Precedent allows methadone clinic relocation

By Philip Sean Curran

Staff Writer

Moments after the Union Township Zoning Board allowed the methadone clinic in Vauxhall to move to a remote industrial park area near the Springfield border, an attorney representing a coalition of Progress Street business owners vowed to appeal the board's decision.

At last Wednesday's meeting, the board followed an appellate court's decision in a similar case, one the clinic's attorney, Paul S. Werther, adduced. During the hearing, using that case to base its own decision, the board unanimously agreed that the clinic would be of a professional use.

In 1983, the court said a licensed ambulatory care facility "does not meet the definition of a hospital but is more similar in nature to a professional office." Because a professional office is a permitted use in the industrial Progress Street area, getting the variance became unnecessary.

"It's as if we are not two connecting towns, and we are. There's just no consideration on their part."

Judith Blitzer

Springfield Township Committee

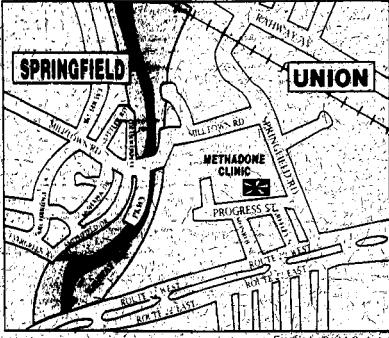

"I think the board made the proper decision," Werther said. As for what happens next, Werther said the clinic's new will make general improvements to the facility's new home.

Making those improvements, however, first requires site plan approval from the township's planning board. But Brian W. Fehy, representing the Progress Business Association, said the zoning board's decision is seriously flawed and myopic. "They opened a door to opening a methadone clinic where an office-building is," Fehy said. He plans to file his appeal soon.

A member of the business association said Union showed little regard for him or his neighbors. Many of them attended the zoning board meeting last week.

"We don't feel that the town is being very supportive of us," Eliot R. Baum and Barry, whose president of a Progress Street business, added. "It's not that someone like this can walk in and, through political pressure, alter the codes as he sees fit."

The township keeps a list of land uses that are prohibited within its borders, and among those are narcotics. See SPRINGFIELD, Page 3.

Committee addresses recreation, commuting

Update on the Clushman Community Center and the municipal minibus highlighted the Springfield Township Committee meeting Sept. 23.

Mayor S. Mulfiman announced that the Clushman Center will open Oct. 24. A range of celebratory activities including a ribbon-cutting ceremony is to be held throughout that weekend, but the schedule has not yet been finalized.

If you remember what the Clushman building looked like inside, you won't recognize it when you go in now," Mulfiman said. "It's gorgeous. They're ready to welcome citizens and have the inspectors go through.

The center, located on the westbound corner of Shumpike Road and South Springfield Avenue, has been under renovation for 12 months. The former Clushman School will become a fitness and recreation facility with a branch of the Sunrise Area YMCA as its tenant.

Addressing the township minibus, Committeeman Roy Hirschfeld said they are still waiting for the bus and operating contract from New Jersey Transit. Springfield's zone of five routes along or near the NJ Transit Morris and Essex Northern rail line, which received minus startup grants last June.

"NJ Transit and the buses are being built and we'd get one sometime in October," Hirschfeld said. "They told us we'd get a bus in July. And on Labor Day, we'll get the grant but we also want to see the contract before we start running."

Hirschfeld moved to create the position of park-and-ride administrator. The administrator will oversee the park-and-ride operation, field questions and make personnel or equipment decisions. The post requires 15 hours per week and pays $5,000 annually.

The minibus will make continuous runs between the municipal park-and-ride and the Stump Hills station during the morning and afternoon weekday rush hours. The park-and-ride is known as Duffy's Corner across from Coldwell Place on Morris Avenue.

"The job is to see if a substitute bus or driver is needed," Committeeman Bill

The New Jersey Organ and Tissue Sharing Network dedicated its new Springfield headquarters Sept. 23 at the end of an hour-long ceremony which included a tour of the facility.

Joseph Roth, executive director of the Sharing Network, dedicated the headquarters "to the memory of the New Jersey donors and their families who gave the gift of life." The building's dedication was unveiled on a plaque donated by Fleet Bank of North America.

Daniel P. Sullivan, chairman of the Union County Board of Trustees, and Assemblyman Al DeCicco, R-26, were among those in attendance at the dedication ceremony.

DeCicco and Assemblyman Joseph V. Dona Jr., D-3, had also sponsored a special resolution recognizing The Sharing Network's service to the residents of New Jersey in 1997.

