

New ConstructionLags Behind 1962

New construction in Springfield is running behind that of last year, according to Otto Fessler, building inspector.

Permits have been issued for $2,899,444 worth of new construction as of the end of last month — $500,000 less than the $3,393,444 figure reported Sept. 30 last year.

An additional $550,000 worth of construction anticipated before the end of the year, indicates that the trend will continue, Fessler said. Total construction last year was valued at $3,500,000.

Of last year's total approximately $2 million was for commercial and industrial construction, $1 million for one-family dwellings, and $250,000 for garden apartments. A church and miscellaneous construction made up the balance.

Last year $15,000 was collected by building fees, $12,000 by the end of September. This year's fees came to slightly less than $8,000 so far.

Building permits have been primarily in the industrial tract although the municipal swimming pool and bath house ac-

Other large construction this year included: Howard Johnson, $192,000; Plumrose, Inc., $300,000; Maser, Inc., $100,000; Luma-

$15,000; Zep, Inc., $10,000, and Atlas Supply Co., $420,000.

Edward R. Best, in the best additional facilities for higher education are one of New Jersey's primary needs." He said, however, that the proposal up for voter decision at a referendum Nov. 5, "does not answer the questions what? where? and how much?"

"Unlike the College Bond Issued in 1959," he said, "the present bond proposal states only in the vaguest terms the amount of money to be spent for educational facilities and specifies neither projects nor priorities in this field."

Estimated Costs

He says that the estimated cost of staffing and equipping the new educational facilities, based on projected per capita costs and the number of persons to be accommodated, is $24,000,000 annually by 1980 and points out that the bond proposal makes no provision for this cost.

"How will these costs be met?" he asks. "At a time when all the bond money will have been spent and the state is saddled with a debt of more than $1,250,000?" Naturally, they will have to be met by new taxes. Even the most ardent bond advocates are obliged to admit that more and more taxes will have to be imposed to meet the tremendous costs incurred by the bond plan.

"We urge, first, that the bond scheme be defeated because it is unthrust, uneconomical and ill-conceived and it will solve none of the state's financial problems in education or any other field. Then we suggest that the Department of Education be instructed to prepare a long-range comprehensive program of needs, including projects and priorities."

"For example, it should be determined whether the needs in the educational field can be better met by increasing vocational services at a faster rate than college facilities. No place in the bond proposal is that question answered — only one more indication of the lack of prior planning," Best said.

By 1966, it has been explained, based on registration in the lower grades and a conservative estimate of 20 children a year moving into the township, enrollment figures will stand at approximately 860 for Gaudineer.

By the following year, 900 figure is expected to be reached.

The two-story addition was constructed in 1957, bringing 12 new classrooms. As the school stands now, it was explained, there are 720 students when the actual capacity is 825.

If the referendum is passed, the Board has pointed out, the addition will provide classroom space for from 850 to 900 young people in "legitimate classrooms."

Utilization of all-purpose and shop rooms would increase the number able to be accommodated.

Dental Assistants Form Own Group

Mrs. Patricia Helmbeck of Springfield has been appointed program chairman of the newly-formed Union County Dental Assistants' Association.

The group was formed by 16 dental students at the Upton County Technical Institute in Scotch Plains. They are enrolled in the institute's certification course for working dental assistants.

After they complete 104 hours of theory and laboratory instruction at the institute's facilities at 423 Park Ave., Scotch Plains, they may take a written and practical examination prepared by the National Dental Assistant Association.

George Haxel, director of the community school since 1958, is a genuine case of student initiative and determination. The women formed their own association, the Union County Dental Assistants' Association, and then in compliance with the rules of the national parent body went about upgrading themselves. He added, "We merely provided the laboratory and classroom facilities that are used in our daytime dental assistants course."

'The Group' Springfield's 'Best Seller'

The Group by Mary McCarthy is the current "best seller" at the Springfield library, according to acting di-

The library "best seller" list is computed by counting the number of reservations on file for each title.

