BOY SCOUT FUND DRIVE

Mayor Arthur M. Falkin, chairman of the Boy Scout Fund Drive in Springfield, this week asked all residents of the township to "welcome" into their homes and businesses the volunteer fund drive workers. The drive ends Sunday. In an announcement Mayor Falkin thanked the Optimist Club for coordinating the fund drive and the Boy Scout officials, Rotary, Lions and Chamber of Commerce for assisting in the drive. He added that the campaign slogan should be "Lend a Helping Hand," noting, "if we all assist the drive will be a success. William Selesky, publicist, said the drive will benefit the boys who are still in the area — but there are still thousands of boys who would like to join the scouting program if we but had the financial backing necessary to carry out a dynamic program. Camp Winnebago is operated and maintained by the Union Council. Last year 985 different boys camped for a total of 1,687 camper weeks. Not all the boys who wished to attend camp last year could do so. Additional facilities are needed if we are to make camping available to the increasing number of boys desiring to attend camp. "Camp Winnebago is used on a year-around basis. It is filled to capacity nearly every weekend of the year. More units would use Camp Winnebago on weekends, if again we but had the facilities," Mayor Falkin said. Assisting Mayor Falkin are: James M. Casley, assistant chairman; Joseph Radel, treasurer; and Henry Wright, photographer. Captains for the fund drive are: Edward Schwartz, Marvin Strauss, Saul Freeman, William Melillo, Richard Colandrea, Larry Roland, Ed Otto, Bob Marshall, Jack Quinn, Bill Jayne, Bill Kozak and Roy Hasterly. Also assisting are: Wallace Callen, John Ecker, Seymour Work, Arthur Kestelbaum, William Lynch, John Litzbauer and Sid Sklar.

Human Rights Group Schedules Meeting

A general membership meeting of the Springfield Human Rights Committee for Fair Housing has been tentatively scheduled for early next month, Irving Samuels, chairman, said this week. Samuels and the five members of his steering committee will meet again next week in the hope of formulating policy to bring before the membership. Along with writing a constitution for the group, the steering committee will be in contact with the clergy of the township whom they have asked to put forth the names of candidates for leaders who they believe would be willing and anxious to serve. The religious lay people would form about one-half of the planned 15-member board of directors, Samuels said. One of the charges of the steering committee, Samuels pointed out, was that it should come back with nominations for officers, along with formulating broad plans and policies and working on the constitution. At the last membership meeting, Samuels said, some 40 persons had signed up for membership. Since that time, he said, many others wishing to become members, he said, may obtain membership cards from Mrs. Irma Ames at 25 Archbridge lane. The chairman said that certain concern about the committee had been voiced to him. He said that he wanted to make it clear that the philosophy of the group was to help create a truly integrated community where people are judged on character and not on the basis of racial or national origin. "It is not our aim, and it is not consistent with our philosophy to try to push anything down anyone's throat," he said. "All we are striving for is the truly integrated community."

ka explained, "is play with a purpose."
Pointing to the list of help-ers Mrs. Zylka explained that children like responsibility and can usually help more than we realize. Besides chores such as peeling apples and watering the plants, which are assigned daily, the youngsters learn to put things away and keep the room clean.
The flour beneath the easels, for instance, is always clean, Mrs. Zylka said, because the children take a paper towel and immediately wipe up any spill which is spilled. During their free play time they know where to get play things and where to put them away. It was free play time when a little girl walked past in high heels and a lady's straw hat. Other children were setting a table with toy dishes. They put them away without being told when they were finished.

"We made hand puppets out of paper and cardboard and we made up plays and acted them out."
"SOME OF US went to Madison Square Garden and saw the circus and we decided it would be fun to have a circus of our own." We were imitating "We sang songs about circus, elephants and tight ropewalkers. We did rhythmic. The lions roared, and the strong men lifted 100-pound weights." After vacation we were still watching growing things indoors and out."
After free play the class crosses the hall for rhythm in the gymnasium. "The gym is dark at first because the lights aren't on," Mrs. Zylka says.

"Is there anything to be afraid of? No. Here we go with our eyes buttoned."
In the gym the children prance in a circle while Mrs. Zylka plays the piano. They march, they run, they skip, they jump. Always the music prompts what they do, and always the youngsters know what it is the music says.
Suddenly the youngsters are lying on their backs, and rows of their legs are raising vigorously. "Up the hill now, jump that bumpy road and round, down the hill, faster now," Mrs. Zylka says.
Mrs. Zylka is the former Barbara Dombrowski of Irvington. She was graduated from Newark State College in 1953 and is beginning her second year as a teacher in the Caldwell School. She is also a piano teacher and professional accompanist.

