County weighs lab project, election purchase

By Sean Daily
Staff Writer

The Board of Chosen Freeholders could consider two major purchases in the near future.

One of these is an expansion of Union County Police headquarters and its forensic laboratory in Westfield, next to one of the county's election machine warehouses, that could cost anywhere from $6 million to $7 million.

The other, coincidentally, is about 500 new election machines to be used in local, state, federal and county elections. The voting machines currently used in Union County are at least 40 years old.

Both proposed purchases were introduced at last Thursday's freeholder meeting. Though both are apparently unrelated, one could help the other: the smaller machines the county Board of Elections wants to purchase could fit in one warehouse instead of the two currently in use, freeing space for the planned expansion.

The lab and the police department are on opposite ends of the warehouse, which also houses Union County's office of Consumer Affairs and of Weights and Measures.

The expansion will make the lab and police department accessible to the handicapped in compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act and eliminate the potential of Occupational Safety and Health Administration violations.

The planned expansion will also help solve a long-standing problem with space at both police headquarters and at the lab. Each is crammed into about 4,000 square feet of office space.

According to the architect, Eliot

Goldstein of The Goldstein Partnership, the lab needs more room for evidence, and new equipment. The police headquarters violates state Department of Corrections guidelines: there are no holdings cells, only a "cage," and no sally port for controlled movement of prisoners.

The expansion would move the lab to the second floor. The police department would stay on its end of the building but would expand onto both the first and second floors. The expansion of each will cost about $3 million to $3.5 million. The planning and building will take 10 months if approved, with construction taking another 14 months; this will result in 16,000 square feet for the lab and the police department.

The Union County lab can handle evidence from crimes committed in Union County, allowing analyses of evidence in "hours, certainly within 24 hours if we have to," said Manahan.

Manahan said that the lab can test for the presence of illegal drugs, blood, urine, DNA, "anything of a forensic nature," he said.

The proposed expansion would take up the space used by the county's election machines. But if the freeholders approve the "new, improved 'Star Wars' voting machines," according to Freeholder Chairman Dan Sullivan, favored by the county Board of Elections, then it won't need the room.

These are the computerized AVC machines, worth $5,400 each, made by American Voting Machines Sequoia Pacific of Jamestown, NY. AVC was the company that sold the county its original voting machines between 1953 and 1957, replacing all 500 or machines will cost over $2.5 million if the freeholders approve buying the machines.

AVM is one of several companies pitching machines to the Board of Elections. But AVC was the only one at last Thursday's meeting and was clearly in the forefront.

"These are 100 percent accuracy," said Board of Elections Chairwoman June Fischer. "Though we in Union County have been fortunate, but there have been instances of error and it's not human error, it's machine error."

Fischer said that her board wants the new machines because of the age of the county's machines, which are obsolete and are difficult to get parts for, and it's called program. The old machines could be donated to labor unions and colleges "since they really aren't marketable," she said.

Operating the AVC is similar to the current machines, except that there are buttons instead of levers. Pushing a button lights up a green "X" on the board that is visible through the overlay, pushing it again allows the voter to change his mind. Write-in ballots are typed in on a keyboard. To finish voting, the voter pushes a small lighted red button in one corner; votes are stored randomly, "so that no one can tell whose votes are whose, and can be stored in the machine or on large cassettes or can be downloaded to the Board of Election's office."

The AVC machines take up only 150 square feet. In other words, all 500 machines could fit in the election machine warehouse in Scotch Plains, freeing up space at the Westfield warehouse.

Bill would aid county trash sites

By Sean Daily
Staff Writer

Assemblyman John Rooney (R-Bergen) has introduced a bill that could help keep the state's county garbage disposal facilities from defaulting on their $1.5 billion in bonds.

It's a plan that Freeholder Chairman Daniel Sullivan opposes.

Sullivan will present a resolution at tonight's Board of Chosen Freeholders meeting opposing Rooney's bill, which would impose a six- to 10-percent tax on garbage haulers for every ton of trash they carry.

"The problem we have with Assemblyman Rooney's bill is that it would take the responsibility for waste flow out of the county's hands and into the municipalities' hands," he said.

The UCUA as of Monday was in the final stages of approving a $175 million, 23-year lease agreement with Ogden Martin Systems, the company that built and operates the Rahway incinerator.

The purpose of the lease is to help pay off the UCUA's $283 million in bonds. The UCUA has had to reduce its per-ton garbage disposal fee or "tipping fee" to $50 in order to compete with other facilities; it has been running at a loss with this tipping fee and, according to UCUA Secretary John Kulish, will run out of money by mid-May.

If the UCUA defaults on its bonds, then the county may have to pay off at least $35 million and possibly all of the UCUA's bonds, an assertion that anti-incinerator opponents have publicly doubted.

Rooney's bill, which is still in the Assembly's Solid and Hazardous Waste Committee will generate an estimated $70 million to $80 million to help pay off the "stranded debt" of garbage disposal facilities across the state. This is debt, according to Rooney, that would be left over if the facilities were sold outright.

But Sullivan said that the UCUA "is a creature of the county and not the individual municipalities." If Rooney's bill is passed, he said, then the UCUA cannot complete its lease agreement with Ogden Martin.

Watchung hunt ends with 146 deer killed

By Sean Daily
Staff Writer

Tomorrow is the last day of the controversial deer hunt in the Watchung Reservation. The hunt will end with only 29 of the allotted 40 hunting days used this year.

Hunters killed 146 deer this year as of last Thursday, 26 more than the agreed-upon minimum marked for death by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

It is doubtful like the hunters will reach their maximum bag of 189 deer, according to Dan Bernier, chief of park operations.

"It does not seem terribly likely, but no one thought we would be this successful this year," Bernier said.

According to Bernier, the deer "are pretty elusive, despite what people say about these being tame deer being shot in an enclosed space."

Tomorrow marks the end of the third year of the five-year hunt. Opponents of the hunt have called it unnecessary and crueled it as being unfairly restricted to county employees. Some critics say the exercise hardly deserves to be called a hunt, instead of stalking deer; hunters wait by "baiting stations" and shoot the animals as they feed.

Critics also say the county has failed to make an accurate count of the deer in the park.

The hunt was instituted in 1996 to control the deer population. An estimated 300 deer lived in the park prior to this year's hunt, on 100 deer per square mile. The purpose of the hunt has been to reduce the number of deer wintering in the reservation to 60, or 20 per square mile.

"It's never been the intention of Union County to annihilate all the deer in the Watchung Reservation," said Bernier.

Blood Center seeks donors

County lowers utility costs with service-sharing plan

Union County government is leading the way in taking advantage of lower electric and natural gas rates resulting from energy deregulation by helping municipalities collectively negotiate the best deals with utility companies.

