Town Requesting Progress Studies Of Water Utility

Check To Establish If Improvements Actually Underway

Quarterly progress reports on operations of the Commonwealth Water Co. and details on capital improvement construction of that concern have been requested by the Springfield Township Committee.

The Township Committee at its last meeting authorized sending the letter to Commonwealth, according to Mayor Arthur M. Falkin, as a check to establish whether necessary improvements to meet the township's water needs are actually underway.

The action followed receipt of a letter from Raymond J. Otis of the Public Utilities Commission expressing "pleasure" that the Township Committee indicated acceptance of the utility company's program to improve operations.

The letter referred to a conference held on Oct. 7 involving P.U.C., the Springfield Township Committee and representatives of the Commonwealth Water Co. The conference was triggered by a complaint by the township concerning severe water shortages this year.

Thomas W. Coleman, general manager of the water company, had said at that meeting that sources of supply, storage and mechanical facilities are sufficient to serve Springfield until 1970. Water shortages this year were due solely to a lack of rainfall, he said.

Committee member Robert H. Hargrove said that he felt the township should be more active in the matter.

FOURTH IN SERIES ON SPRINGFIELD SCHOOLS

New Approach To Mathematics Being Developed In Local Schools

(This is the fourth in a series of articles on the Springfield public elementary and junior schools.)

By MARIAN BROWN
There is something in our schools today called "new mathematics."
Teachers say there is nothing new about the math itself but that the approach to teaching it is new.
Parents claim they do not understand it and therefore cannot help with their child's mathematics homework.

A reporter, who had the "happ" to assign herself the project of interpreting the innovation as it is being developed in the Springfield schools, sees the change as a philosophical one relating to basic attitudes toward life and the universe.
There is possibly something a little brazen in this or any conclusion, by one who is admittedly not a mathematician (the understatement of this year).

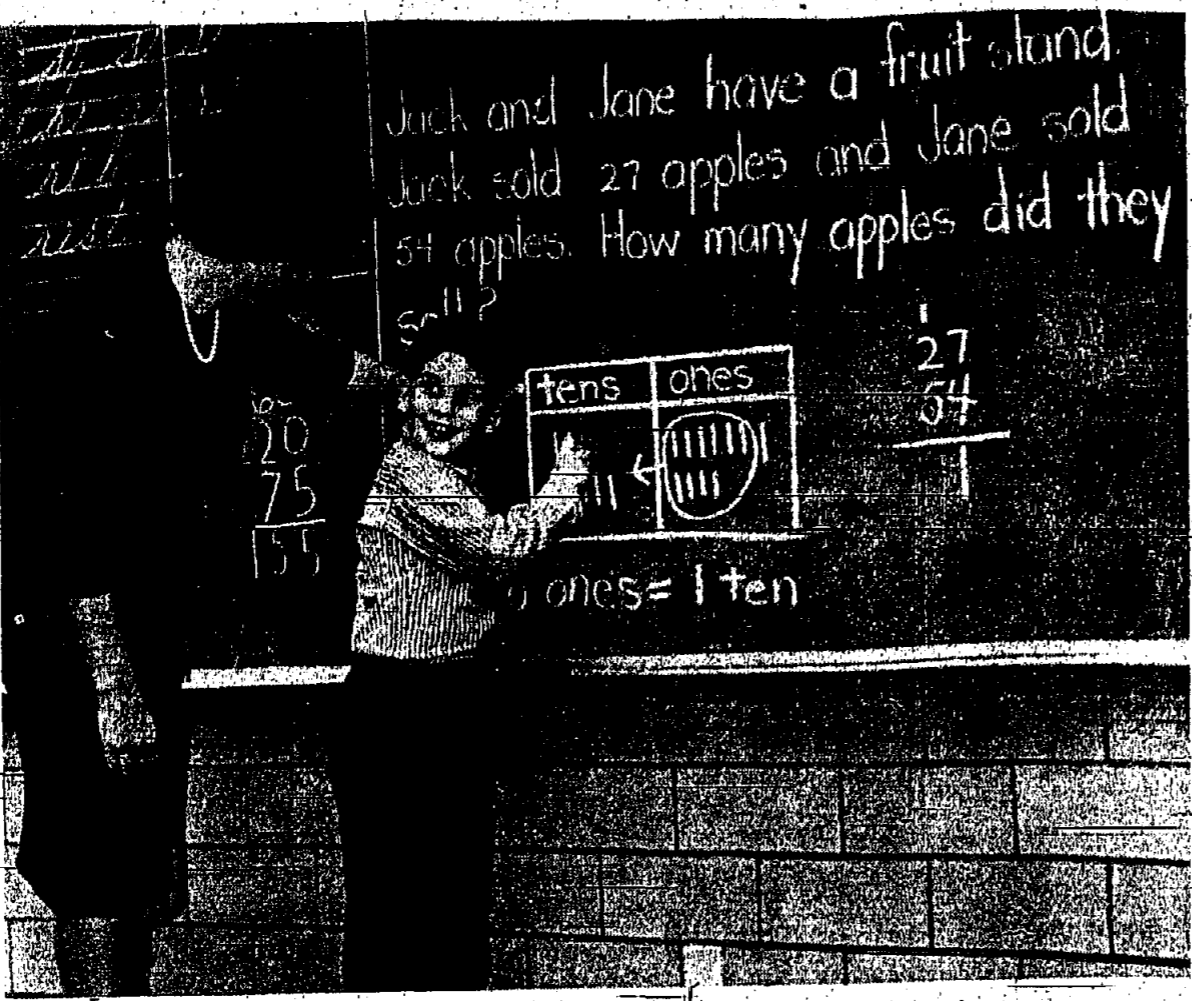

So having put myself out on a limb it seems the only ethical thing to do now is to further jeopardize my position by committing the journalistic violation of shifting into the first person singular in order to absolve my editor and publisher of any responsibility for my foolishness.

The following conclusions are the result of a last weekend spent with a stack of literature on so-called "new math" provided by Daniel S. Murray, assistant superintendent of schools, who is spearheading the program here—and very little sleep.

THEY ARE BY one who majored in English in college in order to avoid math as much as possible and thereby graduate.

And by one who loved with the idea of debunking the whole approach as rather ridiculous and wound up feeling awfully bad and who has an eighth grade daughter putting in a similar program in a different community, who provided explanations when the going got rough. And through classroom observations.

From the galaxy of symbols and semantics into which I so recklessly plunged — later, considered filling myself — there emerged a few strong impressions: (1) the new approach to mathematics is philosophically beautiful and (2) it is inexhaustibly long-winded.

CARRYING: Larry Zeller, third grade student in Mrs. Jeanette Aronow's class at the Walton School, uses new mathematics methods in learning to carry. He is adding 27 and 54 by filling in a number frame. The 7 and 4 add up to 11, so he puts these in the "ones" column. Then, because they total more than nine, he transfers 10 of them to the tens column. In this way he learns that carrying one really means carrying 10. (Photo by Barbara Gibbons)

Children learning math under this method can never think of our number system as a "revelation" of natural laws brought down from the mountains on tablets of stone.

They learn from the beginning that it is man-made and arbitrary. We use a base 10 system, they are told, but there could be other systems which would also be valid. To demonstrate this point they are asked to devise other number systems using other numerical bases and symbols. (A computer uses a base 2 system.)

They are taught to reason deductively from "postulates" or assumptions which they decide are true. Ideas of absolute truth and eternal verities are not given a foothold in the door of the mathematics class.

A pamphlet called "What Is Modern Mathematics?" put out by Scott, Foresman, textbook publishers, explains it this way: "A deductive system consists of unproven terms, postulates and theorems that are shown to be true on the basis of postulates through the application of the laws of logic. If we start from new and different postulates, we can formulate new theorems."

Now start thinking. If you will, of the possible carry-over for the child of this approach into other subjects, such as sociology, history, ethics and religion. In the topology of the absolute and the intellectual structure of the world, I guarantee you'll find a whole lot of big words and new terms.