A borrower may receive a popular book by filling out a self-addressed postcard form and paying a five-cent fee. When the book becomes available, the library notifies the borrower by mailing his postcard. If he fails to pick up his book in three days, the next card in line is mailed out.

Other sought-after volumes, in order of their popularity, are: "The Whole Truth And Nothing But" by Hedda Hopper;

"Elizabeth Appleton" by John O'Hara; and "The Plumber" by Morris West.

There's a three-way tie for fifth place: "Penitente Mystery," "Venetian Affair" and
"Stacy Tower."

How does Springfield's "Big Five" compare with the top 10 titles compiled in the New York Times Book Review
"Best Seller List"?

Springfield's best-seller

"The Group" ranked third last week on the Times list while the local second-ranking book is in ninth place nationally.

"Elizabeth Appleton" is in fourth place among national best-sellers. "Shoes of the

LEADER PROFILE

BENJAMIN F. NEWSWANGER

Superintendent of Schools Benjamin F. Newswanger has seen the Springfield school system grow from an enrollment of 600 students and two schools, to 2,900 students and five schools.

And still the school population is growing. Asked why residents should vote tonight to support a school board referendum which seeks voter approval to construct an $850,000 addition to the Florence Gaudineer School, he said tersely: "We have need it."

He was sought by former supervising principal, Fred J. Hodgson, for a teaching spot here when he was still a student at Millersville State College in Pennsylvania, and was hired to teach seventh and eighth grade mathematics at the James Caldwell School in 1925 after only three years of college.

His early teaching years, therefore, were necessarily spent shuttling back and forth between Springfield and New York, where he won a B. S. degree from New York University in 1929 with a mathematics and social studies major and a science minor, and an M. A. degree in supervision and administration in 1938 from Teachers College, Columbia University.

The Caldwell school was an eight-room building when Newswanger began his professional career there. The original portion of that building, constructed in 1902, contains the Board of Education office and the offices of the superintendent of schools.

This was the first of Springfield's six schools (including the high school), and the Raymond Chisolm School came next—a four-room structure built in 1921. An addition was built onto the Caldwell School in 1925 which converted this building into a combination elementary-junior high school and accommodated 7th, 8th and 9th graders from Chisolm. This arrangement continued until 1937, when the 9th grade was moved into a newly-constructed Jonathan Dayton Regional High School. A second addition was constructed on the Caldwell School in 1938, and an addition to Chisolm in 1939.

AFTER WORLD WAR II, a rapidly expanding population called for the construction of two more elementary schools in Springfield. The Edward Walton School was built in 1946, and the Thelma Sandmeyer School in 1949.

Florence Gaudineer School was built in 1953 for a junior school population of 500 students. Newswanger said, it had 16 classrooms, including the library, and was filled to capacity when the school opened. A two-story addition in 1957 provided 12 more classrooms, but the kitchen, gymnasium and special purpose rooms were inadequate.

Newswanger pointed out that special services require additional space. There are remedial groups for children working below-grade level and an advanced enrichment program for outstanding students who require more than the normal classroom situation can provide. A developmental reading program, he said, is not just remedial but a tool for bringing students up to their teacher reading potential. In a younger age, reading above-grade level and still require special reading instruction if he has an even higher potential, according to tests.

These and other special classes require men which is only found now by using every available cubby hole, Newswanger said. Instrumental music, for example, is taught in a cubby hole just off the higher room, he added.

When the Chisolm School addition was constructed, Newswanger was named teaching principal in September 1948. He replaced Mercer Gentry as superintendent of schools.

A NATIVE OF LANCASTER, Penn., Newswanger lives in Crawford with his wife, the former Doris Donning. Mrs. Newswanger taught third grade in the Caldwell School before the couple was married in 1929 and now teaches first grade in Crawford. They have one son, Benjamin F., 3rd, of Plainfield, and a grandson, James, three years old.

