Realtors Advise Hiring Expert To Manage Income Property

Springfield residents who own income properties were advised this week to free themselves from rent-collecting and plumbing chores. Engage a professional manager for any property housing more than 15 families, counsellors of the Board of Realtors of the Oranges and Maplewood, Hightstown, Millburn, Short Hills and Springfield, advised. "Hiring a manager can actually raise net income on your property," said Board President Henry J. Lanst of Millburn.

As in many other fields, property management today requires a great deal of technical knowledge, realtor George Seiler of Short Hills explained. "As a specialist," he observed, "the professional manager is more experienced and has a broader and more current knowledge of the field than a layman could possibly acquire. Seiler said knowledge of the rental market is particularly needed now, when the percentage of vacancies is larger than at any time since World War II. Along with the skills of an individual manager, the owner acquires the resources of a knowledgeable real estate firm, Charles Kydd of Frank A. Taylor in East Orange pointed out. "Management isn't a one-man job anymore," Kydd commented. "The manager needs the accounting and clerical help and the sales brokerage and mortgage contacts of an established real estate office."

Under these circumstances the manager can consult with his colleagues about problems posed by individual properties. Today's four management supervisors and their assistants meet for weekly discussions. The realtors pointed out numerous ways in which a manager can reduce a tenant's current expenses. Maintenance is an obvious area, said Seiler. "If some of the volume of business we can get as a manager gets special prices on fuel oil and other other purchases. He can often strike a better bargain with painters, carpenters and contractors."

With insurance, taxes and taxes, too, the manager can often come out ahead. He knows what a premium should be, says Seiler, and is in a good position to secure an adjustment if necessary. Being familiar with the tax structure he makes sure his client is not overassessed by any governmental body, and he usually has good success on tax appeals, he realtor commented.

The professional manager knows when to refinance, Kydd observed, adding, "This is big business." Remortgaged, a property can often generate tax-free income for the owner. When it comes to renting a property, the manager again has advantages over the lay owner. "He has an efficient type of lease," says Seiler, "and he keeps revising it, adding clauses that his recent experience indicate are advisable. An owner might have to spend a great deal of time with an attorney to attain a similar result." At present with many vacancies in this area, managed apartments show consistently higher

Lad Hurt In Fall Off His Bicycle

Jeff Pacifico, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Pacifico, of 27 Tonker ave., Springfield, was hurt last week when he was knocked off a bicycle by a car at Linden and Walnut aves., Springfield police reported.

The First Aid Squad took him to Overlook Hospital in Summit, where he was treated for a bump on the head, police said. The accident happened Aug. 12. Although the boy owns the bicycle, he was riding on the sidewalk when he was being pedaled by Lena Miniccozzi, 11, of 15 Tonker ave., Springfield. The car, which was driven by John J. Quinn Jr., 51, of 49-A Walnut ave., Springfield, was eastbound on that avenue, while the bicycle was southbound on Linden ave., police said.

Why do they call me
"Country Boy"
Sam?*

Lots of folks kid me about being a farmer, but I don't mind. Fact is, I'm mighty proud of it. Being born on a New Jersey farm gives me a heap of advantages, I figure. You don't grow up tending orchards without learning how to recognize which fruit will ripen to sweet perfection. You don't raise prize 4-H steers without getting a sixth sense about which meat will be tender and flavorful at the same time. I guess I was practically born knowing what makes for quality in food. This knowledge goes forward making sure that EVERYTHING you get at Good Deal is the very best.

