'Burning' up the big screen

Up-and-coming writer/director meets the 'Hollywood' big time

By Jacquie McCarthy
Associate Editor

What do cows, car bombs and radio personalities have in common? All three are "On the Burn," a movie script to be developed by Union resident Agustin Fernandez, and currently under consideration for distribution by Miramax Films.

This publication interviewed Fernandez during last year's successful New York run of "The Drone Age," a one-man show written by another Union resident, comedian Ron Yacovetti. Fernandez, who directed the show, has moved on to greener pastures through his association with Yacovetti, and is now in the midst of shooting a movie trailer.

It was a slightly different Fernandez, however, who sat down for a precious hour at Union's Van Gogh's Ear Cafe to talk about his newest project. Still as insightful and creative as ever, this young man professed to be very, very tired, indeed, barely making it to the interview he had rescheduled from the prior week.

"I've been busy, real busy. I'm not ever comfortable. I mean, if I sit down for a minute I feel like there is something I should be doing. I feel guilty for resting. Neurosis is another name for fittmaking," Fernandez said with a facetious air. "It's great, I'm not complaining because I'm doing what I want to do and I wouldn't trade places with anybody," he hastened to add.

"It's just a lot of work all at once," said Dan Rowley, Fernandez' assistant director for the project. "There's no way around it either, it just gets really intense because it's part-time but it's full-time on this end of it. It's just insane trying to keep up on everything."

The "everything" Rowley referred to is the creation of a movie trailer, from conception to post-production. Readers may recall this publication's January feature story about Ron Yacovetti of Union, writer and star of "The Drone Age" and successful stand-up comedian. Yacovetti's stand-up career has led to a friendship with Sean "Hollywood" Hamilton and "Gomba Johnny" from radio station 103.5, WKTU-FM.

"They have a contract with Miramax, who is very interested in them, and they're getting very popular, so they wanted to do a movie," Fernandez related, stating that Yacovetti had approached the former "Drone Age" director about developing an idea for the film. "So I wrote up a treatment for them and they loved it, and they were gonna take it to Miramax. And in the interim they asked me if I could write it and I said yeah, sure, I'd do it."

And then the real work began. "They give you a little bit of money and say they think it's a good idea to make a trailer. They have money to do the movie. They're just looking for distribution. We're gonna make the movie anyway, we want to do it in the fall, and right now we have the contacts with Miramax. Miramax is pretty much waiting to see our trailer."

And the power-that-be at Miramax are not the only ones who will see this preview of Fernandez' movie concept.

"They're gonna rent out Planet Hollywood and have a screening," said the young director, calmly, as if he were under no pressure whatsoever.

But he and his staff have certainly been working hard to make this trailer "burn" up the screen.

"It's been a long process," said Fernandez. "I wrote the treatment maybe four months ago."

The writer/director described the concept which attracted so much attention.

"On the Burn" is actually an old Italian term that means on the run. It's a comedy. It's about Sean and Gomba, the characters they've created on the radio which they've also done on tv shows. These two guys, a big guy and a little guy, these two Italian guys own a strip club in Manhattan. They get framed by the Mob and then the FBI wants them in for questioning because of things that have happened — shootouts, people getting killed — so, they're on the run basically from both the FBI and the Mob trying to clear their name at the same time. They end up in Middle America, so it's sort of like 'My Cousin Vinnie' meets 'Midnight Run.' And it's really funny. They sort of find out that maybe a little cleaner, little slower lifestyle is better than all this stuff they had going on in the city and they sort of...well, I'm not gonna give away the ending," Fernandez stopped, with a sly smile. "It's a feel-good type of comedy."

"The movie is fast-paced, but the trailer is just non-stop. We're blowing up cars, we have a day that Danny's putting together with 300 people at Scores, a strip club in the city, people are getting hit by cars, cows are stampeding and extras are running around."

The scenes Fernandez described are being shot at locations in New York and New Jersey — namely, Sunnyside Dairy Farm in Mount Holly, the scenic overlook in Allamuchy Township, Scores gentlemen's night-club and an apartment in New York City. Car explosions were shot at All-American Auto Salvage on Leesville Avenue in Rahway. Car chase scenes were shot on 50th and 60th streets in New York City.

"The trailer's very funny, and just to have these two characters in the setting with the cows and the farm, it's funny already," said Fernandez. "From a director's point of view, I'm excited about the chance to shoot at Scores and on the farm."

But Fernandez and Rowley have found that it is a lot of work to be funny. The entire production staff has been working long days to achieve their desired results.

"It's almost harder this way, because I could say that I'm directing this film and Dan's my assistant director, but that's so untrue. Dan is producer and I'm producer and we're also calling people. Dan, he's called at least 300 extras that he's in charge of," said Fernandez.

"It's putting it all together," said Rowley.

"When you're at this level," Fernandez finished the thought.

This level for these producers means attending to every detail themselves.

"Top to bottom — planning, locations, paying off, getting permits to do things, hiring our explosives experts," said Rowley, a fourth generation Rahway resident. "It's involved. You just don't realize, it's something you wouldn't be aware of until you get involved, is how much detail. Just trying to keep tabs on everyone of these people who say they're going to be at a particular place at a particular time. It's crazy."

A car explosion is staged in a scene from 'On the Burn,' while members of Avenel Fire Department stand by to keep the flames at safe levels.

"When I got the go-ahead to do the movie, I called Dan right away because I know he gets things done; he's a man of his word. When he says he's gonna do it, he does it. Basically I told him, man, you're in charge of 300 people and any other thing that I need. That's his job, anything that I need," said Fernandez. "I'm asking him to do things like — I need three pink elephants, you know, and a red sedan," the director laughed.

"Tony Morales, he's the director of photography, who takes care of the lighting and all the technical stuff. Mario Chiddi, production manager, he's taking care of all the clerical work and the logistics," Fernandez continued.

"So, it's so many people. We had a meeting last night where not everybody was present, and we had over 30 people," Fernandez added. "You don't even realize how many people are involved until you have a room full of people," said Rowley. "And not enough chairs," finished Fernandez.

"The trick is, though, to get everybody, at least the main crew of people, together. The extras and stuff you can never keep tabs on. The main crew is really into it and really committed to it, because if just one person screws up, that throws the whole thing out of whack. When you commit yourself to locations and there's timing involved, if one person cannot show up, it blows the whole thing," stated Rowley.

"It makes you realize you can't do the things alone. I mean, totally, inevitably I feel like I'm the one responsible, I'm the one who put everybody together, inevitably it's my project, but there's no way I could have done it without Danny or Mario," said Fernandez.

DINING REVIEW

If you're looking for a fine dining experience that's not too much of a draw on the wallet, Primo's is the place to be. Low lighting and romantic Italian music compliment the arabesque decor but it is the food that keeps you coming back.

The concept of Primo's, according to the menu, was created by three first generation American cousins whose origins are from Spain. Having brought their original Spanish recipes to their new home, the Montes Family has combined the best of both worlds. Primo's serves a wide variety of dishes featuring a blend of Mediterranean, Spanish and American cuisines.

A fine opener is the shrimp cocktail, or Cocktail de Camarones, with generous servings of rock shrimp served with a not too spicy dipping sauce.

There isn't a carnivore around who wouldn't appreciate the Bistec de Solomillo, a very tender cut of broiled Filet Mignon.

If you're looking to steer away from red meat, the Arroz con Pollo, chicken parts cooked with Saffron

Rice, is a delicious Mediterranean version of New Orleans jambalaya, though not nearly as hot.

Primo's offers a wide variety of chicken, beef, veal and seafood entrees. Live lobsters are priced according to size, and the 100-gallon lobster tank also provides amusement to children as you enjoy a cocktail from the bar. Most appetizers are priced under $7 and entrees between $12 and $20.

While there is no children's menu per say, Primo's is amicable to families with children who are not adventurous enough for the adult menu, coming up with chicken fingers and french fries at a moment's notice.