GET WITH THE NEW: Karen Peters, third grade student, uses an abacus to add 27 and 54. The wires, or columns, represent ones, tens, hundreds and thousands. Karen is in Mrs. Jeanette Aronow's class at the Walton School.

understand the explanation in the book.
New math will not tolerate which maintains that usage determines meaning. For instance, children no longer speak of numbers. They are told that a number is an abstraction and that the printed symbol for that abstraction is a numeral. And a line is now called, more specifically, a line segment. Scott, Foresman says, "Many (familiar) definitions have been replaced by new ones that are more precise."
Murray says that one of the primary characteristics of the new approach is the use of "sets." Interpretation: a number (except the word) is a set or a group. For instance, five is a set of five things which may be the same or different. Of course, this is extremely simplified, and I am told the idea of set becomes more important in higher mathematics.
"Sometimes new math seems a little obvious," a Springfield teacher said recently, "but its applications begin below the seventh grade in Springfield.

The new learning place value by filling in number frames on the blackboard and by using an abacus device. The abacus, both of these illustrate the breakdown of a number into ones, tens and hundreds.

"At the seventh," Mrs. Aronow said, "I found 25 abacuses and my friends found seven shells. How many shells did we find altogether?"

"Oh," a child whispered excitedly, "it's carrying!" Another child worked the problem on the abacus by adding the five and the seven in the ones columns and then, discovering they added up to more than nine, transferred 10 of them to the next column, the tens.

Seventh grade teacher Robert Gidycz, who uses the new method in his classes, was teaching multiplication and division of fractions last week.
"Before we accept what you have learned," he said, "we want to show you why this—mechanical device works." He was referring to the technique of multiplying a fraction by its reciprocal—the fraction inverted—to make it equal one. A new math name for this is "multiplicative inverse."

Older child worked several problems with the students, using more steps than were necessary for working the problem.
"Do you think I want you to write all this every time?" he asked. The answer was "No."

"Why did I do it this time?" "To show the steps."
The reason for the new approach, he explained, is to have the children learn the "why" as well as the "what." Subject matter is introduced earlier, too, so that algebra and geometry are no longer treated separately from arithmetic but included in a larger program which is called simply "mathematics."

Murray explained that the new program was started two years ago at Florence Gaudin, near an "experimental" base and is now used by all seventh and eighth grades. The curriculum is based on a plan by the School Math Study Group, mathematics curriculum planners based at Yale University.

Mrs. Kalem Heads Red Cross Program

Mrs. Daniel Kalem of 174 Hendrick Ave. has been named chairman of the Springfield Red Cross Blood Program. It was announced this week.

It was announced that the next blood drive will be held at the Springfield High School on March 14, 1964.

A spokesman said that any group or organization interested in taking part in a blood program can call Mrs. Kalem at 370-0812.
Mrs. Kalem has been a Red Cross volunteer driver for the past 10 months and also is a registered nurse.
Mrs. Kalem was born in Germany. She fled to England before the outbreak of World War II and later came to the United States where she entered the nursing field, the local chapter said.
As a registered nurse, she worked at Bellevue Hospital and for the Health Department of New York City. While in training at the Mount Sinai Hospital she met her husband, who operates an insurance company.
The Kalems moved to Livingston in 1942 where they lived for three years and in 1945 they came to Springfield.

Active in the Township Beth Abim, Mrs. Kalem has served as Secretary of the School Board at the Pleasant Mount Sunday School and has been a member of the Adult Education Committee. She is also health chairman of the Florence M. Gaudin School PTA.

Post Office Hours Expanded For Yulet

Springfield Postmaster A. V. Dol Vecchio this week announced that beginning Monday, the service window hours at the main post office on Mountain Ave. and at Contract Stations Nos. 1 and 2 will be expanded for the sale of stamps and acceptance of parcel post, during the Christmas mail rush.
The hours will be as follows:
Weekdays, Dec. 9-13, 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., main office, and 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., stations;
Sat., Dec. 14, 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., main office, and 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., stations.
A BUSINESS OF YOUR OWN... find it through the West Ad Section!

THAT LIMIT far out in the getting-shelter.

My other conclusion is that the new approach is long-winded. An elementary school teacher in one of the regional sending districts, who is now using the new method, said to me: "They've taken away one profitable and arithmetic and given us in its place a lot of big words and new terms."

A Springfield seventh grader said in math class last week: "I understand the problems and I know how to find the answers, but I don't understand the explanation in the book."
New math will not tolerate which maintains that usage determines meaning. For instance, children no longer speak of numbers. They are told that a number is an abstraction and that the printed symbol for that abstraction is a numeral. And a line is now called, more specifically, a line segment. ## Rabbi Assails Nation's Attitude That Permitted Assassination

"The late President Kennedy's appeal to reason and learning, his very martyrdom, calls us back to the faith of our founding fathers and might very well serve as the text for Thanksgiving," Dr. Carthon S. Chertoff, rabbi of Congregation B'nai Israel, Elizabeth told Union Junior College students last Wednesday at a memorial Thanksgiving Program.

Re-elect Roessner Commission Prexy

Gilbert G. Roessner of Summit, executive vice president of City Federal Savings, was re-elected president of the Union County Park Commission at its annual meeting held last week in the administration building at Warinanco Park.

Other officers re-elected were: Donald Ferguson of Westfield, vice-president; J. Harold Loffe, president; J. Harold Loffe, vice-president; J. Harold Loffe, vice-president; J. Harold Loffe, vice-president.

and in the moral ideas of western civilization shared by educated men everywhere. "It is for us the living to dedicate ourselves to the unfinished work to which we were committed and which our martyred President so nobly advanced," Dr. Chertoff said.

Commission Prexy

Other re-appointments included: Frederick C. Kente Jr., of the law firm Kente, Kente and Gilson of Summit, counsel, and the firm of Wright, Long and Co., auditors. In other actions taken by the commission, former Commissioner Victor H. King of Plainfield was presented a resolution in recognition of 17 years of service on the board. The commission authorized the purchase of a new police car from Brown Ford Inc. of Union, the low bidder. The commission's accounts for the third quarter of 1963 were certified by Wright, Long and Co. Members observed a minute of silence in memory of the late President John F. Kennedy.

offer thanks when on the silent ground. The silent alarm? We weep for the voice of hope that was filled, we grieve for the promise not completely fulfilled, we mourn for the burgeoning greatness that had not yet reached its climax.

"In the President's death there is not only tragedy, but also frustration. America was always promised, and continues to be, a better life. His belongs to the ages the President's words, along with those of the two Roosevelts, Lincoln, Jefferson and Washington, have become important rather than lost, and are part of the American scriptures that have always inspired America to break a lance with the future and laugh at fears for the morrow."

LIME YOUR LAWN NOW—

Fall Treatment 'Better Than Springtime'

There's no need to wait until spring to begin work on your lawn. You can do it now. After you've raked off the leaves, of course. According to a man who is dedicated to keeping Central State lawns green and healthy, the time you spread this fall will take effect better than you can have the full benefit of the every year. Some people apply 50 to 75 pounds every two or three years, but the lawn specialist says it's better to apply smaller amounts every year than larger amounts less frequently. Another advantage of spreading lime every year is that you are less likely to forget to do it.

Dr. Henry W. Indye, extension turf management specialist at Rutgers, explains that lime moves slowly down into the grass roots where it is needed. The alternate practice of throwing of the soil spreads the process so that the grass plants

If you can't remember when you last applied lime or how much you spread, you may want to go at the job more scientifically. The one sure way to tell if your lawn needs lime is to have the soil tested. Dr. Indye suggests a test every three to five years. To have your soil tested at the College of Agriculture, the first step is to send a dollar to your county agricultural agent and ask him for a home garden soil mailing kit. With the plastic bag, box and mailing labels you will receive instructions for taking a soil sample. Results from Agent. Your whole effort might well depend on how you take your sample so it's to your advantage to heed the directions. After your soil has been tested you'll receive a report from your agent with suggestions for improving your soil. You can reach your agent by calling or writing the Cooperative Extension Service, which is a part of Rutgers, in your county. Look in the phone book under county offices.

