WORRALL COMMUNITY NEWSPAPERS

THURSDAY, APRIL 19, 2001 - SECTION B

http://www.localsource.com

Opportunity districts

At a weekend meeting, supporters of Assemblyman Joe Suliga studied the impact of the newly-created state legislative districts. The reconstituted 22nd District would run from Suliga's Linden through Rahway through Scotch Plains into Somerset County. Focusing on one of the communities in Somerset with no visible Democratic influence, a supporter quipped "even in our best districts in Linden there are still Republicans."

The newly-announced map will influence districts in every part of the state. The plan was approved by an otherwise obscure Princeton Professor Larry Bartels selected by Chief Justice Deborah Poritz to break ties between the state Republicans and Democrats. But more about Bartels later.

By Frank Capece

Sitting at Il Giardino restaurant in Cranford last Thursday evening, Commissioner Tom Denny's most immediate decision was whether or not to order to chicken fraise. Denny is seeking the Assembly nomination in the newly-created and very Republican-friendly 21st District in the center of the county.

Denny knew the realities of some basic division. Namely along with Tom Kean Jr. of Westfield, Eric Muñoz of Summit and Joel Weingarten of Millburn are seeking Assembly slots. Four, however does not go into two.

Denny said this week, "I am absolutely in the race until the last vote." Denny likes to speak about the excessive reliance on the property tax to fund the stream of state expenditures.

For Suliga the past experience as a local official, freeholder, and service as a member of the Appropriation Committee in the Assembly, the move to the Senate appears to be an easier path. His Senate nomination will probably occur with no primary opposition. The new Democratic-leaning District makes him a favorite to move to the upper house.

The Republicans' first battle remains with Bartels. A decade ago in order to ensure minority representation, total urban districts were created. As a result, Democratic strength in the suburbs was weakened. The new map proposes so-called opportunity districts.

In place of 90-percent-plus minority districts, the new plan has a series of 50-percent-plus districts. Republicans call it "racist." Democrats after 10 years of Republican domination in the Legislature, reject the charge, saying sour grapes is more accurate.

While the matter of the final districts will be subject to court challenges, the Democrats have the edge in the Suliga district, the Republicans in the new 21 a strong edge with towns Roselle Park, Cranford, Westfield, Summit, Berkeley Heights, New Providence as well as communities in Essex, Morris and Somerset.

So with something like the early morning line, here's a very unscientific look at so-called winners and losers. This is of course subject to the fact they haven't had the election yet.

Winner: Joe Suliga. The new district allows him to move up to the Senate. The hope is that the county could benefit if he gets selected to the Senate Appropriation Committee where his expertise can be utilized.

Winner: Neil Cohen. His new district allows him to pick up his old hometown of Union.

Winner: Richard Bagger. His Senate seat seems a slam dunk, with a new 21st District that's even more Republican than the one he had in the past.

A whole new ballgame for fall elections

New legislative map will spur changes within county

By Mark Hrywna
Regional Editor

A new legislative map approved by the state's Reapportionment Commission has Democrats optimistic about gaining seats in the Legislature, specifically in Union County, where Assembly and State Senate elections are expected to be more competitive. A federal court judge in Newark upheld the new map after Republicans filed suit against the map, calling it unfair to minority voters. The GOP planned an appeal Tuesday.

State Democrats and Republicans each submitted a map to the Reapportionment Commission and the commission's tiebreaker, appointed by the State Supreme Court Chief Justice, Princeton professor Larry Bartels, supported the Democratic version. Following the 1990 Census, the Redistricting Commission supported a GOP map.

The new map creates a much more competitive 22nd District in Union County with the addition of Democratic strongholds Linden from the 20th District and Plainfield from the 17th District and the subtraction of several GOP towns, including Berkeley Heights, New Providence and Westfield.

"It will in effect create two Democrat-leaning districts," county Democratic Chairman Charlotte DeFilippo said of the new legislative map. "That's based on performance in the past. These unbundle the Democratic districts unlike the map of 10 years ago." Union, she said, is traditionally a high Democratic-performing county. She added that Union County now has three districts that are geographically contained, unlike the last map.

The redistricting "results in a map that is going to have a very competitive election for control this fall," said Assemblyman Richard Bagger of Westfield, "but also in elections during the next decade." It's still very possible Republicans will retain the majority in the Legislature, he said. The GOP currently holds a 45-35 advantage in the Assembly and a 25-15 edge in the Senate.

Bagger described Union County as "one of the key pieces of redistricting," since Democrats have a shot at reducing the GOP advantage or taking control in the Legislature. Two of the three Union County districts are presently safe Republican districts but under the new map, one of the GOP districts will lean Democratic, the 22nd.

Republicans have not won county-wide in many years, one Democrat said, and should not control two of the three senate seats.

County Republican Chairman Ronald Frigerio described the process as "a tragedy of errors," since parties have had to scramble for candidates before today's filing deadline. "It makes no sense to do it under duress of time."