Newswanger is so absorbed in the work he does and so involved in the large number of professional organizations educators belong to that it seems he must have time for little else.

What do you do when you're not working? the conscientious administrator was asked during an interview in his office last week.

"AS A MATTER of fact," he said, pausing as if to reflect whether the information would be of interest, "I raise Christmas trees."

He has about 60,000 Christmas trees on a 200-acre farm just outside Stroudsburg, Pa., that he and Mrs. Newswanger bought in 1941. They have about 12 varieties of pine, fir and spruce, which they plant on a rotation basis and sell to dealers just before the Christmas season gets underway.

Water Supply

If the unprecedented drought conditions of 1943 recur...

Coleman pointed out that the cities of Paterson and Clifton and the Passaic Valley Water Commission had prior rights to certain uses of the water from the Passaic River and that negotiations had to be carried out with these parties before an agreement could be reached as to Commonwealth's rights to draw from the river.

He said his purpose in making the conditions known is to show that the company is limited by the State and by holders of prior rights as to the amount to be taken after studies of flows.

Metzger pointed out that the companies three reservoirs, located at Canoe Brook and a third in Livingston, are capable of storing 10 billion gallons of water. Commissioners Bahadur noted the storage capacity figure should provide for 800 days of water use from the reservoirs alone.

Coleman assured that the storage of water on Balsamor Top in August was caused because work was underway at the pumping station. He said this section of the township is fed by the Balsamor Valley Pumping Station and the Passaic River well.

No Comment:
Hartigan said he was satisfied that the company is able to supply the township's needs for water. He would not comment on a question of whether he thought the company's planning was sound. He said the company feels its planning will take it through 1970.

Both Coleman and Metzger pointed out that the company cannot "draw" from any other sources, either surface or underground, without permission from the state.

Metzger outlined present intentions of supply and the yield of 1 million gallons a day from the Passaic River Well; 7.5 million from Canoe Brook; 7.5 million from Short Hills and 1.5 from Balsamor Well.

He said that the Canoe Brook water surface supply yielded 1.5 million gallons a day and the Passaic River 7.5 million. This yield, without lowering the wells, he said, is 27.5 gallons a day.

Hartigan said that water beyond 1970 would have to come from either Short Hills or the Passaic River. He said that it had been agreed by George Shanklin, chief engineer and director of the State Water Policy Commission and others who had previously held that post, that the only true solution to the state's water problem was to provide the storage areas to prevent rain water from running to the sea.

Can Provide:
Del Vocholo said that he was satisfied that the water company could provide the township with water for its foreseeable future.

Letters from the Township Committee to the water company, the Water Policy Commission and the Public Utilities Commission and back prompted Monday's meeting.

The Township Committee has been trying to establish since August whether Commonwealth was capable of meeting the needs of the community.

During that month a "water emergency" was declared and the Committee put a halt to all "outside watering." Lack of water was reported at times in homes at Balsamor Top and Fly's Commissioner Hurdgrave said that zero pressure had been registered at fire hydrants on certain days.

The Committee communicated with Shanklin that Commonwealth was capable of supplying water. Shanklin replied that "government changes and enlargement" were going on in Commonwealth and were expected to be completed this year.

Investigation of its operation of the company was asked of the PUC by the Township Committee to establish committee members said. Commonwealth had the equipment to supply water needs.

Hartigan pointed up this week, in answer to a question by Bonder regarding the improvements instituted by the company in relation to its income, that the utility was allowed at most to gain six per cent on its investments.

WOMAN CHARGED:
Mrs. Madeline Strook, 43, of Millburn has been charged in Springfield Municipal Court on three counts of insidious funds by Nicholas Costello of the G. & L. Delawesian, 203 Morris Ave.

Both Slaves And Slave Chasers Received Aid From Jerseyans

IT WAS THE strangest of all railroads. It had no locomotives, no tracks, no cars, no advertised stations. It published no timetables, kept no records and asked no questions. Passengers were completely at the mercy, for that was the price of using the Underground Railroad.