Miss Lois Eisenberger's kindergarten class in the Madison Square School is a study in contrast as far as the physical aspects of the classroom is concerned, for Mrs. Eisenberger teaches at Springfield's newest school. (The program, however, is much the same.)
SHE TEACHES UNDER modern ceiling lights, diffused through pink and white shades, high-poled cabinets and folding cinder-blocks.
On a table in the center of the room, freshly-painted, are several sculptures left out to dry. The walls were adorned with finger painting and a color chart.
The children were resting on their floor mats while they listened to a story about a middle-aged boy who liked prehistoric life.

After rest time they gathered around Mrs. Eisenberger's feet to tell about Pilgrims. "Why did they come to America?" Mrs. Eisenberger asked.
"Because they didn't have no toys to play with or nothing," a little boy said in a flash of indignation.
"No, that wasn't the reason," Mrs. Eisenberger said.
"They had a turkey king," a little girl said in a solemn stage whisper.
"And he wouldn't let them go to the church that they wanted to go wanted to go," another girl answered in a stage whisper.
"SO THEY CROSSED the ocean."

Mail To The Top Takes 3 Days From Springfield
A letter mailed in Springfield to residents of the Balfour Top area takes three days to be received, Township Committeeman Philip Del Vecchio said Tuesday night.
Del Vecchio, who pointed out that his brother, A. V. Del Vecchio, ("and I can't get anywhere with him") is postmaster, said the delay is caused because of postal regulations that say mail trucks cannot leave a municipality to service an isolated area of that municipality.
Trucks to reach The Top, he said, must either travel through Mountainside or Summit.
Del Vecchio asked that a letter be directed to Congressman Florence P. Dwyer and Senators Clifford Case and Harrison Williams, asking relief for the area. He said that it should be pointed out that a road linking The Top with the body of the Township is contemplated, and that pending this would be a point in favor of allowing trucks to leave town for the deliveries at present.
As the situation is now, Del Vecchio pointed out, mail posted in Springfield, and slated for The Top, is sent to the Westfield Post Office, from there to the Mountainside Sub-Station, and can take three days to reach the area.

New Ordinance Covers Damages Done By Blasting

A "Blasting Ordinance" designed to cover damage to township houses that might result from any blasting within the township, and specifically in preparation for the inevitable blasting to accompany Rt. 78, was introduced by the Township Committee Tuesday night.
The ordinance calls for notification of police and the township engineer whenever blasting is to occur; that the company doing the blasting must do a pre-blast survey to determine possible damage to area houses and that blast damage must be compensated.
Fee for permission to blast has been set at $25 and the hours of blasting will be regulated by the police and engineer. Final hearing has been set for Nov. 26.

Township Committeeman Vincent J. Bonadici pointed out that it had been his experience in the past that blasting done by the state could not be regulated. He said that he doubted that the state could be held to the ordinance.
Bonadici pointed out that several years ago the township could not control certain demolition done by the state, and the state's position was upheld in Superior Court.
He suggested that a letter to the Attorney General be drafted, and that the state legislators should be asked to pass legislation to protect communities like Springfield from damage done by state subcontractors. Bonadici said he thought the prohibition should not be restricted to blasting.
Township Attorney James E. Cawley was instructed to prepare a letter to the Attorney General. The letter is expected to be presented at the next Township Committee meeting.

"I'M THANKFUL FOR MOMMY hanging up the clothes," says Tenny Scoffo, kindergarten student at Caldwell School. Youngsters in Mrs. Barbara Zylka's class were asked to draw pictures last week of things they are thankful for.

Kiwanians Hear Talk On Estates
Last week the Kiwanis Club of Millburn-Springfield heard Malcolm Savage, a trust officer of the National State Bank of Elizabeth, explain the benefits of sound planning for one's estate.
Using as an example a man whose death left an estate of $100,000, Savage pointed out that under present laws covering inheritance and similar taxes, approximately $20,000 could be saved for the heirs by leaving half the estate to his wife outright and putting the other half in a trust account with the further stipulation that this amount was to pass to the children upon her death. Without the trust fund, the alternative of leaving the entire estate to the wife would result in the government eventually getting the $20,000 differential, Savage said.