Primo's also features a lunch express buffet and a full lunch menu served Monday through Friday between noon and three. The lunch selection features an assortment of appetizers, soups, and entrees to supplement the dinner menu, which is available at all times.

The service was outstanding. If you have the opportunity request a

Director learns about filmmaking business

 "You get a real perspective on why it's so expensive for such an undertaking," Rowley commented. "It's astronomical how much money...just detail, even if you're spending nickels and dimes, it just adds up so quick."
 "It's great school, too," Fernandez said emphatically. "There's no way I could learn this much about filmmaking going to film school. When you're doing everything — making this film with the money that we have, which I'm not even going to get into but believe me, it's definitely not enough — everybody's working for free. I would think it was a walk in the park to do a job for $50 million now. If I had the money, the things I could do. What we are doing without the money is incredible, and we're doing a lot."
 "You just get creative when you don't have money. When I wrote the treatment, I said, 'What do we have? Oh, we have a car and we can blow it up? Good! Oh, we have somebody who can fall off a bridge, we have Scores,' and it puts such a different spin on it. When you have a cow, you have a house and you have two girls, you just make it work, basically, around what you have."
 "I like doing film," he continued, comparing his current efforts to his previous directorial efforts in theater. "It's not even like acting, where you do your show, you do your job. You're aware of everything that's going on, you're aware of the lights and the mike."

And Fernandez has discovered that "Acting — that's five percent of the work, by the time somebody, anybody walks on to the set and says 'Hey, how ya doing.'"
 "I gave myself three weeks of pre-production, one week of shooting and two weeks of post. But then, it's never like that. We've had locations go belly up and things come in and people say 'Yeah, we're gonna let you use our place to do this,' and then 'Oh no, we can't,' money problems and acting problems and this and the other, but that's the work."

Fernandez and Rowley expressed sincere thanks to the people who helped them facilitate the trailer on their budget, including Roger Winter of Sunnyside Farm, Scores nightclub, Allamuchy Township, and All-American Auto Salvage. Rowley commented that both Avenel Fire Department and Woodbridge Police Department were on the scene during the car explosion sequence, and were extraordinarily helpful.
 The director and assistant director also heaped praise upon the two stars of the film, Hollywood Hamilton and Gomba Johnny.
 "They're helping to produce, they're really talented and funny, and they're really helping out. I really have to say it's a pleasure working with both of them," said Fernandez.

relating that Hamilton was especially helpful in allowing his own brand-new Corvette to be used for a hit-and-run stunt.

And Fernandez is especially grateful to his friends, many of whom have key roles in the production of the trailer and film. Rowley and Fernandez first met when they were both on the modeling circuit, and Rowley was the director's first choice for an assistant. "Drone Age" colleague Yacovetti is signing on the film effort as producer. Fernandez has nothing but high praise for the work being done by Morales, Chioldi, and Kowanto Taiwan, stunt coordinator.

With the trailer nearly completed, the Planet Hollywood screening is scheduled for the end of July. Fernandez and Rowley don't know what they are going to do with all the free time they will have when this job is completed.

"Right now, you don't sleep, but I think once it's all done then you miss it," said Fernandez. "It's like, 'When's the next film?' It's a rush."

Said Rowley, feigning concern, "What do you mean I have nothing to do?"

Judging what these gentlemen already have accomplished, there seems to be no doubt that they will find 'something' to do.

Rahway entrepreneur delves into filmmaking business

By Jacquie McCarthy
 Associate Editor

Dan Rowley, assistant director of "On The Burn," is the only member of the film's production team who doesn't make his living in theatrical arts. A former bodybuilder and model, this fourth-generation Rahway resident owns and operates Daniel Computers and is currently involved in renovating a house located on Lenington Street in Rahway, in the hope of opening a fine dining restaurant.

"I haven't decided what it is I'm going to do when I grow up yet," Rowley laughed. "I'm doing everything."

Fernandez asked Rowley to join the "On The Burn" team hoping to capitalize on the entrepreneur's business sense and refined taste. "You can really count on him to 'dress the set,'" said the director.

"And he's just dragging me along wherever he goes!" Rowley teased his friend. "But I love doing it. It's a lot of fun, it gives you an artistic outlet which you don't have selling computers. You set the goals, you put it all together and then you see the finished product," said Rowley, stating that at this stage of production, making the trailer is very much like running a business.

Rowley's house is currently functioning as a production house for the trailer, and a few scenes have been shot at the soon-to-be restaurant.

Summit library benefit features guest conductor

Conductor James Sadewhite is scheduled to perform four benefit performances of Meredith Willson's "The Music Man" to be staged in the auditorium of Summit High School.

Sadewhite, who lives in Irvington, N.Y., is music director and conductor of the Summit Symphony Orchestra.

Performances of the Broadway musical will begin at 8 p.m. today, tomorrow and Saturday and at 2 p.m. on Sunday. Proceeds will go toward enlarging and renovating the Summit Free Public Library, 75 Maple St.

Sadewhite said that he considers it "a privilege" to be among the more than 200 volunteers who are taking part in the effort. Approximately half of the more than 20 musicians who will be in the pit are members of the Summit Symphony Orchestra.

Sadewhite stated, "The community has been really responsive to us." His attitude regarding the fund-raising drive, he added, "has a lot to do with the workings of the town."

For more than 25 years, Sadewhite has taught instrumental music in the public schools of Dobbs Ferry, N.Y. He made his debut as a conductor at the age of 15, when he led the Westchester County, N.Y. Youth Symphony.

He has a bachelor of arts degree in performance from the State University at Potsdam, N.Y. He holds two master's degrees with a major in conducting from Julliard School of Music.

Sadewhite traveled to Taiwan in 1989 and served as guest conductor of several Chinese orchestras. In this country, he has conducted, among other orchestras, the Irvington, N.Y., Symphony and the State Repertory Opera, South Orange.

Ecological art exhibit on view in Springfield

"Protecting the Pinelands Through Art," an exhibition of botanical illustrations by Robin A. Jess, has opened at The Donald B. Palmer Museum of the Springfield Free Public Library and will continue through July 10. The partial exhibit consists of 20 watercolor illustrations of fascinating Pine Barrens plants including orchids and carnivorous plants.

The exhibition is the result of a joint effort between the artist, the Pinelands Preservation Alliance, through generous support of the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation.

The Pinelands of New Jersey encompasses nearly 1.1 million acres in Southern New Jersey, almost 25 percent of the state. The Pinelands Preservation Alliance believes that educating New Jersey's citizens about this unique and beautiful ecosystem in their backyard will heighten appreciation of, and enhance the climate for, long-term protection of the Pinelands.

PPA is the only non-profit, non-governmental organization dedicated solely to the protection and preservation of the Pinelands.

Jess has been a freelance botanical illustrator since 1976 after graduating from the University of Delaware with a major in Fine Arts and a minor in Botany. She later received a MFA from Pratt Institute. Jess received a 1990 Distinguished Artist Fellowship and a 1993 Fellowship from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Dept. of State.

Her main client is the New York Botanical Garden in the Bronx, where she illustrated textbooks and research publications for botanists. Jess' work also appears on several Audubon Field Guides and Taylor's Guides to cultivated plants.

The Donald B. Palmer Museum is located in the Springfield Public Library at 66 Mountain Ave. The hours for the exhibit are Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 3:30 p.m. For more information about PPA or the exhibit, call (609) 894-8000, or the Library at (201) 376-4930.

You'll wind up having fun at the new museum cafe

The Music Box Cafe of the Donald B. Palmer Museum, located in the Springfield Free Public Library, is open on weekdays for the summer months. The Music Box Cafe will be open Monday and Tuesday mornings from 10 a.m. to noon and Monday evenings from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

The cafe serves coffee, juice, bagels, muffins and baked goods and provides an appropriate atmosphere to read a book or just relax while surrounded by the current exhibit in the Palmer Museum.

An extra feature this summer will be "Game Night" in the cafe and library meeting room every Monday evening from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Chess and Scrabble games will be available for those interested. Bring a partner or come in and find a partner and have a challenging evening while enjoying a cup of coffee.