HE WORRIES ABOUT COUNTY'S 31,000 SHADE TREES

Campaigns Against Fungus, Mites, Bagworms... And Motorists

By BARBARA GIBBONS
A car got wrapped around a tree on Chestnut at a neighbor told Carl Mellquist. "Any injuries," Mellquist inquired anxiously. "Just a sprained wrist."

aphids and lace wing flies — as well as careless motorists, short-sighted builders, utility linemen and hammer-welding, placard-posting, politicians.
The first group of enemies is stalked on the front lines by the Shade Tree Commission's corps of sprayers. Last year they treated more than 1,200 trees to control the spread of insects and disease. Tree surgery — the removal of dead branches and the treating and filling of decayed portions — is also carried on by the county's team of tree experts.

granted, the Commission usually looks in on the job to see that the work doesn't interfere with the health of other trees. Sewer work, for example, could damage the root system of nearby trees.
The illegal posting of signs on trees used to be a much greater problem than it is now, said Mellquist. Some years ago the Commission even took a few persistent violators to court. The fall of the year — usually the peak period for unwanted signs, generally posted by overzealous and misguided political campaign workers. Real estate agents used to be troublesome violators, using the county trees as billboards for signs directing house-hunters to the latest offering.

One of the Commission's most important functions is the planting of new trees — not only do they add to the beauty of the area, but they provide shade, purify the atmosphere, offer shelter for birds, prevent erosion of the soil, shield streets and structures from the sun's heat, muffle traffic noises and outline the right-of-way.
Mellquist noted that 500 new trees were planted along county roads last year, mostly Crimmon King, Column Norway, Schwedler and Red Maple, London Plane and Sweet Gum trees.

Mellquist's "pal" tree is a 30-year old white oak on Marlboro ave. in Fairwood. It's 60 feet tall and 16 feet in circumference. "It's absolutely beautiful," he enthuses. The value of that tree is $15,000.
A former employee of Mellquist, ex-Roselle resident Don Krauter, bought the house in back of the tree — just because of the tree.

very likely to bend and quick to die," explained Mellquist. "The trees we select are slower but more durable in the long run."
Most of the trees you see along main country streets were planted by the Commission perhaps two or three decades ago. The remainder were put in by developers or homeowners. In a few cases they just grew from seed, or were there back when most of the county was farmland.
Mellquist, who lives at 35 E. Roselle ave. in Roselle Park, has been a resident of that borough since the age of five. Before joining the County Shade Tree Commission, 17 years ago, Mellquist operated his own business, Park Tree Service.
He is a certified tree expert, licensed by the state of New Jersey.

There ARE 31,000 shade trees bordering our country highways, 55 species, and Mellquist knows them all personally.
"Insurance people can put a value on an individual tree depending on its age and uniqueness — but no amount of dollars can replace it!"
This being the case, Mellquist and his co-workers hover over their leafy charges with the solicitude of a mother hen.
The shade tree has a long list of enemies: fungus spores, beetles, conker worms, spider mites, bagworms, leaf hoppers,

TB And Health League Announces Mailing Of 110 Membership Cards

Membership cards certifying enrollment in the general membership of the Union County Tuberculosis and Health League were mailed yesterday to some 110 persons who have participated in league activities as volunteers, Christmas Seal Campaign aides, and organizational representatives.
Others receiving membership cards are health teachers and individuals who have shown an interest in the problems of tuberculosis and other respiratory diseases by using the league's educational materials, including films, posters and pamphlets.

During the course Regal is receiving instruction in the operation and maintenance of Army air defense acquisition radar. Famed Comedian Keeps On Writing To Local Pen Pal

For fans of Stan Laurel of the famed Laurel and Hardy comedy team—and there are many—word comes from Ronnie Klugman of 534 Astwood rd., Springfield, that the film veteran is improving following his recent hospitalization in Bakersfield, Calif. "I'm much improved, but feeling a wee bit weak," Laurel said in a letter to the young man from Springfield. It is the 104th letter that Klugman has received from Laurel in a pen pal relationship that began several years ago. Although 74 years old and partially paralyzed, the famed comedian answers every single letter sent to him, and these were as many as a thousand a day when he was in the hospital, according to Klugman. He has been home for about two weeks now but the messages of good cheer continue to roll in. Klugman, who in the past school year spread Stan Laurel's name about the campus of Emerson College in Boston, where he was a sophomore, said he thinks the ones who love the comic most are the ones who tend to overburden him. He has no secretary, and it pains him to write so many letters, according to Klugman.