"Union County government is committed to lower costs. One of the ways it has achieved them is through the sharing of services with the 21 municipalities," said Freeholder Chairman Daniel Sullivan during a recent speech to approximately 70 municipal, county and state officials, as well as business leaders at a conference on energy deregulation at the Gateway Institute for Regional Development at Kean University in Union Township.

"The deregulation of these utilities is yet another opportunity to share services and reduce energy costs throughout the county," he said, adding that the open market will also enable the county to create an energy master plan. "By working together we can maximize taxpayer savings even more."

The lowering of utility rates through "municipal aggregation" is among several Union County initiatives to save tax dollars.

The Freeholder Board is proceeding with plans to save taxpayers $9 million this year by lowering trash-disposal rates while at the same time averting a solid-waste crisis.

By negotiating a new lease with the operator of the county incinerator, taxpayers will not be saddled with paying off the facility's $280 million debt.

To expedite collective negotiating, for natural gas and electric rates, Freeholder Sullivan explained that Union County has applied for a $25,000 grant from the state Department of Community Affairs to study utility use among the municipalities and to compile data to put together utilities plans.

The conference, sponsored by the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders and the Gateway Institute — formed in 1997 to meet the economic, social, cultural and educational challenges of the emerging global community — focused on the benefits of deregulation while encouraging the banding together of several towns to become one, large customer.

Among other dignitaries at the conference were freeholders Lewis Mingo Jr. and Chester Holmes, Assemblyman Neil Cohen and Susan Lederman, the Gateway Institute's executive director.

Freeholder Sullivan said that, by combining utilities in public buildings (including schools), between 5 percent and 10 percent could be saved on electric costs, while the savings on natural gas could be between 7 percent and 12 percent. More than $1 million could be saved in seven years.

"The savings could be used to provide more services and programs, or even to cut taxes," he said.

Freeholder Sullivan said that after municipalities provide information on energy use and costs, Union County will compile and evaluate the figures before implementing a collective purchasing plan.

"We understand the fiscal pressures local officials are under to provide the best services for the lowest amount of taxpayer dollars. We also realize that local governments are not equipped to deal with the complexities of the energy industry," he said.

County changes insurance plans

After an extensive review and meeting guaranteed by the First Option Health Plan officials that county employees would receive top-of-the-line coverage, the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders has switched insurance plans to the company.

"We are satisfied that the First Option Health Plan will be beneficial to Union County employees and provide significant savings to the county," said Freeholder Nicholas P. Scuri, who on Feb. 26 postponed sponsoring the resolution switching coverage from PruCare because of reports that First Option canceled scheduled surgeries for plan participants.

Employees explained their position and assured us that such incidents would not happen in Union County employees," he said, referring to reports that the managed care company attempted to cut the pay of anesthesiologist by 20 percent, which resulted in canceled surgery for patients in North Jersey. "We absolutely would not sacrifice quality health care to save money."

By changing insurance coverage, Union County could save more than $800,000 in property and health insurance premiums while its employees will benefit from better medical coverage.

The resolution saves $700,000 — a 10 percent reduction in health insurance premiums over two years. More than $100,000 will be saved by having Hartford Insurance Company insure county property for 14 months.

CIRC compared monthly premiums and their coverage for 424 policies, which include those for singles, husbands and wives, parents and children, and families. Under PruCare, they cost $174,505.36, or $2,094.064.32 annually. However, expanded coverage under the First Option Health Plan is $140,639.31 a month, for $1,687,671.72 a year. The annual savings is $406,302.60. CIRC also rated the First Option Health Plan superior in nine of 14 categories.

Additionally, the First Option Health Plan guarantees that second-year rates will increase no more than 6 percent. That means that even if PruCare premiums were to play the same and First Option's went up, the county would still "save" approximately $300,000.

Mothers' Center plans sale

The Mothers' Center of Central New Jersey will hold its semi-annual consignment sale of March 25 and 26, from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. each day, at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church, Watchung Avenue at East 7th Street in Plainfield. The sale will feature gently used children's spring and summer clothing in sizes from newborn to 14. Other merchandise will include toys, maternity clothes, and baby equipment.

The Mothers' Center sale is the largest of its kind in central New Jersey. Over 100 consignors provide high-quality items at a fraction of retail prices.

All proceeds of the proceeds will benefit activities of the Mothers' Center, a non-profit, non-sectarian organization founded in 1978 by mothers, to help mothers. The group offers discussion groups, day and evening workshops, guest speakers, social activities, library resources, and playgroups. On-site child care is available for participants in most daytime activities. New members are welcome. For more information, call (908) 561-1751.

Downtown business districts thrive

When "for sale" signs begin to appear on many of the most centrally located commercial buildings, local citizens and town officials alike begin to give serious attention to their downtown district. But where some see an area of concern, others see unlimited possibilities for renewal. Mangels & Co. Realtors, with roots in Union County going back three quarters of a century, has a vital Commercial Real Estate Division which is successfully marketing some of the most valuable downtown real estate in Union and Springfield.

"We see tremendous potential for growth here," says Jim Brunette, president of the commercial division. "The drive to invest in Union County business districts is very strong. People can feel good about the health of their downtown areas."

One example is the 3600 square foot office building at 374 Morris Avenue in Springfield. Phil Gentile, senior vice president of commercial real estate, sold this building to the National Association of Life Carriers, Branch 38. The local postal workers union are delighted with their new facilities. "It's convenient and spacious enough for all our needs," says president Bruce Dridrickson and vice president Bob Burgenood. Gentile listed a 2200 square foot building on 1051 Commence Avenue which he later sold. "It's a centrally located block and brick building in excellent condition. The key to this sale was finding an entrepreneur who could make the best use of the space. I found Ken Battisto who owns a road and parking lot cleaning service. T.S.S. Facility Services, Battisto's business, is now basing there."

Gentile's proudest moment last year may have been the sale of 1999 Morris Avenue on the corner of Stuyvesant and Morris avenues, right in the heart of Union's downtown hub. An 8,000-square-foot building with stores and off the clearing services.

"We knew that this building's continued success was crucial to the overall economic health of the area. We were sure that owning this property would be a sound investment," Gentile said. When the building sold last year to Rose Lane Associates, an investment group, all the tenants were able to stay.

Mangels & Co. Realtors was established in 1924 by Rudolph Mangels, a real estate developer who came to this country as a German immigrant and went on to be one of the area's leading citizens. In 1974, Jim Brunette and Jim Schoening, two local real estate brokers, bought the business and continue to operate it as a full-service real estate agency, serving both the residential and commercial markets. The company has two offices, one at 367 Chestnut St., near Five Corners in Union, and one at 502 Centennial Ave., in Cranford. Phil Gentile, who manages the Union Commercial Division, can be reached at (908) 688-3000.