In addition, the cafe is currently planning to feature new and upcoming talent in a showcase for late summer and fall appearances.

Those interested in performing at the Music Box Cafe should submit a resume or letter of introduction to Susan Permahos, Springfield Free Public Library, 66 Mountain Ave., Springfield, 07081.

HOROSCOPE

For the week of June 29 to July 5

Aries
March 21-April 20
 Focus on the future. Expect a professional move to pay off over time. Your domestic situation also is headed for a rebound. You could be traveling soon, but don't neglect chores and responsibilities around the house.

Taurus
April 21-May 21
 Make the most of your time. Set priorities and refuse to get sidetracked on unproductive activities. Do what needs to be done now. Delays could snowball into major setbacks. Call up an old friend, stay in touch with loved ones. Money problems cause concern, but things will work out.

Gemini
May 22-June 21
 Be cautious — take things slow and play it safe. An older person could be a valued adviser, and a younger person's enthusiasm could be infectious. Be willing to compromise where needed.

Cancer
June 22-July 22
 Things slow down and you have a chance to catch up on little things you have let slide over time. It also might be a good time to renew old friendships, including romantic ones. Your positive outlook inspires others, so keep smiling.

Leo
July 23-Aug. 23
 You ask the right question at the right time and solve a tough problem. Look at things from a new perspective. Try to see them from another's point of view. Be realistic in your expectations, and you'll be rewarded.

Virgo
Aug. 24-Sept. 22
 Your creativity and analytical nature are at a peak. Get your thoughts and ideas down on paper. Also get business details down on paper to avoid future disputes. A friend or family member helps you put things in perspective.

Libra
Sept. 23-Oct. 23
 Focus on home and family to counter workplace stress. Don't rush into an important decision — take your time and get as much information as possible.

Scorpio
Oct. 24-Nov. 22
 Make an effort to mend fences and patch up differences with an old friend or family member. People close to you know what to do and want to help if you'll let them.

Sagittarius
Nov. 23-Dec. 21
 Your dedication and hard work will start to pay dividends. Pets and possessions play an important role, but don't neglect friends and family affairs. Your creative blossoms so artistic and cultural activities are highlighted.

Capricorn
Dec. 22-Jan. 20
 Personal problems and work situations are challenging, but your leadership skills are more than equal to the task. Financial concerns will work out and you'll come out ahead. Friends are working behind the scenes on your behalf. Take things as they come.

Aquarius
Jan. 21-Feb. 18
 Now is the time to start or continue a long-term project. Try to see the big picture and don't get bogged down with petty details. You'll know what to do and when it needs to be done. Take time for yourself. Plans could heat up for travel and education.

Pisces
Feb. 19-March 20
 Your enthusiasm and abilities attract people to your ideas. A romance could heat up, but don't let your heart rule your head. Stay focused on the ultimate goal. Be sure your priorities are straight to prevent problems.

NJCVA names 'Arts Person of the Year'

By Ben Smith
Staff Writer

The New Jersey Center for Visual Arts in Summit presented Faith Ringgold, painter, author and teacher, with the Ann G. Stein Memorial "Arts Person of the Year" award on Tuesday in the Fred L. Palmer Gallery.

"The fourth annual Ann G. Stein Memorial Award," explained Carol Beaugard, development associate, "is conferred annually by NJCVA upon a person, who, in the previous year or series of years, has done the most to further the role of the arts locally, regionally and in the state." She said that the criteria for award recipients includes "furthering the role of the arts locally, regionally and in the state; the creation of significant awards of art; encouraging support for the arts by corporations and private citizens, and helping to increase government appropriations."

Former recipients include Gov. Thomas Kean, 1994; Angelo Del Rossi, executive producer of the Paper Mill Playhouse, 1995, and Sculptor George Segal, 1996. Dorothy Gillespie is commissioned yearly to design an original sculpture to serve as the Arts Person of the Year award. The metal piece is a colorfully painted abstract "possessing movement, rhythm and subtlety."

"The recipient is selected by a Blue Ribbon committee representing the leadership from our local business, arts, government, education and philanthropic communities," said Beaugard. The 1997 selection committee included Joan Duffey Good, executive director, NJCVA; William C. Bopp, board of trustees, NJCVA; Elizabeth C. Gump, president, NJCVA;

Shirley Aidekman, board of trustees, NJCVA; Elizabeth Christopherson, executive director NJN; Margaret Beach, board of trustees, NJCVA; Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden, Joseph Robinson, financial chair, board of trustees, NJCVA; Paul Stein, Denise Muelken, art department, Jersey City State College; Sandra DeGeneste, School Corp team specialist with the Newark public schools, and Karan Merry, headmistress, Kent Place School, Summit.

Ringgold "is constantly building her skills to create new and varied forms of art." The multi-talented artist "dissolves creative boundaries, making her works uniquely her own. Inspired by African art and utilizing fabric as a means of self-expression, the evolution of her work began in the 1960s with the creation of her first political paintings, "The American People Series" and the "Black Light Series." She progressed into the 1970s "with the creation of soft sculptures, masks and Tibetan Thangkas, where the form of painted cloth hangings would become her greatest influence."

In the 1980s, Ringgold "nurtured people's quests and power and life struggles" and began communicating through live performances, "often incorporating humor to emphasize her concerns. She further demonstrated her unique qualities in 'Echoes of Harlem,' which was created as a new way of painting, using the quilt as the medium." Based on her story quilt which is part of the permanent collection of the Guggenheim Museum, in 1991, Ringgold wrote her first and most widely recognized book, "Tar Beach," winning more than 20 awards including the Coretta Scott King Award for best illustrated children's book.

"The artist and teacher, who received bachelor of science and master's degrees in visual art from City College of New York, exhibits her paintings, masks, sculptures and performances nationally and internationally." Among her 50 awards and honors are the Solomon R. Guggenheim Foundation Fellowship, the National Endowment for the Arts Award for sculpture in 1978 and for painting in 1989; the New York Foundation for the Arts award for painting in 1988, and 11 honorary doctor of fine arts degrees from colleges and universities across the United States.

Ringgold is a professor of art at the University of California in San Diego and currently lives and works in La Jolla, Calif., Englewood and New York City. Her latest undertakings include the creation for a series of 12 painted story quilts called "The American Collection," based on the story of Marlena Simone, an African-American woman who becomes one of America's most celebrated artists.

The non-profit NJCVA is a full-scale art school with two interior galleries and an outdoor exhibition space. The NJCVA is regional and is the largest of the state's art centers specifically devoted to contemporary art through studio classes, workshops, special programs and exhibitions. The center is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. On Saturday the hours are noon to 4 p.m. and on Sunday, 2 to 4 p.m. The New Jersey Center for Visual Arts is located at 68 Elm St., Summit.

It's hard to find signs of life in 'Deadman'

The past reviews in this column have been on films which I would recommend. I made it a point to leave out films I felt would be uninteresting or, worse, boring. Unfortunately, not many good films have been released on video lately so I am forced to pick out of a sorry lot. The film I have chosen, "Deadman," may be worth seeing to some because of its director, Jim Jarmusch.

Jarmusch is well-known in the independent film world. He exploded onto the scene in 1984 with "Stranger Than Paradise," a film consisting of a few dozen 2-3 minute takes in which he rarely moved the camera. Hitchcock made this technique famous using a similar style with "Rope." The film won a bunch of well-deserved film festival awards and, in my opinion, was the highlight of his career. Jarmusch followed this up with "Down By Law," another picture shot in black-and-white, about three men who make a jail-break. He later directed "Mystery Train" and "Night on Earth." The appeal of Jarmusch's films, with the exception of "Stranger Than Paradise," fall into the same category of abstract art. It's somehow "cool" to be a fan and like his work. "Deadman" can be summed up in two words: Video Sominex. This film was incredibly boring. The script is painfully slow-paced and scenes seemed to drag on forever. On the other hand, the visual side of the film, like most of Jarmusch's work, is remarkable. He once again went with black-and-white and his ability to compose and frame images is his main strength. In fact, in all of cinema, Jarmusch is probably one of the most talented visual director working. This may be why he is able to attract some of the biggest names in Hollywood. Winona Ryder was one of the stars of "Night on Earth."