Doug Taylor, whose son Fabian died eight years ago, spoke at the gathering of an organ donor. "I know I did the right thing. I firmly believe in organ donation," Taylor stated.

Audrey Mullinix, a donor recipient, said the donation of her kidney saved her life. "An incredibly generous family, in their darkest hour, donated the organs of a loved one," she said. This "ultimate act of charity" enabled her to look beyond living in life in segments, she said. "I used to think that if I could only live to see my children through grammar school, it would give them a solid foundation," she said. "Then I thought if I could only make it until they graduated from high school, they would be all right. Now I look forward to being a grandmother some day."

The Sharing Network is a non-profit procurement organization responsible for relocating organs and tissue for transplant.

The Mountaintop Police Department's Detective Bureau was recognized Sept. 23 for outstanding work in the apprehension and conviction of individuals involved in violent crimes.

Detective Lieutenant Richard O'Casey and Detective Sergeant Todd Turner were presented with plaques recognizing their work from Supervisory Inspector Joseph Fresco of the Newark Field Office of the United States Postal Inspectors.

"It is an outstanding award for two exceptional officers, and well deserved," said Mountaintop Police Department Chief James Debbie Jr.

The crime of identity theft involves usurping existing lines of credit such as a credit card or checking account or opening new credit accounts in another person's name. A thief can run up thousands of dollars in purchases or cash advances before detection.

The series of arrests and convictions began January 1998 and were worked in conjunction with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Postal Inspection Service, and the Union County Sheriff's Office. Debbie praised the interagency cooperation among these agencies and the Mountaintop Police.

According to Turner, almost 12 million may have been stolen over the last nine months and nine people have been arrested so far.

Generally, they try to wash fraudulent funds through the bank in the form of checks, or they get advanced credit cards, he stated.

Area residents can protect themselves from identity theft by taking some simple precautions, Turner said.

Draw a credit report from time to time from a major credit bureau and shred your mail before you throw it out.

In addition, he recommended that citizens keep dated birth, social security numbers and drivers' license numbers private, and that merchants ask for multiple proofs of identification to ensure that they are not dealing with an imposter.

Students learn how to recycle, reuse, reduce

By Craig Garretson

Staff Writer

Kindergarten students at Wilson School learned about recycling and pollution Sept. 23 with "Myrs Amazing Puppets," an educational and entertaining puppet show.

The program, funded by the Springfield Township Recycling Department, had two performances with approximately 150 students in attendance for each. The 45-minute program enthralled the young audience with sing-along and dancing life-sized puppets.

Children learned about sorting trash, the benefits of recycling, the effect of pollution on the planet and raising puppies to reduce waste. The second part of the show, "Life in the Forest," followed the story of forest creatures who worked together to clean up a polluted pond.

Myrs Negevben, the show's creator and main performer, has performed puppet shows for schools and organizations throughout New Jersey for 19 years.

Rucco said, "and to answer service questions from residents."

The petition was unanimously approved. Mullman also said Millburn Mayor Elaine Becker gave permission for the minister to park at the station. Service will be announced in advance and may start as early as Nov. 1.

An update on the Schiabili Oil property at 176 Mountain Ave. came in the form of a public question. Township Attorney Bruce Bergen said that negotiations are continuing between the Township and owner E.E. White.

"The question is over purchasing an adjacent property," Bergen said. "If the additional land is bought, fire trucks can turn around into the building instead of backing in."

The former oil company building located in the five corners section of town, is to be replaced by a new fire station. Schiabili's closed in the early 1990s.

The committee, among other measures, appointed Michael Mastroeni and Matthew Roth as members of the Springfield Volunteer Fire Company.

Stanley's restaurant in Springfield will continue serving its customers despite rumors that the business had been sold to a retail chain.

By Walter Elliott
Staff Writer

Stanley's restaurant will continue serving food to its loyal patrons, according to owner George Chloubs. Chloubs squashed a month-old rumor that the landmark Springfield restaurant had been sold. A story circled around the township that Stanley's was to be replaced by a Consumers Value Store or a Rite Aid for about $1.3 million.

Rite-Aid, CVS, Eckerd — who will be next week?" said Chloubs Friday. "I've in Union and I hear rumors like this one there too."

Chloubs said the story probably began with a real estate broker's query.

"I get letters from real estate brokers from Edison, Staten Island or elsewhere asking me if I would be interested in selling," Chloubs said. "Then they send someone to look at the zoning or tax maps in the town."

This being a small town, someone starts talking with someone else, and I get customers asking me if I sold," he said.

