WORRALL COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS

THURSDAY, APRIL 13, 2000 - SECTION B

Local access and cheese

Last Sunday, TV-36 in Summit ran a children's musical taped at a local church in the community. TV-34 in Rahway was running bulletin board notices including what libraries would honor their local card. TV-35 in Cranford ran its day-long schedule of church services targeted to shut-ins.

Sometimes informational, sometimes entertaining and sometimes just inaudible, Union County is already in its second decade of local access programming.

Left Out

By Frank Capece

In 1992, amendatory language to the existing Federal Cable TV Act of 1985 said the local community could require "adequate assurances" that there would be local access.

A 1994 Federal Communications Commission law review article said, "Public access has symbolized the goal of cable television — achieving diversity by providing a voice to anyone in the community who wants to share his or her message with others." In Union County local access is still more a goal than a reality.

On the positive side, the community billboards which are common here on upcoming events, debates before local election contests and the coverage of school events and sporting contests are a wonderful asset for each town. Generally, the programming is manned by volunteers including teens-agers who get a leg up in TV production.

But the programming is strictly limited. Diversity is precluded by the need for technical expertise and by cable TV oversight committees who seem too comfortable with the current fare which sees roadblocks for those who might be more controversial.

Two weeks ago, Roselle Park's Borough Council meeting became a collector's item for those lucky enough to tape it. Local meetings can get nasty and the Roselle Park meeting was a beauty. Gilda Delorio led a parade of angry citizens to the microphone. Her anger was directed at a former ally turned adversary, Councilman Robert Milici.

Evidently, Milici photographed some one work done at Delorio's business. Delorio, mother of the mayor, cried foul and was quite specific in personalizing her attacks at Milici. Though I confess, her attack on Milici calling him a "piece of cheese" was unique even for me in terms of political bombast.

Last Saturday, Cranford TV-35 fulfilled the annual tradition of having the mayor and township administrator explain the municipal budget. Again, very informative, but also a form of incumbent protection in allowing the positive casting and showcasing of the mayor advocating his particular take on the world of Cranford finance.

The question of providing expensive quality programming, local access and just plain propaganda has a number of different angles. While citizens can and do voice their opinions at meetings, it remains a highly structured process. Public officials know that in the world of public meetings programming they are always assured of the last word.

The Cable Act gives the power to local access managers to reject from broadcasting "obscene material, indecent material or material promoting unlawful conduct." But no Cable TV Act can counter the economic and technical realities an individual not in government faces before he goes on local access and programs a different point of view.

Staff members from the Office of Victim/Witness Advocacy from the Prosecutor's Office. From left, First Assistant Prosecutor James Keefe, coordinator Elaine O'Neal, Maria Acosta, Maria Esteves and Luz Rivera, hit the road this week to visit public libraries throughout the county as part of National Crime Victims Rights Week and National Library Week.

Prosecutor's Office spreads word about Crime Victims' Rights Week

A special outreach program that will take victim witness counselors into public libraries throughout Union County is part of this year's National Crime Victims' Rights Week.

Union County Prosecutor Thomas Manahan said members of the Office of Victim Witness Advocacy will visit nine different libraries with a special display, information packets and goodies for the kids as America commemorates the 20th anniversary of Crime Victims' Rights Week from April 9 to 15.

Elaine O'Neal, coordinator of the unit at the Prosecutor's Office said this year's theme is "Dare to Dream" which reflects on the tremendous strides that have been made toward victim justice and it honors victims who dared to share their personal pain so that others can learn from their experiences.

"The true dream of victim justice relies on people who believe that crime victims deserve every form of assistance that we can give them to help cope with the devastating trauma of violent crime," Manahan said.

O'Neal said members of her staff will be able to explain the various services such as transportation, case notification and the county's special telephonic notice system to library patrons from municipalities throughout the county during that week.

Today, said First Assistant Prosecutor James Keefe, police officers and prosecutors work to pursue a system of justice that balances the rights of accused and convicted offenders with the rights of crime victims.

"When this week was first proclaimed in 1980, victims only had a few participatory rights in our nation's criminal and juvenile justice systems," he said. "Today more than 10,000 organizations and service providers across the country offer a great deal more and there are great strides made in the constitutional amendments from 30 states including New Jersey's crime victim Bill of Rights."

O'Neal said a new display which lists the activities of the unit, including five counselors and three electrical support persons, has the ability to make referrals for counseling for victims, return property used as evidence, offering babysitting for parents needed for testimony in court and assistance in receiving funds from the Victims of Crime Compensation Board.

Kathryn Turman, director of the Office for Victims of Crime within the U.S. Department of Justice, is encouraging residents to make an effort to meet with the staff at the libraries and to join in saluting the achievements of American's crime victims, service providers and justice professionals.

During past years, Union County hosted a number of special ceremonies to recognize crime victims and agencies and conducted candlelight vigils, open house breakfasts and displayed demonstrations in and around the Union County Courthouse complex in Elizabethtown.

"The response from the libraries we reached was most gratifying," said O'Neal, who said residents should take note of the schedule and stop by if their schedules permit it.

Questions raised over identification of lines

By Mark Hrywna

Charging that the slogan for a second line of Democratic candidates will confuse Union County voters, the Union County Democratic Committee has asked a judge for a temporary injunction and permanent restraining order against.

U.S. Sen. candidate Jim Florio incorporated the names of committees in 20 counties and will run states of candidates for various offices to create a line. Florio is running lines in almost all counties.

In Union County, Florio's line will run under the name, Union County Democratic Committee Inc., along with candidates from the Democrats For Real Change group from Elizabethtown. Opposing and responding briefs were expected to be filed this week. Other counties also are considering filing suit and the attorney for Florio's opponent, Jon Corzine of Summit, asked to intervene in the case on behalf of Corzine 2000.

The Union County Democratic Committee runs its candidates under the slogan, Regular Democratic Organization of Union County. A hearing is scheduled Tuesday morning before Assignment Judge Edward Beghin.

The Florio campaign had hoped to have an open primary for the U.S. Senate seat, said spokesman Jim Lanard. The incorporation was done reluctantly, he said, but the campaign was forced into it with after the decision to have closed primary.

A closed primary awards preferential ballot positioning to an endorsed candidate. Florio's opponent, Jon Corzine of Summit, has received the organization support in several northern New Jersey counties. To have equal footing, Lanard said, the campaign decided to run a state of candidates with a slogan.