"Deadman" is headed by Johnny Depp. Depp plays and accountant in the late 1800's who travels to a one-horse town for a new job. When he arrives the boss tells him he's two months late and the job has been filled. Depp spent all his cash on the trip and walks out onto the street without a plan. He's got enough money for a couple of drinks and winds up in a young lady's bed. Unfortunately, the husband comes home, shoots her, then aims the gun at Depp. Depp, playing a nervous, somewhat bumbling character named William Blake, shoots a shaky gun at the man and drops him. He then climbs out a window, steals a horse and heads for the hills. But he's in for a brutal chase. He's soon pegged as the man who murdered the girl and her rich daddy is hiring the three meanest men in the west to find Depp and kill him.

There's beautiful photography of wild hills, an Indian who keeps talking about the "stupid white man" and Billy Thornton, Sling Blade, getting shot in the foot. If you're a big fan of Jarmusch this film will probably further your worship. If you've never heard of Jarmusch before, you may wonder why this film was ever made.

YOUR Home INSIDE & OUT

Filtered vs. bottled water — the difference is clear

News of water-borne illness outbreaks in major U.S. cities and environmental mishaps threatening groundwater supplies are causing more and more people to look for alternatives to plain old tap water. Needless to say, confidence in tap water is at an all-time low. National polls indicate that more than 85 percent of Americans are concerned about the quality of their drinking water.

Alternatives to tap water exist, but consumers face a confusing array of choices. Water-quality experts recommend that people arm themselves with information before making a decision.

The primary choice consumers have is between bottled water and a point-of-use water filter. Each has its advantages and disadvantages.

Bottled water is available in gallon jugs at stores, through vending machines and from companies that will deliver to a consumer's door. The important thing to know is what type of water is actually in the bottle. In some cases, the bottled water may be nothing more than municipal tap water. Although label requirements have improved over the years, some bottlers still use marketing jargon. Names like "Crystal-Pure Drinking Water," "Infant Water" and "Aesian Drinking Water" adorn the rows of jugs at local markets. In all probability, bottled water is most likely one of three types of water: ground water from a natural spring — also called mineral water — some sort of filtered water or distilled water.

Many people who don't use much water for drinking and cooking might find buying water at the grocery store or through vending machines in gallon jugs more economical than having it delivered. Vending machines usually use municipal tap water and run it through several filters before reaching the bottle.

For some vending machines, people must bring their own jugs. While more economical than delivered bottle water, hauling gallon jugs to and from the market may be too inconvenient for some.

Point-of-use water filters come in many configurations: some attach to your tap, some sit on the counter top. Costs vary greatly from less than $50 to more than $800. However, the most important factor in determining what type of filter is right for each consumer is to figure out exactly what he or she wants filtered out of the water.

The best way to accomplish this is to have the water tested by a laboratory and review the results with a water specialist. The local health department or EPA office should be able to identify reputable water-testing labs in a particular area. Water tests cost anywhere from $25 to $100, depending on the type of test ordered. Water specialists usually are listed in the Yellow Pages under "Water Purification and Filtration" or "Water Softening and Conditioning." Look for products and service technicians certified by the Water Quality Association, the leading trade association.

Water filters are not a one-size-fits-all type of product. Certain filters take out specific contaminants. There are three popular types of water filters — carbon, reverse-osmosis and distillation.

• Carbon filters are the most common and sometimes are called taste-and-odor filters. Tap water passes through activated carbon granules, which reduce organic materials, chlorine, dissolved gases and some minerals. Carbon filters are typically available as carafes, tap-mounted filters and counter-top appliances that connect to the tap.

• Reverse-osmosis filters use a semi-porous membrane that reduces bacteria, lead, mercury, iron and most other contaminants. These filters usually are installed under the kitchen sink.

• Distillers produce the closest thing to pure water. Water is boiled, condensed and then filtered through a carbon filter. Distillers are available in counter-top models and as large, installed appliances.

Other filters exist, but are not yet very common. For example, ozone and UV, ultraviolet light, filters kill bacteria, and chemical filters are available for other water problems like extreme concentration of iron.

Water filters are considered by some to be the most convenient of all options. However, some models, especially installed products, can come with a high initial cost and all require some form of maintenance or periodic filter replacement. Still, one filter manufacturer estimates the average cost of a gallon of filtered water, over time, can be as little as 33 cents.

Despite all the news about water being unsafe, public water supplies are, for the most part, all right to consume. Bottled water and water-filter systems are growing in popularity, but most people purchase them for aesthetic reasons — appearance, taste and odor removal. Still, a growing number of health-conscious consumers concerned about contaminants in water are seeking out options to make their water the best it can be.

Take a two-fold approach to surge protection

Many homeowners purchase plug-in surge cubes or strips for their personal computers and other electronic equipment and think these valuable items are protected from power surges; however, this misconception can end up costing them a lot in repairs and equipment replacement.

"With so many products on the market, many homeowners may be unaware of the differences in protection between surge 'suppressors,' like plug-in strips and cubes and surge arresters, devices that are installed into a home's load center or circuit-breaker box," said Allen Breeze of Square D Company.

According to Breeze, when a surge enters a home, damage may occur within the electrical system before it reaches the surge suppressor. Surge suppressors may not be able to withstand the high voltage levels that lightning and other power surges can generate. On the other hand, surge arresters are installed at the service entrance — the point at which electricity enters the home — to provide protection for the circuit-breaker box and branch wiring.

"Surge arresters provide a method to 'chop off' the surge to a level that can be handled by the electrical system, diverting the excess energy away from the system," explained Breeze.

Optimum surge protection requires two levels: surge arresters at the service entrance and surge suppressors at the point of use for sensitive equipment. Why do you need both? Put simply, the surge arrester takes the big hits and brings them down to a manageable level, so the surge suppressor can bring the voltage down even lower to help protect individual components.

Power surges also can enter a home through the telephone and cable TV lines, leaving your television, VCR, telephone-answering machine and other connected products vulnerable to possible power-surge damage. Homeowners may need additional surge protection specifically for this non-electrical wiring; contact your local telephone and cable companies for more information.

Drug abuse is more common — and costly — than you think

When most people think about illegal drug users they imagine listless addicts huddled in doorways or standing on welfare lines. The reality is quite different.

According to the National Institute on Drug Abuse, most illegal drug users, nearly 70 percent, are employed either full- or part-time, and their impact on the American economy is devastating. Drug and alcohol abuse cost American business between $75 billion and $150 billion a year in injuries, accidents, absenteeism, theft and shoddy products, as well as increased health-care costs and workers' compensation claims.

According to NIDA, illegal drug users are five times more likely to file a workers' compensation claim and three times more likely to utilize health-care benefits as non-abusers. Forty-three percent of CEOs responding to a recent survey by the National Association of Addiction Treatment Providers estimate that the use of alcohol and drugs costs them, on average, 1 percent to 10 percent of payroll.

Clearly, drug abuse is a bottom line issue for business. And, in New Jersey there is an organization that is using the bottom line to convince employers to establish comprehensive drug-free workplaces.

The Governor's Council for a Drug Free Workplace was founded in 1992 by the New Jersey Chamber of Commerce to help impact the drug problem by concentrating on the workplace and thus to enhance the productivity and competitiveness of New Jersey businesses.

The Council's program includes a step-by-step guide in how to write a policy, how to educate employees, how to train managers, as well as information and discounts on drug testing and employee assistance programs.

The Council's approach is rehabilitative, not punitive. The goal is to identify workers with substance abuse problems, get them into treatment and return them to the workforce as productive employees.