The Board of Education would like their predicament also, they said. Engineering plans, construction of the township road that would link the two ends of Springfield are now being planned. Planning Board chairman Meyer Barlick said that the township intended to improve that portion of it which abuts the proposed "Beltway" development. In the way of righteousness is life and in the pathway thereof is peace. There is no death. This passage from Proverbs 1:19-21 will be read in all Christian Science churches next Sunday. The subject of the Bible Lesson is "Mortals and Immortals."
These verses from the Christian Science textbook will also be included: "It is only by acknowledging the supremacy of Spirit which annuls the claims of matter that mortals can lay all mortality and find the indissoluble spiritual link which establishes them forever to the divine likeness, inseparable from the Father." (Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, p. 401).

DON'T OVERLOOK GOOD EATING DRIED FRUIT VARIETY OFFERS

Do you ever serve apricot (apple, date, nut, etc.) bread? If not, you and your family are missing a lot of eating enjoyment.

Dried foods provide meal-time variety conveniently, but this is not their only virtue. Once an off-season substitute for fresh fruit, they are now valued for their special characteristics. Dried fruits have special flavors and textures for cooking and eating. They are lightweight, low bulk foods that store well. Their high concentration of food value relative to weight gives dried fruits advantages over heavy and bulky foods. Manufacturers of ready-mix products find dried fruits particularly adapted to their use.

(The two main dried fruits are raisins and prunes. The principal grape used for raisins is the Thompson Seedless variety which is in record supply this year. Raisins are sun-dried and recent rains in California have affected harvest and drying but will not seriously affect total supply. The prune crop is a little smaller than last year's, large slightly but above average.

Dried apricots, peaches, and apples are among the other dried fruits that can be used in many recipes to substitute for fresh fruits when out of season or not available. But the dried fruits also serve better than fresh fruits where lack of moisture is an advantage, as in quick breads, steamed puddings, or candied fruit. The supply of dried peaches and apples is about as usual. Fewer peaches are expected on the market but fortunately there will be more dried apricots around. One approach with a count of 85 or less. Dried apricots and peaches are size-graded as Extra Fancy, Fancy, Extra Choice or Choice, Fruit of the Extra Fancy grade are the largest in diameter.

Dates and nuts have always been a part of the winter holiday menu and many of the most popular, like date nut cake and steamed fig pudding, are traditional holiday desserts in many households. Dried apricots, too, are popular in the stuffing for ducks or turkey. But dried fruits serve equally well as an ingredient of simple but good family desserts or lunchbox treats.

Norwegian prune pudding and date nut bread have long been popular, but have you tried apricot sponge or prune loaf?

APRICOT SPONGE
1 pound dried apricots coarsely chopped and chopped or pressed through a sieve.

1 package lemon gelatin
1/2 cup white sugar
1/2 cup white flour
1/2 cup white sugar
1/2 cup white flour
1/2 cup white sugar
1/2 cup white flour

PRUNE LOAF
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup sugar
2 eggs
1/2 cup prune juice
2 teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Molly Brown Truly Unsinkable - - Splendid Family Show

By WILLIAM H. BRUCKER
Don't believe the hatches, and forget the life lines because for the next month "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" is departing itself in solid safety at the Paper Mill with a robust brogue, a merry Irish jig, a potato-phonics spirit, and one of the best parodies of the last quarter century, "We ain't down yet".
This is the musical success to "The Music Man" and Meredith Wilson proves that it is hard to follow Jack Benny. Whereas he inflated "The Music Man" with an infectious groove, a contagious air that made a simple story take on heroic proportions, the insistently buoyant Molly Brown is a lesser parody on the indomitable will of a rags to riches woman to achieve refinement. She finds that the music to social success has some subtle rings, and the audience, too, falls on its face. Pat Carroll is a mistress of comedy and brings to the role of Molly such a rock-solid gaiety, such unshakable energy (and the pathos of her clown), that she makes her social-climbing acceptable to all its sharps. She sings quite a bit better than "Fiddler on the Roof". She does a very fine performance in the chorus. In tradition as she enacts how she would throw gloves who would possibly pity her wedding gift of $300,000. She wears the most stunning, garish clothes ever. She dances up a full load of steam with her "Holly up to the bar, boys!" She has some funny lines, she sings, she sings for husband's singing of "I'll Never Say No". Her husband is Walter Ear-roll as "Loudly" Johnnie Brown. He sings in a warm, plunk ballroom and is like any other hero in musical comedies, uncomplicated, true, blue, handsome, with a heart full of money. The only interference is that he doesn't wear a red mountain coat.