Exchange visitors offer childcare

Each year thousands of American families in search of child care assistance open their homes and hearts to our pair exchange visitors from around the world. This European tradition continues to grow in popularity in the United States. Local families with babies to pre-teens interested in hosting an au pair exchange participant from Europe, Japan, South Africa or French-speaking Canada are being sought by the non-profit EurAupair International Child Care Program.

EurAupair au pairs are young adults between 18 and 26, who have chosen to take a year off between school terms to live with an American family, and help care for the family's children in exchange for the opportunity to learn more about our culture and language in a way that can only happen through a homestay experience. Au pairs offer families flexible hours of child care assistance, while the children benefit from the individualized attention of a new "big sister" in the secure, familiar surroundings of their own home.

If you would like to offer your family the opportunity of embarking on an educationally enriching, fun and rewarding adventure, call EurAupair toll-free at (800) 901-2002.

Free trees available

Ten free white flowering dogwood trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during March 1998.

The free trees are part of the non-profit Foundation's Trees for America campaign.

"While flowering dogwoods will add year-round beauty to your home and neighborhood," John Rosenow, the Foundation's president, said. "Dogwoods have showy spring flowers, scarlet autumn foliage, and red berries which attract songbirds all winter."

The trees will be shipped prepaid at the right time for planting between March 1 and May 31, with enclosed planting instructions. The six- to twelve-inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

Members also receive a subscription to "Arbor Day," the Foundation's monthly publication, and "The Tree Book," with information about tree planting and care.

To become a member of the Foundation and receive the free trees, send a $10 contribution to Ten Free Dogwood Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, NE 68410, by March 31, 1998.

Planetarium director to speak

Union County College will host Jerry Vinski, director of the planetarium at Raritan Valley Community College, North Branch, during the monthly meeting of Amateur Astronomers Inc., at 8 p.m. March 20 in the Roy W. Smith Theatre, Campus Center, of the College's Cranford Campus.

Vinski will speak on "A New View of the Planets." AAL, a non-profit organization dedicated to education and research in amateur astronomy, is based at the College's Sperry Observatory.

An avid amateur astronomer in addition to his position at Raritan Valley, Vinski will compare old and new photographs of the solar system. Many of his photos are from the Hubble Space Telescope and include models that demonstrate the scale, size, and distance of the planets.

Following Vinski's lecture, visitors are invited to cross the campus to the observatory, where they can view celestial phenomena through two high-powered telescopes.

Those interested in further information should call either (908) 709-7520 or (908) 276-STAR.

Former resident learned love of music in her hometown

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

When Kathie Caitlin Korne strummed her guitar and sang her country music Saturday night in Hamilton's Tavern and Lounge in Roselle, she actually came around full circle. She also sounded a little like Anne Murray, but that's only because "Anne Murray is my mentor. Her music has inspired me for more than 15 years."

Kathie's real name is Kathie Foster, and she lived for more than 27 years in Roselle, where she attended St. Joseph's Grammar School and Abraham Clark High School.

"My parents bought me my first guitar," she said during a visit to this office with her best friend, Dollie Romagnoli, "and I taught myself to play. Probably, the Beatles were my first inspiration." The musician, a serious, determined woman, recalled that at the age of 12, "I joined a small musical group called the Musical Troupe, based in Elizabeth. And we entertained at dinner shows. That's when I knew I wanted to be an entertainer."

Another woman named Dolly — "Dolly Decker, directed me on stage from age 12 to age 19. She was the director of the Musical Troupe and was a former Radio City Rockette.

"My friend, Dollie Romagnoli has been my closest friend for four years. A friend and a confidante. She helped to straighten my life for me. I record for her son, Skip Romagnoli, who owns the J.D. Bask Productions recording studio in Bangor, Pa. He's my record producer and produced my first short album, 'Aspirations.' 'Aspirations' is a song that I wrote and the album was popular enough to sell out. We had 200 copies, and they're gone."

Korne mentioned that "Currently, I have four pieces which I have written and performed with the Country Rock Band called The Straight and Narrow Band. I have performed in many county fairs — the Warren County Fair, the Wayne County Fair, both in the Pocono Mountains. Last summer, I performed at the Somerset County Fair and at such night clubs and resorts as Fernwood Resorts in the Poconos, Shawnee-on-the-Delaware, Bushkill, Pa., and will be performing March 21 at the Aztec Lounge in Sanbar in Seaside Heights."

Korne, who plans to work full time in her musical career, has a full-time job as a health aide for Visiting Homemakers of Warren County. "I've been working there for eight years. Taking care of ill and disabled people has helped me to deal with the public. It has taught me humility. And," she smiled, "the big boss is my biggest supporter."

"Music has always been my great love," she sighed. "It has always been there for me. Basically, my music consists of country with some blues. I had performed with the Parish Players in stage musicals. I have a lot of stage experi-

NJ Ballet finds its 'Niche' at university performance

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

A stunning offering of ballet productions and performances was presented Saturday evening at the Wilkins Theater, Kean University in Union. And the audience loved every moment of New Jersey Ballet's presentation of "An Evening of Contemporary Ballet," mostly featuring the music of Peter Tchaikovsky, with its superb leading dancers, the fantastic Elie Lazar, the elegant Rosemary Sabovick-Bleich, the ever-smiling Debra Syles and the talented Andrei Jouravlev, Lori Christian and You Qing Guo, among others.

The program included "Niche," choreographed by Lazar, and George Tomalin's new ballet, "Winteret."

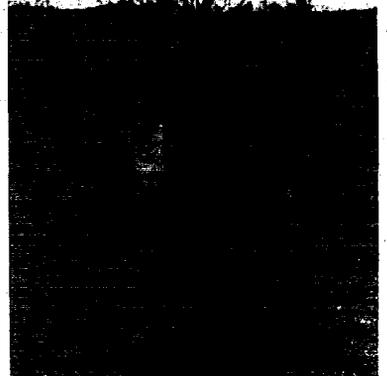

John Tarsa's "Designs with Strings," a well-known ballet of the American Ballet Theater, was designed to express the mood created by the music of Peter Tchaikovsky rather than to tell a story. It is pure ballet with a slightly modern touch. The simplicity of the costumes and the absence of scenery gave the dancers a special focus. Choreographed by John Tarsa, the dancers, Sabovick-Bleich, Guo, Sam Beckman, Morgan Goddard, Era Korotzeva and Christina Theryoung were incomparable.