Chloubs bought Stanley's in 1988 after managing Kali's Diner in Irvington for 10 years. He has remodeled the restaurant and bought some additional adjacent land for possible expansion. That land does not include the wood-frame house on Morris Avenue next door, which was demolished last May.

"That house was empty for seven years," Chloubs stated. "It had weeds growing out the windows."

The Chloubs family bought more than a dozen homes.

They inherited several generations of customers who have eaten at the restaurant since the time it was called Sip and Sup. They have also received the attraction of brokers as the restaurant is at the crossroads of Morris, Springfield and Meisel avenues.

The block Stanley's sits on contains a mix of residential and commercial properties, including Dobb's Auto Body and Stahl's Landscaping garage. Parts of that same block, excluding Stanley's, are zoned for affordable housing. The local Board of Ethics has eyed the properties for senior citizen housing.

"I've heard the rumors, too," said Dobb's owner Brad Denning. "The only way I'd sell my place is if someone offered me a ridiculous amount of money. But what about my customers, some of whom have been coming for 30 years?"

"This is a business," said Chloubs. "If a major company offered a huge sum for the property, I'd have to think about it like any other businessman would. But this is a place which provides good service and has a good word of mouth."

CVS, Rite-Aid and other national pharmacies have been opening 10,000 square foot stand-alone stores throughout Union County. Rite-Aid has a store in the Echo Plaza Shopping Center on Route 22, and CVS is pursuing conversion of the old Carestates bank on Mountain Avenue.

"Our focus is on 225 Mountain Ave.," said Jeff Fisher, of CVS Real Estate Development. "We filed a suit against the township in appellate court concerning our site plan application on Sept. 21."

clines and the sale or display of narcotics paraphernalia," Werther argued, successfully, that his client did not run a narcotics clinic but a state-licensed medical facility.

Ultimately, and in taking little time, the board agreed.

News of the clinic relocation elicited various reactions, from euphoria to despair; almost from the day clinic owners agreed to move out of Vauxhall. Starting in February, the administration of Union Mayor Anthony Terrelza held negotiations with sides representing the clinic, which had called Vauxhall home for the past 25 years.

Township officials of every different political stripe have actively looked to move Suburban Treatment Associates out of Vauxhall, but efforts fell short until this year.

"I'm happy with the result," Terrelza said. "I think it was a good interpretation of the law."

At first, the clinic agreed to move into Progress Street, which is off Route 22, and rent space, but the owners decided to buy land instead.

Judith J. Blitzer said the decision had created a "terrible situation."

Feeling that Union concerns Springfield might have had, Blitzer said: "It's a fine deal. I'm very disappointed; really don't think it belongs there; it belongs in a hospital."

His colleague, Committeewoman Judith J. Blitzer, said the decision had created a "terrible situation."

Township officials of every different political stripe have actively looked to move Suburban Treatment Associates out of Vauxhall, but efforts fell short until this year.

Tissue donation organization opens Springfield building

The building now houses The Sharing Network's administrative offices, laboratory, the Lions Eye Bank of New Jersey and the New Jersey Chapter of Transplant Recipient International Organization with a total of 65 full-time employees.

Blitzer said that he was pleased to relocate within the township of Springfield where we have been successful for over 10 years. Previously, The Sharing Network had been located at 150 Morris Ave.

The increase in the number of transplants is a direct correlation to the number of people making the decision to sign organ donor cards," said Bill Reitman, clinical director of The Sharing Network. "We must continue our efforts to increase organ donation because of the many people still waiting. More of us need to sign donor cards and tell our families we want to be donors."

plant recipients. We are increasing our efforts to meet the needs of New Jersey residents.

There are currently more than 61,000 people on waiting lists for organ and tissue donations, including 1,500 New Jersey residents. In 1997, 338 transplants were performed in New Jersey last year, up from 315 in 1996. In the 10 years since The Sharing Network was founded, the number of organ transplants in the state has increased 371 percent.

COMMUNITY FORUM

Take part in the elections

In one-month, residents will have an opportunity to cast their vote for local and county offices. During the last few years, residents have had an opportunity to determine whether or not those seeking re-election should warrant another term, or if they should vote for a newcomer. One whose campaign literature no doubt will be appearing in their mailboxes.

Then's nothing worse than an uninformed voter casting a vote blindly. Voting is a right guaranteed in our Constitution, a right that should not be used casually. Voter turnout is waning, which makes an informed vote important.

Something a voter should look for in a candidate is his or her desire to work cooperatively with other members of the governing body in the best interests of the municipality, regardless of party affiliation.

So when you cast your votes on Nov. 3, be sure you are informed about all the candidates.