A due diligence search was conducted to find if there was a competing name, but nothing was found, Lanard said. The state would not issue articles of incorporation if it was found to be confusing, he said.

In her court filings, Union County Democratic Chairwoman Charlotte DeFilippo said. "By Defen-

Freeholders to urge repeal of gas tax

By Mark Hrywna
Regional Editor

The Board of Freeholders likely will pass a resolution tonight urging legislators to repeal a state gas tax implemented by Jim Florio when he raised $2.8 billion as governor in 1990.

The Petroleum Products Gross Receipts Tax, which is passed on at the point of sale to the consumer, is approximately 2.75 percent of the average price of a gallon of gas, but a minimum of $0.04 per gallon. If the average price of a gallon of gasoline rises above $1.44, the tax would increase to the amount of $1.44. The resolution asks legislators to change the law, there would be an increase in gasoline prices come July.

The resolution asks legislators to eliminate the provision that raises the tax should the average price of a gallon rise above $1.44. According to the freeholder chairman, legislation was introduced several weeks ago in both the State Senate and Assembly, sponsored by Sen. Donald DiFrancesco, R-Union, and Leonard Lance, R-Hunterdon, respectively.

Foundation golf outing to benefit Runnells Hospital

By John Casale
Staff Writer

If Runnells Specialized Hospital of Union County is to someday have a therapeutic rehabilitation pool, it will need help from the surrounding communities. This spring, the Runnells Specialized Hospital Foundation will be relying on the golf lovers of Union County to help it achieve that goal.

On May 17, the foundation will sponsor its inaugural golf outing at Oak Ridge Golf Course Clark.

The foundation raises funds for long- and short-term goals. Throughout the hospital's 88-year history of service, it has been successful in providing changing health care needs of the community.

Runnells continuously attempts to obtain community assistance to grow and be able to provide patients with the best care possible, said Peggy Salisbury, marketing director at Runnells. The therapeutic rehabilitation pool is one of the foundation's long-term goals.

In the past, the foundation has sponsored events such as a morning brunch and this past Christmas season, the foundation collected donations for tree decorations. When it comes to health care, everything helps.

Other campaigns to raise funds have included the construction of a shuffle board game for patients. The foundation also has provided a chess table.

"It is great for creating a positive and progressive state of mind for the patients," said Mary Lou Marcino, executive director of the foundation.

One of the more recent campaigns has met with tremendous success: the Holiday of Hope, bringing the world of computers to the hospital.

"Patients are now using the Internet to communicate with family and friends, and enjoying video games in their leisure time," said Marcino. Youngsters have taken part in assisting patients in how to use the computers.

The Runnells Foundation is a relatively new organization of just a couple of years and always trying to find new ways to raise funds for the hospital.

Charles Mancuso is the man responsible for making this event take place. Being a member of the board at Runnells Hospital, Mancuso presented the idea to Marcino, explaining to her how much money could be raised by involving the community in a recreational activity like golf.

Tour of Deserted Village on Sunday

By John Casale
Staff Writer

The historic Deserted Village of Feitville/Glenside Park will be open for a public tour on Sunday at 2 p.m.

The village is located in Union County's Watchung Reservation and dates back to the pre-Civil War era.

The area encompassing the Deserted Village was first settled in the early 1700s. The settlement was built up into a thriving milltown in 1845, and converted into a summer resort in the late 1800s. Its rich history will be shared by tour leader Daniel Bernier, director of the Union County Division of Park Planning and Maintenance. Bernier is coordinating the county's program to restore the village's 10 remaining buildings and 130-acre grounds.

The tour will explain the village's historic restoration process, as well as what the future holds for this area of the Watchung Reservation. The tour's format will be a 45-minute slide show and lecture at the Trailside Nature and Science Center, followed by a one-mile stroll along the village's paved road.

An optional, slightly strenuous hike to a Revolutionary War-period cemetery and the site of the 1845 mill will conclude the program.

This tour is part of the regularly scheduled Sunday Family Programs presented by Union County's Trailside Nature and Science Center. No pre-registration is required. There is a $3 per adult program fee. The tour is recommended for people over the age of 10.

Participants should meet at Trailside's Visitors Center, 452 New Providence Road, Mountainside. The group will caravan to the Deserted Village after the slide presentation. Participants are encouraged to wear shoes that are suitable for walking in the woods.

Historic preservation efforts in Feitville are made possible by grants from the New Jersey Historic Trust, and the support of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

For more information call Trailside at (908) 789-3670.

County prepares for Infant Immunization Week

Union County's Division of Social Services/Runnells Specialized Hospital Immunization Center, 342 Westminister Ave., Elizabethtown, is ready for National Infant Immunization Week, April 16-22, as well as throughout the year. It will be closed Good Friday, April 21.

"The measles and mumps are not usually thought of as fatal diseases, but they can be, so our children need to be protected from them," said Freeholder Deborah Scanlon, liaison to the Runnells Hospital Board of Managers.

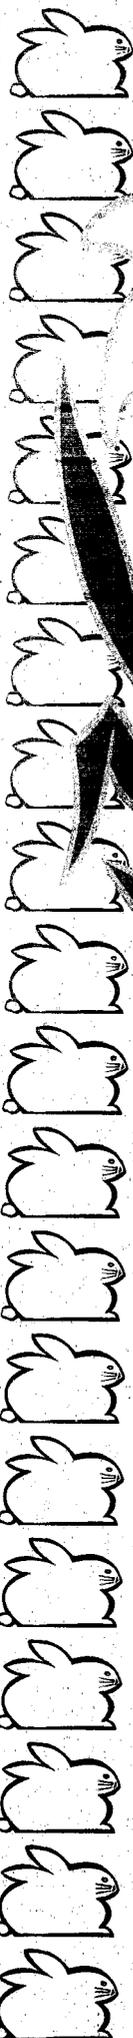

No appointment is necessary, but parents or guardians should bring records of previous immunizations, if available. The immunization center is open Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

There are 10 potentially fatal diseases that children should be immunized against: measles, mumps, rubella (German measles), chickenpox, polio, hepatitis B, tetanus (lockjaw), diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough) and influenza type b.

Decades of dedication

Charles S. Mancuso, president of the Union County Vocational-Technical Schools Board of Education, right, is presented with an engraved clock-plaque from Ted Dilorio, president of the UCVTS Education Association, for his more than 30 years of service to education and the Vo-Tech Schools.