Registration Dates Announced For 3 Regional Adult Schools

Registration for the fall term for all three Union County Regional Adult Schools will take place Sept. 22 and 23, it was announced by Dr. Monroe Splvak, registrar. Registration for the college certification courses is scheduled for Sept. 29 and 30. The three adult schools are at Jonathan Dayton High School in Springfield, Governor Livingston High School in Berkeley Heights and Arthur L. Johnson High School in Clark. Dr. Splvak this week also announced the 1963 registration statistics. In 1962, the Adult School served 2,232 registrants. In 1963, it served 3,385 registrants, a growth of 33 per cent. A recent survey revealed that 25 million Americans are involved in some form of adult education. Dr. Splvak estimates that 10,705 adults taking courses in the U.S. outside of regular graduate study may number close to 60 million more than today's figure. This growth is anticipated as a result of higher educational attainment, increased income, changing employment conditions, and the faster pace of technological change. Far from serving merely as a remedial measure for high school dropouts, adult study will fill an expanding role in improving or updating job skills, widening cultural interests and enhancing leisure hours, he declared. For the 1964 fall term, the Union County Regional Adult School will offer courses which include cultural studies, vocational training, general academic subjects, college equivalency courses, hobby, recreational, and personal development courses. An analysis of enrollment in the three high schools which comprise the Union County Regional Adult School indicates that courses in the arts and leisure-related subjects are becoming more popular. Enrollment in language and other internationally-oriented subjects (geography, culture of other nations, world business, international peace) is expected to increase by more than 100 per cent in 1964. In job-related study, greater emphasis has been placed on scientific, technical and professional education. Although courses in trades such as ma-

Flies Finding Haven At Beach

Check Wind Before Going To Shore

During the hot muggy days of summer, thousands of New Jersey residents find relief from the heat by bathing in the ocean along our many sandy beaches. There are some days however, that instead of finding relief, bathers and beachcombers find the water unbearably cold and often on such days, an abundance of flies and mosquitoes on the beach.

William James, the State Museum naturalist, explains that invariably this is the result of a westerly wind causing this discomfort. Normally, the daily flow of air is from the cool ocean toward the hotter land. The cool ocean air rushes in over the beaches to replace the hot air rising from the sun-warmed land.

On occasion, continued James, strong masses of frontal air from the west overcome the local conditions, creating a westerly wind or offshore breeze. When this occurs, the warm surface water is blown away from the beach.

As well, as the colder water rises to replace it, the surf becomes cold, almost unbearable for swimming. The offshore wind carries insects from land-boarding beaches to the beach where they seek refuge in the lee of the beach.

The naturalist suggests that for those planning to seek refuge from the heat by spending a day at the shore, it would be wise to check the wind direction with the weatherman. A simple weather check could prevent an exasperating day at the shore with water too cold for swimming and with flies and mosquitoes too plentiful for comfort.

James is quick to remind that the westerly wind, although uncomfortable to bathers, plays a valuable and essential role in the life of marine plants and animals bordering the coast. The movement of warm water seaward brings to the surface cold water, rich in oxygen and dissolved nutrients serving to rejuvenate marine life in the shallow coastal areas.

Thus, a temporary nuisance to man is an essential environmental part of the life cycle of plants and animals, assisting countless species of marine life and coastal life to survive.

Bathers and beachcombers, remember to check wind direction!

FIRST AID FOR BYRNS

Householders will be interested in a new first-aid measure for treating superficial burns which involve up to as much as 20 percent of the body.

The American Medical Association reports that immersion of the burned part immediately in ice water results in alleviation of the pain and promotes subsequent rapid healing.