By Debrah P. Johnson

The U.S. Department of Labor estimates that for every dollar an employer invests in an employee assistance program, employers generally save from $5 to $16. The average annual cost for an EAP is $12 to $20 per employee. General Motors reports that its EAP saves the company $37 million per year — $3,700 for each of its 10,000 employees. United Airlines estimates a return of $16.95 for every dollar spent on employee assistance. And, in Philadelphia, police department employees undergoing substance abuse treatment reduced their sick days by an average of 3 percent and their "out-of-the-office" days by 62 percent.

Tackling substance abuse in the workplace requires the entire community to be involved. The Union County Coalition for the Prevention of Substance Abuse has organized a business task force to address this issue in Union County. The goal of the task force is to provide education, information and resources to the business community. The Coalition and the Governor's Council has teamed together to help Union County businesses.

The Union County Coalition is a three-year project funded by the U.S. Center for Substance Abuse Prevention, with the Saint Barnabas Behavioral Health Network as the lead agency. The Coalition is designed to increase and enhance the prevention efforts in Union County. For more information, call Nicole Koroghlian at (908) 686-6644.

A very big Check

Mineral supplements can be beneficial for diabetics

The benefits of adding minerals to the diets of individuals with diabetes is currently being debated in medical circles, but some studies suggest that diabetics with poor eating habits may benefit by taking daily supplements of chromium picolinate and magnesium to help control their blood-sugar levels and blood pressure.

Chromium picolinate can improve the body's response to insulin in chromium-deficient patients and in some instances, may lower glucose — sugar and lipid — fat levels while helping to restore normal insulin levels. Excessive fats and insulin in the blood contribute to hypertension, heart attacks and strokes and may exacerbate other diabetic complications, such as kidney disease.

Chromium picolinate can be consumed naturally in raw vegetables, black pepper, cheese, breads, beef, kidney and liver. Brewer's yeast has the greatest natural amount of the mineral, and some beers and wines also contain modest amounts of chromium picolinate. It can also be taken as a vitamin supplement.

Patients with diabetes who are chromium-deficient due to poor eating habits or those with eating disorders, such as bulimia or anorexia nervosa, may want to add chromium picolinate to their diets. About 200 micrograms of chromium picolinate daily is recommended.

Magnesium is a metallic element that is essential to the proper functioning of muscle and nervous tissue. Most adults contain an average of 25 grams of it in their bodies, primarily concentrated in their bones. Diabetics who are deficient in magnesium may have an increased risk of high blood pressure and increased blood sugar levels.

Magnesium is found in fish, green leafy vegetables, milk, nuts, whole grains and seeds, or may be taken in pill form as a vitamin supplement. The body's need for magnesium increases with stress or illness. Daily supplements of 350-500 milligrams of magnesium may help control hypertension in some diabetics.

While moderate doses of chromium picolinate and magnesium have no side effects, it is important not to exceed the recommended dosage. Excessive daily amounts of chromium picolinate can cause fatigue and muscle weakness and in extreme cases, a severely depressed heart rate and blood pressure. Magnesium is excreted by the kidneys and may accumulate to dangerous levels in patients with kidney disease.

Chromium picolinate and magnesium may be beneficial for many patients with diabetes, particularly those with poor eating habits. Nonetheless, a nutritionally complete diet such as that recommended by the American Diabetes Association is the best way to avoid the ill effects of inadequate vitamin and mineral intake.

YOUR VITAL FORCE

You may not realize it, but your vital force is expressed through your nervous system, extending from the brain and spine to every gland, tissue, organ, and muscle in your body. That's why the health of your spine is so essential to the health of your entire body. Any spinal strain or shock, even an awkward move, can sometimes affect the vertebrae and discs, causing irritation to the nervous system. Irritation of the nerves can disturb the body's normal function, causing pain and many other health problems. Treatment of spinal disorders is essential to good health. Pain-killing drugs won't do the job. They can dull the pain or hide the symptoms for awhile. Pain-killers are not curative in themselves. Given a chance, the natural healing power of the body is often sufficient to return you to good health. If you are bothered by back pain, headaches, or other symptoms related to disorders of the spine, seek the help you need from a specialist trained to treat these disorders.

A simple test can help prevent glaucoma in baby boomers

Men and women over age 50, at an increased risk of going blind from glaucoma, can almost always avoid this danger with a simple test from an eye doctor, according to Jordan Burke, M.D., F.A.C.S., ophthalmologist at Summit Eye Group.

"Everyone knows someone with glaucoma," says Dr. Burke, who notes that the disorder causes damage to the cells comprising the optic nerve, which is responsible for transmitting visual information from the eye to the brain. "As the baby boomers join the 69 million Americans already over the age of 50, the incidence of glaucoma will reach unprecedented levels."

With more than 17 million baby boomers moving into the blindness danger zone by the year 2000, the need for this simple test becomes more critically important than ever, notes the ophthalmologist.

Recent worldwide research has developed new treatments, and current studies in the U.S. and overseas are focusing on optic nerve protection and regeneration.

"Because glaucoma leads to blindness, yet has no symptoms, a simple eye exam is the only way to protect vision from this insidious disease," says John W. Corwin, executive director of the Glaucoma Foundation.

In addition to aging, other risk factors for glaucoma include nearsightedness, family history, diabetes and race. African Americans are six times more likely to have glaucoma than Caucasians.

"Anyone can get glaucoma, from babies to senior citizens," says Dr. Burke. "There are virtually no signs or symptoms. That is why regular eye check-ups are the key to preserving sight."

The Glaucoma Foundation's free worldwide services include literature, information, and medical referrals, all available by calling (800) GLAUCOMA.

Chevrolet goes back to the basic with the '97 Corvette

For only the fifth time in history, Chevrolet has recreated a legend. The 1997 Corvette is a new generation designed to excel in the areas most important to Corvette customers - ride and handling, performance, comfort and overall refinement.

According to Dave Hill, Corvette Vehicle Line Executive and Chief Engineer, engineers and designers considered every aspect of the vehicle for potential improve/emt/

"We examined our weak points, and turned them into strengths," said Hill. "Things that were good, we made great. Things that were great are now even better."

Hill's team designed the '97 Corvette to appeal to a wide range of buyers. According to Hill, "Even those customers who are import intenders are going to take a long, hard look at Corvette."

"Make no mistake," added Hill, "it'll thrill our current owners. It provides more sports car for the money than anything in its market segment. It'll pull nearly 1 g, and it starts and stops quicker than you can blink. It truly is the best 'Vette yet."

John Middlebrook, Chevrolet General Manager, concurs with Hill, and paints a bright future for the Corvette.

"Corvette is now, and will continue to remain Chevrolet's flagship," said Middlebrook. "It is our technological and image showcase. Even more importantly, Corvette stands as the most singularly dramatic example of what we mean by 'Genuine Chevrolet.'"

"Corvette is much more than just a car," said Middlebrook. "It's a love affair. Words alone fail to convey the passion it inspires."

The enabler for many of Corvette's improvement is its underbody structure, which is several times stiffer for '97. The result: Better ride and handling, usable space and quality.

The heart of Corvette's new structure is a full-length perimeter frame made (in part) using hydroformed side rails - the largest single hydroformed parts in the auto industry. These side rails are made of a single piece of tubular steel, replacing the 14 parts previously used.

Auto Spotlight

Corvette's stiffer underbody structure helps promote a quieter, more vibration-free environment and enhances quality. By stiffening Corvette's underbody structure, engineers were able to radically reduce structural variation and movement, and improve the ride and handling exclusively through suspension modifications.

For '97, Corvette features a brand new, exclusive suspension design, unlike some competitors who use off-the-shelf parts.

The new suspension is height-adjustable. Each car's suspension is adjusted during production according to specific option content. Now, every Corvette off the line is consistent in terms of ride and handling.

At the heart of every '97 Corvette beats a brand new LS1 small block 5.7-liter V8 engine. Engineers retained the small block's 5.7-liter displacement, traditional pushrod design and 440 bore centers, but that's where the similarity ends.

The new aluminum small block V8 is the first of its kind for Corvette. The block's "deep skirt" design helps reduce engine noise and vibration.