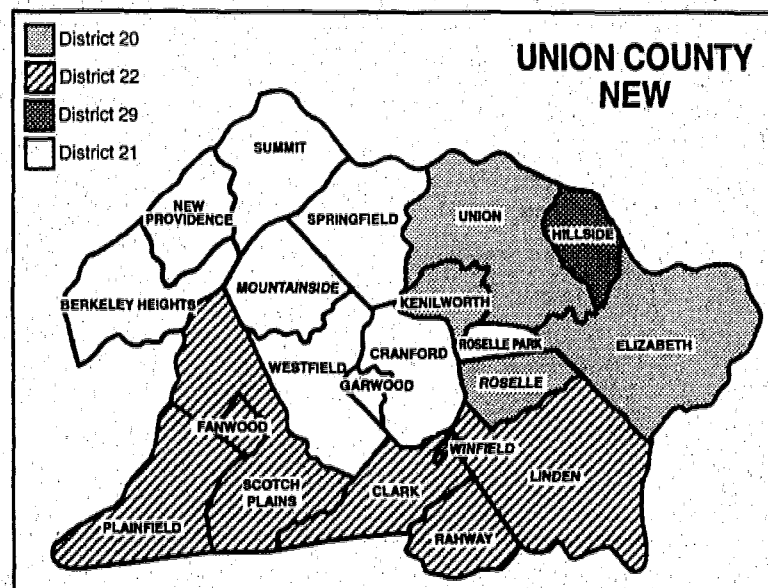

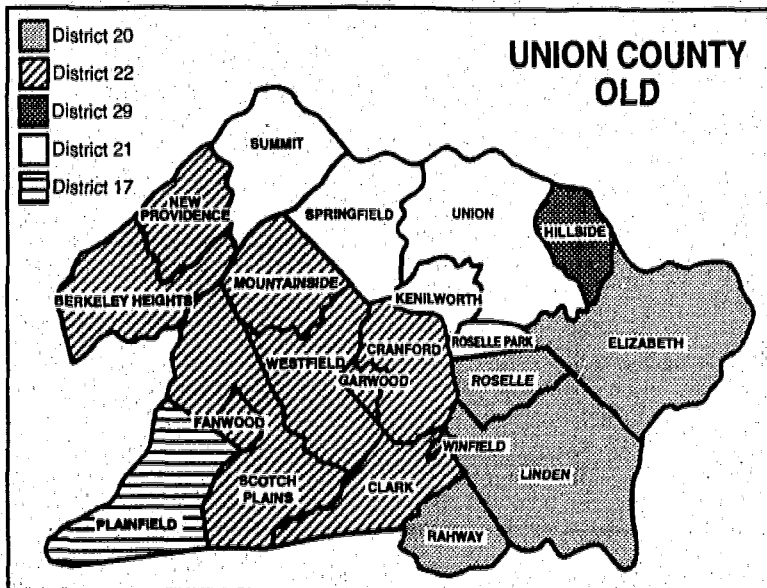

Republicans had been planning to meet this past Monday to select a candidate to run with Assemblyman Tom Kean Jr. of Westfield in the fall but with the court challenge still pending leaders decided to cancel the convention. Bagger had been planning to run for Acting Gov. and State Senate President Donald DiFrancesco's seat in the 22nd District, but now will seek the 21st District since Westfield was moved.

The deadline to file for Assembly and Senate was pushed back a week, until today.

"Forget partisan politics, people just don't know what's going on, with no time left."

Frigerio suggested the parties run this fall under the old districts while boundaries are redrawn over the next two years. "Let it stay the way it is and let the courts fight it out."

Freeholder appoint Open Space Advisory Committee

By Mark Hrywna
Regional Editor

The Board of Chosen Freeholders last week filled appointments to the 12-member Union County Open Space, Recreation and Historic Preservation Trust Fund Public Advisory Committee. The freeholder board earlier this year decided to create an advisory committee with one Republican, one Democrat, three members from the public at large, two environmental representatives, one historic representative and one each from labor and business, in addition to representatives from county government.

The committee will recommend how to spend the money raised through the trust fund, approved last year by voters.

• Republican: Summit Councilman Henry Ogden. He served on the county's ad hoc committee last year which studied the tax impact of an open space trust fund and solicited public input. He is the son of former Assemblywoman Maureen Ogden, who currently serves on the board of the Garden State Preservation Trust, which approves funding for open space preservation.

• Democrat: Cranford Mayor George Jorin. He also serves on the county's shared services committee.

• Public: Oscar Ocasio of Elizabeth, Cindy Theissen of Union and David Winn of Plainfield. Ocasio is the director of planning and community development for the city of Elizabeth and Winn is the recreation director for the city of Plainfield.

These terms expire Dec. 31.

• Environment: Jimmy Lynch of Rahway and Elizabeth Brody of Roselle. Lynch is natural resource manager for the city of Rahway and active in an organization involving the Rahway River. Brody, an attorney, also served on the county's ad hoc committee last year.

• Historic: Clark Municipal Historian Brian Toal.

• Labor: John Malcolm of Garwood is president of a labor union within Union County.

• Business: Debbie Lyons of Summit. These terms expire Dec. 31, 2002.

• Freeholder Open Space Committee chairman: Linda Stender or designee.

• Union County Manager: Michael Lapolla or designee.

• Union County Economic Development: George Devaney or designee.

• Union County Parks: Director Charles Sigmond or designee.

• Union County Cultural and Heritage: Director Susan Coen or designee. These terms expire Dec. 31, 2003.

The county enacted the Open Space, Recreation and Historic Preservation Trust Fund this year following approval from voters last fall. The fund will collect $0.15 per $100 of assessed value annually for the next 20 years. A majority of the nearly $5 million raised each year will go to fund capital improvements recommended in the county's open space and recreation master plan.

The county recently applied to the state for $1.5 million for open space and acquisition efforts. Lapolla said there should be some activity from the Open Space Advisory Committee within the next month.

Open space has been targeted throughout the county for acquisition, as much as 90 acres. Most of the land is made up of small parcels in and around county parks and nearly half of the land sits near the Sheriff's K-9 complex on Glenside Avenue in Summit; a 45-acre tract currently owned by the New Jersey-American Water Co.

Schundler assembles line for ballot position

By Mark Hrywna
Regional Editor

For the second consecutive year, the June primary for the Board of Chosen Freeholders will be contested in both parties, however, the candidates are not necessarily making winning their top goal.

The party line for both Democrats and Republicans will be challenged, however, the purpose has more to do with favorable ballot positions than actually trying to gain a seat on the nine-member board. By law, candidates with at least two freeholder candidates on the line have priority when it comes to ballot position.

Jersey City Mayor Bret Schundler's campaign has assembled a line of freeholder candidates under the Union County Republican Party line. In the gubernatorial primary, Schundler, a native of Westfield, will face State Sen. President and Acting Gov. Donald DiFrancesco of Scotch Plains who is on the Regular Organization Republican of Union County line. The Schundler campaign has assembled freeholder lines in several other counties as well.

Awarded the organization's GOP line a few weeks ago were Roselle Park Councilman Ricky Badillo, Andy MacDonald of Fanwood and Paul Marques of Elizabeth. Schundler's line will include former Springfield Mayor Jeffrey Katz, Barbara Timko of Scotch Plains and Robert Jeffrey Schundler of Westfield, the mayor's brother. The Schundler line, however, will not be an active freeholder campaign.

Incumbent Democrats Daniel Sullivan of Elizabeth, Mary Ruotolo of Westfield and Lewis Mingo Jr. will be seeking re-election on the Regular Democratic Organization of Union County line. They will face opposition from three candidates under the Democrats for Change line: Becky McHugh of Linden and Elizabeth residents George O'Grady and Armando DaSilva.

