Township: DARE program will continue, even!

Parents have expressed concern that the program stopped in mid-stream and the children are feeling that. Parents think it's a bad message.

—Denise Zimmer, DARE New Jersey

stream and the children are feeling that. Parents think it's a bad message," said DARE New Jersey representative Denise Zimmer, adding that she has received six or seven calls from Springfield residents sharing their concerns about the program's interruption.

DARE New Jersey oversees the delivery and management of DARE in municipalities throughout the state. The office is charged with the responsibility of delivering the copyrighted DARE America program and ensuring it is being taught the way it was designed and researched.

According to Zimmer, the program was designed to encompass all 17 weeks, not only to cover the curriculum, but also to build a relationship between officer and the students.

"The building up of the relationship, and the delivery and reinforcement of the message culminates in a special closing ceremony," she said. "The students have the opportunity to show that they've learned this important lesson and they are proud of it, and that they made a friend in the DARE officer."

DARE New Jersey serves as a resource for school districts and police departments. "We have not made any contact at this point because I have not been notified that the program is not going to be completed this year," Zimmer said, referring to communication with the Springfield Police Department.

Although DARE New Jersey can sometimes supply DARE officers from the county or the state to serve locally should circumstances arise, as of Tuesday afternoon, Zimmer had not been contacted by members of the Springfield Police Department.

"They truly believe in this and are devastated that they cannot teach this program," said Karen Stock, wife of a DARE officer and mother of two Springfield elementary school students.

Parents have expressed concern that the program stopped in midstream, later, the eighth-grade program. "The concept is beneficial," said McMahoney. "It is not only relating to drug information but also relating to current events."

But McMahoney does not need to worry about the St. James DARE program. The department's scheduling changes did not affect the Wednesdays mornings that McMahoney spends at the Catholic school.

"I think it can be worked out, let's priority for the department," said McMahoney, adding that the department is looking to train additional officers so scheduling changes to include DARE would become more flexible.

DARE programs have been employed in municipalities since the late 1960s.

Townships rally for jitney keys

By Walter Elliott
Staff Writer

Springfield got its jitney and a share of NJ Transit's limelight March 25. NJ Transit Acting Executive Director Stanley Rosenblum presented ignition keys to Springfield Mayor Gregory Clarke and representatives of five other towns set to start their jitney services Monday.

It is appropriate to launch the Morris & Essex Main bus Challenge Grant program in this area," Rosenblum said in front of the Municipal Building, "as it has a history of transportation innovation. When the Morris & Essex Turnpike opened in 1801, Springfield built the Shunpike to get around the tolls. Thomas Edison, from nearby West Orange, ran the first electric train on the Morris & Essex line."

Rosenblum handed keys to Clarke, Chatham Township Mayor Joseph Reilly, East Orange Mayor Robert Bowser and Maplewood Township Committeewoman Ellen Davenport. They later boarded a 30-foot Ford bus for a simulated run to Short Hills Station.

They represented towns who each received a $100,000 and a $30,000 startup grant from NJ Transit. The transit authority was looking for the six best municipal proposals, which can alleviate parking shortages along the Morris & Essex, tall-tale Awarde-Berkley Heights withdrew from the program in February.

"We thank you for the bus and operating grant," Clarke said. "This is another means for us to provide service to our residents. We have spent the better part of two years trying to solve a problem our residents never have complained about."

Springfield does not have direct access to the Morris & Essexline. Riders have increased since introduction of NJ Transit Direct service in June 1996. The resulting parking demand has squeezed some Springfield commutes from spaces in Summit and Millburn.

Starting 6 a.m. Monday, a 30-foot, 20-seat Ford minibus will pickup passengers at Duffy's Corner and deliver them 1.7 miles away at Short Hills station. The load-and-go routing is to run on 15-minute cycles until 6:45 a.m. and repeat from 4:45 to 8 a.m. Daily during the work week.

One-way fares are $2 but yearly permits and passes are available from the Municipal Building. Annual fees are $700 for a pass and $50 for a Duffy's Corner parking badge.

There are 56 spaces designated for the Duffy's park and ride. The spaces and passes are, according to a Springfield press mailing, on a priority and space available basis.

Duffy's Corner is across from Caldwell Place on the north side of Morris Avenue. Its new bus has upset several Morris Avenue merchants who say jitney parkers will take away spots for their customers. Restaurant owner James Wen said the spaces, which he calculated are going for 14 cents a day, also are necessary for his meeting the Planning Board's parking requirements.

Springfield's jitney is actually the third of the challenge grant group to enter service. Chatham Township's bus has been making its rounds since March 15 and Maplewood's Wyoming area has been serviced since November. West Orange and East Orange are hoping to start by mid-April, pending bus delivery and finalizing of details.

"Our first day was during the snowstorm," Chatham Township Administrator Ken Henick said. "We started on time and actually had customers on our route. I wish we can have a park-and-ride like Springfield, but we don't have the space."

Call (973) 912-2200 for Springfield jitney details.

Toastmasters vie for local honors

By Walter Elliott
Staff Writer

There was a battle-like tilt in David versus Goliath within the Schering-Plough - Kentwood headquarters March 25. It was not a boardroom struggle but a competition among four local Toastmasters clubs for area honors.

"I've been a member of the Westfield Toastmasters for five years," said Crawford of Elizabeth. "I joined the club to become a more effective speaker and I work hard to maintain that goal."

I think Noel, Anne Baker, and myself will do well," Westfield club official Bill Herdell said. "This is the third year when the clubs hold competitions and we frequently compete."

Crawford, Baker and Herdell were judged for their poise and evaluative abilities. Their club was pitted against the Conquerors, Gavelers and Websiders.

These had been known for two months about ACME closing. "There are a lot of people around here in their 80s and 90s who depended on ACME. We need a convenience store stocking 100 items or so to have no grocery in the area."

ACME's closure leaves Springfield with two supermarkets — a Foodtown on Morris and Mountain avenues and a ShopRite on Morris Turnpike and Broad Street. Both groceries are about two miles away from Echo Plaza.