Fleeing slaves stoked to the Underground Railroad between 1820 and the start of the Civil War. Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of them crossed New Jersey on the roads following the North Star to a promised land.

Main lines ran northward from border states through Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York, with as many as a dozen routes crossing New Jersey. Most New Jersey cities "branches" converged on Jersey City, just a river's width away from New York.

That river made a great difference, for every escaping slave had reason both to love and to fear New Jersey.

New Jersey meant dedicated help, particularly in the southern part, where Quakers took seriously the American philosophy that "all men are created equal." They risked their lives, donated their savings and gave their time for people whom they didn't know.

Quakers operated the roads through Cumberland, Salem, Gloucester, Camden, Burlington and Mercer Counties, or, to pass their "bundles" on to equally-dedicated "northerners" who carried the frightened charges on to freedom.

On the other hand, powerful elements within New Jersey openly encouraged the slave chasers who searched for fugitives. New Jersey industrialists with big Southern markets openly favored the slaveholders' "States Right" philosophies, particularly the American philosophy that "all men are created equal!"

Thus operations of the Underground Railroad within New Jersey called for daring, for deep feelings of brotherhood and an ability to change direction on a minute's notice.

Slave chasers gathered at bridges in New Brunswick or Trenton or in ferry terminals at Burlington or Jersey City, the conductors calmly changed direction. Often the fugitives were carried in wagons driven rapidly over the rough roads of Upper Morris and Passaic Counties, the route selected on spur of the moment decisions.

FOREMOST of all conductors was an escaped slave named Mrs. Harriet Tubman, who 19 times ventured into Delaware and Maryland to lead some 300 slaves to freedom along the Underground Railroad.

Thus operations of the Underground Railroad within New Jersey called for daring, for deep feelings of brotherhood and an ability to change direction on a minute's notice.

The booklet lists costs of the school districts which also are borne largely by local taxpayers. This school district, excluding regional district finances, expended a total of $1,203,496 and had operating costs of $495,024 during the 1951-52 school year. Operating costs resulted in a per-pupil cost for operations of $405.02 for each of the 2,442 pupils in the total average enrollment.

At one point last week Senator McClellan—with a sarcasm rarely used—asked this murderer and trafficker in narcotics, what the underworld could do to him.

Here is a crude, ignorant man, blinded for the moment, who rose in the underworld because he would kill-on-command. He addresses the nation in rapid, guttural tones, like the invitation of the Senate Rackets Committee, and at times, he is even permitted to sound like a hoodlum political schemer professed.

At one point last week Senator McClellan—with a sarcasm rarely used—asked this murderer and trafficker in narcotics, what the underworld must do with the political world to survive. When the McClellan Committee asserts that the "five families" of the Syndicate locally do a million-dollar-a-day loan-sharking business in New York City alone, it is clear that there must be collusion somewhere along the line.

Everybody, I suppose, has his own ideas about when and where law enforcement can be bolstered and I am sure that the current hearings will produce a valuable array of proposed new anti-rackets legislation.

In New Jersey, however, despite the McClellan assertion that most of the nation's biggest underworld live in New Jersey, I believe we are doing a fairly good job—except for the involvement of law enforcement and politics.

There has been one significant, however, which we have failed to take. Although the State Supreme Court has warned law enforcement officers to stay out of politics, they are violating it. In Union County, there is a police chief who is president of a political club, and all over the state there are prosecutors who spend a good deal of time politicking.

Certainly, Senator McClellan and his co-investigators are correct in trying to dramatize the menace of the Syndicate by using one of its disgruntled members. But permitting this man to talk about reform and clean up after his long life of crime seems improper.

Now can these hearings serve a function if they fail to stress strongly the connections that the underworld must have with the political world to survive. When the McClellan Committee asserts that the "five families" of the Syndicate locally do a million-dollar-a-day loan-sharking business in New York City alone, it is clear that there must be collusion somewhere along the line.