- Oct. 5 is the last day to register for the November elections.

- Oct. 27 is the last day to apply by mail for an absentee ballot.

- Nov. 2 is the last day to apply for an absentee ballot in person.

- Nov. 3 is the General Election. Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

- For information regarding civilian or military absentee ballots, nominating petitions and voter registration lists, call the Union County clerk at (908) 527-4996.

- To obtain election forms, call the Election Law Enforcement Commission at (609) 292-8700.

- For information on voting registration, call the Union County Board of Elections at (908) 527-4121; or the Division of Election at (609) 292-3671.

Learn the symptoms

October is National Domestic Violence Awareness Month, and in recognition of this ongoing problem, we want to focus on it.

First, readers must understand that domestic violence can take many forms and may involve physical and psychological abuse by a husband, boyfriend, wife, or significant-other.

To get a proper definition of domestic violence, we consulted "Domestic Violence: The Facts" — A Handbook to STOP Violence, which recommended asking oneself these questions to determine whether or not an act of violence has occurred:

Have you or someone you know ever experienced any of the following from a spouse or mate?

- Name-calling or put-downs?
- Isolation from family or friends?
- Withholding of money?
- Actual or threatened physical harm?
- Sexual assault?

These are examples of domestic violence, which includes partner violence, family violence, spouse abuse, child abuse, battering and wife beating. Approximately 95 percent of the victims of domestic violence are women. However, violence also happens in both gay and lesbian relationships, and in a small number of cases by women against men.

For our purposes, domestic violence will be defined as partner violence, violent or controlling behavior by a person toward a partner, usually a wife or girlfriend. Although the partner is the primary target, violence is often directed toward children as well, and sometimes toward family members, friends, and even bystanders in attempts to control their partner.

Domestic violence takes many forms. Although each situation is different, there are common warning signs — "red flag" behavior — to look for, including: destructive criticism/verbal abuse; pressure tactics; abusing authority; disrespect; abusing trust; breaking promises; emotional withholding; minimizing/denying and blaming; economic control; self-destructive behavior; isolation from friends and loved ones; harassment; intimidation; destruction of personal possessions; making and carrying out threats; sexual violence; physical violence; and possession and use of weapons with which to threaten you or your loved ones.

Knowing these signs is an important step in preventing and stopping violence.

School quality linked to more than test scores

A number of years ago, I was asked by a Springfield resident, "How does one judge the quality of a school or school system?"

As with most questions, there is a simple answer, which takes little thought — test scores. Naturally, there is also a more thoughtful response which takes account of many more factors:

Achievement as measured by test scores should always be one of the measures of a successful school, but one must realize that there is a strong correlation between socioeconomic status and high test scores. In Springfield where the average income is ranked in the middle to high income range, it is not surprising that the Jonathan Dayton High School graduating class of 1998 had a mean SAT score of 1048. It is also not surprising that more than 98 percent of the students pass the state graduation examination by the end of 11th grade, and our elementary school students score significantly above the national norm.

But even with such reputable scores, I would not venture to say the achievement is the direct result of our educational program. Although it is easy for any school system to take credit for the achievement results, these scores are more a factor of socioeconomic levels and good parenting practices than the product of a successful school system.

So then, how does one judge whether a school is successful? The answer lies in the responses to the following questions:

• How does the school adult program relate to its most needy students, as well as for its most academically talented?

• What is the staff's response to the emotional needs of the students, and is the staff client-oriented?

• Does the school offer a diversity of extracurricular programs that engage students in productive activities beyond academics?

• Does the school administration provide leadership that sets high expectations for student performance and an orderly and positive school environment?

• How are the parents involved in the education of their children, and are they involved and supportive of the school?

• What is the level of communication between the home and the school, and what is the level of responsiveness of the staff to parental concerns?

• As you assess the quality of your schools, don't look for a simple answer. The answers may lie in a much deeper analysis than just simple facts and figures — test scores, program, values, and state rankings.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Kindness saves the day

To the Editor:

Jim Harquail at Harquail Brothers in Summit is our hero. Just days before the annual Lincoln-Hubbard Elementary School block party, we called Jim in desperation to see if he had some large barbecue grills that the school could use at the party. More than 60 students, parents and siblings were planning to attend and we had just been informed rather matter-of-factly and without concern for the dilemma, by a welding company in a neighboring town, that the four grills we had specially ordered in June were not ready as promised. Jim Harquail cheerfully lent us the grills, delivered them, and saved the day. Jim, you have a standing invitation to our annual block party.