Rabbi Dresner

(Continued from Page 1) bany, Ga. He was arrested there in August 1962 on another freedom ride, this one involving 75 clergymen. He and seven others, leaders of the group, were brought to trial if the conviction is achieved. They were held in a jail for 60 days on a road named "Hallelujah Road." The 10 clergymen in Tallahassee told the U. S. Supreme Court in oral arguments Oct. 23 that the convictions had violated rights of assembly and freedom of speech. The counsel for the group refused to disperse after it appeared there might be a trial. Rabbi Dresner said the protests "serve to alert the nation to practices of segregation, hostile morals of the Negro and let Southern whites, who may secretly wish an end to segregation, know that they have allies in a mutual cause." The 10 are being aided by the Freedom Clergymen's Legal Defense Fund. Contributions can be made through Mrs. Philip Lewis, 385 Milltown rd., Springfield.

CHOOSE HOLIDAY PAKE WIKELY NERVE FRUIT SALAD, DESSERTS

The need for discretion in choosing holiday fare is pointed up in the old rhyme, "Christmas itself may be called into question if carried so far it creates indignation."

And the late Ralph Berggren was perfectly right in calling this to our attention. The traditional Christmas dainties are undoubtedly very delectable. And very, very filling! Over-indulgence in fancy high-calorie foods, laden with fat and sugar, can bring protests from the tummys as well as adding to the waistline.

Fresh fruit or fruit in almost any form is a better choice for snacking than the usual holiday sweets. It is usually lower in calories and often more digestible.

The cellulose and pectin bulk provided by fruit helps to offset the concentrated dainties generally lacking in roughage. A generously filled fruit bowl, with a luscious cluster of grapes spilled over the top, is a handsome and appealing centerpiece. It invites nibbling, in this case foods which are rich in vitamin C.

But don't limit the fruit offerings to snack time. Winter fruit ambrosia is a pleasant light dessert to serve after a hearty meal and molded fresh grape and avocado salad can be either a refreshing accompaniment to dinner or an enjoyable feature of a soup, salad, dessert, luncheon. Glazed fresh apples and pears is a delicious cooked fruit dessert.

WINTER FRUIT AMBROSIA

3 medium fresh navel oranges
2 fresh melting type pears
2 large firmripe bananas
1 tablespoon sugar or sugar to taste
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
Grated fresh coconut
Green food coloring, optional
Red maraschino cherry

Peel and section oranges into mixing bowl. Peel and slice pears and add. Peel bananas and cut into slices 1/4-inch thick and add. Add sugar and lemon juice. Mix carefully. Serve in sherbet glasses or fruit dishes, topped with a fluff of grated coconut. If desired, color coconut green by mixing 2 to 3 drops of green food coloring with 5 to 3 drops water and mix with the coconut. Top with a red cherry. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

MOLDED FRESH GRAPE AND AVOCADO SALAD

2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1 cup cold water
1 cup hot water
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup fresh orange juice
1/4 cup fresh lemon juice
1 1/2 cups seeded Emperor grapes
1 cup dried avocado salad greens
Emperor grape clusters
Mayonnaise, optional

Soften gelatine in cold water. Stir in hot water, then add sugar and salt and stir until dissolved. Blend in orange and lemon juices. Chill until the mixture begins to thicken. Fold in grapes and avocados. Turn into an oiled 5-cup mold. Chill

'Li'l Abner' Is Mad And Joyful-- And You Can Take The Kiddies

By RITA ZIMM

"Li'l Abner" and his fellow Dogpatchers couldn't have made a more propitious appearance at the Meadowbrook Dinner Theatre. The Christmas season is coming when even the 20th century Scrooges pretend for a little while that goodwill is something else beside a handy intangible that helps the stock.
It's coming to that time of year when the Pollyannas come into their own, when the cynics crawl quietly into their snaky shells and when all-time-sprittling characters like Mammy Yokum are abroad in the land. And very welcome they are to ill-luminated by long, lunge-limbed, heavy-footed Peter Lombard, and his constant shadow, Daisy Mae, gets an adorable interpretation from blonde, stately Will Burke as Presly Marker, now of Bryantway, brought to the role in the Meadowbrook's first production of the Al Capp comedy.

Monique Van Dooren, who is listed as the star, wanders on and off stage, warbling excerpts from her night club act while wiggling fetchingly about the stage as Appassionata von Climax, the wicked siren assigned to the task of destroying the red-blooded American convictions of our boy Abner.

Of course, in true Dogpatch tradition, not a dogpatcher goes with that dedicated dog-patcher Marylin Sam (Dean Dittman) backing our boy on every step of his right-footed way, speaking of dog-patchers, that Dittman really does good (at right — he does well) but he does it in every role he plays. He's played many a role at the Meadowbrook and each of them has been a gem.
Diana Banks is just about the most agile, audacious, authentic Mammy Yokum you could ask for. Wopsy Ayl Os-tein is a wistful ole Pappy. Sundry other odd characters such as Moonbeam McSwine, (Judy Durkin) the disheveled beauty of the hills; Wolf Eye Fleagle (Allan Charles), the money-green wheeler-dealer; "Stevie" (James McQueen), the "Dynamite" (James McQueen), and Available James (George Jones) come lightly through the right-thinking fable.

Li'l Abner and Daisy dust on the show's best tune, "Namely You," and Abner leads his cronies on "If I Had My Drifters." Dittman heads the Dogpatchers in the rousing "Whatcha T. Compose." And oh that Sadie Hawkins Day chase!
If all adds up to as mad and as joyful a tale as you could find — and one you can take the kids to without blushing.

Plan Early For Yule, Avoid Money Woes

"Christmas is coming. The money is getting fat. Please to put a penny in the old man's hat."

"No one an old English jingle which carries a lot of philosophy appropriate to the present day in America," says Mary Armstrong, County Home Agent.

"Christmas does come upon us before we're ready; it is still associated with special foods; and it still prompts the need for extra cash for ourselves and others. Unfortunately, more planning is done in connection with decorations, food and the choice of gifts, than with the source of the extra pennies needed. Christmas clubs do help some people to have a limited amount of extra money needed. In many families, however, even those with good incomes, there is added drain on December revenue. One Elizabeth homemaker said, "There are never enough five dollar bills in December to go around, especially in families with children."

"December is here bringing with it joy and happiness, but for many at least, also extra worries. There are some extra chores for this kind of worry. One economic expert says: "Money management is best used as preventive medicine for money troubles." But preventive medicine is most effective when taken in advance. A week or two is hardly long enough advance, but it is better than no advance at all. Even if it is "later than you think" to come to grips with extra expenditures for Christmas gifts and holiday entertaining, here's-sight at all may be better than blind-sight."

Only A Part. "The street and store decorations and the advertising, both printed and verbal, are catching your attention in spite of yourself. But this is concerned largely with material things to buy. And gifts are only a part of the extra costs of this season. "In making out any request for appropriations, all needs must be anticipated, even though the funds granted do not always meet anticipations. It is best to have a realistic list of all the extras which will put additional stress on the family's pocketbook, even if it is "later than you think" to come to grips with extra expenditures for Christmas gifts and holiday entertaining, here's-sight at all may be better than blind-sight."

"One child of 13 did just that and reported to her parents as follows: "I've been working on my Christmas budget and I find I need $20 at least, with my allowances and what I can earn. I'm sitting here if I was called every Saturday, I'd only have $10; could I wash the car once or twice to help out or can you think of anything else I can do to extra $10 more?" This child faced her home to pay back the bills owed, and on January 1 called around. "If your December extra expenditures fall into the usual pattern, you'll be reaching into the till money for the following: Christmas meals, Christmas gifts, Christmas cards, more Christmas gifts, parcel postage for mailing gifts, Christmas donations to needy causes, extra meals away from home, at church fairs or while shopping, charges for office or club Christmas parties, extra haircuts you see while in the stores, extra food supplies made ahead for holiday goodies, extra for clothing for special parties, extras for the children for school and social events."