The villain in the play is Mrs. McFlone whose daddy struck it rich with Union Pacific and made her heart of the decent Doves set. She continuously trips Molly with her "disputed" French and the inference that she is the original "Miss Maxwell". With direction is impeccable, there may be an occasional flourish and a tender in the play's only real denouement.

Arthur Todd is the rakish Prince, a fellow who, once Molly with a generous patience and a "Dance For Niente", Joseph Macahey as Molly's Pa Tobin is as reverent as often as he is inebriated.
This is a splendid family show for the happy holiday season. There's lots of music, some stormy dancing, songs with clever lyrics, good costuming and some good whistles. Some morals all the way from "If at first you don't succeed, try, try, try again" to "sticks and stones, etc."

WHOPPING PRICES with a gigantic MEAT SALE!

Now Is The Time To Fill Your Freezer...But Please, No Wholesalers or Jobbers

SAM AIDEKMAN*

(Good Deal's Country Boy)

SAYS:

Four out of 5 housewives will pass up all other stores and come to Good Deal for meat. That's because we're so darn fussy about offering only the tenderest, tastiest, most flavorful meat. We buy only the top grades, the choicest cuts from pampered grain-fed steers, meat that has passed the most rigid inspection with flying colors. Only 1 steer out of every 10 is good enough to meet Good Deal standards! We trim our meat carefully, leaving only enough bone and fat to flavor the meat. In fact, our chop meat has 10% LESS FAT than is required by law. The less fat, the more meat, you know! NOW COMES THE GREATEST MEAT SALE IN OUR HISTORY! Whether you broil, roast, grill, boil, stew or bake your meat — THE CUT YOU WANT IS HERE AT SUPER-SAVINGS! Hurry to Good Deal! Stock your freezer! Four out of 5 housewives won't buy their meat anywhere but at Good Deal. 4 out of 5? Say, what's the matter with that fifth lady?

*Sam Aidekman is Good Deal's president, and the best friend a housewife ever had!

Presenting The Case For Contemporary Furniture

By VICTOR J. PAFENK
 "Something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue" — this prescription or a wedding outfit all too often describes the state of the furnishings in the young couple's apartment. The reasons are obvious: only one or two old treasures, various hand-me-downs, borrowed pieces, limited funds, wedding gifts and so on. Somehow this establishes a trend of this nature which is in the furnishings of the home. When newlyweds try to bring some order to the original chaos, it often becomes very difficult for them to find the right direction.

The decision toward a given piece of furniture is usually based on three totally different assumptions by the purchaser. 1. The desire for continuity. By this we mean the sort of comfort and coziness exemplified by their parents and grandparents' living rooms. Especially in these fast changing times, there is the extra hope that a home furnished in this manner will carry with it some of the more leisurely, precious, unchanging values of a by-gone America.

2. The desire for conformity. It is very difficult to maintain a home that looks too different from those of one's acquaintances, co-workers, and friends. And for this reason there are steadily consulting magazines that show the known norm as well as indicate slight directional changes within it.

3. The desire for practicality and minimum work. And here new materials and new techniques in manufacturing often work against the other two above directions sought after. During the last 20 years a great many new materials have entered the furnishings field to influence the methods of making furniture: new wood laminates, plastics, urethane foam and foam rubber for upholstery, light metal construction, synthetic upholstery materials, and plastic laminated surfacing materials.

It is possible, of course, to take all of these new approaches and apply them to the making of a Louis XIV chair, a baronial sideboard, or a French Provincial settee. But do these things or should these things really work?

The function of a piece of furniture is the interaction of use (that is, it looks well).

Education Dept. Offers New Aid

An illustrated lecture script entitled "Today's Elementary School" is available from the Department of Education's office of audio-visual education for use in teachers' workshops, PTA gatherings and other meetings. Commissioner of Education Frederick M. Raubinger announced this week.

The presentation poses and answers by words and pictures such questions as "What are schools teaching?" "Are principles of child growth and learning being used effectively?" "Are the 3-R's being used to help children acquire the skills of self-teaching?" "Is the opportunity being given for children to develop their talents and abilities so that they may take their place in the fast-moving, exciting world of today?"

More than 100 colored slides, selected from 800 photographs taken in elementary schools throughout the state over a period of many months, supplement the prepared script.