On the Democratic side, an insurgent group in Elizabeth has been trying to knock Mayor J. Christian Bollwage out of power for several years. In 1998, Democrats for Change gained some seats within the county committee, which selects chairmen and candidates. Democrats for Change ran a ticket of freeholders last year with former Gov. Jim Florio, who faced Jon Corzine of Summit in the U.S. Senate primary.

Annual forum against hate slated for Wednesday

For the seventh consecutive year, the Union County Committee Against Hate is presenting a dramatic community forum of anti-bias messages at a program set for Wednesday at 7 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church of Westfield, 140 Mountain Ave., Westfield.

Research Scientist Joyce Hunter, an assistant professor in the Department of Psychiatry at Columbia University, and Special Agent In Charge Kevin P. Donovan of the Newark Office of the FBI will highlight the community forum called "Standing Together Against Hate VII."

Hunter, who will provide an overview of current women's issues, health risk issues, controversies involving sexual preference bias and race and cultural diversity, will be the keynote speaker. The forum also will include a presentation by Donovan.

The annual program in the memory of the late Union County Prosecutor Andrew K. Ruotolo Jr. will be conducted this year in the memory of Donald Bagger, the late father of Assemblyman Richard Bagger, who also is a co-sponsor and committee member. It also will honor the memory of Tarquin Bromley, the late husband of committee member Linda Van Fos-

sen. Special awards will be presented to Milt Faith of Scotch Plains for his volunteer work in helping victims and to Aliza Burns of Scotch Plains for her many hours of work for the committee.

The program is free. The program will open with a short movie, "Forbidden Love," that informs viewers about interracial relationships and hate crimes about sexual preference. It will conclude with a brief reception.

Task force sessions

New leaders appointed for Mothers & More

The Union County Chapter of Mothers & More recently appointed Mary Sterling and Jan Schwartz as the chapter's new co-leaders.

Sterling, a former product development manager who lives in Cranford with her husband and two children, joined Mothers & More 18 months ago after deciding to stay home following the birth of her second child. "After having my first child, I continued to work both full-time and part-time on and off for four years," Sterling said. "Financially, it was necessary, but I was not happy. In my heart, I wanted to be home."

"When my second child was born, I was ready to make the switch to staying home full-time. I loved being home with my children, but missed the office camaraderie. Mothers & More helped make that adjustment easier. I've made some great friends and enjoy spending time with other mothers who share common interests."

A former government human resources specialist, Schwartz joined Mothers & More a year ago. She lives in Clark with her husband and 18-month-old son. "After I had my son, I felt isolated," Schwartz said. "Until I read about Mothers & More, I didn't realize there were groups like ours out there. When I went to a meeting and saw other mothers dealing with some of the same issues as me, I felt less alone. It was great to meet a group of women with shared parenting experiences."

Sterling and Schwartz share numerous responsibilities include running bi-monthly meetings and overseeing various committees within the chapter including advocacy, fund-raising, planning, publicity and treasury. They also take turns attending quarterly meetings with regional coordinators. They are hoping to add a third person to the leadership team to help with the workload.

Mothers & More is an international not-for-profit organization supporting women who have altered their career paths in order to care for their children at home. Since its founding in 1987, the organization has grown to 8,000 members and 180 chapters in the United States and Canada. The Union County chapter offers a variety of activities including evening discussions, guest speakers, mom's night out, book discussion, craft club, mom and tot outings and weekly daytime play groups.

For more information on Mothers & More call Sterling at (908) 272-8982 or Schwartz at (732) 381-3199.

Annual Candlelight Ball

Three volunteers and four Knights of Columbus chapters from across Union County will be honored by The Arc of Union County for their dedication and ongoing support of people with developmental disabilities and their families. The honorees will be feted at The Arc of Union County's annual Candlelight Ball on April 28 at L'Affaire on Route 22 in Mountainside.

Internationally-renowned opera singer, producer and composer Jerome Hines will attend the event and is honorary chair. The dinner dance/fund-raiser begins at 7 p.m. Tickets are available in advance or at the door for $95.

"The Candlelight Ball gives us a great opportunity to pay tribute to the unwavering support and dedication of our volunteers. Their tireless efforts over the years have resulted in outstanding programs and services for the 700 people and families that we serve," said Executive Director Frank Caragher.

Honorees include Barbara Bunting of Summit, Frances and Robert Feldman of North Plainfield and four Knights of Columbus chapters from Cranford, Linden, New Providence and Roselle.

"It's been a sheer pleasure to work with such wonderful people like Barbara Bunting and the Feldmans," Caragher said. "Barbara's ability to bring funding sources to the Arc of Union County has truly made it possible for our Murray Hill center to operate. Frances and Bob Feldman have volunteered their time and energy for 37 years. They've done so much for the people that we serve."

"We're also pleased to honor the Knights of Columbus for their many years of fund-raising and generosity. We appreciate their willingness to collect money on local streets and at stores on behalf of children with developmental disabilities. It's particularly important that as younger members join the Knights of Columbus, they understand the significance of what the past generations have done for us and the community."

ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

Rahway's guild will honor Holocaust

The Arts Guild of Rahway will present an exhibit of metaphorical and allegorical drawings by South Orange artist Johann "Joe" Jochnowitz titled "Yom Hashoah: Remembering the Holocaust" today through May 18. There will be a reception with the artist Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m. Admission is free.

April 19, 2001 is designated this year by the Jewish Community as Yom Hashoah, literally, the Day of the Holocaust. This day is set aside for a recognition and day of remembering of the tragic events of World War II known as the Holocaust, the attempted genocide of all Jews by the regime of Nazi Germany.

The exhibit at the Arts Guild of Rahway — "Remembering the Holocaust" — begins today, the day of remembering. It features a series of charcoal drawings by Jochnowitz, an artist and popular professor of art at Kean University in Union. Jochnowitz has been working on this series for at least six or seven years.

As a young boy growing up during World War II, Jochnowitz recalls being aware of the events in Europe, hearing news of the stormtroopers and atrocities perpetrated upon the Jews. He found it difficult to accept that there was no unified policy by this country or any others regarding the mass murder of literally millions of Jews in the death camps. He sought to suppress his thoughts and feelings. He did not wish to be singled out or to be different. He wanted only to be an all-American boy, the same as his friends.