"Tchaikovsky Pas De Deux," choreographed by George Balanchine and staged by Victoria Simon, the graceful Syles and the strong Jouravlev danced very well — together and singly. She was very expressive, and he provided powerful leaps and bounds. The performances were an absolute delight.

"Niche," beautifully choreographed by Lazar with music by Dimitri Shostakovich and costumes by Christian, explored how people fit into different relationships at different times in their lives. The seven sections that developed the theme are "Peregrinations," dramatically danced by Sabovick-Bleich, Guo, Christian, Jouravlev, Theryoung and Beckman; "Unity," Sabovick-Bleich and Guo, "Emerging" by Christian, "Carousal" by Jouravlev and company, "Mirror" by Jacqueline Lorenzi, Guo, Theryoung and Beckman, "Niche" by Christian and Jouravlev and "Convergence" by the entire ensemble.

The evening was extremely enjoyable and the audience was responsive and generous in its applause.

The New Jersey Ballet Co. has scheduled "An Evening of Premieres" on April 4 at the Wilkins Theater. Its company is as good if not better than anything this reviewer has ever seen in New York. And the really great thing is that it is offered right here in our community. It is a real treasure in cultural value, entertainment and appreciation.

Kathie Caitlin Korne, formerly of Roselle, a country singer and song writer, poses with her best friend, the guitar, which she learned to play at the age of 12 and became a self-taught guitarist.

ence, and I love to write songs. I have written about 15 to 20 of them in the past years. 'Aspirations' is registered in the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C. And I'm planning a road trip to perform in various clubs in Drumsen, Mo., in July."

She smiled. "Music has always been an inspiration to me and has made some important changes in my life. All good."

Actors attempt to distinguish the dream from the reality

In the spirit of lighthearted comedy which reigned in community theaters this weekend, The Elizabeth Playhouse presented two one-act plays, "The Actor's Nightmare" by Christopher Durang and "The Real Inspector Hound" by Tom Stoppard.

The playhouse successfully staged "Wanda's Visit," another of Durang's sometimes bizarre one-acts, last season as part of its Lunchtime Theater season. Unfortunately, this presentation does not equal that effort, but in all fairness, "Nightmare" is one of Durang's most arcane and difficult to stage.

"The Actor's Nightmare" is just that — imagine if you will how hard performers prepare, whether full-time or part-time, to go out under those hot lights and not only remember lines, but to be dependent upon others to remember theirs; to stand, walk, breathe correctly, and, if you do it well, you might not get hit with tomatoes. Every actor swears bullets before a performance — how could you not? — and so it is easy to understand the inspiration for Durang's play.

Rick Brown assumes the role of George Spelvin, the leading man in his own "Mare. George goes through the motions of doing what he (hopefully) does best, only to find that he can't remember anything — lines, blocking, co-stars — heck, he doesn't even know what play he's doing, which is moot anyway because it changes from Noel Coward to Shakespeare to Samuel Beckett without notice. And no one will tell him his next line!

In spite of lack of energy in this production, individually actors are effective. To his credit, Brown seems comfortable with his lengthy, disjointed monologues, but his character seems more confused than afraid. As in real dreams, supporting characters reappear in different roles — Lorraine Hernandez as Meg, Mary Wilton as Dame Ellen Terry, who puts forth an appropriately surreal performance;

Ron Kelly as Henry Irving, and Cindy Ross, whose Sarah Siddons is amusingly extreme.

But don't give up yet, as "The Real Inspector Hound" makes the evening worthwhile. Almost as surreal, the audience watches two theater critics watching a murder mystery. We learn as much about them as we do about the overblown whodunit — Brown, again, as Birdboot, an upright moralist whose actions belie his words, and Rich Aront as the insecure Moon.

The play pokes a little fun at the business of reviewing theater (ouch!) with these gentlemen certain they know how it is going to turn out, they've seen it all, yada, yada, yada — until Birdboot's superficiality gets the better of him and he becomes more embroiled in the web than anyone bargained for. Don't try to understand it — just enjoy.

And you will, as both Aront and Brown are well-cast and seem to enjoy themselves. Wilton is once again cast in an obnoxious role, which she handles well and elicits no small amount of giggles from the audience. Gil Moreno does a side-splitting Peter Lorre-esque - trenchcoated Simon. Hernandez dresses the stage as Felicity, outshine only by an adorable Elka Bendit as Cynthia. Kelly and his handbar mustache stand out in this half of the evening as Magnus, with the cast rounded out by Lyn Adams as BBC Voice and Edward Kosberg as Inspector Hound. Not to be overlooked is Clyde as Higgs — an easy thing to do.

"The Actor's Nightmare" and "The Real Inspector Hound" run through April 5 at The Elizabeth Playhouse, 1100 East Jersey St., Elizabeth. For information, call (908) 355-0077.

Join in the party at Carnival Productions

It's a party-and-a-half at Carnival Productions in Rahway through this weekend, as the company presents the romantic comedy "Only You" by Timothy Mason.

Directed by guest director Mark Spina of the Union County College Theater Project, "Only You" is a little Woody Allen-esque mainstream angst, a little 30s screwball comedy. Set in black box, the play is a series of scenes involving lovers, friends and other strange people who eventually become entangled — literally and figuratively — in each other's lives in exasperatingly funny ways.

The time is now, the place is New York City, and Leo, played by Carnival Artistic Director Bill Van Sant, and Miriam, played by Lisa Alford, have just — connected. At least Leo, who is so obsessive he arranges even his friends, thinks so. Miriam is not sure. Where there's a troubled relationship there's a girlfriend, so enter Heather, played by Elizabeth A. Durkin, who hits it off with Leo's self-absorbed friend

The cast of Carnival productions 'Only You' interacting as only they can.

Eddie, played by Mark Szabo — or so she thinks. Throw in one more wrench, the badly-in-need-of-therapy Bo, played by Oscar Castillo, and a Big Voice inside everybody's head, played by Ken Schickman — and you've got a party, maybe more than one.

This comedy is more intimate than most, as the audience members get an opportunity to decide if they like the characters as they follow in the frenzied pursuit of commitment and the just-as-chaotic avoidance of same.

Carnival veteran Mark Szabo achieves a natural, warm humor as Eddie. Van Sant winds Leo up as tight as he can, only to unravel each painful strand one by one. A big Bravo is in order for adept handling of one heck of a monologue. Expect a fine performance from Alford, whose Miriam travels to many emotional places. Remaining members of this ensemble fit snugly into their roles, a credit to each, and to director Spina for smooth transitions and set changes; overall, a polished production.