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Di Mura to appear at Rahway Guild

On Friday at 8 p.m., The Arts Guild of Rahway presents the third concert in its "Millennium Music" Series: jazz pianist Vince di Mura and The George Street Project performing their "World Music" program featuring the works of two great African-American composers, Charlie Mingus and John Coltrane.

Vince di Mura is a veteran performer of concert stages throughout the United States, Canada and Latin America. In demand as a conductor of musical theater and jazz pianist, he has performed in concert halls from Aguascalientes, Mexico to Seattle, Wash. as well as hundreds of venues in New York, New Jersey and Philadelphia. Di Mura has directed musical seasons for numerous theaters, received fellowships from the William Goldman Foundation, Temple University, Moët et Chandon, and the New Jersey State Council on the Arts and as resident musical director for McCarter Theater's Outreach Department. He is also a professor of piano at Temple University and serves on the staff of the Theater and Dance departments of Princeton University. Di Mura's first CD, "Black on White," was released in 1994, his newest recording, "Imperfect Balance," was released in the autumn of 1999.

The program of Di Mura is playing at the Arts Guild Friday is titled "World Music," a vision of a distinctively American music drawing on such diverse streams as those of Ravel, Scriabin, Ives, jazz cool and hot, rhythm 'n' blues, eastern music and ballads and flavored by a myriad of Afro-Latin styles. This tends to be hot and happening and very, very tight.

Performing with di Mura are The George Street Project featuring Ralph Bowen on tenor sax. Among his many credits are recordings for the Blue Note Label with Out of The Blue, Bobby Watson, Michel Camilo, Benny Carter, John Serry, Manteca and many others. The main quartet is rounded out with Daniel Fabricatore on acoustic bass and Scott Hazen on drums. Other performers include Gary Edison, vocals and percussion, Chacko Ramirez, Latin percussion, and Mursheed Khan, star.

This program is made possible in part by a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State, through a grant administered by the Union County Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs.

The Arts Guild of Rahway is located at 1670 Irving St. at the corner of Seminary Avenue, and is easily accessible from Routes 1 & 9 north or south, Route 27/91, George Avenue, the Garden State Parkway and the New Jersey Turnpike. All seats are $10 and admission is payable at the door. Seating is limited, so reservations recommended. Call (732) 381-7511 for information.

'Nunsense' abounds at Forum

All nationalities will be flocking to the Forum Theater in Metuchen — just around the corner from Rahway, Linden and Clark — to laugh until it hurts at the antics of five stars attempting to parody the Little Sisters of Hohoken in Dan Grogan's musical comedy, "Nunsense."

The hilarious show, which received four Outer Critics Circle Awards, including Best Off-Broadway Musical, was staged at the Forum five years ago, and it earned such praise that Peter J. Loewy, producing artistic director and founder of the Forum Theater, brought it back to turn audiences into extremely happy laughing human beings and forget whatever ails them.

Loewy directed this production with tongue in cheek and his performers, all individually perfect and all so different from each other, brought the house down with their "specialty" antics and their efforts to encourage audience participation. And most outstanding, as usual, was the Forum's own special work of art, Vicki Tripodo, as the Rev. Mother, Sister Mary Regina.

Tripodo's a veteran comedienne at the Forum, where she also has directed and served as stage director. This woman gets funnier and better with every appearance, and she continually had the audience howling with laughter, tears streaming down faces.

Right from the very beginning, as patrons walked into the theater, Sister Mary Hubert, delightfully played by Margaret Davis, who looks like a version of Diane Keaton, stood at the door, took the tickets and tore the stubs. Afterwards, she joined the Little Sisters of Hohoken at Mt. Saint Helen's School auditorium to appear in a fundraiser in an effort to generate money to bury the remainder of their order who were accidentally poisoned by the convent cook, Sister Julia — — cross yourself! — Child of God. The remaining four dead nuns have been put into a freezer, and the money has to be raised before the health inspector comes to take a look.

"The services provided by these artists and organizations directly benefit the residents of our county, our history, and the humanities," said Freeholder Mary P. Ruotolo, liaison to the Union County Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board. "These cultural assets are vital part of community life, economic development and cultural tourism in Union County."

The HEART Grant Program has five different submission dates throughout the year. Applications are reviewed bimonthly. The next deadline for submission is April 20.

To request a HEART Grant application and guidelines, contact the Union County Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, 433 First St., Elizabeth, NJ 07202. The division can be reached by telephone at (908) 258-2550; relay users dial (800) 258-7899.

The show begins with the nuns dancing up and down the aisles singing "Halleluia" to the tune of the Hebrew song, "Hava Negila." The whole cast is fantastic, including Dawn Ward, marvelously funny as Sister Robert Anne; Michele Tibbitts as Sister Mary Leo, who began life as ballet dancer and does some real toe-dancing in black habit and ballet shoes; and the delicate but versatile Susie Paplow, as Sister Mary Amnesia, who can show both Jekyll and Hyde personalities with a ventriloquist's dummy.

Among the musical numbers, one funnier than the other, are "Nunsense is Habit-Forming" and "A Difficult Transition," by the entire cast: "So You Want to Be A Nun," by Sister Mary Regina; "The Quiz," by Sister Mary Amnesia, "Playing Second Fiddle," by Sister Robert Anne; "Soup's On," by Sister Mary Leo, and "Baking with the BVM," from Sister Julia, Child of God's own cookbook.

There are many, many more wonderful numbers, presented by an especially entertaining cast. The musical background was provided by a small hidden orchestra, and the setting, a conglomeration of well-placed props, appropriate for "Nunsense."

"Nunsense" is well worth a trip to the Forum and be sure to bring the whole family. It has something for everyone. But mostly, it has splendid performers, wonderful songs and dances, funny jokes. It is, in fact, simply — a fun show!

Sennott will judge Westfield art show

The Westfield Art Association has announced that Stephen Sennott, executive director of the City Without Walls Gallery, will be the judge for the 70th annual Watercolor, Graphics, and Photography Exhibition, Saturday to Tuesday in the Westfield Community Room, 425 E. Broad St.

The City Without Walls Gallery, located at 1 Gateway Center in Newark on the ground floor, is at the forefront of contemporary exhibitions. Sennott, as the executive director, is the administrator of all exhibitions and educational programming. He is the curator and designer of all on-site, off-site and traveling exhibitions. The City Without Walls Gallery features the work of more than 200 artists annually.