The trigger that brought all of those thoughts and feelings to the surface was the Iraqi War of the last decade. There was talk of gas, chemical weapons and missiles. Jochnowitz was appalled at the thought of innocent children and women being killed during World War II.

He began to see images appearing in his dreams, some of which were recurring. He saw parts of pictures in nature — in the clouds, in the sky or the trees all around him. He dedicated himself to the task of producing this series of drawings, of recording these nightmarish images he could no longer avoid. Jochnowitz chose the medium of charcoal for these pictures because of the reference to ashes and thus to the ovens in the death camps — the crematoria where uncounted numbers were murdered. He used a few recurring motifs such as rock and rock formations for their evocation of timelessness, of the countless years it took to erode the material. The images are powerful responses to a time of madness in world history — to the death of innocents and the attempted extermination of an entire population.

Gallery hours are Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays from 1 to 4 p.m.; Thursdays from 1 to 3 and 5 to 7 p.m., or by appointment.

The Arts Guild is located at 1670 Irving St., Rahway, at the corner of Seminary Avenue. Call (732) 381-7511 for information and directions.

This exhibit is funded by Merck and Co., Inc.

Saturday's concert will benefit counseling service

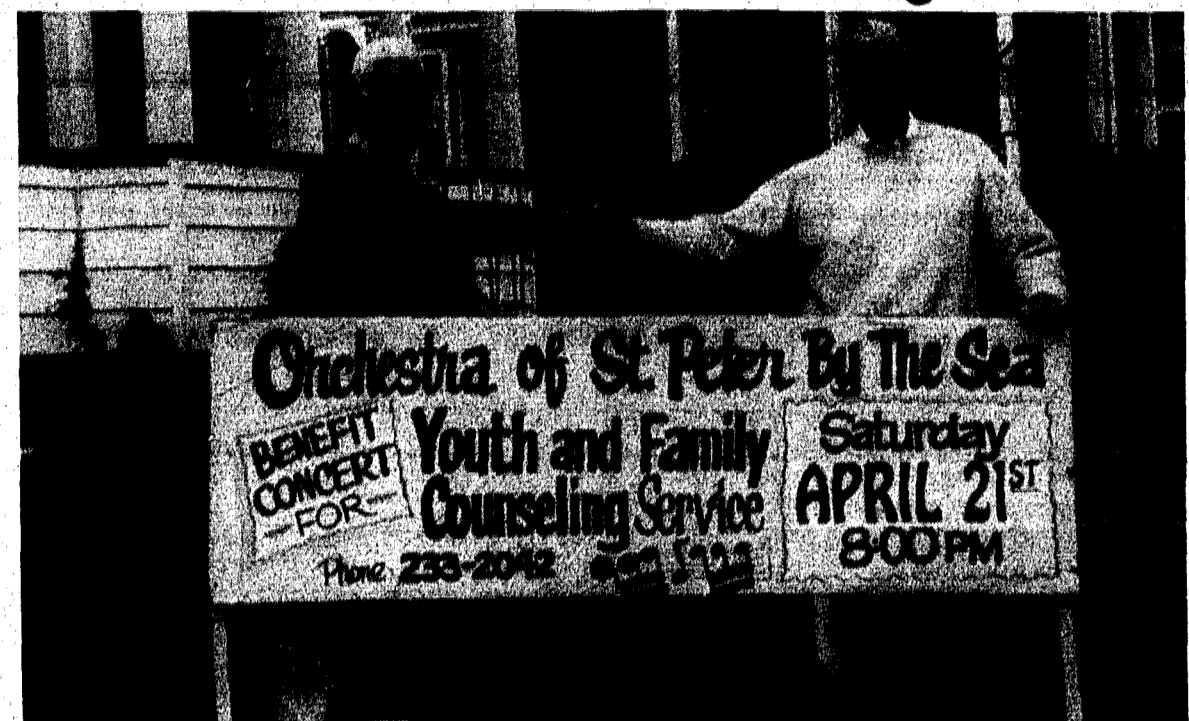

Youth and Family Counseling Service is preparing for its annual benefit concert Saturday at 8 p.m. at Union Catholic Regional High School in Scotch Plains.

With a new program in a new location, the concert by the Orchestra of St. Peter by the Sea, conducted by the Rev. Alphonse Stephenson for the 11th consecutive year, will be the agency's major fund-raiser.

Father Alphonse and his 45-member orchestra of professional musicians have played for audiences for the past 15 years, both on tour and at their summer open-air concert series, the Festival of the Atlantic, at Point Pleasant Beach. In previous performances to benefit YFCS, audiences have enjoyed an evening of fresh and delightful symphonic and vocal soloists. Every concert is enhanced by witty, educational introductions by the priest-conductor.

Frank Sullebarger, chairman of the Concert Committee says, "We hope that many people will celebrate the return of Fr. Alphonse, as he brings his orchestra's joyful sounds to the auditorium of Union Catholic Regional High School in Scotch Plains."

Tickets for Saturday's concert are $26 for general admission, $23 for senior citizens, and $10 for students 18 years old and younger. Patron preferred seating is available for $50. Sponsor listings in the evening's program, which include two patron tickets to the concert, are available for contributions of $300 or more.

Tickets are now available at the following outlets: Country Squire Men's Shop and O'Johnnies Hallmark in Clark; Michelle's Hallmark in Cranford; Irma's Bag in Fanwood; Bayberry Card and Gift Shop and Patterson's Interiors in Mountainside; Swain's Galleries in Plainfield; Nuts 'n' Plenty in Scotch Plains, and Lancaster Limited in Westfield.

Tickets are also available by calling (908) 233-2042 or by visiting the YFCS office at 233 Prospect St., Westfield.

Youth and Family Counseling Service is an independent, non-profit agency serving the residents of Berkeley Heights, Clark, Cranford, Garwood, Mountainside, Rahway, Scotch Plains, and Westfield.

It provides counselling and mental health services to individuals, families, couples and groups on a sliding fee scale. The benefit concert helps support YFCS programs related to parenting skills, parent/teen communication, and other family issues.