"Only You" will continue tomorrow and Saturday at El Bodegon Restaurant and Dinner Theater, 169 West Main St., Rahway. For information, call Wendy Cinquinta at (732) 388-0647.

Amici III Ristorante
 The finest in Italian cuisine
 By Liane Stone-Ingalls Staff Writer
 For a memorable dining experience from the great kitchens of Italy, it pays to visit Amici III Ristorante in Linden.
 From the moment you walk in, the atmosphere takes over and your senses become blinded by some of the finest Italian Continental dishes known to man. Customers are greeted by an enthusiastic owner who doubles as a amiable host.
 Giovanni Lavorato, the owner, has been in the restaurant business for most of his life. A native of Calabria, Italy, he has made food and its pleasures the focus of his life.
 The cuisine at Amici is a true experience for the senses. Mario Lavorato, a veteran chef and Giovanni's brother, heads the kitchen and is responsible for the tremendous quality of the food served. The menu offers a choice of cold and hot antipasto, salads, soups and an extensive choice of entrees. There's also a unique variety of desserts and coffees.
 Amici's also offers the Table d'Hote Dinner which includes an appetizer, pasta, main course, dessert and coffee deal, all for one low price.
 The meal chosen by my companion was the classic veal piccata which was draped in a white wine sauce and capers, garnished with roasted eggplant and sautéed. The veal was so tender, it could be cut with a fork.
 I chose the salmon and swordfish combination, a special of the day. It consisted of broiled salmon and swordfish draped in an olive oil, garlic and plum tomato sauce. The plate was garnished with broiled scallops, shrimp, mussels and olives. This feast was accompanied by pasta covered by a very flavorful marinara sauce.
 Dessert consisted of the most amazing chocolate mousse experience of my young life. It was truly to die for. The mousse was presented on a plate, drizzled with chocolate and raspberry sauce. The mousse consisted of layers of moist chocolate layer cake and smooth, creamy and rich mousse. It was, well, "Wow!"
 Amici's, located at 1700 W. Elizabeth Ave., Linden, is open for lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and for dinner from 4:30 to 10 p.m., weekdays. On Friday and Saturday, dinner is served from 4:30 to 11 p.m. Sundays, dinner is served from 2 to 9 p.m. For more information or to make reservations call (908) 862-0020.

Quick Chek Balloon Festival sponsors student art contest

The long-standing Quick Chek New Jersey Festival of Ballooning, the largest summertime balloon festival in North America, is proud to announce the first annual youth art contest. New Jersey students in various age groups will have the chance to win exciting prizes, including a $500 U.S. Savings Bond and a hot air balloon visit to their school's playground.

Throughout the years, the Festival has had only one souvenir poster always designed by a professional and this year, Howard Freeman, co-executive producer of the event, is happy to announce the addition of an official junior poster.

"The many fun activities offered at the Festival make everyone feel like a kid and this year we want special posters to authentically express this feeling," states Freeman. "For past events we have commissioned many talented artists and this will be the first time we will have a poster created through the eyes of a child. The Festival staff, along with Quick Chek, is very excited."

Students from both private and public schools, in three different age groups, first through fourth grade, fifth through eighth, and high school, are invited to design an original poster of any balloon scene in mediums such as pencil, chalk pastels, pen and ink, crayon, paints, etc. Only hand illustrated posters will be accepted and all entries must arrive at the Junior Art Contest headquarters no later than April 31. For more details, students, parents and teachers can call Dolphin Communications at (973) 831-7933.

Finalists will be chosen by a judging panel of prestigious New Jersey residents and Festival corporate sponsors. The winners will be announced the week of May 14. The prize packages are as follows:

First place winners will receive a $500 U.S. Savings Bond, a balloon ride for the winner and one family member, a balloon tethered at their school one afternoon, four free VIP Blue Sky tickets to the Festival and a tee-shirt.

Second place winners will receive four VIP Blue Sky tickets to the Festival, and a tee-shirt.

Third place winners receive four general admission tickets to the Festival.

The winning posters will be displayed in Quick Chek stores, on the cover of Festival programs, in newspaper supplements, in the office lobbies of major sponsors and at the Balloon Festival. "The contest is about more than just prizes," states Howard Freeman. "It's an opportunity for New Jersey kids to express their creativity. We expect many talented artists in the contest, making it very hard for the finalists to be chosen. However, all posters will be on display at the event where we look forward to seeing the students and their families."

The Quick Chek New Jersey Festival of Ballooning is the weekend of July 24-26, rain or shine, at the Solberg Airport in Readington. The event will feature over 100 hot air balloons including special shapes like the Quick Chek Eagle, a size 10,000, EBEEEE, meaker from Famous Footwear and a giant pepperoni pizza. Spectators will also delight at the myriad of beautiful, brightly colored traditional balloons. The fun-filled weekend will also include: live concerts by major musical acts; PBS's beloved "Arthur" and his play-along show; old-time barnstorming air shows; the famous sky-diving "Evilweird" peeing farms, arts and crafts exhibits and many other surprises.

The Quick Chek New Jersey Festival of Ballooning celebrates its 16th year as New Jersey's number-one tourist attraction and a favorite of Governor Whitman's. Most attendees are from New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Washington DC, but many others travel longer distances to the event. Each year, the festival draws more people and last year hit a record high of 150,000 attendees over the weekend.

Tickets will go on sale this spring and can be purchased in advance by calling (800) HOT-AIR-9 or by visiting the festival's website at www.ballooningfestival.com. Tickets are: $15 in advance, $20 at the gate for adults, and $6 in advance, $10 at the gate for children. Group discounts and special preferred packages are also available. A portion of the proceeds from advanced ticket sales will benefit the Children's Miracle Network.

Stony Hill Players 'Play On' with gusto

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

A real test of acting abilities, direction, staging and learning and unlearning one's lines was outlined Friday night when the Stony Hill Players tackled Rick Abbott's complicated comedy, "Play On!" at the Oakes Memorial Outreach Center in Summit.

The extremely talented cast, each in his or her individual way as good if not better than the other, portrays a community theater group reuniting a play within a play, Phyllis Montague's "Murder Most Foul." The majority of the thespians had to speak in American-English and English-English accents without getting mixed up. They were exceptional in their individual presentations. And equal credit must be given to Robert Gaillard, who directed the mish-mash. This reviewer uses these two words in the most glorious tones.

In three acts, the marvelous players offer a rehearsal of the play, "Murder Most Foul," a dress rehearsal of the play and the opening night of the play.