Everybody, I suppose, has his own ideas about when and where law enforcement can be bolstered and I am sure that the current hearings will produce a valuable array of proposed new anti-rackets legislation.

This is only the case if the bonds can be placed on the market at three and a half percent, naturally. It will cost more.

Do we want to pay in the course of the next 30 years $1,700,000 in taxes to build a small addition to one of our schools?

This question we must answer when we pull the lever tonight.

EDMUND PACHEWSKI
241 Hillside Ave.

Never, however, was the escape when leading her people across the Delaware River to freedom money she didn't have. With such support, dislodged slaves entered New Jersey right after night. No one can ever know how many used the railroad in this state, perhaps hundreds, perhaps thousands. One historian wrote:

"It was an enterprise where statistics were considered heretical and where, know-nothingism was a religion."

One recorded instance tells of four men and two women slaves who began to row across the river in 1860. A party of five pursuers attacked them but the slaves beat them off with oars. The slave hunters fired at the fleeing craft, wounding four of the occupants. The two remaining fugitives, a man and a woman, rowed through the night and finally touched shore near Cape May. There a conductor sped them along to liberation.

Today little remains to prove that there ever was an Underground Railroad in New Jersey. Here and there a dark corner in the cellar of an old house is reputed to have been a "station," but there is no absolute proof. Secrecy demanded a minimum of certainty. That confounded the authorities and probably gave the line its name.

One slave chaser, frustrated by the secrecy and misled by the skill of the Underground's conductors, gave up in New Jersey after a chase of hundreds of miles. In mingled bitterness and bewilderment he exclaimed:

"They must have tracks running underground!"

FINANCING COST

Going out to vote tonight on the Board of Education referendum we should know how much it will really cost us to build that addition to the school. The board did not give us all figures.

I would like to help the board answer this question and inform Springfield voters that financing the bond for 30 years at three and a half per cent, annually, will cost another $850,000. Anytime integrated in calculating these figures may do so by having at the stationery store a little computer called "Little Bookend" for only 50 cents. On the last page he will find the desired information—that interest on $850,000 for 30 years at three and a half per cent will double invested capital.

This is only the case if the bonds can be placed on the market at three and a half percent, naturally. It will cost more.

Do we want to pay in the course of the next 30 years $1,700,000 in taxes to build a small addition to one of our schools?

This question we must answer when we pull the lever tonight.

Fiscal Facts Of Life For Springfield Outlined In N.J. Taxpayers Booklet

plains, represent the running expenses of government and are regarded as significant in tracing trends since they do not include sometimes wildly fluctuating expenditures for capital improvements.

Statewide, operating costs of municipalities are among the highest in the state, detailed in the 18th annual edition of "Financial Statistics of New Jersey Local Government," released this week by the New Jersey Taxpayers Association.

The annual reference work for taxpayers and officials interested in local government costs and taxation showed that Springfield last year spent a total of $1,107,125 for municipal purposes. Included in this total were day-to-day "operating costs" which last year averaged $71.68 per resident, or a total of $1,037,035. This year's (1952) operating costs have been budgeted at $1,107,714.

The booklet lists costs of the school districts which also are borne largely by local taxpayers. This school district, excluding regional district finances, expended a total of $1,203,496 and had operating costs of $495,024 during the 1951-52 school year. Operating costs resulted in a per-pupil cost for operations of $405.02 for each of the 2,442 pupils in the total average enrollment.

Union County, regional high school district One, located in Elizabeth, includes Hightstown, Clark, Garwood, Kenilworth, Mountainside, and Springfield, expended a total of $1,400,000, and had operating costs of $

Dean's List Place For 2 Area Men

Albert Ray, of Union and Henry Cole of Roselle are among 18 undergraduates at Rutgers College of Agriculture who have been named to the Dean's List for high scholastic standing during the preceding academic year.

The Union student, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ray, of Parkview, also holds a Sears Farnsworth Foundation Scholarship, as well as a State Scholarship. The Roselle resident is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cole, of 814 Chestnut St. He also holds a State Scholarship.