"I have shopped there too, and can understand my neighbor's problems," Herdell said. "We can look into making a run to ShopRite or Southgate with our senior citizens here."

Herdell's comments were made during a 12-organization meeting of Toastmasters clubs, a division of South Springfield Avenue, held at the ACME former home and what previously was "a great place to do business," Herdell said.

"They had been polite when we came in and we had a good time," Herdell said.

"It is something as a governing body, we have no control over welcome members who live or work in the area. The free range accounts for some members trailing from Edison and Edgewater. Krauskopf is the area governor and the contest's chairwoman.

Crawford opened her five-minute presentation with "Who, me, give a speech?" Armed by a flip chart to the 25-member audience, she outlined the five elements of speaking preparation. When finished, the five-contest judges quietly marked their ballots.

The procedure was repeated in the other three contests. Baker, singing show tune excerpts, demonstrated the vocal ranges, tones and places in public speaking. Noreen Ryan of Cranford recalled her first completed group trip to Paris and Madrid. Sandra of Edgewater discussed how to rejuvenate a Toastmasters club.

Then it was the evaluation turn to compete. Herdell and two competitors watched and listened to Max Halorville's presentation on exercise. When Halorville of Edison was finished, the three evaluators took two minutes apiece appraising his speech.

Herdell ended up first alternate to 37-year Toastmaster Jim Friend. Should Friend or running mate Vicki Vinkler of Woodbridge be unable to make the state divisional competition this month, Herdell will go in their stead. Baker and Crawford, in their first competition, placed 2-2 in the speech contest.

"You've seen half of what's in a Toastmasters meeting," Herdell said. "Our weekly meetings have wide topics and feature speeches. We just moved over Thursday evenings from the First Savings Bank in Woodbridge to the Sunbeam Auditorium in Cranford."

Senior project benefits borough hospital

By Pamela Isaacson

Staff Writer

"I'm excited, but completely unknowning as to what lies ahead," can't even guess how this project will affect me, but I have a feeling it will."

So far, it has.

Summit High School senior Marissa Kellogg made this prediction in her journal entry Feb. 22, the night before she began tutoring at the In-Patient Classroom at Children's Specialized Hospital in Mountainside for her Wise Instructional Senior Experience, Inc. project.

"It's inspirational to see kids dealing with problems that I can never imagine having. I had two knee surgeries and that was hard enough. Their lives have been altered and they handle it amazingly well," said Kellogg, a basketball and softball player. "They are so strong to be dealing with all they deal with."

A second semester senior who plans to attend Yale University in the fall, Kellogg chose to work at the hospital for WISE, a program designed for seniors as an interactive enrichment activity that allows students to explore career options and additional fields of interest.

"While I'm teaching, I hear the breathing machines," Kellogg described. "It's disconcerting and kind of uncomfortable, but I have to try to overcome it."

For three hours each Tuesday morning, Kellogg tutors inpatients in math or English or practices reading with them. "They work really hard, but I can tell they are not happy to be there," she said.

She described one 11-year-old girl from Newark who had been chased by two Rottweilers and consequently hit by a car. "I'd be angry at the world if that happened to me! That's like a story that would be on the 10 o'clock news," Kellogg wrote.

Kellogg said she has realized differences between the education she has received as a lifetime resident of Summit and that of this student, who attended public schools in Newark.

"That's the thing that bothered me the most. There is a totally different reading level; I wish something more could be done for schools in Newark and other inner cities," she wrote in her journal. "It's really huge — the levels of education between Summit versus inner city schools. It's not fair."

Adds with varying injuries come different levels of coherence and capability, Kellogg described another child who constantly drifts in and out of consciousness. This child, who Kellogg estimates is between the ages four and five, is securely fastened in a wheelchair and feeds through a tube in her nose.

"I think her mother was there with her last week and she was working so hard to try to make her daughter happy. The woman amazed me with her positive helpfulness. I don't know if I could ever do that if my daughter was in such a state," Kellogg stated.

Each WISE student selects an SHS faculty member as a mentor to meet with on a weekly basis. Kellogg's mentor, Eleanor Haugh, clairvoyant of the English Department, will utilize WISE as a program designed to maintain the interest of second semester seniors. Their bodies are here, but their minds are gone," Haugh said.

When Kellogg returns to the high school on Tuesday afternoons, she is often disgraced. "I'm in a race for them" of the day. Working at the hospital is really draining.

WISE projects culminate with final presentations in May and June.

Easter celebrations hop along in township

By Walter Elliott
Staff Writer

The Easter Bunny was busy in Springfield Saturday morning and appears to be on a hectic schedule in this area until Sunday. The famed rabbit last appeared at Clifsholt Park behind the Community Center, where he let loose some 100 children on the field to start the annual egg hunt on Saturday.

It was the first time we held the hunt here, Springfield Recreation Director Mike Tannari said. "We had that the (Audience) School last year because that's the location here and before that, on the Municipal Building front lawn. It's an annual event to celebrate the arrival of spring."

The Easter Bunny — or a close relative — was found in the basement auditorium of St. James the Apostle Church 30 minutes later. He sat on the stage, attending to some 170 children and adults eating breakfast and taking turns at the Easter egg patch, before him.

The patch is small, so we call children up by their table," Father Robert Stagg said. "They also wait for us to number to have their picture taken with him. If a虔euse was to visit Holy Week."

Father Stagg's comments reflect the dual meaning of what is called Easter. The world's view is the Earth's annual post-sunset reawakening. Before long, members from groups like the Mountainside Garden Club and the Springfield Beautification Committee will cultivate flowers in public spaces.

A religious New Jersey on the death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. Several churches in Springfield and Mountainside have held Lenten meals and special services leading to Easter.

Most churches are holding sunrise services Sunday. The Mountainside Chapel plays a joint worship with four other area churches at Washington Rock State Park in Warren at 6:30 a.m. One of the churches, Alliance Baptist in Warren, will be the alter-cate site should rain fall on the area. Call Mountainside Chapel at 905-232-3456 for update.