In the first act, anything that can go wrong in a rehearsal, goes wrong. There are three days to performance and it looks like they will never be ready. With Merry LaRue as Aggie and Renee Hiner as Gerry, Kimberly Jones as Louise, and the very funny Elaine Noonan, who gives a polished performance as the bewildered playwright, Phyllis Montague, the actors take on two parts, themselves and the performers they are to play. There are Anthony J. East, who plays Henry Benish, playing Lord Dudley; the handsome Mike Ream, who plays Billy, playing Stephen Sellers; Audrey Ann Mason, who plays Polly Benish, playing Lady Margaret; Rebecca Stringer and Megan Glendon, both of whom play Marla "Smitty" Smith, playing Doris; Don Howes, who plays Saul Watson, playing Dr. Rex Forbes; and Diane Kahan, who plays Violet, playing Liane Lassier.

The actors are required to pronounce their lines, forget their lines, repeat their lines, and stumble over the simplest scenes in the first act.

Mike Ream, as Steven, entices Diane Kahan, playing Diana, with the famous Delhi Diamond — or is it the White Ruby of Ranichpur? — in Stony Hill Players' production of "Play On." For information and reservations, call (908) 464-7716.

That really takes a lot of concentration and learning and unlearning. And they do a great job of it all — and are very funny while doing it.

In Act Two, there is the dress rehearsal of their play, and the actors appear well-versed to their performances. With a few comic interludes by the playwright, who keeps coming up with new lines for the completely bewildered cast, it seems as if the confident actors will make it to opening night after all.

And in Act Three, the opening night of their play, which by now the audience is, as familiar with the dialogue as the actors up there on that little stage, everything, but everything goes wrong. The timing is off, the lines are wrong, the actors bump into each other, take tumblers on the stage, take off in wrong directions, and one is even so drunk he mumbles his lines incoherently, pulls out wrong props and jakes incessant falls.

"Play On!" at the Oakes Memorial Outreach Center at 120 Morris Ave., Summit, will play for two more weekends, tomorrow, and Saturday at 4 p.m., and Sunday at 3 p.m.

If a theater goer wants to laugh, a little or a lot, "Play On!" is the play to see. It's a fun-filled vehicle for appreciative audiences.

Paper Mill production will record soundtrack

Paper Mill Playhouse's production of the Stephen Schwartz-John Caird musical, "Children of Eden," which recently completed an acclaimed six-week run at the Playhouse, will be the first production in the theater's history to be recorded. The complete score of the Old Testament musical, featuring the entire Paper Mill company including Stephanie Mills, Adrian Zmed, Darius de Haas, William Soto, Kelli Rakbe and Hunter Foster, will be recorded by RCA Victor.

The 1991 London production of "Children of Eden" had been recorded, but has been out-of-print for several years. The new Paper Mill recording of "Children of Eden" will be the first recording of the author's substantially revised version of the score.

"Children of Eden" was directed by Paper Mill Playhouse's Artistic Director Robert Johnson. The show features music and lyrics by Academy Award-winning songwriter Stephen Schwartz and book by John Caird.

The recording, which will be released in a two-disc complete version and a single disc highlights version, is currently scheduled for release in early April.

HOROSCOPE

For the week of March 15 to 21

Aries
March 21-April 20
 Focus on immediate and extended family this week. It's important to take the time to work on some problems that have been building. You don't want them to get out of hand. Plan a family dinner.

Taurus
April 21-May 21
 Even if it seems like things are going haywire, don't lose your cool. Keep your perspective. Things should calm down soon, but in the meantime, you'll come out looking professional and respectable.

Gemini
May 22-June 21
 Someone close to you needs your understanding and care. Take extra steps to be there for him/her, but whatever you do, don't jump to any conclusions. See if he/she wants to take an evening off.

Cancer
June 22-July 22
 Take a deep breath. The worst is behind you. You have dealt with a personal problem and feel good about it; now it's time to move on. In honor of that decision, take the weekend off.

Leo
July 23-Aug. 23
 First thing this week, take care of something you've been putting off. Whether it's a trip to the doctor or a dreaded chore, get it out of the way early. Then you'll have time to try something you've never done before.

Virgo
Aug. 24-Sept. 22
 Challenge your family members this week. Work to get them out of their rut and do something new. Start with a family outing. Then try volunteering to help a worthy cause. Every-body will end up feeling better.

Libra
Sept. 23-Oct. 23
 Don't let work get you down. Even if things seem like they continue to get worse, keep your chin up. Think of this time as an opportunity to make a change. Think about taking a chance this week.

Scorpio
Oct. 24-Nov. 22
 Before the week gets too far along, set aside some funds for the weekend. That way you'll be able to enjoy yourself without the pressure of money worries. Think about something special you could do for someone near and dear to you.

Sagittarius
Nov. 23-Dec. 21
 This is the week you should look before you leap into anything. Be especially careful not to jump to conclusions concerning things going on behind the scenes at work. Outside of work, be cautious about taking on more because it may spread you too thin.

Capricorn
Dec. 22-Jan. 20
 Put your family first this week. A difficult situation will make things stressful for family members. Be there for them. Take a step back and a long look at your financial situation. It may be time to start thinking about professional advice for help on your finances.

Aquarius
Jan. 21-Feb. 18
 Spring fever may be in the air, but be careful about going off the deep end. Don't make light of things at work; it could work against you when you go for a promotion.

Pisces
Feb. 19-March 20
 With that big project wrapping up at work, it's up to you to make sure you get credit for all your hard work. Start by writing a report on what you did and how it helped the project. Document everything.

Watching Cage con a con is entertainment at its best

It is important when reviewing a film to review it based on what it is setting out to achieve. Some pictures are attempting to stimulate you intellectually, others simply to entertain you and a few just want your cash. "Con Air," however, falls into the second category. You're not going to have a viewing of this picture feeling like you've unlocked the spiritual secrets of the universe, but for the 100 minutes you spend watching this movie, you will be entertained.

Nicholas Cage stars as Luke, a man unjustly sentenced to a few years of hard time. The unfair prison stretch results after a group of tough guys were harassing his wife and he killed one of them out of self-defense. His prison term is up, and Luke just wants to return to his peaceful loving wife and life he left behind. This wish is easy to grant except for one small snag: the plane which will take Luke home has been bumped and if he wants to leave right away he's going to have to switch to a different plane.

He argues, even after he hears about the troublesome attendance sheet. It seems that now instead of a smooth ride with a couple of security prison guards, he's put on a specially constructed jet which is transporting a dozen of the most psychotically evil mass murderers on the planet. Included in the roster are serial killers, international terrorists, child molesters, world-renowned assassins, etc. A few of them are brought on board in cages. Others are handcuffed to custom-designed heavy-locked bolted-down steel chairs. Luke feels like Beaver Cleaver in a room of Charlie Mansons. But Luke is not scared. He's simply thinking of his wife and 8-year-old daughter. In a few hours, dozens of waiting will end and he'll have his life back. Take-off is smooth and for the first few minutes, the guards seem ready but relaxed.