Literary luncheon will benefit area charities

The Junior League of Elizabeth-Plainfield will host its second annual Literary Luncheon benefiting the league's community service projects in Union County, serving women and children in crisis, April 26 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at The Chanticleer, 500 Millburn Ave., Short Hills.

The event will feature a distinguished panel of authors who will discuss their literary careers and latest releases and personally sign copies of their books for guests. The authors' books will be available for purchase at the luncheon. Linda Fairstein, mystery writer and Manhattan Assistant District Attorney, a panelist at last year's Literary Luncheon, will return as the Master of Ceremonies. A silent auction and raffle will also be held.

Her first novel, "A Woman of Substance," was on the New York Times best-seller list for 15 months. Bradford's forthcoming release, "The Triumph of Katie Byrne," will be available at the event.

Sarah Ban Breathnach: Author of the New York Times No. 1 best-sellers "Simple Abundance: A Daybook of Comfort" and "Joy and Something More." "Simple Abundance" was on the best-seller list for more than two years, topping the list at number one for a year. Carol Higgins Clark: Clark is the author of the best-selling Regan Reilly mystery series and the daughter of suspense writer, Mary Higgins Clark. Their first joint work, "Deck the Halls," recently reached No. 4 on the New York Times bestseller list.

Elise Primavera: Primavera is the award-winning author and illustrator of more than 20 children's books.

The proceeds from the event will support the Junior League's mission of assisting women and children in crisis. Through the development of projects and partnerships with local community agencies, the JLEP makes significant impact on the lives of families in need in greater Union County.

Tickets are $60 each. They are available by calling (908) 709-1177 or at the following locations: The Jumble Store, 110 Walnut Ave., Cranford; and The Town Book Store of Westfield, 255 E. Broad St., Westfield.

Therapeutic quilts highlight J&J's Healing Garden

The Healing Garden Quilt Show will be on display at Johnson and Johnson's World Headquarters Gallery in New Brunswick from through May 22. The exhibit features quilts depicting plants that are being used or tested for the treatment of cancer.

Handmade quilts have long been a favorite art form of the American experience.

The Healing Garden Quilt Show serves to demonstrate the relationship between nature and chemotherapy in the fight against cancer, using this colorful medium. The show, featuring 27 quilts created by the Northern Virginia Quilters group, has been touring hospitals and cancer treatment centers since 1998.

The purpose of the show is to encourage medical centers, hospitals and clinics to develop their own healing gardens and to involve their local communities, including artists, in health care education. Healing gardens — places set aside for the display of plants used in pharmacology, specifically chemotherapy — serve as serene places for education, introspection and renewal.

The exhibit is being offered by the Society for the Arts in Healthcare, an organization dedicated to promoting the incorporation of the arts as an integral component of health care. Johnson and Johnson has funded the touring of the show and the creation of related educational programs.

"Johnson and Johnson is pleased to provide a venue for this unique exhibition," said Julie Alderson, art administrator, Johnson and Johnson. "We believe that the arts are vital to all of us and to our communities."

The Johnson and Johnson World Headquarters Gallery is located at 1 Johnson and Johnson Plaza, New Brunswick. The gallery is open by appointment only. For more information about fine art exhibitions at the gallery, call (732) 524-3698.

County seeks area artisans for Harvest Fest

The Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders is looking for artisans, crafts people and food vendors to demonstrate colonial-era or Native American work/craft skills and to sell their wares at the 20th annual Harvest Festival scheduled for Sept. 30.

The event is a celebration of colonial and Native American life featuring music, Native American dancing, a Revolutionary War military encampment, children's crafts, colonial food, games and much more. The Harvest Festival will take place, rain or shine, at Trailside Nature and Science Center in Mountainside, Sept. 30 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"This popular Harvest Festival attracts about 7,000 visitors each year," said Freeholder Deborah Scanlon, liaison to the Parks and Recreation Advisory Board. "By participating, vendors and crafts demonstrators will receive excellent exposure and have the opportunity to educate others about their craft or work skill and the colonial time period in general."

Examples of craft and work skills being sought are: blacksmithing, kick-wheel pottery, broom making, quilting, shoe making, hat making and other Colonial crafts or skills.

For details about how to participate, call the Union County Department of Parks and Recreation at (908) 527-4900.

Cranford Festival will feature art

The Cranford Arts and Crafts Festival scheduled for May 6 will include an area for artists to display their original work.

"Art on Alden Street" will feature artists, non-commercial photographers and sculptors. This area is directly adjacent to North Union Street at the enormously popular street fair. Selling and display space will be offered at a reduced price to artists selling their own work.

For more information, contact the Cranford Chamber of Commerce at (908) 272-6114 or the event's promoter, The Advertising Alliance at (908) 995-2246.

Westfield, NJ - A new free report has recently been released that reveals information every car accident victim should have before they speak to anyone. Research shows even a "friendly" talker can cause pain, headaches, even arthritis. Many car accident victims worry more about their car than they do their rights. If you have been involved in an auto accident, listen to the 24-hour toll-free recorded message by calling 1-888-216-9972. The call is free and so is the report.

NJIO to welcome spring with concert 'Meet the Musicians' talk will precede program

The New Jersey Intergenerational Orchestra of Cranford, conducted by Lorraine Marks, will perform a program at Cranford High School Sunday, starting at 2:30 p.m.

The concert will feature two outstanding artists: pianist Allison Brewster Franzetti, who has appeared not only in various concert halls in the United States, but has recorded in Europe as well; and renowned jazz violinist John Blake, making his second appearance with the NJIO. Beginning at 2:30 p.m. is a pre-concert talk and "Meet the Musicians and Their Instruments" for children and adults. Admission is $4 at the door, and $2 for senior citizens and students.

The program is a mixture of music that will appeal to a wide variety of audience members of all ages.

The NJIO, the only orchestra in this state with an intergenerational configuration between the ages of 4 and 89, is now in its seventh year. It has achieved a great amount of media attention and success over the past six years, performing as far away as Washington, D.C., appearing on NBC, CBS, Lincoln Center Plaza Fountain Concert Series, the United Nations, and playing many concerts in the New Jersey metropolitan area. The NJIO has performed in Monroe Township, inaugurating the township's newly established Cultural Commission, and was invited to open the lecture series of renowned author Andrew Weil, which was held at the newly renovated Trenton War Memorial.