Stamler Announces Stand Against Bond Referendum

GOP State Senator Nelson F. Stamler, candidate for re-election, this week declared his opposition to Governor Hughes' $750 million bond proposal and outlined an alternative plan of action to "enable our state to build its future on sound grounds rather than on speculations."

Noting that his Democratic opponents, James McGowan, as well as a State Scholarship, the Roselle resident is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cole, of 814 Chestnut St. He also holds a State Scholarship.

Stamler pointed out that the state now had on hand some $400 million in unspent funds to build more highways, schools and state institutions. "So it is clear that the state is making progress toward meeting its essential obligations and there is money available to carry the situation conditions in our institutions which the Governor is using so widely to drum up support for his bond issue, and also to build highways."

Despite the fact that Mr. McGowan fell thoroughly justified to build New Jersey a $1,250,000,000 debt, he pledged that would announce my position only after a full examination," he said. "So let me make my position clear. Based on everything I now know about the needs of New Jersey, our existing financial structure, and the method of financing the $750 million bond issue, in all good conscience I intend to vote against both bond issues on November 5."

"Turning to an alternative to the bond scheme, Stamler noted that in 1941, when Richard J. Hughes campaigned for Governor, "he praised the record of his predecessor and claimed New Jersey is in wonderful condition." But now the bond issue supporters claim that "our state is on the brink of disaster" that only the $750 million will cure.

"New Jersey for decades now has been marching forward to the time when fiscal reform will be a reality. The bond issue cannot and its subsequent defeat will serve as the spark to ignite the final push toward an overhauling of our tax structure," he said. "Such a convention will examine the great hodge-podge of taxes now imposed upon our citizens, particularly to relieve the overpowering burden on property owners."

Among the reasons Stamler cited for his own opposition to the bond plan were:

"1. There is serious doubt that the Turnpike will be able to pay off the bonds as scheduled."

"2. The Administration has not substantiated its claim that we need such a vast sum of money over the next five years for has it specified where the expenditures will go."

"3. The expenditure of $750 million will guarantee, not prevent, both a massive sales and income tax that otherwise might be avoided."

"4. Voters will be forced to approve a nearly billion-dollar program of spending to pay for those items while they may think are essential."

"The method of financing, borrowing to pay for current expenses violates every sound practice of good-money-management."

"5. Based on its past performance, the Administration is incapable of spending the taxpayer's money efficiently and should not be handed a blank check."

"6. Approval of the bond issue will once and for all close the door on reasonable spending."

Hughes To Speak On Bond Matter At Newark State

Governor Richard J. Hughes will speak to Union County residents on his proposed $750,000 Bond issue at Newark State College, 10 Morris Ave., Union, at 8 p.m. today Wednesday.

An announcement of the public meeting was made by Tom Blenden, chairman of the Non-Partisan Union County Citizens Committee for the Bond Issue, which will sponsor the meeting.

"The Bond Issue is designed to meet the urgent needs of the state and of the people, and it will aid transportation, education and institutions," Blenden said, adding, "It will be financed through the use of surplus revenues of the N.J. Turnpike, more than one half of which comes from out-of-state motorists."

According to Blenden, "Governor Hughes will explain the merits of the Bond Program, and how these vital needs can be met without the immediate imposition of new sales and property taxes. In addition, Union County residents will be given the opportunity to get the facts about Bond financing and to learn the numerous benefits afforded them by this plan."

Under this new formula, there will be increased state aid for local and county road programs, institutions for the retarded and mentally ill and additional funds for local school districts, ranging from 30 per cent increase in New Providence to 76 per cent in Plainfield.

Blenden reminded county residents that the Bond Issue is non-partisan and urged everyone to attend the meeting to formulate an intelligent personal opinion, and later express that opinion by voting."

James Fulton of 1110 Maple Ave., Union, club chairman, will preside.