Each burn of any extent of the body that cannot be immersed—such as head, neck, shoulder, chest, abdominal wall, or back—soft clean cloths chilled in a bucket of ice water should be gently applied. The cold treatment

WEEDER'S DIGEST

By YOUR RUTGERS GARDEN REPORTER

Your Money's Worth

"It's not what you pay, it's what you get for your money."

A certain barber has tucked this sign over his cash register, and Henry Indyk, Rutgers turf management specialist, has something like this in mind when he talks about your choice of bargain or high quality lawn grass seed.

If you could talk your barber into giving you a 50-cent haircut these days, you might be about as surprised and shocked as you're sure to be if you plant bargain lawn grass seed this month or next when you make a new lawn.

No matter how much care you give a lawn planted with cheap seed, it never will make you proud.

Read Label

Dr. Indyk's advice, given many times, is to read the label when you buy a package of lawn seed. The law says that ingredients in the mixture have to be printed on the package or tag for your protection.

There's still time for you to read up on lawn seed mixtures before planting time. You'll find all you need to know in Bulletin 357, "Better Lawn Seed Mixtures" that you can get free from your county agricultural agent or from Garden Reporter, College of Agriculture, Rutgers University, New Brunswick.

Or you can just read labels when you shop. Dr. Indyk suggests you choose a mixture with at least 75 percent of the permanent fine-textured grasses such as Kentucky bluegrass, Merion Kentucky bluegrass and red fescue.

Kentucky bluegrasses and red fescues are basic in recommended lawn seed mixtures.

For shady locations, it's best to have more red fescue than bluegrass.

REFLECTION FROM THE PAST — This is the sawmill on the Union side of the Rahway River at Milltown, as it looked in 1901. The men in the picture cannot be identified. The house at the left rear belonged to the late John Collins. This is the area where Milltown rd. is now being improved to eliminate traffic hazards along the Union-Springfield line. (Photo by E. D. Meanwhile, a campaign spearheaded by one of her neighbors continues to raise funds to defray the costs of her hospital stay, which already has outstripped the limits of her family's hospitalization coverage.
 John Kenny, who lives near the Gargalowitz family home at 2530 Hawthorne ave., Union, is chairman of the drive. This week he had both good news and bad news for Theresa's friends. Kenny reported that the fund-raising effort has topped the $2,000-mark. However, the continuing efforts to get Theresa admitted to the John E. Rannels County Hospital have failed to make headway.
 "We're now trying to get her admitted to another hospital," Kenny disclosed. The group has failed to get Theresa into the county hospital because her condition was caused by a trauma, an occurrence that makes her ineligible for admission to the Rannels facility.
 The contributions, Kenny reported, have been coming in the form of $1 gifts. He said a $1 contribution was accompanied by the following unsigned note: "God bless Theresa Gargalowitz. Good health and good luck is my wish to this young girl. P.S. Also her mother and dad. Please God ease their heartache."
 A group of Gates ter, Union, children conducted a bazaar that raised $15.18 for the Gargalowitz fund. "We'd like to use this to pay part of Theresa's hospital bills," wrote Susan Perstein of 710 Gates ter, Union. Others who participated in the bazaar were Jay Perstein, Adrienne Botnick, Tina, David and Michael Haller, Patti Sime and Barry Dubrowski.
 Contributions can be mailed to Post Office Box 4, Union. Kenny has urged all residents to send at least $1.
 Others handling the fund are Union Mayor F. Edward Bierman, Mayor Edward J. Pannell, members of the Union Board of Education.

Trioly Day Service Slated To Follow Panel Discussion

"Is extremism a vice or a virtue? Does the end justify the means?" On Saturday at 3 p.m., the congregants of Temple Shalom, Springfield will take a look at these and a number of related questions. Utilizing the "Open End" format, they will attempt to relate their answers to such areas as religion, politics, business and everyday living.
 Like the TV show, the temple program will have a moderator—in this case, Charles Danziger. Panelists will include temple members Harold Ackerman, Joe Bender, Patti Golden, Marvin Strauss and Sandy Wellon. Breaking with the TV format, the temple presentation will include audience participation portion and refreshments.
 Following the program, congregants will convene in the Temple sanctuary for the traditional Selihot service. Held at midnight, the service marks the beginning of a period of introspection and self-examination preceding the Jewish High Holy Days. The program is being sponsored by the temple's social action committee.