Marks has also been awarded many citations for her work with the orchestra. Among them was the Somerset County Commission on the Status of Women, as "Outstanding Woman of the Year in the Arts in Somerset County;" and the prestigious Pride Award for People Who Made a Difference in the Arts, sponsored by New Jersey Monthly Magazine. Marks has recently made public service announcements for "Intergenerational" programs for UPN Channel 9 News and radio station WQXR in New York City for their millennium celebration. She was featured on national television with the orchestra on "The CBS Morning Show," "Windows on America," and "NBC Four Stories." She was also featured on the CBS Weekend News in August. Recently, the Spring 2001 issue of New Jersey Savvy Living magazine carried a story with a picture of Marks.

The NJIO has performed for such organizations as the American Heart Association, the Special Wishes Foundation, and Kessler Institute for Rehabilitation. A lecture-slide presentation on the Birth of an Orchestra is presented to many local and statewide civic organizations.

For information on the NJIO, call (908) 709-0084, visit the web site at www.bobdevlin.com/njio.html, or send e-mail to ri.NJIOrch@aol.com.

Funding has been made possible through a grant from the New Jersey State Council on the Arts/Department of State, and administered through the Union County Division of Cultural and Heritage Affairs, and also in part by the Cranford Public Schools, and the Rotary Club of Cranford.

Thirty-four Kean University students and staff members will exhibit their photographs through May 2 at the Les Malamut Art Gallery in the Union Public Library, Friberger Park on Morris Avenue in Union.

There will be an opportunity to meet the artists at a reception April 21 from 2 to 4 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

"The photographs represent a wide range of subject matter and photographic processes," said Donald Lokuta, professor of photography in the graphic communications program at Kean University. "Beginning and advanced students are represented, and the exhibition includes black-and-white photography, color prints, digital images and experimental mixed-media photographs."

Among the exhibitors are: Chanel Wilson of Newark, who will exhibit a brilliantly colored photograph of children in Egypt; who will exhibit a complex and psychological computer-generated collage titled "Me, Age 9."

'Final Destination' by Alexa House of Union is among the works on display at the Les Malamut Art Gallery. The exhibit features photographic work by students and staff members from Kean University.

"The purpose of the exhibition is to focus on the extraordinary, creative efforts of the photography students at Kean University," Lokuta said. "They all approach photography at the highest level of art. Many of the photographs are very personal psychological images while others are beautifully composed aesthetic compositions."

McLynn's is a pot o' gold
By Bill VanSant
Associate Editor
Situating on the bustling Morris Avenue in Springfield is McLynn's — but is it a quaint family-owned and -operated eatery or a portal to the pubs dotting the Irish countryside?
Either way, what awaits visitors is a journey into taste sensation wrapped in a charming, relaxed and family-friendly atmosphere.
With two dining rooms — the smoking section overlooks the bar with its arched, carved wooden wine rack surrounding the behind-the-bar mirror — the restaurant is convenient enough for a business lunch, comfortable enough for a fun night out with a group of friends, and charming enough for that all-important first date. The menu's array runs the gamut from snacks, all of which would make perfect accompaniment with after-work drinks, to full meals. In addition, a chalk board boasted the day's specials, plus an appetizer and two desserts.
Before even ordering, the eyes of my companion and myself were caught by the on-table standing menus; beers, six of which on tap with seasonal additions; a small but comprehensive wine list with an accommodating range of prices, and McLynn's special martini menu. According to manager Stephen Keller, the returned popularity of martinis prompted them to create some of their own as house specials, eight in all. While I savored a smooth and delicate Chocolate Lovers Tini, made with Stolichinaya vodka and Godiva Chocolate Liqueur, my companion opted for the traditional variety made with Sapphire gin. Both were superb and created to perfection. Keller said the list will be updated every six months or so.
For the appetizer and salad courses, we shared menu selections, sensing that the portions in store would be more than filling. The stuffed Portobello mushrooms were delicious, rich but not heavy, filled with spinach, tomatoes and melted mozzarella, with all the flavors marrying well in the dish. It's important to note that among the only three foods this writer does not like are olives, which were listed as being an ingredient — yet with a simple request to our gracious and attentive server, Michael, not an olive was present when the mushrooms arrived at the table.
The fresh mozzarella and tomato salad was crisp and refreshing. Made with field greens, the salad boasted firm tomatoes and fresh, moist mozzarella in a light balsamic vinaigrette which didn't overpower the cheese, but complemented it beautifully.
For our main courses, my companion raved over the New England style scrod, describing it as "flavorful, firm and flaky." The mashed potatoes accompanying the scrod were smooth, a nice change of pace from "smashed," which has been a culinary trend of late. "Lumps have become so popular," she commented, "I can't remember the last time I had potatoes that tasted like this."
The 22-ounce rib-eye steak I selected was prepared exquisitely, and was deliciously drenched in its own natural juices. The baked potato beside the steak was so large it resembled a foil-wrapped ostrich egg and was firm without being "crunchy."
Only the sauteed vegetable medley accompanying both entrees was a mixed bag. While the onions — one of the easiest vegetables to overcook — were perfectly prepared, the peppers and broccoli were a little overdone, while the carrots could have been a little more tender. The taste, however, was as impeccable as the food that came before and after.
With our coffee, my companion and I shared the evening's two dessert specials: pecan pie and tiramisu, both of which were rich without being overly heavy, and finished off the meal on a perfect note.
The menu is inexpensively to moderately priced, with all entrees costing less than $15. The atmosphere is friendly and comfortable. The food is deliciously prepared and charmingly presented and served.
With all this, who needs to go to Ireland when Springfield is so close?

NJCVA to offer monotype class

The New Jersey Center for Visual Arts in Summit is offering an innovative class in Monoprint, or Monotype.

This is the simple method of creating a plate, then sending it through a press to create one-of-a-kind images. "Monoprint has enjoyed a surge of popularity lately due to its painterly qualities," says the instructor, Jessica Lenard. "When texture and image are skillfully combined with rich and colorful inks, beautiful and unique art can be produced. The options are limitless and no experience is necessary — only the desire to create."

Lenard has shown in Europe and New York, and currently has a show traveling through the Ukraine.

Registration for classes is Friday and Saturday. Call NJCVA at (908) 273-9121 for details. A related workshop in Collograph will be offered May 5 and 12.