Other sunrise services are listed to home Springfield's Emanuel United Methodist and Presbyterian churches will hold a joint sunrise ceremony at Church Hall at 7:30 a.m. The congregations appear in their respective pulpits between 7:15 a.m., but not before having a breakfast at the Presbyterian Parish Hall.

The Evangelical United Methodist Church and Presbyterian Church of Springfield, said to be joined at 9:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. 379-4322 respectively.

Some of the smaller churches like the Antioch Baptist Church of Springfield, held their sunrise ceremony at their sanctuary at 6:30 a.m. Antioch has re-opened at 9:30 a.m. 379-4331. A few more churches are holding worship services and masses at their dormitories. In the case of St. James, it will debut the children's choir and baptismal font.

St. James and Our Lady of Lourdes of Mountainside are among the few churches holding an Easter Vigil Mass on Saturday at 7:30 p.m. Both are scheduled to hold Good Friday masses including the stations of the cross. While Our Lady of Lourdes will hold its stations at 7:30 p.m., St. James will have an outdoor version at 8 p.m. and a living stations session at 7:30 p.m.

Evangel Baptist Church joins in with their annual "Walk Through the Bible" program at about 1 p.m. Endless. The interactive sound and light show is for young children between three and 10 years old with the Easter service. Call 973-379-4331 for details. Several churches hold Holy Thursday observances tonight. Our Lady of Lourdes is to hold a Mass of the Lord's Supper at 7:30 p.m. St. James and St. Rose of Lima of Short Hills combine for a devotional reconciliation service at St. Rose at 7:30 p.m.

Our Lady of Lourdes can be called at 1908-232-1621. St. James main number is 973-379-4344.

Safety regulation deserves support

The Federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration has implemented a new regulation for fire departments while combating structural fires. The "two-in, two-out" rule, adopted by New Jersey and 26 other states, mandates that blazing buildings be approached by two firefighters entering the structure while two others remain outside as a backup team.

"All are required to have self-contained breathing apparatus, and these first four firefighters are prohibited from undertaking any other tasks at the scene."

The new regulation is intended to promote fewer accidents and injuries to firefighters who must enter dangerous buildings to extinguish a blaze. With this rule, no one is given the opportunity to behave foolishly, take unnecessary risks or try to be a hero. If the team entering the building gets into trouble, the second pair is on deck to go in as a rescue squad.

The "two-in, two-out" rule is a good one. Common sense dictates that anyone entering a potentially dangerous situation, such as that of a burning building, should have some sort of a backup plan at the ready. Too often we hear of firefighters being injured or even killed in the line of duty, and these incidents are even more tragic when we learn that an ounce of prevention could have saved someone from harm.

Local fire departments, especially those smaller forces which are fully or partially dependent on volunteers, have expressed concern about how to supply the manpower needed to adhere to the "two-in, two-out" rule. To address this issue, area fire chiefs have met to work out a mutual aid arrangement.

We applaud the efforts of fire chiefs who are stressing the importance of occupational safety by supporting the new regulation, and we urge departments to work together for strong mutual aid agreements so the daily tasks of local firefighters are a little safer.

Season of triumph

This Sunday, Christians throughout the world will celebrate the joyous holiday of Easter.

Easter is perhaps the most significant holiday on the Christian calendar, for without Christ's triumph over the grave through His resurrection, He would have been perceived as a mere mortal man. The fulfillment of the prophecies predicting that the Messiah would rise from the dead on the third day, galvanized His followers and cemented what would become the Christian church.

But what of those early believers in the days, weeks, months and years following that first Easter? Although covered at length in the New Testament, the plight of those early Christians is something of which we tend to lose sight.

The path of their new faith was fraught with persecution and, in many ways, their story mirrors Christ's. Like Christ, they understood the hatred and vilification that comes with ignorance and a fear of the unknown and the different. Like Christ, many of them were tried, convicted and executed for crimes no greater than disturbing the status quo. And, like Christ, they — as a spiritual force — "rose from the dead" to triumph over those who would persecute them.

His lesson of sacrifice is at the center of the Christian faith, expressed however more eloquently in the passage "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son," a Son who would suffer persecution, indignities and ultimately death so that we may live. This philosophy is echoed by Christ Himself when he said, "Greater hath no man than this: that he lay down his life for his brothers."

These ancient lessons carry a resonance which should be felt by Christians every day, and it is at Easter in particular that we reflect on the triumph over persecution, over adversity and ignorance and, indeed, over death itself. For the driving force of Christians is the promise of life everlasting and the knowledge that the grave cannot hold us captive.

We wish all those celebrating the Easter season a joyous time of reflection on love, on faith, on hope and on triumph.

Judge student-athletes by ability, not parents

We live in a small town called Mountainside and because of our size, there is only one grammar school. K.W. The purpose for my writing this is to describe the practice of having a parent coach one of the school's sport teams. This is a parent who has social connections to many of the families in our little town, and also I might add a child playing on the team.

What happens is that parents are held, and children should be, as any reasonable person would believe, selected on skills and ability. It seems that "when your parents are in our little community" significantly enters into the decision-making process.

I never realized this was a problem, quite for making the team. I will admit that is not the case for the majority of the team. Moreover, this practice dissolves many of the children from attempting to try out for the team, knowing what the end result would be.

As an attempt to put an end to this dilemma, some concerned parents with Mountainside's school board administrator this past November on the possibility of finally advertising the coaching position in the Star Ledger. I can honestly say an attempt was made to hire the most recent baseball coach through this process.

What is puzzling though is that there were eight interested applicants for the position. However, in the end, someone from within the community was selected. Let me say for the record though, the selected coach does have a son on the team who deserves to be on the team. No matter how hard this coach tries to separate his biases, his decisions are still ruled by certain associations in our little community. This is normal human behavior.

Just ask the deserved children who did make the team. Ask them their thoughts on who they think should be there. This would be based upon the child's performance during the three days of so-called tryouts. It seems that children who were missing routine grounders, pop-ups or striking out at the plate made the team. Others who made contact with the ball, fielded successfully every ball hit to them and ran the bases with authority did not make the team.

