staff understands the significance of not only saying "please" and "thank you," but also of pleasing the clientele.

Doria's does not deliver, but to order a pie for pick-up, call (908) 277-0909.

Doria's Pizzeria is open Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays, from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Thursdays, Fridays and Saturdays, from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.; and Sundays, from noon to 10 p.m.

It is located at 432 Springfield Ave. in Summit, near Maple Street. Curbside parking is available outside, and municipal parking lots are only a few steps away.

DINING/ENTERTAINMENT

'Restoration' is a comedy which is ahead of its 'age'

In the late 1600's Oliver Cromwell's Puritan rule on England came to an end and King Charles the 2nd reclaimed the throne. The mood of the country underwent a complete change, and their new beginning rang throughout the world. It was a time of discovery, a time when anything could happen. Historically, it is known as the Age Of Restoration. The film "Restoration" follows a young physician, Marivel, played by Robert Downey, Jr., and the effect this time has on him.

In the beginning he is teamed with Pearce, played by David Thewlis, as the two tend to patients and work on cures for new diseases. Though Pearce feels strongly about his profession, Marivel would rather carouse with wine, women and song. One afternoon, Marivel's life is changed when he and a group of physicians are introduced to a man with a "defect". The man has a large hole in his chest, allowing a full view of his beating heart. He is, otherwise, perfectly normal, able to walk and talk like anyone else. As the physicians stare in amazement, he asks if they would like to touch his heart. Marivel is the only doctor who can bring himself to do it. When the king hears of this deed, he believes Marivel has special powers and orders him to the castle to cure his dying dog. Marivel has no extraordinary powers, but when the dog recovers the king gives the physician a position within the throne and lavish excesses in Marivel's three favorite areas: wine, women and song.

Though Pearce tries to sway him back after a few months of fun, Marivel is ordered to fill another position. It seems the king has a mistress, Celia, whom he needs to keep in a castle out of town, meeting her every week or two for their special pleasures. It would seem less suspicious if the mistress was, in fact, moving to the castle after being married. Marivel is ordered by the king to marry her and live with her, but not fall in love with her or even touch her. It's at this point in the film that the story relies less on plot and more on character study, mainly of Marivel.

It is easy to predict that he falls in love with Celia. What's not predictable is what happens next. And then what happens after that. "Restoration" is just one of many films that, year after year, are ignored or overlooked. Robert Downey, Jr. gives an Academy Award-caliber performance, as does Sam Neill as King Charles. The script is excellent and, even if you're not a fan of period pieces, the film will fly by. The supporting cast of Hugh Grant as a painter and Meg Ryan as a dowytrodden peasant Marivel cares for, are great. The film is based on the novel of the same name by Rose Tremain.

Robert Downey, Jr. Facts: Downey was born in New York City on April 5, 1965. He moved to Los Angeles when he was 15 and when he was 6 dropped out of Santa Monica High School. He moved back to New York City, took odd jobs, and auditioned for movie and television roles. He became a cast member of Saturday Night Live for the 85-86 season, and landed roles in films like "Back To School" in 1985, "Less Than Zero" in 1987, and "Air America" in 1990. His father is film director Rober Downey, responsible for such pictures as "Putney Swope," 1969, and "Up the Academy," 1980. Robert Downey, Jr. made his acting debut at age five in his dad's movie, "Pound," 1970, playing a dog.

Philathalians of Fanwood receive A.C.T. nominations

The Philathalians' production of Jack Poppewell's "Busybody" has garnered two nominations from The A.C.T. Awards. Westfield resident Carole McGee is nominated for Outstanding Performance by a Lead Actress in a Play for her depiction of the voluble Mrs. Lily Piper, the title's "busybody." Fanwood resident Bernie Buettner is nominated for Outstanding Set Design. "Busybody," a typical British mystery-comedy, was performed by The Philathalians from February 23 through March 16, 1996, at The Carriage House in Fanwood, and was directed by veteran Philathalian Deborah Dreyer.

The A.C.T., Achievement in Community Theater, Awards, is a private organization seeking to nurture and promote community theater throughout New Jersey. The annual nominations are one way the organization seeks to recognize excellence and highlight the vitality of community theater in New Jersey. Nominations for awards are made from among participants in plays and musicals, produced by the more than fifty New Jersey member theater groups that are reviewed by The A.C.T. Awards during the prior twelve-month season. Presentations of The A.C.T. Award statues to winning nominees took place following cocktails and dinner at The Second Annual A.C.T. Awards Ceremony on August 25, at The Hunterdon Hills Playhouse in Hampton, N.J.