Planting season means looking at new varieties

By Jeff Rugg
Copley News Service

Well, it is a new spring planting and that means there will be new catalogs in the mail that have new and fantastic plants. How do you know which plants are good enough for you to plant in your yard? One way is to have the help of people who have tested the plant against other plants in their own garden.

The rose-testing organization is called the All-America Rose Selection and it is a non-profit organization set up to research and promote roses. It has been testing roses since 1938 in gardens all across the United States. They are tested for 15 different traits, including color, disease resistance, hardiness and growth habits. Each rose is tested in the gardens for two years before the scores are graded.

For the year 2001, there were only three roses to meet the demanding standards. The first one is a grandiflora type called "Glowing Peace." It has both yellow and orange on the several dozen petals that open to a 3-inch flower. The flowers give off a slight tea fragrance. The leaves are a deep glossy green that turn burgundy in the fall.

The shrub grows to 3 or 4 feet tall and wide.

The second rose is an orange-bloom floribunda that grows to 3 feet tall and wide. The flowers are 3 inches across with about 25 petals and bloom all through the season. The leaves are olive-green and satiny.

The third winner is only the fifth miniature rose to win an AARS award. It is called Sun Sprinklers and it has 2-inch bright yellow flowers with 25 to 30 petals. The flowers have a moderate spicy fragrance. The leaves are a dark glossy green. The plant only grows to 2 feet tall, making it a good plant for in front of larger shrubs that have lost their lower leaves. It can also be grown in containers where it will flower all season long.

Another non-profit organization that uses extensive independent evaluation is the All-American Selections. They test both flowers and vegetables. They have nine winners for the new year. AAS Trials have been conducted every year since 1932. There is an AAS Gold Medal award reserved for a breeding breakthrough. Gold Medal Awards have been rare, only given once or twice a decade. The other AAS Award recognizes a flower or vegetable for significant achievements, proven superior to all others on the market.

A network of almost 200 AAS Display Gardens in the United States and Canada provides gardeners with opportunities to view the most recent AAS Winners. These gardens are open to the public throughout the growing season and may charge a small fee. Many are located near large cities. Check out the web site at all-americanselections.org for a state by state list of sites near you.

Trial gardens evaluate entries looking for desirable qualities such as novel flower forms, flower colors, flower show above foliage, fragrance, length of flowering season, and disease or pest tolerances or resistance. Vegetables are judged looking for such traits as earliness to harvest, total yield, fruit taste, fruit quality, ease of harvest, plant habit, disease and pest resistance.

The winners this year are "Avalon Bright Pink" which is a 1-foot Nicotiana or flowering tobacco. It has star-shaped bright pink flowers. The "Forever Blue" Eustoma looks like a very bushy petunia. Both plants are good for containers or for bedding plants.

Dwarf, disease-resistant, free-flowering plants are what most consumers want and that is what they are getting with the new AAS plants. "Magarita Rosita" portulaca is a good ground cover or hanging basket plant. It has dark pink semi-double blooms about 2 inches across. "Profusion White" zinnia is 1 foot tall by 2 feet wide, with 2-inch, daisy-like flowers. "Ring of Fire" sunflowers reach to more than 4 feet tall. The flower petals surrounding the seed disc start out dark red and blend to orange and then yellow. All three do well in full sun and are drought-tolerant plants, but the sunflower will produce more seeds if it gets more water.

The remaining four plants are vegetables. The "Super Star" white onion produces 1-pound, mild, sweet onions in only 100 days. The "Giant Marconi" green peppers are 8 inches long and designed for grilling. "Jolly" cherry tomatoes weigh 1 1/2 ounces, are peach shape and have a point on the end. The vines are indeterminate growers, which means they do not stop growing until the frost gets them. "Honey Select" sweet corn is designed for fresh eating. It has both sugary enhanced and supersweet kernels. The supersweet kernels slow the conversion of sugar to starch, resulting in a sweeter tasting ear of corn. It also does not have to be isolated from other corn pollen, making it easier to plan your garden.

Now, let's discuss new plants that are being released by nurseries.

Just because a plant is new does not mean it is better in enough ways to make it a good plant for your landscape. As we have discussed in the past, new plants are somewhat easy to create, but often slow to produce in quantities large enough to make them economical to sell.

Plants grown from seeds naturally have a wide variety of characteristics. Some are tall some are wide. Some flower better or have better fall color. They may also have worse characteristics than is normal for the other plants of the same species. They may be less tolerant of some disease or of very cold winters.

Before a plant is introduced for sale to the public, it should undergo several years of testing in several locations. This should prove whether it is not only better for some good characteristics, but also not bad in other important characteristics.

If a plant is produced as a clone, it will have the same characteristics as the parent plant. In most cases, the original plant will have been around for many years. Cuttings from the first plant are rooted and the new plants are the same as the old one, except for their own roots. Knowledge about the original plant's ability to grow in specific climate conditions also applies to the baby clones.

Our first tree out of dozens being introduced is a new ginkgo variety named "Golden Globe." It is a faster grower than most other male ginkgos and has an unusually dense branching habit that gives it a full crown of branches. Most ginkgo trees are very sparse looking for many years as they mature, but this tree was discovered in 1990 as a seedling and looks different from the very beginning.

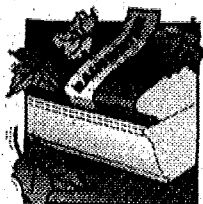

The "Don Egolf" Chinese redbud is more of a shrub than a small tree, like our native redbud. It has flower buds that completely cover the branches, so when it blooms it is an eye-catcher.

KEEP AMERICA BEAUTIFUL

WHO WE ARE

Keep America Beautiful, Inc. is a nonprofit organization whose network of local, statewide and international affiliate programs educates individuals about litter prevention and ways to reduce, reuse, recycle and properly manage waste materials. Through partnerships and strategic alliances with citizens, businesses and government, Keep America Beautiful's programs motivate millions of volunteers annually to clean up, beautify and improve their neighborhoods, thereby creating healthier, safer and more livable community environments.

GREAT AMERICAN CLEANUP™

Each spring from mid-March to mid-May, extraordinary acts of civic pride and renewal take place all across the United States. Under the leadership of Keep America Beautiful, Inc., the Great American Cleanup™ mobilizes annually more than two million volunteers to make their neighborhoods more beautiful, safer and healthier places to live.