These are criteria that I would view as the basis for selection. These children are obviously smart enough to realize who deserves to be on the team and who doesn't. The coach must think the parents don't know the ability of each player selected and is trying to sell us the fact his decisions were made solely on skill and ability.

What he doesn't realize though is many of us have observed these children since the age of seven, know their strengths and weaknesses and know what children have caught up to and surpassed in skill and ability; but yet are denied the opportunity to be given a chance.

The solution is this. The Mountainside school board must demand the chief school administrator recruit well in advance, via every means possible, for a qualified individual with no connection to the community. The duties and responsibilities should be spelled out in the job description. Another important item that must be emphasized is the time commitment required of the coach.

Another means would be to solvex the many colleges and universities in the surrounding area for potential candidates, as well as contacting Governor Livingston High School for interested and qualified individuals. This way, finally, a team will be chosen based upon skills and ability, as it should be.

The only way a local parent should coach a team is if the program is an honorary because of a lack of qualified candidates.

Point Of View

By Anthony J. DiVito

At his March 19 press conference, President William Jefferson Clinton defended his proposal to commit U.S. ground troops to action in Kosovo in terms hauntingly reminiscent of those used by an earlier president, Lyndon Baines Johnson, to defend his proposal to commit U.S. ground troops to combat in Vietnam.

Quinn Bill Clinton on March 19,

This is a conflict with no natural boundaries. It threatens our national interests. If it continues, it will push refugees across borders and draw in neighboring countries. It will undermine the credibility on NATO — on which stability in Europe and our own security depend! It will likely reignite the ethnic animosities, including those that could embroil Albania, Macedonia, Greece, even Turkey. And these divisions will have the potential to make the next century as violent one for that part of the world that straddles Europe, Asia and the Middle East. Domine, tenebrae.

It will undermine the credibility on NATO — on which stability in Europe and our own security depend! It will likely reignite the ethnic animosities, including those that could embroil Albania, Macedonia, Greece, even Turkey. And these divisions will have the potential to make the next century as violent one for that part of the world that straddles Europe, Asia and the Middle East. Domine, tenebrae.

With full benefit of hindsight, it is relatively easy to recognize what went wrong in Vietnam. Although an in-depth analysis would take volumes, the following goes something like this:

"We could have succeeded in imposing our will upon the North Vietnamese had we been willing to employ an unlimited amount of force."

In the face of potential massive intervention by Red China, it seemed unlikely for us to incur the risks that use of unlimited force might entail.

Therefore, President Johnson would have been better advised in not retreating from civil war which we were not going to affect in any decisive manner. Others may prefer a different synthesis, but at least the one gives us a starting place.

Have we learned anything at all during the ensuing 35 years? We know now that, in the late 1960s, Bill Clinton vowed that he "loathed the military," helped organize demonstrations on foreign soil against U.S. efforts in Vietnam, and evaded — as opposed to avoided — any personal military service. Now, somehow, knowing this, in the late 1990s, Bill Clinton vowed that he "loathed the military," helped organize demonstrations on foreign soil against U.S. efforts in Kosovo, and evaded — as opposed to avoided — any personal military service. Now, somehow, he is at risk again.

Mr. President, in view of your own unwillingness to perform military service when called, would your please describe for us the aspects of that difference which make your willingness to risk the lives of American military personnel at risk in 1999?

Mr. President, how do you assure people whose lives will be placed at risk that you are not going to repeat the mistake that your predecessor, President Lyndon Johnson, made in sending 500,000 in Vietnam?

In view of this, where we will all become something blue in the face, should we decide to hold off on the peace talks while waiting for Bill Clinton to provide satisfactory answers. As the New York Times commented editorially about our president last December — even though opposing impeachment on the charges of perjury and obstruction of justice — "He is, in sum, a man you cannot trust whether you have his handshake, his signature or his word on a Bible."

The U.S. military has always performed and will always perform as directed by its commander in chief.

The real question now is whether Congress will before funding U.S. intervention in Kosovo, perform its own constitutional duty and insist that the national interest involved there be clearly identified. Until the forces employed be adequate to achieve the intended, and that an appropriate exit strategy be both defined and fully understood in advance.

Let it much for us to look to our own New Jersey Senators Frank Lautenberg and Robert Torricelli, both of whom voted in January to retain this man in office through the end of his term, to assume leadership responsibilities?

Robert B. Ardis is a resident of Mountainside.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Warning should precede DARE cut

To the Editor:

As a township resident of more than 24 years who's raising two young children in the Springfield school district, I feel compelled to address the issue of the recent suspension of the DARE program. While I speak as a parent, I also speak as the wife of a DARE officer's wife. Therefore, I will attempt to put to rest some of the common misconceptions which have been recently circulating.

Let me begin with the actual economics of the situation. While I am not a liberty terrorist for the Police Department, I can speak on behalf of my husband who has never let money be a guiding factor in any of his decisions concerning DARE. In fact, he often donated his time to charitable foundations, trips, etc. It was with great sadness that due to a shift change not of his choosing, my husband has lost his role in a program which meant so very much to him.

In terms of the school system, as a parent, I am more than a little disappointed in the school district's obvious reluctance to keep parents informed on this very important matter. Specifically, the DARE program came to an abrupt end on March 2.

Many of his students have approached my husband for answers to their questions. "Why aren't we having the DARE program, and are we coming back?" It is with profound concern that his hands are tied by departmental rules and he has had to suspend the honest dialogue for which he had worked so hard in the past to establish.

What he would like everyone to know is how much the DARE program and its students have meant to him over the past seven years. While at this time he is not allowed to comment on the children's education, it is his fervent hope that this will change in the near future.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Goggi is right for the job

To the Editor:

During the Mountainside PTA Candidates Forum, I was impressed with Peter Goggi's professional demeanor and ability to address the issues. A parent-and-business executive who faces tough issues daily, he knows how to make things happen — and he does so within budget. Yet, within budget — it is indeed possible to have an excellent system of education without high taxes.