The Philathalians, a community theater club based in Fanwood's historic Carriage House and participating member of the A.C.T. organization, celebrates its 65th season this fall. The season opens in November with Tina Howe's loving and humorous play, "Painting Churches" — winner of the 1983 Obie Award. Larry Gelbart's rollicking comedy "Sly Fox" and Rick Johnson's murder farce "Cahoots" round out the schedule for 1996-97.

The Philathalians invite all those interested in participating to attend the season-opening meeting on Friday, September 20th at 7:30 p.m. at The Carriage House, 129 Watson Road in Fanwood, beside the Fanwood Police Station. Contact The Philathalians by phone at (908) 322-8686.

Membership benefits include entry into juried competition

One need not be an artist to enjoy membership to the Watchung Arts Center. Members get a monthly newsletter, discounts on certain events, plus other benefits. But those members who are artists are rewarded with an additional dividend: participation in a members-only juried show.

Artist-Members will be submitting work in various media: drawing, painting, photography and even three-dimensional art. This makes for a diverse and interesting show, awaited by non-exhibiting members and the public alike.

Accepted work will be exhibited from September 4 to 28, with gallery hours Monday through Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m. The juried Members Art Show will have its public reception on Sunday, September 8, from 1 to 4 p.m. This is an opportunity for visitors to see the work, meet the artists, and enjoy light refreshments too. There is no admission charge for the reception of the exhibit.

Not just any member work is accepted. It must be selected from among submitted work as being worthy of exhibit. Noted professional artists and talented amateurs are found among the Center's members, and their work will fill the both Upper and Lower Galleries for this show. The displayed pieces are available for purchase from the artists.

Donna Brion, Director of the Artist's Showcase in Chester, will be the distinguished Juror for the show. She will select first, second and third place winners, with ribbons to be awarded at the reception.

At month end, the exhibit will travel to the Somerset County Building in Somerville, where it will be displayed in the public entry lobby.

Ample parking is available adjacent to the Center's historic building on the Watchung Circle. It is easily reached from Interstate 78, exit 40, or Route 22, Plainfield overpass.

Wouldn't it be more convenient to receive your paper in the mail each Thursday?

Saint Mary's opens second computer center

Saint Mary of the Assumption High School will begin its 67th year, when it opens its doors on Wednesday for a freshman orientation program. Regular classes will start Sept. 5.

The four-year co-educational, Catholic high school, located at 237 So. Broad St. in Elizabeth, offers its 375 students a college preparatory curriculum with business options. The school is accessible by public transportation from all communities in the county.

"When the students return in September, they will find many changes and improvements," said Janet Malko, principal. "Our renovation program is moving ahead with all classrooms now having new tile floors and virtually all of our desks are new. In addition, workers are putting the finishing touches on the school's second computer center. Although this was a very costly project, we felt that it was very necessary as our students must have the resources to be prepared for the future.

"In addition, a landscaping contractor is busy preparing our grounds for a complete renovation. Flower gardens, shrubs, and pathways are in the works to give our students a campus-like atmosphere."

Success of the school's academic program is shown in the nearly 90 percent college-acceptance rate among its graduates. In addition, the class of '96 — 83 students — received in excess of $1.2 million in scholarships, financial grants, and awards.

The school is accredited by the Middle States Association of Schools and Colleges. In addition to a complete academic program, the school offers a variety of interscholastic activities for boys and girls. The school is a member of the Mountain Valley Conference and its varsity basketball team completed a championship season.

"Just as important as the physical improvements and our tradition of academic excellence is the fact that St. Mary's is a family school, a family that spans three or four generations of students," Marko also said. "It's the kind of school where graduates come back to work as teachers and coaches. It is the kind of school where most of the parents know each other because 'We are small enough to offer our students a very individualized personal education with very small classes, and at the same time large enough to implement the latest teaching innovation.'

— Principal Janet Malko

many of them are graduates. "We are small enough to offer our students a very individualized personal education with very small classes, and at the same time large enough to implement the latest teaching innovation."

The school has limited openings in grades 9-11. Those interested may call Malko at (908) 352-4350.

Registration remains open at county vo-tech schools

There is still room for students in the more than 100 full- and part-time, day and evening courses offered at the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools.