Other improvements include a simplified valve train, unique "extended sump" oil pan, redesigned pistons, composite intake manifold, revised ignition system and dual-wall stainless steel exhaust manifold. The LS1 is GM's first gasoline engine with Electronic Throttle Control (ETC), which results in more precise throttle response through all rpm ranges.

The LS1 produces 345 horsepower and 350 lbs.-ft torque - more than either engine offered on Corvette in 1996.

New for 1997 is a rear-mounted transmission configuration that enabled engineers and designers to create more interior space. Corvette offers a choice between a standard four-speed automatic or optional six-speed manual.

The '97 Corvette looks like a Corvette. Research confirmed that Corvette must remain true to its heritage. So, designers included thoughtful touches, such as air scoops which continue to the door panels like the side covers which first appeared in '56, the quad taillamps that debuted in '61 and hidden headlamps characteristic of the '63 Sting Ray.

But under the skin, Corvette features a redesigned architecture that creates more interior space for people and cargo.

For instance, the '97 Corvette features more head, leg and shoulder room than the previous model. Footwell width has been increased on both sides - enough for the driver's side to allow room for a real "dead pedal."

Corvette's rear cargo area has nearly doubled. Now, the Corvette can hold two large sets of golf clubs in the rear compartment. Reach-over distance has been shortened to make the trunk easier to access.

Corvette's wheelbase is 8.3 inches longer with a wider track (equal in the rear to the ZR1) which provides greater stability.

Overall, Corvette is more comfortable and more user friendly. Standard leather bucket seats and power driver's side adjuster have been designed for improved comfort and support. Instruments, switches and controls are strategically located, creating an intuitive environment that is responsive to the driver's needs.

The 1997 Infiniti Q45 is the epitome of style and luxury

The introduction of the new Q45 flagship luxury performance sedan, continues Infiniti's renowned tradition of offering customers vehicles that are well appointed, providing nearly all features as standard equipment.

Two models of the new luxury sedan are available, the Q45 and a performance-oriented Q45 Touring Model (Q45t). The Q45 was designed to appeal to the premium luxury buyer, with a refined ride and elegant dish-style alloy wheels. The sportier Q45t, equipped with a sport-tuned suspension, performance cast aluminum alloy wheels and an attractive rear spoiler designed to add a hint of athleticism to the vehicle's new styling.

Both models of Q45 are equipped with a long list of standard equipment and features, surrounding the driver and passengers with comfort, convenience and security.

Leather seating surfaces, available in Beige, Stone Beige and Black, and 10-way power front seats invite driver and passengers alike into Q45's elegant interior. The driver's seat includes a two-setting exit and entry memory system that enables the seat, as well as the power-assist telescopic and height-adjustable steering column, to move to fully "relaxed" positions for eased driver entry and exit when the front door is opened. The seat and steering column return to one of two pre-programmed positions when the driver's door has been closed.

Once seated, occupants will find a custom-design eight-speaker Bose audio system with AM/FM/cassette/CD player, a two-way power operated sunroof with tilt feature, an Integrated HomeLink Transmitter for remote opening of gates and garage doors, and an automatic climate control system with CFC-free air conditioning system.

Also standard are: rear seat heating and air conditioning vents, an innovative three-way opening center console (able to open toward either the driver or front-passenger side), full complement of analog gauges, and wood-tone accents throughout the interior.

The Q45t Touring Model adds as standard interior equipment two-setting heated front seats and a sportier steering wheel with ergonomically-designed "grips" for added driver control.

Both Q45 models are powered by a new 4.1-liter DOHC 32-valve V8 engine that produces 266 horsepower at 5,600 rpm and 278 lbs-ft of torque at 4,000 rpm. This technically advanced engine features aluminum-alloy block and heads, molybdenum coated pistons and Nissan's Variable Timing Control System (NVTC).

Also standard on both models is a 4-wheel independent suspension systems with front MacPherson struts and a rear multi-link design. A 34.0 mm stabilizer bar is used on the front suspension in conjunction with sub-frame mounted coil springs and a strut tower bar. The Q45 uses a 24.2 mm rear stabilizer bar. Q45t is equipped with a larger 19.1 mm stabilizer bar. Vehicle-speed sensitive steering is standard on both models, to provide the driver with more power assistance at lower speeds and more feedback from the road as speed increases.

A standard electronically controlled 4-speed automatic overdrive transmission with DUET-II shift management produces smooth, controlled shifts that are responsive to driver input via the throttle. Both Q45 models also feature standard traction control system (TCS) and viscus limited-slip rear differential (VLS).

Stopping power for the flagship Q45 models is provided by 4-wheel disc brakes with large ventilated front and rear brake rotors and a standard 3-channel/4 sensor anti-lock braking system (ABS).

The elegant styling of Q45 features a strong horizontal character line which runs from the slanted aerodynamic front of the car to the distinctively styled inverse curve of the C-pillar. The Q45t takes the look a step further, adding a unique grill with blacked out center brightwork at the front and a body-color rear decklid spoiler with integrated center high mounted stop lamp at the rear of the car. Unique "t" badging further distinguishes the sporty Touring Model from its Q45 stablemate.

The standard dish-type alloy wheels of the Q45 are replaced by performance cast spoke-style alloy wheels on Q45t models, in keeping with the sporting nature of this model.

The new Q45 is available in eight exterior color: Black Obsidian, Bordeaux Pearl, Cabernet Pearl, Cypress Pearl, Espresso, Ivory Quartz, Pewter and Silver Crystal.

The Q45t is equipped with all available equipment standard, in addition to the suspension tuning. Available options on the Q45 include two-setting heated front seats and a dealer-installed trunk-mounted 6-disc CD autochanger.

Standard on every Q45 is a unique commitment to customer satisfaction, The Total Ownership Experience. As part of this commitment, Infiniti offers one of the most comprehensive programs of support, including free 48-month, 24-hour roadside assistance, a free Infiniti loan car with scheduled service/warranty appointments.

Buicks make a splash in the automobile luxury market

The '97 Park Avenue and Ultra, featuring a new world-class atmosphere and new design, has been recently introduced to the public.

Park Avenue customers prize roominess, rich accommodations and a quiet, comfortable ride — as well as an attractive value. Mertz said he is convinced the new models will fulfill those requirements.

The most significant change is that the '97 Park Avenue consists of refinement of architectural components (primarily body structure and chassis systems) recently introduced in the Buick Riviera. Park Avenue is in fact a second-generation architectural design with a host of enhancements.

Park Avenue's robust architecture delivers a wealth of tangible customer benefits: a quiet, solid ride for the life of the vehicle, superior road manners and responsive handling, safety-cage construction for outstanding crashworthiness and superior comfort.

The '97 Park Avenue is slightly larger than the previous model in practically all major interior and exterior dimensions. For example, the wheelbase is 3 inches longer to increase the room available for the driver and five passengers.

The greatest gains in interior spaciousness are front headroom (+.9 inch), front hip room (+1.3 inch), and rear hip room (+1.5 inch). While the new Park Avenue's trunk volume is slightly reduced (from 20.3 to 19.1 cubic feet), its utility is improved because lift-over height is lower and the width of the opening is maximized with the use of diagonal cutlines for the decklid.

One innovation is a new seat-mounted safety belt system for front passengers, designed so the shoulder belt fits comfortably irrespective of seat position and occupant size. An example of thoughtful design is this safety feature: In the event of an air bag deployment, the doors automatically unlock in 15 seconds.

Buick's successful 3800 Series II V-6s will continue to power the Park Avenue. Except for oil and filter changes, both the normally aspirated and the supercharged powerplants are virtually 100,000-mile maintenance free. Park Avenue's naturally aspirated Series II delivers 205 horsepower at 5200 rpm while Park Avenue Ultra's supercharged Series II produces an impressive 240 horsepower at 5200 rpm.

Park Avenue technical advancements include a higher-capacity four-wheel-disc anti-lock brake system, magnetic variable effort rack-and-pinion power steering, several aluminum suspension components, fixed-lens halogen headlamps and a more damage-resis radio antenna embedded in the rear window.