Rev. Egan Pleads For Help To Run Boystown, Only Home Of 100 Boys

"Help give our boys the home life which you take for granted." This is the plea of Rev. Robert E. Egan, director of New Jersey's Boystown in Kennerly, in his annual Christmas appeal letter.

"It costs $150,000 annually to operate Boystown," he said, "and that means cutting things to a bare minimum where possible."

He said it doesn't mean cutting down on the care, food, shelter and education which the institution provides its young citizens. In these matters the boys get the best that Rev. Egan can provide.

The letter goes on to explain that race, creed and nationality are not barriers at Boystown, and that the boys range from 11 to 18 years, with every section of New Jersey represented. Fifty-one boys attend high schools in the Kennerly area, and

Rights Leaders To Be Honored

Seven New Jersey Civil Rights leaders will be honored in Trenton Dec. 8 by Governor Richard J. Hughes and the members of the Emancipation Proclamation Committee at a special program marking the end of the Centennial observance of the Emancipation Proclamation.

To be honored are: James A. Pawley, director of the Urban League of Essex County; Cary Alston, state president of the State Association of Elks; the Rev. S. Howard Woodson, president of the NAACP; Dr. Joachim Prinz of Temple B'nai Abraham, Newark; Leo Smith, president, Local 480, AFL-CIO, and the Rev. Edward J. Murphy, St. Peter's College.

Edward L. Dreyer of Kenilworth is a member of the governor's committee.

Zenith's Ad Program Largest In Its History

Zenith Sales Corporation has announced a special mid-year national and local level advertising campaign, totaling more than $1,000,000 for the period between Nov. 3 and Dec. 15. C. Truesdale, Zenith Sales Corporation president, said that this addition will total the greatest local concentration of advertising dollars ever allocated by Zenith for use in a six-week period.

"This 6-week $1,000,000 national and local newspaper concentration is extra," he said, "it is completely over and above the regular autumn selling season advertising that Zenith is now doing in retail markets from coast to coast. The campaign is dealer-designed to build traffic into our dealer stores and to give Zenith retailers the greatest merchandising support during the peak selling period immediately prior to Christmas."

Ice Skating Begins Tomorrow At Center In Warinanco Park

The red bell mousing safe ice skating conditions will officially be raised in Warinanco Park, Elizabeth and Roselle, at 3 p.m. tomorrow, weather permitting, the Union County Park Commission announced.

The Warinanco Park Ice Skating Center, with its own ice-making equipment, enables ice skating enthusiasts to enjoy their favorite pastime without waiting for the necessary four inches of natural ice to form on lakes, streams and ponds.

With the opening of the center, ice skating will be available daily from November to the middle of March for approximately 115 days, except for rain, snow, or extreme warm weather.

At present the new public facilities building at the center is under construction and is expected to open early in December. This new facility will offer skaters a modern warming room, snack bar, skate shop, locker room and sanitary facilities. The building is circular in design, 76-foot in diameter, and the warming room will feature a circular open-hearth fireplace.

The center opened to the public in 1961 and during the past two seasons played host to more than 77,000 skaters. A complete instruction program is planned from beginners to advanced figure skating. General skating sessions will be conducted every day, including Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, from 3 to 5:30 p.m. An additional matinee session will be conducted from noon to 2:30 p.m. Sundays.

Evening sessions will be conducted from 8 to 10:30 p.m. Sundays through Thursdays, and from 8 to 9:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. Morning sessions will be held Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays from 9:30 a.m. until noon, and Sundays from 9 to 11 a.m.

The following rates will be in effect during the 1963-1964 skating season:

Children 15 years of age and under may skate for a 25-cent fee on weekdays through Friday, except holidays, at the morning and afternoon sessions, and 50 cents at other times. Adults will pay 60 cents at weekday morning and afternoon sessions and 75 cents at evening and weekend sessions. Skating parties are welcome at the center. Further information may be obtained by calling the recreation department of the Union County Park Commission.

Many Will Be Sorry Bond Issue Failed, Mrs. Hughes States

ASSEMBLYWOMAN HUGHES

Assemblywoman Mildred Hughes of Union, the only Union County Democrat candidate still campaigning after last week's Republican tidal wave, said today she will concentrate its pushing for passage of her party's legislative program before the present term ends.

The GOP took over the state assembly in last week's voting, but the legislature is expected to convene before the end of this month. At that time, Mrs. Hughes indicated, the lame-duck Democratic leadership in the lower house will try to push through some of the party's program.