Sennott is an artist, writer and musician. He studied at Lincoln University, Jefferson City, Mo., earning a bachelor of music degree in theory and composition with a minor in art, magna cum laude, and at the University of Arizona at Tucson in art history and history of photography at the graduate level. He was an instructor in art history, drawing, music and humanities at Central Arizona State College, A.S.P. Campus, Florence. He also was an instructor in art history at the Tucson Museum of Art and Pima Community College in Tucson.

In New York City, he was assistant director at Artns Gallery and Gallery Manager at Bernice Steinbaum Gallery and Littlejohn-Smith Gallery. Sennott is an exhibiting visual artist in painting, drawing and photography, a musician, composer and writer. His published work includes fiction, photography and graphic design.

The Westfield Art Association is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing artists and the community an opportunity to learn about many aspects of fine art since 1922. In addition to the judged entries, the show will feature a portfolio sale of unframed works of art in watercolor, drawing, mixed media, prints and photographs.

President Barbara Sawhinn invites area artists to join the association and exhibit their artwork in the show. For membership information call (908) 232-7058 or (908) 232-3381.

NJPAC hopes to aid student success

Registration is open for the Fourth Annual Arts Basic to the Curriculum Conference conducted by the New Jersey Performing Arts Center. The conference, "Actualizing the Standards for Student Success," is open to educators statewide and will be held May 4 to 5.

Expected to attract more than 300 educators, administrators, performing and visual artists and parents from across the state, the conference will address the New Jersey Core Curriculum Content Standards in the Visual and Performing Arts and, in particular, the assessment process. Participants will engage in hands-on activities, interactive workshops, academic presentations and roundtable discussions concerning the various arts disciplines and the integration of the arts into other curricular areas such as math, science and social studies.

Howard Gardner, professor of Cognition and Education at the Harvard Graduate School of Education, will deliver the keynote address, "Intelligence and Discipline in Arts Education," which will explore a variety of issues across the spectrum of arts disciplines. Gardner is also co-director of the Harvard Project Zero, which involves the work of designing performance-based assessment and the use of multiple intelligences to achieve personalized curriculum, instruction and assessment.

According to Philip S. Thomas, NJPAC vice president of Arts Education, the conference has been organized to maximize personal involvement of participants in the process.

Conference activities include:

- Workshops in dance, theater, music and the visual arts segmented into grade clusters and facilitated by both a teacher and a teaching artist;
- Performances and related workshops offered by Sweet Honey and the Rock and the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra;
- Workshops focusing on teaching science through dance, visual arts and theater;
- Presentations and roundtable discussions on curriculum development and the infusion of art instruction throughout school systems.

The conference is also expected to include a plenary session hosted by the State Department of Education during which ABC Conference participants will be invited to enter into a dialogue with department officials who work on the Core Curriculum Content Standards in the Arts.

Most ABC Conference activities will be conducted at NJPAC. Some workshops are scheduled to be held at The Newark Museum and the New Jersey Historical Society, located a short walk from NJPAC.

ABC Conference sponsors include NJPAC, The New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State; New Jersey Department of Education; and Lucent Technologies Foundation. Co-sponsors include The Newark Museum, New Jersey Historical Society, Alliance for Arts Education/NJ, and the Hoffman La-Roche Foundation.

Registration fee for the two-day conference is $100, or $85 for a single day. Further information may be obtained by contacting Irene L. Toone, program coordinator, at (973) 353-8020.

The NJPAC Arts Education Department is made possible by the generous support of Allen and Joan Bildner, and the Bildner Family Foundation, Bell Atlantic, First Union National Bank, Lucent Technologies Foundation, Albert W. and Katharine E. Merck, NJPAC Arts Education Endowment Fund, The Prudential Foundation, Schering-Plough Foundation, Smart Family Foundation/Freedman & Stone, and the Victoria Foundation.

Additional support has been provided by the Amelior Foundation, The Banbury Company Inc., Children's Benefit Fund/Toys "R" Us, Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation, Healthcare Foundation of New Jersey, Hoffman-LaRoche Foundation, Hyde and Watson Foundation, Andrew M. Mellon Foundation, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene

Grant funds are offered by county

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders invites local non-profit organizations, individual artists and scholars to apply for funding from the Union County HEART — History, Education, Arts Reaching Thousands — Grant Program.

"The response to the HEART Grant Program is exciting," said Freeholder Chairman Daniel Sullivan. "The recipients are a wonderful mix of visual artists, composers of orchestral music, cultural organizations" and "live groups."

"The services provided by these artists and organizations directly benefit the residents of our county, our history, and the humanities," said Freeholder Mary P. Ruotolo, liaison to the Union County Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board. "These cultural assets are vital part of community life, economic development and cultural tourism in Union County."

Workshop to explain non-profit status

The earliest and most direct route to "Becoming a Non-Profit Organization" will be explained at a workshop on April 26 from 6:30 to 8:45 p.m. The Union Public Library, 1980 Morris Ave., will host the event which is sponsored by the Board of Chosen Freeholders and the Union County Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, Department of Economic Development.

"An increasing number of cultural, historical and social groups are forming in Union County and their creativity and vitality adds much to the quality of life throughout the county," said Freeholder Mary Ruotolo, liaison to the Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board.

"This workshop will help those groups wishing to advance to the next level to establish the proper structure which is so critical to their success and growth."

Speaker Allen Barkin, will profile non-profit status, guiding participants in determining whether it is appropriate for their group. He will clarify the difference between incorporation and IRS designation and present highlights of the no-for-profit regulations. Barkin will discuss what should be included in an organization's by-laws and explain its ongoing responsibilities, such as bank accounts, financial records, tax filing and audits.

"When a group is considering becoming a non-profit organization, more and more questions seem to materialize," said Barkin. "Members wonder if they will be allowed to make a profit, inquire about how to obtain a tax ID number and ask whether they will have to have meetings. It all seems so complicated until you get the necessary information."

Barkin is a partner in Schwartz Barkin & Mitchell in Union. He has served Union Township as planning attorney and assistant Board of Adjustment attorney. He also serves as vice president of the Jewish Community Center of Central New Jersey in Scotch Plains.

Barkin is a founding director of Jersey Central Artists Studios, a non-profit corporation based in Cranford seeking to establish a site where artists work, teach and exhibit.