Goggi is concerned with the issues — including improved test scores, readiness for Governor Livingston High School, curriculum development beyond state average and full support for the Strategic Planning Initiative. A Board of Education member should support and agree with this initiative 100 percent.

I encourage everyone to watch the candidates forum on TV-33 and you will agree — Goggi is the right person for the job. He will bring fresh ideas and breathe new life into what seems to be a stagnant and decaying system. He will foster a system of education that will not embarrass us again with sub-par test scores.

Goggi feels strongly that the school system needs to reach new heights of excellence. Do we really want a community where only "empty nesters" are interested in settling because the taxes are low and the quality of the schools doesn't matter?

We need a community where both "empty nesters" and young families can be proud of our system of education. I care deeply about this town and I believe Goggi can help us have one of the best systems of education in this state.

School budget needs voter support

To the Editor:

The five local PTA/PTOs urge the citizens of the township of Springfield to exercise their right to vote.

Our local Parent/Teacher/Student Organizations have voted to support the Springfield School District's 1989-2000 school budget which reflects sound planning and fiscal accountability.

We are making each registered voter to consider the following reasons for their support of this budget. First, our children's education is our primary concern. Continued enhancement of programs such as technology, summer school, evening recreation, residential trips and instructional materials necessary for classroom management is beneficial to a well-rounded education. In addition, we heed to maintain the high standards that have elevated our school district to the role model that it has become.

We urge your support of this budget because it does maintain a quality education in our school system while at the same time being responsive to the taxpayer's concerns.

This election is important! We are asking each voter to go out and vote yes for the school budget April 20. Polls are open from 2 to 9 p.m.

Our children deserve the best education. You can make it happen with a yes vote.

Editor's note: This letter was signed by Alberta Rego of the Edward V. Walton School PTA; Debbie Neimanis of the James Caldwell School PTA; Donna Strober of the Thelma L. Sandmire School PTA; Merle Rosenbaum of the Florence Gaudiner School PTA; Evelyn Max of the Jonathan Dayton High School PTO; Lynn Riva Cozzi of Community Conference Group of Springfield.

Election coverage guidelines

In fairness to all Board of Education candidates and to provide the best service to our readers, this newspaper has established guidelines and a schedule for coverage of Board of Education elections.

Under the guidelines, this newspaper is committed to specific elements of coverage. It will give background information about all known candidates, including stories on basic positions taken by each, and it will write news stories on the issues raised during the campaign.

We also will list important political events such as candidates' nights and fund-raisers in news stories. We will aim to stimulate discussion of the issue during election campaigns through independent research and initial stories.

If appropriate, editorial endorsements will be made.

News releases and campaign position statements from candidates are welcome. They will be used at the editor's discretion and they will not necessarily be printed as such but may be used as material to develop news stories if the issues raised in them merit such treatment.

News use, timing and treatment are entirely at the discretion of the editor.

We will strive to avoid the initial raising of controversial or sensational issues in the final edition before election.

We aim to focus on what the voters need to know and not on what the candidates want to say.

Our guidelines reflect the reader service objectives of this newspaper in Board of Education elections. However, we will review our guidelines from time to time and revise them if necessary to benefit our readers.

Following is the schedule we will adhere to in the April 20 election:

Letter to the editor: Political letters, and letters of endorsement will be accepted up to April 8 for Board of Education candidates. Letters may be printed or appear as excerpts at the editor's discretion.

Endorsement letters containing more than 250 words will be edited for length, regardless of how many candidates they endorse. Letters without telephone numbers will not be considered for publication.

Candidate's corner: Candidates running for Board of Education will be given the opportunity to speak to the readers on their issues as they present their backgrounds, platforms and goals. Their columns will appear April 15.

Our endorsements: Endorsement editorials will appear April 15.

Staff-written round-up stories: A final look at the candidates, their platforms, etc., will appear April 15.

Election results: Election results will be announced on the newspaper's information hotline. Look for the telephone number and extension in the April 14 edition and listen to the results as they come in on April 20. Follow up with complete election result coverage in the April 22 edition.

CSH offers free program on teaching young children

"Tips for Teaching Infants and Toddlers" will be presented at Children's Specialized Hospital, 150 New Providence Road, Mountainside, on April 8 from 7 to 8 p.m. The informative and entertaining program for parents, child care providers and teachers will offer practical suggestions for enhancing the growth and development of infants and toddlers.

CSH psychologist, Ellen D'Amato, and CSH Early Intervention teacher, Ellen Benson, authors of "Tips for Teaching Infants and Toddlers," will share ideas from their recent publication as well as years of experience working with children with and without special needs.

The activities to be presented incorporate speech, fine and gross motor skills and cognitive skills. According to D'Amato and Benson, parents do not need any fancy or expensive materials. Participants will learn how to use common household items for a wide variety of activities that will enhance their child's development.

Information on how to access services if children are displaying developmental delays will be covered as well.

Those attending the program should enter through the hospital's east wing entrance on the right-hand side of the building.

Summit Area Red Cross drivers transport elderly to appointments

The public contributes to the Red Cross and Red Cross volunteers help those in need. The Summit Area Chapter Transportation Department, for example, contributes to the Red Cross which buys and maintains a fleet of ten cars. Volunteers drive and their driving range includes service to aged and infirm. If they who need transportation do not from their medical appointments. In any year about 45 drivers make about 1,000 trips.

The service is free. All expenses and the money the public contributes and the Red Cross does not receive government subsidies. The more the public helps the Red Cross financially, the more help they can provide to those in need.

Public support during fund drives determines to a large extent the amount of services that can be provided in the next year. Services like training people to do CPR, teaching water safety and babysitting classes, sewing garments at Union Hospital, and blood collecting.

According to Robert Regal, chapter chairman of the Summit Area Chapter of the American Red Cross, contributions are needed. Checks can be sent to The American Red Cross, 691 Springfield Ave., Summit 07201.

A subscription to your newspaper keeps your college student close to hometown activities. Call 908-686-7753 for a special college rate.