Springfield

Obviously, along with hiring someone eminently qualified for the position, they helped to garner the respect and voices of women and people who believed that qualified women should be represented and represented in government. Don't the women and girls of Union County deserve to see career choices where they can hope to succeed and serve their community? Don't stand in their way. Appoint more women to visible positions and give them contracts. We need role models like Carol Cohen.

"Take Your Daughter to Work Day" is so successful because people want their daughters, nieces, sisters and friends to know that if they work toward a goal, they will be successful. Ms. Cohen is a remarkable woman who has worked hard and earned the respect of the community. Extend the same consideration to the Freeholder Board who has done in the past with other County Councils. Don't "overlook" her. Grant her the four-year contract.

Hearings made no difference

To the Editor:

Stick White snookered the Republicans. The Democrats set the stage by pressuring television to hearings that turned out at worst, neutral for Clinton. Nothing new or unknown was divulged and I suspect no minds were changed.

Election coverage guidelines

Interest in all candidates' ability to provide the best service to our readers, and this newspaper has established guidelines and a schedule for coverage of general elections.

Under the guidelines, this newspaper is committed to specific elements of coverage. It will give background information about all known candidates, including stories on basic positions taken by each, and will write news stories on the issues raised during the campaign.

We also will highlight political events such as candidates nights and fund-raisers in newsletters. We will aim to stimulate discussion of the issues during election campaigns through independent research and initiative stories.

If appropriate, editorial endorsements will be made.

News releases and campaign position statements from candidates are welcome. They will be used at the editor's discretion and they will not necessarily be printed as such but may be used as material to develop news stories if the issues raised in them merit such treatment.

Story use, timing and treatment are at the discretion of the editor.

We will strive to avoid the initial raising of controversial or sensational issues in the final edition before election.

We aim to focus on what the voters needs to know and not on what the candidates want to say.

Our guidelines reflect the reader service objectives of this newspaper in elections. However, we will review our guidelines from time to time and revise them if necessary to better serve our readers.

Following is the schedule we will adhere to in the Nov. 3 elections.

Letters to the editor: Political letters and those of endorsement will be accepted up to and including the issue of Oct. 22. Letters may be printed or appear at a reporter's discretion.

Letters concluding more than 75 words will be edited for length. Letters without telephone numbers will not be considered for publication.

Candidate's corner: Candidates running for office will be given the opportunity to speak to the readers on these pages as they present their backgrounds, platforms and goals. Their columns will appear Oct. 22.

Our endorsements: Endorsement editorials will appear Oct. 22.

Staff-written round-up stories: A final look at the candidates, their platforms and goals, will appear Oct. 22.

Election results: Look for complete election results coverage Nov. 3.

Contract should accompany job

To the Editor:

I would like to discuss articles that appeared in the County News section of The Leader in August and September. It was reported that Carol Cohen, who was appointed in February, has been serving as acting county counsel without a contract since July. According to the article, Freeholder Board Chairman Daniel P. Sullivan "abstained the temporary duty to the summer 'doldrums.' It's my experience that business does not stand still in the summer."

Do we want county officials to work without a contract? How can you implement new ideas and make progress if you and your staff don't know from one day to the next who will be at the helm? How can you represent our clients, the people of Union County? It is a bad arrangement. If it's due to the "doldrums," it is now the beginning of October, and the contract matter should have been resolved at the freeholder meeting. Because it was not, it leads me to believe that "summer doldrums" was not the truth.

Carol Cohen has the intelligence, education and the experience for the job of county counsel. I have heard glowing reports that she cleaned up a number of administrative problems that plagued the office and has gained the respect and admiration of her staff. I spoke to Ms. Cohen and asked her about a comment made by a freeholder about salary demands. Ms. Cohen assured me that she has made no demands and has not asked for a penny more. The allegation that "she has been demanding a raise" is not true.

As more women are appointed to visible positions, they serve as role models for our young women. What should they aspire to? Here is a female attorney who has brought excellence to public service. I heard the freeholder board laud her praises as a lawyer and politician, and frankly put themselves on the back for appointing the first woman county counsel in the history of Union County.

We're asking

How long were you without power after the Labor Day storm?

Ravinder Singh

"Our store didn't lose power that Monday but we did for 2 hours on the following Wednesday. We couldn't operate the cash register or lights and we lost our milk and ice cream. We sold out on batteries, flashlights and candles."

Neal Bradley

"We closed early on when we lost cable because Monday Night Football is a key draw to the bar. When we got the cable back Tuesday, the power line in Echo Lake Park went down Wednesday. I don't blame the utility companies — they were doing what they could."