The discussion will be centered on such controversial matters as the public accommodations section of the civil rights legislation before Congress, job quotas, the proposed fair housing bills in New Jersey and miscen-genous topics.

Fall Fitness Classes Ready To Start At Y

In keeping with President Kennedy's emphasis on increasing fitness, the YMCA of Eastern Union County will place the emphasis on the need for fitness for all, not just the youth today, but the whole family, Y spokesman said this week.

For women, a slim and trim class will be developed around

Collins Sees Need To Aid Students Seeking Colleges

Wednesday and Friday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. This course will be developed around aerobics, exercise, gym activities and swimming instruction.

Classes will begin next Wednesday and will continue weekly for 10 consecutive weeks.

For men, noon day conditioning classes are held on Wednesday and Friday, followed by a period of recreational volleyball.

Early evening classes are planned for the businessman that has to work late. There are many activities available such as: Handball, paddleball, basketball, swimming, etc. for the man that likes to get his exercise through sports, the spokesman went on.

The youth program will get underway the first week-end in October with a two and a half hour program for the first and second graders. This program is under the leadership of Joseph Simone, a teacher for Wayne Township School system, and includes swimming, instruction, gym and crafts.

The National YMCA Aquatic program will also be featured, emphasizing instruction in beginning and advanced swimming. Courses are conducted for both boys and girls.

Other programs, such as gymnastics, will be introduced as the season gets underway.

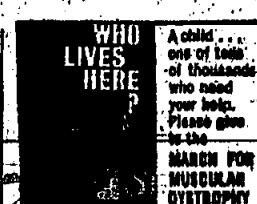

Further information may be obtained by contacting the YMCA of Eastern Union County.

"Such a clearing center would give both students and administrators the opportunity to get together," Collins stated.

Collins noted that a student placement center of this type in New York has achieved a 98 per cent college acceptance record for more than 10,000 students who registered with the center.

Establishment of such a center in New Jersey, Collins said, would particularly aid the marginal students — those who would profit from college study, but who need special guidance in getting in touch with a school that fits his or her particular needs.

At the same time, Collins charged the state administration with not adequately publicizing New Jersey's Student Loan Pro-

Park Unit Makes Annual Plea For

Fire Prevention

"Forest Fire Prevention Week" which began on Sunday has been designated to stress the need for due care and caution in preventing dangerous fires and fire damage, it was announced this week by the Union County Park Commission.

Every year at this time, park commission employees keep a sharp watch for any fire which might break out in the Union County Park System, especially in the Watchung Reservation.

The years of effort to preserve this beautiful wooded area for future generations can be nullified by one carelessly discarded lit cigarette," a commission spokesman said.

"The Park Commission's one request to park visitors, emphasized at this time but always to be remembered, is to be careful.

If you must smoke while in the woods, be sure no lit matches, cigarettes, or cigars are thrown away. If you, like thousands of others, enjoy picnicking, try to remember that live coals or burning embers should be left in the fireplaces when ready to leave for home.

Exercise proper care and your reward will come from many happy days spent in the Watchung Reservation. In future years," the commission added.

Other exhibits will also be on display with the hobbyists demonstrating and explaining their projects. Some of these are: Wool weaving, making Ukrainian Easter eggs, tying flies for trout fishing, and a display and demonstration of pillow or bobbin lace.

5 McGowan-Stamler Debates Proposed By Democratic Aide

Reuben H. Redfield, campaign consultant for Democratic James M. McGowan, Democratic candidate for State Senator, yesterday proposed a series of five debates in various parts of Union County, between the two State Senate candidates.

Redfield said such debates "might end the situation in which the Republican incumbent says one thing in Elizabeth and another in Westfield or Summit or Elizabeth." Redfield continued, "the Republican candidate says he favors fair housing legislation, which he has 'co-sponsored.' In Westfield, discussing the same issue, he says the Fair Housing Bill is unconstitutional."