The fall semester will begin Wednesday, with day classes. The Division of Continuing Education's evening classes will start Sept. 16, with the exception of manicuring/nails technology and cosmetology which will open Sept. 10.

Patrick Mauro, director of admissions, said the day session provides skills training in a wide variety of technical occupations. He stated the auto technology program, with its automotive service excellence certification, and the building trades cluster are highly regarded. The culinary arts and baking programs have won numerous honors and garnered praise throughout the years. Other popular courses, Mauro added, are graphic communications, horticulture, masonry, machine technology and welding, plus many more. A supermarkets institute, a child care and development program, law enforcement technology and twilight culinary arts are also in place. The latter is for adults above high school age who seek training in the food service area.

Daytime classes are available to tuition participants as well as high school students who wish to attend UCVTS on a shared-time basis. This method affords them the opportunity of learning a trade in addition to earning a secondary school diploma.

According to Thomas E. Highsmith, director of Adult Education, many popular offerings will be repeated and included among the variety of courses available in the evening session. State-licensing courses are nurse aide for long-term health facilities for the elderly, and barbering for the New Jersey Cosmetologist/Hairstyling License. Due to the response, Highsmith said, computer programs for beginners and experienced users will be scheduled again. Another favorite, auto mechanics for men and women, also will be on the docket.

Other courses include: automotive service excellence exam preparation; computer-assisted drafting; air conditioning and refrigeration; power engineering (Blue, Black, Red Seals), and masonry. Other popular offerings being repeated are: manicuring/nails technology; cake decorating and locksmithing I. In addition, a full range of vocational courses is made available for trades persons or interested area residents.

A schedule is provided to accommodate individuals requiring late afternoon or evening class hours.

Day session registrations are being held daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Technical Building at the Scotch Plains campus, 1776 Raritan Road. A Real Lesson in Economics: UCC's $1,584 Annual Tuition

We learned that Union County College's annual tuition is only $1,584 -- significantly less than New Jersey's four-year public college average of $3,518, or $12,423* at private colleges. We also learned that UCC has financial aid specialists to help us qualify for grants, loans and other assistance.

Best of all, Union County College is one of the most respected institutions of higher education. We're getting both quality and affordability.

Today, financing a college education is more challenging than ever. Let Union County College provide you with a quality education without the burden of a big debt. Call:

"While in Paris she danced with Marcal Marcan for two years in the Mime Company and while living in Milan she headed her own dance company while also choreographing for an Italian dance company and teaching in Milan."

Hearing service center expands to Essex county

After servicing the Union County area for the past thirty five years, Beltone Professional Hearing Service of Elizabeth and Cranford is pleased to announce the opening of a new service center at 963 Bloomfield Ave., in Glen Ridge, at Labruzzo Chiropractic. This opening will signal the expansion of Beltone services into suburban Essex County.

"At Beltone, we've spent the past 50 years helping our neighbors hear better and enjoy life more. We've been able to help more than 10,000 area residents with their hearing problems," said Marvin Kleinman, M.S., CCC/A.

"Thanks to great innovations which have taken place in the hearing aid industry in recent years such as smaller and more effective hearing aids with more advanced circuitries, the public's attitude towards hearing aids has improved. However, there is still a long way to go."

Kleinman feels that continued education on the part of health care professionals is essential so that people with hearing and related problems will better understand the problems and the best solutions for them.

In line with this philosophy, he has just returned from Chicago, where he attended Beltone Corporation's Annual Convention, where he was able to attend and participate in seminars designed to continue his desire to continually stay abreast of the latest technologies and philosophies in the hearing field.

Kleinman is licensed by the State of New Jersey as a hearing aid dispenser and holds license number 451. He is affiliated with the Chicago-based Beltone Electronics Corporation, and innovative force in the hearing aid community for more than 50 years. Kleinman's office is one of 3,300 offices in the Belcare network throughout the U.S., Canada and overseas.

In celebration of the opening of the Glen Ridge Service Center, Beltone is hosting a Hearing Health Care Clinic, at its Elizabeth, Cranford and Glen Ridge locations, where comprehensive, electronic hearing tests will be offered free to anyone who suspects a hearing loss in themselves or a friend.

As an additional opening special a 10-point hearing check-up and cleaning will be available at no charge to current hearing aid wearers, regardless of brand. Open house dates in Glen Ridge, at 963 Bloomfield Ave., are Sept. 4 and 11 in Cranford, at 23 North Ave. W. are Sept. 5 and 12 and in Elizabeth, at 19 Broad St. on Sept. 6, 9 and 13. Call to schedule your appointment by phoning 1-800-994-5566.