Front and rear suspension systems are supported by rubber isolated subframes to block the transfer of road harshness and driveline vibration. A "cradle" design is used in front to mount not only the suspension but also the powertrain and steering systems while a T-shaped member carries the semi-trailing-arm rear suspension.

Engineers used state-of-the-art approaches such as torque-axis engine mounting and triple door seals to enhance comfort and quietness.

An example of the robust design is a one-piece cast magnesium cross-car beam that serves as a body structural member. The primary instrument-panel mounting support. Squeaks and rattles in the instrument-panel are much less likely because the beam eliminates numerous individual brackets. Magnesium is an exceptional material having high strength and stiffness with very low weight.

In addition, the new Park Avenue's front structure is strengthened by using closed-section welded steel engine-compartment upper rails and radiator tie-bar, eliminating bolt-on structural reinforcements.

Among other enhancements is a new level of electrical architecture that means various systems can perform more tasks using fewer wires. For example, use of new multiplexing technology reduces the number of wires that go into a door by 75 percent, which translates into reduced complexity, less bulk for ease of packaging and improved reliability.

A single key opens all of the car's locks and operates the ignition. (A separate valet key is provided to maintain trunk and glove-box security when Park Avenue is handed over to an attendant). The ComfortTemp climate control system again has dual controls and adjustable rear-seat vents. Comfortable 10-way power driver and front passenger seats are a split-frame design which allows the seat bottom to be adjusted independently of the backrest. Four-way lumbar-support adjustment, standard on Ultra and optional on Park Avenue, is also power operated.

Buick's "Personal Choice" features have been increased from the previous Park Avenue, adding sound, system and climate control settings. Previously, the remote keyless entry fob could be programmed to set mirror and seat positions, automatic door lock operation, perimeter lighting, delayed locking and security feedback.

William L. Porter, who headed its exterior design, said the new Park Avenue's styling was "in part inspired by the silky, undulating surfaces of the Riviera."

A number of features which are optional on the Park Avenue are standard on Ultra. For example, rain-sensing windshield wipers automatically maintain forward visibility according to moisture on the windshield instead of with a fixed delay interval. A tire inflation pressure monitoring system alerts the driver if a tire needs more air.

On the Ultra, real wood interior trim, leather upholstery and a Concert Sound III entertainment system — with nine speakers and eight sub-amplifiers — are standard. Most of the comfort and convenience features mentioned above are standard Ultra equipment so its option lists contains only a few items to suit specific tastes and applications. Ultra's exterior is distinguished by a grille-mounted Buick tri-shield badge (as opposed to the Park Avenue's stand-up hood ornament) and a specific Ultra wheel.

Park Avenue continues to offer a long list of standard features such as dual air bags, anti-lock brakes, remote keyless entry and traction control (standard on Ultra).

Convenience Plus electrical features continue with delayed entry and exit lighting, "theater dimming" interior lights, battery rundown protection, lockout protection on power door locks, and warning chimes for leaving on the parking brake, turn signal or headlamps and for leaving the key in the ignition when exiting.

Both models are equipped with such long-life features as engine coolant with a recommended change interval of five years or 100,000 miles, platinum-tipped spark plugs with first recommended service at 100,000 miles and transmission fluid that requires no change under normal operating conditions.

Park Avenue and Ultra again feature an on-board diagnostic system (OBD II) that can reduce exhaust emissions by locating malfunctions before they cause emissions to rise.

1997 Dodge Viper is a lethal machine

Since its debut as a concept car in early 1989, the Dodge Viper RT/10 has devined the quintessential American sports car — big blocked, attention grabbing, fast, loud, untamed, and definitely a modern standard-bearer for pure American heritage and tradition. While Viper has remained virtually unchanged through 1996, the 1997 Dodge Viper RT/10 will mark the opening of another chapter in an emerging Viper history and tradition with changes in appearance and performance.

"Beginning with the 1997 model, a number of product changes are planned with each successive version contributing to the evolution and tradition of the marque," said Martin R. Levine, Dodge division general manager.

"We believe the original Viper RT/10 roadster, produced from 1992 through 1996, has secured a place in history as a vehicle that defined a new Chrysler way of business by taking on fresh challenges, and once again, defining the genre of what a pure American sports car should be."

The first and most noticeable changes in the 1997 Viper are three new exterior design themes. Customers will have a choice of red exterior paint with yellow five-spoke wheels and yellow Viper logo decals; black exterior paint with a silver center stripe and polished aluminum five-spoke wheels; or stone white exterior paint with a blue pearl center stripe and white five-spoke wheels. All previous color choices will be retired at the end of the 1996 model year run. Interior changes to complement the new exterior color themes include red leather-wrapped steering wheel, transmission shifter knob and hand brake with the red and yellow exterior theme; and blue leather-wrapped steering wheel, transmission shifter knob and hand brake with the white exterior paint and blue pearl stripe. A new all-black interior will be provided with the black exterior paint and silver stripe.

Sliding access side window curtains, replacing the soft zipper curtains, and available removable color-keyed hardtops are also new for 1997.

The legendary Viper side exhaust has been changed to a rear outlet exhaust system for 1997. It has less restriction for improved performance and a throatier sound due to a redesigned muffler system. Exhaust pipe routing follows the sills as in the former system, but turns inboard forward of the rear wheels. The pipes pass over the rear suspension and enter a tandem muffler with dual outlets on the centerline of the car. The muffler outlets have a polished ceramic coating for a long-lasting quality appearance. An aluminum shield protects the trunk floor and fuel tank against heat from the exhaust system.

Viper's 8.0-liter OHV V-10 engine horsepower and torque ratings are increased in 1997 due primarily to the redesigned exhaust system. Horsepower increases to 415 bhp (306 kW) at 5200 rpm, with torque at 488 foot-pounds (661 N-m) at 3600 rpm. Internally, the engine also has a new windage tray to reduce drag due to excess oil rotating with the crankshaft.

The Viper driveline includes a more robust differential and stronger drive shafts capable of accepting up to 500 foot-pound (678 N-m) of torque. There is also a revised differential mounting system to reduce housing movement under heavy acceleration and deceleration.

Aluminum suspension components improve Viper's handling and provide increased ride compliance. High-ductility A206 cast aluminum control arms and knuckles replace welded steel control arms and malleable cast iron knuckles. The change of material reduces the weight of the vehicle by 60 pounds (27kg). At the same time, the rear roll center has been lowered and geometry revised to reduce track change during ride motions, this makes the car more stable during hard cornering on rough roads. At the same time, the rear caster angle was increased from -6 degrees to +1 degree, improving straight line tracking.

Front suspension geometry is unchanged but the lower ball joint has been relocated from the knuckle to the lower control arm, reducing the bending movement in the arm under braking. This allows it to be lighter than with the previous configuration.

Front and rear shock absorber effective travel is increased for better control by moving the pickup points farther outboard on the lower control arms than the previous system. Higher rate springs, 18 percent rear and 12 percent front, and new shock absorber valving improve impact feel and increase high speed control. Shock absorber valving has also been recalibrated for better control at low temperatures.

The 1997 Dodge Viper RT/10 will be the first domestically-produced car to use Michelin Pilot MXX3 tires. The carcass, tread and compound of these tires are tuned to the new suspension package to provide more stability. The most notable construction change is a significant increase in sidewall stiffness. Reduced road noise and improved low temperature and wet traction objectives have been achieved along with substantial increases in cornering and braking traction. Wet cornering traction increased six percent in a standardized wet traction test. Peak lateral acceleration on the skidpad increased by over 5 percent. Stopping distance from 60 miles-per-hour (96 km/hr) is reduced by over 13 percent.

A recalibrated power brake booster for Viper provides more pedal modulation. The increased modulation improves low to moderate speed braking pedal feel while maintaining Viper's exceptional high-speed braking performance.

Overall, there are 200 new components, or a 10 percent product change in the 1997 Dodge Viper RT/10 and yet it remains the ultimate American-made, no excuses and no-holds-barred excitement machine.