Also, Christmas wrappings and tags, Christmas decorations for the house, table favors and postage for those you forgot, extra telephone calls or wires about gifts that haven't arrived, extra trips to the store for last-minute items, more food supplies for guests, extra contributions at church, a Christmas tree, more last minute gift purchases, some new ornaments or lights, large bill for electric current, and more.

"Are you prepared to keep these within the bounds of your resources?"

lost by the radio. Everyone... was laughing. The laughter...
died down about midnight...
and the lights went out slowly.

went to bed.
It was still raining.
The first 20 minutes of the... morning were like the night...

people reacted. Breakfast...
went in almost complete...
silence. Then the talk started... about the crime, fear and...
doubt, the announcement that the president of Tanganyika... had declared an official day...

of mourning. The assassin... was a Communist or a...

to us. A Communist scare, ter...

happen while we were here?

8:00 miles away, walking... back of a man in whom we...
saw ourselves, in whom we...
saw the spirit of youth...
of American youth given... the chance to act rather than...
talk. He was no longer there... to lead us. We, for the most... part, saw in him what we would... like to see in ourselves. Vitality... and spirit in the positive sense. We would yell at him and he... wouldn't say, "Well, I'm... here." He might not agree but...

he wouldn't beg for...
What will the reaction be... at home? We pray to God that... whatever it is, it is tempered...

We hope the reaction is as...
American as he was. We want...
so badly to be there to stem of attempt to stem... national reaction. But we are...

here because he wanted us... here. We are here because we...
believed the things he said...
should wait to do and the... things that he said we should... be willing to do. We are... between desires in our...

Before my thoughts were...
complete the radio was already... on and the words came out...
sends his condolences to... the Kennedy family. There... was no sound to be heard but... a feeling to be felt. No sob or...
sigh, just a dead, disbeliev...
ing, sorrow, fear and feeling... of emptiness. The radio kept...
on with its fading and whining...
interspersed with the news from... all over the world. Silence.

Cries from the north across... the way drifted in to hear... the news. We moved to my...
radio for better reception. There... were 15 to 20 people around... the radio. People drifted in... and out. Some just walked... around with a blank stare on... their faces. Some drifted out...
into the rain not knowing...
where to go, what to do.

We were together yet we...
were alone.
I left the radio after listen... ing for almost an hour. Myself... and others had dressed without... any reason but there had to be... something. I drifted over...
to a married couple's house...
where many other people were...
huddled around the continuing... blare of the radio. The young...
married girl had tears in her... eyes for a while but they...
quickly disappeared. My car... could not start - the luxury of... crying. It was too unreal for... crying. We didn't have the... right. At times the radio would... go off for minutes at a time.

During these periods there... were no sounds... no sug... gestions as to how to tune back...
the station. No adverse reac... tion to the radio going sour.
During these short periods we... were again together yet alone.
Our representative walked in.
He said six or seven words that... were unneeded and unwanted... at that time. These words...
the only words I heard from... the time of the official news...
I work up today. Today we... understood his words and...
accepted their presentation.

LEADER PROFILE

He taught for a while in the Florence Gaudineer School when that building opened but returned to Chisholm in 1953 as a teaching principal. (Even then he was holding down three jobs: principal, teacher and college instructor.)

And when the Walton School opened in 1955, he was made principal of both that building and Chisholm. Just before that he had been coping with double sessions at Chisholm and the redistricting which must accompany the opening of a new school.

In 1961 he was named assistant superintendent of schools and retained the post of principal at Walton.

As assistant superintendent his duties lie primarily in the areas of curriculum and research. Superintendent Benjamin F. Newsinger, in a report to the principals just after Murray's appointment, outlined the duties of this position.

He was charged with the responsibility of establishing a permanent system-wide curriculum committee with a rotating membership.

HE IS RESPONSIBLE for coordinating curriculum within the schools and with the Regional High School, so that continuity will be maintained.

He had a personal interest in one research project undertaken by the Springfield schools. It was a self-evaluation completed and presented to the Board of Education in 1962.

The method used for this evaluation was devised by the New Jersey School Development Council at Rutgers University, and Murray has been chairman for the last six years of the local division of research and a member of the steering committee.

He was one of those who developed the method and then he had the opportunity of trying it out in his own school.

The evaluation, he said, pointed to a need for improvement in two curriculum areas: social studies and mathematics. The social studies curriculum revision is underway now, and the so-called "new math" program is in full swing at Florence Gaudineer.

He says he's always looking for ways to improve the schools but doesn't inaugurate changes just for the sake of change. He has, not jumped on the bandwagon headed for the marketplace of teaching machines and programmed learning, for instance. "Nothing has replaced the teacher yet," he said, pointing to the quotation which maintains that the teacher who can be replaced by a machine ought to be replaced. He's keeping an open eye and mind on the subject, however, and was group leader at a New Jersey education conference two years ago on programmed learning and teaching machines.

His non-professional activities include work for the Boy and Girl Scouts as he has a few Scouts and a Girl Scout of his own. He has served as a member of the executive council of Cub Scout Pack 172, Boy Scout merit badge counselor, and participated in Boy Scout fund drives.

Other fund drives he has helped with include the Red Cross, retarded children and mental health. He was chairman for the Springfield Red Cross Drive last year.

Murray is a member and past president of the local Rotary Club, and as chairman of a scholarship fund drive for that organization last year, arranged to bring the U. S. Air Force Band to Springfield last May.

"I don't have any bragging habits to tell you about," he said modestly. "You know, my trouble is that I love my work."

Springfield Dancer Chosen For Ballet

Judy Kandler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Kandler of 22 Cypress Ter., Springfield, has been chosen as a performing member of the Garden State Ballet, the Ballet Foundation of New Jersey announced this week.

The 15-year-old sophomore at Jonathan Dayton Regional High School was one of 12 selected for membership among 31 contestants in audition last month. Miss Kandler has appeared in a presentation of "Peter and the Wolf" and is currently enrolled in classes at the Newark Ballet Academy.

CHRISTMAS PARTY SET BY SORORITY

The Northern New Jersey Alumnae Chapter of Delta Delta Delta, national collegiate sorority, will hold its Christmas meeting and covered dish luncheon next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. E. E. Paul of 14 Noe Ave., Madison at 12:30 p.m.

Each member will donate a toy for a child to be given to the Burke Memorial Day Nursery of Newark, an announcement said. Program for the day will be a talent sale and auction of items made by members under the chairmanship of Mrs. H. A. Vilas and Mrs. P. W. Siegel of Upper Montclair.

Co-hostesses will be Mrs. G. Robert Myers and Mrs. W. Allan Cudlippe, both of Springfield and Mrs. William B. Spooner of Chatham.

LEGION PLANNING CHRISTMAS PARTY FOR YOUNGSTERS

The annual children's Christmas Party, sponsored by Continental Post 226, American Legion, will be held Sunday, Dec. 22 at 2 p.m., at the Post home. It was announced this week.

Also, the Commander's Christmas party is scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 14. Dinner will be served at 8 p.m., followed by dancing until 1 a.m.

A Post spokesman said reservations can be gotten by calling Stuart Douglas at DR 8-2150 or Harry Healy at DR 6-2072.

An executive meeting of the Legion Auxiliary will be held next Tuesday at the home of Jackie Roessner of 44 Rose Ave., Springfield.

Those who participated in the November hospital visitation in Lyons Hospital were: Mrs. Harold Jones, Mrs. Ben Rutz, Mrs. Rita Battello, Mrs. Ruth Van Arsdale, Mrs. Mary Wozniak, Mrs. Doris Holmes and Mrs. Roessner.