Use Your Home Freezer To Make Quick, Easy Jams

In grandmother's day, home-made jams were a very special family treat. And no wonder. Every jar of jam represented not only hours of work picking and cleaning the berries, but also grandmother's own secret recipe and years of experience.

Today, homemade raspberry jam—as good as grandmother's best—is easy to make, quick to prepare and fits easily in your freezer.

Freezer Raspberry Jam
3 packages (10 ounces each) frozen raspberries
1 cup water
1 package (3 1/2 ounces) powdered pectin
1 cup light corn syrup
4 cups sugar

Partially thaw raspberries and place in a 2-quart saucepan. Wash berries thoroughly. Add water and heat to lukewarm on the low-heat setting of your electric range. Remove from heat. Sprinkle powdered pectin into fruit, stirring vigorously. Set aside for 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in corn syrup, mixing well. Add sugar and mix thoroughly, making sure all sugar is dissolved. Pour into freezer containers and place in freezer.

If you wish, frozen strawberries may be used in place of the raspberries. Home economists recommend adding one-fourth cup lemon juice to the berries with the water when making strawberry jam.

Salads And Hamburgers For Tasty Patio Dining

Among all the foods especially enjoyable outdoors, few taste so good and go together so well as Patio Citrus Salad and Barbecued Burgers. What's more, they are easy and quick to put together, in fact much appreciated by the cook when the forecast reads "sunny and hot."

The salad is a simple arrangement of fruits on lettuce. Two different dressings make ideal toppings for the salad, and either one or both may be offered if desired: a thick, smooth and creamy French dressing and a Blue Cheese dressing with equally tempting creamlike consistency. Unlike thin dressings, these cling to the fruit and lettuce so that their goodness goes along on every forkful of salad. Both come ready to pour and enjoy, and are packed in eight and 16-ounce attractive glass bottles.

Rep. Dwyer Names Campaign Leaders

Rep. Florence P. Dwyer, GOP candidate for election to a fifth term in the sixth Congressional District, named Mrs. Elsie Betz of Westfield and Edward W. Beglis Jr., of Plainfield, to head the women's and men's divisions, respectively, of her campaign committee.

Noting that both Beglis and Mrs. Betz have played prominent roles in her previous campaigns, Congresswoman Dwyer expressed "great pleasure and gratitude" that two such capable and widely respected Union County citizens will again devote their impressive talents to her campaign.

Resolutions Urge Steps To Reduce Tensions In World

Two resolutions urging steps to achieve world peace were adopted at the recent Hiroshima Day meeting at the Elizabeth Library. Copies have been sent to Union County representatives in Washington and to candidates for these posts.

Fun Is Fun, Games Really 'Lessons' At Camp Star For Retarded Children

Camp Star, which closed its summer season earlier this month, is just like any other camp—sports, swimming, hiking, arts and crafts. Plenty of fresh air and sunshine, lots of fun. Make new friends, learn new skills, grow up a little.

The only thing that's really different is the camper. Camp Star's 100 enrollees are all retarded—many so severely that they are not even acceptable in the public schools' "special classes."

Because of that difference, explains Camp Director Carol Price, "we try very hard to give our enrollees the sort of normal experiences that society's attitude and their handicaps deprive them of."

Of course, sports have other advantages, too. They force the retarded children into contact with one another, developing, in a limited way, a sense of team spirit.

example. Coloring work helps the retarded camper develop dexterity, the hand coordination he needs for all phases of self-care: Talking about what he does expands his vocabulary, teaches him to identify colors and name the common objects he sees in the park.