It's just a routine psycho-transport, the kind of stress that requires maybe a resident of Mountaintide, Jim Ruffalo is the author of "The Video Detective's Guide to the Top 100 Films of All Time."

The Video Detective

By Jim Ruffalo

an extra couple cups of coffee. But then something goes terribly wrong. One of the guys on the bad team has hidden a few tools under his tongue. He slips them out and a few seconds later, his handcuffs are off. A quick and brutal riot follows and when the smoke clears, all the animals are out of their cages and now they've got the guns.

Luke is sweating on the inside but remains cool in appearance. The psychos don't know who he is and if they find out he's not one of them, he's dead. But if he is able to keep them believing he's on their side, he may be able to get this jet back on the ground safely, and, more important, return home to his wife and child.

The film is highlighted by a few great actors, among them Steve Buscemi as Fargo and John Malkovich. Malkovich, who plays the lead psycho, has the best line of the screenplay. When Malkovich is discussing one of his hideous plans for future mayhem, a shocked fellow thug asks him "Are you crazy?" to which Malkovich responds, "According to my past psychiatric evaluation, yes, I am."

Eating spinach can contribute to better eye health

What you don't know can hurt you, according to a recent consumer survey that examined the link between diet and prevention of eye disease.

"Among consumers who report eating specific foods for eye health, 72 percent chose carrots. Only seven percent named spinach, the source of an important nutrient that helps prevent the most common and devastating form of blindness among older Americans."

"We're not saying carrots are bad for you," said Steven G. Pratt, M.D., a senior staff ophthalmologist at Scripps Memorial Hospital, La Jolla, California. "Vitamin A found in carrots helps protect color and night vision. But consumers seem completely unaware of new evidence that indicates lutein, a powerful carotenoid, is the primary antioxidant found in the retina and may be the key to preventing age-related macular degeneration. This is a case where ignorance can literally cause blindness."

A compelling link between nutrition and eye health was uncovered at Harvard Medical School in 1994. Research showed that people who ate higher amounts of carotenoids-antioxidants found in fruits and vegetables had a significantly decreased risk of macular degeneration. Lutein was singled out as the most effective antioxidant.

Although those surveyed linked diet and health, fewer than one in five ate specific foods to protect their eye health.

"It's encouraging to see consumers make the connection between nutrition and their eye health," said Pratt. "It's discouraging, however, to see how ill-prepared they are to act on this information."

Understanding diet and eye health is clearly complicated by a lack of knowledge regarding eye conditions. When asked to identify eye problems associated with old age, only nine percent mentioned macular degeneration, although AMD is the leading cause of irreversible blindness in older Americans.

"It's difficult to change eating behavior," said Pratt, "when the individual doesn't understand the disease you're working to prevent. People need to understand the serious nature of AMD before they're likely to change their diet."

Survey respondents indicated a strong interest in changing their eating behavior after hearing about the relationship between lutein and eye health. Sixty-nine percent reported being somewhat or very likely to eat more foods containing lutein, and 41 percent indicated interest in taking a daily supplement containing lutein.

Great hair contributes to health

Hair growth takes place in the roots and follicles, where healthy cells divide and multiply, pushing the hair strands outward.

Unfortunately, some treatments for cancer inhibit the growth of healthy hair cells. Feelings, especially positive feelings, play a vital role in the restoration of health. The way you think and feel about yourself each day often begins with looking in the mirror. Hair accessories and wigs can become an important aspect of personal appearance.

Horizon Wigs and Beauty Supplies, located at 307 Jersey Ave. in Elizabeth, specializes in wigs and hairpieces for chemotherapy patients. For a free consultation, call (908) 354-9096.

SEVERE BACK PAIN

If you've been suffering severe back pain, maybe you've had a bad fall, or some other recent accident has caused it. Or maybe the pain has come on gradually because of misalignment in your spinal column that have been there for a long time without your knowing it.

Over a period of time, faulty spinal alignment will cause a gradual weakening of the disc fibers and other ligaments that your spine depends on to operate with comfort and flexibility. But there's more to the problem. Misalignment in your spine may also be interfering with the normal functioning of your nervous system. Nerve impulses travel from the brain through the spinal column to all of your body's vital organs and cells. They need an adequate supply of nerve impulses to function properly.

Misalignments in your spine may be interfering with that supply.

Doctors of chiropractic use gentle manipulations and other techniques to correct the misalignments that may be causing pain and discomfort. With proper treatment, the pain can be relieved and your body returned to normal functioning.

Realtors encourage home sellers to use Multiple Listing Service

"If you list your home exclusively with one broker, even for a week or two, you cut yourself off from the loyal clients of other companies. Why limit your exposure?" asks Bernadette Houston, manager of Prudential New Jersey Realty's Degan Boyle Division Westfield Office.

"We welcome all comers to a healthy, productive marketplace. But when some realtors decide to 'hold out' their listings and try to sell them without cooperating with other brokers, as has happened lately, we don't think this is in the homeowner's best interest. A home's greatest value is determined by maximum exposure to qualified buyers. As much as we like to sell our own listings, Prudential New Jersey Realty always cooperates with other brokers."

Because the inventory of homes for sale is significantly lighter than it has been in years, prices are rising and Realtors are becoming increasingly competitive. In fact, in recent months, some Westfield real estate offices have actually waited a week or more to share their new listings with other brokers. During this time, the home sellers may not realize that their listing is being held as an "exclusive" that other brokers can't show.

For generations, New Jersey home sellers have relied on the Realtors' Multiple List Services to sell their homes. There are several reasons why this is a good strategy, according to Houston. "A multiple listing service ensures that homes get the greatest exposure among the most buyers, a major factor in finding the highest market value for a home in the shortest time," she said. "Many potential buyers never see an 'exclusive' listing. Because many buyers choose an agent or company as a result of good past experience — or through a referral — they work only through that one company."

Advertising alone usually doesn't sell a home. "A listing broker's ads may not be enough to sell your property. A survey we did a few years ago indicates that less than 10 percent of all homes sell as a direct result of ads. But most homes do sell through the MLS," Houston said.

The New Jersey Real Estate Commission has deemed broker cooperation so important to homeowners that it established a rule that any seller who wants only one broker to show or sell his property must sign a waiver to that effect. The waiver explains advantages of the multiple listing system, and it states that the seller who signs it understand the advantages he or she is signing away. Anyone signing that waiver should consider it carefully. And when interviewing Realtors about selling a home, a homeowner should ask bluntly how long from the time the listing agreement is signed will it take for the home to reach the MLS system. A home should go into MLS within 48 hours, according to Houston.