Salvation Army Starts Campaign

The annual Christmas mail appeal of the Salvation Army began last week when nearly two million letters were mailed to residents in 247 New Jersey communities, according to J. C. Giles C. Barrett, New Jersey Divisional Commander.

Letters in the state are being asked to help finance the Salvation Army Christmas program through the mail appeal as well as at the familiar Red Cape and Kettle.

The Red Kettle manned by "Captain Merric Christmas" and Salvation Army Officers appeared last week for the first time at street locations in cities and communities throughout New Jersey and the nation.

'TERCENTENARY TALES' by John T. Cunningham

Tribulations Of James Moody--He Remained Loyal To England

Life in the early 1770's held everything sweet for James Moody, a plain, contented farmer of Sussex County. He wrote that he lived in "the best climate and the happiest country in the world," at peace with himself, his family and his neighbors.

Then his serene world tumbled about his ears, for he chose to defend "that glorious constitution" during the Revolution. Moody's happiness vanished; his neighbors hounded him and called him traitor.

Moody told his story in "Lieutenant James Moody's Narrative of His Exertions and Suffering in the Cause of Government," published in England in 1783. His poignant little document recited the tribulations of a Jerseyman who remained loyal to England, while all about him people became "disaffected."

Although Moody's "Narrative"

recited his own adventures, the Sussex Loyalist always referred to himself as "Mr. Moody." Perhaps that gave him greater chance for self-praise (or, perhaps, as some have written, he was modest).

Moody began by describing his horror of former friends who overthrew the constitution (of England), and while he "pretended not to be a competent judge of their motives," he felt that "rebellion is the foulest of all crimes."

He claimed that he took "every possible precaution not to give offense," but trouble began quickly. Late in March, 1777, several armed men accosted Moody in his garden and fired three shots at him. "Happily," Moody wrote, "they missed."

That convinced Moody that he must fight back. He left Sussex County in April, 1777, taking with him 73 like-minded Loyalist neighbors, naturally "all honorable men of the fairest and most respectable characters."

Ahead stretched years of heartbreak and isolation for James Moody, a patriot by British standards, outlaw by American view.

Moody returned in New Jersey in June, 1777, walking through the highlands to enlist "loyal men" and to "disarm the disaffected" where possible. He claimed that 500 followed him to British lines (a most unlikely lot) in the sparsely-settled country in which he recruited.

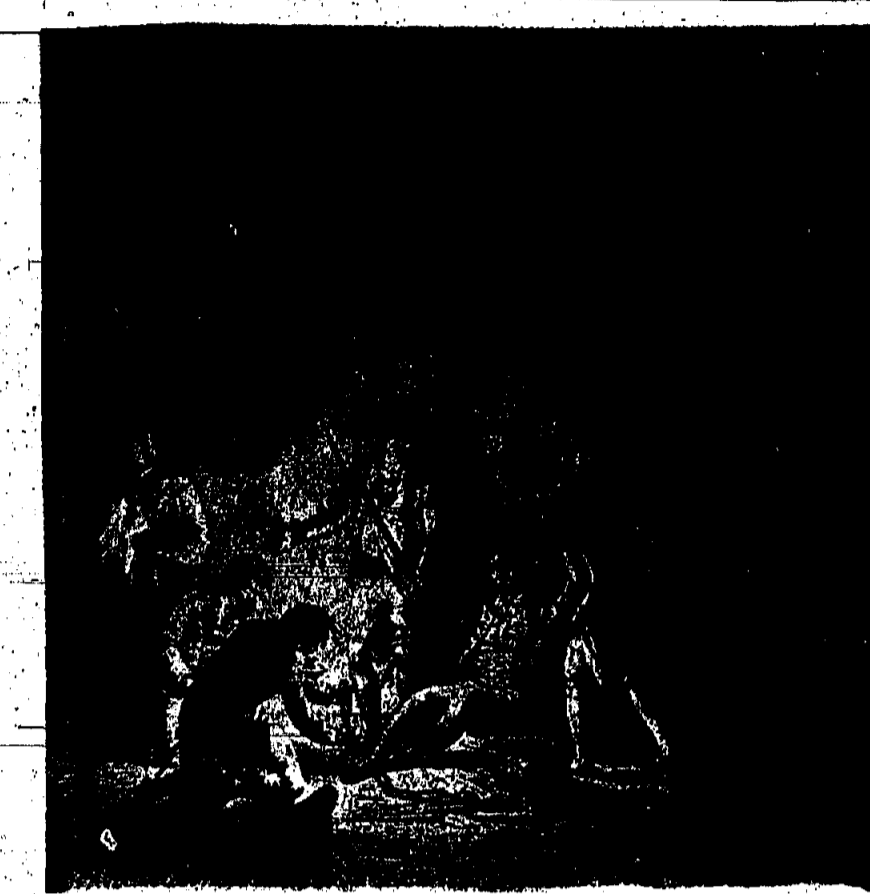

As he worked strenuously for the British cause in the late spring of 1777, Moody grew discouraged by the "injustice of the British commander, Sir William Howe. Moody wrote that if Howe had attacked, "the rebellion could have been crushed in New Jersey."

The Sussex Loyalist led an audacious raid on Tinton Falls in Monmouth County on June 10, 1778. He destroyed a powder magazine and carried off stores and arms, which he later sold in New York for 500 pounds sterling. He also captured five American officers and "several of inferior rank."

Moody spied constantly on the American army during the 1778-80 encampment in Morristown. He often waylaid the mails or boldly looked at army records and "got from their own books an exact account of their rations."

One daring dash into the uplands near Morristown in May, 1780, sought to capture "some person of Note," later revealed to be Governor William Livingston. It failed because one of Moody's men fell into rebel hands, told all, and "blasted the whole project."

More successfully, Moody soon after raided New Town, county seat of Sussex County. He knocked boldly on the door of the County Jail and demanded that the jailer come down to hands of General Benedict Arnold. He himself was the victim of a "plot" to the British.

The more "contented farmer" found himself a man without a country when the war ended. He was a bit of a rebel in England as "the most distinguished patriot in America." His "Narrative" was published and great attention was accorded. A steel engraving showing his raid on the New Town "jail."

Homeless, friendless, with only his memories, James Moody spent his last days in Sissiboo, Nova Scotia. He remained, lived modestly and the wandering "partisan" settled down to reading prayers on Sunday mornings in peaceful Sissiboo.

Jerome McFarrert, 21, of 41 40th st., Irvington, was hospitalized with injuries Monday morning when he lost control of his car in the eastbound lanes of Rt. 22 in Springfield and hit a utility pole; police of that community reported.

December Especially Hazardous Month

The month of December is a particularly bad one for accidents, the New Jersey Safety Council advised this week as it cautioned citizens to take extra precautions to prevent incidents that might change the happy holiday season into a sad one.

The council pointed out that 202 lives were lost, and 27,000 other persons suffered various degrees of injuries in all types of accidents in the state during December last year.

This was reported by George G. Traver, council executive vice president, to point up the seriousness of the accident problem during the closing month of each year and the sorrow that is brought to thousands of homes around the Yule season due to accidents.

Traffic accidents last December accounted for 85 deaths and 9,234 injuries. The pedestrian toll was 21 killed and 509 persons injured. Six of those killed and 944 of the injured were youngsters under 15. Three of those killed and 108 of the injured in that age group were pedestrians.

In the age group 16 years and over, traffic mishaps took 20 lives and injured 741 others. The pedestrian toll in that age group was 12 killed and 101 injured. In the 15-59-year age group, 59 persons were killed and 7,315 others injured. Sixteen of those killed and 284 injured were pedestrians. There is no record of the ages of 501 other persons injured, including 30 pedestrians.

Falls and fires were cited by Traver as major causes of the 70 deaths recorded in home accidents in the state last December.