There is no charge for this workshop which is supported by a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts, Department of State, a partner agency of the National Endowment for the Arts. Pre-registration is required by Wednesday.

Legislation would change provision for gas tax

Gov. Christine Whitman has indicated she will be in favor of capping the gas tax.

Florio is running for the U.S. Senate seat held by Frank Lautenberg, who will retire when his term ends this year. Both he and Jon Corzine of Summit are seeking the Democratic nomination. Corzine has the support of the Union County Democratic Organization but freeholders said politics have nothing to do with their resolution.

"We're trying to do whatever part we can to ease the high prices and help consumers," Freeholder Vice Chairman Alexander Mirabella said. Even on the federal level, he said, officials are trying to repeal or suspend the gas tax. "Any collective effort will help."

"I think you're going to see a lot of bipartisan votes. I think it's a coincidence," Sullivan said, that the measure comes now when Florio is running for election. "It reminds everyone of the tax increases," he said and expects a unanimous vote from legislators.

No one even thought about the tax since the last time gas prices were as high as they are now, nearly 10 years ago during the Gulf War, said Sullivan.

Michael Murphy, co-chairman of Florio's Senate campaign, called the freeholders' resolution "a cheap political trick to draw negative attention to Florio" and enflame passion in the Senate race.

There is no correlation between the freeholders' resolution and the U.S. Senate race, Mirabella said. "We're trying to help out consumers. If we can lead consumers support, we'll try to do that."

"It's an act of political desperation," Murphy said, "because Florio has a significant amount of support throughout northern New Jersey and Union County especially."

Democrats seek injunction demands endorsing candidates in the primary election under the name Union County Democratic Committee, the voters of Union County will be confused and deceived into the belief that the actual Union County Democratic Committee is making that endorsement.

"As a matter of law and common sense, there can be only one Union County Democratic Committee," DeFilippo said in an April 4 letter to the county campaign asking them to cease using the name Union County Democratic Committee Inc.

Democrats For Real Change, a group opposing of Elizabeth Mayor J. Christian Bollwage, will run on Florio's line along with three freeholder candidates and 7th Congressional District candidate Maryanne Connolly.

Rumfing for freeholder will be Becky McHugh of Linden, Steven Madonna of New Providence and Patricia Fallon of Roselle Park who will be joined by county clerk candidate Stan Moskai of Elizabeth. The ticket will fill a complete line in Elizabeth where Democrats For Change are putting up candidates for mayor and City Council.

The filing deadline for the June primary is today at 4 p.m.

Madonna served as the state environmental prosecutor from 1990 to 1993 while Florio was governor. He is currently the principle attorney in his law office in Chatham where he concentrates in environmental/solid waste consulting. Madonna lost to Republican Allen Morgan in the New Providence mayoral race in 1998.

Fallon works for the Elizabeth Board of Education and is the daughter of Elizabeth City Councilman Robert Jaspas, a founder of Democrats For Change.

McHugh is a disabilities learning teacher-consultant in Elizabeth and former teacher in the Elizabeth public schools.

Three Dog Night hits UCAC Saturday

Three Dog Night, the '70s supergroup, will appear at the Union County Arts Center Saturday for a roller coaster ride to the pre-disco hits of the decade.

Originally founded in 1968, Three Dog Night brought together a unique sound, blending the driving rhythms of rock and pop with tightly knit vocal harmonies. This sound made them distinct and unforgettable, and is the major feature of classic hits like "Shambala" and "Joy to the World," often referred to by band members as "The Frog Song." The lyrics also contributed to the timeless nature of the music. With songs like "Old-Fashioned Love Song," "Easy to Be Hard" and "One," Three Dog Night offered audiences an escape from the reality of America during the Vietnam War. The pure howling of their music still garners a play on radio stations across America and continues this time-honored band's charge of bringing joy to the world.

Founding Three Dog Night band members Danny Hutton and Cory Wells head up the troupe, which also includes original keyboardist Jimmy Greenspoon and lead guitarist Michael Allsup.

Opening for Three Dog Night is stand up comedian Ray Mogenis.

With songs like 'Old-Fashioned Love Song,' 'Easy to Be Hard' and 'One,' Three Dog Night offered audiences an escape from the reality of America during the Vietnam War.

Mogenis, who was the star of the UCAC's 1994 production of "The Will Rogers Follies," is an up-and-coming comedian in New York City comedy clubs and night spots. Three Dog Night, with opening act Ray Mogenis, will perform at 8 p.m. Saturday. Tickets for this concert are $28, $25 and $20. Support for Three Dog Night has been provided by Comcast Digital Cable. Following Three Dog Night, the Union County Arts Center will present Patti LaBonte in the New York area premiere of her new one woman show, "Matters of the Heart." May 12. Tickets are currently on sale for Patti LaBonte.

The Union County Arts Center, a not-for-profit corporation dedicated to presenting the best in the performing arts, is located in the recently restored Rahway Theater, a 1928 vaudeville and silent film house in downtown Rahway. The arts center is handicapped-accessible and listening devices available to patrons upon request. Major support the arts center and its programs come from the City of Rahway, Merck & Co., the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, Comcast Digital Cable, and the Rahway Savings Institution. Tickets may be purchased by phone with a Visa, Mastercard, or Discover, or in person at the Iring Street box office. In addition, tickets for concert and theater events are available online at www.ucac.org and through ETM Ticket Kiosks located in the Metro Park Mall and Edwards Supermarkets. For more information, or ticket availability, call the box office at (732) 499-8226, or after 5 p.m. at (888) ETM-TIXS. Film series tickets are only available directly from the arts center's box office.

Clemente joins NJIO in concert

The New Jersey Intergenerational Orchestra of Cranford, under the baton of conductor Lorraine Marks, will perform a program titled "A Musical Tribute To America: Celebrating American Composers" Sunday at 3 p.m. in the auditorium of Cranford High School, 201 West End Place in Cranford.

A pre-concert "Meet the Musicians" talk will take place at 2:30 p.m. The performance is free and open to the public. It will feature the music of Duke Ellington, played by renowned recording artist and jazz pianist Rio Clemente and 12-year-old prodigy saxophonist Alex Han, accompanied by the NJIO.