The development of coordination is one of the most important benefits of the sports program. Many retarded children are badly coordinated. The same brain injuries that cause their mental slowness often affect their physical control—and it becomes even worse if lack of exercise prevents their muscles from developing properly.

The camp's administration is in the hands of a dedicated team of junior and senior counselors and volunteers. The senior counselors are all teachers who specialize in the retarded. Many of them are on the staff of the day care center during the regular school year.

the most seeds, rather than the one who consumes the most melon. Winning that contest involves following directions.

The camp is operated by the Union County Unit of the N. J. Association for Retarded Children. The outdoor program is held in the County Park Commission's Echo Lake Park area, Mountainview, Westfield. On rainy days the program moves indoors to the agency's day care center in Winfield. Camp is held five days a week from 9 until 3.

Michael Caruso of Union is fund drive chairman for the Springfield-Union area where the Retarded Children's campaign is not included in a United Fund drive. Joseph D. Ruddy is executive director of the county agency's main office at 562 Boulevard, Kenilworth.

Ask Amy
BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:
My problem concerns my best friend, and if this letter should make the paper, I hope she reads and am glad to hear.

Jackie has the terrible habit of bragging. Whenever she gets out of the house, she brags about it. She goes on and on about how expensive it is or that her cousin only wore it once and then gave it to her.

Almost two months ago she went to a Beale rally and that day I couldn't go with her. I don't mind hearing about it, but she still talks about it. Jackie is a real nice girl, but she gets pretty boring when she starts bragging.

Do you know of anything that I could do to discourage her from bragging?

Sick of Hearing It
Dear Sick:
You can make sure she reads it by clipping this column and planting it with that purpose in mind. The saying "that seven your best friend won't tell you" is not true if you have a best friend, Jackie has one!

Dear Amy:
I've got a problem! I've been invited to my boyfriend's sister's wedding this month. Their mother is a beautician, and naturally, the wedding party will go to her shop for their hair-sets and manicures. I never go for the way she does her work and since I do want to look my best, I thought that I would patronize one of the smarter shops in the neighborhood.

Amy, I'm not obligated to go to her, am I?

Pat

Dear Pat:
Only if YOU feel obligated!

Dear Amy:
How do you handle a mother-in-law who favors one of your children over the other one?

When grandma comes, my boy (age 7) is glad to see her and wants to sit on her lap and talk but he's practically pushed away and ignored for his sister, two years younger. My husband won't say anything and I agree, because when you have to remind a grandmother to be nice to your child, that takes the cake. What can you say to a seven-year old without hurting him? My mother-in-law makes no jokes about the preference in remarks she makes to me and her actions. She's even snooty to my boy in the way her attitude is. It's not my imagination working overtime because outsiders have noticed it. This has been going on for about two years and I've had it. His sister is cute, but so is he. As I have no mother or father to advise me, I need your help.

Dear R. T.:
It is your duty as a mother not to allow anyone to hurt your children. Regardless of which child is the "apple of her eye," tell her plainly that to be welcome in your home, she must divide her affection equally.

She has an obligation, too, if she wants the love and respect that goes with the precious title of "Grandma!"

Dear Amy:
I know a woman who is an excellent cook and baker. You just never tasted dishes like she makes. I asked her to give me the recipe for three different things and she did. I tried each one. I had to throw them all out.

I'm a good cook, too, and I never needed a recipe yet. Do you think she made a mistake in the instructions on purpose?

Steamed

Dear Steamed:
She could have if she didn't want to refuse you but still wanted to keep her recipes a deep, dark secret.

Shall the beans and ask her to unscramble the mystery.

Take your pick — but make sure the gas water heater you install is large enough to meet the needs and demands of every member of the family. Most modern families need at least a 40-gallon gas water heater but if your family is larger than most you better specify a larger size. Ask your plumbing contractor. He will help you decide. Just make sure — for efficiency and economy — that it's GAS!