Red Cross driver Doug Garrow also acts as a transportation coordinator, orchestrating the activities of 45 drivers and 10 cars with the schedules of about 165 people who need transportation to their medical appointments. Garrow is on the Summit Red Cross Board of Directors; and all drivers are trained in first aid, CPR and disaster response.

Let The Bible Speak

1 Pet. 4:11 Have You Not Read?

That the Lord Jesus Christ gave NO command to neglect His Church, but a North Easter celebration at the beginning of May. When Jesus NA commanded to eat and to drink God's Word on Sunday, it did not include:

For instance, for the Lord said further This same day we begin a short observance of special religious assembly (Matt 4:19; 1 Cor 11:20; 1 Cor 14:23; 1 Cor 16:2).

For example, Ash Wednesday, Palm Sunday, Good Friday and Easter Sunday etc. are NOT found in the bible.

The origin of Easter is PAGANISM for Jesus Christ.

Have You Not Read? That God has commanded and encouraged members of His Church only Christians to "Doubt in Memory of Me" on every First Day worship service (Act 20:20).

Rev. 1801-CW 11-24-2000

There will be no Lenten, Children's Day, Easter, Holy Week, Father's Day or other Special Easter Services at the Church of Christ on 14-15-22-29. We urge all Catholics and Protestants to study the Bible, the teachings of Christ.

Oratory students attend JSA Congress

Nearly 1,000 high school students expanded their firsthand knowledge of government this weekend of Feb. 19, when they attended the Junior State of America Mid-Atlantic Congress '99 in Washington, D.C.

Joining them were several area students, from Oratory Prep School in Summit. Accompanied by faculty member and JSA advisor, John Gibson, the following students participated in a variety of activities intended to help them become more aware of the workings of the government:

Daniel Pfeifer, James Tschirhart, Marcus Walker, Andrew Wynaard, Sean Wedemeyer, Eugene Giljevic and Kevin Grilo.

The conference weekend began as the Oratorians boarded a bus with students from Kent Place School and Millburn High School. During the afternoon, they attended a session in the House of Representatives on Capitol Hill. The remainder of the day and evening were filled with conferences, committee meetings and workshops designed to help the students understand the government at work.

The students were assigned the roles of Senators and Representatives as they debated various issues such as health care, cloning, flag burning, Internet regulation and aid to Russia.

Most of these meetings were held in the conference rooms of the Hyatt Regency Hotel, directly across the Potomac River from Washington.

Keynote speaker for Congress '99 was veteran reporter Sam Donaldson, who is ABC News Chief White House Correspondent. Donaldson, a award-winning journalist, has covered national conventions and presidential campaigns for the last 35 years.

According to Oratory junior James Tschirhart, "It was interesting to see how the government works. I have to admit, I have a new respect for government officials. They have more responsibility than I ever imagined."

Oratory, which offers a college-prep curriculum for boys in grades seven through 12, enrolls students from a six-county area.

The Rahway Valley Jerseyaires, a group of male a cappella singers in the barbershop style, prepare for their April 18 performance at the Springfield Free Public Library's Donald B. Palmer Museum at 2 p.m.

Jerseyaires to perform at public library

At the Palmer Museum concert, audience members can expect to reminisce to sentimental ballads such as "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" and "If You Knew Sage," in addition to more modern music from Broadway, patriotic songs, and music from the 1960s.

The Rahway Valley Jerseyaires are 55 male singers who are part of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America Inc. The members in this chapter include men who reside in Westfield, Cranford, Roselle Park, Linden, Staten Island and all points south. Barber shop quartets came into being about 60 years ago when men would congregate in barber shops and harmonize.

Funding for this concert has been provided by the A. Leigh Balber Memorial Fund.

Balber, a long-time local resident, was active in library issues. His campaign in lobby to preserve library budgets and other resources at city and county levels resulted in the preservation of integrated services.

Because of his activism on behalf of the county system and of local libraries, Essex County, the New Jersey State Library Association awarded him its Library Service Award in 1988.

Balber remained active in library affairs until his death in 1995. Admission to this concert is free at ticket lottery. Tickets may be picked up at the circulation desk. The Donald B. Palmer Museum is located in the Springfield Public Library, 66 Mountain Ave. For information call (973) 376-4930.

Overlook launches 'Tar Wars' campaign to warn teens against smoking dangers

Chatham and Overlook Family Practice Associates, a division of Overlook Hospital/Atlantic Health System in Summit, participated recently in a national "Tar Wars" campaign, a pre-health tobacco education program that targets fifth graders using visual props and plain talk to warn of the dangers of smoking.

Throughout February and March, Dr. Amy Gruber and resident physicians from Chatham and Overlook Family Practice Associates visited fifth-grade classes in Summit, Chatham and Maplewood to discuss and illustrate the dangers of smoking.

The program, sponsored by the American Academy of Family Physicians and the New Jersey Academy of Family Physicians, aims to educate students prior to the age when they decide to chew or smoke tobacco to make about 1,000 teenagers start smoking each day — about one million per year.

Chatham and Overlook Family Practice Associates, with offices at 492 Main St., Chatham, and 33 Overlook Road, Summit, provide comprehensive medical services from newborn to geriatric. ## O'Toole calls for investigation of test-prep school industry

Students who have lodged complaints against the providers of SAT and GRE preparatory courses would have their concerns investigated thanks to a resolution proposed by Assemblyman Kevin J. O'Toole and supported by Assemblyman Joel Weingarten which was approved last month by the Assembly Consumer Affairs and Regulated Professions Committee.

The resolution, AR-76, requests that the Division of Consumer Affairs conduct an investigation into allegations made by individuals who believe the personnel of certain private test preparation schools may have misrepresented the nature of their services provided inadequate supplies, contracted with unqualified teachers or failed to give refunds when requested.

"The number of private test preparation schools that operate in New Jersey has grown consistently to accommodate the increasing number of students who seek assistance in studying for standardized placement tests," said O'Toole.

"Students rely heavily on review courses to help them prepare for tests like the SAT; GRE and LSAT for the scores they achieve often are the deciding factor in determining which schools will accept them or whether they will be able to continue their education."