Traver further emphasized that all age groups are included in the accident record, and that the aftermath of a fatal accident is injury to those dying any amount but is doubly so during the Yuletide.

The very day CARE opened its 1963 Food Crusade fund appeal, October's Hurricane Flora battered Haiti. CARE has undertaken to feed 400,000 hurricane victims over a 4-month period.

Elastic-Stop Nut Firm Pays 30-Cent Dividend

The board of directors of Elastic-Stop Nut Corp. of America, Union, this week declared a cash dividend of 30 cents per share on the common stock of the company payable Jan. 16, 1964 to holders of record on Dec. 20, 1963. It was announced.

In addition, the board declared an extra year-end dividend in the form of a two percent stock dividend payable Jan. 16, 1964 to stockholders of record Dec. 20, 1963.

Rehearsal Open To Area Students

High school and college students from this area may attend a final rehearsal of The Masterwork Chorus and Orchestra Dec. 14 in preparation for the group's Dec. 15 performance at Madison Hall in Lincoln Center, New York City. They will perform Handel's "Messiah."

The dress rehearsal will also be in Madison Hall from 10 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. There will be no charge, but admission will be only by passes, which are obtainable from music supervisors in the various area schools.

Mrs. Robert C. May, manager of the Masterwork Music and Art Foundation, suggested that schools order student passes promptly, because they will be issued on a first come-first served basis.

For And About Teenagers

One Girl's Views On Going Steady

THE WEEK'S LETTER: All the ways in your articles, you talk about going steady, saying it leads to "trouble" and to early marriage. In my opinion, you don't have to be going steady to get into trouble or get married early. It is the individual person what they think is best for you — but they are not the ones that will have to spend the rest of their lives with that person. "If someone feels old enough to go steady, shouldn't they be allowed to do so? Do you have to be not a teenager to be in love?" The way people talk, you'd think teenagers are a crazy, mixed-up bunch of kids who can't do anything right. I've always been told that a child is everything their parents make them. Do you agree? Some people don't seem to understand that every one makes mistakes. Mistakes are human. . . . OUR REPLY: Everyone makes mistakes, it's true. It is human to make mistakes. BUT mistakes are usually caused by a lack of knowledge or experience. Put an untrained worker at the controls of an intricate machine, and he will certainly make mistakes. He hasn't been properly prepared for the job. That's why teenagers have parents — to properly train them. It's a difficult assignment — many teenagers feel that all you have to do to drive is be big enough to see over the steering wheel. NEED A JOB? HANDLING BABY EMERGENCIES

BY JOHN A. HOBERTY, EXECUTIVE SECRETARY Michigan Health Council, East Lansing, Michigan
A baby emergency need not be a frightening experience. If you know in advance just what you should do. . . . Following are some of the most common emergencies that involve babies and the action to be taken in each case:
Bites—Animal and Human. Clean thoroughly with soap and water and apply sterile dressing. Attempt to identify the animal and its owner. Notify your doctor immediately for all bites. Insect—Apply cold compresses. If pain or swelling are severe, notify your doctor.
Burns—Wash gently with soap and water. Cover with clean, loose dressing. Do not use any other treatment without consulting your physician.
Convulsions—Keep baby lying flat. Loosen clothing and keep warm. Do not give anything by mouth until consciousness returns. If baby feels hot, sponge with or place in water which is neither hot or cold. Notify your doctor after convulsion is over.
Cuts, Wounds—If bleeding profuse, keep the part elevated above the rest of the body if possible and apply pressure over the cut, with a clean dressing. Clean with soap and water and cover with sterile dressing. If deep or a puncture wound, call physician.
Choking—Produce vomiting. This is most easily done by having a person drink warm water and gagging by sticking the finger down the throat. Save the container of the poison and call a physician. In case of strong corrosive substance such as lye, vomiting is not desirable.
Chemicals In Eye—Wash thoroughly with plain warm water and call your doctor.
Fractures—Move child as little as possible. Splint with a padded stick or thick

Expert Offers Winter Driving Safety Rules

All drivers can go on winter ice and snow in safety if they will follow the advice of the experts, declares Richard O. Bennett, secretary-treasurer of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety.

"It is tragic to see drivers get killed or injured — it's bad enough to see them stalled — on ice or snow-packed streets and highways, because they don't know the basic rules of safe winter driving," Bennett said.

"These ground rules for getting places safely in winter weather have been developed by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards," Bennett explained. "The rules are observed carefully by all highly skilled commercial drivers and were developed after years of testing by automotive engineers, test drivers, tire and chain experts, government officials, and others who have met each year to conduct tests of all kinds of vehicles and equipment."

The national authority on traffic safety explained that the 10 recommendations of safe winter driving have been widely published by the National Safety Council and almost all safety organizations.

"Television spots are now being used nationally by the National Safety Council to give more drivers a better knowledge of how to survive on icy roadways," he said.

Bennett sums up the committee's ten basic rules this way:

1. Throttle anti-freeze after cooling system is flushed out and checked for leaks.
2. Have good tires. See that tires have good treads, whether snow tires or regular. Proper wheels also need good treads for "cornering."
3. Always carry reinforced tire chains. They are far superior for severe conditions such as deep snow and slippery hills.
4. Be sure wipers work. Be sure windshield wiper blades are in good condition with good pressure of at least an ounce for each inch of blade.
5. Use your defroster. Keep windshield clear of ice and interior fogging.
6. Make sure all lights work. Headlights, stop lights, tail lights and directional signals should be tested frequently.
7. Be sure you can start. Have engine turned up for sure starting in cold weather and have spark plugs and distributor points checked.
8. Be sure you can stop. Have brakes adjusted frequently, linings checked and free from grease.
9. Check battery frequently for proper charge and make sure it is always full of fluid.
10. Have exhaust system in order. Muffler and tail pipe should be checked frequently to avoid leakage of exhaust gases into car when windows are closed.

"There are six principal hazards of winter driving," Bennett declared. The two that cause the most trouble are reduced visibility and inadequate traction, and (4) ice and snow made slippery by rising temperature.

The other four he listed are:

WINTER WOES by Pinson

A modern day Billy—no kid—Knows the danger whenever cars add. He tests out his brakes And makes no mistakes Like apti-ground, and Katy did!

PREVENT THOSE WINTER DRIVING WOES

The Safe Winter Driving League presents this safety tip from the National Safety Council for driving on snow or ice: "Know the condition of the road surface. Get the 'feel' of the road by trying your brakes gently when away from traffic. This tells you how slick the road surface is. Then adjust your speed and driving habits accordingly."

SAFETY IN CHRISTMAS TOYS

Toys for Christmas probably rank high on everyone's shopping list right now. Selecting the right toy has many implications, but first and foremost, select a safe toy.

The young child will put everything in his mouth that he possibly can. For this reason it's a good idea to avoid toys small enough for the youngster to swallow or choke on.

Also hazardous are toys with removable parts. Whether they are meant to be removable or not, the youngster will get them off. So take care about any toy that has small parts the child can pull off, such as glass or button eyes.

Polychrome paint is another thing to avoid, whatever the child's age. The older child may not get painted toys, but he might get painting sets. Rough or cutting toys that may scratch or cut the youngster are also hazards for any age.

Youngsters love wheel toys, but if the toy is large enough to ride on, be sure that it is well balanced. Most of the time youngsters have a wonderful ability to take a spill and pick themselves up, shake themselves off and start all over again.

Nevertheless, wheel toys that tip easily can cause a lot of trouble and even broken bones. Toys that have anything to do with fire are certainly to be avoided. This includes electrical toys which have not been approved. Be sure to check on the fire-resistant qualities of fabric used in any kind of costume or suit.

Next week "Toys for Fun" will help with selecting toys that children like and enjoy.

UNITED NATION THOUGHTS ABOUT—

Our Late President Kennedy

By TRUDINA HOWARD

In the family of moments, how shamed forever must be the moment that was the one that held the assassination of the president...