She said she has invited the four GOP assemblymen-elect to be her guests in Trenton this month. "A courtesy we didn't get in 1957."

Mrs. Hughes, who had led the county assembly ticket in three previous elections, was the sole Democrat to win last week. "I'm glad I survived," she said in a post-election interview. She attributed her victory to a "lot of friends" and she said she appreciates their confidence.

The Union assemblywoman also expressed her disappointment at the defeat of the Gov. Richard Hughes' $750 million bond issue. "Many people will be sorry it didn't pass," she said. "The Republicans will have to come up with something in its place. The needs won't go away."

Mrs. Hughes also said she felt that last week's strong Republican showing at the polls was attributable to the bond issue. "It wasn't so much a pro-candidate vote as an anti-bond issue one," she observed.

Before she returns to the firing line at Trenton, Mrs. Hughes will have had a brief vacation. She and her husband, Peter L. Hughes, departed Saturday for a 12-day cruise in the Caribbean, "mighty for a rest."

Thomson, 25, of 117 E. Westfield Ave., Roselle Park, two months, Oct. 7.

and their demonstrated ability." Rep. Dwyer's nominations included: Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. — Richard A. How To 'Childproof' A House

By PHYLLIS GREER
Specialist in Human Relations

Rules—The State University of New Jersey has a booklet, "How to Childproof a House," which is available for $1.00. Parents are constantly advised at the variety of home youngsters manage to discover. They explore, they experiment, and they have a great time getting into things they shouldn't touch. Their curiosity is insatiable, and too often they proceed entirely on their own to find out.

Childproofing a house takes ingenuity. It's not always easy for parents to anticipate what a child will think up next. Look around the house and try to see things from the child's viewpoint. Everything is new and strange, so he wants to explore things. Most things adults have lived with long enough to take for granted.

Plan room arrangements so that dangerous things are out of the child's reach. Matches always are a first thought and should be kept in a metal box where the youngster can't possibly reach them.

Electrical equipment comes next. Check appliances and be sure to replace worn cords. You may find a youngster chewing them. Cover unused electric outlets before a child pokes at them with a paper tip or hairpin.

Childproofing the kitchen requires real care. Knives, sharp tools and all sorts of pointed utensils should be kept in their place where the child cannot pick them up.

If your child can reach range switches, inevitably he will try turning them. If possible, select a range with switches placed out of children's reach. Keep handles of pans from extending over the edge of the range. Then the youngster can't grab the handle and pull the pan over. Impress upon him that the range is not for play.

The other day we overheard a teenager say to another, "Do you know the new TV programs are so high this fall that I find there's no alternative but to turn on something educational!" (We add a hearty amen to that!)

One of the most discouraging tasks these days is to tackle the bulky Sunday newspaper. But it's a bit of relief to have a few various colored ads in them. At least it's a change from having one's hands stained just plain black.

Menu for next year: Here's a new idea for you housewives who get tired running to the store to hand out packages to Halloween callers. A certain elderly woman donned hat and coat, sat in a chair on the front porch and gave out "treats" till her supply was exhausted.

Woman, Grandson Hurt In Lot Fall

A Union woman and her grandson were admitted to Irvington General Hospital Monday with injuries suffered in a fall at an Irvington parking lot. Mrs. Minnie Turner, 55, of 1883 Manor dr. told police she had gotten out of her daughter's car with her grandson David Chudnow, 7, of the same address, when she tripped over a concrete divider in the Good Deal Supermarket lot in Mill rd. She injured her right leg and the child suffered a head injury, police said.

Ask Amy
BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
A friend called me recently and asked if she could include my name on a list to receive a chain letter. I never saw one before so out of curiosity I agreed. A week later I received the letter telling me to include three quarters and send it to her and to make five copies of the letter and send them on to five other people. I don't know how this deal works but I was supposed to get back more than I sent. I didn't want to break the chain, so I followed instructions. Three weeks have gone by and I haven't had the satisfaction of receiving anything. I would like you to print this letter in your column in hopes that it will discourage anyone else from becoming a victim of a chain letter.

Chained
Dear Chained:
I hope it will discourage them too. Next time if you want real satisfaction, give quarters to a favorite charity.