Prudential New Jersey Realty is located at 153 Mountman Ave., Westfield, (908) 232-5664.

Money Making News Release by David D'Arcangelo

President Clinton Approves Nationwide Refund (up to $10,000 annually) For Home Owners/Renters

Tax law translates into free money bonanza totaling up to $50,000 over 5 years!

free environment that will allow them to create wealth 300% faster than their peers. Let me explain: The tax law recently signed into effect by Bill Clinton reinstates the home office deduction. That if you do a significant amount of administrative or managerial work for your business (part-time or full-time) then you qualify for the home office deduction.

In David D'Arcangelo's best-selling book, "Wealth Starts at Home" published by McGraw-Hill, Mr. D'Arcangelo outlines the fact that if you qualify for the home office deduction you can turn every major expense into a profit center or a tax deduction. Mr. D'Arcangelo goes on to state, "It doesn't take an Einstein to figure out that the stock market doubled from 4,000 to 8,000 in a few short years, but the average worker has seen their incomes rise barely 3% a year. People are wiser than anybody gives them credit for and they realize that the definition of insanity is to keep doing what they've been doing and expect things to change."

Keep your job and transition to a part-time home business. You can now offset any losses in the start-up of your business from your ordinary income and deduct a percentage of related household expenses based on the size of your home office, whether it's an apartment that you rent or a home that you own, you can now deduct a percentage of utilities, landscaping, roof repair, gas, insurance, and home cleaning expenses. You can even put your children into the business and pay them up to $4200 in 1998 with no Federal or State taxes. Write off 100% of your health insurance used an IRS little known secret called The Family Rule, and even expense your automobile, trips, travel, and cruises based on business use.

Good advice on how to get to the Auto Show

The 1998 New York International Automobile Show committee announced some "helpful hints" to assist visitors in getting to the 1998 new car and truck exhibition, which runs April 11-19 at the Jacob Javits Center in New York. Discounted travel and parking is available for the over 1 million visitors expected to attend this year's Show. The following arrangements have already been made:

The 1998 New York Auto Show opens to the public April 11 and runs through April 19. Show times are Monday-Saturday from 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Auto Show tickets are on sale by phone from TicketMaster. To order tickets, call (212) 307-7171, (516) 888-5000, (914) 544-3388, (201) 507-8900, (203) 624-0033 or visit www.ticketmaster.com.

Tickets will also be available on-site at the Javits Center throughout the show. The price of admission is $9 for adults and $3 for children under 12. A group discount of $1 off each ticket is available for groups of 10 or more adults. Call Fran at (718) 746-5300 for more information.

In a joint venture between the New York Auto Show and the USS Intrepid, TicketMaster is selling tickets good for admittance to both attractions at $15 for adults and $6 for children under 12. To reserve tickets, call any TicketMaster outlet for the show numbers.

Special Auto Show parking rates are available at the Manhattan Plaza Garage, located on W. 42nd Street between Ninth and Tenth Avenues.

Sunday-Wednesday, after 5 p.m. — 7; Thursday-Saturday, after 5 p.m. — 12; daily, after 11 a.m. — 5 p.m. up to 2 hours; $12 up to 12 hours; rates vary by car. A free shuttle bus from the garage to the Javits Center, sponsored by the Auto Show, will run Saturdays, 11 a.m.-11 p.m.; Sundays, 10 a.m.-8 p.m.; and Monday-Friday, 9 a.m.-11 p.m.

Metro North Railroad offers a discounted special event ticket package including a discounted rail fare and Auto Show coupon, which will be sold at ticket booths on all lines. Adults will be charged the applicable excursion rail fare, plus $5.75 for the show admittance. Children ages 5-11 will be charged $5.00 each on any off-peak train when accompanied by a parent or guardian, and will be charged $1.50 for show admittance. Children under four years old will travel free and be charged $1.50 for show admittance.

Metro North commutation ticket holders, employees with rail passes and other customers traveling from intermediate stations and Grand Central Terminal can purchase only the event ticket from any station along Harlem, Hudson or New Haven lines. The special excursion package will not be sold on-board trains.

In addition, Metro North Railroad and GNYADA will offer a chance to win a seven-day trip for two to Madrid, Spain including airfare and hotel. Pick up entry forms at GNYADA's booth, located in the Javits Center's Crystal Palace. The drawing will be held on April 18 at the GNYADA booth. Additional information on Metro North Services is available by calling (800) METRO INFO or (212) 532-4900.

The Long Island Rail Road will offer a special Auto Show discount package including rail fare and admittance to the show for $15 in zones 1-11. As a special Auto Show promotion with WKY radio, LIRR will distribute entry forms for a special drawing offering a six-day trip for two to the Caribbean. In addition, 50 runners-up in the drawing will receive two tickets to the Auto Show and a free round-trip pass on the LIRR. Additional LIRR information is available in New York City at (718) 217-LIRR; in Nassau at (516) 822-LIRR; and in Suffolk at (516) 231-LIRR.

New York Waterway will offer a combination round-trip ferry and show admittance tickets for $1 for adults and $6.50 for children, with an additional $1 charge for parking. More information is available by calling (800) 53-FERRY. New York terminal is located one block from the Javits Center.

Use the Web to get to the Auto Show

The New York International Automobile Show's comprehensive and user-friendly 1998 Web Site debuted at the end of January. With updated listings of all the cars scheduled to be displayed, this colorful site is a great way for car enthusiasts to gather information before and after the 1998 show.

The NYIAS Web Site provides extensive vehicle information on the latest models, up-to-date news regarding the cars and trucks unveiled at the show, event schedules and details on this year's collection of exciting interactive family attractions. Internet users simply "click" icons for show news, statistics and photos.

"We are offering enough entertainment and material on our new Web Site to satisfy both automotive enthusiasts and prospective car buyers," said Gary Schimmerling, president of the Greater New York Automobile Dealers Association, the entity that owns and manages the show. "Our site provides information on the attractions at the upcoming show and can also help prospective car buyers understand the myriad of new car options available in 1998."

"We communicate with a vast audience," said GNYADA Executive Vice President, Mark Schienberg. "When you consider the number of people we want to reach, and the amount of information that we have to offer, the Internet becomes the most efficient vehicle for both tasks. And while we can't duplicate the excitement of actually attending the show, our Web Site is the next best thing."

With more than one million visitors each year, the 1998 New York International Auto Show will be an impressive collection of cutting-edge design and remarkable innovation.