Melt off those pounds

Employees of Schering-Plough Corporation participate in "Team Melt Down," an American Cancer Society weight reduction program.

Employees team up, have fun taking off unwanted pounds

One hundred and thirty six employees from Schering Plough Corporation teamed up for ten weeks of "Team Melt Down," a weight reduction program to benefit the American Cancer Society. Congratulations to all participants in their move towards a healthier life! The program began on April 12, when 34 teams, of four people each, competed to shed those unwanted pounds! The program was deemed successful as "Sleek Physique" and "We Play To Lose" tied for first place, "Slimatics" took second and "Love Handles" came in third. With cash and cookbook incentives, team members worked toward their individual goals to lose pounds. As part of the program, ACS volunteers presented seminars on Eating Smart and cancer prevention as it relates to nutrition. The gain from the program was not only education on healthy lifestyle choices, but the $1020 raised to support programs in research, education and patient service.

The ten-week program consists of weekly weigh-ins, educational seminars and literature including diet and exercise tips, cooking and shopping hints, recipes and much more. For more information on how your organization can get involved in "Team Melt Down", call Pam Ricigliano, Program Director at (908) 354-7373.

HEADACHES AREN'T "NORMAL"

Just about everybody gets a headache once in awhile, so why should you be unduly upset if you happen to be suffering from one? If you've been celebrating with friends and eat or imbibe too much, it certainly would not be unusual to wake up with a headache the next day. But that kind of headache usually goes away as soon as you're eating and drinking sensibly again, and getting enough sleep. But what about the other kinds of headache?

Some illnesses, such as flu, include headache among the symptoms. But if you're in reasonably good health, you have a right to wonder why you suffer from headaches. A resort to aspirin and other medication may dull the pain for awhile, but if the headaches persist you should seek treatment. Among the causes of persistent headache are problems with the cervical vertebrae, the spinal bones in your neck. If they are out of alignment, this could cause headaches until you get the treatment you need.

Dancing in the streets

Decades of dance experience find new home in Rahway

By Jacquie McCarthy
Associate Editor

Children of all ages can learn to express themselves through dance at the newly-opened Bernice Johnson School of Dance, located at 1527 East Main St. in Rahway. Offering classes in tap, jazz, ballet, and African dance, the school is staffed by instructors who are not only former students of the famous Johnson, but performers in their own right.

I stopped into the hardware-store-turned-dance-studio on Friday, and encountered instructors leading summer day camp students in a rehearsal for their first recital on Saturday. Artistic director David Robertson took some time from his work to relate the evolution of the new endeavor, an offshoot of the 50-year-old Bernice Johnson Cultural Center in Jamaica, Queens.

Robertson has no difficulty relating to the eager youths he instructs, having begun attending classes at the Queens dance school at the impressionable age of 11. "I grew up with Bernice Johnson," he said. "I'm 35 now." He met actor Jasmine Guy while attending The High School of Performing Arts in New York, and performed with Guy in "The Wiz" at age 15. Robertson was teaching jazz dance at Johnson's school in Queens when Johnson finalized plans to open the Rahway studio and asked him to be the artistic director, "which is a wonderful opportunity." "I felt like I wanted to give back to what she has given me," he added.

Robertson and instructors Patrice Simmons and Alexandria Myers embarked upon registration for the Summer Workshop Day Camp program, held Monday — Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., upon opening the studio in July. Renovations of the new site, however, were not completed in time for classes to begin, and it became necessary to send students to Queens for the first few classes. This arrangement was not acceptable to some of the parents, and of the 10-15 initial registrants, only 5 have completed the program.

At this point in the conversation, the rehearsing students broke into their song for the recital, "I Sing the Body Electric" from the movie "Fame," and Robertson and I turned to watch them, smiling. "Ain't they cute?" laughed Robertson, and began to direct from his chair. "...now we walk around, come on Terrence, hit it! Sing, Taj! Seven, and..." The interruption made a fitting preview of the next day's performance.

Renay Lawson, mother of dance student Talitha Lawson, age 7, commented that involvement in the summer day camp has had a positive effect on her daughter. She laughed as she related how Talitha now taps dances around the house. "I think it will be good once they get everything together and get the kids going," she said. Of the instructors, Lawson described them as "nice," adding, "They seem to be very knowledgeable."