Gen. Police

"When the electricity went out Wednesday, our deli was lucky to have a wooden walk-in freezer to store our food. We weren't affected as badly as some other areas."

Utility work sparks string of false alarms

Work on utility poles outside some Morris Avenue businesses sparked three false alarm calls in 20 minutes to the Springfield Fire Department Sept. 21.

The trouble began at about 9:13 a.m. when a Morris Avenue business reported smoke in the building, bringing out the department. A second call for aid from another Morris Avenue business followed at 9:53 a.m. A few minutes later, at 9:57 a.m., another Morris Avenue business reported smoke in the building. At 11:03 a.m., the department again responded to a call from a Morris Avenue business for a burning odor.

An engine from the Union Fire Department moved into the Springfield Headquarters to offer mutual aid to help cope with the flood of calls — all of which turned out to be caused by maintenance work on some utility poles in the area.

All the incidents at Morris Avenue

that day were caused by the power company working outside on the poles," said Springfield Fire Chief William Gras. "That caused the HVAC units to smoke the building out. There were no fires in any of these buildings, it just was difficult trying to track down the source of smoke."

Within minutes of arriving, at Springfield's fire engine unit, investigating a complaint from Springfield Town Hall that there was smoke in the building. At about 7:36 a.m., Springfield firefighters investigated Town Hall after receiving another report of an unusual odor. Both of these complaints also turned out to be false alarms.

All units were in action Sept. 26 for a kitchen fire in a Forest Drive apartment at 2:32 p.m.

Two fire alarms brought the department to action Sept. 26. At 12:25 a.m., firefighters inspected Springfield Town Hall for the cause of an activated fire alarm. At 2:31 a.m., the department responded to a township school for an activated fire alarm.

Springfield's bravest also saw some dangerous duty Sept. 23. The day began at 7:33 a.m. with a motor vehicle accident on Route 78 West. At 12:35 p.m., firefighters responded to an activated fire alarm from a residence on Caldwell Place. The department responded to a brush fire on Route 24 West at 1:53 p.m., then a reported car fire at a Mountain Avenue residence at 8:20 p.m. At 8:25 p.m., the department investigated a report of smoke in a Route 22 business basement.

Speaking before the Springfield Chamber of Commerce Sept. 24, Rowley said a New York City gang may be striking local Chinese restaurants for cash and produce. The robbery may be cyclical as a similar string occurred a few years ago.

The Chinese restaurant on Route 22 West was burglarized before 1:45 a.m. Sept. 9. About $500 in cash, an office safe and 25 cases of shrimp were stolen.

Three cars were damaged after a driving lesson apparently went wrong.

POLICE BLOTTER

on Route 22 Saturday. Two of the cars, a Ford Wagon and a Toyota Camry, were waiting for space at the Sneaker Stadium parking lot when a third car entered Juniper Place from Route 22 West against a "Do Not Enter" sign at about 11:39 a.m.

The third car, a Ford Thunderbird, then turned into the Sneaker Stadium lot and struck the other two cars. The Thunderbird was being driven by a Jersey City woman with a driving permit.

Police charged the driver for going the wrong way on a one-way street and for careless driving. The Thunderbird was towed away.

Three auto vehicle burglaries which occurred Aug. 24 may have been done by the same person or group. All three incidents occurred on Route 22 between 6:30 and 11:30 p.m.

The first report came from a man who parked his car in a Route 22 West lot. He found his driver's side door lock and window broken at about 6:35 p.m. A $300 AM/FM cassette stereo was taken and the dashboard damaged.

A driver who parked in the rear of Route 22 East returned to find her car broken into at about 11:20 p.m. While a passenger side window was smashed, its dashboard was damaged and a $900 AM/FM compact disc player was taken. Between was the report of a 1988 Honda entered while parked near Route 22 West at Echo Plaza and suffered about $150 in damages.

Parishioners walk to combat hunger

The 4- and 5-year-old children of Faith Nursery School, a ministry of Faith Lutheran Church, kicked off the 1998 CROP Walk Against Hunger Sept. 28 by participating in their own mini-CROP walk several days before the actual walk. The children began their walk at the Corner Cafe in New Providence, continued to the corner of South Street and Springfield Avenue and then headed over to Friendly's for ice cream.

The 1998 CROP Walk will be held Sunday at 1:30 p.m. with the three-mile walk beginning at United Methodist Church in New Providence. The CROP Walk is open to people of all ages, and entire families are encouraged to walk together. Churches participating in the year's walk include Our Lady of Peace Roman Catholic Church; St. Andrew's Episcopal Church; United Methodist Church; Faith Lutheran Church; Little Flower Catholic Church; Westminster Presbyterian Church; St. John's Lutheran Church; and Calvary Episcopal Church in Summit.