"The allegations that have been made about some of these schools are highly unsettling and certainly warrant a full investigation," O'Toole said.

Upon completion of its investigation, the Division of Consumer Affairs will report its findings to the Assembly.

"It's imperative that we enlist the help of the Division of Consumer Affairs to first investigate the validity of these complaints, and secondly to determine whether these alleged unlawful practices are widespread or merely isolated incidents," added Weingarten. "Based on that investigation, we will be able to determine an appropriate course of action."

The O'Toole resolution was approved by a committee vote of 8-0.

Legislation to combat voter fraud

Legislation that would help combat voter fraud by tightening record-keeping procedures regarding deceased residents was released recently by the Assembly State Government Committee.

The measure, A-2168, is sponsored by Assemblymen Joel Weingarten and Kevin O'Toole, both R-Essex.

The bill would also authorize a recently-moved voter to cast a "provisional ballot" in his or her new district without the required registration transfer.

In an effort to reduce the incidence of voter fraud, the bill would require the State Registrar of Vital Statistics to file with the registration commissioner of each county an alphabetized list of name, address and date of birth, if available, of county residents 18 years or older who died during the previous 40 years.

"Using the names of deceased residents to cast illegal votes is hardly a new concept, yet such a practice is not uncommon," Weingarten said. "Not only does this rob law-abiding citizens of their vote, it corrupts the system on which our society is based."

To maintain the integrity of elections and preserve the confidence honest voters have in the system we must take definitive steps to stamp out fraud," Weingarten said.

Under the bill, the willful neglect, failure or refusal of a state, county or municipal officer in charge of death records for the State, county or municipality to file or process the nec-sary information could be convicted of a third-degree crime, which carries a maximum penalty of 3-5 years imprisonment and/or $7,000 fine.

Weingarten said the State Register of Vital Statistics, upon request, would be obligated to provide the chairman of a political party county committee with a copy of the list of deceased residents. The chairman must contact the state attorney general if he believes the commissioner has not complied with law in investigating and handling transfers of records.

In addition, the bill would permit a voter who has moved outside the election district where he is registered to vote by provisional ballot at the polling place of the district in which the voter resides on election day. The legislation would require the voter to make a written affirmation of the change of address at that polling place.

"This bill only would allow such a voter to be cast if the move took place within the county," O'Toole said. "As a new resident, the voter has a stake in government decisions made on every level, and should be permitted to exercise his or her voting rights."

"Whether the election deals with school board candidates or a US presidential race, the voter should not be penalized for moving across a district border," O'Toole said. "Voter apathy is a major problem in some areas of New Jersey, and we should do all we can to encourage citizens to head to the polls. Conscientious citizens who take the time to vote should not be turned away because of a paper technicality."

Current law provides that a voter who has moved outside the election district in which he or she is registered must first obtain a transfer from the municipal clerk of the voter's new residence before being permitted to vote at the polling place for the voter's new residence.

The procedure outlined in the bill for providing and tabulating the provisional ballots is similar to the procedure provided in current state law for the use of absentee and emergency ballots.

The measure passed the General Assembly by a vote of 47-26 and now returns to the Senate for concurrence.

LOCAL SPORTS HIGHLIGHTS

Lindsey DeCoste of Springfield, a sophomore at Dayton High School, has been selected to participate in the inaugural United States Scholar-Athlete Games in June.

The honor roll student will participate in the writing component of the Games.

Over 1,600 scholar athletes and scholar-arts students representing all 50 states are expected to participate in the inaugural United States Scholar-Athlete Games, which will take place from June 26 through July 2 at the University of Rhode Island and nearby Newport, R.I.

Administered by the Institute for International Sport, the 1999 U.S. Games will continue the Scholar-Athlete Games tradition, which was launched in 1993 with the first World Scholar-Athlete Games.

The U.S. Games will bring the Institute one step closer to achieving its goal of hosting Scholar-Athlete Games on every continent.

Scholar athletes may participate in one of 14 sports programs including baseball, basketball, bridge, chess, field-hockey, golf, lacrosse, soccer, softball, squash, swimming, tennis, track and field and volleyball.

Participants will be randomly placed on teams with students from other states and will be guided by experienced coaches.

The scholar-arts students will participate in one of six different programs including art, choir, dance, symphony, theater and writing/poetry.

DeCoste, 15, is an aspiring writer who, in her spare time, volunteers at local nursing homes and at a local hospital.

In addition, DeCoste babysits at a local day care center.

Prominent representatives from the cultural arena will serve as mentors and share their expertise.

Special Theme Days will serve as a forum to unite all of the participants, both athletic and cultural, in discussions about significant issues of the day.

On each Theme Day, students will hear from prominent speakers on that day's subject.

They will then join together in small groups to discuss the issue in more depth with their peers.

The Theme Days will emphasize leadership development and character education in the following areas: Ethics and Sportsmanship; Community Service; and Global Responsibility in the 21st Century.

The Soccer Club of Springfield will be holding tryouts Saturday, May 8, at the Gaudineer Middle School for its fall 1999 and spring 2000 traveling teams.

Springfield 7th grade team wins B Flight hoop crown

8th grade squad's season comes to close

The Springfield Minutemen 7th grade basketball team completed its 1998-99 season by winning the B Flight championship of the league playoffs, posting a 63-42 win over Summit March 22 to win the crown.

The season came to a close last Friday, for Springfield's 8th grade team as it was defeated by Franklin Lakes 63-64 in overtime in the quarterfinals of the Wayne Tournament.

Audie Callender, Nick Poretti and Mike Nolito scored double figures for Springfield.

Also playing well for the Minutemen were David Lyvine, Kevin Dash, Don Volker, Dean Chenciarick, Andre Bates and Steven Cohen.

Jordan Gerber scored 19 points, grabbed three rebounds and came up with two steals to spark the 7th grade team to a win over Summit.

Frankie Miceli scored 13 points, netting back-to-back three-point baskets in the fourth quarter.

Dan Schut scored 10 points, had three assists and grated six boards.

Leo Perrine helped the team with his seven points and three rebounds.

Mike Luciano scored six points and Billy Fisher four.