In fact, the 2000 Great American Cleanup™ saw volunteers in more than 10,000 communities in 39 states, plus Washington, DC, Puerto Rico and Winnipeg, Canada. Volunteers ages 10 to 74+ represented a large variety of organized groups, including colleges/universities, scouts, sports teams and military personnel, as well as corporations, local businesses, civic leagues, youth groups and families. These volunteers cared enough about their communities to scour, brush, and plant their way through the nation's largest organized litter prevention, beautification and community improvement program.

While national trends reflect a declining commitment to volunteerism, participants in the Great American Cleanup™ shatter these statistics by turning out in record numbers each spring to give their neighborhoods a "beauty makeover." Community involvement activities included litter removal, recycling drives, park cleanups, painting programs, graffiti removal, tire amnesty programs, tree and bulb plantings, and river, lake and seashore cleanups.

Behind every effort is the story of eyesores becoming the pride of a community - each effort collectively adding up to a major environmental achievement. The 2001 Great American Cleanup™ national kickoff was scheduled to begin on March 24. Join us to keep America beautiful one community at a time - volunteer for the Great American Cleanup™ 2001!

NY Auto Show looks to the future

By Walter Elliott
Staff Writer

The New York International Auto Show, which runs in Manhattan's Jacob Javits Convention Center through Sunday, continues to provide glimpses of the automobile's future for area motorists.

At least 11 of the show's 52 exhibitors are using the show to display their latest products. Some cars, trucks, minivans and Sport Utility Vehicles are conceptual; others are in production and are bound for local dealerships in the coming months.

All of the more than 1,000 mostly four-wheeled machines are present to generate interest among the anticipated 1.2-million show attendees. The Greater New York Automobile Dealers Association, longtime organizers of the show, hope that interest will spread among potential consumers to the neighborhood showroom.

That formula, according to some of the local dealers, has worked well before. "The auto show is good for people who have about 10 cars they're interested in and do not want to deal with sales people," said John Sautter, general sales manager for Justice Buick of West Caldwell. "They can sit in as many new cars they want without feeling they have to buy one."

"There is a small but definite percentage of customers who come in from the auto show," said Arthur Czaplinski, general sales manager of Belleville's Elite Ford. "Those who say they saw something from the show want to take a test drive of the cars they saw there."

Audi

Audi of America used the show to debut the 2002 A4 against a backdrop of its 2000 Le Mans 24 Hours endurance race-winning R8 cars. Audi Vice President Len Hunt unveiled the A4 and talked its lineage between the two models.

"There is a technology transfer from the R8 to the A4 that runs from the engine layout to the brakes," said Hunt. "We're also in racing to build our brand image."

A4 owners, said Hunt, can pick from a 3-liter V6 or a 1.8-liter turbocharged four cylinder engine. Among its other features are increased leg room, a dual zone climate control system and the Multitronic continuously variable transmission. The A4 is to arrive at DCH of Maplewood and other showrooms in six months.

Buick

Buick's Bengal concept car and the Rendezvous SUV are both new to the General Motors division lineup. The Bengal combines a 3.4-liter V6 behind a six-speed automatic transmission in a rounded two-seater convertible. The Rendezvous, to be found in Justin and other dealers this season, seats seven and offers a luxury car-like ride.

Cadillac

GM's traditional luxury division continues its recent performance kick and visionary edge. The performance is provided by its twin-turbocharged Northstar endurance prototype. The Vizion, with its half-SUV, half-station wagon size, provides the vision and a scheduled 2003 sighting at Royal Cadillac and other dealers.

Chrysler

The domestic half of Daimler-Chrysler has had a good recent concept-to-showroom track record. The Prowler and PT Cruiser went from exhibit hall to salesfloor within three years. By unveiling a PT two-seat convertible at this year's show, the company seeks a hattrick.

Dodge

Chrysler's Dodge division is either coming apart or setting a fast track. The Dodge Ram, through a "coming apart" display, shows off its latest detail advancements. Dodge's Vipers and Intrepid RTs have been speedy in their respective endurance and NASCAR Winston Cup competitions. They and other product lines are also found at dealers like Compass of Orange.

Ford

"Whenever I get near the 2002 Thunderbird, I can't get away from it," said Ford Information Product Specialist Larry Schrock. "Ever since it was a concept car, people ask us how soon it'll come out. We get the same reaction with the Escape and the Forty-Nine."

The 2002 Thunderbird, a 3.9-liter V8-powered two-seater with a more rounded look of its 1957 original model, is to land in showrooms like Elite and Fordland this summer. Already in is the Escape, a 201 hp V6-powered SUV which is smaller than the Explorer. The Forty-Nine, a sleeker interpretation of the 1949 Crown Victoria remains a concept car.

Jeep

The Daimler-Chrysler division came up with more than names from the past for their latest vehicles. The Liberty celebrates 60 years of Jeep production with a 3.7-liter engine and side air bags while the Willys is a concept vehicle using a molded plastic body on its traditional aluminum chassis. The Liberty can be found at Compass.

Infiniti

Infiniti Product Information Specialist Audra Snyder said the new I35 and Q45 sedans have been the most asked of among the Nissan division's lineup. The 2002 Q45, scheduled to go on sale at Lynne's Infiniti of Bloomfield and other outlets, has an all-new 345 hp, 4.5-liter V8. The I35 is an I30 uprated in part by a 260 hp 3.5-liter V6.

Lincoln

Ford's luxury division revived the Continental Mark series with the MK IX show car. Arriving this season to Montclair Lincoln and other showrooms is the Blackwood, a V8-powered luxury SUV appointed with accessories like an automatically-closing bed lid.

Nissan

Nissan Motor Company President Carlos Ghosn personally revealed the 2002 Altima — and more — at the show. Ghosn, between describing the new Altima's features, linked it with the Z Concept car and opening the new Canton, Miss., truck plant as parts of a rebuilding process.

"When we conducted our research with customers, we found that they felt that we can fill a void between the present Altima and Maxima models," said Ghosn.

The auto show runs 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. today through Saturday and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday. Admission is $9 for adults, $3 for children younger than 12 years old and $1 off for groups of 10 or more. Call (800) 282-3336 or log onto www.autoshowNY.com for details.