At the United Nations alone, the respect and honor and homage given by the people there to John F. Kennedy was enough to lift your heart...

Never — it has been said — never have hardened diplomats smiled so openly and unabashedly...

Never — it has been said — never have the UN members paid a spontaneous tribute of such proportion...

And that was how it was throughout the building. Foreigners of all stations, from delegates to clerks...

And then there was the radio and tv. How proud they made a nation of them...

Even Cuba's gesture was nice. In the official statement of tribute, Carlos Lechuga, the ambassador of Cuba to the UN said...

All civilized men will always be saddened by events such as this. Our Delegation to the Organization of the United Nations, wishes to express that this is the sentiment of the people and Government of Cuba...

Visitors still came on that bright afternoon, but they were silent and solemn. It was almost as if the UN building was a church...

While the city was darkened, the light that filled the sky at sunset time would make you cry with wonder...

St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Avenue held a mass in tribute to the president for the UN family on that funeral Monday...

Even the stock market performed positively instead of the expected negative. And there were the greats of the world of every shade of political feeling who came long distances to stand together by the coffin...

The only other instance of the UN, that was almost like this tribute, according to UN staff members, was the death of Dag Hammarskjold...

This year on the terrible day of November 22 the General Assembly was to be in session; Adlai Stevenson, Ambassador of the U. S. to the UN...

St. Patrick's Cathedral on Fifth Avenue held a mass in tribute to the president for the UN family on that funeral Monday...

Ambassador Stevenson was called to the U. S. Mission around the street and he never returned to that dining room...

"It is my sad duty to announce to the General Assembly news of the tragic death of President Kennedy, who was assassinated this afternoon in Dallas, Texas."

"I know that I interpret the unanimous feeling of the Assembly when I express to Ambassador Stevenson our deep grief, and request him to transmit the expressions of our condolences to Mrs. Kennedy, to Vice-President Lyndon Johnson and to the members of the President's family."

"I ask the members of the Assembly to stand to observe a minute of silence in memory of President Kennedy, after which I shall adjourn this meeting as a sign of mourning."

And the UN was not alone. Almost all the world was just as fine. The UN was but a shining sample.

Profound Tribute By World Leaders

On the afternoon of Nov. 26 the 18th General Assembly of the United Nations held an unprecedented meeting in tribute to President John F. Kennedy...

Kingdom and the U.S. They were followed by the chairmen of the seven committees of the Assembly and seven of the former presidents of the assembly who were in New York...

Speaking last and ending the eloquent statements of tribute was Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, the U.S. representative to the UN. This is what he said with great emotion and weary with sadness...

Text Of Stevenson Statement To UN

My privilege in this sad hour is to convey to you, Mr. President, and to you Mr. Secretary General, and to you, the assembled delegates of the world community, the profound gratitude of the people of my country for what has been done and said here today.

John F. Kennedy was so contemporary a man — so involved in our world — so immersed in our times — so responsive to its challenges — so intense a participant in the great decisions of our day...

Never once did he lose his way in the maze; never once was he intimidated. Like the ancient prophets he loved the people enough to warn them of their errors. And the man who loves his country best will hold it to its highest standards; he made us proud to be Americans.

And so it is that after four sorrowful days we still can hardly grasp the measure really that the world has been robbed of this vibrant presence by an isolated act conceived in the strange recesses of a criminal mind.

We shall not soon forget John Kennedy's driving ambition for his own country — his concept of a permanently dynamic society spreading abundance to the last corner of this land...

UNITED NATION THOUGHTS ABOUT—

Our New President Johnson

In the moments that followed Lyndon B. Johnson's inheritance of the presidency, the entire world watched and listened.

At the United Nations one opinion that was common to all was that "he would fill the position well." But there was always another thought added — "he would not do it with the flair and verve of John F. Kennedy."

Some said it like this: "Johnson does not have a much color as Kennedy." Some said it this way: "He was not just the personality and the like-ability of Kennedy."

Some spoke of vigor versus slowness. But they all said, "Mr. Johnson knows his job." There were those who said he would be more stern — USA.

There were some who said, "he would have to take his courage in both hands, and make a stand." Three years ago he would not have been ready — Ghana.

"I have wonderful confidence in him," — Ireland. less, competitive search for a better society.

We shall not soon forget that by word and by deed he gave proof of profound confidence in the present and the future promise of a great organization, the United Nations.

And we shall never forget these ambitions, these visions and convictions that so inspired this remarkable young man and so quickened the quality and tempo of our times in these fleeting three past years.

Now he is gone. Today we mourn him. Tomorrow and tomorrow we shall miss him. And so we shall never know how different the world might have been had fate permitted this blazing talent to live and labor longer at man's unfinished agenda for peace and progress for all.

Yet for the rest of us, life goes on; our agenda remains unfinished. Minutes after his spirit departed, Lyndon B. Johnson took his oath of al-

"I have not yet had the time to think of it, really, but he is certainly well prepared." — Great Britain.

Some feared he would not have the "Internationalism" that Kennedy had. Some feared he would be an old-fashioned politician and halt the "new healthy rise of the science of politics."

Still others feared the administration would go back to a bureaucratic departmental routine instead of the personal touch system it had with Kennedy; "You won't be able to call up and have Johnson answer the phone — like you could with Kennedy."

Two Americans — but only one — lamented for the youth of Kennedy, as against an "old man again." [Yet Johnson is only a scant eight years older than Kennedy.]

Woodcut Print In 1450 Started Greeting Cards

There's quite a story behind those Christmas greetings you'll be sending and receiving by the dozen this holiday season.

The earliest known holiday greeting was actually a crude woodcut printed in 1491 in the Rhine Valley, Germany.

The card shows the Christy Child standing in the bow of an ancient galley manned by angels, with the Holy Mother seated at the mast. The inscription reads: "Here I come from Alexandria and bring many good years to give generously. I will give them for almost no money and have only God's love for my reward."

First English Card
Sir Henry Cole, an Englishman, is credited with publishing the first "mass produced" Christmas greeting. In 1843, he had an artist, John Horsley, design a Christmas greeting for him. Because he was "too busy to write to the friends at Christmas," the card carried the message: "A Merry Christmas and Happy New Year To You."

Cole had 1,000 copies of the card printed which showed a family party in progress, the oldest with raised wine glasses in a toast to the person receiving the card.

Although Cole was hailed for his act of inventing the Christmas card, his greeting met with severe criticism because it showed children at the same table with wine drinkers.

Unfolded pasteboards. The first cards were unfolded pasteboards printed in color.

Woodcut print of a sailing ship, the earliest known holiday greeting, printed in 1491 in the Rhine Valley, Germany.

Late in the 1850's and 60's, cards were illustrated with designs combining ornaments and lettering. Larger cards became more popular in the 1890's.

By then, the idea had been introduced into the United States. Louis Brang, a prominent Boston lithographer, looking for ways to increase his business, began making Christmas cards in 1875.

Printed In Multi-Colors
Brang was an expert in the art of what he called "chromolithography" and his work and reputation was well established throughout Europe. By using slabs of a particular limestone found only in Bavaria, he printed pictures in multi-colors, as many as 32 different shades at times. He reproduced them so perfectly that you could scarcely tell them from the original paintings.

Sponsored Art Contests
Brang sponsored an art competition to obtain his card designs. Within five years he was turning out five million cards a year, and it wasn't long before Brang cards, trimmed with silk fringe and lace, also became known worldwide.

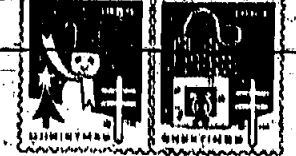

Although Brang gave up printing Christmas cards in the 1890's, he is credited with establishing in America the sending and receiving of Christmas cards, and is known as the "father" of the American Christmas card.

First American Card
The first American Christmas card, however, had been printed in 1853, when R. J. Pense, an Albany, N. Y. dry goods merchant, designed, printed and mailed a Christmas card which also served as an advertisement for his products.