Dear Amy:
When school started in September, my 13 year old daughter became close friends with the 12-year-old next door, but living across the street was another girl, who, no matter how many times my daughter asked her to join in their activities, refused, saying she had other plans. We had to go out of town for a short while and upon returning found the two girls close friends. They completely ignored my daughter from their fun. However, when my daughter's birthday party rolled around, the two girls came over with a gift. Since we felt the present lacked a sincere offer of friendship, we refused the gift... politely of course. Fireworks the next day! Neither of the two families will speak to any of us. This is very awkward and I need your advice. If I owe these families an apology, they will get it. I had felt the two girls' mothers should have observed what had been going on and should have asked the girls to include my daughter rather than to let them ignore her until her birthday and then to be so crushed and offended because we did not want a gift from them under the circumstances.

Hurt but Sorry
Dear Sorry:
Parents cannot always control their children's actions. Whatever reasons the girls had for excluding your daughter, they finally offered to make amends. The sincerity of the gift should not have been questioned and to refuse it was an insult. Now it's your turn to make amends. Apologize... sincerely!

Dear Amy:
I had always wanted a business and finally a year ago found one. My husband agreed and signed with me. Now I can't take it. The responsibility is too much for me and I'm getting very sick over it. The doctor advised me to quit or I will get a nervous breakdown. My husband doesn't believe me and will not sign for me to sell. He threatens to quit his job if I sell... and I can't leave that.

Want Out
Dear W.O.:
Some of us are not cut out for the business world. Listen to your doctor... and take your husband to see him, too!

Dear Amy:
I am engaged and we plan to be married very soon. My problem is that my boyfriend is a musician and has frequent engagements playing at night clubs. I don't approve of him playing at clubs and want him to stop. He doesn't see anything wrong in it but I do. I feel places like that have too many temptations. Am I right or wrong?

Bob's Gal
Dear Gal:
You're way off key. A musician in order to enjoy a living must accept playing engagements wherever they are available and you are wrong to inject a sour note. Temptations are everywhere.

HOW MANY EXTRA ACTIVITIES?
Sally is never home a minute, complaining a mother. "She dashes in to watch something to eat or to change her clothes, when she's off again. I know she's all right even though half the time I don't know where she is or what she's doing."

Sally probably is all right. It's still a good idea for mother to know where she is and what she is doing. Now that school is again in session and various clubs have started their seasons, some children seem to be on a constant merry-go-round. Extra activities are needed by all children. Home and school need to be supplemented by play and other activities with friends of the same age group. But parents want to be sure that their youngster isn't becoming too involved. Some activities are fine, but too many may wear the youngster out. A balance is needed. Too much pressure is harmful for children. When the child appears to run to one thing after another, some understanding discussion is in order about what could be cut out. It's possible that the youngster would welcome parental assistance with this problem.

MIND IF I SMOKE? This question, customarily posed as a question of politeness, has come to have a deeper significance of late in view of the growing statistical proof of close connection between cigarette smoking and lung cancer, asthma, emphysema, and circulatory disturbances. It is a question that should be thoughtfully answered by any relative or friend to whom it is addressed. We might serve ourselves well if we keep in mind that it is the habit of inhaling which has made smoking the dangerous in-

MORE THAN GOLD As literary critic and playwright, Clifford Fadiman, will attest, a golden, or better than gold-to-blind-person, through it a blind person is able to keep abreast of what's going on in the world: hear concerts, sporting events and other interesting programs which he possibly could not afford to attend, and couldn't see even if there in person.

Remodel Closets To Protect Wool

Closets should be moth-proofed to protect valuable woens and furs during the cold weather months. Once taken out of protective bags, these items are at risk from the pesky moths. One of the most effective ways to protect clothes is to install automatic rod cedar lining in closets. This easy-to-handle material, which is available in pre-packaged bundles at local lumber dealers, can be installed right over old closet walls. It also can be nailed over open framing in a new closet. To realize the maximum moth-protection benefits from a closet lined with aromatic rod cedar, these four general rules are suggested: 1. Keep the closet as air tight as possible. Close the door securely after storing or removing articles. 2. Wipe the cedar occasionally with a dry cloth to remove dust and dirt. 3. Sand the wood lightly every year or so to reopen any closed wood pores and renew the strength of the cedar fragrance. 4. Air dry or dry clean all articles before storing them.