The Democratic campaign chief suggested a series of five debates to permit the two candidates to appear in centrally situated communities that would

"Widely publicized debates would win Mr. Stamler down. They would let the public know once and for all just where he stands on the major issues."

Local B'nai B'rith Schedules

Intensive Membership Drive

The Springfield Men's B'nai B'rith Lodge will begin an intensive membership drive in October. Its goals of non-discriminatory service to all people in many fields in education, democracy and inter-group understanding, B'nai B'rith has been a shining example of voluntary service in the highest sense.

The campaign coincides with the 20th anniversary celebration of the service organization.

Cohen said the local Lodge has pledged 50 new members this year and that a summer of $2,000 will be given to the organization's philanthropic institutions in promoting patriotic American citizenship, in fighting bigotry and intolerance while furthering democracy and inter-group understanding. B'nai B'rith has been a shining example of voluntary service in the highest sense.

The organization was founded on Oct. 13, 1843, and according to Cohen, "has served the community by its fight against bigotry and its promotion of human rights."

The next meeting of the local Lodge will be held at Temple Shalom on Monday at 8:30 p.m. A member of the Irvington Police Department will discuss "Juvenile Delinquency," according to Leonard Golden, program chairman. Ray Kravetz will preside.

Couple Injured

In 2-Car Mishap On Morris Ave.

A Springfield couple and two other persons were injured Saturday night in a two-car collision on Morris Ave. in Union police there reported.

Eugene Burger, 53, and his wife, Rose, 49, of 22 Christy Ln., Springfield, were taken to Memorial General Hospital, Union, while Robert A. Stephens, 20, of Newark and Leonard H. Cohn, 50, of Elizabeth were taken to Elizabeth General Hospital. Cohn was a passenger in a car driven by Stephens.

According to police, Stephens was driving west on Morris Ave. and Burger east. The Newark man was unable to explain what happened. Burger told police the other car unexpectedly made a U-turn in front of him, cutting him off and causing the collision.

Stephens complained of pains in the legs, and Cohn suffered a bump on the head and miscellaneous injuries, police said. Burger suffered a cut lip and chest injuries, while his wife sustained cuts of the forehead and leg injuries, they reported.

William F. Koonz, candidate for Township Committee, officially opened the Republican Campaign Headquarters at 18 Center St. on Sunday, with an open house reception.

The Koonz Campaign Committee was host to volunteer election workers, their families and State Candidates.

State Senator Nelson F. Standler, Assembly Candidates Peter McDonough, Frank McDermott, Henry Webster, Nicholas LaCicri, and Loren Collins; Freeholder Candidates Harry Osborne, Edward Tiller, Walter Ulrich; and Surrogate Candidate Mary Kanane, and Register Candidate Joseph Durkin attended.

A crowd of over 150 pledged their support to the candidacy of Koonz and the entire County ticket, while Robert A. Stephens, 20, of Newark and Leonard H. Cohn, 50, of Elizabeth were taken to Elizabeth General Hospital. Cohn was a passenger in a car driven by Stephens.

Koonz, speaking to the assembled volunteers, stated, "It is apparent that the 'position' has taken the position of running as the representative of a small segment of the people of Springfield. If I am elected, it would be my obligation to serve all of the people of Springfield, regardless of party affiliation. In the end, the people will, I am sure, vote for a man's qualifications and abilities, rather than a political label."

In the end, the people will, I am sure, vote for a man's qualifications and abilities, rather than a political label."

Miss Kanane, a member of the County Board of Elections, also said she was in favor of Koonz's proposal to study the feasibility of instituting night-hours in the surrogate's office, and to appoint fiduciaries on a non-partisan basis.

Mrs. Bandemer also said she was in favor of Miss Kanane's proposal to study the feasibility of instituting night-hours in the surrogate's office, and to appoint fiduciaries on a non-partisan basis.

The senior student received a second place award for the same project at the Union County Regional High Schools' Science Fair last year, and later was one of 20 award winners from a group of 6,100 participating in the Pittsburgh fair.