Robertson welcomed the audience, and drummers began an African drum beat. The children ran barefoot onto the floor and performed an African dance, which consisted of reaching and swinging arm movements and jumping and turning to the beat.

Next, Robertson led the troupe in a ballet number, which he described as "broken ballerinas come to life." Robertson danced to each child and tapped them one by one to join him in the steps, keeping them focused with a lively smile and encouraging words. It was a treat to see the group perform their song from "Fame," complete with solos from the only two boys in the class, Taj Moore, age 7, who joined in July, and Terrence Jones, age 8, who joined only two weeks prior to the recital. Patrice Simmons made a spontaneous addition to the selection, jumping in and performing dance movements.

During the selections, instructors coached the children in their steps and positions. During the tap number, "In The Mood," the children needed no guidance at all, but flowed through the routine, clapping and singing along. It was obvious that they were having a great time.

The instructors spoke to the children, teasing them and praising their progress. Simmons spoke about one student, Ebony Simpson, age 6, commenting on how introverted she was in the beginning, "and look at her now!" Myers told parents that the routines the troupe had performed so well were originally meant for older students. While parents mingled, Taj and Terrence demonstrated their new drumming skills, jamming with the older drummers. All of the aforementioned students, including Darielle Dickerson, age 8 1/2, are Rahway residents.

Patrice Simmons, tap instructor, has been a student at the Bernice Johnson school on and off for about 35 years. Like Robertson, she graduated from The High School of Performing Arts, and studied with Alvin Ailey and Auther Mitchel of the Dance Theater of Harlem. She has taught internationally, and appeared in "Sophisticated Ladies" on Broadway.

Alexandria Myers, African dance, joined the Bernice Johnson school when she was a small child, and has been there ever since. She understudied for "The Tap Dance Kid," and danced with Ben Vereen and Michael Peters. Myers said she has had a positive experience at the Rahway studio, and described her students, saying "I've been with them from the beginning, they're excellent, excellent."

Founder and director Bernice Johnson studied dance with Grace Giles, Archie Savage and Agnes DeMille. Early in her career, she performed with Ethel Waters, Redd Foxx, and Lena Horne. Her efforts as a dance teacher have helped launch the careers of such notables as singer/dancer Ben Vereen, dancer/choreographer/director Michael Peters of Michael Jackson's "Thriller" and "Beat It," "Sarafina" and "Dream Girls" fame, "Saturday Night Fever" choreographer Lester Wilson, and Nasha Thomas, principal dancer of The Alvin Ailey American Dance Theater.

Registration for fall classes at the Rahway studio begin Sept. 7, with a free workshop offering classes in tap, jazz, and African dance on that day. On Sept. 23, an afterschool program running Monday through Friday from 3-7 p.m. will begin, including instruction in tap, jazz, and African dance, as well as karate and tumbling. Also included in the fall schedule are Saturday classes from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., offering tap, modern, ballet, jazz, and African dance, as well as voice and drama. Since Simmons is also an aerobics instructor, Robertson related plans to expand classes to include women's and senior citizen programs. "We're trying to open up to everything that's going on."

Bernice Johnson was not available for comment, but Robertson advised that the 85-year-old Long Island resident would be on hand to greet guests at the opening premiere on Sept. 15. The school has scheduled an opening concert on Oct. 13 at the Union County Arts Center "which is going to be our real major opening." Johnson's famous student Ben Vereen will appear, along with Jasmine Guy and Gene Anthony Ray of the movie "Fame."

Don't miss the Bernice Johnson School of Dance appearance at tonight's Motown Revue, the last night of the Mayor's Summer Concert Series, outside the Union County Arts Center in Rahway. Day camp students, along with teen-age members of a dance ensemble from the Queens school will perform an African dance number called Soko, which Myers describes as a "celebration dance," and Robertson will direct "Dancing in the Streets," a tribute to Motown.

Student Taj Moore responded simply to my question about his feelings about the program, "It's good," and to a query about his favorite dance style, "All of them!" He expounded greatly, however, to my inquiry on whether he wanted to be a dancer when he grows up, advising me that he was a long way from being grown up, and hasn't decided yet. Well, maybe Ben Vereen didn't know when he was seven, either.

Keep us advised of upcoming audition dates! Worrall Newspapers will publish audition information in press release and schedule form. Send information to Jacquie McCarthy, Associate Editor, Worrall Newspapers, P.O. Box 3109, Union, NJ 07083.