In addition, the concert will feature works by Cranford Composer Mario Lombardo — "Early Spring" and a special arrangement of "When I Fall in Love" for violin and viola, played by Richard Montag, a 15-year-old student at Cranford High School and member of the NJIO, and violist-conductor Marks. Montag currently studies with Michael Stewart, a member of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra. Lombardo will conduct his arrangement. The program will be narrated by Bernie Wagenblast, formerly the voice of "Shedow Traffic."

The concert is dedicated to music that is indigenous to the United States. Selections include "Oklahoma!", "Do Wah Diddy," "Orange Blossom Special," and music from "Fantasia," a Walt Disney creation.

The NJIO — the only orchestra anywhere with an intergenerational configuration between the ages of 4 and 88 years old, and achieved a great deal of media attention and success over the past five years, performing as far away as Washington, D.C., appearing on NBC and CBS television, in the Lincoln Center Plaza Fountain Concert Series, at the United Nations, and playing many concerts in the New Jersey metropolitan area. The NJIO has recently performed in Monroe Township, inaugurating the township's newly established Cultural Commission, and has just been invited to open the lecture series of renowned author Andrew Weil, to be held at the newly renovated Trenton War Memorial.

Marks has also been awarded many citations for her work with the orchestra. Among them was the Somerset County Commission on the Status of Women at "Outstanding Woman of the Year in the Arts in Somerset County," and she was also the recipient of the prestigious Pride Award for People Who Made a Difference in the Arts, sponsored by New Jersey Monthly magazine. Marks has recently made public service announcements for "Intergenerational" programs for UPN Channel 9 News and radio station WQXR in New York City for the millennium celebration. She was featured on national television with the orchestra on the "CBS Morning Show," "Windows On America," and "NBC Four Stories." She will also be featured in an upcoming story for the "CBS Weekend News."

The NJIO has performed for such organizations as the American Heart Association, the Special Women Foundation, and Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation. A lecture-slide presentation on "The Birth of an Orchestra" is presented in many local and statewide civic organizations. For additional information on the NJIO, call (908) 709-0084, or visit the web site at www.bobdevlin.com/njio.html. The orchestra's e-mail address is njorch@aol.com.

Funding has been made possible through a grant from New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State, and administered through the Union County Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, and also in part by the Cranford Public Schools, the Rotary Club of Cranford, and the Recording Industries Fund in whole or part, the instrumental music performances, as arranged by Local 151 of the American Federation of Musicians.

The Hunt Club Grill at the Grand Summit Hotel

By Renee Illan
Staff Writer

Upon entering the Hunt Club Grill at the Grand Summit Hotel, one is immediately greeted by a knowledgeable and courteous staff and comfortable, elegant surroundings, giving you an idea of the exquisite meal in store. My dining companion and I began our meals with the jumbo lump crab cakes and the Caesar salad, both of which featured ingredients so fresh you could taste it. Each was the perfect beginning to what proved to be excellent main courses.

For our main courses, we dined on the coriander-crusted duck breast and orecchiette pasta with grilled shrimp and lobster.

The duck, cooked to perfection, was accompanied by delicious scalion buckwheat noodles, Julienne leeks and snow peas, but it was the reduction sauce that made the meal. A rich Madeira reduction perfectly complemented the duck, enhancing the natural flavors of the meat while, at the same time, adding something special not usually found in the dish.

The orecchiette pasta was a new treat for this reviewer, and was deliciously prepared with argula and tomatoes in a white wine garlic broth, and topped with shaved asago. However, it was the shellfish that made this dish! The shrimp and lobster were plump and flavorful, each retaining the integrity of their own flavors while being enhanced by the broth and each other.

For dessert, we splurged and shared three different selections. The apples in the apple cobbler were so fresh, you could practically hear them crunch with each bite, and the rice pudding was delicious and equally fresh. But it was the creme brulee that really stole the show. Deliciously rich with the requisite crisply broiled crust, this dessert was the star of our table! The accompanying cappuccino was strong and full-bodied.

Our dining experience was enhanced by the gracious and informative attention of our server, Laura; manager Hanna Keryakous, and assistant manager David Rus. Executive Chef Charles Burke and Executive Sous Chef Michael Rotchigo also joined us briefly to answer our questions about ingredients and preparations, making us feel more like guests in someone's home than patrons at a business.

Barry Manilow will lead off additions to NJPAC season

In an exclusive metropolitan area engagement of his international concert tour, pop legend Barry Manilow brings his repertoire of 38 Top 40 hits to the New Jersey Performing Arts Center for two Prudential Hall performances, April 22 at 8 p.m. and April 23 at 7 p.m. Tickets for "Manilow Live" are $35 to $100 and may be purchased by telephone at (888) 466-5722, or at the NJPAC box office at 1 Center Street in downtown Newark.

Also added to NJPAC's Spring 2000 schedule is Dutch violinist and conductor Andre Rieu, whose new television special, "Andre Rieu! 100 Years of Strauss," is currently a highlight of PBS station feeds. Rieu brings his Strauss Gala to Prudential Hall May 10 at 7 p.m. Tickets are $35 to $75. Rounding out the new list of performances is "Eric Idle Exploits Monty Python," featuring the relentlessly wacky Brit in a revue he bills as "a rather stupid evening of songs and sketches celebrating the world of Monty Python." Idle's Prudential Hall Show is June 25 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $25 to $55.

These NJPAC events are presented in association with Metropolitan Entertainment Group and Barristers Entertainment Inc.

Acclaimed by Radio & Records magazine as the number one adult contemporary artist of all time, Manilow has released 30 albums to date. The latest, "Manilow Sings Sinatra," is a tribute to the great songs that Frank Sinatra made famous, and was nominated for two Grammy Awards. Manilow has received Grammy, Emmy and Tony Awards and has been nominated for an Academy Award. The pop superstar's appearance at NJPAC features a 30-piece orchestra performing songs from his amazing catalogue of music, including the classics "Copacabana," "Mandy," "Even Now," "This One's for You," "Weekend in New England," "I Write the Songs," and "Trying to Get the Feeling Again."

Chart-topping Andre Rieu is a talented Dutch violinist and conductor of the 26-piece Johann Strauss Orchestra, which he founded in 1998. The orchestra has had audiences worldwide dancing in the aisles with their engaging renditions of classical music, Viennese waltzes, polkas and novelty numbers. Dubbed "The Waltz King," his television specials rank behind only "Riverdance" in lighting up PBS pledge phones. According to the San Francisco Chronicle, "The audience loved it, and who could blame them? The music was lovely ... and Rieu's stage presence ... was undeniably charming."