The only known remaining original of the Pense card is now housed in the Rust Craft antique greeting card collection.

Christmas seals, used to seal letters, were one of the first Christmas cards.

THE Golden Years

A man who has been making around $100 a week is coming up for retirement January 1st, and his wife has been driving him crazy.

They will get a pension of only $110 a month and combined Social Security of only $138 a month, she has been telling him. And on this pitance, which is about a fourth of what they have been getting, they will surely starve.

The wife became so excited about the matter that she wrote her husband's company asking how it dared to force a faithful employee into retirement without enough money to live on.

Corporations are a little sensitive about this sort of thing. So a V.P. in her husband's company told a bright boy in the accounting department to look into the case. And this is what he found which YOU may use as a pattern before YOUR wife writes the boss a nasty letter!

Mr. Hen-Pecked was going into retirement with his home free of mortgage. The home was in good shape, and it was agreed that if he and his wife retired together as good they would pay $100 a month for it, so the bright boy put down $50 a month for upkeep, taxes, etc., and recorded $100 a month on the credit side of the couple's ledger.

He then recorded $15 a month for the health and hospital insurance the company gave all retiring employees (not as good as some policies you can buy, but good).

Next, with figures supplied by the husband and wife, he figured how much money it was costing the husband to work. He came up with $142.40 a month. This included $92 income tax, $20 for transportation and lunches, $20 for clothes, and the remainder for Social Security tax, razor blades, haircuts, donations at the office, etc.

On the credit side he now had the couple up to an income or credit of $257.40 a month.

He added the pension and Social Security for $257 more, or a total now of $514.40 a month.

The man had some long-time life insurance policies, now paid up and with a cash value of $7,000. It was suggested that the wife would get $120 a month for life in case her husband died from Social Security and a part of the pension her husband had set aside for her. She would not have an acute need for the insurance. So if the $7,000 cash were taken and placed in an insured savings & loan of bank at 4 per cent interest it would produce another $28 a month. (The couple also could buy a monthly annuity with it.)

A final $20 a month could be had if the couple took their savings—$6,000 in U.S. Bonds—and put them also in an insured account at 4 per cent.

The grand total was now $587.40 per month. Or $6,868.80 a year. Or slightly better than $128 a week.

Grapplers Begin Early Workouts; Team Balanced

Karlin Will Be Out For Half Of Season With Broken Foot

The Jonathan Dayton wrestling team, which doesn't open its season until Jan. 3, is already suffering from the carnage of injury. Six lettermen will be returning to aid Jerry Sachell in his first year as head coach.

Sachell will be without the services of Jeff Karlin, last year's district champion in the 98-pound class.

The grapplers will have a 12 game schedule, the same as last year, with the exception of a substitution of Frank's Township for Union High School.

Conte's Sweeps; Tops Sports Loop

Conte's swept three games from Fairchild's last week to move four games into first place in the Springfield Sports League at Springfield Bowl.

Leading the individual scorers was Art Blair, who racked up 4 238-206-633 for Colantone. Dick Bednarik bowled 225, Sam Castrovina 200 and Paul Zarwick, 201.

Coach says Dayton Eleven 'Came A Long Way' Praises His Team For Showing In 'Rebuilding Year'

You figure it. We beat the best team in the conference, and one of the best teams in the county. We just did not get the breaks.

These were the words of Herb Palmer, Dayton High School's football coach, assessing the past season after losing the Thanksgiving Day game to Fairway, 18-13 and winding up with a 4-4 record.

Palmer, who believes the season could have been a lot better as far as the record books show, was definitely satisfied with the play of his boys.

Heavy On Offense, Light On Defense, Says Cage Coach

With his basketball team back in full strength after the close of the football campaign, Dayton High coach Ray Yanchus intends to take to the scrimmage trail in earnest.

Now that boys like Frank Monticello and Gary Faucher have donned their shoulder pads and head gear, the team can begin to work as a unit, with experience as its forte.

In the first scrimmage, Yanchus used a man to man defense and did not wear from this style as he had previously mentioned he would.

The coach thought that his offensive attack, even without Monticello and Faucher, looked good, but that it will be the defense that will be the key.

The Bulldogs open the season at Clark Dec. 13. A three-way tie for first place remains in the Girl's Recreation League.

The first of these two games went to the Four Stripes paced by Sharon Gagnon, Virginia Vogt also bowled well for the Stripes.

Even Bill Kratzer, who made All-County honorable mention last year, is in for a lot of work, according to Dayton's new coach.

Off-Style Bowling Leader Sports

Art Glover led the pack with a 241 game and 607 series in the Shavey Shalom Brotherhood Bowling League last week at Hi-Way Bowl.

Other top scorers for the season were Bob Hornstein, with a 217 game, and Sid Atkin, with a 202.

The league plans to add an extra session at the end of the originally scheduled season, to make up for the cancelled session of Sunday, Nov. 21.

Phil Rizzuto said he is "not a great manager" and not just a "pumped manager" for the Yankees.

Bowling Pin's Life History From 'Birth' To 'Maturity'

There are probably times when you may not believe it especially when you just missed an easy one-pin but, bowling pins are not human. They cannot dodge, jump or talk to the oncoming ball. Nevertheless, they do enjoy an excellent life.

Simply stated, a bowling pin is born from a block of hard maple wood, and at full maturity weighs between three pounds two ounces and three pounds 10 ounces. Its only purpose in life is to take the constant pounding of a 15- to 16-pound bowling ball crashing against it.

At the manufacturing plant of Brunswick Corp., bowling pins are constructed of new, hard maple wood. Pin coating, are transported and coating are transparent and are white pigmented and the center of gravity of a pin is no higher than 500/64 inches. ABC specifications further call for pins to be 1 1/2 inches high with a base radius of 0.732 of an inch.

In manufacturing a bowling pin, a core of maple wood is first put into storage, then it's placed in a dry kiln. From the dry kiln the pin is returned to length prior to the rough turning operation, the initial step in actually forming the pin.

After going through a number of turning operations, the pin is carefully sanded and then sent on a journey involving several dipping operations, spraying, and application of manufacturer's trademark and ABC certification decals. The pin, now completed, is delivered to the assembly area where it is weighed and packed. From this point it is shipped to the bowling lanes.

The set of ten matched pins received by the proprietor meet the strict specifications of the ABC and do not vary in weight by more than 4 ounces. Each of Brunswick's top grade pins, guaranteed for 5,000 hits, has been constructed to take

"BIRTH" OF A BOWLING PIN

1. After aging, pin billets are moved from dry kilns to manufacturing area where they undergo a number of lathing operations. At any one time there may be as many as one million raw pins waiting for movement from dry storage and kiln storage areas.
2. With rough turning operations completed, pins taking on the form of the finished product go through a number of sanding operations. Here the pins are being finished-sanded and ready for sleeve fitting.
3. The sanded pins move to an area where they are prepared for dipping and application of a nylon-reinforcing sleeve. Sleeve is used to form a smooth adhesive surface for coating operations.
4. Resembling statistics in a cave, pins going through dipping area plant are checked for film appearance. After dipping operations are completed, thickness of pin film is .065 of an inch.
5. Application of the "B" decal is a hand operation. Conveyor turns pins—completed pins take with "automatically sprayed red-crown and Brunswick's "B" decal) in final production area — drying ovens.
6. Final checkpoint before the Sears-King 50 is packed and sent to a bowling establishment somewhere in the world. Pins are weighed to make sure ABC specifications of not less than 3-pounds, five-ounces and not more than 3-pounds, 10-ounces are met. A set of matched ten pins are no more than four ounces apart in weight.

thousands of tons of impact from the bowling balls thrown at them. Although these pins have been designed, according to ABC specifications, bowlers have found that sometimes they seem to be glued to the lane. Be assured that the pins are inanimate and do not dodge the onrushing bowling balls. When hit properly, they fall, and some bowlers claim they hear music in the resounding crash of a strike.