ALL ABOUT BABIES... A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council BY ROBERT MCNAIR MITCHELL, M.D., Dept. of Gynecology and Obstetrics, Pennsylvania and Lancaster Hospitals, Philadelphia, Pa. For the first year of his life, your baby needs very little in the way of clothing. The fact is that all your baby needs to be clean and warm. Baby's clothes should allow for growth, be easy to put on and take off, be washable and durable. As I point out in my book, "Nine Months To One Year Old," babies don't like to be over-dressed. It makes them fussy. Babies also don't like to have clothing put over their heads. Wash-around garments will overcome this. There is a typical minimum laundry list.

WANTED: PALM AND TOYS

What Does Santa Claus Wear in Liberia?

In the aftermath of an African Journey, there have been such exciting things as an Emperor re-veiled, a President re-visited, a Foreign Minister re-held, interesting discussions held, etc., all because of the subject of Africa, but the most interesting thing of all came from five little Liberians who wrote five little letters saying in no uncertain terms: send some toys for Christmas!

When the National Editorial Association Study Mission Group, of which I was a member, was in Ethiopia in February, we had the good fortune to be invited to Dabra Zelt, the location of a summer residence of the Imperial Majesty Emperor Haile Selassie to meet with him and have "tea." And then this Fall, I had the good fortune to attend a reception in his honor at the Plaza Hotel in New York and see him again.

When our Study Mission group was in Tanganyika, we were fortunate again by being invited to the home of the President, His Excellency Julius Nyerere, and again this Fall I was at his reception at the United Nations and met him once more.

When our Study Mission group was in Nigeria we had the pleasure of going to the home of the Minister of Foreign Affairs and Commonwealth Relations, His Excellency Jaja Wachuku, and I have had the pleasure of meeting and talking with him again at the UN since then.

But it was when our Study Mission group was in Liberia that we had the heart-warming experience of meeting five delightful children (April 4 Feminine Look column) and it is they who have taken time out to write some letters.

Nine of the children, ranging from about 5 to 14, are of the Wollor family and they live in Monrovia, the capital of Liberia. Their father was away working in a province many miles from the city and does not see them often, but they all go to school. This is a bit unusual in Africa, for many times a boy of 12 is out on his own and is not even given housing by his family.

But here are some of the letters and what they said:

"I am Elizabeth Wollor. I am replying your letter of April 10. We receive the pictures... we were very glad when we got your letter. Our mother and father told us to write you... who are our friends... My sister Eloise will write... I am now attending St. Teresa's Convent. I am in the fifth grade. I am 10 years old. I am asking you to please find a pen-pal of my age and tell her to write me and send me her picture.

I heard your country is a fine and big one. But the big girls in our school say that they don't like black children in white places. They say they kill the negro and drag them in the street. Is that true? Please write me. My birthday is July 22. Please send me a present. Don't forget my Christmas gifts. Here is my school address, please write me through my school address. I will always be your friend." (St. Teresa's Convent, Monrovia, Liberia.)

And from Eloise:

"I am one of the Wollor girls. My name is Eloise Wollor. I am replying your letter of July 20 with our big day. Please send something for that. Don't forget Christmas. Please look for a pen-pal for me! (Third grade, St. Teresa's Convent.)

And then there is Elnorah:

"I am Florence Wollor. How do I am six years old. I was the elevator shy girl. My Pa and Ma say How do. Send me play toys."

And Eva:

"I am Eva Wollor. I was the smallest among the girls. How do play toys."

However, you also see... play toys seems to be the thing! No one cares about two front teeth. (But WHAT does Santa wear when it's 110 in the shade?)

(Ed's Note: Plans are being made to ship some toys to the Wollor children, but response to the pen-pal request would be very welcome.)

Mr. Becker, 94, Envies Hunters

Philip Becker celebrated his 94th birthday Sunday with one expressed complaint: he couldn't take advantage of the start of hunting season because his knees were giving him a little trouble.

Otherwise, Mr. Becker was the life of the party at the open house held by his daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Selander, with whose family he lives now at 102 Tooker ave., Springfield.

Dozens of the family — Mr. Becker has three other children, eight grandchildren, and 23 great grandchildren — were on hand for the affair. His two other daughters are Mrs. Richard Bunnell, of Springfield, and Mrs. Charles Huff of Crapo, Md.; his son, Hugo P. Becker of Irvington.

The birthday boy himself is a retired "publishing" contractor and a former long-timeIrvingtonian in charge of plumbing installations at the Edison Corporation. Before his retirement, he enjoys a birthday cake each year from the wife of his former superintendent, Mrs. Vito Corvane of Irvington has been making the presentation regularly for the past 30 years.