"Eric Idle's biography says that, 'Eric Idle's reputation as a creative talent is perhaps only exceeded by his reputation for being a very nice person.' A founding member of the seminal comedy group Monty Python's Flying Circus, he has recently been seen with Brooks Shields as a member of the cast of NBC-TV's situation comedy, 'Suddenly Susan.' Idle's film credits include 'Dudley Do-Right,' 'The Adventures of Baron Munchausen,' 'European Vacation,' and the Monty Python film 'The Meaning of Life.' 'The Life of Brian,' 'Monty Python and the Holy Grail,' the concert film 'Monty Python Live at the Hollywood Bowl,' and the collection of classic sketches and 'And Now for Something Completely Different.' Sharing the NJPAC stage with Idle will be the Rutland String Orchestra under the baton of John Du Prez, Sir Dirk McQuilty of the semi-legendary Rutles; The Brucs, an all-Australian drinking quartet; and Dolly Tutty, the great transatlantic country-and-western singer.

Julius La Rosa warms audience's hearts at Manor's Le Dome

By Bea Smith
Staff Writer

If anyone is wondering if there is a drastic change from the Julius La Rosa of the Arthur Godfrey Show decades ago, and the Julius La Rosa of today, one can stop wondering. The Julius La Rosa of today, at the age of 70, still exudes the boyish charm of his youth, the convictions of his songs, and the comic sense of humor that made him a star. He may have less hair, and he may have to reach a little harder for a high note, but the style is still there, and so is his versatility.

Last Thursday evening, up in Le Dome at the Manor in West Orange, from the moment La Rosa waved generously and shouted "Hello!" to a completely filled cabaret room, he had the audience thoroughly on his side. And when he sang, "You're Nobody 'Til Somebody Loves You," everyone knew that he really was somebody special.

To begin the evening, in anticipation of La Rosa's lively concert performance, my companion and I were greeted profusely by the maître d', Sammy Odeh, in the dining room, and Javier, our waiter, brought the chef's special delicacy — just to taste — a yellow pepper mousse with cous cous and pinto sauce. And with the emergence of the excellent Cabaret Soiree Manor smoked salmon carpaccio with caviar creme fraiche for my mushroom and the superb cream of wild mushroom soup for me, the divine taste really placed me into the song. "Somewhere in Time" that pianist Bobby Richards played for the guests. We enjoyed the mixed baby greens with Porcini vinaigrette as Richards offered his own rendition of "To Each His Own," which brought a young Olivia de Havilland to mind

After listening to "Embraceable You" and "Affie," my companion delighted in indulging in the champagne sesame crusted fillet of halibut with delicious Oriental stir-fry vegetables in a lemon grass sauce, while I savored the sauteed Maryland crab cakes with melted Roma tomatoes and lime-scented herbs. We could have harmonized along with "More" when the great chocolate terrine trio dessert came along with marvelous coffee, but it was so rich and tempting that one could hardly partake of the petite fours while listening to "As Time Goes By" and "Malaguena."

Then up to Le Dome for more music and lots and lots of fun provided by the charismatic La Rosa and his emotionless, but handsome pianist, Hubert Arnold, known to the audience as Tex — a man who has worked with La Rosa for many years and accompanied such famous singers as Margaret Whiting. When La Rosa sang "Days of Wine and Roses," one could hear a pin drop. "I only sing the songs I love to sing," he told the audience with conviction. And he sang a song that he had recorded 35 years ago called "I'm Glad I'm Not Young Anymore." He credited Maurice Chavalier with a more successful recording, however, that was in the French style in the film "Gigi" — this was Italian-American.

There were more songs from yesterday which the audience relished. La Rosa sang Johnny Mercer and Rodgers, Hart and Hammerstein material. It was great to hear "There's Nothing Like a Dame," a la La Rosa, and with audience participation, "As Time Goes By." The singer talked about celebrating his 44th wedding anniversary, and joked about his son and daughter and grandchild. He told the audience in music, "You Make Me Feel So Young."

Then came the Italian songs, wonderfully memorable numbers, in English and Italian — "Back to Sorrento," "Just Say I Love Her," and "A Toot A Toot," which took so much energy. La Rosa mused, "I'm getting too old for this."

And when La Rosa ended his hour concert with the lyrics to "Where or When," the audience remembered well and stood up, cheered and applauded and happily recalled where and when it first recognized the ageless Julius La Rosa.

Freeholders exhibit Kanzler's work

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders will present a photographic exhibit by Owen Kanzler titled "Antique Architectural Details of Elizabeth, New Jersey." The exhibit will be on display now through April 20 in the Freeholders Gallery, located on the 6th floor of the Union County Administration Building, Elizabethtown Plaza at Rabway Avenue, in downtown Elizabeth. The gallery is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays and also on Thursday evenings.

The photographs focus on the ornate architectural styles that flourished in Elizabeth during the late 19th and early 20th centuries — structural designs and details that are now slowly vanishing. The documentary project was made possible in part by a HEART Grant — History, Education, Arts Reaching Thousands — from the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

Kanzler is a professional photographer from Linden who is also well known for his fine-art photography, which has been widely exhibited in New Jersey for many years. For this project he applied his discerning eye and his many years of photographic experience to recording for posterity a part of our vanishing architectural heritage.

"Kanzler's traditionally crafted, black-and-white photographs capture the essence of a bygone era of architectural style and workmanship," said Freeholder Mary Ruotolo, liaison to the Cultural and Heritage Programs Advisory Board.

The Freeholders Gallery is coordinated by the Union County Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs. For more information about this exhibit and other programs and services related to the arts and Union County history, contact the Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs at 633 Pearl St., Elizabeth, NJ 07202 or telephone (908) 558-2550.

Healthy Living

Facilities offer aid to independent seniors

Assisted living is a new housing concept designed for older adults who do not wish to live alone, yet want the assurance that assistance is nearby. It is a relatively new industry that combines residential building design with a wide range of services that are usually offered at a more affordable price than other long-term care options.