The Viper roadster, produced from 1992-1996, has secured a place in history as a vehicle that defined a new Chrysler way of business by taking on fresh challenges, and defining the genre of what a pure American sports car should be.

Buick showcases the next generation with the XP2000

Buick's XP2000 showcases a new generation of automotive technology, specifically selected to enhance the convenience, comfort and safety of Buick customers. While the XP2000 remains a dream car, many of these features will appear on real-world Buicks during the next few years.

Customer's Choice allows customers to tailor many features of the car to their personal taste. Each driver is identified by an electronic code in a keyless fob. As he or she approaches the car, a digital code from the fob tells the XP2000's computers to adjust the seat, steering column, outside mirrors, climate control and entertainment system to the preferences of that driver.

The dynamic response of the car, including steering effort, transmission shifts, engine response and suspension feel, can also be programmed using Customer's Choice.

Each driver of XP2000 will have a unique keyless fob. On approaching the vehicle, a signal from the fob unlocks the doors and, if it is dark, turns on the car's interior and exterior lights.

To start the car, the driver inserts the fob into a slot in the instrument panel and presses it momentarily. A security code in each fob allows the car to start only if an authorized fob is used. To stop the engine, the driver simply removes the fob from the slot.

The GM Smart Card, a credit card with an integral computer memory, fits into a slot in the instrument panel, providing a number of convenience features.

A list of Customer's Choice settings can be placed on the card, allowing the settings to be transferred to any Buick equipped with Customer's Choice.

The Smart Card can pay for fuel, food or other services. It can automatically pay tolls, so the car can pass through toll booths without stopping.

Smart Card can also carry the driver's medical records and personal history, important assets in the event of accident or illness.

A head-up display projects vehicle data onto the base of the windshield, allowing the driver to check speed, fuel level and other important information without moving his or her eyes away from the road.

The advanced head-up display of the XP2000 uses programmable, color-compatible color displays to provide whatever information the driver chooses. When the car is parked or operating in wire-guided mode, the head-up display and the flat-panel color display that normally serves as the instrument cluster can be used as screens for the vehicle information center, the cellular phone, the driver's personal computer or the entertainment system.

XP2000 features a navigation system with an easy-to-use format. An arrow indicates vehicle direction while distance, time to destination, road names and the color of approaching traffic lights are displayed nearby.

The system warns the driver of approaching emergency vehicles. It even contains a directory of restaurants and tourist attractions.

The Smart Arrow Navigation System can be programmed to use either the head-up display or the main color display in the instrument panel.

The navigation system, climate controls, entertainment system and other features can be activated by a voice recognition system, allowing the driver's hands to remain on the steering wheel.

XP2000 is designed to use wire-guidance systems proposed for the Intelligent Vehicle Highway Systems of the 21st Century. In automatic guidance mode, the XP2000 reconfigures its color displays and other features, transforming the interior into an office or entertainment center.

Also fitted to the XP2000 is an Adaptive Cruise Control system, which can be used for either wire-guided or normal driving. The driver selects a speed and following distance; the cruise control automatically maintains this distance from the car ahead. The system will instantly slow the car and alert the driver if the vehicle ahead slows or stops suddenly.

To make driving safer, especially at night or in poor visibility, a Near Obstacle Detection System uses radar to track objects near the XP2000 and predict their motion relative to the car. This information is graphically displayed on the head-up display.

When the vehicle is shifted into Reverse, the system scans the space behind XP2000 and warns the driver of any obstacle, using the head-up display and an audible tone. When the car is in Reverse, the system also adjusts the outside mirrors downward to improve rear visibility and reduce blind spots.

Frontal air bags are provided for the driver, front passenger and rear passengers. Side-impact protection is enhanced by an air bag located in each of the XP2000's four doors.

In the event of an accident severe enough to deploy the air bags, the vehicle computers can be programmed to automatically call the local police and ambulance service, and even notify the driver's personal physician.

When the driver approaches the XP2000 after dark, the signal from the remote keyless fob turns on all of the white exterior lights, including the headlamps and backup lamps, providing good visibility around the car. The system includes "puddle lights" under the rocker panels to illuminate the area beneath the doors.

All interior lighting is provided by a single high-intensity discharge light engine, and piped throughout the vehicle with fiber optics.

1997 Nissan Maxima improves its lineup

Since its introduction in 1981, the Nissan Maxima has been the perennial sales leader in the upper middle import sedan segment — a category it helped create. With the introduction of the refreshed 1997 Maxima, Nissan continues to set new benchmarks for its class in styling, performance and value.

For 1997, the Maxima lineup includes the luxuriously equipped GLE model, performance-oriented SE and high-value GXE, providing a wide selection of equipment and features to match the individual needs of each customer.

Nissan's flagship sedan has refreshed styling for 1997, enhancing the sleek, smooth, luxurious shape. Maxima's sophisticated, yet sporty, new looks were achieved through a series of enhancements that include a new front grill design (chrome on GXE and GLE), jewel-like multi-parabola headlights, new front and rear bumper fascias, and new taillights.

Other major exterior refinements include new 16-inch aluminum alloy wheels and integrated fog light design on the sporty SE, new wheel covers for GXE models, and distinctive new aluminum-alloy wheels for the fully-equipped GLE.

Maxima retains Nissan's award-winning 3.0-liter DOHC V6 engine. This powerful yet refined powerplant was named "Best Engine" by "Ward's Auto World" for two years running. It is one of the lightest, most compact engines for its displacement ever built for production use, producing a potent 190 hp at 5,600 rpm and 205 ft-lbs of torque at 4,000 rpm.

Among the many technical highlights of Maxima's engine are micro-finishing of the camshaft and crankshaft, a digital knock control system and a cross flow coolant pattern. These attributes help enhance engine performance, reduce exhaust emissions and lower overall engine friction — resulting in improved performance and fuel economy.

The affordable GXE and sporty SE are equipped with a standard 5-speed manual transmission. An electronically controlled 4-speed automatic transmission with overdrive is standard on the luxury-equipped GLE and available as an option on GXE and SE.

Maxima's innovative engine is even more impressive when considering its exceptional fuel economy. The Maxima delivers an EPA-estimated fuel economy of 22/27 mpg city/highway when fitted with the 5-speed manual transmission, and 21/28 mpg city/highway when equipped with the 4-speed automatic transmission.

The 1997 Maxima is also equipped with Nissan's patented rear Multi-Link Beam suspension, which offers precision handling and stability by minimizing camber change during cornering. This design provides an enhanced ride — due to the minimal camber change during cornering, softer bushings, springs and shocks are used and suspension friction is reduced.

The Multi-Link Beam's compact design combined with Maxima's long 106.3-inch wheelbase accommodates a large and luxurious interior. Other benefits of Maxima's thoughtful design include a spacious, easily accessible trunk and exceptional driver and passenger visibility.

Maxima's independent front suspension uses MacPherson struts with coil springs and a 21.0 mm stabilizer bar to provide optimum control in a variety of driving conditions.

The 1997 Maxima features an extensive list of standard safety equipment, including dual air bags, 3-point front seat belts with height-adjustable front shoulder belts and a 3-point ALR/ELR front-passenger side and rear outboard passenger seat belt system.

Front and rear crumple zones, an energy-absorbing steering column, child safety rear door locks and pipe-style steel side-door guard beams that help Maxima meet 1997 Federal Side-Impact Safety Standards, provide further occupant protection.

For added driver confidence and control, Maxima is equipped with standard power-assisted 4-wheel disc brakes. An optional anti-lock braking system (ABS) is available on all three trim levels.

All three 1997 Maxima models come equipped with an unexpected level of standard equipment including: a multi-adjustable reclining front bucket driver's seat; power windows with driver-side one-touch auto-down feature; power door locks with selective unlocking; dual power remote-controlled outside mirrors; digital clock; and CFC-free air conditioning.

For drivers seeking an extra level of style and performance, Maxima SE boasts a sport-tuned suspension with firmer shocks and struts, electronically controlled liquid-filled front engine mount.