The total amount raised by last year's CROP Walk was in excess of $11,000 and the goal for the 1998 Walk is $15,000. Of the funds raised in the walk, 25 percent will be donated to St. John's Soup Kitchen in Newark. The balance will be given to Church World Service.

Beginning this year, in addition to gathering donations from sponsors, each walker will be asked to provide one item of non-perishable goods for the food pantry at Our Lady of Peace Roman Catholic Church in New Providence. Especially needed are coffee, canned fruit, tuna and salmon, jelly, peanut butter, macaroni and cheese, canned meat, bath soap and toilet paper.

Anyone wishing to make a donation to the food pantry should call Our Lady of Peace Roman Catholic Church at (908) 464-7600. Any community member who would like to walk or to sponsor a walker should contact the walk coordinator, Karen Bier of Faith Lutheran Church, at (908) 322-1693. More information on the CROP Walk Service may be obtained by calling (800) 456-1310.

So much for school schedules being 100 percent correct.

Both the Hillsides and GL Tool ball schedules had last week's game scheduled at Hillsides.

The Dayton schedule had its game at Manville moved to be played on Saturday, Sept. 26.

Instead, Hillsides played at GL and Dayton played at Manville, not last Saturday night, but last Friday night.

Seems like this happens every year.

Union is 2-0 for the first time since 1994 as it has outscored two opponents by a 79-0 margin so far.

Elizabeth's loss to Plainfield last Friday night was its first at home in the regular season since falling to Union 28-21 at Williams Field in 1994, also the last season that Elizabeth failed to make the state playoffs in North Jersey, Section 2, Group 4. Elizabeth went 7-2 that season, losing home games to Linden and Union, who were two of the four playoff teams in the section that year.

Elizabeth had won 16 consecutive regular-season home games prior to falling to Plainfield. The Minutemen won their final home game in 1993 and then went 3-0 at home in the regular season in 1993, 4-0 in 1996, 5-0 in 1997 and Elizabeth won its home-opener this year against Dickinson of Jersey City.

Roselle Park is 0-2 for the first time in the 1998, having fallen to Mountain Valley Conference Valley Division foes Ridge and New Providence.

Roselle is off to a convincing 2-0 start, having outscored its first two opponents by an impressive 61-13 margin. The Rams, who play Governor Livingston (0-2) this Saturday in Berkeley Heights, are on track to gain their first state playoff appearance since the 1990 season.

Dayton High School standout junior running back B.J. Jones scored one touchdown on a 74-yard run and rushed for 174 yards on 22 carries to help lead the Bulldogs to a 13-6 win at Manville last Friday night in Mountain Valley Conference Valley Division action.

Dayton has already captured more matches than last year

Squad posts three consecutive victories

These days, hope and optimism have been the prevalent feelings around the Dayton High School girls' soccer program.

In their first four games of the season, the Bulldogs have already won nine games (three), then all of last year, (two).

"The kids are little bit more enthusiastic," said head coach Joe Cozza, his team comprised of mostly freshmen and sophomore residents who attend Bearcat and Kenilworth residents who attend Bearcat.

"They have a lot of confidence, last year, it took us 11 games to win one game, so this is a plus for them," Cozza said.

"After being trounced by Mountain Valley Conference powerhouse Johnson 5-0 on the road in the season opener, Dayton rallied off three straight victories."

"We're on a little bit of a roll," said Cozza, whose team was 2-1 last season.

"The game starting enthusiasm was just sweeped away by Bearcat, Snyder, and Kenilworth who is the other senior on the team," Cozza said.

"Freshmen Esther Alzemberg of Springfield and Sabrina Bensky of Kenilworth have also been really as starting halfbacks."

"Along with Lorraine Johnson, former forward, Savana Rizzo of Kenilworth has been making a significant impact up front while juniors Kristen Burns and Magda Sliwinski, both of Kenilworth, have been steady in the middle," Cozza said.

The reserves are contributing as well, led by sophomore halfback Lindsay Detocer and junior halfback Michelle Santoro, both from Springfield.

"We're doing the little things on the field," Cozza said. "We're not a real fitness-type of team. We're more of a running type of team. We're doing a lot of the star stuff, such as winning and netting the game-winner on a penalty kick in overtime."

Steady goalkeeper Maria Stavano, one of two seniors, has been nothing short of sensational, posting the shutouts over Hillsides and North Plainfield. She has stopped 12 shots to help the Bulldogs in their win over Russell Park.

the 50-50 balls. We're a scrappy team."