Assisted living is more than a housing arrangement. It is a philosophy that supports a person's right to individuality, privacy and dignity. But with nearly 29,000 Assisted Living Facilities in the United States, it may be difficult to decide which facility is best for you or a loved one. The following are some guidelines to consider in the ALF selection process:

- Safety/Physical Considerations. When visiting a facility, try to be as observant as possible. Take a look around the building and ask yourself, "Is there sufficient parking for visitors?" "Are the grounds well maintained?" "Is the entry and parking area well lighted?" "What type of security system is in place?" "Are there smoke detectors?" "Is the building wheelchair accessible?"
- Environment. Everyone is happier in a pleasant and clean environment. Make sure the facility is free from unpleasant odors, is a comfortable temperature and has good ventilation.
- Location. Location is also an important factor when choosing an ALF, as distance may affect how often family members and friends are able to visit. Also keep in mind the facility's location in comparison to a hospital or other support services as well, and your personal physician.
- Rooms/Apartments. There are a variety of room types and sizes available in ALFs. Some offer full apartments, while others may consist of one room with a small kitchenette. Consider the type of arrangement in which you or a loved one would feel most comfortable and seek out ALFs that offer such accommodations.
- Financial. The harsh reality is that, at least in part, your decision will be based on what you can afford. Therefore, it is important to know, up front, what the total cost of care will be and what help is available through federal and state programs such as Medicaid. It is appropriate to discuss your initial financial concerns during the on-site visit. The cost of assisted living can vary significantly, so determine what is affordable to you.

• Residents and Staff. An excellent way to learn about an ALF is to talk to and observe individuals who already reside there. Are residents smiling, relaxed, properly groomed and involved with activities? Also take notice of how the staff operates. Are they pleasant, well groomed, knowledgeable, attentive and respectful?

• Activities and Daily Life. In ALFs where tenants describe themselves as happy, many tell of their "pleasant surprise" in making the transition from living alone to joining an assisted living community — because there "is just so much to do." Assisted living activities should include a variety of social and recreational opportunities as well as frequent entertainment and cultural events. Some ALFs offer beauty and barber services on premises, provisions for personal laundry, guest accommodations, emergency call systems, cable television and personal telephone hook-ups and/or regularly scheduled transportation.

Most importantly, remember that the decision to enter an ALF must take into consideration the needs of both the individual and the family. Options must be well researched and every family member should have a voice.

The Saint Barnabas Health Care System has three Assisted Living Residences located throughout New Jersey: The Assisted Living Residence at Clara Maass Continuing Care Center at Kearny, Nottingham House Assisted Living Residence in Toms River and Saint Barnabas Assisted Living at Lakewood. All the Saint Barnabas Assisted Living Residences provide residents with freedom from worry as they gracefully grow older.

A free brochure with common questions and answers on assisted living is available as a public service from the Saint Barnabas Health Care System. Write to "Assisted Living Information," Saint Barnabas Assisted Living Residences, 695 Chestnut St., Union, NJ 07083.

Overlook Hospital Heria Center offers expert, cutting-edge care

The newest surgical options in hernia care are now available at Overlook Hospital/Atlantic Health System in Summit. Hernia sufferers can seek expert care by physicians specializing exclusively in hernia repair.

An estimated five million Americans suffer from hernias. Each year, according to the National Center for Health Statistics, more than 700,000 hernia repairs are performed, but physicians believe that hundreds of thousands more never seek medical attention for their pain due to fear of a long and painful recuperation time. But recent advances in hernia-repair surgery techniques enable sufferers to consider surgery without all of these concerns.

Overlook Hospital offers the newest in hernia repair treatment options, including tension-free surgical techniques, which use a prosthetic mesh, to fill the space created by hernia. Over the following weeks, surrounding tissue will grow around and through the mesh creating a strong repair. This procedure can be performed as same-day surgery under local anesthesia and enables many patients to quickly return to normal activity.

"Overlook Hospital offers the most advanced treatment options using the most current medical equipment available in the industry," says Dr. Jerrold S. Lozner, vice president of Medical Affairs. "We hope Overlook's new Hernia Center will encourage anyone who thinks they may experience hernia symptoms to get an expert opinion and receive the best quality care available in hernia treatment."

A life-altering condition. A hernia is a protrusion of an organ or tissue through an abnormal opening in the body. Most hernias occur when a piece of intestine slips through a weakness or tear in the abdominal wall, creating an opening through which a bulge can be both felt and seen. If the protruding tissue becomes trapped in the opening, its blood supply can be cut off, creating a strangulated hernia — a potentially life-threatening condition that will require emergency surgery.

But even when a hernia is not life-threatening, the constant pain that worsens with activity can make the condition life-altering. Normally, strong and active people may find they need to take frequent breaks at work, experiencing pain with the simple exertion of picking up a child, and otherwise sit on the sidelines of life.

Only surgery can repair the abdominal wall, correct or prevent a strangulated hernia and eliminate the chronic pain that interferes with normal activity. A recently released report, called the Bard-Roper Starch Report, reveals that almost everyone in the country knows more or less what a hernia is. But this report shows that Americans are in the dark when it comes to hernia causes, symptoms and repair methods. Of the people surveyed, 98 percent erroneously believe that lifting a heavy object can cause a hernia, and more than half incorrectly believe that coughing can bring on the condition. The report was conducted by Roper Starch Worldwide for Rhode Island-based health-care products company Davol Inc., a subsidiary of C.R. Bard Inc.

"The fact is, lifting a heavy object or coughing may intensify the symptoms of an existing hernia, but a hernia doesn't develop out of the blue," says Dr. Lozner.

No need to suffer. Hernias can develop slowly over a period of months or years, or can come on quite suddenly. Anyone can develop a hernia at any age. Nonetheless, the condition is most common in men, and often occurs in the unsupported space left in the groin. Hernias also occur in newborns and women, especially women who have experienced pregnancy and childbirth.

For more information about hernias and today's surgical repair techniques, call Overlook Hospital/Atlantic Health System at (908) 522-5888.

A free press is the strength behind democracy.

At Worrall Community Newspapers, reporters learn what it takes to become good reporters. Why? Because reporting for one or more of our weekly newspapers means becoming involved in the communities we serve. From news stories to features, from council coverage to police blotters, from community events to the Board of Education, reporters are the eyes and ears of all of our readers. Worrall Newspapers, which publishes 18 newspapers serving 26 towns, has openings for reporters in its Essex and Union County regions. If you think you have what it takes to be a reporter, send resume and clips to Editor Tom Canavan, P.O. Box 3109, Union, N.J., 07083, or fax to (908) 686-4169.