Heim Abdelaiz grabbed three rebounds and scored two, while 8th grader Jesse Galinkin scored two points.

Also playing well for the Minutemen were Harry Bachman, Robert Kleyman, Kenneth Suarez, Stephen Suarez, Jesse Weatherston and Michael Tiss.

Trophies were awarded to Springfield coaches Rob Russo, Ron Fusco and to their players.

The 1998-99 season was a highly-successful one for Springfield, as its 7th grade team, consisting of 11 7th graders, three 6th graders and two 5th graders.

The 7th graders will form the nucleus of coach Tom Wronski's 8th grade team next year, while the returning players are looking forward to fielding another strong 7th grade squad in 1999-2000.

Springfield residents spark hockey squad in Montreal

Four Springfield residents, all members of the Cranford Hockey Club, took off from Newark Airport in late March en route to Montreal to participate in the Montreal Friendship Games.

The youngsters returned with a real understanding of why ice hockey is not just a sport in Canada, but a way of life.

Gaudineer Middle School 8th graders Brett Berger, Eric Dester and Ross Kravetz, along with Dayton High School freshman Adam Cohen, were part of the 24-member Cranford Bartram squad that played against eight Canadian teams on March 18-21 throughout the Montreal area.

Although Cranford's split squads compiled a respectable 3-5 overall record against their competition, the Springfield students are the only players to play in all three divisions and had a 3-2 record against their Canadian opposition in the games they played.

Cranford opened the Games by facing College Francaise in Longueuil, a private school team; the squad incorporates nine hours per week of hockey skills classes into their school curriculum.

Besides playing on their school team, most players also play for the local traveling club team.

College Francaise dominated Cranford, winning 5-0.

Cranford then traveled to Greenwich Park to play two games against two different teams from Centennial Regional High School. Cranford lost the first game 5-2, but bounced back to win the second game 3-2.

In the victory, Cranford's first in Canada, Cohen scored his team's first goal, assisted by Berger. It was Cohen's second goal of the competition and Berger's second assist.

The team then traveled to the far-out-of-town of Laval to face the very-tough Ecole de Laval and were beaten 10-1. Cranford did stand up to the bigger, faster Express on several occasions.

Over 300 players try out for the Laval traveling club, with only 20 slots available.

Cranford was treated with a 7-0 win to St. Leonard, a section of Montreal where New Jersey Devils goaltender Martin Brodeur grew up. Cranford actually played in the ice rink where Brodeur put on his first pair of skates. Brodeur memorabilia is evident throughout the arena.

Cranford played two games in St. Leonard, falling in the first one 7-2, and then coming back to defeat the St. Leonard team 3-1, as Dester and Berger picked up assists.

On the last day of the Games, Cranford competed against two teams from Lachenaie, a suburb of Montreal. The competition took place at the Centre Sportif Lachenaie, a rink where retired NHL All-Time great Mario Lemieux played in his youth.

Cranford lost the initial game 5-1 but ended its competition by beating Ecole de Terrebonne 3-2 as Kravetz scored a goal and assisted on another. Amid all of the hockey games, the Cranford players were also treated to a game between the Montreal Canadiens and Washington Capitals at the Montreal Molson Centre. Cranford players watched the Caps before the Habs 1-0 before a sold-out crowd.

It was a learning experience the Springfield residents will not soon forget. They were able to claim first-hand how the Canadians, especially the French-Canadians of Quebec Province, play and respect the game of hockey.

There is an ice rink within five minutes of most where you live and most children are members of more than one hockey team, playing hockey year-round.

Their devotion to the game is humbling. As each American boy is handed a brand new stick, an adult can point to no less than 10 Canadian boys who have received their sticks and are ready to play. The young players returned home with a new understanding of why ice hockey is not just a sport in Canada, but a way of life.

Although the 1998 season was not a banner one considering the final record, the Dayton High School softball team managed to post some outstanding results.

Convincing wins in a 4-15 campaign included 21-7 over Plainfield and 13-1 over Bearcat. Other wins came against St. Mary's of Elizabeth.

The Bulldogs also earned in a solid game against defending Union County Tournament champion Governor Livingston, falling to the top-seeded Highlanders 0-0 in a first-round game in Berkeley Heights.

Senior pitcher Nancy Klaud hurried a three-hitter in that contest to keep Dayton in the game.

While this year's squad features several returning players as a matter of fact the entire infield, Dayton will need either junior Karrie Schackman or sophomore Dana Rutkowsky to come through on the mound.

Schackman was "Cloudy's" backup last season, while Rutkowsky was the junior varsity hurler.

"In our first scrimmage (against Bayonne), Karen allowed nine runs and 10 walks," said third-year head coach Marianne Balmann said. Against Roselle Park twice, Karen pitched a 3-2 win.

Karen was really on.

While Schackman continues to gain experience on the mound, she will be aided by the efforts of returning catcher Linda Agostinelli, a sophomore.

An intact infield includes junior Alexis Frank at first base, senior Maria Stravato at second, senior Tracey Saladino at third and junior Rachel Tiss at shortstop.

Stravato and Saladino are the co-captains, while Stravato will bat third, Saladino fourth and Tiss fifth.

The outfit will be manned by freshman Esther Aizenberg, sophomore Christina Tomasonio and juniors Jessica Franklin, Jamie Yospin and Alana Steele.

Aizenberg played varsity basket ball in the winter for head coach Dave Remie.

"She's an outstanding athlete," Balmann said.

Christina Florio, a junior, is on the squad as a backup first baseman.

Our infield is strong and we're playing well defensively," Balmann said.

"We need to score more runs."

Dayton was shut out six times last year, blanked by Roselle Park twice, Mt. St. Mary, Manville, Middlefield and GL.

Balmann hopes players such as Stravato and Saladino can turn it up a notch offensively, both batting over .350 last season.

An outstanding contact hitter, Saladino came to the plate 56 times last season and did not strikeout once.

Because of the Jewish holiday Passover, Dayton will not open its season today at Manville. The Bulldogs' next scheduled game is Monday.