That scrappiness stems from the Bulldogs' stingy defensive play.

"We're a gritty team," Cozza said. "We seem determined to play solid defense. We're not a scoring team, by any means. If we could score a couple of goals and hold the other team down, we're going to win."

If we start winning in the close games, we'll have a decent record. If we start losing the close games, that could turn our season the other way, like last year, when we lost a lot of close games."

The Bulldogs understand the season is far from over, with a busy week that began Monday at Manville and resumes today at New Providence and tomorrow against Oak Knoll at home.

"I think the Bulldogs are satisfied," Cozza said.

"We're hoping to play better," Cozza said. "I think that's the key for us. We're hoping the renewed confidence will pick up our level."

"I tell the kids, we're looking to roll up our sleeves and get a little bit more involved."

Lorraine scored again for Dayton in the first half of Monday's game at Manville, but then her team rallied for three goals and a 3-1 win. Dayton fell to 3-2 with the defeat.

Upcoming: Oct. 1 at New Providence; Oct. 2 at Oak Knoll; Oct. 3 at Bound Brook; Oct. 4 at Millville; Oct. 5 at Bearcat; Oct. 6 at North Plainfield; Oct. 7 at Linden.

Detocer, Burns, and Sliwinski are the stars of the team.

Sometimes a loss is a good loss.

Take the case of the Dayton High School football team. The Bulldogs, bigger and stronger, believed they were going to make mince meat of their season-opening opponent, Bound Brook.

Instead, it was Dayton that received the rude awakening, suffering a 41-0 defeat on the road.

Because we got so much bigger and stronger, I think they thought they were going to go out there and be better, just on their size," Dayton head coach Sal Minicella said. "And I think the Bound Brook game kind of woke them up, saying they still needed the same intensity and toughness as we played at the end of last year. So I think that was really an important loss, because we learned some valuable lessons."

High School Football

Those lessons were put to use last Friday night, as the visiting Bulldogs came away with a 13-6 victory over Manville in Mountain Valley Conference Valley Division action.

The game wasn't as close as the score indicates. The Bulldogs amassed a whopping 341 total yards and missed several scoring chances in a scoreless first half.

Manville, though, struck first with a 35-yard touchdown via the pass in the third quarter. The ensuing extra-point kick failed.

After the teams exchanged possessions, the Bulldogs seized the momentum, thanks to sophomore Justin Hunter's 30-yard punt return that brought the ball to the Manville 14-yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, junior fullback Matt Fischer followed superb blocking from junior linemen Charlie Bevier and Justin Azran, a sweep and run and snuffed it in the end zone. Junior Dan D'Antonio added the extra point kick to give the Bulldogs a 7-6 lead in the third.

Defensively, the Bulldogs did not allow a first down via the run and came up big on critical plays down the stretch. In the fourth quarter, Manville had the ball on the Dayton 30-yard line, but the Dayton defense came up with two sacks that drove Manville back to its own 45-yard line, snuffing out the scoring opportunity ...

Dayton took possession after the ensuing punt. On the first play from scrimmage, junior fullback B.J. Jones ran for a 90-yard touchdown with five minutes remaining. The extra-point kick was a miss.

The Bulldogs shut down Manville the rest of the way to seal the victory. "Coming off our first week, we were wondering if we were going to win a game," Minicella said. "The kids did a great job during the week and I was really pleased with the attitude that we had. We really had a nice, buy ride home."

Jones, who rushed for 80 yards in the Bound Brook game, finished with a game-high 174 yards rushing on 22 attempts.

"He's a stud," Minicella said of Jones. "Fourteen years as a head coach and he's been the best fullback I've ever coached. He's still young, but he has very good natural instincts."

Fischer rushed for 65 yards on 13 carries. Junior quarterback Lorenzo Williams was 3-for-11 passing for 92 yards.

"We're really dominant," Minicella said. "That's more important to us than the score because we know we're capable. We can still really good things."

Up next for the Bulldogs is their home-opener against this Saturday at Melsel Field at 1 p.m. against Mountain Valley Conference Valley Division foe Roselle Park.

Last season, the Panthers took advantage of a strong second half en route to a 33-0 victory.

"We're going to have to hang around with them physically," Minicella said. "They're big and they have tough kids. We played pretty well for a half last year and then we came out in the second half and kind of fell apart. If we can stay in the toughness level of it, then we're capable of, then I think it's going to be a pretty good football game."

On the bright side, the Bulldogs are 2-0 and the Panthers are 1-1.
